5. Membership, Eligibility, and Procedures:

5.1. Use 18th Wing Form 43, Application for Honor Guard Membership, to apply for membership with the KAB Honor Guard. This form is submitted to the Honor Guard Commander or Honor Guard NCOIC.

5.2. Membership on the KAB Honor Guard is strictly voluntary. The OIC, NCOIC and Asst NCOIC are interviewed by the Honor Guard/CC. All other applicants are interviewed by the OIC, NCOIC, Asst NCOIC and Team Chiefs to ensure they meet the requirements, standards, and responsibilities as a KAB Honor Guard member.

5.3. Individuals interested in becoming a member of the KAB Honor Guard must meet the following requirements:

5.3.1. Be in strict compliance with AFI 36-2903 and AFI 40-502, The Air Force Fitness Program.

5.3.2. Have an overall enlisted performance report rating of 4 out of 5.

5.3.3. Have no unfavorable information file, any disciplinary, or adverse administrative action pending.

5.3.4. Have at least 13 months remaining until DEROS.

5.3.5. Individuals not in compliance with these requirements will not be accepted as Honor Guard members. Failure to maintain these requirements once applicants are accepted will result in dismissal from the Honor Guard.

5.4. All approved applicants will go through a 30-90 day probationary period. During this time, applicants will be assigned a trainer and sponsor so that they can become familiar with Honor Guard procedures and rules. They are also required to attend training sessions to learn the proper drill and ceremonial movements. At the conclusion of the probationary period, the member will either be released or accepted as a member of the Honor Guard. Once accepted, Honor Guard membership is an additional duty and will be a 1 year commitment. At the completion of 1 year, a member can request release. Request for early release must originate from the member's commander, routed through Honor Guard Commander, to the 18th Support Group Commander. The request must clearly state the reason or reasons for early release. If early release is granted, return of issued uniform items back to the Honor Guard is mandatory.

Only justifiable reasons for absence (TDY, sick, mission requirements, emergency leave, etc.) will be accepted. Individuals who are absent from training for other than a justified reason will be given a no-show warning letter. After two unexcused absences a letter will be routed to individual's commander or supervisor recommending removal from the Honor Guard. Prior to any absence, the member is required to contact his/her Team Chief.

6.2. Training will not be conducted during higher headquarters inspections, Unit Effectiveness Inspection (UEIs) or Operation Readiness Inspection (ORIs), local exercises, or actual contingencies.

7. Special Considerations and or Recognition:

7.1. Personnel assigned to the KAB Honor Guard will be exempt from all base details.

7.2. When Honor Guard personnel are required to perform duties on weekends or off-duty hours, compensatory time off should be given to the member as workload and mission requirements permit. Members are responsible for informing supervisors in advance of Honor Guard details in which they will participate.
