The Englishman's Favourite Music.

Sir Henry Coward urges Oratorio's Claim to be Broadcast.

ORATORIO has always had a firm hold upon the hearts of music lovers in this country; in fact, it has been said with a great deal of truth that 'In no other country are the composition and performance of oratorio more assiduously cultivated than in England.' No other music is more dignified in its scope, more majestic in its conception, and, it may be added, no form of music needs such careful, painstaking rehearsal in order to achieve the full perfection of its beauty—and this is what present requirements demand.

But although oratorio, as typified in Handel's Messiah, has been popular for more than two hundred years, it is by no means old-fashioned. Many modern works—Samson and Delilah and the Dream of Gerontius for example—are appreciated by music lovers who might actually deny a liking for oratorio in the commonly accepted meaning of the word; yet these works are more or less in the nature of oratorio.

Whether the jazzist ever listens to oratorio with an appreciative ear is possibly a doubtful point, but he is certainly taking too much upon himself when he asserts, as he sometimes does, that jazz is a substitute for serious music. Jazz probably satisfies those whose tastes run in the groove of banality, and whose outlook upon its atavistic tendencies is very limited. In its early days, jazz might have been looked upon with amused toleration, but to-day, when it claims to 'compete' with serious music, any man with the true interests of music at heart can only take up a very firm stand against it.

There is, however, a mood which all men and women experience at times—a serious, thinking mood which wants enlightenment on and musical expression of elemental emotions. When a man yearns to make his mind in tune with the infinite, he turns to symphony or oratorio. In these he finds real emotion. Jazz cannot express the deeper moods which occur at some time in the life of every man. Even if a man cannot entirely satisfy his musical appetite with oratorio, the ideal musical menu must include the more serious forms of music as its basis.

From the radio listener's point of view, oratorio has many peculiarities which make it easier to understand and appreciate than symphony or opera, particularly by the untutored listener.

It is simpler than symphony for people not highly versed in musical technique, because the libretto is a concrete guide to enable the listener to follow the meaning of the music. Words and music illustrate and influence each other, the music forming a running and explanatory commentary on the trend of the words—whether sad, gay, majestic, or pathetic. Superficially it might seem that from the point of view of the radio listener, oratorio and opera are on the same plane as regards ease of appreciation, as they both have libretti to give concrete meaning to the music. But this assumption overlooks the vital difference between opera and oratorio—the fact that opera demands dramatic expression and scenery, whereas oratorio does not depend on these for its appeal.

The appeal of oratorio is entirely aural and intellectual, and as such it loses much less than opera in transmission by wireless. A man can sit at home listening to an unknown oratorio, with the score open in front of him, and to all intents and purposes his appreciation

The Longest Arm of the Law.

Broadcasting's Rôle in the War against Crime. By Maude West.

Despite the vivid imaginings of our writers of detective stories, there exist today few private enquiry agents of ability or repute. Of these, Miss Maude West is admittedly one of the most successful. In the accompanying article she visualizes the great future of wireless as a detective of crime.

A LANDMARK was set recently in the history of crime as well as that of radio when, for the first time, Scotland Yard received from New York radio-photographs of the fingerprints of a notorious criminal. Some daring jewel raids in America had been traced to this gentleman's account—and, as he is of English nationality, pictures of his fingerprints were radioed to London so that they might be compared with others in our own Criminal Investigation Department in order to see if the man had anything recorded against him in this country.

This, however, is not the first use to which radio has been put by the British police authorities, who early recognized the vast possibilities of wireless. It may not be generally known that there are now two very fast cars in this country fitted up with apparatus for both sending and receiving wireless calls. One of them, belonging to the London Metropolitan Force, has already been instrumental in the rounding-up of a clever gang of burglars. A North London policeman saw several men enter certain premises he was watching, and at once telephoned his station. The message was passed on to Scotland Yard, and from there transmitted to the scouting car. Picking up several constables on its way, the car rushed to the premises where the officer was still waiting. The whole gang were then taken red-handed.

Yet these are only tentative efforts to use wireless in the war that Society is for ever waging against crime. Future developments are bounded only by the limits of the imagination.

Today in the case of any serious crime, where the name or description of the

'wanted' man is known, the B.B.C. through its various stations could fling out to its multitude of listeners such details as are supplied by Scotland Yard. At a moderate estimate, this would mean that several thousands of amateur detectives (for most people tively to his description the previous night!

Radio photography, now developing so fast, opens up a wide vista. A criminal may have a powerful car awaiting him, he may even use an aeroplane—he always does, of course, in the 'movies'—but with his photo sent ahead of him by wireless, reproduced and placarded everywhere to face him, no matter where he may flee, his chance of avoiding detection would be slim indeed.

It must, however, be admitted that for a detective photographs are one of the least dependable sources of information, and my own experience goes to prove that pictures supposed to be 'the living image' of a wanted person quite often would serve to identify dozens of other quite innocent folk. But, since photographs are always in demand for identification when available, their broadcasting might quite probably lead to an arrest.

I have heard it said that, whatever the police can do to bring radio into their service, the criminal can retaliate by using it for his own ends. I do not think this need be feared. The size and nature of the apparatus required would itself make a criminal so obvious that he would become an object of interest to all around him.

Nor is there any effective way in which a crook can prevent the police use of wireless, and in this way it is almost unique. He can use flaming jets which will cut through metal safes like shears through cloth; he can pick most invented locks and settle the rest by a few drops of nitro-glycerine; he can bring down his pursuers by revolver or gun, but he cannot interfere with the terrible, impersonal threat of radio-detection.

Wireless has progressed tremendously since the days of its first notable use in the Druce and Crippen cases. In time I believe it will be the greatest of all the aids on which our police authorities can rely in time of need.

METRES AND KILOCYCLES.

An Important B.B.C. Announcement.

AS recently announced in the general Press, the B.B.C. proposes to adopt forthwith the principle of stating the frequency in addition to the wavelengths of all its stations.

The Union Internationale de Radiophonie, the international body which, from Geneva, governs European broadcasting, has for some time adopted this system of referring to stations by the frequency of their waves in kilocycles rather than by the length of these waves. It is only custom which has kept us from following their lead. This will be found by listeners to be the simpler system of measurement, for in the case of fourteen of our British stations, the system of reference by wavelength has necessitated the use of decimals of metres.

Three factors determine the nature of an electromagnetic wave—namely, the speed at which it travels, the frequency with which it is generated, and its length. The third factor is dependent on the first and second, for the length of a wave must be determined by dividing its velocity by the frequency of its generation. The speed of a wave is always the same, therefore it will be seen that it is the frequency of it which differentiates it from other waves. Its frequency is its distinguishing factor, and it is in terms of this to which it should rightly and logically be referred. An article on this subject by Captain P. P. Echersley will appear in next week's 'Radio Times.'

rather fancy themselves in that rôle) were equipped with at least enough information to enable them to identify the principals in the crime. The cleverest crook would have very little chance of escaping discovery when everyone he met had listened attencan be as great as if he were in the hall where it is being performed. But an unfamiliar broadcast opera he could only hope to appreciate in part, for in spite of having the score open in front of him, he would miss the explanatory effect of the dramatic action and scenic effects. In this respect oratorio scores.

There must be thousands of listeners, too, who have a sentimental regard for oratorio in that it represents the type of music with which they first became familiar by its performance in church. And by virtue of this early familiarity, there are, perhaps, many thousands of listeners, not habitual concert-goers or symphony lovers, for whom oratorio is the one form of serious music which they really love and understand.

Oratorio demands the utmost care in performance. A really competent performance of the Messiah, for example, is one of the hardest things in the world to achieve. Immense demands are made upon the soloists; artistry must be combined with perfect technique in order to make use of the immense potentialities latent in the oratorio, and thus afford the maximum of pleasure to the listener.

There must, too, be co-operation on the part of the listener if he is to derive full benefit from the work. Although the wireless enthusiast can probably get more from the first hearing of an oratorio than he can from an opera, he can glean infinitely more if he is already familiar with the work, for this will enable him to recognize the various motifs of which the later composers of oratorio made considerable use.

Full justice to any complex musical work can only be given by the co-operation of two factors—competent performance and intelligent listening; above all, competent performance. Once co-operation between performers and audience is achieved, listening to an oratorio can be an intensely beautiful experience, and a 'joy for ever.'

A Glance at Future Programmes.

Some Dates for Your Radio Diary.

MR. EDWARD ISAACS, the well-known pianist, is broadcasting from the MANCHESTER, LONDON and BIRMINGHAM studios on July 17, 20 and 28 respectively—welcome news to the thousands of listeners who admire his brilliant playing. It is generally known that Mr. Isaacs has completely lost the sight of one eye, while the sight of the other has been failing for some time. He recently underwent another operation, as a result of which it is good to learn that there is renewed hope that one eye may regain a little of its sight. The 'waiting period' is bound to be protracted, but the doctors have now 'released' Mr. Isaacs for concert work, which he intends to carry on as he has done during the past two years, without sight of the keyboard, he having memorized an extensive repertoire. In a letter to the B.B.C., written by himself, Mr. Isaacs states that he has learned to write by means of a little device of his own, quite a simple one, which is proving useful to others who, like himself, are in the dark.

Mr. EDWARD ISAACS.

An appeal on behalf of the Seamen's Friendly Society of St. Paul will be broadcast from the Bournemouth Station on Sunday, July 10. The Abbey, at Alton, gives a permanent home to old and infirm merchant seamen, and the London House at Greenwich cares for merchant seamen who are ill or in temporary need of assistance, until they can find new ships.

SO successful was the recent concert at the MANCHESTER Station by students of the Royal Manchester College of Music, that another has been arranged for Monday afternoon, July 11. Five young artists will take part—Annie Gregory (soprano), Phyllis Eley (pianoforte), Christian Orford (violin), Michael Collins (cello), and Leonard Flynn (bass). The concerts will be resumed in October, when the students return from the long vacation, and will then be given monthly during the winter.

Beethoven's 'Moonlight Sonata' will be played in the Manchester Studio at 10.35 p.m. on Friday, July 15, by Mr. Harry Greenwood, pianist.

THE Bowling Green at Southampton, the home of the Southampton (Old Green) Bowling Club, said to have been in existence prior to 1299, is probably the oldest bowling green in the world. Here every year, since 1776, has been played a picturesque contest for the office of 'Knight of the Green,' which is to be the subject of a talk from BOURNEMOUTH on Thursday, July 14, by Mr. Arthur C. Smith, Divisional Secretary of the Hampshire County Bowling Association. On the following evening an eye-witness account of the International Bowling Tournament, which is being held this year at the Banister Park Bowling Club, Southampton, will be broadcast by Mr. Walter N. Wake, a former Bowling International and President of the English Bowling Association from 1915 to 1918; he is now the Honorary Official Scorer for International Matches. The description will be relayed to a number of other stations.

Mr. W. N. WAKE.

THE speech by H.M. the King, when he performs the opening ceremony of the Gladstone Dock at Liverpool, is to be broadcast from the DAVENTRY and LIVERPOOL stations between 3.20 and 3.50 on the afternoon of Tuesday, July 19. Listeners will also hear sound associated with the departure of the Mersey Docks and Harbour Board yacht Galatea, as well as community singing by massed choirs. Another interesting outside broadcast of a similar nature will be the speech of H.R.H. Prince Henry at the opening of the New Leas Cliff Pavilion, Folkestone, on Wednesday, July 13. This ceremony takes place at midday, and is to be broadcast from the LONDON and DAVENTRY stations.

Stravinsky's 'L'Histoire du Soldat' will be heard in the course of the London programme on Tuesday, July 12. It is being presented for the first time in London at the Arts Theatre Club, Great Newport Street, whence it will be relayed to London and other stations. Mr. R. E. Jeffrey, Productions Director to the B.B.C., is supervising the presentation. Mr. Edward Clark, of the B.B.C. Music Department, conducts the special orchestra.

THE DUCHESS OF NORFOLK is to make an appeal from the LONDON and DAVENTRY Stations on Sunday evening, July 17, on behalf of the Invalid and Crippled Children's Society, of which she is Chairman. The Society, which has a hospital in Balham Street, Plaistow, operates in an area with a population of over 300,000 people—probably the darkest slum district in London—around the dock localities of Old Canning Town, Tidal Basin and Custom House. It has the only clinic in this part, and, in addition to its work on the spot, has a convalescent home at Seaford, where an integral part of its work is carried out. The appeal will be followed by an oratorio programme conducted by Mr. Joseph Lewis.

THE DUCHESS OF NORFOLK.

Sir Landon Ronald, the famous conductor, is to take the chair at a debate arranged by the B.B.C. between Mr. Osbert Sitwell, the poet, and Mr. Basil Maine, the musical critic, in the Fyvie Hall, Regent Street, London, on Wednesday evening, July 20, at 9.20 p.m. on the motion:—That Opera is Utterly Absurd.

PRACTICALLY the whole of the evening programme from LONDON on Tuesday, July 19, will be devoted to a light symphony concert, which is to be under the direction of Mr. Edward Clark. The first part of the programme consists of the works of Weber, Wagner, and Dvorak, in the course of which there will be violin solos by Arthur Catterall, and songs by Walter Widdop (tenor). The second part of the programme includes an Overture by W. T. Walton, one of the most brilliant of the younger generation of English composers, entitled Portsmouth Point (after a drawing by Rowlandson), and Borodin's Second Symphony (in B Minor).

The Viceroy of India will inaugurate the Bombay Station of the Indian Broadcasting Company, Ltd., at 5 o'clock, Indian Standard Time (11.30 a.m. G.M.T.), on Saturday, July 23. Mr. Eric Dunstan, who was formerly on the staff of the B.B.C., is the Managing Director of the I.B.C.

THE first performance of a new musical comedy by such a distinguished composer as Herbert Oliver is an event of considerable interest not only to listeners, but to all those who for so long have admired the works of one of the most popular writers of light music at the present time. The comedy, which is entitled Vauxhall Bells, will be given between 9.35 and 11 p.m. on Monday, July 18, in the LONDON studio, and Mr. Oliver will personally direct its performance. Preliminary auditions of the work suggest that many of the songs and duets are likely to prove as popular as Mr. Oliver's song-cycles, The Passing Show, Songs of Old London, The Cries of London, and The Belle of the Ball. Earlier the same evening a programme of the works of Schubert will be given under the conductorship of Mr. Stanford Robinson.

The Skelmersdale Old Prize Band is broadcasting a programme of light music from Liverpool on Tuesday, July 12. Original syncopated songs and humour will also be contributed by Pursall and Stanbury.

Mr. HERBERT OLIVER.

SOME interesting broadcasts in connection with the forthcoming 'Plymouth Week' Celebrations are to be included in the programmes from that station. Among them is the inaugural and naming ceremony of the new motor lifeboat Robert and Marcella Beck by Countess Jellicoe of Scapa, at 11 a.m. on Tuesday, July 12. This will be relayed from the Promenade Pier, Plymouth, where the Commander-in-Chief's Band and a Special Choir under the direction of Mr. David Parkes will be in attendance. Listeners will hear the introductory remarks by the Mayor of Plymouth, Alderman J. J. Hamlyn Moses; speeches by Sir Godfrey Baring, Chairman of the Committee of Management of the Royal National Lifeboat Institution, and Admiral John de M. Hutchison, Chairman of the Plymouth Branch, the Lord Bishop of Exeter, the Rt. Rev. Lord William Gascoyne-Cecil (who will dedicate the boat), in addition to that by the Countess Jellicoe of Scapa. Finally there will be a vote of thanks proposed by Sir Arthur Shirley Benn, M.P., and seconded by Mr. Leslie Hore-Belisha, M.P. Then there is a special Civic Service which will be relayed from the George Street Baptist Church on Sunday evening, July 10, to mark the beginning of the 'week'; part of the celebrations of the Carnival Ball on Monday evening, July 11; a special talk by Viscountess Astor, M.P., on Tuesday evening, July 12; music by the Black Dyke Mills Band, Bradford, relayed from the Hoe Bandstand on Wednesday, July 13; the opening of the Naval Gymkhana by Viscountess Astor relayed from Millbay Park, with a running commentary on the event by Lieut. H. Dobson, Royal Irish Fusiliers; a short talk by the Mayor of Plymouth in the studio on Thursday evening, July 14; and a programme on Saturday afternoon, July 16, by the Royal Artillery Band (Portsmouth), relayed from the Hoe Bandstand.

From the Rt. Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald, M.P.

I JOIN most gladly in the Appeal being made for Westminster Abbey. The Abbey has become the sanctuary of the soul of the English people. It stands amongst us embodying the beauty of faith and the dignity of reverence and holds in its keeping the lingering notes of the psalms and prayers of the long generations who fashioned the English nation. It has become the fitting place where the dust is laid and the names are carved of those who crown their nation with fame and honour.

From General Sir Ian Hamilton, G.C.B., D.S.O.

TIME has dared lay his sacrilegious finger upon Westminster Abbey, which our forefathers had builded expressly to delay his advance. Let the B.B.C., modern equivalent to the fiery cross, sound the alarm and call on all ranks of the nation to rally in its defence. The services as well as the architectural fabric of the Abbey must be preserved for the Empire. Is not that noble pile the last resting place of the Unknown Warrior—the Unknown Warrior who gave the enemy pause and saved the British Empire? Prime Ministers, Presidents, Admirals, Field-Marshal and Propagandists may tumble over one another trying to make good their claims to have won the Great War. But if anyone on earth won the Great War (which may be doubted) it was the Unknown Warrior. Impalpable, tremendous as Time himself, he stands for a million souls. Westminster Abbey is his grave, and by the Lord of Hosts it shall not, during our brief span, be allowed to perish or decay.

From The Rev. Dr. J. Scott Lidgett.

I COUNT it a privilege to support the Appeal for the additional gifts that are still required for Westminster Abbey. Westminster Abbey speaks for itself to all who have knowledge and imagination with far more eloquence and influence than mere words can command. To say that the Abbey is our most precious monument is to utter a commonplace. The decay of the Abbey would be the outward and visible sign of the decay, in our race, of all the great qualities which reared it in the past and have enriched it throughout the ages. It is not enough to say that the Abbey belongs to the Church, or to the Nation, or even to both combined. Such statements are too narrow and formal to do justice to the truth. Westminster Abbey belongs to us all. It calls out and expresses all the noblest ideals of our race, and by uniting all these ideals both in themselves and in their appeal to us, unites us to one another. The British people throughout the world are the real custodians of the Abbey. They have received it as a priceless inheritance, with the

The Abbey and the Empire

On Sunday, July 3, at 8.55 p.m., following a religious service relayed from Westminster Abbey, the Very Reverend the Dean of Westminster will broadcast from all Stations an Appeal on behalf of the Abbey Fund. The spiritual and historical significance of Westminster Abbey to the Empire is expressed in the accompanying messages which have been received by The Radio Times, and which leave no doubt as to the national importance of the cause for which the Dean of Westminster will speak.

From the Right Hon. Stanley Baldwin, M.P.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY is linked with the history of the English speaking peoples as is no other building in the world. Built by English kings, with the craftsmanship of English workmen, this great church provided the Chapel of the Pyx for the Treasury, her Chapter House for the sittings of Parliament, and her chapels for the burying of her kings.

It is hard for us to realize the Westminster of the thirteenth century. Where the omnibuses swing round by St. Margaret's Church and along that busy road to Lambeth Bridge, Henry III, the founder of the Abbey as we know it, planted an orchard of pear trees that he might see the white walls rising through the blossom as he watched his masons at work from his palace in the spring. The monastery is gone, the fields are gone, the orchard of pears is gone, but the Abbey is ours, darkened with age, with a beauty against which Time is powerless, the spectator of six centuries of ceaseless striving, of splendid successes, of splendid failures, of dreams and of achievement. By her altar our kings have been crowned; under her roof we have given thanks for our victories; under her roof we have mourned our dead.

Is there a man or woman who has kneeled in that crowded nave upon some occasion of national sorrow or rejoicing who will not bear witness to the spirit which is abroad in the Abbey at such moments, the sense of unity, the corporate sense of a people united under God?

And perhaps nothing binds the ages more closely together than the continuing service of song which has touched the hearts of successive generations for nearly a thousand years. We cannot evade our responsibility to ensure that such music shall be available for those who follow us as it is for ourselves and has been for those who went before. Therefore, let us give heed to the Dean of Westminster when he speaks.

From Sir Henry Newbolt, C.H.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY has a threefold claim upon the imagination of Englishmen. It has been for nine hundred years one of the centres of national life; it is the sanctuary where the greatest number of our kings and great men are commemorated; and it is one of the most beautiful among our many vast and beautiful churches. This third claim is not the one which makes Westminster unique, but it is the one which gives deep and irresistible meaning to the other two.

It is natural that we should be stirred by the history of great events and the memory of great men; but the quality of the emotion depends on something far more deeply interfused. When we are moved by any creative art we receive, as many poets have testified, an influence not only from the spirit of the man who made the work of art, but through him from the universal spirit which moved him in the act of creation. Consciously or unconsciously, nearly all men feel this. When they enter such a building as the Abbey they become aware that there is something about it which is more beautiful than the skilled architectural design, something added to the builder's effort, an impression of a spirit moving in a world of beauty which is not in its nature material at all.

One more thing must be remembered: this national monument, this fellowship of the great dead, this entrance into reality is not ours alone; there will be others to come after us, with the same needs and the same right of inheritance. We have it in trust to make sure that as they come, generation after generation, no matter what their place of birth, their creed, their political ideas or social life, they shall find here that which we have found, that which we know our forefathers have found here in ages past.

From Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, N.Y.

THE noble church which Rudyard Kipling in stately verse has called 'The Abbey that makes us We,' must always be the chief shrine of the English-speaking race. There are assembled the many memorials of the beginnings and the development of our public history and new religious faith. There have taken place for centuries noble ceremonies and notable assemblies. No other single spot on earth can mean so much to the entire widespread race that speaks the English tongue.

We in America love and revere Westminster Abbey. We are proud and happy to remember that Abraham Lincoln, whom Lowell called 'The first American,' in the dignity and repose of St. Gaudens' fine bronze, looks out upon the Abbey and will look out upon it through the centuries.

In this work of maintenance America will join, and gladly.

CORA ASTLE and Orchestra
Concerto in G Minor Mendelssohn

SOON after Mendelssohn came home from his Italian and Swiss tour in 1831, he wrote this Concerto. He was then twenty-two.

There are three Movements.
I (Very quick, fiery). Mendelssohn plunges almost at once into his First Main Tune, which the Piano has by itself.

The Soloist and Orchestra for a while toss a conversational ball to and fro, and then the quiet Second Main Tune creeps in.

These tunes are developed in vigorous fashion, and after their recapitulation a Trumpet and Horn passage leads us to a new key for the next Movement, which follows without a break.

II (Rather slow). One Main Tune, expressive and restful, suffices here. It is given out by the Cello, to which Mendelssohn was fond of giving themes. The Movement consists of delicate, varied repetitions of this, by either the Soloist or the Orchestra.

III A short introductory section (Very quick) leads to the brilliant First Main Tune, a gallop for the Piano. Here is the essence of youthful vivacity, that in Mendelssohn was never tinged with vulgarity, but always had in it something high-toned and urbane.

After the opening Tune comes a second idea, a coruscation of arpeggios, much used throughout the Movement.

A third motive is a phrase for Flutes, consisting of a repeated four-note figure, the second note trilled.

Using these materials with brilliant spontaneity and handling his Orchestra (especially the Woodwind) with delightful ease and certainty, Mendelssohn works up the Movement, rounding it off with a final irresistible outburst.

THE QUIETER SIDE OF THE ABBEY.

This unusual view of Westminster Abbey shows the cloisters, with the Chapter House beyond. The evening service from the Abbey is to be broadcast this evening, and after it, the Dean of Westminster will appeal for the Westminster Abbey Fund.

ORCHESTRA
The 'Reformation' Symphony ... Mendelssohn
IN 1830, the tercentenary year of the Augsburg Protestant Confession, it was proposed to hold a general celebration throughout the Protestant States of Germany. The scheme was dropped, after Mendelssohn had specially written this Symphony as a contribution to it.

Written for a church celebration, the Symphony makes many a quotation of church music. The very opening notes are a medieval melody which was used by Bach and Mozart. Later in the introductory section occurs another ancient melody, stridently sounded, and this is immediately followed by the 'Dresden Amen' (which Wagner also adopted—as one of the principal themes in his Parsifal). This opening section of the music may be said to stand for the older church.

To this, follows an outburst of quick music that seems to suggest anger. This part is fully worked out as a symphonic 'first movement.'

The next Movement is lyrical, with a hint of pastoral delight. It is cast in the common form and three-beat rhythm of 'Scherzo and Trio.'

A pathetic little tune, in a minor key, opens the next Movement. Presently the famous Lutheran hymn, Ein feste Burg ('A safe stronghold'), enters, the herald of the Reformation. At first it is played by a single Flute, other instruments join in at the second line and the rest of the Orchestra enters during the remaining lines.

The next section is a Variation on this hymn tune. Fragments of it are heard against a running figure in the Strings.

The last Movement is built largely of massive music, into which the Lutheran hymn is woven towards the end, its last lines being given out, at the close, with full power.

Concerto in G Beethoven

THERE are in this Concerto (it is Beethoven's Op. 58, in the key of G) several points of treatment that were new and striking when, a hundred and nineteen years ago, the work was produced.
It is in three Movements.

* See special announcement on page 2 regarding the new system of designating stations.

FIRST MOVEMENT. The first new thing is that instead of beginning with the usual burst of Full Orchestra (a plan he had followed in his three earlier Concertos), Beethoven lets the Soloist announce the First Main Tune. Besides this, there are several other leading tunes, the Second Main one being given to Violins (a minor key melody in 'arpeggio' steps), and two or three others being brought in.

The SECOND MOVEMENT provides another of the work's points of rarity and interest. It is very short and consists of a lovely dialogue between Orchestra and Pianoforte, the former stating an emphatic, almost imperious Tune, and the latter replying in smooth, quiet, thoughtful passages, as if sweetly reasoning with the other's impatience.

THIRD MOVEMENT. This, the Composer directed, was to follow closely on the Slow Movement. It is a sprightly Rondo, clearly and cleanly built.

On the left is Dr. Manning, the Bishop of New York, whose sermon from York Minster will be relayed by London and Daventry this morning, and on the right the Dean of Westminster, who appeals for the Westminster Abbey Fund at 8.50.

Introduction and Allegro for Harp (accompanied by String Quartet, Flute and Clarinet) ... Ravel

RAVEL, the foremost of living French composers, wrote this little work in 1906. It is in effect a Concerto for the Harp, with sextet accompaniment.

The Woodwind instruments blend extremely well with the Harp, making many beautiful varieties of brightly-coloured tone, which shows up against the rich background of the Strings. In the middle is a long cadenza for the Harp, in which its capacities are fully demonstrated.

THIS is a little Suite of pieces for Flute, Violin and Viola, all of them short, transparently clear and melodious.

They are six in number. The first is a tiny March, the second a Minuet, the third a very brisk little Movement, and the fourth an Air with Variations. Then, to wind up, we have two contrasted lively pieces, the final Movement being introduced by a few bars of slow music.

MIND-TRAINING IN SUMMERTIME

"Little Grey Books" Which Transmute Spare Moments Into Gold.

THOUSANDS of men and women are reading the "Little Grey Books" this summer. And very interesting—and profitable—reading they are.

Miss Lillah McCarthy

"Pelmanism," says Miss Lillah McCarthy, "is now my Sunday recreation—twelve Pelman books and a garden chair. After this pleasant exercise I feel braced up, ready for my week's work, and sure that I shall be able to do my best. That is the secret I have learnt from Pelmanism—it makes you do your best; and, moreover, it makes your best better than you thought it possible to be. I am now a Pelman enthusiast, and am prescribing my remedy wherever and whenever I encounter a friend who would be better for it—there are many who would.

"Pelmanism," she continues, "is a most absorbing game. At any convenient moment one may take up the 'Little Grey Books' and enjoy real mental education. Pelmanism re-creates the mind, fills one with a new energy for work, stimulates one to a greater determination of Will-Power, and increases the capacity for Concentration."

A Clerk writes that as a result of practising Pelmanism he has become more Optimistic, has improved his Memory and his Observation, and has become less Self-Conscious.

An Engineer writes that he has strengthened his Will-Power, overcome Shyness, and increased his Self-Confidence.

A Lady Student writes that she has passed an examination "with great success, and attributes this honour to the Pelman Course."

A Doctor says that he has steadily increased his practice.

An Accountant reports a "substantial increase" in salary.

A Student of Music reports that he has gained immensely in Self-Confidence, Efficiency and Quickness of Understanding.

A Secretary and Cashier reports an increase of £80 in salary.

A Salesman writes: "Since taking the Course my salary has been increased by over 100%."

A Manager states that he has increased his salary from £230 per annum, first to £400, then to £800, and now to £1,000 in two years. "During this time," he writes, "I continually referred to my 'Little Grey Books' for inspiration and confidence, and with astonishing success."

The Pelman Course has been thoroughly revised in the light of the latest discoveries in Psychology, and the "Little Grey Books" enable you to make use of these discoveries for your own personal advantage. The mental exercises are a delight to practise, and the Grey Books are a source of fascination from the first page to the last. They will help you to double your Efficiency, to increase your Earning-Power, and to win your way to a higher position in life.

Pelmanism takes up very little time. You can practise it in the train, on the beach, or, as Miss McCarthy does, whilst sitting in the garden.

WRITE FOR THIS FREE BOOK.

A little book has been published, entitled "The Efficient Mind." This book contains a full description of the revised Pelman Course and shows you how you can enrol on the most convenient terms. You can obtain a copy of this book free of charge by writing for it to-day to the Pelman Institute, 95, Pelman House, Bloomsbury Street, London, W.C.1. Write or call to-day and a free copy of this book—which will show you how you can double your Efficiency and greatly increase your Earning Power—will be sent you by return, gratis and post free.

Los Requiabros (from 'Goyescas') .. Granados
BORN at Clifton, Bristol, in 1886, Mr. Frank Merrick studied pianoforte playing with Leschetizky in Vienna. For sixteen years he has been Professor of Pianoforte at the Royal Manchester College of Music, and he is one of the most prominent musicians in Manchester today. Several of his works have already been broadcast from the Manchester Station.

The fourth item of his recital, Los Requiabros (endearing or flattering expressions), is the first of a set of Pianoforte pieces, entitled Goyescas, written by the Spanish Composer Granados as musical commentaries on pictures by the celebrated Spanish painter, Francisco Goya.

MISS WINIFRED DAVIS owes her musical career to the War, for it was only then that she seriously began to study after her first public appearance. She was a pupil of the late Liza Lehmann, and was soon engaged to sing in opera at the Old Vic and with various other operatic companies. Many listeners will remember her performances in 'Decameron Nights' at Drury Lane.

WE all know that heavy bombardments on the Western Front during the war could frequently be heard in London, and there are many recorded cases of loud noises being heard at great distances. The audibility of sounds is an interesting subject, and one that can, incidentally, throw considerable light upon the problems of the upper atmosphere that lie beyond the reach of direct investigation. Next week a scientific attempt to investigate the zones of audibility of sounds will be made by the War Office and the Meteorological Department of the Air Ministry, with the co-operation of the B.B.C. and its listeners. When one of the big guns is being fired at Shoeburyness, an endeavour will be made to plot the audibility zones of the explosions. What listeners are asked to do Mr. Whipple, the Superintendent of Kew Observatory, will explain in this talk.

9.35-11.0 'ABRAHAM LINCOLN'
A Play by JOHN DRINKWATER
Arranged in Five Scenes

Abridged and adapted specially for broadcasting

Produced by HOWARD ROSE
WILLIAM J. REA
as 'Abraham Lincoln'
(his original part)

'ABRAHAM LINCOLN' was first produced at the Birmingham Repertory Theatre on October 12, 1918. The production was remarkable in several ways—the author himself directed it, and the settings were designed by Sir Barry Jackson. Mr. William J. Rea then played the title role, which he has since played in many parts of the world.

I
THE parlour of Abraham Lincoln's house at Springfield, Illinois, early in 1860. Mr. Stone, a farmer, and Mr. Cuffney, a storekeeper, both men of between fifty and sixty, are sitting before an early spring fire. It is dusk, but the curtains are not drawn. The men are smoking silently.

II

III
Nearly two years later. A small reception room at the White House. Mrs. Lincoln, dressed in a fashion perhaps a little too considered, despairing, as she now does, of any sartorial grace in her husband, and acutely conscious that she must meet this necessity of office alone, is writing. She rings the bell, and Susan, her maidservant, comes in.

IV
An April evening in 1865. A farmhouse near Appomattox. General Grant, Commander-in-Chief, under Lincoln, of the Northern armies, is seated at a table with Captain Malins, an aide-de-camp. He is smoking a cigar, and at intervals he replenishes his glass of whisky. Dennis, an orderly, sits at a table in the corner, writing.

ENGLAND'S TRIBUTE TO THE GREATEST PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

The Fourth of July is the national festival of the United States, and the London programme tonight has a very American flavour. At 9.35 will be broadcast a radio version of 'Abraham Lincoln,' John Drinkwater's famous play of the American Civil War. The pictures show Lincoln (left) and Ulysses S. Grant (right), the general who made his policy possible; and in the centre the momentous meeting of Lincoln's Cabinet, as it was staged at the Lyric Theatre, Hammersmith. (By courtesy of 'The Play Pictorial'.)

V

The evening of April 14, 1865. The small lounge of a theatre. On the far side are the doors of three private boxes. There is silence for a few moments. Then the sound of applause comes from the auditorium beyond. The box doors are opened. In the centre box can be seen Lincoln and Stanton, Mrs. Lincoln, another lady, and an officer talking together. The occupants come out from the other boxes into the lounge, where small knots of people have gathered from different directions, and stand or sit, talking busily.

ONE OF AMERICA'S BEST.

Ed Lowry, as popular an entertainer as ever came over here from the States, figures in the American Variety programme with which London Station is celebrating Independence Day.

THE ABBEY AND THE EMPIRE.

trust to preserve it for the generations to come.

Westminster Abbey records and enshrines our history. In perpetuating the memory of the greatest personalities our race has produced, it commemorates the greatest achievements of religion and public life, of heroism and adventure, of literature, science and art.

The Abbey, however, is more than a monument. It is a spiritual symbol. The work by which pious monks and royal founders in alliance converted a dreary marsh into the headquarters of religion and sovereignty, side by side, stands out as a characteristic achievement of the Christian religion. If the Abbey is a shrine and a mausoleum it is also a university, for it has recognized under the consecration of religion the most diverse interests and activities of human life, counting none of them alien from the spirit of Christianity or from the well-being of mankind. It shows something of the magnanimity and mercy of God Himself, for it welcomes the greatness, is kindly towards the errors, and transcends the differences of those who have made Britain great. So let rich and poor vie with one another in generous gifts, large and small, so that Westminster Abbey may bear witness that the spirit which built it still inspires our race throughout the world.

NEXT Monday will be the anniversary of the birth of Liza Lehmann (1862-1918), one of the comparatively few British women to win fame by musical composition. Madame Lehmann was a singer and therefore knew how to write effectively for the voice, as will be amply proved in the course of tonight's programme.

DOROTHY BENNETT, ESTHER COLEMAN, ERIC GREENE and Orchestra

Trio: 'New Leaves show Green on the Almond Tree' from 'The Golden Threshold'

DALE SMITH and Orchestra

Jim, who ran away from his nurse and was eaten by a lion

Matilda, who told lies and was burned to death

Henry King, who chewed little bits of string, and was early cut off in dreadful agonies

8.20 BACH'S MASS IN B MINOR, PART II

Relayed from York Minster. S.B. from Leeds
Full Choir composed of YORK MINSTER CHOIR, YORK MUSICAL SOCIETY, LEEDS PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY

Full orchestra composed of members of THE HALLÉ and LEEDS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRAS and others

Conducted by Dr. E. C. BAINSTOW

Soloists:

ELSIE SUDDABY (Soprano)

MURIEL BRUNSKILL (Contralto)

STUART WILSON (Tenor)

GEORGE PARKER (Bass)

WHERE The Messiah stands in the esteem of the musical public Bach's Mass in B Minor stands in the esteem of musicians. It is held in veneration that is by no means distant, for a performance of this mighty, complicated and 'intellectual' work is looked upon as something to be enjoyed, in spite of the arduous effort of listening that it entails.

The Mass was written, and is always sung, to Latin words. It has five principal sections, known by the opening words of each: Kyrie, Gloria, Credo, Sanctus and Agnus Dei. Strictly speaking, there is no division into Part I and Part II, but in most performances a break is made after the Gloria, and 'Part II' begins with the Credo.

CREDO.

This has nine movements:—
Credo in unum Deum (I believe in one God). This is a chorus founded on a Gregorian tune that passes from voice to voice and forms a continuous backbone to the music.

Pater omnipotens (The Father Almighty). A chorus of great vigour.

Et in unum Dominum Jesu Christum (And in one Lord Jesus Christ). A duet of soprano and alto soloists.

Et incarnatus est de Spiritu Sancto (And was incarnate by the Holy Ghost). A chorus of quiet, tender, mysterious phrases.

Crucifixus (And was crucified). A chorus, the music of which seems to remove itself still further into mysteries beyond human ken. 'One of the supreme utterances of music,' says an authority, summing up what cannot be explained.

Et resurrexit tertia die (And the third day He rose again).

A jubilant chorus.

Et in Spiritum sanctum (And [I believe] in the Holy Ghost). A solo for bass, in a gently swinging rhythm.

Confiteor unum baptismum (I acknowledge one Baptism). A chorus, very 'learned' in style, from which an old Plain Chant tune emerges now in one voice, now in another.

SANCTUS.

Sanctus, sanctus, sanctus (Holy, holy, holy). A chorus, quite beyond description. While the upper voices, in long, undulating phrases, depict the Seraphim that 'cried unto another,' the lower voices sing a motive in mighty octaves that 'arches heaven.'

Osanna in excelsis (Hosanna to the highest). Yet another chorus; an outburst of joyful adoration, in a quick, urgent rhythm.

Benedictus qui venit (Blessed is he that cometh). A tenor solo, accompanied by many sinuous phrases in the instrumental part.

AGNUS DEI.

Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccata mundi (O Lamb of God, that takest away the sins of the world).

GREAT MUSIC FROM THE GREAT CATHEDRAL OF THE NORTH.

The Second Part of Bach's Mass in B Minor is to be relayed from York Minster at 8.20 tonight. This picturesque view of the fourteenth-century towers of the West Front is reproduced from a drawing by Henry C. Brewer, by courtesy of Kodak, Ltd.

Moral: Charles Augustus Fortescue, who always did what was right and so accumulated an immense fortune

A TYPICAL VILLAGE IN SOUTHERN FRANCE.

The series of talks on village life in other lands will be continued today by Dame Henrietta Barnett, who will deal with France. Gattières, shown in this picture, is a typical Provençal village, with its white-washed walls, its terraces clothed with olives and vines, and the mountains seen dimly beyond.

A Cornet is a Cornet—

when the Brown
is reproducing

YOU know the loud speaker that has a nasty habit of giving its own version of the broadcast? Of putting in something that isn't there and leaving out something that is. Of distorting music—making a cornet sound like a saxophone.

A Brown Loud Speaker has never been guilty of any of these sins. The Brown, owing to its unique design and skilful construction, gives a faithful rendering of the broadcast. It tells the truth. The cornet is a cornet when the Brown is reproducing. Every tone of the human voice, every note in the harmonic scale—the Brown reproduces them all with living realism. Could you ask more from a loud speaker?

Here the Brown Sphinx (shown above) at your Dealer's. It sets a new standard among loud speakers. Price

EXPLORATION

A wonderful explorer is the Marconiphone "Super-8." Reaching out into far-off lands, discovering new stations, bringing them to you—so clearly, so powerfully, that they might be but a few miles distant. All this without an outside aerial or earth. The signals are received on a small frame aerial, mounted above the distinctive mahogany cabinet. Tuning is simplicity itself—there is only one control. Quality of reproduction is extraordinarily good and provision is made for cutting out one of the low frequency valves, though the super-power valve in the last stage always remains in circuit. Added to this general simplicity is a Distant Control which enables the valves and volume to be controlled anywhere within ten feet of the receiver. Write for booklet describing the many refinements which make the "Super-8" the most perfect of all radio receivers.

Price including frame aerial and leads £53-0-0

9.35-11.0 'DREAM VALLEY'

'Memory hither come,
And tune your merry notes;
And while upon the wind
Your music floats,
I'll pore upon the stream
Where sighing lovers dream
And fish for fancies as they pass
Within the watery glass.'

(William Blake. Set to Music by Roger Quilter.)

The Question—A Poem by Percy Bysshe Shelley
On Hearing the First Cuckoo in Spring
Delius

'Mother Goose' Suite Bavel

The Suite consists of five pieces:—

(1) The Pavane of the Sleeping Beauty, gentle and of extreme simplicity and only twenty bars long.

(2) Hop o' my Thumb (who thought he could find his way back by the crumbs he had dropped on his way; but was quite at a loss, because the birds had eaten them all).

(3) Laidronette, Empress of the Pagodas. A Pagoda (in France) is a little grotesque figure with a nodding head. Laidronette went to live in the land of these people, having been cursed with ugliness by a wicked fairy.

(4) Conversation between Beauty and the Beast (the latter is easily identified).

(5) The Fairy Garden (a festivity, in which we hear the tinkle of fairy wedding-bells).

Dream Children—A Reverie Charles Lamb
Dream Children—Two Pieces for Orchestra Elgar

Three Songs from 'The Starlight Express' Elgar
To the Children; The Blue-eyes Fairy;
My Old Times

Dream Pedlary—A Poem by Thomas Lovell Beddoes.

7.25 Prof. LASCELLES ABERCROMBIE: 'Victorian Poetry—Spasmodics and Rebels.' S.B. from Leeds

IN his previous talks Professor Lascelles Abercrombie has discussed Tennyson and Browning and the pre-Raphaelites—all poets whose work seems now to fit very neatly into the mosaic pattern of the Victorian age, however eccentric some of it may have appeared at the time. But even the Victorian age had its rebels, men of a spirit destined to oppose the current, and it is of them that Professor Lascelles Abercrombie will talk today.

9.20 Mr. FREDERICK CHAMBERLIN; 'The Minorca Excavations'

ONE by one the old civilizations of the Mediterranean are giving up their secrets to the spade of the excavator. Pompeii, Herculaneum, Crete and now Minorca, in the Balearics, are being unveiled to our gaze. Mr. Chamberlin is widely known as a writer, and his penetrating books on Queen Elizabeth aroused much attention and much controversy. He has lately become an enthusiast for the Balearics, where he now lives, and has published several books on them.

Scene: An Ante-Chamber in the Prince's Castle at Tzern
Time: The Present Day

THE young Prince Dimitri is the last of his dynasty; but while he lives and may have sons, the way will never be clear for Prince Karl, the head of the rival dynasty. Three officers of Dimitri's own regiment of Guards have caught him in a death-trap and come to murder him. Dr. Stronetz for the moment saves him by what appears to be a trick. But it is no trick; and the trap closes on the traitors who have set it.

Mr. L. A. P. WARNER.

LIVERPOOL has long been the great port for the Atlantic trade, with seven miles of docks, thirty-seven miles of quay space, and the largest warehouse in the world. But it has no intention of resting on its laurels, and even now it is just bringing to completion that vast project, the Gladstone Docks scheme, which will give it the largest docks in the world, capable of accommodating ships bigger than any yet designed. These docks will be opened on July 19, and Mr. Warner, who is General Manager of the Mersey Docks and Harbour Board, will describe them in this preliminary talk.

FRANKLYN KELSEY (Baritone)

5.0 Mr. J. H. DRIBERG: 'A Central African Native Story'

MR. DRIBERG went to Africa years ago as a Government official, and became so interested in the country and its people that he stayed on after his term of service expired. For many years now he has lived in the forests of Central and West Africa, amongst the negroes, as one of themselves. He has been initiated into their brotherhoods and assisted at their ceremonies, and the learning that scientists coming from outside have to struggle for has come to him as his right. He is returning to Africa very shortly, and listeners are lucky to be able to hear his talk this afternoon.

5.15 THE CHILDREN'S HOUR: Selections by the Band of St. Mary, Islington, Guardians' Schools. 'How Blacktips learnt his Lesson' (Mortimer Ballen). Bugle Calls of the British Army (with illustrations), by Lieut. B. Walton O'Donnell, R.M.

7.25 Prof. JOSEPH BARCROFT, 'The Art and Practice of Breathing—The Open Window'

PROFESSOR BARCROFT.

THE last generation has seen, in this country at any rate, a general awakening to the fact that shut windows and stuffy rooms are both unhealthy and unpleasant. Recently we have learnt, too, that by shutting a window we may be shutting out, not perhaps the sun, but the most health-giving of the sun's rays—those invisible rays that cannot pass through ordinary glass.

Listeners wishing to obtain fuller information about Professor Barcroft's talks on 'The Art and Practice of Breathing' may, by sending 1½d. in stamps to the Publications Department of the B.B.C., obtain a copy of a special pamphlet giving synopsis of his talks, with illustrations and diagrams.

Just beyond the station at Brigues the railway line enters the Simplon Tunnel, one of the engineering wonders of the world. The tunnel is the subject of Mr. O. Bolton King's talk to Birmingham schoolchildren this afternoon.

Secret of Hair-growth Discovered at Matlock

New Hydropathic Method of Hair Culture for All

Everyone Can Now Grow New Hair and Restore Natural Colour to Faded or Grey Hair Despite Previous Failure.

SPECIAL ARRANGEMENTS FOR "RADIO TIMES" READERS TO RECEIVE PARTICULARS FREE.

For quite a young man to achieve world-wide fame by means of a Physical discovery which will benefit all mankind the world over is no common experience.

It, however, has fallen to the lot of a singularly brilliant young resident in the Matlock district—that home of hydropathic success—to adopt and add the Hydropathic principle to "Hair Culture," so that no one need have Hair Trouble of any kind in the future.

Mr. Frederick Godfrey is the much-talked-of and everywhere praised young discoverer of the secret of Hair Growth, which he has aptly Godfrey's advice is quite small: the time required no more, but perhaps less than has been devoted to other and far less natural or successful forms of care of the hair.

The Godfrey "Renuhair" Hydropathic method of Hair Culture is equally valuable to men and women, and is advocated for not only those who are quite bald and desire to regrow hair, but also for the keeping in condition of hair and turning poverty of hair into a luxuriant growth.

Mr. Godfrey has made arrangements whereby all readers of Radio Times who suffer from:—

1. Patchy Baldness.
2. Baldness.
3. Falling Hair.
4. Greasy Hair.

MATLOCK BATH—THE HOME OF HYDROPATHY.

This glorious beauty spot in the Derbyshire Peak District is already famous as the British home of Hydropathy. New lustre will be added to its wonderful reputation all over the world as a result of Mr. Frederick Godfrey's important New Hydropathic Method of Hair Growth and Maintenance.

Loss of Hair or Greyness are such handicaps in the strenuous life of to-day that no praise can be too great for the man who can help others either to regrow lost hair or restore the youthful colour of faded or grey locks.

This Mr. Frederick Godfrey, a young resident in the Matlock district, has achieved, and, what is more, he is broadcasting freely particulars of his discovery to all whose hair is lacking or colour faulty, not only in this country but abroad as well.

named "Renuhair." Mr. Godfrey is Managing Director of the well-known Matlock Bath Hydro, but has worked entirely upon his own lines of research in his study of Hair Growth.

SO SIMPLE EVERYONE CAN ADOPT IT.

So simple is the "Renuhair" method that everyone can carry it out for themselves from the clear directions sent to them by Mr. Godfrey. The cost of following Mr.

may receive full particulars of his discovery free of any charge, and readers will find that the cost of carrying out Mr. Godfrey's advice is very much less than is entailed by other far less successful methods.

STRIKING PUBLIC TESTIMONY!

A Few of the Many Hundreds of Remarkable Letters Received.

HAIR NOW THICKER, LONGER, AND BETTER COLOUR.

Enclose third report on my hair. I am awfully pleased to say your treatment has really improved my hair in every way; it is much thicker, longer, and better colour, has more life in it, and looks heaps better than it has done for months.

I am so thankful I saw your advertisement and wrote for the treatment.

Miss C. H.

YOUR TREATMENT HAS DONE MORE IN TWO MONTHS THAN REST IN SEVEN YEARS.

I have still nothing but praise for your treatment. The hair which I stated was growing on the edge of the old is growing longer, and is in a healthy condition. The fluff which was apparently not progressing has become hair, and I am now in a fair way of recovering the greater part, if not the whole of my hair. My head is free from scurf, the hair in excellent condition, and has improved in colour and texture. I can honestly say that no treatment I have tried—and if there is any I have missed, it is because I never heard of it—has had anything like the effect yours has had. Your treatment has effected in two months more than all the rest in seven years.

A. S. B.

MR. FREDERICK GODFREY.

Mr. Frederick Godfrey, who developed, tested and successfully proved the new Hydropathic Hair Growth Discovery, is one of Britain's brilliant post-war young men.

Not only is he a man of vision, but a very hard worker, whose practical turn of mind places the benefit of his discovery within the reach of all.

Incidentally, Mr. Godfrey proved his theory in his own person to such effect that he says, "My hair is so abundant and strong that you could lift me off a chair by it."

To-day, readers of "Radio Times" are invited to write to him on the "Radio Times" form below, when, without any charge or obligation whatever, he will send them full particulars of "How to Grow and Maintain a Perfect Head of Hair."

DANDRUFF GONE ENTIRELY.

I'm very pleased to say that my hair is getting on splendidly, the dandruff gone entirely, falling almost all, and it is much improved in condition. H. H.

NEW HAIR COMING WHERE HEAD WAS BALD.

I must speak as I find. I am very pleased with the success of "Renuhair." I have got fine new hair coming all over my head where it was bald. Where I had a shining bald head it is looking dark now and improving every month. It is good to see it coming back again. R. E.

A SUMMER evening in Paris, full of gaiety and colour. Dusk is creeping between the chestnut-trees in the Bois, down on to the Grands Boulevards. The terraces of the cafés are thronged with people. Along the pavements under the stars the crowds stroll, laughing and talking, clustering at the newspaper kiosks, staring into the brilliant windows of the luxury-shops. . . . The day's work is over. Paris is herself again.

Paris! What shall we do this evening? Dinner at Premier or under the trees at Armonville? And then—Racine at the Odéon or a barbaric, colourful revue at the Folies? Champagne and Charleston in the Place Pigalle, or bock and the java in Montparnasse?

No, let's go to the Capucines, or some other intimate theatre for one of those light, sparkling revues beloved of Parisians, full of wit and melody and topical satire. It is to one of these revues intimes that Alice Delysia is taking us tonight. Paris Calling! Stand by. . .

7.25 Mr. VERNON BLUNT: Eye-Witness Account of play in the County Championship Match, Yorkshire v. Nottingham

MR. VERNON BLUNT.

THIS is the opening day of a very important match in the County Championship series, when two of the strongest sides in the competition, and two local rivals, come to grips. The meetings of Yorkshire and Notts are always interesting to watch and the cricket often reaches a standard worthy of a Test Trial match. Any local cricket-lovers who have been unable to get into the ground today will welcome the opportunity of hearing Mr. Vernon Blunt describe the play.

Here's happiness and prosperity for you and yours.

£250 A YEAR FOR LIFE—FROM AGE 55

Think of it! A care-free life from age 55. An income of £250 a year absolutely secure to you for the remainder of your days—even if you live to be a centenarian.

The Plan devised by the Sun Life of Canada, the great Annuity Company with Government-supervised assets of over £62,000,000, makes this splendid prospect possible for you. You deposit with them a yearly sum you can well afford out of your income, and the money, under the care of this most prosperous Company, accumulates to your credit and to it are added extraordinarily generous profits.

The figures here given assume an age of 35, and are estimated on present profits, but readers who fill in the enquiry form and send it to the Company, receive, without obligation, figures to suit their own age and circumstances. Full details of the plan will also be sent.

£250 a Year for Life.

Just at the age when you begin to feel you ought to take things more easily, the Sun of Canada makes it possible for you to do so. From 55 years of age you will receive £250 a year for life. If you prefer it a cash sum of £3,000 will be given you instead of the yearly income.

£20 a Month if Unable to Work.

Supposing you adopted this plan now, and next week, next year, or any year until you are 55, you become—through illness or accident—permanently incapacitated for earning a living, £20 a month will be paid to you until the £250 a year becomes due. And from the time of such incapacity no further deposits need be made by you.

Income Tax Rebate.

If Income Tax remains as now, you will save nearly £250 during the run of the arrangement. This is additional to the profit you can make on the transaction.

£2,000 for Your Family if Anything Happens to You.

Should you not live to the age of 55, £2,000 will be paid to your family and, in addition, half of every deposit you have made to date. If death result from an accident, the sum would be increased to £4,000 plus half the deposits.

Any Age, Any Amount.

Though 35, and £250 a year for life have been quoted here, the plan applies at any age and for any amount. Whatever your income, if you can spare something out of it for your and your family's future, this plan is the best and most profitable method you can adopt.

£70,000,000 Assets.

The Sun of Canada has Assets of over £70,000,000, which are under Government supervision.

This Week's Radio Sports Section—

DATES FOR THE RADIO SPORTSMAN'S DIARY.

Four sporting events of first-class importance are to be broadcast from London and Daventry during this week. They are:—

Monday, July 4	} The Varsity match, Oxford v. Cambridge, at Lord's.
Tuesday, July 5
Wednesday, July 6
Wednesday, July 6	} Gentlemen v. Players, at the Oval.
Thursday, July 7
Friday, July 8

Saturday, July 9.—Eton v. Harrow, at Lord's.
Oxford and Cambridge v. Harvard and Yale—the Anglo-American inter-University Sports conflict at Stamford Bridge.

The commentator for the cricket matches will be Mr. P. F. Warner, the famous ex-captain of Middlesex and England. The Athletic event is fully dealt with by Mr. H. M. Abrahams, who will describe the match for the B.B.C., in his article on the opposite page.

An International Tournament of Youth: by Harold M. Abrahams, the Olympic champion.

ON Saturday, July 9, a team representing the two great universities of England, Oxford and Cambridge, will compete against a team representing the two leading American Universities, Yale and Harvard, in an athletic match of twelve events.

These Anglo-American University contests have been in existence for over thirty years, and this will be the eighth occasion on which these two combinations of antagonists have pitted their strength against one another.

Anglo-American athletic rivalry is probably the most ancient international rivalry of this kind, and it was in 1881 that that great runner L. E. Myers, who was capable of running almost any distance in first-class time, came over to England and placed a British championship to the credit of the United States for the first time. Myers won the quarter in 48½ secs.—a time that has only once been beaten in this country.

On July 16, 1894, a team representing Yale University competed against Oxford at Queen's Club, Oxford winning by 5½ events to 3½. C. B. Fry won the 100 yards, and it is interesting to note that all the American victories were in field events, a characteristic of American superiority which is more pronounced today than ever. Apparently at this meeting the 'crouch' start was seen in England for the first time, and the current journals report with some surprise that 'The Americans both started with their hands on the ground.' Strangely enough, C. H. Sherrill, who was Intercollegiate champion of America at 100 and 220 yards, and also American champion at the shorter distance, was in charge of this team. It is said that Sherrill was the inventor of the 'crouch' start.

In 1895 Cambridge tried their luck against Yale, this time in America. Yale again won all the field events and were victorious by 8 events to 3. I find that one of the rules drawn up by the joint committees for this match was: 'In sprint races no preliminary trials nor exercises to be allowed when once the competitors toe the mark and are in the starter's hands.' And further: 'No photographers to be allowed at or near the start of any sprint.' This was in the pre-'movie' days. I cannot imagine a rule such as that being enforced today—unfortunately.

THE first Oxford-Cambridge v. Yale-Harvard match was held in England in July, 1899, and the home Universities won by 5 events to 4. Seven of these contests have been held to date, four in England and three in America. Yale and Harvard have won all the contests held in the U.S.A. and one of the English contests.

I myself was fortunate enough to compete in two of these matches, one in America and one at Wembley. In America we were badly beaten by 8 events to 2. We had a thrilling visit, though we were naturally disappointed at our overwhelming defeat. I had a most depressing day running in the 100 yards and also competing in the long jump. In the 100 yards I had a desperate race with Gourdin of Harvard, and the finish was so close that I thought I had won. The judges decided otherwise, and of course that was the end of the matter so far as we all were concerned. Not so the American Press, which published photographs taken from every conceivable angle, explaining Hyatt and B. M. Norton who have undergone a similar experience. Hyatt and Norton are in a somewhat unusual position, for Hyatt represented Yale and Harvard in 1923 against Oxford and Cambridge, and Norton represented these American Universities not only in 1923 but in 1925 as well.

Let me give the reader some idea of the strength of the American team. Their two sprinters are A. H. Miller and H. C. Paulsen. Miller has run 100 yards in 9½, and 220 in 21½. Paulsen is possibly even a better sprinter, and recently in the American Intercollegiate races was only just beaten by Borah in the sprint, and Borah has accounted for Scholz, Murchison and Bowman—three finalists at the Olympic Games. It may well be that the Americans will win the 100 yards and 220, though I somehow feel Rinkel will upset their calculations in the 220. In the 440 Ross of Yale recently beat 49 secs., and Engle (Yale) has done 49½. Still, we know that Americans seldom perform so well in England as in the U.S.A., and I expect Rinkel will win.

Hogan, the Yale half-miler, has done 1 min. 56½, and this is far and away better than anything we can show at either 'Varsity at the moment. 'Red' Haggerty, their miler, has done 4 mins. 27 secs., but though this is nothing out of the ordinary, we cannot be sure that any of our representatives can do anything so good. Similarly, Reid, the American two-miler (9 mins. 32 secs.), may prove too good for our two-milers. It looks as if honours will be easy—three all—on the track, though there is a very real possibility of the home Universities winning four events to the Americans' two.

The two hurdle races, 120 and 220, look pretty certain, in fact as certain as anything can be, for Lord Burghley or Weightman-Smith of Cambridge. Neither of the visiting hurdlers is real class, and neither of them won a place in the Intercollegiate championships.

The other field events are a somewhat different proposition. There is Carr, of Yale, in the pole vault. Carr recently set up a new world's record of 14 feet for this event, and though I doubt if our climate will allow him to get so high (gravity is very different in England), I see no reason why the British record of 12 feet 9½ inches should not be very easily eclipsed. There is a high jumper who has done 6 feet 2½ inches, and two weight putters who have putt nearly 45 feet apiece.

I am afraid the odds are on an American victory, but it will by no means be a walk-over, and we can be quite sure that the whole meeting will be most strenuously fought step by step and inch by inch. A fine two hours' sport is absolutely assured, whatever turn Fortune's wheel may take.

BREASTING THE TAPE.

Sport and General

A speed picture of H. M. Abrahams, the fastest sprinter in the world, who won the 100 metres for England at the last Olympic Games. Mr. Abrahams, who in the article on this page discusses the athletic contest on Saturday, July 9, will broadcast the eye-witness account of it for the B.B.C.

that really I had won. In fact photographs are pretty useless, because unless they are taken absolutely at right angles to the finish and at the very minutest fraction of the second as the winner passes the tape, they are very deceptive.

After winning the 100 yards, Gourdin showed me no mercy in the long jump, and at his first attempt he cleared 25 feet 3 inches, which was at the time a world's record. Needless to say, I had no cause for worry after that, my jumps being about a yard behind.

THE contest this year promises to be a very exciting one, though I am rather afraid that Yale and Harvard will be successful. They have five men from the team that defeated Oxford and Cambridge in America two years ago, while Oxford and Cambridge have Lord Burghley, V. B. V. Powell, R. L.

Applications must be marked 'Libretti' on the envelope, and sent, together with the remittance, to Broadcast Opera Subscription List, c/o B.B.C., Savoy Hill, London, W.C.2.

Additional names and addresses may be written on a separate sheet of paper, but payment for these must, of course, be sent with the order.

The Operas which have already been broadcast, and for which Libretti are still available, are 'Martha,' 'The Red Pen,' 'Orpheus,' 'Fidelio,' 'Romeo and Juliet,' 'The Magic Flute,' and 'Philemon and Baucis.' Copies of later Libretti may be had on application, at the same price, i.e., 2d. per copy.

IMPORTANT

Injunction and Damages

On the 27th May, 1927, in the High Court of Justice, Chancery Division, in the action of Marconi's Wireless Telegraph Company, Limited, against Arnett Temple Cooper, the Defendant consented to an Order restraining him from infringing the Plaintiff's Letters Patent 252 of 1914, 147147, 147148, 8821 of 1913, and 135177, and directing him to pay damages and costs.

The apparatus to which these proceedings relate was a home-constructed set of which parts had been purchased by the Defendant from the Radi-Arc Electrical Company, Limited.

When Continents converse

WHEN Jules Verne wrote his book "Round the World in Eighty Days" people laughed. They thought it a huge joke. Only eighty days to circle the earth! Impossible! Little did they think that, in a lifetime, the 'impossible' would have been achieved. How it would be possible to be in Paris 36 hours after leaving New York. Or how, in little more than a minute, it would be possible to send a message round the world. A continent the other side of the world is no longer the "back o' beyond." Europe is in daily communication with Australia. Asia talks every hour with America. Communication between countries and continents is no longer a novelty. It is vital for world-trade. Across the world a chain has been forged; the links in it are the cable stations. Those links must be kept intact. No risks must be taken which might, for one moment, prejudice the safe conveyance of messages. That is why the World's Cable Companies, like the Army, the Navy, and the Merchant Services, standardise on Brown Headphones.

There is no Headphone as sensitive as a Brown. It has a happy habit of picking up stations which ordinary 'phones miss. There is no Headphone so reliable as the Brown. You can depend upon it to retain its sensitivity—after years of use. When you buy Headphones, choose those which are to be found wherever sensitivity is the need—Brown Headphones. Let your ears decide—at your Dealer's.

MY dealer was right. He told me that Cossor Valves would improve my set beyond recognition. Now I know that the Kalenised filament is quite different from all other filaments. Everyone tells me that my Loud Speaker gives better and more mellow tone than any they have ever heard—but it isn't the Loud Speaker at all—the credit is due to the Cossor Valves I am using.

Exide "Mass" Type High Tension Battery, type WJ,
 2,500 milli-ampere hours. Price 15/- per 20-volt unit.

FOR real quality reproduction there is nothing to equal accumulator High Tension. The evidence of the car is, too, confirmed by laboratory tests.

Exide High Tension batteries, in particular, provide pure, direct, and absolutely steady current.

Furthermore, unlike some other sources of High Tension where the current available is restricted by the presence of resistance, Exide Batteries place no restraint upon the supply of ample current for the most exacting Super Power Valves. Thus only can be secured the full round tone that is so desirable.

Types WH and WJ are exactly similar in every way, except that the former is twice the capacity of the latter, and should always be used where the total Anode current exceeds 20 milli-amperes.

THE
IS STILL A

7/11

(previously 10/6)

Practical Points
about the LISSEN
New Process Battery

- (1) It brings a new power smoothness to your loud speaker.
- (2) It offers a stubborn resistance to volt drop.
- (3) Every battery absolutely fresh when you get it.
- (4) The price low enough to bring it within reach of all.
- (5) You can get it on your way home at one of the 10,000 dealers who handle LISSEN products. Get one for your week-end radio.

Every battery manufacturer knows the first part of the above formula, but only LISSEN knows what the X+Y+Z part is.

Although the LISSEN New Process Battery has been on the market for six months or more, the formula of the chemical contents is still a secret. Rival manufacturers, realising the astounding success of these batteries, have tried their hardest to analyse the contents, but in vain. This secret formula, and the special process of manufacture known only to LISSEN, constitute the reason for the remarkable power and sustained freshness of the LISSEN New Process Battery.

So great is the energy put into the LISSEN New Process Battery, that it would, if necessary, keep intact over a long period of time, and it is this energy which enables it to withstand the longest programme, giving a reproduction as strong, pure and fresh-voiced at the end as at the beginning.

And by reason of the LISSEN policy of distribution, 10,000 dealers throughout the country sell this exceptional battery, at a price which is well within the reach of all—one of these dealers is near you.

Ask for LISSEN New Process Battery next time you want a good battery, and insist on getting it. You will be rewarded with a new power smoothness and a new tone clarity which will agreeably surprise you.

If you meet with any difficulty in obtaining, order direct from factory. No postage will be charged to you, or can be sent C.O.D. by return, upon receipt of postcard.
