

Density Measurement of Molten KHF_2

Oldřich Matal, Josef Žaloudek, František Cigánek, Pavel Slavíček^a, Bronislav Žmij^a, and Milan Nejedlý^a

ENERGOVÝZKUM Ltd, Božetěchova 17, 612 00 Brno Czech Republic

^a Institute of Power Engineering, Faculty of Mechanical Engineering, Brno University of Technology, Technická 2, 616 69 Brno, Czech Republic, mnejedly@seznam.cz

Reprint requests to Prof. O. M.; Energovýzkum, Ltd, Božetěchova 17, 612 00 Brno, fax: ++420-5-41214659, e-mail: energovyzkum@telecom.cz

Z. Naturforsch. 56a, 707–709 (2001); received August 20, 2001

Paper presented at the NATO Advanced Study Institute, May 4–14, 2001 (Kas, Turkey)

An apparatus has been manufactured to measure the density of molten KHF_2 . A linear dependence of the density on temperature is found in the range of 280–450 °C.

Key words: Molten KHF_2 ; Density; Temperature.