Our Second National Anthem?

By PERCY A. SCHOLES.

THE Editor of The Radio Times asks that I will write for his readers a brief account of the poem and the music of Jerusalem, which was performed with such thrilling effect on the night when the end of the General Strike was announced.

Jerusalem, I have suggested, constitutes our second National Anthem. Our first National Anthem, which very few of us would wish to displace, comes down to us from a time when such compositions rather narrowly focussed themselves upon a single person, the foremost person in the nation, the most representative, and the most symbolic. In singing "God Save the King," we imply, also, "God Save the Country," but we do not say it. Time and again has been made the effort to supply this omission; the opening of the Great War, it will be recalled, brought into the columns of the newspapers many attempts at additional verses to our National Anthem, which should widen its thought. Such attempts will probably always fail. To add to an old tradition is probably impossible; to establish a new one may be easier. Surely, in Blake's poem we have the very complement desired to "God Save the King"—its only defect in this connection being that by "England" we are to understand that we include the Empire.

The greatest merit, perhaps, of this "secondary National Anthem," is its expression of a determination to do something for the land we love. And in singing of that determination we can cast our thought back to the England of Blake's day (an England of child factory workers and child chimney-climbing sweeps, of farm labourers on ten shillings a week, of men transported for poaching a hare), and realize that the determination is gradually fulfilling itself. There is, then, hope in our singing, as well as resolve.

And did those feet in ancient time
Walk upon England's mountain green?
And was the Holy Lamb of God
On England's pleasant pastures seen?

And did the countenance divine Shine forth upon our clouded hills?
And was Jerusalem builded here
Among these dark satanic mills?
Bring me my bow of burning gold!
Bring me my arrows of desire!
Bring me my spear: O clouds, unfold!
Bring me my chariot of fire!
I will not cease from mental fight,
Nor shall my sword sleep in my hand,
Till we have built Jerusalem
In England's green and pleasant land.

As my correspondence has shown me, there are some readers to whom the facts of Blake's life are little known. They cannot be at all fully given here. He was a Londoner, and next year will see the centenary of his death at the age of seventy. He was by trade an engraver, but he was also poet and prophet. It may be said that he was crazed, and so on one side of his mind he probably was, for he wrote huge books which only a few people have ever read and even they have not been able to understand. But he was a genius and a tender-hearted lover of humankind. What Blake's eyes saw his mind transfigured. "What?" it will be questioned, "when the sun rises, do you not see a disc of fire somewhat like a guinea?"—"Oh, no, no! I see an innumerable company of the heavenly host, crying, Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord God Almighty! I question not my corporeal eye, any more than I would question a window concerning a sight. I look through it, and not with it." That gives us something of a clue to the way in which we should regard the symbolism of Blake's poetry. As Mr. J. C. Stobart, the B.B.C.'s Director of Education, writes:—

"The words of a mystical poet such as Blake do not admit of literal explanation word by word. Besides being a poet, Blake was also a painter and a prophet. He did not write like a logician. He has visions. He sees pictures. Where the modern journalist would say, 'Is England really a Christian country?' Blake sees a picture of the pierced feet of the Saviour walking upon England's green hills; and so he asks in wonder, 'Did Christ ever come to England?' Where the journalist might ask, 'Can we ever realize practical Christianity, in an industrial country governed by the capitalist system?' Blake merely asks, 'Was Jerusalem builded here among these dark tutes Movement, the Competition Musical Festival Movement, and so forth. And I understand that it appears in Labour Hymn Books. Indeed, the merit of this "Secondary National Anthem" is this—its vision is so general, its ideals so wide, that all who love their country can join in it.

Mr. Plunket Greene, in writing of Parry's songs, has said:—

"They are like himself—'out-of-doors,' diatonic and in the major, and, like his lyrical songs and the rest of his music, they are his own. They never could be mistaken for anybody's children but his. They owe no more to folk-song than they do to Brahms; yet they are as unmistakably English as satanic mills?' Where the modern editor would write a strong plea for idealism, Blake merely sees pictures of the Christian's armoury—the bow of burning gold as the weapon of offence to destroy hypocrisy; the arrows of desire, the keen longing for perfection; and the chariot of fire representing, I suppose, the vehicle by which the prophet rises to the heights. The heavenly city of Jerusalem is, of course, founded upon the Book of Revelation, transmuted by Milton and Bunyan into the English idealist's view of perfection. He has in mind, no doubt, such verses as 'They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain,' 'They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more,' 'There shall be no more sorrow,' and 'God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes.'

As for the story of Parry's composition of the music to Jerusalem, this is told in Mr. C. L. Graves' recent life of him. Dr. Bridges, the Poet Laureate, first proposed the task to Parry. He wanted the song for a Queen's Hall meeting of the "Fight for Right" movement, during the war. One of the first performances of it was at an Albert Hall celebration of the completion of the first stage of the Votes for Women Campaign, a meeting at which the Bach Choir and Parry supplied the music. Mrs. Fawcett, in writing to thank Parry, said: "Your Jerusalem ought to be made the Women Voters' Hymn." But Jerusalem is too big to be tied down to any one use, and "movement" after "movement" has adopted it—the Women's Insti-

Stanford's are Irish. How little he knew, when he gave Jerusalem to Walford Davies with the words, 'Here's a tune for you, old chap. Do what you like with it,' that within a year or two of his death it would have grown to be the national song of his country, and the hymn, by adoption, of the great competition festivals which are the outward and visible signs of our musical renaissance!

"Those of us who have seen and heard the massed choirs and audience, a couple of thousand strong, maybe, rise to their feet at the end of the day and sing Jerusalem in unison, know what the man who set those immortal words to music has done for England's green and pleasant land."

Several listeners have asked me to give definite particulars as to where Jerusalem may be obtained. Its publishers (on behalf of the Parry Trustees) are Messrs. Curwen and Sons, Ltd., of 24, Berners Street, W.1. There is an edition with vocal part only (sol-fa and staff together) at 3d.; another with piano accompaniment added at 4d.; a full sheet music "Soloist's Edition" at 2s.; and an Orchestral Score at 2s. 6d., with parts at 6d. each (this version is complete if only strings are present, though other instruments appear in the score and may be used). Moreover, there is another and more elaborate orchestral accompaniment for large orchestra, made by Sir Edward Elgar; the score and parts are kept at the Royal College of Music, and might perhaps be borrowed by conductors who require them.

A Radio Democracy.

A Look Into the Future.

IT is quite likely that the schoolboy of the year 2000 will read with amusement in his history book: "At first, there were attempts to treat broadcasting merely as a pastime and recreation, and the first suggestion of broadcasting the speeches of members of the old Parliament was bitterly opposed by members of all political parties." And reading that, the child of the future will give a smile of superiority at the quaint doings of his foolish ancestors.

For it is very certain that broadcasting will not always be kept out of political life as it is at present in this country. Does it not present a solution of the problem of the democratic control of our great modern nations?

Democracy, as we all know, first appeared in the City States of Greece. Each of the States had only a few thousand free inhabitants, and thus all political business could be conducted by mass meetings held in the city itself. But the lack of a Press and of rapid means of communication made any increase in the size of the State a danger to democracy. It was impossible for citizens living outside the small city boundaries to know accurately what was going on, or to make their wishes felt.

It was not until the advent of newspapers and of railway and telegraphic communication that democracy became a workable ideal. Yet, when Caxton brought his printing press to England, no one dreamt that it was to be the greatest weapon ever forged in the fight of democracy against tyranny and despotism.

And so to-day the citizen receives from his daily paper information of the doings of his Government such as would have been impossible in previous times; but it comes to him coloured by the views of the paper which selects and emphasizes what it considers to be the most important points. And so, naturally, it comes about that vital facts are not properly understood by the public.

Broadcasting stands ready to bring us into actual contact with all important discussions. Inevitably all parliamentary and industrial debates will be broadcast, and the ordinary man will hear at first hand the pros and cons of every act of governmental policy in which he is concerned.

Can you not see him, the citizen of the future, listening to a debate on some vital topic and then immediately sending out on his transmitting set an expression of approval or disapproval of his representative's point of view, to be recorded automatically, so that his M.P. can see to what extent his constituents approve of his doings?

If and when a generation arises in this country that is sufficiently public-spirited to want to take a more active share in the government of the nation, it will find that its democratic ideals can be realized through broadcasting, for this miracle of wireless gives us a means of keeping in touch with the centre of affairs that was impossible a few years ago.

"The Bohemian Girl."

THE next of the series of operas which it has been arranged to broadcast during the season will be given on Wednesday, September 15th, when The Bohemian Girl is to be presented. The libretto of this opera is, of course, among those specially prepared by the B.B.C., announcements concerning which will be found in due course in The Radio Times. The Bohemian Girl is the opera by which Balfe, its composer, is best known. It contains two songs popular all over the world: "I Dreamt that I Dwelt in Marble Halls" and "When Other Lips."

Our Studio at the Wireless Exhibition.

As already announced in The Radio Times, considerable use will be made of the temporary studio—a replica of the main studio at Savoy Hill—to be constructed at Olympia for the National Wireless Exhibition which takes place from September 4th to 18th. It has now been arranged that the programme on the closing day from this studio will consist of popular music by the R.A.F. Band, between 4 and 6 p.m., when songs will also be sung by wireless favourites. On the same evening, the Wireless Orchestra will give a gay, popular concert with the assistance of Miss Vivien Lambelet (soprano).

Merry Margate.

Another evening's programme provided by a seaside resort will be given from Margate through London and other stations on Friday, September 10th, beginning at 8 p.m., and ending at midnight. It will be opened by the Mayor of Margate, who will give a short address on the history of the town, followed by a performance by Murray Ashford's entertainers from the West Brook Pavilion, and a programme by the Band of the Royal Marines (Deal) from the open-air bandstand on the Queen's Lawns. There will be an interval from 9.30 to 10 p.m. for news and talks, after which, another concert will be given by the Margate Municipal Orchestra and dance music from 11 to 12 from the Queen's Highcliffe Hotel.

"The Awful Revue."

The title of a revue which is to be broadcast from the London Station and performed in the "glasshouse" studio at Olympia on Saturday, September 4th, will be The Awful Revue. It has been written by Mr. Peter Haddon, producer at the Winter Garden Theatre, the title being chosen as a change from other revues which are described as "wonderful, marvellous, and stupendous." It will be left to listeners to decide whether another mistake has been made!

The Philharmonic Trio.

An hour's programme will be given by the Philharmonic Trio from the London Station between 10 and 11 p.m. on Monday, September 6th, in place of one which was originally arranged to be given at this time by the Hague String Quartet. The Philharmonic Trio comprises an unusual combination of instruments, flute, oboe and piano, each of which is played by a distinguished artist—Mr. Albert Fransella, Mr. Leon Goossens and Mr. Francesco Ticciati. Not much modern music exists for this combination, but there is a surprising volume of beautiful old music from the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, of which their programme will be mainly composed. Among the modern works it will be interesting to hear two "Interlinked French Folk Melodies," a manuscript work of the distinguished composer, Dame Ethel Smyth, and a short work by Mr. Ticciati himself.

"Nerves."

A twenty minutes' sketch entitled Nerves, by Ann Stephens, which contains some delightful humour of a domestic and philosophical nature, will

August 31st, on Strange Cases of Mistaken Identity. At 7.10 on the same evening it is hoped to have a talk by Dr. Storr Best, M.A., Head Master of the Firth Park Secondary School, Sheffield, on Educational Activity in America. Dr. Storr Best has paid a recent visit to America to investigate developments in education. This talk will be S.B. from Sheffield to all stations.

The Chenil Chamber Orchestra.

A programme by Mr. John Barbirolli and the Chenil Chamber Orchestra will be broadcast from the London Station on Friday, September 17th. The Chenil Chamber Orchestra, which during the last few months has established itself as a favourite with listeners, will give a programme consisting mainly of classical works. The vocalist is to be Mr. John Goss, who will sing, with the orchestra, some of Herbert Hughes' attractive arrangements of Irish folk songs.

Radio in America.

All owners of receiving sets are naturally interested in the development of radio in other countries. Particularly does this apply to the progress which has been made in America since the days when broadcasting was started there a full year before it was begun in Great Britain. For this reason, a talk on American Broadcasting Activities, to be given by Professor L. A. Hazeltine, F.A.I.E.E., M.E., F.I.R.E., on Wednesday, September 1st, at 9.40 p.m., from the London Studio, will be S.B. from all stations. Professor Hazeltine is one of the outstanding radio scientists in America, having been Professor of Electricity at Stevens Institute of Technology, and the inventor of special receiving equipment for the United States Navy Department during and after the War. He is also inventor of the Neutrodyne patents, which have revolutionized American broadcasting receiver designs and eliminated whistling and howling from re-radiation.

Band Music from Dover.

A programme of popular music by the Band, drums, fifes and bugles of the 1st Battalion Lancashire Fusiliers, will be relayed from the Granville Gardens, Dover, and broadcast through Daventry on Monday, August 30th, between 8 and 9.30 p.m. The relay will be interspersed with interludes from the Studio.

Huguenot Festival Service.

It is hoped to broadcast on Sunday, November 7th, a Festival Service of the Huguenot Church from Canterbury, where services of this church have been held every Sunday since 1547. From time to time, Festival Services are held, when the full Crypt of Canterbury Cathedral is occupied instead of the Black Prince's Chantry, where the services normally take place, as they have done from the time of the original Huguenot settlers. The preacher will be the Rev. J. G. Bateson.

Rehearsing for the Stage.

An amusing and, at the same time, informative talk on Getting and Rehearsing a Part on the

THE EMORY UNIVERSITY GLEE CLUB.

These singers from America will broadcast from London on Thursday, August 26th. (S.B. from Daventry and other Stations.)

be included in the London programme at 8.20 p.m. on Thursday, September 2nd.

Dr. Campbell Morgan.

The evening service (public worship) which, as already announced in The Radio Times, is to be broadcast from Westminster Congregational Church through the London Station on Sunday, August 29th, when the Rev. Dr. G. Campbell Morgan is to give the address, will be preceded between 6.45 and 7 p.m. by a short organ recital by Mr. E. Emlyn Davies, F.R.C.O., organist of that church.

Ghosts and Mysteries.

Ghost stories and sea mysteries appeal to listeners old and young, and no one can tell them better than Mr. Elliott O'Donnell, who will be heard from the London Station at 7.40 p.m. on Tuesday,

The Rhyme of Harry Binns.

[On Monday, August 23rd, will be broadcast from all Stations the first of six consecutive Radio Recitals, entitled "The Sea Affair and Harry Binns." These have been prepared and will be performed by Mr. Corbett-Smith, who has written the following stirring verses as a Prologue to the Recitals, in the hope that they will be read by listeners before they hear the broadcast].

KING ALFRED sat a-thinking,
His elbow on his knee—
Those were stormy days for England
With the Danesmen loose at sea.
"We must build a fleet and meet them
Ere they land upon the shore;
And Harry Binns, my plowman,
Shall take a steering-oar."

The Conqueror William landed,
And Harold lost his crown,
When the lesson taught by Alfred
Was forgotten by the town.
The ships were all neglected,
The seamen-farmers fled,
And Harry Binns, the plowman,
Had become a clerk instead.

But Richard of the Lion Heart
Had wit enough to find
That the Sea was England's mistress
If her temper he could bind.
With mighty fleet of warships
He sailed for Palestine,
And Harry Binns, Crusader,
Helped him win the Holy Shrine.

Now Harry was a landsman,
With a landsman's hopes and fears,
But the waves were ever thundering
Their message in his ears—
"Keep then the wall of England,
The sea that rings her land,
And then is England fast-set
In might, through God His Hand."

He was poor enough to look at,
Weedy, undersized and thin,
But Celt and Dane and Norseman,
Hardy pirates, claimed him kin,
He knew not why nor wherefore,
No man told him how it came,
Yet the sea had but to call him
And his blood fired into flame.

It was Harry Binns, the tailor,
Shipped with Cabot for the West;
It was Harry Binns, the lawyer,
Strove with Hudson on his quest;
It was Harry Binns, Court dandy,
Ventured forth Virginia way;
And 'twas Harry Binns, the merchant,
Sacked the Dons in Cadiz Bay.

George Anson left St. Helens
With a weak and sickly crew—
Binns slipped aboard the Gloucester
Just to see the voyage through.
When Nelson called for shipmates
To man a "sixty-four,"
The Agamemnon's lower-deck
Stowed Binnses by the score.

With Rodney in the Indies,
With Hawke blockading Brest,
With Cochrane in the Speedy
Binns shared the splendid jest.
He left his loom in Bradford,
Shipped with Keyes for Po-chi-li;
Sold his draper's shop in Bristol
When the "clippers" sailed for tea.

In peace the years crept forward,
Adventuring days seemed past,
And all Binns held were memories
Of years before the mast,
The professional Royal Navy
The policeman's flag did fly,
With the notice on their gangways—
"No landsman need apply!"

Yet now and then some venture
Awoke his heart anew—
When Scott sought th' Antarctic
There was Binns amongst the crew.
He pioneered in Canada,
It wasn't quite the same;
After centuries' seafaring
The land seemed rather tame.

One day a race of landsmen
Flung the gage of battle down;
Binns rubbed his eyes in wonder
On the eight-fifteen to town—
"Why, bless my heart, they're crazy—
They can't know stern from bow;
Still—I might look in at Chatham—
P'raps there's something doing—now."

So Binns "looked in" at Chatham
With a thousand pals and more,
The R.N. gazed astounded
As they put out from shore.
Cried "Pays," all terror-stricken:
"What a ghastly crowd of duns!"
But he smiled when Binns saluted—
"Come aboard to serve the guns!"

In trawler or in battleship,
Destroyer, tramp and launch,
Binns sailed the Seven Seas over
With a laugh no toil could stanch.
The Indian Ocean knew him,
The Arctic Seas no less,
A-chasing of the submarine
And clearing up the mess.

Now those years, too, are ended,
Harry Binns is home again;
Any morning, up from Peckham,
You may meet him in the train.
Or in August, down at Margate,
Young Harry on his knee,
And wondering whether Mrs. Binns
Has shrimps at home for tea.

Maybe sailing days are over,
Closed, maybe, the Sea Affair,
And the paths that England follows
May lie henceforth in the Air.
But the tale of our seafaring,
Harry Binns (that's you and me),
Shall echo down the ages
Till God cries—"No more sea!"

THE LIBRARY'S NEW ALLY.

THE annual report of the City of Lincoln Library, for the year 1925-26, contains an interesting reference to the controversy as to whether broadcasting has helped or injured reading.

"In the earlier months of the year," it says, "there was a slight diminution in the demand for books as a result of the competing interest of wireless telephony. During the later months, however, there was not only a recovery in the number of books issued, but a noticeable increase. It is now clearly discernible that wireless is an assisting ally in the aims and work of public libraries, and that the broadcast Talks are creating and deepening the interest of the public in the higher forms of literature. Still more directly traceable to the influence of broadcasting is the increasing demand for music, of which, fortunately, the library contains a substantial and representative collection."

Official News and Radio Gossip.

Stage will be given by Miss Lois Stuart, from the London Station at 7.10 p.m. on Thursday, September 2nd. On the same evening, at 7.40, Mr. Watson Baker, F.R.M.S., will talk on a subject dear to the hearts of schoolboys and others, namely, Microscopes.

From Wesley's Chapel.

An inaugural service will be broadcast from Wesley's Chapel, City Road, London, through London and other stations between 8.15 and 8.55 p.m. on Sunday, September 5th, which is the first Sunday of the Wesleyan Church's year. The address will be given by the Rev. W. Russell Maltby, D.D., the new President of the Wesleyan Conference, and the service will be preceded by a short organ recital, also from the church, by Mr. Charles Warner.

Famous Prize Band at Manchester.

The famous St. Hilda's Colliery Prize Band, which has won the Crystal Palace Contest no fewer than four times—a record unequalled by any other band—will provide the afternoon concert from the Manchester Station on Sunday, September 5th.

"The Spirit of Carnival."

"The Spirit of Carnival" is the attractive title of the programme which will be broadcast from Birmingham on Thursday, September 2nd, at 8 o'clock, and on the following day, September 3rd, Birmingham will be visited by the famous Besses o' th' Barn Band, conducted by Mr. Harry Barlow.

Opera at Birmingham.

Scenes from popular operas will be played by the Three Counties School of Opera, directed by Mr. Sydney Russell, at the Birmingham Station on Tuesday, August 31st. Among these are included scenes from Il Trovatore, Faust and Figaro. Musical accompaniments will be provided by the Station Orchestra.

"The Idol of Jade."

A dramatic sketch entitled The Idol of Jade, by John Wright, will be given from the Newcastle Station on Thursday, September 2nd. It will be produced by the Station Repertory Company, and concerns Barcroft Hitchton, a dabbler in crime, Reg Smolland and Rene, his accomplices, and Burton, a Scotland Yard man. Listeners are introduced to the characters at a time when Hitchton is holding a conference at his flat with Reg Smolland and Rene, the other members of his "gang."

A Belfast and Glasgow Entente.

A new idea in the exchange of programmes will be carried out between the Belfast and Glasgow Stations on Saturday, September 4th, when, from 8 to 8.45 p.m., the Scottish Station will call Ulster with an Irish programme made in Glasgow. Then, for the next three-quarters of an hour, Ulster will retort with a Scottish programme made in Belfast. The verdict of listeners will be interesting.

Variety at Plymouth.

The well-known animal mimic, instrumental imitator and siffleur, Mr. Norman Clare, will contribute to a variety programme to be given from the Plymouth Station on Wednesday, September 1st. There will also be items by Miss Helena Millais, and Miss Alice Vaughan (contralto) will contribute a song recital from songs by Graham Peel, Brahms and Schubert.

Piano Recital at Stoke.

Half an hour's pianoforte recital by Mr. Leon Forrester will be given from the Stoke-on-Trent Station on Wednesday, September 1st, at 8 p.m. It will begin with Theme and Variations, by Glazunov, followed by items from Schumann, Schubert and Sgambati. The last part of Stoke's programme on that evening will be devoted to songs by women composers. It has been arranged by Mme. Lucy Hall, and the artists are Miss Doris Bennett, Miss Gladys Peake, Mr. John Cartwright and Mr. John Dawson.

PEOPLE YOU WILL HEAR THIS WEEK.

[Elliott & Fry.
Miss MIGNON NEVADA, the well-known Soprano, will broadcast from London on Sunday, August 22nd. (S.B. from all Stations.)

[Vaughan & Freeman.
Miss ANITA DESMOND (Soprano) will sing at Bournemouth on Monday, August 23rd.

Miss MARGUERITE ANDERSON (Contralto) will be heard from Edinburgh on Wednesday, August 24th.

[Foulsham & Danfield.
Mr. IVOR NOVELLO, the Popular Actor, will give excerpts from "Paolo and Francesca" from London on Sunday, August 22nd. (S.B. from all Stations.)

[Lenore.
Miss JANE COWL, the celebrated American Actress, is to broadcast from London on Sunday, August 22nd. (S.B. from all Stations.)

[De Haven.
Mr. DICK HENDERSON, the Yorkshire Comedian, will entertain London and other listeners on Tuesday, August 24th.

[Stovine.
Mr. PHILIP INMAN, who will talk on "A Day in the Life of a Large Hospital", on Saturday, August 20th. (S.B. from all Stations.)

[Jerome.
Mr. JAMES GLEDHILL (Tenor) will be heard by Bournemouth listeners on Sunday, August 22nd.

Dr. H. BROMLEY DERRY, whose Organ Recital at Savoy Chapel will be broadcast from London on Sunday, August 22nd. (S.B. from other Stations.)

[Smith.
Mr. ROBERT WATSON (Baritone) is to sing at Aberdeen on Tuesday, August 24th.

Listeners' Letters.

Popular Radio Plays.

[Listeners are reminded that we do not consider anonymous letters for publication. Preference is given to letters which combine interest with brevity. The Editorial address is Savoy Hill, Strand, London, W.C.2.]

I ENTIRELY agree with the views of your correspondent whose letter "A Plea for More Plays" you published recently. The broadcasting of such plays as Lady Windermere's Fan is a delight to all lovers of drama, but, alas! these occasions are too few and far between. There are many who have a great liking for drama as well as for music, and I am sure that it would please the majority of your listeners if such plays as the one mentioned above were broadcast a little more often in the place of so much jazz.—S. L. COPNALL, Overpool, Little Sutton, Birkenhead.

Broadcast the Rural Church.

We have all enjoyed the beautiful bells of Croyland Abbey. Some of us, through the interest thus caused, have journeyed into that desolate district to see the Abbey. Many, no doubt, would much appreciate to hear by wireless a service broadcast from this fine old building. This is not possible at present on account of the restoration of the building, but at a future date I am sure it could be arranged. The interest of such a service would be that we should have a truly rural audience in contrast to the more aristocratic or stately services we now enjoy. A breath of the country from Stoke Poges church, for instance, or a service from this remote Abbey, would bring memories back to many of our city dwellers.—FRANK E. HUCKLE, Belmont House, Granville Road, Luton.

Croyland or Crowland?

I AM well acquainted with the neighbourhood and I was always under the impression that it was Crowland Abbey. I thought it was a mistake the last time I saw it. Of course, I may be wrong.—G. CUNDALL, Rye Street, Bishop's Stortford.

[The name of the town, according to the Post Office spelling, is Crowland, but the Abbey is still known as Croyland.—Editor, The Radio Times.]

Dogs as Listeners.

YOUR correspondent Mr. Allan Heron wonders whether the instance of wireless communication between dogs that he quotes was the first recorded. We have a spaniel and a fox terrier, and the first time the band was broadcast from Hyde Park this summer, we heard the dogs there distinctly. So did our dogs, for they started barking and rushed out of the house looking for them, which amused us very much.—E. FEBLY, Rodden Down, Frome, Somerset.

* * * *

THE letter in The Radio Times giving an instance of wireless communication between dogs induces me to send the following. Some friends of ours have a wire-haired terrier called "Sporty," who is generally known as "Sport." When the announcer prefaces the sporting items by saying "Sport," the dog jumps up, barks, and runs to the loud speaker. I am sure that your announcers will be pleased to know that there is always a sporting little terrier waiting and ready to answer his name every evening.—G. COLE, Beeston, Notts.

A Singer on Wireless Singing.

Now that wireless speakers have been drilled in the niceties of pronunciation, what of the singers? There are wireless singers to-day who actually do not trouble about the words of the songs they sing. Nerves are another frequent cause of failure. I myself do not broadcast, but in my gramophone work I sing into a microphone and I am never nervous there. Many wireless singers, on the other hand, do get a fit of nerves when they remember the millions who are listening to them, and that makes them go for the song with far too much voice. Now, economy in voice is the greatest asset of a wireless singer. A whisper is heard where a shout would become a blur, and the singer from whom the listener heard every word is the one who sings quietly at the microphone. Surely, a little gentle supervision here would be at least as welcome to listeners as the selection of the more correct of two correct pronunciations?—PETER DAWSON, Evelyn Grove, Ealing, W.5.

Our Outside Broadcasts.

I WONDER if there is anyone who, having compared the reception from the Grand Hotel, Eastbourne—why not more from here?—with that from the average B.B.C. studio, is not reminded of the analogy between an ordinary and a stereoscopic photo, the one flat and requiring imagination to interpret its beauties, the other an immediate revelation of depth and tone. I venture to suggest that a discussion on this point in your columns would be of general interest.—HAROLD F. BASSANO, Grove House, Ventnor, I.W.

WHILE on holiday recently I was very much interested in the preparations for the broadcasting of the Band from Dover. Up till then I, like many other listeners, had no idea of the trouble taken to assure a good transmission both by the B.B.C. engineers and by the Bandmaster. Any listener seeing this part of a programme must appreciate more than ever the B.B.C.'s outside work.—E. RICHARDSON, 7, Andrew Road, Tunbridge Wells.

Sir JOHN PEASE FRY, Bart., who is to broadcast an address from Newcastle on Sunday, August 22nd.

POINTS FROM LETTERS.

THE coming of wireless into the home changes our whole outlook; we no longer feel we are a unit, but a great world family. We no longer think of religion as it affects our own little chapel, but as a much greater thing, world-wide and inspiring. Personally, we are keenest to hear all Talks and Services. Dance music is nothing to us, except as music. We generally switch off then.—B. J. FOSTER, Westfield, Leyburn, Yorkshire.

RECENTLY, while listening at Ventnor (Isle of Wight), I casually remarked that I could hear Big Ben chiming. My aged grandmother, who is ninety-five, at once replied: "Oh, that's a sign of rain!" When I explained that I was hearing it over the wireless, she quite enjoyed the joke, as we did.—J. EADE, Wells Street, Oxford Street, W.1.

Gossip From Our Scottish Stations.

"Dido and Aeneas."

PURCELL'S Dido and Aeneas by the Lyric Choir, under Mr. Irvine S. Cooper, will occupy an hour and a half of the Aberdeen programme on Monday, August 30th. Much patient investigation has been carried out to establish the date of this opera, and Mr. W. Barclay Squire's work conclusively limits the date to between 1688 and 1690.

In Memory of Meyerbeer.

To mark the anniversary of the birth of Meyerbeer, in 1791, a programme of old French opera will be broadcast from the Glasgow Station on Sunday, September 5th. In addition to excerpts from this composer's operas, a number of arias from contemporary Parisian operas will be sung, Miss Ella Gardner (soprano) being the artist.

"Empire Slogans."

The third of the series of "Empire Slogans" programmes from the Glasgow Station has been arranged for Monday, September 6th. Prizes will again be awarded to listeners, but on this occasion they will not be of a monetary nature and their exact form will be announced later.

No Need for Alarm!

Father Ronald Knox, whose name is well known to listeners, will visit the Glasgow Station on Saturday, September 11th, and broadcast a humorous skit from his own pen. Listeners may rest assured that on this occasion his remarks will deal entirely with the realm of make-believe, and there need be no misgivings as to his intentions.

Besses o' th' Barn.

A programme by the Besses o' th' Barn Band will be broadcast from Aberdeen on Tuesday, August 31st, when the vocalists will be Miss Elsie Black and Mr. Alexander McCredie, both of whom are well known to Scottish listeners.

"London, Paris and New York."

A radio burlesque entitled London, Paris, and New York, will be given from the Glasgow Station on Friday, September 10th. It will take the form of a revue and will consist of topical allusions and scenes from the three great cities. Prominent London artists will take part in the performance, in addition to the Glasgow Station Orchestra.

Old Favourites at Aberdeen.

In a programme of Old Favourites to be broadcast from Aberdeen on Wednesday, September 1st, will be a presentation of Radiance—best described as a "gleam" rather than a play—which will be given by the Station Radio Players. There will also be duets and solos by Miss Dorothy Morris and Mr. Parry Jones.

Edinburgh's Studio Service.

The Rev. George Carstairs, B.D., of Rajputana, will conduct the Studio service from the Edinburgh Station on Sunday, September 5th, when music will be rendered by the Choir of Newington United Free Church, under the direction of Mr. Robert Woodcock.

A Dvorak Anniversary.

The Dumky Trio of Dvorak, the anniversary of whose birth, in 1841, falls on Wednesday, September 8th, will be performed during the local programme from the Edinburgh Station at 8 p.m. that day. Later, an hour's Scottish programme will be given, including items by Mr. George Cunningham (baritone), and a selection on the pipes played by Pipe-Major Ross, of the Scottish Command School of Piping, Edinburgh Castle.

"Foolishness of Fiction."

A Scottish programme, in which a number of well-known vocalists and an instrumentalist will take part, will be broadcast from Dundee on Wednesday, September 1st. The afternoon talks from this Station for the week beginning Monday, August 30th, will include one on "Foolishness of Fiction," by the Rev. R. F. V. Scott, another on "Songs of Yarrow," by the Rev. H. A. Williamson, and a continuation of the series on "The Curious in the Commonplace," by Mr. John L. Peters.

A Master of Irony.

A Study of Mr. Hilaire Belloc. By E. S. P. Haynes.

[In response to many requests, we are glad to publish the following article on Mr. Belloc, which was given recently by Mr. Haynes as a Talk in the London Studio.]

THE name of Mr. Hilaire Belloc is not nearly so well known in this country as it should be. He is, in my opinion and in that of more competent judges than myself, the best living poet, with the possible exception of Dr. Bridges and Mr. Hardy, and a most scholarly writer of prose. His historical work and verse for children and travel books are well known to those who care for good literature; but his versatility has, perhaps, obscured his reputation, for in this country editors have rather a German habit of putting everyone into little compartments and not allowing them to wander outside.

Mr. Belloc's reputation has also suffered from the fact that he has taken from time to time an unpopular line in politics and because his point of view is very different from the contemporary point of view. Much of what he said and wrote in the past is now admitted to be true; but that is because his criticisms were, after a suitable interval, repeated by more cautious and conventional publicists who waited until the first impact of Mr. Belloc's remarks had ceased to shock or surprise.

The Servile State.

Then, in regard to his point of view, one must remember that his enthusiasm is reserved for the Catholic Church and Europe, to the exclusion of the non-Catholic civilization of Great Britain and North America. I ought, perhaps, to distinguish between Great Britain and North America because Great Britain, as Mr. Belloc would be first to admit, has many deep roots in the faith and culture of mediæval Europe. Mr. Belloc's idea of civilization is highly individualist, for he wants every citizen to have some little property of his own, whether it be in the form of money or of land, and he cordially hates the industrial system (the beginning of which he traces back to the Reformation), under which the great majority of citizens are wage-earners of a servile type with no property at all. This system, he thinks, was due to the decay of the Catholic belief that men are equal in the sight of God and have immortal souls. On the other hand, his Catholic bias is combined with an enthusiasm for Rousseau and republican ideals, more recently tempered by a taste for absolute monarchy.

His exposition of these, perhaps, controversial topics is itself rather too controversial for a country like England, in which lucidity and clear definition are, since the great days of the eighteenth century, highly unpopular, though his work on the war was appreciated in contrast to the vague generalities of ordinary journalism. I am, however, not concerned at this moment to expound Mr. Belloc's opinions on Church or State, and merely refer to them because I think they have accidentally obscured his gifts as a literary artist.

These gifts have seldom been better displayed than in his last volume of essays, entitled, "Short Talks with the Dead," though that is only the title of the first essay, and the other essays are infinitely various. In one of the best Mr. Belloc writes on the subject of poverty. Irony, he says, is best secured by poverty, because poverty makes man appreciate reality. As he says:—

Poverty has a yet nobler effect by its introduction into our lives of irony; and irony I take to be the salt in the feast of intelligence. I have, indeed, known rich men to possess irony, but only by importation, just as a man may possess a picture which he has bought. Poor men possess irony as native to themselves, so that it is like a picture which a man paints for his own pleasure and puts up on his own walls. All the poor of London have irony, and, indeed, poor men all over the world have irony; even poor gentlemen, after the age of fifty, discover veins of irony and are the better for them, as a man is better for salt in his cooking. Remark that irony kills stupid satire, and that to have an agent within one that kills stupid satire is to possess an antiseptic against the suppurative reactions of the soul.

MR. HILAIRE BELLOC

As depicted by the famous cartoonist, Low, in the brilliant series of caricatures which he has been contributing to the "New Statesman."

Poverty, again, makes men appreciate reality. You may tell me that this is of no advantage. It is of no direct advantage; but I am sure it is of advantage in the long run. For if you ignore reality you will come sooner or later against it like a ship against a rock in a fog, and you will suffer as the ship will suffer.

If you say to the rich man that some public fellow or other has genius, he may admit it in a lazy but sincere fashion. A poor man knows better; he may admit it with his lips, but he is not so foolish as to accept it in his heart. In the same way a rich man growing old will try to forget Death, but a poor man, especially if he has children, keeps Death steadily before him.

Mr. Belloc, with his usual exactness, defines poverty as follows:—

Poverty is that state in which a man is perpetually anxious for the future of himself and his dependents, unable to pursue life upon a standard to which he was brought up, tempted both to subservience and to a sour revolt, and tending inexorably towards despair.

Whether one agrees or disagrees with the definition or the opinions based upon it, the passage shows a strong Johnsonian vein in Mr. Belloc, who through his mother, Bessie Parkes, comes of a well-known Unitarian family in the Midlands. There is a certain virile hatred of cant and hypocrisy running through this sturdy English stock which expresses itself more pointedly in combination with French wit, but is none the less English. Mr. Belloc often talks like Dr. Johnson in the same vein of melancholy, tempered by common sense and dislike of unreal sentiments. I mention this side of him because his French name and origin sometimes obscure it from his readers.

Mr. Belloc has often been represented as the enemy of science, but like his ancestor Dr. Priestley, of Birmingham, he has a very scientific and critical mind and a considerable knowledge of higher mathematics. He has criticised many writers on evolution on the ground of never making unverifiable assumptions, and, like Huxley, he is well acquainted with the acute dialectic of consummate reasoners like St. Thomas Aquinas and Suarez. His method of attack may well be summarized in a couplet from one of the children's books:—

Oh, let us never, never doubt
What nobody is sure about!

Although, as a militant Catholic, he would argue that religion is not in conflict with ultimate reason, he has always maintained that religion has an essential element of magic.

A Twentieth-Century Dr. Johnson.

This point of view is, however, as unpopular as are many of Mr. Belloc's political opinions both with sceptics and believers. The sceptic is irritated by the mere suggestion of anything supernatural, and the believer in an age of rationalism is frightened by any suggestion of magic. Nevertheless, Mr. Belloc's logic is formidable. If revealed religion is to be taken seriously, revelation must be largely a matter of authority and intuition, and cannot easily be brought into the same category as a new theory of electrons.

I have mentioned Mr. Belloc's theology partly as showing the sort of prejudice which it has created against him both in Catholic and non-Catholic circles, and partly because it illustrates the strong intellectual affinity of his mind and character with Dr. Johnson, Dean Swift, and other eighteenth-century thinkers. It is to be hoped that one day clear thinking and good writing may again become popular—especially as their best by-product is good satire, in which Mr. Belloc has also excelled both in verse and prose.

THE REV. JOHN McNEILL, of the 10th Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia, who broadcast an address from the Metropolitan Tabernacle, London, on Sunday, July 25th, has been put by many correspondents into the front rank of broadcasters. After his address, he received no fewer than 3,000 letters from gratified listeners, and he has asked The Radio Times to thank those correspondents whom he cannot answer personally. The increasing interest that is being taken in the broadcast pulpit is a striking vindication of the B.B.C.'s policy with regard to this feature.

MOZART'S STRING QUARTET IN B FLAT (K458).
(LONDON, DAVENTRY, ETC., FRIDAY.)

MUSIC-LOVERS might well wish they could have been present at a certain private house in Vienna one day in 1785. On this day four string players met together, and two of the four were Haydn and Mozart. They played three new String Quartets of Mozart's.

Mozart's father, Leopold (himself a notable musician of his time), was present. It was the last time that father and son ever met, and when, on this occasion, Haydn, the most famous composer of the day, avowed to Leopold Mozart, on his word of honour, that he regarded the younger man as the greatest composer known to him, the father rightly felt already rewarded for his lifetime's devotion to the development of his son's genius.

Of the three new Quartets which they played, one was this Quartet in B Flat, which is Number Four in some editions, but is most safely identified by its official Library Number, K.458.

It has four separate Movements, as follows:—

I.

Quick, very lively. At least the first thirty bars are concerned with the light-hearted First Main Tune.

The Second Main Tune is not easy to pick out, away from the score. But one can hardly miss its catchy little figure—a sort of slow shake.

The "Development" begins rather unusually with a new, smoother Tune, but this is soon put aside, and the trilling figure renewed. At last the "Enunciation" of the material is finally "recapitulated" almost note for note.

II.

The Second Movement is a rather sedate Minuet, followed by an only slightly less sedate Trio. As usual, the Trio is followed by a repetition of the Minuet.

III.

The Third Movement is very slow and contemplative. There is nothing that needs special attention in the First Tune.

But the Second Tune reveals depths in Mozart that we do not often sound. It is first heard as a very brief, sensitive melody in First Violin, accompanied in an undertone by repeated chords beneath. Then Cello (at high tenor pitch) takes it over, the pulsating accompaniment going above.

After this, little new material is to be heard.

IV.

Very Quick. The Finale is a really brilliant little Movement, based on some of the gayest Tunes ever written—each only a few bars long.

Analysis would (for the present purpose) be waste of time. But one needs to keep one's ears open for the tunes at times, or they are apt to be lost, either through coming and going so quickly, or through some instrument cutting capers up above.

SOME "FAUST" MUSIC.

(GLASGOW, DAVENTRY, EDINBURGH, AND DUNDEE, THURSDAY.)

The legend of the man who sold his soul to the devil in exchange for renewal of youth has appealed to artists of many centuries and many countries. Especially has it attracted composers. Works are here represented, each of which is at least great enough to have outlived its own generation.

Wagner's Faust Overture was an early work of his. It was originally designed as the first movement of a "Faust Symphony," but was later rewritten as a work complete in itself. The peaceful ending seems to represent Faust's final redemption.

Liszt's Faust Symphony is not so much a musical setting of the drama of Faust, as a series of portraits of its chief figures. The Symphony is made up of three separate Movements. Liszt gave no detailed explanation of his work, but the First Movement bears the name of the hero of the piece, Faust. The Second Movement is headed "Gretchen"—another name for Marguerite, the young girl to whom Faust makes love when his youth has been restored to him. It is significant that in the Third Movement, "Mephistopheles," Liszt introduces no new themes. The Faust themes are parodied, mocked; but the Devil seems to be powerless with the Gretchen themes, which are left unchanged. The end of Liszt's work suggests redemption. "A mystic chorus" of male voices sings lines from Goethe's Faust, speaking of the unreality of mortal affairs, and ending The Eternal Feminine draws us onward.

ROGER QUILTER'S MUSIC.

(LONDON, DAVENTRY, ETC., MONDAY.)

Roger Quilter was born at Brighton, nearly forty-nine years ago. He was educated at Eton, and afterwards studied music at Frankfort, where he had among his fellow-pupils three or four Englishmen whose names are now familiar to us—Cyril Scott, Percy Grainger, and others.

Probably this is the secret of the popularity of Quilter's music—that he always combines sincerity with the quality of immediate appeal.

His CHILDREN'S OVERTURE is probably his most popular composition, after his songs. It is made up of about a dozen nursery tunes, nearly all well known by everyone. Girls and boys come out to play takes an important part. Among other details, the Frog who would a-wooing go proceeds by way of a Fugue; and that lovely tune, Baa, baa! black sheep, is treated almost sublimely.

Among the lightest of Quilter's music is WHERE THE RAINBOW ENDS. This consists of incidental numbers to the Fairy Play of that name which was produced in 1911.

But Quilter is pre-eminently a writer of songs. And of his eighty or more songs, a very large proportion are settings of lyrics from Shakespeare and other Elizabethans. Such are almost all to-night's songs, and of these the poems will surely be familiar to everyone, and the music to very many.

An exception to be mentioned is one of Quilter's latest songs—Over the Land in April. This is a setting of a poem of Stevenson's, a song of the coming of Spring and Love.

OVERTURE TO ROSSINI'S "WILLIAM TELL."
(BOURNEMOUTH, MONDAY; BIRMINGHAM, TUESDAY.)

This popular Overture almost epitomizes the Opera, in which Rossini and his librettists present the story of the Swiss liberation—the rousing of the forest cantons by William Tell and the overthrow of the tyrant Gessler.

The Overture is a fine piece of descriptive music, both pictorial and dramatic. Calm meditation is the mood in which it opens, suggesting the serenity of nature. Very unusual is the tone-colour; only five Solo Cellos and two Double Basses are used. Presently a storm gathers and gradually swells to tremendous force.

The storm goes as gradually as it came, until peace is restored. Then is heard a pastoral tune (on Cor Anglais, representing the Swiss shepherd's pipe) with much decoration added above by a Flute. This tune is of Swiss origin, being none other than the famous Ranz des Vaches.

The Overture ends with the lively March—"battle music, the final triumph of the Swiss people," as it has been described.

The Children's Corner.

London and Daventry News.

NEXT week brings us to the last of the "Robin Hood" stories. A few weeks ago, when we knew that that moment was approaching, several of us had a discussion as to what book we should take next for what we call our "Monday Stories" (read by Uncle Rex). We are always trying to give our listeners a share in planning programmes, because—as you must have heard very often—one of our great aims is to please the greatest possible number of listeners; so we hit upon the idea of letting children vote for the book which they thought they liked best out of the six that we suggested. Several hundreds voted, and the results show the following order of popularity: "Stories of King Arthur"; "The Three Musketeers"; "Vice Versa"; "King Solomon's Mines"; "The Tale of Two Cities"; "The Talisman." In accordance with what seems to be the wish of the majority of our interested listeners, the "Robin Hood" stories will be followed by "Stories of King Arthur," which will be specially written for the Children's Corner by the same person who did the "Ivanhoe" and the "Robin Hood" stories.

Next week's programmes have several items that ought to be very interesting. On Tuesday, August 24th, we have some more songs by Miss Eva Neale, and on the same day Mr. Harcourt Williams will tell the story of "Rumpelstiltskin." On Wednesday, August 25th, Mr. Cecil J. Allen, by means of his magic wand, is to transport Auntie Geraldine to the Forth Bridge. On Thursday, August 26th, Miss Helen Henschel is to come to the Studio again, and "The Black Bear," who is becoming a popular character, is to figure in a story which tells how he wrote a book. On Friday, August 27th, "The Wireless Chorus" (under Mr. Stanford Robinson) will sing again, and there will be another of the "William" stories. On Saturday, August 28th, there will be another of Mr. Hugh Chesterman's stories. This time it is "Theodore," a story of a parrot.

Clever Young Artists.

On a recent Saturday, four children of the Manchester Radio Circle gave a concert during the Children's Corner. Hilda Butterworth sang some charming little songs, Ruth Denman gave some violin solos, Kenneth Burchill recited, and Frank Unsworth played at the piano. All four little artists acquitted themselves admirably, and made a great success of their various items.

A Holiday Book.

The Aberdeen Aunties and Uncles are keeping a Holiday Book! They have so many nieces and nephews who go for such delightful holidays, that it would be a great pity not to keep a record of them, so in this big book are going all the post-cards sent by the children on holiday, with the senders' signatures underneath. It will be a unique possession, because there are postcards from all over Britain, actually from the Shetlands and the Isle of Wight, and many places between. Visitors to the Studio are to be allowed to peep at it, and those children who can't learn geography by ordinary means may spend a very profitable hour with it.

"A Tasty Quartet."

Can you imagine an edible quartet at Glasgow Children's Corner? At first this may sound like a fairy-tale—or, perhaps, a thrilling yarn from some cannibal island—but, nevertheless, it is true. A mighty hammering on the Studio door announced the arrival of the "Sandwich Quartet," composed of ham and tongue, egg and cress. These good people, when they were "mustered" in front of the microphone, announced that they would like to sing to the children. This threat they immediately carried into action, in spite of protests from the Uncles to the effect that their "turn" was not included in the programme. However, the queer quartet reminded the Uncles of the fact that they were a Sandwich Quartet and that they didn't mind in the least being sandwiched into a programme.

LONDON NEWS.

Serials.

INCLUDED in the programme this week are two serial broadcasts, the first, at 7.25 p.m., being the piano recital, which is now an accepted feature of the week's programmes.
This will be devoted to the works of Brahms, interpreted by Mr. Charles Kelly. The second will be given at 8 o'clock each night. Its title is "The Sea Affair and Harry Binns," and it has been written by Major Corbett-Smith (the author of many well-known books, including "The Retreat from Mons") to illustrate and appeal to the love of the sea and of the great deeds called forth by its service, which consciously or unconsciously lives in the heart of every Englishman.

Star Ballad Concert.

The programme on Sunday afternoon reveals a distinguished list of artists. There is Miss Beatrice Harrison, who is known to listeners not only for the great artistic merit of her work as a 'cellist, but also by her attempts to prevail upon the nightingale to sing to the microphone. There are Monsieur Henri Leoni, a singer with a great gift for singing the dainty little songs which are more charmingly written by French than by any other composers; Mr. Harold Williams, the young Australian baritone, whose work on the concert platform is marked by its consistently high standard and who is a practised and accomplished broadcaster, and Sepellnikoff, the famous Russian pianist, whose work has for years delighted English concert-goers. He is an Honorary Member of the Philharmonic Society—a distinction shared by only two other living pianists, Paderewski and Cortot. Finally, it is hoped to include in this programme at least a short broadcast by Miss Jane Cowl, one of the most distinguished of American actresses, who is at present appearing in London in Mr. Noel Coward's play, Easy Virtue.

Roger Quilter.

There can be few composers of the present-day school of English music who have so endeared themselves to music lovers as Roger Quilter; he may almost be said to have begun a new era in the history of British art songs. The programme on Monday night will include his most recent orchestral composition, the Ballet Music to "The Rake," which was generally acknowledged to be one of the great successes of the recent revues
On With the Dance and Still Dancing.

Dick Henderson.

At 8.15, on Tuesday evening, the Yorkshire comedian, Mr. Dick Henderson, will give his first broadcast.
He was one of the artists in the Command Performance at the Alhambra some months ago, given in aid of the Variety Artists' Benevolent Fund.

Gwen Ffrangcon-Davies.

From 10 to 10.30 p.m., listeners will hear songs by Miss Gwen Ffrangcon-Davies, the brilliant young actress, whose name is particularly associated with the part of "Etain" in The Immortal Hour. Miss Ffrangcon-Davies will include in this programme two songs from that work, including the always popular "Faery Song," together with some old folk-songs culled from various counties. In addition to these songs, a short harpsichord recital will be given by Miss Nellie Chaplin. Comparatively few broadcasts have been given of music for this instrument, but those few have been widely appreciated.

Mystery Play.

At 8.45 p.m., on Saturday, listeners will hear a popular programme by the Wireless Chorus and the Wireless Orchestra, while, at 10 o'clock, the third and final episode of a mystery play entitled Ghostly Fingers will be broadcast. The first two parts of this drama, which has been written by Miss Hilda Chamberlain, a promising authoress, will be given on Monday. The story of the play begins in an old country mansion, where Sir Gerald Seymour, a widower, is entertaining a party of four people to dinner. These are Joan, his daughter, and her journalist fiancé, a charming French widow, and an American captain on leave in England.
The room is spacious, and nothing could be more comfortable till the ghostly fingers interfere, and then dramatic scenes follow one another in quick succession.

BIRMINGHAM NEWS.

Composer to Conduct His Own Works.

MR. G. O'CONNOR MORRIS, the well-known musician, is to conduct the Symphony Concert on Sunday, and at least two items of outstanding interest are down for performance—namely, the Violin Concerto No. 2 in A Minor, from his own pen, and the Songs of the Fleet, by C. V. Stanford, for solo, chorus, and orchestra. The soloist for the former will be Mr. William Primrose, the young violinist who is so quickly making a conspicuous name for himself in the world of music. The singer of the Stanford songs will be Mr. E. Gordon Cleather, a baritone who is well known as a singer of rare cultivation.

In the Violin Concerto an attempt has been made by the composer to write a work which is not of the stereotyped "solo with orchestral accompaniment" style, but one in which the orchestra takes its share of interest in the general structure. He has also tried to keep it reasonably easy and well within the powers of the usual orchestra—no extra instruments are asked for. The work is in three movements, the first two (Allegro Moderato and Adagio) being connected by a short orchestral "bridge." The last movement is very brilliant. The work has been performed at the Queen's Hall, London, at Bournemouth Festival, at Belfast, and elsewhere. The Songs of the Fleet, by Stanford, were written after the Songs of the Sea by the same composer, and were produced at the Leeds Festival in 1910. The words of both cycles are by Henry Newbolt. Just as the Songs of the Sea pictured Drake and his conquest of the Armada, so these songs picture Nelson and Trafalgar. All the numbers are well contrasted, and one, "The Little Admiral," is particularly "breezy."

Examples of Welsh Music.

An attractive Welsh programme for Daventry will be broadcast from Birmingham on Tuesday. An attempt will be made, and we hope with success, to get away from the better-known items of Welsh music. It is not quite easy to do this, as Welsh music, excluding the folk songs, is comparatively limited. On this occasion, the orchestra will play, among other items, a suite by W. S. Gwynn Williams, and two short pieces by Maldwyn Price. The former has written numerous works and is a well-known musician in Wales. Maldwyn Price has also a strong musical following. The singer for this programme will be Miss Gwladys Naish, the popular Welsh coloratura soprano.

On Wednesday, an interesting programme is offered, consisting of typical examples of great composers. Wagner is represented by the Overture to The Mastersingers, perhaps his greatest operatic achievement. This opera was written as a semi-humorous skit on the academic attitude taken up by the older masters of music towards the younger and more progressive generation, and in it, Wagner made it clear that he was himself a master of the contrapuntal style. The opera is one which will live on through the ages as a masterpiece in operatic literature.

Tchaikovsky will be represented by his evergreen Casse Noisette suite. It may be doubted whether this is typical of Tchaikovsky's usual style, touched with melancholy as that is; in a lighter and more cheerful strain, the suite is full of delightful orchestral effects.

BOURNEMOUTH NEWS.

Special Features of the Symphony Concert.

THE Symphony Concert on Sunday evening includes Beethoven's Symphony in C Major, the Overture to Flotow's opera Stradella, and the famous Aria from Judas Maccabæus' Sound an Alarm! which will be sung by Mr. James Gledhill.

The Symphony in C Major is known as the first of the Beethoven symphonies. It is supposed to have been first thought of in the winter of 1794-5, when Beethoven was in his twenty-fifth year, and was first performed at the Burg Theatre in Vienna in the year 1800, being described on the programme as "a new grand symphony for full orchestra." So graceful and joyous a composition as Beethoven's first symphony scarcely deserves to be labelled with this somewhat formidable title; the music throughout is the reverse of solemn; it is a vintage wine, indeed, but a young vintage, and like good champagne, sparkles with good spirits.

Flotow, the son of a nobleman of the arch-duchy of Mecklenburg, was intended for the Diplomatic Service, but his immersion at an early and impressionable age into the brilliant artistic life of Paris determined him to become a composer. He is now chiefly remembered as the author of the operas Martha and Stradella.

The plot of Stradella is based on a non-historical, though highly romantic episode in the life of the seventeenth-century Italian composer, Stradella. According to the story, which is entirely apocryphal, Stradella eloped with the mistress of a Venetian nobleman who had been his patron, and when the latter sent hired assassins after him, Stradella disarmed his murderers by the wonderful charm of his singing. The Overture to the opera is a most attractively written piece of bright and melodious concert music.

Two of Thursday's Artists.

Miss Alice Moxon and Mr. Stuart Robertson are the singers at the popular concert on Thursday evening. Miss Moxon, who played the part of Louisa in Sheridan's opera, The Duenna, will sing Depuis le Jour from Charpentier's Louise and the Aubade from Le Roi D'Ys (Lalo). Mr. Robertson's songs include "Drake's Drum" and two other numbers from Stanford's Songs of the Sea. These two singers will also be heard together in two old English pastorals.

A light operatic concert is being relayed from the Winter Gardens on Monday evening. Rossini's exciting Overture to William Tell will be played, and the well-known Meditation from Thais by Massenet. Miss Anita Desmond is to sing the Waltz Song from Gounod's Romeo and Juliet. Mr. Middleton Woods, entertainer, is also included in this pleasantly varied programme.

The Pied Piper.REGINALD WHITEHEAD
(Bass) Mayor of HamelinTHE STATION CHORUS:
Chorus Master,
HERBERT RUDDOCK.THE AUGMENTED
STATION ORCHESTRA:
Conductor, T. H. MORRISON.Most of us know the old story of the Pied Piper so charmingly recorded in the poem of Robert Browning. The Pied Piper was engaged by the Mayor and Corporation of Hamelin to usehis art for driving away the rats which were infesting the city. The Pied Piper succeeded in the task, whereupon the city fathers declined to fulfil their bond of paying him a thousand guilders. And so, out of revenge, the Piper played his pipe again and lured the children of Hamelin into the countryside, where they disappeared for ever into the side of a mountain.
This poem has been most charmingly set to music by Parry for two voices, chorus and orchestra, the first performance having been given at the Norwich Musical Festival in 1905.ORCHESTRAL SELECTIONS

MANCHESTER NEWS.

"Pied Piper of Hamelin" on Tuesday Evening.

THE Mexborough "Excelsior" Male Voice Quartet and the Lancashire Military Band are two combinations of artists, well known and popular in the North, who will contribute the Studio concert on Sunday evening. The quartet are singing three groups of part-songs, including a sixteenth-century number entitled Down in a Flowery Vale, by Festa; and the band, conducted by Mr. Edward Dunn, includes among its items the dramatic excerpt, Benediction des Poignards, from Meyerbeer's Les Huguenots, and two movements from the Pathetic Symphony by Tchaikovsky.

A performance of The Pied Piper of Hamelin, as told by the poet, Browning and set to music by the late Sir Hubert Parry, is being given on Tuesday night. The solo parts of the Pied Piper and the Mayor of Hamelin will be sung by Mr. Arthur Wilkes, the principal tenor of the Manchester Cathedral, who is so well known as a singer of oratorio, and Mr. Reginald Whitehead (bass), who is also well known in the North. They will be supported by the Station Chorus, under the direction of Mr. Herbert Ruddock, and the augmented Station Orchestra, conducted by Mr. T. H. Morrison.

A Brilliant Career.

Another concert in the series being relayed from the Buxton Pavilion Gardens will be heard on Wednesday evening, when the artists will be Mr. Sidney Freedman, with his Octet, and Mr. Kenneth Western (entertainer). Mr. Freedman is a violinist who, though still a young man, can boast of considerable experience in his profession. At the age of six, he appeared as a "prodigy" in his native town of Swansea; five years later he was playing Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto at an orchestral concert in the Portman Rooms, and before he was twelve he won the John Thomas Welsh Scholarship, open to any instrumentalist, at the Royal Academy of Music. In 1902 he became leader and assistant-conductor of the Moody-Manners Opera Company, and from 1908 to 1910, after a period devoted to further study under Sevcik in Prague, he filled the post of leader and sub-conductor of the Duke of Devonshire's private orchestra at Eastbourne, and finally became leader of the Queen's Hall Promenade Concerts in 1915.

The Casano Octet and the Victorian Vocal Trio will be heard in an Hour of Song and Music on Thursday night, following a comedy programme by Will Marsh's Entertainers. Mr. Frederick Casano has gained for himself and his talented octet an enviable reputation in the musical world, having been chosen to entertain the Royal Family on many occasions at Windsor Castle, as well as at Buckingham Palace, and others of the Royal residences. One of his most cherished possessions is the Victorian Medal (Silver) which the late King Edward VII. personally presented to him, as well as a diamond and ruby scarf-pin from the late King. It was on the memorable occasion before the war, when no fewer than five queens and four kings were His Majesty's guests, that Mr. Casano was decorated by the ex-Kaiser.

The Victorian Trio, consisting of three young lady vocalists, Miss Jessie Mitchell, Miss Frances Frost, and Miss Molly Street, was recently formed by the latter, who made her professional debut at Covent Garden in the first performance of Puccini's Suor Angelica. Miss Frost has sung with the British National Opera Company and at the last two International Opera seasons at Covent Garden, and Miss Mitchell has also sung some of the leading rôles with the British National Opera Company previous to her becoming the soprano of the Victorian Trio.

"RADIO TIMES" READING CASE.

Messrs. George Newnes, Ltd., have prepared a handsome case in red cloth with gilt lettering for "The Radio Times," complete with cord down the back to hold a copy of this publication. A pencil is indispensable to the listener during the course of the programme, and this is included conveniently in a slot at the side. Listeners should order this to-day from any Newsagent. It is published at 2s. 6d., or send 4d. extra to cover postage for a case from the Publisher, "The Radio Times," 8-11, Southampton Street, Strand, London, W.C.2.

NEWCASTLE NEWS.

An Anecdote of Nikisch at Covent Garden.

MISS ETHEL FENTON (contralto), who is to give a recital on Monday evening, first sang for the B.B.C. in its early experimental days at Marconi House. In 1914, Miss Fenton was a "Walkure" at Covent Garden, and relates how, after seven weeks' rehearsing, Nikisch, the great conductor, decided to hear the Walkure in a small dressing-room. The singers sang their parts as loudly as possible, being anxious to impress him, but after hearing them right through, Nikisch said in a very quiet voice: "Now, ladies, we will go through it again—but loudly!"

Sketches of the Tyneside.

An interesting programme is arranged for Saturday. It will include music by the Station Orchestra and two groups of songs by Mr. Robert Strangeways (baritone) and some Tyneside sketches by Miss Sal Sturgeon and Mr. Tom Heenan, two popular members of the "Novos" Concert Party. Miss Sturgeon, who is also a member of the Station Repertory Company, has been associated with the Newcastle Station since the early days, and the delightful and catchy way in which she renders the local dialect has made her a favourite with listeners in the North. Mr. Heenan is well known, not only for his activities in concert party work, but also as a vocalist.

GLASGOW NEWS.

Music Inspired by the Faust Tradition.

THE legend of Doctor Faustus has attracted men of genius for several centuries. Scholars, writers, and musicians have made use of the story.
The legend tells of a mediaval seeker after knowledge, Dr. Faustus, who, finding that life is too short in which to complete his researches, summons, in a moment of desperation, the aid of the Evil One, and is taken at his word.
On Thursday, August 26th, a "Faust" programme will be broadcast from the Glasgow Station and relayed to "5XX," when excerpts from some of the most important musical compositions inspired by the Faust legend will be heard. The Station Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Mr. Herbert A. Carruthers, will take the larger share in the programme, while Miss Beatrice Miranda, the well-known operatic soprano, and Mr. Robert Radford, the famous bass singer, will contribute groups of songs from Faust operas.

Skin cleanliness

"I AM confident," says Miss Olga Lindo, who is making such a success in "The Best People," at the Lyric Theatre, "that skin beauty is mostly a matter of skin cleanliness—and that is where Pond's Cold Cream gives all the help you need. It is not a matter of theory—you can see for yourself by the evidence of the towel with which you remove the cream how thorough the Pond's method is."

By cleansing with Pond's Cold Cream you avoid the soreness and roughness often caused by soap and water.

Miss Lindo advises women to use Pond's Vanishing Cream during the daytime and as a supplement to Pond's Cold Cream. "It freshens you up in a moment, no matter how tired or weary you may be feeling. I find it particularly useful for the hands—it keeps them always white and smooth." Apply Pond's Vanishing Cream before you powder.

"TO SOOTHE AND SMOOTH YOUR SKIN."

From all Chemists and Stores. In handsome Opal Jars, 1/3 and 2/6. In tubes, 7/d. (for handbag) and 1/-. Pond's Cold Cream also in extra large jars 5/- and in extra large tubes 2/6.

THE NEW SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH.

AN AID SMALLER THAN A BUTTON. NO STRAIN!

Seize this Opportunity

Thousands of doctors, the Leading Ear Specialists and countless men and women in every walk of life, acclaim the NEW Acousticon as the aural discovery of the century. It is as different and as far apart as the poles from all other types of hearing aids. NONE are IN-VISIBLE. Such is an intolerable and extravagant claim. But the

NEW Acousticon is the least conspicuous of all. It is the matchless instrument in which is incorporated the 30 years of scientific research which has made the name Acousticon inseparable from every medically approved development in hearing aids. The NEW Acousticon alone ensures

ABSOLUTE AVOIDANCE OF STRAIN. ELIMINATION OF NOISES. PERFECT RECEPTION OF CONVERSATION, MUSIC & WIRELESS.

FREEDOM FROM VIBRATION. FREEDOM FROM EMBARRASSMENT. PERFECT COMFORT IN WEARING.

THIS PLAN WILL BRING YOU £500 A YEAR FOR LIFE—FROM AGE 55

Ninety-nine men out of a hundred have to provide for their own future. They have no rich relative to take the burden from their shoulders, and no business pension scheme to fall back upon. They stand or fall on their own efforts.

Are you satisfied with the progress you yourself are making? Have you saved anything like enough to justify a belief that at 55 years of age you will be in a position to take things easier? What about your family should you, the breadwinner, be taken from them? The plan about to be explained will, if adopted without further delay, relieve you of all anxiety about the matter.

It is the best, the easiest, and the surest way of providing both for your own later years and for your dependents.

Assuming your age to be 35 and you would like to provide for a private income of £500 a year for life commencing at age 55, this is how the plan works out. You make yearly or half-yearly deposits to the Sun Life of Canada (the great Annuity Co.) of a sum you can afford out of your present income.

And this is what you get in return:

£500 a Year for Life.

At 55 years of age the Sun Life of Canada will start paying you £500 a year—and you'll receive this income every year as long as you live. Or, if you prefer it, you can have a Cash Sum down of £6,000. Of course, you haven't deposited anything like that sum. It's the profits that make it so large—profits heaped upon profits, accumulated over the entire period of the arrangement.

Income Tax Saved.

For every deposit you make you receive rebate of Income Tax—a concession which will save you nearly £470 during the period, assuming the present rate of tax to continue. This is additional profit on the transaction.

£40 a Month if Unable to Work.

If through illness or accident you lose the power to earn a living, and the disability is permanent, you are excused from making any further deposits and £40 per month will be paid to you until the £500 a year for life becomes due.

£4,000 For Your Family.

Should you not live to the age of 55, £4,000 will be paid to your family and, in addition, half of every deposit you have made to date. If death result from an accident, the sum would be increased to £8,000, plus half the deposits.

Any Age, Any Amount.

Though 35 and £500 a year for life has been quoted here, the plan applies at any age and for any amount. Whatever your income, if you can spare something out of it for your and your family's future, this plan is the best and most profitable method you can adopt.

£62,000,000 Assets.

The Sun of Canada has Assets of over £62,000,000, which are under Government supervision. It is in an impregnable position. Do not, therefore, hesitate to send for particulars of this plan, which may mean great things for you and yours.

Let us know your name, address, exact age, and the approximate amount you can deposit yearly, and, without any obligation on your part, we will tell you exactly how you can apply this Ideal Plan of Investment-Insurance to your own circumstances. Address your inquiry to J. F. Junkin (Manager), Sun Life of Canada, 12, Sun of Canada House, Victoria Embankment (near Temple Station), London, W.C.2.

Louden Valves

“... no less than five American Stations... with one LOUDEN.”

Here is a letter from Mr. France, of Rotherham, who tells us he began experimenting long before broadcasting started. Your enthusiasm for DX work may not lead you to search the ether until 2 a.m., but if you are keen upon the reception of strong, clear signals you will find, as Mr. France has done, that the Loudon is the valve to use every time.

“Dear Sirs,
“Some time ago Messrs. Woodhead Bros., Electricians and Wireless Dealers, brought me one of your blue top valves, and asked me if I would try it and give them a report: I gave them a good report and backed it up by buying four more.
“At 2 a.m. the following morning I received music and speech from no less than five American Stations, and I have a very nice letter from W.G.Y. confirming my report, and this with one of your blue-topped valves used as a Detector with reaction as usual, standard straight Detector.
“The next day I received the following stations: all British Main Stations, Sheffield, Nottingham, Leeds Relay Stations, and Frankfurt. Zurich I had on for 50 minutes; it was especially good, and music could be heard distinctly and perfectly 90 ft. from the Loud Speaker.”

ALFRED FRANCE,
(Rotherham).”

Louden Valves are made by British labour in a British factory with British capital and can be depended upon for the finest volume, range and silver clearness. They can only be offered at such low prices, because of our well-known policy of selling direct to the public and cutting out the middleman's profit.

RADIO VALVES

Alteration in Prices

B.T.H. Valves have long been recognised, by expert and listener alike, as the valves by which all others are judged. Now that the substantial price reductions shown below are operative, the advantages of insisting always on B.T.H. Valves are even more obvious.

TYPES	OLD PRICES		NEW PRICES
	s.	d.	s.	d.
General Purpose
R (4-volts: 0.7 amp.)	8	0	8	0
B3 (1.8-volts: 0.35 amp.)	14	0	14	0
B5 (2.8-volts: 0.06 amp.)	16	6	14	0
Power Amplifying
B4 (6-volts: 0.25 amp.)	22	6	18	6
B6 (2.8-volts: 0.12 amp.)	22	6	18	6
B7 (6-volts: 0.06 amp.)	24	6	18	6

NEW TYPES

We take this opportunity of announcing three new valves which are now available:—

TYPE B2. A general purpose Bright Emitter for use with a 6-volt accumulator, rated 5-volts, 0.7 amp. Price 8/-

TYPE B5H. A companion to the famous B5 valve but specially designed for H.F. and Detector stages. 2.8 volts, 0.06 amp. Price 14/-

TYPE B4H. This valve completes our line of 6-volt Dull Emitter valves by catering for the H.F. and Detector stages, when using B4 valves in the L.F. stages. The current consumption is 0.25 amp. Price 18/6

See all these valves at Stands 127 and 130 at
The NATIONAL RADIO EXHIBITION,
 New Hall, Olympia, London, Sept. 4th to 18th.

FELLOWS WIRELESS

CHARGE YOUR ACCUMULATOR
AT HOME
45/-

The Fellows Accumulator Charger is essentially safe and simple to use. It quickly pays for itself in saved charging bills.

It cuts out the nuisance of taking accumulators to be charged. Will charge 4-volt or 6-volt accumulators. Just plug in to the nearest lamp holder, spin the spindle, connect the accumulator to be charged, and that's all. Full instructions sent with each one. You can't go wrong. (Note: To charge 2-volt accumulators connect two in series.)

Made for Alternating Current only. State voltage and frequency (shown on your meter) when ordering.

HIGH TENSION FROM YOUR ELECTRIC LIGHT

D.C. - 50/-
A.C. - 70/-

Whether it is A.C. (Alternating Current) or D.C. (Direct Current) supply, just plug in to the nearest lamp holder and connect up to the H.T. terminals on your set.

Fellows Mains Units are made in two types, both giving 10-15 milliamps H.T. Current.

Type A. gives one H.T. voltage only, 50 or 100. Type B. gives the same maximum voltages, but has 12 intermediate voltage tappings, and 2 wander plugs to give any 2 additional H.T. voltages required. Full instructions sent with every set. Made for A.C. and D.C. Supplies.

	Type A. 50 or 100 volt.	Type B. 50 or 100 volt.
D.C. Type Mains Unit ...	£2 10 0	£3 10 0
A.C. Type Mains Unit ...	£3 10 0	£4 10 0

State voltage and (if A.C.) frequency of your electric light, and type and maximum voltage of Mains Unit required when ordering.

Terms of Business, Cash or C.O.D. All goods sent packing free, carriage forward on seven days' approval. Money readily refunded if not completely satisfied.

Opera in your Garden

ON many an evening just now you can hear the strains of a Loud Speaker in someone's garden; more and more is Radio welcomed as an added joy to the pleasures of outdoor life. Bring the opera to your Garden—with the Brown.

For absolute fidelity of reproduction, pure, mellowness of tone—with an entire lack of "tinny" or metallic effects—and perfect volume, can only be found in an instrument upon which extreme care has been lavished, and behind which is the experience of years of telephonic work. That is what you get when you buy a Brown—England's first and leading Loud Speaker. Prove this for yourself by getting your Dealer to demonstrate Brown Instruments to you.

There's a Brown for everyone!

Brown Loud Speakers are made in the following types—H.1, 120 ohms £5 5 0, 2,000 ohms £5 8 0, 4,000 ohms £5 10 0. H.2, 120 ohms £2 5 0, 2,000 ohms £2 8 0, 4,000 ohms £2 10 0. H.3, 2,000 ohms £3 0 0. H.4, 2,000 ohms £1 10 0. H.Q, 2,000 or 4,000 ohms £6 0 0. Type Q, 120, 2,000 or 4,000 ohms £15 15 0. Cabinet Type, 2,000 or 4,000 ohms £6 6 0, and Crystavox £6 0 0.

There is also a range of Brown Headphones. They are priced from 20/- to 60/-. Ask your dealer!

Fellows H.T. Batteries are the best in the World

Only the finest zinc and carbon are used in the manufacture of Fellows H.T. Batteries. That is why they are free from "parasitic" noises. (Parasitic noises are caused by impurities in the materials setting up local electro chemical actions inside the cell.) Again, to ensure long life, there is no skimping of the elements; for example, the zinc cylinders are generously thick.

In fact, scrupulous choice of materials, coupled with the best design, make the Fellows H.T. Batteries the finest in the world. They can only be sold at the following prices because of our well-known policy of dealing direct with you, thus cutting out the middleman's profits. Order your H.T. Battery from us to-night.

A Filament

that is tough enough to support four valves without breaking

Every feature of the wonderful P.M. Filament has a superiority all its own.

In this case you can judge the high mechanical strength of the P.M. Filament, particularly when you realise that an ordinary filament will barely support a single valve compared to the four possible with the P.M. filament.

This great difference in the strength is due to the special core of rare metal in the P.M. Filament, which is so tough that it can be tied in knots after 1,000 hours' life, and cannot be broken except by the very roughest handling. The P.M. Filament is set around 5 strong resilient hooks in such a way that it is free from tension or sag and cannot become displaced during the long life of the valve.

The multi-coating on the P.M. Filament core is prepared from an alloy of precious metals that secures a copious and powerful stream of electrons at a temperature so low that no sign of glow can be discerned.

The low current consumption of the P.M. Filament, only one-tenth ampere, will make your accumulator charges last seven times as long, reducing your recharging costs and journeys to one-seventh. The emission of the P.M. Filament is completely within the field of the grid and anode, despite the fact that this emission is up to 5 $\frac{1}{2}$ times greater than that of an ordinary filament.

Finally, this vastly increased emission gives a wide range of power free from microphonic disturbances, and the P.M. Filament is so conservatively rated that it will stand a reasonable overload without fear of damage.

You will never really be satisfied until you have secured the valves with the P.M. Filament. There are many attempts to imitate its individual features, but all the advantages of the P.M. Filament can only be found in P.M. Valves.

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR P.M. VALVES. HE SELLS THEM BECAUSE THEY SATISFY.
