Weather News by Wireless.

By Dr. G. C. SIMPSON, C.B.E., F.R.S.

[Dr. Simpson is Director of the Meteorological Office, and he has travelled extensively for the purpose of studying climatic conditions in remote parts of the world. In the following article he describes how radio is used for the purpose of forecasting the weather.]

FEW of those who hear each evening the weather forecasts which precede the General News Bulletin realize the practical use made of them. To the majority, to-morrow's weather means nothing more than whether an umbrella should be taken to office or whether a holiday will be spoilt. To the farmer and sailor, however, a weather forecast may be of prime importance. It is not of so much importance, perhaps, to the ocean-going sailor, for he has to go through all weathers, and, in any case, is provided with powerful radio apparatus and trained operators capable of taking in the special weather information issued for shipping by the Air Ministry high-power wireless station.

It is the sailor in the small craft which voyage round our coasts, often in doubt as to whether to try to ride out the gale or to seek shelter in the nearest port, who is in the greatest need of up-to-date weather information and forecasts. Both farmers and such sailors have receiving sets for listening to the B.B.C. transmissions, and they have expressed a strong desire for further weather information in the morning.

The needs of the farmer and the sailor for a morning weather bulletin were placed before the B.B.C. by the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries and the Board of Trade. Although such a bulletin would involve opening Chelmsford every morning, Sundays and holidays included, the B.B.C. have, with the concurrence of the Postmaster-General, generously agreed to make the issue and from July 1st a weather bulletin specially prepared for farmers and sailors by the Meteorological Office is being broadcast from Chelmsford at 10.30 a.m. As this bulletin is based on observations taken at 8 a.m. all over Europe, from Spitzbergen to Cairo and from the Atlantic to Russia, it is the most up-to-date weather information which has ever reached the public and will be of use to many besides those for whom it is primarily intended.

The new bulletin is divided into three parts:—

(a) The Forecasts for Farmers. These forecasts usually refer only to rainfall, temperature and cloud. There are generally two or three forecasts, each referring to as large an area as possible, so as to keep the number of forecasts small. The areas cannot be fixed permanently, but are chosen each day by the forecaster according to the weather situation. The areas are described in general geographical terms such as "Central England," "Scotland, and

"The Lass of Richmond Hill."

Romance of the Famous Song. By A. B. Cooper.

THERE are few more charming songs than "The Lass of Richmond Hill," and it is no marvel that its authorship has been claimed by those whose claim cannot be allowed, or that the famous Richmond Hill, near London, beloved of poet and painter, famous not only for its lovely view of the Thames Valley, but for its historic associations, has laid claim to the possession of the "lass." In fact, in view of the public house there called "The Lass of Richmond Hill," the undoubted and very real "hill" itself, and the presence on most days of the week of many "lasses" of more than ordinary good looks, one is not surprised to find that many people think the song as much a part of the Surrey Richmond's tradition as its Maid of Honour cakes.

On Richmond Hill there lives a lass,
More bright than May-day morn,
Whose charms all other maids surpass,
A rose without a thorn.

This lass so neat, with smiles so sweet,
Has won my right good will,
I'd crown's resign, to call thee mine,
Sweet Lass of Richmond Hill.

Ye zephyrs gay that fan the air,
And wanton through the grove,
O whisper to my charming fair,
"I die for her I love."
This lass so neat, etc.

So far has this misapprehension gone, that the very name of the "Lass" herself, who undoubtedly lived at Richmond, and is said to have written the song with her own fair hand, and a song, mark you, about herself—the conceited little minx—has been given as Rosa Smith.

There certainly was a girl of this name, who lived at Richmond, Surrey, on its famous hill, and she wrote verses. The chief trouble is that she did not write the famous song, neither is she the "Lass" who inspired it.

A North Country Word.

Besides, the word "lass" does not belong to the south country. It is a native of Lancashire and Yorkshire, just as its diminutive "lassie," is a native of Scotland, and it is the "broad-acred shire" of Yorkshire which lays claim to the "Lass" whose postal address was "Hill House, Richmond, Yorks." Unlike some houses which are called "The Cedars" when there is no cedar for miles, or "Fair Lawn" when the plot of grass is only the size of a pocket-handkerchief, Hill House stood on a real hill—but not the Surrey one.

A good many song stories end unsatisfactorily, but this one does not. The young lady to whom the song was addressed by a young Irish barrister was Miss l'Anson, and the man who wrote it was Leonard Macnally, who was probably brought to Hill House by her brother, who was also a barrister, or, at least, became one later.

Sung at Vauxhall Gardens.

Macnally, or McNally, was born in Dublin in 1752 and died there in 1820. Like a good many other barristers, he found it necessary to supplement his "legal" income with his pen, and he wrote several songs and operettas for Covent Garden and other theatres.

Just exactly when this famous and charming song was written by Macnally is not known, for the pair had been long married when it was first printed and publicly sung. These two events occurred almost simultaneously in 1789, for Incedon, a great favourite at the famous Vauxhall Gardens, situated on the left-hand side of the tram-route from Vauxhall Bridge to the Oval, just under the railway, and at that time the resort of rank and fashion, sang "The Lass of Richmond Hill" to big audiences and great applause, and the Morning Herald printed the verses in its columns.

It is more than possible that the place and circumstances under which it was first brought under public notice, first started the idea that Richmond, Surrey, was where the "Lass, more bright than May-day morn" dwelt.

The tune was written by James Hook, the father of the famous wit, Theodore Hook; but for a long time it was strangely attributed to no less important a person than the Prince of Wales, afterwards the Prince Regent, after whom Regent Street, London, was named, and, later still, the egregious George the Fourth.

SONGS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW.

"I Love Thee" ("Ich Liebe Dich").

THIS is one of the most beautiful love songs ever written. The music, by Grieg, has English words by C. Laubach (after H. C. Andersen). It will be broadcast from Belfast on July 21st. We publish the words by permission of the publishers, Messrs. Edwin Ashdown, Ltd.

My thought of thoughts thou art become for ever.

My heart's first love, my life's sweet melody.

No pow'r on earth my soul from thine may sever.

I love but thee, I love but thee.

I love thee, sweet, to all eternity.

I love thee, sweet, to all eternity.

Of thee alone my heart is always dreaming.

Mine 'tis to toil, rejoice, or weep for thee.

To watch the bliss within thy dear eyes
beaming.

To worship thee, to worship thee.

To worship thee to all eternity!

To worship thee to all eternity!

Whether His Royal Highness himself claimed to have written the music we cannot say, but, seeing that in later life he claimed (like Bill Adams) to have won the Battle of Waterloo, it is by no means improbable. Had he written it, it would have been the one and only thing standing to his credit.

SCHOOL WIRELESS FOR LABRADOR.

THE Moravian Mission boat, the Harmony, which left London Docks recently on her annual visit to Labrador, called at Dartmouth for coal and picked up a four valve wireless set which has been specially made for use in the Mission boarding school for Esquimaux and the children of settlers at Makkovik.

This set was a present from listeners in various parts of the kingdom, who heard Captain Jackson speak about the voyages of the Harmony and the mission work in Labrador from London, on Sunday, June 7th.

Captain Jackson has a small two-valve receiving set on board which he uses mainly for time signals, but he has been able to pick up Chelmsford from the Labrador coast. He hopes that the Makkovik school will not only be able to get American stations like Schenectady regularly, but also that it will be kept in touch with "home" through the news bulletins from Chelmsford.

Weather News By Wireless.

Northern England," etc. Each listener should, therefore, listen until a district is called which includes his locality and then take the forecast which follows.

The forecasts apply only to the twelve hours after they are issued, that is until 10.30 p.m., but the farmer is interested in the probable changes in the weather over a longer period. To meet this need, the forecasts are followed by a "Further Outlook for Farmers," which is a short statement of what weather changes are expected over the country as a whole. It is realized that 10.30 a.m. is not a convenient time for farmers to be listening, but as it has been impossible to arrange an earlier transmission, it is hoped that these forecasts may be of some service, especially on those occasions when the farmer is in doubt and needs some help in forming an opinion as to the weather he has to expect.

(b) The General Inference for Farmers and Shipping. The "forecasts" and "further outlook" give the conclusions reached by the experts in the Meteorological Office, but do not contain the reasons for reaching these conclusions. The reasons are based, as is well known, on the pressure and wind distribution as shown by the charts prepared in the Meteorological Office.

A falling barometer usually indicates approaching bad weather, while a rising barometer generally indicates clearing weather. These relationships are really based on the weather associated with cyclones and anticyclones, and if one knows where the cyclones and anticyclones are situated and where they will move, one can generally interpret the changes in the weather with great confidence. The "general inference" gives this information and every farmer and sailor who has even a smattering of knowledge of modern meteorology will find the "general inference" the most valuable part of the new bulletin.

(c) Forecasts for Shipping. For the purpose of these forecasts, the seas around the British Isles have been divided into three main areas: Western Area, Southern Area and Eastern Area, each one of which has been sub-divided into two or more fixed districts. When possible, a forecast is given for each area as a whole; if this is not possible, forecasts for the separate divisions or groups of divisions are given. The forecasts for shipping deal only with wind and visibility and refer to the next twelve hours after issue. The forecasts are followed by a "Further Outlook for Shipping."

The Meteorological Office prepares a similar set of forecasts for shipping each evening, in continuation of the morning forecasts, which expire at 10.30 p.m. It has been found impossible to broadcast this issue from Chelmsford, but the B.B.C. has arranged to issue the evening forecast for the Western Area with the Local News from the Liverpool Station. Similarly, the evening forecasts for the Eastern and Southern Areas will be issued with the Local News from Newcastle and Bournemouth respectively.

It is hoped that this new weather bulletin will meet the practical needs for which it is issued. The B.B.C. and the Meteorological Office will be grateful to receive suggestions from listeners as to how this weather service can be made more and more useful.

Story of the Drum.

By Francis Gribble.

JUST as the harp is the developed lyre, so the drum is the developed tambourine—the tambourine being merely the borrowed foreign name of that timbrel with which Miriam, the sister of Moses, accompanied her song of triumph: "Sing ye to the Lord, for He hath triumphed gloriously: the horse and his rider hath he thrown into the sea."

The hollow drum, which made a more effective noise, came later; but it was not everyone who liked it. It drowned the soft notes of the viol, and in 1511 a musician indignantly protested that drums "cause much disquiet to pious old people, to the sickly and weakly, the devout in their cloisters and those who have to read, study, and pray." He added: "I verily believe that the Devil must have had the devising and making of them, for there is no pleasure nor anything good about them. If the noise of the drumstick be music, then the coopers who make barrels must be musicians."

"Nakerers" at Court.

By that date, however, the drum had already begun to establish itself; and even the kettle-drum, which was the latest kind of drum to come into use, was known and was becoming popular. A "nakerer," as the kettle-drummer was first called, figures in the list of the musicians attached to the Court of Edward I., and there was a "naker" in the band which played Edward III. into Calais.

Those larger kettledrums, borne on either side of a ridden horse, for cavalry purposes, were introduced into Europe by the Hungarians, who brought them from Scythia. Henry VIII. sent to Vienna for some; and they became the special instruments of the Hussar regiments—a name derived from the Hungarian word for cavalry. James II. made them the recognized appanage of every regiment of horse; and they were bought for the Artillery in 1689, and appeared for the first time in the field during the Irish rebellion of that year.

First Used by Handel

Of the introduction of the kettledrum into our orchestras, various accounts have been given. Lully appears to have been the first musician to use them in France, towards the end of the seventeenth century. In England they were first used by Handel, who frequently borrowed from the Tower a pair of kettledrums which had been captured in battle, at Dettingen, according to some authorities, and at Malplaquet, according to others. Their use at a concert given at Leicester, in 1774, is said to have "not only attracted public attention by their great novelty, but also from the circumstance of their being beaten by the Earl of Sandwich."

A Bold Effect.

The occasion was a performance of Handel's Jephtha for the benefit of the Leicester Infirmary. The audience included the famous Captain Cook, just back from his voyage round the world, who brought the heir apparent to the throne of the Sandwich Islands with him, "to be present at this grand display of musical sounds." As for the interest which Lord Sandwich took in the matter:—

"Lord Sandwich" (writes one who was present at the concert) "had regular oratorios performed at Hinchinbrook, and was so enamoured with the thunder of the drums that he had one side of his music-room strained with parchment which, upon being suddenly struck, so alarmed the company as to throw many into fits, which, his lordship maintained, was a certain proof of the boldness of the effect."

Rossini's Comic Masterpiece.

A Famous Opera Composed in a Fortnight.

AMONG the operas based on Beaumarchais's famous comedies, the Barber of Seville holds a commanding place. It is a comic masterpiece that appeals alike to the musician and the mere playgoer, and, though some of its melodies are a little hackneyed, it is listened to with delight all over the world.

Rossini is said to have composed it in a fortnight. At any rate only a month intervened between his reception of the libretto and the first production. It is certain, too, that for thirteen days both the author of the text and the composer had hardly time to eat, and that they did not stop to sleep till it was impossible for them any longer to keep their eyes open. Rossini did not even shave during the whole of that period—a circumstance which caused a wag to remark that it was strange the "Barber" should make him let his beard grow.

A Chapter of Accidents.

The opera was produced at Rome on February 5th, 1816, and its reception was extraordinary. Many of the audience came expecting, and, indeed, willing to take their part in, a disturbance, because Paisiello, who was still alive, had set the text of the Barber of Seville to music more than half a century earlier, and some of his admirers thought that Rossini ought not to have taken the same subject. But the fiasco which actually took place was more than even the malcontents anticipated.

Everything went wrong. When Almaviva entered to sing his serenade to Rosina, all the strings of his guitar snapped. Shortly afterwards, there was a like mishap with Figaro's instrument. To this quickly succeeded another unrehearsed incident, Basilio, instead of tripping sedately on to the stage, entering hurriedly head foremost. Then came the climax. Just as the concerted piece which closes the first act was begun, a cat came leisurely across the stage. Figaro chased it in one direction, Bartola in another, and Basilio in a third, and finally the animal, in a frantic effort to escape, took refuge in the skirt of Rosina's dress, thus holding up the action and convulsing the audience.

The Composer's Contempt.

So, when the curtain fell, there was a hostile demonstration, which caused Rossini, who was at the piano, to turn towards the auditorium, shrug his shoulders, and clap his hands. This show of contempt intensified the uproar, which continued during the rest of the performance, with the result that not a note of the music was heard.

The composer said that the amount he received for the opera (£60) did not compensate him for the "agony" inflicted on him by this outrage. But, as a fact, he suffered little, if at all. He strolled calmly out of the theatre, and when, an hour later, the singers called at his lodgings to tender him their sympathy, he was fast asleep.

The Lost Overture.

At the second performance, however, the opera "went" well, and very soon Rossini on several evenings in succession had the way to his rooms lighted by a thousand torches in the hands of the very people who had poured contempt on him a short time before.

Yet the reception of the work at Paris in 1821 was very similar to that which had been given it at Rome, and for much the same reason, though here again Rossini triumphed. As some of the critics demanded a revival of Paisiello's opera, it was staged, only to be greeted with derision.

Since its introduction, the Barber of Seville has undergone many modifications. The original overture is said to have been lost, and the present one had done good service before it became associated with the ever-ready Figaro, having been the overture to two of Rossini's earlier operas, Aureliano in Palmyra and Elisabeth, Queen of England. From the former work also came the cavatina, "Lo, smiles the mornin' in the sky," with which Almaviva serenades Rosina.

Still more curious have been the changes in the music-lesson scene in the second act. The air used here for a time was "Di Tanti Palpiti," from Tancredi—a composition known as the "rice aria," because Rossini composed it while cooking his rice. Like several other great musicians, he was proud of his skill in the culinary art, and he frequently declared that he could cook rice and macaroni better than anybody he knew. It was a standing joke of his, too, that he and Meyerbeer could never agree, because that composer liked sauerkraut better than macaroni.

Liberties With the Score.

But ultimately Rossini let his prima donna sing what she wanted to in the lesson, and, as a result, the scene has long been one of the most grotesque absurdities in grand opera. For Rosina, though supposed to be a pupil receiving a lesson, has given selections which only a brilliant and accomplished artist would have the hardihood even to attempt. Sometimes, too, the selections have been modern waltz songs!

Patti, in particular, surpassed herself in the singing-lesson scene. Throughout the opera she took great liberties with the score, which she decked with so many frills that its own composer is said to have professed not to recognize it. In Paris she once sang to him "A little voice I heard just now," incorporating in it all her own embellishments.

"A pretty song," remarked Rossini. "Whose is it?"

Puzzled the Printers.

But, as the learner, the great prima donna was delightfully incongruous. She was fond of giving selections, including the laughing song from Manon Lescaut, and she generally finished up by sitting down to the piano, and singing "Home, Sweet Home."

Not the least remarkable distinction of Rossini's comic masterpiece is that it is the first opera ever played in Italian in America, where it was represented in 1825. Shortly before it was put on the stage its title in the original, Il Barbiere di Siviglia, sorely puzzled the printers, one paper announcing that the opera of "H. Barbiora di Seviglia," by Rosina, is now in rehearsal, and will be given as soon as possible.

"Slander's Whisper" from this opera will be broadcast from Newcastle on July 23rd.

T. W. WILKINSON.

In giving particulars of the revival at Cardiff Station, on July 4th, of David Garrick's Musical Farce, May Day, or The Little Gypsy, it was not mentioned that the libretto had been specially revised for this occasion by Mr. Percival Graves. The music was composed by Dr. Arne, who wrote the tune for "Rule, Britannia."

SIR WILLIAM NOBLE, a Director of the B.B.C., and one of the earliest active friends and promoters of broadcasting in this country, has lost his younger daughter, Mrs. H. P. Gisborne, who died on June 29th. Listeners will, we are sure, associate themselves with the staff of the Company in offering their sympathy to Sir William in his bereavement.

Official News and Views. GOSSIP ABOUT BROADCASTING.

The Opening of Daventry.

ON the occasion of the opening of the new permanent High-Power Station at Daventry a special programme will be given by some of the most popular broadcast artists. The "2LO" Military Band will play, and other items in the programme will be provided by Miss Kate Winter (soprano), Mr. Walter Hyde (tenor), Mr. Norman Allin (bass) and Miss Daisy Kennedy (violinist).

A Wembley Trip.

London, Glasgow and Dundee listeners will enjoy a short visit to Wembley on July 20th. Among other things, they will hear native sounds and music and the Muezzin Call from the Minaret.

"Coffee and Cupid."

Among the new productions of the British National Opera Company in its autumn season is Bach's "Coffee and Cupid," an enlarged version of the "Coffee Cantata" which Dr. Sanford Terry has prepared. Dr. Terry is well known as the leading authority on Bach in Scotland. It is to be broadcast to all stations from Aberdeen on Sunday, July 26th, when the characters will be represented by Miss Dorothy Silk (Lieschen), Mr. Robert Radford (Schlendrian), and Mr. Stuart Wilson (Hans).

Mr. Irvine Cooper's Operatic Choir will sing the choruses, and the whole production will be under the direction of Mr. Paul Kilburn, the Station Musical Director.

Dr. Terry will say a few words by way of prologue.

"Entente Cordiale."

The Weekly Feature in the London programme for July 22nd will be the relaying from the Royal College of Music at 10.30 p.m. of Dame Ethel Smyth's new opera, entitled Entente Cordiale.

This is the first performance of the piece, which is to be given by the students of the College and conducted by the composer.

"London Cries."

On Friday, July 24th, London and Chelmsford will broadcast again Mr. Vincent Thomas's delightful arrangement of "London Cries" which have been collected and edited by Mr. Octavius Pink, who will again speak notes of interest on each "Cry" as it is given. The soloists will be Miss Nancy Royle and Mr. Michael Head, who gave the "Cries" before. The string orchestra accompaniment will be conducted by Mr. Dan Godfrey.

Many listeners may have seen the book of fine colour prints by Francis Wheatley, R.A., to which Mr. Pink contributed the notes and Mr. Thomas the music.

The Old Style and the New.

Some prefer the new and some prefer the old style of music; but many listeners will welcome a programme which contains a varied selection of each. On Thursday, July 23rd, a programme of old and new songs in orchestral numbers has been arranged by the Cardiff Station. Miss Dorothy Bennett and Mr. John Collinson are to be the vocalists, and Mr. Frederick Nicolls, himself a modern composer, will give a short talk during the programme propounding the query, "What do you think of modern music?"

"Nottingham by the Sea."

The Nottingham Station's concert on Friday, July 31st, has the novelty of being relayed from Skegness, the Lincolnshire seaside resort which is often named "Nottingham-by-the-Sea."

From 8 to 10 o'clock the Station will be linked to Arcadia, Skegness, and Nottingham listeners will hear the programme provided there by Mr. Fred Clements's Entertainers, who will be staging a Carnival Night.

Musical Advisory Committee.

An important step has just been taken with a view to associating the work of the B.B.C. still more closely with the musical profession.

A Musical Advisory Committee has been formed consisting of Sir Hugh Allen (Royal College of Music), Mr. J. B. McEwen (Royal Academy of Music), Sir Walford Davies (University of Wales), Sir Landon Ronald (Guildhall School of Music), and Dr. Whittaker (Armstrong College, Newcastle). Colonel Somerville (former Commandant of Kneller Hall) and Professor Tovey, of Edinburgh, have been asked to join the Committee. Colonel Somerville has already accepted. The functions of the Committee are to give their views and advise on the musical policy of the B.B.C., on the systematic development of musical appreciation amongst the great body of listeners and also on the relations of the musical profession with broadcasting. The first meeting of the Committee took place on July 8th.

A Centenary Service at Birmingham.

In connection with the centenary celebration of St. Martin's Church, Birmingham, it has been arranged to broadcast the bells from 7.50 until 8 on Sunday, July 19th, and to relay a special service from 8 to 8.30 p.m. This includes an anthem and hymn by the choir and an address by the Rector of Birmingham, Canon Guy T. Rogers.

This service will take the place of the one from the studio which is usually broadcast.

An Irish Night.

A special Irish programme has been arranged at Manchester for Monday, July 27th. Two Irish artists, Mr. Jerome Murphy and Miss Mollie O'Callaghan, will contribute a miscellany of serious and humorous Irish songs, and a background of typical Irish music will be provided by the "2ZY" Orchestra.

Humour and Shanties.

Mr. Stanley Maher and his "crew" of four achieved a great success in a recital of sea shanties at Manchester recently. Mr. Maher will appear again in a programme of Songs, Humour, and Sea Shanties on Thursday, July 30th.

A Concert by the Sea.

A new experiment is to be made on Bank Holiday, August 3rd, when the B.B.C. outside broadcast department are going to visit a well-known seaside resort and relay items from a concert on the shore for the benefit of London listeners. It will probably be possible to broadcast the sound of the waves as a background. The feature is to be repeated ten days later for the benefit of those listeners who can only receive High Power transmissions.

An Interesting Religious Service.

A religious service will be broadcast from the Edinburgh Station at 8.30 p.m. on Sunday, July 19th, and simultaneously broadcast to Aberdeen and Belfast. It will be conducted by the Rev. James Black, D.D., of St. George's United Free Church, Edinburgh, and successor to Dr. John Kelman. He will be assisted by the choir, under the direction of Dr. Alfred Hollins, F.R.C.O., the well-known organist.

Round the World in a Sailing Ship.

Captain Howard Jackson will give his second talk at Bournemouth Station on July 31st, when his subject will be "A Voyage Round the World in a Sailing Ship in 1890." His narrative will be interspersed with popular sea songs and shanties in which well-known local artists will take part.

"The Waterman."

The chief item in the Leeds programme on Friday, July 31st, will be a presentation of The Waterman, a ballad opera by Charles Dibdin, who wrote "Tom Bowling," and arranged by William Younge and Florian Pascal. This will be given by the "2LS Fireside Players," under the direction of Mr. Clifford Bean.

The Waterman was first performed at the Theatre Royal, Haymarket, on August 8th, 1774. It was revived at the St. James's in 1838, and again at the Haymarket in 1855. The continued popularity of this opera is, no doubt, due to the fact of its being the medium for introducing such famous ballads as "The Jolly Young Waterman," "Then Farewell, My Trim-built Wherry," and "The Bay of Biscay." Although originally set for three scenes, it will be presented over the microphone in one scene. The special feature of the play is the race for the "Doggett Coat and Badge."

A Modern British Composer.

Belfast promises an interesting programme on Wednesday, July 29th, when Mr. Armstrong Gibbs will conduct and play in a programme of his own works.

Mr. Gibbs is one of the most significant of the younger generation of British composers, and will be known to many listeners for his share in the charming opera, Midsummer Madness, which was successfully produced in London last summer. In addition to a programme of instrumental works, listeners will hear a group of his effective settings of poems by Walter de la Mare.

A House Warming.

The Edinburgh Station has now transferred to new and more commodious premises and, to inaugurate the opening of the new studio, a special programme has been arranged for the evening of Friday, July 31st, which will be relayed to the Glasgow and Aberdeen Stations. The programme itself will be divided into two parts, Miss Eileen Bingham, soprano, and Mr. John Petrie Dunn, the Scottish pianist, being the performers in Part I, while in Part II, the well-known London entertainers, Miss Grace Ivell, Miss Vivian Worth, and Mr. Louis Hertel will broadcast. The popular local Dance Orchestra, known as the Euterpe, will also render selections from their repertoire, and Captain P. P. Eckersley, Chief Engineer of the B.B.C., will give a short address.

The Lord Provost of Edinburgh, Sir W. L. Sleight, has expressed regret at being unable to be present during the evening, but has sent his best wishes for the future of the Station in its new surroundings.

Three Adventurers.

Chelmsford listeners will be introduced on Saturday, July 25th, to Desmond, Tim, and Podge, during the course of the Cardiff Station programme, to be simultaneously broadcast from the High-Power Station. This statement will have no particular significance for those listeners who have not heard of the previous exploits of these three adventurers, but the Cardiff audience will remember the hair-raising situation which has been described. On this occasion Desmond, Tim, and Podge will be revealed as warriors of the first order, their adventure being entitled "G.H.Q. at Kwang-Loo."

Scots Music.

In response to numerous listeners' requests, the Glasgow Station has arranged to devote at least an hour in the programmes of each week to characteristic Scots music, and next week the programme for Wednesday evening, July 29th, includes an hour of Scots music, with old familiar songs by Mr. Robert Watson, and Gaelic and other melodies by the Station Orchestra.

PEOPLE YOU WILL HEAR THIS WEEK.

Mr. ROY HENDERSON (Baritone), who will be heard from Belfast on July 22nd.

[Gullensberg.
Miss MIRIAM LICETTE (Soprano) will sing at Chelmsford on July 21st, and Newcastle on July 22nd.

Sir ANTHONY HOPE HAWKINS ("Anthony Hope"), the famous author, will read one of his "Dolly Dialogues" at London on July 20th.

[Foster.
Miss MAY HUXLEY (Soprano) will be heard from London, Chelmsford and other Stations on July 19th.

H.R.H. PRINCESS MARY VISCOUNTESS LASCELLES is to speak at the opening of the Mary Sumner House on July 24th.

Miss ELSIE STELL (Violinist) will broadcast from Birmingham on July 19th.

M. LAFFITTE, who will give a piano recital from London on July 19th (S.B. to other Stations).

Miss DORIS GAMBELL (Soprano) is to sing at Liverpool on July 24th.

Mr. OCTAVIUS PINK, the author, will broadcast descriptive notes to the "Cries of Old London" programme from various Stations on July 24th.

Pieces in the Programmes.

A Weekly Feature Conducted by Percy A. Scholes.

MENDELSSOHN'S OVERTURE TO "A MID-SUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM"

(LONDON, TUESDAY; S.B. TO ALL STATIONS, EXCEPT CHELMSFORD.)

MENDELSSOHN wrote this work when he was only seventeen years old, "in the beautiful summer of 1826, in the open air, in the Mendelssohn's garden." Knowledge of Shakespeare's fairy play is practically all one wants for listening to Mendelssohn's Overture to it, yet the Overture is so well planned and written, and so easy to follow in its general outline, that a short description is well worth while, if only to enable keen listeners to make a little study of orchestration.

The opening, then, consists of high chords in the WIND. The FIRST MAIN TUNE which follows is very rapid, fluttering and ideally fairy-like. Only VIOLINS, and occasionally VIOLAS, play. It lasts for some time and, indeed, dominates the whole Overture.

Presently, the FULL ORCHESTRA bursts forth.

When the climax dies down (about a minute-and-a-half to two minutes from the beginning of the piece), the SECOND MAIN TUNE is heard; it is much more serene and song-like. In the first phrase the melody is given to CLARINETS, then VIOLINS enter.

About a minute later, the fairies begin their noisy dance, and we hear the braying of Bottom with his donkey's head. (This is one of the least ambiguous touches of realism in all music.)

For the rest of the performance listeners may be left to their own understanding.

MOZART'S OBOE QUARTET.

(LONDON, CHELMSFORD AND BOURNEMOUTH, THURSDAY.)

This is a pleasant, graceful little work, which has a special attraction in being written for an unusual and rather piquant combination of instruments. It should be understood that "Oboe Quartet," "Clarinet Quintet," etc., are names given to works for the one wind instrument mentioned and so many string instruments. Thus, Mozart's Oboe Quartet is written for an Oboe, a Violin, a Viola and a Cello.

It is a quite short work; there are only three Movements, and none of them very extended.

I.

Quick. This Movement is constructed on the same general plan as most first movements of works of this type; but it is such a wonderful combination of daintiness with intricacy, and spontaneity with subtlety, that if the most experienced musician without previous knowledge of the work attempted to pick out "Main Tunes" and such-like while listening, he would be bound almost entirely to miss the spirit of the music. One can get the fullest possible enjoyment out of this Movement by listening to the almost continuous interplay of the Oboe with the Strings. Most of the time one speaks and another answers, but sometimes all are talking at once; yet, somehow, so delicately that they seem merely to support one another.

The Oboe has a liberal allowance of notes, but (at all events up to the last Movement) there is no question of mere display.

II.

Slow. This Second Movement is just a short, tranquil, expressive song—or rather, Quartet, for here again the Oboe is little more than the senior member of the party. Without detriment to the full enjoyment of the music, it might be possible in this slow-paced Movement to pay attention to the manner in which Mozart again escapes making the Strings a mere accompaniment to this highly independent instrument.

III.

RONDO. Quick, but not too quick. A Rondo is, roughly speaking, a piece in which the same tune comes round several times. This particular Rondo is about as near an approach as the courtly Mozart ever made to a rustic dance, and the Oboe may be said to hint at its own prototype, the shepherd's reed.

The first sentence of the chief Tune (heard at the very beginning) is played by the Oboe, while Strings do not pretend to do much more than accompany. It is repeated by the Violin; the Oboe comes in with an amendment at the end, which also is confirmed by the Violin.

In the course of the Movement, the Oboe is given a real "run for his money."

SCHUMANN'S "POET'S LOVE."

(LONDON, CHELMSFORD AND BOURNEMOUTH, THURSDAY.)

Schumann was married in the year 1840, and in that year he is said to have written over a hundred songs. Among the best of them is the song-cycle, Poet's Love (in the original German, Dichterliebe), a setting of a poem-cycle of the nineteenth-century poet, Heine.

As regards the general style of these songs—the piano part is far more full and elaborate than the voice part.

It is obvious that concise lyric poems such as these cannot be paraphrased in a few words of prose, but it may, perhaps, be useful to give a short description of the whole cycle.

Nos. 1-5 are short, tender love songs.

No. 6 is very different; it is solemn and severely simple. It tells of the "Image of Our Lady" in Cologne Cathedral, reminding the poet of his own love.

No. 7—I blame thee not, although my heart must break, Love who art lost to me. This may be looked upon as Schumann at his best—powerful and noble.

No. 8 is similar to the first five.

No. 9 sings of wedding festivities—but the second verse suggests tragedy. The piano part here could almost stand as a solo.

No. 10 is wistful.

No. 11 introduces a new mood—gentle irony.

Nos. 12-14 are (speaking very generally) a return to the style of the first ones.

No. 15 is, again, delicate, but very lively.

The fairy tales of childhood

Stretch forth a beckoning hand.

No. 16:—

Old songs of tears and sorrow

Dead dreams of days long past,

'Tis time they now were buried,

Fetch me a coffin vast.

I've buried all my sorrow

And all my love inside.

This last song ends with a long, beautifully suggestive, meditative piano solo.

"RADIO TIMES" READING CASE.

Messrs. George Newnes, Ltd., have prepared a handsome case in red cloth with gilt lettering for "The Radio Times," complete with cord down the back to hold a copy of this publication. A pencil is indispensable to the listener during the course of the programme, and this is included conveniently in a slot at the side. Listeners should order this to-day from any News-agent. It is published at 2s. 6d., or send 4d. extra to cover postage for a case from the Publisher, "The Radio Times," 8-11, Southampton Street, Strand, London, W.C.2.

Listeners' Letters.

(Listeners are reminded that we do not consider anonymous letters for publication. Preference is given to letters which combine interest with brevity. The Editorial address is 8-11, Southampton Street, Strand, London, W.C.2.)

Would You Believe It!

DEAR SIR,—I am interested in broadcasting and think the programmes are excellent. I cannot understand why listeners complain.

I always enjoy Vivian Foster, and I should like to know at which church he preaches.

Yours, etc.,

London, W.

W. W. S. W.

Honesty the Best Policy.

DEAR SIR,—During the past few months the B.B.C. have had several failures with their outside broadcasts. As a result, some people have accused the B.B.C. of lack of enterprise in not substituting "fake" sounds, as listeners "would never know the difference."

Truly, this is a most extraordinary view, and the people who express it must surely have fallen into the common error of looking at only one side of a question, for they do not seem to realize the chaotic aspect which broadcasting would assume if the B.B.C. were to begin a campaign of deception.

Everything which the listener heard would be marred by an element of doubt as to whether it was genuine or not. There is an old saying that "Honesty is the best policy," and it is certainly true in regard to the B.B.C. for the listener is dependent on the good faith of the man at "the other end."

Yours, etc.,

Kendal.

R. PICKLES.

A Question of Spelling.

DEAR SIR,—Having read with interest an article by Sir Richard Terry on sea shanties in The Radio Times, I submit the following to you for the information of your many readers.

Seamen have always pronounced the word as "shanty." In a sea career of more than thirty years, seven of which were served in sailing ships where the shanties were sung, I have never heard the word otherwise pronounced. For verification of my statement I refer those who are interested to the following books: "The Shanty Book," by Sir Richard Terry; "Sea Songs and Shanties," by Captain W. B. Whall; and "A Sailor's Garland," by John Masfield.

The first book is written by one who is acknowledged to be the greatest living authority on sea shanties, the other two are by seamen who have served in sailing ships and should know of what they are writing.

Yours, etc.,

F. G. C. (Commander R.N.R.),

Southampton.

In Praise of Outside Broadcasts.

DEAR SIR,—Having read the letters of your correspondents "Satisfied" and J. D. Millard under the respective headings of "Studio versus Hall" and "Listeners as Eavesdroppers," I feel compelled to protest against their endeavour to discourage the B.B.C. from broadcasting concerts, etc., held in public halls. There are thousands of listeners who delight in hearing the demonstrations of the audiences, whether extravagantly noisy or otherwise. It is a study in psychology.

Dame Clara Butt's recent concert gave enjoyment to my household and the thunderous applause accorded to her and her husband added to our pleasure.

Yours, etc.,

West Hartlepool.

The First Woman Baritone.

DEAR SIR,—About forty years ago there was a Miss Ella Dean on the music-hall stage billed as a "Woman Baritone." She certainly could sing "The Little Hero" and "Pat Malloy."

No doubt, a number of your old readers will recall her. Yours, etc.,
Much Hadham, Herts. W. K. CRONE.

Shall Your M.P. Be Broadcast?

(FROM CAPTAIN IAN FRASER, M.P.)

DEAR SIR,—Lieut.-Commander Kenworthy did the House of Commons an injustice in his article in The Radio Times when he expressed the view that back-benchers would oppose the broadcasting of Parliament unless their speeches were included. I am of opinion that the majority of the House will consent to a start being made by the broadcasting of front benchers' speeches only, when the whole matter is put properly before them. It would be indefensible for a back bencher to stand in the way of listeners hearing selected leading speakers on some universally interesting subject merely because their own speeches were not to be included in the broadcast from the beginning.

But why, it may be asked, should they not be included? Lieut.-Commander Kenworthy himself supplies one of the answers. Because, as he points out, it would not be advisable to attempt to interpose in existing programmes broadcast from existing stations, more than a very small and selected portion of the Debates. He suggests one and a half to two and a quarter hours a week, in periods of three-quarters of an hour. This is wise, for the B.B.C. does not want to give the public who are not all interested, too much of any particular type of material to which to listen.

In my view it also effectively rules out all but leaders of parties and front-rank men, for if the time is to be so limited, then the listener will want the best and the most interesting speakers he can get. Of course, certain back-benchers are amongst the best; but, in general, the leaders of all parties have greater opportunities of delivering important and interesting speeches, and their names are more generally known and their utterances would, therefore, excite more curiosity and be more entertaining and even, sometimes, educative.

It would be wise to start slowly, not to ask the House to give us too much, to submit to microphones being put up in all sorts of places, not, in fact, to disturb its accustomed habits too greatly.

The position is now that the Prime Minister has undertaken, as a result of a question I put to him in March, and of subsequent questions, to refer the whole matter to the Committee which he will have to set up shortly to consider the future organization of broadcasting in this country.

There, for the moment, the matter must rest, though listeners can help by giving publicity to their desire to have some opportunity of hearing the personalities of our political leaders.

Yours, etc.,
London, N.W. IAN FRASER.

Does Radio Help Vegetation?

DEAR SIR,—With reference to a paragraph which appeared in The Radio Times, regarding results obtained by attaching a wireless aerial to a walnut tree, we have had a somewhat similar experience with a bush planted near where the earth wire enters the ground. This bush seems to have made amazing progress since we have been using our set, and surpasses in size and luxuriance any of the other bushes of the same species we have in our garden and which were planted at the same time.

Cappellenbosch, Yours, etc.,
Belgium. JOHN ROMBOOTS.

The Need for a Radio Drama.

Plays That Spell Success. By R. E. Jeffrey.

THE time is long past when the broad-casting of plays could depend for success, to some considerable extent, upon the novelty of the actual idea of transmission by radio; and now that radio has become a permanent and integral part of the everyday lives of millions of people, it is urgent that a new craftsmanship in drama should be created to supply the needs of broadcasting. In other words, there is necessity for a "radio drama."

By this is meant the creation of a play-writing technique which will produce the best possible type of drama for broadcasting purposes, overcoming the many obstacles and, perhaps, turning to advantage the peculiar limitations of the medium.

"Doubting Thomases."

Broadcast drama is in somewhat the same position as was the cinema in its early days. "Doubting Thomases" there were who predicted speedy oblivion for the new craze of cinematography; only the perspicacious individual imagined—or dared to predict—that screen plays would ever have a real place in the entertainment of the masses. The confutation of the critics was protracted, but at long last they were confounded by results.

Radio drama, then, is experiencing an almost analogous phase. Our chief difficulty is a great one. The work of stage authors and producers is inevitably bound up in the knowledge that they can depend upon hearing plus sight for their effect upon the emotions of an audience. These senses, indeed, when both employed, strengthen each other by confirmation. It is generally considered that the radio author and producer can depend upon hearing minus sight, but even that is not granted us.

Imaginary Scenery.

We have to deal with hearing versus sight. Consideration of this important psychological point will show what an excellent reason there is for requesting that lights be turned out while listeners are hearing a play by radio. Listeners must provide—aided by suggestion from the radio producers—their own play scenery from their own imaginations.

How much more prolific is the imagination when its possessor is in darkness—particularly when it is being prompted by virile suggestions from out the ether! One can hardly be expected to imagine, say, a Congo jungle or the interior of a ship at sea while sight is engaged by the china dogs on the mantelpiece, or by the cat washing itself!

Thrills That Tell.

Mental antagonism, unconsciously induced, is difficult to overcome, as one is, in nine cases out of ten, quite unaware of the existence of the antagonism. Our problem, then, is greatly a psychological one. To interest by the spoken word coming from the ether, we have to endeavour to present situations and emotions which will penetrate deeply into the human consciousness.

This is the reason why thrilling melodramatic situations are at present more effective than more subtle ones. We have also to stimulate—we might even say train—the imagination of listeners to a greater degree than is required when the sight is assisting and confirming. And parallel with the radio play must come the development of the power of imagination of the listeners.

We ourselves have made this a greater difficulty than it need have been by taking listeners into our confidence by means of photographs in the Press. Many pictures have been published of radio players in modern dress, sitting with manuscripts in their hands and postured in nonchalant fashion round the microphone; and, to complete the awful unreality of it all, these pictures have included extraordinary objects in the background for producing noises incidental to the play!

If these things are in the mind when listening to a radio play, imagination is balked and the critical faculty is made hypersensitive and alert. This effect is to be deplored, inasmuch as these conditions now obtain but seldom. In the development of this branch of broadcasting many changes have been made. A method has been introduced of projecting on to a screen the lines of the players, just in the same way as the sub-titles of a film are flashed before the gaze of the cinema audience. This enables the players in the studio to "act" with greater freedom, and also ensures that the throat is not constricted, as it often is when one is reading from a book while acting a part.

New Players Wanted.

The noise effects are now usually in another room to avoid distracting the players, this requiring two synchronized microphones. In future, also, there may be an actual stage, and the players may dress their parts—all with the idea of getting the right "atmosphere."

As well as seeking a new technique of drama, we must have, if there is to be success, a new type of player. Actors in the wireless studio must possess richly imaginative minds, and voices of a sufficiently flexible and responsive quality to interpret and project each succeeding thought-transition with clearness and accuracy.

As to the actual nature of the plays, they will not follow the trend of the present stage play, with its predominating sex, or, rather, sexual, interest. They will set a new standard, rather than adopt an existing one. It must be remembered that radio plays are presented at the family fireside. Their ethics must be unquestionable.

As the writing of them becomes more cultivated, their literary quality must be equal to their dramatic strength. Their authors, too, must not be hide-bound by stage requirements; they must free themselves from this restrictive curb and adapt themselves to the changed conditions.

The Financial Aspect.

The financial aspect gives us some concern. We cannot pay a nightly royalty, as can be done when a play is run at a theatre; but we can pay a fair price for the right to broadcast such plays in the British Isles. Several short plays by young authors have been accepted, and from this new school we hope much. One or two well-known authors have also been commissioned to write for broadcast.

Presenting stage plays on the radio is merely a stop-gap. They have been written for visible acting and speaking, and it is accidental if they are suitable for broadcast. Policy must not rely upon fortuitous circumstances. Hence the necessity of insisting upon a new type of play for radio.

Novelties to Come.

The popularity already attained by the light sketch and the one-act play specially written for radio, has justified past work. The plays of Richard Hughes, Reginald Berkeley, Edgar Wallace and others who have written for broadcasting, have amused or thrilled hundreds of thousands of listeners. More plays of these authors will be transmitted, and other names are being added to the list of radio-playwrights, not the least of these being Emile Cammaerts and Captain Frank Shaw.

Next season's programmes will contain many interesting radio plays, and developments by playwrights, producers, and players may be anticipated.

THE CHILDREN'S CORNER.

NEWS FROM THE AUNTS AND UNCLES.

A Fairy League Picnic.

MEMBERS of the Fairy League in Newcastle and the surrounding counties are all excited at the prospect of the picnic which is being organized for August 5th. Uncle Peter has made arrangements to take the children by motor saloon to Cocken Hall, by kind permission of the Earl of Durham. In addition to games and sports and a tea party, it is hoped to have a children's concert in the grounds of Cocken Hall, or inside the house, and to relay this concert to be broadcast from the Newcastle Station, so that those who are not able to go to the picnic, will still have the pleasure of hearing how those who have been able to go are enjoying themselves.

A charge of 1s. 6d. is made for each child, to help to cover expenses, and a charge of 2s. for each grown-up. Applications for tickets should be sent to Uncle Peter at the Newcastle Station by July 25th at latest.

"Tea by Ballot."

Children in Newcastle and district are listening eagerly now to the Children's Corner every day, so that they will not miss hearing the result of the ballots which are drawn once a week, to find out which six children shall be invited to tea at the Studio on Saturday afternoons.

The first of these tea parties took place on Saturday, June 27th, and it was a merry affair. The rest of the children who were listening enjoyed it almost as much as did those at the party.

Cardiff's Mysterious Visitors.

Fifty-two newly-enrolled Radio Sunbeams took advantage of their privilege and spoke to the Kiddiewinks and Sunbeams of the Cardiff area on July 4th. Even the smallest of them showed no signs of stage fright, and they spoke up splendidly.

In spite of the effort of the Aunties, two strange individuals, who called themselves "Spick and Span," forced their way into the Cardiff Station on a recent occasion and insisted on telling the Kiddiewinks about their adventures at the Dog Show. On leaving, they announced their intention of making a further appearance at a later date. We shall see and you will hear.

A Clever Young Violinist.

The Children's Corner seems to attract gifted children in every district and that at Aberdeen is no exception. Many children have broadcast from the Station, songs, duets, choruses, and all kinds of instrumental music. During the week beginning Monday, July 27th, several clever children will broadcast during the Children's Corner and the Aunties and Uncles are anxious for the other children to hear the little violinist who will play on that date. He is only ten and cannot yet manage a full size instrument, but his tone is so fine and full that many a much older player might learn from him.

Writing Plays at Twelve.

Then, many of the Aberdeen children help with the little plays which are given from time to time from the Station. But Aberdeen was first in broadcasting a play which was written for wireless by a boy of twelve and performed without any alteration whatever! The author himself took the part of the hero. It was a very exciting play about Robin Hood with a bold bad Baron, who shut people up in a deep dungeon, and Richard the King who appeared in the nick of time to save his faithful Knight from being hanged.

There was a cook, too, who had a huge iron ladle and a very harsh tongue, but whose heart was quite kind, for she helped the children to escape. We are looking forward to the next play from this young author. He intends to write one about pirates and cannibals!

Uncle Edgar's Challenge.

After many alarms and excursions, excitement and preparation, the war against the Troll and the Underworld has been brought to a successful conclusion, at Birmingham.

Needless to say, the greatest enthusiasm had been aroused when Uncle Edgar challenged the Troll to single combat, and everything might have been lost but for the lucky coming of the Nightmares, headed by the Witch of the World's End.

Unfortunately, the Fairy Godmother was overpowered during the battle, and was found later in a faint. Uncle Edgar is afraid that she is under a spell.

The Sparrow and the Microphone.

When the engineers' test was being made on the day before the opening of Birmingham's Hall of Memory, the microphone was placed on a lawn in front of the Hall. Much to everyone's astonishment, a little sparrow hopped cheekily up to the "mike" until about two feet from it and then, evidently thinking that the nightingale had had too much broadcast publicity, opened his little throat and sent out about half a dozen very healthy "cheeps" which, to those who happened to be listening to the test, sounded extraordinarily like the 6 dot seconds which we are accustomed to hear later in the evenings.

Having thus contributed his part of the test, he hopped gravely away with an expression which said quite plainly, "now the honour of all sparrows has been vindicated."

A Hull Mystery Solved.

The mysterious "dark" blue band, which is making special efforts in the Hull Children's Corner on Saturday afternoons in aid of the fund to provide the Hull Children's Hospital with wireless equipment, have now blossomed forth under the name of "The Savannah Six," and will continue to charm listeners in spite of this name!

"I know I shan't be happy in this noisy, stuffy place," he said to himself, "so I shan't wag my nice bushy tail any more. I'll just keep it still all the time, so there!"

He was in Uncle Ether's back garden, lying

W H E N Old Thunder was brought from the snows of the Swiss mountains to the heat and dust of London, his long bushy tail stopped wagging. He didn't want to live in a big city because his daily task was to search the mountain paths under a tree, and he couldn't see why he had to lead such a lazy life. He wanted to save people from being frozen—and how could they freeze in stuffy London? Neither dog nor man should be lazy, he thought. Besides, there was no snow to play with, nothing to amuse him.

Uncle Ether and Auntie Aerial didn't know why he wouldn't wag his tail, for they were very kind to him.

"Perhaps his tail is tired," said Uncle Ether. "It's a very long one, and if it's wagged, it's more likely to get tired than a short one!"

"Of course," replied Auntie Aerial, "the longer a dog's tail, the heavier it must be!"

"I know what we'll do," said Uncle Ether. "We'll bring him in and put on the loud speaker. He's never heard one before, I know!"

"That's fine!" cried Auntie. "Let's do it now."

So Old Thunder was led into the sitting-room to hear the wireless. At first, he took no notice, but when he saw that neither Uncle Ether nor Auntie Aerial was speaking, although a voice was sounding in the room, he pricked up his ears and listened hard.

"That's funny," he said to himself. "These grown-ups are not saying any words, yet I can hear someone talking!"

Slowly he walked to the table and put his front paws on the edge, lifting himself up. Then he put his head into the loud speaker, trying to see who was talking. How Uncle Ether and Auntie Aerial did laugh!

Any moment they thought his head would become fixed in the horn, so they lifted him away and placed him on the floor again. To their surprise he began to wag his tail, for he thought the loud speaker was a great idea. And when the music came, he grew very excited and wagged his tail faster and faster. Very soon he forgot that London was hot and stuffy.

Some days after that, Old Thunder thought that London might hold a lot of other amusing things. He slipped out of the front door when Uncle Ether and Auntie Aerial were not looking, and away he went.

He could not be found anywhere, and Uncle and Auntie were very sad indeed. One night they thought they would listen to cheer themselves up, and this is what they heard when the news was read out:—

"Brave dog saves little girl. At Balham this morning a little girl, aged five, was saved from death by the courage of a big dog. Seeing the child in front of a moving motor-car, the animal dashed into the road and dragged the girl to safety. She was not hurt. The dog, which was very like those used on the mountains for life saving, placed the girl on the pavement and wagged his tail rapidly. A moment later, he was lost in the crowd."

Auntie Aerial jumped to her feet.

"Why!" she cried, "that must be Old Thunder, the dear thing!"

And it was, for late that night Old Thunder was barking to be let in, and by the look in his eyes anyone could tell that he was the happiest dog in London and that he had done a good deed.

"It was nice to be at work again," he said to himself as he snuggled down in his basket. "I'll have to look for another job to-morrow. London is not so bad, after all!"

Talking Without a Voice.

Wonders of Artificial Speech. By Sir Richard Paget.*

MOST people have done a bit of talking in their time; but not many can remember how they learned to do it, or what kind of experiments they had to make before they hit on the way of producing the various sounds of English speech.

You all know, of course, more or less, what is happening when we talk. Our lungs are blowing air up the windpipe and between the two little lips formed at the top of the windpipe—which are called the vocal cords, and which are enclosed within the little lump in our throats which is called "Adam's apple." If we keep these little lips separated, our mouths produce breathed or whispered sounds.

A Succession of Puffs.

If we keep the vocal cords pressed together, the air makes them chatter, as it forces its way between them. In that case, the air enters our mouths, not as a continuous stream, but as a rapid succession of little puffs, and our mouths then produce what are called voiced sounds.

We hear these puffs as a musical note, and we can vary the rate at which the puffs are produced—and, consequently, the pitch of the musical note which we hear—by tightening or loosening the lips of our vocal cords.

If we make our vocal cords long and loose, we get a very low note; if we make them short and tight, we get a high note.

What our mouth and tongue and lips actually do is to vary the number and the sizes of the cavities which the air-stream or the air-puffs pass; they also vary the size of the opening from one cavity to the next cavity, or to the open air. In this way we can tune the different cavities in our mouth so that they resonate (as it is called) to different notes.

Talking Organ Pipes.

This action can be imitated by models. For example, I have a set of small talking organ pipes. The vocal cords in this case consist of an ordinary organ reed, very much like the reed of a motor-horn or of a mouth-organ.

The artificial mouth consists simply of a short cardboard tube six or seven inches long and about two inches across. Inside this tube is the artificial tongue which consists of a stop—or partial obstruction of the tube—which thus divides the tube into two resonating cavities, separated by a narrow waist. According as the artificial tongue is set forward or backward in the tube, so as to give what we may call a high-waisted or a low-waisted shape to the air space inside the tube, we get different pairs of resonances set up, which our ears hear as different vowel sounds.

High Waist or Low Waist.

I have a model with the waist-line high up—in what women would call Empire style. The short front cavity gives a high-pitched resonance—the long cavity behind the tongue gives a low note, and when I blow the pipe by means of a foot bellows, you hear the result as the vowel sound "i," as in "eat."

I am covering and uncovering the mouth of the pipe by hand, so as to give the vowel sound with a consonant; this makes it easier to recognize.

Here is another pipe with the waist-line a little lower (but still not nearly as low as the present fashions). This gives the vowel sound "e," as in the word "men." "A" is a low-waisted sound—about in the present fashion. "o" is still lower—with the waist-line somewhere round the knee.

In this way, we can reproduce all the various vowel sounds, for they are all due to shaping our mouths so as to produce a pair of cavities, each giving a particular pair of resonances.

Here I have a similar tube, but the tongue, instead of being fixed, is fitted so as to slide easily inside the tube. The tongue has a wire handle which projects beyond the mouth of the tube, so that the tongue can be moved up and down in the tube, like a piston inside its cylinder.

If, while I blow the tube by means of the bellows, I move the tongue from the "i" to "o" positions, we get the familiar call of a well-known domestic animal.

When we come to the consonants, matters are a little more complicated.

Here I have a talking pipe, just like the others, except that it has another shorter length of pipe of the same diameter fixed to it so as to branch off at right angles from the main pipe behind the artificial tongue. If I hold the main pipe horizontally with the branching pipe pointing downwards, the main pipe and its branch look like the capital letter T.

Sir Richard Paget demonstrating the Cheirophone.

The branching pipe acts, you will understand, as a nasal cavity, and it has its outer end closed, except for a small hole or nostril. The resonant pitch of this pipe is about the same as that which I had heard in my own nasal cavity.

Instead of using pipes for our resonators, one can use the human hands by themselves to form a variable resonator.

Here I have the little instrument which I call the Cheirophone. It is a small hollow handle, about the size of a small pear, with an air-tube attached to its thin end. Inside there is an artificial vocal cord made of indiarubber, which vibrates when air is blown past it.

I now hold the handle between the thumb and first finger of my right hand, held palm down. I next close my right hand against my left hand (held palm up) so as to make the biggest cavity I can between the palms and fingers of my two hands. Then I draw back the three outer fingers of my right hand, so that they are within the cavity, and can act as a movable tongue.

Now I can talk with my hands alone, by simply blowing air through the pipes to the artificial vocal cord inside the Cheirophone and moving my fingers so as to give—as nearly as possible—the same resonances and changes of resonance inside my hands as I have heard inside my mouth.

"Radio Radiance."

Mr. Jack Hellier on Wireless Revues.

MR. JACK HELLIER, as a comedian of long experience, writes all his own patter, and has written scores of sketches which have been produced on the stage; but he confessed in a conversation I had with him the other day that in the case of his revue, Radio Radiance, the third and fourth editions of which will be broadcast during the current week, his task was different from any he has ever undertaken before.

Mr. JACK HELLIER.

"In the first place," he said, "the technique is different. A broadcast revue must have continuity; the slightest break in the action is fatal. On the stage a comedian may entertain his audience for several minutes without speaking a word, and the producer also has the advantage of varying matters by spectacular display.

The Chief Thing Needed.

"Those are valuable assets—how valuable, no one realizes until he tries his hand at maintaining the interest of a vast audience which can see nothing, and has an instant remedy at hand if it becomes bored.

"The main essential is to write sketches which will set the imagination to work unconsciously, and to deal with incidents of everyday life that we are all familiar with, and are easy to visualize.

"Another necessity is brevity. No sketch must take longer than three or five minutes to act, because the listener does not want to be bored with long-winded orations and explanations. To work out a plot in that short time is a most difficult art.

Rightly Barred.

The slightest suggestion of vulgarity is barred, as, of course, it should be.

"Well, I hate vulgarity as much as anyone, and, though it requires skill, I have always found it possible to provide humour without giving offence."

Mr. Hellier explained that he finds most of his ideas in 'buses, trains, the street, or anywhere that is the haunt of human beings. "While I was out the other day," he said, "I saw a small boy with a crowd round him because he had got something in his eye. Someone took him to a chemist, who put him right, whereupon, he managed to get a hair in his eye. The humorous possibilities of the situation struck me at once, and I shall probably exploit them in a future broadcasting sketch.

A Human Tragedy.

"I was once in a friend's house when someone broke an ornament. The woman of the house was overcome with emotion. "That was the first bit of our little home," she exclaimed, "and now it is broken." It was a human tragedy in its way. This incident happened twenty years ago, but I suddenly recalled it, and when I introduced it into a sketch, it was tremendously appreciated.

"I have done quite a lot of broadcasting myself. I had with me one day Miss Gladys Ffolliott, the well-known actress, and I suggested that if she remained outside the studio and put headphones on, she would be able to hear me quite well. 'Oh, that won't do,' she said. 'I don't want to hear you; I want to see you.'

"I laughed so much at the idea of seeing me without hearing that it was some moments before I dared to speak into the microphone."

HERBERT S. GREENHALGH.

* In a Talk from London.

Memories of Master Musicians.

By Professor FRANCESCO BERGER, Hon. R.A.M.

[Probably no living man has enjoyed the companionship of great instrumentalists, singers, and composers more than Professor Berger, who has just celebrated his ninety-second birthday. For nearly forty years he has been a well-known figure at the Guildhall School of Music, and in this article he gives readers a glimpse of some of his treasured memories.]

TO sit still, with eyes closed, and to listen to a wireless symphony concert is one of my greatest joys. It recalls friendships with so many famous musical personalities. Before my mind's eye passes a magic panorama of figures, and I live over again the happy hours spent in their company.

Tschaikovsky and Grieg, Clara Schumann, and Saint-Saëns, Moszkowski, Rubinstein, Gounod—all these wonder-men of the past I knew and remember well.

An Eccentric Genius.

Some of my early training I received at Trieste, on the Adriatic, under Luigi Ricci. The floors of his rooms were covered with extracts from his own operas! Later on, I worked in Leipzig for several years under Moscheles and Hauptmann, both personal friends of Mendelssohn; but eventually I came home to London.

I have always lived in a world of music.

One of the most eccentric men I ever met was Hans von Bülow, a German with a most excitable temper. When I was the hon. secretary of the Royal Philharmonic Society, I once invited von Bülow to dine with the directors. He replied: "What have I done that, besides playing at your concert, I should be expected to dine with your directors?"

His opinion of the works of his great countryman, Wagner, was eccentric also, for I remember, on one occasion, when the latter's music was under discussion, the remark was made: "Well, Herr Bülow, you must admit that Wagner had some heavenly moments."

"I don't dispute the heavenly moments," he answered, "but he had some devilish bad half-hours!"

Introduced at the Zoo.

A very old friend was the great virtuoso, Sarasate. He and Otto Goldschmidt, his pianist, were once visitors with me at the London Zoological Gardens. In fact, it was whilst strolling through the "Zoo" one day that I was able to introduce to Sarasate one of my pupils, who became famous in another branch of the arts—the late Miss Marie Corelli.

Miss Sybil Thorndike was also a pupil of mine at the Guildhall School, and I was much impressed by the beauty of her playing on the pianoforte. Had she continued studying, I am confident that this gifted actress would have achieved equal success as a pianiste.

Sims Reeves was another of the Victorian "stars" whom I was proud to count as a friend. His personality was charming, and his rendering of Balfe's lovely "Come Into the Garden, Maud," in which I often accompanied him, was a sheer delight. He had some pronounced mannerisms of his own when on the concert platform, and these, strangely enough, were inherited by his son, Herbert Reeves. I can recall a concert in the Dome at Brighton, when Herbert had to deputize for his father, and some wit wrote this poem to fit the occasion:—

The minstrel's boy to the Dome has gone,
On the platform there you'll find him;
His father's tricks he has put on,
But his voice he's left behind him!

Unequalled for personal charm, Arthur Sullivan stands out in my memory as one of the most captivating personalities I ever knew. He was talented, and yet so modest and so kindly, in spite of being something of a social "lion." Once, when calling upon him, I found his staff preparing to receive the Princess of Wales, now Queen Alexandra, at dinner, which was an honour conferred on no other composer, I believe.

When Ysaye's Hair Caught Fire.

His collaboration with W. S. Gilbert was curious, for the two men were so utterly different in character. Gilbert was, of course, a very brilliant man and a born humorist; but he was highly temperamental, and always inclined to be what the French term difficile.

It was at one of my parties that Sir Joseph Barnby wrote down the melody of the ever-popular song, "Sweet and Low."

At my happy home, too, Ysaye nearly lost his lovely head of jet black hair, of which he was so proud.

Leaning against the mantelsheff, he was smoking his after-dinner cigar when his hair caught fire in a lighted candle. Fortunately, another of my guests rescued him in time, or the famous Ysaye might have been burned to death. As it happened, he was able to fulfil a professional appointment later in the evening.

Those supreme performers on the piano and violin, Paderewski and Kubelik, I have also known intimately; indeed, in his letters to me, the great pianist does me the honour of calling me "My dear colleague." Needless to say, I am extremely proud of the friendship of such great artists.

A Violinist on Skates.

Then there is Rachmaninoff, who dined at my house when he first visited London. I found him a delightful companion, and look upon him as one of the greatest of living composers. Unfortunately, he always says he is never allowed to forget that "youthful indiscretion," as he himself terms it—his famous "Prelude in C Sharp Minor."

Another friend of mine was the world-famous violinist, Joachim. He was fond of telling the story against himself of how he learned the gentle art of skating. Having practised with an instructor, he tried what he could do without any assistance. When he let go of the man's arm, he fell flat on the ice. "You see," said the instructor, "it isn't quite so easy to skate as to play the fiddle!"

Besides these master musicians it has been my happy privilege to number among my friends such distinguished artists as Dvorak, Godowsky, Josef Hofmann, Piatti, Bottesini, Regondi, Arditi, and many others.

The spirit of their work will live for ever in the ether. And radio provides the means for everyone to catch this immortal spirit and make it his own.

RADIO ON LIFEBOATS.

UNDER the Life Saving Appliance Rules of 1924, new Board of Trade Regulations dealing with the equipment of ships' lifeboats have come into force. They contain important rules which make it obligatory upon certain classes of foreign-going ships to carry lifeboat wireless installations, and lay down certain standards to which the apparatus must conform.

The regulations require that a foreign-going ship carrying more than ten lifeboats shall have one equipped for wireless telegraphy. Where there are more than fifteen boats, one of them shall be a motor-boat with a wireless installation, and two such motor-boats, similarly equipped, shall be carried when the number of lifeboats exceeds twenty. These new rules will, no doubt, be the means of saving many valuable lives.

"Stop fooling with that wireless, Henry! This is the fourth time I've had to get up for the National Anthem."

LIGHTNING

THE ONLY REAL AND ABSOLUTE PROTECTION AGAINST LIGHTNING

LIGHTNING is a terrific and ruthless force. You cannot "arrest" it. You cannot tame lightning and make it do "circus tricks" round complicated devices for arresting it or breaking it up—you must give it the straight path to earth. (Any scientist will tell you the reasons why.)

The "ELPHICK" Automatic Lightning Protector gives LIGHTNING a straight path to earth from your aerial, OUTSIDE your house. (Outside is the only safe place.)

Directly you switch your valve off, it automatically gives you this complete protection. When you light up your valve again, you automatically connect your set to the aerial.

When once you fix it, you are SAFE.

Sole Manufacturers and Distributors: L. ORMSBY & CO.

The "ELPHICK" is a covered waterproof and watertight steel box, containing mercury contact, electro-magnet, etc. It needs no attention, whatever once it is installed. It is the only form of positive earth connection, and the only absolute and automatic protection for you.

Price £1. 1. 0. post free, complete and all ready for fixing. (Only applicable to valve sets; not to crystal sets.)

Works: Elstree, Herts. Phone: Elstree 125.
Head Office: 28, Page Street, Westminster, S.W.1.
Phone: Vic. 1987.

Makers of the "Ormsby" 3 & 4-valve Receivers, famous for their clarity and power. Originators of the "Ormsby" Wireless Repair Service.

TRADE ENQUIRIES INVITED.

Progress

A FEW months ago the House of Graham announced that there would be NO REDUCTION IN THE PRICES OF CURRENT AMPLION MODELS DURING 1925.

This intimation was not restrictive as regards improvements or the introduction of new models, and three modified mid-summer types are now being placed upon the market at the same prices.

They are the New Junior-de-Luxe A.R.114, Standard Dragon A.R.19 and Concert Model A.R.23.

A brief survey of the novel and exclusive details of construction will show the following points:

- (a) Larger capacity of sound conduit in the two latter types.
- (b) Increased substance of insulating bushes between ducts and trumpets, improving the non-resonating qualities.
- (c) Greater convenience and stronger assembly by the provision of a threaded metal termination to the Horn, which now screws directly into the rubber bush without other attachments. The Horn itself follows the popular AMPLION design, but the leaves are united by metal ribs of crystalline finish, thereby affording exceptional rigidity and mechanical strength with an enhanced appearance.

Where Expert & Amateur agree

The test reports of experts in the technical journals, and the verbal and epistolary comments of amateurs all over the country, alike testify to the marked superiority of B.T.H. Valves. The three B.T.H. "general purpose" valves give better results in any position in the circuit than many valves designed and recommended for a single function only; while the three "power" valves are unequalled for L.F. amplification.

AT the present time you are, perhaps, contemplating the purchase of a good wireless installation that will give loud speaker reception of broadcast programmes. If you do not want a multi-valve set, and also if you want to be free from wireless technicalities, the Burndept Two-Valve Loud Speaker Installation is bound to suit your requirements.

The complete outfit includes the low-priced Ethophone-Duplex—a two-valve receiver capable of loud speaker reception within 20 to 25 miles of a normal power broadcast station, and within 100 miles of the high-power station; the Burndept Junior Loud Speaker, a 6-volt accumulator, high-tension battery, valves, coils, complete aerial equipment and Marconi Licence. The total cost is only £13 4s. 6d. This guaranteed outfit is undoubtedly one of the finest "value for money" offers yet brought to the public notice. Write for the Burndept £13 4s. 6d. leaflet without delay—it will interest you!

If preferred, the Ethophone-Duplex and Burndept Junior Loud Speaker may be purchased separately.

Illustration shows Lucas RM9 Radio Battery

Their Finish resembles Polished Ebony—

and the consequent handsome appearance of LUCAS RADIO BATTERIES makes them an acquisition to any room where a wireless cabinet is installed.

Lucas Radio Batteries are moulded in one piece, from "MILAM," our new Moulding Material, and each has a deep, well-fitting lid of pleasing design. "Milam" is entirely acid-proof, gives great mechanical strength to the battery, and eliminates the necessity for a separate outside case.

Another special feature is the strong Leather Carrier which facilitates handling—a boon when the battery needs re-charging. Each model has connections for 2, 4, or 6 volts, and prices include Lid and Leather Carrier.

Home Pleasures

WHAT an added pleasure to home life is a really good wireless set that all the family can listen to and enjoy. A set that will give infinite satisfaction to everybody in the family circle can be quite easily made by Dad or one of the boys from descriptions given in that most popular wireless magazine, THE WIRELESS CONSTRUCTOR.

Every month's issue contains several articles describing in detail how to build the latest types of wireless receivers. For example take the splendid August number which is NOW ON SALE. No less than four wireless sets are described therein, each of which fulfils a definite requirement. The construction of each of them is so clearly explained, that the building of a set will be such that it will give the constructor as much pleasure to make it, as it will certainly give the family, when it is completed and working successfully.

WE GIVE BELOW THE CONTENTS OF THE SPLENDID AUGUST NUMBER.

For variety and general interest, it is beyond comparison.

THE wonderful clarity of a Brown Loud Speaker renders it an easy favourite with the children. And its rugged construction will enable it to survive the rough handling which is inevitable with kiddies playing around the room. No matter whether you choose the homely H.2 or the magnificent Type Q you are assured of the same excellent workmanship. While for volume and tone the patented Brown tuned reed system is entirely without equal.

Defy the Demon

THE NEW CLIMAX AERIAL INSULATOR.
(Registered Design No. 708718.) This will stand four times the flash over voltage of the ordinary cheap shell or egg insulator, while it has far less capacity to earth. It is made of the same High-Tension vitreous porcelain as the 100,000-volt insulators on High Power transmission lines. It will stand a direct pull of hundreds of pounds. It is entirely non-hygroscopic. It cannot absorb moisture even if fractured. IT INSULATES PERFECTLY DURING RAINFALL. It is self-cleaning on all surfaces. Price per pair 1/-.
THE CLIMAX RADIO EARTH—the low-loss DIRECT TUBULAR EARTH. Far better than the old-fashioned water-pipe or gas-pipe earth. Ready for use. Easily Fitted. Maximum efficiency. Length approx. 30ins. Price 5/-.
Climax Insulated Low-loss Earth Lead, 20ft., 1/8.
THE CLIMAX INSULATED SHOCK ABSORBER SET. Comprising set of four Climax low-loss aerial insulators and two Climax Aerial shock absorbers, 3/- per box.

THE CLIMAX LIGHTNING ARRESTER.
Made on the multi-gap, quenched spark principle. Provides atmospheric space charges and lightning discharges with a straight path to earth of very low reluctance. Protects the set whether in use or not. NO SWITCHES NECESSARY. The mica insulating discs and series multiple gaps ensure complete absence of arcing effect, leaving your signals at maximum strength. The glass cover protects the gaps from becoming semi-conducting due to dirt, damp or other interference. Equipped with a Climax Lightning Arrester, an aerial is a positive protection against lightning, instead of being a source of danger. Price 7/6 complete, ready to fix.
THE CLIMAX JUNIOR CRYSTAL SET DE LUXE.
A very attractive crystal set in a small, beautifully finished mahogany case, carrying a brilliantly polished panel with silver finished fittings. The detector is the well-known Climax Sure-Set Plug-in Detector, fitted with micrometer adjustment. This detector can be set quickly and easily, and is very stable when set. It has all the advantages of a permanent detector, with the advantage that you can adjust it. The miniature switch enables the wave length to be changed over to Chelmsford without using any loading coils. Tuning is by variometer, and is very sharp and efficient. When not in use, the aerial can be switched direct to earth. Price 21/-.
The highest possible grade of crystal set at the lowest possible price.

Louden Valves

Try the Dull-Emitter

whilst our special offer remains open.

For another seven days the prices of the Loudon Dull-Emitters will still be

8/- & 9/-

This is your opportunity. You can now satisfy yourself as to the undoubted qualities of Dull-Emitters in general and Loudon Dull-Emitters in particular, without incurring any great expense. For another seven days the prices of the Loudon Dull-Emitters will still be 8s. for the 4-Volt and 9s. for the 6-Volt.

Their cost therefore is the same or at most a shilling more than the cost of the average bright-emitter of competitive make.

The Loudon 4-Volt and 6-Volt Dull-Emitters consume only 0.1 amperes in the filament. This is approximately one-seventh of the current consumed by most bright-emitters of other makes.

If, instead of these ordinary bright-emitters you use Loudon Dull-Emitters in your set, your accumulator bills will be reduced to one-seventh. This will effect a considerable saving in a year's broadcasting expenditure, especially if you possess a multi-valve receiver.

An added advantage is that you can substitute Loudon Dull-Emitters for your Bright-Emitters straight away and without having to make any alterations or additions at all to your filament resistances or set. It is also possible to use this valve in conjunction with a bright-emitter; e.g., a bright-emitter in the detector stage and a Dull-Emitter Loudon in the L.F. position, or vice versa.

The 4-Volt Valve normally costs 12s. and the 6-Volt 13s. 6d. For 7 days longer, however, we are making the wonderful offer detailed below, so that every member of the wireless public can have the opportunity of testing this valve for himself at a specially reduced figure.

This Offer Lasts Only 7 Days Longer.

OUR OFFER.

Send direct to us at Park Royal, Willesden, a remittance of 8s. for the 4-Volt or 9s. for the 6-Volt Dull-Emitter, plus 3d. postage for each valve required. We will then forward you in a sealed carton a brand-new dull-emitter bearing the usual guarantee.

NO MORE TENDER, ACHING FEET.

MEDICAL MAN SAYS TRY ONE DIP IN "SALTRATES" WATER FOR QUICK AND LASTING RESULTS WHEN FEET BURN, SMART, SWELL, ITCH, BLISTER AND PER-SPHIRE, GIVES PRESCRIPTION.

The blood circulation in the feet is nearly always defective, due to their great distance from the heart. For this reason the feet are especially susceptible to heat and cold, the skin callouses easily, pores clog, corns form, and various unhealthy conditions develop rapidly. The lack of proper circulation always renders injuries to the feet highly dangerous and liable to infection, tetanus (lock-jaw) being frequent and tissue repair very slow. Such diseases as Dropsy and Gout usually affect the feet first of all. Bearing the whole weight of the body, shoe pressure, on sensitive, irritated nerves and on delicate blood-vessels all tend to make matters worse, for the blood is Nature's own soothing, healing, and curative agent. It will do what no medicine, liniment, or ointment can. When you bruise your flesh, you instinctively rub it to attract the blood and soothe the pain. Stimulate the circulation of the feet by resting them in hot "Saltrates" water, and see how quickly your aches, pains, and other foot troubles disappear. Even rheumatic twinges, stiffness, swellings, and inflammation immediately subside. A half-pound of Reudel Bath Saltrates is all you need. It immediately medicates and adds oxygen to the water, and its cost is extremely slight. All chemists would have the refined compound in stock, and it is very generally prescribed by physicians and chiropodists, since there exists no other means of imparting similar curative qualities to a bath or foot-bath.

PROVIDE YOUR OWN PENSION

£372 a year for Life to start at age 55.

Many a man with a smaller income than yours is making such sure provision for his later years that he will be able to say "good-bye" to business when he is 55. Imagine being able to retire at 55. Old enough to be glad to take things easier: young enough to enjoy your freedom. Worth trying for, isn't it? Just think of it—

- (1) £372 a year for Life—from age 55 or a Cash sum of £4,500.
- (2) Immediate Life Insurance for £3,000.
- (3) £30 a month at once, if, during term of policy, illness or accident prevents you permanently from following any gainful occupation.
- (4) Substantial saving of Income Tax.

Write to the Sun Life of Canada, the great Annuity Company, for full particulars of their Investment-Insurance Plan which can be applied to suit your own individual requirements. If 55 is too soon for you to retire, 60 would mean smaller deposits. If £372 a year involves deposits too large for your present financial capacity, aim for a smaller amount—£250, £200, even £100.

Let the Sun Life of Canada know what you can conveniently deposit each year, and your exact age, and a definite plan will be sent to you for your consideration. No obligation is incurred.

Do Not Forget the Insurance.

The protection for your family starts immediately you make your first deposit, and half of that and of every succeeding deposit will be added to the Insurance value of the policy. What a burden off your mind to know that your family is so well provided for, should anything happen to you.

Do Not Forget the Indemnity.

If during the term of the policy illness or accident prevents you permanently from engaging in any gainful occupation, a generous sum will be sent you each month until the ordinary pension begins (or you receive the Capital Amount), and you will not be called upon to make any further deposits.

Do Not Forget the Income Tax Rebate.

On this plan, the Government allows rebate of Income Tax, and the saving means a substantial addition to the value of the Investment. The Sun Life of Canada has assets of over £56,000,000, under strict Government supervision. You have, therefore, absolute security.

FILL IN & POST THIS FORM TO-DAY.

To J. F. Junkin (Manager), Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, 12, Sun of Canada House, Victoria Embankment, London, W.C.2. (Near Temple Station).

Assuming I can save and deposit £.....per..... please send me, without obligation on my part, full particulars of your investment plan showing:

1. What Income or cash sum shall I receive in..... years (15, 20, 25, 30, as you desire).
2. What sum will be automatically provided for my family in the event of my death.
3. How much Income Tax shall I save each year.
4. In the event of total disability, how much shall I draw monthly.

You can Play the Piano TO-DAY by NAUNTON'S NATIONAL MUSIC SYSTEM.

It makes no difference whether you have had previous lessons or not, whether you are YOUNG OR OLD, we guarantee that you can play the piano to-day by this wonderful and simple system. There are no sharps, flats or theoretical difficulties to worry you, and no tiresome or wearisome exercises or scales to be learnt. You play correctly with both hands at once. No difficulty or drudgery whatever.

FAILURE IMPOSSIBLE

"You cannot fail." All you have to do is to sit down to the piano with our music and play it at once.

Over 50,000 people are playing by it, and are playing perfectly. If they can do it, so can you. No one need ever say again, "I wish I could play"; everyone can do it to-day.

Let us tell you all about this wonderful, simple and rapid system.

Take advantage of the offer we make on the coupon below, and by return of post you will receive eight tunes which we guarantee you can play; thus you can prove for yourself the simplicity of our system and the accuracy of our statements. This small outlay will open up the delights of the vast realm of music to you, and give you many years of purest pleasure.

The Exide Service Station shown above is the Electrical Department of the Garage owned by the Gaol Square Motor Company. Established as a garage in 1901, it is situated almost in the centre of the town of Stafford. The completeness of the battery charging and repair equipment and the efficiency of the staff ensure the best treatment of car and wireless batteries that skill and experience can give.

A Clarion call to all Loud Speaker users

EVER since Broadcasting began, users of Loud Speakers have been confronted with the difficulty of obtaining a reasonably priced Power Valve capable of producing a rich sonorous tone without the aid of an extravagant high-tension voltage. They have yearned for a Power Valve which does not necessitate the rebuilding of the Receiving Set or the purchase of an elaborate or costly Power Transformer to obtain the desired amplification. The solution of these problems is at last to be found in the new Cossor W3 Loud Speaker Valve—a masterpiece of ingenuity and workmanship. Operating at 1.8 volts and consuming only .5 amps., it needs but the moderate plate voltage of 80 to 120 in order to produce a tonal purity and mellowness which has yet to be equalled by any other Valve. We venture to predict that, as its virtues become more widely known, it will be selected by a discriminating wireless public as the standard British Loud Speaker Valve.
