DESIGN FOR EMBROIDERY-PATTERN.

Specification forming part of Design No. 9,350, dated June 27, 1876; application filed June 14, 1876.
[Term of Patent  $3\frac{1}{2}$  years.]

To all whom it may concern:

Be it known that I, EMIL CRISAND, of New Haven, in the county of New Haven and State of Connecticut, have invented a new Design for Embroidery-Pattern; and I do hereby declare the following, when taken in connection with the accompanying drawings, to be a full, clear, and exact description of the same, and which said drawings constitute part of this specification, and represent a face view.

This invention relates to a design for embroidery-pattern, with special reference to perforated board, the object being to indicate on the board the figure to be wrought; and it consists, first, in the figure of a cross, with floral tracery, as an emblem, and also combining therewith the words "The Lord is Risen" as the motto, as shown in the accompanying illustration. In the center is the figure of a cross, from the base of which springs a floral wreath, and twines about the cross, as shown in the accompanying illustration, and constitutes the first part of the design. On the pattern there is also arranged "The Lord is Risen" as a motto, of which the cross and flowers are the emblem. The particular arrangement of the words may be varied without departing from this design.

I claim—

1. The design for embroidery-pattern consisting of the cross, with the floral wreath twining around it, as described, and shown in the accompanying illustration.

2. The design for embroidery-pattern, consisting of the cross, with the floral wreath twining around it, combined with the words "The Lord is Risen," as described, and shown in the accompanying illustration.
