The Menace of Bad Children's Programs

No subject is of more importance to radio listeners and to broadcasters themselves than the menace represented by poorly conceived and supervised programs for children. Because women's clubs have charged that some of our current programs are bad for their children, and because the networks have gone to great lengths to insure the psychological fitness of their broadcasts, RADIO GUIDE will publish from time to time the opinions of important thinkers in this all-important field of entertainment and instruction.

Below follows the first of the series. It is the opinion of Dr. Jay B. Nash, of New York University. We present it because of its stimulating content, because we believe it will make many parents listen more closely to the programs which attract their children's ears.

Now, here is Doctor Nash:

"Parents are on the verge of an uprising against many of the children's hour radio programs. Many organizations and individuals have taken action, and hundreds of others want to know how to organize protests that will help them to protect their children. Three very effective ways to protest are available to parents: Letters of protest may be sent to the radio station through which the program is rendered; they may be sent to the sponsors of the programs; or they may be sent directly to George Henry Payne, Federal Communications Commission, Washington, D. C.

"What is it which constitutes the real menace in connection with these programs? As I see it from an educational and a character-building standpoint, the objection to the programs is twofold, analyzed as follows:

"Radio Listening Encourages Inactivity. If the growth and development of children are to proceed harmoniously—if the potential capacities of children are to be tapped—the process involves activity. The child must act, must do things. The play activities of children have served these purposes through the history of the race. In these play activities, children have run, jumped, dodged and balanced; they have molded clay and sand; they have piled boxes one on top of another; and have experimented with scissors, paste, hammers, nails, and paper, wire, etc. In this experimenting with things, they have found themselves. The founder of modern education, Comenius, says, 'When a child works with materials, he not only makes things but he makes himself.' This is profoundly true. Knowledge is more than information; knowledge is acquired from experience. Children learn to think as a result of the things they do. From this standpoint, the radio has very little to contribute to the child's education.

"Some parents welcome the radio because it 'keeps the children out of mischief.' In other words, it relieves the parents of the responsibility of planning in connection with the children's play activities—a weak plea indeed.

"Therefore, mere listening falls far short of achieving any positive results. From this standpoint, the best radio programs for children are poor. The worst are not only a waste of time but have a tendency to be vicious. Most of them, however, are not necessarily bad—just stupid.

"Radio 'Thrillers' Tend to Emotional Instability. Many of the children's hour radio programs are in the motion-picture 'Perils of Pauline' stage. Children are keyed up through blood-curdling 'conflict' scenes. They thrill at 'The Octopus,' 'The Shadow,' 'The Mystic Hand,' and then are left hanging with the words, 'More tomorrow.' Back they come, glued to the radio, forgetting their play activities—even their meals—to be stirred again by 'low animal conflict' scenes. These children relive these scenes during the day and through restless sleep at night. These are just the type of 'conflict' scenes which the child should not have—nor should the adult have them. These personal 'conflict' stories bring out the deep-seated fighting ego—the worst of our 'animal' instincts. Our social selves represent a very thin coating. Society needs to minimize the 'I' drives and to strengthen the 'We' drives.

"We have seen these basic, selfish drives centered around the fighting individual, loosed in dictatorial countries. They have no place in the education of the child who is preparing to live in a democracy.

"They like them.' Of course they do. The mob liked to pilfer in Vienna. Men liked to persecute others when to their advantage. We are thrilled by a mystic, 'shadowy' conflict, but that does not prove it is a good expression. These mystical programs are particularly bad—yes, they are vicious—for the children, disturbing their sleep and giving them false impressions of society patterns.

"One large broadcasting chain has formulated a group of principles which preclude exploiting the children during this evening children's hour. Other individual stations have done the same.

"This has been done at a considerable financial loss in most cases and parents should express their approval to these various stations as a partial recompense for their financial losses. In the attack upon the vicious programs it is well to realize that the parents in America are awake and they will become articulate."

Do you agree? What is your own experience with your own children? RADIO GUIDE would like to have letters telling of actual experiences which may point a way toward better entertainment for all.

HAS SWING SWUNG?

IS SWING REALLY ON ITS WAY OUT?
 SWING-LOVERS SAY "NO," MANY SAY
 "YES." READ THE ANSWER HERE

BY JAMES STREET

THERE is a warm, gratifying feeling around the cockles of my heart as I write that my operatives, A to Z, have reported that swing is earmarked for limbo, that the wild, weird moanings and groanings you hear are the death-rattles of the cock-eyedish music the world has known since savages first stretched a hide over a hollow log and tried to beat the devil away.

Really, Operatives A to Z report that the torrid trumpets that flourish and flounder and weep and wail and give my radio delirium tremens actually are the horns of Gabriel tooting a requiem for "barrelhouse" and "gutbucket."

Operatives A to Z may be wrong, however. They have been. They are the ones who reported here that the Strouds never had been married. Too late I learned that there had been an epidemic of marriages among the Strouds.

But just as I became convinced that swing is like death and taxes, along came the operatives and said a consensus of National Broadcasting Company bandleaders is that swing is on its death-bed.

Ruby Newman, broadcaster of waltzes from Radio City's Rainbow Room, was the first leader quoted by the operatives. "Fox trots," said Ruby, "probably always will be the 'bread and butter' music of dance orchestras, but the success of my waltz programs proves to me that swing is on the way out."

I sent the operatives back into circulation to learn exactly what swing is. The bandleaders couldn't say, and now even the operatives are fighting between themselves. But they turned up some weird facts about swing which I will report, and then I will seek cover and await the nasty letters from the "alligators" and "cats" and "ickies" and other species addicted to "barrel-house" and "gutbucket."

Swing is a verb. You are slaughtering English when you say "swing music." That makes swing an adjective. Of course, a covey of "ickies" and "alligators" and "cats" and "gutbucketers" are really interested in English.

It is as old as music, for it's simply improvisation. Improvisation means you play what you feel; "go out of your head," the "ickies" call it. For example, you have a toothache and you feel like trying to explain your misery in music. You pound and beat a piano as pain pounds and beats you. You are improvising.

There is a legend that Ludwig van Beethoven lost a penny one day and got peeved about it. A penny was a heap of money. So the master plopped down at his piano and tore into the keys. He was improvising. He was angry. He was putting his feelings in music. The great master wrote "Fury Over a Lost Penny."

I am not saying "Fury Over a Lost Penny" was swing. Oh, no! If I said that, Leonard Lieblich, our music critic, would come to my office with five bars, an overture and cleff me one. After Beethoven improvised his

"Fury," he could have swung it; that is, give it its head—just go wild with it—pound it, beat it, jump on it, snarl at it, shriek and grumble. Then he would have been "jamming" it. He might have made it a "Killer Diller," a scorching bit of swing. If that had happened, the master would have been "jiving." Does it make any sense to you? No.

All right, let's take this tack: Stand outside a school some afternoon when classes are dismissed. Hear the children shout with glee. They are giving themselves "the head"—shouting and improvising. There's a melody in those shouts. If you knew music and could arrange the shouts of school-children from their improvisations you could swing the improvisation by stepping up the tempo—jamming it. Out of it all might come a great swing classic.

Silly? I think so.

But hear how Raymond Scott wrote "Dinner Music for a Pack of Hungry Cannibals."

Scott's band was rehearsing. The drummer was sitting by a microphone and a sea-shell was on the mike. Yes, an ordinary sea-shell—one of those things that go "w-h-ho-ho" when you put it to your ear. A trumpet-player was blowing into a pail of water. The result was a hissing sound with a wild, muffled drum effect in the distance. That, said Scott, is the beginning of that dinner music for the cannibalistic brethren. The music is supposed to make you think you are approaching an island, an exotic island—palm trees! Sand! Winds! Waves! Whispering grass! Chiggers!

The music surges! You can picture the cannibals coon-jining and swinging it while the pot boils. It's very realistic. You almost can hear the boys fussing over whether the missionary will be served with mustard or Thousand Island.

Scott's dinner-music is the tops, the "alligators" tell me. But I'm partial to his "Reckless Night on An Ocean Liner." I get seasick when I hear it.

Now I'm not picking any quarrel and I mean this as a compliment, but the best swing music I ever heard is a fox-hunt with the hounds "giving it their head" and "jamming." It's genuine swing, if Operatives A to Z make a correct report.

The hounds take off, panting and leaping. They smell a fox. Then they improvise. Really. They just bay what they want, then mouth and groan and yelp. Then they start swinging when they get close to the fox, and the chorus rises and soars and almost blows the stars out of the sky. There's a swing song for you—"Moon Madness of a Pack of Cock-eyed, Red-bone Fox Hounds!"

Have you any idea what swing is now? All right, forget it. Even those who do it don't understand it. Louis Armstrong says "It's something you've either got or you haven't got." Duke Ellington says "It don't mean a thing if you haven't got that swing." Bunny Berigan of Columbia says it's a certain lilt that creeps into music when you're being completely yourself.

"I'll show you," said Bunny. He put his trumpet to his lips and blew. It was a chorus of "Occi Chiornia." It was cock-eyed, punch-drunk music.

No two musicians swing alike. It's personality music, freedom of expression. Such music is barred in Germany. Negro bands are not allowed to play in that country and Negroes are natural swingers. Then, too, swing is supposed to induce a feeling of freedom. If that's freedom and liberty, then give me death.

"Alligators" and other swing victims will argue seriously that Germany bars swing because it's impossible to regiment a swinging multitude. They say a people who will let themselves go and whoop and bounce simply haven't time or inclination to go around stiff-legged and "heiling Hitler." Maybe they could swing that "Heil Hitler" chant. Did I say let Hitler swing?

The vocabulary of swingsters is marvelous. It's something that makes word-lovers go into trances, for the "alligators" and "ickies" really are swinging the American language. And American language is the only language that can stand such a strain, the only language flexible and tough and expressive enough to give swingsters "their head."

What would an Oxford professor say if he heard this statement:

"Don't die on me because we are going to jam and then jive and take it off the cob and get with the gutbucket. The cats are crying for a killer diller. Mute that derby on the second chorus. We need a lift on that woodpile, then let it ride. Go hard on the agony-pipe and grunt-horn and don't be corny."

For the benefit of those whose brains are swinging, here is a primer of swing expressions:

Barrelhouse or gutbucket—real low-down music.

Jam—to improvise.

Jive—same as jam, only wilder.

Cats—swing fans.

Ickies—cats who love sweet music.

Alligators—swing addicts.

Killer diller—a hot swing tune.

Corny—amateurish.

Off the cob—better than corny.

Agony-pipe—clarinet.

Woodpile—xylophone.

"Alligators" will argue until doom's day about when swing really got a toe-hold in America and whence it came. This much is beyond controversy: it is typically American, and swing as we know it is the stepchild of jazz. Negro bands of the South have been swinging music a long time. Many of the musicians can not read music, so they just play what they feel, improvise, and because they are natural musicians they make a melody of it.

King "Papajoe," a New Orleans Negro, was swinging music years ago.

Nick LaRocca and his Dixieland Jazz band used to swing it when I was a boy. He had a trumpet, clarinet, trombone, piano and drums in his band—a wild combination. He and his boys had to make up their music as they played, as none could read music. Some of his best hits were "Tiger Rag" and "Livery Stable Blues."

His style was wholly different from the Handy school of musicians. Handy began the blues; out of the blues came jazz and out of jazz came swing as we know it.

Please believe me when I say I mean this with all respect. But I heard swing music when I was seven. It was at a Negro camp-meeting, a religious revival. The Negroes "got happy." They shouted and sang. They improvised. Out of that came a melody. I've heard Negroes swing the most sacred spirituals. And I've seen white folks come from miles around and listen, and "stomp" and smile and weave.

One of the easiest songs for a Negro to swing is "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot." But when swingsters started swinging "Loch Lomond" it started a row. So in defense of "alligators," I suggest it's rather silly to raise a howl about swinging a Scotch ballad when Negroes have been swinging spirituals for many years.

But many radio stations have barred the swinging of "Loch Lomond," "Comin' Thro' the Rye" and other sentimental ballads. General Manager Leo Fitzpatrick of Detroit's WJR objected strenuously. "They'll be swinging 'Nearer My God to Thee' next," said Mr. Fitzpatrick, and many anti-swingsters applauded him.

My! My! Mr. Fitzpatrick should attend a Negro revival meeting. I've never heard "Nearer My God to Thee" in swing time, but I've heard them swing "Revive Us Again" and "On Jordan's Stormy Banks I Stand."

Operatives A to Z polled musicians and "alligators" and compiled a list of arguments pro and con. The result was amazing.

They found hundreds of musicians and radio listeners who will fight in favor of swing. Here are a few of their contentions in its favor:

"It stems from one of the oldest musical traditions—pure improvisation. Bach, Beethoven and Chopin gave whole concerts of improvised music. It gives musicians opportunity for greater expression, it puts the emphasis on music itself, it demands a greater technical ability than does the straight type of music. A swing man is not afraid to try something new. Swing was created by American musicians without benefit of foreign influences. The waltz is Viennese, the tango is Spanish, the rumba is Cuban—swing is American. Europeans consider swing extremely artistic."

Arguments against swing include: "It has no sentimental appeal and emphasizes primitive rhythms. It allows too much freedom to the performer and it excites the audiences instead of soothing them. Swing players do not play evenly or smoothly with a simple melodic line that anybody can hear and whistle. It is not refined."

I do not like swing. Maybe I don't understand it. But neither do I like the arguments against it. I'm in favor of anything that gives more freedom to individual performers and I'm for any melody that can't be whistled.

Bandleaders quickly will take up the cudgel in the argument. Paul Whiteman, a fair judge, says swing is a form of jazz. "It is native," he says, "and like folk-music of other countries will some day form a vital part of American symphonic literature. There are many influences contributing to American music and jazz is its musical melting-pot, into which poured the blues, the hillbilly tunes, the work-songs, the Negro spirituals and the moderns. The future musical organizations will be forty-piece brass and wood-wind orchestras."

Brother Paul also makes a sage observation about dancing and slaps the wrists of those who wait that swing has made dancing immodest.

"Dancing today is really more decent than the old waltz," says Whiteman. "The Big Apple is like a square dance. In truckin', the dancers are not near each other. It's fine exercise. Morally, it is healthier than some of the dances in the past eras where dancers clung to each other."

Bunny Berigan says: "Swing represents the trend of the times. It is the music of the future. The waltz has had its day."

THIS ANGRY WORLD

Europe under arms! This is the first of a series of articles and maps designed to help the listener understand better the news his radio brings him. The circle shows Europe's sorest spot, Czechoslovakia, which may be the tinder-box of the next world war. Around it are nations armed to the teeth. Keep track of their power as they ally and re-ally themselves with one another as they endlessly scheme for power.

NEWS! It floods our homes today as never before. Our own glimpses into the lives of RADIO GUIDE readers show that more people listen to news broadcasts than to any other program. The world is crackling with events, history books are being acted out just beyond the horizon or just across the alley. Men are killing, looting, organizing, idolizing, advancing, retreating.

But where and why and how and when? We want to know, and our loud-speaker tells us. It tells us faster, more clearly, more efficiently than any of man's other devices.

One night not long ago, radios in ten million homes were suddenly stilled. Listeners waited, ticking off the silent seconds in their minds. The soft hum of electricity turned abruptly into a rasp, a throat being cleared, perhaps, or the rattle of papers. Then, booming words:

"SPECIAL news bulletin! Adolf Hitler's German army invaded Austria tonight. Thousands of Nazi tanks and infantrymen are pouring across the Austro-German border and marching on the city of Vienna. Austrian troops have retired to their capital and thus far there has been no armed resistance."

That was only the beginning. From that hour, commentators and special bulletins and regular newscasts delivered to our ears the most vital fare the air offers. You could count with the fingers of one hand all those who tuned off those broadcasts. We got Boake Carter's slant, and Dorothy Thompson's, and Edwin C. Hill's and two dozen others. Whether we liked it or not, we were swayed this way and that by events as they were relayed to us. We hated the Nazis for their persecution of loyal Austrians and innocent Jews, or we admired them for the relentless efficiency of their machine. We cursed them as bullies or envied them for getting what they wanted.

Much of the world is angry today. There are hot-spots on every continent. Through our newscasts we feel the heat of outbursts in Spain, China, or along the Manchukuo border. Nearer home, we hear the crackling flames of pump-priming, politics and Depression. Things are popping everywhere.

These hot-spots must be understood properly in order to realize their significance. Today we hear much of Sudeten Germans in whose behalf Hitler threatens to upset the peace of a world. What are they? Why are they so important to Germany? Why has France announced that she will fight if Germany marches into Czechoslovakia? Why does Russia agree to supply China with arms? Why, to stray to other fields, does Japan send a boatload of sailors and marines to occupy an apparently useless island in the middle of the Pacific?

These questions are in every listener's mind at one time or another. Sometimes the news commentator explains. Usually it depends on his nationality and the wishes of his government.

News can be dangerous. Mussolini learned that years ago, so today no Italian reads a newspaper until it has been censored by Signor Mussolini's men. In Germany, Hitler polices both newspaper and the air. Only recently a German police officer crept down a suburban street in Hamburg, stopped in front of a suspect address, and slipped into the yard of a modest home. Nazi spies had told him what to expect. Here was a German, they had reported, who was committing the crime of listening to other than German broadcasting stations. The policeman placed his ear against the shuttered window. An English voice was speaking. News, from England, that Hitler could not control. Dangerous news!

TWELVE hours later a German judge glared at the citizen before him and pronounced sentence.

"You are guilty of treason to the state," he said. "Your punishment will be twenty years in prison."

We in America are raised on news and on the belief that freedom of news and the press is part of our birthright. We say to ourselves, "That could never happen here." We say to ourselves, "Our papers tell us the truth, and our radio commentators tell us facts."

Do they? Is our radio news honest? Are our commentators and radio newswriters free of bias?

Listen to them tonight and tomorrow and down through the week. Prick your memory for flashes you have heard. Is it all news or is it part news and part coloring; is it partly tarred with the clever brush of propaganda?

A flash hit our ears months ago but it is still remembered. It said: "A squadron of Italian bombing-planes under the personal leadership of a son of Benito Mussolini successfully accomplished the dangerous crossing of the South Atlantic Ocean today, hopping from Africa to South America in one jump."

THAT was news, but it was also propaganda. It spoke between the lines of Fascist daring, courage and efficiency. John T. Flynn, an experienced and reliable journalist, reports that, "day after day the news comes through, cooked, colored, selected, guarded, censored by advertising agents." That is American news. But what of foreign news? Before it gets to these shores it is gathered by such government-controlled agencies as Reuters of England, Havas of France, Stefani of Italy, Tass of Russia, Rengo of Japan. What good is it, what does it mean, how much of it is true when it finally reaches our ears?

Recently the assertion has been made that sponsored news should not be permitted on the air because it offers too great a chance for abuse. For example, a great rubber company might have a news commentator on whom millions had come to depend for an accurate picture of the nation's news-front. Suppose that company's employes strike, picket the plants, and are attacked by company policemen, many of them being killed. Decidedly, it is not to the advantage of the company to place the news of those deaths and the rioting in its newscast. Just as decidedly, if they do not they are suppressing news that the public should have.

It is generally agreed that Europe is moving toward a war which almost certainly will involve the United States. When that war comes we will face a grave and shocking crisis. More than one hundred millions of people will need to come to a decision for themselves, which, expressed in turn through their representatives, will become the will of their government. People without access to all the news and without the means of understanding all the news cannot make anything but one-sided decisions.

The map above dramatically illustrates the military establishments of Europe. It shows the tinder-box of Czechoslovakia half surrounded by a hostile Germany.

Because Hitler wants that country, all of us may be under arms next year, or rolling bandages, or placing a gold star in our windows.

With governments tottering about us, our own future as a nation depends upon intelligent action on the part of both leaders and the masses. Intelligent action depends upon our understanding of our condition and our interpretation of facts that are true. A free flow of news and a correct evaluation of that news is needed today more than ever. It can be obtained only by a knowledge of the inner bias, prejudice, enthusiasm, or phobia of the organizations or personalities who gather it, write it, and broadcast it.

To understand a Boake Carter broadcast, one should know if Carter is a labor-baiter and a Red-hater. One wants to know if Dorothy Thompson is a secret Fascist. Or if Trans-Radio News and the United Press are composed exclusively of news-writing enemies of President Roosevelt and the New Deal.

THESE things will be discussed in future issues of RADIO GUIDE in order that radio listeners may winnow the grain from the chaff.

Because of this importance, listeners should know the men who merchandise news. Know a man and you know how much of his story to believe. Know a situation and its implications and you know the true significance of events as they happen. Toward that end we hope to contribute our modest bit.

A NEW departure, for the Music Hall, opens a series with performances by the Stradivarius Quartet, to be followed later by the Perole and Coolidge foursomes. The gem of Beethoven's composition is the virile opening movement, even though its principal theme resembles the basic one of his "Pathetique Sonata" for piano.

Ravel's sensitive and reticent pages precede the heartfelt utterances of Brahms, whose two movements offer lyricism of rare beauty and a scherzo of irresistible spirit.

The March of Music

A Weekly Preview Edited By Leonard Lieblich

"... An ampler Ether, a diviner Air..."—Wordsworth

Frivolous Nocturnes

WITH so much excellent musical material on the air during the early hours of the evening, it must strike some dialers that suddenly at ten o'clock the presentations usually lose caste lamentably and in many instances even become puerile.

The only explanation of the poor late-night programs seems to be that both the advertisers and the broadcasting concerns have made up their minds that the overwhelming majority of Americans leap to bed at ten o'clock, and by 10:01 p.m. are saying their "Now I lay me down to sleep," an assumption quite preposterous. Midnight is far nearer the bedtime of the average person, and after ten o'clock his taste is no cheaper than before that hour—provided he stays at home. Many, in fact, resent having the deep shades of night made hideous by blaring jazz bands; having their dispositions shaken by the ribald sounds of revelry in the drink-and-dance resorts.

There is every reason why some fine solo and instrumental music would be welcome to most of us as relief from the varied earlier programs, with their comedians, dramatics, debates, and quizzical question-asking-and-answering. Speaking for myself, a dash of Beethoven is not unacceptable after crooning Bing Crosby or some Mendelssohn after the adenoidal McCarthy.

As a practical suggestion, I submit that "Keyboard Concerts" (5 p.m. EDT Wednesdays), "The Story of the Song" (3:30 p.m. EDT Tuesdays), Columbia Concert Hall (5 p.m. EDT Mondays), and the NBC Music Guild programs (Tuesdays at 2:30 p.m. EDT and Saturdays at 12 noon EDT) might be moved to late evening hours. They are among the most edifying artistic programs on the air.

Around the Clock

Concluding with the question of late-hour programs, let it be mentioned that there is one of outstanding musical appeal, "A Little Night Music" conducted by Bernard Herrmann, but unfortunately it comes only at occasional intervals instead of weekly. On Monday evening, June 13 at 10:30 p.m. EDT, CBS, Mr. Herrmann confines his list to one composer, Bernard van Dieren, born in Holland but long resident in London, where he died recently. As his music is complex and chiefly intellectual in appeal, Mr. Herrmann pays a real compliment to those listeners who stay up until at least 10:30 at night.

The Story of the Song

Fritz Lechner, baritone

First Twelve Songs of "Die Winterreise" (Schubert)

THE "Winterreise" (Winter Journey) cycle of twenty-four songs, of which Fritz Lechner sings twelve on this program and the remainder on the same series June 21, includes some of the loftiest lyrical inspirations of Schubert, like the familiar "Der Lindenbaum" No. 5 (The Linden Tree); "Fruehlingstraum" No. 11 (Spring Dream); "Die Post" No. 13 (The Post); "Die Kraehe" No. 15 (The Crow); and "Der Leiermann" No. 24 (The Organ Grinder).

To appreciate the cycle fully, one should understand German or else read the English translation of the text, whose story is that of a soul-wracked wanderer, betrayed by his sweetheart. His aimless journeyings find him heartsick and tortured as he pursues his way in implacable winter, with only a few intervals of hope, of passing sunshine.

Alexander Kelberine and Jeanne Behrend, piano duo

Rosenkavalier Waltzes (Strauss-Kelberine)

American Serenade (Kelberine)
Eight popular songs, arranged by Alexander Kelberine: You and the Night and the Music (Schwarz); Can't Help Lovin' That Man (Kern); You're All I Need (Kaper); Tell Me That You Love Me (Dixie); The Man I Love (Gershwin); Lover (Rodgers)

THIS two-piano pair typifies full unity, for Alexander Kelberine and Jeanne Behrend are joined not only musically but matrimonially.

The lilting waltzes from Richard Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier" lend themselves admirably to performances on two pianos, but even more welcome are the products from the pens of American creators of light music, a tonal field in which this country shines preeminently. It is narrow-minded for the higher musical circles to regard with disfavor all the "popular" products, as some of them are strikingly lovely in melody and harmonization and strongly original in rhythm. Gershwin's music is international in appeal. The best of Kern, Youmans, Porter, Schwarz, Rodgers, seems more acceptable to me than a great deal of the long-winded, dry and strident symphonic stuff we get from Europe these days.

ONCE a puzzle to critics, Brahms' first symphony now is a favorite of the public and seems to have taken the place in that regard of the "Symphony Pathétique" of Tchaikowsky. The more one hears the Brahms No. 1 the greater must be the admiration for its perfect form, haunting tunefulness and many moments of arresting rhythms and rich instrumental background.

The present-day practise of orchestrating works composed by Bach originally as solos for harpsichord or organ flourishes industriously, in spite of the croakings of dry-as-dust pedants. They regard it a sacrilege to tamper with any note from the sacred pages of Bach, and always appear to forget that he did the same thing to other composers, arranging, adapting and transcribing any of their compositions which pleased his fancy.

Conrad Mayo, young Italian-American baritone, has opportunity to shine with his resonant baritone voice as he sings of the busy Figaro from "The Barber of Seville."

The NBC Symphony Orchestra

Bernardino Molinari, conductor

Symphony No. 6 "Pathétique"
(Tchaikowsky)

Fountains of Rome (Respighi)
Overture to "La Forza del Destino"
(Verdi)

CONDUCTOR MOLINARI has contrived to give us a quasi-novelty in the way of an operatic overture, for the one to "La Forza del Destino" (Power of Destiny) is not often performed at concerts. The reason for the neglect is strange, as the composition contains a succession of likable tunes and is orchestrated with generous brilliance.

The opera was the medium for the debut at the Metropolitan of Rosa Ponselle in 1918, when she jumped from vaudeville to a premiere with Caruso, an unprecedented honor for a youthful singer.

The late Ottorini Respighi left three works dealing with the Eternal City, the first being "The Fountains of Rome." The divisions of the symphonic poem are "The Fountains of Valle Giulia" at dawn, "Triton Fountain" at morn, "Trevi Fountain" at midday, and "Medici Fountain" at sunset. The composer expresses sentiments and visions aroused by four of Rome's fountains and their surroundings.

The opening part portrays a pastoral landscape and damp mists; the second part calls up frolicsome, dancing naiads and tritons; the third brings Neptune and his cohorts in procession; the nostalgic fourth is about tolling bells, birds in bed-time twittering, then follows the silence of night.

Alexander Kelberine and Jeanne Behrend, piano duo, will highlight the "Keyboard Concerts" to be heard over CBS this Wednesday afternoon

Radio City Music Hall Inaugurates New String Quartet Series

Sunday, June 12, 12:30 p.m. EDT, on NBC

MUSIC HALL'S new series of well-known American string-quartet organizations in representative chamber-music compositions is another proof that Erno Rapee maintains the high artistic quality of the Sunday noon concerts under his supervision. Unlike some other program-makers, he evidently does not believe that the coming of summer calls for more frivolous musical communion than is customary in colder seasons.

Thoroughly informed music-lovers are aware of the fine delights offered by the repertoire of chamber works, but less serious listeners still need that enlightenment. A sufficient incentive for them should be the fact that the greatest composers have left a priceless heritage of ensemble examples, in the way of two-instrument sonatas, trios, quartets, quintets, sextets, septets, and even larger numerical combinations.

"Chamber music" is the term properly applied to all music intended for domestic use. Before the public concert became a recognized institution, chamber music was employed in contradistinction to music written either for the church or the theater. Wealthy and understanding patrons of the tonal art in the earlier centuries were especially devoted to cultivation of chamber music and had their own subven-tioned composers and ensembles for the production of such artistic entertainment. It flourished richly during the Italian Renaissance, at the French Court of Louis XIV, and the establishments of the German kings, princes and lesser noblemen.

Haydn was the first major master to bring the form of string quartet into the form approximating that of his successors, chief among whom are Mozart, Beethoven, Schubert, Schumann and Brahms. The loftiest tribute to Haydn came from Mozart, who said, "It is from Haydn that I learned the art of writing quartets." Both composers piled up a large number of inspired works in that field, and no modern foursome would dream of omitting them from their repertoire.

In the latter half of the nineteenth century America began to have public concerts of chamber music and several organizations specializing in it toured this country from Coast to Coast. The famous Kneisel Quartet was founded in 1886, and in 1902 the equally celebrated Flonzaley Quartet came into existence. For many years their concerts helped to build up wide interest in chamber music, a campaign now carried on by the young players of the Gordon, Stradivarius, Musical Art, Perle and Coolidge Quartets.

Molinari Conducts Tchaikowsky's Pathétique Symphony

Saturday, June 18, 9 p.m. EDT, on NBC

"I LOVE it as I have never loved any other of my musical creations." That was written to a friend by Tchaikowsky, and referred to the latter's sixth and last symphony, known as the "Pathétique," a title bestowed upon the work by the composer himself after its first performance in 1893.

Tchaikowsky's adoration of his symphony was shared by the public, although, tragically enough, he did not live to know it, for he died shortly after the premiere at St. Petersburg.

His death had in fact something to do with the immediate wave of tremendous interest aroused all over the world by the "Pathétique," that suggestive title seeming to be proof of the early report that he had committed suicide. The truth is that he succumbed to an attack of cholera, brought on by drinking a glass of unboiled water during a slight local epidemic of the disease.

However, the "Pathétique" made its own irresistible appeal aside from the story connected with it, an appeal based on its intense emotional character, which stirred the imagination of every susceptible hearer. Before the symphony became universally familiar, I remember many performances at which I saw hundreds of the auditors wiping tear-stained faces. I confess that I was among them, and to this day I am deeply moved by the beatific main melody in the first movement and the overpowering melancholy of the final pages.

To the listener, that time a little over a year ago when radio stars broke into the movies and movie stars took to the air meant changed listening habits. ## King of Sweden Birthday Anniversary

Wednesday, NBC, 6:30-6:45 p.m.
Thursday, NBC, 10:00-10:30 a.m.

If a list of individuals who are peace-loving in spirit and belief were compared with a list of those who have opposing tendencies, the difference would be inspiring. It is sad to note, however, that as widespread as this tendency of individuals is towards peace, the fact remains that there have been only a few instances where peace-loving people and peace have abided together for any great length of time. Outstanding among European countries in this respect is the enviable record of Sweden, a record that boasts of eighty years of peace.

Thus, "Eighty Years of Peace" has been chosen by Hendrik Willem Van Loon, noted commentator now in Europe, for the title of his talk honoring the 80th birthday anniversary of Sweden's ruler, Gustav V. Commentator Van Loon's talk will be heard over NBC on Wednesday.

King Gustav will speak the following morning, Thursday, during a broadcast of the civic celebration of his birthday. Both programs will be short-waved to America from Stockholm.

Sweden's beloved King was born on June 16, 1858. He was very active in affairs of state in his youth, repeatedly acting as regent during the absence and illness of his father, Oscar II. On December 12, 1907, he succeeded to the throne of Sweden, taking for his motto "With the People for the Fatherland."

Battle of Gettysburg Honored by Pennsylvania

Thursday, CBS, 10-10:15 p.m.

The second and last program in the short two-broadcast series sponsored by the Pennsylvania State Publicity Committee will be dedicated to the 75th anniversary of the historic battle of Gettysburg and the final joint reunion of the Blue and Gray which will be celebrated on the 16,000-acre battlefield of the national shrine at Gettysburg, June 29 to July 6. An address by Governor George H. Earle will highlight the program. Robert Golden's orchestra will offer a medley of Civil War songs as the musical portion of the broadcast.

Regardless of what contemporaries may say of the present-day status of our government, the outstanding events in the history of this country continue to be held sacred in the eyes of Americans. These events are fondled as untainted traditions that year by year cling closer to the hearts of those whose historical background they represent.

Three Broadcasts From Librarians' Convention

Monday, NBC, 6:00-6:15 p.m.
Tuesday, NBC, 6:15-6:30 p.m.
Wednesday, NBC, 4:00-4:30 p.m.

Three broadcasts picked up from the annual American Library Association Convention being held this week in Kansas City, Missouri, will bring book-lovers the professional slant on what is being read and what important contributions are being made to American literature.

In the first broadcast, Monday, Milton J. Ferguson, chief librarian of the Brooklyn Public Library, will be interviewed by Dr. Leon Milton Birkhead, pastor of the All Souls Unitarian Church of Kansas City. The subject of the interview will be "What People Are Reading."

On Tuesday the second of these broadcasts will come from the stage of the music hall of the Municipal Auditorium in Kansas City. Winners of the Newberry and Caldecott awards for the most distinguished contribution to children's literature and the most distinguished picture-book of the year will be interviewed by Frederic G. Melcher, editor of Publishers' Weekly and donor of the awards.

Zona Gale, internationally famous novelist and short-story writer, will be principal speaker at the Friends of Library luncheon on Wednesday. During this half-hour there will also be a switch to London to pick up a talk by Lady Tweedsmuir, wife of the Governor-General of Canada, on "Prairie Libraries."

"Smaller Business" Leader Offers Unemployment Cure

Thursday, CBS, 7:45-8:00 p.m.

A. W. Zwicke, chairman of the Smaller Business Association of the New York district and vice-president of the Smaller Business Association of America, will address a nation-wide audience when he is heard on the "American Viewpoints" series over CBS on Thursday. From the title of his talk, "Returning the Unemployed to Work in Private Industry," it is apparent that his subject will be of vital interest to a surprisingly large number of people in America today whose dark present and darker future is deserving of no little amount of consideration, the breadwinners who have no place to win bread.

"Smaller Business" men first came to nation-wide attention last February when they met at a special conference in Washington to air their views on the problems of the day. They filled the daily headlines at the time with the interesting and surprising details of their meeting, which was the first of its kind ever to be held.

This is the only picture in existence of Marion Talley with her mother and her sister Florence. Hal Styles, impresario of the philanthropic airing, which, by the way, is packed with human interest, has showed me what I consider a most workable plan for extending the idea on a national network basis . . . so—who will be the first smart advertiser to try it?

At a recent in-the-flesh performance here of "The Student Prince," a most interesting couple were young Doug McPhail and Betty Jaynes. The hand-holders hope to win parts in M-G-M's filming of the operetta . . . Licensed for a planned wedding June 8 are Gogo DeLys (Gabrielle Marie Boulanger) and NBC Producer-Writer Robert L. Redd.

Shhh! Helen Woods, the recent "newcomer" as Elaine Dascomb to the cast of "Those We Love," was in the cast at the beginning—as Mrs. Rico Valdes. But Mrs. V. was "killed" in her husband's plane. Nice resurrection.

Returning from the movie lot in a chauffeur-driven M-G-M car, young Songstress Judy Garland was seriously injured May 24 when the automobile was struck broadside by another vehicle. Although suffering three fractured ribs, a slight lung puncture and a wrenched back, Judy is mending extraordinarily fast; but it will be several weeks before she is back at work—on the lot or on "Good News." Oddly enough, Judy was taken to the same hospital-room that her mother had vacated only the day previously—and still more oddly, it was only a month ago that Judy Garland's deaf pet dog was killed by an automobile.

Van Nuys Mayor Andy Devine, the gravelized orator, is wearing a permanent blush, because, after his first whole week in office, the neon sign advertising the town on a main trans-California highway STILL doesn't light.

The Don Ameches are eagerly studying steamship and travel folders for a planned European jaunt in July . . . The "Good News" conductor, Meredith Willson, is likewise expecting to take his wife and five-year-old cat Emily, who has never been put out of the house, on a six-week trip to the old country . . . but it looks as if Jack Benny will have to stick around Hollywood for some weeks after he leaves the Jell-O show June 26. Reason is that Paramount, for whom he is finishing "Artists and Models Abroad," want him to get busy immediately with his scripters, Ed Beloin and Bill Morrow, on another screen story to be produced early in the fall.

"Dead End" (or "Crime School") kids almost staged a riot when inter-

HOLLYWOOD SHOWDOWN

BY EVANS PLUMMER

viewed recently by that grand film authority, Elza Schallert. NBC's night manager, Bill Andrews, poked his head into the studio. "Scram!" shouted one of the "brats." Bill did. Recovering his composure, Andrews took another chance and tried to enter, but upon hearing "That man's here again!" and noting the dirty looks on the youngsters' faces, Bill decided to retire and let well enough alone.

Life becomes ever so complicated for poor George Burns, the lesser half of Gracie Allen. The other day Gracie forgot her fur coat in the Vine Street Brown Derby. George returned to recover it, but was seen carrying the wrap across the street by gossip sleuth. The latter reported in print that "Gracie Allen's getting a new fur coat from Hubby George Burns." Gracie read the line . . . and pouted. No new fur coat had been received . . . So Burns squared the deal by attempting to explain—and giving her a beautiful new diamond ring as a peace offering.

Reason there was a vacant seat next to Mother Berle and Judith Malcom at the premiere of "Alexander's Ragtime Band" where Milton Berle should have been sitting is funny. Milt had appeared on George McCall's Screenscoops that night. Asking McCall if he planned to dress for the premiere, Berle was answered, "No. It's just a press preview. Go informal." The comedian did—and was chagrined to see all the stars decked in their finest. So Milt waited outside, planning revenge on McCall, while Mama and fiancée attended.

Excavation doodlers needn't feel so inferior. The other day a Lux rehearsal was scheduled to start at 3:30 p.m.—but didn't get under way until five. First, Walter Huston, en route to the stage door, saw a steam-shovel digging just back of the theater where the old Hollywood Legion Stadium is being torn down. He stopped to watch. A few moments later, Merle Oberon, Ralph Forbes and Nigel Bruce arrived, saw Huston, and likewise became intrigued by the excavating . . . Next, Cecil B. DeMille, tired of waiting for his cast, came outside to round the tardy members up, but just then the workmen put a huge wall-demolishing ball-weight to work, whereupon Producer DeMille couldn't tear himself away! Fortunately, the workmen quit when the five o'clock whistle blew, so Lux Radio Theater rehearsals were able to begin.

Some day an archeologist will find arrow-holes through the paneling on the door to the storeroom of the NBC studio employed by the Ozzie Nelson-Feg Murray show and conclude that Indians roamed Hollywood in 1938. However, such is not the case. The "Indian" was Archery Expert Howard Hill, guest of the May 29 broadcast, who was just doing a spot of demonstrating.

Denied his contemplated flight to New York May 26 to see "his boy," Henry Armstrong, fight Barney Ross, Al Jolson felt justified when the weather caused a postponement of the bout to May 31. But on Tuesday, Jolson has to punch out two broadcasts—a late afternoon show for the Eastern cities and one at night for the Pacific Coast and mountain states. Fortunately, the fight broadcast came between his two mikings, so Al sat close to a loudspeaker, drank in every word of the terrific lacing Armstrong dealt the old champion.

Eob Burns writes that he had a lot of trouble making his wife's relatives believe him during his recent visit. "They hooted when I told them about that deer I had to help back over the fence around our Bel-Air home. 'N' after that they jest wouldn't listen!"

TAG LINES: Norris Goff has paid $20,000 for a five-acre estate in Encino, on which he'll build a Cape Cod home. The place is diagonally across the road from Al Jolson's ranch.

IT WAS at a party in Chicago, several years ago, when I met Al Pearce for the first time. Since then I've attended quite a few of his broadcasts—spoken to him on a few occasions, but always very briefly. I was eager to learn about his plans for the fall (when he goes on the air for Grape-Nuts), so I went over to see him the other Tuesday night. After the early broadcast we went to a near-by hotel, and while sipping Coca-Colas (free plug) Al unfolded a story which made his stock go up one thousand percent in my estimation. My friends, if ever I was sold on a person, I am on Al Pearce. And I know you will be, too, when his plan, told to me in strict confidence, gets under way. Many of the things he confided were not for publication, but I'll let you in on this much . . . Al is a great lover of children and he has a plan in mind that will make many unfortunate children all over the country very happy. It has the approval of his sponsor and they both can be assured of this department's support. I wish I could tell you more, but I never betray a confidence.

The first half-hour of the Fred Allen summer replacement will be occupied by a new audience-participation show, "Town Hall Big Game Hunt," to be conducted by Norman Frescott, old-time vaudevillian. He will be assisted by Jane Martin, whose "Let's Play Games" was heard over the Mutual network for some time. A weekly guestar, Harry von Zell as emcee, and Peter van Steeden's orchestra will complete the set-up. As announced here several weeks ago, "For Men Only," now heard Monday nights, will occupy the last half-hour of the Fred Allen spot.

Parks Johnson and Wally Butterworth resigned from the Energine Radio Newsreel program. Last Sunday's show was their last newsreel broadcast. Parks and Wally requested their sponsor to release them from newsreel duties so that they could give their entire time to their Vox Pop program, which they do Tuesday nights for listeners in the East, Middle West and Rocky Mountain states, and Monday nights for the West Coast. Radio Newsreel will continue in other hands beginning June 12 and will be heard each Sunday featuring interviews with personalities in the news at the program's new time, 5:30 p.m. EDT.

Dave Elman's and Harry Salter's "Hobby Lobby" moves into the Jack Benny spot when the comic vacations, and not a script-show called "What Would You Have Done?" as you may have read elsewhere . . . Fred Waring has been signed for a series of half-hour shows to be heard on Saturday nights starting in the fall. It is reported Fred will collect $10,000 per broadcast, but your reporter would like to have the difference . . . Eddie and Ralph, known to many kilocycle eavesdroppers as the "Sisters of the Skillet," are auditioning a new program at CBS called "Meet the Champ" . . . The same net is adapting "The Charm School" for radio. Actress Judith Allen flew in from the Coast the other week to audition for this show.

Your old friends, Gene and Glenn, who have been broadcasting of late for West Coast listeners only, may come to New York and go on a large network, which I know will be good news for many readers . . . Next fall, "We, the People" will be produced by Ted Collins, who, as you know, is Kate Smith's mentor . . . Walter Cassel will guestar on the Al Pearce show June 21, and by popular demand he returns to the Grace Moore-Andre Kostelanetz show the following night. Cassel was the first guest to appear on this new series . . . President Roosevelt will speak in front of a network microphone on Sunday, July 3, in connection with the observance of the Battle of Gettysburg . . . The Yale-Harvard Regatta will be described by Ace Sports Broad-

Jimmy Walker, dapper one-time Mayor of New York, was heard over the Mutual Broadcasting System recently. The occasion was the return of George Jessel, ace comedian to New York after a lengthy tour of the country. Grouped around the microphone here are Norma Talmadge, George Jessel, Walker and his wife, the former Betty Compton

In the audience at a recent Kate Smith broadcast was Jay Kaye, talented young artist. During the show, he made a portrait drawing of Kate, and later presented it to her, to be added to her collection of portraits caster Bill Stern on Friday, June 24.

Contralto Elizabeth Lennox has joined the American Album of Familiar Music program . . . The leading role in the "Alias Jimmy Valentine" serial is being played by James Meighan . . . The Andrews Sisters fade from their "Just Entertainment" show on June 17. 'Tis said they may return in the fall for this sponsor on a Sunday afternoon show . . . Hal Kemp's next broadcast will again come from Richmond, Va. He is on a tour of southern colleges . . . Al Pearce broadcasts next Tuesday night from Pittsburgh, where he and his gang will be entertaining at the Stanley Theater all week.

Caught Deems Taylor in his office at CBS looking over his flock of fan mail. One man writes for advice . . . says he is getting married and his bride-to-be wants him to sing at the wedding. Should he do it? Deems wrote back, "It's your wife and your wedding . . . do as you please!" . . . A popular scene after the broadcast. Outside the studio, fans form a human blockade around Connie Boswell's taxicab, seeking her autograph, and Connie, smiling as usual, complying with their requests

. . . Joe Hill, producer of the Wednesday night Chesterfield show, has written a song called "There Must Be Love," which Grace Moore will sing very soon. Hill and his colleague, Martin Gosch, are collaborating on another tune which they hope will make the "Hit Parade."

His colleagues were amazed when the body of NBC Announcer Neel B. Enslin was found in the kitchen of his apartment with four gas jets open. A friend reports that ill health was the only reason for the announcer to take his own life . . . Dave Rubinoff is reported progressing nicely at the sanatorium in Battle Creek. Phone calls and correspondence from friends have been so great that brother Phil took a room next door and converted it into an office . . . Major Bowes wired from New York, and Eddie Cantor, enroute to the Coast, phoned from Kansas City, leaving a message with a nurse that she should give Rubinoff a big kiss for him. That was very nurse of him.

Reed Kennedy showed up at a recent "Songshop" program with a severe cold. Although he was scheduled to sing several numbers, including a duet with Nadine Conner, he cracked twice during his first song. He didn't sing his other numbers that evening, Miss Conner carried the burden alone, even doing a solo of the planned duet. It was quite a task well done . . . During the CBS Hit Parade the other Saturday night, Fredda Gibson fainted dead away immediately after her first song. When it came time to do her second number, she had to be held up in front of the microphone by two men . . . George Hall's wife accompanied her husband and Songstress Dolly Dawn on their tour of one-nighters. When they arrived in Pittsburgh, Mrs. Hall was stricken with an attack of appendicitis. The operation is being delayed. In the meantime she is remaining in Pittsburgh to rest.

It was grand to hear the Mills Brothers again when they guestarred on the Al Pearce program. They should be on the air regularly. After the program, Pearce and his gang put on a special show for the benefit of the studio audience. The Mills Brothers volunteered their services and did three numbers. They rated the tremendous applause they received not only for their unique vocalizing but also for their swell gesture in offering the extra entertainment which they didn't have to do.

Short-wave programs of American stations are shown along with the regular listings beginning on page 25. These are indicated, for example, by (sw-11.87) in parentheses following a program listing. This means that on 11.87 megacycles the same program may also be heard over an American short-wave station. Please note that foreign stations do not always adhere precisely to their announced program schedules.

On Short Waves

THE International Telecommunications Conference, recently held at Cairo, Egypt, made some important changes in those short-wave bands on which the broadcasting stations are located.

In what is now known as the intermediate wave-band, provision for broadcasting has been made between 2.3 and 2.5 megs (about 125 meters). Then there is a second band from 3.3 to 3.5 megs (about 87 meters), and a third new band between 4.77 and 4.9 megs (about 62 meters). These new bands are reserved for relatively local broadcasting services in countries lying in tropical or semi-tropical regions.

In the short-wave band proper, that is below 50 meters, the 49-meter band, which was 150 kilocycles wide has been increased to 200 kilocycles and the new allocation is from 6 to 6.2 megs. A new band 100 kilocycles wide, between 7.2 and 7.3 megs, has been created by allowing broadcasting to share with amateurs, except in the American continent. This will be in the neighborhood of 41 meters. Then the 31-meter band which was originally 100 kilocycles wide, has now been extended to 200 kilocycles, the new figures being 9.5 to 9.7 megs. No changes have been made in the 25- or 19-meter bands. The 16-meter band, however, has been extended, making it 100 kilocycles wide instead of 50, the new limits being 17.75 to 17.85 megs. The 13-meter band has been extended from 100 to 300 kilocycles, the new band running from 21.45 to 21.75 megs. These changes in the allocations of wave-bands will definitely come into effect on September 1, 1939, but most stations will have made any necessary alterations in frequency long before this date.

The new regulations, while not offering a panacea for all of the ills of overcrowded wave-bands, are at least a step in the right direction and should sufficiently relieve the general situation that much improved reception will result.

If conditions for reception from Sweden are favorable on Thursday, June 16, at 10 a.m. EDT, listeners may try for King Gustav's 80th birthday address direct over SM5SX (15.155) of Stockholm, Sweden.

HIGH-FREQUENCY FLASHES: PJC2 (9.09), Curacao, D. W. I., is now broadcasting daily from 7:36 to 9:36 p.m. EDT. VP2LO (6.384), St. Kitts, B. W. I., is now radiating a special program for listeners in the United States every Wednesday night at 8:30 p.m. EDT. . . August Balbi of Los Angeles, Calif., reports hearing VUD2 (9.59), Delhi, India, at the unusual time of 10 to 11 a.m. EDT.

According to Ray Shaffar of Waterloo, Ia., OAX1A (6.334), Chiclayo, Peru, is temporarily out of QSL cards but will verify all accumulated reports with new cards as soon as possible. . . Harold Schrock of Bloomington, Ill., has received information from "Radio Malaga," Spain, to the effect that it broadcasts daily in the interest of General Franco: On 7.22 megs from 10 to 11 a.m. and from 5 to 6:30 p.m., and on 14.44 megs from 6:40 to 9:45 p.m. EDT. The transmitter power is 700 watts. . . Preceding the 11:30 to 11:45 a.m. EDT transmission from HVJ (15.12), Vatican City, a clock may be heard ticking for five minutes, then the Clockes des Saint Pierre sound the hour, and the transmission starts with these words, "Laudetur Jesus Christus."

The spelling-match rage has spread to Great Britain. On Sunday, June 12, at 7:30 a.m. EDT, London and Dublin will tangle in an international spelling-bee which will be heard over GSF, GSG and GSJ. . . Two world-famous cellists will be heard in the Daventry programs this week: Gregor Piatigorsky, who will play during the fifth Empire Symphony Concert on Monday, June 13, at 7:20 p.m. EDT, to be aired over GSP and GSD, and Madam Guilhermina Suggia, the world's greatest woman cellist, who will give a recital on Wednesday, June 15, at 9 p.m. EDT, which will be heard over Daventry Stations GSP and GSD.

MOP TO MICROPHONE

THE JANITOR AT KMOX FILLED A GAP, BECAME A COMMENTATOR!

ST. LOUIS.—France Laux, KMOX sports announcer, had one minute to go before his nightly sports review. His guest of the evening, around whom the fifteen-minute show had been built, had failed to appear.

Larry Neville, who handles the script for Laux, rushed out of the studio for one final, desperate look. No guest. Nobody in sight but the seventy-year-old Negro janitor, Sol Williams, who was fondly mopping the floor as he had been doing every evening at KMOX for the last ten years. Neville was suddenly inspired.

"Sol!" he yelled. "Drop that mop and come on in here!"

Laux had just arrived at the part about "... and our guest of the evening." He blinked and then, without missing a breath, said something about "the celebrated sports authority, Sol Williams."

League pennant. When the Tigers fell far behind the Yanks, France Laux reminded him of his forecasts.

"Your team's not doing so well, Sol," France said.

"Why, it sure is," Sol replied.

"But, Sol, the Tigers haven't got a chance."

"Who says anything about the Tigers?" Sol retorted indignantly. "The Yanks is my team."

"The Yanks?" said Laux, "You didn't pick the Yanks last spring."

"I picks 'em now," said Sol, "There ain't nothing said about me having to stay on a team if it lets me down. No sir, the Yanks is my team."

Sol doesn't limit his opinions to baseball. His critical eye scans the entire sports world and he freely forecasts the race results at any track desired. Naturally, he feels no hesitancy about changing his mind just about the time

When France Laux, KMOX sports announcer, had a minute to go before he went on the air—and no guest for the program—Sol Williams walked in, did the job. Now he's a "regular" on the "Hot Stove League" programs!

And thus, Sol—who had never been reluctant to reveal his opinions on sports and other affairs to anyone who would listen—made the probably unprecedented jump from mop to microphone. And he made it without a hitch.

THE mike frightened him not at all. He glibly responded to every one of Laux's queries and even did better than that. He injected a commercial for the program's sponsor when he was asked about his betting fortunes for the day.

"How much did you take the boys for, Sol?" France asked.

"Oh," Sol replied, "I wins me just about enough to buy me a case of that such-and-such beer."

That was enough to win Sol serious consideration as a radio commentator. But when the fan mail started to pour in, there was nothing to do but put him down as a regular feature of the "Hot Stove League" program. He was written into the script as the stoker of the hot stove itself, but no lines were provided for him. His own were too good.

Sol has the fool-proof system of "experting" on sports. He tacks a reserve clause on all of his opinions. For instance, early last season he liked the Detroit Tigers for the American that the horses turn into the stretch.

Off the air, Sol feels free to enter any discussion. The KMOX staff members like to draw him out because he never fails to provide a unique slant on local and affairs of international interest.

War talk? Sol knows all about that. He was at San Juan hill, or some place close by. That was really a war, Sol says. Neat, with nice timing. Or maybe you would like to hear about the time Sol was a jockey and burned up all the tracks in the country until his enemies conspired to have him ruled off the track as too good or something.

AND the unusual thing about Sol is that every bit of his charm contrives to get through a microphone to the radio audience. At least, that's what the fan mail says. And Sol, by the way, can take it. Despite his new fame, he remains true to his mop and broom—saving the spots around the speakers for the period of thrilling baseball broadcasts.

For all who want to know, Sol picks the Cubs and Tigers for 1938. You just can't whip those Chicagos and Detroit's this time. That's Sol's solemn opinion.

He guarantees this opinion until at least the end of this week, too!

HAS SWING SWUNG?

George Hall retorts: "The waltz is a lasting influence, not some musical fad."

Tommy Dorsey cuts in, "There will be swing as long as there is youth to scream for it."

However, the consensus is that swing is passing, or at least growing up and calming down. There always will be swing masters like Scott and Goodman. Most of the "name" bands never have played "gutbucket." Some not only resisted it but campaigned against it.

Lou Breese, of Arthur Murray's Dancing School, is one. Breese says his music is strictly for dancing and is opposed to swing.

Horace Heidt also thinks swing is fading itself. Eddy Duchin never has swung a tune and other leaders point to his enormous popularity as proof that swing is fading.

RAYMOND SCOTT and Benny Goodman are the hopes of the "alligators." Scott particularly has been criticized by anti-swingsters. But Mr. Scott can take care of himself and has a right to be heard, so he says:

"Music to me is any sound which creates an emotional reaction, whether it be the booming of cannons or the perpetual rolling of the seas.

"History illustrates that the lasting value of musical works has never been weighed in one generation and even our foremost composers never received fullest appreciation until after their death.

"I have attempted to elevate the standard of present-day swing music by combining classical forms of descriptive idioms with the hot-cha razz-ma-tazzle of rhythmia. Although I have tried this in a popular vein, more or less, there are today recognized symphonic composers who are employing the same musical formulas in their writings. Stravinsky (ragtime for 11 instruments), the late Ravel (Bolero), Morton Gould (Chorale in Fugue in Jazz Form) and many others are among those who are exploring the wider fields of jazz rhythms and advanced harmonies in an attempt to unshackle the limited bounds restricted by our early music.

"To those who dislike 'Twilight in Turkey,' 'Powerhouse' and other tunes of mine, I can only plead for tolerance."

Well put, Mr. Scott. However, Operatives A to Z still insist that a majority of musicians say swing has swung and that time will prove them right.

FOUR FAMOUS BROTHERS

Family ties in radio are strong, but seldom do families rival the Lombardos, who, with Guy (above) as leader, prosper years on end

Carmen, "Royal Canadians" first saxophonist, wrote "Boo Hoo," "Sweethearts on Parade," "Sailboat in the Moonlight," others

To keep key orchestral positions in family, Lebert gave up piano, learned trumpet. The Lombardo band has been on air since 1923

Youngest Lombardo brother is Victor, fourth saxophonist. Several who were in Guy's band 20 years ago are still playing for him!

THE LUCKIEST KID IN THE WORLD

ROY CRAVEN ZIMMERMAN is his name, and he's the luckiest little boy in the whole world!

No sleepless tossing and turning in bed for him! No under-the-covers hiding from shadows and strange shapes that might turn out to be almost anything under the sun—or moon! He goes to sleep as soon as he goes to bed—and no wonder! For Roy's mother is lovely Opal Craven, the Lullaby Lady of the Contented Hour, heard on NBC every Monday night at 10 p.m. EDT. And when, at 7 o'clock on the dot every night, little Roy is tucked into bed, he knows his mother will sing for him any lullaby he wants to hear. She knows them all! Brahms' "Cradle Song" is Roy's favorite, however, and he asks for it more frequently than for any other. And without a song, he can't go to sleep! Roy's talented young mother comes of a musical family; father and mother and all five daughters spent fourteen years in Chautauqua as "The Craven Family Orchestra." Every member of the family played three instruments, at least. The Lullaby Lady is married to a Chicago businessman, Roy P. Zimmerman. Kipling's "If" represents her ideal in poetry and a vacation in the North Woods is her idea of paradise.

THE O'NEILLS BEGIN FIFTH YEAR

The children of the family are Eddie and Janice Collins, the "grown-ups" in this picture. The toddlers, the O'Neills' grandchildren, are Margie and Monte Kayden

CONSTANTLY changing as public tastes and prejudices shift and spin, the trends in radio entertainment are hard to predict, difficult even to keep up with. Yesterday the old-fashioned art of community-singing, revived and refurbished, was a radio rage. Today another type of the "audience participation" program is in vogue: Professor Quiz, Uncle Jim's Question Bee, True or False, Melody Puzzles are examples. Tomorrow there will be something new on the radio horizon. But through all the changes that the radio-listening public has brought about in the last few years, one type of program has remained unfailingly in high favor, closer than anything else in radio to the thousands of fans who follow it daily. The serialized dramatic shows—the daily Family Life programs—are tops with the listeners. "Ma Perkins," "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," "One Man's Family," "Betty and Bob," "Hilltop House," "Pretty Kitty Kelly," "The Goldbergs," and "The O'Neills" are current examples. Friday of this week, June 17, "The O'Neills," one of the oldest and best of the popular dramatic shows, will celebrate its fourth year on the air.

Danny O'Neill gives Nephew Monte Kayden, Jr., a big thrill with a piggy-back ride—in reverse! There are eleven major characters in the O'Neill cast

Morris Levy (Jack Rublin), neighbor and friend to the O'Neills, with the Kayden twins and Busybody Mrs. Bailey (Jane West). In addition to playing the Bailey role, Jane West is the author of this popular dramatic NBC program. She has refused numerous movie offers

THE HOUSE THAT BUILT JACK'S GAGS

Because he wants to move in by June 26, Jack turns to, helps the carpenters and the plumbers

"Hey, you! Where's your union card?" Jack produces it—he's a member of the musicians' union!

HIGH in the exclusive Hollywood Hills, Jack Benny is building a new house—and daily withstanding a barrage of "Is this the house that Jack built?" gags as part of the price of it. No secret to the millions who cluster over their radio sets every Sunday to hear the Benny show, Jack's new home is also much talked about in the gathering-places of Hollywood's best-informed gossipers. For this is no ordinary house. From cellar to attic, from end to end, it is to represent the very last word—or at least, the next to the last! Nothing that could contribute to sound modernity and solid comfort has been neglected. The spacious grounds around the house will even boast a concrete-lined barbecue pit! The Benny sense of humor is well represented, too. Grinning on the bottom of the swimming-pool will be a huge octopus—made of shining black tile!

Photographs by Art Carter

Benny is at his best when the lunch-whistle blows. Yes, he drank the whole quart of milk!

And this isn't all! The Benny manse stretches out far to the left. Note the spacious porch in the center. The two straight white lines running across the picture are chalk-lines marking the path of the walk that will be laid here. A piece of upright pipe—for the diving-board—shows the location of the swimming-pool in the lower right-hand corner. Apparently pleased with the whole scene are Ace Comic Jack and the boss carpenter

COLUMBIA GOES HOLLYWOOD

TODAY, more and more of radio's most important broadcasting is going on the air from Hollywood. An unmistakable trend makes it appear likely that in the future Hollywood will displace New York as the radio center of the nation. Recognizing this trend, the big broadcasting companies have increased their Pacific Coast facilities; new studios have been built, important executives, writers, announcers and stars transferred from East to West. The latest and most impressive move in this gigantic cross-country parade was completed April 30 when the Columbia Broadcasting System opened its new $1,750,000 studio building in Hollywood with a broadcast lasting two hours and thirty-five minutes, featuring almost every big-time radio star in Hollywood. On the air to help dedicate the new CBS-KNX studio at Columbia Square were such top-ranking entertainers as Al Jolson, Edward G. Robinson, Claire Trevor, Shirley Ross, Bob Hope, Ken Murray and Oswald, George McCall, Milton Berle, Parkyakarkus, Anne Jamison, Cecil B. DeMille, Jean Hersholt, Frances Langford, Ruby Elzy, Raymond Paige, Louella Parsons, Lud Gluskin, Dave Broekman, Joe Penner, Gene Austin, Lanny Ross, Lum and Abner. No sponsor in America could afford such an array of stars—$150,000 would be a conservative estimate of the money that would be required to engage all of them for one night—but they gladly appeared on the CBS dedicatory program! And the stars, no less than the thousands of spectators who jammed the studio for the opening, were thrilled at the combination of beauty and utility that is Columbia Broadcasting System's new home!

Hollywood opening! Searchlights flooding the building with light, eager fans crowding around the entrances, anxious for a glimpse of their favorite stars, noise, music, laughter—the dedication of the new Columbia studio was in the best tradition of the film capital. The streaks of light in the foreground are automobile headlights

Frances Langford and Jon Hall arrived together. They were costumed for a masquerade they were to attend later

Beautiful Shirley Ross, whose singing of "Thanks for the Memory" with Bob Hope was one of the highpoints of the broadcast, pauses to listen as Ken Murray and Oswald write a new gag into their script before going on the air

Tito Guizar and Anne Jamison share a deep interest in classical music. Guizar, noted for his perfect rendition of Mexican love songs, has made several films. Miss Jamison, of course, is the "Hollywood Hotel" star

THIS IS COLUMBIA SQUARE!

One of the smaller studios. Note the sloping glass windows, designed to eliminate glare. At right: Heart of the studio is the control-room

George McCall, Hollywood air-columnist, with Claire Trevor. Note Claire's new off-the-face coiffure. Fetching, no?

The big broadcast in progress: Sultry songstress Frances Langford is at the microphone, ready to sing, as Conductor Raymond Paige, on the podium, lifts his baton. Standing on the stage at the left, beside the long drape, smoking the ever-present cigar, is Ken Murray. Walking off, past Murray, is Louella "Hollywood Hotel" Parsons

After the broadcast, everyone gathered around a buffet supper—and what a supper! It was served on the stage after the broadcast, and no matter what your favorite food, you could have found it here. But it didn't last long!

As fast as the white-jacketed caterers could serve it, the elaborate food was consumed by the CBS guest audience. Although expenses for the program of dedication ran high, Columbia didn't mind, considered it well worth while!

RADIO GUIDE TAKES A COVER PORTRAIT

A pretty girl may be just like a melody, but a magazine cover without a pretty girl is like nothing much. It's a very fortunate thing that there are more pretty girls in America than there are magazines. Comes now the story of how lovely blond Claire Trevor (above and on the cover) came to be there

It would be possible to make these pictures without so many cameras. Photographers, however, love to impress innocent laymen

"Would this be better?" The feminine star of the CBS "Big Town" show plays coquette. On the air she plays the role of "Lorelei"

"Now you think of some poses. I'm tired!" Even professional actresses find picture-making an arduous task. Shots must be taken over and over again, light and shadow and focus corrected and changed until perfection results

Credit for this unusual pose goes to Radio Guide Photographer Gene Lester. Trick poses are no novelty to Miss Trevor. A Hollywood veteran—she came to the film capital in 1933—Claire is used to working before the camera!

Climax! Supercharged with drama, this entrancing tableau was created by Evans Plummer, Radio Guide's Hollywood representative, shown as he exhorted Miss Trevor to renewed effort. On the ground: Gene Lester

PRELUDE TO PLAYTIME

From tip-toe to tip-top is the modern beauty course. Here, in preparation for the light hose and toeless slippers of warm summer days, Betty Bennett has a pedicure and an entire supplementary treatment. Pedicure, nail-pollish, leg-massage with an electric vibrator cost Miss Bennett $1.50

Foundation, end-all and be-all of any-summer's wardrobe is of course the bathing-suit. This splashy satin lastex model will cost Betty $12

Betty Bennett doesn't need to reduce, but she enjoys a steam bath for its relaxing effects. "It makes me feel like a million," Betty says

SPRING and early summer may make a young man's thoughts turn lightly, but to most girls these months definitely represent a lot of conscientious planning and even some hard work. For the Business of Being Beautiful, especially in the summertime, with wind and sun to play havoc with makeup and hair-do, requires careful attention. In preparation for summer beach parties and dances and week-ends, the well-groomed young lady of 1938 must have a new coiffure, for one thing; fancy hair-fixes are too easily blown awry during hatless days. She must lose winter-accumulated weight, tone listless muscles, darken her complexion. For illustration of the steps in this setting-up process, we offer beautiful Betty Bennett, deep-voiced blues singer of Chicago and the National Broadcasting Company.

Everyone's skin changes in tone from winter to summer. Betty's warm-weather make-up scheme calls for rouge, lipstick of marked orange tint

A summer hairdress must always be shorter than winter's. Betty's hair will also be thinned to make it lie snug and close to her head

Sports are an important part of any summer program, and Betty spends much time, patience, on lessons at the Gifford Golf School in Chicago

A massage and a sunlamp treatment are important summer-beauty preparations. The sunlamp will begin the season's tan, safely and easily!

Pudney with a musical setting composed by Jack Clarke, tells the story of a girl in England the old-time railways. She was a girl belonging to a poor family but she had the oppor-

her as the result of her strange

End of Saturday Programs

In the eleventh division of the Star of Stars Poll, listeners chose Anne Jamison, "Hollywood Hotel" soprano, as "radio's most promising new star"!

ANNE JAMISON CALLED MOST PROMISING STAR

WHO will be tomorrow's greatest radio stars? Obviously, they'll be the actors and singers and comedians who today are building large followings of listeners. RADIO GUIDE, through one division of its fifth annual Star of Stars Poll, asked its readers to name those stars-to-be. The answers were enthusiastic! Nobody seems to get as excited over the biggest established stars as over some comer who seems to have the stuff of success showing through!

The far-and-away winner of the poll was Anne Jamison—an apparently strange circumstance, since Miss Jamison is not new as a radio star, and the poll was held to determine "the most promising new star." Despite this seeming contradiction, however, there is good reason for Miss Jamison's victory. This year has been Miss Jamison's most spectacularly successful, by far. In addition to her noteworthy soprano singing on "Hollywood Hotel" each Friday night, she has turned to the American concert stage, scoring triumphs in San Diego with Josef Hoffman, Charles Kullmann and others, and in Town Hall in New York City, as well as others. Thus while she is not a new star, it is natural that her greatest season should be climaxed by recognition from her audiences.

Second-place "new star," according to Star of Stars Poll voters, is Eddie Roecker, tenor on the "Pick and Pat" Monday night series. This is his first regular series, and his first appearance at the top of the big-time popularity polls.

Jack Baker, tenor on the NBC "Breakfast Club," won third place to confirm reports of mounting popularity throughout the past year. John Carter, winner of the "Metropolitan Auditions of the Air" series, and regularly featured on the Chase and Sanborn Hour—a singer whose rise has been sensational—placed fourth.

Votes in this year's Star of Stars Polls are tabulated each week for one division only. Next week, watch this space for the announcement of winners in the twelfth division—the human-interest, or audience-participation programs. The following week winners in the Star of Stars Poll itself will be announced. The winner of that super-division will be the greatest star on the air! Look for the announcement in two weeks!
