PREFACE

This mission training plan (MTP) provides training guidance for the Infantry Brigade, Stryker Brigade Combat Team (SBCT). This MTP provides active and reserve component commanders and staff with a descriptive, mission-oriented training program to train the infantry brigade to perform its critical wartime missions. Although a unit's missions and deployment assignments impact on the commander's final set of training priorities, the tasks described herein are the primary ones the unit must be able to execute with proficiency. The unit is expected to train all tasks to standard. Standards for training may be made more difficult but may not be lowered.

The proponent for this publication is HQ, TRADOC. The preparing agency is the US Army Infantry School. CHAPTER 1

Unit Training

Note: The term "Infantry Brigade" will be referred to in this MTP as brigade.

1-1. General. This Mission Training Plan (MTP) is designed to provide the brigade commander and his staff with a tactical training and evaluation program for the brigade. It also provides guidance about how to train and the key missions on which to train. The specific details of the training program depend on many factors, including:

- Unit's Mission Essential Tasks List (METL).
- Training directives and guidance established by the chain of command.
- Training priorities for the brigade.
- Training resources and areas available.

1-2. Supporting Material. The brigade training program fits into the spectrum of activities that also encompasses brigade-level, battalion-level, company-level, leader, and individual training programs. Each MTP contains the following:

- Training information.
- Training matrixes.
- Mission outlines (company and below). Training plans (battalion and higher).
- Sample Comprehensive detailed Training and Evaluation Outlines (T&EOs).
- Evaluation information.
- Appendixes describing Combined Arms Training Strategy (CATS), sample operations order with threat statement, and other proponent-specific information as appropriate.

1-3. Contents. This MTP consists of the following:

- a. Chapter 1, Unit Training, provides the explanation and organization of this MTP.
- b. Chapter 2, Training Matrixes, presents the relationship between missions and tasks.
- c. Chapter 3, Training Plans, presents a graphic portrayal of the relationship between critical wartime missions and subtasks inherent to those operations.
- d. Chapter 4, Training Exercises, provides information on developing training exercises. It provides sample field training exercises (FTXs) and situational training exercises (STXs) to be used by leaders in developing training exercises for their unit.
- e. Chapter 5, Training and Evaluation Outlines, provides the training criteria for tasks that the brigade must master to perform critical wartime operations. These training criteria orient on the levels of collective training executed by the brigade. Each T&EO can be applicable to one or more operations. In various combinations, the T&EOs comprise larger training exercises such as the FTXs and STXs.
- f. Chapter 6, External Evaluation, provides instructions for the planning, preparation, and execution of an external evaluation.
- g. Appendix A, Description of Combined Arms Training Strategy.
- h. Appendix B, Exercise Operation Orders.
- i. Appendix C, Enemy Analysis.
- j. Appendix D, Digital Supplement.

1-4. Missions And Tasks. Full-spectrum operations include offensive operations, defensive operations, stability operations, and support operations. Each operation includes major tasks that the brigade must execute to accomplish that mission. It also includes the tasks that each company; platoon, squad, and soldier must perform. Each of these tasks requires training.

a. Collective Tasks. Collective tasks are trained based on guidelines and procedures outlined in Field Manual (FM) 7-0 (25-100) and FM 7-1 (25-101) and in Chapters 4, 5, and 6 of the applicable MTP. Collective tasks may be trained separately or, like collective tasks and or supporting tasks, may be grouped together. Collective tasks can also be combined with collective tasks of other operational levels to form more complex training exercises. (Refer to Chapter 4 for examples of FTXs and CPXs.) Commanders and leaders select the applicable tasks using procedures outlined in FM 7-0 (25-100) and in Chapters 3 and 6 of this MTP.

b. Leader Tasks. Selected leader tasks should support the brigade's critical wartime operations. Leaders can be trained using the full range of training exercises established by the Army. (For example: map exercises [MAPEXs], tactical exercises without troops [TEWTs], command post exercises [CPXs], FTXs, and so forth.)

1-5. Principles of Training. This MTP is based on the training principles outlined in FM 7-0 (25-100). The following paragraphs summarize these concepts.

a. Train as a Combined Arms and Service Team. Army doctrine places a premium on teamwork. When committed to battle, each unit must be prepared to execute combined arms and services operations without additional training or lengthy adjustment periods. Combined arms proficiency develops when teams train together. Leaders must regularly practice cross-attachments with the full wartime spectrum of combat, combat support (CS), and combat service support (CSS) units.

b. Train as You Fight. Conversely, units fight as they have been trained. Soldiers remember the last way they performed a task (right or wrong). To ensure success in combat, soldiers and units must perform to established standards that in turn must be rigidly enforced by leaders. Because it is impossible to predict the type of weather and terrain a unit will face when executing a combat mission, training should be conducted under varying conditions that are both realistic and progressively more challenging.

c. Use Appropriate Doctrine. Soldiers have no time to learn nonstandard procedures. Their units, therefore, must train by performing tasks to the standards specified in MTPs, drills, STPs, Army regulations, and other training and doctrinal publications. This MTP conforms to doctrine published in FM 3-21.31.

d. Use Performance-oriented Training. Soldiers sharpen their skills by performing hands-on training as often as possible, which makes practice the key factor in training. Brigades and their subordinate elements repeatedly practice the tasks and the missions to achieve proficiency.

e. Train to Challenge. The best training is tough, realistic, and both intellectually and physically challenging. It motivates soldiers and inspires excellence by fostering initiative, enthusiasm, and eagerness to learn.

f. Train to Sustain Proficiency. Soldiers sustain the skills they learn only by practicing them. When developing a training plan, always allow time to practice the tasks and the missions covered in earlier training. Use this MTP as a guide in developing a plan that allows the brigade to achieve and sustain collective and individual proficiency.

g. Train Using Multi-Echelon Techniques. This is the most efficient way to train and sustain a diverse range of mission-essential tasks while compensating for limited training resources and time. Training should involve soldiers, leaders, and subordinate elements at all levels of the unit simultaneously.

h. Train to Maintain. Maintenance is a vital part of every training program. Keeping equipment ready for the fight is as important as training soldiers to be proficient in its use. Soldiers and leaders are responsible for maintaining all assigned equipment in a high state of readiness in preparation for training or combat employment.

i. Make Commanders the Primary Trainers. Commanders are responsible for the training and performance of their soldiers and units. They are the primary training managers and trainers for their organizations.

1-6. Training Strategy. The training program developed and executed by the infantry unit to train to standards in its critical wartime missions is a component of the Army's Combined Arms Training Strategy (CATS). (See Appendix A for a description of CATS.) The following should be considered when developing a unit training strategy.

a. Descriptive Strategies. The unit training strategies central to CATS provide the commander with descriptive lists for training. These strategies reflect an optimal way to train to standard. However, all units in the Army probably do not have the same resources required to execute an optimal training strategy.

b. Role of the Brigade. In large measure, the success of the brigade's training strategy depends on the development of an effective training plan for the parent infantry brigade and on guidance and supervision provided by the brigade commander and his subordinate leaders. The infantry brigade's training strategy provides a means for training the brigade to standard by listing required training events, critical training gates, training event frequencies, and training resources. The commander selects those tasks required to train the METL from the MTP. Training strategies provide the means whereby those tasks can be trained through a focused and integrated training plan. The infantry brigade training strategy consists of three separate training strategies. When integrated with the training tasks found in the MTP, they form a comprehensive and focused training strategy that allows the brigade to train to standard. The elements of the infantry brigade's training strategy are maneuver, gunnery, and soldiers.

(1) Maneuver Strategy. The maneuver strategy provides a set of recommended training frequencies for key training events in a unit and depicts those resources that are required to support the training events.

(2) Gunnery Strategy. The gunnery strategy is based on weapons systems in the unit, provides an annual training plan, and depicts resources required to support weapons training. Data for the gunnery strategy come from the standards in training commission (STRAC) manual or the appropriate field manual. As a subset of the gunnery strategy, a training strategy is developed for each individual and crew-served weapon in the Army inventory.

(3) Soldier Strategy. The soldier strategy provides an annual plan for training and maintaining skills at the individual level and lists the resources required to train the soldier.

d. Training Gates. A vital element in the unit training strategy is the identification of critical training gates. Critical training gates are defined as training events that must be conducted to standard before advancing to a more complex or resource-intensive training event or task. Training events follow the crawl, walk, run training strategy. For instance, if the unit training strategy calls for conducting an FTX, and a CPX has been identified as a critical training gate for the FTX, the training tasks in the CPX must be trained to standard before conducting the FTX. Standards for all tasks must be clearly defined so that the trainer can assess the preparedness of the soldiers or units to move on to more complex training events. The provision for critical training gates recognizes that the unit's METL and the commander's assessment of his unit's training status will determine the selection and timing of the collective training exercises in a specific unit's training strategy.

e. Standard Army Training System (SATS). The SATS provides automated tools for implementing the training management doctrine in FM 7-0 (25-100), Training the Force, and related manuals. SATS facilitates the development of METL, training strategies, training plans, and training schedules. SATS also provides commanders with a medium through which to coordinate activities, project resources needed for an event, record the actual resources expended on an event, assess the execution of a collective task and METL, and assess operational readiness. CATS data can be consulted at different points in SATS to assist the commander in developing training products.

Training Note: SATS database comprises a variety of MTPs and STPs. To access these publications, users need a copy of the SATS software and the CD-ROM containing the data files. To obtain information on the database and hardware requirements or to order the software and CD-ROM, contact the U.S. Army Training Support Center, ATTN: ATISD, Fort Eustis, Virginia 23605-5166. Information is also available by calling DSN 826-7001, extension 6531, or commercial (757) 878-7001, extension 6531.

1-7. Conducting Training. Effective training requires the personal time, energy, and guidance of commanders. Commanders must personally observe and assess training at all echelons. Their specific emphasis is on training one level down and evaluating two levels down; for example, brigade commanders train battalion commanders with their battalions and evaluate company leaders with their companies. This MTP facilitates planning, preparation, and execution of unit training in a logical and efficient manner. The following discussion summarizes procedures and considerations for each step in the methodology.

a. Plan the Training. Planning links the unit METL and the execution of battle-focused training. It is a centralized process that aligns training priorities with wartime requirements at all levels within the unit. Although there are other training requirements, battle focus allows the leader to narrow his scope of planning to wartime mission essential tasks. As in tactical operations, planning lays the foundation for successful execution of the infantry brigade's training plan. The following discussion covers several aspects of the planning process.

(1) Planning for the infantry brigade training program involves leaders at all levels of the unit organization.

(a) The brigade commander is the primary trainer of all the battalions within the brigade. He is responsible for developing a comprehensive, long-term training strategy encompassing a variety of training events, such as FTXs and CPXs. Based on the unit's METL, the commander makes an initial assessment of the entire brigade to identify systemic weaknesses. He then develops a training focus and specifies the individual and collective tasks he wants to train and evaluate.

(2) In developing the unit-training plan, leaders at all levels should adhere to the principles outlined in FM 7-0 (25-100) and FM 7-1 (25-101). The following chapters of this MTP will help leaders with development:

(a) Chapter 3 includes examples of training plans that can help leaders develop individualized training programs that reflect their current METL. Leaders can adjust these plans to tailor the exercises to their needs.

(b) Chapter 4 includes outlines for the FTX and CPX. Example CPXs contain a scenario for an offensive mission and for a defensive mission.

(c) Chapter 5 contains T&EOs for collective tasks that support critical wartime operations.

(d) Chapter 6 provides guidance for planning and conducting evaluations of brigade training exercises.

(3) There is never enough time to train all tasks. In developing training plans, leaders must prioritize the tasks that require training, focusing on their units' largest operational challenges and on their most difficult sustainment skills. Before training begins, the brigade commander should conduct a training meeting with the leaders of all subordinate units to analyze training requirements and prioritize tasks. This kind of session can also help to identify weak areas that require the attention of trainers and leaders.

(4) Once unit leaders have identified the tasks to be trained, they must integrate them into a training schedule. The brigade commander can use the procedure outlined in the following paragraphs:

(a) List the tasks according to priority and how often they need to be trained.

(b) Determine the amount of time required and decide how to use multi-echelon training.

(c) Determine the site for training.

(d) Determine who will be responsible for what. The leader of the element being trained must always be involved.

(e) Organize the brigade's needs into blocks of time and required training resources, such as ammunition, multiple-integrated laser engagement system (MILES) equipment, and suitable training areas.

(5) The brigade commander submits to higher a recommendation for training events and a list of resources he will need, providing the higher headquarters with sufficient time for acquisition and coordination.

b. Train and Certify Leaders. This is the most important step of conducting training and covers all trainers, evaluators, and leaders involved in unit training.

(1) The proficiency and preparedness of the evaluation team will directly affect the quality of training and the proficiency units gain at the training site. Before execution of training, senior leaders must certify all trainers and leaders to ensure their technical and tactical proficiency in relation to the unit they will be training and evaluating. This can be accomplished using a series of officer, noncommissioned officer, and leader professional development sessions followed by certification exercises, TEWTs, or examinations. These can take the form of written examinations and or sand table evaluations.

Training Note: Trainers should have held the position of the individuals they are selected to evaluate.

(2) The leaders within the brigade must also undergo training before the brigade takes part in a collective training exercise. The brigade commander is responsible for training his subordinate leaders on the individual tasks required to support the collective tasks.

c. Reconnoiter the Site. After trainers and evaluators are certified, the commander and the evaluation team must make a site reconnaissance of the area where the FTX will be conducted. At this point, they can begin to develop graphic control measures for the exercise. The commander and evaluation team also conduct a terrain analysis to identify all key terrain and the following locations:

- STX lanes.
- Opposing force (OPFOR) positions.
- Assembly areas.
- Leader training sites.
- After-action review (AAR) sites.
- Logistical support locations.
- Command post (CP) locations.
- Retraining areas.

d. Issue the Plan. After planning and coordination are completed and the training event begins, the brigade receives the OPORD and begins planning. (Planning can be completed prior to the FTX using a separate staff exercise.) While the commander formulates his plan, the rest of the brigade conducts the various activities of the troop-leading process, including battalion training in preparation for the exercise.

e. Rehearse. The value of this step should never be underestimated. Rehearsals are a critical part of every training exercise. Units must never bypass rehearsals to save time or resources. The trainer and or commander must plan for brigade rehearsals and ensure they are conducted. A well planned, efficiently run rehearsal can accomplish the following:

- It will reinforce earlier training and increase proficiency in the critical tasks to be evaluated.
- It will reveal weaknesses or problems in the plan.
- It will synchronize the actions of the brigade's battalions and any other subordinate elements.
- It will confirm coordination between the brigade and any adjacent units.
- It will improve each leader's understanding of the concept of the operation, the fire plan, anticipated contingencies, and possible actions and reactions for various situations that may arise during the operation.

f. Execute. The brigade should initiate a training exercise only when it has a clear understanding of how to execute the mission. The trainer makes this determination at the conclusion of the rehearsals. At that point, he either allows the brigade to execute the task or continues with additional rehearsals, focusing on leader training. During the execution phase, the trainer conducts a detailed evaluation for use during the AAR, which is conducted immediately following the exercise. Evaluations are conducted based on the GO or NO-GO criteria described in Chapter 5 of this MTP. Trainers provide the participants with a rating for each task trained during the exercise.

g. Conduct the AAR. At the conclusion of the exercise, the brigade receives a complete AAR from the trainer. The AAR, which focuses on the training objectives and standards, is a professional discussion that requires the active participation of those being trained. This structured review process allows training participants to discover for themselves what happened, why it happened, and how the unit can improve its performance. Based on the brigade's performance, the trainer recommends to the appropriate commander whether the team will require retraining to meet the standards.

h. Conduct Retraining. Based on the evaluation results, the brigade must undergo retraining on each task for which it receives a NO-GO rating. Trainers and leaders develop a training program to meet these specific requirements. The team can then be reevaluated, either immediately at the CPX or FTX site or at a later date.

Training Note: Battle focus derives peacetime training requirements from wartime missions. It guides the planning, execution, and assessment of the brigade's training programs to ensure the unit trains as it is going to fight. Battle focus is critical throughout the entire training process. Commanders use it to allocate resources for training based on wartime operation requirements. Also, commanders can recognize that a unit cannot attain proficiency to standard on every task because of time or resource constraints. A successful training program is achievable, however, by narrowing the focus to a reduced number of vital tasks that are essential to mission accomplishment.

1-8. Force Protection (Safety). Risk assessment is the thought process of making operations safe without compromising the mission. Commanders must continuously perform a risk assessment of conditions under which training is conducted to prevent the unnecessary loss of soldiers and equipment. The degree of risk varies with the conditions at the time of training. For example, have the soldiers done the training before? Will the training be done for the first time at night? Are the soldiers fatigued? In reality, risk management is smart decision-making.

a. A well-trained unit is normally accident free; however, accidents can occur through no fault of the soldier or equipment operator. Most accidents result from inadequately trained, unsupervised, or complacent personnel.

b. Training must be tough, realistic, and safe. Commanders must consider the following points as they integrate risk assessment into their training:

- Accept no unnecessary risks.
- Make risk decisions at the proper level.
- Accept risks if mission benefits outweigh the costs.

c. It is important to remember that the commander is the safety officer, but all soldiers and leaders are responsible for safe training. All leaders must--

- Identify the risks using the factors of mission, enemy, terrain and weather, troops and support available, time available, and civil considerations (METT-TC).
- Assess possible loss, cost, and probability.
- Make decisions and develop controls to reduce risks.
- Implement controls by integrating them into plans, orders, tactical standing operating procedures (TSOPs), training performance standards, and rehearsals.
- Supervise and enforce safety controls and standards at all times. (Leaders should make on-the-spot corrections when an unsafe act is observed.)

d. Leaders use the safety checklist of the United States Army Safety Center, Fort Rucker, Alabama, in conjunction with local unit safety checklists, to enhance the overall safety practices of soldiers during training.

1-9. Environmental Protection. Environmental planning includes identifying environmental risks posed by an operation and considering ways to reduce those risks during long-, short-, and near-term planning. The staff may produce an environmental protection level matrix similar to the example in Figure 1-1. This matrix ties directly into risk assessment.

Environmental Protection Level

All leaders, trainers, and soldiers must comply with the environmental laws and regulations. The leader must identify the environmental risks associated with training individual and collective tasks. Trainers must work to reduce and avoid damage to training areas and environment caused by realistic training. Environmental risk management parallels safety risk management and is based on the same philosophy as safety risk management. Environmental risk management consists of the following steps:

a. Identify Hazards. Identify the potential sources for environmental degradation during the analysis of the factors of METT-TC. This requires identification of environmental hazards. An environmental hazard is a condition with the potential for polluting air, soil, or water and or destroying cultural and or historical artifacts.

b. Assess Hazards. Analyze the potential severity of environmental degradation by using the environmental risk assessment matrixes in TC 5-400. The severity of environmental degradation is considered when determining the potential effect an operation may have on the environment. The risk effect value is defined as an indicator of the severity of environmental degradation. Quantify the risk to the environment resulting from the operation as extremely high, medium, or low using the environmental assessment matrixes.

c. Make Environmental Risk Decisions. Make decisions and develop measures to reduce high environmental risks.

d. Brief Chain of Command. Brief the chain of command (to include installation environmental office, if applicable) about proposed plans and pertinent high-risk environmental matrixes. Risk decisions are made at a level of command that corresponds to the degree of risk.

e. Implement Controls. Implement environmental protection measures by integrating them into plans, orders, TSOPs, training performance standards, and rehearsals.

f. Supervise. Supervise and or enforce environmental protection standards.

1-10. Evaluation. Evaluations can be internal or external. Internal evaluations are conducted at all levels, and they must be inherent in all training. External evaluations are formal and are usually conducted by the headquarters two levels above the unit. Chapter 6 describes how to set up an external evaluation.

a. Use of T&EOs. In addition to their role as a training guide, the T&EOs in Chapter 5 provide the criteria for evaluating the unit. The task standard statement in each task outline describes how well the unit must perform the task steps and performance measures to receive a GO rating for the task.

b. Simultaneous Training and Evaluation. The heart of the MTP concept is simultaneous training and evaluation. Every training exercise provides evaluation feedback; at the same time, every evaluation is a training session. For the program to work effectively, trainers must always evaluate training as it is being executed. A common deficiency is the failure to evaluate each task each time it is performed. Leaders should emphasize direct, on-the-spot evaluations. Correcting poor performance during individual or small group training is easy. Outside evaluators usually make this unfeasible for higher level exercises. Leaders should plan AARs at frequent and logical intervals during exercises. This technique allows the brigade commander to correct performance shortcomings while they are still fresh in everyone's mind.

c. Nuclear, Biological, and Chemical (NBC) Evaluations. Training plans should include evaluations of each task and exercise under NBC conditions. Consider conducting at least one iteration of each training event in mission-oriented protective posture (MOPP) gear.

1-11. Feedback. Recommendations for improvement of this MTP are requested. Feedback will help ensure that this MTP answers the training needs of units in the field. Send DA Form 2028 comments to the address reflected in the third paragraph of the Preface.

CHAPTER 2

Training Matrixes

2-1. General. The training Matrix assists the commander in planning the training of his unit's personnel.

2-2. Mission to Collective Tasks Matrix. This matrix (Figure 2-2), identifies the missions and their supporting collective tasks. The tasks are listed under the appropriate BOS which are indicated by an X in the matrix. The BOS used in this matrix are defined in TRADOC Pam 11-9. A specific mission is trained by identifying collective tasks in the vertical column for the mission. Based on the proficiency of the unit, training is focused on operational weaknesses.

The mission identification table listed below (Figure 2-1) provides mission identification for the unit.

CHAPTER 3

Training Plans

3-1. General. This chapter describes the use of the Mission Training Plan (MTP) for development of brigade training plans. It is designed to assist commanders in preparing training plans for critical wartime missions.

3-2. Long-Range Planning. Long-range planning allows commanders to provide timely input to the Army's various training resource systems and to provide a general direction for the training programs. The long-range plan consists of a calendar covering the planning period and the commander's formal guidance. To develop a long-range plan, the commander must first develop the unit's mission essential task list (METL) and conduct a training assessment. These two actions are the two principal inputs at the beginning of the planning process. FM 7-0 (25-100) and other FM 7-Series manuals provide guidance on developing a unit's METL.

a. Develop Unit METL. The first step in developing a METL is analyzing all specified and implied missions and other guidance. Next, the unit's wartime mission is restated. After analyzing the unit's missions and external directives, a list of tasks is identified which must be accomplished if the unit is to successfully accomplish its wartime mission. Subordinate commanders and key NCOs participate in selecting the tasks. The task list is developed using the missions contained in Chapter 2 of the MTP, missions assigned to the brigade by contingency plans, and missions directed by higher headquarters' guidance. The commander reviews the task list and selects tasks that are essential to the unit's wartime mission. The selected tasks are forwarded to the next higher headquarters for approval. The tasks selected are the unit's METL, Figure 3-1.

INTELLIGENCE. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Conduct S2 Operations. 2. Define the Battlefield Environment during IPB. 3. Describe Battlefield Effects during IPB. 4. Determine Enemy Courses of Action during IPB. 5. Evaluate the Enemy during IPB.
MANEUVER. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Conduct Deployment Activities. 2. Conduct a Movement to Contact. 3. Conduct an Attack. 4. Conduct a Defense. 5. Conduct a Covering Force Operation.
FIRE SUPPORT. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Conduct Lethal Effects Planning. 2. Execute the Targeting Process. 3. Manage Counterfire.
MOBILITY, COUNTERMOBILITY, AND SURVIVABILITY <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Conduct Mobility, Countermobility, and or Survivability Operations. 2. Conduct Engineer Planning and Coordination.
AIR DEFENSE. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Conduct Air Defense Artillery Planning and Coordination.
COMBAT SERVICE SUPPORT. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Conduct S1 Operations. 2. Conduct S4 Operations. 3. Plan Health Service Support. 4. Sustain the Force.
COMMAND AND CONTROL. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Conduct Command and Control of Operations. 2. Conduct S3 Operations. 3. Execute Battle Staff Activities. 4. Plan Operations Using the MDMP.
This example is not intended to be a fully developed METL. It was developed for instructional purposes only.

b. Establish Training Objectives. After the METL is identified, the commander establishes training objectives. The training objectives are conditions and standards that describe the situation or environment and the ultimate outcome criteria the unit must meet to successfully perform the tasks. Training objectives and standards for METL can be obtained from the MTP, Soldier Training Publication (STP), higher headquarters command guidance, and local tactical standing operating procedures (TSOP).

c. Conduct Training Assessment. The training assessment is the commander's continuous comparison of the unit's current proficiency with the proficiency required to fight and win on the battlefield. The commander, his staff, and subordinate commanders assess the organization's current proficiency on mission essential tasks against the required standard. The commander then indicates the current proficiency by rating each task as "T" (Trained), "P" (Needs Practice), "U" (Untrained), or "?" (Unknown). The outcome of the training assessment identifies the unit's training requirements, Figure 3-2.

Mission Essential Tasks	CURRENT TRAINING STATUS BATTLEFIELD OPERATING SYSTEMS							TRAINING STRATEGY
	Intel	Maneuver	Fire Spt	Air Defense	M, C, AND S	CSS	C2	Overall
Conduct Battle Tracking	P	T	T	P	P	U	U	P
Conduct S4 Operations	P	T	T	T	P	T	T	T
Plan Operations using the MDMP	U	T	P	T	T	T	T	T
Define the Battlefield Environment	?	?	U	?	?	?	?	?

Legend: T – Trained U – Untrained P – Needs Practice ? – Status Unknown

d. Develop Training Strategy and Commander's Guidance. The training strategy is developed using the outcome from the training assessment. With the training strategy, the commander and his staff establish training priorities by determining the minimum frequency each mission essential task will be trained during the upcoming planning period. It includes the commander's guidance that includes the commander's training vision. To develop unit goals, the commander must:

- (1) Review higher commander's goals.
- (2) Spell out in real world terms what his unit will do to comply with the goals of higher commanders.
- (3) List in broad terms his goals for the unit. Figure 3-3 provides a sample of brigade goals.

- Attain and sustain proficiency in all MTP tasks.
- Maintain a 90 percent operational ready (OR) rate.
- Attain and sustain a 100 percent crew gunnery qualification.

e. Establish Training Priorities. Priorities are established for training METL tasks by basing the priorities on training status, the criticality of the task, and the relative training emphasis the task should receive. Figure 3-4 provides a sample training priority list.

TASK	SOURCE	TRAINING PRIORITY
Define the Battlefield Environment	MTP	4
Conduct an Attack	MTP	1
Conduct a Defense	MTP	2
Conduct a Covering Force Operation	MTP	3
Occupy an Assembly Area	MTP	5

f. Prepare Long-Range Planning Calendar. The long-range planning calendar is the coordinating tool for long-range planning. It is structured by long-range training events to identify time periods available for training mission essential tasks. The long-range planning calendar projects training events and activities of the unit for the next 12 to 18 months. To prepare a long-range calendar, follow the steps outlined below.

(1) Select training events and activities to train the missions. The commander must project events that will enable him to achieve his goals.

(2) Assign time for subordinate units to train. Subordinate leaders must be allowed to develop their training programs in support of the brigade training program.

(3) Examine various training alternatives to make optimum use of the training support available to the unit. Available training resources must be compared against higher headquarters directed training and subordinate level projected training events. Examples of resourcing tools available to the commander are the Combined Arms Training Strategy (CATS), operating tempo (OPTEMPO), and Standards in Training Commission (STRAC).

(4) Obtain approval of long-range plans from higher headquarters.

(5) Issue guidance. Training guidance is issued to the staff and subordinate units with the long-range training calendar. This training guidance supplements the long-range training calendar and generally includes:

- (a) Training policies.
- (b) Types of mandatory training.
- (c) Training resource guidance.
- (d) Quotas for centralized training (schools).
- (e) Training goals.

3-3. Short-Range Planning. A short-range plan is prepared to address the immediate future (3 months for Army component units; 1 year for reserve component units). Short-range planning develops specific training objectives based on the goals and guidance prepared during long-range planning. The short-range plan adds more detail and may modify the long-range plan based on current assessments. Prepare the short-range plan as described below.

a. Review the training program, current unit proficiency, resources, and training environment.

(1) Review the training program described in the long-range planning process. This review determines if assessments made during long-range planning are still valid.

(2) Review previous short-range planning calendars for training accomplished, training preempted, and lessons learned.

(3) Review current unit proficiency to update priorities.

(4) Review resources to determine if it is still possible to execute the program described on the long-range planning calendar.

(5) Review the training environment again in this phase of planning because it takes on added importance as training events and activities approach. Factors that affect the training environment and that collectively impact on the training program are:

- (a) Personnel assigned.
- (b) Personnel turbulence.
- (c) Morale.
- (d) Education programs.
- (e) Mandatory training.
- (f) Visits, inspections, and tests.
- (g) Supplies and equipment.
- (h) Nonmission-related activities.
- (i) Other programs.

b. Develop a detailed plan of action for short-range training plans. Prepare the detailed plan of action as described below.

- (1) Examine events scheduled on the long-range training plan to determine if they are still valid.
- (2) Transfer valid events to a short-range training plan calendar.
- (3) Determine desired outcomes for scheduled events.
- (4) Analyze missions to determine related individual, leader, and collective tasks.
- (5) Determine if there are any weaknesses. Select tasks to correct these identified weaknesses and to sustain selected individual, leader, and unit strengths, as necessary.
- (6) Select the specific training objectives for missions and tasks to be trained. The T&EOs in Chapter 5 provide the commander with the training objectives.
- (7) Prepare a short-range training planning calendar or 3 monthly schedules. The short-range training plan calendar provides a detailed plan of action for the specified period.
- (8) Review short-range plans with Class III requirements.
- (9) Issue guidance. This guidance specifically addresses how training will be accomplished.

3-4. Near-Term Planning. The final phase of planning is the execution of training. Using the short-range plan, prepare weekly training schedules.

- a. Review the training program, unit proficiency, resources, and training environment. As in long-range and short-range planning, this review determines if previous assessments are still valid.
- b. Finalize plans based upon the review of the training program. Determine the best sequence for training tasks and complete the final coordination of the training events and activities.
- c. Brief trainers, observer and or controllers (O/Cs), opposing force (OPFOR), and support personnel on what is being trained, why it is being trained, and what their role in the training will be.

3-5. Training the Headquarters and Headquarters Company (HHC). Planning training for the HHC provides the commander with unique challenges. The most severe challenges are those that have to do with time and availability of personnel. The staff and headquarters detachment are involved in day-to-day operations and support of subordinate unit training. It is difficult to find the time to adequately address the training needs of these elements. These elements must be capable of fulfilling their roles in order for the brigade to perform its wartime missions. The strategy selected by the commander for training these elements must include an effective method of training individuals, staffs, leaders, and units.

a. Training the Staff. Training of the staff presents the greatest challenge within a constrained training environment. This MTP identifies the training objectives for the staff.

- (1) The staff has numerous tasks to master to be effective. The following are examples of tasks that any staff must be able to perform.
 - (a) Analyze terrain.
 - (b) Function as an effective team.
 - (c) Exchange information.
 - (d) Prepare estimates.
 - (e) Give appraisals.
 - (f) Make recommendations and decisions.
 - (g) Prepare plans.

- (h) Issue orders.
- (i) Coordinate and control unit operations.
- (j) Supervise subordinate units within their area of responsibility.

(2) The strategy used to train the staff will vary based on the considerations used in planning training (such as level of proficiency and training support available). FM 7-10 (25-101) contains detailed information on the conduct of exercises. Some methods of staff training include the following exercises.

(a) Tactical Exercise without Troops (TEWT). TEWTs are low-cost, low-overhead exercises conducted in the field on actual terrain suitable for training units for specific missions. TEWTs are used by commanders to train subordinate leaders and staffs how to analyze terrain and plan for the conduct of unit missions.

(b) Map Exercise (MAPEX). MAPEXs are low-cost, low-overhead training exercises that allow commanders to train their staffs to perform essential integrating and control functions to support their decisions under wartime conditions. MAPEXs may be used to train the staff to exchange information, prepare estimates, give appraisals, make recommendations and decisions, prepare plans, and issue orders.

(c) Command Post Exercise (CPX). CPXs are medium-cost, medium-overhead training exercises that may be conducted in garrison or at a field location. CPXs normally use a battle simulation to drive the staff actions.

(d) Field Training Exercise (FTX). FTXs are high-cost, high-overhead exercises conducted in the field under simulated combat conditions. Unit-conducted FTXs exercise the staff in coordination, control, and supervision of unit operations. They normally require the staff planning tasks to be completed before the exercise begins. Brigade FTXs provide the best opportunity for the staff to combine all of its skills and perform as it would in wartime, responding to both higher and lower levels.

(3) A method to optimize staff and unit training is to integrate TEWTs, MAPEXs, CPXs, combined field exercises (CFXs), and combined arms live fire exercises (CALFEXs) to prepare the orders and plans for upcoming brigade FTXs. This effectively exercises the entire spectrum of the staff and also makes optimum use of unit field training time. Each unit is different and only the commander can determine the best method of training his staff.

b. Training the Brigade. Training the brigade is a complex task requiring both unit and staff training programs. Normal day-to-day operations place a unique burden on the brigade commander to accomplish training. Elements cross staff lines and responsibilities. The brigade executive officer (XO) coordinates with the brigade commander to ensure individual soldiering tasks are being mastered.

3-6. Developing Training Exercises. Chapter 4 provides sample exercises for the brigade to use as examples on how to prepare training exercises to meet specific training needs. Since only an example FTX and CPX is contained in the MTP, it is necessary for the brigade to develop exercises for its own use. This section provides general procedures for the brigade staff to use for both the FTX and CPX preparation. Exercise plans are normally prepared during preparation of the short-range plan. Prepare the exercises as described below.

a. Selection of Missions and Tasks for Training. This was accomplished during the development of the long-range plan and refined during the development of the short-range plan.

b. Site Selection. Confirm selection of a training area.

c. Scenario Development. After missions and tasks are selected, prepare a detailed scenario for the exercise.

(1) List the missions, tasks, and events in the preferred sequence of occurrence.

(2) Identify events necessary for the control of the exercise. These events would normally include issuance of orders, after-action reviews (AARs), and any other administrative or logistics action necessary to conduct the exercise.

(3) Prepare the exercise overlays that show the sequence of actions and terrain to be used for each event.

(4) Determine the estimated time for each event using the overlay and scenario. The total time is determined to ensure that the scenario can be completed in the time allocated for the exercise.

d. Selection of O/Cs and OPFOR. O/Cs and OPFOR are normally required for every FTX and STX when MILES is used. It may be difficult for a brigade to provide these from its resources. When O/Cs and OPFOR must be provided from within the brigade, unit leaders may have to serve as the O/Cs for their units and the OPFOR may be selected from personnel or units not essential for attainment of the exercise objectives. Ideally, the higher headquarters should provide O/Cs and OPFOR.

e. Preparation of the Control Plan. Control plans are developed to coordinate the actions of the training units, OPFOR, and O/Cs. The scenario is used and a detailed control plan is prepared. The control plan consist of:

- (1) Detailed schedules of OPFOR actions.
- (2) Detailed instructions for the OPFOR.
- (3) Detailed schedule of activities for units.
- (4) OPORDs and fragmentary orders (FRAGOs) for friendly units. Normally, friendly unit actions are controlled through the issuance of OPORDs and FRAGOs.

f. Preparation of the Evaluation Plan. All training is evaluated, either internally or externally. The evaluation plan identifies the tasks to be evaluated, by whom, and at what time. The evaluation will consist of:

- (1) Specific instructions for the O/Cs.
- (2) A sequential list of T&EOs to be evaluated by each O/C.
- (3) Detailed time schedules for evaluation and AARs.

3-7. Mission Outlines. The mission outline is used as a graphic portrayal of the relationship of the critical wartime mission to FTXs and CPXs at company and below. However, it is a tool that can be used by the brigade to assist the commander and staff in the preparation of training plans. Figure 3-5 is a sample mission outline for the brigade.

CHAPTER 4

Training Exercise

4-1. General. This chapter provides guidance to commanders and staff on planning, preparing, executing, and evaluating training exercises. The training exercises and graphics presented in this chapter are for instructional purposes only. Each commander should develop training exercises to train his unit. The Combined Arms Training Strategy (CATS) for the unit should be reviewed along with this chapter when developing training events. CATS provides more detailed information on time requirements, audience, and support requirements. The information in this chapter supplements field manual (FM) 25-4, FM 7-1 (25-101), and training circular (TC) 25 series.

Note: Safety is a major factor and or issue when it comes to training. Soldiers must be constantly alert for and avoid situations that may result in injury or death (for example, lock cargo hatches; do not grab the hot barrel of a machine gun; always be aware of both your location and your buddy's location during live-fire exercises; confirm, double-check, and reconfirm all mortar firing data).

a. Training exercises are used to train and practice the performance of collective tasks. This Mission Training Plan (MTP) has two types of exercises: field training exercise (FTX) and command post exercises (CPX). These exercises are designed to assist the commander in developing, sustaining, and evaluating the unit's mission proficiency. Table 4-1 is an example of how to number training exercises. Review TRADOC Regulation 350-70, Chapter V-1, for a detailed explanation.

Exercise Number	Title
FTX 07-1-E0001	Conduct Combat Operations
CPX 07-1-E0007	Conduct a Movement to Contact
CPX 07-1-E0001	Conduct an Attack
CPX 07-1-E0002	Conduct a Defense
CPX 07-1-E0008	Conduct Area Security Operations

Table 4-1. Exercises.

4-2. Field Training Exercise. An FTX is a high-cost, high-overhead exercise conducted under simulated combat conditions in the field. The FTX supports training at battalion, company, and platoon levels. FTXs fully integrate the total force in a realistic combat environment. An FTX involves combat arms, combat support (CS), and combat service support (CSS) units and encompass such training as battle drills, crew drills, and CPXs to reinforce soldier and collective training integration. They are used to train the leaders, subordinate elements, and slice elements--

- To move and maneuver units realistically.
- To employ organic weapons systems effectively.
- To build teamwork and cohesion.
- To plan and coordinate supporting fires.
- To plan and coordinate logistical activities to support tactical operations.
- To function as effective teams.
- To prepare orders.
- To issue orders.
- To displace headquarters and command posts.

4-3. Command Post Exercise. CPXs are medium-cost, medium-overhead training exercises that may be conducted at garrison locations or in the field. In garrison, CPXs are expanded map exercises (MAPEXs) using tactical communications systems and personnel in a command post (CP) environment. Normal battlefield distances between the CPs are usually reduced, and CPs do not need to exercise all tactical communications. The forces are simulated in this CPX. At a minimum, it requires the establishment of unit CPs with their necessary communications equipment. It demands a greater commitment of personnel, time, and resources. However, normal battlefield distances between CPs may be reduced. The CPX trains commanders and staff to prepare and transmit estimates, plans, and orders, as well as to establish and use communications equipment.

4-4. Other Training Exercises. Brief descriptions of other recognized exercises are listed below.

a. Battle Simulation Exercise (BSX). The BSX is a military war game that recreates combat situations on a map or terrain model. Pieces or markers represent units. Specific rules govern movement, fire, losses, and other aspects of actual combat. The BSX is best suited for leader training, especially in terms of fire and maneuver.

b. Combined Arms Live Fire Exercise (CALFEX). The CALFEX is a high-cost, resource-intensive exercise. In this exercise, player units maneuver and employ organic and supporting weapons systems with full-service ammunition. This exercise integrates all combat, CS, and CSS functions.

c. Computer Assisted Exercise (CAX). A CAX is a CPX in which a computer driver provides force simulation.

d. Command Field Exercise (CFX). The CFX is a field training exercise with reduced company and vehicle density but with full C2, CS, and CSS elements--such as a platoon leader in his aircraft representing the entire platoon. The CFX lies between the CPX and FTX in terms of resources. It may serve as a backup for an FTX if maneuver damage, weather, or other factors prohibit FTX execution. The CFX is less expensive and exercises intersystem linkages and actual distances.

e. Communications Exercise (COMEX). The COMEX is a low-cost, low-overhead exercise. Its primary purpose is to ensure the operational abilities of communications systems as well as the training status of operators, staffs, and leaders. At a minimum, the COMEX should include proper use of the signal operating instructions (SOI); the establishment of, entry into, and exit from the radio net, and communications discipline.

f. Combined Training Exercise (CTX). The CTX is a training exercise jointly conducted by military forces of more than one nation. It also is referred to as "multinational training."

g. Deployment Exercise (DEPEX). The DEPEX is an exercise that provides training for soldiers, units, and support agencies. The training includes the tasks and procedures used to deploy from home stations or installations to areas of potential employment.

h. Decision-Making Exercise (DMX). The DMX is a low-cost, low-overhead exercise that assesses how a unit's key leadership reviews and performs case study analysis of previous war gaming decisions. A DMX usually incorporates a MAPEX.

i. Digital Training Exercise (DTX). The DTX is an exercise conducted on a simulated battlefield. It is used to train battalion/squadron and brigade staffs and subordinate elements. It can involve a constructive simulation-based MAPEX linked to collective virtual simulators, such as the aviation combined arms tactical trainer (AVCATT) and or legacy simulators, both ground and air, from remote locations.

j. Emergency Deployment Readiness Exercise (EDRE). An EDRE is a minimum-notice exercise to test unit deployment capabilities for contingency operations.

k. Fire Coordination Exercise (FCX). The FCX is a medium-cost, reduced-scale exercise that can be conducted at the platoon, company team, battalion, or brigade level. It exercises C2 skills through the integration and synchronization of organic weapon systems, indirect fires, supporting fires, and maneuver. Targets, ranges, and weapon densities may be reduced for participating units, and subcaliber devices substituted for service ammunition.

l. Joint Training Exercise (JTX). The JTX is an exercise that involves forces of more than one service.

m. Logistics Coordination Exercise (LCX). The LCX is a medium-cost, medium-overhead exercise where leaders train to conduct unit sustainment operations such as supply, transportation, medical, personnel replacement, maintenance, and graves registration. The LCX clarifies the key elements of the unit's logistics apparatus, as well as their relationships. It incorporates a tactical war game that produces a wide variety of logistics requirements while exercising the flow of logistics information.

n. Live Fire Exercise (LFX). The LFX is a resource-intensive exercise. In this exercise, player units maneuver and employ organic and supporting weapons systems using full-service ammunition. Extensive range and resource requirements limit unit sizes to platoon and company/team level. This results in a focus on small units and their integration of weapon systems.

o. Logistics Exercise (LOGEX). The LOGEX is a training exercise that concentrates on tasks associated with the CSS battlefield operating systems (BOS).

p. Lane Training Exercise (LTX). The LTX is a technique for training company (troop) and or team level and smaller units on a series of selected soldier, leader, and collective tasks (STX) using specific terrain.

q. Map Exercise. The MAPEX is a low-cost, low-overhead training exercise. It requires a minimum number of support personnel and portrays military situations on maps and overlays. It may be supplemented with training aids such as terrain models and sand tables. A MAPEX enables a commander to train the staff and leaders to plan, coordinate, and execute operations under simulated wartime conditions.

r. Mobilization Exercise (MOBEX). The MOBEX is a major-scale exercise conducted by forces command (FORSCOM). It is usually a part of an Army-wide involvement in a Chief, Joint Chiefs of Staff (CJCS) or headquarters Department of the Army (HQDA) exercise. It involves actions necessary to deploy active and reserve components on short notice up to the point of actually moving to the proposed deployment location. The MOBEX is used to test plans, procedures, and systems for mobilization, deployment, sustainment, redeployment, and demobilization. All or parts of this exercise can be executed, depending on the commander's assessment.

s. Partnership for Peace Exercise (PFPX). The PFPX is a NATO exercise conducted as one of a series of training events. It enhances the coordination of military forces for peacekeeping, humanitarian assistance, and search and rescue operations. Based on nonlethal scenarios, the PFPX program seeks to expand and intensify military and political cooperation throughout Europe.

t. Staff Exercise (STAFFEX). The STAFFEX is a training exercise in which the principal and special staffs organize for war (CPs and cells) and train MTP wartime missions.

u. Sealift Emergency Deployment Readiness Exercise (SEDRE). The SEDRE is a minimum-notice exercise to test surface deployment capabilities of the unit, installation, and transportation operating agency for contingency operations.

v. Tactical Exercise without Troops. The TEWT is a low-cost, low-overhead exercise. It is conducted in the field on actual terrain suitable for training units for specific missions. It is used to train subordinate leaders and battle staffs on terrain analysis and unit and weapons emplacement. The TEWT also provides training on planning the execution of a unit mission which may include the employment of CS and CSS assets.

4-5. Planning Exercises. (See FM 25-4, How to Conduct Training Exercises.)

a. Conduct Analysis.

(1) Determine the need for training exercises and identify the types to be used. The need for an exercise is based upon the following:

- (a) Higher headquarters' analysis of subordinate unit proficiency.
- (b) Higher headquarters' issuance of the missions, goals, objectives, and guidance.
- (c) Commanders' evaluations of unit and soldier proficiency.
- (d) METL (company is the lowest level to prepare a METL).

(2) Consider the principles of training established in FM 7-1 (25-101).

(3) Establish the training requirements and the priorities for unit training programs.

(4) Determine the training objectives, which are based on the leader, individual, and collective (unit) skills and or tasks that need initial or sustainment training.

(a) Exercise objectives should be specific, relevant, realistically obtainable, measurable, and supportive of exercise goals.

(b) Exercise objectives should be organized into functional areas to highlight activities that need improvement.

(c) Properly stated objectives provide evaluators with a solid basis for conducting their evaluation and AARs.

Note: When the exercise objectives are established, the type of exercise to be conducted can be selected.

b. Select the Type of Exercise.

(1) Determine the type of exercises to be conducted by comparing the objectives with the kind of training that each exercise provides.

(2) Identify the proper exercise, within resource constraints, that can best meet the objectives.

c. Considerations.

(1) Flexibility.

(a) Plan for alternate types of exercises in case weather or other constraints prohibit the originally scheduled exercise.

(b) Exercises should allow subordinate commanders the freedom to innovate within the framework of doctrine, tactics, techniques, and operating procedures.

(c) Exercises should not follow rigid timetables that inhibit training and learning. Instead, they should establish schedules that provide sufficient time to correct mistakes and ensure learning and AARs at all levels.

(2) Resources.

(a) Facilities and Land. Planners must consider the environment for the exercise and the impact of weather. If inadequate land or facilities will seriously degrade training, planners may have to alter the exercises.

(b) Support. Planners must ensure that the exercises can be conducted within the resource levels and that the training received justifies the resources expended. Communications and transportation for participants and evaluators must be adequate. Units should use only the transportation, communications, and equipment authorized by their table of organization and equipment (TOE) or modified table of organization and equipment (MTOE).

(c) Time. For each exercise, subordinate elements must be allocated time to conduct troop-leading procedures as well as develop tactical situations that lead to logical and sound tactical employment of player units. Time must be allocated for conducting complete logistical support of tactical operations. Time must be allocated so that a thorough AAR can be conducted.

(d) Participants. Planners must consider whether or not units or groups of individuals to be trained are of the proper size or strength to benefit from the type of exercise selected.

(e) Pre-exercise Plans. Planning begins immediately after the decision has been made to conduct an exercise. The planning steps listed below are used to prepare for an exercise. Specific exercises may omit some steps. These steps are generally sequential; however, some may be performed at the same time.

1. Prepare an exercise directive that--
 - Specifies what type of exercise is to be conducted and states its specific training objectives.
 - Indicates the time frame for the exercise, its physical location, and the duration of its execution phase. (The location, time, and duration must be consistent with the type of exercise selected and the training objectives.)
 - Identifies the type and quantity of special equipment required.
 - Provides additional information such as environmental constraints.
 2. Assign responsibilities for planning.
 3. Conduct research.
 4. Prepare a supporting plan schedule.
 5. Prepare an outline plan.
 6. Conduct a reconnaissance.
 7. Complete the exercise support plans.
 8. Prepare the scenario.
 9. Prepare and issue the operation plan (OPLAN) or OPORD.
 10. Publish the memorandum of instruction (MOI).
 11. Prepare the terrain.
 12. Conduct a rehearsal.
- d. Develop the exercise.
- (1) Training exercise examples follow.

INFANTRY BRIGADE FTX

7-6-E0001

Conduct Combat Operations

1. Objective. Within the context of this MTP, the primary objective of this FTX is to train and or evaluate the infantry brigade in the conduct of combat operations. This FTX trains and or evaluates the brigade commander, staff, and subordinate leaders in planning, preparing, executing, and assessing combat operations. This FTX is designed as a free-play, force-on-force exercise that provides a flexible training vehicle for training critical METL tasks.

Note: The specific sequence of events will vary with the actions of the OPFOR and brigade commander's training objectives. The brigade commander will modify the sequence of events through his selection of primary and supporting events to meet his specific training objectives.

2. Interface.

- a. This FTX is supported by:
 - (1) CPX 07-1-E0001, Conduct an Attack.
 - (2) CPX 07-1-E0002, Conduct a Defense.
 - (3) CPX 07-1-E0003, Conduct a Reconnaissance.
 - (4) CPX 07-1-E0004, Conduct a Screen.
 - (5) CPX 07-1-E0005, Conduct a Guard.
 - (6) CPX 07-1-E0007, Conduct A Movement to Contact.
 - (7) CPX 07-1-E0008, Conduct Security Operations in a Stability Environment.
 - (8) CPX 07-1-E0011, Conduct a Raid.
 - (9) CPX 07-1-E0012, Conduct Air Assault.

3. Training Enhancers. In preparing the brigade to conduct an FTX, the brigade commander and his staff must first assess soldier, leader, and unit proficiency in accomplishing the METL. This will provide the basis to identify areas on which to concentrate future training. Since this is a high-cost exercise, extensive planning and preparation are required to ensure the exercise training objectives are met. OPFOR controllers and OPFOR should be the same used in both the practice exercises and for the actual FTX. The brigade commander and staff can develop and conduct the initial or needed training to attain proficiency in designated areas before the FTX.

- a. General Tips for Training.
 - (1) Conduct AARs throughout the exercise that focus on strengths, weaknesses, and safety.
 - (2) Include normal attachments and direct support (DS) elements (field artillery, engineers).
 - (3) Ensure the OPFOR is trained in enemy tactics and doctrine.
 - (4) Include OPFOR personnel in AARs.
 - (5) Use trained personnel to act as enemy prisoners of war (EPWs).
 - (6) Integrate nuclear, biological, and chemical (NBC) and electronic warfare (EW).
 - (7) Ensure that personnel are familiar with the TSOP that relate to the exercise.
 - (8) Review soldier familiarity with the training environment.

- b. Pre-Exercise Activities.

- (1) MAPEX(s) combined with sand table exercise(s) that match the terrain to be used during the FTX.
- (2) TEWT and or terrain walk.
- (3) Communications exercise.
- (4) Applicable CPX.

c. Exercise Instructions.

- (1) Perform this exercise at full speed after performing building-block training (individual training and drills) to reach the "run" level of execution.
- (2) The tasks that support this FTX must be executed to standard.
- (3) The size of the OPFOR element facing the unit must be supportable and doctrinally correct.
- (4) MILES should be used when feasible.
- (5) Ensure that the conditions set for the exercise are realistic.
- (6) Except for MILES or appropriate simulation devices, use only TOE equipment or authorized replacements.
- (7) Use controllers and or evaluators that are thoroughly knowledgeable in the specific tasks to be evaluated.
- (8) This exercise begins with the receipt of a WARNO and it ends after consolidation and reorganization.
- (9) This exercise should be conducted under all environmental conditions and during periods of daylight and limited visibility. The brigade should operate under threat of NBC attacks, attacks by ground or air, indirect fire, and EW.

d. Scenario. The 1st IN BDE is conducting combat operations in the Beta Republic as part of the 4th Division. The Beta Republic has a well-trained ground force. The enemy possesses biological and chemical weapons and may have nuclear capability. Hostilities have been ongoing for six months. For the most part, the civilian population is in favor of military actions by the US and its allies.

e. Sequence. Table 4-2 is an example of sequence, events, and associated time.

4. General Situation. 1st Brigade continues to conduct tactical operations against the Beta Republican forces. At D+17, the 1st Brigade will begin an attack with two heavy task forces (TFs) abreast to destroy security zone forces and penetrate the enemy’s first and second defensive belts in zone.

5. Special Situation. The brigade issues an OPORD that directs the attack. (See Appendix B.)

6. Support Requirements. The support requirements for the FTX are the consolidated requirements for the brigade headquarters and all its subordinate elements. Support requirements include the following:

a. 100% of TOE equipment readiness code (ERC) A items.

b. Minimum Trainers or Evaluators. When conducting a brigade-level internal training exercise, the brigade commander and executive officer (XO) are the trainers/evaluators, but they may need additional assets from the brigade to support the FTX. Evaluators at each echelon, down to and including squads and sections, should be allocated to assist the brigade commander in evaluating the FTX. Each evaluator should be supported by an evaluation plan to guide his actions during the exercise and support the brigade commander's overall evaluation plan. Evaluators must position themselves to monitor all unit activities as well as the actions and communications of the brigade staff.

- c. Vehicles and communications support for evaluators and OPFOR.
 - d. Designated medical evacuation vehicles with communications and medical personnel support.
 - e. Classes of supply I through V, VIII, and IX in sufficient quantities to support the FTX (friendly, evaluator, and OPFOR).
 - f. Opposing Force. Battalion-size forces should oppose maneuver brigades. The OPFOR should be equipped with vehicles that realistically simulate enemy mobility capabilities. Ideally, the OPFOR will be equipped with modification kits that suggest the appearance and silhouette of enemy combat equipment.
 - g. Maneuver Area. A training area large enough to support brigade maneuver is required.
7. T&EOs. T&EOs used in evaluating the training exercise are listed in the sequence they will occur during the exercise. Table 4-3 is a sample list of T&EOs.

INFANTRY BRIGADE CPX

7-6-E0007

Conduct a Movement to Contact

1. Objective. Within the context of this MTP, the primary objective of this CPX is to train and or evaluate the infantry brigade in the conduct of a movement to contact. This CPX trains and or evaluates the commander, staff, and subordinate leaders in planning, preparing, executing, and assessing the movement to contact.

2. Interface.

- a. The following support this CPX:
- (1) CPX 07-1-E0003, Conduct a Reconnaissance.

3. Training. The trainer should review the individual, leader, and collective tasks that are performed during execution of the CPX. Determine which tasks may require initial or refresher training. The time to plan and develop the order is not contained in this CPX. The staff can develop the OPLAN or OPORD in a separate exercise.

a. General Tips for Training.

- (1) Conduct AARs throughout the exercise that focus on strengths, weaknesses, and safety.
- (2) Ensure the OPFOR is trained in enemy tactics and doctrine.
- (3) Include OPFOR personnel in AARs.
- (4) Use trained personnel to act as enemy prisoners of war (EPWs).
- (5) Integrate nuclear, biological, and chemical (NBC) and electronic warfare (EW).
- (6) Ensure that personnel are familiar with the brigade's TSOP that relate to the exercise.
- (7) Review soldier familiarity with the training environment.

b. Pre-Exercise Activities. (Use one or more.)

- (1) MAPEX(s) combined with sand table exercise(s) that match the terrain to be used during the CPX.
- (2) CPX. (May develop OPORD during a separate CPX).
- (3) Applicable subordinate element CPX(s).

c. Exercise Instructions.

- (1) Perform this exercise at full speed after performing building-block training (individual training and drills) to reach the "run" level of execution.
- (2) The tasks that support this CPX must be executed to standard.
- (3) The size of the OPFOR element facing the unit must be supportable and doctrinally correct.
- (4) MILES should be used when feasible.
- (5) Ensure that the conditions set for the exercise are realistic.
- (6) Except for MILES or appropriate simulation devices, use only TOE equipment or authorized replacements.
- (7) Use controllers and or evaluators that are thoroughly knowledgeable in the specific tasks to be evaluated. (Train controllers and or evaluators as required.)
- (8) This exercise begins when the brigade receives or identifies the mission and it ends after consolidation and reorganization.
- (9) This exercise should be conducted under all environmental conditions and during periods of daylight and limited visibility. The brigade should operate under threat of NBC attacks, attacks by ground or air, indirect fire, and EW.

d. Scenario. The infantry brigade is conducting operations as part of the 4th Infantry Division in the Beta Republic. The Beta Republic has a well-trained combat force that consists of air, sea, and ground forces. TF 3-66 Armor has bypassed a reinforced enemy company in the security zone. Its most probable course of action will be to attempt to establish a cohesive defense in our sector in order to block the brigade's lines of communication (LOC) in the north part of the brigade zone. A squad-size security outpost will be established forward of the main defensive belt in order to provide the company with earlier warning and indirect fire against our brigade. The exact location of the enemy company and outpost are unknown at this time. The enemy possesses biological and chemical weapons and may have nuclear capability. Hostilities have been ongoing for six months. The brigade is at or near 100% strength and has all authorized ERA equipment items. For the most part, the civilian population is in favor of military actions by the US and its allies.

4. General Situation. The brigade commander is concerned that the bypassed enemy reconnaissance company will be able to interdict his LOCs.

5. Special Situation. The brigade commander issues guidance and the staff issues a fragmentary order (FRAGO) to 1-25 IN (M) . Figure 4-1 is a sample FRAGO.

3. EXECUTION.

- a. Concept: 1-25 IN (M) conducts a movement to contact from LD/LC to PL (name) to gain contact with a bypassed enemy reconnaissance company. TF 3-66 AR and TF 1-22 IN (M) continue the attack to defeat forces in the two defensive belts.

This CPX trains and or evaluates the commander, staff, and subordinate leaders in planning, preparing, executing, and assessing the attack.

 - (2) CPX 07-6-E0004, Conduct a Screen.
 - (3) CPX 07-6-E0005, Conduct a Guard.

3. Training. The trainer should review the individual, leader, and collective tasks that are performed during execution of the CPX. Determine which tasks may require initial or refresher training. The time to plan and develop the order is not contained in this CPX. The staff can develop the OPLAN or OPORD in a separate MAPEX or CPX.

- (9) This exercise should be conducted under all environmental conditions and during periods of daylight and limited visibility. The brigade should operate under threat of NBC attacks, attacks by ground or air, indirect fire, and EW.

d. Sample Scenario. The brigade has been successful in defeating the Beta Republican Forces. Elements of the Beta Republican Tank Division, an army reserve force, have been delayed by the division's deep battle effort. However, it appears that the tank division elements will counterattack into the 1st Brigade sector with 24 hours. The lead element of the Beta Tank Division has been successful in penetrating a seam in the east between TF 3-66 AR and 1st Brigade of the 54 Mech Division. The tank battalion's most probable course of action is to continue to attack with at least two companies attempting to cut brigade LOCs from east to west against 1st Brigade.

4. General Situation. 1st Brigade has been successful in defeating enemy first echelon forces and is directed by higher headquarters to transition to the defense. The brigade is expecting an attack by elements of the enemy's follow-on force within 24 hours.

5. Special Situation. The brigade commander issues guidance and the staff begins planning and issues an FRAGO to subordinate elements. (A more extensive FRAGO was created since this is no longer an offensive operation. See Appendix B FRAGO 3.)

6. Support Requirements. (See Table 4-8 for a sample consolidated support requirements list.) Support requirements include the following:

a. Minimum Trainers and or Evaluators. The brigade commander conducts this exercise. The brigade XO, S3, CSM, and battalion commanders assist him.

- (8) This exercise begins when the brigade receives or identifies the mission and it ends after the mission is completed.

(9) This exercise should be conducted under all environmental conditions and during periods of daylight and limited visibility. The brigade should operate under threat of NBC attacks, attacks by ground or air, indirect fire, and EW.

(1) Summary of the Enemy Situation.

(a) Background. The United States has a treaty agreement with the Alpha Republic that declares the US intent to support any newly elected democratic government with both economic and military aid. In a recent election, the citizens of Alpha turned out the leadership of the Alpha Patriotic Front (APF) by electing a new prime minister and cabinet pledging democratic reform within the country. The election, monitored by international observers, was very close with the winner managing only 53 percent of the popular vote. As a result, disgruntled supporters of the losing party have taken to the streets in various cities throughout the country. Some elements of the APF have refused to accept the election results and have threatened violence if a new election is not held within one month. Other factions within the country are politically, ethnically, and religiously allied with neighboring Beta whose totalitarian regime had been strongly influencing the APF during the past decade. The government of Beta worked in vain to prevent the election of the democratic government now in power--a government it deemed to be more aligned with western democratic nations and far less favorable to Beta interests.

(b) The Alpha and Beta Republics have been belligerents for almost 200 years, actually going to war about 85 years ago. While the two countries have many citizens who share a common religion and ethnic background, the governments of the two emerging nations have chosen different economic and social paths. The current border between the two countries, set by international agreement and arbitration after the last war in 1915, has continued to be a source of conflict and disagreement for more than 85 years. The Mongrel Republic, the country bordering the Alpha Republic on the north, has generally remained neutral during past disagreements between Alpha and Beta, but they have made no secret of their desire to possess a critical natural resource available only in northeast Alpha.

(c) Belligerent Forces:

- Alpha: Alpha Army; paramilitary forces; and religious, political, and other factions.
- Beta: Beta Army and paramilitary and terrorist forces.

(d) Composition. The Alpha Army is at 50% strength. The Beta Army is at 80% strength. The paramilitary forces from both countries operate without a clearly defined order of battle but can be expected to fight in squad- to platoon-size groups. Paramilitary forces are not well armed and normally operate dismounted but occasionally employ modified civilian vehicles armed with small arms.

(e) Recent Activities. Paramilitary forces from Alpha threatened that a defeat of the APF in the recent election might trigger wide-scale violence and the use of a biological agent to poison the water supply throughout the country.

(2) Concept. The brigade will conduct any or all of the following tasks, on order (O/O), to establish and maintain stability in the area of operations (AO).

- (a) Conduct intelligence-gathering activities.
- (b) Establish a reserve force to respond to sites of civil disturbance.
- (c) Man observation posts (OPs).
- (d) Man checkpoints and or roadblocks.
- (e) Conduct patrols.
- (f) Provide escorts for military and or civilian movements as required.
- (g) Secure selected sites (for example, voting sites, refugee camps, schools, churches).
- (h) Enforce curfews.
- (i) Stabilize areas that have escalating tension.
- (j) Open and secure routes as required.
- (k) Conduct weapons site inspections as required.

4. General Situation. The brigade is conducting operations independently or as part of a larger force. The brigade is occupying a base camp 2 kms west of the Akusk Airport in the Alpha Republic. Base camp security has been established. The brigade has issued on order (O/O) missions to conduct security operations in the AO (Figure 4-3). All necessary personnel and equipment are available. Local populace and factions may or may not be cooperative.

5. Special Situation. The brigade has received a report of a civil disturbance in their AO (Figure 4-4). The brigade issues a FRAGO.

FRAGMENTARY ORDER 01 References: OPORD 07 Map Series: V611, sheets 7061 & 7062, edition 1, scale 1:50,000 Time Zone Used Throughout the Order: Local 1. SITUATION. 6. Support Requirements. (See Table 4-10 for a sample consolidated support requirements list.) Support requirements include the following:

- a. Minimum Trainers and or Evaluators. The brigade commander conducts this CPX. The brigade XO, S3, CSM, and battalion commanders assist him.
- b. Opposing Force. OPFOR should be used, if available, to add realism to the exercise. The trainer must develop an OPFOR scenario with specific actions that cause reactions from the friendly unit consistent with objectives and tasks.
- c. MILES. MILES can provide realistic training. MILES keeps the CPX from becoming a leader exercise. MILES is required in conjunction with an active OPFOR element.
- d. Standards. Standards reviewed during leader preparation must be met during the CPX. They should be covered in detail during the AARs. Standards that are not met should be annotated on the unit proficiency work sheet of each subordinate unit.
- e. Vehicles and Communications. Use brigade TOE or MTOE equipment.

f. Training Area. The training area should be sufficient in size to allow maneuver by brigade elements and provide realistic training.

CONDITIONS: The brigade is conducting operations independently or as part of a division or Army forces (ARFOR) and has received an operation order (OPORD) or fragmentary order (FRAGO) to conduct an operation at the location and time specified. The order includes all applicable overlays and or graphics. The S2 section is established and providing support to operations. The brigade has communications with higher, adjacent, subordinate, and supporting elements. The brigade has been provided guidance on the rules of engagement (ROE) and rules of interaction (ROI). Coalition forces and noncombatants may be present in the operational environment. Some iterations of this task should be conducted during limited visibility conditions. Some iterations of this task should be performed in MOPP4.

TASK STANDARDS: The brigade S2 section supports brigade operations in accordance with (IAW) the appropriate field manual, the tactical standing operating procedures (TSOP), the order, and or higher commander's guidance. The S2 participates in the military decision-making process (MDMP). The S2 coordinates the intelligence preparation of the battlefield (IPB) for staff planning, decision making, and targeting. The S2 directs and coordinates intelligence collection activities. The S2 section analyzes and processes available intelligence data. The S2 section assists in preparing deception plans. The S2 section determines map requirements and requisitions maps as necessary. The brigade complies with the ROE and ROI.

CONDITION: The OPFOR is conducting operations independently or as part of a larger force. The OPFOR has determined that the enemy element is occupying defensive positions, conducting convoy operations, occupying an assembly or rear area, or is otherwise susceptible to attack. All assigned enemy equipment and personnel are available. Indirect fire support is available.

STANDARD: The OPFOR conducts an attack IAW the OPORD and or commander's guidance. The OPFOR executes the attack by completely neutralizing, destroying, deceiving, or disrupting the enemy element at the designated time and location specified in the operation order and or commander's guidance. Note: During training exercises, the enemy commander or leader should select the size of the OPFOR element based on threat doctrine.

TASK: Conduct Infiltration/Exfiltration (07-OPFOR-0018)

STANDARD: The OPFOR conducts the infiltration/exfiltration IAW the operation order and or the commander's guidance. The OPFOR determines gaps in the enemy's lines/defenses and infiltrates/exfiltrates without being detected. The OPFOR accomplishes the commander's intent (gains information, attacks a position from the rear, conducts raids or ambushes, captures prisoners, seizes key terrain, or aids the main attack). Note: During training exercises, the enemy commander or leader should select the size of the OPFOR element based on threat doctrine.

STANDARD: The OPFOR employs deception measures IAW the OPORD and or commander's guidance. The OPFOR constructs dummy positions; simulates troop movements by such means as the use of civilian vehicles to portray movement to radar or marching refugees to portray movement of troops in the rear; conducts feints or demonstrations; employs manipulative, simulative, and imitative deception electronic measures; and or avoids patterns or obvious movements that reveal the time or intent of an operation. Note: During training exercises, the enemy commander or leader should select the size of the OPFOR element based on threat doctrine.

Supporting headquarters provides specialized handling equipment to the brigade. Supporting headquarters provides security against enemy route interdiction from the marshalling area to the TAA. (However, the brigade is overall responsible for its own security.) The brigade is required to conduct a tactical road march from the marshalling area to the TAA. All necessary personnel and equipment are available. The brigade has communications with higher, adjacent, subordinate, and supporting elements. The brigade has been provided guidance on the rules of engagement (ROE) and rules of interaction (ROI). Coalition forces and noncombatants may be present in the operational environment. Some iterations of this task should be conducted during limited visibility conditions. Some iterations of this task should be performed in MOPP4.

TASK STANDARDS: The brigade coordinates onward movement in accordance with (IAW) the tactical standing operating procedures (TSOP), the order, and or higher commander's guidance. The brigade command group supervises in-transit activities. The brigade S1 section coordinates in-transit personnel support. The brigade S4 section coordinates marshalling area logistics support. The unit movement officer and or NCO coordinates movement to tactical assembly area. The brigade S3 section supervises preparation for and execution of tactical road march to the tactical assembly area.

OPFOR TASKS AND STANDARDS

TASK: Conduct a Raid (07-OPFOR-0013)

CONDITION: The OPFOR is conducting operations independently or as part of a larger force. The OPFOR is occupying an objective rally point with orders to conduct a raid against the enemy elements. All assigned OPFOR equipment and personnel are available. The OPFOR has indirect fire support available.

STANDARD: The OPFOR executes the raid IAW the OPORD and or commander's guidance. The OPFOR uses surprise, firepower, and maneuver to destroy enemy positions, capture prisoners, capture equipment, or free prisoners friendly to the OPFOR. The OPFOR avoids decisive engagement and withdraws all personnel from the objectives within the specified time. The OPFOR obtains all required priority intelligence requirements. Note: During training exercises, the enemy commander or leader should select the size of the OPFOR element based on threat doctrine.

TASK: Conduct Infiltration/Exfiltration (07-OPFOR-0018)

CONDITION: The OPFOR is conducting operations independently or as part of a larger force. The OPFOR infiltrates/exfiltrates personnel through the enemy lines. All necessary personnel and equipment are available.

STANDARD: The OPFOR conducts the infiltration/exfiltration IAW the operation order and or the commander's guidance. The OPFOR determines gaps in the enemy's lines/defenses and infiltrates/exfiltrates without being detected. The OPFOR accomplishes the commander's intent (gains information, attacks a position from the rear, conducts raids or ambushes, captures prisoners, seizes key terrain, or aids the main attack). Note: During training exercises, the enemy commander or leader should select the size of the OPFOR element based on threat doctrine.

TASK: Conduct Air Attack (07-OPFOR-0029)

CONDITION: The OPFOR is conducting offensive operations independently or as part of a larger force. The enemy positions, formations, or soldiers have been identified and are susceptible to air attack. All necessary personnel and equipment are available. The OPFOR's fixed-wing combat aircraft and attack helicopters are available to provide aerial fire support to ground maneuver forces.

STANDARD: The OPFOR executes the air attack using fixed- and rotor-winged aircraft IAW the OPORD and or commander's guidance. The enemy positions, formations, and or soldiers are destroyed, delayed, or forced to retreat. Note: During training exercises, the enemy commander or leader should select the size of the OPFOR element based on threat doctrine.

TASK: Employ Deception Measures (07-OPFOR-0030)

CONDITION: The OPFOR is conducting operations independently or as part of a larger force. The OPFOR is ordered to employ deception measures to confuse the enemy and to prevent the enemy from determining the OPFOR intentions or activities. All assigned OPFOR equipment and personnel are available. The OPFOR has indirect fire, close air, and engineer support available.

STANDARD: The OPFOR employs deception measures IAW the OPORD and or commander's guidance. The OPFOR constructs dummy positions; simulates troop movements by such means as the use of civilian vehicles to portray movement to radar or marching refugees to portray movement of troops in the rear; conducts feints or demonstrations; employs manipulative, simulative, and imitative deception electronic measures; and or avoids patterns or obvious movements that reveal the time or intent of an operation. Note: During training exercises, the enemy commander or leader should select the size of the OPFOR element based on threat doctrine.

TASK: Execute a Hasty Attack (07-OPFOR-0033)

CONDITION: The OPFOR is conducting offensive operations independently or as part of a larger force. Situational understanding indicates the enemy is conducting convoys and tactical road marches in the area. Tactical movement, airmobile operations, and or amphibious operations and water crossings have also been noted. All assigned OPFOR equipment and personnel are on hand, and equipment is operational. The enemy is at or near 100 percent strength and has indirect fire support available.

STANDARD: The OPFOR destroys, disrupts, or causes the enemy to retreat. The OPFOR seizes the objective IAW the OPORD and or commander's guidance.

Note: During training exercises, the enemy commander or leader should select the size of the OPFOR element based on threat doctrine.

TASK: Conduct an Attack (07-OPFOR-0012)

CONDITION: The OPFOR is conducting operations independently or as part of a larger force. The OPFOR has determined that the enemy element is occupying defensive positions, conducting convoy operations, occupying an assembly or rear area, or is otherwise susceptible to attack. All assigned enemy equipment and personnel are available. Indirect fire support is available.

STANDARD: The OPFOR conducts an attack IAW the OPORD and or commander's guidance. The OPFOR executes the attack by completely neutralizing, destroying, deceiving, or disrupting the enemy element at the designated time and location specified in the operation order and or commander's guidance. Note: During training exercises, the enemy commander or leader should select the size of the OPFOR element based on threat doctrine.

TASK: Execute Actions on Contact (07-OPFOR-0015)

CONDITION: The OPFOR is conducting offensive operations independently or as part of a larger force. The OPFOR makes contact with the enemy by receipt of direct fires, indirect fires, or direct observation. All assigned OPFOR equipment and personnel are available. The OPFOR has indirect fire, close air, and engineer support available.

STANDARD: The OPFOR executes actions on contact IAW the OPORD and or commander's guidance. The OPFOR conducts fire and maneuver to rapidly rout the enemy, seize the initiative, and create advantageous conditions for subsequent operations. Note: During training exercises, the enemy commander or leader should select the size of the OPFOR element based on threat doctrine.

TASK: Conduct Infiltration/Exfiltration (07-OPFOR-0018)

CONDITION: The OPFOR is conducting operations independently or as part of a larger force. The OPFOR infiltrates/exfiltrates personnel through the enemy lines. All necessary personnel and equipment are available.

STANDARD: The OPFOR conducts the infiltration/exfiltration IAW the operation order and or the commander's guidance. The OPFOR determines gaps in the enemy's lines/defenses and infiltrates/exfiltrates without being detected. The OPFOR accomplishes the commander's intent (gains information, attacks a position from the rear, conducts raids or ambushes, captures prisoners, seizes key terrain, or aids the main attack). Note: During training exercises, the enemy commander or leader should select the size of the OPFOR element based on threat doctrine.

TASK: Conduct Air Attack (07-OPFOR-0029)

CONDITION: The OPFOR is conducting offensive operations independently or as part of a larger force. The enemy positions, formations, or soldiers have been identified and are susceptible to air attack. All necessary personnel and equipment are available. The OPFOR's fixed-wing combat aircraft and attack helicopters are available to provide aerial fire support to ground maneuver forces.

STANDARD: The OPFOR executes the air attack using fixed- and rotor-winged aircraft IAW the OPORD and or commander's guidance. The enemy positions, formations, and or soldiers are destroyed, delayed, or forced to retreat. Note: During training exercises, the enemy commander or leader should select the size of the OPFOR element based on threat doctrine.

TASK: Employ Deception Measures (07-OPFOR-0030)

CONDITION: The OPFOR is conducting operations independently or as part of a larger force. The OPFOR is ordered to employ deception measures to confuse the enemy and to prevent the enemy from determining the OPFOR intentions or activities. All assigned OPFOR equipment and personnel are available. The OPFOR has indirect fire, close air, and engineer support available.

STANDARD: The OPFOR employs deception measures IAW the OPORD and or commander's guidance. The OPFOR constructs dummy positions; simulates troop movements by such means as the use of civilian vehicles to portray movement to radar or marching refugees to portray movement of troops in the rear; conducts feints or demonstrations; employs manipulative, simulative, and imitative deception electronic measures; and or avoids patterns or obvious movements that reveal the time or intent of an operation. Note: During training exercises, the enemy commander or leader should select the size of the OPFOR element based on threat doctrine.

TASK: Conduct an Ambush (07-OPFOR-0025)

CONDITION: The OPFOR is conducting operations independently or as part of a larger force. The OPFOR is directed to conduct an ambush along a suspected enemy route or avenue of approach. All assigned OPFOR equipment and personnel are available. The OPFOR has indirect fire support available.

Continues to cross unit vehicles and remount its dismounted soldiers in preparation for continued offensive operations. d. Establishes the order of raft loads based on the division's crossing priorities. 8. Brigade secures the bridgehead objective as part of the division or ARFOR. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. All assigned enemy equipment and personnel are available. Indirect fire support is available.

STANDARD: The OPFOR conducts an attack IAW the OPORD and or commander's guidance. The OPFOR executes the attack by completely neutralizing, destroying, deceiving, or disrupting the enemy element at the designated time and location specified in the operation order and or commander's guidance. All assigned OPFOR equipment and personnel are available. The OPFOR has indirect fire, close air, and engineer support available.

STANDARD: The OPFOR employs deception measures IAW the OPORD and or commander's guidance. The OPFOR constructs dummy positions; simulates troop movements by such means as the use of civilian vehicles to portray movement to radar or marching refugees to portray movement of troops in the rear; conducts feints or demonstrations; employs manipulative, simulative, and imitative deception electronic measures; and or avoids patterns or obvious movements that reveal the time or intent of an operation. Note: During training exercises, the enemy commander or leader should select the size of the OPFOR element based on threat doctrine.

TASK: Execute a Hasty Attack (07-OPFOR-0033)

CONDITION: The OPFOR is conducting offensive operations independently or as part of a larger force. CHAPTER 6

External Evaluation

6-1. General. An external evaluation is conducted to evaluate the brigade's ability to perform its missions. This chapter is a guide for preparing an external evaluation. Using units may modify this evaluation based on the factors of mission, enemy, terrain and weather, troop and support available, time available, and civil considerations (METT-TC) or other considerations as deemed appropriate by the commander. Selected training and evaluation outlines (T&EOs) in Chapter 5 are used for evaluation that involves the total unit and employs a realistic opposing force (OPFOR) and the use of the multiple integrated laser engagement system (MILES). At the end of the evaluation, the battalion and evaluating commander can identify the strengths and weaknesses of the evaluated unit. These strengths and weaknesses are the basis for future training and resource allocations.

6-2. Prepare the Evaluation. The evaluating unit commander must standardize evaluation procedures to accurately measure the brigade's capabilities.

a. Prepare the Evaluation Instrument. The sample evaluation scenario in Table 6-1 contains the tasks necessary to develop the scenario and execute the evaluation. Selective tailoring is required because it is not possible to evaluate every task. The following procedures are suggested for developing the evaluation.

EVENT	ACTION	ESTIMATED TIME ALLOCATED	PERIOD	PROPOSED TIME FRAME
1	Conduct pre-evaluation activities (for example; install, align, and troubleshoot MILES equipment; conduct inspections; and draw equipment and ammunition).	Before start of evaluation
2	Conduct advance party activities.	1 hr	Day 1	0800
3	Move to and occupy assembly area.	2 hr		0900
4	Receive higher headquarters' OPORD.	15 min		1115
5	Plan operation using the MDMP.	2 hr		1130
6	Prepare for operation.	1 hr		1330
7	Conduct a rehearsal.	2 hr		1430
8	Conduct a passage of lines as passing unit.	3 hr		1630
9	Conduct a river crossing.	4 hr		1930
10	Conduct intermediate after action review (AAR).	2 hr		2300
11	Conduct a movement to contact.	3 hr	Day 2	0600
12	Conduct an attack.	5 hr		0900
13	Conduct an intermediate AAR.	2 hr		1400
14	Conduct a defense.	6 hr		1600
15	Depart field location (administrative move).	2 hr	Day 3	0600
16	Conduct final AAR.	3 hr		1300
Total Time: 39 hr
Times and actions shown are for demonstration purposes only and should not be used in actual planning.

(3) Select the tasks for the evaluation of every mission. List the selected tasks on the Task Summary Sheets that are used for recording the results of the evaluation.

(4) Compile the selected missions and tasks in the order they logically occur in the detailed scenario. Group the selected missions and tasks in parts for continuous operations. (See Table 6-1, Sample Evaluation Scenario). Parts can be interrupted at logical points to assess MILES casualties and conduct in-process after-action reviews (AARs).

b. Forecast and Requisition Resources. Adequate training ammunition, equipment, and supplies must be forecasted and requisitioned. Table 6-2 is a consolidated list of support requirements for this evaluation. It is based on experiences with the scenario in Table 6-1. The evaluating headquarters will prepare its own consolidated support requirements.

Table 6-2. Example consolidated support requirements.

c. Select and Prepare the Field Evaluation Site. Required size, type of terrain, OPFOR requirements, and administrative requirements form the basis for site selection. For this evaluation an area of _____ meters X _____ meters was selected. The OPFOR is positioned according to enemy doctrine. The site must provide space for the administrative area required to support the evaluation.

d. Plan Indirect Fire Simulation. Because it greatly influences the outcome of battles, reaction to indirect fire is an important consideration of the evaluation. Indirect fire simulation requires considerable planning to achieve realism.

(1) The fire marker control system outlined in TC 25-6 is a recommended method of simulating indirect fire. Due to the amount of required resources, this method may be difficult to support.

(2) The commander may use the evaluation control headquarters method or the simulation without OPFOR method to evaluate the unit's ability to react to indirect fire. If the evaluation control headquarters method is used, the OPFOR will initiate a call for fire to the evaluation control headquarters that will simulate the tactical fire direction center (FDC). The control headquarters would then relay the delivery data to the observers and or controllers who would mark the impact of the round with artillery simulators and assess appropriate casualties. If an OPFOR is not used, the observer and or controller may ignite artillery simulators and observe the unit's reactions. FM 7-0 (25-100) and FM 7-1 (25-101) provide assessment and computation tables which may be used to determine casualties. Indirect fire simulation must be realistic and limited to what the unit could reasonably expect under combat conditions.

6-3. Select and Train Observers and or Controllers.

a. Evaluators must be highly qualified to enhance the training experience for the evaluated unit by providing valid, credible observations. The evaluator should be equal or senior in rank to the leader being evaluated. Ideally, the evaluator should have held the position himself, as it lends credibility to his role.

- (1) Selected observers and or controllers should as a minimum--
 - (a) Be familiar with the evaluated organization's mission essential task list (METL).
 - (b) Be tactically and technically proficient in the tasks evaluated.
 - (c) Know the evaluation standards.
 - (d) Follow the tactical and field tactical standing operating procedures (TSOPs) for the organization being evaluated.
 - (e) Apply relevant information about the evaluated unit, such as wartime missions, personnel turbulence, leader fill, and equipment status.
 - (f) Be trained and rehearsed.
 - (g) Know the terrain. (Conduct a reconnaissance when possible).
 - (h) Know OPFOR training objective.

b. Observer and or controller standardize administration of the evaluation by understanding the following functional areas:

(1) Evaluation Design. Each part is designed to evaluate specific missions or tasks within the overall scenario. Observer and or controller must thoroughly understand the evaluation and correctly implement it.

(2) MILES. Each observer and or controller, regardless of position, must have full knowledge of the unit's weapons and vehicles and must also thoroughly understand the MILES system being used. The unit commander is responsible for ensuring that all MILES equipment is functional before each part of the scenario.

(3) Evaluation Control System. This system ensures that the evaluation is administered in a consistent and standardized manner and that correct data is collected for the final evaluation. It includes the following elements:

- (a) Rules of engagement (ROE).
- (b) Observer and or controller duties and responsibilities.
- (c) Communication systems.
- (d) Evaluation data collection plan.

c. A recorder or recorders should be designated by the evaluation control headquarters to receive "kill" information or results and time data from the observers and or controllers.

6-4. Documentation. The evaluating headquarters develops the data recording instruments for the observers and or controllers. The Unit Data Sheet, Figure 6-3, documents demographic information that may reflect on a unit's performance. The Environmental Data Sheet, Figure 6-4, documents weather information in order to compare missions under differing environmental conditions. The Personnel and Equipment Loss Report, Figure 6-5, documents information that may affect the unit's degree of success during engagements with the OPFOR.

a. Selection. Any qualified Skill Level 1 or 2 soldier can serve as OPFOR. Ideally, the OPFOR should be a small cohesive unit under the control of its leader or commander.

b. Training. The OPFOR must understand the following six major areas:

- (1) Installation and operation of the MILES devices.
- (2) ROE.
- (3) Enemy small unit tactics.
- (4) Selected training scenarios.
- (5) OPFOR weapons and equipment, if available.
- (6) Safety procedures.

c. OPFOR Strength.

(1) Offense. Using MILES, the unit should outnumber the OPFOR three to one if an attack is to be successful. If the OPFOR is stronger than this ratio, only the most exceptional unit will be successful. The OPFOR must be armed with weapons capable of defeating any of the unit's assets. As a general rule, the OPFOR should be strong enough to offer the unit a realistic challenge, but one that the unit can defeat when proper tactics are employed.

(2) Defense. The OPFOR, at a minimum, should have a three-to-one ratio of superiority because anything less will not have sufficient weapons and ammunition to conduct a successful attack. It must be more than merely a series of targets to be destroyed. The OPFOR should be allowed to plan its own attack for each mission and not be forced into a "canned" attack that all units will quickly defeat. Once the OPFOR establishes its plan, it must use the same plan for all other like units for that event in order to maintain the objectivity and standardization of the evaluation.

6-6. Conduct the Evaluation. Evaluations are divided into three distinct areas. Each area requires a different degree of preparation and coordination.

a. Pre-Evaluation.

(1) The senior observer and or controller and all other observers and or controllers must recon the evaluation area to know the unit's boundaries, disposition of the OPFOR, and the most likely avenues of approach throughout the field evaluation site's area of operation.

(2) The unit must prepare an OPORD and FRAGO to control the exercise. An order is prepared for each mission in the evaluation scenario.

(3) Unit preparatory activities include installation and troubleshooting of MILES equipment, loading vehicles, conducting inspections, and performing other logistics and administrative actions as required.

(4) The OPFOR is placed in position and briefed while the unit is conducting its preparatory activities.

(5) In this evaluation scenario, the unit is issued a movement order to move to an assembly area. When the assembly area has been occupied, the OPORD is issued. The observers and or controllers should make an equipment-functions check after the unit occupies the assembly area and after the unit leaders have issued their instructions.

b. Evaluation.

(1) The evaluation team controls the evaluation in two ways. First, it uses measures established in both the movement order and in paragraphs 3 and 5 in the OPORD or FRAGO. Second, the team controls the evaluation through the team commander (simulated by the senior observer and or controller for this evaluation) on the team net. The team does not control in the traditional sense; instead, it accompanies the unit as observers. Only the senior observer and or controller has direct verbal contact with the unit commander. All other observers and or controllers do not speak to, aid, advise, point out positions, or in any way influence the unit's performance except for a possible or actual safety issue or emergency. Observers and or controllers are neutral throughout the evaluation.

(2) Once the senior observer and or controller issues the OPORD and movement order, the unit commander executes the events and actions prescribed in the first part of the evaluation scenario within the estimated time. From this point on, all successive parts begin with a FRAGO.

(3) The senior observer and or controller terminates a part when the unit has completed all the events and actions in a particular area or has suffered so many casualties or so much damage that the part cannot be completed. The observer and or controller must record the reasons for the termination in the margin of the Task Summary Sheet and report his action to the evaluation control headquarters. In the sample evaluation scenario, "conducting sustainment operations" follows the completion of each event or action. During this period, the senior observer and or controller will direct the unit to remain in position while "replacements" (personnel and equipment designated as killed or destroyed) are sent forward to reconstitute the unit. At this time, observer and or controller must perform the following actions:

(a) Inspect all MILES equipment, record "kill" codes, and reset equipment. Any damaged or inoperative MILES equipment is replaced.

(b) Resolve all casualty data to determine the time, place, number, and cause of casualties. This information is reported to the recorder in the evaluation control headquarters.

(c) Debrief the unit to resolve questions. Afterwards, the senior observer and or controller directs the unit to continue its mission after it receives a FRAGO or OPORD for the next part.

(4) Observers and or controllers should follow these guidelines:

(a) Report major "kills" (vehicles, groups).

(b) Report major weapons fired. Together with reporting major kills, this is the best method for determining direct fire effectiveness. Both significant firings and hits are reported to the evaluation control headquarters.

(c) Enforce ROE.

(d) Spot and record any action that might have an effect on later performance or mission outcome.

(e) Record travel routes and unit's location.

(f) Inform OPFOR controllers of the unit's location, direction, and intent. This is necessary to enable OPFOR action to be controlled in accordance with the desired sequence of events.

(g) Enforce safety.

(h) Terminate mission at the appropriate time.

c. Post-Evaluation. After the evaluation is terminated, the unit moves to an assembly area and performs the following actions:

(1) The unit observer and or controller debriefs subordinate observers and or controllers and compiles all data (evaluator packets) for the evaluation.

(2) The unit observer and or controller must complete the task summary sheets.

(3) The unit observer and or controller must turn in all completed observer and or controller packets (with the observer and or controller scoring system) to control headquarters for recording and analysis.

(4) The unit observer and or controller must conduct an AAR of the unit's performance.

(5) Each element observer and or controller should conduct an AAR of his element's performance.

6-7. Conduct the After Action Review.

a. General. At the completion of each evaluation part, the AAR leader provides feedback to the unit in order to increase and reinforce learning.

b. Feedback. Because all members of the unit participate in an AAR, each member becomes a source of feedback. This provides a richer "data base" for key points. The AAR leader will draw information from each member. This information becomes an important part of the discussion and is the basis for discussing alternate courses of action.

c. Prepare the AAR. AAR preparation involves five steps:

(1) Review Training Orders and Objectives. Training objectives are the focus of the discussion of the exercise results. The FRAGOs and OPORDs included in the exercise design implement these objectives. The observer and or controller should be familiar with the objectives, FRAGOs, and OPORDs so that he can note orders given by leaders of the evaluated unit and its subordinate elements that either implement these objectives or deviate from them.

(2) Observe the Exercise. This is an active process. The emphasis is on noting those actions that make the difference between the unit's success and failure. The observer and or controller does not need to remain close to the unit leader; more can be seen from high ground near the lead element's location or along the unit's route of march. Because unit orders identify important activities and checkpoints, the observer and or controller must be present when the commander issues the order. The observer and or controller should position himself where he can best observe anticipated critical events. Examples of critical events may include:

- (a) Conducting a road march.
- (b) Crossing a radiologically contaminated area.
- (c) Performing unit supply operations.
- (d) Responding to an NBC attack.

(3) Select the Site and Assemble the Participants. After the exercise, select a site for the AAR. If possible, hold the AAR where the majority of action occurred, where most of the critical events took place (normally where the OPFOR was positioned), or where the terrain can be observed. (The OPFOR or unit objective is normally suitable for assembling the players and conducting the AAR.)

(4) Debrief Observers and or Controllers. While the units are moving to the selected site, observers and or controllers should be debriefed. The senior observer and or controller must have a complete understanding of what happened in the exercise. The fourth step in AAR preparation is to obtain a detailed description of the exercise events in the order in which they occurred.

(5) Review the Events. After the senior observer and or controller has a sound understanding of what happened during the exercise, he reviews the events which are ranked in terms of their relevance to the training objectives and their contributions to the exercise outcome. He selects as many events as can be covered in detail during the time allowed for the AAR and places them in chronological order.

d. Conduct the AAR. Conducting the AAR requires five steps:

(1) Organize the Participants. When the observer and or controller and AAR leader assemble the participants, they group them according to their organization in the exercise. Each subordinate element's observer and or controller is located with the element for which he is responsible.

(2) State the Training Objectives. The AAR leader makes a brief statement of the training objectives for the exercise. These are described as specifically as possible. He states any additional teaching points that he intends to cover during the AAR. These should be limited to three or four key points in order to keep the AAR focused and prevent it from becoming excessively long.

(3) Lead the Discussion. The AAR leader guides the discussion of the events in their order of occurrence. Diagrams help players visualize the exercise development. The AAR leader starts by sketching the main terrain features and as the AAR proceeds, he directs the participants to draw routes of advance, objectives, and locations of engagements. Each event is discussed in detail to make teaching points about the unit's performance during the event. In an effective AAR, the AAR leader should:

- (a) Avoid giving a critique or lecture.
- (b) Guide the discussion by asking leading questions.
- (c) Suggest the players describe what occurred in their own terms.
- (d) Suggest the players discuss not only what happened but also how it happened and how it could be done better.
- (e) Focus the discussion to ensure that important tactical lessons are made explicit.
- (f) Relate events to subsequent results.
- (g) Avoid detailed examination of events not directly related to major training objectives.
- (h) Encourage the participants to use diagrams to illustrate teaching points and to show routes, phase lines, and objectives.
- (i) Prohibit players from offering self-serving excuses for inappropriate tactical actions.

(4) Review. Review the sequence of the events associated with the hazards of the risk assessment made prior to the exercise.

- (a) Were effective controls put in place to avoid accidents?
- (b) Was training realism reduced through artificial control measures?
- (c) Were all participants aware of hazards down to the lowest level?
- (d) Did any hazard present itself that was not identified, and what was done to overcome it?
- (e) Discuss each incident of fratricide or near fratricide and how it can be avoided in the future.

(5) Summarize Key Points. The AAR leader briefly summarizes teaching points in terms of training objectives covered in the AAR. After the summary, he can have a private conversation with the unit commander regarding his strengths and weaknesses and what he can do to improve his performance and that of his unit. A good AAR leader:

- (a) Maintains order and discipline.
 - (b) Reviews the training objectives.
 - (c) Addresses important events as they occurred and how the unit could have done them better. During the discussion, the leader avoids a detailed examination of events not directly related to the training objective.
 - (d) Traces the chain of events so all participants understand the results of mistakes. One mistake is often the partial cause of another.
 - (e) Clearly relates tactical events to teaching points.
 - (f) Involves participants in the discussion.
 - (g) Clearly and concisely gives summary and new training objectives.
 - (h) Reinforces points by using sketches, diagrams, or terrain models in the AAR.
- e. Reference Materials. FMs and training circulars (TCs) for conducting an AAR should be reviewed.

APPENDIX A

Combined Arms Training Strategy

Note: Development of the Combined Arms Training Strategy (CATS) is the responsibility of the proponent, not individual units. CATS should be available to the using unit through the Standard Army Training System (SATS).

1. CATS is the Army's over-arching strategy for the current and future training of the force. It describes how the Army will train the total force to standard in the institution, unit, and through self-development. It also identifies, quantifies, and justifies the training resources required to execute the training.
2. CATS provides a mix of collective and individual tasks that are recommended to be trained to standard by units. CATS also provides a range of events that furnishes a menu from which units may choose as they decide how to train those tasks. Along with presenting the tasks, the CATS data contains information on recommended prerequisite tasks for a specific task and the required frequency to perform the tasks to attain proficiency. Commanders and leaders may access this data as a guideline while working on various Standard Army Training System (SATS) modules.
3. During the process of developing their mission essential tasks list (METL) and essential collective task list (ECTL) training strategies, commanders and leaders should refer to CATS information if it is available for their unit type. As a reference, CATS can save time and effort in researching appropriate event types and types of target audience units to participate in these event types.

Note: CATS data does not include all the tasks for each of the available echelons and unit types.

4. The CATS and related plans developed by the proponent provide the means to--
 - a. Establish training requirements.
 - b. Determine who (units and or individuals), when, where (site), and how (methods and or media) collective and individual critical tasks will be trained.
 - c. Identify required resources for training.

Time Zone Used Throughout the Order: Kazar Local.

Task Organization: See Annex A.

1. Situation.

- a. Enemy Forces. See Annex B (Intelligence).

Intelligence reports indicate that Gordian Special Police Force (SPF) Unconventional Warfare (UW) elements from Gordo have infiltrated Kazar. Approximately 800 infiltrated personnel have attacked government buildings, conducted arson, kidnappings, and ethnic cleansing in the region. Several large caches of small arms, communication equipment, and mines have been discovered. The Gordian conventional military forces are capable of attacking with five brigade-size elements from 1st Corps within three to six days. The Gordian conventional forces have made no move from their current positions but intelligence sources indicate that there has been increased communication activity between unconventional forces within Kazar to elements in Gordo military units.

b. Friendly Forces.

(1) Joint Task Force.

(a) Mission. JTF KAZAR deploys, D-Day, to Kazar and conducts military operations to restore stability to Kazar. On order, conducts handover to UN Peace enforcing forces

(b) Intent.

- Neutralize Gordian unconventional warfare activities and ethnic Skandian hostilities directed against ethnic Gordians in Kazar.
- Establish APODs/SPODs and protect them from air, missile, and ground attack.
- Protect the force.
- Neutralize Gordian unconventional warfare capability in Kazar.
- BPT defeat Gordian forces.

Endstate: Stability has been restored and conditions are set for the introduction of UN peace enforcing forces. Be prepared to defeat cross-border incursions by Gordian forces.

(c) Concept of the Operation. Decisive to this operation is the expulsion of Gordian influence and stabilization within the province of Kazar. This is decisive because it will allow UN peace enforcement forces freedom of maneuver to monitor the reintegration of the Kazarian government and populace. We will accomplish this by conducting an area presence with a joint task force composed of air, land, and sea forces. The ARFOR will occupy AOR GOLD to defeat Gordian UW and conventional forces. The NAVFOR will provide CAS, EW, and mobility platforms for air and land assets. The MARFOR will provide CSAR assets. The JFACC will provide tactical air support, ABC³, aerial reconnaissance, and air maneuver control. The JSOTF will conduct special reconnaissance and limited direction action missions in support of JTF objectives.

(2) Friendly Adjacent Units.

(a) East—None.

(b) West—International peace enforcing forces secure the Skandian border between D+7 and D+14.

(c) North—None.

(d) South—None.

c. Attachments and Detachments. See Annex A (Task Organization).

2. Mission.

ARFOR, NLT D-day, secures AOR GOLD (KAZAR), defeats unconventional threats, deters the employment of Gordian conventional forces and inter-ethnic hostilities, in order to stabilize Kazar and hand over control authority to follow-on forces.

3. Execution. See Annex C (Operation Overlay).

a. Commander's Intent. This operation focuses on stabilizing the situation in Kazar by rapidly occupying the AOR with forces as soon as they arrive in the APOD in AA SKY. We will not wait for the entire division to arrive before moving into the AOR. Rapid occupation of AOR Gold will deter the Gordonian conventional force attack. We will focus initially on two objectives: (1) Areas that put the SPF on the defense. (2) Areas that facilitate our C2 INFOSYS. As units arrive at Skopje, we will continue to expand our presence in zone, improve our capability to dominate the situation, neutralize the SPF, and minimize our vulnerability to SPF actions. Caution, patience, force security, situational understanding, and impartiality by all soldiers and units will be decisive to our success. We must not allow any faction to get the impression that we will overreact, are not impartial, that we can't operate within the ROE, or that we are unable to respond to unique or unforeseen situations.

b. End-State. The RSTA squadron operates freely throughout the brigade zone; Pristina and Pristina Airfield, Podujevo and Mitrovica are secured against SPF threats; CS, CSS, and C2 INFOSYS architectures are secure and fully operational, and the SPF in the remainder of the AOR are neutralized.

Finally, we are postured to defeat a conventional Gordonian attack from either AA2 or AA3 on three days warning.

c. Concept of Operation.

(1) Decisive to this operation is securing AO PRISTINA. This is decisive because Pristina is key to the stability of Kazar. 1-325 AIR, shaping effort, secures the Kacanic Corridor/AO Urosevec to facilitate the passage of follow-on forces into AOR GOLD. The Stryker Brigade Combat Team, decisive effort, secures AOR GOLD and deters conventional forces from entering AOR GOLD to stabilize Kazar and hand over control to UN observers. 11th AVN REGT, shaping effort, screens along the Gordonian and Kazar border to prevent Gordian conventional forces from attacking into AOR GOLD. 1st BDE, shaping effort, secures AO Urosevac to prevent interdiction of forces moving into the AOR by SPF forces and deters a conventional Gordonian force attack from the west. 2nd BCT, shaping effort, secures AO Mitrovica to neutralize the SPF threat and deters a Gordonian conventional force attack from the north.

(2) Maneuver. See Annex C (Operation Overlay). Appendix 1 (Synch Matrix). Phase II of the ARFOR OPLAN 03-07 is broken down into the following phases:

 - SBCT continues to secure AO PRISTINA and AO PODOJEVO.

- 1st BCT continues to secure AO UROSEVAC.
- 11 AVN REGT continues to screen the international border and AA2 and AA3.

(3) Fires. See Annex D (Fire Support). The focus of fires is to limit interdiction along lines of communications and protect key facilities from indirect attack, including Kacanic Corridor, Pristina, Pristina Airfield, and Podojevo, and preserve maneuver elements' freedom of movement.

(4) Reconnaissance and Surveillance. See Annex L (Reconnaissance and Surveillance).

(5) Intelligence. See Annex B (Intelligence).

(6) Engineer. See Annex F (Engineer). Engineers provide mobility and force protection support in securing the Kacanic Corridor, Pristina Airfield, Pristina, neutralization of SPF forces, and deterring employment of Gordian conventional forces in order to restore regional stability.

(7) Air defense. See Annex G (Air Defense). ADA objectives are to deter aerial attack, deny aerial observation friendly force operation, and defend friendly forces from low-level aerial attack not countered by friendly air DCA. Priority of protection is to maneuver forces first and designated high value assets (HVA) second. Pristina Airfield, once secured, is the only HVA protected against short-range ballistic missiles (SRBM).

(8) Information Operations. See Annex P (Information Support). On order, PSYOP, civil affairs, combat camera crews, and ARFOR commanders conduct information operations and information management to shape the Kazar area of operations to achieve information superiority at the critical time and place to provide ARFOR freedom of action in securing Kacanic Corridor, Pristina, Airfield Pristina, and Podojevo, expanding zone north to defeat SPF forces, and deter conventional attack in order to restore regional stability.

Time Zone Used Throughout the Order: Zulu (Z)

1. Mission. On order, the ARFOR deploys to Kazar, conducts limited RSOI operations, secures the Kacanic corridor, neutralizes Gordian unconventional forces, and deters the employment of Gordian conventional forces in order to stabilize Kazar. On order, conduct handover to UN peacekeeping forces and redeploy.

2. Area of Operations.

a. Weather.

(1) Existing Situation. Weather during the month of March is usually cool with moderate to heavy rainfall. Expect fog during the morning hours usually lifting by 0900. Visibility is limited during the morning hours and extended to 1-2 miles on clear days.

(2) Effects on Enemy Courses of Actions.

(a) Precipitation will not significantly hinder cross-country movement due to numerous existing improved surface road networks.

(b) Precipitation and fog in the morning hours in low-lying areas will limit visibility and hinder reconnaissance.

(c) Illumination is favorable for night operations.

(3) Effects on Friendly Courses of Actions.

(a) Precipitation will not significantly hinder cross-country movement due to numerous existing road networks.

(b) Precipitation and fog in the morning hours in low-lying areas will limit visibility and hinder reconnaissance and air operations.

(c) Precipitation will cause refugees and displaced civilians to stay mainly on the major roads thus creating traffic congestion and control problems.

b. Terrain Analysis.

(1) Province of Kazar.

(a) Located in Southern Europe, Kazar is the southern-most autonomous province of the Republic of Gordo. A landlocked province with an area equal to approximately 11,000 square kilometers (slightly smaller than Connecticut), Kazar is bordered by Greater Gordo to the north, Macra Republic to the southeast, and Skandia to the southwest. Kazar is accessible by land only through Skandia and Macra Republic. High inland plains or Polje that are surrounded by numerous, rugged, mountain ranges characterize Kazar. 65% of Kazar's area is mountainous with narrow mobility corridors. Kazar controls one of the major land routes from western Europe to Turkey, a strategic location along the Adriatic Sea.

(b) Kazar is ringed by ranges of mountains (Sar Mountains, Prokletije Mountains, Mokra Gora Mountains, Kopaonik Mountains, and the Crna Gora Mountains) and hills forming a large bowl-shaped geographical region;. The SAR Mountains run eastward out of the mountain complex of northern Skandia and form much of Kazar's southern border. Its highest peaks are over 2,500 meters, crowned with permanent snow. On the western side of Kazar, running northward from the Skandia massif into Gordo, is another range, the "Accursed Mountains" or the Mokra Gora and Prokletije Mountain ranges, a fierce, impenetrable range with a network of turning gorges. The Kopaonik mountain range defines northern Kazar as it pushes down from Gordo into Kazar. On the eastern side of Kazar the circuit mountains soften, with a string of summits less than half the height of those of the south and west until the southeastern portion of Kazar. The easternmost extension of the SAR Mountains, a complex of hills known as the Skopska Crna Gora ("Black Mountain"), joins in defining the southeastern portion of Kazar.

(c) Within the ring of peaks and hills, the interior of Kazar is raised up; its plains qualify as a plateau, 1200 feet or more above sea level. Rivers run out of the center of Kazar into each of the three coastlines: the Aegean, the Black Sea, and the Adriatic. The Lepenac River runs through the Kacanic gorge into Macro Republic where it joins the Varda River flowing into Secca. The Ibar River flows northwards out of the eastern half of Kazar and passes through central Gordo into the river Morava, which joins the Danube River near Belgrade. The Morava valley is the main south-north axis of Gordo. On Kazar's western flank is the Drin River, which flows westward through the mountain territory of northern Skandia. At a point just inside Skandia, two contributory rivers join to create the unit Drin: the White Drin flows southwards through the western portion of Kazar; the Black Drin flows northwards from Lack Ohrid through the Macra Republic then through Skandia. Running from north to south through the middle of Kazar is a lesser range of hills which divides the whole territory into roughly equal halves; streams running off the eastern side of the hills flow into the Ibar and the Danube, while the western side sends its waters to the White Drin and the Adriatic. Of the numerous waterways existing in Kazar (Erenik, Beli, Drim, Kriva Reka, Ibar, Sitnica, Lab, Lepenac, and Binacka Morava rivers) none are navigable.

(d) The Kazar Mountains are rich in ferrous, and non-ferrous metals and are covered by vast forested areas. Natural resources include gas, coal, copper, antimony, lead, zinc, nickel, gold, pyrite, and chrome. Natural resources are one essential reason for the enduring historical importance of Kazar. Particularly, the eastern half of Kazar contains the greatest concentration of mineral wealth in the whole of southeastern Europe. The sprawling state-owned Trepca (Stari Trg) mining complex, near the city of Kvoska Mitrovica 30 miles north of Pristina, was one of Europe's largest suppliers of lead, zinc, and magnesite. Southeast of Pristina near the city of Novo Brdo are some of the richest deposits of silver, containing silver deposits equal to the largest in Southern Europe.

(e) Kazar possesses two main trade routes. One is the major land route from Western Europe to Turkey, a strategic location along the Adriatic Sea. The second, links Kazar with Shkodra Skandia (major trading center) and follow-on to the Mediterranean port. Kazar north/south routes are highly dependent on bridging and its narrow gauge railroad line of communications.

(f) Kazar's climate is classified as moderate continental, experiencing cold winters and hot humid summers with well-distributed rainfall. Temperature variations are 32 degrees Fahrenheit in January and 75 degrees Fahrenheit in July. Its climate varies: cold winter and hot summers with distributed rainfall in the central to north and northeastern portion and coastal effects of hot, dry summers and relatively cold winters with heavy snowfall along the western portion.

(g) Analysis of Kazar's infrastructure shows a state-run public welfare, communications, public works, and transportation networks functioning at minimal levels. Kazar's inadequate maintenance of state facilities is caused by shortage of funds and, coupled with damage from unconventional warfare units from Gordo, contribute to the deterioration of state systems.

(h) Environmental concerns include pollution from toxic chemicals such as DDT, pollution around industrial sites, and water pollution from waste dumped into the SAVA River that flows into the Danube River. Destructive earthquakes only compound Kazar's environmental concerns.

(2) Macra Republic.

(a) Located in southeastern Europe north of Secca, Macra Republic has a total land area of 25,333 square kilometers--an area slightly larger than Vermont.

(b) Macra Republic is a landlocked country bordering Skandia, Bech, Secca, Gordo, and Kazar with a total land boundary of 748 kilometers. Macra's climate is warm with dry summers and autumns and relatively cold winters with heavy snowfall. It is a mountainous terrain territory covered with deep basins and valleys; it has three large lakes, each divided by a frontier line, and the Vardar River bisects the country. Macra has the major transportation corridor from western and central Europe to the Aegean Sea and Southern Europe to western Europe.

(c) Environmental concerns include air pollution from metallurgical plants and high seismic risks.

(3) Skandia.

(a) Located in southeastern Europe, bordering the Adriatic Sea and Ionian Sea, between Secca and Gordo, Skandia has a total land area of 28,750 square kilometers--an area slightly smaller than the state of Maryland.

(b) Skandia borders Secca, Macra Republic, Gordo, and the Adriatic Sea. Climate conditions are mild temperate with cool, cloudy, wet winters, and hot, clear, dry summers. Scandia's terrain is mostly mountains and hills with small plains along the coast; elevation extremes range from sea level along the Adriatic Sea to its highest point at Mount Goem Korabe (2,753 meters). Scandia's natural resources include petroleum, natural gas, coal, chromium, copper, timber, and nickel; it has a strategic location along the Strait of Otranto which links the Adriatic Sea to the Ionian Sea and the Mediterranean Sea.

(c) Scandia's environmental concerns include deforestation, soil erosion, water pollution from industrial and domestic effluents, and destructive earthquakes and tsunamis that occur along the southwestern coast.

c. Terrain's Impact.

(1) Significant Features. The railroad and power line networks are easily identifiable throughout the American sector. These will greatly assist in navigation within the AOR.

(a) Avenues of Approach. There are four avenues of approach (AA) into Kazar from Gordo and one avenue of approach from Skandia.

1. Avenue of approach 1 (AA1) is located in the southwestern portion of Kazar through the Crna Gora Mountains, across the Kriva Reka River through the city of Gnjilane along route 25-3 into the city of Urosevac. After crossing the Kriva Reka River, AA1 opens up for a regimental attack of 3 to 8 kilometers in frontage. After the city of Gnjilane, AA1 splits along HWY 25-3 and HWY 25-2. HWY 25-3 opens up to nearly a division frontage of 12 kilometers as the AA begins to hook, approaching the city of Urosevac. HWY 25-2 also supports a division frontage of approximately 10 kilometers and extends northwest to the city of Pristina. Once across the Kriva Reka River, AA1 opens up to allow a speed of 15 kilometers per hour cross-country and 20 to 30 kilometers per hour on roads and beneath the high voltage power lines along route 25-3.

2. Avenue of approach 2 (AA2) is located in the eastern portion of Kazar, east of Pristina. It is the shortest distance avenue of approach from Gordo to the city of Pristina; however, its entire length winds through the Crna Gora mountain range. With steep slopes, numerous switchbacks, and river crossings it least supports an attack by a conventional force. At its widest point it supports a company-size frontage. The AA exits the mountains approximately 1.5 kilometers northeast of the city of Pristina, providing excellent cover and concealment. It also allows insurgents to quickly enter the city and blend with population.

3. Avenue of approach 3 (AA3) is located in the northeastern portion of Kazar between the Kopaonik and Crna Gora Mountain Ranges and runs along the Lab River into the City of Prodvjevo and continues along route 25 into the city of Pristina. AA3 crosses Gordo into Kazar as a regimental attack AA and then quickly converges into a battalion AA after the city of Prodvjevo and on into the city of Pristina. Route 25 and two (2) high voltage power lines paralleling route 25 are assets to this AA. AA3 opens up to allow a speed of 15 kilometers per hour cross-country and 20 to 30 kilometers per hour on roads and beneath the main power lines along route 25.

4. Avenue of approach 4 (AA4) is located in the northern portion of Kazar between the Kopaonik and Mokra Gora Mountain Ranges and runs along the Ibar River into the City of Kosovska Mitrovica and then along the main trade route that bisects Kazar into the Macro Republic. AA4 is a high speed AA. The city of Kosovska Mitrovica becomes a disrupting obstacle because of metropolitan sprawl and the city's converging infrastructure. Once out of Kosovska Mitrovica, the AA opens back up to regimental attack size and could accept a division-size element in column until Pristina, then the AA opens up to accept a division attacking with three regiments in the first echelon. AA4/6 allows a speed of 15 kilometers per hour cross-country and an unopposed road speed of 30 to 40 kilometers per hour.

5. Avenue of approach 5 (AA5) is located in the northwestern portion of Kazar through the Mokra Gora Mountains on a two-or-more lane wide route opening up near the city of Pec. Avenue of approach 5 is severely restricted coupled with the impenetrable Mokra Gora Mountain range and its network of turning gorges. Once through the Mokra Gora Mountains, the AA opens from battalion-in-column frontage to a division frontage as the AA enters the Kazar bowl. Extremely limited AA, there is no cross-country capability, and road speed is limited to 15-20 kilometers per hour in column.

6. Avenue of approach 6 (AA6) Route Buick is one of only two major roads leading out of Kazar to the south and the only one in the American sector. It is the major import and export route to Skandia and the city of Skopje. This avenue of approach travels the valley plain floor north and will support a division attack with three regiments abreast. Numerous branch roads provide east-west mobility. The railroad system also runs along this route. Mobility will be slightly restricted by urban areas along the main highways and small tributaries that feed the Sitnica river.

d. Obstacles.

(1) Along AA1 Crna Gora Mountainous Range provide a significant obstacle to maneuver. The built up area surround the city of Urosevec and the people living there will also be an obstacle for maneuver. The high-tension power lines surrounding the city will be an obstacle for aviation assets. Along the eastern border of Kazar along AA1 the Binacka Morava and the Kiriva Reka Rivers are significant obstacles. There are bridges over these rivers and they are not fordable. There are possibly obstacles left over from the initial occupation after the 1998 conflict. For more information on the rivers see the engineer estimate.

(2) Along AA3 the Kopaonik Mountain Range is a significant obstacle to maneuver elements. They are characterized by extreme slope and are heavily vegetated. Cross-country mobility through these areas is extremely difficult. The built up area surround the city of Pristina and the people living there will also be an obstacle for maneuver. The high-tension power lines surrounding the city will be an obstacle for aviation assets. The Lab River provides a natural obstacle. This river is not navigable. There are possibly obstacles left over from the initial occupation after the 1998 conflict.

(3) Along AA4 the Mokra Gora and Kopaonik Mountain Range provide significant obstacles to maneuver elements. Extreme slopes that are heavily vegetated and make cross-country mobility difficult characterize them. The built up area surround the city of Kovoska Mitrovica and the people living their will also be an obstacle for maneuver. The high-tension power lines surrounding the city will be an obstacle for aviation assets. The Ibar River runs north south and without existing bridges make cross mobility corridors impossible without significant bridging assets. There are possibly obstacles left over from the initial occupation after the 1998 conflict.

(4) Along AA5 the Mokra Gora and Prokletija Mountain ranges are significant obstacles. Extreme slopes that are heavily vegetated and make cross-country mobility difficult characterize them. The built up area surround the city of Pec and the people living there will also be an obstacle for maneuver. The high-tension power lines surrounding the city will be an obstacle for aviation assets. The Drin River is a significant obstacle that is not navigable. Without existing bridges it would require significant bridging assets mobility would be significantly hindered. There are possibly obstacles left over from the initial occupation after the 1998 conflict.

(5) In the southern portion of Kazar the Sar Mountain range is a significant obstacle. Cross-country mobility is extremely limited due to extreme slope and heavy vegetation. The tunnels and bridges leading up from Skopje to Kacanic would become significant obstacles is they were damaged or destroyed. The city of Urosevec and the people living there will be an obstacle to maneuver. High-tension power lines will be an obstacle for aviation assets. There are possibly obstacles left over from the initial occupation after the 1998 conflict.

e. Key Terrain.

(1) Military Sites.

(a) K11-military training post located east of Urosevac has numerous underground storage facilities for ammunition and weapons systems. The post supports marksmanship and gunnery with several primitive maneuver ranges for the mechanized units in the area. Equipment stored there appears to be in relatively poor condition. Possible protective mines and or wire obstacles in the area.

(b) K12- Military training facility located near downtown Pristina is headquarters for ground forces in East Kazar during the war. No active maneuver units templated there now, but offers troop facilities and protection with some upgrade and renovation.

(2) Utilities/Infrastructure.

(a) K21-Rail Yard: Large rail facility with upload/off load and storage facilities. Supports the railway that is a major trade/commerce support structure to Kazar. One of two inter-country railways joining Gordo and Skandia.

(b) K22-Rail Yard: Rail car repair facility. Heavy equipment repair facilities with all weather protection. Possibly a future maintenance support area.

(c) K23-Electric Plant.

(d) K24-Pristina Airfield, a shared municipal/military airfield. It has one major runway that will accommodate C-130/C-17 aircraft. The airfield is located southwest of Pristina in the rural area. As such, it is accessible to observation and interdiction by forces within ADA weapons range. Several attacks (mortar, sniping) have aggravated the government's ability to establish itself as legitimate and secure in protecting the people and commerce of Kazar.

(e) K25-Underground Reservoir that augments the city of Pristina with potable water. The rivers and streams that cut through the area supply most water.

(3) Population Centers.

(a) K31: Pristina is the largest city in the American sector. It contains the bulk of industrial production for the region. It is a relatively well-developed area with electric and gas energy support and aqueducts. It has the major television and radio outlets for the region and events in the city greatly influence popular opinion throughout the countryside. It is the seat for the newly established government. It has a large Gordo and Kazarian population, with Kazarians making up a slight majority. Due to its ability to influence the surrounding areas, SPF will seek to destabilize the current government and create situations to embarrass US forces and weakening the support for international involvement.

(b) K32: Kosovo Polje is the industrial complex area that adjoins the railway and Pristina. An outlying urban area, all rails, stock, and trade pass through before entering Pristina.

(c) K33: Lipljan is an urban area located mid-way between Urosevac and Pristina along MSR Buick. This area will provide tremendous ability to observe troop movements and supply convoys. Information gathered here could be used to develop strategies for asymmetric attacks at a later date.

(d) K34: Urosevac is the current HQ's for US forces and the only established support base currently in the country. Contact in this area could significantly delay the entry timetable and limit future operations.

(e) K35: Obilic is an outskirt suburb of Pristina and home to the coal-fired electricity production facilities that provide the entire area with power.

(f) K36: Akusk is the largest suburb of Pristina. SPF might seek to influence Pristina by exerting itself here to avoid Pristina yet capitalize on it's media outlets for propaganda.

(g) K37: TV/Radio Stations. EN13142280 (radio station), EN13512391 (TV station).

(4) Observation and Fields of Fire.

(a) Observation and fields of fire along AA 1 are limited from the border for the first 10 km to 1-1.5 km. Observation and fields of fire are limited due to the mountainous terrain from the border for 10 km along AA 1. When AA 1 opens up, observation and fields of fire are limited only by built-up areas and buildings throughout the Urosevec city area.

(b) Along AA3, observation and fields of fire extend to 2-3 km and are only limited by random houses and business buildings. This observation extends from the border for approximately 10-15 km. In the mountainous area (Grid), observation and fields of fire are limited to the width of the road and length between curves. This narrow pass is approximately 7-8 km, whereupon the terrain opens up and observation and fields of fire are limited only to built-up areas in and around Pristina.

(c) Along AA 4, observation from the border to the city of Kvoska Mitrovika is limited only to vegetated areas and random business buildings and housing areas. Within the city of Kvoska Mitrovika, observation and fields of fire are extremely limited due to the dense population and building infrastructure. After leaving the built-up area around Kvoska Mitrovika, the terrain opens up and observation and fields of fire are limited only by rolling hills and random business buildings and houses.

(d) AA 5 offers the most constrained observation and fields of fire due to the narrow mountainous pass and heavily vegetated areas for 8-10 km from the border. Observation from the western half of the country looking eastward is aided by the high ground on the border. Observation and fields of fire are limited to the west due to the mountain range on the border. Within the city of Pec, observation and fields of fire are extremely limited due to the heavy populace and built-up area. Outside the city of Pec the terrain opens up and provides maximum fields of fire and observation limited only by random buildings and houses.

(e) From the southern part of the country along AA 6, the lines of communication leading up to the Skopje observation and fields of fire position are limited by the narrow mountain passes and heavy vegetation for approximately 10 KM until the terrain opens back up providing maximum observation and fields of fire limited only by houses and other buildings. Upon reaching the city of Urosevec, observation and fields of fire will be extremely limited by the heavy populace and built-up areas. After leaving the city of Urosevec, the terrain opens up offering maximum observation and fields of fire limited by rolling terrain, houses, and other buildings.

(5) Cover and Concealment.

(a) There exist adequate cover and concealment due to the heavy vegetation throughout the country. Large numbers of vehicles can be easily concealed in the heavily forested and mountainous terrain along AA 1. Further along AA 1 is a heavily populated area of Urosevec with numerous high-rise buildings and warehouses that can conceal personnel and vehicles. There are numerous bridges that cross over the Kriva Reka River along AA 1 that provide cover and concealment. Once out of the mountainous region along AA 1, the terrain opens up and vegetation is sparse. Urosevec is a major populated city with approximately 30,000 people.

(b) Along AA 2 and AA 3, heavily vegetated mountain ranges along the border of Kazar provide ample cover and concealment for personnel and vehicles. The terrain opens up after approximately 10 km in the built-up area around Pristina. There are numerous high-rise buildings, houses, and warehouses that can be used to provide concealment for vehicles and personnel from aerial observation. Due to the large population of Pristina, enemy personnel can blend in without being detected. Existing religious buildings and other buildings can also be used for cover because of the concern of collateral damage. The large open area west of Pristina will provide very little cover for vehicles and personnel. They will be easily detected from ground or air.

(c) Along AA 4 there is heavy vegetation in the mountainous terrain that provides adequate cover and concealment for both personnel and vehicles. This exists for approximately 25 km until reaching the city of Kvoska Mitrovika. Kvoska Mitrovika is a major population center with numerous improved surface roads with high-rises, houses, and warehouses capable of concealing a large number of personnel and vehicles. Due to the large number of people (58,000), personnel will be able to blend in and remain undetected. Cover and concealment becomes limited after leaving the city of Kvoska Mitrovika and is reduced to sparsely forested areas, businesses, and small houses.

(d) Along AA 5 there are high, vegetated mountain ranges that provide excellent cover and concealment for both personnel and vehicles. Due to the extreme slope in some places along this avenue, vehicles will be limited to areas close to the major highway running through the mountainous region. This heavily vegetated area extends for approximately 10-15 km until reaching the outskirts of Pec. Once in the outskirts of Pec, numerous high-rise buildings, houses, and warehouses can be used for cover and concealment. Pec has approximately 60,000 people so personnel can blend in easily. Outside of Pec along AA 5, the vegetated mountainous areas resume until reaching the Kazar border.

(e) Heavy vegetation and narrow mountainous passes characterize the AA 6 leading up from Skopje in the south up to Urosevac. From the border for approximately 10 km there are numerous tunnels and overpasses that can conceal personnel and vehicles from aerial and ground observation. After Urosevac, cover and concealment comes in the form of urban areas and IV lines along the valley floor.

3. Enemy Situation.

a. Disposition. See Enemy Situation Template.

b. Composition. ARFOR is directly opposed by the Unconventional Gordian 90th Special Police Forces as well as the conventional 1st Corps of the Gordian 1st Army. See Order of Battle Handout, Appendix 2 to Annex B (Intelligence) to OPORD 1-03.

c. Strength. The Gordian 1st Corps is at 90-100% strength in personnel and equipment.

(1) Committed Forces. The 90th Special Forces Police unit has committed to unconventional warfare operations within the province of Kazar. At this stage, no elements of the conventional Gordian 1st Corps are committed to an attack into Kazar. However, their exiled garrison disposition ("exiled garrison" because their historical garrisons are in Kazar) strongly predisposes the commitment of a maneuver brigade to each of the four avenues of approach into Kazar from Gordo proper.

(2) Reinforcements. The 90th SPF still has elements that it has yet to infiltrate into Kazar. These elements include combat vehicles and equipment not easily infiltrated by foot. However, we do not expect additional infiltration of other SPF or UW elements to reinforce the 90th SPF. In other words, the reinforcement for the 90th SPF UW operations is the conventional attack by the 1st Gordian Corps. Assuming the commitment of the first four brigades of the 1st Corps into the four AAs, the remaining unallocated armor brigade of 1st Corps is available to reinforce any of the four AAs to support an attack into Kazar. Due to political constraints the 1st Corps will not be reinforced by an element from a second echelon corps.

(3) Artillery. All tube and rocket artillery 122 mm and above are chemical capable. The enemy has task-organized the majority of his artillery down to maneuver brigade level. At this point there has been no indication of CORP or Army artillery groups forming. Towed field artillery include pieces of 76/105/122/130/152/155/203 mm, with the most modern being Gordian-produced D30j 122 mm howitzers and M-84 152 mm gun-howitzers. The only significant self-propelled artillery is a small number of 2S1 122mm howitzers. The MRLs are primarily 128mm, 32 round models; approximately 75 percent towed M-63 Plamens, and 25 percent M-77 truck-mounted Organis. A limited number of M-87 Orkan 262 mm MRLs and Frog 7/Luna M rockets, from the Gordian Army to reinforce 1st Corps artillery operations, provide long-range (50 to 70 km) fire support. The use of artillery reconnaissance is a standard feature of Gordian tactical doctrine. Reconnaissance UAV capability allows enemy forces to identify and target friendly command and control nodes and or logistics bases with their long-range fire support assets.

(4) Air Defense. Gordian Forces have an extensive network of air defense assets. The most capable asset is the SA-10C with is currently located with the Capital Defense Command. Should Gordian Forces attack this asset, it will most likely be moved down into southern Gordo to support the 1st Corps operation. It is unknown how many SA-10C the Gordian forces have as part of their defense force but intelligence estimates they could have as many as four companies supporting the Capital Defense Force. Most of the air defense assets will use passive detection to reduce the threat from NATO air strikes. They will utilize cellular phones to provide indications and warnings of NATO air strikes.

(5) Air. The allied forces currently have air superiority. However, the Gordian Air Force can conduct limited air operations with both fixed-wing and rotary-wing aircraft. The 1st Corps has 25 sorties available daily from fixed- and rotary wing assets. The Gordian fixed-wing assets include Fulcrum (14), Frogfoot (20), Jastreb (20), Soko I-22 (45) for a total of 99 attack aircraft. Attack and assault helicopters are the SA 342L Partizan (45) carrying the AT-3 Sagger, while the Mi-8/17 Hip (80) is used for SOF insertion. Enemy forces also operate a capable UAV system, the SDPR VBL-2000, having at least 3 full systems, each system having 4-6 UAVs. This is a day/night capable reconnaissance UAV with a real-time downlink that may be able to communicate directly to artillery assets. UAV sorties can be expected at the outset of deployment with 2-4 sorties per day per system. Gordian forces have been negotiating with FSU to acquire the SS-21 short-range ballistic missile system, although current estimates are the system has not been received or deployed.

(6) NBC. The CAA has chemical delivery capability and possesses chemical and biological munitions. Delivery assets available to the 1st Corps include all tubed artillery 120mm and larger, MRL, rotary- and fixed-wing platforms. The Gordians have the Frog in limited numbers and primarily use them as part of the Capital Defense Force. It is unlikely that they would move them down to support the forces invading Kazar. It is also unlikely that Gordians will use chemical or biological weapons on a territory they want to annex. The chemical release authority is held at National level. For a complete capability listing, see the NBC annex.

(7) Unconventional Warfare. The Gordian SPF consists of primarily light, dismounted infantry with some degree of motorization. SPF units have man-portable ADA and indirect fire support capability. Allied intelligence has yet to detect the infiltration of vehicles across the border. They are capable of unconventional, police, and terrorist operations in dispersed operations. They also display a mature organizational structure with central leadership from Gordo proper. The 90th SPF has seven district units allied with seven major towns and cities. They are highly effective at platoon and company level operations and are not constrained by the law of land warfare or international conventions. However, they are highly aware of world attention and will conduct operations consistent with the Gordian strategic IO campaign. Their strengths are access to commercial communications to include AM/FM radios, hand-held HF, civilian telephone systems, and satellite cell phones and pagers. Due to the SPF's knowledge of US EW capabilities, they limit the length of their transmissions and speak in code during transmissions. They transmit from a different location each time and vary the time of day they communicate. They understand U.S. forces, are able to blend in with 15% of the populace, and have interior lines of communications. Their weaknesses are that they have limited experience maneuvering elements larger than company size, and they rely upon Gordo proper and the ethnic Gordian population for logistical support and sanctuary.

d. Recent and Present Significant Activities. By March 2007, Gordian Special Police Force elements have infiltrated the eastern and northern borders into Kazar to conduct unconventional warfare operations in support of destabilizing the provincial government in order to curb reverse-ethnic cleansing by ethnic Skandians. On order, they will prepare axes of advance for Gordian conventional forces to meet Gordian strategic objectives. While US intelligence sources estimate approximately 800 Gordian SPF insurgents in Kazar, there are currently no indications of Gordian conventional forces mobilizing for an immediate attack. SPF receives covert aid and support from ethnic Gordian in the form of safe-haven, subsistence, money, and communications. They are able to influence the area of operations through asymmetric means to include arson, bombings, extortion, murder, and disinformation. For example, SPF supplied Gordo with photos of actual or staged atrocities against ethnic Gordians in Kazar for publication in the media and on the Internet.

(1) In January 2007, the small UN Observer Mission in Kazar began receiving a number of reports of ethnic Skandian Kazarians being murdered by ethnic Gordians. The UN Observer Mission also received multiple reports of groups of four and five ethnic Gordian men crossing the eastern and northern borders into Kazar on foot. One of these reports indicated that a Kazar resident recognized one of the men and identified him as having been a soldier in the Gordo Army during the 1998-1999 armed conflict.

(2) In February 2007, the UN Observer Mission received reports from Kazarian police and civilians indicating a significant rise in unconventional warfare activities throughout the region. Police found explosives in the trunk of a car involved in a traffic accident and detained three ethnic Gordians in PODUJEVO. Villagers discovered a cache of small arms, mines, and RPGs in NOVO BRDO. An explosion destroyed a hangar at the PRISTINA airport. Police suspected arson in the burning of several buildings in VITINA. An ethnic Skandian family was found murdered in LEPOSAVIC.

(3) In early March 2007, Kazar requested immediate US and UN assistance as a result of the increased intensity of the attacks directed against the government and population. Explosions rocked the towns of ZUBIN POTOK, LEPOSAVIC, PODUJEVO, GNJILANE, VITINA, PRISTINA, SRBICA, OBILIC, NOVO BRDO, and PRISTINA. Bombs destroyed several government buildings throughout the region, and the PRISTINA airport fell under a short but intense mortar attack.

e. Peculiarities and Weaknesses. Gordo lacks supporting regional alliances and relies heavily on foreign sources for information and intelligence. The SPF conducting unconventional warfare operations in Kazar has limited experience maneuvering elements larger than one company and relies on Gordo and ethnic Gordians in Kazar for logistical support and sanctuary.

4. Enemy Capabilities.

a. Enumeration.

(1) In all cases Gordo retains the capability to conduct unconventional warfare operations within the province of Kazar using its SPF. In its general mode of operations (assuming no imminent Gordian decision to cross the border with conventional forces) it can conduct harassment operations to destabilize the provincial government. These operations will be as unpredictable as the SPF can afford, but we estimate that the SPF company units will fall in on their old district headquarters and attack targets of opportunity consistent with their strategic objectives. Trap map TBP. The SPF will also conduct harassment and interdiction of vulnerable U.S. forces. In the focused mode of operations (assumes Gordian decision to cross the border), the SPF will conduct operations to facilitate the conventional attack. Examples of these types of operations include the establishment of harassment operations to slow US forces through key choke points and seizure of key choke points to facilitate the forward passage of lines of Gordian conventional forces.

(2) In all cases Gordo retains the ability to conduct substantial information operations to include propaganda events and computer network attack.

(3) Ethnic Gordians will covertly aid Gordian SPF but will be constrained by reactions of ethnic Skandians and UN activities. Ethnic Skandians will be sympathetic to UN peacekeeping operations. Displaced refugees will congest LOCs and operations at key terrain.

(4) In conventional operations, the Gordian 1st Corps can conduct a limited attack within 3-6 days. The 1st Corps can attack with five Bdes, three motorized, one mechanized, and one armor Bde.

b. Analysis. The following is a list of courses of action available to the enemy corps commander. This description of conventional COAs will address only 4 of the 5 Bdes attacking into the ARFOR AI. The motorized brigade in the west (AA 4) will be hampered by difficult terrain and will not be able to conduct a simultaneous attack against ARFOR forces. In other words, ARFOR will have finished its engagement of the first four Gordian brigades before the fifth brigade can affect the battle.

(1) Course of Action Set #1. The assumption for COA set #1 is that ARFOR has yet to secure Kacanik.

(a) 1A. Mechanized brigade enters Kazar on AA 1 and establishes prepared defensive positions south of Urosevac in order to prevent Blue Forces from having unopposed entry into country. The brigade will have approximately 36 hours of preparation time. The armor brigade will follow on and support along AA1. The motorized brigade moves along AA 2 in order to secure Pristina Airfield. Once the airfield is secure, a motorized infantry brigade in the north secures lines of communications leading to Kosovska Mitrovica (AA3) in order to allow follow-on forces to secure key population centers and re-establish ethnic boundaries. Follow-on forces from 2nd Corps can reinforce within 8-12 hours. Due to the severely restricted terrain in AA 4, the forces will not use this avenue of approach because of the significant threat of NATO air power.

(b) 1B. Pristina Corps conducts coordinated attacks along AA 1 with a mechanized brigade in order to secure LOC leading up to Urosevac. The motorized brigade attacks along AA 2 in order to secure Pristina airfield. The armor brigade will reinforce along AA 2 and act as a counterattack force. A motorized infantry brigade will attack along AA 3 and establish blocking positions south of Kosovska Mitrovica. Due to the severely restricted terrain in AA 4, the forces will not use this avenue of approach because of the significant threat of NATO air power.

(c) 1C. Pristina Corps conducts coordinated attacks along AA 1 with a mechanized brigade in order to secure LOC leading up to Urosevac. The motorized brigade attacks along AA 2 in order to secure Pristina airfield. A motorized infantry brigade will attack along AA 3 and establish blocking positions south of Kosovska Mitrovica. The armor brigade will follow along AA 3 and act as a counterattack force. Due to the severely restricted terrain in AA 4, the forces will not use this avenue of approach because of the significant threat of NATO air power.

(2) Course of Action Set #2. The assumption is Blue Forces have secured the border crossing and lines of communications leading up to Urosevec.

(a) 2A. The motorized brigade conducts main attack along AA 2 to seize Pristina Airfield and establish blocking positions south of Pristina. The armor brigade follows on AA 2 as a reserve and on order conducts forward passage of lines and assumes the main effort. A motorized infantry brigade in the north moves along AA 3 and establishes defensive positions south of Kosovska Mitrovika. The mechanized brigade in the east attacks along AA 1 into the flank of the advancing Blue Force. UW personnel continue harassment with ambushes and random mortar fire along LOC's. Due to the severely restricted terrain in AA 4, the forces will not use this avenue of approach because of the significant threat of NATO air power.

(b) 2B. The motorized brigade conducts main attack along AA 2 to seize Pristina Airfield and establish blocking positions south of Pristina. The armor brigade follows on AA 2 to provide a counterattack force and reinforcements. A motorized infantry brigade in the north moves along AA 3 and establishes defensive positions south of Kosovska Mitrovika. The mechanized brigade in the east attacks along AA 1 to deny Blue Forces access to LOC leading to Pristina. UW personnel continue harassment with ambushes and random mortar fire along LOC's. Due to the severely restricted terrain in AA 4, the forces will not use this avenue of approach because of the significant threat of NATO air power.

(c) 2C. The motorized brigade conducts main attack along AA 2 to seize Pristina Airfield and establish blocking positions south of Pristina. A motorized infantry brigade in the north moves along AA 3 and establishes defensive positions south of Kosovska Mitrovika. The armor brigade follows on AA 2 to provide a counterattack force and reinforcements. The mechanized brigade in the east attacks along AA 1 to deny Blue Forces access to LOC leading to Pristina. UW personnel continue harassment with ambushes and random mortar fire along LOC's. Due to the severely restricted terrain in AA 4, the forces will not use this avenue of approach because of the significant threat of NATO air power.

(3) Course of Action Set #3. The assumption is that Blue Forces have secured Pristina Airfield and are expanding the lodgment. Security of the LOC leading from Skopje has been handed off to a follow-on force.

(a) 3A. The mechanized brigade moves along AA 1 and establishes blocking positions south of Urosevec to cut off the LOC and deny reinforcements the ability to access Pristina airfield. The motorized brigade attacks along AA 2 to defeat forces securing Pristina Airfield. The armor brigade follows along AA 2 and on order assumes the main effort. A motorized infantry brigade in the north will attack along AA 3 in order to establish blocking positions south of Kosovska Mitrovica. Due to the severely restricted terrain in AA 4, the forces will not use this avenue of approach because of the significant threat of NATO air power.

(b) 3B. Security of the LOC leading from Skopje has been handed off to a follow-on force. The mechanized brigade moves along AA 1 and establishes blocking positions south of Urosevec to cut of the LOC and deny reinforcements the ability to access Pristina airfield. The armor brigade will follow in support and attack north to Pristina airfield. The motorized brigade attacks along AA 2 to defeat forces securing Pristina Airfield. A motorized infantry brigade in the north will conduct an attack along AA 3 in order to establish blocking positions south of Kosovska Mitrovica. Due to the severely restricted terrain in AA 4, the forces will not use this avenue of approach because of the significant threat of NATO air power.

(c) 3C. Security of the LOC leading from Skopje has been handed off to a follow-on force. The mechanized brigade moves along AA 1 and establishes blocking positions south of Urosevec to cut of the LOC and deny reinforcements the ability to access Pristina airfield. The motorized brigade attacks along AA 2 to defeat forces securing Pristina Airfield. A motorized infantry brigade in the north will conduct an attack along AA 3 in order to establish blocking positions south of Kosovska Mitrovica. The armor brigade will follow along AA 3 in support and attack south to Pristina airfield. Due to the severely restricted terrain in AA 4, the forces will not use this avenue of approach because of the significant threat of NATO air power.

(4) Course of Action Set #4. The assumption is that enemy forces remain stationary on border until Blue Forces leave. Unconventional Warfare units continue to conduct operations aimed at destabilizing the country's government and infrastructure in order to discredit them and cause internal turmoil.

c. Discussion. Gordian retrofitting of T55 tanks with reactive armor and other product improvements are only partially complete. This significantly reduces, but does not eliminate, the likelihood of a Gordian attack of brigade size prior to D+10 (COA Set #1). It will take 36 hours for the Gordian brigades to deploy from exiled garrison locations to tactical assembly areas along the provincial border. The Gordo national command still believes that it can achieve its objectives without conventional confrontation, via a mix of covert SPF operations, information operations, and diplomacy. However, significant SPF success or perceived weakening of UN resolve might encourage Gordo to seek a conventional confrontation.

5. Conclusions.

a. Intelligence. See Annex B.

b. Weather and Terrain. Weather and terrain will not affect the ability of intelligence to accomplish the mission.

c. Most Probable Enemy Courses of Action: COA 4. The assumption is that enemy forces remain stationary on border until Blue forces leave. Unconventional warfare units continue to conduct operations aimed at destabilizing the country's government and infrastructure in order to discredit them and cause internal turmoil

d. Most Dangerous Enemy Course of Action: COA 3B. The assumption is that Blue forces have secured Pristina Airfield and are expanding the lodgment. Security of the LOC leading from Skopje has been handed off to a follow-on force. The mechanized brigade moves along AA 1 and establishes blocking positions south of Urosevec to cut of the LOC and deny reinforcements the ability to access Pristina airfield. The armor brigade will follow in support and attack north to Pristina airfield. The motorized brigade attacks along AA 2 to defeat forces securing Pristina Airfield. A motorized infantry brigade in the north will conduct an attack along AA 3 in order to establish blocking positions south of Kosovska Mitrovica.

e. Enemy Vulnerabilities. Due to the nature of covert operations being conducted by the Special Police Forces in-country, enemy personnel will be difficult to distinguish from ethnic Kazarians. The ethnic Kazarians will be able to identify suspected SPF personnel. The SPF forces most likely have infiltrated by foot and lack their organic vehicles. They will possess civilian transportation only. Due to the number of ethnic Gordians living in Kazar, there will be a limited number of safe havens for the SPF to use and will most likely limit their range to a small area of operations. Enemy forces have limited numbers of night vision devices, which will make large-scale night operations difficult for enemy forces. The enemy will be highly vulnerable as he enters Kazar through the mountain passes along AA 1, AA 2, and AA 4. The passes form natural choke points.

Appendix 2 (ENEMY ANALYSIS) TO ANNEX B (INTELLIGENCE)

1. Enemy Situation.

a. Disposition.

(1) We are facing elements of the 90th Special Police Force, an unconventional unit that infiltrated approximately 800 members into Kazar beginning in Jan 07. Currently they are utilizing former district HQ's in Pristina (EN13052345), Kosovska Mitrovika, Pec, Dakovica, Prizren, Urosevec (EM12189163), and Gnjilane. An estimated one company of SPF is operating out of each HQ and they are closely allied with the surrounding ethnic Gordians. They have been conducting UW operations in the form of arson, extortion, murder, kidnappings, bombings and mortar attacks, misinformation, and ethnic cleansing in order to destabilize the Kazar government and its infrastructure. On alert from Gordo, they can transition to interdiction operations to seize key terrain, control corridors, and harass UN rear areas in order to facilitate the passage of the Gordian 1st Infantry Corps.

(2) The 1st Infantry Corps, consisting of 3 motorized infantry brigades, 1 mechanized infantry brigade, and 1 armor brigade, is currently located north of the Gordo-Kazar border. To the west is the 49th MIB, to the north is the 25th MIB, and to the east is the 54th MIB. The location of the armor brigade is unknown at this time. The Gordian National Command Authority has begun mobilizing the 1st Corps. Training exercises, leaves, and passes have been cancelled as units return to their encampments. The Corps is distributing wartime stocks and has activated crisis communications channels and procedures. Quartering parties have been identified within Gordo proper in possible TAA's along major avenues of approach 5-10 miles from the provincial border.

(3) If committed, the Gordian 1st Infantry Corps will attack into Kazar to seize key terrain in order to retain the "moral high ground," kill as many Americans as possible, and provoke UN forces to attack "peaceful" Gordians, thus degrading US and world opinion of the UN mission.

b. Composition. See Order of Battle Handout, Base Order. The Unconventional Gordian 90th Special Police Forces as well as the conventional 1st Corps of the Gordonian 1st Army directly opposes ARFOR.

c. Capabilities.

(1) Gordian 1st Infantry Corps: Conventional force currently at 90-100% strength in personnel and equipment.

(a) Reinforcements. Assuming commitment of the 1st Infantry Corps, an unallocated armor brigade can reinforce along all AAs to support an attack into Kazar. The 1st Infantry Corps will not be reinforced by any elements from a second echelon corps due to political constraints.

(b) Artillery. All tube and rocket artillery 122 mm and above is chemical capable. The enemy has task-organized the majority of his artillery down to maneuver brigade level. At this point there has been no indication of Corps or Army artillery groups forming. Towed field artillery includes pieces of 76/105/122/130/152/ 155/203 mm, the most modern being Gordian-produced D30j 122 mm howitzers and M-84 152 mm gun-howitzers. The only significant self-propelled artillery is a small number of 2S1 122mm howitzers. The MRLs are primarily 128mm 32-round models--approximately 75% towed M-63 Plamens and 25% M-77 truck-mounted Organis. A limited number of M-87 Orkan 262 mm MRLs and Frog 7/Luna M rockets from the Gordian Army to reinforce 1st Corps artillery operations provide long-range (50 to 70 km) fire support. The use of artillery reconnaissance is a standard feature of Gordian tactical doctrine. Reconnaissance unmanned aerial vehicle (UAV) capability allows enemy forces to identify and target friendly command and control nodes and or logistics bases with their long-range fire support assets.

(c) Air Defense. Gordian Forces have an extensive network of air defense assets. The most capable asset is the SA-10C, which is currently located with the Capital Defense Command. Should Gordian forces attack, this asset will most likely be moved down into southern Gordo to support the 1st Corps operation. It is unknown how many SA-10C the Gordian forces have as part of their defense force, but intelligence estimates they could have as many as four supporting the capital defense force. Most of the air defense assets will use passive detection to reduce the threat from NATO air strikes. They will utilize cellular phones to provide indications and warnings of NATO air strikes. EW forces have infiltrated with SA-7, SA-14, and SA-16's. The exact amount is unknown. They pose a significant threat to the area around Pristina Airfield and will use them to disrupt US operations.

(d) Air. The allied forces currently have air superiority. However, the Gordian Air Force can conduct limited air operations with both fixed-wing and rotary-wing aircraft. The 1st Corps has 25 sorties available daily from fixed-and rotary-wing assets. The Gordian fixed-wing assets include Fulcrum (14), Frogfoot (20), Jastreb (20), and Soko I-22 (45) for a total of 99 attack aircraft. Attack and assault helicopters are the SA 342L Partizan (45) carrying the AT-3 Sagger, while the Mi-8/17 Hip (80) is used for special operations forces (SOF) insertion. Enemy forces also operate a capable UAV system--the SDPR VBL-2000--having at least three full systems, each having four to six UAV. This is a day/night capable reconnaissance UAV with a real-time downlink that may be able to communicate directly to artillery assets. UAV sorties can be expected at the outset of deployment with two to four sorties per day per system. Gordian forces have been negotiating with FSU to acquire the SS-21 short-range ballistic missile system, although current estimates are the system has not been received or deployed.

(e) Nuclear, Biological, and Chemical (NBC). The Gordian Army has chemical delivery capability and possesses chemical and biological munitions. Delivery assets available to the 1st Corps include all tubed artillery 120mm and larger, MRL, and rotary- and fixed-wing platforms. The Gordians have the Frog in limited numbers and primarily use it as part of the capital defense force. It is unlikely that they would move them down to support the forces invading Kazar. It is also unlikely that Gordians will use chemical or biological weapons on a territory they want to annex. The chemical release authority is held at national level. For a complete capability listing, see the NBC annex.

(2) 90th Special Police Force (unconventional force). The Gordian SPF consists primarily of light, dismounted infantry with some degree of motorization. Allied intelligence has yet to detect the infiltration of vehicles across the border. SPF units have man-portable ADA and indirect fire support capability in the form of RPG-7V's and 82mm mortars. They are capable of unconventional, police, and terrorist operations in dispersed operations at team, squad, and platoon levels. They are highly effective at platoon level operations and are not constrained by the law of land warfare or international conventions. They also display a mature organizational structure with central leadership from Gordo proper. They are capable of conducting limited company level operations but will opt not to. The 90th SPF has seven district units allied with seven major towns and cities (Pristina, Kosovska Mitrovika, Pec, Dakovica, Urosevec, Gnjilane, and Podojevo). They are highly aware of world attention and will conduct operations consistent with the Gordian strategic campaign. The 90th SPF has yet to infiltrate all of its combat vehicles and equipment. We do not expect it to infiltrate this equipment or any UW reinforcements. Reinforcement for the 90th SPF UW operations is the conventional attack by the 1st Inf. Corps.

d. Road to War. See base order.

e. Recent Activities.

(1) General.

(a) In the last 24 hours HUMINT sources confirm a high level of Gordian interest in identifying vulnerabilities to deploying US forces and that Gordian leaders continue to reference "Finding the right Somalia Strategy." The Gordian president made an impassioned speech on Gordian TV last night emphasizing the illegitimacy of the Muslim Kazar provincial government and denounced what he described as "US led Western interference" in Gordian affairs.

(b) In southern Gordo, the 1st Gordian Defense Corps commander ordered division and brigade commanders to "prepare to defend the homeland" and authorized the distribution of wartime ammunition stockages. The 43d Armored Bde is currently conducting extensive maneuvers northeast of Novi Pazer and will not complete them for another 48 hours.

(c) In general, Kazar host nation forces will cooperate with US operations, particularly with respect to neutralizing Gordian SPF. However, Kazar security forces are typically less enthusiastic about policing ethnic Skandian incidents against ethnic Gordians.

(d) NGO's are establishing refugee facilities at the Pristina University and the Olympic Sports facility to handle 3000 to 4000 Skandian refugees. Analysts expect another 1000-1500 refugees to flee the city, primarily south and east toward Macra, Skandia, and those parts of Kazar under firm Skandian control

(2) Pristina AO.

(a) In mid-Feb, explosions destroyed several government buildings in downtown Pristina including a post office (EN 13492278) and courthouse (EN 13552363).

(b) In mid-Feb, a short but intense mortar attack rendered the E strip of the Pristina Airfield unusable for 5 days during repairs

(c) Kazar intell sources indicate that the SPF is planning to use ethnic Gordians in a rally at Pristina Airfield, timed to coincide with the arrival of US Army forces. Demonstrators expect to provoke televised responses from both ethnic Skandians and US. SPF is also planning a coordinated mortar and or sniper attack against US forces several km south of the airfield in an attempt to provoke a televised response at the airfield

(d) Local Kazar officials have reported 3 separate attacks against Kazars recently in south central Pristina

(e) The situation in the increasingly critical region of south central Pristina continues to worsen and has escalated into an international situation. The number of ethnic incidents by both sides has significantly increased, which has fueled tensions and attracted global news teams. There are several demonstrations per day that deteriorate into riots and rock throwing mobs. Shops are looted and buildings are burned daily.

(f) Leaders in the poor, ethnically Gordian neighborhood of Panaduriste organized the Citizens' Vigilance Defense Group in response to a recent house searches by Kazar security forces. The CVDG has organized and motivated the entire population of 700 Gordians in Panaduriste to "peacefully resist the illegal search in accordance with the principles of Martin Luther King and Mahatma Gandhi."

(g) In response to Skandian demonstrations, the CVDG organized a raid that overran the Pristina 17th Precinct police station near Panaduriste, capturing a large cache of Kazar heavy machine guns, grenades, RPG's, explosives, and mines. A Kazar police force pursuing the ethnic Gordians got caught in a very organized ambush and was then filmed mortaring a Gordian school. This further helped the Gordian propaganda effort to "educate the world to the brutal oppression of poor Christians by Muslim terrorists."

(h) The CVDG, supported by at least 4 SPF teams and a district HQ, then strongpointed the Panaduriste neighborhood by emplacing roadblocks and tactical overwatch positions at strategic points along the perimeter.

(i) The neighborhoods around Panaduriste were evacuated, creating a buffer zone around the area. The only exception is in Velica Rovina to the southeast of Panaduriste. It is expected that SPF will use Panaduriste as a base of operations to conduct activities in greater Pristina and neighboring towns and will use Velica Rovina as a contiguous sanctuary to infiltrate supplies into Panaduriste. Signal intelligence (SIGINT) and HUMINT estimate that US forces may be able to lay siege to Panaduriste but will be unable to isolate Velica Rovina from both a political and tactical perspective.

(3) Gnjilane AO. In Gnjilane, a Kazar official was assassinated. The local radio station received a call claiming that the murder was the first of what would be escalations against Kazar officials who publicly support the US operation in Kazar.

(4) Podujevo AO. In Podujevo, Gordian propaganda units attempted to raise doubts with the US public and Congress as to the validity of US operations in Kazar by staging the kidnapping and beating of a Gordian family. The incident was caught by CNN camera crews, which fueled both pro-Gordian and pro-Kazar/UN demonstrations across the world

(5) Urosevec AO. Last night a vehicle traveling south toward Skopje was stopped at the Kazar-Macra border by border police who confiscated 3 x SA-7s and 1 x SA-16.

(6) Kosovska-Mitrovica AO.

(a) At least 5 SPF teams have been identified in the Kazar neighborhoods conducting reconnaissance of city officials' homes and major government facilities.

(b) Ethnic Gordians have conducted at least one protest and or demonstration each month since February in the Kazar section of town.

(c) Last week, 2 Kazar women were raped while travelling through a predominantly ethnic Gordian section of the city.

(d) In mid-May, 3 explosions damaged one floor of the city hall building, a movie theater, and a Kazar community leader's vehicle.

(e) In late May a mortar attack destroyed a quarter mile of a main road in the Kazar portion of the city. The road required three weeks of repair before it was usable again.

(f) Yesterday, a large demonstration in downtown turned into a riot and fight between ethnic Gordians and Kazars. Vehicles were destroyed and the local retailers' shops were vandalized and looted. While trying to intervene, 5 Kazar policemen were killed by sniper fire.

(g) Border police also found an abandoned vehicle on the Macra border in the vicinity of the village of Gajre, EM 2172, loaded with explosives and a military-style command detonation system.

f. Enemy COA's. See attached slides.

(1) COAs 1 through 3 assume commitment of Gordian 1st Inf. Corps attacking along 4 axes into Kazar. Each COA includes commitment of the unallocated armor brigade to reinforce and or follow and assume the attack.

(2) The 1st Corps brigades will be supported by the 90th SPF.

(3) The 3rd Motorized Infantry Brigade will not deploy into Kazar along AA 4 until after the other brigades are set due to severely restricted terrain.

g. Ethnic Gordians will covertly aid Gordian SPF but will be constrained by reactions of ethnic Skandians and UN activities. Ethnic Skandians will be sympathetic to UN peacekeeping operations. Displaced refugees will congest LOC and operations at key terrain.

2. Conclusions.

a. Intelligence. See Annex B.

b. Weather and Terrain. Weather and terrain will have an impact on the ability of intelligence to accomplish the mission.

c. Most Probable Enemy Courses of Action. COA 4.

(1) 90th SPF continues UW to destabilize the Kazar provincial government and Pristina infrastructure. It will continue to organize local ethnic Gordians to provoke Kazarian actions and "bait" them into media traps and direct action ambushes. It will continue to target Kazar government officials and agencies, including police stations, weapons stores and buildings, and Pristina infrastructure to include water works (dams, mains), gas mains, power substations, the Pristina Airfield airfield, telephone exchanges, and telecommunications and media centers.

(2) 1st Gordian Inf. Corps remains stationary north of Gordo-Kazar border until UN Forces leave the Kazar and or attack into Gordo. An indicator of a conventional attack is a massive coordinated attack of SPF forces on a major target. Once again this is unlikely since the UW forces are having so much success up until this point. Assuming the commitment of the first four brigades of the 1st Corps into the four AAs, the remaining unlocated armor brigade of 1st Corps is available to reinforce any of the four AAs to support an attack into Kazar. Due to political constraints, the 1st Corps will not be reinforced by any elements from a second echelon corps.

(3) In all cases, Gordo retains the ability to conduct substantial information operations, to include propaganda events and computer network attack.

d. Most Dangerous Enemy Course of Action. COA 2. The assumption is that Blue forces have secured Pristina Airfield and are expanding the lodgment. Security of the LOC leading from Skopje has been handed off to a follow-on force. The mechanized brigade moves along AA 1 and establishes blocking positions south of Urosevec to cut off the LOC and deny reinforcements ability to access Pristina Airfield. The armor brigade will follow in support and attack north to Pristina Airfield. The motorized brigade attacks along AA 2 to defeat forces securing Pristina Airfield. A motorized infantry brigade in the north will conduct an attack along AA 3 to establish blocking positions south of Kosovska-Mitrovica.

e. Enemy Vulnerabilities. Due to the nature of covert operations being conducted by the SPF in-country, enemy personnel will be difficult to distinguish from ethnic Kazarians. The ethnic Kazarians will be able to identify suspected SPF personnel. The SPF forces most likely have infiltrated by foot and lack their organic vehicles. They will possess civilian transportation only. Due to the number of ethnic Gordians living in Kazar, there will be a limited number of safe havens for the SPF to use, and they will most likely limit their range to a small area of operations. Enemy forces have limited numbers of night vision devices, which will make large-scale night operations difficult for them. The conventional enemy forces will be highly vulnerable as they enter Kazar through the mountain passes along AA 1, AA 2, AA 3, AA 4 and AA 5. These passes form natural choke points.

APPENDIX C

Enemy Analysis

C-1. General. It is the leader's responsibility to know his enemy. Knowing your enemy means conducting a brief analysis of the enemy, weather, and terrain to gain situational understanding (SU) of the enemy's most probable course(s) of action, his strengths, and his weaknesses. The end result of this analysis will be a sketch or graphic of the enemy's probable course(s) of action, a brief statement of enemy capabilities, and a determination of the commander's intelligence requirements. This sketch or graphic and statement provides a valuable tool for the commander and his subordinates in the planning and execution of their mission.

C-2. Intelligence Products. The majority of the analysis of the enemy is conducted and provided to the leaders by the commander. Through the intelligence battlefield operating system (BOS), he has access to an extensive array of collection systems, data, and current information. During the military decision-making process and the development of the unit's orders, this information has been analyzed and refined. The information is normally provided in paragraph 1a of the OPLAN or OPORD, graphics accompanying the order, the intelligence annex, and or periodic or situational updates provided in a graphic or written form. It is important to understand, however, that this information looks at the enemy from a broader perspective. It may not be precisely tailored to the level of detail desired or focus on the enemy attacking in the unit's AO or defending in its portion of the objective. This information is, however, the basis for the unit's order and the assignment of subordinate unit missions and tasks. It is the start point for the commander's analysis.

C-3. Brigade Commander Intelligence Analysis. It is the leader's responsibility to refine the information provided by higher headquarters and consider it in the context of his unit's mission. He adapts the information and situation template(s) (SITEMPs) or threat model(s) and intelligence preparation of the battlefield (IPB) products. With them he develops the tools and aids necessary for his own mission planning. The focus of his analysis should be to determine four critical factors:

- HOW WILL HE FIGHT? - How will the enemy attempt to execute his mission against us, OR how will the enemy attempt to prevent us from accomplishing our mission?
- WHAT CAN HE DO TO ME? - What are his strengths? How can we avoid or counter them?
- WHAT CAN I DO TO HIM? - What are his weaknesses or vulnerabilities? How can we exploit them? What can we maneuver against or shoot at? What actions or targets provide the highest pay-off?
- WHAT IS (ARE) MY PRIORITY INTELLIGENCE REQUIREMENTS (PIR)? - What do we need to know to successfully accomplish our mission with minimum expenditure or loss of resources?

This is a dynamic process. Every discovery, report, or new piece of information has the potential to create additional questions. The leader, however, has a limited amount of time for his analysis, planning, and preparation. He should conduct his initial analysis with the resources and information available. As new or additional information is developed and his SU is refined, he may alter the details of his OPLAN or OPORD.

C-4. How Will He Fight? The first step of the analysis should examine how the enemy would prefer to execute his mission. The enemy armed force being faced may have well-developed doctrine. It trains its soldiers and leaders to employ these tactics and techniques. A less sophisticated enemy force may have demonstrated a preference for organizational styles, specific tactics, or operating techniques. These tactics and techniques may have been documented in use against other armed forces or during previous engagements. Like the US Army, most forces train to conduct operations in a standard manner. These expected organizations, preferences, or actions provide the tools for doctrinal analysis. Realities of the battlefield must be added to the doctrinal analysis. These realities may include knowledge or assumptions about the enemy's current location, actual force composition, and strengths. Combining these factors provide an understanding of how he may fight in this engagement or situation.

a. Armies organize, equip and train to fight. Established armed forces tend to have defined force structures and adopt standard methods of conducting combat operations. Irregular forces also adopt organizational principles and methods; both train to execute them. A “doctrinal analysis” can be conducted with a basic understanding of the normal organization and tactics of an opposing force.

(1) For many established armed forces, the doctrine and tactics are meticulously documented. Doctrinal templates are or can be developed to provide a visual representation, to scale, of various tactical operations. Critical times, frontages, depths, objectives, deployment lines, and probable array of forces can be determined. For example, knowing that a motorized rifle regiment from a specific enemy will conduct an attack allows a full doctrinal template to be developed. This template or template set shows how the enemy intends to fight.

(2) The organizations, formations, or methods of irregular forces are also predictable. Total numbers of equipment, exact organization, and tactical proficiency may depend on availability and recruitment. Most military or paramilitary organizations adopt patterns. For example, the actual number of “technical vehicles” in a unit may vary based on the number of trucks or sport utility vehicles and heavy machine guns or antitank launchers available. Intelligence sources, however, may have confirmed that a company-sized unit generally has ten vehicles. Their preferred formation for movement is a file or staggered file with the chief or commander in the second vehicle and the deputy/second in command in the trail vehicle. Irregular forces generally adopt methods for other operations as well. Ambushes, kidnappings, bank robberies, and security for “safe houses” all take on details that are similar. These predictable techniques and tactics provide a “doctrinal template” for their actions.

(3) These doctrinal templates must be overlaid on the AO and adjusted for terrain and weather. This adjustment can be made using IPB products or map inspection and templates can be modified to account for actual conditions or constraints imposed by the terrain and weather conditions. For example, steep slopes, dense vegetation, stream beds, or marshes will alter standard formations and movement rates. Urban terrain imposes unique conditions. Salt flats dry from the sun may provide wide avenues for attack, while seasonal rains may limit attack frontages to a two-lane causeway. Weather conditions also have an impact on visibility, target tracking, and command and control. Dust or darkness has a major impact on forces with only a limited distribution of early generation night-vision or infrared systems. Forces with a broad distribution of night-vision and thermal systems may operate in darkness and limited visibility, much as they do in daylight. Once adjusted, these modified doctrinal templates assist in predicting how and where the enemy will deploy, formations he will assume, positioning of critical assets, command elements, rates of movement, and so forth.

(4) Given no other information, this modified doctrinal template can provide fair assessment of how the enemy force can be expected to conduct an operation. The examination of other information, however, can further refine the modified doctrinal templates.

b. Information on the composition, strength, capabilities, and disposition of the enemy may be available to the company and or team commander. Analysis of each of these factors can refine the leader’s SU and his template.

(1) A review of the composition of forces provides details of what the enemy can bring against the company. Composition may confirm the organization of enemy units and reveal the resources and units available to reinforce or support his operations. It may also reveal limitations of the force that can become vulnerabilities. For example, knowing that an attacking force has limited engineer breaching assets can make engineer efforts of greater value. The leader should consider forces by BOS and add to or remove elements from the modified doctrinal template as the result of his analysis.

(2) A review of the known strengths of enemy forces provides details of “how many” the enemy can muster against the platoon and or squad. Strengths may confirm the details concerning the probable number of combat systems - tanks, APC/ICVs, antitank launchers, artillery tubes, and infantry soldiers available to the enemy force. Percentages may need to be converted to actual numbers given the composition and known data on organizational figures. Significant shortages in tank/antitank systems, low-density engineer or air defense systems, and or infantry soldiers may prove to be exploitable vulnerabilities. The modified doctrinal template should be updated to reflect expected system densities.

(3) Review of enemy capabilities provides insight into what the enemy can do within the time frame of the company commander’s mission. For example, he may be capable of supporting his attack with chemical weapons, air strikes, or electronic warfare. While these capabilities are significant strengths, with appropriate precautions their effects can be mitigated. The enemy may have only limited offensive or reinforcement capability for a specific time. This time period could present both a window for prioritized preparation of the defense or an exploitable vulnerability to spoiling attacks. Few capabilities can be graphically depicted, but all should be considered.

(4) Enemy dispositions provide known locations of the enemy or enemy obstacles. While some units beyond your influence may only assist in confirming or adjusting your modified doctrinal template, others may become targets for reconnaissance, fires, or maneuver. In offensive planning, known dispositions may assist you in adjusting the accuracy of the template, determine probable locations for unlocated units, reserves, or counterattack forces. Dispositions may also identify vulnerabilities.

c. Using the resources provided in the intelligence portion of the OPLAN and or OPORD and additional analysis, the leader can create his SITEmps. It is important to consider that the enemy commander may have branches and sequels to his plan. He may have more than one plan. He may also employ deception. With these items considered, the commander now has graphic tools to support the development of his plan and for use in developing the SU of his subordinates.

C-5. What Can He Do To Me? The commander can use his SITEmp and known enemy capabilities to determine enemy strengths that he must avoid or counter. For example, speed may be essential in his attack. Knowing or templating disposition of enemy antitank systems can assist in development of suppression targets, smoke and obscurant plans, and or a probable line of deployment. In the defense, an extensive breaching and mine clearing capability may be frustrated by multiple small obstacles instead of one or two large mine fields. The leader's plan can avoid or negate enemy strengths.

C-6. What Can I Do To Him? Understanding and graphically depicting enemy weakness and vulnerabilities can improve the platoon's and or squad's execution of actions against them. The platoon and or squad leader may have already designated high pay-off targets (HPTs). The platoon and or squad leader should emphasize and supplement this list. Combat power can be focused to shoot or maneuver against enemy vulnerabilities, rapidly degrading the enemy's capabilities. Probable locations of HPTs and vulnerabilities should be added to the SITEmp.

C-7. WHAT IS (ARE) MY PIR? Development of the SITEmp provides an opportunity for the commander to determine what he knows about the enemy and what he needs to know. He should review the commander's PIR and any intelligence collection tasks assigned to his unit. His intelligence needs may be focused to specific locations, events, or times. The needs should be formulated into questions and forwarded as PIR to the battalion S2.

APPENDIX D

Digital Supplement

a. This appendix is a summary to introduce the Army battle command system (ABCS) with special emphasis on three systems: force XXI battle command brigade and below (FBCB2), maneuver control system (MCS), and all-source analysis system (ASAS) and their capabilities at the battalion level. This is only a synopsis; it is not intended to replace applicable field manuals, technical manuals, or any other how-to publication. Mission, enemy, terrain and weather, troops and support available, time available, and civil considerations (METT-TC) will drive the use of digital systems on the battlefield. This appendix is not intended to teach soldiers how to operate digital systems but rather how the systems, when used correctly, are a command and control combat multiplier and how they interact with other digital systems.

b. Digitization is the ongoing effort to integrate the Army's diversified battlefield operating systems (BOS) into an information exchange network while also enhancing the mission capabilities necessary in a multi-dimensional battlespace. The 21st century battlespace will be characterized by the effective use of information technology to mass the effects of dispersed firepower rather than relying exclusively on the physical massing of weapons and forces. Digitization provides rapid sharing of enemy and friendly information among all forces within the battlespace, and it enhances combat power by making combat forces more effective and survivable.

c. Digitization does not markedly change the way the unit plans and executes operations from a tactical perspective. However, digitized equipment, employed by highly trained and proficient soldiers, enhances the unit's capabilities to conduct operations with greater lethality, survivability, and better command and control. The digitized unit has enhanced capability to maneuver against the enemy and employ direct- and indirect-fire weapons systems. Digitization increases friendly and enemy situational information, reduces the risk of fratricide, and increases the accuracy of fires. In addition, digitization streamlines the battlefield planning process for the leader and allows an increased tempo of combat actions.

D-2. Army Battle Command System. ABCS provides for the interface of brigades and battalions with divisions and corps. ABCS is comprised of the MCS, ASAS, forward area air defense command, control, communications, and intelligence (FAADC3I), advanced field artillery tactical data system (AFATDS), combat service support control system (CSSCS), and FBCB2. ABCS depends on FBCB2 to provide current friendly and enemy situational understanding data and status information. All these systems have the capability to communicate with each other to provide the commander timely and accurate information enabling him to exercise command and control (C2). Each system is briefly addressed below:

a. MCS is the ABCS automation system for the maneuver BOS. At the brigade-level, planners use MCS-Light. MCS integrates the systems that comprise the ABCS and operates as the server. This integration improves the commander's situational understanding by providing enhanced and timely information, assisting in the direction and synchronization of subordinate and supporting units, and aids in the identification, analysis, comparison and selection of courses of action.

b. ASAS is the ABCS automation system for the intelligence BOS. ASAS facilitates the decision-making process by rapidly processing large volumes of combat information and intelligence data. This assists the S2 in making timely enemy assessments.

c. FAAD C2I is the ABCS automation system for the air defense BOS. It provides automated processing and dissemination of air tracking data. The air and missile defense workstation (AMDWS) is the hardware component used in the brigade CP.

d. AFATDS is the ABCS automation system for the field artillery BOS. AFATDS enables the maneuver commander to plan and attack using the optimal weapon-target pairing combinations. AFATDS provides integrated automated support for planning, coordinating, and controlling all fire support assets (field artillery, mortars, close air support, naval gunfire, attack helicopter, and offensive electronic warfare) and for executing counter fire, interdiction, and suppression of enemy targets.

e. CSSCS is the ABCS automation system for the combat service support BOS. FFCB2 is the primary digital system for collating and forwarding of CSS information to the S4's CSSCS in battalion-level combat units. CSSCS consolidates the information for the commander's use in the decision-making process. CSSCS assists the S4 in determining the current and projected capabilities of a force based on the availability of logistical support.

D-3. Other Digital Systems. Though not part of ABCS, there are several other digital systems that interface with the C2 systems of the battalion.

a. The mortar fire control system (MFCS) provides a digitized fire control system down to the gun level. The MFCS provides mortars with a GPS and collimator on the guns thus eliminating the need to optically lay a gun with an aiming circle. The MFCS is compatible with the AFATDS.

b. The joint surveillance target attack radar system (JSTARS) processes radar information, SIGINT reports, UAV video and telemetry, and secondary imagery from national sources. The current battle picture provided through the JSTARS common ground station (CGS) allows ground commanders to more effectively conduct intelligence reporting, battle management, and targeting.

c. The TROJAN SPIRIT system is an intelligence communications and dissemination system. It provides near real time access to national agencies. It provides tactical military intelligence (MI) units the reach-back connectivity into the joint worldwide intelligence communications system (JWICS) and the secure internet protocol router network (SIPRNET).

d. The digital topographic support system (DTSS) manages the digital topographic database for ABCS. It can provide automated terrain analysis, National Imagery and Mapping Agency (NIMA) digital database(s) updates, and commercial or national imagery inputs. DTSS can create image maps from scanned or digital imagery (for example, tactical unmanned aerial vehicles [TUAVs]) and can provide rapid reproduction of low-volume, large-format, full-color image maps, situation overlays, special graphics, and other topographic products.

e. The counter intelligence/human intelligence automated tools set (CHATS) provides digital support to HUMINT specialists. It interfaces with the ASAS and other MI systems. CHATS provides automation capability to collect, manage, receive, store, and export text, electronic data, digital imagery information, and prepare, process, and a secure means to disseminate standard messages.

f. The integrated meteorological system (IMETS) provides near real time weather data in order to conduct intelligence preparation of the battlefield (IPB).

g. Medical communications for combat casualty care (MC4) is a "family of systems" that automates medical record keeping at all echelons with computer-based medical applications and medical logistics support.

D-4. Tactical Internet (TI).

a. The TI systems are designed to provide real time shared situational understanding. The TI consists of tactical radios linked with routers using commercial protocols that allow digital systems to inter-operate in a dynamic battlefield environment. The TI provides the reliable, seamless communications connectivity to deliver situational and command and control (C2) data to digital systems.

b. The TI is comprised of two echelons, warfighter information network terrestrial (WIN-T) (or upper TI) and the lower TI. The upper TI and lower TI overlap both at the battalion and brigade level. The lower TI passes situational understanding and C2 data to the battalion and brigade TOCs by way of tactical data radios, enhanced position location reporting system (EPLRS). WIN-T passes situational understanding and C2 between command posts at battalion level and higher.

c. The lower TI provides digital communications capability for brigade and below. It is comprised of three primary components: EPLRS provides data-only communication (for example, platform position information, network coordination, and data communication) capability. The single-channel ground and airborne radio system (SINCGARS) provides data-only and voice/data communications capability. The internet controller (INC) provides routing and interface capability.

d. Currently, with the capability of frequency hopping, digital jamming rarely occurs. However, the enemy can degrade TI operations if he has the capability to jam a broad band of frequencies.

e. The unit's signal officer (S6) uses the TI manager with integrated system control (SYSCON) to exchange technical and operational details for network management at lower echelon networks.

D-5. Force XXI Battle Command, Brigade and Below.

a. The FBCB2 is a digital battle command information system that provides on-the-move, real-time command and control information to soldiers and leaders at all levels. The FBCB2 provides friendly and enemy situational understanding down to the platform level. Friendly and enemy data includes the user's location, the location of other friendly forces, observed enemy locations, and all known battlefield obstacles. FBCB2 consists of:

- Software for embedded battle command (EBC) systems in the tactical operations centers (TOCs).
- Hardware and software for non-embedded air and ground platforms.
- Supporting communication systems (SINCGARS and EPLRS).

b. The FBCB2 receives data across the TI by way of SINCGARS or EPLRS/ The data is then routed through the INC. The INC is a tactical router built into SINCGARS. The EPLRS data radio and SINCGARS data or voice radio transmit and receive digital information between vehicles. Each FBCB2 derives its own location by way of the precision lightweight global positioning system receiver (PLGR). Using these interfaces, the FBCB2 automatically updates and broadcasts its current location to all other FBCB2 and embedded battle command (EBC) platforms. The EBC is a separate software package that enables the FBCB2 platforms to share friendly and enemy situational understanding and C2 with battalion and brigade TOCs.

D-6. Maneuver Control System.

a. The MCS is the digital staff planning tool for the maneuver BOS. The MCS-light is the variant of the MCS used at the maneuver battalion level. The MCS-light application suite consists of interconnected tools designed to assist the commander and his planners in understanding the battlefield situation. These tools improve the commander's maneuver abilities by providing enhanced and timely information, assisting in the direction and synchronization of subordinate and supporting units, and aids in the identification, analysis, comparison, and selection of courses of action. MCS-light consists of:

- Software for text and data manipulation, overlay development, and staff planning tools.
- Notebook computer hardware.
- FBCB2/ABCS interfaces/integration.

b. The friendly and enemy situational understanding data for MCS-light is provided by FBCB2 systems. The TOC's local area network (LAN) receives this data by way of EPLRS and routes it to the MCS-light systems in the TOC. Data between TOCs goes by way of a near-term digital radio (NTDR) system. The NTDR is dedicated to transmitting and receiving digital information between ABCS components.

D-7. All-Source Analysis System.

a. The ASAS is the digital staff planning tool for the intelligence BOS. The ASAS-light is the battalion-level system. The ASAS-light is primarily a receiver of processed intelligence information and graphic IPB products from the brigade analysis control team (ACT) and division analysis control element (ACE). It also receives and processes initial intelligence reports and information from FBCB2 to maintain the enemy current situational database. It also forwards intelligence reports to the SBCT ACT/DIV ACE where it undergoes an all-source analysis and fusion before returning as fully correlated intelligence information. The ASAS-L includes a common map product, database, and communications to provide the common operational picture, planning and execution tools, common operations/intelligence database, and provides seamless exchanges up and down echelons.

b. The ASAS-light consists of a notebook computer with a select subset of the ASAS-heavy software capabilities and communications interfaces. ASAS-Light receives data across the TI by way of NTDR system. The NTDR is dedicated to transmit and receive digital information between ABCS components.

D-8. Advanced Field Artillery Tactical Data System. The AFATDS is the ABCS automation system for the field artillery BOS. AFATDS enables the maneuver commander to plan and attack using the optimal weapon-target pairing combinations. It provides a digital link between sensors, decision makers, and firing systems.

a. The AFATDS linkage with ASAS improves the targeting process due to the increased amount of intelligence and information that ASAS provides digitally. By using MCS and AFATDS, the development and deconfliction of fire support control measures reduces the planning time. AFATDS provides integrated automated support for planning, coordinating, and controlling all fire support assets (field artillery, mortars, close air support, naval gunfire, attack helicopter, and offensive electronic warfare) and for executing counter fire, interdiction, and suppression of enemy targets.

b. The battalion/squadron fire support element (FSE) has an AFATDS to provide digital linkage. The company/troop fire support team (FIST) has a lightweight computer unit (LCU) with forward observer systems (FOS) software digital linkage. Both are capable of communication with the battalion/squadron mortars as well as fire support assets available at the SBCT or higher levels.

D-9. Role-Based Functionality. Different battalion responsibilities place unique demands of FBCB2, MCS-Light, and ASAS-Light. All systems are designed to provide functionality based upon their configured role. Roles are configured into different categories for functionality:

- Individual vehicles.
- Tactical command post (TAC CP).
- Tactical operations center (TOC).
- Combat trains command post (CTCP).

D-10. Digital Battle Command.

a. The principles of command and control do not change with digitization. Leaders and staff still plan, direct, and control the operations of their units. Digital systems enhance the leader's ability to make timely and accurate battlefield decisions by providing a timely picture of the situation. One key benefit of the interaction between FBCB2, MCS-Light, and ASAS-Light is the common operational picture (COP). It allows the staff and leaders to have a shared, common view of the terrain, friendly forces, and enemy forces. Fighting on a digital battlefield requires mental agility that is acquired through realistic digital training.

b. The COP is a collection of data referenced to a geographical location and displayed on the screen of digital systems. The primary pieces of the COP are Blue Force, OPFOR, terrain, obstacle data, and civilian activities of military concern. What each user actually sees depends on how he sets up his system. The COP is established through settings and filters. The COP settings tell the system how often to update the network with the platform's position. They also dictate how long both Blue and OPFOR icons stay visible. The filters dialog box allows users to set which icons (unit type and echelon), overlays, labels, and geo-referenced graphics are displayed as part of the overall COP. Filter settings are a tool used to reduce screen clutter and simplify C2.

c. The MCS-Light and the ASAS-Light are used at the battalion level to assist in planning and preparing phases of the decision-making process for operations. They do not have the necessary functionality to assist leaders in the execution phase. Typical uses for these systems include:

- Processing mission planning information to and from higher HQ (OPORDs from MCS-Heavy).
- Developing mission messages for subordinates (OPORD messages via FBCB2).
- Displaying the common operating picture (same view as higher HQ).
- Displaying graphic planning tools (SITEMP, predictive enemy analysis, ISR, and collection plans).
- Developing graphic control measures for subordinates (overlay files by way of FBCB2).

d. The FBCB2 provides the tools that assist leaders in the execution phase of the decision making process. C2 data is defined as all data other than situational understanding data. There are several categories of C2 digital messages:

- Alerts and warnings (NBC reports, warnings of contaminated areas).
- Develop mission messages for subordinates (FRAGO messages).
- Display the common operating picture (same view as subordinates).
- Combat reporting (SITREP).

e. The FBCB2, the MCS-Light, and the ASAS-Light pass messages using the joint variable message format (JVMF). The JVMF is a DOD standardized message format.

D-12. Voice versus Digital. Commanders should not rely on digital communications alone. Digitization does not eliminate the requirement for maps, voice communications, and collaboration. The decision to use voice instead of digital depends on the situation, unit tactical standing operating procedures (TSOPs), and the combat environment. It is critical in the heat of combat to avoid assuming that just because a message is sent that it is received. Some message traffic should be sent digitally followed by a voice alert directing recipients to check their message queues.

a. Voice radios remain the critical communications medium in executing the close fight and coordinating time sensitive actions. They are more responsive and direct person-to-person communications are shown to be the most effective means of developing and sharing correct group situational understanding. Multiple stations can monitor the net, and parties convey emotion during the transmission—a critical tool in assessing and understanding the battlefield situation. Voice communication is critical for rapidly passing FRAGOs and unit cross talk. Voice reports may also be required for reporting friendly unit strength and activity. Remember, digital traffic does not convey emotion, urgency, or non-verbal cues.

b. Voice radio is recommended as the primary means of communication for:

- Initial contact and or spot reports.
- Coordinating operations when in contact or moving.
- Calls for fire (CFF) on targets of opportunity; particularly moving targets.
- Subsequent adjustment of fires on planned and unplanned targets.
- Urgent medical evacuation (MEDEVAC) requests.
- Enemy air.

c. Digital messaging, though greatly improved, is still somewhat cumbersome and cannot be executed by units engaged in the close fight. At some point in every combat operation, companies revert to voice as the primary medium for reporting and C2. This does not mean that the need to continue to send digital messages goes away; it just shifts to other leaders on the battlefield. This shift is planned before beginning the operation. This shift in communications and defining who picks up the responsibility for digital reporting is outlined in the TSOP or may need to be specified in a specific OPORD. It may occur at a prescribed time, in conjunction with specified battlefield events, on order, and or relative to the SU picture. The SU picture that FBCB2/MCS/ASAS provides reduces the normally extensive volume of voice traffic, which is associated with tracking friendly forces, thus making more time available on the net to coordinate operations. Digital communications may extend beyond FM range due to FM limitations.

- d. Digital communication is recommended for:
- Enemy spot reports (creates network-wide icon).
 - NBC-1 report (creates network-wide icon): FM follow-up.
 - Transmitting orders and graphics.
 - Routine reporting (status, log, personnel reports).
 - Planned calls for fire by designated observers.
 - Logistic calls for support.

D-13. Digital Tactics, Techniques, and Procedures (TTP).

a. Orders. FBCB2 orders have a single-format free text. Additionally, FBCB2 orders have size constraints for each field. These limits can easily accommodate company/platoon OPORDs, but the voluminous orders frequently created at brigade level cannot be handled effectively. FBCB2 cannot handle matrix formats, unique matrices like decision, support, execution, and fire support matrices. Therefore, orders received and developed must be manipulated to interface with FBCB2. Some of the character limitations and constraints leaders must keep in mind while writing OPORDs with FBCB2 are:

- Situation – 4,000 characters.
- Mission – 2,000 characters.
- Commander's Intent – 2,000 characters.
- Execution – 6,000 characters.
- Comments – 200 characters.
- Service Support – 6,000 characters.
- Command and Signal – 2,000 characters.
- Annexes – 6,000 characters.

b. Digital Displays. The display on digital C2 systems can be tailored to show up to four distinct layers of information:

- The Map Display. It constitutes the basic information the soldier needs to maneuver on the battlefield.
- The SU Display. SU elements are graphical objects such as platform icons, unit symbols, or objects that are automatically displayed on the screen. The filter function of the system allows the users to de-clutter the screen of SU elements based on currency, dimension, type, and affiliation, by toggling these elements on or off based on the unit's TSOP.
- Loaded Overlays. The third layer is composed of overlays that have been previously saved to the system and are now loaded so they can be viewed in the SU area. These loaded overlays layer themselves like sheets of acetate over the map display and the SU icons. A maximum of 12 overlays can be loaded for viewing at any time. Overlays display symbols and are sent and saved as C2 messages. Overlays elements are not SU. They do not update or go stale or old.
- Current Overlay. The final layer consists of any overlay currently being created or edited.

c. Overlays. Digital systems assist in C2 through the creation and transmission of digital graphics. Digital graphics provide excellent graphical control measures applied in battlespace management. Simplicity is the rule for effective digital graphics. Simplicity reduces file size, screen clutter, transmission time, and the volume of digital traffic. While FBCB2 provides 19 different types of overlays, the most commonly used overlays are the following:

- Current operations.
- Operations.

d. Digital Messaging. Message handling procedures should be directed by unit TSOPs. Standard message management procedures reduce confusion and extra work. Message management includes:

- Message/overlay naming conventions.
- Filing procedures.
- Message precedence.
- Message use.

e. Pre-Combat Checks. Pre-combat checks (PCCs) are a critical part of a unit's combat readiness. PCCs should be standardized and part of unit TSOP's. Some suggested PCCs for a digital unit are:

- Clear all unnecessary message queues and logs.
- Correct "Own Platform Settings."
- Correct Blue and OPFOR filter settings (check unit TSOP).
- Correct COMSEC fills on comms systems.
- Correct GPS, SINCGARS, and or EPLRS fills and settings.
- Correct map settings.
- Correct orders and overlays.
- Correct unit task organization (UTO) version.
- Correct commanders tracked item list (CTIL) version.
- Personnel status (PERSTAT) report updated.
- MEDEVAC call signs and frequency set in "Platform Setting Dialog Box."
- Message address groups set – not left at default settings.
- Message files and folders established. (for example, orders, overlays).
- Message transmission settings for all message types set (multicast versus unicast).
- Perform a digital and voice communications check by verifying your server.

D-14. Land Warrior System.

a. The land warrior system (LWS) is a modular, integrated fighting system for individual infantrymen. The LWS includes everything the dismounted soldier wears and carries integrated into a close combat fighting system that enhances his awareness of the friendly and enemy situation, lethality, and survivability. LWS is intended for use by all five types of infantry: ranger, airborne, air assault, light, and mechanized. The LWS integrates the dismounted infantryman into the Army's digitized battlefield network. The LWS is composed of five integrated subsystems:

- Weapon subsystem.
- Integrated helmet assembly subsystem.
- Computer/radio subsystem (CRS).
- Software subsystem.
- Protective clothing and individual equipment subsystem.

b. The LWS provides a digital battle command information system that provides on-the-move, real-time command and control information to infantrymen and their leaders. As with FBCB2, the LWS provides Blue Force and OPFOR situational data.

c. The LWS receives data using the GPS. Using this interface, the LWS automatically updates and broadcasts its current location to other digital platforms.

Combined Arms Training Strategy

The Army's overarching strategy for the current and future training of the force. Its basis is a series of branch proponent unit and institutional strategies describing training events, frequencies, and resources required to train to standard. These strategies describe how the Army will train the total force to standard in the institutions and unit and through self development. CATS also documents the quantity, and justification for all training resources required to execute the training. See "Training strategy. "
