Radio's Pin-up Cat

The Ear Inspires the Pen

Mrs. Pierce A. Downer, 523 W. 21st Street,
San Pedro, Calif.

Sirs: Does Tom Breneman take the part of Corny on his "Breakfast at Sardi's" program? Why does Major Bowes always laugh when he spins the wheel of fortune? And what does Jack (Roving Crooner) Owens do while he sings those heart throbbing solos such as "Let Me Kiss Your Hand Madame"? Sinatra is not in it compared to the effect that Jack Owens has on the fair sex.

Here's wishing you continued success and a long Radio Life with your indispensable magazine.

Tom Breneman does play the part of Corny on "Breakfast at Sardi's." Maybe it's Major Bowes' naturally cheerful disposition and then again maybe he means to be significant and represent Fortune laughing because the odds are against the gambler. Here's a vote for Jack Owens—who else do you readers think ranks with Sinatra and Crosby?

Miss Joan Blair, 2314 W. 2nd Street, Los Angeles 4, Calif.

Sirs: I'd like to mention a program which I feel deserves mention in Radio Life's columns. It is the Gas Company's Evening Concert. I know it has a great many constant listeners who enjoy fine music and who know that on this program a constant variety of the finest classical music recorded is available. I would also like to give my vote for the most enjoyable commercials to this program. They are presented in a way that does not tax the listener's patience or underestimate his intelligence.

We hope you saw and enjoyed our feature on Tom Cassidy, the Gas Company Evening Concert's announcer, in the August 6 issue.

Miss Gloria Rinne, 2022 W. Manchester, Los Angeles 44, Calif.

Sirs: For two years now Ginny Simms has been doing a wonderful job with "Johnny Presents." I'd like to see a story about her in Radio Life again real soon. I enjoyed the story of about six months ago about her but I would rather see one of her at home, on the farm—Ginny as she is when not behind the mike.

Our story schedule is full for some time in advance, but we're noting your request for another Ginny Simms feature.

Ted Tessey, 813 Venice Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif.

Sirs: Is there any reason why radio stations do not give their call letters, but rather say—

"Address your letters to this station—"?

Often on small radios the stations are so close together we don't know what station it is and have to wait five or ten minutes to find out.

Sounds like a good suggestion. Do you other readers have this trouble?

Mrs. John Harling, 6032 1/2 Barton Avenue, Hollywood 28, Calif.

Sirs: We have read Radio Life ever since it was first published and enjoy it more every week. We save yours with our other magazines and take them to the USO when we are through reading them.

We think this is a nice gesture. Maybe other Radio Life readers will be moved to do the same with their copies when they are through with them.

Janie Bolin, 338 North Benton Way, Los Angeles 26, Calif.

Sirs: We can tune out the wife's hysterical raving about having to "wash another dish" (I'd love to hear her husband administer a good spanking), the silly-talking soap, the woman who whines through her pose "Philadelphia re-po-arts . . ." and the other moronic ads that make one feel that even a gift of the products advertised would not be appreciated or used.

But one cannot, without missing something good, turn off all those who address us as "folks"—to me patronizing, if not condescending. One particularly uplifting program—talks and verse, interspersed with the most beautiful music—is mutilated by "folks" in the salutation, the closing, and in lieu of every punctuation point. Then the announcer brings it into the signoff. Help, please!

Is there nothing that can be done to stop those ear-splitting whistles that infest and infect some of the best programs?

Third and last peeve is directed at those otherwise accurate individuals who always leave out the first "c" in arctic, thereby making it artic, antarctic, and sometimes even antarctic. See Webster.

Regardless of peevess, I don't know what I'd do without the radio, for I am a shut-in.

Elizabeth White, Monrovia, Calif.

Sirs: I think there are more uplifting things to do these days than criticising our commentators and announcers for a few mispronounced words over the radio. Why not let them pass with a grin; we need smiles and they never hurt anybody. We should be thankful that we have a few good men left to give us our news, even if they aren't perfect in their grammar.

Ferne N. Hogan, 1725 East 10th, Long Beach 4, Calif.

Sirs: Will you please print the name of the theme song of Buddy Cole's "Music for the Night" program which comes on the air at 9:45 p.m. over KHJ?

Buddy Cole's theme song is an original, unpublished piece of organ music entitled "You Are My Inspiration."

▲ OFFICIAL MASCOT of two units of U. S. Army troops, "Nosey," radio's pin-up cat, is shown here with his master, Hal Nichols, manager-owner of station KFOX, Long Beach. Nichols comes to the microphone personally each evening at 6:30 o'clock to become better acquainted with his station's listening audience, and to bring a novel program planned and presented from fans' requests.

▲ SEARCHING through his extensive collection of records, Mr. Nichols selects the music for his nightly offering of "Melodies and Memories." music of the past, and numerous souvenirs, mementoes and trophies from Hal Nichols' own career as a musician, composer, music publisher, orchestra leader and radio station operator.

Have Their Say

The "Memory Room Maestro" patterns his program completely from the comments of his listeners, and new features are submitted to them, subject to their approval or rejection. The majority of his listeners have become official members of his Memory Room Club and receive monthly "Melodies 'n' Memories" mail-outs, membership cards, pictures, poems and other souvenirs of the program.

Composed of equal parts good music, wholesome humor, sentiment and homely philosophy, the program highlights each week such popular features as are listed in the schedule below:

Monday — "Reminiscing Night." The Memory Room maestro glances backwards down the years, recalling events both personal and general of bygone days.

Tuesday — "Listeners' Night." Scrapbook selections from the Memory Room mail bag reviewed for the listening audience.

Wednesday — "Autograph Album Night." Sentimental recollections from Hal's Memory Book bring memories of the good old days.

Thursday — "Story Behind the Song." Your musical favorites of the good old days given new signifi-

HAL Nichols is a man who believes that radio listeners know what they want. What is more, he gives it to them.

Owner and manager of Station KFOX in Long Beach, Nichols sets aside thirty minutes of highly saleable broadcasting time every evening for his own personal use. At that time, 6:30 p.m., seven nights a week, he comes to the microphone himself, to become better acquainted with his station's listening audience, bringing them a program of "Melodies 'n' Memories" planned and presented with their expressed wants and wishes in mind.

"It's just a kind of personal gesture of appreciation from me to the listeners of KFOX," Hal Nichols asserts.

The program originates in Nichols' own private study, the "Memory Room"—a real room in the Nichols' home which contains an extensive library of books and documents relating to music, one of the best collections of old-time sheet music, an immense collection of recorded cance through the review of the drama behind them.

Friday — "Yarns My Father Told Me." Tall tales from the tall timbers, recounted by the Memory Room maestro add a note of wholesome humor.

Saturday — "Theater Night." The glamorous world of theatrical make-believe lives again in pleasant retrospect.

Sunday — "Memory Room Vespers." Sacred songs from our happy yesterdays combined with friendly philosophy for your quiet enjoyment.

Every day — Memories in music for your relaxation and pleasure, selected from Hal Nichols' library of gems of the past.

Pets at Mike

Frequently heard on the Memory Room microphone are the genial maestro's constant companions, "Nosey," his 18-pound tortoise-and-white cat, and his two canary songbirds, "Dixie" and "Trixie." "Nosey" is called the "Pin-Up Cat" since he has been made absentee mascot of two groups of men in the armed forces. The official Memory Room program mascot, "Nosey" has had his picture sent out to thousands of "Memory Roomers."

Since starting his show almost two years ago, Mr. Nichols has received from his listeners all manner of souvenirs and curios—sun dials, Edison phonographs, antique music boxes, and early recordings, among them, a privately-made disc of the voice of Lillian Russell.

One time a casual mention of interest in old newspapers resulted in a full mail bag containing an almost complete collection of old periodicals dating back to 1794!

On another occasion, Nichols mentioned that he had recently installed an antique hitching post, and regretted his inability to use it in this mechanical age.

The next morning, he found two large draft horses tied to the post!

AFFABLE HAL here examines one of the numerous radio souvenirs sent him by listeners. This one is an unbroken light globe containing a replica of a country school interior, presented to Nichols in appreciation of his "School Kids" program of some years ago.

Hollywood Goes Overboard

Hillbilly Craze Takes Sophisticated Center by Storm, Prompts Air Program

Saturday, 7:15 p.m.
CBS-KNX

RNOCK YOUR heads together, stomp your feet, whistle, chunk your children around. You can do anything on this program!"

Speaking to the audience was Cottonseed Clark, emcee of "Hollywood Barn Dance."

Yes, the hillbilly craze, whose rise has been predicted by musical authorities for some months past, has finally taken Hollywood by storm! Every Saturday night, CBS listeners are gluing their ears to their speakers at 7:15, and every Saturday night they're turning 'em away at Columbia Square. "We've never failed to turn 'em away," remarked friendly, good-looking Cottonseed. "Our type of entertainment right now has the biggest record sale and fan mail pull."

The music jogs along in best hillbilly and Western tradition: "Hang Your Head in Shame," "Ragtime Cowboy Joe," or "Dusty Skies," reminiscent of a hard-riding cowboy on the range. The humor which complements the songs is rustic and un-subtle. It smacks of plain living, is without pretense, sometimes just misses vulgarity. But it is the routine which requires no diagramming and folks go for it in a huge way. Example: "I just can't please that woman of mine. I gave her a present last week. I gave her a brand new washing machine and she doesn't like it. She sez every time she gets in it, the paddles keep knocking her back out!"

Radio Life, covering the show the other night, chatted with Cottonseed, who was standing in the wings of the studio while the Riders of the Purple Sage ran through a number. His well-shod cow-booted foot kept exact time to the rhythmic music. As he talked, it became more and more apparent that hillbilly musicians are not second-rate, broken down, corny performers. They're tops.

15 Years in Radio

Take Cottonseed himself. He has been in radio for fifteen years. From two years at Texas "U," he went into professional baseball, then to New York radio, where he worked as a producer-director for two years. While he stayed in the big city, he became lonesome for the hillbillies, snapped at a chance to come west on an audition for a show written for Andy Devine and Walter Brennan. During the past few years, Cottonseed has attained a firm reputation in the business of discovering and developing hillbilly talent. All that appearing on the Barn Dance is his own, the idea for the program, too, is his.

Cottonseed, his friendly eyes wandering about the stage, began singing out some of his performers.

"That fellow by the piano," he said, is Foy Willing, my musical director. We've been in radio together for ten years. He is one of the best trio arrangers in the business. Next to him is Al Sloey. He studied for opera. Today he's the best tenor trio singer in the business. He's also a soloist, "the Sinatra of the West." That fellow behind them is Charlie Linvalle, Kentucky state champion hoe-down fiddler. Over in the corner is Kenny Driver. He comes from Oklahoma City. Can sing with the best of 'em!"

Ranging the length of the platform, Cottonseed pointed out other outstanding members of the cast—Carolina Cotton, girl yodeler, "out of this world;" Kirby Grant, baritone singing star who always closes the

↓ OCCASIONALLY, GUESTS ARE ADDED to the Barn Dance. Here are two popular entertainers, Zeke and Susie Hawkins, who are Paul and Florence Seljs in private life.

◀ SIR CHARLES MENDEL, playing himself on "One Man's Family," pauses during script reading to chat with interested little Dawn Bender, who enacts role of Margaret, Hazel's daughter.

Sunday, 5:30 p.m.
NBC—KFI

TO MANY listeners, Carlton E. Morse's "One Man's Family" has always been a living group of real people. To others, it has appealed as very unreal because it was such a smug, closed-corporation—no neighbors talking over the hedge or running in to chat every week, no insistent friends for the Barbours to visit. Almost always, just "the family," complete unto itself.

A few weeks ago, all this changed. Into the house next door moved some people — and what people! Bluebloods to the manor born. For, chosen to add the realistic, chummy touch to the saga of Henry and Fanny Barbour and their prodigious brood was none other than Sir Charles Mendl, playing himself. When, as, and if Lady Mendl joins the cast, she, too, will be Lady Mendl on the air as well as off.

Fascinating Pair

To our way of thinking, it would be difficult to find two more fascinating characters to add to any program, for Sir Charles and his famous wife, the former Elsie de Wolfe, represent the elite of the international smart set. Dainty, American-born Lady Mendl, who deserted the stage to establish fame and fortune in the interior decorating business, still maintains her chic, gaiety, and fabulous reputation as a wit and hos-

Blue Loses Gilman

Last week, the Blue's Western Division vice-president, Don E. Gilman, announced he was leaving his executive position with the chain to accept a post as executive vice-president of the California Oil and Gas Association. The move will become effective September 1.

The Blue, radio as a whole, fans, and Radio Life will lose a good friend when Mr. Gilman assumes his new responsibilities. Wise to the ways of kilocycles, frank, aggressive, he seemed ideally fitted to push building and programming plans for the growing young Blue in Hollywood, especially so because he was at the helm of NBC when Radio City was built here.

Don E. Gilman

With Gilman's resignation, several executive changes are being made, the first resulting in the appointment of Don Searle, of KGO, San Francisco, as General Manager of the Blue's Western Division. No successor to the post of vice-president has yet been named.

To Don E. Gilman, to his successor, and to Don Searle, may we extend best wishes in their new work.

Swell Guy

Many are those who are mourning the recent sudden death of boyish-faced, thirty-five-year-old Tom Treanor, who somehow seemed to have become the strongest, closest link between our boys on the battlefronts and us folks here at home. Radio shares greatly in his loss. Treanor, whom Damon Runyon named "one of the four best reporters the war has produced," was NBC's special representative with General Patton's Third Army in France. He was injured fatally in a tank accident near Dreux and died on August 19 at an evacuation hospital in the field. He had been with our boys from Africa onward.

"Tom was where he wanted to be," declared NBC's John MacVane from the American sector in France. "He was at the very tip of the units of the American Third Army. There were Germans behind him and all around him. It was his great ambition to be the first radio correspondent to reach Paris.

"Tom's loss will be great," continued MacVane. "He was greatly loved by his fellow correspondents. He was such a swell guy."

Dunninger Westward Ho

In response to the wishes of his many West coast admirers, Dunninger, the Blue Network's Mental Marvel, who demonstrates the miracle of telepathy on the airlines, will be California-bound, come October. He will make personal appearances at the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles on October 27; in the Russ Auditorium, San Diego, on the 29th; and in the Town Hall, Long Beach, on the 31st.

On November 1, his broadcast will originate from the West coast.

You'll find radio's "terrible tot," the inimitable Baby Snooks, on the cover of your next issue of Radio Life, with an accompanying article and laugh-provoking pictures of her creator, Fanny Brice... We will also bring you photos of Richard Cromwell's beautiful home in the Hollywood hills, which he, himself, has built and furnished with priceless antiques he has gathered from all over the world... A delectable menu for a hot-weather "September Supper" is passed on to you by Rosemary De Camp, the charming radio actress of the "Dr. Christian" program, and along with the recipes will be tantalizing photos of the finished dishes, and glimpses of Rosemary and her delightful little daughter, Nana, at work in the kitchen... Radio listeners now have an opportunity to have a voice in the selection of future movie stars, as you will learn when you read our story about the airshow that gives "Screen Tests" to outstanding professional entertainers... In addition to these features, Radio Lifers will find personality sketches on sportscaster, Woody Hattic; your "Maytime" man, Lou Marcelle; and that popular airplane actor, Cliff Arquette.

welcome the news that Hollywood's Hedda Hopper, come October 2, will again bring to the coast-to-coast CBS airlines her inimitable reporting of the glamorous goings-on in the movie capitol. It's a break for eastern listeners who couldn't share in the Pacific coast airings of her "Hollywood Showcase."

Calling All Edwards'

Jack Edwards, Jr., tells us that he has instigated an Edwards Day at the Red Cross Blood Bank. He has arranged for the Edwards Coffee company to furnish the coffee to donors, and sundry companies bearing the Edwards appellation to donate gifts. In addition, the young radio actor has rounded up such well-known Edwards in radio and movies as Joan Edwards (to sponsor from New York), Cliff Edwards, Blake Edwards and a number of others. The day set is September 20, and Jack asks that all Edwardses join in this campaign for blood donations.

Sweetland To Serve

Lee Sweetland, the outstanding young radio baritone who replaced John Charles Thomas during the latter's recent absence from NBC's Sunday morning Westinghouse program, will be Army-bound shortly, it seems. He will be greatly missed along radio row, and we hope the good news that has been pouring through our loudspeakers of late means that he, and all of his millions of buddies in khaki and blue, will come marching home ere long. Good luck, Lee!

Happy Anniversary

Last Wednesday the Breakfast Club celebrated its 17th anniversary on the air over station KFWB and boasted the record of being the "longest established public service program anywhere." Governor Earl Warren and L. A. County Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz co-hosted the show and KFWB provided the entertainment. Guests breakfasted to the music of the Warner Brothers orchestra, directed by Rene Williams, watched the O'Brien kids, colored comedy duo, listened to impersonations of Ray and Rob, and other performers.

Happy ham and eggs for the next 875 weeks!

Tongue-Twisters

From news commentator-announcer, Jim Doyle, whose collection of tongue-twisting phrases is one of the largest in existence, we learned this trio of new ones which he practices every day just before air time as a sort of "fluff insurance." Jim will give odds you can't repeat each one three times in a row without a verbal pileup. They are:

"Some shun sunshine; sure, I shun sunshine."

"The old cold scold sold a school coalscuttle."

"The sun shines sometimes on the shop signs."

Rudy's back! Yep, the master showman who started a nation singing with his "Stein Song," is coming back on the air after two years serving with the U.S. Coast Guard.

Vallee, who went into active duty as a lieutenant with the Coast Guard, leaving behind him a terrific coast-to-coast show, was recently placed on inactive duty. Now he's back and that's good news along radio row.

His new show which is launched by NBC on Saturday, September 9, will be heard on KFI at 8:30 p.m. From advance information, Vallee will bring to his millions of fans an "array of comedy, music, romance and informative thought that will set listeners back on their heels."

Those in on the know say the new show is another Vallee revolutionary idea. In fact, looking back over his colorful career in show business, Rudy has come up with more revolutionary ideas than probably any other single entertainer. Established as a romantic singer, he went on the air and did a masterful job of emceeing a big-time radio show. Then, he went in for comedy—again tremendous success.

Now, he's got something else that's new and we have a hunch it's going to be sensational.

The week of September 3 looks like old-home week in the broadcasting industry. FERINSTANCE! on that day, Sunday afternoon, promptly at 5 p.m., the fugitive from a picket fence, Charlie McCarthy returns from a summer vacation. They say he's rarin' to go with literally dozens of top-flight stars just waiting to sign his guest register.

He won't be alone, either. There's that suave, bon vivant of the barn yard, Mortimer Snerd, and, a new character with a hand in things whom you'll all want to meet.

Oh, yes, Edgar Bergen is on the show too.

Same day, still on the air with KFI, and at 8 p.m. the politician without a ballot box, Throckmorton P. Gildersleeve starts campaigning again.

T. P. Gildersleeve, water commissioner, lady's man and faithful guardian of Summerfield takes up where he left off last spring. Will his heart beat for the Widow Ransome? Will school marm, Miss Goodwin teach him a lesson? Will Throcky be elected Mayor? Set your dial and KFI'll furnish all the answers. —Advertisement.

FAMOUS FEET
 Don McNeill, emcee of the Blue's "Breakfast Club," who is constantly kidded about his oversize feet, has been asked to contribute an article to the "Chiropodists' Journal."

SINATRA SAYS
 Frank Sinatra, CBS' popular singing idol, has been requested by the War Manpower Commission to participate in a nationwide campaign urging boys and girls to return to high school this fall.

FOR HOME FOLK
 Norris Goff, "Abner" of the Blue's "Lum and Abner," has a recording connection for his short wave set with which he makes records of messages from men in Jap prison camps, then send the discs to the men's families.

HALF-PINT PIANO
 For her tour overseas to entertain the boys, Dinah Shore was equipped with a midget baby grand piano weighing just sixty pounds. Dinah's hubby, actor-soldier George Montgomery, made a carrying case for it.

 Mercedes McCambridge, popular actress of CBS' "I Love A Mystery" series, has become a student of the art of bull-fighting. She has learned part of the matador's footwork and the cape movements.

 CBS' swoon crooner, Frank Sinatra, has a singing rival in the person of his little daughter, Nancy. She learns the tunes after she's heard her daddy sing them.

 Del Castillo is the musical director for CBS' "Stars Over Hollywood" but he never sees the shows. He handles the music by remote control from another studio.

 Carmen Dragon, conductor of the orchestra on CBS' "Maxwell House" summer show, composed the music for Gene Kelly's superb dance sequence in "Cover Girl."

DRESSES HIS ROLE
 Fred Harman, creator of Mutual's "Red Ryder," always wears the traditional western outfit — including high-heeled cowboy boots and stetson.

RADIO LIFE LOGS are checked carefully and intelligently, item by item each week, with program information furnished by the various stations. They are, therefore as accurate as is humanly possible under present shifting wartime conditions.

Blueblood Comes To Radio

tess in spite of her rumored eighty-three years.

Her husband, admittedly seventy-two, whose keen eyes and sharp nose go well with his double chin, looks very Scotch and soda-ish and exactly like a substantial Englishman out of a pre-war novel. He thinks radio is a "jolly experience." Frankly, he enjoys it because he studied singing for several years and has long made diction his hobby. His, too, to enjoy is the compensation for his air efforts, for at present his money is frozen in France, where he lived for twenty-two years before coming to California.

Brought up in the best English tradition, educated at Harrow, he describes his childhood as "uneventful," claims that before he entered World War I he "did nothing." Pressed to qualify "nothing," Sir Charles admitted he "played polo and looked after business interests in the Argentine." Wounded in Flanders the latter part of 1914, he was discharged from the army in 1915, entered British intelligence the following year and was attached to the British Embassy in Paris until Hitler started his drive for the French capital.

It was at their apartment in Paris and at the Villa Trianon palace, the only privately-owned home on the Versailles grounds, that Sir Charles and Lady Mendl did their fabulous, pre-war entertaining. Pictures in Lady Mendl's well-thumbed scrap-books show how elaborately the affairs were staged—the cleverest of circus acts imported for amusement of the guests, a tricky champagne bar erected around a huge tree in the garden, hedges of hot house lilies which special florists spent three days to arrange, fantastically illuminated pools — all for one evening's pleasure. Furnishings of the Versailles place exemplified Lady Mendl's flare for decorating in its most versatile and skillful d'gref.

All this, the Mendls left hurriedly when they were ordered to evacuate the French capital just two days before Hitler's storm troopers overran the city by the Seine.

Leaving before his wife, Sir Charles awaited her arrival in Lisbon, where after several hectic days they were allowed to book steamer passage to America.

Now that they live on Benedict Canon Drive in Beverly Hills, the noted couple say, "We have found sanctuary here."

Obviously, they dislike talking about their home in Versailles for the Germans, so they have been told, took the place over and converted it into a "powder room," as Sir Charles delicately expresses it.

Attuned to war-time living is the new home. Gone is the $15,000 Rolls Royce—sold as a prop car to Warner Brothers for $750. Into the new place and with remarkable courage, Lady Mendl has again injected her exotic taste in decorating and has indulged her favorite green and white color scheme at every possible vantage point. The popular Mendls enjoy a modified social life, entertaining quietly and in small numbers and being hosted by many of the world's famous (they count among their close friends such personalities as Mary Pickford, Elsa Maxwell, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor). Reduced to war-time simplicity, too, is Lady Mendl's noted wardrobe, but her love of grooming and chic, a love which won her the title of "best dressed woman," is still apparent. The woman who used to make the headlines for turning cartwheels every morning and who once turned them at a Paris ball, admits she no longer performs this routine because of her arthritis, but her quick, bird-like motions and general vivacity label her as a person half her age.

lish reserve shies from "publicity," describes with evident relish, his radio debut. Through an agency friend, he obtained the role of the parson on the Lux presentation of "Jane Eyre." So faithfully did he enact his part that he was the recipient of honest-to-goodness fan letters, among them, one from Mary Case of Vogue who wrote: "The wedding ceremony never sounded more fatal and you can marry me any time you want!"

Following his Lux debut, Sir Charles met Carlton Morse at tea and shortly after, he was invited to appear on "One Man's Family." He has no misgivings about broadcasting, says of the mike, "It won't bite you!" About enlargement of his air career, he chuckles: "I don't think there's any chance for me to be on 'I Love a Mystery' unless Mr. Morse invents a wicked old Englishman."

OPTIMISM

Bill Kelso, emcee of the KNX "Moonlight Matinee," reveals that before the invasion, most of the musical requests were for the pre-war nostalgic songs. Since the invasion, he says, the requests tend more for present-day hits and peppy tunes.

BOOK BY CLAPPER

A collection of the articles and dispatches of the late Mutual commentator, Raymond Clapper, who was killed in a plane crash in the Pacific war area, has now been released. It is entitled "Watching the World." It includes a 30-page biography of her husband, by Mrs. Clapper, who edited the book.

Man of Many Pursuits, Genial Mike Stuart Works Fourteen Hours a Day And Dreams of Retiring to a Ranch

Sat., 11:00 a.m.
Sun., Mon., Thurs.,
Fri., Sat.—11:30 p.m.
KMTR

LISTENERS to KMTR's "Lamplighter" programs, which bring radio-dialers news and views of the local after-dark entertainment spots, have been hearing the familiar voice (or rather, voices!) of Mike Stuart, substituting for "The Lamplighter," Ted Yerxa, during the latter's illness.

He is the same Mike Stuart who wrote, produced, and enacted the ten parts on his popular "Let's Go To The Dogs" program. He hopes to bring that show back to the airwaves sometime in the near future, but meanwhile, he has his hands full writing, producing, announcing, spinning records, interviewing celebrities, creating sound effects and publicity stunts, doing the bookkeeping, billing, selling and collecting for the Lamplighter's programs.

"I wish I could find a good secretary," moaned Mike, as we sat in with him during his hour-and-a-half midnight stint over KMTR.

Home Is Office

The living room of Mike's home is his office, where he spends more than twelve hours daily, attired in rumpled sailor's pants and an old sweater, and surrounded by filing cases, transcriptions, old scripts, a piano, a typewriter and three well-worn desks. In addition to his work for "The Lamplighter," Stuart appears on the NBC Spanish-speaking CIA "Youth of the America's" programs, and plays a variety of parts on numerous commercial transcriptions in which he employs his many voices to enact cleverly-gagged advertisements.

The patchwork pattern of Mike Stuart's career in show business started when, at the age of ten, he entered vaudeville as a boy-tenor, singing such hits of World War I as "Over There" and "Rose of No-Man's Land." Schooled by his mother during vacations from show business and ranch life in Utah, he was in and out of many educational institutions, the last being the University of California.

From time to time he ventured away from the entertainment field to follow such varied pursuits as soldiering, steeple-jacking, commercial fishing, dog-training, bookkeeping, and reporting, but always to return to his first-love—show business. He went through the hard schools of traveling stock, old-time melodrama, the circus and midway side-shows.

Is Author-Composer

In addition to radio programs, he has written short stories, plays and songs such as the familiar "Don't Want No Change of Pasture," which is frequently featured by the bands of Spike Jones, Hal Grayson and Spade Cooley.

Stuart admires the work of such varied artists as George Bernard Shaw, Voltaire, Duke Ellington, Frank Capra, Orson Wells, Fred Allen, Art Baker and Walt Disney. Personally he considers satire an ideal field, contending that satire more clearly paints for the imagination the "pictures worth ten thousands words."

A quiet-voiced, kindly person with a ready wit and an obviously genuine love of people, Mike is happily married to the beautiful and talented dancer, Serrita Camargo. The two of them are almost always accompanied by their tremendous Irish setter named "McGinty."

Asked how his wife feels about his heavy working schedule, Stuart smiled, "She says, 'Honey, why don't you quit?'"

"And that's my biggest ambition," he went on. "To retire to a ranch, where I can spend my time raising dogs and a few horses, and living with things that are real."

Now required to make the rounds of the night spots regularly in the course of doing "The Lamplighter's" shows, Mike frowned, "Night clubs aren't for me. They're make-believe."

"Besides," he added, "I don't even drink. And I can never get a good cup of coffee!"

▲ "LET'S GO TO THE DOGS" was the name of Mike Stuart's popular program about pets. Of all the shows he has done, it remains his favorite, and he hopes to bring it back to the airwaves soon. Here, he is shown with his own Irish setter, "McGinty."

▲ ATTENTION, NON-PHONE OWNERS! This looks as if Richard Auerand were positive cause for the telephone shortage, but it's only a gag picture to show how Dick feels when he's trying to work at home and the insistent jingle of the Ameche drives him wild.

▲ THIS ISN'T A GAG PICTURE. It's what Conductor-arranger Auerand really does when he wants to get away from the telephone to complete some uninterrupted work. He drives his car to a knoll overlooking Silver Lake, sits on the running board and whips out an arrangement while cocker spaniel, Val, keeps him quiet company. Val played "Flush" in the movie, "Barretts of Wimpole Street."

Persistent Theme

By Ray Hevenor

*Against Engineering and Medicine,
Music's Pull Won Out to Dominate
Richard Auerand's Rising Career*

ACCOMPANYING Mme. Schumann-Heink, recalls Richard Auerand, was the proudest moment to date in his musical career.

The melee which occurred while he was thumping piano in a tough roadhouse near Napa, he wincingly confesses, was the most disconcerting. Which is a clumsily roundabout way of saying that Conductor-composer-arranger Auerand's musical experience embraces everything from grand opera to boogie woogie.

Currently serving as musical director of CBS's new "Hollywood Mystery Time" and on NBC's "A Song Is Born" (which he also originated and owns) thirty-eight-year-old Auerand has had twenty-five years of musical experience.

"I joined the union when I was thirteen," he remembers. "They had to grant a special dispensation to let me in."

Is Versatile

Watching Auerand rapidly penciling the notes of an arrangement or meticulously whipping his orchestra into shape, an onlooker develops a singular feeling when he knows that Dick might have been an equally successful electrical engineer if music had not made parallel demands on his time and interest along with his courses at the University of California. The feeling is intensified when Auerand surveys his capable looking hands and exclaims: "If I had $30,000 in cash right now, I'd kick over my music and study to be a doctor. That's what I've always wanted to be!"

But wading now, chin deep in music, Auerand has his eye glued on one objective: "To be recognized as one of the finest conductors and composers in Hollywood." This leaves some corporation minus a top notch technician and some sick folk without a comforting bedside manner, but makes radio listeners lucky people.

For Dick, as his friends hail him, has a substantial contribution for the ether lanes. Lightly to be skipped over is the fact that, as a small lad, he fudged on his keyboard practice. "Instead of doing my exercises, I'd unwind a player piano roll very slowly as if I were playing," he now admits.

By the time he was twelve, he was accompanying his mother, a solo dancer. At thirteen, when he was sufficiently proficient to join the union, he invested himself with the impressive title, "The Jazz Piano Kid." At fifteen, when he matriculated at Berkeley upon advice from his father, a pioneer automotive engineer, he squeezed in piano and organ study on the outside.

Into Show Business

After three or four organ lessons, Dick was practicing early one morning at the Capitol Theater when the accompanist failed to show up for a stage rehearsal of Fanchon and Marco's "Pepper Box Revue" with Sophie Tucker. Young Auerand was mustered into service, took the song melodies down by ear, and played for the chorus to run through its routine. He made an instant impression with his work, but was considered too young to assume the duties of musical director. Later on, however, when the show took to the road, Dick toured as its musical director.

Meantime, the inevitable had happened and he had let music take precedence over his engineering course. "Every time I'd get ready to turn my back on music, something would happen to pull me back. So I decided to stay," he resumed.

He had taken only a dozen organ lessons and boasted four paltry selections in his repertoire when he dared to take a $175-a-week job presiding at the console of San Francisco's Warfield Cafeteria. "All I could play was 'Moonlight and Roses,' 'Skaters' Waltz,' 'The Rosary,' and 'Love Tales,' he recalls qualmishly. "I did variations on these four themes and skinned by, but if they'd asked me to play anything else, I'd have fallen flat on my face!"

Theater Organist

Two years later, at the venerable age of nineteen, Dick was organist for San Francisco's new twin theaters, the Fillmore and the Mission, then he stepped up to head organist

◆ THERE'S A TRICK TO PACKING—
 Fruit carelessly packed may be the cause of the "floating" of the contents of the jar after cooking, may result in unevenly cooked fruit, may be the reason for losing the juice during processing, and may be the key to spoilage. Here Mutual's food expert, Norma Young, demonstrates the proper packing of peaches. She is using a small suction cup on a wooden prod to place the fruit in the jars firmly, without breaking the delicate slices. Jars are filled to no more than one-half inch from the top, syrup is poured on immediately to the same level, and jar top is placed in position and screwed firmly in place.

Tips On Canning

Cold pack canning is the most popular way of preserving fruits, and the processing can be done in a steam cooker, requiring about three inches of water in a tall, tightly covered kettle; in a water bath, where the water must cover the jars and be kept boiling throughout the process time; or in a pressure cooker, which requires less cooking time than any other method. (VEGETABLES, WHICH ARE NON-ACID, MUST BE COOKED IN A PRESSURE COOKER IN ORDER TO BE SAFELY PRESERVED, ALWAYS BOIL CANNED VEGETABLES TEN TO FIFTEEN MINUTES BEFORE SERVING.)

The pressure cooker is recommended for processing vegetables, meats, and non-acid foods, as it gives a greater degree of safety. The hot water bath is good for processing fruits and tomatoes. A wash boiler or a large deep vessel that has a close-fitting cover may be used in this procedure, but the vessel must be fitted with a rack made of laths, wire, or other perforated material, and the rack must hold the jars at least half an inch above the bottom of the receptacle. Water should cover the jars at least an inch over the top, and the water should be kept boiling for the entire processing period. If

◆ A BEGINNING AND END COINCIDE—Stu Wilson, Mutual emcee, lowers a full rack of sealed fruit into the steam cooker as Norma Young begins the making of a new batch of syrup for the second cookerful. Notice that both pint and quart jars can be cooked at the same time (length of time depends on method of processing). Norma recommends that syrup be made in small quantities as it will thicken if reheated regularly. Jars should be taken from cooker as soon as cooking time is up, placed out of draft where air can circulate around them to cool them evenly.

Persistent Theme

for Fox West Coast in their giant movie palace—the "Fox." Having organized a dance band while in college, he felt the urge to resume his orchestral activities at this same time, and aired his group on KTAB. Between 1938-1941 he served as musical director for KSFO, led the Palace Hotel Rose Bowl orchestra, made numerous appearances at Treasure Island, composed the torch song, "It Serves Me Right," recorded by Decca.

Curiously enough, Dick didn't land in Hollywood because of his musical accomplishments. It took Petrillo and Tojo to shuttle him south. For some years prior to Pearl Harbor, Aurandt had been busy making all San Francisco's major commercial recordings. When war came, he switched his recording work to night-time and took a day job as machine tool engineer. When Petrillo's ban put a halt to Dick's recording enterprise, he asked for a transfer to the war plant's Los Angeles factory. Three months after arriving here, he resumed his radio work, playing the organ for Billie Burke's "Fashions in Rations," for NBC's "Dreft Star Playhouse," and for KFI's "Sunday Serenade."

Lately he has nixed several similar offers in preference to conductor-arranger assignments. But he's lost 15 of his 172 pounds, worrying about special effects for "A Song Is Born." "I spend about twenty hours arranging a spot that takes four minutes to play," he lamented.

Works at Home

He does most of his arranging and composing at the grand piano in his living room overlooking Silver Lake (in the house formerly occupied by Aimee Semple Macpherson). The telephone is jangling constantly. "When it gets too bad," Dick shrugged resignedly, "I take my work and go up in the hills where there's some peace."

In spite of his many years playing for night spots, he has the get-up-early habit and piles out of bed every morning at 7:15. "But I love to sleep," he yawned. "I can doze off in a bucket of water."

Handball is about the only other relaxation he finds time for. He likes to fish, claims that all anybody has to do is dangle a pole in front of his nose and he drops any thoughts of work . . . is keen about movies, goes about once a week and thinks Rosalind Russell is tops . . . likes golf. "I usually go around in 60. That's for nine holes," he added facetiously.

He has a mania for collecting mechanical pencils and has a cigar boxful of every make you can name . . . likes to shine his own shoes, usually takes refuge with polish and cloth in the garage and gives vent to his ideas by talking to himself . . . considers blunt honesty his biggest fault . . . would read a lot if his schedule weren't so tight, demonstrates his good intentions by clutching a book at bedtime but drops off to sleep after three and a half paragraphs.

Still Invents

He still loves to putter with machinery and would make his own car repairs if the work weren't so hard on his hands. But he is no jack of all trades and master of none. The others are side interests to music, which he studies seriously and continuously, taking weekly lessons in composition and counterpoint.

But now and then his inventive mind rigs up something special, like the commercial butter slicer he designed. He also developed special sound equipment to enhance the reality of organ music.

A few years ago he employed this idea to make records for funeral homes and cemeteries and sold his discs and playing equipment to more than 400 mortuaries and burial parks throughout the country. By means of push-button control, this music can be loud speakered to any part of the memorial grounds.

Observed the very lively Dick with a semi-twinkle: "I suppose I'll play for my own funeral!"

show with a Western ballad. Kirby's talents have gained him a niche in the movies, where he is starred by Universal as a singing romantic lead.

Hillbilly Comic

Then, Cottonseed's eyes lit on lanky, droll-faced Johnny Bond. "He's my idea of an up and coming hillbilly comic," exclaimed Clark.

A few months later we listened to Johnny running through some of his lines: "I started married life on a fifty-fifty basis. When my wife wanted fifty dollars for a dress, she gave me fifty cents for a shirt. One morning she sez to me, 'By the way, I found this here slip of paper in your pocket and it was wrote down on it: Myrtle, two hundred eighty. She shows it to me and sez: Okay, brother. Explain that.' And I sez, 'Why, that's easy. Myrtle is just a race horse and two hundred eighty is the race she's to run in.' Next day I come home and my wife had that look in her eye, so I sez, 'What's the matter?' She sez, 'Oh nothin,' except that your race horse called up today. You deceiver you, before we was married, you told me you was well off.' And I sez, 'I was, only I didn't realize it then.'"

Another portion of the program is devoted to what Cottonseed calls his "brushwood philosophy and rhyme." He writes his verses at night in bed. They are based on his memories of boyhood days when he lived with his three brothers, sister, and parents on a 250-acre ranch and where he "farmed from five in the morning until time to go to school."

Sample Verse

Recently, Clark compiled his verse-philosophy into a booklet which CBS printed. More than five thousand requests poured in for the poems.

"Now I hear folks fuss 'bout th' work they do, an' how it tuckers 'em out.

Like rakin' leaves, an' washin' th' car, or walkin' their dog about; Why they oughta be ashamed to ever complain over little things like that,

Such triflin' work is fun fer me— jest as easy as skinnin' a cat.

Did you ever chop cotton in th' summer sun, an' sweat like an ol' work horse?

Did you ever saw logs, or call th' hogs till yore throat wuz dry an' hoarse?

Well, I have, an' many a time, in this land of th' brave an' th' free,

But I don't repent one minute I spent, 'cause it helped shape my destiny."

Cottonseed expressed it best himself when he remarked: "I can be illiterate or otherwise. I had a pretty good education, but started out talking hillbilly for fun and ended up sounding like a cow eating cactus." Asked about his homey cognomen, he explained he got it when he played baseball and players were given a sack of feed for making a home run.

His claim that hillbilly craze is in full swing was verified the other day when "Barn Dance" became a sponsored program. That there is money in being a hillbilly entertainer was obvious when Cottonseed was quizzed about the cowboy suit he was wearing. The suit, he said, cost $125; his boots, $40; his belt, $35; his ten-gallon hat, $50.
