A Word from the Editor

From time to time, in order to adjust to new circumstances and to meet new challenges, it becomes necessary for an established (21-year-old) publication to change its Editorial Board. This is the case with THE JOURNAL OF ADHESION. Due to the death of Dr. W. C. Wake (who had a hand in the birth of THE JOURNAL and who served it from its beginning) and to the desire of Dr. G. F. Hardy to retire from the scientific arena in order to pursue other interests, it has become necessary to find other Associate Editors to replace them. As it turns out, we did not have to look very far. Both Dr. A. J. Kinloch, who replaces Dr. Wake, and Professor J. P. Wightman, who replaces Dr. Hardy, have long been associated with THE JOURNAL OF ADHESION as members of our Advisory Board. We welcome them to their new positions as Associate Editors and look forward to a long and fruitful association with them.

We have also taken this opportunity to make some changes in our Advisory Board which we hope will strengthen THE JOURNAL OF ADHESION. We welcome several new members to the Board (see the inside front cover) and look forward to working with them for many years to come. We also wish to thank those who have left the Board for their years of service to THE JOURNAL.

Other changes will likely follow.
