They were hunting elephants in India, along the grassy banks of a small river. One of the hopeful new hunters turned to the guide eagerly.

"How do we detect the presence of an elephant?" he asked.

The guide looked at him scornfully, then whispered, "By the odor of peanuts on his breath!"

"We can't be responsible for any valuables unless you check them with the manager!"

It was one of those days when there was nothing doing in the branch bank in a small western town; not a customer all day. The staff had got through the monotony somehow, with coffee and talk, until it was time to close.

"Three o'clock!" said the manager, briskly. "Run and close the door, Jim."

The junior returned in a few moments and said, "Excuse me, sir, it's closed. We forgot to open it this morning!"

An irate woman, seeking a divorce, told the judge: "My husband never thinks of anything but horse racing. That's all he talks. The track is the only place he goes. From morning to night it's horses, horses, horses. Why he doesn't even remember our wedding date!"

"That's a lie, judge!" shouted the husband. "We were married the day Twenty Grand won the Kentucky Derby!"

A black and white photograph of a woman with dark hair, wearing a light-colored bikini, sitting in a wicker chair. She is holding a cup to her lips and drinking. The background shows a window with a view of a balcony and a framed picture on the wall.

"But why," asked the lady of her new cook, "did you leave your last job?"

"'Cause the mister used to have such rows with his mis-sus," answered the cook.

"What did they quarrel about?" asked the lady.

"Well," replied the maid hesitating, "the way the meals were cooked!"

"It was a package deal. I had to take her mother for 5 years to get her!"

Then the third woman said, "Why don't you? She did!"

A plane was flying low over some mountainous areas near Athens. From one of the windows a girl tourist peered quizzically, then called the stewardess.

"What's that stuff on those hills?" she asked.

"That's snow," came the reply.

"Well," said the girl, "that's what I thought, but the man in the front seat told me it was grease!"

Mabel: "A handsome man forced his way into my room last night and I had to call a bellhop."
