Subtle...sleek... and utterly sensuous

Our clothing buyer's wife discovered this saucy black nightgown. He reports it's done wonders for their marriage. And, always the businessman, he followed up by contacting the manufacturer. Result: you can now own one for several dollars less than others have paid.

But price is only part of the story. This elegant nightgown is deeply slashed, then inset with panels of revealing nylon.

You'll look and feel like a vamp. He'll be excited by the long, long flash of leg and thigh . . . the tantalizing hint of bodice and breast. Wear it for those special evenings together, to set a very special mood.

We've seen this stunning nightgown offered for $15 and $16—and at those prices, it's still a bargain. Due to our buyer's shrewd negotiating, we're offering it for just $12.95 (two for $21.95).

Comes in midnight black, made of soft and slinky nylon throughout. Sizes small, medium, and large.

Frankly, at $12.95, we expect to be deluged with orders. So we'll fill them on a strictly first-come-first-served basis. The moral? Order early and don't lose out.

Oh yes. We'll gladly refund your money (except for shipping and handling) if you're not thrilled with your sleek and sensuous nightgown in every way.

"Out of my super-reducing Slim-Skins™ and into my bikini ...over 14 inches slimmer in just 25 minutes!"

MY SLIM-SKINS EXPERIENCE:

"A date for the beach, a gorgeous new bikini - and some sneaky excess inches. And no magic wand to wave them away. Then someone gave me a pair of Slim-Skins and told me to try them. I zipped into them, did the 10 minutes of rhythmic motions and the 15 minutes of lovely relaxing. Then, after just 25 total minutes, I popped out of the Slim-Skins - suddenly, sensationally, over 14 inches slimmer. Who needs a magic wand as long as Slim-Skins are around?"

IN ALL THE WORLD ONLY THE USERS OF SLIM-SKINS ARE ACHIEVING RESULTS LIKE THESE: From coast to coast hundreds of thousands of users, like Cheri Drake, are discovering that Slim-Skins is indeed the world's fastest slenderizer taking off excess inches up to 7 times faster than diet pills, crash diets or any other method they have ever tried.

DOCTOR TESTED. Over 4" from each thigh - 8" from tummy - 7" from waist - and 3½" from hips: these are just some of the fantastic inch losses achieved by Slim-Skins users in just one to three days on a special slimming test conducted by a prominent American physician: losses 7 times faster than the diet pills or the leading 'fat burn' diet.

FANTASTIC INCH LOSS WITHOUT DIET. Developed in Europe, the sensational Slim-Skins are now achieving slenderizing results far beyond the scope of other reducing products. And Slim-Skins takes off the excess inches where you need to lose them, without dieting - and won't leave you with loose, flabby skin as 'crash diets' do. With Slim-Skins, as you lose, your body becomes tighter, firmer and more shapely - the inches stay off. And yet the Slim-Skins work so amazingly fast that you can actually measure the difference in just 25 minutes.

INCHES DISAPPEAR OR YOUR MONEY BACK. Slim-Skins is a new slenderizing concept that combines with your own vacuum cleaner to create a super new inch reducer so far ahead of its time that it reduces excess inches 7 times faster than 'crash diets'. Just step into the Slim-Skins, snap the attached hose to your vacuum cleaner with the universal adapter - which fits any make vacuum cleaner - and turn on your machine. Instantly the Slim-Skins seem to come alive with a delightful reducing action on every single inch of your body from beltline to knees. Not every user may experience the same degree of inch loss but you must lose a total of 9 to 18 inches from your waist, abdomen, hips and thighs in just 3 days or your money back.

"Slim-Skins is the world's fastest way to get your figure in perfect shape for your bikini... Over 2½" off my waist, 4" off my tummy, more than 2" off my hips and nearly 3" off each thigh - for a figure that was so much firmer, shapelier, sexier - and over 14 inches trimmer - all in just 25 minutes."

Instant Inches™ for your Summer Bosom.

2 INCHES THE FIRST DAY! 3 INCHES THE FIRST WEEK!

The Mark II Double Guarantee. In all the world only the users of the Mark II are getting results like these... In all the world only Mark Eden Mark II can make this incredible guarantee. While not every woman may achieve these gains, as results may vary due to individual response and application, you can absolutely count on this: no matter what your rate of physical response; no matter how difficult, stubborn or discouraging your bustline problem is; even though you have been flat chested all your life, you must see a visible improvement on your bust—it must look fuller and rounder—the very first time you use the Mark Eden Mark II with IVR and you must add up to 3 or more inches on your bust the very first week or your money back.

In all the world only the users of the Mark Eden MARK II™ with IVR™ are achieving results like these.

You can actually watch your bustline grow. Only Mark II has IVR—the most incredible advancement in bust developing. IVR stands for "Infinitely Variable Resistance." It means that there are no limitations as to what every Mark II motion does for your bosom—every movement culminates into optimum size and shape. So for the first time in history you can see your bust changing right before your eyes as you gain up to 2 inches the very first day!

Mark Eden Mark II – the only bust developer that actually develops the bustlines women want. A recent comparison test was made on the many consumer products that claim to develop the bust or bustline. With one exception these products gave only minimal results, did not work at all or developed the back, the arm or other parts that women were not interested in developing. The one exception was Mark Eden. Only Mark Eden consistently produced rapid and dramatic improvements in the size, shape, lift and firmness of the bust – in molding the round, full, shapely bosoms that all women want when they think of developing their bustlines.

Read what the users of Mark II say:

"I saw my bustline grow right before my eyes...over 4 full inches in just one week... with the Mark II. I was totally amazed at how rapidly my cup size increased and how, suddenly, my bust was really shapely – and firm – and high – and full – everything it took to look great in my bikini!"

Sandy Parker, Newport

"You have no idea what it's like to spend your life buying clothes that highlight some other part of your body because you've got a so-so bust. Suddenly there was the Mark II. You can't believe how it feels to add two inches the very first day and five inches the first 10 days. I wake up a different person now."

STAR TIME

By Jacquie Eastlund

ARIES

The good some of you have desired has teased, taunted and eluded you so far. Take heart, though, for after the 16th, you will be well on your way to realizing your goal. You may have to make major decisions this month regarding marriage (whether or not to), job offers or a possible relocation to another part of the country. Legal papers are brought to your attention now. Read them before signing on the dotted line. Your emotions could get in the way of your intelligence during the full moon, but after the 28th, life will be much happier and less tense.

TAURUS

Disappointments are in store for some of you around the 6th of the month. Think before you speak, otherwise there may be a serious break in a close, personal relationship. Cut all of the negative factors which keep you in a state of confusion and anxiety out of your life. Many of you will be pulling up stakes and starting over in a new home or locale. This could come as a complete surprise. However, it could also turn out to be a wonderful opportunity. With that Midas touch of yours, money can be made through your creative talents and hobbies. Go to it!

GEMINI

Jupiter, who rules your house of marriage, is finely aspected right now. There are warm, loving ties in your marriage and personal relationships. You are able to speak all of the tender words you have felt in your heart, but somehow never expressed, to that special someone. Money should be better this month. Keep thinking positively and it will pay-off. Fate steps in on the 12th of the month and you win that church raffle or any other contest you recently entered. One way or another, the gasoline crunch is not hurting you. You manage to get to wherever you want to go.

CANCER

Important papers, communications, litigations and contracts are all very important this month. Many of you will experience a sudden awakening or realization and will have to come to grips with it. This may cause you to make drastic decisions around the new moon on the 6th, which, in turn, could lead you to break longterm relationships with important people. Think first. Don't allow your feelings to get out of control. Impulsive actions at this time could result in a lot of anguish in the near future. Your money situation will improve during the next few months. Wait until then to splurge. Make a real effort to achieve your dreams, for they can indeed come true.

VIRGO

You have every reason to pat yourself on the back this month. Your willing cooperation with others has saved the day. Just keep up the good work. A spouse, lover or friend needs that sunny smile of yours, as well as your emotional support. Your kindness will be rewarded at a later date—both for yourself and those involved. There may be a major move for some around the full moon on the 6th. It will be hectic, but stay calm. Romance is accentuated. That once in a lifetime relationship can very well be yours. Enjoy!

LEO

A sudden, wonderful romance could happen at any moment. You're ready, the stars are compelling and it looks like it could last a long, long time—maybe even forever. The choice is yours. Money—that beautiful green stuff that has been eluding you lately—is finally making its way right into your pocket. You'll notice that things come easier to you after the 18th. Be careful not to offend anyone around the 13th. Occasionally, you sting without actually meaning to. All sorts of surprises are in order now. Some of you are thrown into the limelight, bringing much prestige and credibility.

Don't be a slave to your razor. ZIP off unsightly hair for months.

With ZIP-wax, you get as much as 60 hair-free days, instead of the three or four days you get with a razor, without razor nicks or stubble.

ZIP is the same natural beeswax for which the finest salons charge up to $50. Yet it costs only $2.19. ZIP actually discourages regrowth of hair, because ZIP doesn't just slice off the top of the hair. It removes hair from under the skin, weakening the root.

It's your choice. Keep shaving and shaving and shaving. Or use long-lasting, hair-discouraging ZIP.

If you can't find ZIP in your local store, send $2.50 (includes postage) and we'll send you a 3.3 oz. package of ZIP with complete instructions for use.

LIBRA

You should pay strict attention to your health this month. Get that much needed, but long overdue, checkup. Use common sense. Get plenty of fresh air and exercise. Stay away from sugar, salt and alcohol. Saturn, in your twelfth house now, may dampen your spirits or put some kind of restriction on personal relationships. Neptune doesn't help matters either, giving you a whole bunch of vague, restless feelings. The best thing to do is to climb above it all. Try to remember that you are in charge.

SCORPIO

Toss your negative thoughts, anxiety and emotional confusion aside. If you don't, it will only hurt you and keep you from enjoying a lot of marvelous things. The week of the 19th brings good times your way. An old friend, or possibly someone you have secretly admired, comes into your life. Money matters are highlighted on or about the 6th, making your life pretty special for a while. Work situations are of prime importance this month. There could be a conflict with a boss or other superior. Think before you speak. Otherwise, you will be very sorry. Something you have wanted for a long time is finally yours. The new moon on the 21st heralds a happy period.

SAGITTARIUS

You will feel financial pressures this month. Go easy on spending for a while. Start building a nest egg. It will come in handy later on. Your stars impose a restraint of some kind on you. You may even feel that you have to give up something you want, but for a reason. What you gain will be so much better. However, these pressures will die quickly as the month nears its end. You have an opportunity to broaden your horizons about the time of the new moon on the 21st. Take advantage of every door that opens. A new way of life is offered.

CAPRICORN

Travel—short and long trips—is absolutely indicated and some of these excursions may even be of the honeymoon kind. Wedding bells will ring for some of you, but love and romance are winging their way to all. The full moon on the 6th makes you heady. Use caution while driving during this time to avoid needless encounters. You may end up in the limelight this month. Socially, you should have the best time ever. Invitations pour in from everywhere. Enjoy. You deserve it.

AQUARIUS

This month almost everyone you have ever known gets in touch with you. Why, you can't even walk down the street without bumping into somebody from your past. Romance has eluded a few of you, but don't worry. Your turn is coming. You're getting closer to making a final commitment, which will immediately change your status from single to married. That important job change is yours now, too. Splurge a bit and get that spectacular new wardrobe. You will definitely need it in the weeks ahead. After the 26th, tongues wag, but don't give them a second thought.

PISCES

It's time to come face to face with yourself. Be introspective. You'll like the change that you find. Good news comes after the 8th—maybe an inheritance, a long overdue debt paid, a proposal from that special guy or gal. Money is very important. Tie up all loose ends. There is a possibility of an argument with an old and dear acquaintance. Stop and think. Don't allow yourself to overreact and ruin a great friendship. The full moon on the 6th rewards you with all sorts of wonderful things. Be careful to avoid the loss of your purse or wallet during the week of the 16th. All in all, though, it will be a good month.

COFFEE, TEA OR VIVARIN?

There are times when nothing beats sitting down and having a cup of hot coffee or tea. Particularly first thing in the morning. It tastes good and gives you a lift.

But if, as the day wears on, you sometimes find yourself having a cup of coffee or tea just for the lift, you should know about Vivarin.

Vivarin is a gentle pick-me-up. The active ingredient that makes Vivarin so effective is the caffeine of two cups of coffee squeezed into one easy to take tablet. And a Vivarin tablet is more economical than two cups of coffee, and requires no preparation.

So when you want a lift, take Vivarin. It's convenient, inexpensive, easy to take, and it really works.

Read label for directions.

Today's Stars...and Tomorrow's Superstars

Two of Leif Garrett's biggest fans wrote "Please, can we meet Leif?" 370,000 times and he, naturally, made their wish come true.

The Waltons' Judy Norton-Taylor got a hug from co-star Jon Walmsley, following his sold-out concert at L.A.'s Palomino Club.

Despite an earlier effort to go "straight", Alice Cooper was up to his old tricks at a recent performance in San Diego, Calif.

Lenny (Michael McKean) and Squiggy (David Lander) have just recorded an album of rock music and it's already a smash.

For fans bemoaning the cancellation of ABC's Battlestar Galactica, there is some consolation. If you should find yourself in southern California this summer, Universal Studios is including a special effects attraction called "The Battle Of Galactica" on its tour.

TONY DANZA has been getting quite a ribbing from his Taxi co-stars about his stunning first-round knockout victory in his boxing match at New York's Madison Square Garden this spring, but it's all been in fun. Unfortunately, though, there are a few guys out there, whose ladies are so anxious to meet Tony when they spot him socially around Hollywood, that they want to challenge him—not in the ring, but in an alley!

SCOTT BAIO wrapped up his senior year of high school the hard way—on the road. First, Scott joined LANCE KERWIN on location in Wisconsin for their TV movie, The Boy Who Drank Too Much. Then, once production was completed, he and his parents paid a short visit back in Brooklyn. All the while, however, Scott had to hit the books so he could graduate on time and enter college this fall.

If you can believe DONNA PESCOW, every guy in her life these days is just a good friend. At least, that's what she says about both MARK HARMON and ROBERT HAYS. She's been more or less splitting her time between them, but if either of the two has an inside edge, it's got to be Bob. After all, he does play her husband on Angie.

The two men, who tried to extort an estimated $20,000 from JUDY NORTON-TAYLOR of The Waltons by threatening to blow-up her car with dynamite, have pleaded guilty and face a possible imprisonment of up to three years. Even so, Judy is still more than a bit nervous whenever she has to drive.

Just when KRISTY McNICHOL's popularity in Europe began to peak, all of the continent's teens suddenly discovered her brother, JIMMY. Ironically, now it's Jimmy who is high atop the charts. Meanwhile, back home, Jimmy is spending endless hours preparing for his own new TV series, We're Cruisin'. Apparently, he's quite anxious to have the show stay on the air for a while and is doing everything he possibly can to make sure it does. Kristy, on the other hand, is taking it easy, having just finished her first feature film, Little Darlings, with TATUM O'NEAL.

Pretty VALERIE BERTINELLI hasn't found it easy playing the field again in the aftermath of her breakup with long-time boyfriend, SCOTT COLOMBY. The two first met when Scott guest-starred on One Day At A Time and were absolutely inseparable until just recently. Now, Val doesn't know what to do with all that spare time on her hands and it's totally unnerving her. She's always been the first to admit that she likes having a steady guy in her life.

It's not comon knowledge that Dukes Of Hazzard star, JOHN SCHNEIDER, was the object of barbs and one-sided fistfights because he was fat as a teen. In fact, John confides that he once weighed 225 pounds! Furthermore, he says that when he was eight-years-old, he looked 14 and when he was 14, he looked 20. Why, even his older brother used to tease him about it. Finally, though, John got plain tired of being picked on and lost 50 pounds within two months time. Since then, he has slimmed down even more and successfully kept all of the weight off.

GREG EVIGAN doesn't talk about it too much, but he had to go to school to learn how to drive the semi-truck and trailer that he wheels around in on B.J. And The Bear. The reason for Greg's silence is the time the truck skidded on some ice and came within a whisker of going over a cliff, before plowing through a snow bank and coming to a stop only a few inches from a huge tree!

Shawn Stevens of The McKenzies Of Paradise Cove is television's new teen idol. He's so handsome, it's no wonder at all.

It all happened while a scene was being filmed, so you're sure to see it on the screen sometime soon.

QUINN CUMMINGS says that one of the best things about becoming a teenager is that she was finally able to tell her mom, Jan, that she doesn't like wearing dresses. Recently, however, Quinn's been making some public appearances at which it was only proper that she dress up. Well, she did, but the Family co-star couldn't wait to get home and back into jeans or shorts. □

FAMILY FIGHTS LATEST ATTACKS ON ELVIS

There seems to be no rest for Elvis Presley. Even in death, he is still a victim of fame and fortune, of unmerciful attacks that are blatantly indifferent to the pain and suffering of his family. The agony of the past 24 months—ever since Elvis was found dying in his private bathroom at Graceland—has taken a heavy toll on the entire Presley clan, but most noticeably on his father, Vernon, who has been twice hospitalized in Memphis with heart trouble. He, as well as Elvis' other surviving relatives, are terribly distraught over the schemes of outsiders who have been preying on Elvis' memory for the last two years. Then, of course, there is Lisa Marie, Elvis' only child and the love of his life. The attacks have virtually forced her and her mother, Priscilla, to live a life shrouded in secrecy.

During the early period of grief, Elvis' family chose to ignore and dismiss the wretched people who thoughtlessly took advantage of the sorrowful time. The loss of Elvis was so immense that there was little emotional strength left to fight back. That, however, is now changing. The family's patience in witnessing the rip-offs and imitations is waning and Pris herself is leading the counterattack by offering a simple plea—"Let him rest in peace!"

It all began within days of Elvis' demise, when Red and Sonny West, two of his closest friends and bodyguards for more than a decade, penned a book about their life with the King, in which they claimed that he was heavy into drugs. In fact, just hours after Elvis' final breath, they had already arranged a press conference in Los Angeles to offer their explanation as to what had killed the man—namely, drugs. Predictably, their comments made headlines everywhere and brought them a considerable royalty check from their publisher as well.

The first of many, the attacks continued with the advent of Elvis impersonators, who even today continue to thrive on the vulnerability of a curious public. Roddy McDowell, for one, uses his impression as part of his own successful country-and-western singing act. Others, though, tour the country, sometimes appearing within walking distance of the Las Vegas Hilton, where Elvis became a legend, and profess adulation for the King. They simply perform his songs and make no effort whatsoever to establish a career on their own.

Meanwhile, Vernon's second wife, who knew Elvis only a short time, plans to have her own book published, as does a secretary who worked at the Graceland offices. Of course, not all that is printed is disrespectful. But, even so, little of it is done with the Presley family's knowledge.

Elvis' life is also being theatrically chronicled for both the small and big screens. Dick Clark's made-for-TV presentation, Elvis, starring Kurt Russell, took a whole year to produce and, aside from the assistance of Charley Hodge, one of Elvis' old back-up musicians, no member of the immediate family was ever consulted. Colonel Tom Parker called his portrayal in the film "a bit far-fetched", while Pris only said that it was "okay".

Currently, three additional films are being prepared, all of which will supposedly tell Elvis' true life story. One features Sylvester Stallone's brother, Frankie, as Elvis. Frankie is, at least, a professional singer, but it is a distinct possibility at this point that Colonel Tom Parker's version will star Sly Stallone himself, despite the fact that the actor couldn't carry a tune even if his life depended on it. And Ginger Alden, Elvis' last girlfriend, is working in conjunction with Ed Parker, Elvis' former karate instructor, on a third film biography.

Pris was the only woman Elvis really and truly loved. The day daughter Lisa was born was the happiest of his life.

THE SECRET IN ERIK ESTRADA'S LIFE— THE CHILDREN HE WON'T TALK ABOUT!

Erik recently went back to his old alma mater, Brandeis High School in New York's Spanish Harlem, for a tearful reunion with principal, Murray A. Conn (left) and former teacher, Juanita Holder (right). Below, present students greeted him and were just thrilled to have their idol come and talk to them.

Erik Estrada makes no secret of the fact that he enjoys the limelight and the publicity that has come his way as a result of his lifestyle and his part on TV's CHiPs. As he puts it: "It's a struggle out there—a battle—and baby, no one is going to look out for you, but you. I mean, if you don't get out there and toot your own horn, who will?" It's a realistic approach. To be sure, Erik has been a bit unorthodox in his means of promoting the series and himself. But, no one can argue the fact that his efforts have brought results.

Still, as much a public figure as Erik is, he nevertheless cherishes his private moments, those few hours when he is a homebody and has no one for company but himself while he studies a new script, catches a favorite program on the tube or slips out of town to his own special hideaway. Likewise, there are facets of his life that he prefers not to talk about, that he feels is nobody else's business.

FRIENDS PREDICT
BELLS

Pam Dawber and Chris Reeve, a twosome? You bet! And, they haven't been so secretive about it either! Recently, they've been seen dining in a secluded corner of Joe Allen's, a famous Los Angeles eaterie, holding hands and whispering sweet nothings into each other's ears, and dancing up a storm at quite a few Hollywood parties. Why, he's even visited her on the Mork And Mindy set and one anonymous source claims to have spotted him entering Pam's apartment one night. Could this be the year's hottest love affair? Well, from the look of things, it certainly seems that way—and, why not? Both are eligible and friends are indeed predicting that wedding bells will ring for the couple very soon.

The perplexing part of the situation, though, is that neither Pam nor Chris is saying anything about their relationship—not even a “No comment” here and there. Perhaps, they're just biding time and want to wait and see where it will lead them. Then, too, both are rather marriage shy and have been linked with other people besides.

Of late, Chris has been living with 27-year-old Gae Exton, who is a professional models' agent, even though she is pretty enough to be one herself. They met while Chris was at Pinewood Studios in England filming Superman and hit it off immediately. Gae, in fact, was downright smitten by the Man of Steel. And, so much so that when she was asked about her feelings for him, she couldn't help but gush: “To me, Chris is the best. He's better than Superman. You wouldn't be living with a guy that you didn't love.”

Chris, on the other hand, has tried to keep Gae in the background somewhat, explaining that if a lot of publicity surrounded their relationship, it would probably ruin it. He doesn't particularly relish the thought of living in a goldfish bowl and it was Gae's down-to-earth attitude that attracted him to her in the first place.

“She's not impressed by show business and thinks that most show business people are simple-minded fools,” he reveals. “But, she doesn't feel that I fit the mold. What I look for in people is an interest in me—a belief in me. And, what's really great about Gae is that even if the critics nailed me to the floor, she would never see it as a judgment of me. She wouldn't think it was my fault. She'd like me anyway. When someone comes along and says, 'I'm not here to judge you', you can relax. That's a very nice feeling.”

Of course, the question of marriage has come up several times during interviews, but Chris will only say, “I don't think so. What we have is nice and easy, rather than consuming.” Actually, though, at this moment, marriage for Chris and Gae is out of the question simply because Gae is not officially divorced from her first husband, British tool manufacturer David Iveson. And, “there are no plans for a divorce yet,” he's stated. “But, I expect we'll get around to it. I saw Gae only a few weeks ago and she told me she was off to Los Angeles with Chris. I wished her luck.”

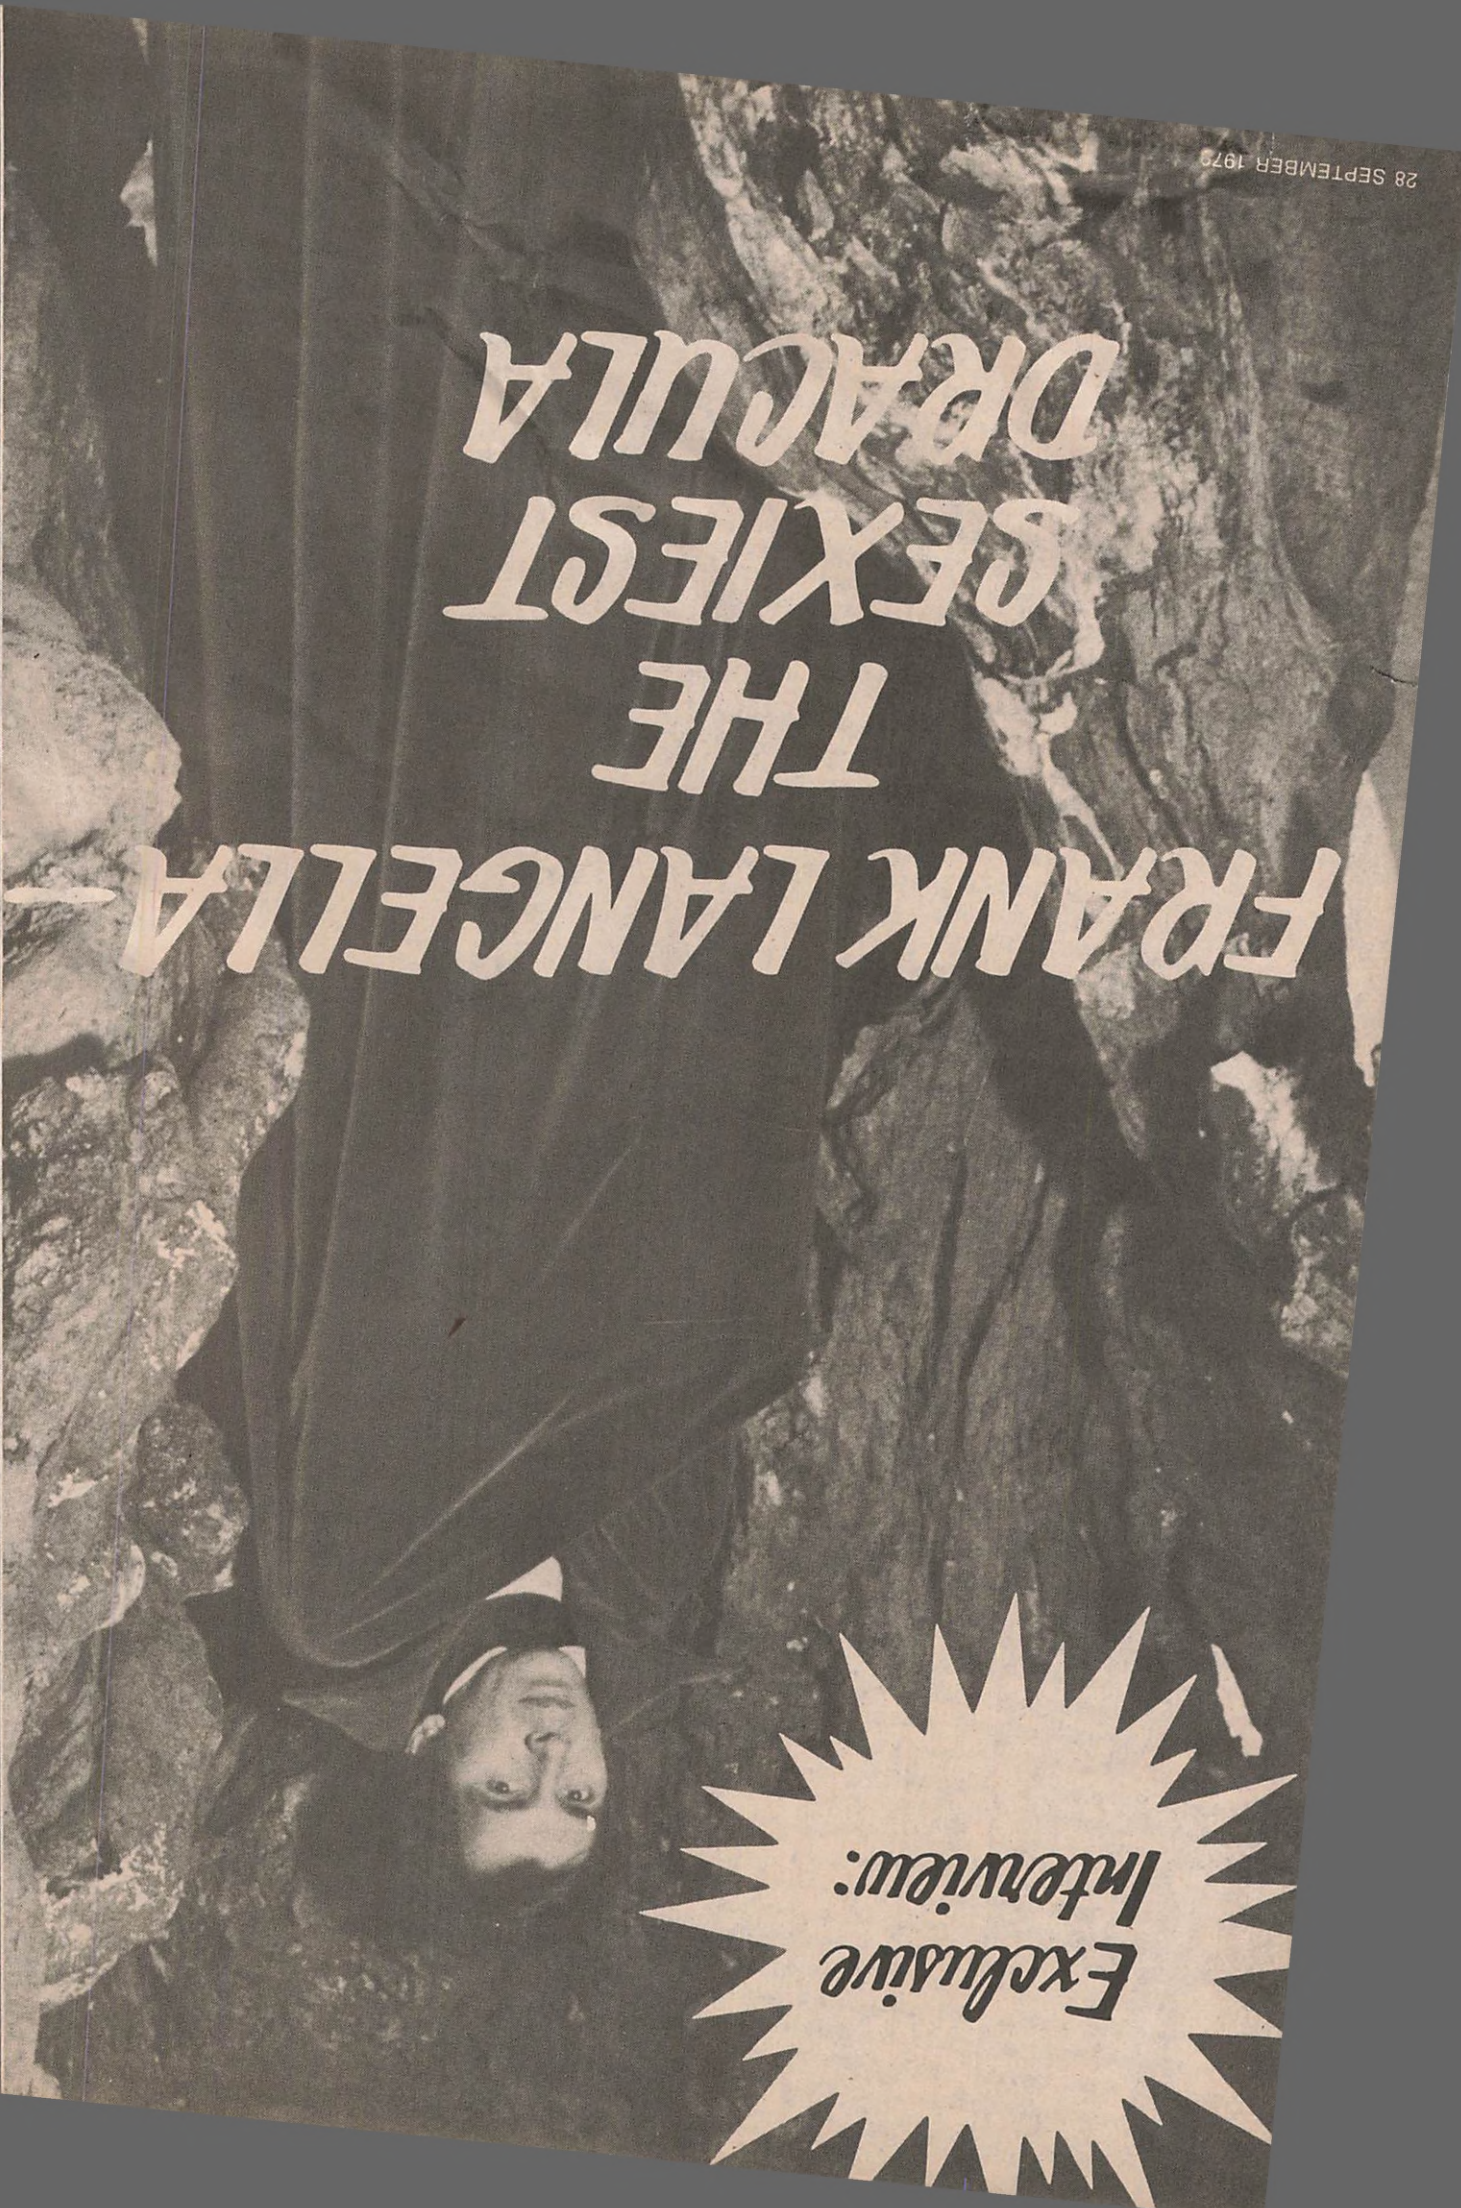

Iveson, however, is not the only stumbling block. Marriage, it seems, is not one of Chris' main priorities. “I'm allergic to it,” Chris admits. “To fail in a job is easier to take than to feel you've failed with another person.”

It's a feeling Chris much shows up quickly." Actually, though, her extra poundage fit the part perfectly. But, Donna was nevertheless determined not to always be a chubette and have to play character roles because she was so heavy.

Donna first became aware of her problem while she was attending The American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York City. "I resembled a tank," she admits. "It was the most I ever weighed. I think I scaled over one hundred and sixty pounds. I began to take weight loss seriously when an instructor at the school told me that I'd only get fat person parts."

She had already started dieting when she co-starred in Saturday Night Fever and John Travolta was all encouraging. He told her that the movie would no doubt expose her to Hollywood producers, so she would have to drop even more weight. And, sure enough, John was right. It was Saturday Night Fever that first brought Donna to the attention of Angie producer Garry Marshall, who offered her the role of the waitress who attracts a main-line Philadelphia doctor and told her she had to slim down.

Producer Garry Marshall signed Donna to do Angie, providing she shed all of her extra poundage. She tried almost every diet imaginable, but lost most of it by cutting out junk foods. Slim and trim now, she wows America each and every week on the television screen.

NUDE

Ever since the cancellation of Kotter, the entire cast—and, most especially, the Sweathogs—have been busy with other projects: Robert Hegyes has just completed Mauï, his first major motion picture; Ron Palillo is currently doing some Shakespearean theater in Connecticut; Larry Jacobs is starring in I Love My Wife on the Broadway stage; and John Travolta is working on Urban Cowboy, his latest film.

When Kotter first came on the tube a few seasons back, Robert Hegyes acquired a certain image. As Gabe Kaplan recalls his original conception of Epstein, he was "the kid voted most likely to take a life." The character was softened, but still, the TV-viewing audience saw Hegyes as the tough guy, ready to settle anything and everything with his fists. Out on the streets, people approached him as if he were Epstein. He was locked into the character almost immediately.

Very shortly, though, Bob Hegyes' devoted fans will see him in a role that's a big departure from Epstein. It's a role Bobby has been waiting for a long time, his first in a major film. And ironically, this role has created as much controversy as Kotter did. "The show was in trouble from the start," Bobby remembers. "Affiliates were worried about a series that seemed to glorify a bunch of disrespectful kids. Some schools were boiling then; we were too close to reality." So, rather than present Kotter as a sort of Blackboard Jungle played for laughs, the emphasis was switched. The delinquent aspect of these kids would be kept in the realm of the zany, not the criminal.

A show like Kotter had to be cautious. After all, when the majority of your audience is virtually under 21, you have to be careful about the sort of stands you take. Kids who idolize TV actors are apt to emulate them and the more anti-social their behavior, the more drastic the consequences. Now, though, there's an even bigger problem with Bobby's new role. It's in a love story called Mauï, filmed, of course, in Hawaii and, in one scene, his fans will get to see more of him than they ever could have hoped for.

"In the scene," Bobby explains, "I'm a kid who is so excited to see the ocean that as I run down to the beach I take off all my clothes and jump into the ocean. It's a beautiful shot.

"No one on Kotter," he continues, "knows about the nude scene yet and I don't foresee any problems." There was, however, because of Kotter's appeal to teens, an indecency clause in Bob's contract that forbade him to do anything that might reflect poorly on his TV image. That's simply a way for a show's creators to keep tabs on their actors. If you have a successful series and then one of your featured performers is involved in a front page scandal, you'll probably lose a lot of

MARION ROSS

THERE WEREN'T ONLY "HAPPY DAYS"

Marion Ross has been a popular television favorite largely due to her role as mother hen on Happy Days. She smiles. She laughs. She's absolutely charming. And, that's the way she comes off in person as well. To look at her, you'd never think that there was a sad time in her life. But, indeed, there weren't only "happy days" and Marion can now talk candidly about them.

It was about ten years ago, before there was a show boasting the likes of the Fonz and the rest of the boys in their fifties' dress. Her career was in the doldrums and, even worse, her marriage was going down the drain.

"I didn't know what to do," she honestly admits. "I stopped everything in my life and just sat there stewing."

All Marion could do was to stay at home, look out on the garden, read the Bible, think about her fate and wait, hoping that something would happen. But, nothing did. So, days passed into months. Months changed into seasons. Still, nothing—except the slow building of an all-encompassing depression about being at the crossroads of one's life and not knowing which way to turn.

"Looking back on it," she says with a smile on her face, "I can tell you that that time was necessary. You cannot have a life of constant highs. You've got to be prepared for a dip every now and then."

Marion's depression left, however, when she decided to call her manager and publicist. Together, the two women devised a plan to get the actress' career rolling again, the first step being a part in a stage play. Marion had worked at the Globe Theater in San Diego before and when they found out that she wanted to work again, they gave her her choice of roles.

"I wanted to do Alma, the Tennessee Williams' heroine in Summer And Smoke," she reveals, "and, at the same time, I was being tested for Happy Days. It was crazy. I wanted to drop out of the play so as not to ruin my chances for the series, but my manager convinced me that I could do both.

SCOTT BAIO AND # WHY THEY WON'T EVEN

It happens all the time: A star is compared once too often to another, or he loses a part he's been counting on to that very same actor, or a hundred different things—and a feud starts. Then, the gossip columnist lumps into the fracas, adding fuel to the fire, and makes it much worse than it already is.

As a matter of fact, one of them is going on right now and almost everybody is at a loss to understand the bone of contention, the warring pair being Scott Baio of Happy Days and Willie Aames of Eight Is Enough. Insiders claim that the competition between the two is not enough to heat New York City for a winter! Not only do they avoid socializing on the Hollywood teen-circuit, but they literally bristle whenever anyone mentions the other's name in their company.

Evidently, it all came to a head just recently when Scott and Willie were invited to co-host a syndicated disc show called Hollywood Teen. Their answers were overwhelmingly negative. Then, an innocent and unaware representative of a national teen magazine asked the heartthrobs to pose for a special photo feature. Again, they flatly refused, making it quite clear to all concerned that they didn't even want to be seen together!

This feud has surprised everybody who knows the two young men, since both are considered among the nicest in Tinseltown. Why, at 18, Scott is thought of as one of the hottest newcomers around. He's a dedicated actor and entertainer, but there are other priorities in his life as well. "Acting is a tremendous experience," he told a reporter not so long ago. "But, I want nothing to stand in the way of my complete education."

Scott, of course, takes regular high school classes, but has expressed keen interest in the area of animal husbandry. Indeed, if he wasn't an actor, Scott would probably be a veterinarian. He's also determined to get a college degree and says, "It'll be tough, but I want it. And, if you really want something, you'll find the time for it."

Finding time for things seems to be a Scott Baio specialty. For a while, he had the distinction of starring in two TV sitcoms at the same time—Happy Days and Who's Watching The Kids?, which didn't make it through the season but not due to lack of effort on

IF YOU MISSED OUT ON HIGH SCHOOL—here's a second chance

Study at Home, No Classrooms, Set Your Own Pace, Wide Choice of Subjects to Fit your Interests, Credit for Subjects Finished Earlier

by Dr. E. C. Estabrooke Educational Director
The American School
Founded 1897

Way back in 1897, our school was founded to help men and women finish high school as they worked or raised families.

Since then, more than 2,000,000 men and women have enrolled in our school. We are probably the world's largest high school—and without a single classroom.

In a recent survey, 70% of our graduates told us that they chose American School because their responsibilities prevented them from attending resident school; 45% because they could learn at their own pace, and 20% did not want to return to a resident school because of their age.

Whatever your reason, and even if you had trouble with regular high school, I am sure American School can help you to succeed, at home, at your own pace.

American School is different. There are no classroom pressures. You work at your own pace as a "class of one"—and our instructors really do care about you. You'll get personal notes on your papers, not computer print-outs.

We offer over 100 subjects. Whether you are interested in oceanography, history, art, typing, home decoration or auto, you can tailor your program to your interests. Of course, we give credit for work you completed earlier.

Do mail the coupon today and let us tell you of our Accreditation, Diploma and special home study method. No obligation.

ERIK ESTRADA

But, it hasn't been easy keeping it all under wraps because so much of what he does is scrutinized by the very attention he's created. He does it simply because he wants to and not for the sake of capturing another headline.

Specifically, it's his concern and compassion for young people who are entering young adulthood with their emotions strung out by fear, depression and discrimination. Tempted by the pitfalls of their environment, where drugs and crime are an every day part of their existence, Erik knows all too well the obstacles they face, for he too is a product of the ghetto.

"You learn how to stand on your own two feet under those circumstances, but you do suffer somewhat," Erik explains. "I mean, the streets are beautiful and I wouldn't change anything about my past, really, except that I would have gone to college. A year or two, if it had been possible. But, I have no regrets as far as where I came from and who I am as a result goes.

"Now, that's not always been true, of course," he admits. "There was a time when I begrudged the fact that I was a street-educated kid with a limited education. When I first got started in this business, it was an effort for me to overcome that 'angry young latin' reputation."

Because, however, he was able to shove all that aside, Erik finally surfaced as a true personality and became someone to be reckoned with—not only in the film community, but in the very environment which is now his past, too. As a result, without a lot of fanfare and with the utmost sincerity, Erik shares what he's learned with underprivileged youngsters, many of whom look up to him with affectionate admiration.

"I tell them not to look up to me—that's number one—because I am not above them, nor are they below me. We are equal. Physically, I might be taller, but I'm no better than they are. And, I'm not bigger than they are inside here," he says, tapping his chest.

"See," he continues, "people think you get hurt by other people. Well, you don't! You don't get hurt by other people unless you let them hurt you. The only way somebody else can hurt you is physically. Emotionally, if you walk around with your feelings on your shoulder, you'll get hurt. Or, you can get hurt by having a fear of failure. This is especially true if your self-image isn't what it should be.

"As it happens," Erik adds, "a lot of people misuse the word minority. Parents talk about being part of a minority and their kids hear that. Well, first of all, the color of your skin has absolutely nothing to do with being a so-called minority. You can feel that way simply because you're not a jock or because you're not a member of the 'in' crowd.

"But, what I tell the kids I meet, who are latins or blacks or whatever, is to forget the word minority," he enthuses. "Forget ever having heard it, no matter in what way it's been used. Just go out and seek what you want out of life. Don't think of yourself as a minority and don't let other people say you are. Don't even acknowledge it. Know the word and what it means, but don't pay attention to it. Go for what you want! Just do it!"

Erik leans forward, gesturing with both his hands to make his point.

"The thing of it is, anybody who lives in or who is from a deprived environment is generally called a minority and has a tendency to think that way. And, if they do, they're going to stay that way. But, why should anyone be a part of what the masses say you are or what people think you are? Why start out your adult life with that kind of limitation implanted firmly in your life, your attitudes and your thoughts? Just be yourself. You don't need to be anything but what you are inside, what you want and what you really feel.

"And, this isn't restricted to someone who happens to be latin and grew up in the ghetto as I did. Why, if you wear glasses and do well in school, if you're a 'brain' scholastically, that makes you a minority by most social standards. Or, if you haven't got athletic ability, then you're not a part of that particular crowd and that puts you in the minority. In other words, minority doesn't only apply to the color of your skin or your religious preference. That's what happens all too often, but the point is: if someone of high intelligence isn't kept from advancing, even as a 'minority', then why should someone be restricted just because he or she is latin, black or oriental? You see, there's nothing to truly support such an attitude!"

Erik's advice to youngsters who live in the impoverished neighborhoods of the cities he visits is sound and the kids quite naturally listen to their TV hero. From all indications, too, they comprehend his message.

"I'm not preaching," Erik insists. "Nor am I out there on a crusade of any kind. So, don't interpret what I say or do as anything more than being a friend to these kids when they ask me something. I mean, I'm not going to jive them by telling them that black is beautiful, latin is lovely or some such thing. I just think that since I'm in a position where kids will listen to me and absorb what I say, then I should offer them something that has some substance. I don't want to just tell them about my favorite foods, favorite colors and things of that nature. Sure, if they want to know, I tell them. But I want to encourage them to admire themselves, to trust themselves and to trust others as well. No matter what endeavor you have in your life, you've got to believe in yourself. That's very important.

"I meet little kids who want to be actors or actresses, singers and musicians," he exclaims. "But, there are many more who want to be doctors, lawyers, mechanics, plumbers, truck drivers. I tell them that each of these endeavors is terrific. And they are, if that's what you want to do with you life!
When there is a need within yourself,
you've got to fulfill it, to experience it, to taste it. And, I try to show these kids that they can do just that if they take on the right attitude, if they have the right perspective. If they think of themselves as a minority, if they think that welfare and Saturday-night-specials are the only things they have in their future, then they'll never have the courage to attain what they really want in life. And that isn't only sad, it also wastes a lot of potentially bright minds.

"So, all I try to do is get the message across to them that there are alternatives, that there are no restrictions other than what's between their ears.
That's all I do really. Just encourage them."

Not quite. What Erik does in those moments when he finds himself "rapping" with a group of youngsters is give them someone to emulate, having himself overcome all of the obstacles they now face. It is sincere, well-intentioned counseling, during which Erik gives freely of himself. And absolutely no amount of fame and fortune can equal that anywhere—not even in Hollywood. □

PAM & CHRIS

knows first hand, since his own parents were divorced when he was only four-years-old. "It didn't go down very well with me," he confides. "That's why I turned to acting. It's safe. People don't reject you. They reject the character you're playing."

Chris just loves being in love, though.
"I like the early, uncertain stages when you're finding out what you think of her and she of you," he says shyly. "And, I expect her to be faithful to me. It's the two of us against the world."

Perhaps, things got too serious between Chris and Gae and that's why he's looking elsewhere—like in Pam Dawber's direction—for that early stage of love.

Pam herself has had her share of heartaches over the years and she, too, turned to acting to forget an unhappy affair. But, it didn't work. As a matter of fact, she eventually found herself in an even worse situation because of it. Seems she got involved with an older man, who took her to the Ali-Foreman fight in Zaire, and suddenly realized he wanted much more than just a friendship from her. So, she had to bribe her way out of the country. "After returning to New York, I began having tunnel vision and heart palpitations and throwing up in the morning," Pam recalls. "I went to a mental health clinic, saw a doctor and just cried and cried."

Pam got herself together, but it was a long, hard struggle. Finally, she allowed herself to fall in love with another man—Taos, New Mexico ski pro, Weems Westfeldt. But, that ended, too, and Pam recently admitted: "I've lived alone, been lonely sometimes, but also quite happy. I was never the girl in high school who had a boyfriend for years. My longest relationship has been eighteen months. I've thought maybe I'm really superficial and unable to have a relationship. What I've found is that people are attracted by my independence and then try to squelch it."

"I know people who lived together for five years, got married and then divorced six months later. That scares me. I need to end up with someone who is strong, intelligent, independent, sensitive, sensuous, warm and has a sense of humor. You think that's impossible?! Maybe that's why I'm living alone."

After Pam gave that interview, however, she met actor James David Hinton when he guested on Mork & Mindy and a real-life romance flourished. Still, they both claim that they need some time to figure out exactly how they feel. Perhaps, that's why Pam is seeing Chris Reeve—she'd like to compare. Like Chris, Pam is afraid of marriage. When she settles down, she wants to be sure it's the real thing and will last beyond the six month mark. Maybe, Pam and Chris are just helping one another get over bad experiences. Could be, though, that they may just find the mate they have been longing for, dreaming of and feeling was out of reach until now instead. □ than fright, is the ultimate Prince of Darkness.

As Frank portrayed him, the Count was no ordinary vampire. Night after night, every female in the theater wished that she was on the stage about to be bitten by this dynamic demon. He was charismatic. Everyone was enthralled at each performance. So much so, in fact, that he not only won over the hearts of the fans, but important Hollywood producers as well. They know a hit when they see one. And so, with dollar signs flashing in their eyes, signed Frank on to make the all-new, movie version of Dracula. He was sorry to leave the play, since it was a gigantic hit and had made him a hot matinee idol. But, he was overjoyed to finally be getting his big chance in the movies, a medium which would introduce him to an infinitely greater number of people.

By breathing new life into the tired, old veins of the legendary character, Frank helped to revive the supernatural thriller on the stage. Indeed, he was such a smash on the Great White Way that several different versions of Dracula opened simultaneously off-Broadway, all hoping to cash in on his popularity. Even so, they couldn't match his talent. It is a testimony to Frank's ability as an actor that he alone was able to transform one of the most loathed villains in literature into a love object.

From the start, Frank wanted to play the role differently than his predecessors had. He felt that Dracula was always interpreted wrongly. "Count Dracula is a lonely, troubled monarch with a sense of humor and a unique social problem," he stated just before he left the show. In other words, Frank saw him as a womanizer, whose main goal was to woo them by being a dark, mysterious stranger with sinister, but sensuous, overtones. He always tried his best to make the character appealing and debonair.

Now, it's on to the movies. Not that Frank hasn't ever appeared on the silver screen. He has, but without much luck. Universal's Diary Of A Mad Housewife, Mel Brooks' The Twelve Chairs, Rene Clement's The Deadly Trap with Faye Dunaway—just about the only movie he's even vaguely remembered for is Lovers And Other Strangers and that was released over eight years ago. Now, though, his fortunes are changing. If he makes half the splash on-screen that he made on-stage, he can't possibly miss and may very well become the new male sex symbol of the 1980s. He certainly has all of the qualifications—tall, handsome, rugged and definitely all-

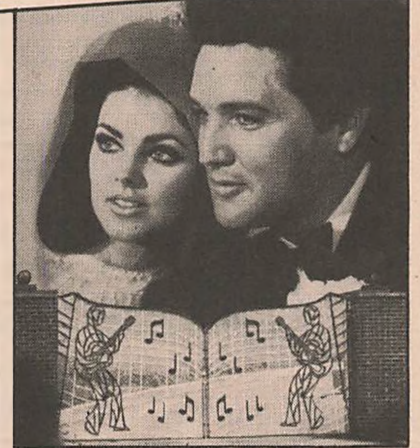

There is one big drawback, though, as far as his fans are concerned. Frank was married not too long ago and is still, for all intents and purposes, a newlywed. The ladies, however, continue to shower him with kisses and flowers and favors, which will put his marriage to the test in years to come. The many pressures with which today's sex symbols must contend often lead to family problems, as anyone who reads the newspapers knows.

But, Frank is a truly remarkable man and should be able to handle all of this with the same verve he's used to confront all of the other tough situations in his life. Believe it or not, it wasn't always easy for him. "My brother was a star athlete and my sister was a beauty. There I was stuck in the middle, near-sighted and not sure what I was doing," he says, only half in jest. It soon became apparent, however. At the age of 16, he would slip out of the house, take a bus to Times Square and comb the record stores for John Gielgud albums to help him get rid of his New Jersey accent. He had decided to become an actor. Yet, if anyone had told him he would one day become famous as Count Dracula, he would have laughed right in his or her face. His lifelong ambition always was—and still is—to be a Shakespearean actor and perform the classics. He is trained in this art and has studied long and hard to take the stage as Hamlet. His acting career, he feels, would be complete, if he could get the chance to follow in the footsteps of his idol, Laurence Olivier.

So how, you ask, did Frank end up as Dracula instead of Hamlet? The answer is pretty simple. There's not much work for a starving actor, unless he's willing to take on any part in order to pay the rent, buy food and get himself some exposure. Therefore, Frank was more or less forced into it. He appeared in a few movies, plays and TV shows and the critics noticed him, acclaiming he was a fine actor and quite goodlooking. But, for the most part, he remained obscure.

Then, just when he was hoping for a break and beginning to wonder whether or not all of the hard work would pay-off, it happened. Some smart Broadway producer got the idea to make Dracula into a play. Apparently, he had seen Frank's previous efforts and was impressed by them. He approached Frank and when the actor was satisfied that he could play the role the way he wanted, he agreed. It was the best decision he ever made. Excuse the pun, but Frank had finally landed a role that he could really sink his teeth into.

In doing both the stage and movie version of Dracula, Frank is taking quite a risk. The public may too readily identify him with the character and not go to see him in another role. Producers might also think twice before offering him anything else. But, it certainly would have been foolish for Frank not to capitalize on this, the biggest break yet. Still, the odds are on his side and he is too fine an actor to let himself be typecast.

For those of you who were unable to see Dracula on Broadway, you can now catch Frank on the screen. He is working hard, but is enjoying the good times besides. He likes being famous. For Frank, all of the sudden adoration is better than—well—biting a lovely lady on her neck, for instance. □ only trouble was, though," Donna confides, "that I love food." But, because she really wanted to make it big in Hollywood, Donna cut out all junk foods. "I guess I went through almost every diet imaginable," she says. "Then, I began combining features of some of them, such as Weight Watchers and the protein diet. I'm now around one hundred and twelve pounds. Eventually, I want to get down to one hundred and five."

So, it was a brand new Donna—a slim and trim Donna—who found herself the center of attention out Hollywood way this past season! Her series, Angie, is one of the biggest hits of the year and Donna is enjoying herself immensely, although she is the first to admit that it all took her by complete surprise. "I had no idea it was going to explode like this!" she exclaims. "It happened so fast and furiously. But, I worked my tush off, too . . . Stardom and all that is very surreal to me. It's over there and not really a part of my existence. It seems very foreign—partially because it's awesome and I've never gone through it; partially because it scares the hell out of me!"

Sure, it's a bit scary. After all, Donna was pretty new to it even when she got the role in Saturday Night Fever. She was just an ordinary girl from Brooklyn, New York, who wanted to be an actress and was following her dream. But, she never thought it would come true so soon. When she first went out to Hollywood, she felt quite flustered. Everything seemed to be zooming by her and she knew that if she didn't reach out and grab hold of something, it would all pass her by. Now, however, she says: "I am only starting to put my life together in L.A." And, she adds that friends have really helped her. "John Travolta is one of the most selfless actors. He helped me a lot on Fever," she takes great pains to point out.

John, it seems, was always there for Donna when she needed him. But now, she's getting along pretty well on her own. She's made a lot of new friends and is beginning to feel more at home. Much to her credit, too, she hasn't fallen into the star trap either. She's a level-headed girl of 25 who confesses that she goes to Hollywood parties "only if I care about the people there. I'm not interested in hype. I still feel like a spectator."

Not too surprisingly, Donna's best friends are her Angie castmates. She hangs around with on-screen sister, Debralee Scott, quite a bit. Debralee is very pleased with their personal and working relationships mainly because she had such a hard time on her last series Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman with its star, Louise Lasser. knows working with sisters, I do," says Debralee. "And, after Miss Lasser, Donna is such a nice change! Louise sometimes acted like 'the star', but Donna doesn't. She's wonderful. We go out to eat or she comes over, does her laundry and we learn lines."

Even her "mother" on the series, Doris Roberts, praises that Donna is "easy to hug and kiss—as if she were really my daughter—and I've played a lot of mothers."

As for dates, Donna isn't lacking in that department either. After a brief flurry of publicity about her "relationship" with John Travolta [which was strictly platonic, by the way], Donna got down to meeting men on her own. She often goes out with co-star Robert Hays, who gushes: "She's cute, a great actress and a really warm person. We are a lot crazier off-screen—doing goofy impressions of actors and our own characters." They occasionally even share a dinner or a movie, but word has it the man Donna is really interested in is actor Mark Harmon, who starred in the now-defunct series, Sam. "We see each other frequently," Donna admits, but adds wryly that she's "not calling the engravers tomorrow or getting any invitations ready."

Romance is fun and friendship is great, but Donna is serious about her career. Right now, things are just beginning to really happen to her. A whole new world is opening and she's not about to give it up for anything or anyone. "I've never been a wealthy lady," she says. "Now, I can finally pay-off some loans and buy a few things for myself. I won't take a job, even for a zillion dollars, if I don't like the work. I'm going through a very happy period in my life right now."

Well, Donna, you can keep on smiling because there's still lots more in store! □ viewers. Most parents just wouldn't want their children watching a show with "that actor".

With the cancellation of Kotter, though, that problem's been solved. Furthermore, this is 1979 and films reflect society as it is. If a scene is done in good taste and nudity is essential to conveying the story line, then there usually isn't any trouble. Bobby, nevertheless, did give the scene great thought. "After talking it over with the producer and director," he reflects, "we decided to do it anyway."

The role itself is a big break for Bobby. Seeing John Travolta make such a big splash in films, Bobby naturally felt that he was next in line to make the transition. After all, Epstein's mail at ABC was second only to Barbarino's. He wanted to branch out. As it was, Bobby had already directed several episodes of Kotter and even wrote the script for one. But, making films is the real measure of success in Hollywood. Getting that first role, however, was not an easy task. The two months Bobby spent on location in Hawaii reads like The Perils Of Pauline. The set was plagued by near-miss accidents, illness and a frightening island mysticism that made everyone associated with the film afraid for their lives.

"Call it black magic, voodoo or whatever you like," Bob said at the time, "but there's a force here trying to drive us out." Bob was referring to a religious colony on the island that he had come in contact with during a hitchhiking tour of the area. A primitive tribe, they lived in tree houses and closeby was a valley they believed to be the heart of the earth. "They told me," Bobby remembers, "that they didn't want this movie to be made. They told me they were mystics who had come to the island because it was a magic place, a religious place. On the mountain in the valley, they said intergalactic travelers had landed many times in spaceships. To them, it was a holy place." Apparently, this religious cult believed that filming on the island was a desecration of holy ground. Perhaps, too, they felt that far too much attention would be focused on the area, bringing curiosity seekers from all over.

At any rate, Bobby thought little of their veiled threats—at least until things began to happen. The movie required quite a few stunts, most of them rather predictable, but leaving little margin for error. Yet, one by one, they all went wrong, bringing near tragedy each time.

"We were practicing a simple stunt," Bobby recalls of the second day of filming, "one that I'd done several times. Then, we went to film it. I jumped out of the car on cue and ran straight into a piece of rusted metal. It sliced up my hand, slashed my wrist—I couldn't believe it. I was rushed to the emergency room for shots and stitches. All that time, I was thinking: 'I didn't see that metal on the practice takes. This doesn't make any sense.'

"A few days later," he continues, "we were shooting a simple motorcycle stunt. The cameras started rolling and I was doing fine, until the throttle cables on the bike suddenly jammed." This resulted in even further injury for Bobby when he smashed into the side of a building.

One accident after the other was enough to keep cast and crew constantly on edge and in fear for their safety. During a speedboat chase scene, the tide suddenly went out, leaving one boat grounded on a sand bar and the other nearly missing a collision with it. An airplane stunt brought Bobby within feet and seconds of being cut to pieces by the propeller of another plane.

Co-star Lisa Hartman was also affected by the strange happenings. First, she started feeling weak and easily fatigued during the filming. Then, she was troubled by pains in her side. One night, the pain became so severe that, alone in her hotel room, all she could think to do was scream, hoping that Bobby, whose room was down the hall, would run to her aid. He rushed her to the hospital, where they discovered that she had such a bad kidney infection, if it had progressed further, might well have been fatal.

Putting two and two together, Bobby began to think about the warning he had received. "This island belongs to us," they had told him. "We don't want this film to be made. We want you and your people to leave here now." So that, what could have been two months of sheer paradise for Bobby, shooting on a beautiful tropical island, turned into a living nightmare. Needless to say, his overwhelming feeling on departure was relief.

However, the problems Bob faced during filming will fade quickly once the movie is released, for it is his first big step career-wise since Kotter. Like John Travolta, Bobby could very well become a superstar. He certainly has the same kind of appeal and audiences will undoubtedly be seeing a lot more of him. Bobby's dream has always been to get involved in all phases of filmmaking—from acting, to camera work, to producing and directing. With Mauui, his dream is finally becoming a reality. □

"You should have seen me. I was rehearsing the play in San Diego and then I would have to get back to Los Angeles to shoot the TV show. It meant renting cars and the like, but I did it."

Marion sheepishly confesses that she never expected the series to run.

"I'm a very skeptical person to begin with," she explains. "But, after three years of doing the show, one guest star came over to me and asked when I was going to move into my dressing-room. The walls were completely bare, if you can believe that. I was always ready for the show to be cancelled. But, I must say, we were all that way. I guess we're really a rather conservative group of actors. But, in this business, you have to be. As soon as you buy the new house, you know your show is going to get the axe.

"An actor has to plan financially," she offers further. "You can make a living, but you have to be patient. A big star—a really big star—only lasts a few years. The rest of us hang in there."

Certainly, Happy Days proves that Marion is capable of more than that. And, it has been a source of constant joy to her.

"I'm nostalgic for the show already," she comments. "Many times, when I'm on the set and something wonderful happens, I'll say to myself, 'Lock this moment. Remember it always'."

Of the supporting cast, she has only the nicest and kindest words to say. Henry Winkler is "one of the finest actors." Anson Williams is "one of the dearest and sweetest boys." Donny Most is "going to be a big star." Ron Howard "is like my own son. We sit together and confide in each other. I am just so fortunate to be working with the likes of these actors. They're so wonderful. All of them."

And, Marion knows whereof she speaks. She began her career many moons ago, when she was featured in the early television series, Life With Father, starring Leon Ames. She was going to move to New York to study in the theater, but couldn't imagine herself in a one-room flat hardly able to make ends meet.

"I wanted to live nice," she states. "So, I stayed in California. I wanted it all—dogs, cats, a garden, a husband and kids. And, I got it, too."

Because she had a family, however, Marion didn't really go out of her way to find work. Whatever came along, she accepted, but her family always came first.

Marion's own childhood was a happy one. Her mother never hesitated to encourage her daughter and impressed upon her the value of doing and being. The world was hers for the asking and she could be anything she wanted to be, if she wanted it badly enough. So, when as a teenager, she became enchanted with the theater, Marion decided to become an actress. That was something special. And, being an actress, she could be lots of other things, too—a doctor in Africa, a Swedish princess, a mother, a prisoner ... The list was virtually endless.

Marion's major concern these days is for her son and daughter. They are both of college age and old enough to be on their own. Still and all, mother worries. "But, I'm not the type to coddle them," Marion adds. "They do their own laundry. They can be inventive and fend for themselves at dinnertime. They're independent, but they know that if they need me, I'm there."

Marion Ross may soon have to face yet another crossroads. She realizes that her hit show may not stay that way much longer. Such things do eventually come to a halt. So, when Happy Days goes into re-runs and television history, Marion will be left with nothing more than fond memories. Perhaps those days of nothingness will return once again, before she's had a chance to prepare herself for the next exciting period in her life. But, there's no denying that an actress and, most importantly, a woman like her will go on, and on, and on ...

SCOTT & WILLIE

time to practice and tour with the group.

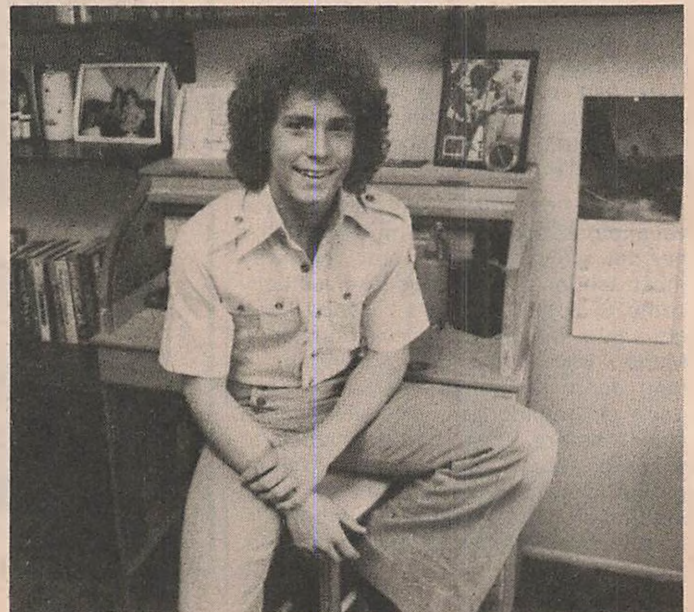

Because both Scott and Willie are actors and singers who appeal to the same age group, there is a built-in competition. But, that certainly doesn't explain a feud. There is, however, one other possibility—pressure—pressure from work, pressure from the studio, pressure from fans, and then, the added pressure Willie has on the set of Eight Is Enough. Although it wasn't publicized, Willie was being terrorized by a madman at one point. This person, a stranger Willie had never met before, was stalking him. "It was spooky," Willie admits. "I had trouble sleeping at night. Whenever I heard a noise, I would start wondering what caused it."

Naturally, Willie was so concerned about his and his family's safety that he taught his mother how to use a shotgun. The studio was equally upset and hired detectives to guard the Aames' homestead, but it was actually a member of the Eight Is Enough crew who finally intercepted the stranger. One day, the show's hairdresser caught the man and took him to another part of the set to question him. The man told all sorts of stories—none of which turned out to be true—but afterwards, the phone calls, letters and everything else stopped. It lasted three weeks and Willie, to be sure, will never forget them.

Perhaps this incident made Willie a bit standoffish. Maybe he would just prefer to surround himself with friends he grew up with, rather than join the Hollywood scene. Whatever it was, as things now stand, there's little chance of Willie and Scott ever appearing on the same show. But, who's to say what will happen in the future? This may just be a phase the two young men are going through. May be not. Either way, they have to live their lives as they see fit and nobody can do anything about it—except wish them luck. □

. . . AND MANY, MANY MORE!

According to columnist Liz Smith, it was only through ABC's direct intervention that Kate remained an Angel for as long as she did. Producers Spelling and Goldberg had been itching to get rid of her for quite some time, but the network wanted to be sure that the ratings would not be effected by her departure. ABC capitulated only after both Jaclyn Smith and Cheryl Ladd signed on for the upcoming season: Jaclyn at $50,000 per episode and Cheryl at $40,000.

Kate learned of her firing while she was vacationing with her husband on a yacht off the coast of the Hawaiian Island of Maui.

"I'm so happy it's all over," she exclaimed when she heard the news. "During the last year, there were 14-hour days of waiting and I always seemed to end up doing all the exposition or explaining of the story line. It was a crushing burden. After all, counting The Rookies, I've been doing series for seven continuous years. And, if you count the soap opera [Dark Shadows] I did before that, it's been eight. Now, though, I can finally get on with it and do something else."

When Farrah Fawcett left Charlie's Angels for greener pastures, Kate was the first to, perhaps cattily, ponder her fate. "You remember Pernell Roberts?" she asked. He was the actor, seldom heard from these days, who couldn't wait to leave the thriving hit series, Bonanza. "I hope that doesn't happen to Farrah," she added. Hopefully, that won't happen to Kate either. □ as Sombrero, Fiesta and Neptune's Daughter. Inevitably, they starred Esther Williams or Ann Miller and, after a time, it was not with such a pleasing disposition that Ricardo realized he would never be given the chance to play a juicy role. "I am Mexican," he admits, "and the producers had no imagination. But, it has come to pass. When I used to see some of those films on television, I would look away, embarrassed by their naivete. But now, I can accept them for what they provided. It's not so painful anymore."

RICARDO MONTALBAN

Ricardo did have a few serious roles in such films as Sayonara, but most of his scenes in that motion picture ended up on the cutting room floor. He also found his way onto the Broadway stage, with parts in several musicals, including Seventh Heaven with Gloria De Haven and Jamaica with Lena Horne, and is particularly proud of an appearance in George Bernard Shaw's Don Juan. However, the roles eventually became fewer and fewer. There were times, in fact, when the actor was playing in vehicles that were embarrassingly slight.

"But, I never turned work down," he adds. "Years before, an actor friend of mine, Jerry Hersholt, told me never to walk away from a role. An actor is not an actor unless he's working, he said. I heeded his advice. Consequently, I accepted parts that others would have easily said 'no' to. Once, I took on an offer to play a small scene that a friend of mine had refused. He could not believe it. But, I am working today and he isn't."

"I love acting and I love waking up early in the morning and going off to do a day's work. I am always there promptly. I am very professional and give producers and directors an easy time of it. I've seen too many actors exhibit their difficulties before the cameras. I will not do that. I want to be an actor until my dying breath."

Ricardo confesses that he really enjoys working on Fantasy Island, most especially because it affords him the opportunity of acting with his co-star Herve. "I like the man and I'm never aware of his size. You talk with him and you know what a big man he is," he praises.

Ricardo says he never expected the series to run and the network was equally happy to see how audiences responded to the show. "We have a good chemistry, Herve and I," Ricardo continues. "We are both disciplined actors."

"My religion has given me a sense of discipline, which has not only carried over to my work, but to my marriage and family as well. It has made my marriage last. I am not a saint, but I try to follow the precepts of my religion, for they guide me as an actor, husband, father, friend, man, human being."

Ricardo Montalban is one of the few actors who has managed to maintain a scrupulous reputation. The scandal sheets have let him be, for he's never given anyone any ammunition to question his lifestyle. He looks younger than his years—more dashing, more alive. He lives by his words and can approach another person with kindness, respect and unpretentiousness that is not all that common among celebrities of his caliber. He is, indeed, the survivor he claims. □ sight so, of course, all of those nasty rumors started again immediately. On the Laverne And Shirley set, though, Penny denied them. "I didn't know I was such a femme fatale, until everybody started asking me if I was having a romance with Ted," she said. Still, talk that Penny and Rob are on the outs persists, although Ted is not the reason.

It was a mixed bag of emotions for AUDRA LINDLEY, the lively, curly-haired, sex-crazed wife of Three's Company. On the day she learned that The Ropers had the highest rating of any new TV show, she also received word that her husband, JAMES WHITMORE, had filed for divorce. Audra whispered: "I don't know whether these are tears of joy or sadness."

Now Through MEGATETICS

YOU CAN LOSE 30, 40, EVEN 50 POUNDS IN LESS THAN A MONTH

(25 pounds or more the first week)—by absorbing less of the food you eat!*

—says Ronald R. Romano, D.C.

Dear Reader:

Never before has it been possible to lose so many pounds, so quickly, and so easily as with a revolutionary new weight-loss program set forth in a new book by Dr. Ronald R. Romano.

The program is called the Megatetic Weight Reduction Program. It's based on scientific findings on caloric absorption—the way your body absorbs the food it consumes.

The Reason Why Overweight People Are Often The HEALTHIEST People—A Fact Overlooked By Just About Every Diet Until Now

Just about every other diet until now has disregarded the fact that overweight people tend to absorb more of the nutrients and calories from their food than do slender people, says Dr. Romano.

Indeed, in today's society, the fittest (healthiest) individuals are overweight. They digest foods with greater efficiency, whereas many slender people are slender simply because they digest and absorb foods poorly.

Recognizing this simple, scientific fact, Dr. Romano realized that if there were some way by which to make overweight people less efficient in digesting and absorbing the calories they consume, this would be a real breakthrough in weight loss. At last, there would be a method by which a person could lose weight quickly and easily, and without the bothersome exercising which normally undermines other diets and causes an inevitable return to obesity.

Thus it developed that Dr. Ronald R. Romano, Director of the Cedars Institute and Polyclinic in Florida, began a search to formulate a weight loss program that would not only take advantage of the decreased-absorption principle, but would overcome these other problems as well.

After intensive research, Dr. Romano discovered that there was a commonplace product which, when used as part of his Megatetic Weight Reduction Program, will dramatically reduce the number of calories absorbed from every meal you eat.

Now—The Commonplace Product That Keeps You From Absorbing Calories

These tablets are so safe, they're available without prescription in any drugstore. They are so commonplace, they are available under seven familiar brand names. In fact, you may even have some in your medicine cabinet or purse this very moment.

These commonplace tablets which, until now, weren't used for dieting at all—work in two ways to reduce the calories you absorb.

First, they reduce stomach acidity and inactivate the prime digestive enzyme. Second, by neutralizing gastric contents, the stomach is caused to empty sooner than usual. This gives the body less time to act on the food, and thereby reduces the calories you absorb.

By doing this, says Dr. Romano, "These tablets, which are to be used only on a temporary basis, will help you lose pounds and maintain your lowered weight more easily than you believed possible."

You Will Achieve Slenderness in 30-Days

These tablets became the center of Dr. Romano's dramatic weight loss program, which he termed Megatetics. In the Program, he combined the tablets with several other effortless principles which enable you to take in less food, absorb fewer calories—and burn up more of these calories.

"Truly," says Dr. Romano, "you will lose weight and inches faster than you ever dreamed possible."

The result of this "triple powered" Program of (1) consuming less, (2) absorbing less, and (3) burning up more, was a 30-Day Weight Loss Program of such remarkable power, Dr. Romano says...

"It seems incongruous to expect a rapid reversal, and almost immediate slenderness. Yet, this is exactly what the Megatetic Program is capable of...30, 40, even 50 pounds in less than a month—25 pounds or more the very first week.

"If, for some reason, you are more than 50 pounds overweight—don't worry. Megatetics will produce a 50-pound weight loss each and every month until you achieve your proper weight.

"You will find Megatetics faster than any other diet or exercise program you've encountered. If somehow you are only 10 pounds above your desirable weight, then Megatetics will have your weight where it belongs in only seven days.

"Incredible? Yes! But true nonetheless. Not only will all those excess pounds melt away, but so will the inches. During the 30-Day Program you may have to buy at least one new wardrobe, and probably two. The fat will disappear so quickly that after one week, your present clothing will hang on you like so much burlap.

"But let's face it—the rapid and enormous reduction in weight and size is only part of the benefits of Megatetics. More importantly, you will be able to maintain your new slenderness for life with only minimal effort."

READ THESE THRILLING CASE HISTORIES

LURLENE McC. had been grossly overweight ever since the birth of her first child, some 14 years before. She was 38 years old. Her weight was 168 pounds. She had always been successful in losing weight on several previous occasions, but always gained the weight back. During her 30-Day Megatetics Program, Lurlene lost 43 pounds. Today, more than 18 months later, Lurlene is still maintaining her desirable weight. She says, "I don't think I'll ever be fat again."

LOUISE G. was a middle-aged housewife. She had been on numerous diets. She had even tried shots and pills, but nothing seemed to have any permanent effect. During her 30-Day Megatetics Program, Louise lost 37 pounds. Since she was extremely overweight, a second month on the Program was called for, during which she lost an additional 35 pounds—a total of 72 pounds in just two months.

She says, "The speed with which I lost weight! I never would have believed I could lose so fast. Over the years, I've tried to diet many times, but always gave up after a short period. If I had to pick the one thing that helped me be successful, I would say it was this: The speed with which the pounds came off. Each day brought me another step closer to where I wanted to be."

BARBARA R. was 28 years old and 187 pounds. She had been overweight as long as she could remember. She had tried many different diets and exercises. During her 30-Day Megatetics Program, Barbara lost 63 pounds. During the Program, she gained so much new energy, she painted and redecorated her apartment all by herself. Her new figure, matched with some attractive new clothes, produced a remarkably beautiful young woman.

JANET T. was 25 years old, 5'4½" and 154 pounds. When she began her 30-Day Megatetics Program, she was single and worked in the back office of one of the larger law firms. Through the Program, in less than a month, she achieved her weight loss goal. She began to take an interest in clothes and cosmetics. In a few months, the change in Janet's appearance was so great as to be unbelievable. Recently, she wrote a letter to Dr. Romano:

"After losing all that weight, I began to feel good about myself. I wanted to meet people and go out on dates. I began to date one of the junior partners and last month he proposed to me. We're going to be married next month and I want to invite you to the wedding. Without you and your diet program, I'd probably still be working in that back room."

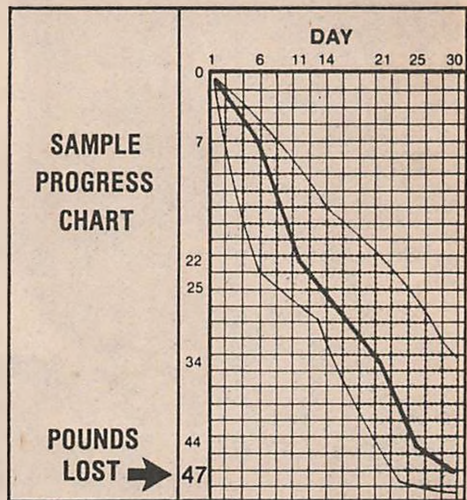

Dr. Romano's new book, which completely describes his remarkably effective weight loss plan, is called: "DR. ROMANO'S MEGATETICS WEIGHT REDUCTION GUIDE"...and it explains, in simple, step-by-step instructions, exactly how to use the principles of reduced absorption to dramatically reduce your weight without the use of routine, strenuous exercises.
