Broadcast the Budget!

By J. M. KEYNES.

[In last week's Radio Times we asked: "Why should not the Budget Speech be broadcast?" In the following article Mr. J. M. Keynes, who is one of the greatest living authorities on economic questions, gives his views on the matter and shows the advantages that would result from the spreading of political information by Radio.]

It is clearly important that broadcasting should not lend itself to propaganda, and, above all, that this great national monopoly should never become a propagandist instrument of the Government of the day.

This fact has been so well appreciated by those responsible, that the evolution of broadcasting in this country has proceeded on ultra-cautious lines wherever any question is concerned which could be regarded as controversial or political.

I grant the wisdom of this. Yet, all the same, if every political matter is to be excluded for ever, we may be losing one of the best opportunities now available of doing something for the political education of the big public.

There was a day when political meetings, even where front-rank statesmen were not performing, excited a degree of interest, which is quite out of fashion now; when political oratory up and down the country, indoors and out of doors, played a predominant part in forming public opinion. Then, with the growth of the Press and the Press telegram, newspaper reports of proceedings in Parliament and of political meetings elsewhere were remarkably full—quite different from the snippets which are all anyone gets now. The leading statesmen of the day could reckon on full reports of their big speeches in the leading organs of the Press.

Now, for reasons that it is not quite easy to analyse, this state of affairs has passed away. Political speeches are no longer good copy. Even ex-Prime Ministers find that their biggest platform appearances may receive but scanty notice, even in The Times. A sensational statement or rash words will be extracted from their context. But no statesman to-day, except, perhaps, the Prime Minister of the hour, is in a position to expound his ideas before the big public in coherent or continuous argument.

It may be that the interest of the general public in practical politics is so far dead that broadcast speeches will make unpopular programmes, just as reported speeches are supposed to make bad journalistic copy. If, after experience, this proves to be so, that may be a valid reason why the British Broadcasting Company may have to put political orators on short rations.

But this would be quite a different, and, perhaps, a more solid, reason for keeping politics out of broadcasting from that which is the ground of the existing policy, namely,

Radio in the "Wild West."

By Percy A. Scholes.

PRETTY nearly anyone in the United States can get a licence to run a broadcasting station. Thus, when I was in Chicago, looking through the list of broadcasting events, I found, to my surprise, that there was actually a station in the hotel in which I was staying.

So, of course, I asked to see it, and when it was shown to me, I felt convinced that this much at least could be said for it—it is the most beautifully situated broadcasting station in the world.

It is all of glass and on one side looks into the beautiful ballroom, and on the other Lake Michigan, whose waves (quite big ones they were that evening, by the way) lap the shore within four or five yards of the microphone.

The Gentle Art of Publicity.

But why, you ask, should an hotel have a broadcasting station?

Well, if I tell you the formula with which the announcer introduced each item in the programme you will understand. This is what he said:—

"Station X.Y.Z. calling. This is the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago, where everybody's happy. You are now about to hear the Hotel Orchestra play the fox-trot 'Giggling Girls.'"

Or else:—

"This is the Edgewater Beach Hotel, Chicago, where everybody's happy. We are now going to ask Mr. Theophilus J. Brown, tenor, to sing to you 'The Moonshine of Love.'"

Thus does radio become the faithful minister of the great American god, Publicity; and a very effective minister, too, considering that on the wall of that hotel station was hanging a statement to the effect: "This Station has in fifteen days received 170,699 pieces of mail from its listeners."

I have no doubt that this hotel station does a good deal for the entertainment of the radio public, but I should not say that it has done a great deal to spread the love of real music.

The broadcasting station in America that has most interested me is the Rocky Mountains Station near Denver, Colorado. My juvenile reading had caused me to picture Denver as—well, you know how we used to have Denver pictured to us, especially those of us who read penny books about the Wild West, with highly coloured and very exciting picture-covers, or those of us who, in our youth, visited Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show when it came to our town.

To some extent Denver, even now, lives up to its "Wild West" reputation. There is a tendency on the part of its male citizens to wear cowboy hats, baggy trousers with belts, and shirts with no collars. There are even to-day gold miners strolling through the streets, and you can see from their swagger, to say nothing of their accuracy of aim in long-shot expectation, that they are expert poker players.

A City in the Mountains.

But though Denver has happily not cast off all the trappings of romance, it now prides itself on having reached a high pitch of civilization. It was the second city in the United States to adopt electric street cars, and it owns twenty-two telephones for every 100 of its population. It has beautiful churches, and the largest and best-equipped school buildings I have ever seen. It has a municipal auditorium that seats 12,000 (more than our London Albert Hall), with an organ in it that cost £16,000. It has miles of the loveliest parks, and as a background to all is the snow-capped range of the Rockies.

And in the radio station—"K.O.A." Denver has something of which it is (properly) very proud indeed.

If the Chicago station I mentioned is one of the most beautifully situated in the world, the Denver station is, perhaps, the highest situated, for the whole city lies a mile above sea level.

They were particularly kind to me at this station, showing me all their marvellously complete equipment, and inviting me to give a broadcast talk, which I very gladly did.

At this station, unlike many American stations, they plan and print their programmes in advance, instead of merely engaging the artists, and then, when they appear, asking them what they are going to sing and play.

The lecture system at the Denver station is very well organized, and they are now carrying out a course in Spanish, based upon a text-book which they supply to their listeners.

A Tribute to the British System.

But, with all due respect, their musical notions are still, according to British notions, rather elementary. Like other American stations, they do not pay their performers, but expect them to perform for nothing, for the sake of the advertisement.

And when they spoke of their Station Orchestra, I asked to see it, and found it consisted of one pianist, one violinist, and one clarinettist!

I am convinced that until American broadcasting is made financially sound, by the payment by listeners of some sort of a fee which would enable the broadcasting companies, in their turn, to pay fees to their artists, better things will remain impossible.

Whenever I entered a broadcasting station in the United States, they at once began to question me about our British system, and invariably they expressed the hope that some day they would be able to introduce something like it.

SONGS WORTH KNOWING.

"To Music."

THESE words, translated from the German of Schober by Paul England, have been set to music by Schubert. We publish the words by permission of Messrs. Boosey & Co.

Thou holy art how oft in hours of sadness
When life's wild tumult surged around my way,
Thy gentle power, hath waked my heart to gladness
And shown the dawning of a fairer day.

Full oft a strain from thy serene dominions
Some tender chord of harmony divine
Hath borne my soul aloft on heavenward pinions,
My grateful praise be always thine!

their thoughts or to marshal their arguments. But I am sure that everyone would feel that due impartiality had been observed if, for example, one or two ex-Chancellors of the Exchequer from the Opposition Parties were to be offered the opportunity to broadcast their criticisms and comments.

It has long been the custom to allow public buildings to be used for political meetings, subject to strict impartiality of treatment. This is a precedent on a small scale for the far more important problem of Politics and Broadcasting.

[Next week, we shall publish an important article on this subject by the Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, M.P., ex-Chancellor of the Exchequer.]

Broadcast the Budget!

the desire to avoid controversial matter. I suggest, therefore, that it will be an immense loss to the cause of political education in this country if, in these days of declining public interest in political meetings, and of declining publicity for reports of political speeches, broadcasting is to take no part whatever in spreading political information and political argument.

I think that what is wanted is gradually to evolve some system fair to all parties, by which broadcasting can become the organ of all of them, and not merely of the Government of the day. But if such a system is to be evolved we must not be too afraid. We must be ready to make experiments—whilst not less ready, at the same time, to meet criticism of these experiments on the ground of alleged unfairness to any particular class of opinion.

* * * * *

There will be an opportunity in a few weeks time to make a very interesting experiment on these lines. I hear that there is an idea on foot to broadcast the Chancellor of the Exchequer's Budget Speech in the House of Commons.

I cannot imagine a better occasion on which to inaugurate a broader policy than has been permitted hitherto. The Budget Speech is largely informative, and only secondarily controversial. It is a statement to the public as a whole of how the National finances stand. There is no other political event in the year which offers so large a proportion of pure political information, which everyone, of whatever party, is equally glad to have.

But there is another advantage. The Budget Speech is exciting, because it may contain surprises which will have been kept secret up to the last moment. The public will be willing to listen to a good deal of matter, which it is good for them to hear, but which, in other circumstances, they would find dull, because their interest is maintained by expectation and curiosity about what is to come. Mr. Churchill, for sure, can be relied on not to miss the dramatic opportunities which every Budget Speech presents.

Personally, I did not like Mr. Churchill's last Budget, and it is more than likely that I shall not like this one. But I do not feel that the Government will be laying itself open to any charge of unfair discrimination on a matter of political controversy if they allow this experiment to be made.

* * * * *

Only two safeguards seem to me to be necessary. The consent of the two other party leaders in the House of Commons ought first to be obtained; and one or two competent critics of the Government policy should be allowed to have their say at an early succeeding date.

To broadcast the comments which the Opposition spokesman may make immediately after the conclusion of the Budget Speech would not be enough. The public would be bored by that time, and the Opposition would not have had time to collect Official News and Radio Gossip.

An Operatic Event.

OUR arrangements are now complete for the first performance in Great Britain of Rimsky Korsakov's great opera, The Sacred City of Kitesh, the Russian prototype of Parsifal, under the conductorship of Mr. Albert Coates. The performance will be relayed from Covent Garden and simultaneously broadcast to all stations on March 30th, from 8.0 to 10.0 p.m.

A cast of Russian artists has been engaged, in addition to the full symphony orchestra and chorus.

We shall publish fuller details of the story and settings at a later date.

An Afternoon Dance.

Between 5.0 and 7.0 p.m. on April 3rd, London Station will broadcast dance music. This should prove very popular with those who can arrange a thé dansant party for the occasion.

Broadcasting Mr. De la Mare's Poems.

Perhaps no living British author has written so charmingly for children as the poet, Walter De la Mare, and few poets have written so much that lends itself so well to musical setting. On Wednesday, March 31st, London Station, it is hoped, will broadcast a De la Mare Feature which is being arranged in collaboration with the author, and will include some of his children's poems set charmingly to music and a brief recital of his verse.

Two Sports Talks from London.

Mr. C. A. Kershaw, the well-known International Rugby footballer, will give a talk from London on the England v. Scotland match on March 18th, and, representing another field of athletics, Mr. H. M. Abrahams, the sprinter of Olympic Games fame, will broadcast a talk on the 'Varsity Sports, which are to be held the following day.

Stanford's Birthday.

March 29th was the birthday of the late Sir Charles Stanford, one of the great song writers of modern times; and to commemorate this occasion London Station has arranged a special recital of Stanford's songs to be given by Mr. Plunket Greene, a great artist and a friend of the composer.

The St. Patrick's Day Dinner.

On St. Patrick's Day, March 17th, Daventry Station will relay some of the speeches from the London St. Patrick's Day Dinner, which is to be held in the Hotel Cecil.

Another York Minster Transmission.

Part of Bach's "Passion According to St. Matthew" will be relayed for Daventry listeners from York Minster on Sunday, March 28th. Listeners who appreciated the last transmission from this famous northern cathedral will look forward to hearing the performance, which will be under the direction of Dr. Bairstow.

Two Oxford Broadcasts.

Listeners will have an opportunity of hearing the famous choir of Magdalen College, Oxford, under the direction of Dr. Stewart, on the evening of March 28th. This is the choir which sings on Magdalen Tower on May Morning every year. In the afternoon of the same day it is hoped that it will be possible to relay an organ recital by Dr. H. G. Ley from the Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford.

Children's Birthday Greetings.

After March 1st, birthday greetings from London and Daventry stations will be limited to 100 per day. Preference will be given to members of the Radio Circle, and other names will be included as far as the 100 limit permits. These will be entered on the lists in the order in which notification reaches us.

"The Dream of Gerontius."

Wolverhampton will provide another Outside Broadcast of outstanding importance from the Birmingham Station on Thursday, March 18th, when, at 8 p.m., "The Dream of Gerontius," by Sir Edward Elgar, will be relayed from the Drill Hall, Wolverhampton, and will be S.B. to other stations. The Chorus of the Wolverhampton Musical Society, the Station Repertory Choir, together with the Station Symphony Orchestra, led by Mr. Frank Cantell, will be conducted on this, as on other occasions, by Mr. Joseph Lewis. A distinguished cast of soloists has been engaged, including Mr. Frank Mullings, the great operatic tenor, Miss Mary Foster, who made such a success of this work at the recent Three Choirs Festival, and Mr. Joseph Farrington, the well-known baritone.

LONDON RADIO DANCE BAND.

This excellent band, conducted by Mr. Sidney Firman, has been recently engaged to broadcast dance music for listeners. Mr. Firman is seen on the right of the picture.

A Triple Bill.

A triple bill fills the Birmingham programme at 8 p.m. on March 19th, the first quarter of an hour being devoted to Radio Fantasy No. 13, entitled Mozart. This "mind" picture is the first of a "Great Musician" series by Ida M. Downing, and listeners are asked to take an imaginative glimpse into the childhood of this great composer, and visualize the inspiration of the child in the moonlight by the "Spirit of Music." The music of this production has been arranged by Mr. Joseph Lewis. The next "mind" picture has its scene laid in a Chelsea studio. This is a comedy sketch by John Overton, entitled Morning Spirits. At 8.40 p.m., the same author will produce a farcical sketch called The Maypole Mystery, the scene being laid in the Manor of Little Wimpole, where a strange murder is enacted, for the solution of which no prize is offered.

An All-Brows Concert.

On Thursday, March 11th, the Newcastle Station will broadcast a special programme, which will be relayed to Daventry. It will include Act III. of Lohengrin, by Wagner, and the "Misereere" Scene from Il Trovatore by Verdi. The Wonder Dream, a Radio Revuette, will also be included in this programme. This will be presented by the "The Novos" Concert Party. The music of the Wonder Dream is entirely original and of a light and airy character. Listeners may expect many surprises in this half hour of novel entertainment.

The Bells of Lydd.

The bells of Lydd Parish Church, near Hythe, will be broadcast during the Children's Hour, on Saturday, March 6th, from 4.30-4.45 p.m. On this occasion the bells will be re-dedicated by the Mayor of Lydd.

An Elizabethan Pageant.

The next of the successful pageants which have been a feature in the Cardiff programmes, will be a Pageant of Elizabethan Days, to be given from Cardiff on Wednesday, March 24th. With a background of some of the charming music of the period, listeners will be taken back to the days of the great Elizabethans and will hear some of the great figures, such as Drake and Shakespeare, at the Court of Elizabeth, and some of the adventurous sailors in the "Olde Mermaid Tavern" joining in the "sweete musicke" of the viols and other old-time string instruments.

Music of Childhood.

A programme which will take listeners back to childhood's days will be given from Cardiff on Thursday, March 25th, and will include Mr. Lionel Peddieson and Miss Winifred Fisher. Although the programme is devoted to children's items, it is not necessarily for children alone.

A Good Friday Concert.

The co-operation of the Cardiff Station with the Cardiff Musical Society has been eminently successful and praise is due in no small measure to the enthusiasm of the Society's Choir. Good Friday, April 2nd, is the date of the next combined concert to be given in the Park Hall, Cardiff, and a specially interesting type of programme has been selected. This will consist entirely of Brahms' works, and the three choral works will include the "Alto Rhapsody," "The Song of Fate," and the wonderful Requiem. Mr. Herbert Heyner (baritone) will be included amongst the artists for this performance.

Modern Music at Glasgow.

Mr. Herbert Heyner pays a return visit to Glasgow on Sunday afternoon, and on this occasion he is to sing the Dichterliebe ("Poets Love") of Schumann. The Station Orchestra that afternoon will provide modern music, which will include examples of the work of Ireland, Elgar and Beethoven.

In Aid of Swansea Hospital.

The Management of the Grand Theatre, Swansea, and the Staff of "5SX" are co-operating in an effort to raise funds for the Swansea Hospital. This will take the form of a concert at the Grand Theatre, Swansea, on Sunday, March 21st, at 8.0 p.m. The programme will be contributed to by Miss Dorothy Bennett (soprano), Mr. John Collinson (tenor), Mr. Maurice Cole (solo pianoforte), and the Swansea Symphony Orchestra, under the baton of Mr. J. W. Barlow.

The Call of the West.

"The Call of the West" is the title of the local programme to be broadcast from the Plymouth Station on Wednesday, March 10th. The well-known London entertainers, Messrs. Ackermann and Wynne, are coming to the West for the occasion, and included among the other artists will be Mr. Orlando Jolliffe (tenor).

Are You a Phrase-Monger?

By Professor E. Weekley.*

FEW of us pass a day without repeating, consciously or unconsciously, the words of some great writer or of some unknown phrase-maker of the past. I am not thinking of actual quotations, of lines taken in their entirety from Shakespeare or other poets, or of the wise reflections of dead-and-gone philosophers, or of the catchwords, often silly and futile, that disfigure our language for a season and then die unlamented. I am thinking of those expressive phrases which have become part of the very fabric and texture of our English speech, and which slip off our tongue often without our realizing that we are using other people's words.

"The Well of English."

When we say of an over-exhilarated citizen that he has dined "not wisely, but too well," we give a comic twist to what Othello said tragically of his love for Desdemona. If we prophesy the result of a trial or of a football match as a "fore-gone conclusion," we pervert the sense of words which, in Othello, refer to an already accomplished fact.

When we quote deliberately, we usually misquote; in fact, it seems to be a kind of psychological law that only in this way can a line of verse become current English.

Most of us say "A young man married is a young man marred," or "screw your courage to the sticking point," with the conviction that we are using Shakespeare's words, which we are not.

The great sources of those phrases which have become part of our everyday speech are the Bible and Shakespeare. Next comes Milton, and perhaps after him Scott.

Our Debt to Job.

It is a symptom of our contemporary neglect of Bible-reading that we find a gentleman of inquiring mind writing to a popular periodical to ask where the expression "the old Adam" originated. In a few more generations English people may be equally vague as to the allusive use of the "olive branch," "Egyptian darkness," "the eleventh hour," or "pearls before swine."

We often refer to the patience of Job, and apply the term "Job's comforter" to that objectionable person whom Canning, in a famous line, described as "the candid friend," but not all of us realize how many beautiful and picturesque phrases in common use are taken from the story of Job. Here are a few: "There the wicked cease from troubling and there the weary be at rest"; "clearer than the noon-day"; "the king of terrors"; "to escape with the skin of one's teeth"; "the land of the living"; "to darken counsel"; "hitherto shalt thou come, but no further"; "hard as a piece of the nether millstone." Many more might be mentioned. You will have noticed that we habitually misquote some of them.

Some Sources of Book Titles.

Many of the effective phrases of the authorized version were adopted by its compilers from the earlier Bible translations. "Filthy lucre" is due to Tyndale; "the avenger of blood" to Coverdale.

Many of us would, I think, if suddenly questioned, assign a Scriptural origin to the title of Samuel Butler's novel, "The Way of All Flesh," but the nearest approach to it is in Joshua's farewell speech: "I am going the way of all the earth." The original of "the way of all flesh" is, I believe, unknown.

The use of pregnant literary phrases as book titles is a common device. Thackeray was well inspired when he borrowed "Vanity Fair" from the "Pilgrim's Progress." Besant's once popular "All Sorts and Conditions of Men" is from the Book of Common Prayer, and Mr. Hardy's "Far From the Madding Crowd" from Gray's Elegy.

There is a story of a millionaire who, beginning

* In a Talk from Nottingham.

the study of Shakespeare late in life, expressed much disappointment with Hamlet. Far from being original, the play seemed to him a mere string of popular sayings. Except for a slight confusion of cause and effect, he was right. From Hamlet come "stale, flat and unprofitable"; "take him for all in all"; "more in sorrow than in anger"; "the primrose path"; "more honoured in the breach than in the observance"; "my prophetic soul"; "what a falling-off was there"; "to harp on"; "a taste of one's quality"; "the observed of all observers"; "to suit the action to the word"; "to hold the mirror up to nature."

Shakespeare, Scott and Milton.

All of these, dozens more from the same play, and hundreds from the other works of Shakespeare, have become what we call "household words," and the phrase "household words" itself is also Shakespearean, occurring in Henry V.'s great speech before the battle of Agincourt. Probably no writer of any nation has ever had, from the point of view of his native language, one-tenth of the influence exercised on the English language by Shakespeare.

Nor should we forget the Shakespearean debt we owe to Scott. Shakespeare was rather out of fashion in the eighteenth century. It was Scott who, by reviving many of Shakespeare's most telling phrases, such as "coign of vantage," "towering passion," "ministering angel," restored them to currency.

Shakespeare's contribution to English phraseology is, as I have already indicated, much greater than that of all other writers together, but Milton's is not inconsiderable. To Milton we owe "darkness visible"; "tears, such as angels weep"; "confusion worse confounded"; "the human face divine"; "to hide one's diminished head"; "the cricket on the hearth"; "a dim religious light"; and, by way of contrast, "the light fantastic toe."

The Nineteenth Century Poets.

The great poets of the nineteenth century were not great phrase-makers. They had not Shakespeare's opportunity of experimenting on a practically new instrument. But their contribution, if small in amount, is often of very subtle, though simple, beauty. I will mention only Wordsworth's "light that never was, on sea or land"; Coleridge's "leafy month of June"; Moore's "last rose of summer"; Keats' "magic casements" and "fairly lands forlorn"; Tennyson's "rift within the lute" and "touch of a vanished hand."

Scott, whom it is the practice and the error of the present generation to underestimate, was a consummate master of manly and picturesque phraseology. To him we owe "foemen worthy of one's steel"; "free lance"; "to nail the colours to the mast"; "unwept, unhonoured and unsung"; "Caledonia stern and wild"; "a sea of upturned faces"; "to beard the lion in his den"; and "Come one! come all!"

Where Mrs. Grundy Comes From.

Most of the phrases I have mentioned are associated with very great men. But a few deservedly forgotten writers have attained a kind of anonymous immortality. In 1709, John Dennis invented a new kind of stage thunder for a play of his own. The play was a failure, but the management continued Dennis's invention and were accused by him of "stealing his thunder." A few years later Colly Cibber had the impudence to adapt Shakespeare's Richard III. From Cibber, not from Shakespeare, come "perish that thought" and "Richard's himself again."

Probably many people have seen or read Maddison Morton's famous farce Box and Cox, but I doubt whether many are familiar with Speed the Plough, produced in 1798 by Tom Morton (his father). Yet in this forgotten play occurs the immortal phrase "What will Mrs. Grundy say?"

"This England."

By Sir William Beach Thomas.

THE first broadcast lessons ever committed to the ether," as Mr. Stobart in his preface calls these little essays, delighted many who heard them by reason of a buoyant vitality in the manner of speech. Now that they have been written down by Miss Patricia Johnson and published in book form under the title of "Our England" (Methuen, 2s.), we see that broadcasting is influencing style and language, permanently and for its good, by a second yoking of the spoken and written word. The children of the marriage are stout, simple, and forcible and unaffected beings, possessed of rare energy and gusto. Here is none of what Huxley called your "sensual caterwaulings."

The B.B.C. is a pioneer in more ways than one of the new "Jerusalem in England's green and pleasant land."

A Zestful Teacher.

It is tempting to review these twelve apostles of the new speech merely in respect of their qualities as rhetoric. Their cardinal value is the zest they inspire, and this issues at least as much from the manner as the matter. What is of importance in the person who is being educated is wanting to know; and the child wants to know if the teacher wants to know.

Patricia Johnson's secret is that she gives the impression that she, too, is on the scent, in front of her pack, it is true, but still pursuing. The teacher she most nearly resembles in some respects is that Oxford genius, Mr. Camborn, who by like methods can persuade rustic children of eleven years to write pleasing verse.

And education should begin at home, in England, with English animals, stones, weather, history, crops, and the rest. Knowledge grows best with its roots in familiar soil.

It is a nice question whether it is praise or blame to indicate certain deficiencies in the knowledge imparted in these essays. They "half reveal and half conceal"—as Tennyson says of language in general—by deliberate intention; but sometimes one wonders why from the many bits of odd information, more obvious bits are excluded. It is well not to exaggerate, but under-statement can be overdone.

In a very lively chapter called "A Few Puzzlers," compact of promptings to proper curiosity, she asks how much milk do cows give? and answers: "They have often been known to give 850 gallons." A whole herd has given an average of 1,000 gallons; and a good many 2,000 gallon cows are in the records.

The Spirit of Inquiry.

It is wrong to say that the roller is used only to break up the soil. Its use in early summer is to bring the moisture to the surface by consolidating the soil. It is very rare in the south of England for the stoat to turn piebald at all; and though he can "hunt stealthily," he sometimes hunts by parading himself and stirring curiosity. Badgers are not at all rare; and both badgers and hedgehogs are vegetarian, as well as carnivorous. It is a pity to omit the squirrel from the list of our wild mammals.

But these are small details; and after all "art is the art of omission" in essentials. The book is a model of the right educational manner and point of view. A great deal of the information is curious, and almost every sentence is calculated to stir the right inquisitive spirit. It is not too much to say that the twelve chapters—which are simply, but attractively, illustrated—are calculated to create a permanent delight in observation and in country life. And this is the prime need of our generation.

PEOPLE YOU WILL HEAR THIS WEEK.

Miss MURIEL WARNE, who will play in duets for two pianos with Miss Dorothy Folkard at London Station on Tuesday, March 2nd.

Miss NETTA WESTCOTT will broadcast in a Maeterlinck play from Belfast on Thursday, March 4th.

Miss DOROTHY FOLKARD will be heard by London listeners on Tuesday, March 2nd, in pianoforte duets.

Dr. ADRIAN C. BOULT, the noted British conductor, will take part in the Birmingham programme on Tuesday, March 2nd.

Mrs. PATRICK CAMPBELL, the famous actress, whose broadcast from London will be S.B. to other Stations on Sunday, February 28th.

"POY" (Mr. P. FEARON), the popular cartoonist, is to broadcast a drawing lesson for London and other listeners on Friday, March 5th.

Mr. CLAUD BIGGS (Pianist), will play throughout the week in the 7.25 p.m. classical feature at London Station.

Mr. DAFYDD ELLIS (Tenor) will broadcast to London and other listeners on Monday, March 1st (St. David's Day).

Miss MARY CRAUFORD (Soprano), who will sing at London Station on Tuesday, March 2nd.

Listeners We All Know.

The Super-Critic. By F. Morton Howard.

LOFTILY, distantly, in the manner of one fully conscious of his own immense mental superiority over his fellows, he picks up the paper and scans the radio programme for the day.

His eyebrows lift with cold disapproval as his gaze flits from item to item. He tilts his chin more and more disdainfully at the fare offered.

Manifestly, he does not approve of the programme. And there is something so portentous, so authoritative about his whole demeanour that almost one can imagine the whole directorate of the British Broadcasting Company shifting uneasily in their seats at view of his inimical expression.

He puts down the paper. He looks about him. He clears his throat with a resounding, importance-laden cough.

"How much longer, I wonder," observes this super-critic, "will the public submit to such a jumble of odds and ends and second-rate nonsense in lieu of a proper programme?"

"Oh, I don't know," you urge, rather uncomfortably, for you find his gaze resting on you and its severity somehow makes you feel quite guilty. "It—it isn't so bad. Plenty for everybody, anyway."

"Everybody?" he echoes, with vast scorn. "Don't you realize that, in drawing up a programme, it should never be designed to appeal to everybody?"

"Oh, well," you contend, mildly, "everybody listens, don't they? Everybody pays for a licence. Everybody—"

He raises a large flat palm to check you. For a few moments he stares at you in silence. His stare and his silence tell you that he always thought you were a crass fool, but that he never imagined you would be such an audacious fool as to attempt to argue with him.

"Catering for everybody means that it is impossible to maintain one fixed standard," he states dogmatically. "Each item in a programme must be consistent with every other one."

"But there are high-brows and low-brows—" you venture, timidly.

"High-brows! Low-brows!" he barks. "Why should they be studied? Why should a high-brow's finical, exaggerated views be foisted on the world in general? Why should a low-brow's banal, primitive taste in music be encouraged?"

"Ah, then you would study the—may I call him—the middle-brow?"

"The man who has only half-way views is never worth studying!" declares the super-critic.

"Well, then," you persist, timidly, "if you're not going to take into account the high-brow or the low-brow or the—the middle-brow, whose taste are you going to consider in drawing up a wireless programme?"

"I should suit my own taste," he states. "Then I should know that I had a programme that could not be improved on."

"And your own taste is—?" you prompt, feeling rather like an interviewer.

"I am not averse from Chopin, Bach, Debussy or Schumann," he announces, pontifically.

One feels that he is really being very kind to Chopin, Bach, Debussy and Schumann.

"I don't object to modern music," he continues. "Excerpts from musical comedies, band music, that sort of thing."

You feel that there is a future for modern music, after all.

"I will admit that syncopated music, too, has its attractions for me," he goes on.

His tone is one of such august patronage that you cannot help imagining every jazz-band in the world rising to bow gratefully to him.

"A little of everything," he says. "That is my idea of an evening's programme."

"But just now you said—" you try to remind him. Again his uplifted palm represses you.

"I object to the wireless talks," he states.

"All of them?"

"Sometimes I am interested," he concedes, a little unwillingly. "Sometimes, however, there are subjects broadcast that do not interest me."

"They interest other people," you put forward.

"I am not other people," he observes.

You have to admit the truth of that, so you merely gaze somewhat helplessly at him.

"Then, again," he remarks, "there is the news service."

"Surely you appreciate that?"

"I do not appreciate it," he returns in an how-dare-you? tone. "I can read the news in my evening paper, can't I?"

"But how about the people who live right out in the country?" you ask. "They can't get evening papers."

"They should have thought of that before they decided to live in the country," he maintains.

"Well, at any rate," you urge, "let's agree that some wonderful people have been heard on the wireless. Paderewski, Chaliapine, Harry Lauder—" you begin to catalogue.

"That's just where the present policy of broadcasting is most erroneous!" he avers. "Who wants to hear all those big people?"

"Oh, but—" you begin to protest.

"No, it is the man as yet undiscovered by the public who should solely be encouraged to broadcast. The modest, unknown man who has studied interesting matters is the man who ought positively to be invited by the B.B.C. to address its subscribers. But do the B.B.C. trouble about him? No!" he declares, indignantly. "They don't want to foster talent—genius! Take my own case! On three separate occasions I wrote to them offering to broadcast an address—an address on a subject that should be of interest to everybody. Everybody! And even if everybody wasn't interested, that's no reason why those who would have appreciated such an address should be overlooked and neglected, is it? 'A Reasoned Analysis of "Casabianca," with Some Comments and Criticisms'—that was the title of the address I offered the B.B.C. three separate times. And each time they refused it!" he goes on with increasing rancour.

"Politely, but absolutely refused it! However, they needn't think I'll offer it again! I decline to make another move to assist the B.B.C.! I consider that the programmes they offer are deplorable! They have no enterprise," he affirms, hotly, "no imagination, no intelligence, no sense of proportion, no taste, no—"

But here, lest you should be unable to restrain any longer a sapient, comprehending little chuckle, you wander slowly away.

"The man who has only half-way views is never worth studying."

Points From Talks.

The First Newspaper.

GENERALLY speaking, the printed sheets of information we know as newspapers came in with the Stuarts, and began in what would now be considered an unpromising way by being devoted to sermons and King's speeches, without any attempt at news. The first such attempt was made when James I. had been on the throne sixteen years, and then only in the form of giving "News Out of Holland."—Sir Alfred Robbins.

A Grim Test.

IN some part of the East Indies a native accused of murder was made to place his arm in a vessel of molten lead. If he was not burnt, he would receive no injury. If he was burnt, it would prove his guilt. All the officers of an English man-o'-war in the harbour were present, and the gentleman who gave the anecdote to Dr. Johnson was the purser. He said he saw the man dip his arm in and spill some of the lead out of his naked palm, without taking any injury. One of the officers then put in his stick, and the end of it was charred.—R. A. J. Walling.

An African Way With Mothers-in-Law.

By immemorial custom, in some parts of Africa, no mother-in-law may look straight into the face of her son-in-law. Sometimes I have seen one of my black porters leave the ranks and stoop down in the bush as he recognized his mother-in-law coming along the road. As they pass, each with face averted, there has been an almost inaudible greeting. Wireless communication would solve awkward little problems of this sort.—William J. W. Roome, F.R.G.S.

A Story of Michael Angelo.

Now at this time there was a great architect called Bramante in Rome, and a wonderful painter named Raphael. Despite their own marvellous genius, they recognized in Michael Angelo a greater than themselves, and their jealousy was such that they persecuted him almost all his life. Knowing that he did not understand the technique of casting in bronze, his enemies persuaded the Pope to give him work of this character to do, hoping to make him ridiculous.

He nearly broke down in health, but he surpassed himself and succeeded in outwitting his enemies.—Amelia De'ries.

The Use of Death-Rate Statistics.

A DEATH rate is a scientific measurement of life. It is used every day in one form or another. It is taken as a common test of the progress of society. It is the basis of all insurance systems. It is a factor in the determining of superannuation allowances. It is a test of comparative well-being for every unit community in the world. It is a factor in innumerable statistical volumes. It is an occasion of innumerable satisfactions and dissatisfactions.—Sir W. Leslie Mackenzie.

Feminine Influence in France.

THE biography of Catherine de Medici, or that of her kinswoman, Marie de Medici, or that of so many other French political adventuresses, proves that the French Salic Law depriving women of the right of succession almost invariably defeated its own purpose. In a country like France where woman is often more intelligent and certainly more influential than mere man, in a country where it is the woman and not the man who rules in the home, it has again and again been demonstrated to be impossible to eliminate feminine influence from the realm of high politics.

If women could not assert themselves by legitimate means, they asserted themselves almost invariably by illegitimate means.—Prof. Charles Sarolea.

Programme Pieces.

A Weekly Feature Conducted by Percy A. Scholes.

DEBUSSY'S "ROUNDELAYS OF SPRING."
(MANCHESTER, DAVENTRY AND OTHER STATIONS, THURSDAY.)

AT the head of this orchestral piece Debussy gives the lines:—

Vive le Mai, bienvenu soit le Mai,
Avec son gonfalon sauvage.
(La Maggiolata.)

Which we may freely translate:—

Long live May, welcome to May,
Flaunting her wild streamers.
(Spring Song.)

So much for the spirit of these Roundelays (or, to give them their original French title, Rondes de Printemps). As for the music itself, it is typical of Debussy—vague and reserved, but rich with delicately-woven, subtly-shaded strands. It reveals life in a different manner from its revelation in the more definite and clear-cut music of the great German classical and romantic schools. Debussy's manner of communication here, as elsewhere, is more suggestive than outspoken.

Most of the piece is made out of many little wisps of tune constantly heard against an ever-changing background, all delicately played by Woodwind, Strings and Harps. Big climaxes, with long tunes loudly declaimed, would be quite "out of the picture," so that even at the most strenuous moments, the louder Brass is absent and Percussion is restrained.

(N.B.—Debussy's Roundelays of Spring, or Rondes de Printemps, is not to be confused with his early Symphonic Suite, Printemps. The piece to be played this evening did not appear until 1909, and is one of three Images for Orchestra, which, again, are not to be confused with the two sets of Images for Piano; these titles almost seem to have been designed to create perplexity.)

STRAVINSKY'S "FIREWORKS."

(MANCHESTER, DAVENTRY, AND OTHER STATIONS, THURSDAY.)

"Fireworks" does not represent the latest Stravinsky—nor even the later. It was written eighteen years ago and hence lies well within the field of possible enjoyment of many to whom The Rite of Spring ("Le Sacre du Printemps") and its successors are (as yet, or for ever?) mere aural puzzles and distresses.

At the time Stravinsky wrote the piece, he was a pupil of Rimsky-Korsakof. Rimsky-Korsakof had a daughter, Sonia, and Sonia was engaged to be married to another of her father's pupils, Steinberg. As a contribution to the wedding festivities, Stravinsky provided fireworks—these which we are about to hear.

"Fireworks" is a Tone-Picture. You hear harp glissandos and see rockets. Splutter, crackle and sparkle run through the work—except, perhaps, in the middle section, which is rather quieter.

There is only one real "tune" in the piece—that when the conductor, with the shining tip of his baton, sets the brass department alight.

MOZART'S FOURTH VIOLIN CONCERTO.

(ABERDEEN, SUNDAY; BOURNEMOUTH, FRIDAY.)

Mozart was himself a child fiddler—as well as a child harpsichordist, organist and composer. He learnt all there was in those days to know about fiddle playing and fiddle composing from his father, who was one of the greatest fiddle teachers of his time and wrote a great book on fiddle technique that long remained a standard work on its subject.

And so, being a fiddler, the young Mozart wrote much fiddle music, some of it, including this Concerto, for his own performance. He was only nineteen when he wrote this Concerto, but it was his fourth. (Its identification number in the list of his works is "K. 218." It is in the key of D.)

Our Point of View.

Where Talks Are Popular.

"TWENTY-FIVE per cent. of our programme time is given to lectures and talks," declared Mr. Nils Holmberg, the programme director of the Swedish Broadcasting Company, in a recent interview; and in response to a general demand from listeners, "this branch of our activities," said Mr. Holmberg, "is now to be extended." This keenness for educational transmissions is not without its significance for us in Britain, and calls for something more than passing consideration. The time allotted by the Swedish Broadcasting Company to definitely educational transmissions is considerably in excess of the time given to lectures and talks in British programmes, which amounts to only one-sixth of the whole. Yet nobody, not even the "tired business man," if that sensitive and highly-strung modern product exists in Sweden, has raised his voice in protest. On the contrary, Swedish listeners seem to be asking for more of such talks, and the number of broadcast licences applied for in Sweden has increased nearly four times during the year.

* * * * *

What is the explanation of this popular enthusiasm for education in Sweden? Is it possible that there is no great newspaper in that country to tell the Swedish Broadcasting Company exactly what the public wants? Can no patriotic Swedish editor be found to conduct a great campaign against these educational transmissions? Must Swedish listeners be given what most of them seem to enjoy very much, but which some of our British editors, estimating the intelligence of the public by the popularity of their own journals, would consider hopelessly unsuitable and "high-brow"?

But Mr. Nils Holmberg seems to have a high opinion of the intelligence of his public, and doubtless he is right. Perhaps the same view might be held about British listeners, in which case, our journalist critics would be all wrong—which hardly seems possible.

BROADCASTING THE BUDGET.

ON another page in this week's issue of The Radio Times will be found a striking article by Mr. J. M. Keynes, the famous Cambridge economist, on the subject of broadcasting Mr. Winston Churchill's forthcoming Budget Speech. Mr. Keynes is heartily in favour of the idea, but emphasizes the desirability of counter-balancing the Chancellor's statement with adequate criticism from the Opposition side of the House. This is, of course, a very sound suggestion which we feel sure will commend itself to all our readers. The whole question, as we have already pointed out, is open for discussion. We shall cordially welcome an expression of opinion from listeners everywhere.

A New Radio Drama Competition.

WHAT WILL HAPPEN IN THE THIRD ACT?

£110 IN PRIZES.

WE have arranged to broadcast another serial drama, and to offer a number of prizes for the most accurate forecast of what happens in the last act. This new play, by Captain Frank H. Shaw, bears the enigmatic title, Which? and it will be simultaneously broadcast to all stations in the evening programmes on March 1st, 3rd and 6th.

The story concerns three men and a girl who are shipwrecked on a desert island. Each of the men falls in love with the lady. The problem which listeners will be asked to solve, when they have heard the first two acts on March 1st and 3rd, is which, if any, of her suitors will the lady choose in the last act; what will be the reasons for her choice, and how the situation between them will conclude.

The third act of the play will be kept under seal in the office of The Radio Times until mid-day on Saturday, March 6th, when it will be opened for rehearsal by the company of players who will present it in the evening. A summary of this act, written by the Author in not more than 150 words, will also be kept in a sealed envelope in our office and will be opened in the Studio and broadcast at the end of the play. Competitors must write their solution in not more than 150 words, and that one which most nearly corresponds with the Author's summary will be awarded the prize.

The prizes will be as follows:—

1st..... £50.
2nd..... £20.
6 prizes of £5 each.
10 prizes of £1 each.

The following rules and regulations will govern this competition and all who enter should note them carefully:

- (1) Every solution must have attached to it a coupon taken from The Radio Times.
- (2) Envelopes containing solutions must be marked in the left-hand corner with the word "Which?"
- (3) The Editor of The Radio Times, the Author of the play, and the Dramatic Producer of the B.B.C. will act as a committee of judges, and their decision will be final. Competitors enter on this distinct understanding.
- (4) No member of the staff of the B.B.C. is eligible to enter.
- (5) Solutions must reach the office of The Radio Times, 2 Savoy Hill, London, W.C.2, not later than second post of the morning of Saturday, March 6th. Any solutions received after the second postal delivery that morning cannot be considered.

COUPON.

"WHAT WILL HAPPEN IN THE THIRD ACT?"

To the Editor, The Radio Times,
2, Savoy Hill, London, W.C.2.

I attach herewith my solution of the problem set forth in the first two acts of "Which?" broadcast on March 1st and 3rd. The name of the successful suitor is

The Children's Corner.

A Garden In a Studio.

THE Glasgow Studio is looking very much like Fairyland these days. You see, the little brown bulbs—which the Radio Circle Children planted months ago, for the sick children in hospitals—have now shot up into strong plants with big blue, pink, lilac, cream, and white blossoms, which are filling the air with their fragrance.

The Bulb-growing Competition has been a delightful one for Auntie and the Uncles to judge, and at the same time many of the Glasgow hospitals are going to be brightened considerably when consignments of those fairy-like blooms take their places in the children's wards.

Wanted: Cigarette-Cards.

For some time past, the Manchester Uncles and Aunties have been receiving parcels of cigarette-cards from children, and it has been found that these are so appreciated in the children's hospitals that any more contributions will be welcomed, as it will mean that still more sick children can be made happy.

Bournemouth's Fairy League.

It is very gratifying to note the flourishing condition of the "6BM" Fairy League and the Cot Fund. A successful concert has just been held at Southbourne in aid of the "6BM" Cot in the West Hants and Victoria Hospital, the proceeds of which amounted to over £17. New members are fast enrolling in the Fairy League, more than sixty having joined since the beginning of January.

Unexpected Places.

Children's birthdays do not seem quite so numerous at Birmingham lately, but in one or two cases presents have been found in unexpected places. It is now the fashion to find one's present at the end of a string. Sometimes, we understand, this leads to mother's Russian boots, and sometimes, by way of contrast, to the coal-cellar. A unique situation for a present was disclosed the other day, when Uncle Edgar was requested to say the present "will be found on the parrot's ring."

Talking about parrots, reminds one of pets, and how they should be treated, and those children who have dogs, cats, rabbits, squirrels, not to mention parrots, should be sure to look out for the talks which begin on March 1st, and will be given by Captain Harold Hillier, on "Pets and How to Treat Them."

Worn Out.

The Nottingham Jazz Band is getting worn out and new instruments are being sought to replace those which have suffered at our hands so long.

Our membership continues to grow at a most gratifying rate. New Members from Derbyshire have been much in evidence lately. Our average has been about sixty a week of late.

A New Competition.

West Country radio members are looking out for particulars of the great new competition organized by the Aunts and Uncles of the Plymouth Studio. Well, here they are: In the Children's Corner, during the first week in March, various songs and melodies will be rendered, which, interpreted in prose, will represent a very interesting story. The musical items will be intercepted with words, so that young listeners may the more easily understand the theme of the story, and the listener who guesses every title correctly will be awarded a prize of five shillings.

Further details of the competition will be announced later over the microphone in the Children's Corner.

Scouts' Corner at Leeds-Bradford.

The popularity of the Scouts' Corner, which was introduced to Leeds-Bradford about a year ago, continues to increase. During the past year, the Corner has been occupied by a great variety of people. Mr. W. R. Grist has contributed several very interesting talks on birds. His great ability as an imitator has made the talks all the more valuable. Many evenings have already been arranged, and given, by different troops. One evening we even had the bagpipes with us, whilst several times the roof of the Studio has nearly been blown off with the wild blood-curdling yells of different troops.

We have also had talks on experiences of various scouts in different parts of the world, including Canada, Switzerland, and Belgium. Further attractive features are being arranged.

Good Luck, Auntie Jean!

"Very soon I shall be leaving this wonderful Children's Corner at Dundee, and oh! how I shall miss all the good fun and the many friends I have made. It will be hard to part with all you dear wee folks, but, let me whisper, I'll try to fly back occasionally to speak to you, and I'll be sure to bring a wonderful story with me."

So said Auntie Jean to the Kiddies the other day, when breaking the news of her departure to the London Station. She will be very badly missed by the Radio Circle, and especially by her Verse-Speaking Choir, which has already made a name for itself under her kind and capable direction. The charming little Plays which Auntie Jean wrote and produced from time to time, will leave a very pleasant memory, and perhaps she may write another, while in London, specially for the Dundee Radio Circle. At all events, she carries with her the sincerest of good wishes from all the Radio Members (not forgetting the Grannies). Good luck, Auntie Jean!

On the evening of Wednesday, March 10th, Miss Constance Jenkins will broadcast, from Edinburgh, a short recital on the pianoforte of Old French music, including works by such composers as Lully, Couperin and Rameau, originally written for the harpsichord.

B.B.C. SCHOOL PRIZE-GIVING CEREMONY.

Mrs. J. C. Stobart, wife of the Director of Education of the B.B.C., presenting prizes at London Station to school children from all over England. The prizes were competed for in the wireless examination held last term at the end of the daily School Transmissions.

Programme Pieces.

The Concerto is lightly scored for 2 Oboes, 2 Horns and Strings (no Trumpets and no Drums). It is in the usual three Movements.

I.

Quick. As usual with Concertos of the Haydn-Mozart period, the First Movement opens with a Tutti (i.e., a passage for the whole Orchestra), in which the two Main Tunes are given out—the First with its opening fanfare, the Second with its gentle glide and sudden pull-up.

Next, the Soloist repeats most of what has by now been stated, but always touching it up, polishing it to greater brilliance and finish, and sometimes omitting, sometimes adding something.

So the music proceeds, very delightfully, but without anything very momentous happening.

Towards the end, the Soloist is allowed the opportunity of a Cadenza or free display.

II.

Moving steadily, song-like. This is practically one continuous song for the Solo Violinist. Notice the colour of the opening (typical of Mozart) where the melody begins in the lower tones of the Violins, mostly Firsts and Seconds playing three notes apart and with Oboes an octave above:

III.

The Finale is called a "RONDEAU" (or Rondo)—the form originally of a lively dance in which one tune comes round time after time.

This is a very gay little piece, which gains extra interest from the circumstance (not very common in music of this type and period) that all the chief tunes are in different rhythms from one another.

One tune is specially striking. It is played by the Soloist, while at the same time he sustains a drone on his lowest string, bagpipe fashion. The Oboe adds to the bagpipe suggestion by playing the drone note an octave higher, and the First Violins play the melody mostly six notes below. (Oboe and First Violins both fit in between the Soloist's melody and his low drone.)

GLUCK'S "ORPHEUS AND EURYDICE."

(ABERDEEN, SATURDAY.)

Gluck's Orpheus is probably the earliest written opera that still keeps the stage—the ordinary, more or less commercial stage, that is, for there is an earlier work (and a British one) that is still frequently heard in private and semi-public performances—Purcell's Dido and Aeneas. We in this country do not often hear the Gluck masterpiece (though there have been some very notable performances of it within recent times), but it is in the regular repertory of the chief Opera Houses of Europe, as well it may be, for it is full of lovely tunes. (The Lament of Orpheus, Che farò? "What shall I do?" is, in itself, a melodic treasure) and has some very moving dramatic moments.

The plot of the Opera is based on one of the legends of the old Greek world. Gluck follows the legend in its usual form, but, by a happy twist, gives it a happy ending.

At the opening of the Opera, Orpheus and his friends are lamenting at the tomb of his bride, Eurydice, who has died from a serpent's sting. Amor, the god of Love, brings word to Orpheus that he may descend to the underworld, and, by his wonderful singing and harping, win her back to earth—if only he can refrain from looking on her until the return has been accomplished.

Orpheus descends, after fierce trial, prevails against the powers that reign below, and succeeds in winning the beloved matron once again. In their long journey back to earth he is over-tempted and cannot resist looking upon her, and loses her, but she is finally restored to him as a reward for his suffering.

[N.B.—Mozart's Serenade (Bournemouth, Tuesday) was described in the issue of The Radio Times dated January 8th. An article on Schubert (Birmingham, Sunday) was given in these columns on January 29th.]

The Broadcast Pulpit.

Moral and Spiritual Progress.

ONE of our Glasgow people who was in Canada two summers ago came across, on a Church notice-board, the following words: "It is a poor compliment to our fathers to camp where they fell." Life is a march, we have not yet reached the end, and it is a false tribute to the achievements of our fathers if we make their limit ours also. Is it the best compliment that we can pay to the scientific workers who have made broadcasting brilliantly possible to say: "We are completely satisfied, we desire nothing further"? When television is becoming a possibility, would such a decision be a wise one? It is no duty to our fathers to stop new scientific discovery and invention; it is our duty to receive thankfully every discovery which promises to advance our knowledge of God's wonderful universe and His evident purpose for the days in which we are called to live.—The Rev. J. McNeil Fraser, Glasgow.

The Two Things Needful.

IF you are ever to find the reality of religion, two things must happen. You must honestly from your heart try to imitate Christ, to be like Him in simplicity, kindness, courtesy, humility, and selflessness. Here is the other thing; you must never think you have explored the depths of Christianity till you have found Him as your God. Do not be satisfied with any pale shadow, any sugary sentimentalizing, any philosophical explaining away, any watered down substitute for the comradeship of Christ. If you will do these two things, imitate Him as best you can and keep seeking in the hope that you may find Him, you will find Him. You may begin with following a good man; you will end with the first disciples in trusting your life to Him as God.—The Rev. Eric Southam, London.

It's a great business, this of the Christian life. It's an affair not of words, but of deeds. It's a man-size job. Talkers must look elsewhere.—The Rev. D. M. Joss, Belfast.

The Quiet Heart.

THE quiet heart makes life different; it prolongs our days and heals our diseases. The German poet long ago suggested that Joy and Temperance and Repose will keep the physician outside the door. That same quiet heart enables you to pursue your journey of life with greater enjoyment. The disturbed conscience, the careful mind, the distracted heart will not let the eye see the beauties of the way, or the ear enjoy the music of the road; they prevent us from finding the gladness of the friend on the roadway of life, or the help of the home companionship.

Again, the quiet heart enables us to do things and face things. The centre of the cyclone is the place of quiet at the centre of a great whirling activity; they that sit at the centre of things can best guide the activities of life. God's rest in our hearts will enable us to face more wisely and steadily the opportunities of life, so that we can make the utmost of our days and years.—The Rev. G. Higgs, Dundee.

The Message of Religion.

A MAN cannot be reasonable without being religious; religion in all its essentials, is plain, simple and reasonable. In so far as we rightly interpret the mind of God, we find that He always appeals to our reason and intelligence, in such a way as the most ignorant can understand. To be irreligious is to be unreasonable. It is to turn a deaf ear to our higher instincts, to arrest our upward development and to cut ourselves adrift from the great enrichments of life. Religion supplies something that everyone needs, and supplies it in a way that is most helpful to each individual. It has a wonderful universality and a wonderful adaptability. It is one of the great things of God, and it cannot be monopolized by any one church or creed or doctrine.—The Rev. John Lewis, D.D., Cardiff.

Radio by Doctor's Orders.

[Listeners are reminded that we do not consider anonymous letters for publication. Preference is given to letters which combine interest with brevity. The Editorial address is 2, Savoy Hill, Strand, London, W.C.2.]

I AM a woman, by no means young, living alone in the country. Lately, I have been suffering from "nerves." To counteract this, my doctor ordered me a wireless set, and also saw that I got it. Now he says I shall not require his professional services again!

Hitherto, almost the only entertainment we have had during the winter evenings has been a game of cards or the evening paper. With the advent of wireless, we can choose almost any amusement we like from the excellent programmes provided. And the Sunday evening services are simply a boon to us who, in the winter, cannot tramp a mile or two in the dark to a place of worship.—E. P. FENNEMORE, Stroud, Glos.

A Hint for Singers.

THE time has arrived when singers should cultivate with more care and attention the art of elocution. With the exception of the singers of humorous songs, the words of most of the singers who broadcast are unintelligible. When one has a view of the artist on the concert platform, things are a little better for the audience, but not much. Some may say that the words of an ordinary drawing-room song are not worth listening to. If so, why not abolish the words and give the voice free range? We listen to a violin solo without words, surely the voice is a more beautiful instrument than a violin. May I suggest that many of your artists might with profit put the headphones on when Sir Walford Davies gives one of his Talks, or perhaps take a lesson in elocution from Sir Harry Lauder?—E. H. BELCHER, Claverdon, Warwick.

WHEN will all singers do as Sir Harry Lauder advised in a recent issue of The Radio Times, "pronounce every word you sing"? Good singers broadcast every night, but what most of them are singing about, no one knows. The Announcers are clear, and so are the speakers, so it is no fault of the transmission. In my opinion, men singers are the worst.—"3 VALVE," Bristol.

A Lover of Band Music.

I SHOULD like to associate myself with those listeners who are advocating more civilian band performances. Some of our North Country bands are second to none, such as Black Dyke, Wingate's Temperance, Foden's, St. Hilda's Colliery, etc., and some of us are hoping that it will be possible this year for the B.B.C. to relay the performances given at the Crystal Palace for the 1,000-Guinea Championship.

I think you should know how much the great bulk of licence-holders appreciate the efforts the B.B.C. is making on their behalf. Three programmes for a penny, and no entertainment tax! Who could beat that?—"LATUS SORTE MEA," Essex.

A Criticism of Organ Recitals.

I HAVE a three-valve set with loud speaker which is efficient in every way, and I receive all broadcast performances with the utmost clarity, except in the case of the organ recitals.

Personally, I am quite satisfied that the organ is not a successful broadcast instrument. The pedal notes do not come through effectively, and the tone when full organ is employed, is muffled; also, when the swell box is closed, the tone is lost. I think that the different recitalists have realized this, by reason of the fact that very few fugal compositions are rendered, and when they are, one is left guessing where the subject and answer have got to, to say nothing of the climax at the stretto.—GEO. W. GAYTHORPE, Musical Director, Champness Hall, Rochdale.

Wireless in the Hebrides.

To Southerners, more favourably situated in many respects than we are in these northern islands of the Hebrides, I feel sure that wireless cannot be the wonderful educative and recreative attraction which it is to dwellers in latitude 60 degrees north. Those living on the mainland have many opportunities of hearing good music, etc.—opportunities which, I think, they sometimes do not fully realize or appreciate, but in this most northerly part of Britain we have no such facilities, and wireless has introduced us to a new world of educative entertainment.

Symphonies, piano, violin, and cello concertos, etc., are now becoming known to us through the medium of the wireless. On a recent Sunday evening we enjoyed perfect reception of the Schubert programme and listened to Murdoch's pianoforte solos, Percy Heming's vocal solos, and the Wireless Symphony Orchestra with the greatest pleasure. We have heard also, in recent months, with the utmost enjoyment, the Hallé Orchestra and Choir, Lionel Tertis, Albert Sammons, John Ireland, Beatrice Harrison, and John Coates (to mention only a few).

Such are but a few illustrations of what the B.B.C. programmes mean to us here in the far north, and to the B.B.C. we offer our best thanks.—"ROGNVALD," Lerwick, Shetland.

A Call for More Dancing Lessons.

DANCING lessons by wireless would be greatly appreciated by most listeners. Dancing is a pastime in which a great number of people indulge, and there can be little doubt that a series of lessons delivered at about 6 to 6.30 p.m. once a week would be much enjoyed by all dancers and would be dancers. I followed the recent lessons in the Tango given over the wireless, and thought them beautifully clear and easy to follow, as, I know, did many other people.—DANCER, Wellingborough.

From a Hospital Ward.

LET me thank the B.B.C. for the most enjoyable programmes of the last seven weeks, during which time I have been here in the Westminster Hospital. I have listened most of the time, except for just a few days after my operation, and I can truly say that wireless has been a boon to me and helped me to get well again.

There were nine of us listening the other night to The Quest of Elizabeth, and we all liked it very much. There was nothing for anyone to complain about. Operations are almost an everyday matter with us, and it was quite a change to hear about one over the wireless.

Other listeners here wish me to thank you also for the beautiful music you have given us; they all say it has been a great benefit to them.—AGNES WELCH, Westminster Hospital, S.W.

Signals from Listeners.

HERE is a suggestion which should be quite practical, though it has not yet been worked out.

At present the B.B.C. has no means of knowing what is appreciated by the majority of its listeners or what is condemned by them, for though a large number of letters may reach you, yet not one in 10,000 listeners actually sends in an opinion. Why should it not be possible to devise some means by which the B.B.C. might receive signals from listeners? These signals should register intensity. There would be a "for" and "against" register which could be switched on for ten seconds after each item. In this way you would get the majority opinion. Here is a nice little problem for your research engineers.—W. G. PERKS, Scrag Hill, Romsey.

LONDON NEWS.

Sunday afternoon, Feb. 28th.—This afternoon the programme will be devoted to Chamber Music of a light, cheerful nature, a Song-Cycle and a reading by Mrs. Patrick Campbell, the famous actress who has created leading parts in many plays in England, on the Continent and in America. She appeared in many of the first productions of plays by Bernard Shaw and Sir Arthur Pinero, and was the original "Mrs. Tanqueray" in The Second Mrs. Tanqueray, and the original "Eliza Doelittle" in Shaw's Pygmalion. Chamber Music will be provided by "The Modern Trio," which has already broadcast with great success from this Station. The violinist, M. Melzak, has had to leave the combination, and his place has been taken by Mr. William Primrose, the young British violinist, who has won for himself considerable reputation in the past few years.

The programme to be given includes the third and fourth movements from Dvorak's Trio in F Minor, a melodious, well-constructed piece of work, Coleman's arrangement of the "London-derry Air," the Trio in D Minor by Arensky, one of the most brilliant and enjoyable Trios ever written, and the Scherzo from Waldo Warner's Trio in A Minor, which won the Coolidge 1,000-dollar prize last year in the United States.

Monday, March 1st.—8.20 to 9.5 p.m.—In honour of the fact that this is St. David's Day, a Welsh programme will be broadcast from London Station. It is divided into two sections, the first of traditional Welsh music, and the second of works by national Welsh composers of to-day. The artists taking part are Miss Megan Thomas (soprano), Miss Irene Evans (contralto), Mr. Dafydd Ellis (the tenor, who will be remembered for his work at the Wembley Exhibition last year), Mr. Watcyn Watcyns (baritone), and Miss Megan Glantowe (harpist). A small String Orchestra with wood-wind will play some of the modern works.

The programme from 9.5 to 10 p.m. will consist of syncopated orchestral items played by the London Radio Dance Band, conducted by Mr. Sidney Firman. Mr. Eddie Morris, who made such a name for himself in the performances of Radio Radiance, the first Radio Revue, will sing several vocal numbers.

A Problem Play.

At 10.30 p.m., the Feature will take the form of the first episode of a problem play, entitled Which? written by Captain Frank H. Shaw. This choice is due to the great public interest shown in the earlier broadcast of this description, when a mystery play was broadcast, hinging on a murder. The two later episodes of this play will be given on Wednesday at 10.30, and on Saturday at the same time. Prizes to the value of £110 will be offered under conditions which are published in The Radio Times.

Wednesday, March 3rd.—8.0-9.15 p.m. The Pied Piper is a new musical comedy, of which the libretto and lyrics have been written by Miss Marjorie Laurence, on the foundation of Robert Browning's famous poem. "The Pied Piper of Hamelin," and the music by Reginald Benyon. For the broadcast to-night, a specially-condensed version has been prepared. The orchestral arrangement has been done by Mr. Alfred C. Toone, musical director of the King's Theatre, Hammersmith. At 9.15-10.0, a short programme of Variety, including improvisations by Mr. Ronald Gourley, a firm favourite with listeners, and some theatrical reminiscences by Mr. R. H. Douglass, who for many years has been intimately connected with London theatres.

Friday, March 5th.—At 8.0 p.m. Mr. Maurice Cole will collaborate with Miss Winifred Small in Beethoven's famous Kreutzer Sonata, the best known of all violin sonatas. Listeners will remember the ingenious variations in the slow movement, and the irresistible rhythms of the last movement, which caused it sometimes to be referred to as "the galloping horse."

At 8.35 p.m., a second drawing lesson will be given to wireless listeners. The first, it will be remembered, was given by Mr. Heath Robinson, and proved highly popular. It is expected that this second lesson will have as wide an appeal. It is to be given by "Poy," the cartoonist, who probably makes more people laugh in a year than anyone, except, perhaps, Charlie Chaplin.

No words of introduction from us are necessary in announcing Sir Harry Lauder's second broadcast on Saturday, March 6th. His name is a household word, and his unique and "pawky" personality is familiar throughout the length and breadth of the land. Suffice it to say that it is unanimously agreed by Press and public that he has followed up his phenomenal music hall success by showing himself on his first appearance before the microphone, a radio genius with an ideal broadcasting personality and technique.

BIRMINGHAM NEWS.

BIRMINGHAM'S Studio does not come into use on Sunday until the night, the early broadcasts, which include a service conducted by the Venerable F. B. MacNutt, D.D., being relayed from London. But there is real distinction about the contents of the Studio concert which follows the religious service, since it is given over entirely to Schubert, and there are few composers who have come to mean so much in the minds of both highbrows and lowbrows. His extraordinary versatility, the charm of delightful lyric expressed in even greater music, and the telling of his fabled romance in a musical play have made Schubert a vivid figure in the public consciousness.

How many Schubert programmes could be compiled and would fail to be without appeal? How many songs did Schubert write? How many of his whole output have been lost? Among the riches that exist which have been selected on this occasion are his "Overture in Italian Style" (which was written in caricature of Rossini, whose popularity and hold upon the Vienna theatres for so long prevented Schubert from obtaining the hearing he deserved), his "Unfinished Symphony" (No. 8 in B Minor), and Moment Musical, the latter arranged for strings only.

The evening programme on Tuesday, beginning at 7.30, is one of the most important of the week being a Symphony Concert of the City of Birmingham Orchestra, conducted at the Town Hall by Dr. Adrian C. Boult. Included in its attractions is Mr. William Murdoch, the solo pianist. An outstanding item of the programme is "The Bartered Bride" Overture by Smetana, a composition seldom heard, but a work which justifies the claim made for its composer, that he is one of the finest exponents of the national music of Bohemia. His countrymen have described him as "the Czechish Beethoven."

Another inclusion of note is the Dance Suite by Bela-Bartok, performed for the first time in Birmingham, while in the first half of the programme there is also the Piano Concerto No. 3 in C Minor by Beethoven, played by Mr. Murdoch and the orchestra.

Young Musicians.

Saturday afternoon is made notable by reason of another of the monthly children's concerts, during which the young musicians and singers of the Midlands make their début before the microphone. During the long period that these concerts have been a feature of the Birmingham programmes, it is curious that in the Studio the young artists have shown themselves singularly lacking in that common symptom in the case of far older broadcasters—nerves. Children before the microphone are far less affected by what have been called microphone nerves than adults, and they invariably broadcast with as much unconsciousness as they give their performances in their own music rooms. How valuable the experiment (which was inaugurated by these concerts) has been, was revealed by the concert which was included in the evening programme recently, at which a company of young artists provided an attractive entertainment. The selections for the evening broadcasts are made from the afternoon concerts over a series of months, and it is hoped in the future, as in the past, to discover many new and promising artists.

The New Studio.

Further letters received at the Station concerning the broadcasting conditions of the new Studio, have referred to talks in several cases, and there have been one or two complaints of occasional inaudibility. This is, however, the outcome of the temporary use of the main Studio for talks while the smaller Studio was in the course of preparation, and can be attributed to the fact that broadcasters, after experience gained in the New Street Studio, overlook the ease with which their voices become inaudible in the greater spaciousness of the Broad Street Studio. There, the degree of echo tends to make the voice in certain instances somewhat muffled. With the greater use of the small Studio for talks, it is, however, highly probable that this defect will disappear.

BOURNEMOUTH NEWS.

ON Wednesday night, there will be relayed from the Winter Gardens a programme of Russian music played by the Bournemouth Municipal Orchestra, under the baton of Sir Dan Godfrey. Mr. Arthur Jay and Miss Demise Declare also figure in this programme.

Friday evening's concert in the Studio will be based largely on the works of old masters, such as Rossini, that prolific writer of operas, Mozart and Liszt. Miss Gertrude Johnson (coloratura soprano), will be the vocalist. Bournemouth listeners, who always look forward to hearing her, may not be aware that she was born in Melbourne, Australia, the city which has sent us Melba, Mme. Ada Crossley and Miss Florence Austral. She sang there at the age of six, and at the age of seventeen, Dame Nellie Melba supervised her training. Success in Australia and New Zealand was followed by success in England, where Miss Johnson joined the British National Opera Company. Constant listeners will remember that she appeared in the first opera to be broadcast in Great Britain—The Magic Flute—when she took the part of the Queen of the Night, and achieved a notable success in that very difficult rôle. Miss Eda Kersey (violin), who is well-known on the South Coast, and is already becoming known to a wide public elsewhere, will also be heard on Friday evening, first in a recital of the old masters' violin pieces, and afterwards with the Orchestra in Mozart's Concerto No. 4 in D Major.

PLYMOUTH NEWS.

SOME interesting talks will be broadcast from the Plymouth Station in March, and a diversity of subjects has been included in the Educational programme for the interest and entertainment of listeners. Mr. J. Leighton Fouracre, F.R.I.B.A., will speak on "The Theatre of the Ancient Greeks," and Mr. Frederick Winder will describe "The Sea Fight of 1620." As the result of careful historical research, Mr. Winder has succeeded in framing an accurate picture of an actual sea fight of the period.

THE STATION TRIO.

According to Wilde this is "A Play About a Good Woman," which may seem on first thoughts a somewhat paradoxical description; for the mysterious Mrs. Eryllynne, around whom the plot revolves, is a lady with a past. It is not until the end of Act III. that listeners will realize the relevance of the sub-title.

CARDIFF NEWS.

THE St. David's Day programme is one of the most important of Cardiff events this week. Welshmen everywhere will have no difficulty in hearing the special programme which has been arranged, for it will not only be broadcast from Cardiff, but also from Daven-try, Manchester, and Swansea. The Archdruid Elfed will be heard during the opening proceedings, as well as a number of prominent bards, amongst whom are included Dewi Morgan, the Chaired Bard, and Wil Ifan, the Crowned Bard, of 1925. These two bards will give short readings of some of their own works, as also will Mr. A. G. Prys-Jones, another prominent Welsh poet. Mr. Prys-Jones wrote the fine poem "When Glyndwr Goes A'Riding," which was so happily woven into the pageant "Owain Glyndwr," one of the recent Cardiff successes. On the musical side will be included Mr. Glanville Davies, the famous Welsh baritone, Penillion singing by Mr. W. Morgan Evans, and choral work by two of the most representative choirs in Wales. In raising her voice over the country Wales will give her best in this programme, and listeners everywhere will find an evening of exceptional interest.

"Lady Windermere's Fan."

The broadcast version of An Ideal Husband, the third Oscar Wilde play interpreted by the "5WA" Radio Players, proved so popular with Cardiff listeners that arrangements have been made to produce Lady Windermere's Fan on Wednesday, March 3rd. The construction of this play is masterly, and the difficult theme is handled with a skill which shows how the artist and the craftsman in Wilde were working hand in hand when the four acts were penned. All the characters are clearly and cleverly drawn, giving their interpreters a definite line to take and a chance to make a lasting impression on the unseen audience.

MANCHESTER NEWS.

THE main item in the Symphony Concert from Manchester on Sunday afternoon will be the G Minor Symphony by Mozart, played by the Augmented Station Orchestra, under the conductorship of Mr. T. H. Morris-son. Written in 1788, this is one of Mozart's last and greatest works and has been termed "a triumph of orchestral art." The whole tone of the symphony is sombre and seems to depict the artist's struggle with life, and the first movement is full of sadness and mournful dignity. The slow movement is more consolatory and seems to strive after a more cheerful mood, and this striving is carried still further in the minuet. The last movement breaks out into a wild burst of merriment, but a really peaceful state of mind is never achieved and the composer is still possessed by the restlessness and sadness apparent from the beginning.

LIVERPOOL NEWS.

MISS GLADYS CORLETT, who will broadcast some cello solos from Liverpool on March 3rd, is a young musician of great promise, both as instrumentalist and composer.
Liverpool listeners will hear her in both capacities in this programme.
for the Station Octet is to play the ballet numbers from the incidental music which she composed for Mr.
Edward P. Genn's children's fairy play, Let's Pretend. A further proof of her versatility is shown in the fact that she will play the piano part in this special arrangement of the ballet music for the Station Octet.

NEWCASTLE NEWS.

An Orchestral Feature.

AT 9.30 p.m. on Tuesday evening, the Station Orchestra will render Symphony No. 3, "In the Forest," by Joachim Raff. Raff, an astonishingly prolific composer, wrote twelve symphonies, of which "In the Forest" is one of the two that have most conspicuously survived the winnowing processes of time. The following is an explanation of the movements:—

(I) "IN THE DAYTIME."

Impressions and Sensations (Allegro).
 The first movement represents in a general manner the feelings of a lover of Nature in the forest on a summer day. The Introduction evokes the spirit of the woods with the nameless charm of rustling branches and the glintings of sunlight. The mood is developed at length in its musical expression; the close brings to its end this charming picture of the quiet surprises of the woodland in an autumn day.

(II) "AT TWILIGHT."

(a) Reverie (Largo).
 After a short introduction (clarinet and horn), the Largo begins with a beautiful and suggestive melody (strings)—the reverie of the dreamer.
 Later, the theme returns twice—the first time with heightened pastoral effect, the second time in much the same manner as when originally given out.

(b) Dance of Dryads (Scherzo: Poco meno, mosso).

Flutes announce the principal theme.
 This is in reality a dance movement
 —the dance of the Dryads—but before its close, the Reverie motive of the Largo appears, and this unifies the movement and completes the picture of the dreamer and his reverie intruded upon by the dancing wood-nymphs.

(III) "AT NIGHT."

Silent rustling of the woods at night.
 Entrance and exit of the wild Hunt with Frau Holle and Wotan.

Daybreak (Allegro).

A mysterious pianissimo theme for cellos and double-basses paints the darkness and solemnity of the forest night. The spectral approach of the Wild Hunt, Dame Hulde (Frau Holle) and Wotan following in the train of the unholy crew, is announced by a strongly rhythmed theme in the strings, clarinets and bassoons. The hunt draws near and passes, in a tumultuous increasing and diminishing uproar of the orchestra; the fury of the chase dies away and there is a sharply contrasted tone-picture of the dawn. A suggestion of the sunrise brings the end.

GLASGOW NEWS.

WHEN Miss Miriam Licette, the well-known British soprano, visits Glasgow on Wednesday, the Station Augmented Orchestra will provide a lively programme, the central feature of which is the Suite, "Impressions of Italy," by Charpentier, and, in response to numerous requests, it has been arranged to include as a final item the Polotskienne Dances from Prince Igor, which, by their stirring vitality and rich scoring, have made a special appeal to many of our listeners.

A Jest In One Act.

On Thursday night, when a varied programme will be provided by Mr. Norman Williams (baritone), Mr. F. W. Hodgkinson (cellist), and the Novelty Trio, listeners will have an opportunity of hearing what is called "a jest in one act" by the famous Russian, Tehekov. This little play, An Unwilling Martyr, has been translated, and will be presented by the Belfast Radio Players.

The programme also includes the 9th of the Scottish Regimental Series, when Colonel H. McMicking, C.B., D.S.O., will tell us something of the history and traditions of the Royal Scots.

Another night of variety is to be found on Friday, when the local programme will include Miss Marcia Bourn and Miss Marcey Dale, in entertaining items, and Mr. Gordon Bryan, who is to play Liszt's "Hungarian Fantasia" with the Station Orchestra, and later a group of modern French pianoforte solos.

St. David's Day falls this year on Monday, and that night has been chosen for the presentation, by Miss Vivienne Chatterton (soprano), and the Station Orchestra, of a short programme of Welsh Airs and the works of Welsh composers. On the same night, at 8 o'clock, Mr. Herbert A. Carruthers will play the twentieth of the Beethoven Pianoforte Sonatas.

CHOIR.
THE WIRELESS ORCHESTRA:
Leader, ALEX MADISKY.
Conductor,
ARTHUR COLLINGWOOD.
The story follows the beautiful Greek legend. Eurydice, who has been bitten by a serpent,
is dead, and her husband, Orpheus, is inconsolable, and weeps at her tomb. The God of Love, Amor, takes pity on the singer, and tells him that he may descend into Hades and seek the shade of Eurydice in Pluto's dark kingdom; but there is a condition attached.
Orpheus, if he would bring his bride back to the upper regions again, must return to earth without looking upon her face. Orpheus wins admission through the gates of Hades.
He finds Eurydice and she follows him out of the Valley;
but as they near the land of the living, he looks back.
Eurydice falls dead. Orpheus is about to kill himself when the God Amor intervenes and brings Eurydice to life again.

ABERDEEN NEWS.

BEFORE receiving Tintagiles, by Maeterlinck, from Belfast on Thursday night, Aberdeen listeners are to spend half an hour with César Franck, the most outstanding of Belgian composers; indeed, his work ensures him a high place among the composers of the nineteenth century.
Both his Symphonie and Chamber Music will be illustrated on this evening. A movement from one of the most remarkable of his works, the "Symphony in D Minor," is to be played. Although not exactly classic in its treatment, this symphony has a breadth of style which carries us back to Beethoven. Only one movement is to be played, but the principal theme will be found here, for it was employed in all the movements. His Chamber Mus will be illustrated by two movements from the "Sonata in A Major" for violin and piano, which is the only such Sonata he ever wrote. Beginning in the first passage with a most dreamy ecstasy, it is followed by a dashing and passionate allegro in the second.

"Orpheus."

On Saturday night will be broadcast extracts from the opera in three acts, Orpheus and Eurydice, or, as it is more popularly known, Orpheus. It was produced by Gluck, in 1774, at the age of sixty. Orpheus has been well described as a complete masterpiece and one of the most astonishing productions of the human mind. An interesting point about the opera is that the part of Orpheus is written for contralto voice. The story follows the beautiful Greek legend.

EDINBURGH NEWS:

THE 13th Hussars were formed in 1715 by Richard Munden and were then known as Munden's Dragoons. They fought at Prestonpans, in 1745, under the command of Colonel Gardiner, who was killed in the battle. Colonel Gardiner's house and the monument that was erected to his memory can still be seen at a spot a little inland from the present town of Prestonpans. The Regiment has a long list of honours, having seen service at Waterloo, the Peninsular Campaign, the Crimean War, the South African War and the Great War. The amalgamation of the two Regiments took place in November, 1922, and they are now known as the 13/18th Hussars. The Band is a particularly fine one and is well-known at most of the English watering-places. It also took a leading part at Wembley in 1924/5, at the Royal Tournament at Olympia in 1924 and in the Tattoo at Aldershot for several successive years. Listeners in Edinburgh will have an opportunity of hearing the Band on the evening of Wednesday, March 3rd, when it is paying a visit to the Studio. Three distinguished speakers will be heard from the Edinburgh Station at the beginning of March, namely, Sir Leslie Mackenzie, LL.D., M.D., of the Scottish Board of Health, Professor Charles Sarolea, LL.D., Litt.D., who holds the Chair of French and Romance Languages at the University of Edinburgh, and Professor D. F. Tovey, Mus.Doc., who occupies the Reid Chair of Music at the University of Edinburgh.

BELFAST NEWS.

TWO plays of particular interest are offered on Thursday, March 4th, The Death of Tintagiles, by Maeterlinck, and a short farce by Tchekov called An Unwilling Martyr. The Maeterlinck play, translated by Alfred Sutro, is a masterpiece of imaginative suggestion. It is characteristic of Maeterlinck inasmuch as the plot is nothing, the story, the motives and psychology of the characters are of the vaguest; but the suggestion of a fantastic, enchanted world, the vast crumbling palace, its aged, terrible queen, and the atmosphere of menace and terror that envelops the whole play show it to be a work of powerful and original genius. The principal part, that of Ygraine, the sister of Prince Tintagiles, will be played by Miss Netta Westcott. At 7.25 p.m. on the same evening there will be a short talk on the play.

The Tchekov piece is a little farce, very slight, not very distinguished, but an extremely good example of Tchekov's methods of building a perfectly compact structure out of masses of minute and apparently irrelevant detail.

Famous Composers.

Berlioz, Lalo, Goldmark, Rimsky-Korsakov, Elgar, and Pezel will all be represented in the Augmented Orchestral programme on Wednesday, March 3rd. Those who look for novelty will find it in a quintet for two trumpets and three trombones by the last-named of the above composers. Music for small combinations of brass instruments invariably broadcasts well and, judging from our correspondence, gives pleasure to a large number of listeners. Every endeavour is being made to obtain the score and parts of the quintet from the Continent in time for the performance, a difficulty always to be reckoned with in these days. It will interest listeners, too, to see the somewhat neglected works of Goldmark figuring in our programmes from time to time. This composer's main characteristics are his complete mastery over every kind of musical effect, his wealth of melodic invention and skill in manipulating his themes.

An advertisement designed and written for The LISSENOLA
 by an appreciative purchaser

Mr. W. M. WOODGATE.

To head-phone users everywhere!

I have taken the somewhat unusual course of expressing my admiration for that really remarkable instrument—the Lissenola—by writing, unasked, this advertisement for its sponsors. I use the word “remarkable” primarily in the value-for-money sense; for at a cost of only 13/6 you can, like me, own a loud-speaking unit that will give you as much satisfaction and enjoyment as a speaker costing many pounds. If you possess a gramophone, attach the Lissenola to the tone arm and you will get a sweetness of tone and a clean, crisp reception that will delight and surprise you. Or you can, with the lucid instructions and patterns given with every Lissenola, make your own efficient horn for a few pence. My own Lissenola is used with a cabinet gramophone, and while it continues to give such splendid results, I certainly am not going to pay a big price for a loud-speaker which could only give me equal results. My advice to all who are tired of head-phones, or who are envious of their neighbours’ “many-guinea” speaker, is to invest 13/6 in the Lissenola—it is money well spent.

I add the usual disclaimer that I have no interests whatever in Messrs. Lissen Ltd., but am simply a delighted owner of their really excellent product.

Ribbons of steel

—the same century-old principles of construction are employed in every Cossor Grid.

FROM bank to bank across a girder bridge a train speeds on its way. A hundred tons or more of living freight suspended in mid-air on a few ribbons of steel. Such is the skill of man. Rigidity is the Alpha and Omega of bridge construction. Without rigidity no bridge can withstand the devastating forces of Nature.

Rigidity, too, is the very essence of successful Valve construction. Without rigidity there must be distortion and microphonic noises. Compare the Cossor Grid with the ordinary spiral Grid and you'll instantly appreciate why the Cossor Valve has won such a unique reputation for purity of tone.

The Cossor Grid is a wonderful piece of miniature engineering. It is built up on a stout metal Grid band, and each turn of the wire is secured in three positions—35 places in all. Was there ever such rigidity?

Combine that with the Cossor electron-retaining system of design and you'll readily recognise why the Cossor is by far the most popular British Valve.

Everywhere it is earning golden laurels for a mellowness of tone hitherto considered impossible.

Before choosing your next Valve ask your Dealer to show you the Wuncell — the Cossor Dull Emitter. Functioning at a dull red glow (almost invisible in daylight) it is, indeed, a super-economy valve with an abnormally long life. For the first time it is possible to obtain a low temperature valve in every way as sensitive as the best bright emitter. The secret of Wuncell success is to be found in its wonderful filament. Instead of a wire, whittled down to the point of fragility, the filament used in the Wuncell is built up layer upon layer under the Cossor patent process. Instead of weakness there is strength.

OURSELVES — AND THE ELECTRICAL IMPULSE.

Brandes

"That radio contrivance of yours, Smith; it talks very naturally. The fellow holding forth on what to plant in the garden might well be in this room."
 "Ah yes! It's a Brandes; an old friend of mine. Always did sound clearly and well. Thank Heaven the fellow is not in the room, anyhow. It too easily reminds me that my wife will probably lend her moral support to my doing some gardening on Sunday morning."
 "Yes, but why is it so appreciably better than most? I had dinner with Brown-Jones last week. His port is excellent, but his radio is excruciating; I wanted to throw things."
 "Well, these Brandes fellows claim that they build their instruments from an expert knowledge of radio acoustics."
 "I don't know what radio acoustics is from Adam."
 "My dear Jackson, of course you don't. Neither do I, technically."
 "Well, tell me what you know about it."
 "You perhaps know that acoustics is the science of sound?"
 "Well, ye-es!"

"Right! Radio acoustics is the science of transforming the electrical impulse into audible sound."
 "Do you mean that the electrical impulse is the electrical energy which carries the transmitted power from the studio to the receiver?"
 "Precisely!"
 "And that the Brandes instrument is constructed with the correct scientific elements for a most able transformation into audible sound?"
 "As you say, dear fellow! Brandes are thoughtful radio builders and seventeen years' intimate association with electrical impulse must have given them a lift above the others."
 "Well, that youngster of mine is pestering me for a loud-speaker—I'll see that it's a Brandes."
 "I should! You have heard mine—ah! The Savoy Bands coming through. Don't give John any more whisky. He'll probably want us to fox-trot with him."
 "No sir! On the contrary, I am thinking of investing in a Brandes."

BUY BY POST AND SAVE MONEY

See our announcement on p. 472 (Sets) and p. 470 (Louden Valves).

ORDER all your wireless requirements from us by post. We are the pioneers of this method of selling wireless and the overwhelming success which has attended our policy proves that you can have every confidence in it. All goods are sent on SEVEN DAYS' APPROVAL* against cash, packing free, carriage forward (unless postage is stated). You can make your selection from our 40-page illustrated catalogue which is free on request, and you can rest assured of the quality of our goods which is entirely above reproach.

By dealing direct with us, or our branches—the only way in which Fellows' apparatus can be obtained—you ensure complete satisfaction and you effect a handsome saving in money.

* This does not apply to Louden Valves, H.T. Batteries, and Accumulators which nevertheless carry our full guarantee.

THE JUNIOR.
(Old Price 30/-).

The finest medium-sized Loud Speaker it is possible to obtain. Adjustable diaphragm, over 18 inches in height. Gives a clear mellow tone which, except for sheer volume, is unsurpassed by any big "Speaker" on the market.

THE FELLOWS LIGHTWEIGHT HEADPHONES.
11/6
(Old Price 18/6).

A first-class pair of British Headphones. Cheaper than foreign 'phones and incomparably better. Non-rusting duralumin headbands. Combine extreme sensitiveness with remarkable lightness. Weight only 6 ounces with cord. Postage 6d.

THE VOLUTONE.
(Old Price 90/-).

Without doubt, the finest value obtainable in Loud Speakers today. The adjustable diaphragm enables you to obtain the best results from either speech or music, while the rich clear tones are of a quality usually found only in instruments costing several times as much. Will give sufficient volume to fill a hall or large drawing-room without trace of blurring.

HIGH TENSION BATTERIES.

An example of Fellows Value !!

The demand for our Fellophone High Tension Batteries has so greatly exceeded our expectations, and we are so assured that they supply a genuine public need for a first-class H.T. Battery at a low price, that we are enabled to continue offering them for a further period at bargain prices.

You can have complete confidence in ordering these batteries by post. They are perfectly silent in action, have the longest possible life, and by getting them direct from us you are assured against buying a battery that has lost its kick through standing for weeks before sale. Compare the prices shown here with what you have to pay elsewhere and then fill in the coupon below.

IS FURTHER PROOF NEEDED?

Messrs. Fellows Magno Co., Ltd.,

Dear Sirs,

Having taken advantage of your offer in RADIO TIMES, I purchased two Loudens Dull Emitters.

Previously my accumulator (4 volt 60 amp.) needed charging every 14 days, at a cost of 9d. per charge.

Now, I am pleased to say it only needs charging every 6 weeks, amounting to 1½d. per week.

During that period I have been working my Loud Speaker for 276 hours. Loudens every time for—Yours faithfully, J. H. B. (Wodnesbury).

Is it not time you had Loudens in your set?

They are British throughout; capital, labour, and materials; their performance is equal to that of any other valve on the market; they are most economical in current; and they are extremely low in price—owing to the fact that we sell them direct to you through the post.

When you buy Loudens you may be buying something cheap—you are most assuredly buying something good. Fill in this coupon to-day.

on Climax for first place in the Earthing Stakes. Five shillings for the Climax Copper Earth, and only half-a-crown for the Climax Galloy Earth.

If you are troubled with Weak Signals, Intermittent Signals, Electric Main Disturbances, Local Set Interferences, Muddy Reception, the probable cause of trouble is an inefficient earth. Get a better earth to-day. But it must be a genuine Climax Earth.

The genuine Climax Earth is easy to instal. Just drive it in. The patented plough point and watercourse forming projections are an essential feature. An ordinary tube is a poor earth because it fits loosely in the ground. Insist on the genuine Climax and ensure perfect earth contact. Now available in two models.

CLIMAX COPPER EARTH for the connoisseur, full size 5/-

CLIMAX GALLOY EARTH for the economist, full size 2/6

THE CLIMAX LOW LOSS INSULATOR

stands four times the flash over voltage of the ordinary insulator with far less capacity to earth. It will stand a pull of over two cwts., is entirely non-hygroscopic, unaffected by rain, and is self cleaning. The small extra cost is well justified by the decidedly improved reception. Price 1/- per pair.

CLIMAX SHOCK ABSORBER SET comprising four Climax Low-Loss Insulators and two Climax Shock Absorber Springs 3/-

THE CLIMAX LIGHTNING ARRESTER.

Made on the multi-gap quenched spark principle. Provides a straight path to earth of very low reluctance. No switches. No shunt effects. Maximum signals. Protected from dirt, damp and other interferences. Price 7/6

THE CLIMAX FOLDING FRAME AERIAL

Ingeniously constructed to open or fold in a few seconds with the greatest ease. The two flat coils mechanically and electrically balanced combine the advantages of both the pancake and solenoid types of windings. A centre tapping is provided for use with special circuits.

The CLIMAX Folding Frame Aerial is very attractive in appearance, extremely efficient and conveniently portable. The stand also folds. Undoubtedly the best folding frame aerial and very reasonable in price.

The Ducon

If your house has electric light a Dubilier Ducon enables you to do two things:—

1. To run your set without erecting an aerial.
2. To use your set in any room you like.

The Ducon converts your electric wiring system into an aerial. All you do is to plug it into the lamp socket, and connect it to your set according to the instructions.

The Ducon does not use any electric current, and does not interfere in any way with your lighting system. Over 500,000 Ducons are now in use all over the world. The price is 10/-. (Note that the Ducon is not recommended for use with crystal sets.)

ETHODYNE
7 Valve
Super-heterodyne
Receiver.

ETHOPHONE V.
4 Valve
Receiver.

THE wonderful reception range of these two famous Burndept sets is largely attributable to the exclusive use of Burndept Super valves.

Recent tests have definitely proved the capability of the 'Ethodyne' to receive most of the continental and British stations at loud speaker strength, while the 'Ethophone V' will give perfect loud speaker reception from many stations anywhere in the country.

Ask any Burndept dealer to demonstrate the power, selectivity and tonal purity of these two famous receivers.

Both the 'Ethodyne' and the 'Ethophone V' can be bought on the hire-purchase system. Write for particulars.

The Burndept range includes everything for radio reception, from components to complete installations.

WHERE EXPERIENCE TELLS.

The experience gained in over a quarter of a century's manufacture of accumulators for all purposes is at your disposal when you buy Tudor wireless batteries. Here is an instance of how we ensure you a reliable trouble-free battery.

The terminal shown in section above is so designed that it is impossible for acid spray to attack any brass work. The only brass employed in this terminal is the screw fixed to the terminal thumb-nut. When this nut is removed it carries the brass screw with it out of harm's way; when it is replaced (for connecting up the battery) the brass screw sinks through a small chamber packed with vaseline.

In this manner it is always protected from the action of acid; a clean connection giving constant voltage to your valves is ensured; and you can never be troubled with a terminal which binds up and refuses to come off.

All Tudor accumulators are made throughout with the same thoughtfulness and care. They have been so made for over 25 years in the big Central Power Stations of the world. That is how they became Established in Public Service.

Tudor accumulators cost no more than other good accumulators and you can have every confidence in asking your dealer to supply you. If he does not yet hold stocks, let us have his name and address and we will see that you are supplied at once.

AMPLION

At Last

AT last both L.T. and H.T. accumulators can be charged at home from your electric light mains.

The new High and Low Tension Tungar thus ensures consistent and reliable service from both batteries.

In effect, both plate and filament current are supplied from the electric light circuit.

The Tungar can be permanently connected to a lampholder or wall-socket and, through suitable switches, to your accumulators, so that when you want to charge either battery it is only necessary to operate a switch.

THESE two famous Burndept sets give truly remarkable results. The Ethophone V. will receive most of the British stations on the loud speaker and is fitted with a special device which minimises local "interference." The Ethodyne is unequalled in long-distance reception and has received as many as 67 stations in one evening! It is tuned by two dials only. These powerful instruments reproduce speech and music perfectly and are capable of giving great volume without distortion. They will be installed free in your house if within 25 miles of any of the Burndept branches at Belfast, Birmingham, Brighton, Bristol, Cardiff, Dublin, Exeter, Glasgow, Leeds, Liverpool, Manchester, Northampton, or Nottingham.

The apparatus is inspected and maintained entirely free of charge during the first ten months—even valves and H.T. batteries being replaced free if necessary. We have contracted with Burndept Wireless Ltd., for the use of their extensive organisation to erect and maintain these sets, which are fully guaranteed by the Manufacturers. No trouble with finance companies, insurance premiums, carriage or other incidental expenses. The prices quoted in each case include such accessories as aerial equipment, valves, headphones, loud speaker and all batteries.

Figures to Remember

CHARLEY'S AUNT

The remembrance of sheer enjoyment. Sheer enjoyment for the wireless enthusiast is born of perfect reception. You can be sure of perfect reception and know that each and every evening will be full of real pleasure if you use Six Sixty Valves.

Our new range embodying the latest improvements of modern research marks a real advance in scientific Valve design. We have studied the needs of every section of the Radio Public, and the most exacting wireless enthusiast can get a Six Sixty Valve to suit his own special requirements.

Here's one particular type—the S.S.7, a wonderful Dull Emitter Power Amplifier capable of handling output sufficient to work the largest Loud Speaker without distortion. The design of this Valve is such that prolific emission is obtained at temperatures so low that the filament does not glow when operating under its rated conditions, in short, practically a "cold" valve. Just consider for a moment what this means. The destroying influence of high temperature, and the alternate expansion and contraction of the filament is almost eliminated with the result that the life of the valve is proportionately increased. Remember, too, this valve is entirely non-microphonic, and owing to the low filament current consumption can be satisfactorily operated from dry cells or a 4-volt accumulator.

For long life, good service and Perfect Tone, insist on 660 Valves.

How Is It Done?

Such a thought is the common experience of many a listener when he first uses the "Brownie Wireless." Never before has he heard such clear-toned voluminous reproduction from a crystal receiver. Results have conclusively proved that in spite of its moderate price the "Brownie Wireless" has no peer in efficiency. At a distance of 25-30 miles from the local station (15 miles relay stations) or 120 miles from 5XX you can't better "Brownie."

D.L.5—the ever-sensitive crystal.

The crystal that made the "Brownie" famous. Adds volume and distance to every receiver.

Two pieces with "Palladium" Catwhisker, per box, 2/.

One piece Crystal in square sealed carton, 1/.

The "Brownie" Wireless Model No. 2 embodies all the features of the Standard "Brownie" Receiver. It is capable of resisting extreme climatic conditions. The outer casing is hydraulically moulded under a pressure of 60 tons, forming a pleasing and substantially designed piece of apparatus. The receiver has a natural wavelength up to 600 metres and a Standard plug and socket coil attachment is provided, which with the aid of a special coil—see illustration (price 2/6 extra)—makes the set adaptable to 5XX. Complete, including the famous D.L.5 Crystal and "Palladium" Catwhisker, price 10/6. The Standard "Brownie" just as good as ever, but now complete with ebony case, 7/6. 5XX Loading Coil for the standard, 2/.

Your holiday

THIS year try the holiday that is different. Explore new country and enjoy healthy, restful change, free from irksome routine.

THE NORFOLK BROADS, with their natural beauties and quiet old-world villages, will enchant you. They are 120 miles from London, and consist of 200 miles of safe inland rivers and lakes, situated between Cromer, Lowestoft and Norwich. You hire from us for a week or longer a fully furnished wherry, yacht, or motor-boat, which becomes your floating home, moving when and where you wish, inland, not on the sea. We can supply an attendant to manage the boat and do all cooking. You only have to enjoy yourself. The cost, including boat, food, etc., averages £4 per head per week.

Send to-day 2d. postage only for our 200-page 1926 booklet containing details of 300 yachts, wherries, motor-boats, houseboats, bungalows we have for hire, and article: "How to Enjoy a Broads Holiday." All owners' craft are included in this booklet.

Exide

THE LONG-LIFE BATTERY

Whenever you hear the chimes of Big Ben in your head-phones or loud-speaker, Exide batteries are supplying the energy used to broadcast his melodious tones from each station.

The mechanical perfection of Big Ben and the electrical perfection of Exide batteries give the reliability so essential for time signals.

Set your watch to the first stroke of the hour and you set it by Exide Batteries.

When you listen to any transmission from a station of the B.B.C., Exide batteries are being used for High Tension and Low Tension supply.

You can get the same perfection in your reception as the B.B.C. get in their transmission, by using the same make of batteries — Exide.
