DESIGN FOR INKSTANDS.

Specification forming part of Design No. 8,869, dated December 28, 1875; application filed November 4, 1875
[Term of Patent 3½ years.]

To all whom it may concern:

Be it known that I, BLOOMFIELD BROWER, of the city, county, and State of New York, have invented a Design for an Inkstand, of which the following is a specification:

The nature of my design is fully represented in the accompanying photographic illustration.

In the illustration, A represents the sloping face between the leaves B B and the ornamental device thereon, consisting of fancy leaves, banded near their lower ends, and diverging from the band; B B, ornamental leaves, sloping and diverging; C, sloping side back of the leaves B B and the ornamental devices thereon, consisting of a central rosette, with fancy carved indentations each side thereof. E represents the cover and the ornamental device on top thereof, consisting of leaflets surrounded by a circle of squares.

The configuration of the base and the ornamental devices A, B, C, and E are the distinctive features of my design, and are better shown in the illustration than I can describe them.

What I claim is—

1. The configuration of the base, consisting of the sloping face A, together with the leaves B B and the sloping side C, substantially as specified and illustrated.

2. In an inkstand, the ornamental device on the sloping front A, substantially as described and illustrated.

3. In an inkstand, the ornamental leaves B, formed substantially as specified and illustrated.

4. In an inkstand, the ornamental device on the side C, substantially as described and illustrated.

5. In a design for inkstands, the ornamental device on top of the cover E, substantially as specified and illustrated.
