New Life for the Village.

By J. W. ROBERTSON SCOTT.

It is surely high time that some countryman returned thanks for Wireless.

The introduction of petroleum lamps was a great boon for Britain-outside-the-Towns. But the substitution of mineral oil-light for candle-light is not to be compared, in its immediate and in its far-reaching effects, with the introduction of Wireless.

Railway trains and bicycles and motor-buses were each in their turn remarkable events for country people. The villager was no longer rooted to his village. And telegrams, which brought the world's news into his paper, wrought a change. But the coming of Wireless, on the shoulders of all the previous advances, is something conspicuous in the history of the progress of the countryside.

The reason is plain. Wireless means not only a change in the countryman's point of view, but a rapid change. He is sharing, for the first time, the educational and social advantages of the townsman.

Whether it is His Majesty the King, the leaders of the political parties, Sir Oliver Lodge, or Paderewski, or Sir Harry Lauder who is speaking or displaying his art, the Man with the Hoe now has a front seat. Like the townsman, the countryman in the most remote hamlet has at last the choice of the best oratory, the best lecturers, the best preachers, the best musicians, and, to some extent, the best actors, the best literature.

It is a change so vast, so far-reaching meeting, addressed by bores or unskilful people, or the village concert (except for its attractiveness as a human assemblage), or the tenth-filled church, against the Wireless's provision (without its patrons stirring from the fire-side) of front rank political speakers, the finest music, the work of the cleverest entertainers, and such a religious service as was broadcast a few weeks ago from the resounding aisles of Canterbury Cathedral?

One of the bishops, in giving his countenance to the broadcasting of sermons to village congregations, has shown his appreciation of the new standard of preaching which has been set up in the villages by Sunday broadcasting. Relieved from the duty of preaching, if he does not wish to preach, the country parson may now be released to show his quality in pastoral and social work.

How the local party political association and the local candidates for Parliament are going to get along when the villages are able to apply the touchstone of wireless reports of speeches by the leading exponents of their views, I do not know. The village audience was always much harder to impress than most of those who tackled the problem imagined. Before the next General Election, I prophesy that the audiences in our villages up and down the country are going as to be, at first thought, beyond one's grasp.

What chance has the village political to be ever so much more difficult to talk to as a result of the coming of Wireless.

Of course, I am not foolish enough to believe that mere mechanical advance in the countryside is the progress that matters most. Because a countryman, who formerly took his supper by the light of a tallow dip, is given electric light by the touching of a switch, he is not going to be a wiser or a better man. Wireless is a great mechanical advance for the rural districts, but the important thing which it is doing there is not mechanical. It is a very different thing indeed. It is the cultivation of mind and character. It is the stirring of sluggish wits. It is the presenting of new ideas. It is the establishment of new levels of taste and feeling.

It is doing this in no tub-thumping, hortatory, better-than-thou way. It is not doing it with any party or sectarian axe to grind. It is spreading knowledge, it is making new standards, and doing the good work quietly, secretly. The listeners are not being preached at, but a change is being wrought in their minds and hearts in the privacy of their firesides.

Every night, when I hear "2LO," I think of the influence which is being exerted by the courtesy, restraint and pleasant voice of the Announcer, and by the impression of conscientiousness and sincerity which the B.B.C. service conveys. The Wireless in our villages continually adds to our knowledge and stretches our minds, but what matters most is the example it sets to rural listeners who have so long suffered all the restrictions of second-rate schooling, of fourth-rate housing, and, admittedly, in far too many instances, of inferior preaching.

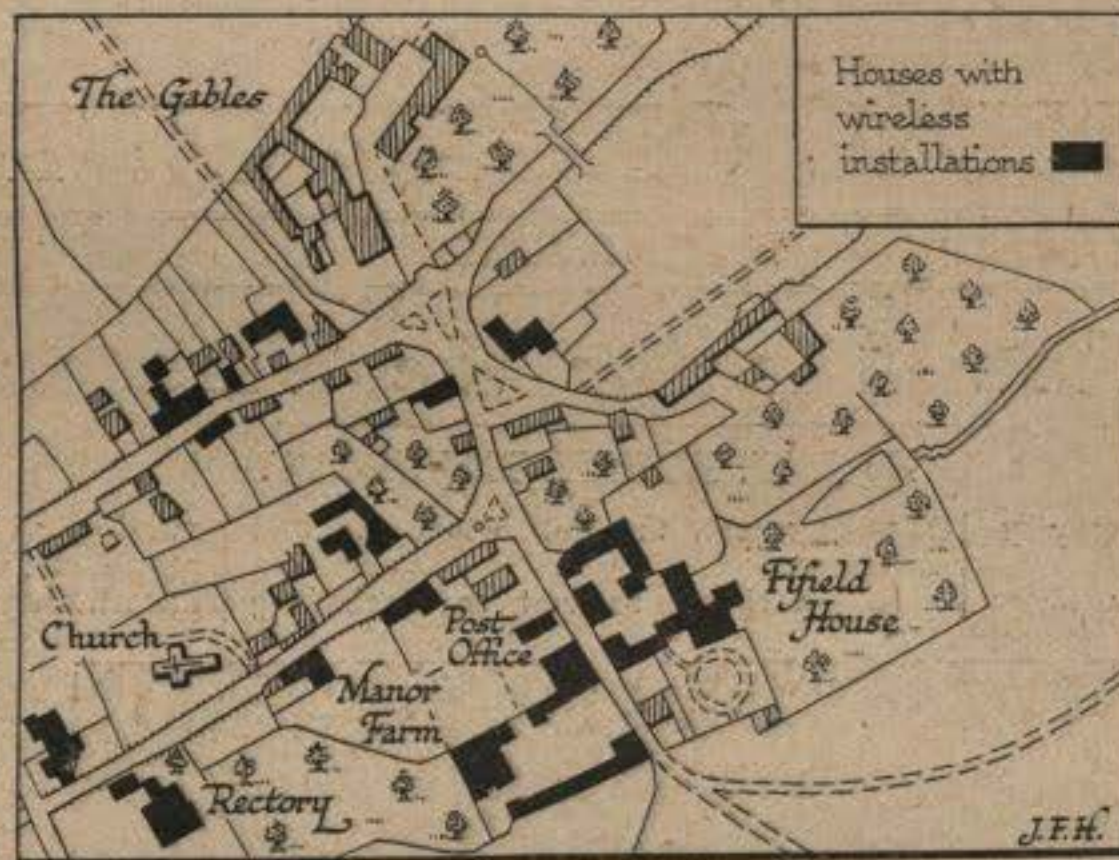

The best work of the world is done with the glowing conviction of public service. The B.B.C., I believe, has that glowing conviction, and the villager, who has felt himself a neglected factor in the community, has not been slow to discern the spirit in which he is served. He is correspondingly appreciative.

Not long ago, a great artist was staying at the country home of an imposing family. Said the hostess to the artist, winningly: "This afternoon I am having some friends to hear you play. It is in the evening that you are to play for the villagers, and, of course, anything will do then." That, I rejoice to know, is emphatically not the point of view of those who carry on the work of the British Broadcasting Company.

I spoke not long ago from Savoy Hill about a movement which its conductors believe to have reached most of the villages of the country—the Women's Institute movement. A few days afterwards, as a result of my address, I had letters from villages where the movement had never been heard of before.

As I spoke to the microphone, in that quiet studio, I was carried away by the thrill of feeling myself in contact with listeners in the remotest hamlets, men and women who have been bereft of so much that makes life what it might be, and who, largely inarticulate, have had no alternative to the dullness of their daily round but to leave the countryside.

When I think of all that the enlightened cultural policy of the B.B.C. has in it to achieve for village life, mentally, morally, socially, and, in the best sense of the word, politically; how it is possible for it to invigorate the school, the church, the chapel, and family life, I am a grateful villager. When I think of how very little it has been possible to accomplish with one's own dozen or more books and a lifetime's hard work in the Press, I am again very grateful to have had a Pisgah view of methods of social amelioration in the most inaccessible corners of our country, of which, a generation ago, the most optimistic and most patriotic could not have dreamt.

£32,000 for Hospital Wireless.

By Viscount Knutsford (Chairman of the London Hospital).

IN June last, The Radio Times printed my appeal inviting contributions to the Wireless for Hospitals Fund promoted by the Daily News. I should like now to report the result.

In the short space of ten months, this fund has equipped each of the 120 voluntary hospitals of London, a splendid achievement which does credit alike to the promoters of the Fund and to the generous public who subscribed the £32,000 necessary. Such a gift to the London hospitals is all the more valuable because it is money from an entirely new source. I am confident that this Fund has not deflected a single penny from the normal needs of our hospitals. I would go further and say that the energetic spirit which has been displayed in collecting this very large sum has increased interest in hospital work.

Throughout my long connection with the hospitals of London, the two things which stand out in my recollection as having been most appreciated by the patients have been the permission to smoke and the opportunity of listening to the wireless programmes.

It does not follow that the things we like best do us the most good, but in this case patients, nurses, medical officers, and administrators are agreed that the provision of wireless to hospitals is an unmixed blessing.

Although we conceived hospital wireless only as an entertainment—something to help distract the mind and bring happier thoughts—it is now clear that we may definitely enlist it as a curative agent.

There is, I find, an unfortunate misconception of what these hospital wireless equipments are. We naturally think of them in terms of the sets in our homes, which, heaven knows, must be enormously varied in kind and quality.

But let me then briefly describe the equipment provided by the Fund for London's biggest hospital.

The London Hospital buildings cover eight and a half acres of ground. There are 842 beds regularly occupied by patients, and there is also a large resident staff. One wireless receiving set supplies the whole hospital. The buildings are wired as they would be for light. At each of the 842 beds there is a neat socket into which a light-weight pair of headphones may be plugged. The use of the headphones by one patient does not, of course, disturb any other patient. Very properly, the promoters of the fund decided that the nurses and the resident staff should also benefit by the installation.

I do think we ought all to pay a tribute of admiration and gratitude to the great newspaper that has shown the world how to apply this newest gift of science so as to make suffering and illness more easy to bear.

A PERFORMANCE of Granville Bantock's The Fire-worshippers will be given by the Augmented Station Choir and Orchestra as part of the Liverpool programme on Tuesday, May 4th.

Covent Garden Broadcasts.

ALTHOUGH it is too early to announce any definite details, arrangements are in hand to broadcast excerpts from operas which are to be given during the forthcoming season at Covent Garden.

Whit-Monday Programmes.

The Whit-Monday programme from London and Daventry, will, it is expected, include another broadcast of the ceremony of the Changing of the Guard, followed by an orchestral concert in the afternoon. The evening transmission, will, in the main, consist of a concert, both vocal and instrumental, given in the open air from one of the London parks. Whit-Monday is also Empire Day, and items of a patriotic nature appropriate to the occasion will be broadcast, including, it is hoped, a message to the Nation by the Prime Minister.

An Arthur Sullivan Programme.

The anniversary of the birthday of the late Sir Arthur Sullivan falls on Thursday, May 13th, and the London Station will broadcast a short programme of his music. It is as well to point out once more to listeners that we are not permitted to broadcast any portions of the famous Gilbert and Sullivan operas, excepting the overtures, but there are many other works by Sullivan to choose from and the items selected on May 13th will be as representative as possible of the composer.

Miss Ivy St. Helier (whose first entertainment before the microphone some time ago is pleasantly remembered by listeners when, amongst other things she sang "That Coal Black Mammy of Mine," a song of her own composition) will again take part in the programme from London and other stations on the same date.

Manchester's Minnehaha Minstrels.

Although the Minnehaha Minstrels have been well known to Northerners for many years as a troupe of skilful amateurs who sing Negro spirituals as finely as any combination engaged in this form of entertainment, a concert which they are giving at Manchester on Friday, May 21st, and which is to be relayed between 8 and 9.30 p.m. through London, will be unique to people in the South. The origin of the Minnehaha Minstrels dates back to 1877, and they are probably the only remaining original minstrel troupe, either amateur or professional, in the country. Since their inauguration their performances have always been given on behalf of charity, and they have made upwards of £43,000 for good causes of one kind and another. There are approximately seventy men and boy minstrels in the troupe, which consists of a choir, a banjo band, comedians, and bones and tambourine players. They specialize in old-time minstrel ditties and harmonized choruses, and introduce a modern spirit with music of a jazz variety.

"A Spooky" Programme.

The nearest approach to mixing radio with ghosts has so far been confined to broadcasting an occasional talk on the subject, but on Wednesday, May 26th, listeners to the London Station are to have a "spooky" programme lasting a whole hour. There will be ghost music, short songs and a ghost talk. That is all we can say about it at the moment, except that it will be quite interesting and not at all scaring.

Trooping the Colour.

It is hoped to broadcast the historic ceremony of Trooping the Colour from the Horse Guards Parade on the King's Birthday this year.

A Successor to "Winners."

A new series of musical comedy reminiscences entitled Two Pence Coloured has been chosen as a successor to Winners, which was so popular with listeners some time ago. Several improvements have been introduced and the first of them will be with other items in a Kashmiri programme from the London Station on Wednesday, May 19th. This will be given between 10 and 11 p.m. and will also include a sketch based on the atmosphere of India's romantic city, staged, of course, in an appropriate setting.

The Hydrodaktulopsychichannonica!

An interesting programme takes place between 10 and 11 p.m. on Friday, May 7th, when Birmingham listeners will hear some instruments of infrequent appearance before the microphone. These comprise the Phonofiddle, Solo Bassoon and Double Bass, the two latter appearing in public without their usual orchestral accompaniment, and last, but not least, the Hydrodaktulopsychichannonica!

National Savings Movement.

The entire programme from London on May 14th when, as previously stated in The Radio Times, speeches from the National Savings Movement Meeting at the Royal Albert Hall are to be broadcast, will be S.B. to all stations. The speeches will be followed by a variety concert.

Loughborough Carillon.

A Carillon recital relayed from the Loughborough War Memorial will be broadcast from the Birmingham Station between 7.45 and 8.15 p.m. on Sunday, May 30th, and from the London, Daventry and other stations between 8.0 and 8.15 on the same evening.

A Viennese Concert.

The London and Daventry programmes on Saturday, May 22nd, will take the form of a Viennese concert, when some of the delightful compositions by local composers will be given under the direction of Theodore Stier.

The Manchester Bells.

The bells and afternoon service at Manchester Cathedral will be broadcast for the first time on Sunday, May 2nd. The bells are believed to contain metal which formed part of the pre-Reformation bells of Manchester, and were originally cast in 1706 at Gloucester. Recently, they were recast by the founders of the famous Rockefeller Carillon. The Cathedral Choir, which is famed for its unaccompanied cantatas, has selected for May 2nd Sing Ye to the Lord, by Bach. This cantata was specially sung for the benefit of Mozart at St. Thomas's Church, Leipzig, and the composer was so charmed that he sat down at once and made out a score for himself.

For Lovers of Grieg.

A two-hour programme entirely selected from the works of Grieg and a number of contralto songs which will be sung in his native language by Bergitte Rlakstad will be given from Birmingham on Sunday, May 2nd. It is not often that listeners have the pleasure of hearing Mr. Percy Edgar in a Sunday-afternoon programme, but on this day he will give a recital of Bergliot, a ballad for declamation and orchestral accompaniment.

THREE FAMOUS MEN WHO WILL BROADCAST DURING THE WEEK.

The Earl of Reading, Ex-Viceroy of India, will be the guest of the Pilgrims at a dinner to be given in his honour in London, on Wednesday, April 28th. His speech will be broadcast from London, Daventry and other Stations. The Archbishop of York (the Rt. Rev. Dr. Cosmo Gordon Lang) will preach in York Minster at a special "Industrial Sunday" service on April 25th; his sermon will be relayed to all Stations. General Sir Ian Hamilton, G.C.B., D.S.O., will talk to London and Daventry listeners on Sunday, April 25th—which is Anzac Day—on the landing at Gallipoli in 1915.

performance will be given between 10.0 and 11.0 p.m. on Monday, May 17th.

A Seaside Broadcast.

The first of several broadcasts arranged for London listeners from seaside and other holiday resorts will be given on Tuesday, May 25th, when, between 8 and 9 p.m., an entertainment by a concert party will be relayed from an East Coast town. This will be followed by Vivian Tidmarsh's play, Landing the Shark. This play is cleverly written and contains two little surprise "twists." The Daventry programme between 8 and 9 p.m. this evening will be supplied by Emilio Colombo and his orchestra from the Hotel Victoria.

"The Vicar" and "The Roosters."

"The Village Concert," with Mr. Vivian Foster as "The Vicar," which was to have been broadcast from London and other stations on February 26th, but had to be postponed, has now been fixed to take place on May 20th. The concert will last an hour, between 8.30 and 9.30 p.m., and "The Vicar," it is hoped, will have the assistance of "The Roosters."

From Fair Kashmir.

It is not often that Amy Woodforde-Finden's delightful song cycles, which include the Indian Love Lyrics, are broadcast in their entirety, as two International Broadcasting.

A Great Advance at Geneva. By P. P. Eckersley.

AS far back as two years ago—a long time in broadcasting history—it was realised that it would be extremely convenient to have some organisation whereby all the exploiters of broadcasting in Europe could meet together, and not only discuss the problems that affect all nations mutually, but also exchange views and help one another even with their own national problems. And so just a year ago delegates from France, Germany, Belgium, Holland, Czecho-Slovakia, Norway, Switzerland and Great Britain met together in London to discuss the formation of an International Union. Such a Union was afterwards formed representing all these countries as the basis for a future organisation that would take in all European broadcasting agencies. Mr. Arthur Burrows, for so long one of the pioneers of British Broadcasting, took up the post of Director of the new organisation.

Wave-Lengths and Crowding.

Among the first and most important questions submitted to the Union was the matter of wave-lengths. It is, unfortunately, a fact that a fairly normal-powered station at, say, 500 miles distance, working too near the wave-length of one's local station, may interfere so as to produce a howling or whistling noise over the top of the programme. This whistling or heterodyning may be so loud as actually to drown reception 10 or 20 miles from a 1½ kilowatt station such as Manchester, and to produce most unpleasant noises a few miles away from it. With the less powerful relay stations, the trouble may be even worse.

The extent of this interference was unknown to most technicians when broadcasting began, and so various broadcasting organisations erected stations, say, in France or Germany or Italy, little dreaming that they might interfere or be interfered with by other stations across their frontiers. The technicians of the British Broadcasting Company, however, realised some while back that, as stations increased in number, so the crowding would get greater, and we should not all have room in which to carry on our work.

A plan was submitted, therefore, to the International Union in June, 1925, which, by an orderly grouping of stations, would put an end to interferences. In July, technical delegates from many countries, both those represented in the Union and those who have since joined, met in Geneva to discuss this plan.

It was obvious immediately that there was complete unanimity as to the necessity of such a plan, but there was some disagreement among those more junior organisations who would be obliged by the new arrangement to change certain of their wave-lengths in order to keep the ether free for the older or more important stations.

Europe's Hundred Stations.

We realised that in the wave-band which we then thought, and still think, should be allocated internationally for broadcasting, we could work no more than about 100 stations in the zone considered as the European zone. This zone is bordered by the Atlantic on the west and the borders of Russia in the east, the Mediterranean on the south; to the north it tapers to the Pole.

There existed a year ago about 100 European stations, and it was obvious that certain of these,

if they were not to work on nearly the same wave-length, and so produce heterodyning, would have to descend to comparatively low wave-lengths. A compromise was then attempted in which certain of the Scandinavian countries repeated, or attempted to repeat, exactly the wave-lengths of, say, Italy, and a plan was agreed upon for the stations that then existed. This plan was a success up to a point, as was shown in the trials last September, when all the broadcasting stations of Europe changed their wave-lengths to the new plan. The only failure was where the more powerful, even though far distant, stations tried to work on the same wave-lengths.

To cut a long story short, we may say that we have now arrived at a modified plan, based not only upon the results of last September's test, but by other and more systematic trials, and based also on another compromise which I will now try briefly to explain.

At a meeting in Brussels in November, 1925, an international technical committee, under the presidency of M. Braillard of Belgium, was appointed to work out a plan on the basis of my proposal to allocate two types of waves, exclusive and non-exclusive. And here I must enter upon a somewhat technical explanation which I will make as simple as possible for the benefit of my non-technical readers.

It has already been explained that if two stations work on nearly the same wave-length, they produce a heterodyne note or whistle. Thus, if a station is transmitting on, say, a wave-length of 300 metres, namely a frequency of 1,000,000, and if another station, perhaps 1,000 miles off, is transmitting on a wave-length of 299.7, which is a frequency of 1,001,000, then a third (beat) frequency, which is equal to the difference between the two high frequencies, namely, 1,000,000 and 1,001,000 is heard on local receivers.

In such a case, therefore, we hear a note of 1,000 vibrations a second; quite an audible shrieking note. If the difference between the two frequencies is reduced to 500, that is to say, if one frequency is 1,000,000 and the other is only 1,000,500, then we hear a note of 500. Gradually, as the one frequency is made to approach the other, i.e., as we both get nearer a single wave-length, the difference in frequency becomes less and less, and the beat note, or the difference between the two generating frequencies, becomes lower and lower. At a time when both stations are transmitting on exactly 300 metres, namely, 1,000,000 frequency, there will be a beat frequency of 0, because 1,000,000 minus 1,000,000 is equal to nothing.

Now, we cannot hear a frequency of 0, we even cannot hear a frequency of 15 very clearly, if it is perfectly pure. It will be obvious, therefore, that the heterodyne note trouble will disappear if two distant stations are working exactly on the same wave-length. Thus, seeing that there are, shall we say, 200 stations to fit into a wave-band which at the maximum will accommodate only 100, a solution presents itself of using one wave for several stations.

This has, in fact, been proposed, and a wave which is shared by several stations is called a common wave. The new plan bases itself upon the use of a certain number of common or non-exclusive waves, which serve to accommodate a great many small stations which would otherwise be taking up valuable ether.

The technical difficulties, of course, are to ensure that each station shall be adjusted exactly on its right frequency, but we are confident that something can be arranged and that, at any rate, we shall be better off than we are with the present haphazard methods.

The meaning of the term "exclusive wave" will now become obvious. It is a wave used by one station and one station only. Thus, London, an important and powerful station, would always have its own wave-length, and there will be no question of sharing with anybody. A less important station, however, would use a common wave because there is a limited number of exclusive waves for allocations, and the balance of stations over and above a national allotment will have, perforce, to use the common wave.

United Action.

It is with a great deal of admiration for the fair-mindedness of the various delegates who have just terminated a general Conference in Geneva that I can state that in this matter a practical unanimity of acceptance has been achieved. Obviously, certain sacrifices must be made by all nations. These have been willingly offered, not only by members of the Union, but by others who are only just beginning to take up broadcasting.

The Conference which has just ended was attended not only by representatives of private organisations, but also by Government representatives from France, Spain, Finland, Switzerland, Germany, Roumania and others. One and all met the spirit of the Conference by declaring their intention to accept the plan, at its lowest terms, as a point of departure; many expressed their agreement in final terms. It is gratifying to note that this desirable conclusion was brought about under the presidency of Admiral Carpendale, a senior member of the B.B.C.

This new plan cannot, of course, be put into execution immediately. All the Governments concerned will have to be approached and their consent obtained, which means that the plan is tentative at present, inasmuch as Governmental sanction in many cases has not yet been obtained.

We have a long furrow to hoe, but all will agree that to have established in a year, and without serious dislocation of existing services, an absolute agreement between all European broadcasting organisations is an achievement which augurs well for the future of international broadcasting.

PEOPLE YOU WILL HEAR THIS WEEK.

[Moss.
Miss HILDA BRUCE-POTTER, who will take part in the radio play "The Grandfather Clock," at Newcastle on Wednesday, April 28th.

Listeners' Letters.

Who Killed the English Madrigal?

[Listeners are reminded that we do not consider anonymous letters for publication. Preference is given to letters which combine interest with brevity. The Editorial address is 2, Savoy Hill, Strand, London, W.C.2.]

AS the perpetrator of the notes for the Edinburgh Station in your issue of March 19th, which have aroused the indignation of the B.B.C.'s Music Critic, I feel that I must proffer some kind of explanation on my offence. Unfortunately, I do not feel at all penitent about it, and can see no cause to amend the particular phrase in question.

Although Cromwell, Milton, and Bunyan were certainly well disposed towards music, and, indeed, towards the very school of madrigalists referred to in my notes, yet neither Cromwell nor Milton, albeit in the front rank of the new Government, were able to restrain the "ridiculous bigotry" of their followers, and it is from these, rather than from their leaders, that most of the acts of deprecation and vandalism came.

But the indirect effects of the Great Rebellion on the development of the English School of Composition are far more important than the direct. Dr. Fellowes, in his "English Madrigal," shows how, during the actual fighting, the great houses, the homes of the Madrigal, were unable to maintain their regular bands of musicians owing to poverty, or to the fact that their men folk were fighting, and how, after the Restoration, the reaction of feeling throughout the country militated against the development of a school of composition such as that in question. With the Court of Charles II. came a good deal of refuse from Europe, the rise into prominence of the theatre as a source of amusement, and the advent of a type of popular song, which, being easy (and fashionable), ousted the more staid work of the Elizabethans. This I hold as an incontestable point, since no one can contradict the statement that the excesses of the Restoration were largely due to the restrictions of the preceding interregnum. As an historical fact the Madrigal did survive the Commonwealth, but in an ever-decreasing degree, and it cannot be said that it ever flourished after the return of Charles II.

Mr. Scholes points out a patent fact when he says that the polyphonic school was everywhere decaying at this time, and not only in England. This is notorious, for Byrd and Gibbons said the last word in that particular style of writing. But the fact that the highest point in polyphonic writing had been reached is not sufficient to account for the almost complete obliteration of a definite English school of composition until the outcrop of Purcell and Blow, and others. There must, emphatically, have been some reason why, when already Gibbons had felt the need of a new form to enable English music to develop, nothing is found for half a century, and the reason for this seems to be adequately provided by the religious bigotry of the "saints" and the levity and hedonism of the Restoration.

Thus, even if "the misconception" under which I labour be very prevalent, it can at least, I think, be supported by reasonable argument.—L. SHERWOOD MUNN, Edinburgh.

[Mr. Munn's original statement, apropos of Madrigals, was a very blunt one: "The popularity of the Elizabethan school was killed by the ridiculous bigotry of the 'saints' of the Great Rebellion." He now, I observe, lays half the blame on the "levity and hedonism" of the Restoration. Obviously, neither "bigotry" nor "hedonism" had anything to do with the decay of the Madrigal School—inasmuch as it decayed equally in countries that had neither "Great Rebellions" nor "Restorations." PERCY A. SCHOLES.]

MANY of your readers will wish to thank Mr. Percy Scholes for his letter in The Radio Times under the title, "The Music-Loving Puritans." Mr. Scholes is more than justified in what he says. A good book on the subject is Crouch's "Puritanism and Art."—H. S., Isle of Wight.

The Microphone as Reporter.

LISTENERS will have heard with disappointment the decision of Parliament not to broadcast the Budget Speech and other important utterances from the House of Commons.

Our newspapers give reports with remarkable accuracy, but it is of immense value to hear the actual spoken word. Let me give an instance. I listened with intense interest to the reply made by Lord Irwin, the new Viceroy of India, to the toast proposed in his honour at the Chamber of Commerce dinner which was broadcast lately. When Lord Irwin spoke of the millions of pounds worth of imports and exports, his statements were punctuated with cheers. He then went on to make the following striking statement: "But man does not live by bread alone; our duty is, not only to contribute to the personal comfort and material prosperity of the people of India, but we are responsible for their moral and spiritual welfare."

I noticed as I listened to the transmission that these words were received in silence! Were they considered out of place on such an occasion? Or were they "too full for sound or foam"? I cannot say, but I can testify that they were not included in the report of the speech in one, at least, of our leading newspapers on the following morning. But for the broadcasting, we should have been unaware of this noble utterance.—REV. T. C. BAINES, The Vicarage, Bickenhill, nr. Birmingham.

Sax and His Saxophone.

I HAVE always understood that Adolphe Sax invented the saxophone, saxotromba, etc., about 1853, having started research work in brass instruments about 1842. He was a clarinet virtuoso and brass instrument manufacturer in Paris, and was very much dissatisfied with the state of military bands in those days because they had no other way to improve their tonal qualities except to multiply (uselessly) the clarinets. The saxophone group was meant to fill the gap between the wood and the big brass.

Poor Sax died in indigent circumstances owing to the numerous law-suits he was obliged to enter upon in order to protect his patents. Even to this day, no one seems willing to mention his name in connection with that much discussed instrument, the saxophone. Of course, it is a beautiful instrument, as is the saxhorn, which is also his invention. H. P. MORGAN-BROWN, Eversley Street, Liverpool.

The Origin of Goethe's "Faust."

IT cannot be admitted that the German puppet plays on the subject of Dr. Faustus were "descendants of Marlowe's work," as your correspondent states in your issue of April 2nd. The legend of Faust appears in a Volksbuch published at Frankfurt-on-the-Main in 1587. This was immediately translated into English. Marlowe's play appeared later, and bears manifest signs of having been based, so far as the incidents of the drama go, on the English "History of the Damnable Life and Deserved Death of Dr. John Faustus."—F. G. STOKES, 41 Talbot Road, Highgate, N.6.

What to do with the Chromatic Scale.

I AGREE with you correspondent "Alto" to the extent that I think it comparatively easy for anyone with a musical ear to rush up the chromatic scale and arrive safely at the top, because the bass note is still in the memory; but let "Alto" try this exercise: get a starting note from a tuning-fork, go up the chromatic scale very slowly, singing each note four times. This will take about a minute, by which time the starting note will have faded. On reaching the octave, "tune in" with the tuning fork, and then let us know whether it is as easy to go up the chromatic scale as he first thought.—A. CASLING, Claremont Avenue, Bristol.

Brighton Musical Festival.

Music by the winning bands at the Brighton Musical Festival on Saturday, May 15th, is to be included in the programmes from London and other stations. This relay is expected to occupy about three-quarters of an hour. A speech by the Right Hon. L. C. Amery, Secretary of State for the Colonies and Dominions, at a dinner to inaugurate the Brighton Shopping Week, will also be broadcast on Monday, May 17th, and not on Saturday, May 15th, as previously stated.

John Henry in an Aeroplane.

The London programme on Tuesday, May 11th, will, it is hoped, include items from some special demonstrations which are being arranged in connection with the recruiting campaign for the London Auxiliary Air Defence Force. During the morning, seventy-two aeroplanes will fly over Hyde Park; but it is as yet too early to state whether any part of this display can be broadcast. In the evening, however, listeners will hear music by the R.A.F. Band in Hyde Park and sounds connected with an aerial tattoo over London. A description of these night manoeuvres will be broadcast from an aeroplane with some interjectory remarks by the quaintest of broadcast comedians, John Henry.

"Four Hundred and Four."

A new revue bearing as strange a title as all the others will be performed by the Novos Concert Party from the Newcastle Station, between 10.0 and 11 p.m., on Wednesday, May 5th. It is called Four Hundred and Four, and is the work of a local author, E. A. Bryan. It includes four very amusing sketches and some delightful music.

"Acis and Galatea."

Handel's Acis and Galatea is to be performed at the Newcastle Station at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, May 5th. It is an English serenata and was first produced by Handel on his return from Italy after he had accepted the position of Chapel-master to the Duke of Chandos.

The Days of Elizabeth.

A performance of the light opera, Young England, will be relayed from the Theatre Royal, Bristol, through the Cardiff Station, on Tuesday, May 11th. Young England is an opera of the spacious days of Elizabeth, in which there come to life the best-known figures of the day. The calling of the sea plays the dominant part in the opera, as it did in the history of the times, and especially in the history of Bristol and the West Country. All the parts, including the chorus, are taken by local talent, and probably Bristol, with its centuries-old traditions of kinship with those who "go down to the sea in ships," is fitted as no other city thus to recall the days when the land was young and her sons played their heroic part in the making of her name.

A Famous Comedian.

Something distinctly novel in radio programmes is promised to Cardiff listeners on Saturday, May 15th, when items are to be given by Mr. Billy Leonard, the famous comedian, with Mr. Sterndale Bennett, already a well-known broadcast favourite. Mr. Billy Leonard is rarely heard outside London, and provincial listeners will be interested in his appearance at Cardiff.

"A Mixed Grill."

A popular programme of variety fills the bill from the Manchester Station on Thursday, May 6th. There are songs by Miss Helena Taylor, a well-known local mezzo-soprano, instrumental items by the Foden's No. 1 Quartet, members of the famous Foden's Motor Works Band, who have already broadcast from Manchester, and "a mixed grill" of humorous fare contributed by Mr. Wallace Cunningham, the well-known ventriloquist entertainer. Mr. Cunningham, who has been described as "the most versatile artist in Britain," first performed in 1908 at the Queen's Hall, London, and has since made regular appearances throughout the British Isles.

Gossip from Our Scottish Stations.

Life and Work of Robert Burns.

TWO Phono-Views dealing with the life and work of Robert Burns, the National Scottish poet, are to be presented from the Glasgow Station on May 7th and 14th, respectively. Although Burns's memory is always celebrated on January 25th, the day of his birth, the influence which his poetry is exercising in the world to-day justifies recognition at any season. The first transmission will deal with the early part of the poet's life, which he spent at Alloway, Mount Oliphant, Tarbolton, and Mauchline, and such distinguished authorities on Burns as Mr. James McIntyre, President of the Ayrshire Federation of Burns's Clubs, Mr. James A. Morris, of the Scottish Burns' Federation, and Mr. James Brown, O.B.E., D.L., M.P., ex-Lord High Commissioner, will act as "Guides" during the programme. Instrumental music, songs and dramatic interludes will be given by the Station Orchestra and Repertory Players, and such well-known artists as Mr. Robert Watson and Mr. Augustus Beddie.

"Baba-Yaga."

Russian nurses frighten their children with the name of "Baba-yaga," which corresponds to the witch of our English folk-lore. This personage figures in many Russian tales for children and the composer, Liadow, has entitled a short symphonic poem for orchestra Baba-yaga, which will be heard from Glasgow on May 14th. The same evening, the seldom heard orchestral work, by another Russian composer, Glazounov, namely, a suite founded upon his ballet, Les Ruses d'Amour, will be performed. Miss Miriam Licette, the well-known soprano, will be the soloist during the evening and will broadcast a group of operatic and art songs.

Peer as Story-teller.

Some of those delightfully humorous stories for which he is so well known will be told by the Marquis of Aberdeen and Temair, K.T., during the evening programme from Aberdeen Station on Monday, May 3rd, the whole of which will be of a Scottish character. It will include music by the City of Aberdeen Police Pipe Band, Scottish pianoforte music by Miss Jean Johnston and Scottish songs by Miss Margaret F. Stewart.

A vocal recital, with accompaniments by the Wireless Orchestra, will be given by Miss Constance Willis, the well-known broadcasting contralto, following the late evening talk from Aberdeen on Tuesday, May 4th. The programme from the same station on Saturday, May 8th, will include an hour's recital by Miss May Mukle (cellist) and Mr. Gordon Bryan (pianist), who, among other items, will play the Sonata in D by Mendelssohn.

Dr. Nansen to Broadcast.

How many people have heard the address of the Lord Rector of a Scottish University, which is his most important duty during the three years for which he holds office? Lord Rectors are voted for by University students, and though the campaigns are carried out generally on political lines, the parties agree occasionally to nominate a statesman, or someone who has made a name in other spheres. President Poincaré, Earl Haig, Earl Beatty, and Sir James Barrie have all been Lord Rectors of Scottish Universities since the war. The new Lord Rector of St. Andrews is the Norwegian explorer, Dr. Nansen, of Arctic fame, and it is hoped on Wednesday, May 19th, to broadcast his address from the Volunteer Hall, St. Andrews, which is being linked up to the Dundee Station for that occasion.

The Spirit of Spring.

The Edinburgh programme on Wednesday, May 5th, will pass uninterruptedly through various phases of Spring, as it has appealed to poets and composers of several generations. In place of formal announcements, there will be a connecting thread of narrative binding the items together, and listeners will be able to appreciate something of the spirit of this most delightful of seasons.

Broadcast Parliament—Eventually, Why Not Now?

By Ian Fraser, M.P.

FROM the moment Mr. Winston Churchill discloses the first secret of his Budget on Monday next, telegraph and telephone will work at high pressure to supply the evening papers with the information which the Chancellor reveals.

Why do we not utilize the most up-to-date method of news distribution by broadcasting the whole Speech from the House of Commons? The answer is that the Prime Minister has decided that there is a preponderating opinion against it. In giving his decision, he referred to opinion in the House of Commons, and I fear he is right. Perhaps as many as a hundred Members cheered heartily when Mr. Baldwin made this announcement. Obviously, his statement was in accord with their view, but why had they formed that view?

Firstly, of course, many Members are exceedingly jealous of the traditions of the House and would tend naturally to accept a decision which would delay or prevent any change in procedure. Probably many thought vaguely that the suggestion was that the whole of the proceedings of the House were to be broadcast, and were nervous lest publicity that they do not desire might be given to their speeches. Strange as it may seem, there are many Members who hate speaking. Some, perhaps, feared that the presence of a microphone in the House might tempt one or two Members, notorious for their interruptions, to take advantage of the occasion and secure publicity for themselves thereby. Some, again, may have thought that the newspapers would be opposed to the innovation.

Most of these fears are groundless. It was never proposed that the proceedings of the House should be broadcast in their entirety. This was recognized to be technically difficult, as well as undesirable. Moreover, there is no public demand for such wholesale broadcasting of Parliament. It can scarcely be imagined that listeners as a whole, or, indeed, anyone but a handful of enthusiasts, would want to listen to a whole evening's Debate.

No, the proposal was clearly made that only the speeches of the Party Leaders should be broadcast, and this at very rare intervals, when the importance and general interest of the subject was unquestionable. Generally speaking, the idea was that the initiative in this matter should rest with the British Broadcasting Company.

Then, again, the fear that advantage would be taken of the presence of the microphone in the House is exaggerated. If the broadcast is fair to all sides, there is not, I am convinced, much danger of the microphone being abused. If interruption occurs, there is, however, no particular reason why listeners should not hear it. They frequently read exaggerated versions of these incidents as it is. Then there is an additional safeguard of a technical nature, for the Chief Engineer of the B.B.C. tells me that the positions in which the microphones would have to be placed would reduce the noise of an interruption to exceedingly small dimensions by comparison with the voice of the speaker whose remarks were being broadcast.

As to the possible opposition of the newspapers, Lord Riddell and Sir James Owen, who gave evidence in public before the Government Broadcasting Committee, pointed out that the present working arrangement between the newspapers and the B.B.C. definitely permits such a transmission.

The question, then, of broadcasting the Chancellor's Budget Speech this year was judged presumably on the basis of some of the views I have

THE SPEAKER'S TABLE IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

The two small white squares just below the dispatch boxes on either side of the table show where the microphones will be placed when the Budget Speech is broadcast someday.

outlined, and it was not debated in the House. The matter cannot surely be dismissed in this way again next year, if Members are made aware by those who are interested enough in the subject to take the initiative that there is a considerable body of public opinion that would like the matter to receive full discussion. The question should, I think, be brought up again in the House early in 1927, in order that it may be settled before the next Budget Speech.

In the meantime, listeners everywhere should take every opportunity to let M.P.'s know that there are hundreds of thousands of them who would like the Budget to be broadcast next year. Some for business reasons, some because they are politically interested, and many more because they are anxious to hear a speech of such importance, the contents of which affect them so closely, and which, save for broadcasting, they may never have the opportunity of hearing.

To achieve success, public opinion must express itself in unmistakable fashion before the question is again raised in the House, and every reader of The Radio Times should do his, or her, share.

The Children's Corner.

Christening an Uncle.

WE have all heard of a ship being given a name by having a bottle of wine broken over her bows, but did you ever hear of an Uncle who was named by a birthday cake being broken over him? It wasn't dashed against the Uncle, which was a blessing, as Auntie Win and Auntie Marie, of Aterdeen, who made the cake, had left it in the oven while they counted the entries to the Mystery Competition, so that the outside, at least, was rather hard-baked! The Uncle, of course, was the "Mystery" Uncle who refused to tell his name and said that the Aunties and Uncles had to give him a name and a nice name too! So Auntie Win and Auntie Marie got busy baking the cake and into the baking they put twenty-six large white paper letters!

Then the Uncle was given the cake and told to eat away until he found enough letters to make himself a name! Poor Uncle! The letters were all at the bottom—what a lot of cake he had to eat to get to them! At last, he reached one! D! The next was O. The next N! DON. Uncle Neil thought that that wasn't a long enough name, but the Mystery Uncle said he could not eat another raisin. So Uncle Don he is and will be. A nice name and a nice Uncle, say the children.

A "6BM" Fairy League Cot.

On Wednesday afternoon, March 31st, the Fund for the installation and endowment of a Bournemouth Fairy League Cot in the Boscombe Hospital reached the goal of £500. The Fund was started in November, 1924, through the energy of Mr. Bertram Fryer, better known as "Uncle Jack," who was then Bournemouth's Station Director.

On December 18th, 1925, the Fund had reached £438 1s., and a cheque for that amount was handed by Mr. Fryer to the Secretary of the Hospital. Further cheques have been handed to the Secretary from month to month, and the final cheque has been handed over to Mr. Saul, Secretary of the Hospital. The members of the "6BM" Fairy League, who now number 2,160, are to be congratulated on raising this large sum in so short a period.

Glasgow's Forthcoming Concert.

The Glasgow Station is organizing a concert for children to be held on May 28th, in the City Hall, the familiar building in Candleriggs. This will be a varied entertainment, including songs, choruses, dancing and jugglery, and Auntie Cyclone and the Uncles are busily engaged in rehearsing their parts. Naturally, no details are to be disclosed at present, but it may be mentioned that Auntie Cyclone will appear in an entirely new guise, while Uncle Alec will shatter all pre-conceived opinions by singing an operatic air. Uncle Mungo may play a harp solo, while Uncles Leslie and Toccers will probably give a performance on the ocarina and xylophone, respectively. Altogether, a very cheery afternoon is anticipated and it is hoped that the old City Hall will be full to capacity. The tickets, 1s. 2d. each, including tax, are obtainable from all the leading music-sellers in Glasgow, or at the B.B.C.'s offices, 21, Blythswood Square, and early application is advised, to save disappointment. Lady Weir has kindly consented to preside and say a few words to the children.

A New Feature at Belfast.

On Saturday, May 8th, members of the Belfast Radio League will present April Fools, by Violet Methley and Armstrong Gibbs. This will be the first dramatic venture by members of the League, but not, we hope, the last.

A Children's Radio Magazine.

The Edinburgh Children's Radio Magazine is still winning fresh friends, and its old supporters are showing no signs of falling away. Of course, those who are responsible for the magazine would have no objections whatever to a very much larger circulation, since the greater the circulation, the larger the sum of money which will be available for handing over to charities in the city and district. The Uncles and Aunts, therefore, lose no opportunity of asking the children to introduce the magazine to their friends and to persuade them to take it regularly.

The magazine appears monthly, and can be had at the price of 6d. post free on application to the B.B.C., 87, George Street, Edinburgh.

BACH FOR THE CHILDREN.

ALTHOUGH two centuries have passed since the days of John Sebastian Bach, it is only quite recently that ordinary folk have begun to understand and love the great master's music. He has always been greatly honoured by composers, in particular by Mendelssohn and Schumann; but there is so much in Bach's music for the cleverest musicians to study that it came to be regarded as neither interesting nor suitable for people who merely want to enjoy music and not to study it.

While people who understand "counterpoint" will always wonder at the marvellous skill and ease which Bach shows in weaving the most elaborate "sound patterns," this is only the method he uses for expressing feelings that we can all understand.

Bach composed a number of concertos which are works for one or more solo instruments with orchestral accompaniment. Of the six for solo pianoforte, the one in D Minor which is included in the concert for children to be broadcast from London on Friday, April 30th, is the most popular.

TCHAIKOVSKY'S "FRANCESCA DA RIMINI."
(LONDON, GLASGOW, AND OTHER STATIONS, SUNDAY.)

THE story of Francesca da Rimini was suggested to Tchaikovsky as a subject for an opera, but he felt that it could better be treated as a "Symphonic Poem," that is, as a descriptive and suggestive orchestral work.

In the fifth Canto of Dante's Inferno we are told of the poet's arrival at a dreadful place, "mute of all light," where rages "the infernal hurricane that never rests."

Here he meets Francesca, who relates her tragic story.

She, the wife of Giovanni Malatesta, Lord of Rimini, was loved by his brother Paolo.

Malatesta, finding the lovers together, murdered them. For their sin, they are condemned to drift for ever in the desolate second circle of the Inferno.

Tchaikovsky, in the opening of his tone-poem, depicts the gloom of that terrible place of "Hell's Whirlwind." He told his brother that Dore's pictures had helped him to get the atmosphere for this weird scene.

Chords for the BRASS, with strokes of the GONG, are first sounded.

The Whirlwind rises (CELLO and ENGLISH HORN, VIOLIN and CLARINET replying.)

The mournful, chromatic FIRST MAIN TUNE proper is heard, after a little time, on HORNS. It is continued by FLUTES.

After a great climax and the return of the Brass theme that began the work, the CLARINET announces the Tune of Francesca, pathetic and tender.

After the FLUTE and OBOE have repeated this theme, the time changes; the beat is now divided into threes, and the ENGLISH HORN, echoed by OBOE, gives out a syncopated melody with HARP accompaniment.

Soon Francesca's theme is heard again, and later a climax seems to suggest the lovers' tragedy, culminating in their death.

Their punishment in the Place of Whirlwinds is depicted in the remaining part of the music, which moves to its close in increasing stress and agitation.

COLERIDGE-TAYLOR'S "BALLADE."

(MANCHESTER, SUNDAY.)

Manchester is giving a programme of pieces by the Anglo-African composer, Samuel Coleridge-Taylor. He is perhaps best known for his setting of Hiawatha, the Ballet Music from which is included in this programme. He wrote the Ballade in A Minor for the Gloucester Festival when he was only twenty-three.

It begins with a roughly energetic introductory Theme on the STRINGS.

The WOODWIND has the FIRST MAIN TUNE, STRINGS accompanying, sometimes with a plucked (pizzicato) effect, sometimes with a tremolando.

The opening matter having been repeated, an episode (starting with a lengthened form of the First Main Tune on the TRUMPET), leads to the SECOND MAIN THEME (MUTED VIOLINS and VIOLAS, over sustained WOODWIND and pizzicato CELLOS).

On this material the Ballade is built up. Though it has no actual story behind it, one can easily imagine it as a musical commentary on some old chivalric tale of love and warfare.

CHERUBINI'S "ANACREON" OVERTURE.

(CARDIFF, THURSDAY.)

Anacreon, or Fugitive Love, is one of the many Operas that have been ruined by poor libretti. Cherubini's music had plenty of life in it, but the plot never had any, and so the work was a failure when it was brought out at the Paris Opera in 1803.

Programme Pieces.

Yet the Overture is one of the best things Cherubini ever did. It begins with a dignified, slow Introduction, in which the WOODWIND instruments have some charming imitative passages.

This goes straight into a Quick Movement, full of energy and of brilliant writing, especially for the VIOLINS.

The one MAIN TUNE on which the Movement is largely built begins with several quiet but insistent repetitions of one note, in the bass, and goes on to a busy VIOLIN THEME, chiefly in arpeggio style.

This is repeated and dealt with so vivaciously and with so much variety that the Overture sparkles along in the liveliest way imaginable, putting one in just the right mood for an operatic happy-go-lucky tale of love-making and humorous intrigue.

SCHUMANN'S FIRST SYMPHONY.

(BOURNEMOUTH, THURSDAY.)

SCHUMANN did some of his finest work when for a period he concentrated on some particular form of music. The year of his marriage, for instance, brought forth scarcely any instrumental music, but a number of splendid songs. Then he had a Symphonic period, and later there was a spell in which Chamber Music particularly attracted him.

In the first year of his married life he wrote no fewer than three symphonic works. He described his First Symphony as "born in a fiery hour." Certainly the inspiration flowed with wonderful freedom, for it is said that the outlines at least of the work were sketched in four days. He called this a "Spring Symphony," the First Movement suggesting to him "Spring's Awakening," and the last "Spring's Farewell."

LITTLE GIPSY: 'Thus the ewe, her lamb caressing, Watches with a mother's fear,
While she eyes her little blessing
Thinks the cruel wolf is near.

The plot thickens, and presently we find the lovers kneeling to old Farmer Furrow asking his forgiveness and blessing, and the Little Gipsy appeals to him in the song:—

Love reigns this season, makes his choice,
And shall not we, with birds, rejoice?
O calm your rage, with Nature say:—
"Be kind with me, the first of May."

And so, as we might have expected, the happy ending comes and this charming little Opera ends in a chorus of song:—

CLOD: Shall our hearts on Mayday
(Lack and a well-a-day)

Want their recreation?
No, no, no, it can't be so,
Love with us must bud and blow
Unblighted by vexation.

WILL F.: Shall a maid on Mayday
(Lack and a well-a-day)
Die of desperation?
No, no, no, for pity's sake,
To your care a couple take,
And give 'em consolation.

LITTLE GIPSY: Shall a youth on Mayday
(Lack and a well-a-day)

Lament a separation?
No, no, no, the lad is true,
Let him have of love his due,
Indulge his inclination.

FURROW: Shall my heart on Mayday
(Lack and a well-a-day)

Refuse its approbation?
No, no, no, without our breasts
Rage, revenge, and suchlike guests
Should have no habitation.

WILL F.: We no more on Mayday
(Lack and a well-a-day)

Shall ever know vexation,
No, no, no, your worth we'll sing
Join your name to bounteous Spring
In kind commemoration.

A May-Day Opera.

CHARLES LAMB once declared that a man who likes apple pie is incapable of a serious crime, and one feels instinctively that a one-act opera entitled May Day, or The Little Gipsy, with music by Dr. Arne, must be quite incapable of boring the listener, whatever his—or her—measurement of brow may be. This delightful little eighteenth-century piece—the words are by Dr. Johnson's friend, Garrick, the famous actor—is to be broadcast from London and all relay stations on the evening of May Day. We give here a very brief outline of the plot, together with the words of all the songs, so that listeners may follow the story without difficulty.

The scene opens, naturally enough, on the village green with a merry company of lads and lasses of the kind who are so well known in operas of this type. They are, of course, dancing round the maypole when the curtain rises—or, rather, when the microphone is switched on—singing the opening chorus:—

O lovely May,
The first of sweet May!
Spring opens her treasure
Of mirth, love, and pleasure:
The earth is dress'd gay,
We see all around,
And we hear from each spray
That Nature proclaims
A festival day.

Then follows a little dialogue which tells us that old Squire Goodwill has left a rich legacy to be given to the lad and lass who get married on May Day. The girls are complaining of the backwardness of their swains, and Clod, the servant to Will Furrow, the son of a rich farmer in the district, bursts into a song describing the fine ladies of London Town:—

What's a poor simple clown
To do in the town?
Of their freaks and vagaries I'll none:
The folks I saw there
Two faces did wear.

An honest man ne'er has but one.

Let others to London, to London go roam,
Let others to London go roam,
I love my neighbour, to sing and to labour,
To me there's nothing like country and home.

Nay, the ladies, I vow,
I cannot tell how,
Were now white as a curd and now red,
Law! How you would stare
At their huge crop of hair,
'Tis a haystack o' top of their head.

Let others to London, to London go roam, etc.

Then the fops are so fine,
With lank-waisted chine,
And a little skimp bit of a hat,
Which from sun, wind or rain,
Will not shelter their brain.
There's no need to take care of that.

Let others to London, to London go roam, etc.

After this, the hero—Will Furrow—and his pretty sister Dolly make their appearance, and Will learns that in his absence his father is actually making love to the girl upon whom Will has set his heart. Dolly explains that she and Will's sweetheart, disguised as gipsies, are coming to the village that very day and Dolly presently sings a verse of a song:—

Would women do as I do,
With spirit scorn dejection,
The men no arts could fly to,
We'd keep 'em in subjection.

But if we sigh or simper,
The love-sick farce is over,
They'll bring us soon to whimper,
And then, good night the lover!

After that, Will and Dolly leave the stage and Farmer Furrow and the village crier enter, and we learn of the nefarious plot of Will's father to marry his son's sweetheart and win old Squire Goodwill's legacy. Presently the villagers gather round and hear the terms of the Squire's will, and Will Furrow gives us a taste of his quality in another song:—

Yes, I'll give my heart away,
To her will not forsake it;
Softly, maidens, softly pray,
You must not snatch,
Nor fight nor scratch,
But gently, gently take it.
Maidens, come put in your claim,
I will not give it blindly,
My heart a lamb, tho' brisk, is tame,
So let each lass,
Before me pass,
Who wins, pray use it kindly.
All have such bewitching ways,
To give to one would wrong ye,
In turn to each my fancy strays,
So let each fair
Take equal share,
I throw my heart among ye.

And now the Little Gipsy herself enters, and being a coloratura soprano, she naturally sings a little song:—

All hail to thee, sweet bounteous May,
Let me thy kindness prove,
That I may tune my artless lay
Inspired by thee and love.
O Love, be all thy magic mine,
Two faithful hearts to save,
The Glory as the cause, be thine,
And heal the wounds you gave.

The villagers, with Will Furrow among them, ask the Little Gipsy to tell them their fortunes and to sing another song. She obliges with:—

Oh, spread thy green mantle, sweet May, o'er the ground,
Drive the blasts of bleak Winter away,
Let the birds sweetly carol thy flow'rets around,
And let us with all Nature be gay.
In Spring's choicest treasures the village be drest,
Festal joy let the season impart,
When rapture mounts high and o'erflows from each breast,
'Tis the May, the sweet May of the heart.

Then follows an amusing scene which ends in Dolly Furrow, disguised as the Little Gipsy's mother, singing to the assembled villagers:—

Young maids and young swains, if you're curious to know,
What husbands you'll have and what wives,
From above I can know what you'll do here below,
And what you have done all your lives.

Don't blush, never fear, I'm old and I'm wise,
And I read in your eyes,
I must whisper a word in your ear.

When a stupid old man weds a foolish young wife,
Or an old woman weds a young man;
For such husband and wife I read danger and strife,
For Nature detests such a plan.

Will and the Little Gipsy now discuss the problem of getting old Farmer Furrow's consent to their marriage, and they sing the following duet of true love:—

WILL: Passion of the purest nature
Glow within this faithful breast,
While I gaze on each dear feature
Love will let me know no rest.

Five Hundred Pounds in Cash Prizes, divided as follows:—

1st Prize £200
2nd " £100
3rd " £50
10 Prizes of £5 each 100 " " £1 " "

will be awarded to listeners who succeed in identifying the greatest number of Artists, Items and Novel Problems that are being set for this special programme. All listeners will have an opportunity of winning some of these prizes, as the programme is to be simultaneously broadcast from all stations.

The concert is made up of both "straight" and mystery numbers, and the public will be asked to express its appreciation of this evening's special entertainment by sending a contribution to the Daily Graphic for the Infants' Hospital, and—if at the same time competing for some of the £500 offered in prizes—to accompany each set of solutions sent in with at least 1/- for the Hospital.

Among the Artists helping are: Miss GLADYS COOPER, Madame MIRIAM LICETTE, Sir GERALD DU MAURIER, Mr. HENRY AINLEY, Mr. GEORGE GROSSMITH, Mr. NELSON KEYS, Mr. ROBERT RADFORD, Mr. TUDOR DAVIES, Mr. MAX DAREWSKI.

Also certain other Artists equally well known whose identity is being withheld.

Father RONALD KNOX, and Professor DANIEL JONES, of University College, London, are among those giving mystery items.

Also DE GROOT and the PICCADILLY ORCHESTRA.

Further items by the KNELLER HALL MILITARY BAND, conducted by Lieut. H. E. ADKINS, Mus.Bac., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., and DE GROOT and the PICCADILLY ORCHESTRA.

Several Mystery Novelties and Sound-Effect Cameos will be broadcast.

- BIRMINGHAM NEWS.
BIRMINGHAM'S Sunday afternoon programme includes several items not previously broadcast, and is practically composed of either New World music or music having reference to the New World. The premieres include Sandford Skilton's suite Red Indian Dances, McDougal's second Indian Suite, and the Fantastic Suite of Ernest Schelling for piano and orchestra. Dvorak's New World Symphony (the slow and finale movements) will also be heard, while Mr. Gordon Bryan, the pianist, will give representative music by John Carpenter, Emerson Whithorne, Ernest Bloch and Percy Grainger, besides playing with the Orchestra in Schelling's Suite.
With the summer-time arrangements coming into operation on Monday, a considerable portion of the evening programme will now be given after 10 o'clock. From 8.0 to 8.30, a lecture song-recital (always an attractive musical feature with amateur musicians) on Sir Hubert Parry and Handel, will be given by Mr. Joseph Yates (baritone), and from 10.0 a varied programme from the Studio will contain quartets by the Cathedral Quartet, child impersonations by Mr. Albert

Daniels, and saxophone solos by Mr. James Donovan.

The event of Tuesday evening is the request programme in which listeners select the programme, with Miss Joan Maxwell (soprano), Miss Edith Williams (contralto) and Mr. Harold Howes (baritone) as the soloists.

Cricketers will have an opportunity on Wednesday night of hearing Mr. R. V. Ryder, secretary of the Warwickshire County Cricket Club, in an S.B. talk on the season's prospects of England versus Australia. The subsequent programme consists of songs by Mr. Alexander McCredie (the Scotch tenor), Mr. Edward Isaacs (pianist), and Miss Helen Henschel (a soprano), who will accompany her own songs. The Trio in B Flat (Sitt), two movements from the Trio in C Minor (Mendelssohn), the Dussek Sonata for violin and piano, and a suite of three pieces for the 'cello by Mr. Percy Pitt, are the programme items of the Freeman Pianoforte Trio from 10.0 to 11 p.m. on this evening.

Selections from Vincent Wallace's popular Maritana, practically the only Wallace music that has survived, will be given from 8.0. to 9.30 and 10.0 to 10.30 on Thursday night.

The fourth edition of Listening Time and a comedy in one act, Behind the Curtain, are features of the evening programme on Saturday.

good sound backing to the programme will be provided by Mr. Leonard Marsh, F.R.C.O., Mus. Bac., who is playing solos at the organ. There will also be some violin solos by Mr. Reginald Mouat, whose playing is becoming known to a wide circle of listeners. The lighter side will be provided by the humour of Scovell and Wheldon at the piano.

The Winter Gardens.

Thursday afternoon's programme will consist of a Symphony Concert relayed from the Winter Gardens, Bournemouth, when more good music will be heard, including Schumann's Symphony (No. 1) in B Flat, Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto in E Minor, and a charming orchestral suite of Finnish Sketches by Glazounov. In the evening, at 10.0, listeners will hear an interlude by Miss Winifred Ceci and Mr. William Fisher and a piano.

Something different is in store on Saturday evening, May 1st, when Will Seymour's "Bubbles" Concert Party will give a merry performance, and there will be items by the Bournemouth Wireless Orchestra.

BOURNEMOUTH NEWS.

ON Sunday afternoon, the Station Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Captain W. A. Featherstone, will give a representative Light Symphony programme, with Mr. Stuart Robertson, the well-known London baritone, singing some delightful songs by Schubert, Quilter, Schumann and Vaughan Williams; and Mr. Edgar Mouncher (violin), playing the famous Max Bruch Concerto in G Minor.

A further outside broadcast will be taken from the new Central Hall, Southampton, on Wednesday night, when items by Miss Kate Winter and Mr. Harry Brindle, well known to wireless enthusiasts, will be heard. A

- 4.25. The Making of a King.
Three Dramatic Episodes in the Life of David the Great King of Israel.
Musical Interludes on the Harp.
Mind-Picture I. A Room in Saul's Palace.
King Saul, in a melancholy and irritable mood, is awaiting the arrival of David, the shepherd stripling from Judah. David delights the King's heart by his naïve manner—and is made the royal armour-bearer.
Mind-Picture II. A Room in Saul's Palace.
David plays on a harp and sings to the King—refreshing him and scattering the mists of his evil
humours.
Mind-Picture III. A Hillside
upon which Saul's Army is Encamped.
The troops of Saul and those of the Philistines are drawn up in battle array on opposing hillsides. Goliath, the Philis-tine champion, has been shouting his defiant challenge to single combat each morning and evening for forty days. But no one will meet him. David, who is visiting the camp of the Israelites, bringing provisions, hears Goliath repeating his challenge. He begs to be allowed to fight the giant. Saul is persuaded to let him go—and arms David with his own accoutrements. But David decides to discard Saul's armour
—and goes forth to meet Goliath armed only with a staff, a sling and five smooth stones.

Time: August, 1915.
Betty Taradine, arrayed in Bond Street creations and wrapt in mystery, comes from London with her friend, Penelope Moon,
to live at the Manor House,
Petworthy, where Col. Preedy, commanding the Troops
billeted in Petworthy, is quartered. Miss Liptrott, the Vicar's sister, discovers that Betty is not—as was generally supposed
—a widow, but merely separated from her husband: and the breath of scandal waxes to a breere sufficiently strong to blow peace of mind from the Manor House. The arrival of the Adjutant, Capt. Rymill, complicates a tangled situation, which is not cleared up until the last few lines of the play are spoken.

Mind Picture.—The morning room at the Manor House on an August afternoon. It is really a hall, but there is no staircase, the exits being by two doors and a French window. Ambrose Liptrott, the benign, absent-minded vicar, and Miss Lip-trott, his sister, are introduced by Rose, the housemaid. They have come to call on Betty Taradine. Rose is the first to speak.

The Action begins in the Courtyard of an Old Country Inn, by Mrs. Waters. Benn, the exboatswain, has got his eyes on the Inn (not forgetting Mrs.
Waters) and decides that it is time he settled down.
Ned Travers, his friend, enters the scene, and together they concoct a simple plot with, of course, Benn as the hero. In Act II, we see the plan in action, how Benn is fooled, and how Travers comes into his own.

of the dramatized Biblical scenes will be given. The Making of a King is the title, and it describes famous episodes in the life of David.

Instrumental music and songs at the piano will be the main feature of Tuesday's programme. In the early part of the evening, Miss Helen Henschell and Mr. Edward Isaacs will be heard and, later, two local favourites, Mr. Leonard Busfield and Mr. Frank Thomas, will perform two violin duets by Spohr. The music of this composer is of an unusual kind, and although he has been rather neglected, he was in the forefront of musicians of his day. It is hoped to give more of this rather unusual kind of chamber music.

Billeted, a play by F. Tennyson Jesse and H. M. Harwood, will occupy the whole of the evening programme on Wednesday. When the play was produced at the Royalty Theatre, London, in 1917, it was an instantaneous success. The performance on Wednesday will be an adaptation of the comedy, which will revive memories of the lighter side of the Great War, without giving a suggestion of the grim drama.

Dame Ethel Smyth, the most famous of woman composers, has arranged with the Cardiff Station a programme of her own work for Thursday.

MANCHESTER NEWS. The British Trio.

THE British Trio are contributing a chamber concert for the Tuesday Midday Society's programme relayed from the Houldsworth Hall.
These players were heard from the Manchester Station on Sunday, February 7th, which was their first broadcast performance together. Mr. Alfred Barker (violinist), who was recently heard in London with Mr. Percy Pitt, is one of the Brodsky Quartet and a member of the famous Hallé Orchestra.
He was playing in Russia when the revolution began and had many exciting experiences while performing in the Imperial Palace. Mr. Clyde Twelvetrees is the leading 'cellist in the Hallé Orchestra and Mr. John Wills is equally well known as a talented pianist.

Child Impressions.

On Tuesday evening, listeners will hear Miss Gladys Simcoe, who is becoming well known as an entertainer and child impressionist. When seven years old, the music critics predicted for her a brilliant career as a contralto vocalist and gave her the title of "a miniature Clara Butt." Even now, her normal speaking voice forms a striking contrast to her appearance of a dainty, flaxen-haired little lady, but fame came to her as an elocutionist at school and during the war when she entertained the army with great success. She is equally popular with American broadcast audiences, having appeared at Station "FWAA," Dallas, Texas. She has been repeatedly asked to announce her own items in order that listeners may be convinced that it is not a child at the microphone.
In this programme she is to contribute two groups of special child studies.

A well-known local violinist, Mr.
Don Hyden, who is giving a half-hour recital on Wednesday, from 8.0 to 8.30 p.m., has achieved success as a soloist. Amongst his items is a composition by Mr. Eric Fogg entitled Poem. This was originally written for 'cello and piano, but has been scored specially for violin.

Mr. Geoffrey Dams, the operatic tenor, is singing a cycle of Brahms' songs from Teick's Magelone on Thursday night, from 10.0 to 10.30 p.m. This popular vocalist has an extensive repertoire and has appeared with success in repertory opera, singing in London the part of Midir in Rutland Boughton's Immortal Hour.

NEWCASTLE NEWS.

Musical Comedy.
THE Newcastle Station will revive some pre-war musical comedies on Wednesday evening, when the Station Orchestra will begin the evening programme with a selection from Florodora. This musical comedy was written by Mr. Leslie Stuart, and is a tale of an island in the South Seas. The music is very tuneful and most listeners will remember numbers such as "Tell Me Pretty Maiden," "Under the Shade of the Palm," "A Military Man," and the "Florodora" Waltz. Several vocal items will also be contributed by Miss Jennie Forster (soprano). Later, the Station Orchestra will give selections from The Belle of New York.

A Play.
At 8.30 p.m., musical comedy will give way to a play, The Grandfather Clock, after which, listeners will hear more musical comedy items from after the war productions.

Gertrude Johnson.
The programme on Tuesday will include a recital at 10.30 p.m., by Miss Gertrude Johnson, the well-known soprano. Miss Johnson was born in Hawksburn, Melbourne, Australia, the same city as Melba, and made her first appearance at the age of six at the Melbourne Town Hall, singing to an audience of 2,000. Melba heard her sing when she was seventeen, and supervised her training for three years at the Albert Street Conservatorium. Signor Cacialli, who was a guest of Melba at one of her classes, engaged her to sing Gilda (Rigoletto), Violette (Traviata), and Nedda (I Pagliacci). After this, she was engaged by Signor Rigo to sing Lucia, Gilda, Mimi, Margherita, for a season in Melbourne; then she toured Australia and New Zealand.

"RADIO TIMES" READING CASE.

Messrs. George Newnes, Ltd., have prepared a handsome case in red cloth with gilt lettering for "The Radio Times," complete with cord down the back to hold a copy of this publication. A pencil is indispensable to the listener during the course of the programme, and this is included conveniently in a slot at the side. Listeners should order this to-day from any Newsagent. It is published at 2s. 6d., or send 4d. extra to cover postage for a case from the Publisher, "The Radio Times," 8-11, Southampton Street, Strand, London, W.C.2.

GLASGOW NEWS.

TCHAIKOVSKY was born on April 25th, 1840, and as one of our great masters of music, it is fitting that his birthday shall be remembered. During the afternoon of Sunday, April 25th, a programme devoted to his compositions will be broadcast from the Glasgow Station, the chief item being the Concerto in G Major for pianoforte and orchestra, the solo part of which will be played by the rising young pianist Lafitte. This Concerto (Op. 44) is not so well known as the earlier work in B Flat Minor. It is, however, an extremely melodious, and in some respects brilliant work, and it is rather difficult to understand why it is not performed more often.

Other works by Tchaikovsky to be heard the same afternoon will be the popular Sleeping Beauty Suite, the orchestral fantasy Francesca Da Rimini (one of Tchaikovsky's most poetical conceptions), and the popular 1812 Overture.

An orchestral concert will be held in St. Andrew's Hall, Glasgow, at 8.0 p.m., on Thursday, April 29th, for which the modest sum of 1s. 2d. will secure entrance to any part of the house. Part of the concert is to be broadcast, including the Concerto for violin and orchestra by Sir Edward Elgar, the solo part of which will be played by Mr. Albert Sammons, the celebrated violinist.

A unique feature of Elgar's work is a cadenza at the end of the first movement, where the soloist is accompanied by a pizzicato tremolo on the part of the strings. This has a surprising effect. Mr. Albert Sammons is, perhaps, as competent as any living violinist to interpret this great work.

An item which will not be broadcast, but which will be performed during the concert, is Honegger's orchestral composition entitled Pacific 231. This composer is of Swiss nationality, but he spent some time in the United States, and in this composition he has apparently recorded his impressions of the big American locomotives—if such can be recorded musically. Some brief explanatory notes to assist hearers to follow the work will be found in the programmes on sale at the hall.

The remainder of the concert will be devoted to popular works such as the Valse Triste, by Sibelius, the Proeludium, by Jarnefeldt, who, like Sibelius, was a Finn by birth; the popular overture, The Merry Wives of Windsor, and Liszt's symphonic poem, Les Preludes. The title of the last named is taken from a passage of Lamartine's Meditation Poetique, where life is said to be "a series of Preludes to that unknown song to which death intones the first solemn note."

ABERDEEN NEWS.

WHAT should prove an interesting programme will be the concert performed under the auspices of the Students' Representative Council of the Aberdeen University, part of which is to be broadcast on Sunday evening, April 25th. The concert is the culminating effort of a week's endeavour in aid of charity. University students have their peculiar characteristics, and one of these takes the form of an annual outburst of energy to raise a sum of money larger than that obtained in the preceding year. For weeks past, concert parties have been scouring the land lying around Aberdeen. Sunday night's concert which begins at about 8.0, will include items by such well-known artists as Miss Gertrude Johnson and Mr. Neil McLean. One of the largest local orchestras ever heard in Aberdeen will also be present, under the conductorship of Mr. Walter Benson, the Aberdeen Station Musical Director. That part of the concert which is to be broadcast falls between 9.15 p.m. and the end. It will open with the brilliant overture of Rossini's opera, William Tell.

EDINBURGH NEWS.

THE Edinburgh Station next Saturday celebrates the second anniversary of its opening with a special programme appropriate to the occasion.
Listeners will recall that the station was opened on May 1st, 1924, in the Usher Hall, by the Rt. Hon. Lord
Provost W. L. Sleigh, in the presence of a very large audience.

A year later, at the birthday party of the station, the Lord Provost was again present, and once more this year Sir William and Lady Sleigh will be in the Studio during the birthday programme and will each make a short speech. Both Sir William and Lady Sleigh have taken a very close and friendly interest in the doings of the Edinburgh Station ever since it was started, and it is hoped that listeners will make a point of hearing what they have to say on this occasion. Other short speeches will be given on the same evening by Bailie Philips Smith, another very keen supporter of broadcasting in Edinburgh, and by Captain P. P. Eckersley, whose visits to Edinburgh are always eagerly looked forward to.

An item in the programme this evening is a sketch entitled As Ithers See Us, in which various points of view regarding broadcasting will be presented by operators and victims in a hairdresser's establishment.

BELFAST NEWS.

ON Monday, the "Bubbles" Concert Party visit Belfast on tour. Tuesday afternoon's programme includes a rather unusual recital of verse at 4.0, and a programme of Shakespearean incidental music at 4.15.

The principal feature of the Belfast programme on Wednesday will be the performance of the Blessed Damozel by the Belfast Station chorus and augmented orchestra. This work is a setting of the poem of Rossetti by Ernest Bristow Farrar. Farrar was born in 1885, and his death in France, in 1918, was a great loss to English music. Amongst his compositions are two rhapsodies for orchestra, a symphonic poem based on Matthew Arnold's Forsaken Mermaid, a Heroic Elegy for full orchestra, several pieces for string orchestra, and other works of interest. His English Pastoral Impressions received the much-coveted Carnegie Award. While many musicians prefer Debussy's Blessed Damozel as pure music, few would deny that Farrar's is an exquisite and wonderfully sympathetic interpretation of Rossetti's vision. The remainder of the programme contains works of Beethoven, Handel, and Haydn, and a group of songs by Miss Florence Holding.

On Thursday a programme of folk-songs from various parts of the world—Italy, Russia, Germany, Hungary, Norway and, of course, England and Ireland, has been arranged.

A Competition.

A little on the same lines is Saturday's competition programme, "Polyglot." In this, music of various countries will be played and announced, not in English, but in the language of the country of its origin. As announcers have been found to speak in some fifteen different tongues, the Studio will, on this occasion, give a very fair imitation of the Tower of Babel. Prizes will be offered to the two listeners who can name most correctly the country whence each number in the programme originated. Entries should be sent to the B.B.C. Studio, 31, Linenhall Street, Belfast. The competition closes after the first post on Tuesday, May 4th.

On the same evening, there will be a short piano and song recital by Messrs. G. O'Connor Morris and Hugh Thompson. The former will play Schumann's Kreisleriana and the latter will be heard in songs of Somervell.

French and Spanish.

Among the new talks for the early summer period, Belfast has an interesting series of talks in French and Spanish alternately on Wednesday, at 7.40. Those in French will take the form of readings from French literature, and the Spanish talks will deal with Spanish history and culture.

THE BRANDOLA

Do you get the harmonic setting or just the melody as it is played by the fellow who makes the most noise? What of the other instruments? Is the music robbed of their colourful assistance; their blending and relief? Relegate the powerful chap to his proper place and bring in all the lesser harmonies of the skilfully woven melody with the Brandola. It reproduces their full beauty in clear and powerful tones. The upper registers are never thin, nor the lower overwhelming. It has the correct acoustical quality and is mechanically perfect. Height 26ins., special non-resonant horn, thumbscrew adjustment to diaphragm, walnut plinth with nickel-plated fittings.

The Fellophone 108 volt H.T. Battery, 13/-

THE FELLOPHONE SUPER HIGH TENSION BATTERY.

The silent and efficient working of your set depends upon a High Tension Battery which will deliver a constant voltage, free from crackling and parasitic noises throughout its long life.

The Fellophone Super High Tension Batteries give these results, and our policy of selling them direct to you through the post, enables you to obtain a really first-class H.T. Battery at remarkably low prices.

The 54 Volt Battery has a special tapping enabling you to bias the grid of your valves with a negative potential of three volts.

The 60 Volt Battery is tapped every three volts and the 108 Volt Battery every 6 volts, each being supplied complete with black and red wander plugs.

You can only obtain these batteries direct from us or our branches. Write to-day.

The Dull Emitters which made the Portable Set possible

SO long as bright emitter valves were the only ones available the really portable Receiver was impracticable. No one wanted to carry big 6-volt accumulators out into the country for the pleasure of enjoying a Radio concert in the meadows—it wasn't worth the trouble. And even when the first dull emitters became more popular their extreme fragility rendered them unsuitable for the inevitable rough handling which every Set must get when carried from place to place.

And so the portable Receiver lagged in development. But with the introduction of the Wuncell, summer Radio becomes a new delight. It is now quite easy to design a three-valve Receiver which can be fitted into an attaché case complete with a 2-volt unspillable accumulator. Such a Receiver will give at least 10 to 12 hours' reception on one charge. And, what is more important still, the Wuncell valves will not be harmed by the vibration and rough usage to which such a Receiver will be subjected.

The reason for this lies in the design of the filament and its method of manufacture. Instead of being a long straight filament, it is arched and further stayed at its centre with a third support. Instead of obtaining low current consumption by thinning down the filament at the risk of fragility, the Wuncell filament is manufactured under an entirely new process. This permits an exceptionally high electron emission at a temperature of only 800 degrees—when the Wuncell Valve is working its glow is practically invisible in daytime. Even in the dark, it is no more apparent than the luminous figures on a watch dial. As a result, therefore, we have every confidence in saying that the Wuncell Valve is quite as robust as even the well-known Cossor Bright Emitter.

March 18, 1926.

Dear Sirs,

I have to-day received the complete "Little Giant" set quite safely.

Having tried it this evening I can congratulate you on producing an article very worthy of public patronage, at a cost which enlightens one as to the profits of your competitors in the Wireless Trade.

Both the set and the Baby Speaker afford me complete satisfaction and I shall confidently recommend you.

In case of your using this letter for publicity purposes let me inform the public that "I hold no shares."

Yours faithfully, J. G. Sells.

The above is one of hundreds of similar letters received from delighted Little Giant users any of which may be inspected at our offices.

Do not hesitate, you will certainly never find such wonderful value anywhere else.

Get a "Lissenola"—then build this big, powerful loud speaker for a few pence

Summer in the garden! Lazy afternoons and peaceful evenings—lolling at ease, idly listening to the mellow music of a LISSENOLA.

On such occasions the discomfort of headphones is intolerable. Perfect enjoyment demands a good loud speaker—and there is no better loud speaker than the one you can make yourself with the LISSENOLA, even though the complete instrument costs less than 15/-. Prove this yourself. Before buying go to your dealer—ask him to put on the best loud speaker he has in stock—then put the same horn on the LISSENOLA, and see if you can notice any difference.

You buy only the LISSENOLA—the horn we show you how to make. A big one—for you are building no miniature loud speaker when you build with a LISSENOLA but a powerful instrument ideally suited to outdoor conditions. Or, if you possess a gramophone you have only to substitute the LISSENOLA for the sound box to convert it into an excellent radio loud speaker at once.

The LISSENOLA costs 13/6d. and with each instrument we give you detailed instructions and full size patterns for building a big horn of proved efficiency. You cannot go wrong. You can make this horn look really attractive—colouring it to suit your taste.*

With the LISSENOLA you can also build a cone or any other diaphragm working on the reed principle. All you need in addition is the Lissen Reed (Price 1/-).

DON'T ASK HIM IN

Give lightning an easy way down to a good earth and he will never trouble you.

The easy way down for lightning is by the Climax Multi-Gap Lightning Arrester.

Provides a straight path to earth of very low reluctance. No switches. No shunt effects. Maximum signals. Protected from dirt, damp and other interferences.

THE CLIMAX LIGHTNING ARRESTER - - - Price 7/6

The Best Earth for lightning is an independent direct earth. A gas pipe earth is dangerous, a water pipe is a risk. ANY inside earth is asking for trouble; get a Climax direct earth to-day and be safe. You can use the same earth for lightning as you use for your set, but a separate independent earth is better.

There is no better earth for lightning or for your receiver set than the Climax Earth. But it must be a genuine Climax Earth.

The genuine Climax Earth is easy to instal. Just drive it in. The patented plough point and watercourse forming projections are an essential feature. An ordinary tube is a poor earth because it fits loosely in the ground. Insist on the genuine Climax and ensure perfect earth contact. Now available in two models.

CLIMAX COPPER EARTH for the connoisseur, full size 5/-

CLIMAX GALLOY EARTH for the economist, full size 2/6

THE CLIMAX LOW-LOSS INSULATOR

stands four times the flash over voltage of the ordinary insulator with far less capacity to earth. It will stand a pull of over two cwts., is entirely non-hygroscopic, unaffected by rain, and is self cleaning. The small extra cost is well justified by the decidedly improved reception. Price 1/- per pair.

CLIMAX SHOCK ABSORBER SET comprising four Climax Low-Loss Insulators and two Climax Shock Absorber Springs - - - 3/-

THE CLIMAX FOLDING FRAME AERIAL.

Ingeniously constructed to open or fold in a few seconds with the greatest ease. The two flat coils mechanically and electrically balanced combine the advantages of both the pancake and solenoid types of windings. A centre tapping is provided for use with special circuits.

The CLIMAX Folding Frame Aerial is very attractive in appearance, extremely efficient and conveniently portable. The stand also folds. Undoubtedly the best folding frame aerial and very reasonable in price.

Louden Valves

"for both volume and clarity"

Messrs. Fellows Magneto Co. 19, Cardiff Street, Treorchy, Glam. 9/2/26.

Dear Sirs,—I beg to acknowledge herewith receipt of Parcel which came safely to hand on Friday last, and to state that the Louden Valves are giving every satisfaction. They are all that you claim them to be and much more. I have been using valves of various makes for these years and thought I was getting best possible results, but I find that for both volume and clarity none, so far, is equal to your Loudens, and needless to say no other make will in future adorn my set.

All my "wireless friends" think them wonderful. You are at liberty to make whatever use you like of this letter as I feel that the public ought to know the full value of good reception combined with economy.—Yours faithfully, EDWARD RUSSELL.

The sale of Louden Valves is still going up by leaps and bounds. From all hands we get glowing tributes such as the above from delighted users who now number scores of thousands. You will see from the list below that there is now a Louden Valve for every receiving purpose. Send for your Louden Valves by post to-day and get "both volume and clarity."

CHARGE YOUR ACCUMULATOR AT HOME.

Please state carefully the voltage and frequency of your mains. This information can be obtained from your meter.

Send for our 44-page illustrated catalogue No. 10 free, and for descriptive leaflet of this charger.

Have you alternating current electric light in your home?

If so, write to us to-day and order a Fellow's Accumulator Charger. You simply plug it into any lamp-holder, give a twist to the spindle, connect up your accumulator and leave it until charged.

This charger will save its own cost in a few weeks. To begin with, you need only have one accumulator, because it can be charging when not in use.

Secondly, you will be saved all journeys to the charging station and you will always have a fully-charged battery on hand. Finally, the charging cost is extremely low, working out at about 1d. for 10 hours' charging at 2 to 3 amps.

This charger is perfectly safe; it avoids all mess; it is entirely automatic and has no expensive parts to renew. It is designed to charge 4 or 6 volt L.T. accumulators; but 2 volt L.T. accumulators can be charged if two are connected in series to the terminals delivering 4 volts. Sent packing free, carriage forward on SEVEN DAYS' APPROVAL against cash.

WIRELESS FROM ELECTRIC LIGHT!

With the Ducon- you just plug it in

If you have electric light, you already have an aerial in every room.

Buy a Ducon (it costs only 10/-) and when you plug it into a lamp holder it at once acts as an aerial. You simply connect it to your set.

The Ducon uses no current, is absolutely safe, and does not interfere with your electric light in any way.

By using a Ducon, you can have wireless in any room simply by moving your set.

The Ducon can be bought from all good wireless shops.

H.T. FROM YOUR MAINS

Even the most efficient High Tension Batteries require constant replacements, and the money spent in this way is, for a multi-valve set, considerable.

Overcome this difficulty by writing to-day for a Fellophone H.T. Supply Unit—try it for 7 days and, if it fails to give complete satisfaction, return it undamaged to us with seal intact and your money will be refunded. The Fellophone H.T. Supply Unit is made in two types (1) For Alternating Current, and (2) For Direct Current. Please state when ordering the voltage of your mains and (if alternating) the frequency. Note.—You can obtain this information from your meter.

These units are simplicity itself to operate: merely plug the adaptor into a Lamp Holder and connect up the appropriate terminals to your set exactly as you would an H.T. Battery.

These Units have NO MOVING PARTS; there are NO CHEMICALS, consequently NO MESS, and they will last indefinitely. They are ABSOLUTELY SAFE in use and they give PERFECT SILENT RECEPTION. Further the current consumed is LESS than that of a 10-candle-power lamp.

SPECIAL OFFER.

To popularise these Units we are making the following exceptional offer:

The FIRST 20,000 Units will be sold for £3 - 10 - 0 for the A.C. Type and £2 - 10 - 0 for the D.C. Type.

Send in your order to-day, accompanied by remittance and state (a) the voltage and frequency of your mains, (b) the voltage of H.T. you require for your set. H.T. Units, whether A.C. or D.C., are made to supply either 50 or 100 volts at 10 to 15 milliamps, in every case.

For further information write for our illustrated leaflet H.T.S.

MARCONIPHONE "IDEAL" Transformers

The most dependable and efficient Intervalve Transformer that human skill and ingenuity has yet devised.

Next to the Valve no component has had such a far-reaching effect in the attainment of perfect wireless reception as the transformer. The "Ideal" is guaranteed to amplify without distortion at all frequencies. Each transformer is subjected to a series of exacting tests, and is impregnated with a specially prepared insulating medium called "Marconite" which protects the windings from breakdown and corrosion. Every "Ideal" Transformer is unconditionally guaranteed for a year from the date of purchase.

The performance of the Junior Model is consistent with that of the Standard Model. It is designed chiefly to follow a detector valve which is usually of high impedance.

The "IDEAL" is produced in four ratios, viz.: 2.7 to 1, 4 to 1, 6 to 1, and 8 to 1

A Four Valve Combination with Low Current Consumption

Accompanying table gives approximate data for a recommended combination of Marconi Valves for a four-valve set, with a minimum of L.T. and H.T. current consumption. It is operated by a 4-volt accumulator, or, if necessary, by 3 dry cells. Provided the circuit is efficient, the transformers and other components are of good quality, it will give exceptional results for both long-distance and broadcast reception on both headphones and loud speaker.
