Where Radio Drama Excels.

By SYBIL THORNDIKE.

[Radio drama is of special interest to most listeners, and in the following article Miss Sybil Thorndike, the great dramatic actress, gives her views on this important subject. Miss Thorndike is no stranger to wireless methods, for she has herself broadcast on more than one occasion, her last appearance before the microphone having been in the Medea of Euripides.]

"WHO can help being interested in it?" is my invariable rejoinder to the question often put to me: "Are you interested in broadcasting?" It is my opinion that broadcasting is a factor in present-day life that no artist, except in the pictorial field, can sensibly ignore. I believe that the drama has in broadcasting not merely a valuable new means of expressing itself, subject to certain definite limitations, but that both the drama and its interpreters will inevitably derive from it real and lasting benefit.

But, before going on to consider these broader issues, I will confess quite frankly that my attitude to radio is mainly a personal and, I daresay, an intensely selfish one. Its appeal to me lies largely in the limitations it imposes on my art and in the adaptability it demands of me as an actress. The fact is that the difficulties it presents have a distinct fascination for me. Difficulties, I can quite honestly say, are a stimulant to whatever imagination I may be endowed with. I like devising, or trying to devise, ways and means of surmounting them.

Where radio is concerned, my imagination has of late been busying itself not so much with the prospect of playing to what is so often described as the world's most wonderful audience, as with the problem of how I, in giving recently, for instance, a condensed version of the Medea, could ensure holding the attention of that vast unseen audience, as I am accustomed—I hope I may be allowed to say—to holding the attention of the audiences in the theatre.

Miss SYBIL THORNDIKE as St. Joan.

What, if any, additional facets of personality must I possess? I have asked myself. How, without the help of gesture, and of the direct responsiveness of my audience, could I best portray the character of that strange-hearted, barbaric woman out of whose tragedy the Greek master, Euripides, wove one of his greatest plays?

It is often suggested that the wireless drama, because it must dispense with visual aids, necessarily loses much in effectiveness. But, to my mind, the argument is not sound. I realize, for example, that theatre scenic effects often, in fact, nearly always, fail lamentably in producing the illusions they are intended to create in the mind of the spectator. Shakespeare, subtly aware of this, was content to furnish his plays with backgrounds

"I Passed By Your Window."

The Story of the Famous Song. By A. B. Cooper.

THE Valentine sentiment has always been popular, or, at least, since the days of Shakespeare, and his "Who is Sylvia?" and "O Mistress Mine" and "Take, O Take Those Lips Away" make a universal appeal, because the idyllic love they express so sweetly is never out-of-date, never grows "stale, flat and unprofitable."

It was undoubtedly the fact that she exactly hit this perennial desire for a song which tells of "A lover and his lass" in the calm English country-side, which has carried Helen Taylor's lyric, set so sweetly by May H. Brahe, all round the globe.

When I asked Miss Helen Taylor how she came to write this lyric which has gained so wide a popularity, she said: "It was written during the war, quite suddenly. Some lyrics take a long time to write, and have to undergo much revision and alteration, others come in a flash, quite whole, as it were. 'I Passed by Your Window' was one of these.

Inspired on a 'Bus.

"The idea came into my head one day on the top of a 'bus, one of my favourite places of inspiration!

"I think I have always been fascinated by windows; to me they are indeed 'magic casements'; windows with roses peeping

I PASSED by your window
When the morning was red,
The dew on the rosebud,
The lark overhead,
And oh! I sang softly,
Though no one could hear,
To bid you good morning,
Good morning, my dear.

I passed by your window
In the cool of the night,
The lilies were watching
So still and so white,
And oh! I sang softly
Though no one was near,
Good-night and God bless you,
God bless you, my dear!

in soft-curtained windows, windows fired by the setting sun—I love them all.

"In those troubled war days, homely windows, so suggestive of quiet comfort within, contrasted very vividly with all that our men were suffering far away.

"I scribbled down the words of 'I Passed by Your Window' on the back of an old envelope in my bag, and a few days later took it to my publishers, Messrs. Enoch. They in their turn handed it to May H. Brahe, already known as the composer of 'Down Here,' and she at once expressed a wish to set it.

Sung in the Trenches.

"'I Passed by Your Window' saw the light first, with four other songs from our joint pens, in an album called 'Song Pictures,' but its speedy popularity caused it to be published as a separate song. In a short space of time it became enormously popular, and it was a particular source of delight to us that it was sung so much in the trenches.

"'I Passed by Your Window' has often been parodied, and has been the subject of more than one cartoon, political and otherwise. We love to think of it sung all over the world, and we hope it will always remain a favourite.

"It is not always easy to explain the reason for the popularity of one song more than another. I suppose the simple words and the haunting melody had something to do with it in this case.

"I may add in conclusion that one of the companion songs in the original album, 'Song Pictures,' is now beginning to be widely appreciated. This is 'To a Miniature.'

When I asked the composer to tell me her side of the story, she said: "Ever since I can remember, all kinds of tunes and melodies have run through my head, and as no music appeals to me like vocal music, it is only natural that my efforts in composition should be in the nature of songs. Thus it happened that, with a nebulous little tune running in my head, Miss Taylor showed me her lyric, and immediately I said: 'Oh, I want that, for I can set it!' I wrote the music so quickly that it was only a matter of weeks before it actually saw the light in a joint production of ours entitled, 'Song Pictures.'

A Happy Sequel.

"Without any preparatory advertisement or 'boosting' it leapt into popularity, but alas! this very success meant the simplification of its accompaniment, as my publisher considered it just a little 'tricky' for the average pianist. But the sequel was a happy one, for I think it has been heard in every corner of the earth! It has also been translated into other languages, amongst them Dutch and French, and the parodies (a decided compliment) are legion. In fact, I only wish Miss Taylor and I could collect royalties on all the music-hall references to our little song.

"I am sure much of its popularity was due to the home sentiment which endeared it to the soldiers in France, who carried it back to their homes."

NIGERIAN TASTE IN MUSIC.

AFRICAN natives from the compound of the Nigerian village at Wembley have given some amusing verdicts in a vote on their favourite singers and musicians. They left their quarters in a body the other day and marched in full war paint across the grounds to the Palace of Industry to choose by village vote the records for a gramophone installed in their compound.

Among them was the musician Bogo Birri and his aligatu, or Nigerian pipes. It was probably because of the aligatu that the villagers plumped for a Scots pipe-major's version of "Hieland Laddie" and "Cock o' the North."

They preferred the bagpipes even to Chaliapine, and Harry Lauder. Indeed, they did not like Lauder at all. "It is a song for burying the dead," young Mamman said of "I Love a Lassie." The sea-shanty, "Shenandoah," they found sad, too. Chaliapine left them serious with his "Song of the Volga Boatmen," but they showed the white teeth of pleasure at something of his from "The Barber of Seville."

Laughing and whistling songs were easily the most popular in the final selection, which in order of merit ran: Laughing Ginger Brown, The Whistling Coon, Hieland Laddie (bagpipes), The Whistler and His Dog (Pryor's band), The Barber of Seville (Chaliapine), Echo Song (Galli-Curei), Susannah's Squeaking Shoes (Jack Hylton and his band), A Peal of Church Bells, National Emblems March (Coldstream band), Aloal-oe (Hawaiian guitars), Song of the Volga Boatmen (Chaliapine), and the Colonel Bogey March.

Where Radio Drama Excels.

and settings that did not obtrude on the mental horizons of his audiences.

Instead, he relied on the imaginations of his audiences to fill in the details, kindling that imagination by word-pictures and poetry that are as fresh and as thought-compelling as they were in his distant day. Surely it is not the least important aspect of the boon of wireless that it does not deny a people's imagination, but, instead, revivifies and, as I think, inspires it!

And, still with radio audiences in mind, I believe that the drama will gain immeasurably, in that broadcasting is re-creating in us the art of listening. What this will mean in the theatre one needs no special gift of prescience to understand. Listlessness has been described by a great physician as one of the outstanding diseases of the age. In wireless I see an antidote to this, for it is not merely for technical reasons that broadcasting is compelling us to re-discover this lost art: it is because, also, wireless is giving us an entirely new interest—indeed, a variety of new interests.

Then, I foresee, also, that broadcasting will inculcate a wider general interest in diction, in which respect we of the theatre have still much to learn. There is too much slovenly speaking on the stage. There are still too many actors and actresses who forget that audiences pay to hear as well as to see. The more opportunities that our actors and actresses have of broadcasting, the better for their diction, and so for the drama as a whole.

As for the kinds of plays that are best suited to broadcasting, a point on which I am asked to express an opinion, I think that those with a mystic appeal demanding the representation of mystic or divine characters will have a far stronger appeal to a wireless audience than to an audience in the theatre. Mysticism is a quality in the drama that is in every case better conveyed to the mind by the ear than by the eye; it should be felt, rather than interpreted, by the medium of sight.

This is where I feel the broadcast drama will rise superior to that of the theatre, as we know it. In the theatre, each member of the audience is asked to accept the same setting and the same identical situations. Each member of a wireless audience is required, on the other hand, to bring his own individual imagination into play, devising his own settings and conjuring up images of the situation based on his own emotional experience.

THE use of the wireless direction-finder in navigation is now so general that it has come to be regarded as an essential part of a modern ship's fittings.

A recent report illustrates a service which the direction-finder alone can render—namely, the location at a distance of a ship in distress, which experiences difficulty in obtaining correct bearings by dead reckoning. While crossing the Bay of Biscay, running into a sou'-westerly gale, a British ship fitted with a direction-finder received a distress call from the Italian steamship Citta di Elena. Owing to the weather conditions, no sights had been obtained that day, and both ships were navigating on dead reckoning. When the call was received, the captain of the British ship decided to run down the bearing obtained by his direction-finder, and, as the report laconically states, "we found her right off. She was twenty-six miles from the position she gave us, and we would never have found her but for the direction-finder, as visibility was so very bad."

Those Who Do Not Listen.

By Robert Magill.

WE are rapidly approaching the time when there will be only two sorts of people in the world: those who listen and those who don't know any better. One feels sorry for those whose lives are not brightened by the sparkling crystal or the brilliant valve. To remain deaf while the ether is filled with fairy music is like walking through a beautiful garden blindfold.

Besides, non-listeners are often so uninteresting. It seems to me that everybody ought to wear a little ticket round the neck, giving details of the type of set they own, or else inscribed, "I do not listen." It would save many awkward mistakes.

Broken Romance.

My whole evening has been saddened because the other man thought I meant something about gas meters, and, on cross-examination, has admitted that he hasn't got a set.

Again, many a young man has gone forth into the world with bitterness in his soul because his adored one doesn't know a dull emitter from a dish-cloth. He has told her of his hopes for the future.

"Round our little nest, darling," he says, "there will be a pretty little garden, where we can put the earth wire. There will be trees, so that we can fix up the aerial. Sweetheart—"

And then she says: "I don't like wireless."

Can you wonder that he goes away with all four valves of his heart broken?

Pretending to be Radioless.

I can sympathize with those who have tried wireless, and who by reason of some natural incapacity are unable to appreciate it, but I have no patience with those who glibly say: "No, I hate it. It seems so silly. I haven't got a set, and I don't intend ever to get one." At the same time, I always suspect these people. My own idea is that they've got indoor aerials and that they pretend to be radioless in order to get out of paying their licences.

There are various reasons why some people fall from grace, and allow their sets to rust in ignominy out in the tool shed. There is George, for example. He hated to pay a guinea for a crystal set, so he spent about thirty shillings on books in order to learn how to make it at home. The materials, by the time he had finished, cost him as much more. But that's not why he's dropped it. He says that London Station never uses the same strength of signals, and night after night, although they advertise a programme they never broadcast one. At least, although he's got a good set, he never hears anything.

A Set to Dream About.

On the opposite plane is my aunt. Her set is the sort of set we all dream about, and never hope to possess. It's got more electric lights on it than a chandelier; she's got an outside aerial a hundred feet long; she lives within a mile of a broadcasting station, and she uses one set of earphones. The consequence is that if the announcer merely whispers, it sounds like the voice of a sergeant-major robbed of his young. She's given up listening until the doctors can provide her with a couple of artificial eardrums.

There's only one man who, in my opinion, was justified in seceding from our ranks. Simkin used to be as enthusiastic as the rest of us, until the man next door bought a set and started to talk to Simkin about it in the train every morning. Some people would have invited the man next door in, and poisoned his coffee, but Simkin is too kind-hearted. He gave up wireless instead and planted the other man on to somebody else.

When We Have Jazz Opera.

An Interview with Mr. George Gershwin.

BACKHAUS, the famous pianist, expressed to me a short time ago a view that is becoming more and more common among musical experts. It was that, undoubtedly, some of the serious music of the future will derive colouring from jazz, and that one of the men who will raise jazz to a new dignity is Mr. George Gershwin.

Mr. Gershwin's greatest work, the "Rhapsody in Blue," was heard in Europe for the first time when it was broadcast recently by the Savoy Orpheans, and no doubt it was a revelation to listeners of the poetic heights to which this class of music can be carried.

The "Rhapsody in Blue."

Lounging in his dressing-gown at a London hotel, Mr. Gershwin discussed with me his vision of the future. "I do not think," he said, "that serious music will ever be influenced by jazz, but it is quite probable that jazz will be influenced by serious music. There is a subtle difference. I cannot imagine a serious composer making use of jazz, but writers of jazz are already striving after the form and dignity characteristic of the higher realms, and are, to some extent at any rate, succeeding."

"My 'Rhapsody in Blue' is in many respects a symphony. But a symphony must have variety of movement and mood; it cannot be wholly jazz, or it would become monotonous. I had to make use of what I might call 'straight' music for my contrast. A well-known critic (Mr. Arthur Newman) was greatly impressed by my 'Rhapsody,' but he said he thought he liked the 'straight' parts the best. In fact, he predicted that in ten years I should be writing serious music. I mention that as an apt illustration of my point."

Bach and Syncopation.

"In a word the future will see jazz composers trying to raise their art to the level of the classical. There will be jazz symphonies (there are some now), quartets, concertos, overtures, operas, and all the rest. Until now, jazz has been in the hands of mere tune writers. It has attained such popularity that it has tended to become stereotyped in form, and the wonderful possibilities of developing its character have been largely neglected."

"For if it lacks perfection, it certainly possesses character. Many people make the mistake of thinking that jazz is mere syncopation. But there is nothing new in syncopated music; it was written by Bach. Jazz is something more than that."

"What is it?" I asked.

Jazz in the Blood.

"I don't know," replied Mr. Gershwin. "I have never been able to explain it precisely. Perhaps there is temperament in it, for Europeans cannot write jazz; it belongs peculiarly to America. It is American music, and nothing else. I feel that through this medium I can express myself, my nationality, my soul."

Mr. Gershwin went on to speak of his ambitions. "I shall certainly write an opera," he said, "and I shall write it for niggers. Blacks sing beautifully. They are always singing; they have it in their blood. They have jazz in their blood, too, and I have no doubt that they will be able to do full justice to a jazz opera."

"A suitable libretto is being found for me by a friend, and I do not think there will be undue difficulty about finding principals for the solo parts. There will probably also be a nigger orchestra."

"I am very hopeful about the success of such a venture. Possibly, as the new forms of jazz composition come into being, they will not be liked. It is all a matter of what we are accustomed to in these matters. The ear does not take readily to new sounds, yet wonderful progress has been made in the last hundred years. Stravinsky seems weird to some people to-day, but the time may come when Stravinsky will be regarded as out of date."

Mr. Gershwin instanced experiments that are being made in America with pianos containing quarter tones, instead of the usual half tones.

"I do not think they are a success yet," he said, "not because of the defects of the instrument, but owing to the strangeness of the sounds."

"One cannot derive pleasure from them instantly, they are too different from anything heard before. The ear will not accept them. But, for all musicians know, quarter tones may be the development of the future."

"Shall I experiment with them? Oh, no; the present system suffices for me—and jazz."

Musical Feasts For All.

Mr. Gershwin composes nearly all his works between midnight and three o'clock in the morning. "That is the only time possible for me in New York," he explained, "because that city is much noisier than London. I am very fond of improvising. When all is quiet, and New York is asleep, I go to the piano, and play as the mood sways me."

"I continue until something 'arrives.' Then I jot down rough notes of it—a composer has a sort of sketch-book, just as an artist has—and I work it all out at my leisure."

He is full of optimism regarding the musical possibilities of wireless.

"I think it will lead to a gradual improvement of public taste," he said. "One sometimes hears that because certain instruments do not broadcast well, non-musicians fail to realize what beauties lie in music."

"I think that will be remedied in time. I am told that Stravinsky is to write a piece specially for the ideal broadcasting instruments. Certainly, a probable development of the future is music written solely for the wireless. Then there will be rich musical feasts for everybody."

RADIO AT SEA.

THE s.s. Strathcona II., belonging to the Royal National Mission to Deep Sea Fishermen, which has been purchased to replace the Strathcona, which was lost in the Newfoundland Seas two years ago, has been equipped with wireless apparatus and a special receiver. She will be the only ship belonging to the Mission to be fitted with a wireless transmitter, though other of the Mission's ships carry wireless receivers.

The Strathcona II. will undertake the duties of tender to the hospital stations on the shores of Newfoundland and Labrador. She will carry stores and patients to the hospital and will render medical aid to the fishermen on those coasts.

Mr. GEORGE GERSHWIN.

Official News and Views. GOSSIP ABOUT BROADCASTING.

Princess Mary May Broadcast.

It is expected that Princess Mary and The Archbishop of Canterbury will take part in the opening of The Mary Sumner House, on July 21st. Arrangements are being made to relay the proceedings from Westminster. The new institution will be the centre of the activities of the 428,000 members of the Mothers' Union.

The M.C.C. Dinner.

It has been arranged to broadcast the speeches at a dinner given by the M.C.C. Committee to Mr. Gibigan and the Australian Eleven on July 15th. Lord Ernle, President of the M.C.C., and Mr. Gilligan will speak.

Authoritative Lectures.

A significant development this winter is involved in the decision of the B.B.C. to co-operate with those societies which are including in their syllabus lectures or discussions upon wireless in any of its various aspects. This collaboration will consist in supplying speakers from their staff on technical and policy topics, and should come into full operation this autumn. Lecturers will go out from headquarters and from the local stations.

This feature is only one among many evidences of the way in which interest in the broadcasting future is spreading throughout the length and breadth of the land. Radio Societies, Rotary Clubs, School Wireless Associations, and Literary Societies all seem anxious to have authoritative information on the many possibilities and problems of wireless transmission, and the B.B.C. is only too glad to meet this eager interest half-way.

An Empire Project.

Sir Roland Bourne, K.B.E., C.M.G., who served under General Smuts in South Africa, and has more recently been giving special consideration to the question of Empire Settlement, will be heard by listeners to the London programme at 10.10 p.m. on July 15th, when he will explain the aims and objects of the Empire Community Settlement, and the material advantages which it can offer.

All who are interested in the development of the British Empire and the cementing of friendship within it should take this opportunity of listening to Sir Roland.

Trio Music.

It is some time since we have had an evening of trio music. At London on Wednesday, July 8th, two standard classics will be given, the Trio in C Minor by Brahms, and that by Schumann in D Minor; these will be played by the Modern Trio, consisting of Melzak (violin), Mannucci (violin) and Krish (pianoforte). A couple of jolly movements from Hurlstone's delightful Trio in G will also be given.

This chamber music combination has been acclaimed by many critics as one of the best trios before the public, and its performances have been received with enthusiasm in London and abroad.

Hebridean Folk Songs.

The recital of songs from the Highlands and Isles given some time ago by Mr. McLean, the Aberdeen Station Director, was so successful and has brought in so many letters of appreciation and requests for a repeat performance, that another recital will be given by Mr. McLean during the last half hour of Monday night's programme (July 6th). Many of these songs have been made popular in Aberdeen and district by Mr. McLean, and practically all of them are arranged by Mrs. Kennedy Fraser.

"The Radio Supplement."

The first number of The Radio Supplement, a companion paper to The Radio Times, will be published on Friday, July 17th. This will contain the full programmes of most European stations and all the available particulars of non-European transmissions. Special articles and important information on world-wide broadcasting will be given each week. The price of The Radio Supplement (which you can obtain from the newsagent who supplies your Radio Times), will be twopence weekly. It will be published by Messrs. George Newnes, Ltd.

Popular Grand Opera.

The Manchester Station, which has already fifteen operas to its credit since broadcasting first began in the city, will give a performance of Leoncavallo's I Pagliacci on Wednesday, July 15th. This will be followed by the "Church Scene" from Gounod's Faust. Among the principals will be Miss Eda Bennie, Mr. Parry Jones, and Mr. Lee Thistlethwaite, who has played the baritone rôle in every opera produced at this station. A booklet of notes with the words of the opera will probably be issued, as in the cases of La Traviata and Faust. On the latter occasion, six thousand copies were issued to listeners, and they were found to be most helpful.

Top Of The Poll.

The programme for Tuesday, July 7th, will include the nine most popular features chosen by the public in the recent Weekly Dispatch programme ballot. They are as follows: Miss Mavis Bennett (soprano), Miss Beatrice Harrison (cellist), de Groot (violinist), Miss Irene Scharrer (pianist), Miss Helena Millais (actress-entertainer), John Henry, Vivian Foster ("The Vicar of Mirth"), the Roosters Concert Party, and the Wireless Orchestra.

All these artists will join together that night to give the ballot programme, which will run from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Tennis Talks.

Colonel C. de V. Duff, C.B.E., is to give a series of weekly talks on tennis from Liverpool Station. This series will begin on Thursday, July 9th, and continue through July and August. Listeners are invited to write in to the station saying which points of the game they would like him to consider. This should make a useful and practical programme feature during the summer.

Bands and Orchestras at Nottingham.

Nottingham has a great liking for bands. The county itself can boast of some excellent colliery bands, several of which, including the Hucknall Excelsior Prize Band, and the Clifton Colliery Prize Band, have broadcast successfully from the Nottingham Station. The Nottingham City Police Band is also a favourite, and has broadcast on more than one occasion; while the Leicester Imperial Band was much appreciated when it visited the studio some weeks ago.

The station has also gone further afield in search of bands and orchestras. On April 17th last the famous St. Hilda's Colliery Band scored a great local success, and this month the Band of the 1st Seaforth Highlanders has been booked to perform.

Night of Mirth and Melody.

The Ben Don Male Voice Quartet, who recently won the quartet class at the Morecambe Musical Festival, are included in the Hull Mirth and Melody programme on Friday, July 17th. Mr. Gunnelle Hamlyn, a local baritone, who has broadcast from London, Manchester, and other stations; Mr. Herbert Leeming, the entertainer, and Miss Annie Hearfield, a popular local pianist, will also take part.

Something To Guess.

An hour and a-half of vocal and orchestral music begins the Belfast programme for Friday, July 10th. Mr. Kingsley Lark and Miss Winifred Davis will sing, and the Station Orchestra will play an attractive programme that includes the overture to Pinafore, by Sullivan, and the rarely-heard "Minuet" from Bizet's Fair Maid of Perth.

The last hour of the programme will be devoted to "Light Music and a Lecture." The lecture, which is on "Primitive Man," is by Mr. Gerald McNamara, a pseudonym which conceals the identity of a member of a family whose quaint and original humour is known and appreciated all over the English-speaking world.

A Mozart Programme.

From Birmingham Station, on July 8th, listeners can look forward to an evening with Mozart. Most of the items will be contributed by the Station Orchestra, conducted by Mr. Joseph Lewis, but at 9 p.m., the Students of the Midland Institute are to produce Act II. of the opera Figaro, which contains so many of the composer's most beautiful arias. Mr. Sydney Russell will direct this production.

Listening On The Lawn.

There is a fascination in taking the loud speaker on the lawn, but to derive full enjoyment from it, the music must be in keeping with the "out-of-doors spirit." The Cardiff Station programme for Saturday, July 11th, is designed for this purpose. Miss Rita Mattei will be the vocalist, musical items will be contributed by the Station Orchestra, and the inclusion of John Henry and "Blossom" will add the necessary touch of humour.

Holiday Music from Norway.

The first hour of the Glasgow Station programme for July 6th is devoted to holiday music of Norway, with the Station Orchestra and Mme. Johanne Larsen (mezzo-soprano). This is to be followed by a performance of John Henry's latest composition, a tone-poem, "Chaos," played by his own orchestra and conducted by the composer, with the aid of Blossom.

Glasgow listeners on July 9th will hear these clever young artists, Mr. William Primrose and Mr. Gordon Bryan, play three violin and piano sonatas of widely different types—by Debussy, Bach, and John Ireland.

A Notable Scots Pianist.

Following on the custom recently adopted at the Edinburgh Station of having the last half-hour on Friday evenings a complete entity in itself, Mr. E. B. Appleyard, the Scots pianist, will broadcast, on July 17th, a pianoforte recital consisting largely of modern works. Mr. Appleyard is a pupil of the late Theodore Leschetizky, of Vienna, the teacher of Paderewski, and has played in public in many cities in Europe. He has also broadcast from most of the stations of the B.B.C., and is a particular favourite in Edinburgh.

Bee-Keeping and Wireless.

The bulletin of the Lancashire Bee-Keepers' Association has for some time been a regular weekly feature of the Manchester programmes. The vice-president of the association states that interest in bee-keeping has been stimulated, many new members having been enrolled since the bulletin was first broadcast. The knowledge imparted is also of great use, and it is possible in this way to keep members acquainted with the movements of the Association's expert, who travels throughout the county.

PEOPLE YOU WILL HEAR THIS WEEK.

Miss HELENA MILLAIS (Actress Entertainer) will be heard in an All-Stations Programme on July 7th.

[Maurice Beck & Macgregor.]
Miss DOROTHY HOWELL, a clever young pianist, who will broadcast from London on July 6th.

[Maurice Beck & Macgregor.]
Miss BEATRICE HARRISON will again delight listeners with her 'cello solos in the All-Stations Programme on July 7th.

A Famous Woman Composer.

DAME ETHEL SMYTH, who will conduct the Wireless Symphony Orchestra from London on July 6th, has earned her musical fame both as a composer and conductor. She studied at Leipzig Conservatoire. Her first public works were chamber music at Leipzig, and her orchestral works, Serenade in D, and Overture, Antony and Cleopatra, were performed at the Crystal Palace. The opera, Fantasio, was produced at Weimar and later at Karlsruhe. Following that, Der Wald was produced at Dresden, Berlin and London. The opera, The Wreckers, was produced at Leipzig, Prague and Vienna, and afterwards under Sir Thomas Beecham at His Majesty's Theatre.

Dame Ethel Smyth herself conducted the two-act opera, The Boatswain's Mate, when it was produced at the Shaftesbury Theatre, London, in 1916.

In 1921, she re-orchestrated the latter opera for small orchestra. Her one-act opera, Fête Galante, was produced at the Repertory Theatre, Birmingham, in June, 1923, and in the same month by the British National Opera Company, at Covent Garden.

The Ever-Popular "Roosters."

ONE of the most popular of wireless concert parties is "The Roosters," who will broadcast to all stations on July 7th.

The "Roosters" were "hatched" at the foot of Olympus in March, 1917.

During the war, Lieut. H. H. Warren decided on an attempt to relieve the monotony of life at the Summerhill Camp, about five miles from Salonika, by the formation of a concert party. He obtained the support of the Commandant, Captain Roose, and a notice was posted calling for volunteers. It produced every kind of would-be artist and, after many rehearsals, a final selection was made, and thus "The Roosters" came into being.

Over three hundred performances were given by them to the armies in the East, in hospital wards, workshops and warships, transports, in a Sultan's palace and in the desert wilds.

[Lassalle.]
Miss DOROTHY BENNETT (Soprano), who will be heard from Bournemouth on July 10th.

[Suttons.]
Dame ETHEL SMYTH will conduct the Wireless Symphony Orchestra from London on July 6th.

[Warris.]
Miss IRENE SCHARRER, the brilliant pianist, whose playing will be broadcast to all Stations on July 7th.

"THE ROOSTERS" CONCERT PARTY will broadcast from all Stations on July 7th.

[Lambert.]
Mr. GORDON BRYAN (Pianist) will be heard by Newcastle listeners on July 6th.

A Weekly Feature Conducted by Percy A. Scholes.

BEETHOVEN'S FIRST SYMPHONY.

(BOURNEMOUTH, MONDAY.)

BEETHOVEN'S First Symphony was written when he was about thirty, and though on many pages it exhibits quite definitely Beethoven's own personality, yet in brevity, clarity, and lightness of touch it suggests his elder contemporaries (and, to some extent, teachers), Haydn and Mozart.

The Orchestra is a little larger than that common with these two composers. It consists of two Flutes, two Oboes, two Clarinets, two Bassoons, two Horns, two Trumpets, two Kettle-drums, and Strings.

The piece falls into four separate Movements.

I.

Very slow.—The INTRODUCTION has no special significance beyond that of setting things going; it lasts barely a minute, and leads straight into the Movement proper, which is in the customary "First Movement" Form, as described below.

Quick, vigorous.—The FIRST MAIN TUNE is given out at once. Its chief features are two alternating phrases. The first is a determined one played by STRINGS. The second, played by WOODWIND, may, with a little imagination, be compared with the opening of a door, and the swelling-out of sustained chords. Between them these two phrases quickly bring us to a climax in which Brass and Drums join. This is maintained for a while; it ends with emphatic, deliberate chords, and is immediately followed by the SECOND MAIN TUNE. This is made out of a quiet little phrase of a few notes gliding downwards—heard at first in dialogue in OBOE and FLUTE, very slightly accompanied by Strings. The discussion of this is interrupted by a general outcry, but is renewed.

There follows a decided reference to the First Main Tune, and the "Statement" of Tunes, which forms the first section of a Movement of this sort, is brought to an end. (This section is marked to be repeated, but conductors nowadays do not always obey this instruction.)

The following "Development Section" treats the First Tune almost exclusively. It proceeds quite "according to plan."

Presently, a sonorous passage is followed by sustained, widespread Flute, Oboe and Bassoon octaves, and then we plunge into the "Recapitulation," in which the previous "Statement" Section is repeated, little altered.

There is, finally, a rather long "Coda," founded on the First Main Tune.

II.

At a steady pace, lyrical.—This is a delicate, expressive Movement. Its form is, again, "First Movement."

The FIRST MAIN TUNE is easily recognized, for its chief phrase is announced by SECOND VIOLINS ALONE.

Other Strings then take it up, followed by Woodwind, and after a mild climax, STRINGS play the broken SECOND MAIN TUNE, and are in turn answered by Woodwind. It is not necessary to describe the rest of the Movement.

III.

Though called a MINUET, this Movement is more spirited than graceful, and, in fact, belongs to the Scherzo (literally, "joke") type, which Beethoven made a regular feature of the Sonata and Symphony Forms.

This Movement divides into Minuet and Trio. The MINUET is as follows:—

- (a) STRINGS play a snatch of tune, and repeat it.
- (b) This Tune is developed, then repeated by FULL ORCHESTRA.
- (c) (b) is repeated.

The TRIO is similar in form. Woodwind and Horns have chords, Strings play scales.

Finally, the MINUET is again repeated, straight through.

There is a very interesting circumstance connected with this Minuet. As Elgar has told the present writer, it was the means of his first real awakening to the power of music. Catching sight of the score, at eleven years old, he was fired by the romantic feeling of its rapid changes of key, snatched up the score, and rushed off to a quiet corner where he might examine it in quietness.

IV.

The Finale opens with a SLOW INTRODUCTION which consists of, first, a loud chord, then several feeble attempts on the First Violins' part to get upstairs. Almost at once we plunge into the Movement proper (Very quick and lively), which is really just a good, rowdy outlet for high spirits, though the Second Main Tune (the form is, actually, again First-Movement) is, in contrast with the First, a graceful, light-footed dance.

BUTTERWORTH'S ENGLISH RHAPSODY, "A SHROPSHIRE LAD."

(BOURNEMOUTH, MONDAY.)

Some of the sincerest and most delicate compositions of this century were left us by George Butterworth, who (like many young English composers) was killed in action. His music tells plainly that he had deep within him the rapture and peace of the English countryside.

But his output was, unfortunately, very slender—little more, indeed, than two Song-Cycles and this Orchestral Rhapsody, all of which are founded on A. E. Housman's Poem Cycle, A Shropshire Lad. And since that work can be had for about sixpence, it seems absurd to offer any other guide to the music.

MOERAN'S VIOLIN SONATA.

(NEWCASTLE, MONDAY.)

Mr. Moeran, a young composer of thirty-one, has been a good deal heard of lately, and the present occasion gives all listeners who can "get" Newcastle the opportunity of judging him for themselves.

The most cultured and experienced musicians cannot pretend to follow in detail, at first hearing, such works as this Violin Sonata, and it seems best to try to help listeners to do what such musicians do—just identify the most important musical material used, and follow the rest subconsciously from that.

There are three Movements, quite separate from one another.

I.—Not too quick, but energetic.—The fundamental theme consists of a brief, resolute tune, played at the very outset by the Violin.

II.—Slow.—This is a thoughtful Movement, with a folk-song-like Tune in the middle.

III.—Lively and very rhythmical.—This again is well described by the directions to the players which precede it. It is practically a jig—one in which neither instrument is given much respite.

"RADIO TIMES" READING CASE.

Messrs. George Newnes, Ltd., have prepared a handsome case in red cloth with gilt lettering for "The Radio Times," complete with cord down the back to hold a copy of this publication. A pencil is indispensable to the listener during the course of the programme, and this is included conveniently in a slot at the side. Listeners should order this to-day from any Newsagent. It is published at 2s. 6d., or send 4d. extra to cover postage for a case from the Publisher, "The Radio Times," 8-11, Southampton Street, Strand, London, W.C.2.

Listeners' Letters.

[Listeners are reminded that we do not consider anonymous letters for publication. Preference is given to letters which combine interest with brevity. The Editorial address is 8-11, Southampton Street, Strand, London, W.C.2.]

Audiences in the Studio.

DEAR SIR,—I write to voice what must be the opinion of many listeners besides myself, regarding the advisability, or otherwise, of having an audience at concerts transmitted from the studio. Primarily, of course, the concerts are intended for the unseen public, and it appears that this ideal will have to be strictly preserved, in order that the presence of atmosphere may not detract from the quality of the items rendered.

When a certain well-known artist sang recently before a seen audience, the change was remarkable. Gone were the gentle voice and well-preserved rhythm of his studio performance, to be replaced by a jaunty mode of singing, which to the unseen listener, varied in volume as the performer paced the platform.

On the other hand, the presence of an audience evidently acted as a stimulus to the Wireless Orchestra, which surpassed itself on the occasion of the first experiment. To sum up, it would appear that audiences do help considerably in the case of what one might term "stationary" items—those which depend merely on sound for their success, but in the case of "moving" performers—those who depend on facial expression, etc.—the effect is lost to the listener.

Yours, etc.,

Ditchling.

GRACE LINTOTT.

Inside Versus Outside Broadcasts.

DEAR SIR,—When will the B.B.C. realize that the transmission from shrouded studios is a travesty of pure reproduction? Admirable items are ruined through this excessive damping. The instruments and the voices lose all their timbre and appear to me to be like a piano being always played with the soft pedal down.

The vast superiority of the majority of the outside broadcasts from an acoustic point of view leads one to think that if the studios were designed in the semblance of concert halls in miniature, the transmissions would be materially improved.

Yours, etc.,

Shrewsbury.

G. G. CRAVENAGH.

The Loud Speaker Nuisance.

DEAR SIR,—May I appeal to possessors of loud speakers to moderate the outlet so that they are not a source of annoyance to their neighbours?

Many of these instruments do not carry well, and to have their sound forced upon one is very distressing. Their effect is often worse than a bad gramophone, and I feel sure that if the owners could hear them at a distance, they would sell them and buy crystal sets.

Yours, etc.,

H. W. THOMPSON.

Radio and the Schoolboy.

DEAR SIR,—With reference to your correspondent, Mr. G. C. Lynn's, letter on "Why Do Boys Like Wireless?" I quite agree with him. I think that Mr. Alec Waugh ought to consider how many homes possess wireless, where there is no schoolboy. In most cases it has been the schoolboy of the family who has started the enthusiasm for it.

If a boy considers a wireless set for entertainment only, then why is it that he will take the trouble to read technical articles in order to make a set, when he can buy one at any wireless dealer's without any trouble? As a schoolboy myself, I am sure that the modern schoolboy is generally interested in the technical side of wireless.

Yours, etc.,

Aintree, Liverpool.

Listeners' Letters.

A Plea For More Poetry.

DEAR SIR,—I should like to join my plea with that of your correspondent, "Low Brow," for more poetry by radio. It is now so universally acknowledged that poetry should be heard rather than read, and that, as in the case of music, only those of exceptional knowledge and imagination can fully appreciate it from the printed page, that I think this plea needs no excuse.

I know from personal experience that as a taste for good music can be cultivated by hearing it well performed, so a taste for poetry can be increased by hearing it beautifully read.

For this reason, among others, I should be very sorry if the Bible readings on Sundays were to be cut out. To hear beautiful language beautifully rendered is a pleasure all too rarely enjoyed.

Yours, etc.,

Bray, Ireland. NOT A HIGH-BROW, EITHER.

A New Era In Music.

DEAR SIR,—I listened with considerable interest to the Savoy Orphean's rendering of Mr. Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue." My interest was augmented at the prospect of hearing a blending of two extremes of music, for I am one of those unfortunate beings looked down upon by high-brows and low-brows alike, since I find an equal appreciation, according to mood, in a Beethoven Sonata and a piece of well-played modern dance music. Neither of the warring camps will, of course, own me.

To return, however, to the Rhapsody. It would be interesting to know whether both high- and low-brows enjoyed it, or whether it appealed to neither. Personally, I was distinctly pleased with it, and to me it seemed mostly Wagnerian with several touches of Debussy, the continued heaviness of the former and the perplexing involved harmonies of the latter being relieved by the lighter mood of piano syncopation and an occasional Jazz effect.

I have long wondered why modern symphonized syncopation has been reserved almost solely for dance music and when it would branch out into wider musical spheres. If I am right in assuming Mr. Gershwin to be the originator of such an evolution, the world will no doubt remember his name for many years, for I am convinced that the spirit which broke away from the old crude polkas, comic songs, and their like, and which admittedly produced at first much that was little better, is now quickly bringing to us a new era in music, combining the fascination of the new with the grandeur of the old.

Yours, etc.,

Macclesfield.

R. W. BROOKE.

Radio in Summer.

DEAR SIR,—In order to stimulate interest in summer radio, listeners are advised to take their sets to picnics and country runs, etc.

This sounds very nice on paper; but I wonder at what time listeners are expected to do their picnicking?

The average person would not usually be able to get away before about 5 or 6 p.m. for a short evening run, and would usually wish to be back home again by 9 or 10 p.m., with the result that it would be almost time for packing up when the evening musical programme begins.

Will the B.B.C. ever consider anyone else besides those late London listeners? I sincerely hope that the day is not far off when we shall be able to get a good musical programme without missing our beauty sleep.

Yours, etc.,

Grimsby.

FREDERIC W. WOOD.

Told in The Studio.

A Case of Blackmail. By Alfred Heard.

"HAVE you ever considered how many ways there are of making a dishonest living?" enquired the Entertainer. "I mean apart from the obvious one of singing 'Sally in Our Alley' and 'Songs of Araby'?"

The Tenor yawned ostentatiously. "I have no doubt, Masters, that you are thoroughly conversant with all of them, although you probably find your present method easier than any of the others; entailing, as it does, less mental effort!"

"Might I venture to break in on an interesting exchange of compliments?" murmured the Violinist, with an air of innocence. "You referred to the many ways of making a living, Mr. de Vere. In this connection, I am reminded of the strange experience of a friend of mine. The story might interest the company while we are waiting for the Orchestra to finish."

The Violinist gazed thoughtfully at the tips of his fingers. "My friend, Lorne Wainfleet," he began, "was playing at this Studio last week and might have told the story himself, but he is so preoccupied with the composition of his new Sonata for violin and orchestra that he can think of nothing else at the moment. About a month ago, then, he received a visit from a well-dressed middle-aged man who was carrying a violin-case. The stranger, who had a pleasing manner and good address, apologized profusely for his intrusion and explained that he understood that my friend was a judge of violins as well as being a most accomplished player.

"Now, Wainfleet is just the least bit susceptible to flattery, and was immediately prepossessed in the stranger's favour. Inquiring in what way he could be of service, he was surprised when the stranger, who, by the way, called himself Warren Lester, carefully unlocked the case and, with great care lifted out a violin which had every appearance of considerable age.

"This violin, sir," said Lester, "is, I am persuaded, a genuine Stradivari. Its history is brief. I was travelling in Brittany in the early summer this year, and when staying in a little village, was attracted to a public sale of the possessions of an old man who had died leaving no relatives. Among the articles put up for sale was this violin, and the auctioneer announced that he understood that the violin had been in the possession of the man's family for generations. To cut a long story short, I purchased it for a trifling sum, and, on examining it, discovered the impression of the letters A. S., and the date, 1724!"

"My friend was interested. 'What do you wish me to do?' he inquired.

"I shall be greatly obliged if you will keep the violin for a few days, try it in any way you please, and give me your opinion when I call again," the stranger replied. "Any fee, of course—"

"My friend held up his hand deprecatingly. 'I shall be happy to try the instrument and give you my opinion,' he said. 'You understand, of course, that the initials and date inside are of little value!'

"The stranger agreed, and thanking Wainfleet, took his departure.

"Well, Wainfleet soon discovered that the violin was a cheap German affair, skilfully treated to give it the appearance of great age. When the stranger called again, he smiled pityingly. 'I am sorry to disappoint you,' he said, 'but your violin is worth, perhaps, half a sovereign; certainly not more!'

"Lester took the violin in his hands, glanced at it, and exclaimed sternly: 'This is not the violin I placed in your care, Mr. Wainfleet! I must trouble you to return it at once, or pay me its value, which I put at £1,000. Otherwise, I shall take steps to make the fraud public.'

"Wainfleet was dumfounded, and saw plainly that it was a case of blackmail. He was a rising man, and his reputation was everything. He could not prove that the violin was the same as the one the stranger had left in his charge, and £1,000 was far more than he could afford to pay.

"Much to his relief, Lester said that he would give him twenty-four hours to think the matter over."

"Why didn't he brain the fellow with his own fiddle?" demanded the Entertainer. "That's what I should have done!"

The Violinist waved his hand impatiently. "About an hour after Lester had left, he received a visit from another well-dressed stranger, full-bearded and wearing a monocle, who handed him a card bearing the legend: 'Peter Knighton. Private Investigator.'

"Good morning, Mr. Wainfleet," said the owner of the card, in an assured manner. "I was passing your house about an hour ago, and, unless I am greatly mistaken, you have had a visit from a man calling himself Warren Lester?"

"That is so," replied Wainfleet. "Do you know him?"

"The Private Investigator smiled. 'I know enough to hang him!' he declared. 'I take it he has been at his old games. Blackmail, eh? I thought so! For the small fee of twenty guineas I can let you into the dreadful secret! He is a daring fellow, but if you let him see that his past is known to you, he will disappear without saying good-bye!'

"Wainfleet at once wrote a cheque and handed it to his preserver, who put it away carefully and said: 'Just say to him: "What about the green cabin trunk at Stoke Newington?" that will fix him!' Mr. Peter Knighton made his adieux, and a quarter of an hour later was arrested at the bank. I believe his sentence will be pretty heavy!"

"Wh-what the dickens——!" ejaculated the Entertainer.

The Violinist chuckled. "Mysterious—what? The fact is, Wainfleet noticed that although the second stranger looked quite different, and pitched his voice in a lower key than the first, both men had lost the top of the index finger of the right hand!"

"Summing up the situation, he phoned to the bank and police station as soon as Peter Knighton, Private Investigator, had left the house under the same false beard as Warren Lester, Violin Fancier!"

On Friday, July 10th, Mr. William Macready and Miss Edna Godfrey-Turner are giving a programme entitled "Shakespeare in Story" from the Stoke-on-Trent Station. The Salon Orchestra, conducted by Mr. H. E. Sherwin, will play incidental Shakespearean music. At 10.30 Mr. Macready and Miss Godfrey-Turner will present a short play entitled No. 13.

THE CHILDREN'S CORNER.

NEWS FROM THE AUNTS AND UNCLES.

"A Wicked Uncle."

ONE of the wickedest uncles of the Children's Corner must surely be Uncle Laurie, of Nottingham. He is always breaking up the studio, interfering with Aunty Ruby when she tells stories, and upsetting Aunty Mabel's stool when she is playing at the piano. And whenever Uncle Ted waxes romantic, which is very often, and starts to talk about the beauties of Spring, Uncle Laurie must needs interfere with some silly sentence about spring onions.

But how the children love his antics and how they have missed him while he has been holidaying on the south coast! There will be much pleasure in many a nephew's and niece's heart when they hear his voice over the microphone again.

Nottingham and Cape Town.

Recently, Uncle Remus (Station Director of the Cape Peninsula Broadcasting Association) paid a visit to Nottingham and was asked by Uncle Ted to talk to the children with the help of Mr. Mike.

At the end of a very interesting talk about South Africa he asked his listeners to send letters through Aunty Ruby, of Nottingham, to Aunty Lex in Cape Town, to be broadcast to the children over there. The correspondence bids fair to make a charming link between the Nottingham and Cape Town Children's Corners.

Toys You Are Tired Of.

"Time passes so slowly when you are ill, and it is so dull in bed," were the words of an appeal which was broadcast to the Cardiff Kiddiewinks on Saturday, June 20th. So will those who heard the message send any toys they are tired of to Uncle Felix, and he will see that they go to the little patients of the Prince of Wales Hospital, Cardiff? Here is a chance for Radio Sunbeams to fulfil Promise No. 2 of the five on the card.

"Billy" the Aeroplane.

Uncle Reggie, of Hull, is having a lot of trouble with "Billy," his aeroplane. She certainly behaves quite well when Uncle Reggie is off on one of his trips with the kiddies aboard for Patagonia, but she shows an obstinate reluctance to leave her aerodrome, and recently she back-fired so badly when being led out that she dislocated her propeller.

If Uncle Micky had not been able to fit a new blade from the control room and Uncle Leslie hadn't brought Uncle Reggie a glass of lemonade to steady his nerves, the nephews and nieces would have missed their interesting and instructive trip to Patagonia.

Broadcast Stories.

Since the inauguration of the Edinburgh Children's Corner, it has been customary to invite certain distinguished visitors to the city of Edinburgh who come from distant lands to address the children, and the other day Miss Loretta Ellen Brady, of San Francisco, the well-known writer of stories for children, visited the station.

Miss Brady has done a great deal of speaking to children over the microphone throughout the American continent, having broadcast stories from such places as Juneau, Alaska, San Francisco, California, New York, and Central America. She is an accomplished player on the ukulele, and in addition to telling stories, played and sang to the Edinburgh children with great success.

A Battle Broadcast.

Almost every Scottish child knows about Prince Charlie, the Jacobite hero whose memory still lingers in Edinburgh. To commemorate the Battle of Prestonpans, a play, specially written for the occasion by Aunty Molly, was recently broadcast from the Edinburgh Station during the Children's Corner, and a feature of this was the battle itself. Needless to say, a great deal of preparation was necessary and there were experiments with shouts, groans, sound of cannon, etc., and a great many implements, such as tin cans, gongs, and baking pins, were requisitioned.

The result was surprisingly realistic, and even the dying groans of warriors were successfully transferred over the microphone. The play itself was in three episodes, the battle taking up about fifteen minutes.

Juvenile Talent at Plymouth.

Plymouth Station has devoted much time to the fascinating search for, and discovery of, talent among the Radio members. Frequently in the Children's Hour an artist of seven or eight years finds scope for emotional outlet as close to the microphone as possible. Who knows but in a generation hence, many a world-famous artist may say, "Mike was my first audience!"

A Famine in Jam Jars.

Do you know that in Aberdeen you can scarcely find a single empty jam jar! The reason is not because the Aberdeen children don't like jam—far from it!—but that Mr. R. M. Neill, the Keeper of the Natural History Museum, has found such a good use for the jam jars. He has given a number of talks in the Aberdeen Children's Corner on how to keep tadpoles, sticklebacks, and water-beetles alive and healthy at home and, to follow his instructions, each boy and girl needed six jam jars!

Can you imagine the amount of jam that has been eaten lately? In fact, the children have had to beg for the help of Uncles Jack and Harry—who are notoriously fond of preserves! At least, Uncle Harry used to be regarded as something of a champion, but he says now he turns almost pale green if anyone mentions strawberry or an apricot.

Mr. Neill's next talks are on "Sea Shore Shells." The Uncles say they positively refuse to consume either cockles or mussels!

THE QUARRELSOME MAMMAS.

By LANGFORD REED.

The two children hugged and kissed each other.

ONCE upon a time, there were two mammas, named Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Green. They lived next door to one another and were great friends and they spent every fine Saturday afternoon in the summer chatting over the garden wall, while Mr. Brown and Mr. Green went up and down with the lawn-mower or removed the slugs from the rose-bushes.

As for their children—two very nice little girls who rejoiced in the names of Violet and Lavender—they were even greater friends than their mothers were.

But, alas! One morning Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Green went to a sale together, and both chose the same jumper, and while they were arguing over it, someone else secured it.

After this, they forbade Violet and Lavender to speak to one another and expected their husbands to be just as unfriendly. They even requested them not to do any gardening, so as to avoid the slightest risk of "being spied upon by those impertinent people next door."

The friendship of Violet and Lavender had to cease, and this distressed them very much, for they loved each other dearly and had never quarrelled.

The only creatures who derived any benefit from the dispute were the slugs, which, relieved of the attentions of Mr. Brown and Mr. Green, enjoyed themselves for the first time since they had come to live in the district.

A Great Surprise.

A few weeks after the quarrel, Mr. and Mrs. Brown removed to another neighbourhood, which grieved the two little girls very much, for now there seemed no chance of their mothers making it up again.

Violet was particularly sad, for the new house was big and lonely, and lay so far back from the road that she could not even watch the people in the street. Her mother noticed that she looked pale and listless, and decided to let her have a party and invite some friends from her new school and their little brothers.

"May we have dancing in the drawing-room?" asked Violet.

"Yes, dear; but mind you invite an even number of children, or one child may have to sit out every time."

So Violet invited exactly sixteen children; but three days before the party, there joined her class a little girl named Nora.

"She's awfully nice and she sits next to me," said Violet to her mother. "I should like to ask her to my party, but it would make an odd number. She's got a little friend stopping at her house for a few days; her friend's mother is there, too, so may I ask Nora to bring this little girl with her?"

"Very well, dear," agreed Mrs. Brown; "the more the merrier!"

Imagine Violet's surprise when Nora's friend turned out to be Lavender! The two children hugged and kissed each other, and their delight was so great that when Lavender's mother called for her, the two mammas resolved to make friends.

And shortly afterwards Mr. and Mrs. Green bought a house in the same neighbourhood, and, very soon, the two mammas agreed never to go to sales together again, and they have never quarrelled since.

As for Violet Brown and Lavender Green, they had never quarrelled at all, so it was easy for them to be friends.

Most of the Aberdeen children were delighted with the Scenes from "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which they heard in the Children's Corner some months ago. They are now going to have the opportunity of hearing scenes from other favourite books. On Friday, July 17th, the Aberdeen Uncles and Aunties, together with some of the other children, who help them with these plays, are giving a scene from that old favourite, "The Water Babies."

There will be a second scene a fortnight afterwards and other favourite books will be dealt with later on.

The Secret of Sincerity.

Originality the Keystone. By Philemon.*

WE had been talking about old furniture, and the crusty old misanthrope in the corner—a really delightful person whenever he can find leisure from himself—said, after the manner of Thomas Carlyle, "It is with antiques as with men; a few genuine pieces, but mostly fake."

We laughed him to scorn; whereupon, with a satisfied grunt, he subsided again into silence.

"Without Wax."

The Romans were in the habit of covering up the flaws in their pottery with wax. Pottery without wax, therefore, would be either flawless, or so bad as not to be worth the trouble of deception; but occasionally there would be pieces of pottery so beautiful that apparent flaws did not matter; pieces even which would be more valuable by reason of certain flaws, and these would be left untouched—as if to prove their genuineness by their flaws!

A stickler for pure speech would confine his use of the word "sincere," which (as the school-boy will tell you) means "without wax," to that which stands out plainly for what it is. A sincere piece of work is rarely a flawless piece of work, but no attempt is made to conceal the flaws, to gloss them over. It is presented, flaws and all. That is its sincerity. A sincere man is one who expresses himself without seeking to cover up his weaknesses. Samuel Pepys is a good instance, but we have the misanthrope's word for it that there are at least a few others!

In Spite of His Faults.

A dictionary of synonyms—that terrible snare of the hurried or slipshod writer—will tell you that sincerity is synonymous with veracity, for example, with frankness, and so forth. But frankness may be a pose, and therefore insincere, and there may be as much insincerity in telling the truth as in telling a lie—for instance, when one tells the truth, not for truth's sake, nor in sympathy, but covertly seeking one's own brutal satisfaction.

Sincerity is genuineness; and how admirable the really genuine man is, in spite of his faults; how lovable sometimes just because of them!

Techevov, the Russian short-story writer, left in one of his note-books a theme for a story—the story of a man who was very unpopular because he seemed to have no faults at all and acknowledged none; but who discovered, after he had been found out in a serious one, that "people got to like him more, and to believe him more, and, when he walked in the street, he began to notice that they had all become kinder and nicer to him."

The Hall Mark of Humanity.

We can scarcely help but be suspicious of the man who shows no flaws, for we know what human nature is; we conclude that he must be hiding something, that at some point or other he must be a pretence. His feigned perfection places him aloof from the rest of us poor mortals, and the glossier his exterior, the darker we imagine his secret to be. Let his flaws appear, however, and at once we recognise the hall-mark of our common humanity.

There is a chance now that we may love him; and even if his weaknesses make him difficult, or perchance disgusting, we commend him, saying, "At least he is genuine, and we know where we are!"

Sincerity is the bedrock of a truly human society. Our present society is far from being truly human, and this is proved by the fact that, in our dealings with one another, we are so much governed by suspicion. Nation suspects nation; class suspects class; rival suspects rival; neighbour suspects neighbour; as if by common consent we were all bluffing and cheating.

Some sort of a society can, doubtless, be built upon such a foundation as this, but not a human society—simian rather than human, I think—a society of monkeys with their tricks, rather than of men with their pride.

For, surely, our dignity as human beings resides in our sincerity. The word "fake" has a most horrible sound. It is a vulgar word for a vulgar thing. I would rather be known as a fool than as a fake—what man wouldn't? Better a flaw than a counterfeit, a mistake than a masquerade, a candid sin than a concealed corruption.

Can there really be any doubt about it?

Many people nowadays, I find, particularly

SONGS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW.

"Two Eyes of Grey."

THIS charming song will be broadcast from Chelmsford on July 9th. The words and music are both by Daisy McGeoch. We publish the words by permission of the publishers, Messrs. Leonard & Co.

Two eyes of grey,
That used to be so bright;
What is the shadow veiling all your light?
Why do the tears usurp the place
Of just the sweetest light I ever saw
In any woman's face?

Two sad grey eyes, so tired and desolate,
I'd give the world if it could be my fate
To dry the tears that blind your eyes,
And make their coldness glow with love
for me,
For you my whole soul cries!
It breaks my heart to see your dear grey eyes so sad!

young people, are striving after originality, wishing thereby to capture and impress the world. You have no chance of prominence (they tell me) in the modern world unless you are original.

And after this they strive, taking much trouble, decking themselves out in all kinds of poses, intellectual and artistic, with mannerisms and tricks and eccentricities galore, and succeeding in becoming not so much original as odd.

The sillies! when the secret is to their very hand!

The true originality is genuineness. Every one of us is original by nature, we have only to be genuine. Our originality is our sincerity. Nobody has ever been quite like you before; nobody has ever seen the world just from your angle, or felt it quite as you feel it. You have only to say what you see, to act what you feel, to be what you are!

THE description of travels by broadcast has proved increasingly popular. For instance, the series of Empire Phonoflights, organized by the Glasgow Station, has been much appreciated by listeners, some of whom have written that this series has given them their first vivid impressions of the Dominions oversea. Mr. Sigel Roush, an eminent American travelogue exponent, will broadcast from London on July 27th.

Listeners' Help.

Four Useful Suggestions.

FROM time to time, among the many batches of critical letters which the B.B.C. receives from listeners, one turns up which is particularly helpful when seeking to analyze public opinion with regard to the programmes. Perhaps the most helpful type of letter is that which sums up the investigations of the writer among a group of his friends, or incorporates opinions of several people all in one office or business.

Such a letter came the other day from Cheshire, and the conclusions which it recorded may be of interest to readers. It summarized the opinions of about a couple of dozen administrative and operative workers on the staff of one concern.

Popular Chamber Music.

In the first place, one and all seemed to be generally satisfied with the fare provided. In the second place, there were several special suggestions which they put forward. About ten per cent. of those questioned intimated that they would gladly hear more Gilbert and Sullivan.

About fifty per cent. desired less high-brow music.

Curiously enough, almost without exception, they all expressed a liking for Chamber Music, which is, undoubtedly, the most advanced form of high-brow performance in most people's minds.

Incidentally, not one of them was able to give an adequate definition of what he meant by high-brow music!

Nearly all of them said that they would welcome any really educative programme, but at fixed intervals; for instance, they suggested that the whole of Beethoven's nine symphonies might be given from different studios, spread over six or nine months, say, on the first and third Mondays of each month.

Unexplored Fields.

Again, one Fugue of Bach might be given every week on a given day, and one standard overture once a week regularly. A complete opera, it was proposed, might be rendered once a month, say, on the first Friday, and further, a series consisting of the more tuneful compositions of one composer might be performed on one or two occasions. Schumann, for instance, it was pointed out, presents a vast unexplored field, apart from the few terribly hackneyed items which are always served up. Grieg, too, and, of course, Mendelssohn, of whom many people have conceived the idea that he only wrote one thing, and one need hardly say what that was!

An Interesting Proposal.

They gave it as their opinion that the Savoy Bands are not as popular as formerly. One or two originally thought these bands the only item worth listening to, and now apparently they consider them monotonous!

One particularly interesting proposal was made in conclusion, namely, that when the Board of the R.A.M. and R.C.M. held their biennial examinations, and hundreds of students all over the country enter for them, it might be possible to arrange that a good executant should play off a programme of the examination pieces (at any rate, those in the advanced grade) some weeks before the examination. This would give many students who are listening some idea of how it should be done and, indirectly, help to raise the standard of musical execution in the country.

Our correspondent concluded by asking that his name should be kept secret, and added that all his fellow workers held medals for leg-pulling!

The Lure of Distant Listening.

Pros and Cons of "Reaching Out." By P. P. ECKERSLEY.

IT is sometimes my luck to move in circles where, when introduced, I am not told that my interlocutor "has often heard my voice, but is glad to meet me in the flesh." Occasionally, the subject of wireless may be broached, and the look of scorn, the glorious superiority, does one such a lot of good!

It is, of course, in the essentially intellectual circles (so called) that one meets this contempt for anything popular, or human, or interesting. The attitude is typified in the utterances of Miss Rebecca West, who said she couldn't listen, and of Mr. Chesterton, who in using the medium to appeal for a theatre for Shakespearean productions, said he knew nothing about wireless and cared less.

Spoon-feeding the Listener.

Incidentally, Shakespeare will survive, theatre or no, just as broadcasting will survive even if Mr. Chesterton cares nothing for it.

I may be prejudiced, but anyone who says that he knows nothing and cares nothing about wireless shows, in my opinion, a limitation of outlook which ill fits him to give opinions on any subject.

One sees, however, what lies at the back of the intellectual scorn for new and powerful things. It is a vision of the B.B.C. pumping out everlasting rigmarole, spoon-feeding the listener, and reducing him to mental vacuity by the ease with which he is able to acquire a superficial knowledge of literature and science. This may be true if the listener does not absorb what is given with discretion; but I defy the most high-brow of high-brows to find less than ten items in a year which will not convey some pleasure, interest or—dare it be whispered?—essential knowledge.

Don't Expect Too Much!

The mistake, however, of expecting always, every day, every hour, every minute, something interesting or amusing or instructive to come pouring out of the loud speaker is to pay us the compliment of being supermen. We try never to disseminate rubbish, but we can do no more than please seventy-five per cent. of the people seventy-five per cent. of the time, and if we do that, we do not do so badly.

I get very tired of broadcasting, because in making experiments, in keeping a check upon quality, I listen every night I am at home. I become foolishly critical, irritated with this and that in the programmes, simply because I fail to listen with discretion,

Did I, as a sensible listener, unburdened with other responsibilities, glance at my Radio Times and choose, roughly, the class of items I should like to hear, my irritation would disappear.

It is possible, however, that to many the paucity of the items that please is a definite bar to their fullest enjoyment. They feel, perhaps, that more items of one sort or another would make them more fervid champions of broadcasting.

It is thus that they seek, lured by stories of Australia heard on one valve, the sensitive set capable of picking up all stations, and in time become devotees of distant listening. In a recent broadcast talk I gave it as my opinion that much as one appreciates the increased facility given to a listener by reaching out to other stations, the art was not advanced enough for such methods to become a permanency. This was a personal opinion, and as such deserved, without doubt, the severe criticism to which it was subject. Certain of the technical papers were naive enough to describe at length how, with two valves, this and that and the other could be picked up "perfectly."

But is it perfectly? Which would you really rather listen to, the nearby or the far away? You may say that if the far-away programme is better than the near, you would rather hear it. But, and this is the point I endeavoured to make, you would, however wonderful the programme, be continually embarrassed by interruptions.

Art Versus Mechanism.

Broadcasting is going further; it at times even now conveys reality itself to our homes—not only a well executed copy, but, I repeat, reality itself. Dare we, then, be constantly reminded of the mechanical means of delivering our artistic enjoyment? It is as if a great violinist were to try and play upon a fiddle made in some new and peculiar fashion. If, due to the imperfections of this experimental instrument, the audience were constantly reminded of vibrant catgut, sawn into motion by strands of horsehair, where would be the appreciation of the art of the violinist?

We forget that a piano is a steel, harp-like structure with curious fingers, felt padded at their tips, which strike stretched strings; instead, our minds are lulled into an exquisite appreciation of musical sounds.

Alternate Programmes.

So with broadcasting, we must come to forget electrons and diaphragms in the enjoyment of artistic things; there will be plenty of items for experimentation! With any listening one seldom forgets; with distant listening one can never forget, and this is my reason for saying that for the future we must look to the matter we receive for permanent enjoyment, not to the manner of its reception.

It may be well to say, in conclusion, that it is obviously up to the B.B.C. as the transmitters to try to give listeners an adequate choice of alternative programmes.

These we are striving for as hard as we possibly can in the face of numerous difficulties and obstacles, some of which are peculiar geographically.

THE SAVOY ORPHEANS.

Doubtless you have often wondered what they look like, these masters of symphonic syncopation? According to "Nerman," the famous caricaturist, they look like this—but the responsibility is his! We find the Michael Arlen-ish revellers in the foreground—quite obviously from Golder's Green—peculiarly attractive!

AMONG those who are loud in their appreciation of the service rendered by broadcasting, perhaps no voice is more prominent than that of the blind community in the country, and to this appreciation testimony is borne in the annual report of the Royal Blind Asylum and School in Edinburgh—where we find the following paragraph:—

"The pleasures of life have sensibly been increased by the possession of a 3-valve wireless set with loud speaker. Since the invention of Braille, there has been no greater blessing to the blind than wireless. The children listen to, and thoroughly enjoy, the Children's Corner, and greatly appreciate the kind messages they often receive from speakers. The older pupils and the women listen to the news, talks, and to the excellent programmes of music. Wireless has made many a long winter evening pass very pleasantly."

Is it too much to hope that the public may not forget, in their enthusiasm over the provision of wireless sets for hospitals, these institutions where blind men, women, and children have found this method of contact with the outside world so great a boon?

THE COUNCIL OF THE WORLD ASSOCIATION FOR ADULT EDUCATION at Stoke Rochford recently passed the following resolution:—

"The World Association for Adult Education desires to express its appreciation of the work for education achieved by the British Broadcasting Company through the inclusion in their programmes of talks of a purely educational nature. The World Association regrets that the undoubted demand which exists for such talks has not been made more apparent, and it will encourage its associated bodies to stimulate this demand and make it vocal."

THE MOST PERFECT SYSTEM OF MIND-TRAINING —PELMANISM.

World Famous Course Based on the Unique Experience Gained in Training the Minds of Over 500,000 Men and Women.

"THE most perfect system of Mind-Training."

This is the opinion of many thousands of men and women, of every rank and position in life, who have trained their minds by means of the world-famous Pelman System.

Pelmanism, which is recommended to all who wish to increase their mental efficiency by

The Rt. Hon. Lord RIDDELL.
Sir ARTHUR QUILLER-COUCH, King
Edward VII. Professor of English Literature at Cambridge.
Sir HARRY JOHNSTON, G.C.M.G.,
K.C.B., D.Sc.
Canon HANNAY (George A. Birmingham).
Dr. ETHEL SMYTH, Mus. Doc.
Mr. MAX PEMBERTON.
Mr. GRANVILLE BARKER.
Mr. E. V. LUCAS.
Mr. JEROME K. JEROME, and many other distinguished authorities, is based on the unique experience gained by the Pelman Institute, with its branches throughout the world, in training the minds of over 500,000 men and women.

As the late Sir William Robertson Nicoll once said:—

"Theory is one thing, practical attainment is another. Pelmanism is vindicated handsomely by the astonishing record of its performances."

It is not surprising therefore that Pelmanism, with all this wonderful experience behind it, should everywhere be admitted to be the most perfect system of scientifically training the mind that has ever been devised.

A Living and Developing System.

For over 25 years Pelmanism has been successfully fighting Inefficiency and Failure in all parts of the world.

Yet it is not a static or stereotyped system, resting on the laurels of the past. It is continually developing as all living systems must do. As new experience is gained and fresh discoveries are made, the results, directly they have been thoroughly tested (but not before), are incorporated in the individual personal training which is given to every Pelman student. Indeed, the specialists and tutors attached to the Pelman Institute are continually at work improving the system and adapting it to the needs of different individuals.

Applied Psychology.

The Pelman Course embodies the results of the latest Psychological research in a practical and easily applied form.

"Pelmanism," says Sir Theodore Cook, "is the practical application of the basic principles of Psychology. It is a mental drill in Observation, Concentration, Judgment, Memory and Will. It is the evocation of the pupil's fullest powers and his training in their best and fullest use."

By enrolling for the Pelman Course readers will be able to utilise for their own personal advantage the results of the latest Psychological research, and will be able (under the expert direction of the instructors of the Pelman Institute) to apply recognized Psychological principles to the solution of their own personal difficulties in Professional, Business, and Social Life.

Interesting Book—Free.

In a book entitled "The Efficient Mind," which will be sent without charge to any reader who applies for it to-day, will be found evidence of a remarkable character from members of the Professions and Services, and from Business men and women, who have greatly benefited, in many different directions, as a result of taking the Pelman Course.

A Clergyman writes: "I am astonished at the result. I seem to be a new man in my preaching, and, from partly reading the MS. of my sermons I have only occasionally to refer to the head paragraph."

A Doctor writes: "An all-round regeneration. Effort is becoming habit, the inward urge is getting a chance, and thriving wonderfully. Concentration is much better and interest sustained. I have changed from an easy-going, take-it-for-granted sort to a man with a purpose and joy of achievement."

A Commander, R.N., writes: "It has improved my Memory and powers of Observation, given me Self-Confidence, and enabled me to obtain far more concentration of thought than formerly. I consider the Course a very good mental tonic."

An Assistant Surveyor writes: "I have received promotion and am drawing double the salary I did a few months ago. To a large extent I owe this success to your tuition."

A Theological Student writes: "Last Friday I had to sit for an exam. on Church History. I knew nothing—comparatively speaking—about it on the Thursday afternoon. On Thursday evening I sat down and made a list of the dates, using the Pelman System for such, and then read around them for three hours' real honest concentration of mind, with the result that I gained an 'A' mark. Pelmanism is a great boon."

A Manager writes: "I know of one student who commenced the Course for Commercial reasons, who afterwards told me it had, by the development of independent thought, opened a new world to him. Books in which he could not previously interest himself he now regards as an intellectual treat."

An Architect writes: "To say that I have gained much from having gone through the Course is to put it mildly. My whole life has taken on a different tone. I am able to weigh and come to definite decisions in a surprising manner, due to this training. From a pecuniary point also I am deriving benefit. This year so far indicates 30 per cent. advance over any previous year, and I attribute this increase entirely to having applied the laws and practice of Pelmanism."

A Sales Manager writes: "Recently I was suddenly sent down to Newcastle to organise the depot and push the firm's trade. I am succeeding where two of my predecessors failed. I attribute the major part of my success to the introduction of Pelman methods in all my work."

Thinking Constructively.

It is clear from the evidence of those who have taken up Pelmanism that this system eradicates such mental defects and weaknesses as:—

Forgetfulness	Indecision
Brain-Fag	Unnecessary Fears
Inertia	Shyness
Weakness of Will	Lack of System
Depression	Procrastination
Mind-Wandering	Rashness

which interfere with the effective working power of the brain, and develops in their place such valuable qualities as:—

—Concentration	—Organising Power
—Observation	—Directive Ability
—Perception	—Self-Confidence
—Judgment	—Self-Control
—Initiative	—Tact
—Will-Power	—Speaking Ability
—Decision	—Reliability
—Resourcefulness	—Salesmanship

and a Reliable Memory.

Above all it develops Driving Force, Energy and the power of sustained, constructive and creative thinking. In the words of Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch: "Its process is at once 'educative'—it draws out the student's own faculties, helping him to help himself—and constructive. It builds up habits of mind as of character."

Simple and Fascinating.

Pelmanism is quite simple and easy to follow and takes up very little time. For the convenience of students the celebrated "Little Grey Books" have been printed in "pocket-form" so that they can be carried in the pocket and consulted at odd moments during the day.

Readers who would like to call at the Institute and see the Consultant are heartily invited to do so. The Consultant will be very pleased to have a talk with them on any matter affecting their personal efficiency, and no fee will be charged for his advice.

A full description of the Pelman Course will be found in the above-mentioned book, "The Efficient Mind." To obtain a free copy of this book (with details of the best method of enrolment), all you have to do is to post the following coupon to the Secretary, the Pelman Institute, 95, Pelman House, Bloomsbury Street, London W.C.1. The book will be sent by return, gratis and post free.

This is the Pen
took with him in his attempt to reach the North Pole by air

Each member of the Expedition carried a No. 56 Waterman's Pen, the big fellow with its unequalled ink capacity, which is illustrated alongside. They were equipped with Waterman's Pens because, in the interests of science and of future exploration, it was important that an exact and detailed record be kept of this great adventure.

Waterman's Pen is the reliable pen. It had faced the hardships of Polar Expeditions before, and come through triumphantly. It could be trusted not to fail. So Amundsen and all his men, equipped themselves with Waterman's Pen.

Romping through Life

Life is one vast playground to little children—so let them romp through the early days. Give your youngsters a Fairycycle—the funniest toy that was ever made to bring joy and abounding health into the lives of little mortals. It is sturdily built, and owing to the low centre of gravity, it is easy and safe to ride. All good Toyshops and Stores sell the popular Fairycycle at 49/6, or De Luxe models at 61/6 and 89/6. Look for the name and Red Triangle Trade Mark, and resolutely refuse a substitute.

STOP

Look for the box.
Climax Lightning
Arrester.

The biggest thing is made up of little bits. It is far easier to overcome a little obstacle many times than a big obstacle once. Lightning is a formidable enemy. The CLIMAX LIGHTNING ARRESTER divides the lightning discharge up into many little discharges and extinguishes each little discharge separately. This way lies safety. The multi-gap quenched spark system is peculiar to the Climax Arrester.

THE CLIMAX LIGHTNING ARRESTER.

Made on the multi-gap, quenched spark principle. Provides atmospheric space charges and lightning discharges with a straight path to earth of very low reluctance.

Protects the set whether in use or not, NO SWITCHES NECESSARY. The mica insulating discs and series multiple gaps ensure complete absence of shunting effect, leaving your signals at maximum strength. The glass cover protects the gaps from becoming semi-conducting due to dirt, damp or other interference. Equipped with a Climax Lightning Arrester, an aerial is a positive protection against lightning, instead of being a source of danger. Price 7/6 complete, ready to fit.

THE CLIMAX JUNIOR CRYSTAL SET DE LUXE.

A very attractive crystal set in a small, beautifully finished mahogany case, carrying a brilliantly polished panel with silver finished fittings. The detector is the well-known Climax Sure-Set Plug-in Detector, fitted with micrometer adjustment. This detector can be set quickly and easily, and is very stable when set. It has all the advantages of a permanent detector, with the advantage that you can adjust it. The miniature switch enables the wave length to be changed over to Chelmsford without using any loading coils.

Tuning is by variometer, and is very sharp and efficient. When not in use, the aerial can be switched direct to earth. Price 21/-.
The highest possible grade of crystal set at the lowest possible price.

THE NEW CLIMAX AERIAL INSULATOR.

(Registered Design No. 708718.) This will stand four times the flash over voltage of the ordinary cheap shell or egg insulator, while it has far less capacity to earth. It is made of the same High Tension vitreous porcelain as the 100,000-volt insulators on High Power transmission lines. It will stand a direct pull of hundreds of pounds. It is entirely non-hygroscopic.

It cannot absorb moisture even if fractured. IT INSULATES PERFECTLY DURING RAINFALL. It is self-cleaning on all surfaces. Price per pair 1/-.
Climax Insulated Low-loss Earth Lead, 2ft., 1/8.

THE CLIMAX RADIO EARTH—the low-loss DIRECT TUBULAR EARTH. Far better than the old-fashioned water-pipe or gas-pipe earth. Ready for use. Easily fitted. Maximum efficiency. Length approx. 30ins. Price 5/-.
Climax Insulated Low-loss Earth Lead, 2ft., 1/8.

THE CLIMAX INSULATED SHOCK ABSORBER SET.

Comprising set of four Climax low-loss aerial insulators and two Climax Aerial shock absorbers, 3/- per box.

INSIST ON THE NAME "CLIMAX"
REFUSE SUBSTITUTES.

Every Climax product is clearly marked with the name "Climax." In case of difficulty, or if substitutes are offered you, send your order direct to us, together with P.O., and we will send the goods by return.

When you want a new crystal—specify CLIMAX Super Crystal, 1/- per box.

The Significance of the Marking

The B.T.H. Monogram on a valve means a great deal to the buyer. For one thing, it signifies an exceedingly high vacuum produced by a special B.T.H. process. It means a valve which has been thoroughly tested in every respect before leaving the factory. Above all, it signifies a valve of great sensitivity, absolutely free from distortion—a valve which will last longer and give much better results than "soft" foreign (or English) valves.

Don't Buy Yet

First prove our claims—make this ten-shave test

The claims we make on Palmolive Shaving Cream seem hard to believe, we know.

So we never ask men to buy. All we urge or offer is a ten-shave test at our cost.

Men were amazed

Hundreds of thousands accepted this and they flocked to this Cream when they tried it.

Thus Palmolive Shaving Cream attained the pedestal place, without ever a man being asked to buy.

Now we ask you to make this test, if you have not. Do it as a courtesy to us. Do it in fairness to yourself. Cut out the coupon now.

distinguish the new Lucas Radio Batteries.

They are moulded in "MILAM," our new Moulding Material, which overcomes the disadvantages of ordinary radio batteries. The use of this material enables the outside covering to be moulded integral with the cells—this prevents leakage of acid and gives great mechanical strength to the battery, also a separate case or crate is not required, while the finish is handsome, resembling polished ebony.

For convenience when re-charging, all models are provided with a strong leather carrier which has a neat and positive attachment, while the vents are specially designed and of large bore.

Each Battery has connections for 2, 4, or 6 volts, and prices include Lid and Leather Carrier

£100 Guarantee against Lightning Risks

WHEN your lightning-arrestor device puts the aerial lead and the earth in a straight line, your aerial is a definite protection to your house.

The STRAIGHT LINE Protects YOU

A house with an aerial and a Pressland Safety Lead-in is safer than a house without an aerial.

It is fully just to connect aerial and earth terminals on your set, or to adopt any device that does not connect aerial to earth outside the house. Lightning will not follow angles; it takes a straight line.

The PRESSLAND SAFETY LEAD-IN

Each Lead-in includes a Free Insurance Policy against loss or damage to property (including "fired party" risks).

It has a self-contained discharge gap, and provides for an external earthwire. It is essentially shaped to form a petticoat insulator—free from excessive leakage.

Sizes, 6-inch, 3/-; 9-inch, 3/3; 12-inch, 3/6.

Obtainable through all Dealers.

Amplion supremacy

The Vatican's Chief Engineer and the Representative of Alfred Graham & Co. adjusting the apparatus.

was conclusively demonstrated when on three occasions during the month of May, 1925, the world-famous Cathedral of St. Peter's, Rome, was equipped with GRAHAM Loud Speaking apparatus, to render clearly audible to the multitude assembled, the important services held by His Holiness the Pope.

No better proof can be advanced of the wonderful results obtained than the unsolicited letter here reprinted, recently received from a witness of the ceremonies, himself connected with the Vatican.

Throughout the world, in all cases of more than usual importance, where assured efficiency and superlative performance are essential, the selection is, every time:—

The World's Standard AMPLION Wireless Loud Speaker

A Testimonial which speaks for itself:—

To A. G. & CO. DUBLIN.
 29th May, 1925.
 Dear Sirs,
 I was present in one of the Tribunes of St. Peter's at the canonisation of Sister Teresa, and listened in amazement to the prayers, speech and music which were perfectly reproduced to over 70,000 people.
 It was really marvellous and I have no hesitation in saying that the clearness of the reproduction of the Pope's voice was an outstanding feature.
 Please accept my congratulations.
 P.K.C.
 Officer to H. H. the Pope.

If
To-morrow's Post brought YOU a Cheque for £1,500

One day, just when you most need it, you will receive such a cheque (or a much larger one) if you adopt this most profitable and easily carried out scheme of the Sun of Canada. This great Company, with its £56,000,000 of Government-supervised assets, invites you to share its prosperity and so provide for your own later years and also immediately safeguard the financial interests of your family.

You want to be in a position to retire some day; you want to have capital at your command; you want to be sure that your later years will not be clouded by financial anxiety; you want to be sure that if anything happens to you, your family will not be in want. All this, and more, will be accomplished if you adopt this plan.

At an agreed date every deposit will be returned in full with great accumulated profits—a sum greatly in excess of anything you could hope to save in the ordinary way. Should you not live, your family will be saved from want, for a handsome cheque will at once be sent to them. Should you yourself be permanently incapacitated, and unable to earn a living, the Company will pay your deposits and also make you a generous monthly allowance until the capital amount is due.

In addition, you'll save a good amount in Income Tax each year.

That, briefly, is the plan. Thousands of men are adopting it—why not be one of them? It applies at any age and for any amount.

The Business End of a Corn is the Root

THE PART THAT CAUSES ALL THE PAIN BY PRESSING ON THE SORE JOINT AND TENDER SENSITIVE NERVES.

THE TOP DOESN'T MATTER

Cutting the top of a corn off with a razor or burning it off with caustic lotions, plasters, etc., doesn't do any good. It may do great harm by causing infection or even blood poisoning.

Also it hurts, and the root just sprouts right up again, so your corn soon has a brand new top on it bigger than ever. The top is only dead skin anyway. The business end of a corn is the little pointed part or core that extends down into the toe. That is what hurts when it presses on sensitive nerves, and it is the part you have to get out. A good handful of Reudel Bath Saltrates dissolved in a gallon or so of hot water will soften corns and callouses, like water softens soap. Just soak them in this for a while, then take hold of the corn with your fingers and out it will come root and all. The refined Reudel Bath Saltrates costs very little, and any chemist will have it. A half-pound is sufficient to rid the whole family of all foot troubles.

The NEW

MUSIC FOR ALL

ONE SHILLING

WITH its bright new cover and cheery contents it is the ideal magazine for the thrifty holiday maker. The long complete story and the beautiful pictures of the play will lighten the longest railway journey, and when you reach your destination, you do not have to discard it like other magazines, for there is still the music to enjoy.

Unfortunately the brightest seaside resort is apt to become a little dull at night and if it is wet the gloom is intensified. With "Music For All" however you can turn the dullest evening into a thing of joy. All the musical arrangements are specially simplified, so that even an amateur can play them, and the pronounced tunefulness of every number is guaranteed.

Part 34 (ready July 8) contains twenty-four pages of the pictures and story, with selections from the music of The Gaiety Theatre success, "Katja, The Dancer." It is the next best thing to seeing the play.

The part also includes four other complete copyright numbers. They include, "Trust and Believe," a great favourite with seaside concert parties; "Malou," a fox-trot with the plaintive rhythm that is so fashionable just now; "Schubert's Serenade," the famous classic; and "Chinese Flower," an Oriental fox-trot.

Yet another big feature has been included in this number. It is The Children's Corner, arranged by Ernest Austin, the well-known composer.

Summer evenings with a Brown

RUN a lead from your Set into the garden and enjoy your Brown Loud Speaker in the cool of the evening. Its mellow tone—free from the slightest trace of harshness or distortion—is a delight to everyone. Music and song are rendered in a manner which reflects even the personalities of the artistes themselves.

No other Loud Speaker can approach the Brown for truthful reproduction because none other can utilize its famous tuned reed principles which are protected by patents throughout the world. Just as the famous Brown A-type Headphones are adjudged the standard by which all others are measured, so Brown Loud Speakers are chosen by critics as being the nearest approach to perfection that science and modern engineering practice have yet evolved.

the Concerts broadcast from 2LO.

The headquarters of the well-known Acousticon HEARING AIDS have now been transferred to a splendidly equipped building at 77, Wigmore Street, London, W.1. So continuous has been the increased demand for these wonderful hearing aids, so great the number of callers every day, that new premises were essential.

THE LARGEST BUILDING IN THE WORLD DEVOTED EXCLUSIVELY TO HEARING AIDS.

It contains several splendidly appointed demonstration and waiting rooms. There is even a miniature church, with pulpit and pews erected, where anyone can see the marvels of the Church Acousticon—an instrument that is enabling thousands of deaf worshippers at the largest churches throughout the world to hear the sermons and music perfectly.

THE AID THAT YOU CAN HEAR WITH BUT CANNOT SEE

The Acousticon—with its ingenious NON-HEAD ATTACHMENT—is so small and inconspicuous that it has been christened "The Aid you can hear with but cannot see." And yet it is so powerful that it has brought back hearing to hundreds of thousands of even the severest cases of deafness. To-day it is used in the largest hospitals and the leading ear specialists throughout the country send their patients to be fitted with it.

COME FOR A FREE TEST AND FITTING AT THE LARGEST AND MOST LUXURIOUSLY EQUIPPED BUILDING IN THE WORLD DEVOTED SOLELY TO AIDING THE DEAF. If you cannot call, particulars will be sent by post.

Music for all

THIS has been called a remarkable collection of popular music. Remarkable because it possesses a feature which no other musical work contains—192 PAGES OF BEAUTIFUL PICTURES of twenty-four Musical Plays and Operas, together with selections of the music and the story of all but two of the twenty-four. These include:—

"The Maid of the Mountains,"
 "The Dollar Princess,"
 "The Beggar's Opera,"
 "Cavalleria Rusticana,"
 "Madame Pompadour,"
 "Daly's Theatre Memories,"
 "The Street Singer,"
 "Gaiety Memories,"
 "Brighter London."

"Tannhauser,"
 "Catherine,"
 "Our Nell,"
 "Hassan,"

"Puppets,"
 "Polly,"
 "Toni,"
 "Faust,"

Etc., etc

Amongst the forty-nine famous songs are to be found such popular numbers as "If Winter Comes," "Joggin' Along the Highway," "Star of Eve," etc. Among the Dance Numbers are "Limehouse Blues" (One-step), "When You and I Were Dancing" (Fox-trot), "Dreaming" (Waltz). Piano Solos, of which there are twenty-six, include "Mon Petit Amour," "Three Dances" (Purcell), and the popular "Looking Backward" (Herman Finck).

So, in addition to giving you songs to sing, dance music for happy gatherings, and pianoforte pieces for your quiet moments, this remarkable work contains excerpts from plays and famous operas enough to brighten many an otherwise empty evening.

"MUSIC FOR ALL" is complete in four Volumes handsomely and strongly bound in Royal Blue flexible Super Leather Substitute Covers. The pictures are beautifully reproduced in photogravure and the music clearly printed on fine quality paper. The work can be obtained on the well-known Home Library System of deferred postal payments.

SKILLED SERVICE

The same knowledge and skill as could be given by the Manufacturers themselves is at your disposal at every Exide Service Station.

There is a Station near you, fully equipped and competent to carry out re-charging and repairs, and to advise you on all matters of Battery maintenance. Standard charges obtain throughout.

These Stations exist for your convenience, no matter which make of battery you have at present.

The photographs above show the Exide Service Station of Messrs. Walters & Co., of Parkstone Hall Garage, Parkstone, Dorset, together with a portion of the charging room.

An idea of the extent of this Service Station can be gathered from the fact that they daily collect and deliver 150/200 cells over a radius of 30 miles. A minimum stock of 500 cells of all types is carried.
