

N. METZ.
Fan.

No. 8,364.
Fig. 1.

Patented June 1, 1875.

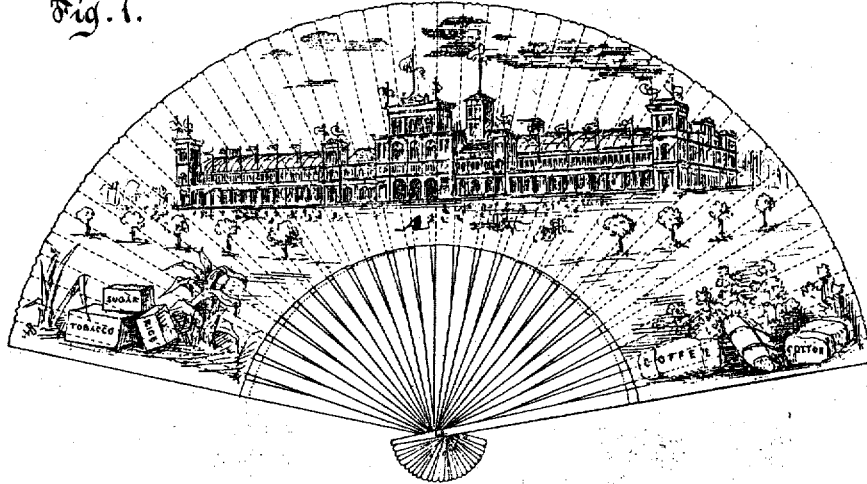

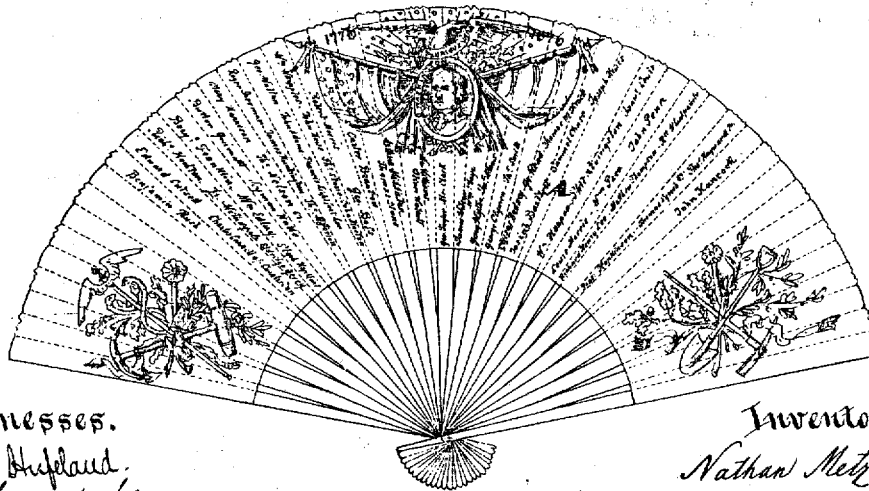

Fig. 2.

Witnesses.
Oto Aufland.
Char. Kahlers.

Inventor.
Nathan Metz
for
Van Santvoord & Hauff
attors

UNITED STATES PATENT OFFICE.

NATHAN METZ, OF NEW YORK, N. Y.

DESIGN FOR A FAN.

Specification forming part of Design No. 8,364, dated June 1, 1875; application filed May 19, 1875.
[Term of Patent 3½ years.]

To all whom it may concern:

Be it known that I, NATHAN METZ, of the city, county, and State of New York, have originated a Design for Fans, of which the following is a full, clear, and exact description, reference being had to the accompanying drawing, which fully represents the nature of my design, and in which—

Figure 1 represents the obverse side of the fan. Fig. 2 represents the reverse side.

The letter A designates a fan ornamented according to my design, which consists of an elevation of the United States Centennial Exposition Building, printed or otherwise produced upon the obverse side of the fan, (see Fig. 1.) the immediate foreground containing figures of men and women, and the right and left hand portions of the fan containing foliage and merchandize. The reverse side, Fig. 2, contains the names of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, with representations of foliage and of articles pertaining to industrial pursuits, and at the central upper part a medallion likeness of Washington, surrounded by the national flag and surmounted by the words "E Pluribus Unum," the centennial dates 1776-1876, the representation of an eagle, and of a galaxy of stars.

The ornaments and characters may be variously colored; but I do not consider the colors an essential part of my design.

What I claim as new, and desire to secure by Letters Patent, is—

1. The design for a fan composed of the representation, on one of its sides, of the United States Centennial Exposition building, substantially as herein shown and described.

2. The design for a fan composed of the representation, on the reverse side, of the likeness of Washington, the national flag, and the centennial dates 1776-1876, substantially as herein shown and described.

In testimony that I claim the foregoing I have hereunto set my hand this 13th day of May, 1875.

NATHAN METZ.

Witnesses:

W. HAUFF,

E. F. KASTENHUBER.