UNITED STATES PATENT OFFICE.

REISSUED

JOSEPH H. TRAVIS, OF NEW YORK, N. Y., ASSIGNOR TO M. & H. SCHRENKEISEN, OF SAME PLACE.

DESIGN FOR COVERINGS FOR CHAIRS, &c.

Specification forming part of Design No. 10,753, dated July 9, 1878; application filed March 6, 1878.
[Term of patent 3½ years.]

To all whom it may concern:

Be it known that I, JOSEPH H. TRAVIS, of the city of New York, in the county of New York and State of New York, have originated and designed a Pattern or Design for Coverings for Chairs and Parlor Suits, of which the following is a full, clear, and exact description, reference being had to the accompanying photographic illustration, making part of this specification.

Chairs and parlor suits have heretofore been covered with fabrics of different materials of uniform color, and also with figured fabrics, except as to the upper part of the back and the front part of the seat, which were covered with a strip or breadth of plain plush.

The design or pattern originated by me differs from these in having the back and seat of the chair or other article covered with a figured fabric, such as raw silk, which may be woven after or have on it any pattern desired, and having across the top or upper part of the back, and also along the front part of the seat, a strip or breadth of embroidered goods, usually of some definite fixed pattern, but differing from that of the fabric with which the rest of the back and seat is covered. A beautiful and esthetic effect or appearance is thus secured, and the article thereby made attractive, esthetically considered, as well as useful.

A represents that portion of the back and of the seat which is covered with uniform fabric, which may be of any pattern or design selected. The top of the back and the front of the seat, instead of being covered with the same material or with plain goods, is covered with embroidered goods B, preferably of plush.

Such covering is more particularly designed for a peculiar style of rocker now made and sold by M. & H. Schrenkeisen, of the city of New York, under Letters Patent Nos. 156,127 and 177,754, but is adapted for other chairs and for parlor suits.

What is claimed is—

A design for a material for covering chairs and parlor suits, consisting of a combination of figured goods or material with embroidered goods, the former being arranged to cover the main part of the seat and back, and the latter to lie along the upper part of the back and the front of the seat, as herein shown and described.
