Co-authors' statement

The Editors of The European Physical Journal wish to support the efforts of an increasing number of Learned Societies to establish the rules of safeguarding good scientific practice.

Our Journal, in its range of responsibility, therefore in confirming the submission of a manuscript to be considered for EPJ will henceforth remind the authors and co-authors on their joint responsibility for the contents of the submitted article (as mentioned in page 4 of each issue of the journal). It is understood that each author has reviewed the final draft of the full manuscript and endorses his/her responsibility for the entire work.
