Distance Learning Location: TBD

Job # & Title: 55B40, Ammunition Specialist

Supported Individual Training Plan (ITP): MOS 55B ITP Dated 31 October 1991

Purpose: To provide and train selected noncommissioned officers (NCO) with the skills and knowledge required to perform their duties at skill level four.

Scope: Advanced skills in Common Leadership Subjects, Unit Administration, Security, Training The Force, and Supply and Maintenance Management. This course provides training in ammunition subjects: Ammunition Service Support Structure, Surveillance Operations, Ammunition Explosive Storage Standards, Planning Reworkhousing, Disposal Operations, Emergency Destruction of Munitions, Field Storage of Munitions, Port Operations, Ammunition Maintenance Operations, and Transportation of Class V Materials. This course prepares graduates to assume supervisory positions as Ammunition Specialists.

Prerequisites Active Army: Enlisted personnel selected for promotion to SSG or SFC, qualified in MOS 55B. Meets requirements outlined in AR 341-1. Meets required height and weight standards and has no temporary profiles. First priority will be given to SFCs. Army and AGR personnel over 40 will complete their medical screening before attending this course. All candidates must have successfully completed the Basic Noncommissioned Officer course before attending this course.

Prerequisites Reserve Component: Reserve Component enlisted soldiers in MOS 55B with recommendation of the unit commander. Personnel selected for attendance will be SSGs or SFCs, or a PSG with priority given to those SSGs, SFCs, or PSGs serving in an 1SG position. Students must have successfully completed PLDC (or equivalent) and BNCO.

Security Clearance: None Required

Special Information Reserve Component: The 55B40 Reserve Component Advanced Noncommissioned Officer Course (ANCO) is organized into two distinct, but interrelated areas:

- Phase 1 consists of 129 hours of common leader training (CLT) developed by the US Army Sergeants Major Academy and is published as a separate, stand alone POI. The CTL is completed during IDT. Certain selected MOS-specific lessons have been designated as non-resident and are to be completed by the student prior to attendance at ADT for Phase II.
- Phase II is the hands-on training that relates specifically to the soldier's MOS and is completed during ADT.

The Reserve Components Noncommissioned Officer Academies are responsible for providing instructors for training CLT. RCTCs, when certified, can conduct the CMF Common and Technical Training and ADT.

Distribution C: Distribution limited to US Government Agencies and their contractors for Administrative/Operational use. Other requests for this document will be referred to the Commandant, US Army Ordnance Missile and Munitions Center and School, ATTN: ATSK-AA, Redstone Arsenal, AL 35897.

Physical Fitness Training will be conducted before or after the academic day.

Note: All soldiers attending professional development courses must successfully complete the Army Physical Fitness Test (APFT) in order to graduate. An initial APFT will be administered early in the course. Soldiers who fail the initial APFT will undergo remedial training. One retest will be administered before graduation. Soldiers failing the retest will not graduate and will be returned to their units. Soldiers who do not meet the Army's height and weight standards will be immediately returned to their units. RC physical readiness is determined using the Army Physical Fitness Test, according to AR 350-1. The RC/NG instructor is not responsible for administering the APFT. The student will bring a valid DA Form 705 to Phase II resident training verifying successful completion of the test within the last 8 months.
