I would think that JIM ANGLETON, who would have had direct knowledge and always was the Chief of the CI/CE staff. The Chief of base in (Deleted) if in fact Pash conducted any activities in that area, certainly the Chief of base in (Deleted) would have been knowledgeable about it. Also the Chief of base at (deleted) which was where we had the (deleted) penetration going on. I don't know whether William K. Harvey, at that time was Chief of Operations (deleted) or whether he was simply running the tunnel, but William K. Harvey might well have some knowledge of Boris Pash. I would certainly assume that when we're talking about liquidations and that sort of thing that the Agency's overall Office of Security somewhere within it must have been involved, such German Division personnel as might be available today, West German, and I would also suggest that General Cushman might be knowledgeable for this reason. It was about this time that General Cushman was still assigned to the CIA. I could be wrong about that but I seem to have a memory of Cushman being around in those days. He was then a Colonel. I had associated with him. In fact, we shared an office at one time, but that was several years earlier. But I'm sure that Cushman was around in that period of time and involved with the PP Staff though what his function was I don't know.

Baron: Let me return to one name that you mentioned and this is William Harvey. What was the nature of your operational relationships to William Harvey after this period. Did you have any?

HUNT: I never had any, no. In fact I've only seen him once in my life, to the best of my recollection.

Baron: As you may know, William Harvey was tasked in 1961 with setting up an executive action capability at the CIA, tasked originally by Richard Bissell to carry out assassinations if required. Do you have any connection from any source of any connection between what Harvey was doing and what Pash was doing?

HUNT: No.

HUNT told his lawyer that he had "met Boris Pash in a hallway at some point after the initial discussion of this matter and asked him where it stood? And he replied this is very heavy stuff. I must be very selective in talking about it, and [HUNT] dropped the matter." Boris Pash denied HUNT'S allegations and claimed he never met him and that he was never involved in assassination planning.

During HUNT v. WEBERMAN, HUNT was asked:

Q. Have you ever discussed the subject of an assassination with Mr. Pash?

A. Nor assassination qua assassination, but the liquidation, removal of

MR. Weberman: (Laughs)

THE DEPONENT: (continuing) an objectionable -- I would request that the --

Mr. FRIEDMAN: I am asking Mr. Weberman to maintain himself.

MR. Weberman: It's kind of funny, you know.

THE DEPONENT: Mr. Pash, Colonel Pash, was described to me as the man in charge of an area that dealt with removals by violent means. He later testified that he never had such capacity. So, with the exception of the man who was alleged by other to be in the business, to my knowledge I have never known anybody in the assassination business.

Q. Boris Pash denies ever having talked to you about this.

A. Well, he is an old man. I would say that it has escaped his mind, probably trivial at the time because that wasn't his line of work.

HUNT told the SSCIA: "I might add that I was rather briefly at CIA headquarters at that time and within a very short period of time after I had had my interview with Colonel Pash, I was transferred to the Guatemala Project, the overthrow of Guatemala."

THE OVERTHROW OF JACOBO ARBENZ 1954

Jacobo Arbenz, a professional Army officer, was the son of a Swiss father who migrated to Guatemala. In 1944 Jacobo Arbenz took part in a military coup against General Jorge Ubico. Dissatisfied with a successor of Jorge Ubico, Jacobo Arbenz participated in another coup and became a member of the subsequently installed Junta. Jacobo Arbenz was made the ranking officer in the Guatemalan Army in 1949, after his chief rival was ambushed and assassinated. The chauffeur of Jacobo Arbenz, and later his secretary, was credited with the murder. Jacobo Arbenz ran for President in 1950. During the election campaign his main rival, General Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes, went into hiding under threat of arrest. Five days before Jacobo Arbenz was elected President through massive vote fraud in November 1950, Colonel Carlos Castillo-Armas headed an unsuccessful revolt against him. Carlos Castillo-Armas was badly wounded and thrown into prison. Jacobo Arbenz took office in March 1951. The following summer Carlos Castillo-Armas tunneled his way out of prison and left the country. President Arbenz declared a partial state of siege in 1951, allegedly to control the dispatches of unfriendly foreign correspondents. Arbenz also tried to institute land reforms; the United Fruit Company, the country's biggest employer, was outraged when he expropriated 225,000 acres of its property. The profits of United Fruit began to drop when labor unions demanded $2.50 a day for each worker, instead of $1.36. [Business Week 4.30.55] During the early 1950's, United Fruit was a symbol of American economic imperialism. The term "Banana Republic" had its roots in the domination by United Fruit of Central and South American governments. Jacobo Arbenz turned frequently to the Communists to maintain his power. By 1954 they were running Guatemala. President Eisenhower, Vice President NIXON and the other National Security Council members called for the overthrow of Jacobo Arbenz. In the spring of 1954, the USSR began covertly supplying the Guatemalan regime with arms, hidden aboard a Swedish freighter, in unmarked boxes. When the Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, Allen Dulles, received news of this shipment, the fate of Jacobo Arbenz was sealed.

HUNT'S VERSION

HUNT 1954

In his autobiography, Undercover, HUNT recalled that he recommended the ouster of Jacobo Arbenz shortly after he was elected, but his superiors at the CIA refused to act until Arbenz threatened the profits of United Fruit. Then, according to HUNT, the lawyer who represented United Fruit, Ernest Cuneo, pressured the CIA leadership into taking action against Arbenz. DAVID PHILLIPS described the chain of command in the Arbenz operation as follows: the Director of the Central Intelligence Agency Allen Dulles; then Director /Plans Richard Bissell; then Deputy Director/Plans Frank Wisner and his subordinate Tracy Barnes; then Colonel J.C. King, Chief /Western Hemisphere Division; then himself and HUNT.

TRACY BARNES

Tracy Barnes graduated from Harvard Law School and practiced with Carter, Ledyard & Milburn. [Weyden Bay of Pigs p39] During the war, Tracy Barnes joined the OSS and worked with Allen Dulles in attempting to arrange a secret surrender of the Nazis in Italy in 1945. In February 1951 he joined the CIA. He became Deputy Director of the Psychological Strategy Board during the Korean war. Tracy Barnes served as Chief of Station of the CIA in Frankfurt, Germany, from 1954 to 1956, and London Chief of Station from 1957 to 1959. Tracy Barnes was a relative of Nelson Rockefeller. Nelson Rockefeller's Latin American interests had been endangered by Arbenz. Nelson Rockefeller joined the Eisenhower Administration from 1953 to 1954 as a Special Consultant, Assistant for Cold War Strategy. Tracy Barnes chose HUNT and PHILLIPS for the Arbenz operation, which was given a semi-autonomous status. HUNT was posted to Miami. In 1954 the CIA approached Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes, then an anti-Arbenz exile living in El Salvador. In My War With Communism, Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes wrote: "A former United Fruit Company executive...came to see me with two gentlemen whom he introduced as CIA agents. They said I was a popular figure in Guatemala and they wanted to lend me their assistance to overthrow Arbenz. When I asked for the conditions for the assistance I found them unacceptable. Among other things I was asked to favor the United Fruit Company..." Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes agreed to support the overthrow of Jacobo Arbenz but, according to HUNT, "It had been decided at the State Department that Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes was a 'right-wing reactionary'...and so the CIA's support was put behind Colonel Carlos Castillo-Armas."

On January 29, 1954, Jacobo Arbenz charged that Carlos Castillo-Armas and Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes were receiving assistance, in their joint effort to overthrow him, from Nicaraguan President Anastasio Somoza. Anastasio Somoza allowed anti-Arbenz forces to use an island off the Nicaraguan coast as a base of operations. American soldiers-of-fortune, working as CIA contract employees, were the flyers of the Guatemalan rebel air force. On the morning of the planned invasion a meeting took place among President Eisenhower, the Dulles brothers, and Joint Chiefs of Staff representatives, during which President Eisenhower asked if they were sure the operation would succeed. Assured that it would, President Eisenhower responded: "I'm prepared to take any steps that are necessary to see that it succeeds." [Ross & Wise Inv. Gov. p176]

On June 18, 1954, Carlos Castillo-Armas and his army crossed the Honduran border into Guatemala. His CIA-sponsored air force had just bombed San José, a large Guatemalan port city. The troops of Carlos Castillo-Armas dug in just inside the Guatemalan border, where they waited for further air strikes. After the forces of Jacobo Arbenz took out most of CIA's exile air force, the CIA immediately resupplied them with new aircraft. Under constant air attack, Jacobo Arbenz began to panic. On June 22, 1954, Guatemalan Government forces began an unsuccessful drive to dislodge the forces of Carlos Castillo-Armas. At the front, CIA-recruited members of the Army of Jacobo Arbenz, at the request of DAVID PHILLIPS, sent back messages to him that they were being overwhelmed by the troops of Carlos Castillo-Armas. PHILLIPS also set up a clandestine radio station in Mexico, the "Voice of Liberation" which pretended to be broadcasting from within Guatemala and orchestrated false reports about legions of rebels who didn't exist and major battles that never took place. Under such a propaganda barrage, on June 25, 1954, Jacobo Arbenz resigned and took asylum in the Mexican Embassy. On July 8, 1954, a Guatemalan military junta elected Carlos Castillo-Armas President. In August Castillo-Armas suspended all civil liberties. Soon he restored to United Fruit the land seized by Jacobo Arbenz.

THE DEATH OF JACOBO ARBENZ

Jacobo Arbenz lived in exile until June 27, 1971, when he was found dead in his bathtub in Mexico City at age 57. Officials listed the cause of death as drowning due to a heart attack. Jacobo Arbenz had been under treatment for a stomach ailment. [Immerman, R. CIA in Guatemala pp. 139-140; NYT 1.28.71] La Prensa, the newspaper of Buenos Aires, reported:

The death of Jacobo Arbenz still has not become clear. Jacobo Arbenz was found asphyxiated and drowned in his bathtub, covered by boiling water. According to the police, the body was horribly burned by hot water and an autopsy was needed to determine the cause of death. The police indicated that Arbenz did not spend much time in the bathtub and the door to the bathroom was locked. They had to break it down to enter.

In 1955 Allen Dulles dispatched the former adversary of Arbenz, Ambassador John E. Peurifoy, to Bangkok, Thailand. There, John E. Peurifoy and his son were killed in a head-on collision with a heavy truck in 1956. HOWARD HUNT believed his death was the revenge of the Communists. [Immerman, R. CIA in Guatemala p253] Author Thomas Powers reported that two Guatemalans who worked closely with DAVID PHILLIPS on a clandestine radio transmitter, known as the Voice of Liberation, were assassinated in 1957. Ché Guevara took asylum with Jacobo Arbenz. It took him a month to get out of Guatemala. Author Thomas Powers reported: "PHILLIPS was in Guatemala searching through captured documents, and opened a CIA file on Guevara."

THE ILLNESS OF DR. JUAN CORDOVA CERNA

In Give Us This Day HUNT related that the CIA had initially favored a pre-eminent jurist and coffee grower, Juan Cordova Cerna, to head the post-Arbenz regime:

I thought back to the period before the overthrow of Colonel Arbenz when the CIA was treating with three exiled leaders: Colonel Castillo Armas, Dr. Juan Cordova Cerna, and Colonel Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes. As a distinguished and respected jurist, Dr. Juan Cordova Cerna had my personal vote as provisional president; our paramilitary people, however, were impressed with Castillo Armas' qualities as a military leader, and State had vetoed Ydigoras Fuentes as authoritarian. I remembered meeting secretly with Juan Cordova Cerna in a room in the Mexico City YMCA, and how at a critical time in the pre-invasion maneuvering, he had been forced to enter the Ochsner Clinic for cancer surgery. With his hospitalization, the possibility of civilian leadership ended, and Colonel Armas was selected to carry through. Chance, then, as it so often does, played the decisive role in the destiny of a nation.

In Undercover, HUNT recounted that Dr. Juan Cordova Cerna "reluctantly had left Guatemala for New Orleans. There, it was discovered that he suffered from throat cancer and treatment was begun at the Ochsner Clinic in New Orleans." [HUNT Undercover p97] PHILLIPS wrote: "One facet of CIA planning had gone awry in a development beyond control - the moderate civilian who was groomed to become the interim President contracted a fatal illness." [PHILLIPS Nightwatch p53] PHILLIPS was asked "Do you have any knowledge about how Juan Cordova came to contract the disease, cancer?" He answered: "No, I do not know."

Did Dr. Juan Cordova Cerna really have HUNT'S personal vote? HUNT wrote: "It had been decided at the State Department Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes was a right-wing reactionary." In the past, HUNT favored political figures who had been labeled "right-wing reactionaries" by the State Department. For example, he described his friend Pedro Diaz Lanz as one of those labeled a right-wing reactionary. Dr. Juan Cordova Cerna would not have conformed to HUNT'S vision of a post-Arbenz government. Dr. Juan Cordova Cerna, a candidate for election in 1950, was a former legal advisor for the United Fruit Company. Washington lobbyist Tom Corcoran, an associate of Ernest Cuneo, called Dr. Juan Cordova Cerna "the liberal" among the exiles. Ché Guevara wrote his followers: "Keep in contact and be united with groups around Dr. Juan Cordova Cerna...because they represent valuable allies and should not be despised." [Fuentes, My War with Communism p146] After Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes, HUNT'S next logical choice should have been Castillo Armas.

Had HUNT poisoned Dr. Juan Cordova Cerna during their meeting, to thwart the wish of the State Department to make him the head of the post-Arbenz Guatemalan government? Could the cancer of Juan Cordova Cerna have had some relation to the Ochsner Clinic? Was the Clinic unwittingly or wittingly CIA-penetrated? No credible evidence of this exists as of 1996; however some interesting documents have been released regarding Alton Ochsner.

DOCTOR ALTON OCHSNER

Dr. Alton Ochsner (born May 4, 1896; died August 1981), the founder of the Ochsner Clinic, had prestigious credentials and was the past president of the American Cancer Society. Alton Ochsner was part of the New Orleans anti-Communist community which included David Ferrie and his associate, William Guy Banister. Ochsner was linked to FBI Agent WARREN C. DeBRUEYS through the New Orleans Crime Commission in 1967. Alton Ochsner was linked to OSWALD through these men. Carlos De La Vega, a Cuban exile, was director of Latin American Relations of the Ochsner Foundation. Carlos De La Vega was under a special State Department contract to act as a bodyguard for foreign dignitaries. [Memo Martin to Garrison 3.31.67] Dr. Alton Ochsner was a consultant to the U.S. Air Force "on the medical side of subversive matters," and a personal friend of the Somoza family. [Scott, Beyond Conspiracy p649]

In April 1993, Dr. Alton Ochsner's son, Alton Ochsner Jr., was asked: "Did your dad know guys like Ferrie and that crew? Freedom fighter types?" He replied: "Yeah, he knew about anybody who might have been labeled an anti-communist. My dad was a strong anti-communist and he believed in all these things. He knew all the local people who were on trial or involved in the Garrison investigation. Now he and Ed Butler thought OSWALD was involved in a communist conspiracy. I don't think they thought this was the CIA at that time.

My daddy was an ambassador without portfolio to Central America, and particularly Nicaragua. He went down there...he was a professor of surgery at Tulane and some of the most distinguished Latin American citizens were the doctors. Some trained under him at Tulane, so he had a close connection with them. Some became government leaders. And he went down there several times, not as an ambassador, but as a doctor...he probably knew, or met, the fellow that came up to the Ochsner Clinic [Dr. Juan Cordova Cerna]. He came up to the clinic because of my dad's connection with those people, but I don't know specifically who took care of that patient or whether my dad was actually doing it...

Dr. Ochsner was asked if his father had ever been approached by the CIA:

Yeah, some Argentinean colonel contacted my dad and said there was a Argentinean, he wouldn't say his name, that needed my dad's medical attention. He asked him to come down and see him, because for political reasons the man couldn't leave the country. Shortly before my dad saw that fella, the CIA visited my dad, and said 'Are you going down to see Peron?' And he said, 'I don't know who I am going to see'...He went down there and it was Juan Peron, he had a vascular occlusion of his leg. He needed a particular kind of surgery the Argentineans hadn't perfected. My dad was hesitant to do it in Argentina and, unfortunately, it was not politically right for Peron to leave Argentina. He entertained my dad royally.

ALTON OCHSNER AND THE CIA

The CIA reported: "Dr. Ochsner was of contact interest in October 1947 and November 1948. He has been a cleared source since May 13, 1955. The last official contact with Dr. Ochsner personally occurred on January 8, 1962, and with the Ochsner Clinic on November 8, 1963." Another CIA document read:

THE REGIME OF CARLOS CASTILLO-ARMAS

Carlos Castillo-Armas proved to be more dogmatically anti-Communist than Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes. Within a week of his taking power, the new government announced that it had arrested 4,000 people for taking part in Communist activity. Within four months, the Carlos Castillo-Armas government registered 72,000 people as Communists and expropriated the property of most of its political foes. It disenfranchised illiterate Guatemalans (more than 70% of the population), among whom the Communists had been influential. Under the Carlos Castillo-Armas government $900 million in aid flowed into Guatemala, largely from the U.S. The Carlos Castillo-Armas regime became inept and scandal-ridden. CIA was dismayed.

THE DEATH OF CARLOS CASTILLO-ARMAS

On July 26, 1957, President Carlos Castillo-Armas was shot down at about 9:00 p.m. as he and his wife prepared to enter the dining room of the Presidential Palace. He was struck by two bullets, one of which severed his aorta. A communiqué identified the assassin as Romeo Vasquez Sanchez, 20 years old; it said he immediately committed suicide with the same rifle he had used to kill the President. The first authorities to arrive on the scene after the shooting were all military, including the Minister of Defense. The Guatemalan Government described Romeo Vasquez Sanchez as a "Communist fanatic" who was expelled from the Guatemalan Army six months ago for "Communist ideology," but had joined the Presidential Palace Guard. Eight days later, the Guatemalan Government said Romeo Vasquez Sanchez had been dismissed from the Army in June 1955, two years ago. It claimed to have a 40-page handwritten diary in which the assassin referred to "a diabolic plan to put an end to the existence of the man who holds power." The diary read: "I have had the opportunity to study Russian communism. The great nation that is Russia is fulfilling a most important mission in history...the Soviet Union is the first world power in progress and scientific research." The Guatemalan Government claimed to have found evidence on the person of Romeo Vasquez Sanchez that linked him to Moscow. The evidence turned out to be a card from the Latin American service of Radio Moscow that read: "It is our pleasure, dear listener, to engage in correspondence with you. We are very thankful for your regular listening to these programs."

When OSWALD was arrested in New Orleans, he had the name of a Radio Moscow commentator on his person. A few days later, the Guatemalan presidential press office gave out photostatic copies of another postcard from Radio Moscow Romeo Vasquez Sanchez had just received. Government investigators linked Romeo Vasquez Sanchez to Moscow-directed Communist plotting, however, no evidence ever turned up that Romeo Vasquez Sanchez was a member of the Guatemalan Communist Party. The death of Carlos Castillo-Armas was then blamed on his enemies within the government. Forty-eight civilians were brought in for questioning and 17 Presidential Guard members were court-martialed. Two privates were sentenced to two-year prison terms for alleged previous knowledge of a plot to kill the President. HUNT: "Now Carlos Castillo-Armas was dead, assassinated by a member of the Presidential bodyguard in whose pocket was found a card from Radio Moscow, and Ydigoras his elected heir. Perhaps, I reflected, the fact of Ydigoras' presidency meant he should have been selected six years earlier." [HUNT Day p119]

The scenario for the Carlos Castillo-Armas assassination was similar to that of the Kennedy assassination. Both assassins were alleged Communists who had no official Communist Party ties. Both assassins were to be killed shortly after the assassination - although there was a two-day delay in OSWALD'S case. Both assassins were supposed to be linked to Moscow - Romeo Vasquez Sanchez via a card from Radio Moscow, OSWALD through defection to Russia and a visit to Cuba. Both men kept diaries.

MIGUEL YDIGORAS FUENTES

The man who was really HUNT'S first choice, Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes, was elected Guatemalan President in 1958 after his defeat in a first election resulted in street riots, strikes, demonstrations and general lawlessness by his supporters. In return for quelling the disturbances, the junta proceeded to nullify the election and hold another. Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes won the second election. Six weeks later, he visited President Eisenhower in Washington, to show he was not the "rightist monster I have been painted."

Guatemala was again safe for American investments, and in 1959, Fortune magazine reported that United Fruit was "in Guatemala, Costa Rica and Honduras and is still the largest single private landowner, single largest business and largest corporate employer." The magazine noted that the former Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, General Walter Bedell Smith, had become a director of the United Fruit Company. [McCann United Fruit p62]

YDIGORAS FUENTES IS OUSTED

Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes instituted land and tax reforms then allowed Juan José Arévalo, a anti-Communist socialist, to return to Guatemala from exile in Mexico City. Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes believed that the return of Juan José Arévalo would eventually redound to the benefit of Roberto Alejos, whom he was grooming as his successor. Instead, Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes was overthrown and Roberto Alejos arrested. In 1963 Roberto Alejos' candidate for Congressional President, Manuel Orellana Portillo, was arrested on drug charges. [Scott, Deep Pol. p337] The Minister of Defense, Enrique Peralta Azudia, took charge of the government. Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes flew to Nicaragua, where he praised the generals who had removed him from power. After this coup, many leftists were allegedly murdered. No reports of the murders appeared in the press in 1963. Nonetheless in 1976, Andrew St. George, a journalist with CIA contacts, located a Cuban exile who participated in the extermination sweeps. The exile claimed he was flown to Guatemala in a black airplane with no markings, given a gun and a police identification card by Colonel Barrios, the Guatemalan in charge of the operation, then commanded to kill specific leftists.

ANDREW ST. GEORGE

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD July 25, 1975

SUBJECT: Andrew St. George

SF # 424 122

1. Andrew St. George was first of interest to the Office of Security in December 1949 upon receipt of information of a counter-intelligence nature concerning Soviet intelligence service use of Andrew St. George as an agent in Vienna, Austria, in the mid-1940's. In December 1958 Andrew St. George was of interest to the Western Hemisphere Division for debriefing regarding his knowledge of Castro rebel activities, however, this interest was short-lived, being canceled in January 1959. In January 1960 St. George was of interest to the Domestic Contacts Division as a source of foreign positive intelligence, and he was contacted by 00/Contact Division then and again in February 1962 and March 1964. His wife, Jean St. George, nee: Hoopes (SF #428675) was also of interest to 00/Contact Division in August 1960. (Note: Mrs. St. George is a cousin of former staff employee, Mary F. Wallen, SF # 34 760).

2. For the most part, the St. George file contains information of a counter-intelligence nature and information concerning his writings. There is cross-

E. HOWARD HUNT: 1955 to 1957

HUNT won a Commendation from Tracy Barnes for his part in PB SUCCESS. As noted by PHILLIPS, "HOWARD HUNT was assigned to the American Embassy in Tokyo" in 1955. In 1955 the Inspector General of the CIA generated several reports regarding the HUNT'S activities in Japan. Some were memorandums by Bruce Solie regarding the employment of Mrs. Hunt at the Argentine Embassy, Tokyo, others concerned "Activities of HUNT and his Wife in Tokyo: HUNT and the Screen Writers Guild and Authors League of America; HUNT'S feeling Towards Communism - Stella Kim." In 1956 HUNT worked on the U-2 project: "I had been involved [with Richard Bissell] in arranging certain landing and takeoff privileges for U-2 aircraft abroad."

Subject: Cross References.

1. During processing or review, it has been determined that a possible or actual relationship exists, or may exist, between or among the person listed below: (Deleted) (illegible numbers) #39128, #36992, #37268, #37736, #39772, HUNT HOWARD #23500."

1957 CHIEF OF STATION MONTEVIDEO, URUGUAY

HUNT'S assignment in Japan ended in February 1957. HUNT was Station Chief in Montevideo, Uruguay from January 1957 to June 1960. On October 22, 1956, Joseph M. Adams, Chief, Official Cover and Liaison, sent a Request for Security Certification to the Chief of the Personnel Security Division regarding HUNT: "It is requested that the appropriate security certification be prepared and forwarded to the (deleted) as soon as possible. This SAC is to be assigned to (deleted) and will depart Washington for PCS on or about March 1, 1957." Tad Szulc reported HUNT secretly organized a plan to overthrow the Uruguayan Government of President Benito Nardone. [Szulc Compulsive Spy p77] When HUNT'S Attorney, Ellis Rubin, asked him to name the source of this information, Szulc said he was unclear on the matter. The CIA created this index card: "HUNT, E. HOWARD CR #160644 *(deleted) Memo for NYFO May 5, 1958 WH Div May 20, 1958 May 5, 1958 for NFO May 20, 1958 for WHO 0595211."

HOWARD HUNT 1959 - 1960

In January 1959 HUNT said that he advocated the immediate assassination of Fidel Castro and that the Eisenhower Administration had turned down his recommendation. On November 30, 1959, HUNT was suspended from the CIA for one day for the unauthorized recording of safe combinations. HUNT had recorded his safe combination on the bottom of his pen holder. This was discovered during a Security Sweep by the Marine Guards. In August 1960 the CIA helped HUNT's family when they returned to New York City from Brazil. HUNT was described as an employee of GOLIATH.

In March 1960 Tracy Barnes advised HUNT he was needed for a new project: "Tracy Barnes told me my job would be essentially the same as my earlier one - chief of political action for a project recommended by the National Security Council and approved by President Eisenhower: to assist Cuban exiles in overthrowing Castro." [HUNT Undercover p129] PHILLIPS would work with HUNT again: when Fidel Castro came to power, PHILLIPS engaged in various schemes to unseat him, then departed Cuba in late 1960, or early 1961. PHILLIPS served as HUNT'S Propaganda Chief by "directing the CIA's clandestine radio service to Cuba."

In April 1960 HOWARD HUNT established the Cuban Democratic Revolutionary Front or Cuban Revolutionary Front or FRD in Mexico City. The formation of the Cuban Revolutionary Front was announced there on June 22, 1960. HUNT found the Mexican political climate unfavorable for the establishment of a permanent Cuban government-in-exile. The location of the Cuban Revolutionary Front was changed to the United States. The proclaimed purpose of the Cuban Revolutionary Front was to install a democratic government in Cuba through military force recruited mostly from the Cuban exile community in Miami. The Cuban Revolutionary Front leadership excluded Batista-connected exiles, but the organization of Rolando Masferrer existed on its periphery. FRD members included JUSTO CARRILLO was the former president of the Cuban Industrial Development Bank. He was considered to be a representative of Carlos Prio Socarras. Although not a Frente member Emilio Nunez Portuondo, a civil servant during the Machado regime in Cuba, who was indicted for stealing public funds, then elected to the Cuban Senate, played a highly influential role. When Carlos Prio Socarras defeated the brother of Emilio Nunez Portuondo for the Cuban Presidency in 1948, Emilio Nunez Portuondo retired and practiced law. His clients included "Lucky" Luciano. In the early 1950's Fulgencio Batista appointed Emilio Nunez Portuondo Ambassador to the United Nations. When Fidel Castro took power, Emilio Nunez Portuondo came to the U.S. and worked with Carlos Prio Socarras. In 1959 the FBI described him as the "most active and best known of the anti-Castro leaders in the U.S." Emilio Nunez Portuondo was offered the post-Castro Presidency of Cuba by General Jose Pedraza, if the invasion of Cuba from the Dominican Republic that Pedraza planned was successful. The FBI reported in May 1959: "Masferrer [told the FBI] he has a liaison with Emilio Nunez Portuondo but is not associated with him or his movement or under his direction. Masferrer has never received any money from him." In January 1960 Alexander Rorke told the FBI that he was a close associate of Emilio Nunez Portuondo. In a July 24, 1961, edition of a newspaper published by the brother of Carlos Prio Socarras, Emilio Nunez Portuondo was named as the future Secretary of State of post-Castro Cuba. Emilio Nunez Portuondo grew embittered with the Kennedy Administration and sent a telegram to President Kennedy in January 1962, a copy of which was obtained by the CIA. [CIA 201-45667] Emilio Nunez Portuondo came to the attention United States Secret Service Agent Arnesto Aragon on November 17, 1963, when he called America cowardly during a speech to 8,000 Cubans gathered at Bayfront Park. Pedro Diaz Lanz spoke at this rally. On November 24, 1963, Emilio Nunez Portuondo gave Jose Antonio Cabarga, a Batista supporter and the former President of the Cuban Maritime Retirement Fund, a press release that linked Fidel Castro to OSWALD. Jose Antonio Cabarga gave the press release to a Mexico City newspaper.

On November 24, 1963, narcotics agent William Durkin was told by an INTERPOL member that a Mexico City international telephone operator monitored a call to Emilio Nunez Portuondo in Miami placed by Jose Antonio Cabarga. Emilio Nunez Portuondo told Jose Antonio Cabarga:

...that with the assassination President Kennedy Castro's plan has been realized (Ya se venia realizando el plan Castro) and that the next one to go would be Bob and that any time atomic bombs would rain down on U.S. without anyone knowing why and that if US unable to defend life of President, would not defend selves either. [CIA 93-571]

WAVE traces Nunez reveals the subject 201-312304. ODFOAM advised is probably Jose Antonio Cabarga Sainz, DPOB Circa 1918 Province Las Villas, Cuba. Currently resides Mexico City. He is not occupied with obtaining Mexican visas for persons desiring to leave Cuba. He is pronounced Batistiano and Rightest with ties to Batista groups in U.S. and the Alianza Para El Progress De America.

On November 28, 1963, Jose Antonio Cabarga was arrested in Mexico City, at the request of Legal Attache Clark Anderson. When Jose Antonio Cabarga was released, Anderson interviewed him. The FBI deleted 90% of this document. CARLOS BRINGUIER told the Warren Commission that, as a friend of Emilio Nunez Portuondo, he wished to protest the arrest of Jose Antonio Cabarga. In late November 1963 Portuondo told the FBI he received the phone call. He said although he was bitter at the U.S., the conversation referred to Fidel Castro's plan to kill President Kennedy. Emilio Nunez Portuondo

Specifically denied the exact text as set forth in Rebutel and reiterated that Jose Antonio Cabarga was only expressing his opinion and that of many other anti-Castro Cubans...As nearly as Portuondo can recall, Cabarga did state 'This is the plan of Castro and China.' Portuondo was questioned specifically as to whether Cabarga mentioned Robert Kennedy. Nunez Portuondo denied that mention was made. [FBI 62-109060-309]

Emilio Nunez Portuondo added that Jose Antonio Cabarga had close contacts at the United States Embassy, Mexico City, and was "a good investigator who could develop information in the event plans to assassinate the President were formulated in Mexico City. HEMMING expressed familiarity with Emilio Nunez Portuondo:

HUNT knew him. He was at the Freedom Tower meeting in June 1963. Any loyal gusano with a brain would be coming up with shit like that. You think he's being directed to do it? They are not totally stupid people. They don't have to be told what to do. They know how to come up with their little schemes. They know how to throw the thing into Castro's lap. How many times you think they had to do it before they got an operator that would report it and do her duty? They were doing it on purpose. Any loyal anti-Communist Cuban would be doing it. He didn't know shit. We used to say 'Don't telegraph. Tell a Cuban. It goes faster.' Get off of the bullshit. It was disinformation. I'm not interested in how they fooled fucking WEBERMAN. Damn amateur snookered your ass.

The CIA reported: "This call was heard by lots of people. Files? Perhaps worth mentioning at staff meeting - to show how insecure international phone calls are. Action Copy to PHILLIPS November 25, 1963." John Moss Witten cryptonym John Scelso was asked to investigate this as he was in charge covert operations in Mexico.

AURELIANO SANCHEZ ARRANGO was a frente member. The CIA reported: "Arrango was first contracted in September 1948 and used sporadically as a casual informant on Cuban internal politics. a Provisional Operational Approval was granted on August 12, 1959, for use in political action activities. He was debriefed occasionally by the CIA, but after 1960 he was not used operationally." HEMMING told this researcher:

Arrango was Education Minister under Prio. He was Fidel's right hand man until Fidel went to Mexico in 1955. He ran his own anti-Batista group in Cuba. He backed out of the Bay of Pigs plan three months before April 17, 1961. I hooked up with him and started working his operation. He had Bill Harvey supporting him. Harvey and his FBI thugs.

Arrango was considered to be a representative of Carlos Prio Soccarras. TONY VARONA, the former Foreign Minister of Carlos Prio Soccarras, was head of the Cuban Revolutionary Front. Tony Varona came to the United States in June 1960 with the help of CIA Case Officer Gerry Droller. [CIA To File From Alien Affairs Officer 6.6.60] Tony Varona worked closely with HUNT: "HUNT was the one that had to approve any propaganda plans that we were having or also approve the payment of the expenses incurred by such plans. Also, he approved trips of certain individuals around South America to make propaganda efforts...HUNT told me to go to Guatemala." [Varona's HSCA Test.] MANUEL ARTIME was the "golden-boy" of the CIA's Cuban Revolutionary Front. He was the leader of MRR, (Movement Of Revolutionary Recuperation) which began as a support group for the MIRR (Insurreccional Movement Of Revolutionary Recuperation) guerrillas in the Escambray Mountains. Other founders of MRR included Higinio "Nino" Diaz, Michael Yabor and Richardo Lorie. Manuel Artime was born in Cuba, on January 29, 1932. His father was a member of the Spanish Communist Party who became a naturalized Cuban citizen. This led to much speculation whether Manuel Artime was a Castro double-agent. Manuel Artime graduated from the University of Havana in 1949 and attended a Jesuit-run Medical School, but never obtained a medical degree. [CIA FOIA/PA Req. #59,997] In medical school, Manuel Artime ran a Catholic student group which opposed Fulgencio Batista. In late 1958 Manuel Artime went to the Sierra Maestre, where he joined a student guerilla group and fought against Batista's troops in several engagements. From 1958 to 1959, Manuel Artime was a second chief officer in the Cuban revolutionary army. Manuel Artime became a leader of the MRR (Movement of Revolutionary Recuperation). In 1959 Fidel Castro put Manuel Artime in charge of collective farming, but Manuel Artime had an argument with Ché Guevara. On October 29, 1959, Manuel Artime resigned his INRA (Institute of Agrarian Reform) command post, and accused Fidel Castro of planning to communize Cuba. When Fidel Castro ordered Raoul Castro to kill him, Manuel Artime went underground. He was hidden by the Havana CIA Station during a nationwide search. Manuel Artime joined pediatrician Orlando Bosch, [201-299292], and formed MIRR, (Insurreccional Movement of Revolution and Recovery) an anti-Castro group that operated within Cuba. Orlando Bosch had been the former chief of Fidel Castro's 26th of July Movement in Las Villas Province, Cuba. Four other former Castro Army officers and 100 deserters left for the Escambray Mountains in August 1960 and formed the nucleus of MIRR. According to STURGIS: "Orlando Bosch was a rebel leader in the Escambray Mountains. He had a group of approximately 1,500 guerrillas there. The CIA was maintaining this guerrilla force up to a point where orders came down that the guerrilla forces and activities had to be stopped. So naturally one of the boys came over with the military commander of this guerrilla force in Cuba, came over to try to make contact in the local area with the CIA or personal contact in order to continue the supply of these forces in the Escambray Mountains." Sometime in 1960 BERNARD BARKER had exfiltrated Manuel Artime from Cuba to Mexico aboard a Honduran ship. In April 1960 Manuel Artime entered the United States from Mexico, where "he was alleged to have the CIA job for recruiting former Batista military men for sabotage activities in Cuba." In April 1960 HUNT recruited him for the Cuban Revolutionary Front. That month, CIA Office of Security Chief Sheffield Edwards requested an FBI records check on Manuel Artime.

ROBERTO ALEJOS AND THE BAY OF PIGS INVASION

Circa April 1960 Guatemala President Ydigoras Fuentes gave the CIA permission to operate in his country. The Guatemalan CIA Chief of Station secured the use of a large plantation, owned by Roberto Alejos, that was immediately turned into a training base for the Cuban Revolutionary Front. [HUNT Day p27, 29] HUNT'S associate in PB SUCCESS, Guatemalan Chief of Station Robert K. Davis, aided HUNT in this effort. Tony Varona reported that "HUNT had him meet with Roberto Alejos in a Miami Hotel for the purpose of obtaining land in Guatemala. Varona believes it was arranged between President Ydigoras and the United States at a higher level than the CIA." On March 27, 1961, the Chief of the CIA's Alien Affairs Staff arranged for Cuban exiles Miro Cardona, Tony Varona and Manuel Artime to be readmitted to the United States along with Guatemalan citizens Roberto Alejos and Carlos Hevia. On September 13, 1960, the FBI reported that:

Cuban exiles think the Cuban Revolutionary Front has U.S. support but does not represent the best interests of Cuba. (Deleted) MRR counter-revolutionary organization belonging to the Cuban Revolutionary Front has split in leadership. The Cuban Revolutionary Front backed Manuel Artime as MRR leader. Expelled MRR members, some Authentic Organization members and Pedro Diaz Lanz formed Alliance of Liberation. (Deleted).

THE CUBAN REVOLUTIONARY COUNCIL

The FRD was created with Agency assistance, guidance and financial support in May 1960 and consisted of several anti-Castro groups. The FRD was formed as a political action, propaganda and military unit. It not only helped recruit for Brigade 2506 but also carried on a massive program of social assistance for Brigade 2506 members and their families. The FRD headquarters was in Miami but delegates were assigned to New Orleans, Tampa and Mexico City.

In late 1960 or early 1961 the Cuban Revolutionary Council was formed to coordinate and direct Cuban Revolutionary Front activities with Agency and White House support. The Cuban Revolutionary Front continued to function until October 1961 when it was completely absorbed by the Cuban Revolutionary Council. Because of the magnitude of the Cuban Revolutionary Front and Cuban Revolutionary Council operations and Agency participation, a large number of Headquarters and JMWAVE personnel were directly involved with the FRD and CRC personnel. The CRC also had direct access to President Kennedy and White House aides. [CIA Subject FRD 10.30.67]

The Cuban Revolutionary Council was formed because President Kennedy insisted the Agency draft a new Cuban constitution before he gave a tentative go-ahead for the Bay of Pigs invasion. The President demanded that the Cuban Revolutionary Front be expanded to include the democratic socialist elements of the exile community like the group led by Manolo Ray, JURE. The Kennedy Administration wanted every exile group, except Batistianos, included in the Cuban Revolutionary Council. HUNT told the Rockefeller Commission:

When President Kennedy was elected in November 1960, he was briefed on the project and confirmed the plans, including the plan to provide air cover to the invading Cuban force. In early 1961, however, the Kennedy administration decided that the political organization of the Cuban government in exile would have to be broadened so as to include all elements of the Cuban society. Even radical leftwingers were to be included. Hunt was assigned the job of convincing the leaders of the Cuban community to accept such a broadening of the political structure of the government in exile, Hunt found this to be an impossible job to accomplish because the Cubans recruited to make up the invasion force had been promised that the government in exile would be solidly anti-Castro and anti-communist. Hunt asked to be relieved of his assignment because he thought it was an impossible one to achieve and he returned to Washington to work on propaganda and similar non-political aspects of the forthcoming invasion.

HUNT was put under pressure by his superiors to admit Manolo Ray and replace Tony Varona with Miro Cardona Ruben.

MIRO CARDONA RUBEN

On March 22, 1961 the FRD joined with the Movimiento Revolucionario del Pueblo (MRP) headed by Manuel Ray Rivero, to form the Revolutionary Council. Dr. Jose Miro Cardona, a Cuban attorney and former law professor at the University of Havana, was named President of the Revolutionary Council. Dr. Miro Cardona had served as Prime Minister in the first Cabinet formed by Fidel Castro upon the fall of the Batista Government. He later served as Cuban Ambassador to Spain, and was still later designated Cuban Ambassador to the United States, but resigned to take asylum in the Argentine Embassy in Cuba, before coming to the United States in October 1960, as a political exile. He immediately began to attempt to unify the Cuban exiles into one organization. He encountered considerable opposition and criticism for many Cuban exile leaders, because he was regarded as a "Johnny-come-lately" and because he had signed, as Prime Minister in the Castro Administration certain retroactive laws and other measure which were obnoxious to Cuban exiles. They also claimed that Miro Cardona had never been a political leader in Cuba, had no following either inside or outside of Cuba, and therefore not qualified to become a revolutionary leader. On October 10, 1961 the FRD was officially dissolved and the Cuban Revolutionary Council was created as the coordinating committee of a number of leading anti-Castro groups of Cuban exiles. Dr. Miro Cardona emerged as President of the CRC. [FBI 105-107224-16]

Miro Cardona had been of interest to the CIA since September 19, 1955 "****Locator Data: Order from IP/CFS - GC52 201-0097050." Traces on Miro Cardona were all marked "Not Applicable." [Holmes Russell B CI/EXO Index Search and 201 Consolidation Request 9.2.77 IP/FI Control No. 10 Sep 6 77]

HUNT AGAIN RECOMMENDS CASTRO'S ASSASSINATION

In July 1960 HUNT met with his former associate, Brigadier General Robert Cushman. When HUNT returned to Washington in the spring of 1950 he had shared an office with Robert Cushman, who later served as Deputy Director/CIA from 1969 to 1972. In July 1960 President Dwight Eisenhower ordered the Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, Allen Dulles, to brief the opposition candidate, Senator John F. Kennedy, on Cuba. When Allen Dulles reported to the National Security Council that he had done so NIXON "exploded." Under no circumstances, said NIXON, should John Kennedy have had knowledge of the invasion. [DDI Robert Amory as quoted in Wyden Bay of Pigs p67]

During the famous NIXON/Kennedy televised debates, the U-2 incident, Quemoy, Matsu and the overthrow of Jacobo Arbenz - which NIXON pointed to as a model for dealing with Fidel Castro's Cuba - were all debated. NIXON took a soft line toward Cuba during the debates, and accused John Kennedy of advancing a "shockingly reckless" proposal that could set off World War III. Later, NIXON confessed that he had taken this position because, "the covert operation had to be protected at all costs. I must go to the other extreme: I must attack the Kennedy proposal...as wrong and irresponsible because it would violate our treaty commitments." A few days after the aborted Bay of Pigs invasion, NIXON met privately with the Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, Allen Dulles. Later, he commented: "I would have invaded Cuba." NIXON expressed his fear that "Kennedy, having been burned in Cuba, will be reluctant to stand up to the Communists in Vietnam."

HUNT supported NIXON in the November 1960 election, while most Catholic Cuban exiles voted for John F. Kennedy, because of his stronger rhetoric regarding Cuba during the debates. HUNT understood that NIXON, as a planner of the Bay of Pigs, did not want to sound bellicose during the debates: it might have alerted Castro to the intention of the United States to invade Cuba.

HUNT stated,

Many Cuban exiles turned against Kennedy I think that particularly my leadership [member of the FRD and CRC] that have been so avid for Kennedy support in the candidates against NIXON that they became very bitterly hostile to Kennedy because they had placed faith in him and that faith had been abused. Do I think that they could have been [involved in the assassination]. I think you have to put a name of that. I don't know of anybody off hand.

RICHARD NIXON AND THE BAY OF PIGS

After a meeting with Fidel Castro in 1959, NIXON drafted a memorandum to President Dwight D. Eisenhower that emphasized his belief that Fidel Castro was a particularly dangerous Communist. Indeed, NIXON took credit for having the CIA train Cuban exiles to overthrow Fidel Castro, as he wrote in My Six Crises, "The covert training of Cuban exiles by the CIA was due, in substantial part, to my efforts." Former NIXON Chief of Staff H.R. Haldeman related that former Costa Rican President Jose Figueres, who was in power when the United States prepared for the Bay of Pigs invasion, stated that the invasion was NIXON'S idea. HUNT wrote that after NIXON became the White House Action Officer of the invasion, "he approved dirty tricks and terror." General Robert Cushman advised HUNT that NIXON, who was the "White House projects action officer," wanted to be sure nothing went wrong. According to HUNT, NIXON was "intimately involved with the operational planning from his National Security Council position...I believe he chaired the National Security Council in that capacity." A CIA analysis of the Give Us This Day manuscript revealed: "HUNT describes a luncheon that he and Jake Esterline had with Robert Cushman, Vice President NIXON'S Assistant for National Security Affairs. HUNT had known Robert Cushman when the latter had an earlier CIA tour, and Jake Esterline said that Robert Cushman followed the Cuban Project for the Vice President. HUNT states that NIXON, 'as chairman [sic] of the National Security Council, was the real spark plug behind the project,' and the Administration's focal point and trouble shooter regarding it. The General gave HUNT his private telephone number in the event that he had something for the Vice President's urgent attention." Former Director of the CIA Richard Helms was asked about NIXON'S connection to the Bay of Pigs invasion:

A. I have no idea. I don't think so but I never heard it. I never heard it alleged that he did.

Q. All right. I don't mean that he was actually sitting there doing it, but he had an awareness of it and he was acting in a more than advisory position.

A. But to my personal knowledge I know nothing about this. [Helms Depo. HUNT V WEBERMAN]

In late April 1960 HUNT flew to Madrid to debrief a Cuban Military Attaché, then flew to Cuba. What he saw in Cuba so appalled him that he vowed to "rid Cuba of Castro and his henchmen regardless of personal cost and effort." He wrote that he recommended to the CIA to Assassinate Castro before of coincident with a Cuban invasion (a job for Cuban patriots). Barnes and Bissell read my report, pondered the recommendations and said that it would weigh in the final planning. (As the months wore on I was to ask Barnes repeatedly about the action on my principal recommendation only to be told it was 'in the hands of a special group.' So far as I have been able to determine no coherent plan was ever developed within CIA to assassinate Castro, though it was the hearts desire of many exile groups.

On February 6, 1976, Richard Bissell prepared a statement in which he denied having received a written recommendation of this nature:

I do not recall any communication, written or oral, with HUNT regarding assassination. However, I do not dispute Mr. HUNT'S testimony that I received such a communication. In particular, I do not recall telling HUNT or anyone else that planning for the assassination of Castro was 'in the hands of a special group.' I can only speculate that I would have been referring to the operation of Sheffield Edwards and Jim O'Connell to develop a means of assassinating Castro. I do not believe that any such remark would have referred to the Special Group of the National Security Council." [NARA SSCIA 157-10007-10021 prepared by Frederick D. Baron 2.10.76]

HUNT told the SSCIA:

I would like to dilate a bit on that because it never occurred to me that the Agency did not have an assassination capability. This perhaps was as a result of my earlier contact with Colonel Pash or what I heard about him, and that is another reason why I indicated in my written report that this was a job for Cuban patriots. In other words, I was making a clear distinction. I was saying to Mr. Bissell, I don't feel this is something that one of our people ought to do because there are plenty of people who are available on the outside. And then if I can just go off a bit to what happened with that. I asked Mr. Bissell at a later time if any action was being taken on my recommendation, and particularly on my first recommendation, the assassination recommendation. And he told me, he said 'That's in the hands either of a group or the group.' And at this distance in time I simply can't tell what it was he said. But my understanding was at that point contemporaneously that the matter was being looked into and taken care of and indeed, following some of the testimony that I've since read as a result of the Church Committee hearings, it's my understanding that the matter was in hand long before I made my survey trip to Havana. Of course that brings me to the problem now of knowing whether Bissell meant the special group [a subunit of the NSC].

HUNT denied having personally plotted against Fidel Castro during the remainder of his testimony. Andrew St. George wrote:

E. HOWARD HUNT was a FIORINI friend. It was in one of HUNT'S cloak and dagger books, Bimini Run, that FRANK found his cover name of

FRANK STURGIS. [St. George quoted STURGIS] "Killing wasn't in Liddy except for talk. HUNT was different, he was a professional. He'd been a clandestine services officer all his life. That's another thing everyone is snickering about - how HOWARD HUNT tried to assassinate Castro, and Castro is still around, bigger than ever. Alright, but hey, listen, HOWARD HUNT was in charge of a couple of other CIA operations that involved 'disposal' and I can tell you some of them worked. [Andrew St. George, Swank 8.74]

When the Rockefeller Commission questioned him about this statement STURGIS "denied ever saying this. HUNT was a political officer and wouldn't have had a hand in killings." The CIA reported: "There were indications that Subject attempted to use his personal influence with the President of Uruguay to have his assignment there extended, but he returned to the United States in June 1960 and was assigned to Mexico City on Project JMARC. In November 1960 Subject was re-assigned to Headquarters." [CIA Evans, Fredrick N. Memo 8.30.71] The CIA reported, "Information contained in HUNT's file indicates possibility that he attempted to cancel his transfer from Uruguay by political maneuvering. The President of Uruguay reportedly indicated his intention, in private conversation with President Eisenhower, to request cancellation of his transfer from Montevideo."

REPORT OF INVESTIGATION
OOB (CATEGORY OF REPORT)
FIELD OFFICE (DELETED)
CASE No. 23500 E. H. H. Jr.
DATE February 23, 1961
PERIOD OF INVESTIGATION September 30, 1960
REPORT MADE BY GEORGE P. LOCKER Jr.
CHARACTER OF CASE E/SB/3

Numerous documents regarding this case have been marked ACCESS RESTRICTED. Another case involved HUNT'S activities on October 3, 1960. It was investigated by John. B. Cryer. Yet another investigation was conducted on August 1, 1960 regarding an incident that took place July 31 and August 1, 1960. This one was investigated by Francis R. Favorini, the special agent in charge of the New York office of the Central Intelligence Agency. On March 16, 1963 Favorini signed off on a document that placed James McCord in the Manhattan Field office. The name Walter P. Tate Jr. also appears on this document. A Walter Franklin Tate served in the CIA for 31 years. (photo right) [<http://www.maryferrell.org/mffweb/archive/viewer/showDoc.do?mode=searchResult&absPagelId=483659>] HUNT spent July 1960 to October 1960 in Mexico City. On July 5, 1960, Harry W. Little Jr. Chief, Central Cover Division, sent this memorandum to the Chief, Records and Services Division, about HUNT: "Cover arrangements are in process and or have been completed for above-named Subject. Effective immediately, it is requested that your records be properly blocked to deny Subjects (Deleted) to an external inquirer. This memo confirms an oral request of Richard J. Biladeau." HUNT'S family lived in Washington, D.C., from October 1960 to July 1961. In August 1960 HUNT moved to Miami, where his headquarters was an electronics firm in Coral Gables allegedly involved in government work. HUNT had Geraldine Shamma rent a safehouse on Brickell Avenue in the fall of 1960. On September 27, 1960, approval was given use of a cover name and false identification that included a Washington, D.C. drivers permit. [Memo C/TSD/IB Attention E. J. McGrath, signed by Joseph F. Langan Chief WH/4/SO (?)] On October 3, 1960, HUNT was given a cover name. On October 21, 1960, HUNT was given a mail drop by Victor R. White. His position with the CIA was described as "a point of contact for political action types connected with the Project. Since the first (?) in July 1960 he has been utilized in this same capacity in Mexico City. Documentation being issued consists of a (deleted) and various club and organization and carrying a (deleted) address." The same finance officer who had worked with HUNT on the overthrow of Arbenz gave him $150,000 in cash for distribution to deserving exile groups. The training of Cuban exiles was progressing well in Guatemala. Hit-and-run strikes against Cuba increased, as did internal sabotage. The CIA stated:

A cable from Montevideo, dated November 6, 1960, indicates that HUNT had written former Uruguayan contacts commenting that he was working on the Cuban problem and publishing an anti-Castro newspaper in Miami. It was recommended that the Subject be warned about such indiscreet remarks, but apparently no action was taken.

Bruce Solie of CIA Office of Security Research Staff had his Deputy investigate HUNT: "Attached is a copy of a cable which was brought to my attention by Mr. O'Neal, CI/SIG. Mr. Horton had requested that Mr. O'Neal check concerning any information developed by OS. [CIA Solie Memo 1.24.61]

The Coast Guard began interfering with exile operations against Cuba in late 1960. [HUNT Day p70] CIA supply missions to Manuel Artime and the Cuban guerrilla counterparts of the Cuban Revolutionary Front were halted. HUNT commented, "It's as though Castro was a friend." In November 1960 John F. Kennedy was elected President. The Cuban exile community was jubilant - until recruitment for the Guatemalan training base was suddenly stopped, paralyzing project activity.

Gerry Droller (aka Frank Bender), a former OSS man who had been a resistance organizer behind Nazi lines, and had worked with HUNT on the overthrow of Jacobo Arbenz, told HUNT not to worry: "After NIXON and Allen Dulles have briefed Kennedy it will be full speed ahead: Kennedy campaigned on a promise to back them." Gerry Droller interviewed Fidel Castro on behalf of the CIA. Fidel Castro persuaded Gerry Droller that he was a nationalist and an anti-communist. [HUNT Day p75; Hinckle & Turner Deadly Secrets p30] On December 20, 1960, in reference to HUNT, "An (deleted) for (Deleted) obtained in Washington, D.C." On September 30, 1960 a '(deleted) Washington, D.C. The primary purpose of the (deleted) was to (deleted). The owner of the premises referred to is a matter of previous record. File #23, 500."

Some idea of HUNT and Gerry Droller's operations in 1960 was provided by Mrs. Clark Valentiner, who rented a room next to one that was chosen by Gerry Droller for meeting between himself, Manuel Artime, Nino Diaz, Ricardo Lorie, William Kent, Manuel Goudie, Bernard Reichhardt, Sanchez Arrango and Michael Yebor. Four of the men were members of the Cuban Revolutionary Front. Bender started out by saying how disturbed he was over the split in the MRR and how unhappy he was with it. "An additional point, sometime in the conversation, Bender raised the point that the Frente was stalling on him; for instance in its dragging its feet on the move to Mexico which had been recently brought to their attention again by his and Bender's associate, HUNT..." Richardo Lorie was mentioned by HUNT in Give Us This Day. He was described as a Castro partisan who defected early.

FBI Special Agent Davis indicated that at 3:00 p.m. on July 19, 1960, a call was received from Mrs. Clark Valentiner, wife of executive of the Continental Can Company, Havana, Cuba, who reported that she had overheard a discussion of an anti-Castro group...Mrs. Valentiner had noticed the license plates of the participants at the meeting conducted in Room 209 at the University Court Resort Hotel. S.A. Davis was to contact Mr. Valentiner for the purpose of determining what she overheard, to tell her to refrain from discussing this matter further with anyone, and also to caution her friends whom she had told of the incident to do likewise. S.A. Davis mentioned that Mrs. Valentiner had returned to her room, 210, at the University Court Motel at 11:30 a.m. and noticed billows of smoke emanating from a crack under her kitchen door. Upon examining the situation, she overheard loud conversing in the connecting room. In listening further Mrs. Valentiner was able to record the conversation in Room 209 by taking copious notes. Mrs. Valentiner believed there were three Cubans present together with two other individuals whose nationality she could not determine but whose names she established to be Frank Bender and (Deleted). One of the Cubans served as an interpreter and Bender spoke with a distinct Germanic accent. Mrs. Clark Valentiner told Davis that Mr. Bender stated during the meeting he was 'hired by the United States to do away with Castro..' Mrs. Clark Valentiner also noted during the meeting references to HOWARD and HUNT, which she surmised to be one HOWARD HUNT. S.A. Davis indicated that he interviewed Mrs. Valentiner in her quarters in the motel on July 20, 1960. The writer, at this point, inquired as to the size of the crack underneath Mrs. Valentiner's kitchen door. Davis answered by stating that it was large (exact dimensions not noted). He further declared that she had mentioned to him that she was able to observe the portion of the leg (to the knee) of many of the individuals participating in the discussion. The writer further queried Davis as to whether she had any knowledge of Spanish. Davis replied that she possesses fluent knowledge of Spanish after having resided in Cuba for ten years. Her husband has lived in Cuba for 30 years. While at the motel Davis observed that she had notes of the conversation which she referred to during the interview. It should be noted that these notes were not confiscated by Davis. Mrs. Valentiner, according to Davis, did a little investigating on her own. After the meeting of the group was over, Frank Bender called National Airlines to confirm his reservations for July 19, 1960. Mrs. Valentiner called National Airlines and determined that Bender was destined for Washington, D.C."

Sheffield Edwards conducted an investigation which concluded: "Consideration should be given how these notes should be recovered or destroyed." [CIA EX/ #1 7.20.60 MASH 0257, Ex.3 7.22.60; CIA Syn. The letterhead memorandum was classified as Secret as the unauthorized disclosure could result in serious damage to the U.S. such as jeopardizing international relations and endangering the effectiveness of a program of vital importance to our national defense.

Local dissemination was not made in accordance with Bureau instructions. Source utilized was Juan Aguilar, a Cuban exile residing in Puerto Rico who was formerly Industrial Relations Attorney for the Texas Co. in Cuba and who is now affiliated with MANUEL Inc. a San Juan insurance firm. He requested that his identity be concealed. No comment was made to him by S.A. Robert A. Berminham the interviewing agent, concerning the possibility that CIA was backing the FRD or was preparing an invasion force." [FBI 105-87912-143 1.12.61]

SUBJECT: HUNT #23500

Attached is a copy of a cable which was brought to my attention by Mr. O'Neal, CI/SIG. Mr. Horton had requested that Mr. O'Neal check any information developed by the Office of Security. The attached cable indicates that Subject is furnishing information of a type which he should not be furnishing, to certain (Deleted as of 2010) whom he presumably knew during previous assignment in (Deleted as of 2010). The cable also appears to raise the question concerning how Subject could recently purchase a $70,000 home in Washington, D.C. A check of Subject file indicates that Subject has some outside income since he has written a number of pocket books and he has certain corporation stocks. The following security action is recommended:

(a) Credit checks be conducted on Subject in Washington, D.C. area and information obtained in regard to his home including financial arrangements.

(b) Appropriate officials of JMARC briefed concerning the information regarding (deleted as of 2010) and a discreet inquiry made concerning whether Subject is making any other indiscreet remarks and statements concerning his current assignment.

Subject has been a problem in the past and apparently continues to be a problem. If information can be obtained other than the cable information which apparently could not be used, it is felt that Subject should be given at least a strong warning concerning indiscreet remarks and unauthorized disclosure of information.

On February 21, 1961, a Office Memo was sent to Chief SB/3 from OL Subject 23500 (HUNT). This date (deleted) WH/4/SO advised we can cancel NC." HUNT, PHILLIPS AND BAY OF PIGS: APRIL 1961

In April 1961 HUNT said he resigned from the Cuban Revolutionary Council in protest over the inclusion of Manolo Ray:

Q. When did you resign as liaison officer?

A. It was on or about the -- well, I'd say the April 10, 1961.

Q. Could you give the reason for your resignation?

A. Well, I was asked to do certain things which I declined to do and I asked to be relieved.

Q. Did that included the joining of Manolo Reyes to the Council?

A. Yes.

Q. And this was against your principles?

A. It was against the principles the United States had held up to the exiles, yes.

Q. Your instructions were to include Manolo Reyes in the Cuban Revolutionary Council at the insistence of President Kennedy?

A. I don't know.

Q. But your direct instructions came from the person?

A. That's correct.

However, on March 18, 1961, HUNT agreed to work under the cover of propagandist for the Cuban Revolutionary Council and for the Bay of Pigs invasion, which was imminent. [HUNT Day pp. 140, 142, 153, 175] The CIA reported: "The Cuban Revolutionary Council had direct access to President Kennedy and top White House aides."

During his deposition in HUNT v. WEBERMAN, BARKER described HUNT as "air commander or chief of CIA" during the Bay of Pigs. While reporting on one of HUNT'S Watergate hearings, The N.Y. Times described HUNT as having "operational charge of the Bay of Pigs." William Buckley indicated "HOWARD HUNT was intimately involved as an official in the CIA, in the Bay of Pigs. Indeed, The New York Times named him as the principal CIA official directly involved in that venture." [Buckley Firing Line 1.18.73]

Thomas McCann, a former public relations man for United Fruit, stated: "In the early days of the Kennedy Administration, the CIA approached the management of the United Fruit Company and told them that the United States was sponsoring a counter-revolutionary movement with the objective of unseating Fidel Castro. The project was masterminded by an old hand at such things, E. HOWARD HUNT. The CIA wanted us to supply two of our freighters to convey men, munitions and materiel during the invasion." [McCann United Fruit p93] In March 1961 President Kennedy changed the site of the Cuban invasion from a beach near a city, to Playa Giron (Bay of Pigs), a desolate area surrounded by swamps. HUNT regarded this decision as "the ultimate in folly." He informed BARKER that, as a result of his interaction with the Kennedy Administration, he had decided it was becoming "increasingly hard to identify the enemy." HUNT was no longer sure if he should try to kill Fidel Castro, or John Kennedy. The scenario of the CIA-sponsored Bay of Pigs invasion called for the murder of Fidel Castro. It was reported by some sources that Fidel Castro did ingest some poison just before the invasion, although these reports have never been confirmed. In any event, Fidel Castro did not die.

KENNEDY WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR FAILURE OF THE INVASION

In an article in Fortune Magazine, Charles J.V. Murphy, Frank Wisner's close friend, pointed out that the CIA was not to blame for the Bay of Pigs, because it had pleaded with President Kennedy for the air strike. President Kennedy wondered if Charles J.V. Murphy's information came from the Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, Allen Dulles. Allen Dulles asked HUNT to conduct an investigation that would clear him. HUNT allegedly trailed the leak back to an unnamed official in the Kennedy Administration who had supported the invasion. Despite HUNT'S investigation, President Kennedy believed that Allen Dulles was behind the leak. HUNT and PHILLIPS blamed the Kennedy Administration. HUNT believed "the second air strike was basic to the success of the invasion. The fact that it was not honored resulted in the defeat of the Brigade." HUNT held President Kennedy responsible.

THE BAY OF PIGS MANUSCRIPT- GIVE US THIS DAY

HUNT felt so adamantly about the Bay of Pigs he was willing to put his career in the CIA on the line by circulating a manuscript about the bungled invasion. In his analysis of

Give Us This Day, Walter Pforzheimer, the Curator of the Historical Intelligence Collection of the CIA, noted:

The manuscript has evidently been kicking around in publishing circles since at least mid-1968, presumably without CIA clearance. William Buckley of the National Review seems to have been shopping it at one point. One publisher rejected it as too controversial and noted its confidential nature as well as its potential for libel suits.

2. In the foreword to this manuscript, the author, (whom I shall refer to under the assumed name of Hamilton describes the book as a “personal account” of CIA’s role in the Bay of Pigs affair in which he was a senior CIA participant for 19 months. He notes in the foreword his hope that someone would have written this book so that he would not have to do it. Now convinced that, if does not write it, it will never be written, he had taken up his pen “reluctantly and in a mood of nostalgic bitterness.” Hamilton states he has used no official files of documents and has consulted no one in preparing this work. Where true names are used in the manuscript for CIA personnel, he writes they have been publicly identified before, and in this contention I believe he is correct, with the possible exception of (deleted as of 2010). The author’s claim that this book would provide information not known to Castro’s intelligence services or that details his late are of no value to the opposition, is, in my view, seriously open to question.

3. The book is, in general, favorable to the CIA actions in the Bay of Pigs. The villains of the piece are certain liberal figures in the Kennedy Administration (Schlesinger, Goodwin, Stevenson) and to some extent, the President himself. In his concluding chapter, the author’s bitterness is undisguised against those in the Administration and the press who took the opportunity of the Bay of Pigs incident to attack and denigrate the CIA.

Bissell and Barnes and the author’s other CIA co-workers in the Cuban Project, by and large, are given quite favorable treatment. One exception is General Cabell, whom the author excoriates, and it is apparent that Hamilton’s opinion of Jerry Droller is far from favorable both on political and professional grounds.

5. It is apparent that HAMILTON [HUNT] feels very deeply about the Bay of Pigs and its aftermath, to the extent that he is willing to put his career on the line by circulating this manuscript to several publishers without apparent clearance or authorization. He has utilized his nom de plume the same name assigned to him in the project for dealing with the Cuban Front and it would not take anyone who was involved in the Cuban Project more than a few pages of reading to identify the author, as one potential publisher pointed out. The manuscript itself is the most comprehensive story of a CIA operation that has ever been written for publication...The author's claim that his book would provide no information not known to Castro's intelligence service or that details this late are of no value to the opposition, is, in my view, seriously open to question. [CIA EYES ONLY 2.16.70]

The CIA:

In January 1967 (Deleted) prepared a memorandum concerning Arlington House Publishers which, based on hearsay, indicated that a fight was going on for control of the company. One rumor was that CIA wanted to take over control. Apparently this memo was again brought to the attention of C/SRS in April 1970 with the comment by (Deleted) 'In going through some of (Deleted's) old reports, I found this. Possibly of interest in view of HUNT'S manuscript.' The buck slip was marked 'Noted PFG.' In June 1970 when I was assigned to the (Deleted)/SRS, there was a copy of HUNT'S manuscript on the Bay of Pigs being retained in a safe in the C/(Deleted) office. Some time later I learned that (Deleted) had apparently obtained it through a contact and had forwarded it to this office as an item of probable interest. The Agency was able to ascertain the identity of the author, who turned out to be HOWARD HUNT. HUNT was, I believe, at that time, employed by the Agency with DOD. In any case he was approached under some guise and was convinced that it would be inappropriate for him to have the book published at that time.

On February 17, 1970 this Transmittal Slip was generated: "Mr. Gaynor discussed his meeting with T. K. and SAC. JIM McCORD to meet Wiley today and will find out more details of how Wiley and the Ms. came together. Sam Walker also in picture. Hold per PG for further word before other action." On January 14, 1975, Raymond Rocca had HUNT make numerous deletions in HUNT'S autobiography, Undercover. Give Us This Day, written in 1968, contained this passage:

No event since the communization of China in 1949 has had such a profound effect on the United States and their allies as the defeat of the United States trained Cuban invasion brigade at the Bay of Pigs in April, 1961. Out of that humiliation grew the Berlin Wall, the missile crisis, guerilla warfare throughout Latin America and Africa, and our intervention in the Dominican Republic. Fidel Castro's beachhead triumph opened a bottomless Pandora's box of difficulties that affected not only the United States, but most of its Free World allies. These bloody and subversive events would not have taken place had Castro been toppled. Instead of standing firm, our government pyramided crucially wrong decisions and allowed Brigade 2506 to be destroyed...Let this not be forgotten...LEE HARVEY OSWALD was a partisan of Fidel Castro, and an admitted Marxist who made desperate efforts to join the Red Revolution in Havana. In the end, he was an activist for the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. But for Castro and the Bay of Pigs disaster there would have been no such 'committee.' And perhaps no assassin named LEE HARVEY OSWALD.

Several years after he wrote this paragraph, questioned under oath about his knowledge of OSWALD'S connection to the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, HUNT stated: "If you say [he had a connection]. I have no idea." HUNT wrote: "But for Castro and the Bay of Pigs disaster there would have been no such 'committee.' And perhaps no assassin named LEE HARVEY OSWALD." Was he referring to the CIA rogue "committee," whose goal it was to kill President Kennedy that had invented OSWALD? HUNT stated: "I felt Mr. Kennedy was weak when he should have been strong. I felt that he was over-influenced by his senior advisors. I felt that he had not demonstrated the qualities of statesmanship that most of us had come to expect of the Chief Executive." HEMMING distorted events surrounding the Bay of Pigs so it would look like there was not motive to kill Kennedy:

Cabell lied and he never spoke to the President. The air strike was canceled on his word. It was Cabell's fault, not Kennedy's. Who the fuck was he doing this for? That's what ANGLETON asked. He was pissed with Cabell. Was this a ploy to have these guys stuck on the beach? Kennedy was already talking détente with Castro. Get off the Russian tit. Make arrangements for promissory notes and bonds for the confiscated property.

Other evidence suggested that President Kennedy deliberately betrayed his own paramilitary force and was guilty of treason. Newsman Bill Moyers reported that John F. Kennedy advisor Arthur Schlesinger told him: "President Kennedy was troubled by the plan and made this comment just before authorizing the Bay of Pigs invasion, 'If we have to get rid of these men it is much better to dump them in Cuba than in the United States, especially if that is where they wish to go.'"

On October 12, 1961, Bruce Solie, C/RB/SRS wrote: "Attached is a copy of a memorandum dated September 29, 1961, concerning a request for permission for the Subject to reestablish contact with (deleted). Mr. O'Neal, CI/SIG, brought the attached to the attention of the undersigned and the contact has been approved by Mr. Helms...Although the above contact of the Subject with (Deleted) is (Deleted) EAB was advised of the above by the undersigned and the above is being made a matter of record in Subject file." In November 1961 HUNT was reassigned to the DDP/ Covert Action Staff and in January 1962 to the Office of the Chief of the same Staff. In July 1962 HUNT was transferred to the DODS Research and Publications Section in Washington. Another CIA document states on May 29, 1962, HUNT was reassigned within the Domestic Operations Division effective July 1, 1962. In July 1962 Subject was transferred to the Research and Publications Section, Facilities Branch, Domestic Operations Division, Deputy Director/Plans, Washington, where he worked as an Operations Officer under Tracy Barnes. On July 31, 1964, he joined the Domestic Operations Division Covert Action Staff and worked under Cord Meyer.

The Rockefeller Commission reported HUNT joined the Covert Action Staff of the Domestic Operations Division in August 1961, and worked out of Field Office, Domestic Operations Division/Deputy Director /Plans, as Chief Operations Officer. HUNT'S office building was located one block from the White House (1750 Pennsylvania Avenue). The rear flyleaf of OSWALD'S address book contained the markings "815 Penn." Radiology Associates of Tarrant County was located at 815 Pennsylvania Ave, Fort Worth, TX.

LATE 1962

On August 29, 1962, HUNT filed out a Request for Cover (Deleted)

Inclusion of SAC on the Domestic Cover List is requested for the reason noted below. When notified that cover has been established, SAC will be specifically authorized and instructed to (Deleted). Subject is currently included on the (Deleted). For the reason noted below, it requested that this employee be removed from the (Deleted) Type Suggested (Specify (deleted) Justification if (deleted) Suggested. Approved by Central Cover Division Requesting Official, (Deleted) Chief, Security, DODS.

On September 21, 1962, an answer to his request was generated:

Notification of Establishment of Cover. To Chief Operating Component Attention Miss Lynch. Submit Form 313-A to change limitation to category 3, submit form (deleted) for any change (Deleted), submit (deleted) form for transferring (deleted). Signed James W. Franklin, Chief Central Cover Division

On October 29 1962, HUNT filled out a SUPPLEMENTAL PERSONAL HISTORY STATEMENT for the CIA. HUNT's present supervisor was Stanley H. Gaines, C/DODS/OPS. "Additional Remarks: Between July 1960 and March 1961 I was with Project JMATE, assigned to Mexico City and Coral Gables, Florida, where I was known under the operational alias of Edward J. Hamilton." On November 14, 1962, the CIA generated a document about HUNT'S wife's possible employment that was addressed to the Chief, Personnel Security Division, OS, through the Chief, Employee Activity Branch/PSD/OS. Reference was made to a memo from HUNT dated November 7, 1962.

1. Subject, Chief, R & P/DODS/DD/P who has [32] cover, indicates that his wife, Mrs. Dorothy L. Hunt has been employed by Communications Consultants International (OS-NR) which firm does public relations work for the Spanish Embassy. The firms contract is to be cancelled soon and acquaintances at the Spanish Embassy have suggested to Mrs. Hunt that she help them on a part time basis doing translations, statistical research and occasional letters for the Ambassador. Subject indicates also that most of this work would be done at home and that with Agency concurrence his wife had worked for the Spanish Embassy during 1955 to 1956. Subject requests security approval for his wife to accept employment with the Spanish Embassy. There is no indication that the request has been coordinated with the Chief, DODS.

2. (Deleted) Central Cover Group, advised that there were no cover objections to the proposed action.

3. Memorandum dated January 24, 1957, to DC/PSD from Bruce Solie in Subject's file indicates that the employment of Mrs. Hunt by the Spanish Embassy has been approved by the security officer in (Deleted). Subject's file indicated he has been a continuing security problem because of a tendency to disregard regulations and established procedures. OS file #35576 on Subject's wife indicates she (Deleted).

4. The proposed employment of Subject's wife by the Spanish Embassy appears incompatible with Subject's employment by CIA. In addition, although Mr. HUNT has official cover his Agency employment could be ascertained with resultant embarrassment to the Subject, the Agency or the nation. Accordingly, it is recommended that Subject's request be security disapproved. H. R. Dugan Appraisal Section.

THE DOMESTIC OPERATIONS DIVISION

According to HUNT, the Domestic Operations Division was formed

...after considerable bureaucratic struggle by Tracy Barnes the new division accepted both personnel and projects unwanted elsewhere in the CIA...Many men connected with the Bay of Pigs failure were shunted into the new domestic unit.

The charter of the Domestic Operations Division outlined its mission:

To exercise central responsibility for the direction, support and coordination of clandestine operational activities of the Clandestine Services conducted within the United States against foreign targets in response to established operational requirements. Nothing in this instruction shall be construed to vest in DODS responsibility for the conduct of clandestine internal security or counter-intelligence operations in United States, former IO activities now assigned to Covert Action Staff or other categories of special activities designated by the Deputy Director of Plans from time to time. Organization: although DODS combines the aspects of both a division and a station, primary emphasis is placed on its station functions and the essential relationship of DODS to divisions and staffs parallels that of a foreign field station. The future establishment of subordinate domestic bases is envisioned. Functions: (Deleted). [NARA HSCA 180-10095-10058]

Tracy Barnes left the CIA in December 1966, and joined the faculty of Yale University. He died of a heart attack on February 20, 1972, at age 60, in his Rhode Island home. ANGLETON told Seymour Hersh that much more spying and other illegal activities were conducted by the Domestic Operations Division than by Counter-Intelligence. The charter of the Domestic Operations Division forbade it from conducting, "other categories of special activities designated by the Deputy Director of Plans from time to time." The words, from time to time, appear in the Charter of the CIA: "(5) To perform such other functions and duties related to intelligence affecting the national security as the National Security Council may from time to time direct." These words have often been interpreted as giving the National Security Council permission to commit a political assassination when the President felt it necessary. What "other functions affecting the national security" may be required by the President on an occasional basis? The assassination of a hostile national leader? After World War II, many people were asking themselves: "How many lives could have been saved if Adolf Hitler had been assassinated?"

HUNT said his work for the Domestic Operations Division involved subsidizing Frederick Praeger which he termed a CIA propaganda operation in that Praeger produced books at the request of the CIA. HUNT stated that Fodor Travel Guide Publishers was a CIA front the purpose of which was to provide cover for agents overseas. HUNT told The New York Times on December 31, 1974: "My staff ran a media operation known as Continental Press out of the National Press Building in Washington, D.C." On February 24, 1967, Frederick Praeger was quoted in The New York Times as having stated the he had published 15 or 16 books at the CIA's request. When this was publicized Henry L. Bretton, a Professor of Political Science, and author of the book The Rise and Fall of Kwame Nkrumah, published by Frederick Praeger Publishing, complained to his Congressman and to the CIA.

HUNT told the Rockefeller Commission: "January 1962 assigned to the DOD of DDP, handling proprietaries based in the U.S. (impact of which is abroad.) Immediate superior was Stanley Gaines was either Chief of Operations or Executive Officer of DOD and Tracy Barnes was Division Chief of DOD. (Barnes is cousin by marriage to Vice President Rockefeller). The proprietaries which Hunt was engaged in managing were the Continental News service which prepared news and radio broadcasts for foreign (Deleted) a cover operation and Fodor's Travel Guides a proprietary HUNT questioned whether it had any use. Fodor's had been set up in 1946 as cover operation but served no apparent use during the years HUNT was with DOD. Headquarters was at 1717 H Street N.W. and then later on Pennsylvania Avenue. This assignment lasted until spring 1965." [Olsen's Handwritten notes] The CIA: "As of November 1963, HUNT was assigned to (deleted) however, apparently Mr. HUNT had some collateral duties with Deputy Director Plans/Domestic Operations Division/Facilities Branch. Mr. HUNT was assigned to such tasks from November 1961 to February 1965." [HUNT as leader of Cov. Ops. of DOD: Complaint HUNT v. WEBERMAN USDC/SD Fla. Miami 76-1252-Civ-PF filed 7.28.76 para. 4B]

The word CRIST appears on the same page as ANGLETON AND FIORINI disguised as the word CHYSTAL. Note the dot that appears over the "Y". DAVID LEMAR CHRIST was born January 20, 1918, in Tamaqua, Pennsylvania. He died in December 1985 in Bethesda, Maryland. From 1935 to 1937 CHRIST worked in an ESSO gasoline station. From 1937 to 1942 he worked at the Atlas Powder Company in Pennsylvania, packing dynamite and bombs in gelatinous box packs. He joined the Air Force in 1943, where he became a Communications Officer, Cryptography Section, after training at Yale University. When the war ended he rejoined the Atlas Powder Company, received a B.S. from Pennsylvania State University in 1950, and then was recruited by the CIA in November 1950 as "the first research and development electronics engineer in what has evolved as the Technical Services Division. He created an Applied Physics Branch.

The CIA reported,

Mr. David L. Christ is recommended for the Intelligence Medal of Merit in recognition of his career of especially meritorious service which has contributed significantly to the missions of CIA. Mr. Christ joined CIA in November of 1950 as the first research and development electronics engineer in what has evolved as TSD. He created an Applied Physics Branch setting high standards for himself and the R&D engineers he recruited. His accomplishments included the anti-disturbance mine and the time pencil, both of which are still Agency stock items, and an IR beacon. As a pioneer in audio surveillance devices, he recognized very early that the use of systems concept would be most productive in meeting Agency needs. As part of his development program, his efforts led to the establishment of specialized contract facilities such as (deleted) which in 1953 was the first Agency source of transistorized equipment.

In early 1957, Mr. Christ was made Chief of what is now the Audio Operations Branch of TSD and, realizing that a drastic upgrading of the caliber of field technicians was required, began aggressively recruiting and training graduate engineers. His high standards and efforts in this area are reflected in the fact that the majority of TSD Audio mid-management personnel were recruited by him. In September 1960, he and two associates were apprehended while on an operation in a denied area. His exemplary conduct and personal courage during the resulting two and one-half years incarceration permitted the maintenance of a very difficult cover situation and successful extraction of all three men.

Upon his return, Mr. Christ joined the Office of Research and Development soon after its inception, assisting in the definition and establishment of the various divisions. Under his early guidance, the over-the-horizon radar program developed finally into an operational system. His sensitivity to the needs of Agency operational elements based upon his experience, his technical expertise and his dedicated desire to broaden the technological capabilities of the Agency precipitated his development of a major coordinated program of accelerated R&D to provide the clandestine services with a number of new audio surveillance techniques of which the laser probe is an example, and his conception and direction of the Micro technology R&D program. Within this program, the success of the micro-power transistor led to the award of Medals of Merit to two scientists under his supervision. Other progeny of the micro-technology concept are three novel intelligence gathering systems to function in the air, in space, and in the sea environments, one of which is approaching operational status. Mr. Christ has also been responsible for pioneering efforts in the area of Audio Surveillance Countermeasures, first proposing the application of computers to the problem.

Mr. Christ's imaginative leadership and inspiration to those working with him, his broad scope of interest, his resourcefulness, and philosophical devotion to the cause of the Agency and the United States have provided this Agency with an individual whose unique efforts and accomplishments over his 20 years service are worthy of this recognition.

October 1950 – January 1958 Christ was Deputy Chief, Applied Physics Branch. Recruitment, development and supervision of up to 20 professionals – electronic engineers and physicists – in research, development and engineering. Technical areas covered – electronics, acoustics, optics, electro-optics, magnetic, electromagnetic, solid state physics. Typical Programs: RF systems, microphones, recorders, transmitters, receivers, amplifiers, control systems, signal processing and enhancement, radar systems, audio and video circuitry and devices.

From April 16 1956 to May 6, 1956 CHRIST was bugging facilities in Japan, Formosa, Korea. In September 1956 CHRIST met with Captain William I. Bull, USN, Electronic Design Divisions to discuss details of a security nature regarding Navy Communication Channels (deleted as of 2010). From June 22, 1957 to July 8, 1957 he was planting bugs in Berlin, Frankfurt, Munich, In August 1957 the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission granted CHRIST a Q CLEARANCE. From September 17, 1957 to October 17, 1957 he was in Brazil, Uruguay, (HUNT was Chief of Station) Argentina, Chile and Panama. In December 1957 CHRIST was made Audio Operations Branch Chief of the Technical Services Division and he began aggressively recruiting and training electronics engineers. Ten R & D scientists worked under his direction. From March 7, 1958 to April 22, 1958 he was in Pakistan, Turkey, Iran, Greece, Germany and Belgium. From January 25, 1959 to February 18, 1959 he visited England, Germany. From January 21 1960 to January 28, 1960 he was in Mexico, (tourist with backstop). From March 12, 1960 to April 30, 1960 he was in Morocco, Greece and Germany. From January 1958 to August 1963: Chief, Technical Applications Group. Supervised 30 engineers and technicians; Engineered, produced, tested and evaluated components, devices and systems such as list below. Developed administrative, logistics, supply and training programs, and reliability procedure and programs to implement their effective application. August 1963 to November 1970 Chief, Applied Physics Division. STANDARD FORM NO. 64

Office Memorandum • UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT

TO : File
FROM : Chief, Personnel Security Branch
SUBJECT: CHRIST, David Lamar - 43872

DATE: 8 November 1950

On this date, Mr. Shanklin, FBI, advised that the results of the name check conducted by the FBI in connection with the investigation currently in process are as follows:

CSC, State, G-2, OSI, ONI, HCUA ..... NR
FBI ..... NIC

According to Jim Hosty, Shanklin was the most likely person to have ordered the tramps release. I doubt if CHRIST had access to his CIA personnel or Security File but ANGLETON did and could have told him that if there was a problem SAC Gordon Shanklin was familiar with his status. The other alternative is that SHANKLIN would have had to recognize him which, due to his heavy CIA supplied disguise, this is highly unlikely.

THE MISSION

In September 1960 the Republic of Cuba opened diplomatic relations with the People's Republic of China. In September 1960 DAVID CHRIST was assigned to an audio mission in Havana. The target of this mission was the New China News Agency, located in apartment No. 162, on the 17th floor of the Edificio de Retiro Medico. He approached a member of the Foreign Intelligence /Directorate /Operations staff on September 20, 1960

...to state that he would soon be going to Havana to redo an audio installation in the [24 deleted as of 2010] and possibly to mount other audio operations, unspecified by CHRIST. CHRIST requested that Mr. [03 Deleted as of 2010] and possibly some of the [03 Deleted v of H ...] ]'s personnel accompany him on the Havana assignment. In response to the query by the undersigned as to why [03 Deleted as of 2010]'s services were desired, CHRIST stated that [03 Deleted as of 2010] might be needed for entry into the target area. When the undersigned pointed out that there was apparently no entry problem with regard to the [24 deleted as of 2010] target room, CHRIST changed the basis for his request in that he mentioned the possible need for protection while in Havana. He went on to explain that [03 Deleted as of 2010] and his people could be used to determine whether he, Mr. CHRIST, was under surveillance. At this junction [03 Deleted as of 2010] entered the undersigned's office, and CHRIST repeated his request. After a review of the pros and cons, and particularly in view of [03 Deleted as of 2010]'s duties, it was decided there was no concrete purpose which could justify the assignment of [03 Deleted] as requested by CHRIST. CHRIST proceeded to Havana on August 17, 1959, returned to Washington o/a August 31, 1959, and departed again for Havana for the NCNA task O/a September 7, 1963. Memorandum For: DIRECTOR OF CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE

September 20, 1960

SUBJECT: Summary of [02] ESCALADE – Audio Operation Against New China News Agency in Havana

1. In May 1959, the New China News Agency (NCNA) opened an office in Havana in the El Medico Building which is occupied partly by business concerns and partly used for residential apartments. Shortly thereafter, the Havana Station obtained the concurrence of Ambassador Bonsal and Miss Carolyn O. Stacey, an Embassy employee, to mount an audio operation against NCNA through the wall of the adjacent apartment in which Miss Stacey lived. In November 1959, the FE Division sent one case officer and one TSD technician to Havana, and the installation of a microphone and tape recorder was completed in Miss Stacey's apartment on November 29, 1959.

By June 1960, it had become evident that two other rooms occupied by NCNA possibly housed communication equipment and were used for conferences. At that time [Deleted 03] FE Division case officer, went to Havana and explored the possibility of improving the operation. He managed to lease an apartment directly over the NCNA office, and arranged for a stay-behind agent to occupy this space.

3. In August 1960 a team of three TSD technicians who were in Havana on a separate SR Division operation agreed to install the additional equipment required for the NCNA operation. A second FE Division case officer, Robert Neet, came down to Havana; and he, together with the technicians, installed a probe microphone and tape recorder in the apartment obtained by [deleted 03] over the NCNA office. About this time the equipment was removed from Miss Stacey's apartment with the exception of the plastic probe which was left in the wall and plastered over.

4. As an additional security precaution to provide a safe haven, and after consultation with the Acting Chief of Station, a key to an apartment in the same building leased by Mrs. Marjorie Lennox, an Embassy secretary, was obtained. Mrs. Lennox was told that access to her apartment was needed for photographic surveillance purposes.

5. The Station was then faced with the probability that time and security would work against holding indefinitely the lease to the apartment of NCNA since the owners of the building were cancelling sub-lessor's contracts and recalling leases. It was, therefore, decided to install transmitters and switches in order to permit continued monitoring of the target from a distant listening post. Another three man team of TSD technicians consisting of David L. Christ, Walter E. Szuminski and Thorton J. Anderson documented as tourists had been sent to Havana to install audio equipment in the Chinese Nationalist Embassy before it was due to be turned over to the Chinese Communists. This operation aborted. This team was then sent to work on the installation of the transmitters in apartment over the NCNA office.

6. At 2400 hours on September 14, 1960, Christ, who with the other technicians was working in the target apartment, failed to keep a scheduled appointment with Neet. At 0100 hours on September 15, 1960, the apartment of Mrs. Lennox was entered into and searched by Cuban authorities, and she was taken into custody. At 1540 hours on September 15, 1960 Neet, the stay-behind agent and his wife were picked up by the Cuban authorities and detained.

7. As of today the agent remains in the custody of the Cuban authorities. His wife has been released and is still in Havana. Neet was released 1715 hours on September 15, 1960 and has subsequently returned to Washington where he was debriefed. Mrs. Lennox was subsequently released and has also returned to Washington where she is being debriefed. The three TSD technicians remain in confinement. They have been seen in confinement but not contacted by an Embassy officer when he first attempted to secure the release of Mrs. Lennox. Christ was last seen by Neet when they were jointly interrogated the morning of September 16. At that time Christ did not appear to have been maltreated.

8. According to articles in the Cuban papers the three technicians were arrested while in the apartment over the NCNA office and completing the installation of the equipment. The press article adds that the key to Mrs. Lennox's apartment was found on one of the technicians who identified the apartment to which it belonged. All Cuban press releases have referred to the men by alias and have not identified them as Government or Agency employees. It is unclear at present what story had been agreed upon by the technicians and station personnel to be used in the event they were caught. (While being interrogated with Neet, Christ indicated that Neet was his boss, and Neet consistently denied any knowledge as to why he was being held.) The sublease for the apartment in which the men were caught is in the name of the stay-behind agent with the original lease being in the name of [03 deleted] the FE Division Case Officer.

9. Initial information indicated that the three technicians would be charged with espionage "against the people of China." Subsequent press releases have been unclear on this point. An attempt by Consul Hugh Kessler to contact the three men at 1730 hours on September 17 was unsuccessful. He was not permitted to see them but was told they were in custody.

10. The three technicians travelled to Cuba as tourists under very light commercial cover, two of them working for a company in New York and the third, one in Baltimore. In each case the cover company consists of a telephone answering service and a name on the door. Telephone messages and mail are picked up periodically by an Agency contract employee. The men were provided with this cover as well as unbackstopped home addresses for use when entering or leaving Cuba as tourists since the filling out of the landing card requires this information. Subsequent to their detention the home addresses have been partially backstopped so that inquiries will indicate that someone with this alias name had lived in the apartment house in question. Insofar as the cover companies are concerned, efforts are being made to provide a backstop to withstand inquiries from the press should the Cubans reveal this information. In view of the thinness of cover, it is uncertain whether this will succeed.

11. A cleared and witting law firm in New York has been briefed by Mr. L. Houston on the situation with the thought that inquiries received by the cover company could be referred to the firm of lawyers from whom no comment would be obtained by the press or other inquirers. The law firm has been briefed on the entire situation so that they may be in a position to act if any action by them appears to be desirable or feasible. It would not appear that much support of any kind can be obtained from the law firm or law firms in Cuba which are associated with them.

12. Insofar as the families are concerned, one of the technicians is a bachelor presently on home leave between two tours in (deleted as of 2010). His father, a cook in a diner in the Boston area, has been contacted by the Office of Security, and he will get in touch with Security if he receives any inquiries on this matter. Security, by the same token, will keep in touch with him as the Cubans reveal their intentions and course of action.

13. The wives of the other two technicians have been told what has happened and are being contacted at least once daily by TSD on September 19 to go over the whole situation and determine if there were any personal problems on which the Agency could be of help. For the time being the wives are telling their neighbors that their husbands are on a trip. This story will be adjusted depending on what course of action the Cuban Government takes, whether the aliases remain unbroken and whether recognizable photographs of the individuals are released to the press. The two wives so far have taken the bad news exceedingly well. Rudolph E. Gomez

DANIEL LESTER CARSWELL

Central Cover supplied CHRIST with false Identification that consisted of a New York Driver's License, Pennsylvania Birth Certificate, Social Security Card, a United States Air Force Reserve Officers Association Membership Card, an American Association of Engineers Membership Card, and a International Vaccination Certificate. CHRIST had a backstopped address in New York City that appeared on all his documents. According to a New York CIA Field Office CIA document, the New York Field Office backstopped CHRIST'S Identification with the help of S. M. Horton. Later S. M. Horton's name was removed from this document and the name of John Mertz was substituted. [CIA Memo To Victor White from Byron B. Burnes 3.28.62] John Mertz stated in November 1994: "Horton was ANGLETON'S deputy. Burnes was the adman officer for ANGLETON. Horton was transferred. He went to Australia. He left, so they put me down as the guy who was the contact." The true name of DANIEL L. CARSWELL was first revealed in a CIA interview with John Mertz: "The team's leader was DAVID CRIST." [CIA OGC 77-6457 10.11.77] In January 1994 the CIA released the Biographic Profile of DAVID LEMAR CHRIST. HEMMING 1994:

I thought it was spelled Crist. I've seen the fucking name somewhere before. I've seen the name in an unpublished report, a biography. I've never seen it spelled CHRIST.

Former CIA agent Melvin Beck reported that when he was stationed in Cuba in 1960:

Two technicians from the Clandestine Services Technical Services Division were dispatched to Havana. They arrived as ordinary tourists (on September 8, 1960), with their personal belongings. Many of the tools of their trade were on hand, stored in the station, and whatever else they needed would be sent by pouch...The plan was to plant a microphone transmitter in the ceiling of the penthouse room expected to be occupied by the Soviet Ambassador [in the Hotel Rosita].

This operation was a success. Soon, "Bryan reappeared at our suburban retreat in the company of three technicians from Headquarters, one of whom had worked with me earlier on the ROSITA OPERATION...I gathered that the technicians were about to plant a listening device in the floor of an apartment directly above the office of the New China News Agency."

THE ARREST OF DAVID LEMAR CHRIST AND FRIENDS SEPTEMBER 1960

Este fue tomada en pésimas condiciones de luz. Sin embargo, es perfectamente visible el rostro de los tres norteamericanos detenidos por las autoridades cubanas bajo la acusación de espionaje. El que se oculta en la sombra aparece en el fondo.

Melvin Beck stated that a few days later, "a frantic telephone call from the station related that evidently something had gone wrong with Bob's [Robert Neet] operation: the technicians had reportedly been taken into custody by Cuban G-2; Bob's whereabouts were unknown...How would the technicians hold up if they were tortured? What information had G-2 extracted from them?" [Beck, Melvin Secret Contenders p74] The CIA:

1. (Deleted) blown and CARSWELL, Taransky and Danbrunt under detention. Following are facts at present time:

A. Contact made with (2) who reported he left 6:00 p.m. September 14, 1960, and made an agent contact which went well. Returned to his apartment at 8:00 p.m. and found two men outside his door. (2) sneaked out and destroyed agent report and spent night in bar. Returned to apartment 7:00 a.m. and found two men outside. Later contact with A-1 [Mrs. Nordio] wife who was in apartment. She reported nothing unusual.

B. (Deleted) one of three techs in (deleted) failed make contact 12:00 p.m. September 14, 1960. Case Officer waited until 1:30 p.m. then attempted to go (deleted) apartment. Watchman intercepted Case Officer and Case Officer detoured to another apartment, which he knew was not occupied. Returned, asked watchman for phone number rental where he could get change of address since occupant had moved. While waiting for watchman to get number, noted three militiamen, policemen, who appeared to be Prensa Latina reporters in front which was more people than usual that time night, but on entering noticed large group of couples waiting for cars at adjoining garage apparently leaving from party in building.

C. At 1:00 a.m. September 15, 1960, apartment on 23rd floor occupied by Mrs. Marjorie Lennox, Embassy Staff employee, was entered into and searched by DIER agents. Mrs. Lennox was detained without explanation and at approximately 11:00 a.m. taken to DIER Headquarters. Ambassador has lodged energetic protest with foreign office demanding her release.

D. On the afternoon of September 14, 1960, Station borrowed key Mrs. Lennox apartment under pretext to need to observe Prensa Latina personnel from apartment. Duplicate of key was made and given to CARSWELL for use in extreme emergency if evasive action required in building. Can be surmised men were apprehended and key found and through process of elimination Lennox apartment located.

A CIA cable advised Havana to exfiltrate or move to diplomatic area everyone who was involved in the operation. Jake Esterline noted these events.

THE PLAYERS

The CIA agents in the New China News Agency bugging operation used these names: CHRIST used the name DANIEL LESTER CARSWELL, 45, born 1918, Ashland, Pennsylvania, Engineer, East Chester, New York. Thorton J. Anderson, Jr. used the name "Eustace H. Danbrunt" 38, born 1925, Cleveland, Mechanical Engineer, 3915 Deerfield Blvd., Baltimore, Maryland. Walter Szuminski used the name "Edmund Konrad Taransky," 33, born 1930, Boston, Technician, New York City. Others involved included

Mario Nordio (an Italian-born naturalized American dance teacher), Marjorie Lennox, 26, the Secretary of the Commercial Attache at the U.S. Embassy who sublet an apartment from Mario Nordio, an unnamed individual (Mr. Lennox?), and CIA Agent Robert Neet, the Embassy employee who ran the operation. Everyone except for CHRIST, Thorton J. Anderson and Walter Szuminski were deported. The United States Ambassador was restricted to a ten-block area. Thorton J. Anderson, Walter Szuminski and CHRIST had been caught in an apartment borrowed by Robert Neet from Marjorie Lennox. They had electronic listening devices, as well as a tape of a conversation between the Red Chinese in San Juan, Puerto Rico and the New China News Agency. CHRIST told the G-2 agents who questioned him that he was on his way back to the United States, when someone in the American Embassy asked him to do a small favor and fix some electronic equipment in their apartment. John Mertz:

By that time Castro assigned all living quarters. You registered. They went down and rented this apartment and stored their audio equipment in the closet, and then came back to the States. They went back two or three weeks later, and then were going to set it up. They went to work and they were greeted by the Cuban Police. Apartments weren't vacant at that time, there was no possible way to be undetected. It was a dumb-assed trick. They should have known the conditions in Cuba before they ever went down there the first time. Hell, I never had any admiration for CHRIST at all. They were in Havana foolishly to begin with. CHRIST decided to go down himself. They shouldn't have been down there doing what they were doing, knowing what Castro was doing. There was a mix-up of signals there somewhere. I don't know what it was. When they were captured we saved them from going to the wall. We later brought their lawyer to the States. It became my job to get 'em out alive, if possible. At least I would know what damage had been done. We were afraid the Russians would take 'em over. Which they didn't. Castro never found out who they were.

THE TRIAL OF DAVID LEMAR CHRIST

On December 18, 1960, CHRIST, Thorton J. Anderson Jr. Walter Szuminski and Mario Nordio underwent a military trial. They were charged with "Crimes Against the Powers of the State." The trial was held in a small schoolroom located on the second floor of the Jefatura (Guard's Office) building at La Cabana Fortress Prison. Little public interest was shown. Members of the Military Tribunal were all from the Cuban Army, except for one member from the Cuban Navy. The prosecutor was an Army Officer. The President of the Tribunal devoted part of his time during the trial to talking with other members, one of whom spent his time carving on the table with a pocket knife, cleaning his fingernails and dropping nose drops in his nose. CHRIST'S defense attorney, Dr. Fernando Colomar, said that Robert Neet, who was neither a Consular Officer, nor a diplomatic officer, had been expelled from Cuba by the Cuban Government. This, Colomar pointed out, was a error on the part of the Cuban Government. Robert Neet, he said, was the guilty party and should be facing trial:

CARSWELL, Taransky and Danbrunt are technical engineers, who specialized in electrical, mechanical and electronic engineering, and were instigated and induced to come to Havana, during their vacation in the month of September, by the actual author of this fact by direct participation, instigator and inducer, Mr. Robert L. Neet...the invitation was to arrange and adapt different audio and sound recording devices. Before their arrival to Habana as tourists such devices were already connected to a microphone previously installed...

Yet, he said, the Cuban Government expelled the guilty person from Cuba and left three innocent tools - "men who were employed by Robert Neet, men who were paid by Robert Neet and men whose transportation was paid for by Robert Neet" - to stay and face trial for a crime they did not commit. Robert Neet was contacted in June 1993. He declined to be interviewed. [telephone 703-532-5285] On January 11, 1960, CHRIST was sentenced to 10 years in La Cabana. His co-defendants received identical sentences. Mario Nordio was deported.

THE ISLE OF PINES PRISON

BUILT IN THE 1920's AS A MODEL PRISON

SUBJECT: MRS. DAVID L. CHRIST September 15, 1960

3. Following their arrest, CHRIST, Thornton J. Anderson and Walter Szuminski were first detained at G-2 Headquarters then moved to La Cabana prison. It was possible to keep them supplied with food, vitamins, reading material, an electric frying pan etc. On January 23, 1961, the three men were moved to the Isle of Pines prison where living and sanitary conditions were intolerable. Prisoners were required to perform hard manual labor and there was an insufficiency of food.

4. With the assistance of Mr. Hugh Kessler, a U.S. consular official, close contact was kept with the three men until diplomatic relations with Cuba were severed. Through a Washington attorney, James R. Murphy, arrangements were made with a Cuban lawyer, Dr. Fernando Colomar, to represent the three men in court. Colomar was not told of the Agency interest in the operation. Through the joint services of Messrs. Kessler and Colomar, the three men were supplied with pocket money, food, clothing, toilet articles etc. After diplomatic relations were severed, Colomar continued to visit the men until they were transferred to Isle of Pines.

5. The three men have been held in the Modelo Prison, Nueva Gerna, Isle of Pines since January 1961. We have been successful in getting money and supplies to them through the Washington Attorney to the Swiss Embassy in Havana. They have maintained contact by letters. Their last correspondence was written on October 18, 1962. They are believed to be in reasonably good health. The Swiss are attempting to verify a report that three Americans were transferred to Boniato Prison in early November 1962.

6. It has been necessary in this case to conceal Government interest in the three prisoners in order to avoid their execution and/or full debriefing on the sensitive information they possess.

7. The Washington Attorney has obtained associate counsel in Mexico City and in Chicago, Illinois. The Chicago Attorney, who is unwitting of Government interest (Constantine N. Kangles) visited Havana in May/June and as of November 22, 1962 received word that as soon as possible he will be invited back to Cuba to negotiate with Fidel Castro on this case. Kangles expects the release of the three men not later than the first week in January 1963.

8. Other operational efforts to secure the release of the men are in progress. We have avoided keeping Mrs. Christ fully on the specifics of the efforts being made, as she tends to be critical of the Agency and of the fact that she is unaware of any significant interest in the case in the Executive Branch of the Government. She has previously seen Messrs. Allen Dulles, General Cabell, General Maxwell Taylor and General Carter.

9. Mr. James Donovan, who has appeared in connection with negotiations for the Playa Giron prisoners, has been made aware of the 22 Americans held in Cuba and of Agency interest in three of those prisoners. He has not been told their true names.

10. David Christ's wife, Wilma, and their six children live in the Washington area where they have been frequently visited by members of the Agency. She has explained to neighbors that her husband is away on a long TDY for the Government which has become a permanent assignment and that in line with the new regulations on overseas travel of dependants she has not been allowed to follow him. Wilma Christ has been paid her husband's accumulated per diem and salary.

11. David Christ is 45 years old, his birthday was January 20. He is a graduate of Pennsylvania State College with a degree of B.S. in Electrical Engineering. He worked before the war for the Atlas Powder Company and was a 1st Lt. in the USAAF from 1942 to 1946. Following the war, he instructed at Pennsylvania State College until 1950 when he joined the Agency.

12. Wilma Christ is 42 years old. There are six children in the family: Thomas age 18, Elaine age 16, Linda, age 12, Susan, age 9, Stuart age 5 and Robert, age 3. The two older children have been briefed on the situation and are aware of their father's predicament.

When former prisoner of Castro Mafia OC member JOHN MARTINO returned to the United States in 1962, he spoke and wrote about his friendship with his fellow prisoner in Cuba, DANIEL LESTER CARSWELL. [Long Island Press Edith K. Roosevelt 7.21.62] In I Was Castro's Prisoner, MARTINO recalled his first conversation with CARSWELL:

He told me, 'We had drilled through the floor, which is the ceiling of the Chinese News Agency, and we were about to lower a microphone into the next room so that we could put everything that was said there on tape.'

CARSWELL shared the special food he received from the American Embassy with MARTINO, although the Embassy closed in January 1961. Both men shared a common lawyer, Dr. Fernando Colomar Lluch, Doctor of Law of the School of Havana. When CARSWELL was released, he gave MARTINO his personal possessions. Mrs. Martino explained:

In speaking of her husband's release from Cuban prison she said she was directed to an attorney named Dr. Fernando Colomar after the original attorney she hired 'became afraid' and dropped the case. She said she was directed to Colomar by a friend, Gustavo Aleman, who knew Hugh Kessler in the American Embassy in Havana. Mrs. Martino said that Colomar later told her she didn't have to pay him because he was being paid by Kessler to also defend four other Americans, the group involved Daniel Carswell, the CIA Agent who had been arrested for bugging the Red Chinese News Service. Mrs. Martino said Colomar came to Miami and worked for the State Department after the Bay of Pigs. [HSCA Memo From: Fonzi and Gonzales to Cliff Fenton 10.7.77]

CHARLES SIRAGUSA & THE PLAN TO SPRING CHRIST

Journalist Jack Anderson reported that the CIA was determined to get CHRIST out of Cuba, and to do this, it contacted Charles Siragusa. In 1978 Charles Siragusa told Jack Anderson that he had met with a CIA agent in Washington, D.C., in 1960:

Three Spanish-speaking CIA operatives had been arrested while pulling a Watergate-style break-in at the Chinese Communist News Agency in Havana. Cuban police thought they had caught three small fry burglars and locked them up on an island off Cuba. The CIA was desperate to get them back before their cover was blown. One knew the names of numerous CIA contacts in Cuba. The CIA turned to Charles Siragusa, suggesting that he enlist Mafia types for a rescue raid. This proved impractical; instead, Charles Siragusa began dealings with a Chicago lawyer supposedly close to Fidel Castro's brother, Raoul. The CIA authorized Charles Siragusa to spend up to $1 million to effect the rescue of the imprisoned agents. The Chicagoan received $10,000 from CIA funds, but his efforts failed. Eventually the three won their freedom through the legal efforts of a Havana attorney retained by the CIA without Castro's knowledge. [Wash. Post 1.4.78 B13]

A CIA document read: "The Chicago attorney, who is unwitting of Government interest visited Havana in May / June 1962 and as of November 22, 1962, received word that as soon as possible he will be invited back to Cuba to negotiate with Fidel Castro on this case. Constantine Kangles expects the release of the three men not later than the first week in January 1963." Wilma Christ, the wife of David Christ, stated that Constantine Kangles would have gotten $100,000 if he succeeded in getting the technicians out of prison.

John Michael Mertz related that in 1960 Richard Helms charged him with developing a project to free CHRIST and his two associates from La Cabana Prison. John Mertz: "I was functioning in the thing as a lawyer for their notional families. Up in New England somewhere. I represented the legal interest of the notional families. I operated as a supposed member of a Washington law firm." A CIA document stated:

Mertz, identifying himself as CIA affiliated, contacted Siragusa and told him in general terms what was required. Siragusa put Mertz in contact with several people e.g. Batista's chauffeur and wife, who had the desired connections. The project did not succeed in freeing the Agency employees...Mertz considers Siragusa a friend. The above Project was well documented and Counter-Intelligence Staff or Security should be able to locate the records. He cannot remember the project crypt.

John Mertz:

Well, how to get them out? Prior to that time the mafia had been runnin' the warehouses and the gamblin' joints in Havana. SANTO TRAFFICANTE. I went to Charlie Siragusa and said, 'You got any connections with the mafia?' He said he did. 'Well, find out what they can do to help get these guys out.' I don't know who he contacted. They laughed at him. They said, 'Hell, we're on the wanted list down there too.' We abandoned that, but he did come up with a guy who had been Batista's driver. We met with him and his wife in Miami and he came back said, 'We'll get them out easy. We know one or more guards down there. And for $200,000 upfront, we'll have the guards take him out on a work detail and let them escape and they've got a ten mile walk due south to the shore and we'll meet them there with a boat. We called Headquarters. 'What's between the prison and the south shore?' 'Ten miles of mangrove swamp.'

Walter Szuminski wrote this Memorandum for the Record on August 6, 1975.

1. After being released from the Isle of Pines, Cuba, in the summer of 1963, several debriefing sessions were held with members of Counter-Intelligence Staff and Office of Security after my official return to duty. Of several ops, two were the subject of discussion, since they involved efforts to obtain our release from the Isle of Pines by escape, bribes or whatever. One effort was by a prominent Chicago lawyer who supposedly had some influential contacts both in the U.S. and Mexico. The Counter-Intelligence collective opinion at the time was that 'this guy took us for a ride.'

2. The second effort mentioned in the ZRCHEST trip reports was travel to Miami by the Counter-Intelligence case officer, John Mertz, with a suitcase full of large bills to impress the local hoods. Specific details are difficult to recall, but in essence it seemed with the right contacts and enough money anything was possible in Cuba at that time (1960 to 1961). From the reports the 'hoods' were impressed with that amount of money, but nothing more ever happened. In any case, during our imprisonment in Cuba nothing more happened to indicate anything was going on.

3. During all this conversation back and forth, mafia may have been mentioned, but after ten years it is difficult to say with any accuracy if this was the case. Only a review of the ZRCHEST files could confirm or deny this.

4. The timing of these various operations on our behalf would seem to coincide with the recent publicity about Mr. Maheu and his efforts with the mafia. For that reason, and to forestall any misconception about our mission in Cuba which was an audio op I have related the facts as best I can recall. OTS / APB Walter Szuminski

John Mertz:

You had one memo there that I was running around with a bushel basket full of money. That's a lot of bullshit. I don't think anyone in the government could get a hold of a bushel basket full of cash, running around, giving it out. Anyway, the Chief of Station in Mexico City, Winston Scott, found a Mexican lawyer down there that was doing business with Castro. We went down and talked to him and paid him a small retainer to see what he could do with Castro. Nothing ever came of it. They got out before he had much of a chance. He was a member of a big law firm down there.

The CIA:

Mertz assumed a cover as a lawyer for the prisoner's relatives. JIM ANGLETON, who was Siragusa's supervisor in the OSS in Italy, during World War II, suggested to Mertz that Siragusa might have U.S. underworld connections with connections in Cuba who could be utilized to free the prisoners."

A document released in 1994 read:

Mr. Mertz is off for the afternoon with Murphy. (Deleted) of Technical Service Division called and left word with Jean that General Carter might be calling Mr. ANGLETON about the Techs case. When I asked (deleted) how he knew this, he said it came about this way: Wilma Christ had been needing him all day about when she was going to get to see the Attorney General. (Deleted) called Carter's secretary to see if an appointment had been set up, and while he was talking to her, General Carter cut in and asked what was going on and who was in charge of the case. (Deleted) told him Mr. Mertz was. Carter asked about 'this thing up in New York' and (deleted) told him he knew we were on top of it. Carter asked if anybody had discussed it with the Attorney General or anyone on that level: (Deleted) said he knew it had been discussed with the Bureau. Carter then said he would be calling you regarding the case...Mr. Mertz called to say he had talked to (deleted) and had placed a call to General Carter who was out but would be calling Mertz back (at Mertz's home) at any moment. The point Carter indicated he planned to tell you about was the possibility of a trade, our boys for the saboteurs the FBI arrested in NY.

When ANGLETON was questioned about CHRIST during HUNT v. WEBERMAN, he testified that the name "CARSWELL" and photograph of CARSWELL were unknown to him. When DAVID PHILLIPS was asked about Christ, he responded: "I'm afraid, Counselor, that on the long list of names, that I now realize I must stick by my feeling that I have to have CIA permission to discuss whether I did, or did not, have connection with these people." Wilma Christ was often unhappy with the inability of the Agency to secure the release of her husband. The Christ family had six children and Mr. CHRIST'S absence caused innumerable problems. Wilma Christ was contacted by a Technical Services Division employee on an almost daily basis. She met with Allen Dulles on March 28, 1961: "Mrs. Christ meets with Allen Dulles, Director, CIA, who reports that the best hope of obtaining husband's freedom lies in revolution in Cuba. Mrs. Christ appreciated the Director's candor but disappointed that more active efforts were not being undertaken."

On May 24, 1961, Mrs. Christ arranges for (deleted) for self and for eldest son, who is (deleted). On July 7, 1961, "Mrs. Christ meets with General Cabell, DDCI, with reference to her demand to see the President." On August 16, 1961, Mrs. Christ met with "General Maxwell Taylor in lieu of President. Mrs. Christ again disappointed by lack of action to free her husband." In August 1962, Larry Christ, the brother of DAVID CHRIST, presented an ultimatum:

Either we arrange for a meeting with Attorney General or he will move to see him independently." Lawrence Christ was "of the opinion that Mrs. Christ is in the early stages of a nervous breakdown. Her health and cooperation are vital to the operational security aspects of this case. He is embittered because of the lack of cognizance of Wilma Christ by the Executive Branch of the Government. As he stated it, 'They have time to greet astronauts, foreign dignitaries and the like, yet they cannot even call her on the telephone. Just five minutes is all it would take.' The security implications involved in a meeting with the Attorney General or a telephone call from the White House has been repeated to the Christ family many times. Their present attitude can be summed up in a few words, 'Security be damned! If we don't do something in a hurry he may never come back.'" (Wilma: "That is entirely erroneous.") [CIA Memo DD/P 10.16.62 Seymour Russell c/DD/P/TSD]

Wilma Christ was losing it. She was fed up with the lack of response that she received from the Kennedy Administration. She would tell her husband how she was treated after he returned.

DAVID CHRIST AND SIDNEY GOTTLIEB

In July 1962 Sidney Gottlieb established a scholarship fund for Thomas Christ, the son of David Christ. John Mertz: "Gottlieb was the head of the division where those guys worked." Dr. Gottlieb: "Although this request is in part motivated by compassion for the Tech's families and a strong desire to lighten their burden, the overriding consideration is the need for continued operational security and control, which will be aided by your approval of our request." [Memo DD/Support 7.23.62 Sidney Gottlieb AC/DD/P/TSD]

Sidney Gottlieb stated:

1. That DAVE CHRIST was not knowledgeable of Sid's specialties, beyond knowing he was in charge of the chemical division of Technical Services Division and had something vague to do with debilitating drugs.
2. Among the contacts in Cuba of (deleted) (Air Force medico in Sid's hypnosis project) is a lawyer who is also an accomplished hypnotist. He has reportedly had some success in his cases by hypnotizing the judge at parties beforehand, and making the judge susceptible to his suggestions in the courtroom. (Deleted) has the poop on the lawyer. (Deleted) and I yesterday agreed there might be some merit in sending (deleted) to Cuba to snoop through the lawyer. We can get (deleted) down here on a day's notice through Gittinger, who is acting for Sid during the next few weeks. [CIA Memo Havana Flap 9.21.60]

HYPNOSIS

John Marks, in his 1979 book The Search for the "Manchurian Candidate" wrote: "In June 1960 [Gottlieb's] TSS [Technical Services Support -Technical Services Division] officials launched an expanded program of operational experiments in hypnosis in cooperation with the Agency's Counter-Intelligence staff. Counter-Intelligence officials wrote that the hypnosis program could provide a 'potential breakthrough in clandestine technology.' Their arrangement with [Technical Services Division] was that the MK-ULTRA men would develop the technique in the laboratory, while they took care of 'field experimentation.' The Counter-Intelligence program had three goals:

- (1) to induce hypnosis very rapidly in unwitting Subjects;

(2) to create durable amnesia; and

(3) to implant durable and operationally useful posthypnotic suggestion."

Mexico City was a primary locale for the new experiments. Melvin Beck told about it in Secret Contenders:

[ANGLETON'S] Counter-Intelligence staff had in tow a young psychiatrist who claimed that he could produce a hypnotic state in an instant of shock to the Subject. He had evidently convinced the staff of its feasibility. Such a feat opened up wide vistas of utilization by the staff, particularly in the area of its prime concern-the bona fides of Clandestine Services agents. Under hypnosis, the agent was compelled to reveal the truth, thus putting to rest the doubts that always remained after studying the scattered and elusive evidence contained in a dossier or a file. Best of all, the method of putting the Subject under instantaneous hypnosis was practical and adaptable to the agent situation, with the significant added factor that the agent would remember nothing of the experience.

In December 1962, the Chief, Technical Services Division/ Liaison Services Section set up a meeting between Wilma Christ, Deputy Director /CIA General Carter and United States Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy. John Mertz had Wilma Christ meet with General Carter before the meeting. She told him she wanted to meet with the Attorney General. It was unclear if the meeting occurred. On December 26, 1962, Wilma Christ threatened to make contact with a member of a delegation headed for Havana that was led by James Donovan. James Donovan was involved in sensitive negotiations with the Cubans. On December 28, 1962, Wilma Christ was assured by James Donovan and Robert Hurwich of the State Department that the release of her husband would be secured, in return for supplies:

She was extremely happy with these assurances and there was no reason for the Attorney General to call her at that time." [MFR 3.22.63 Report of Meeting between Mrs. Christ and Mr. James Donovan in New York City on 3.20.63 from C/TSD/LSS]

In January 1963 Wilma Christ met with a CIA representative:

During conversation with Mrs. Christ and her daughter, Elaine, on January 2, 1963, I attempted to bring them up to date on the latest efforts in the ZRCHEST Project. Their only significant comments were continual requests that they be guaranteed that every effort is being made to effect the release of the Techs. At this time they do not feel that we are doing everything possible and voiced the opinion that the government is not forceful enough. Mrs. Christ again agreed not to take any unilateral action at this time, but commented that this whole episode is a very black page in American History. JAMES P. O'CONNOR Chief TSD/LSS

On March 6, 1963, the CIA reported:

1. The publicity resulting from DONOVAN's negotiations regarding the release of the Americans has given Mrs. Christ renewed hope that her husband will be released in the near future. Efforts to minimize the significance of these negotiations have little effect. At times Mrs. Christ contacts the undersigned on an hourly basis requesting information. She is knowledgeable of a few of the details regarding these negotiations, but has not been given any information of a highly sensitive nature or any information concerning the Cuban personalities involved in a possible trade.
2. Occasionally, Mrs. Christ becomes temperamental, somewhat abusive, and highly excitable. She continues to severely criticize the Administration, as well as the Agency's previous operations to free her husband. Her brother-in-law, Larry, continually threatens unilateral action unless 'something is done very soon.'
3. Mrs. Christ and her Brother-in-Law voiced an intent to contact DONOVAN or one his associates under alias in order to obtain more detailed information about the negotiations. However, they were successfully persuaded not to take any action which might precipitate a collapse of the entire project. Only by giving Mrs. Christ some hope for the future and some reason to believe that the Donovan negotiations might succeed have we been able to contain her from pursuing action which would undoubtedly compromise this operation. It is extremely difficult to predict, short of a complete mental breakdown, the effects that a collapse of the DONOVAN negotiations might have. At this time no considerations have been given to any other operations that we could discuss with Mrs. Christ, nor have there been any serious discussions regarding the continued containment of the Christ Family should the negotiations collapse.
4. Since Mrs. Christ's morale, welfare and co-operation are vital to the security and cover of this operation, it is anticipated that we will continue to advise her of some of the details and the human interest aspects of Donovan's negotiations. Under the present system the undersigned receives information from Mr. Mertz or Mr. Miskovsky regarding the current negotiations. This information is declassified as much as possible under the circumstances. The desensitized information and any hope or lack of hope that it may contain is transmitted to Mrs. Christ as soon as possible. It is particularly important that any information regarding Donovan's activities be relayed to Mrs. Christ before it appears in the press. Usually some detail or bit of information regarding negotiations or operational activity regarding her husband's release assists in satisfying her curiosity, for at least a few days.

5. About a week ago the Director queried regarding the status of the families. Mr. Miskovsky advised the Director that the situation was very tense but for the moment was being contained. Should the situation become desperate I believe Mrs. Christ could be subtly directed to seek consultation and or advice from Donovan. This has been discussed with Mr. Miskovsky who agrees that it would be safer to have her channel her efforts in that direction rather than to a source over whom we have little or no control.

On March 22, 1963, Wilma Christ met with James Donovan: "This preliminary meeting lasted about 45 minutes and gave Wilma Christ an opportunity to vent much of her anger and resentment." Other CIA reports noted: "Wilma Christ becomes temperamental, somewhat abusive, and highly excitable. She continues to severely criticize the Administration, as well as the Agency's previous operations designed to free her husband. Robert Hurwich of the State Department was present at some of these meetings. After the meeting, Mrs. Christ confided that "she often feels embarrassed and ashamed for saying many of the nasty things she has in the past, and for doubting the Agency's efforts to gain her husband's release." Wilma Christ was contacted in February 1994:

I am still under the secrecy business. I didn't know they had released anything. Why didn't they tell me? Because of how heavily my husband guarded the secrets, I have been indoctrinated that way, so I am fearful of saying anything. I am engulfed in this secrecy business. I have to talk to someone at the Agency. I wasn't privy to the details of the attempts made to release him. Alan, I have to make some calls to check on you.

Wilma Christ was told, "I need some checking out, that's for sure. I'll send you a book so you'll know what I'm really about." Wilma Christ was re-contacted in March 1994:

I haven't contacted the CIA about you, but I decided I'm not going to discuss it. Thanks for the book. The whole thing you read about my attempting to secure my husband's release is ridiculous. Not a shred of truth. I met with Robert Kennedy. I didn't demand it, it was suggested. I'm not going to talk about it. It's a bunch of garbage. I don't even want to hear it.

John Mertz:

Mrs. Christ was Security's problem, not mine. People from the Office of Security were holding CHRIST'S wife's hand during the time he was in jail there. I didn't have anything to do with that. I was trying to get him out. I never heard of a meeting between RFK and Mrs. Christ. She was not my baby. She could have gotten him killed by blowing her stack.

HEMMING told this researcher:

CHRIST'S wife was lucky that he was a career officer. If he had been a contract employee, she would have been threatened, and told to keep her mouth shut. They wanted to get his ass out before there was an invasion or execution or anything else. They weren't hurting for money.

THE RELEASE OF DAVID LEMAR CHRIST

CHRIST'S release was secured by the CIA in April 1963 when James Donovan arranged a prisoner exchange. CHRIST arrived at Homestead Air Force Base, Homestead, Florida. The United States agreed to release four G-2 agents, including Francisco "the hook" Molina, a Castro agent with a missing hand, who was serving a 20-year sentence for the accidental murder of a nine-year-old child. Governor Nelson Rockefeller agreed to sign the pardon that freed Francisco Molina from Attica prison on April 22, 1963. Simultaneously, Attorney General Robert Kennedy announced that charges had been dropped against three Cubans who had been arrested for plotting to blow up defense installations around New York City. The three, plus Francisco Molina were deported from Florida to Havana as Donovan brought back the Americans from Cuba in a straight swap.

John Mertz disagreed:

Donovan didn't know anything about our three guys who were in the Isle of Pines. But we prevailed upon him, to prevail on Castro, to let the 40 Americans out that were in the Isle of Pines, following the release of the Bay of Pigs prisoners. Fidel Castro agreed in exchange for 40 million dollars worth of medical supplies. And those 40 Americans were flown into Homestead. They weren't traded for anybody. They were a follow-up on the Bay of Pigs thing.

DESMOND FITZGERALD

Desmond FitzGerald suggested James Donovan be given contaminated scuba diving gear which James Donovan was to present to Fidel Castro as a gift. According to the Senate Intelligence Committee, James Donovan, on his own initiative, gave Fidel Castro a different diving suit. [Hinckle Deadly Secrets p214] When Richard Helms was appointed the Director of the Central Intelligence Agency in April 1965 he was succeeded as DD/P by Desmond FitzGerald. Desmond FitzGerald attended Harvard Law School where he received his degree in 1935. He enlisted as a private in the infantry during World War II, and rose to the rank of major. He joined the OSS, where he worked as an Operations Officer in Southeast Asia . He entered the CIA in 1951 and soon became its Far East Operations Division Chief. Desmond FitzGerald was appointed CIA Cuban Operations Chief in 1962, and Chief, Special Activities Staff, in November 1963. [CIA 181-73] Desmond FitzGerald, 57, died of a heart attack on a tennis court on July 23, 1967, and Thomas Karamessines, Richard Helms' Assistant DD/P, became DD/P.

CHRIST PHOTO AT HOMESTEAD AIR FORCE BASE APRIL 1963

On April 23, 1963, CHRIST landed at Homestead Air Force Base in Florida. In New York City, The World-Telegram and Sun ran this headline: "CIA Trio Slips Past Castro In Swap." The article stated that the trio's connection to the CIA had been confirmed with reliable Government sources. John Mertz:

At Homestead, our three guys were separated from the others and flown to Washington. They weren't on the ground more than five minutes. They all marched into a building, he went out a back door into another building, and on to another plane. He was in the air ten minutes later. Hell, they had the greatest collection of thieves, hoodlums and murderers in that 40 guys that came out of Cuba. They had to get them all, to prevent the three from being identified. Even Donovan didn't know we had some people in that group.

William C. Sullivan was notified of CHRIST'S return. [FBI 64-47305-93] David Wise and Thomas Ross reported: "When they landed in Miami CARSWELL, Danbrunt and Taransky vanished. They declined to talk to reporters. And for some reason, unlike the other returnees, they would not tell the American Red Cross their destination." [Inv. Gov. p260]

REPORT OF INVESTIGATION (Category of Report) OO/C (DELETED)

Case no. 43 872 Christ, David L. Date May 28, 1963 Office of Origin (Deleted but most likely Manhattan Field Office) Report made by John E. O'Hare Character of Case E/SD/3 Francis R. Favorini, Special Agent in Charge. DIST (Deleted). Two pages dated April 26, 1963 withheld.

An FBI case was opened on the three men entitled, "Cuban Sabotage Efforts in the United States." [FBI 105-115667-172] Much of this document was withheld. John Mertz commented:

When he came back, he was in the Science and Technology Directorate. I don't know what he did when he came back. He was spending all his time trying to get decorated with a medal. My vote was no. Someone told me he got a medal. I don't know what he did in S & D. I don't think he was assigned to the Scientific Division until about a year after he returned. He was on ice, and we were carefully preserving his identity. They were under medical surveillance for a few months. He was being debriefed. I debriefed him. That was 30 years ago, pal. Everybody's dead but me.

CHRIST was transferred to another Agency component. Melvin Beck reported: "After their release they were brought back to the Agency, although, as was common talk, they were excluded from active assignment." The CIA reported that upon his return from Cuba, CHRIST joined the Office of Research and Development, where he worked on the over-the-horizon radar program. CHRIST was also responsible for pioneering efforts in the area of Audio Surveillance Countermeasures, first proposing the application of computers to the problem. On August 9, 1963, J. Edgar Hoover had an interest in CHRIST and sent a telex to Richard Helms about him. [FBI NI 105-38509-13]

CHRIST: UNHAPPY W/CIA'S EFFORTS TO SECURE HIS RELEASE

In 1964 John Mertz wrote this memorandum to the Chief, OPSER.

3. The details of the cover story were perfected at Headquarters and were conveyed to the prisoners in Cuba by Mr. Hugh Kessler, who at that time was an American Consul in Cuba. The subsequent unrelenting and expensive efforts to save the lives and secure the release of the prisoners were carried out within the framework of that cover story which to this day has protected the true identities of the three employees. Our success in this case is attributable to a major effort on the part of the CIA and the U.S. Government.

4. Mr. CHRIST'S inference in Para. 6 of his memorandum that the cover story was developed by Mr. Anderson and Mr. Szuminski is not accurate. Neither is he accurate in Para. 13C when he infers that "neither CIA or the U.S. Government" tried "to get them out."

5. Upon their return to the United States on April 22, 1963, the Counter-Intelligence Staff, assisted by representatives of the Office of Security, upon direction of the DD/P, initiated further investigation to determine the reasons for the arrest. (Deleted) ESCALADE roll-up and the loyalty of the three employees while in the hands of the enemy.

6. The investigation disclosed that they were loyal and that the roll up and arrest were the direct result of Mr. CHRIST and certain members of the Havana Station. The matter was complicated by the refusal or inability of Mr. CHRIST to tell the whole truth to the investigating officers regarding certain portions of his conversations with the Cuban arresting officers on matters relating to his judgment, but not related to his loyalty. [CIA Memo, Chief, OPSER Mertz undated]

CHRIST SEPTEMBER 1963

1. On several occasions during early September 1963 Mr. Christ came by invitation to the office of undersigned for the purpose of informing himself from the files regarding the nature and extent of the Headquarters effort to secure the release of the ZRCHESTERS from the Isle of Pines.

2. At the time of his first visit, which was shortly after the Chairman of the DD/P Review Committee had informed him of the approval of the Committee's recommendations, Mr. CHRIST expressed concern that no time limit had been placed on the restriction that he could not travel outside the U.S. either TDY or PCS; whereas in the case of the other two Subjects a specific period of time was mentioned in connection with the restrictions upon foreign travel.

4. Speaking as an informed officer, and not for the review committee, undersigned pointed out to Mr. CHRIST that the investigation established that he, as the senior officer in the group, had been under more pressure than the other two men. Also, that this pressure was further evidenced by his lack of objectivity in the discussion of certain matters during his debriefing that he might have been mistaken in his recollection of certain events in Cuba. Undersigned corrected Mr. CHRIST by stating that the record shows that Mr. CHRIST admitted he might have lied.

5...Mr. CHRIST is not too pleased with the debriefing officers who crowded him into this corner. John Mertz SA/C/CI.

DAVID CHRIST AND HEMMING

HEMMING 1994:

CHRIST was in the same cell with me in Havana when I got busted on September 27, 1960. He thought I was being tortured. I was laying on the spring, it was like steel wool, a finely woven mesh. I was laying on it without my shirt. When I rolled over, I heard this English voice: 'Jesus Christ, he's one of them, and look what the fuck they did to him.' My back looked like hamburger. They were scared shitless. We ended up in the same cell together. A cell that would normally be for four people had 40 people in it. Standing room only.

When interviewed in 1977 and 1994 HEMMING maintained that the true nature of CHRIST'S mission was to bomb the Chinese Communist News Agency:

CHRIST knows too much to be sent down to a hostile environment unless he's the only guy they can trust because he has done other operations. When you say audio devices, it's total bullshit. Audio expert was his cover. All the other steamy shit they're not going to publicize. He was an inventor, an expert in remote controlled explosives. That's his main job. When you got a hot mission like that, then they had to decide, we've got to risk putting this guy in. CHRIST got arrested in Cuba in September 1960 running an operation located in an apartment above the Chinese Communist News Agency. They had a transmitter and code book there. CHRIST was going to get the book out without the Chinese even knowing they had it. Hey, he might have to take a few guys out to do it, but so what? It would look like a goddamned accident anyway. See, they were going to pump kitchen gas into the place, blow the fuckin' place up, enter, grab the book, and then set a big goddamned fire. The chinks would think the code books had been burned, and not change the fucking codes. The Agency supplied them with some outdated bugging equipment and told them to say, if they were caught, that they were bugging the place on behalf of the U.S. Embassy.

HEMMING'S story about CHRIST and explosives did not check out, however, CHRIST was an explosives expert and The New York Times reported that during the overthrow of Kwame Nkrumah, the left-wing leader of Ghana, the CIA Chief of Station, Accra, requested a group of paramilitarists storm the Chinese Communist Embassy, kill everyone there, then steal the code books and the records of the installation. The group was instructed to blow up the building before leaving so that it would look like Embassy personnel had been killed in an explosion.

In 1994 HEMMING stated:

In the circle of my immediate Miami acquaintances the tramp resembled CHRIST. He buddied up with us. He figured we were the real thing. We didn't give a fuck who he was. He felt he had been betrayed. He wanted to work with something that was legitimate.

HEMMING was asked how CHRIST reacted when his identity was revealed: "It could be he felt I was in charge, and I knew what I was doing." Howard Kenneth Davis was sent a photograph of CHRIST then asked:

Q. Did you ever see DAVID CHRIST around INTERPEN?

A. Yeah, I saw him around, I didn't know him well.

Q. You saw CHRIST?

A. Yeah, I did. I believe I did if I can remember. I think I saw him over there a couple of times. People would wander in and out all the time - even CIA people. That was no big secret. FIORINI had a relationship with the Company. That is absolute. We knew it at the time, it was no secret in Miami.

INTERVIEW WITH WALTER E. SZUMINSKI

A Walter E. Szuminski was contacted in March 1994 in suburban Virginia and asked: "Did you ever use the name Taransky in Cuba?"

A. You must have the wrong guy.

Q. You were never in CIA?

A. Who is this speaking?

Q. I came across your name in a document about DAVID CHRIST.

A. Am I related to somebody like that?

Q. Did you ever work for him?

A. Where are you getting this information?

Q. CIA documents.

A. Hey, go back and talk to those guys. Maybe they can enlighten you. I can't.

Q. What about the Cuban bugging operation?

A. Well, I'm sure they do that.

Q. Were you ever incarcerated in Cuba?

A. (Sighs) You've got the wrong person here.

Meeting with Walter Szuminski March 18, 1994

I met with him in your office -- told him I did not have a file or documents to show him today. We were searching the files and may be able to show the him something next week. He offered some background on the Cuban operation and the calls he had received. First he gave me the story of the Cuban imprisonment and their return. He said that D. Christ was interviewed by HSCA in mid-1970s to see if there was any connection between their time in Cuban [prison] and the assassination (Christ told him about the interview). The story of their imprison [ment] was public knowledge but only with pseudos. He mentions the classified article in the Studies which was with true name. Last month he received a call from D Christ's window & son -- they had received a call from Allan J Weberman (assassination author) who said Dave Christ's debriefing by HSCA had been released and that true names were included. I mentioned that we would not have released an HSCA document.

Two weeks ago Szuminski received a similar call ("was he the Szuminski who was imprisoned in Cuba with Christ and released through Donovan's efforts). He told Weberman he had wrong person. Yesterday he received another call asking if he was aware that his name is in the national archives. The callers referred to both the CIA JFK releases and a FOIA release. My impression was that his name was also released in an FOIA but if the researcher was using Lesar's file he may have confused the two.

I talked a little about the law and the balancing test for disclosure (public vs national security, etc.). Also said that the link of Carswell to 3 tramps in Dallas made Christ part of the story. Since Christ became an overt employee in 1963, retired overt and was dead much of the information on him was subject to release. Because of the Cuba imprisonment there are documents on, or that mention, Szuminski and Anderson in Christ's file.

Szuminski said he also retired overt. He mentioned Christ son who has a firm in Reston that has done work for the Agency -- 'negative publicity could hurt him. He said he wanted to see what was out so he would know how to deal with the calls. He also made a couple of comments about suing but doubted he could. Told him we would get back to him next week. He said we could reach him through his wife (Elise S.) [24 deleted, 03 as of 2010] [deleted 03 as of 2010].

On September 13, 1963 CHRIST, Deputy Director of Science and Technology signed a secrecy agreement as he had become part of PROJECT OXCART, the redesign of the U-2 and PROJECT CORONA, PROJECT IDEALIST and PROJECT (DELETED).

CHRIST: OCTOBER 1963

On October 31, 1963 the CIA was made aware of the fact that CHRIST had moved to Washington. On October 11, 1963 a document on CHRIST was generated based on "Sensitive sources and methods." Special Affairs Staff memo was generated on October 26, 1963. The SAS was the new name for William Harvey's Task Force 11. On November 8, 1962, a six-man CIA sabotage team dispatched as part of Task Force W blew up a factory in Cuba. The CIA arm of the operation, Task Force W, continued to exist as the Special Affairs Staff, located at the CIA's Miami station. William Harvey, the head of Task Force W, was replaced by Desmond FitzGerald as head of the Special Affairs Staff. Covert attacks against Fidel Castro (including assassination attempts) and Cuban government officials continued throughout 1963 under FitzGerald. Other operations included industrial and economic sabotage as well as terrorism.

RICHARD MILHAUS NIXON was the highest ranking member of the conspiracy to kill President John F. Kennedy. In 1954 Vice President NIXON was involved in PB SUCCESS and met CIA employees E. HOWARD HUNT and DAVID ATLEE PHILLIPS. On January 1, 1955, NIXON reportedly attended a meeting in Honduras, where plans for assassinating the President of Panama, Jose Antonio Remon, were discussed. Allegedly present were the team of hired assassins to do the killing, NIXON, and former CIA agent Marion Cooper, who related this story to Senator Frank Church. The following day, Jose Antonio Remon was machine-gunned to death. A "Report Concerning the Assassination of Jose Antonio Remon, President of Panama, and dated February 1, 1955" [WCD 279] is in the National Archives as part of the Kennedy records group. A telegram dated August 2, 1967 to Marion Cooper was included in the 1990's JFK documents release. It regarded a proposed trip to Beirut. In late 1955 NIXON met with Fulgencio Batista and pinned a Medal of Honor on him.

On Wednesday, November 20, 1963, NIXON visited Dallas on behalf of the Pepsi Cola Corporation. NIXON has noted: "I flew to Dallas to attend a Pepsico Company board meeting, a client of my law firm." He left Dallas on the morning of November 22, 1963. Upon his departure, he held an airport press conference, at which he reported having been in Dallas two days before the arrival of President Kennedy, and that he "feared for the President's safety" because of the political atmosphere in Dallas. NIXON registered in a hotel under a false name, and there was no way to determine how much time he devoted to Pepsi Cola Corporation business.

NIXON presence in Dallas was no coincidence. NIXON was not there to assure the conspirators that their actions had the approval of the highest levels of the United States Government or to egg them on. This crew did not need any pep talks. It is my guess that NIXON was there for a secret meeting with JACK RUBY. The evidence for this appears in Nodule 25 of this data base. When questioned by the FBI about his Dallas trip, NIXON said: "The only time [he] was in Dallas, Texas, was two days prior to the Kennedy assassination." In reality, he had been there on the morning of the coup. HEMMING told this researcher:

The question of NIXON'S involvement was never asked, nor ever answered. If NIXON was part of this he was there to eyeball the principals. He'd be giving them the green light. They wouldn't do it without him. He's the guy that should be President of the United States. He was cheated out the election. Long before Watergate, I could see it functioning that way, long before Garrison, sports fan. Trying to prove it is a bitch.

On February 28, 1964, the Honorable RICHARD M. NIXON, former Vice-President of the U. S., was contacted by Assistant Director in Charge of the New York Office, JOHN F. MALONE, and furnished the following information:

Mr. NIXON advised that the only time he was in Dallas, Texas during 1963 was two days prior to the assassination of President JOHN F. KENNEDY. He vaguely thought there was some invitation extended during the early part of 1963, probably in April, for him to come to Dallas, but that it never materialized, nor did he give any consideration to going there. Mr. NIXON could not even recall the circumstances surrounding the invitation, but did observe that conceivably there could have been some publicity indicating that he had been invited to come to Dallas. Mr. NIXON said that if anything more concrete comes to his mind or after his secretary checks his records which would indicate the circumstances surrounding this, he would immediately notify the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). He did say positively that he had no intention of visiting Dallas during April, 1963.

On April 2, 2010 I discovered that ANGLETON'S name was cleverly encrypted in OSWALD'S address book, disguised as "Plug For Radio." It was at the back of the address and was written with entries that indicated he had returned from the Soviet Union. Apparently OSWALD felt that ANGLETON might give him a job with the CIA in return for "The U-2 dump." The words "Job" and "recommend employment" are crossed out as it was made clear to OSWALD that he could not have a formal job with the CIA. The name JAMES ANGLETON was TOP SECRET until Kim Philby wrote about him in 1968. The name is encoded along with the names of two other conspirators so take this into account when judging the degree of ambiguity involved in the encryption.

JAMES JESUS ANGLETON was born in Boise, Idaho, on December 9, 1917. His Illinois-born father, James Hugh Angleton, joined the National Guard in Idaho in 1916, and chased Pancho Villa south of the border under General Pershing. While there, Angleton married a Mexican girl of 17. On returning to Boise, JAMES JESUS ANGLETON was born. Mr. Angleton became a salesman for the National Cash Register Company, and by 1920, he owned the National Cash Register franchise for Italy. In 1933 the ANGLE TONS moved to Milan, Italy. ANGLETON attended a British preparatory school, Malvern College in England and then entered Yale in 1941. At Yale he became interested in the poetry of Ezra Pound. Mrs. Angleton was asked if her husband was a poet: "I can save you a lot of effort. There wasn't any poetry. There is none to publish, not after the catastrophe of The Cold Warrior. But there wasn't any anyway. Since that book, I would never talk. I never saw any poetry, not since Yale. Poetry was his major, but he never wrote poetry. No pickings over here." During the war, ANGLETON'S father joined the OSS and moved to New York. Angleton Sr. took part in the planning of the Italian invasion, went ashore with the forces at Anzio, and rose to Colonel. ANGLETON Jr. entered Harvard Law School and married Cicely d'Autremont of Tucson, Arizona, a junior at Vassar. In 1943, while in the infantry, ANGLETON was recruited by the Office of Strategic Services (OSS) and assigned to Italy.

The Office of Strategic Services was the creation of New York lawyer William J. Donovan, whose intelligence career began in 1916, as a representative of the John D. Rockefeller Foundation. [Hersh Old Boys p33] On July 11, 1941, President Franklin D. Roosevelt appointed William J. Donovan Coordinator of Information. In the Summer of 1943 the Office of the Coordinator of Information became the OSS. After the war, J. Edgar Hoover demanded that the OSS be prohibited from conducting domestic espionage investigations, and, with Nelson Rockefeller, the Coordinator of the Office of Inter-American Affairs, insisted on maintaining jurisdiction over Latin America. On October 1, 1945, President Truman ordered that the OSS be dissolved as an independent body.

In post-war Italy, ANGLETON'S unit uncovered secret correspondence between Mussolini and Hitler. By age 26, ANGLETON was in the OSS Station in Rome where he met Richard M. Helms and Allen W. Dulles. ANGLETON helped the provisional Italian Government defeat the Communists. In 1945 ANGLETON helped fascists escape from prison camps supplying them with new identities. [Martin Wilderness of Mirrors p19]

ANGLETON JOINS THE CIA

ANGLETON entered the CIA in 1948, at age 31. In 1954 the Doolittle Report advised the CIA that one urgent priority was "the intensification of the CIA's counter-intelligence efforts to prevent or detect and eliminate penetrations of the CIA." In late 1954, as a result of this, William K. Harvey, who previously performed certain CIA counter-intelligence functions, became CIA Chief of Station in Berlin. ANGLETON became first Chief of the newly-formed Counter-Intelligence component. Former CIA Staff member Claire Edward Petty commented: "In the early 1950's William K. Harvey was performing certain counter-intelligence functions. ANGLETON was counter-intelligence chief in the formal sense from the inception of CI." ANGLETON remained Counter-Intelligence Chief for 20 years, outlasting all of the Directors and Deputy Directors of the CIA. He gained the reputation as paranoid and eccentric, who was seldom seen, even by own staff members. [Mangold Cold Warrior Simon & Shuster 1991]

ANGLETON AND KENNEDY'S MISTRESS

In 1962 Mary Pinchot Meyer, (Cord Meyer's ex-wife) told James Truitt, who was then a Vice President of the Washington Post and an associate of JAMES ANGLETON, that she had an affair with President Kennedy. James Truitt took notes on what Mary Pinchot told him. James Truitt worked for the State Department, then joined Time Inc. in 1948. He was Chief of the Washington bureau for several years. In 1960 he went to The Washington Post, and in 1964, James Truitt joined Newsweek. In the 1970's he showed his notes on Mary Pinchot to journalist Jay Gourley. The notes recorded an episode in July 1962 when Mary Pinchot and President John F. Kennedy smoked marijuana which James Truitt said he had provided. In his book Flashbacks Los Angeles: Tarcher, 1983 Tim Leary reported:

The most fascinating and important of these hundreds of visitors [interested in LSD] showed up in the spring of 1962. I was sitting in my office at Harvard University one morning when I looked up to see a woman leaning against the door post, hip tilted provocatively, studying me with a bold stare. She appeared to be in her late thirties. Good looking. Flamboyant eye-brows, piercing green-blue eyes, fine-boned face. Amused, arrogant, aristocratic. "Dr. Leary" she said coolly, "I've got to talk to you". She took a few steps forward and held out her hand. "I'm Mary Pinchot. I've come from Washington to discuss something very important. I want to learn how to run an LSD session." "That's our specialty here. Would you like to tell me what you have in mind?" "I have this friend who's a very important man. He's impressed by what I've told him about my own LSD experiences and what other people have told him. He wants to try it himself. So I'm here to learn how to do it. I mean. I don't want to goof up or something."

"Why don't you have your important friend come here with you to look over our project for a couple of days. Then if it makes sense to all concerned, we'll run a session for him." "Out of the question. My friend is a public figure. It's just not possible." "People involved in power usually don't make the best subjects." "Don't you think that if a powerful person were to turn on with his wife or girlfriend it would be good for the world?" "Nothing that involves brain-change is certain. But in general we believe that for anyone who's reasonably healthy and happy, the intelligent thing to do is to take advantage of the multiple realities available to the human brain. "Do you think that the world would be a better place if men in power had LSD experiences?" "Look at the world," I said, "Nuclear bombs proliferating. More and more countries run by military dictators. No political creativity. It's time to try something, anything new and promising..." The next contact with Mary Pinchot, my mysterious visitor from Washington, came about six months later. She phoned me from across the river in Boston. "Can you meet me right away in Room 717, Ritz Hotel?" Enchanting as before, she motioned to a silver ice bucket with a bottle of Dom Perignon tilting out. "I'm here to celebrate." she said. I twisted the bottle to make the cork pop gently "Your hush-hush love affair is going well?" "Oh yes, everything is going beautifully. On all fronts in fact. I can't give details, of course. But top people in Washington are turning on. You'd be amazed at the sophistication of some of our leaders. And their wives. We've gotten a little group together, people who are interested in learning how to turn on." "Really, I thought politicians were to power-oriented." "You must realize, implausible as it may seem, there are a lot of very smart people in Washington. Especially now with this administration. Power is important to them. And these drugs do give a certain power. That's what it's all about. Freeing the mind."

The sister of Mary Pinchot, Tony Pinchot, married Ben Bradlee. The Pinchot sisters were allegedly acquainted with Cicely d'Autremont, ANGLETON'S wife. When Cicely ANGLETON was contacted in August 1993 she stated, "I wouldn't dream of commenting on any of this."

Mary Pinchot was murdered on October 12, 1964. She was shot twice in the left temple and once in the chest. The suspect, Raymond Crump Jr., a black 25-year-old laborer, and father of five, was held without bail. The white jacket of Raymond Crump was recovered from the nearby woods. A truck driver, Henry Wiggins, 24, told the police he had seen a man standing over Mary Pinchot, wearing a white jacket. Later, Henry Wiggins identified Raymond Crump as the man. According to John Simkin Police tests were unable to show that Crump had fired the .38 caliber Smith and Wesson gun. There were no traces of nitrates on his hands or clothes. Despite an extensive search of the area no gun could be found. This included a two day search of the tow path by 40 police officers. The police also drained the canal near to the murder scene. Police scuba divers searched the waters away from where Mary was killed. However, no gun could be found. Nor could the prosecution find any link between Crump and any Smith and Wesson gun. The pocketbook and wallet of Mary Pinchot were found in her studio after her murder. During the trial Wiggins was unable to positively identify Raymond Crump as the man standing over Meyer's body. The prosecution was also handicapped by the fact that the police had been unable to find the murder weapon at the scene of the crime or to provide a creditable motive for the crime. On 29th July, 1965, Crump was acquitted of murdering Mary Meyer. The case remains unsolved. Cord Meyer commented:

I was satisfied by the conclusions of the police investigation that Mary had been the victim of a sexually motivated assault. Later on, some journalistic speculation was published to the effect that I was convinced that Mary's death was the result of some complicated Communist plot. There was no truth whatever to these stories.

HUNT stated:

According to contemporary reports Mary Pinchot Meyers was quite beautiful and quite viable. JFK, as some men do, took advantage of his sisters in terms of who they knew and who they could bring into the fold and I think that Mary Meyers was one of them. In any event poor thing was summarily killed by an unknown murderer who sped off in the bicycle that brought him. And why nobody knows. Her purse was not pilfered nothing of a personal nature was taken from her so we have to it has all the earmarks of a designed murder. Somebody got a hold of this black boy and put a pistol in his hands and said "Down there in the towpath there is a lady who doing artwork. Kill her." It could have been I think it was someone being very protective of Kennedy. I don't think it was ANGLETON although that ANGLETON and Mary Meyers connection is still very mysterious and ANGLETON died without shedding any light on it.

HUNT also stated:

In 1954, the Kennedys bought an estate just outside Washington, D.C., where they became neighbors of the Meyers. Cord's wife and Jackie apparently became rather friendly and went on walks together. Then, on October 12, 1964, Mary was tragically gunned down while walking on a towpath in Georgetown. By that time, she and Cord had divorced, and the media did not realize that her former husband was a high-ranking CIA official. Neither did they find out about her relationship with the president, so headlines about the murder quickly disappeared. Ray Crump, a black man, was arrested near the scene. Although he was acquitted of the crime, which remains unsolved, many court observers said that he got off because he had a good lawyer. Mary had cautioned at least one close friend to grab her diary if anything ever happened to her. Journalist (later editor) Ben Bradlee happened to be married to Mary's sister, Antoinette, who found the diary and letters shortly after the death. But there is an interesting fact here. When the Bradlees arrived at Mary's house shortly after the murder, they found James Angleton already there, rummaging around the house, looking for the diary and letters. No one has ever mentioned how the CIA official accessed the house, but Bradlee has said that the door was locked when he arrived. So does that mean Angleton broke in? When Antoinette eventually found the diary, she turned it over to Angleton, who later admitted that the book detailed the affair, talking specifically about how Mary and Kennedy would drop LSD before making love. Mary apparently thought that JFK's murder had taken place because the industrial-military complex couldn't allow his mind to be expanded by the drug. The fact that Angleton was already in the house when Bradlee got there is mysterious, as so little time had gone by since the murder.

Journalist Leo Damore wrote in the New York Post that a CIA source told him that Mary's death was probably a professional hit because "She had access to the highest levels. She was involved in illegal drug activity. What do you think it would do to the beatification of Kennedy if this woman said, 'It wasn't Camelot, it was Caligula's court?'" So I think it probably was a professional hit by someone trying to protect the Kennedy legacy. I don't think that Cord Meyer killed his ex-wife, and I don't think it was Angleton either, although he did apparently know that Mary and Kennedy had carried on the affair. He died without shedding much light on the matter. Cord Meyer is dead, too, as is Sturgis. No one ever made a deathbed confession about either crime.

The day after the death of Mary Pinchot, ANGLETON went to her home and gained possession of her diary. Did ANGLETON break in? Do bears shit in the woods? In The Old Boys, Burton Hersh reported a source alleged: "ANGLETON let himself into [Pinchot's] house with a key he kept to the place even before the cops turned up." An FBI Memorandum dated October 14, 1964, disclosed, "Helms explained that both he and ANGLETON have been very much involved with matters pertaining to the death and funeral of Mrs. Mary Pinchot Meyer." [FBI 62-80750-4255] What ANGLETON was trying to protect was traditional American culture for if were known that Kennedy was dropping acid, a lot of youth in this country would have done the same. ANGLETON was from the old school and believed that someone who had his finger on the nuclear trigger should not indulge in psychotomimetic drugs. This letter appeared in the New York Times [?]:

IN ANGLETON'S CUSTODY. We write to correct what in our opinion is an error in Ben Bradlee's autobiography, A Good Life. This error occurs in Mr. Bradlee's account of the discovery and disposition of Mary Pinchot Meyer's personal diary. The fact is that Mary Meyer asked Anne Truitt to make sure that in the event of anything happening to Mary while Anne was in Japan, JAMES ANGLETON took this diary into his safekeeping. When she learned that Mary had been killed, Anne Truitt telephoned person-to-person from Tokyo for JAMES ANGLETON. She found him at Mr. Bradley's house, where ANGLETON and his wife Cicely, had been asked to come following the murder. In the phone call, relaying Mary Meyer's specific instructions, Anne Truitt told ANGLETON, for the first time, that there was a diary; and, in accordance with Mary Meyer's explicit request, Anne Truitt asked ANGLETON to search for and take charge of the diary. Consequently, according to Cicely Angleton, those present agreed that a search would be made. This search was carried out, Mrs. Angleton affirms, in Mary Meyer's house in the presence of her sister, Tony Bradlee; the ANGLETON'S, and one other friend of Mary Meyer's. When Tony Bradlee found the diary and several papers bundled together in Mary Meyer's studio, she gave the entire package to ANGLETON and asked him to burn it. ANGLETON followed this instruction in part by burning the loose papers. He also followed Mary Meyer's instruction and safeguarded the diary. Some years later he honored a request by Tony Bradlee that he deliver it to her. Subsequently Tony Bradlee burned the diary in the presence of Ann Truitt. Cicly Angleton, Anne Truitt, Arlington, Virginia.

In 1969 James Truitt was declared insane. He lost his job at The Washington Post and moved to Mexico. James Truitt, 60, committed suicide on November 18, 1981, at San Miguel de Allende, Mexico.

Raymond Rocca (born February 22, 1917) was reputedly ANGLETON'S chief deputy. Raymond Rocca attended the University of California at Berkeley, where he studied Fascist Italy. In 1942 he received a Doctorate Degree in 1942. He went into the Analytical Section of the Foreign Broadcast Intelligence Service, where he learned content analysis as a Italian broadcast analyst. He joined the OSS Counter-Intelligence component in April 1944. He remained in Italy in the service of the OSS and its successor agencies, the Strategic Services Unit and the CIA. Raymond Rocca met ANGLETON in August 1944 and became his executive assistant. Raymond Rocca remained in Italy until after the 1948 elections and was ANGLETON'S liaison with the Italian intelligence service until his own return to Washington in the Summer of 1953. Raymond Rocca joined the DD/P Counter-Intelligence Staff in July 1955, as chief of its Research and Analysis Group. His functions there included production and editing of finished Counter-Intelligence studies, case studies, briefings, defector debriefings, accumulation of Counter-Intelligence doctrine, and research, stimulation and participation in Counter-Intelligence training. In July 1969 Raymond Rocca became Deputy Chief of the Counter-Intelligence Staff. Clare Edward Petty reported: "Rocca was the head of a CI section called Research and Analysis, CI/R&A. He was very close to ANGLETON and sometimes he acted as his deputy, but did not have the title. For several years before he died James Hunt was ANGLETON'S deputy and acted with full authority when ANGLETON was gone. He had an office next to ANGLETON'S. Then Hunt died. ANGLETON was one of these people who didn't really have a deputy per se. ANGLETON wanted, like a lot people, to run his own show, and did not wish to admit anybody was his deputy."

DAVID ATLEE PHILLIPS

It is widely believed that DAVID PHILLIPS used the code name BISHOP when he worked for the CIA. On the same page of OSWALD's address book that the name Hemming appeared, the word "Bisop" appeared.

DAVID ATLEE PHILLIPS was born in Fort Worth, Texas, on October 31, 1922 - a spook who was born on Halloween. He attended Texas Christian University and worked as an actor until World War II intervened. PHILLIPS served as a nose gunner in the Army Air Corps. He was shot down over Austria, but returned to the Allied lines after twice escaping from German prison camps. In 1948 PHILLIPS married an airline stewardess and, with a $200 a month option on a play he had written that was never produced, he and his bride decided to go to Chile to live cheaply. In Chile he purchased Latin America's oldest English-language newspaper, The South Pacific Mail. Because of this he was approached by the CIA and asked to pose as Chief of Station in Santiago, Chile, so that the CIA could observe the extent of KGB surveillance. PHILLIPS told The Washington Post: "I was to be a 'dangle.' Word was to be leaked out in Chile that I was chief of American intelligence there. Sure enough, a KGB agent soon began to cultivate me. I was at the time being paid $50 a month for my services. When that Soviet showed up it occurred to me I should be getting more." [Washington Post 7.2.75] PHILLIPS career with the CIA began in Chile on February 1, 1951 when he took a job as a contract agent at $600 per month with a term that ended February 28, 1951. He again entered on duty on January 25, 1952 and was paid $6,000 per year with a term that ended on August 31, 1953. On March 4, 1954 PHILLIPS entered on duty as a Contract Employee at $7200 per year. On August 1, 1954 his pay was increased to $8360 per year with a term ending March 31, 1955. At this time PHILLIPS was HUNT'S Deputy Chief for Propaganda and he left Chile to become, according to Who's Who, "a lecturer on Latin America." HUNT'S CIA assignment in 1953 was the overthrow of President Jacobo Arbenz in Guatemala - Project PB SUCCESS. HUNT worked closely with DAVID PHILLIPS on this operation.

OPERATION MOCKINGBIRD

The word "Mockbd" appeared in OSWALD'S address book disguised as the Russian word for Moscow. Beginning in the early 1950's the CIA maintained a network of several hundred foreign individuals around the world who provided intelligence for the CIA and at times attempted to influence opinion through the use of covert propaganda. These individuals provided the CIA with direct access to a large number of newspapers and periodicals, scores of press services and news agencies, radio and television stations, commercial book publishers, and other foreign media outlets. Mockingbird was very active during the overthrow of President Jacobo Arbenz Guzmán in Guatemala during Operation PBSUCCESS. People like Henry Luce were able to censor stories that appeared too sympathetic towards the plight of Arbenz. Allen W. Dulles was even able to keep left-wing journalists from travelling to Guatemala, including Sydney Gruson of the New York Times. HOWARD HUNT and DAVID PHILLIPS played a major part in Operation Mockingbird.

PHILLIPS IN WASHINGTON AND MIAMI?

PHILLIPS: SEPTEMBER AND OCTOBER 1963

A CIA telex dated October 4, 1963, read:

DIR 73214 of Oct 4, 63: "Mr David Phillips, newly appointed Chief PBRUMEN [Cuba] Ops in MEXI will arrive October 7, 1963 EAL FL 655 for two days consultations WAVE [NARA #104-10046-10003]."

WAVE was the Special Activities Section field station in Miami. Other names on this document included Samuel Halpern, J. Albert Hauser (?), R.R. Hathwell (?), and Arthur A. Maloney." [NARA CIA 1993.07.19.14:19:04:590620] In the late 1950s Samuel Halpern was executive assistant to Desmond FitzGerald, the chief of the Far Eastern Division of the CIA. He also worked as one of FitzGerald's operations officers in Saigon during the early stages of the Vietnam War. In 1961 Halpern worked with Richard Bissell and Desmond FitzGerald in the various plots to overthrow Fidel Castro in Cuba. Samuel Halpern was the executive assistant to Bill Harvey in Task Force W before and during after the missile crisis. Task Force W mission was to bring down the Castro government. As for Maloney:

HQS. Desires provide demolition and incendiary materials to AMBANG group being infiltrated near future. (Deleted) two each demolition kits (D) and incendiary kits (F) in cache containers would suffice. Otherwise similar amounts and type materials in container of WAVE choosing will do. Also wish provide six each pistols with silencers and fifty rounds ammo. SAS/RODRIGUEZ BRUCE B. CHEEVER AC/SAS ARTHUR A. MALONEY C/SAS/MOB. August 20, 1963.

Peter Dale Scott believed, "From about October 1, 1963 to October 9, 1963 Phillips made a quick trip, authorized by the Special Affairs Staff to Washington and then Miami." But something stank about this: David E. Kaiser reported, Phillips gave careful but often informative testimony during his [second] appearance before the HSCA, though he also had to acknowledge an extraordinary fabrication in his November 1976 testimony. On that occasion Sprague questioned him at length about Oswald's visit to Mexico City and the preparation of the October 8, 1963 cable in which the CIA station had informed Washington of Oswald's contact with the Soviets. Although Phillips did not sign the cable, he claimed to have remembered preparing it and speaking to the officer responsible for reporting on the Soviet Embassy to make sure it went out. Like so many other CIA officers, he assured the committee that the written record reflected everything there was to know. But during his second appearance, when a committee counsel presented him with another cable proving that Phillips was in Washington, D.C., from at least September 30, 1963 until October 7, 1963, and spent the next two days in Miami, he had to admit that his earlier testimony must have been incorrect.

Mr. Phillips: "Mr. David Phillips newly assigned chief PB room in Ops" --- that means Cuban operations -- in Mexico "will arrive October 7, 1963 Eastern Air Lines for two days consultation." This it to the station in Miami. "Not necessary meet or make reservations for Mexico. Mr. Phillips ETA October 9, 1963 on Guest Air Lines." So this would be a cable from headquarters saying that I was stopping by in Miami for two days.

Mr. Goldsmith. So it seems to indicate that at the very least, from September 30, 1963 until October 9, 1963 you were not in Mexico City.

Mr. Phillips: It certainly does.

Do you recall now where you were at that time?

Mr. Phillips. It was during this period that I learned that I was going to be shifted from one job to another and go to Cuban operations, so I obviously went back to headquarters to discuss Cuban operations, and on the way stopped because Miami was concerned with Cuba, on the way back.

Mr. Goldsmith. Well, it would seem that the more fundamental question is not even so much do you recall where you were, but on what basis you gave testimony to the Committee in November of '76 and earlier today describing conversation that you had with Mr. (deleted) and the cable that was to be sent out when in fact you weren't even there.

Mr. Phillips. Yes, it does.

Mr. Goldsmith. Is there any way that you could explain that?

Mr. Phillips. No, sir, I cannot. The only explanation that I can give is that I was suddenly involved in this Cuban business at a time when a lot was happening, and that when I was asked to testify in 1976, so many years later, my recollection of the events was that I was involved in Cuban matters, as indeed I would have been during that temporary duty in headquarters. I did not know -- I did not recall that I was at headquarters during that time.

The bottle line is that Phillips was a spook. For all you know he could be hiding up your asshole. You think he is here but he is really there and you never saw him leave. If HUNT was he met OSWALD in Mexico City, then he met him there. After the Bay of Pigs, PHILLIPS assumed diplomatic cover and was transferred to the American Embassy, Mexico City, where he remained until March 1964. PHILLIPS worked under Winston Scott in the number three position at the Mexico City station, "the job HOWARD HUNT had held in the early 1950's." In this position, PHILLIPS oversaw the operations being conducted against the Cubans and Soviets in Mexico City during September and October 1963. Former HSCA investigator Dan Hardway stated:

PHILLIPS was in Washington and Miami at that point. PHILLIPS wrote that he was in Mexico City in his book, and we found the documentation that showed that he was TDY out of there. In front of the Committee he acknowledged that evidently he was not there.

HSCA researcher Dan Hardway was convinced that PHILLIPS was in Washington during the time OSWALD was in Mexico City. Gaeton Fonzi agreed. OSWALD was in Mexico City from September 27, 1963 to October 3, 1963. All PHILLIPS needed was one hour with OSWALD to brief him as to his alleged CIA sanctioned mission. He didn't have to hold OSWALD's hand the entire week OSWALD was in Mexico City, Sylvia Duran would do that. PHILLIPS definitely could have hooked up with him. This is one thing that this researcher and his former adversary HOWARD HUNT agree upon:

That later business of OSWALD visiting the Soviet Embassy in Mexico City; PHILLIPS certainly knew about that. Well it's claimed that [OSWALD and PHILLIPS] did meet and apparently there is some documentary evidence to that effect but at that time PHILLIPS was Chief of Station in Mexico City. Well what can I say I don't think that DAVE PHILLIPS responded appropriately to the meeting with OSWALD because after all there was the surveillance that the Station maintained at the Cuban Embassy and of course they spotted OSWALD although nobody at that time anticipated that he would be a major figure? DAVE, his reporting was not that good. I think that anybody who had lived in the Soviet Union and renounced American citizenship to do so and then recanted that and took up a form of life that was a way of life that was inimical to the United States interests but very much in line for what the Soviet Union did I think that that person was a natural subject for contact and investigation and that although PHILLIPS was not an investigator maybe received direct orders to go after OSWALD and see if he can recruit him. That whole history of OSWALD'S defection is a little uncertain as far as I am concerned because he came over with too much baggage and that was revealed later on and nobody knew it at the time but I think the Bureau was more cautious then what they did with him than CIA did. I am assuming that over the years any contact reports between PHILLIPS and OSWALD was a matter of record. You can almost say if there is nothing in the file then it never existed. We know that it did exist.

While he always denied it, there has been enough speculation that David Atlee Phillips—using the pseudonym Maurice Bishop—met with Oswald in Mexico City before the assassination to have him called up in front of the HSCA to refute the allegations. After the Bay of Pigs, Phillips helped formulate plans to assassinate Castro and was named chief of Cuban Operations in 1963. In Miami, he helped support Alpha 66—an infamous anti-Castro group that made guerilla forays against Cuba—and reportedly told the organization's founder, Antonio Veciana, that he hoped to provoke the United States into interceding in Cuba by "putting Kennedy's back to the wall."

While many buffs cast a jaundiced eye on Phillips's meeting with Oswald in Mexico City, if it happened, it would have been entirely appropriate for Phillips to meet with the man, as Phillips was station chief, and the station maintained surveillance of the Cuban embassy. Oswald had been spotted visiting there. The meeting may have been completely on the up and up, with Phillips trying to recruit Oswald. The CIA had a general policy that if we came across an interesting figure—and Oswald would certainly have been of interest as a U.S. defector who married a Soviet—he would have been a natural target for any alert CIA officer. Phillips might have even given Oswald orders for some operation in Mexico, but the bureaucratic steps for something like that were pretty well established, so there should have been a paper trail left behind. If you're dealing with an American who's living abroad, then one set of procedural rules is followed. If the proposed asset is not American, there is another set of procedures and qualifications that come into play. Oswald, of course, would have been considered an American citizen. He had been in the Marine Corps, and so recruiting him, whether in Mexico or the United States, had a fixed set of requirements. Could Phillips have tried to recruit Oswald on the sly? He certainly had the ability and the knowledge. I mean, we are talking about David Phillips, one of the most effective agents I have ever known. But precisely because of that, I cannot see Phillips having anything to do with such an operation. He was a professional's professional who took orders from the top and would have considered the presidency an inviolable position.

It's been written that I was working in Mexico when Lee Harvey Oswald went there. But if he was in Mexico City, I did not know about him at that time. I had no reason to know anything about him, as there was no general alert on Oswald anywhere, and I never heard his name until I read it in the newspaper after he killed Kennedy. As far as I know, Oswald had no connection with the CIA at all, unless there was some contact initiated by Phillips because of the U.S. citizen's previous defection and return. Someone may have tried to flip him, because it was very strange that he was ever allowed back into the United States.

HUNT putting OSWALD and PHILLIPS together in Mexico City is extraordinary since it indicates that HUNT is now stating something that is in opposition to the Warren Commission. HUNT, however, claims that PHILLIPS was trying to recruit OSWALD to become a CIA informant but then says PHILLIPS was not a recruiter. Could it have been HUNT who met with OSWALD and he is doing a limited hangout? Did HUNT take over for PHILLIPS after PHILLIPS left?

HUNT writes, "It's been written that I was working in Mexico when Lee Harvey Oswald went there. But if he was in Mexico City, I did not know about him at that time" That sentence implies that HUNT was in Mexico City when OSWALD visited there but did not run into OSWALD. This is interesting in light of the fact that there is a letter whose authenticity is in dispute that was allegedly mailed to HUNT by OSWALD then mailed to assassination researchers from Mexico City. HUNT and PHILLIPS might have double-teamed OSWALD. According to one CIA document PHILLIPS was head of Covert Action from September 1961 to March 1964. Traces on HUNT have been deleted.

There was even more confusion about HUNT:

3. Mr. McSherry advised the writer of Mr. Phillips' principal concern-- that he not be caught by surprise by anything in Mr. Buckley's security file of which he was not already aware. After being briefed, Mr. Phillips told Mr. McSherry that Western Hemisphere Division already had the information contained in the briefing. For Office of Security record purposes, he noted further that Mr. E. Howard Hunt, Jr. had not been Chief of Station or Chief of Mission in Mexico City as indicated in Mr. Hunt's security file. Rather, he had been Chief of Covert Action operations. Mr. Phillips, as a matter of fact, was Mr. Hunt's replacement in that post. NARA Record Number: 104-10256-10293

S.A. WARREN C. DeBRUEYS

S.A. WARREN C. DeBRUEYS entered the FBI in August 1950. His assignments included work in the Newark Division, and work overseas. S.A. DeBRUEYS was used by the CIA when he served as Legal Attaché at the United States Embassies in Brazil, Mexico, and Argentina. The post of Legal Attaché in Latin and Central America had been co-opted by the CIA: when Central Intelligence Group was formed on January 22, 1946, the FBI abruptly withdrew its intelligence service from Latin America. This function was immediately taken over by the Central Intelligence Group and the FBI Legal Attaches who remained were co-opted. HUNT: "South of the Rio Grande, CIA Station Chiefs were almost entirely former FBI agents who had served in Latin America during the war." [HUNT Undercover p68; RR p47] S.A. DeBRUEYS was heavily involved in monitoring Cuban exiles after he returned to the United States. ED: TORAZ Director

A CIA Office of Security memorandum on OSWALD'S address book noted that he recorded on page 13: Ed Toraz or Editorial Director P.O. Box 2119 U P O New York, N.Y. Account No. 38210 The CIA Office of Security reported:

Office of Security files contain no information identifiable with the above. It was noted that CIA Cable IN 68452 from Managua dated November 26, 1963, relating to the OSWALD matter, contains information regarding one E. Torres (probably Edelberto Torres of Mexico City) Torres is also mentioned in Cable IN 68376 from Mexico City dated November 26, 1963. Other than the phonetic similarity, there is no reason to relate Torres with the item in the address book. [CIA 646-277]

The CIA transcribed "Editor/Director" as "Ed Toraz," however, a closer examination shows the entry read ED I Toraz. Get rid of the E and it read DI TORAZ, or reverse the ED to DE as in BERNARDO De TORRES. A check with the postal authorities indicated "that Ed Toraz is unknown at Post Office Box 2119 (G.P.O.) Present Box holder - Vantage Press 130 W. 37th Street, New York City, has had this box since 1960." [Ltr. to A.J.W. dated 11.30.76 from John Strachan] Vantage Press was a vanity publishing house. The CIA had subsidized many anti-Communist books during the 1950's and 1960's, and someone may have set up an account for OSWALD with Vantage, although the account number was written in a different ink. [CIA 646-277] The SSCIA reported that HOWARD HUNT was in charge of contacts with U.S. publishers in the late 1960's. [SSCIA For. & Mil. Intell. V1 p198] No investigation of this account was ever conducted by the CIA. BERNARDO G. DE TORRES ALVAREZ (born March 26, 1934) Havana Province, Cuba told the CIA that he entered the United States in January 1955 and began to play professional baseball. He gave up studies in Civil Engineering (he began his career in 1943) and he obtained work at the Ford Motor Company. He told the FBI that he completed his high school education in Havana, Cuba, and had not attended school in the United States. BERNARDO DE TORRES went to Cuba in January 1959 to attempt to exfiltrate his father. He stayed in Havana and worked against the Castro regime until November 1959 when he returned to the U.S. After his arrival, he took a course given by the Miami Police Department for private detectives, and obtained a certificate that allowed him to practice as a detective, which he did for the private detective firm of his brother CARLOS DE TORRES. He made trips to Cuba in early 1960, where he discussed shipments of arms to anti-Castro forces. BERNARDO DE TORRES enlisted in February 1961. He was Chief of Intelligence of Brigade 2506.

All 2506 Brigade enlistees were routinely processed for Provisional Operational Approval and a request for a POA on Subject was submitted on March 2, 1961 and cancelled on April 4, 1962. It is extremely doubtful if Subject was aware at the time of his enlistment that he knew of any CIA relationship with the 2506 Brigade. The investigative phase of the POA indicates that USG interest would be revealed but CIA interest in Subject would not be revealed. Subject's file reveals no operational use of Subject following the cancellation of this POA on April 4, 1962. William C. Sturbitts May 12, 1978.

BERNARDO was captured at the Bay of Pigs, and returned to America in December 24, 1962 after a $50,000 ransom was paid. He later became Assistant Secretary for Military Affairs of the Brigade. DE TORRES worked under DAVID SANCHEZ MORALES. In 1963 DE TORRES resumed work as a private investigator. According to GERRY P. HEMMING, DE TORRES worked for Charles Siragusa, who was involved in foreign assassinations.

When The Washington Post of January 20, 1967, carried an article in which BERNARDO De TORRES said he helped the Secret Service guard the President in Miami, William Branigan checked with that agency. According to BERNARDO De TORRES, the United States Secret Service requested his help in spotting potential Cuban assassins. [Miami Herald 2.19.67] The United States Secret Service admitted it contacted several Cuban groups before the visit and asked for their assistance. Brigade 2506 was one of the groups contacted but the Secret Service denied talking to BERNARDO De TORRES. The Secret Service: "De TORRES is known to be a member of Brigade 2506, but not known as one of the top leaders. Some Cubans did mingle in the crowd to try to identify trouble makers." The FBI files indicated BERNARDO De TORRES was military commander of Brigade 2506. William Branigan suggested using BERNARDO De TORRES as informer to William C. Sullivan and J. Edgar Hoover. [FBI 62-109060-NR 2.23.67, 1.27.67, 3.2.67, 5539, 455; FBI 10582555iNR 3.2.67] J. Edgar Hoover commented: "Be certain we don't use De TORRES as an informant or in any capacity." The Miami FBI Office reported that BERNARDO De TORRES was never an informant, Potential Security Informant, or source of information.

No one was trying to frame HEMMING for the Kennedy assassination. HEMMING was not at the Miami Airport on Monday, November 18, 1963, and has constructed a smoke screen with no documents to support him. The only article that gave credence to HEMMING'S story concerned BERNARDO TORRES, who was involved with HEMMING in the assassination.

JAMES P. HOSTY

FBI S.A. James P. Hosty, who was in charge of the pre and post assassination

OSWALD investigations, was told OSWALD was some sort of counter-intelligence operation or detected it. HEMMING told this researcher: "A lot of them Bureau people are just stooging around and they're told to stay away from certain areas that involve national security and they swallow that shit. He knew the guy was more than what he was supposed to be."

S.A. Hosty suppressed the truth about OSWALD because he was, and still is, a right-winger who prefers to blame the assassination of President John F. Kennedy on the Left. After the assassination, S.A. Hosty destroyed evidence that indicated he knew OSWALD was not a bona fide Leftist. J. Edgar Hoover and the Dallas FBI Field Office were determined to characterize OSWALD as a "loner" so the Bureau would not be accused of having overlooked a broader conspiracy.

CARLOS BRINGUIER was born in 1934 in Havana, Cuba. His father was a Criminal Court Judge from 1939 to 1959. In 1954 he worked as an assistant secretary in the Criminal Court of Havana. BRINGUIER: "Under Fulgencio Batista, the criminal system was working very well. You can say that not a single innocent people were sent to jail. After Castro, it deteriorated. Many, many, many, violations. I thought I was at the will of a small group, a minority of Communists who were trying to destroy the island." BRINGUIER was in Argentina when Fidel Castro took power. He engaged in anti-Castro activity there. When BRINGUIER returned to Cuba he resumed his duties as a Criminal Court official and secretary in Havana. BRINGUIER was a delegate of the Directorio Revolucionario Estudiantil (DRE). The DRE began as an anti-Batista organization at the University of Havana, and established a force in the Escambray Mountains of Cuba. The DRE took over the presidential palace for Fidel Castro in January 1959, but was not given a significant share in the post-revolutionary government.

MM T-2 on April 3, 1959, advised that the DR is a more radical organization than the July 26 Movement and is doing the "dirty work" for the Castro government. MM T-2 said that the DR is publishing a newspaper known as "El Combate."

On April 30, 1959, MANUEL COBO SAUSA, identified himself as a lawyer and vice national secretary of the Triple A organization which he described as a Cuban revolutionary organization which participated in the fight to overthrow former Cuban President FULCENCIO BATISTA. COBO stated that the DR has lost its identity and is not a close knit organization at present. It is not well thought of by other organizations as its members were considered too much given to acts of violence. Many of its followers have left the organization.

The DRE took up arms against Fidel Castro. The DRE set up shop in the United States under the aegis of CIA. CIA official DAVID ATLEE PHILLIPS ran this exile operation. When the CIA Office of Security was asked to comment on BRINGUIER'S name appearing in OSWALD'S address book it stated, "No information could be found in OS on this person; however, he has been identified as the New Orleans delegate to the DRE.” It was impossible for the OS not to have had traces on BRINGUIER but it just did not want to go into it.

DAVID SANCHEZ MORALES

David Sanchez MORALES was born on August 26, 1925. He spent his early life in Phoenix, Arizona. A Mexican-American, MORALES was later to be nicknamed “El Indio” because of his dark skin and Indian features. MORALES was also known as “Didi.” As a boy his best friend was Ruben Carbajal. They both attended Soledad Cathlic Grammar School. After his mother divorced his father he was virtually adopted by Carbajal's parents. MORALES attended Arizona State College in Tempe (now Arizona State University) during the 1944-45 school year before moving to Los Angeles and attending the University of Southern California (1945-46). MORALES joined the United States Army in 1946 and after basic training was sent to Germany where he was part of the Allied occupation force. According to Ruben Carbajal, MORALES was recruited into army intelligence in 1947. However, officially he was a member of 82nd Airborne. It was during this time he began associating with Ted Shackley and William Harvey. In 1951 became an employee of the Central Intelligence Agency while retaining his army cover. The following year he joined the Directorate for Plans.

During a CIA award presentation it was revealed:

Mr. MORALES spent more than twenty years in the field in several different installations in the areas of Europe, Latin America and East Asia. He held senior level positions engaged in FI, CI, CA and PM operations. His record includes such items as participation in key roles in both of Latin American Division two major PM/ political action operations plus tours as [27, 13-21] Laos (supervised 45 employees) and, Regional Officer in Charge [15-22] Vietnam (supervised 60 employees). These assignments were carried out in war zones requiring considerable personal courage.

In 1953 he returned to the United States and after a spell at the University of Maryland he assumed cover as a State Department employee. MORALES became involved a plan to remove unfriendly foreign leaders from power. This included a coup d'état that overthrew the Guatemalan government of Jacobo Arbenz in 1954 after he introduced land reforms and nationalized the United Fruit Company. This operation was called PBSUCCESS and involved HUNT and PHILLIPS. After the removal of Arbenz he joined the staff of the US embassy in Caracas (1955-58). During this time he became known as the CIA's top assassin in Latin America. MORALES moved to Cuba in 1958 and helped to support the government of Fulgencio Batista. In 1960 Wayne S. Smith was a State Department officer in the American Embassy in Havana. Smith tells the story of being in a bar in Havana with MORALES. After a heavy drinking session MORALES began talking about the CIA's secret operations that involved frog men operating out of Guantanamo Bay. Smith told Gaeton Fonzi that MORALES was very indiscrete when drunk. In November, 1961, William Harvey arranged for MORALES to be posted to JMWAVE, the CIA station in Miami. MORALES was operations chief for the CIA's covert operation to train and infiltrate teams into Cuba to destabilize the Castro government. MORALES reported directly to veteran Agency covert operator Ted Shackley, who was the Agency's Miami bureau chief.

Mr. MORALES was commended twice by Chiefs of Station while assigned to the Cuban operation; by the DCIA for service in the [deleted as of 2010 11] during the crisis; by the King of Laos during his assignment in Laos and by the Government of Vietnam for his service in that country.

In May, 1962, MORALES was seconded to ZR/RIFLE, the plot to assassinate Fidel Castro. During this period he worked closely with DAVID ATLEE PHILLIPS, Tracy Barnes, William Pawley, Johnny Roselli and John Martino. DAVID MORALES was involved in other covert operations of the CIA, reportedly including plots to assassinate Fidel Castro, training intelligence teams supporting the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba, In this capacity he worked with BERNARDO De TORRES, who would later become Intelligence Chief for the Bay of Pigs Brigade.

BERNARD BARKER

BERNARD L. BARKER (201-251689) was born in Havana, Cuba, on March 17, 1917, of a native-born American father and a Cuban mother. His birth was recorded at the U.S. Embassy, and he was recognized as having acquired U.S. citizenship by birth through his father. He traveled, not on a U.S. Passport, but on an identity card that proclaimed his U.S. citizenship.

BARKER was in the U.S. Army Air Corps in World War II from 1942 to 1947. He served with the 94th Bombardment Group based at Bury St. Edmunds, Suffolk, England. Captain BARKER was shot down on his 12th mission over Germany, and was a POW for 16 months until he was liberated by Russian guerrillas and returned to American lines. HUNT declared: "In 1948 the Havana CIA Station persuaded him to join the Havana Police Force so that the CIA could have an inside view of Cuban anti-subversive operations. After a few years, when Bernie applied for passport renewal, the Consulate coldly informed him that he had lost his United States citizenship by joining a uniformed force of a foreign country." HUNT'S friend, attorney Mario Lazo, took BARKER'S case. Mario Lazo was listed as a reference in BARKER'S 210 file.

THE BUREAU FOR THE SUPPRESSION OF COMMUNISM

It was alleged that BARKER was a high-ranking member of Cuba's Bureau for Suppression of Communism while on the CIA's payroll. [FBI MM 139-328] When BARKER was deposed in the course of HUNT v. WEBERMAN, he denied participating in the Bureau for Suppression of Communism: "I never held any position with Batista's Secret Police. I was a member of the Cuban Police Department for about a year. My duties were those of regular Police Sergeant. I was not involved in any political matters. I was in contact with U.S. intelligence. I don't remember the nature of the cases I investigated. I was a CIA contract agent." The CIA had this version of events:

In 1950, along with several Cuban-born U.S. citizens who were war veterans, he entered the Cuban police force, where his bilingual abilities soon brought him advancement. BARKER'S relationship with the CIA began in mid-1959 in Havana as a result of his position in the Cuban police force, under the Batista regime, in which capacity he was detailed to liaison duty with U.S. agencies in Havana. He was used by the CIA in Havana as a source of political information and recruited a number of valuable CIA agents in Havana.

BARKER'S 201 file indicated that he worked for the Cuban Police Department from 1950 to 1951. He did general police work and left because the ouster of the Chief of Police resulted in the disbandment of the unit. BARKER bought a farm in the Pinar Del Rio Province of Cuba and became a labor inspector for the Cuban Government. He left this position to work for Remington Rand as a salesman. In January 1955 he became a housing inspector for the Marianao Municipal Government. His reason for having left this position was "Cuban revolution."

BARKER LEAVES CUBA IN JANUARY 1960

BARKER was expeditiously evacuated from Cuba and arrived in Miami in January 1960. The CIA:

On basis review AMCLATTER-1 personal security situation, Station concludes his usefulness in Havana ended and strongly recommends he be exfiltrated by most expeditious means. Suggest follows: Headquarters send KURIOT man soonest from Miami to Havana traveling as tourist by air on false American documentation including birth certificate, drivers license, social security card etc. in AMCLATTER-1 physical description: Age 42, 5' 8", 160 pounds, brown thinning hair and eyes, round face, stocky build. (speaks idiomatic American English without accent and can pass physically as native American.) Preferably one document to which he will affix photo and plastic lamination. KURIOT man to turn over Cuban landing card, round trip air ticket and false documents to AMCLATTER-1 who would then return Miami by Varadero. As alternative HQS arrange with ODUNIT attaché exfiltrate AMCLATTER-1 directly on Attache plane. Re; Disposal AMCLATTER-1, he has indicated desire to regain American citizenship and has requested KUBARK training. In view of his valuable services ODYOKE, native fluency Spanish and knowledge Cuban scene, recommend he be given training as appropriate and assisted relocate Miami where he could be of assistance to KARNLEY. OS COMMENT" AMCLATTER-1 informed Station that agents in military searched his house morning January 6, 1960.

The CIA agent who was sent into Cuba left the island on a flight that carried Station files and Recordak equipment.

JAMES McCORD

JAMES WALTER MCCORD was born on January 26, 1924, in Waurika, Oklahoma. From March 1943 to November 1943, he was a FBI Radio Operator and monitor. He became a bombardier in the U.S. Air Corps from November 1943 to November 1945. McCORD was an FBI Agent from 1945 to 1951. In 1951 he opened a cooperative credit service. He joined the CIA as an Domestic Field Officer investigator for the Office of Security. In July 1953 McCORD was assigned to Washington, D.C. In May 1955 McCORD was assigned to the Security Research Staff, Office of Security. On June 27, 1958, a U.S. Air Force C-118 cargo plane strayed into Soviet airspace. The nine-man crew were en route from Wiesbaden, Germany, to Iran and Pakistan, carrying a CIA cargo. Part of the crew were surrounded and beaten by Russian peasants. The crewmen, who did not compromise any CIA operations, were released on July 8, 1958. A document about this incident appeared in McCORD'S CIA file. Bennie A. Shupe, a C-188 crew member, was contacted in December 1993: "I cannot tell you how McCORD interfaced with the operation."

On this date Subject's case was coordinated with Mr. McCORD of Security Research Service, in connection with Subject's operational use with the US by WH/4/Propaganda. The implications of a Counter-Intelligence operation within the States by this Agency, and the possibility Subject might come to the attention of the FBI through association with Court Wood, were discussed. In May 1962 James McCord was made Chief of the Security Staff in (deleted) European area. "Subject returned (deleted) to Headquarters in August 1964 and was assigned to the (deleted)." On March 20, 1963 the CIA generated this document: "52 049, McCORD, JAMES (deleted) I SD/I FINAL Francis R. Favorini Hdqs.- orig. Hdqs. - 1 (Deleted) 1." A CIA document also dated March 20, 1963, noted that Mrs. McCord arrived aboard a military flight at McGuire Air Force Base where she was met by a CIA official and assisted through customs after which she flew to Dallas then Lubbock, Texas. Another CIA document read "As of November 1963 McCORD (OS #52 049) was serving in (deleted) as Chief of the Agency Regional Security Support Staff. McCORD was so assigned from June 1962 to June 1964." Edward Petty reported that ANGLETON was in touch with McCORD.

JAMES McCORD AND THE PLAN TO FREE DAVID LEMAR CHRIST

JAMES McCORD allegedly retired from the CIA in 1970, but remained in the CIA Civilian Reserve Program. [CIA MFF 8.25.70 Louis F. Mazza, Chief, Employee Activity Branch] The following statement by McCORD was found in his CIA retirement application under CIARDS:

During the latter part of 1955 to 1962 period the writer was case officer for three agents for DD/P whose task was to gain entry to prisons in Cuba and obtain data and photographs concerning their layout and operation. These were prisons where three agency staffers were being held. Two of the agents successfully gained entry into such prisons and returned to the U.S. with data acquired; the third acquired additional data from a foreign embassy in Cuba of interest and relevance. The transcript of the CIA retirement board on June 11, 1970, shows McCORD being credited with being an 'actual case officer for Cuban agents for 24 months from 1960 to 1962. The minutes of the meeting summarized the point with less detail. [NARA 1993.08.11.18: 17:58:620028 - Breckinridge]

After the Watergate affair, the FBI asked the CIA to determine if McCORD had been familiar with the anti-Castro exile community in the early 1960's. The CIA replied on June 21, 1972:

"...a review of the duties and assignments of Mr. McCORD provided no indication that he was involved in Cuban matters and that he was not assigned to the Bay of Pigs operation. This does not preclude the possibility, however, that he might have developed personal acquaintances which are not recorded in official personal and security records. We have no information regarding McCORD'S activities with Cuban exiles since his retirement." [Vernon Walters Memo for FBI 7.6.72]

Another CIA document stated: "This is to advise that the duties and area assignments of Mr. McCORD as an Agency employee (deleted)." [CIA Memo 6.21.72 Osborn to Parman]

In a Memorandum dated July 6, 1972, the CIA stated that there was "no indication that he was involved in Cuban matters and that he was not assigned to the BAY OF PIGS OPERATION." [CIA FOIA 2132-2] Less than a month later, the CIA modified its position: "Reference is made to memoranda from this Agency dated June 21, 1972, and July 6, 1972, which stated that a review of McCORD'S duties and assignments provided no indication that he was involved (deleted). However, a recent review has revealed that from late 1960 to mid-1961 Mr. McCORD was involved in planning activities in Washington concerning (deleted), and that from Washington he directed as many as three Agency operational assets." [CIA FOIA #2795-1]

On June 29, 1974, Scott Breckinridge noted:

As I left I asked Barbara Pindar for a copy of the letter to Senator Baker, and she made one for me. She called my attention to the Director's note on our memo about McCORD'S Cuban involvement, emphasizing his statement that we should find out rapidly. I told her that two Office of Security people are reviewing files and looking for leads on who might remember McCORD'S activities, and that the Office of Finance was mounting an effort on past travel records that might show McCORD'S travel to Miami or elsewhere. I told her we would be unlikely to have full answers for a while. She said I'd best speak to the Director. I carried a copy of the McCORD memo and told the Director essentially the same story. He discussed possible results, and we agreed that it may well turn out that McCORD had limited involvement, along the line that the Office of Security feels may be the case. He said we should draft a memo to the FBI, as a correction to the June 21, 1972 memo, saying simply that in a recent review of McCORD'S files, we had found in his retirement file a statement to the effect that in the 1960 to 1962 period he handled agents targeted against Cuba, and that we had been unable to refine the information. It is sensitive so the details cannot be passed, but it has nothing to do with anything after that period.

A CIA document stated: On July 3, 1974,

MEMO FOR FILE

SUBJECT C: OTS (late TSD) and JIM McCORD'S CUBAN ACTIVITIES

Ben Colling phoned to say one of the fellows in jail is still around, and after he got out, he inquired around, and got no indication that McCORD was ever involved. None of the other OTS people had any recollection of McCORD'S involvement. I said I was sure that the man who was rolled up might not have any idea of McCORD'S involvement, if indeed he was involved. If McCORD'S involvement was merely headquarters planning and no releasing operation was ever undertaken, his role might never surface. However, we had been told that planning did involve Technical Services Division people at the time, along with Security. For instance, I knew that the Security man with Technical Services Division at the time had a job of hand-holding with the families of the three men; there may be some Technical Services Division record that would lead to someone who would know. [CIA Memo SDB to MFF 7.3.74]

THE EAST ASIA DIVISION AND BLACK AIR TRANSPORT

The operation to free CHRIST was run out of the East Asia Division. Theodore Shackley, the Chief of the East Asia Division of the CIA, was asked by the CIA's Deputy Director for Operations to search for any record of McCORD'S involvement in the rescue operation:

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director for Operations
FROM: Chief, East Asia Division
SUBJECT: James McCord Involvement in Cuban Operations
REF: N-293/74

1. In response to reference routing sheet request for information on the possible involvement of James McCord in the rescue operation for the three TSD officers who were jailed as a result of the NCNA Havana audio operation compromise, East Asia Division has completed its investigation with the following results.

a. The name of the operation against NCNA Havana was STESCALADE. A summary of that operation is contained in Attachment A. A similar operation against the Bank of China in Havana called STVOLUME was planned but never executed.

b. The files of both operations have been recalled from the archives and searched. They contain no reference to McCORD.

c. The STESCALADE file contained Attachment B which indicates that a further file of "sensitive non-CS record material" pertaining to STESCALADE exists but is not accessible to EA Division.

d. All available personnel who were associated with EA/CO at the time of the operation have been consulted with negative results.

e. Mr. Robert Wiecha's name appears frequently in the STESCALADE file as a WH officer; thus as a current member of East Asia Division, he was consulted with negative results. He said he has no memory of McCord involvement; however, it seems plausible to him that the Office of Security and the TSD might have tried to work something out in terms of a rescue operation.

f. Attachment C contain a contingency plan found in the STESCALADE file which relates to the provision of black air transport for the three TSD detainees in the event of their release. It contains no reference to McCord and is attached for your information. Theodore G. Shackley, Chief, East Asia Division.

RELEASE CONTINGENCY PLAN 62-2

CHART OR MAP REFERENCES: Sectional aeronautical charts: As required.

TASK ORGANIZATION: (Deleted as of 2010) Major Billy B. Campbell Commander.

1. SITUATION: Daniel Carswell (alias) Eustace H. Danbrunt (alias) and Edmund Taransky (alias) are TSD employees who were apprehended by Cuban authorities 1 September 1960 and who are serving ten year sentences. Efforts are being made to secure their release. Since their release may occur without advance notice and at a variety of places, i.e. Havana, Miami, Mexico City, Switzerland, Brazil etc. it is imperative that a contingency plan be formulated to ensure the secure reception of these employees.

The controlling factor in all phases of the release procedure is that these employees were in Cuba under alias and that during the entire period since their capture their aliases and cover stories apparently have been maintained. Therefore it is essential that these aliases be maintained until such time as the employees have returned to Agency control and then have these alias identities disappear as quickly as possible. For planning purposes the release points will be Havana, Miami, Mexico City or "other areas."

2. MISSION: (Deleted) provide black air transportation from port of entry CONUS to the designated safe area.

3. EXECUTION: A. Black air transport will be provided under this plan at the request of TFW, COS Mexico or Operational Support Division/OS/DDS depending on the release point and port of entry.

BLACK TAPED FILES

WH/RMO stated: "There is a folder of sensitive non-OS record material pertaining to this operation, retired under Black Tape wrapping, Job #67-86/78, restricted to Office of DCI, DDCI, DDP, C/WH, C/WH/PL, C/WH/C, C/CI, C/TSD, Director of Security and General Counsel. CHINA OPERATIONS is not cited as an originator, addressee or recipient of any of this sensitive material." [CIA Memo WH/RMO 9.20.66 - NARA 1993.08.11.18:13:34:590028; Shackley Memo C/EAD 7.6.74]

The November 15, 1974, CIA Handbook stated:

To retain the P&L, RYBAT, or KAPOK sensitivity of a document remaining in a 201-dossier being retired to Central Files, place that document in an envelope sealed with black tape. Any RYBAT, P&L, or KAPOK document sent to Central Files not in blacktaped envelope will automatically be handled as desensitized. A blacktaped envelope may contain only one document and must be filed in chronological order within the file. If there are numerous documents of this type, the desk officer may blacktape the entire dossier rather than the individual documents. Blacktaped dossiers or dossiers with blacktaped documents will be handled as restricted dossiers."

Acting Inspector General Scott Breckinridge wrote that "the findings may only result in an innocuous rewording of the original statements, to the effect that McCORD did have a headquarters planning responsibility for certain Cuban Operations." [NARA 1993.08.11.18:17:58:620028]

John Mertz had no knowledge of McCORD'S involvement in the plan to free CHRIST: "He didn't have a damn thing to do with it. But there were a couple of security officers who worked for McCORD. I don't remember their names. One of their names was Morris. They were gophers for me on that thing." HEMMING told this researcher: "This makes McCORD a player, not a book reader." Marina Oswald told this researcher: "It could be, or simply guilty by association."

McCORD'S TELEPHONE INTERVIEW: DECEMBER 1993

McCORD was contacted in December 1993. When he determined I was doing research into the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, he hung-up the telephone. A message was left on McCORD'S answering machine linking him with CHRIST. When his number was re-dialed he stated:

What is your name? What is your address? You're a writer with who? Let me tell you something Mr. Weberman, I will not be talking with you any further, my friend. I never heard of the man you talked about CARSWELL, CHRIST, whatever. This is the last I am going to tell you. My lawyer's going to be in touch with you by letter. I never heard of the fellow you talked about. I never tried to break anyone out of anywhere and I had no connection with the JFK assassination. My lawyer will write you a letter affirming this and warning you of libel.

He was told, "McCORD, you're guilty, man." According to Cuban exile Enrique Williams, HOWARD HUNT and McCORD worked together in the early 1960's: "'I was confused,' Williams remembered. Both of them said to call me Don Eduardo. Both HUNT and McCORD." [Hinckle Deadly Secrets p171] HUNT stated: "I had not known McCORD from the CIA." [HUNT v. SPOTLIGHT HUNT Depo 11.4.81]

THE MOB'S PART OF THE PLOT

It becomes apparent from a review of JACK RUBY'S toll records that just prior to the Kennedy assassination he was in touch with gangsters connected to CARLOS MARCELLO and JAMES RIDDLE HOFFA.

JOHN MARTINO

JOHN VINCENT MARTINO, a relative of Philadelphia mob boss Angelo Bruno, was born in Atlantic City, New Jersey, in 1911. His first arrest was at age 20, for illegal gambling activities. In 1935 he moved to Miami, where he was arrested for running a lottery. He returned to Atlantic City, and became involved in the publication of a racing sheet put out by gangsters and racketeers. He was convicted of loan sharking in 1945. He returned to Miami and worked for SANTO TRAFFICANTE Sr. for which he came under scrutiny by the Internal Revenue Service. MARTINO moved to Cuba where he became close to Estaban Ventura, the second highest in command in Fulgencio Batista's secret police. Estaban Ventura, who was responsible for numerous Latin American death squad-style killings in pre-Castro Cuba, was indicted by the thoroughly corrupt Batista regime, but his case never came to trial because the judge who indicted him went into hiding. [DuBois Castro p269] The CIA reported, "From information available in SRS, it appears that the House Committee on Un-American Activities is well aware of Venture, rather than being chief of CI for Batista, was a police captain in the city of Havana, and a professional assassin, before he lost favor with Batista." MARTINO knew Estaban Ventura's associate, Rolando Masferrer, and was engaged in a smuggling venture through a Cuban port located 20 miles from Havana. On July 15, 1959, FBI Headquarters sent a memorandum to the Legal Attache in Havana that advised him to keep track of JOHN MARTINO'S "criminal or revolutionary activities."

TO: Director, FBI
FROM: Legal Attaché, Havana
SUBJECT: JOHN MARTINO PC-FM

The above captioned individual was arrested on July 23, 1959, by the Cuban Revolutionary Police. His twelve-year-old son Edward was detained at the same time. Police accused him of having entered Cuba in a private plane without permission.

The following information was received from Hugh D. Kessler, Welfare Officer, U.S. Embassy, Havana, Cuba.

MARTINO actually entered Cuba, according to Pan American Airways records, via Pan American Flight from Miami, Florida, at 5:45 p.m. on July 23, 1959. He was accompanied by his son, Edward. MARTINO stated he went to a private home to deliver a personal message to a friend and there met a woman named Sofia. He was later arrested at his hotel. The woman "Sofia" was identified as Mrs. Sofia Ventura, wife of the notorious Batista, Major Estaban Ventura Pro, who was one of the police accused of various heinous crimes during the Batista regime.

Mr. Kessler stated he was furnished the following information by a Dr. Estevez of Havana, Cuba. Dr. Estevez first met MARTINO about ten months ago when MARTINO was staying at the hotel Deauville, Havana, where Dr. Estavez is the hotel physician. At that time he treated MARTINO for a kidney ailment. After treating him, Dr. Estavez became friendly with MARTINO and saw him quite frequently. MARTINO has made 12 to 14 visits to Cuba since January 1, 1959. According to Dr. Estevez MARTINO was a close friend of many former members of the Batista Government, such as Estaban Ventura, Rolando Masferrer (ex-Cuban Senator and political gangster) Irenaldo Garcia Baez (ex-Head of Cuban Army Intelligence) and many American gamblers such as SANTOS TRAFFICANTE, Top Hoodlum from Tampa, Florida.

According to Dr. Esteveze, MARTINO originally came to Cuba to establish a branch of his Radio-Page Corporation as he was in trouble in the United States regarding income tax matters. MARTINO was also engaged in a smuggling venture with Masferrer involving the movement of autos and eggs through the Cuban Port of Mariel, about 20 miles from Havana.

MARTINO approached Dr. Estevez regarding being the house physician for a house of prostitution which MARTINO planned to open near the Deauville Hotel. MARTINO'S close friend and business associate in the United States was Mr. Allen Roth.

Dr. Estevez volunteered the information that his family, including his two brothers, were strong supporters of Prime Minister Castro and that his two brothers are presently in the revolutionary army. Dr. Estevez added that his conversations with police officials led him to believe that MARTINO was being held only to obtain information, and that he would be released if he desired to tell the government officials concerning his contacts. MARTINO is presently confined to the Chief of Police Headquarters. [FBI 64-44828-1]

On October 15, 1959, Hugh D. Kessler, Protection Officer of American Embassy, advised on September 24, 1959, that "he is aware of MARTINO'S condition; his principal trouble appears to stem from the fact that he is a dope addict." [FBI 64-44828-2]

MARTINO was unaware that the Estevez family had been in the 26th of July Movement, and that in January 1959, Gustavo Estevez joined the G-2. On February 15, 1964, MARTINO told FBI S.A. John J. O'Conner:

How, in October 1959, he was being transferred from Vivac Prison to Principe Prison at Havana and the military guard, a Lieutenant Jose Medina, brought him to the American Embassy in Havana. At the Embassy, according to MARTINO, he was hopeful of either taking asylum or of being admitted to a hospital because of a bleeding ulcer condition. He said the American Consuls, however, naming Hugh Kessler and (FNU) Brown, both now deceased, refused to help him and asked him not to cause any trouble for the United States Embassy, but to be a good American citizen and proceed to the Cuban prison. MARTINO possessed considerable correspondence by U.S. Senators directed to the State Department relative to the aforementioned incident of MARTINO'S visit to the Embassy in Havana in October 1959. MARTINO advised that his book I Was Castro's Prisoner contained a chapter which he said pertained to this cowardice in the U.S. Embassy.

During the interview at MARTINO's residence, MARTINO introduced to the interviewing agents Cuban exile Felipe Vidal Santiago, who the Subject of Bufile 105-85523, Miami file 105-6466. Vidal has been active in anti-Castro activities and may be one of the 'unidentified sources' of information on Cuban matters.

MARTINO revealed that he is a close friend of Jim Buchanan, reporter for the Pompano Beach Sun-Sentinel. Miami report, dated January 25, 1964, in this case is devoted to an article by Buchanan, which sets forth irresponsible statements concerning the FBI and activities of LEE HARVEY OSWALD. MARTINO stated that he is sure that LEE HARVEY OSWALD had been in Miami because Jim Buchanan had told him that his brother, Jerry Buchanan, had been in a fight with OSWALD at Miami when OSWALD tried to join a group of anti-Castro 'Freedom Fighters.' MARTINO said Buchanan told him this was a true fact and that MARTINO could use it in his lectures.

The Miami Office does not contemplate efforts to locate Jerry Buchanan for interview concerning the foregoing claim in view of the fact there has been no evidence developed that OSWALD was ever in Miami and also in view of the fact the unreliability of Jim Buchanan has been self evident in the past.

With respect to the alleged prostitute in Mexico City, whom MARTINO stated was kept under wraps because of her knowledge of the activities of LEE HARVEY OSWALD, this is an apparent reference to Sylvia Duran. [NARA 124-10169-10417]

On November 20, 1959, the FBI prepared a Letter Head Memorandum about MARTINO:

Mr. Thomas Taggart, former Mayor, Atlantic City, New Jersey, who conducted vice raids during his term of office and reportedly acquainted with many gangsters and racketeers personally, advised in 1946 that during the time the Atlantic City Racing Association held races one HERMAN "STUMPY" ORMAN was the principal instigator and issued a racing sheet know as "Atlantic City Sports Daily. John Martino was associated with ORMAN in the publication of this paper.

ENCLOSURE

[FBI 64-44828-4] MARTINO was put on trial in December 1959. "I am a good man," MARTINO said, "I'm not the type that gets involved in this sort of thing." MARTINO was convicted and sentenced to 13 years in prison.

LA CABANA FORTRESS PRISON

MARTINO was released from prison on October 9, 1962, having served 40 months. He weighed 93 pounds. Upon his return to the U.S. he told the FBI:

I might have been released much sooner from prison, possibly in 1959, if I hadn't talked with Dr. Gustavo Estevez. Estevez, who is now one of the heads of the biggest hospitals in Havana and is one of the leading Communists of the Cuban Government. I thought he was anti-Communist, I was wrong. He came to see me in prison and tried to make a deal with me. MARTINO stated he is not a drug addict, but that he did need a certain prescription containing narcotics for a long existing kidney ailment. He was most generally without this medicine, even when the United States Embassy was still in Havana, and at Principe Prison, where he was held 14 months in a very small room with 12 to 17 other men. He stated his normal weight was 150 pounds, and when he was finally released he weighed 93 pounds.

In January 1961 MARTINO was moved to La Cabana Fortress prison and following the Bay of Pigs invasion, he was placed into the death cells. A new man placed in charge there said since he was an American, he should die a slow and painful death. This individual was (Deleted). MARTINO said he received absolutely no medicine for his kidney disease from that point forward.

Subsequently, Dr. Oliva who is supposed to head of all the Cuban doctors in Cuban prisons, had MARTINO transferred to a military hospital. He stated there were two guards at his door with machine guns and one beside his bed. No transfer was made of the case file of his medical history, and when he complained that he was receiving no attention at all, a Dr. Caballero, whom MARTINO described as a 'Big black hater of North Americans' told MARTINO he had been sent there on the express orders of Ramiro Valdes. Valdes is former head of Cuban G-2, now Minister of the Interior and head of all police and security forces.

MARTINO was removed from La Cabana Fortress, and went to G-2 headquarters for two days. These were then located at the infamous quarters on Fifth Avenue and 14th Street. After two days of abuse and constant interrogation, MARTINO was transferred back to La Cabana Fortress. At La Cabana Fortress a Captain AYALA stated he was sent as a direct representative of Ramiro Valdes. AYALA stated that everybody makes mistakes, and they had made a mistake in the case of MARTINO, and were endeavoring to help correct these mistakes. AYALA told MARTINO he was going to be sent back to his family. MARTINO stated he was held overnight in the Cuban immigration lock up and on the following morning he was rushed out to Rancho Boyeros Airport [then flown back to the United States]. MARTINO stated he saw 294 men shot during the time he was in Principe Prison and La Cabana Fortress. He stated 51 of these were executed during the last part of September 1962. MARTINO stated he saw the Cubans execute William Morgan and Humberto Sori Marin, as they were shot immediately behind his cell in La Cabana Fortress. He stated William Morgan bore up very well to the very time of execution, but he was first shot in the legs to make him kneel, and then executed by automatic gunfire fired into his chest and head. He stated Fidel Castro was present with two brothers of Humberto Sori Marin to witness the execution of Humberto Sori Marin.

MARTINO stated he had seen young women, very old women, pregnant women, nuns and priests sleeping in the rain in the patio of the prison. He stated all those who were not enthusiastically with the Cuban Government were treated as if they were inanimate objects.

A normal routine occurred about 2:00 or 3:00 a.m. almost every night in the prison. Guards would enter with bayonets fixed and run everybody out of the cells, alleging that the cells had to be searched to find contraband weapons and articles for escape. These searches were frequently made when it was raining, and the prisoners were then left out in the patio in their shorts for the remainder of the night, and were further left there to bake in the tropical sun until 4:00 or 5:00 p.m. the next afternoon...MARTINO stated there were a number of small stalls in the prison similar to a telephone booth, about 3' x 3' square and about 7' tall. Prisoners are put into these stalls and are unable to sit down. Air conditioning is then turned into the stall, and the place is made frigid. The air conditioners are then removed, and 500 watt bulbs are installed, and the place becomes an almost unbearable sweat box. Prisoners are sometimes ordered executed, and a guard points a machine gun loaded with blanks into the box or stall and fires a whole clip. For several hours afterward the prisoner is unable to hear. [FBI 64-44828-7]

HEMMING was asked if he was tortured when he was a prisoner in Cuba:

They would stand you [up against the wall] with three or four people and leave you standing alive a couple of minutes later. Now that's trauma and that could fuck you up and people could think you're a nut after that. You were deprived of water because its abandoned stables or garages the secret police used at the time for cells. There's 47 fucking people in there, we can't even lay down, it's hotter than shit, the windows are fucking closed up with welded steel plates. No ventilation, there's sweat pouring off of us. The floor has constantly got an inch of goddamn water, sweat, it stinks. There's one little faucet which you got to put a handkerchief over 'cause visible worms come out of the water and you have to ask the guards to turn the water on. They're rotating guards because in a matter of a couple of days they get sympathetic to you. Because they find out you're a rebel and all that kind of stuff.

The FBI reported MARTINO was reluctant to talk about his connection with American gamblers in Cuba. He was questioned about "the details of his confinement, including treatment received, identities of other Americans incarcerated and identities of pro-Castro Americans assisting the Castro regime in Cuba in the economic and military fields would also be of interest..." On November 21, 1962, the FBI's liaison to the CIA, Sam J. Papich, prepared a Secret memorandum on MARTINO connected to CHRIST and other TSD crew members:

The subject, whose activities previously have come to the attention of the Bureau, was recently released from a Cuban prison. He was interviewed by the Bureau in Miami. On November 19, 1962, John Mertz advised the liaison agent that he and another individual recently talked to Martino concerning the subject's knowledge of the three CIA prisoners in Cuba. Martino allegedly had met these CIA men in prison and he volunteered information to Mertz concerning the general health and mental attitudes of the men. Mertz and his colleagues represented themselves as lawyers working for the families of the three CIA employees. You previously had been informed that the CIA men entered Cuba under commercial covers. Martino did not give any indication that he knew they were connected with the U.S. Government.

According to Mertz, Martino spoke very highly of the three prisoners and stated that he personally planned to make an effort to bring about their release. He advised he had contacts in the "Mafia" and among unidentified Communists in U.S. Labor circles. He stated that one of his contacts in the "Mafia" was one "White-Top." He may have been referring to one "White Top" Simkins, who has been in the numbers racket in the Washington, D.C. area. He referred to the contact in the labor field as one "Gausso" (phonetic). Mertz suggested he possibly was referring to Kumar Goschal who is connected with the National Guardian. Martino was confident that through these contacts he could get pressure brought on Castro from Moscow leading to the release of the men. Mertz made the observation that Martino's story seemed to be farfetched but he felt this should be called to the attention of the Bureau. He asked no inquiries be made which might jeopardize the status of the three CIA men.

NATHANIEL WEYL

In early 1963 MARTINO began work with Nathaniel Weyl on I Was Castro's Prisoner, which was published in June 1963. This book accused Fidel Castro of heroin trafficking. Nathaniel Weyl and his wife had been Communists during the Depression. In 1939 they broke with the Party: Nathaniel Weyl joined the OSS during World War II. In February 1952 Nathaniel Weyl testified before the McCarran Committee that in 1933 he and Alger Hiss were in a Communist unit that operated within the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. The testimony of Nathaniel Weyl supported that of Whittaker Chambers. Alger Hiss pointed out that when Nathaniel Weyl testified before the House Un-American Activities Committee in April 1943, he claimed Alger Hiss had ended his communist career in 1933: "He was asked in 1952 why he had not told his 1952 story in 1943, and his answer was that he had assumed that a man like Hiss 'would not have remained in the Communist organization after the Hitler/Stalin pact.'" [Hiss, In The Court of Public Opinion, Knopf, 1957] In 1953 Mrs. Weyl applied for a job with the Pan American Union, Washington, D.C., which was listed on Julius Mader's CIA 500 List. In 1959 Nathaniel Weyl worked with Issac Don Levine. Nathaniel Weyl became a member of William Buckley's coterie of writers.

VICTOR LASKY

The associates of Nathaniel Weyl included Victor Lasky. Lasky began his career in journalism as a copy boy for The New York Journal American. After Army service in World War II, Victor Lasky became a journalist who "exposed" Communist infiltration of American institutions. In 1955 he wrote for WRKO radio. He covered the Alger Hiss trial, and co-wrote a book about the case entitled Seeds of Treason. From 1956 to 1960, he was a public relations executive with Radio Liberty, a well-known CIA proprietary. From 1962 to 1980 Victor Lasky was a news columnist for the North American Newspaper Alliance. The North American Newspaper Alliance published Victor Lasky's columns attacking the critics of the Warren Commission. In the early 1960's Nelson Rockefeller protested against an alleged investigation of Victor Lasky by the Justice Department. Rockefeller claimed a Justice Department official had made inquiries regarding Lasky at the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. [FBI 62-72612-84; FBI 62-7261 NR October 18, (?) 1963] In 1963 Lasky wrote JFK, The Man and the Myth. In 1968 he wrote Robert F. Kennedy, The Myth and the Man. He was the recipient of a $20,000 cash payment from the NIXON White House in the early 1970's. [WFO FBI 139-166, Hdqrs.. 139-4089-2312 - 6.18.73] Around this time Victor Lasky wrote, It Didn't Start with Watergate, a defense of RICHARD NIXON.

In 1978 Lasky became a principal in Accuracy In Media, an ultraconservative media watchdog group whose directors included Claire Boothe Luce. Accuracy In Media sent a letter of protest to The National Enquirer when it published an article in April 1977 by this author on OSWALD'S 201 file. DAVID PHILLIPS, who retired from the CIA and headed the Association of Retired Intelligence Agents, was quoted extensively in this letter. Claire Boothe Luce was also a member of the Board of Directors of the Association of Retired Intelligence Agents. Victor Lasky died of cancer on February 22, 1990. He was 72. ### WILLIAM PAWLEY

Millionaire William Pawley (SF 078 435) was part of OPERATION Red Cross. Pawley was born in Florence, South Carolina, in 1896. From 1928 to 1943 he was president of the National Aviation Company of Havana, which he later sold to Pan American Airlines. He became President of the China National Aviation Corporation in 1933, and in 1934 organized, and became President of the Central Aircraft Manufacturing Company, which pioneered in the field of aircraft construction in China. In 1940 he organized, recruited and maintained the American Volunteer Group (Flying Tigers) for the Chinese Air Force. The Flying Tigers were a volunteer group of American pilots who fought for General Chiang Kai-shek before becoming part of the regular U.S. Army. HEMMING called the Flying Tigers "America's first clandestine endeavor. They were only recently given veterans status. They were considered mercenaries." After the war, Pawley purchased the Havana Bus System. William Pawley was appointed Ambassador to Peru (1945) and Ambassador to Brazil (1946), then served as Special Assistant to the Secretary of State. In 1951 he became the Special Representative of the Secretary of Defense. He was an outside advisor to the State Department during the planning of PB SUCCESS. In May 1954 the FBI investigated William Pawley. The CIA asked the FBI to send the White House copies of its investigation because William Pawley was part of the Doolittle Committee. Sheffield Edwards, Director of Security, generated this report on July 13, 1954:

1. Forwarded herewith are the Security Office files concerning the captioned individual William Douglas Pawley.
2. In January 1952, the Subject was approved by this office as a potential source of foreign intelligence information to be given information classified up to and including Secret provided discretion were exercised in his development as a source. At that time National Agency name checks were conducted which disclosed no unfavorable information regarding the Subject's loyalty, although some allegations were disclosed regarding his honesty. The Subject's investigative file at the State Department was not available for review at that time.

3. In July 1952 a covert security clearance was requested for Subject's use under (deleted) ROBALO which request was then canceled on December 30, 1952. At that time the Subject's State Department Security File was made available and contained derogatory information alleging black market activities, income tax difficulties, possible misuse of lend lease material, and questionable money transactions. It was also shown the Subject's wife had written the President of the United States questioning the legality of Subject's Cuban divorce from her, after which he married his secretary.

4. In March 1953, the Subject's Treasury Department file was reviewed and reflected the Subject was investigated for income tax evasion for the years 1934 to 1944 and found to have been a non-resident citizen during that period and not guilty of tax evasion. The Secret Service had conducted an investigation of Subject's first wife, following her letter of complaint to the President, and found her sane, although suffering from severe mental strain. Considerable derogatory information was contained in this file relative to Subject's business reputation and ethics." [CIA Sheffield Edward to D/CI 7.13.54]

On December 9, 1958, William Pawley went to Cuba as Washington's secret emissary, in an unsuccessful attempt to persuade Batista to establish a junta, relinquish his power, and leave Cuba altogether. This would have forced Fidel Castro into the political arena as a Presidential candidate. William Pawley became the unofficial spokesman for the old-line Cuban conservatives. He had the ear of Vice President NIXON, and spoke often with Allen Dulles. In October 1959, with his consent, the CIA installed a recording device in William Pawley's Miami office due to his connection with the Director of GOLIATH:

Headquarters Field Office is requested to dispatch an agent to Miami, Florida, so as to arrive during the afternoon or early evening of October 6, 1959, for the purpose (deleted) in certain matters of interest to GOLIATH. Upon the arrival of your agent at Miami, he should contact Mr. Bernard E. Reichhardt a staff employee of GOLIATH who shares the office with an open GOLIATH representative, Coral Gables, Florida. Reichhardt will make all the necessary arrangements for your representative to gain access to Subject's office over the weekend of October 16, 1959 to October 18, 1959. It should be noted that this is being done with the full consent and approval of the Subject. The necessary equipment to be used in this assignment will be made available to your representative.

On October 14, 1959, Pawley was granted a POA. In 1960 Allen Dulles and General Robert E. Cushman, Jr., NIXON'S Executive Assistant for National Security Affairs, met with William Pawley in Miami. They discussed a scheme to print up Cuban bonds to jar the Castro economy. [Wyden Bay Of Pigs p29]

HUNT wrote that William Pawley and CIA Western Hemisphere Chief J.C. King spent long hours talking with Cuban exiles who, because of their ties to Batista, were out of favor with the Kennedy Administration. HUNT described them as Cubans who were "dead but did not know it." [HUNT Day p29] On November 18, 1960, the CIA reported:

For PA: You should be aware and somewhat interested in the fact that Pawley has established a new (and according to him productive) channel to President Elect Kennedy through George Smathers. According to Pawley, Smathers conversations with Kennedy have led QDDALE now to take the position that he should not go along with the DOS and have the dictator step down. It appears that Mr. Kennedy may take a considerably more conservative position than many people in the Department and 'fun house.' Jacob D. Esterline C/WH4

William Pawley was a supporter of the Cuban Revolutionary Front. During his HUNT v. WEBERMAN deposition, BARKER stated: "Pawley was involved with the Cuban Revolutionary Front. Indirectly, William Pawley, at that time, helped Cubans. He was very active in the beginning, remembering as a matter of fact, the people who later came in, they were people he had organized."

OPERATION RED CROSS

In 1964 MARTINO told the FBI that during the spring and summer of 1963 he

...personally led a mission which infiltrated Cuba and returned to Florida...he said the purpose of the mission was to bring Russians out..." Robert K. Brown asserted a group of anti-Castro Cubans and Americans planned to spirit two Soviet colonels out of Cuba, to testify that Soviet offensive missiles were still on Cuban soil. Robert K. Brown wrote about this operation in Soldier-of-Fortune magazine: "Five months before he was shot to death in Dallas, a group of conspirators attempted to destroy John F. Kennedy by political means. The group, which included officials of Time Inc., William Pawley, disgruntled CIA agents and anti-Castro Cubans, proposed to spirit two Russian colonels out of Cuba to testify that Soviet ballistic missiles were still based on Cuban soil. Their testimony, if true and if it could be proved, would have meant the end of John Kennedy's political career, for it would have shown that the Cuban Missile Crisis had ended, not in a qualified U.S. victory, but in a monumental bungle eclipsing the Bay of Pigs disaster.

HEMMING first met "Colonel Alberto Bayo" (Eduardo Perez Gonzalez) in early 1960. He and Howard Kenneth Davis introduced Bayo to Johnny Abbes who had lost his lucrative job upon Trujillo's death, and was plotting with a group of Haitian exiles to put together one of their periodic attempts to overthrow Duvalier. Realizing that the Haitians involved were short on military training, not to mention combat experience, Abbes was looking for some kind of commando group to bolster the eager but amateur Haitians. Bayo met with Abbes several times and Abbes was impressed. HEMMING related: 'In fact the two of them signed a formal agreement in Abbes living room that stated in return for helping overthrow Duvalier, the new Haitian regime would grant the Cubans bases from which they could operate against Castro.'

HEMMING named JOHN MARTINO, William Pawley, Joe Garman, FRANK STURGIS, Jerry Buchanan and Howard K. Davis as plotters. After MARTINO'S death in the late 1970's, Gaeton Fonzi found the telephone number of Howard K. Davis in his address book. Howard K. Davis was asked about this: "JOHN MARTINO and I got to be pretty good friends. The CIA tried to recruit him. He told them to stuff it, he wouldn't have anything to do with them because he didn't trust...Maybe he didn't have confidence in the people he was in touch with in Cuba." Fonzi also found a letter from Robert K. Brown addressed to MARTINO. In The Fish Is Red, Warren Hinckle and William Turner reported that Howard K. Davis contacted New York financier Theodore Rascoosin, who was well connected with the White House. A week later Rascoosin came to Miami and told Davis there was a high level interest in bringing out the Russian defectors. A week later Rascoosin called Davis and informed him that his contacts in Washington could not locate any reports about Russian defectors in Cuba. Hinckle and Turner reported that Howard K. Davis organized meetings to effectuate this operation in the offices of Bill Boggs, the editor of the Miami News. They reported that Rascoosin was there, as was Hal Hendrix, Jay Mallin and a cross section of Cuban leaders. Marita Lorenz testified that STURGIS and MARTINO were good friends; when STURGIS was questioned about MARTINO, he said: "I met him."

MARTINO had Nathaniel Weyl contact Senate Internal Security Subcommittee investigator James Sourwine. James Sourwine contacted William Pawley, who contacted MARTINO. On May 22, 1963, William Pawley discussed the legality of OPERATION CRYPT with the JMWAVE Station Chief, Ted Shackley:

2. Pawley stated that he had been approached on April 16, 1963, by Mr. Jay Sourwine of the Senate Internal Security Committee, who had asked that Pawley participate in an operation which was designed to bring several Soviet military defectors into the United States. Mr. Sourwine indicated that the main reason behind his involvement in this operation was his desire to obtain the testimony of the Soviets before the Senate Internal Security Committee as soon after their arrival in the United States as possible. In view of this objective, Mr. Sourwine was prepared to give Pawley several blank subpoenas from the Senate Internal Security Committee, which could be filled out by Pawley and served on the defectors as soon as they came within the United States three mile limit. Pawley claims that he told Mr. Sourwine that he would be interested in helping in the defection operation, as he thought that the surfacing of Soviet military defectors from Cuba in the United States before an open public forum would contribute to the national security of the United States. Armed with this commitment from Pawley, Mr. Sourwine indicated that he would arrange for the author, Nathaniel Weyl, to visit Pawley within the next few days in order to discuss the operation in detail. Mr. Weyl subsequently contacted Pawley on April 17, 1963, and stated that he and his unidentified associates had an opportunity to bring four Soviet military defectors to the United States. Mr. Weyl described the Soviet defectors as being a captain and three lieutenants from a Soviet SAM site. It was Mr. Weyl's contention that these Soviets had pictures of underground missile storage sites in Cuba. Pawley indicated that he would be glad to participate in this operation and would put the full facilities of his organization at the disposal of the operation. Armed with this response, Mr. Weyl suggested that Pawley contact JOHN MARTINO of Alton Road, Florida, for further details of the operation. At this point Pawley stated that he was becoming quickly immersed in a complex operation. As a result Pawley decided to call COS in order to discuss the operation with a CIA representative. Pawley then asked COS's advice as to how the Soviet defectors could be brought into the United States and turned over to the Senate Internal Security Committee...The point was made that...facilitating the 'black' entry of aliens into the United States would put Pawley in violation of existing U.S. laws. COS ventured the opinion that Pawley could not obtain immunity from prosecution for the violation of these laws through any intercession on the part of the Senate Internal Security Committee. At this point Pawley stated it was obvious that his only course of action was to cooperate fully with the COS as CIA's official representative.

3. Once Pawley reached the decision that he had no alternative except to cooperate with the CIA he asked if COS could make a commitment to the effect that once the Soviets were brought into the U.S. they would be turned over to the Internal Security Committee within 36 hours. COS stated he was not in a position to make this kind of commitment on CIA's behalf. Pawley then suggested that he call Mr. Sourwine and indicate that while Pawley was prepared to participate in the operation he had ascertained that the only way to legally bring the defectors into the United States under secure conditions was to cooperate with the CIA. Pawley then indicated that if Mr. Sourwine would agree to cooperate with the CIA then Pawley would continue to pursue the operation. If Mr. Sourwine would not agree to cooperate with the CIA Pawley would withdraw from the venture.

4. After obtaining Mr. Sourwine's permission to cooperate with the CIA, Pawley asked how he should proceed with the implementation of the operation. COS suggested that the best way of handling the operation would be for COS to outline the information currently at hand to his Headquarters. Once this was done Pawley would probably be well-advised to personally contact officer or D/DCI in order to obtain firm commitments relative to the period of time which would elapse between the Soviets entry into the U.S. and their referral to the Internal Security Committee. Pawley thought this over for several minutes and then stated that he would prefer to contact D/CI directly and not have any record of this transaction in normal CIA cable channels.

5. Once it was clear that Pawley could not reach D/DCI by telephone, COS attempted to press for additional details relative to the defection operation. In this connection, COS asked what Pawley knew about JOHN MARTINO. Pawley stated that he knew nothing about him but was under the impression that MARTINO was in some way involved in acting as the middleman between the Cuban underground in Cuba and Weyl, who was the U.S. front man for the transaction. COS then suggested that Pawley contact MARTINO and obtain all of the available information on the operation from MARTINO. In this connection COS stated that MARTINO was known to the CIA and that available information indicated that MARTINO had spent some time in Cuban prisons and could at best be described as an unsavory character. In this same context COS pointed out that MARTINO had previously claimed to have leads, but none of these had ever been substantiated once they were put to the test of producing results. Pawley then agreed to contact MARTINO.

6. On April 18, 1963, Pawley contacted COS by telephone and stated that he had just finished a meeting with MARTINO. Pawley stated that he was impressed with COS's accurate characterization of MARTINO, i.e. he was an unsavory lowlife. Pawley then went on to say that as things now stood MARTINO claimed that the three Soviets could be delivered to a point three miles off Mangrove Key, which was located north of Grand Bahama. MARTINO indicated that the four Soviets had been AWOL for some time and they were currently in hiding in Oriente Province. MARTINO stated that two men from the Cuban underground would bring the defectors to the Mangrove Key area. MARTINO indicated that he had a secure means of communications with Cuba, but he would not identify this system. MARTINO did claim that it would take about a week or ten days for the exfiltration to be completed.

9. In a telephone conversation with COS on April 19, 1963, Pawley stated he had received a telephone call from Mr. Weyl. In this conversation Pawley advised Mr. Weyl of Pawley's discussions with Sourwine and the TODHUNTER D/DCI. Initially, this infuriated Mr. Weyl as he claimed that he did not want to cooperate with KUBARK and, as this was his operation, he was incensed that Sourwine had made a decision on this operation without consulting Weyl. After discussing the relative merits of the case for some time, Pawley claims he convinced Weyl the operation was now on a sound footing and there was no alternative but to cooperate with the KUBARK. Weyl apparently ultimately accepted this position and promised to keep Pawley informed on all developments in the operation. Pawley in return, advised REUTEMAN that he would keep COA informed on all developments. Andrew K. Reutman Chief of Station. JM WAVE

MARTINO was unable to supply the names of the defectors, nor had the CIA received reports of desertions by Soviets within Cuba. In 1976 William Pawley recalled his role in OPERATION RED CROSS:

Through the CIA, I arranged to bring my boat to Sunset Island without having to go through Customs or Immigration should we be successful in bringing out the defectors...CIA could not do anything directly. They did supply three good men, an armaments expert, a navigator and a radio operator. I was in constant touch with the Miami CIA office. In June 1963, at about 6:00 p.m., the team took off on a flying boat I had chartered, to a tiny uninhabited island that was a rendezvous point with my yacht, The Flying Tiger, which dropped them off ten miles off the coast of Cuba where they boarded a smaller CIA-supplied landing craft and headed for the 'sugar cane curtain.'" The CIA reported: "Pawley's 65 foot yacht Flying Tiger will depart Miami at 6:00 p.m. on June 5, 1963. Aboard yacht will be Pawley's Captain Luis Paez Guerra who Cuban national but long time trusted employee. CIA will have Irving G. Cadick (Staff Employee) alias William Rutherford and Oliver E. Forston (Staff Employee) alias Maximo De Cordoba on board Pawley yacht. This yacht due to arrive Hogsty reef 6:00 a.m. on June 8, 1963. Yacht will anchor reef area.

CIA vessel Leda [a heavily armed 140 foot minesweeper] with intermediate craft aboard which furnished by Perez will arrive Hogsty reef 4:00 a.m. on June 8, 1963. Cuban craft which 21 foot Chris Craft will be anchored one quarter mile east northwest cay light Hogsty reef. Craft will be loaded with arms and exfil/infil equipment, water, etc. Cubans will not know Leda carried their craft Hogsty reef but will believe it towed there by Pawley yacht. Once craft anchored Leda withdraws and surveils Hogsty reef with radar to insure no other vessel picks up craft. Leda will radar watch Pawley yacht come into Hogsty reef at 6:00 a.m. Thus as of 6:00 a.m. June 8, 1963, Pawley yacht and Cuban craft will be Hogsty reef.

CIA PBY, under dry lease to Pawley, will arrive Hogsty Reef at 6:30 a.m. June 8, 1963 and land in protected area. PBY will contain Pawley, MARTINO, Spencer from Life, Staff Employee alias William Rutherford Staff Employee alias Maximo De Cordoba and eight Cubans. Party will be transferred by RB-12 from PBY to Pawley yacht. Entire party will board Pawley yacht, take Cuban craft in tow, and head for launch point. PBY leaves area. Pawley yacht, surveilled by Leda Radar at ten mile distance, goes from reef to launch point which 20 miles off Cuba in commercial sea lanes. Here Cubans loaded into their craft. Once they in the craft they pass ammo in boxes and while being covered by arms on Pawley yacht Cubans are then cut loose at 10:00 p.m. June 8, 1963, for trip to Cuba...While above is skeleton presentation will assure headquarters all known safe guards have been taken minimize possibilities any type flap, compromise, hijacking etc. CIA involvement, while extensive, is not visible per se and fits into pattern those assets which Pawley able to acquire due his wealth, and or contacts. Pawley has played tough game with Cubans and indicated that while he desires to help, he will not risk his life, the lives of his employees, or loss of his property.

The men of OPERATION RED CROSS were never heard from again. The CIA attempted to find out what had happened to them by questioning their wives. The CIA reported:

On September 21, 1963, JOHN MARTINO contacted Staff Employee in order to report that MARTINO had received a letter from a Victor Garcia who was employed at Cuba. The Garcia letter was dated August 28, 1963, and it stated that Eduarda Perez, aka Bayo, and his men had recently caused the death of a number of militiamen and some Russian officers in a fire-fight which took place at Mayari in Oriente Province. (Field Comment: JMWAVE has no information which would confirm such a firefight). According to the Garcia letter, Perez lost two men in this firefight... After the action, Perez retreated to the Moa area of Oriente. The Garcia letter also stated that Perez was awaiting reinforcements and he expected that these reinforcements would be brought to him in Cuba by Angel Luis Castillo Cabrera. MARTINO asked employee if his organization would infiltrate Castillo and his men if MARTINO determined they were ready to go to Cuba to help Perez. Employee told MARTINO that he doubted he could obtain any help for the infiltration of additional people into Cuba. MARTINO then stated that Victor Garcia had originally written his letter to one Andre Venegas, who was residing in Miami. This Venegas wanted to infiltrate into Cuba, and he passed the letter to Castillo who passed the letter to MARTINO. Once MARTINO determined that the employee was not interested in facilitating the infiltration or additional men into Cuba to aid Perez, MARTINO broke off the conversation with employee. The information obtained from MARTINO, though not hard intelligence, does indicate that if a letter from Garcia to Venegas is bona fide, and not a fabrication prepared by MARTINO, then there was an indication the Perez was still alive and active in Cuba as of August 23, 1963...Traces: Angel Luis Castillo Cabrera, ACSI Source #670, DPOB October 2, 1924, Santiago de Cuba, Oriente Province. Under Angel Luis Castillo UFGA-2279 September 27, 1961; (Deleted as of 2010) 5807, September 18, 1962; WAVE-2592 September 18, 1962; Agent Report September 9, 1961, states Subject ex-Rebel Army Lieutenant. informant of Agent. Report, December 19, 1962, states Subject fought clandestinely in Santiago de Cuba during Batista regime, joined 26th of July Movement, advanced and was a lieutenant under order of Com. Hubert Matos. Has been on Cuba since 1961. Has left and entered Cuba several times. Has complete confidence of Agent RED CROSS Report AA-1402, February 1, 1963, states he among first leaders of Cuban National Junta. Has been in Miami since January 15, 1963. RED CROSS report DD-368, August 26, 1963, states that according to Mr. Venegas, Subject was the person who put Perez (head of the group of Cuban exiles who left Miami for Cuba on a clandestine operation) in contact with JOHN MARTINO, the man who helped them. When Subject was a rebel officer in Cuba, he gave very good treatment to MARTINO when the latter was in prison. Subject disappeared from Miami and Venegas claims that he had gone to Cuba through the same via as Perez and his men.

Andres Venegas, JMWAVE Personality File, A 12 143 273, DPOB December 25, 1923, Cuba, Occupation: Mechanic. Subject was stowaway on SS Transcaribbean from Cuba to Charleston, South Carolina. Supplied information regarding Communists worked at Cuba. Agent Memo May 3, 1962, recommended Subject for infiltration in region of Montanosa of Oriente Province. [CIA FOIA 18458, 18456, 18462, 18355, 18348]

The CIA could not verify any of MARTINO'S information and concluded the Soviet defector story was a fake:

Comment: A review of the information above leads to the conclusion that in the period June 1963 to January 1964, JMWAVE has not obtained any hard information on the current status of those individuals who infiltrated into Cuba on Operation RED CROSS. This review does reveal, however, that the circumstantial evidence does indicate that these infiltrees are still operating in Oriente in the Sagua de Tanamo area. This conclusion is based primary on the fact that none of the infiltrees have returned to Miami and we have not received any information from any reporting sources which would indicate that the infiltrees have been captured, killed or imprisoned. As a result of this negative reporting, JMWAVE can only conclude that the analysis which was previously reported in Reference A was correct i.e. the individuals who participated in Operation RED CROSS did not have any Soviet contacts but they developed a story about notional Soviet contacts in order to develop an operational proposal which was designed to obtain for them transportation, arms and infiltration into Cuba via the good offices of Pawley." [CIA FOIA 18462 To Chief, Special Affairs Staff, from COS JMWAVE]

Robert K. Brown told this researcher: "This might have just been ploy to get the CIA to transport MARTINO to Cuba so he could do his own Rambo type operation."

On July 25, 1963, the CIA reported on Pawley's activities with JMWAVE.

1. As a result of the initial meeting between Pawley and COS [Ted Shackely] a relationship has developed in which Pawley as a well-informed businessman with excellent connections in the Miami community has been used as a special contact for the development of certain background data, operational intelligence, and the conduct of operational support tasks. In the period August 28, 1962 to July 25, 1963, Pawley has shown himself to be a discreet loyal American who is interested in helping his country solve those problems which it faces in the Western Hemisphere...

2. Operational Support. On occasion, it has been possible to use Pawley's background knowledge on Cuba as a reference point for the acquisition of operational intelligence and or/personality assessments. In addition, Pawley has, in some instances, been used to carry out operational support tasks for JMWAVE. These tasks are recorded in the comments which follow:

c. Crypt Cargo. After the Crypt corporation was established and in the initial period when JMWAVE was attempting to build a solid (deleted) cover for the Crypt Pawley was instrumental in obtaining (deleted) cargo for the Crypt (deleted) METHODS. (deleted)

3. OPERATION RED CROSS: On April 18, 1963, Pawley started a series of discussions with COS which ultimately led to the mounting of Operation RED CROSS. This operation is described in detail in WAVE 9342, dated June 5, 1963. In summary, this operation involved the infiltration into the Northern Coast of Oriente of ten Cuban exiles who claimed that they could go into Cuba and exfiltrate four Soviet Officers who were knowledgeable of Soviet missile activities in Oriente. This operation involved an odd assortment of bedfellows, such as Mr. Jay Sourwine of the Senate Internal Security Committee, Nathaniel Weyl, author, JOHN MARTINO, small time gangster, Life Magazine and Pawley. Operation RED CROSS was launched on June 9, 1963, with a large amount of assistance from JMWAVE. The infiltrates did not return from the infiltration operation as scheduled on June 10, 1963, June 11, 1963, or June 12, 1963. Subsequent developments revealed that the ten-man team which was infiltrated was part of the invasion force which the rump Cuban Revolutionary Council announced on June 20, 1963 that they had infiltrated into Cuba. It would appear, in retrospect, that the ten Cubans who went into Cuba on Operation RED CROSS did not have any Soviet contacts, but they dreamed those contacts up in order to find an angel who would facilitate their infiltration into Cuba. Their plan worked and they did find an angel i.e. Pawley, Life Magazine, Sourwine and a firm helping hand from the CIA. Despite this, Operation RED CROSS has to be viewed as a long shot target of opportunity which neither JMWAVE nor the CIA could refuse to pursue because, had their been an exfiltration of four Soviets, we would have had a veritable gold mine of current intelligence on Cuba. JMWAVE's analysis of Operation RED CROSS is contained in WAVE 0438, dated June 28, 1963.

5. Pawley's PW Efforts: Pawley is not in agreement with the Administration of President Kennedy on matters effecting the U.S. position relative to Cuba and the Caribbean. As a result, Pawley occasionally engages in propaganda activities of his own which are designed to bring the Cuban issue and Pawley's disagreement with President Kennedy's Administration to the attention of the U.S. public. [CIA 18460]

MARTINO made up the story about the Russian Generals who wanted to defect and told the story to Nathaniel Weyl. Weyl told the story to CIA informant Hede Massing and Massing told the CIA, which passed her report to the FBI. This gave the story a degree of authenticity within the government. MARTINO had Weyl contact Sourwine with the story. Weyl contacted Sourwine and told him that MARTINO was the source of this story. Sourwine contacted Pawley and referred him to MARTINO. Pawley contacted Ted Shackley of the CIA. Operation RED CROSS was a plan to get the CIA to infiltrate a commando team into Cuba despite the reluctance of the Kennedy Administration to have the CIA violate the territorial integrity of Cuba.

JOHN MARTINO AND SANTO TRAFFICANTE

Loran Hall told the HSCA that in 1963 HEMMING had introduced him to MARTINO:

We went over to JOHN MARTINO'S house and he took us to a beach hotel. We went up to the hotel room and in the hotel room was Sam Giancana, Johnny Rosselli and TRAFFICANTE.

HEMMING 1994:

Never happened. His big plan was to see TRAFFICANTE in Tampa and remind him of the favors he did him while he was in jail. That type of meeting went down in 1961, after the Bay of Pigs.

MARTINO appeared on Allen Courtney's radio show. HEMMING told this researcher:

MARTINO had a pipeline directly to very important people. I spent a lot of time with him, I practically lived in his house. I know his kids, his son and daughter. When I talked to him I felt like I was talking to George Raft. He looked like him. In 1972 he was in Guatemala, he had a death squad thing going there, attempted assassination on President Pepe Figueres of Costa Rica. I worked with him up until 1974, handling some rice deals in Latin America.

HEMMING elaborated on the plot against President Figueres, which was known as OPERATION CACTUS:

Figueres had allowed the Soviets to open an embassy in San Jose. He entered into trade agreements with them. His previous followers wanted him hit.

CARLOS MARCELLO

CARLOS MARCELLO (Calogero Minaeure) was born on February 6, 1910, at Tunis, Africa, of Sicilian parentage. He died on March 3, 1993. He entered New Orleans in 1910 before his first birthday. The father of CARLOS MARCELLO opened a dry goods store and prospered until he killed an alleged burglar. The Minaeures fled and started over in another part of the city under the name of MARCELLO. On May 28, 1930, CARLOS MARCELLO was arrested for assault and robbery. He was sentenced to serve nine to 14 years in Louisiana State Prison. While he was in prison CARLOS MARCELLO'S family developed close ties with the New Orleans mafia headed by Sam "Silver Dollar" Corolla and his capo, Frank Todaro. As a result, CARLOS MARCELLO was paroled in

1935, and on July 25, 1935, he was granted a pardon by Louisiana Governor O.K. Allen. O.K. Allen was controlled by Senator Huey Long, who met with Meyer Lansky and New York City crime boss Frank Costello on a frequent basis at this time. Although CARLOS MARCELLO served nearly five years in prison neither his crime nor his incarcerations appeared on CARLOS MARCELLO'S record. That year MARCELLO started a friendship with the Gretna, Louisiana, Town Marshal. In 1938 CARLOS MARCELLO served a year in jail for possession of 23 pounds of marijuana. Upon his release, CARLOS MARCELLO married the daughter of Frank Todaro and became a part of "the family" that serviced slot machines for the syndicate. During World War II CARLOS MARCELLO was involved in black marketeering and was also a principal suspect in several gangland slayings. The rise of CARLOS MARCELLO from soldier to capo came in 1947 when Frank Costello, Meyer Lansky and Frank Carolla appointed CARLOS MARCELLO overseer of their gambling interests. CARLOS MARCELLO had at least 5,000 slot machines in operation. CARLOS MARCELLO got the Sheriff of Jefferson Parish to allow him to open the Beverly Club, a plush casino and nightclub. The Beverly Club netted $600,000 per year. In 1949 he went into business with Meyer Lansky and Frank Costello. The Justice Department attempted to deport CARLOS MARCELLO in December 1952. The Department of Justice became aware that MARCELLO'S birth records in Guatemala had been forged. MARCELLO had been afraid of being deported to far-off Italy, so in order to "prove" that he was not Italian, MARCELLO had a henchman go to Guatemala and enter his name in a church registry book in antique ink. Based on this entry, the Guatemalan Government was bribed into issuing a birth certificate for him.

DEPORTATION

On December 27, 1960, the United States Attorney General Designate, Robert F. Kennedy, announced he had selected two priority candidates in his war on organized crime: James HOFFA and CARLOS MARCELLO. On April 4, 1961, CARLOS MARCELLO was virtually kidnapped by two Immigration and Naturalization Service agents, placed in a car and put aboard a U.S. Border Patrol aircraft. CARLOS MARCELLO was being deported to his "native" Guatemala. CARLOS MARCELLO was entertained by President Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes. But the deportation was short-lived. Public outcry coupled with left-wing unrest forced his cronies in the Guatemalan Government to order him deported to El Salvador. On the night of May 3, 1961, CARLOS MARCELLO was transported to the El Salvador border. The Salvadorians deposited CARLOS MARCELLO, accompanied by one of his attorneys, Mike Maroun, in the wilderness of Honduras. After CARLOS MARCELLO returned from Central America he was arrested and forced to spend several days in a Federal Detention Center before he was released on bond. The United States was faced with the problem that no country wanted CARLOS MARCELLO. After the illegal entry charges were dismissed, CARLOS MARCELLO was indicted for conspiracy to commit fraud by having obtained the fake birth certificate. Despite the damaging testimony of one of CARLOS MARCELLO'S men, who went to Guatemala on his behalf, it only took a New Orleans jury an hour of deliberation before they found MARCELLO not guilty. ## EUGENE DE LA PARRA

On November 28, 1963, Eugene R. De la Parra, a horse trainer for VINCENT MARCELLO (one of CARLOS MARCELLO'S brothers) employed part-time at Benny Traegel's Bar, told the FBI in both New Orleans and Philadelphia that:"In March 1963 I was in Benny Traegel's Bar, a horse book on Airline Highway, in New Orleans. Benny Traegel, Norman La Blanc and a bookie called 'The Professor' were looking at an ad in a detective magazine about a foreign-made rifle which sold for $12.98. I heard Traegel remark: 'This would be a nice rifle to buy to get the President. There is a price on the son-of-a-bitch's head. Somebody will kill that nigger-lover when he comes down South!' This guy, Benny Traegel, he's a close friend of VINNIE MARCELLO, MARCELLO owns his book - VINCENT MARCELLO, the racketeer."Eugene Dela Parra also said that VINCENT MARCELLO owned a nightclub in Dallas (the Egyptian Lounge) and flew there by private plane on many occasions.

Eugene Dela Parra claimed he reported this incident to Special Agent Reed Jensen in March 1963, when he was in contact with the FBI regarding "Area Gambling Activities."

The Bureau noted that while Eugene Dela Parra was in New Orleans, he "was in contact with S.A.s Reed Jensen, Brogan, and Prosperity regarding area gambling activities. Eugene Dela Parra had provided reliable information in the past..." No action was taken to investigate this threat on the President of the United States; nor was the Secret Service alerted.

S.A. Reed Jensen interviewed Norman LeBlanc on November 29, 1963, in New Orleans: "He was advised of the Agent's identity, that he was not required to submit to the interview, and that anything he might say could be used against him in a court of law, and that he could first consult an attorney. No threats, rewards, promises or other inducements were made to Traegel in connection with this interview." Norman LeBlanc told S.A. Reed Jensen the incident described by Eugene Dela Parra never occurred and that "when we heard the news on November 22, at Traegal's book, we were all upset." Benny Traegel assured S.A. Jensen " that although he did not like President Kennedy as a President, he has never been associated with any organization of a political nature that had as a specific purpose 'fighting' the Civil Rights Program of the current Administration. He stated he would never stoop to violence of any kind against anyone, and he has never been associated with anyone to his knowledge who advocates violence to promote their aims and purposes. He says he considers himself a patriotic American and he is appalled at anyone who would kill a United States Government official, particularly a United States President." On November 30, 1963, S.A. Reed Jensen closed the Eugene Dela Parra file because: "The records of the New Orleans Office contain no information that Traegel, Le Blanc or a VINCENT JOSEPH MARCELLO have been involved in any hate group activity."

Eugene Dela Parra came forward with more information on February 23, 1967. He told the FBI that around "June 1963, he was working for Benny Traegel, at Benny Traegel's Bar in New Orleans. On or about June 22, 1963, TONY MARCELLO came into the premises to service the pinball machine. Eugene Dela Parra advised that TONY MARCELLO is the brother of VINCENT MARCELLO, who owns motels in New Orleans. VINCENT MARCELLO had another brother who is a part time gambler in New Orleans [CARLOS MARCELLO]. MARCELLO stated to Benny Traegel that the word is out to get the Kennedy family." Eugene Dela Parra added that Benny Traegel "knew LEE HARVEY OSWALD very well."

The FBI dismissed the charges of Eugene Dela Para as the delusions of an ex-Marine who "suffered nervous breakdown during World II [sic] and is currently receiving 70% disability." What was omitted by the FBI was that Eugene Dela Parra "explained he was now well. The interviewing agent described Eugene Dela Parra as generally rational during the interview. During the conversation many minor points were asked of Dela Parra and in each instance he replied in the same way he originally stated." [FBI 62-109060-725; FBI LHM Newark, NJ 2.27.67; 62-109060-4536, 569, 4134; DL100-10481 Cover page; 105-82555-981; DL 89-43 JTK; mvs pp288-293; LHM Phil., PA 11.29.63] The FBI: "Further, investigation of this matter at New Orleans as of November 30, 1963, had developed no information that the three aforementioned individuals have ever been associated with LEE HARVEY OSWALD..." Eugene Dela Parra embellished his story by making Benny Traegel an associate of OSWALD, however, other FBI informants around the MARCELLO family reported hearing similar remarks.

EDWIN BECKER

Edwin Becker (born 1922 California) was a licensed private investigator from Los Angeles. His early years of employment included publicity work for several San Francisco nightclubs and subsequently writing a column for two California newspapers. In 1955 Edwin Becker became a public relations man for the Riviera Hotel and Casino in Las Vegas, working closely with Gus Greenbaum, the manager of the Riviera and well known gambling figure who was the victim of a much publicized underworld killing in 1957. In 1959 Edwin Becker became involved with two men who were "running a con deal involving Laundromats and stolen credit cards." One of these men was an associate of Los Angeles mob boss Joe Sica. During the early 1960's, Edwin Becker did investigative work in Los Angeles for Julian Blodgett, a former FBI agent and former chief investigator for the District Attorney of Los Angeles County. The FBI reported that on November 5, 1962, Julian Blodgett advised that he had ascertained that Edwin Becker was unreliable and had been lying to him and discontinued his services. "As the Bureau is aware, information was received from (deleted) in November, 1962, that Becker claimed FBI connections..." According to Edwin Becker, in September 1963, he was hired by an oil service company that had been swindled by Billie Sol Estes. An FBI report on the Billie Sol Estes case noted that on September 18, 1962, Edwin Becker met with another private investigator in Brownswood, Texas. On September 21, 1962, both men traveled to Shreveport, Louisiana. There Edwin Becker met with Carlo Roppolo, an oil geologist. The New Orleans Crime Commission identified the mother of Carlo Roppolo, Lillian Roppolo, as an associate of CARLOS MARCELLO. Aaron Kohn noted the reported relationship between the two families and stated that Lillian Roppolo "was considered to be some thing of a courier for CARLOS MARCELLO." Another New Orleans Crime Commission report indicated Lillian Roppolo may have been one of CARLOS MARCELLO'S mistresses. During his appearance before the HSCA CARLOS MARCELLO admitted knowing the Roppolos. Carlo Roppolo set up a meeting between Edwin Becker and CARLOS MARCELLO. Edwin Becker told the HSCA that he had met with CARLOS MARCELLO allegedly to seek his financial backing for an oil additive product. Carlo Roppolo, Edwin Becker and CARLOS MARCELLO met four times during the next four months.

At their second meeting on September 11, 1962, in a farmhouse at Churchill Farms, the 3,000 acre plantation owned by CARLOS MARCELLO, Edwin Becker said the subject of the Kennedy Administration was discussed. Edwin Becker told the HSCA that CARLOS MARCELLO was very angry and had "clearly stated that he was going to arrange to have President Kennedy murdered in some way [and] that his own lieutenants could not be in on the actual hit."

When the name of Robert F. Kennedy came up, CARLOS MARCELLO said: "Take the stone out of my shoe! Don't worry about that little Bobby son of a bitch!" he shouted, "He is going to be taken care of." Later in the conversation CARLOS MARCELLO said that to rid himself of Robert F. Kennedy he would first have to remove the President. Any killer of the Attorney General would be hunted down by his brother; the death of the President would seal the fate of his Attorney General. CARLOS MARCELLO made a reference to President John Kennedy's being "a dog" and United States Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy "the dog's tail" and had said that "the dog will keep biting you, if you only cut off his tail." Edwin Becker stated that CARLOS MARCELLO theorized out loud that "in order to get Bobby Kennedy they would have to get the President, as they could not kill Bobby because the President would use the Army and Marines to get them."

Edwin Becker told author Ed Reid about this incident in 1967; Ed Reid called the FBI to confirm the story. The Bureau admitted that two of its agents, James E. Ethridge and Lanford L. Blanton, had talked with Edwin Becker, but in November 1962, not September 1963. In early May 1967, senior officials of the FBI learned of Edwin Becker's account of the meeting and of CARLOS MARCELLO'S alleged threat. J. Edgar Hoover stated that because Edwin Becker said the meeting took place in September 1963 and the records of the Los Angeles FBI Office indicated the meeting took place in September 1962, Edwin Becker was "unreliable." Perhaps Edwin Becker was attempting to make his information more important by lying about the date of the incident? Edwin Becker told Ed Reid that he had given the information about the threat to the FBI, as any good citizen would have, in November 1963. When Ed Reid was questioned at his home by FBI agents on May 31, 1967, the agents reported that Ed Reid had told them that Edwin Becker told him the meeting occurred in September 1963. Edwin Becker consistently maintained that the meeting was in September 1963 rather than September 1962. Julian Blodgett told the HSCA that he vaguely remembered Edwin Becker having met with CARLOS MARCELLO in 1962.

The FBI checked its records of this interview and discovered no reference to a threat against President John F. Kennedy in its reports dated November 1962. However, the FBI found that one of its reports dated November 26, 1962, contained the following information about CARLOS MARCELLO: "He (Becker) advised that on two occasions he has accompanied Roppolo to New Orleans, where they met with one CARLOS MARCELLO." The FBI claimed that this was the only reference to CARLOS MARCELLO in any of the reports of Edwin Becker.

REGIS KENNEDY

A report by S.A. Regis Kennedy of the New Orleans Office of the FBI concluded that the meeting may very well have taken place since Carlo Roppolo did, in all likelihood, know CARLOS MARCELLO. The document stated that Carlo Roppolo was regarded as "rather shiftless...a problem person" who had little credibility with MARCELLO. The FBI released a document about the interview with Edwin Becker signed by Regis L. Kennedy:

An individual named EDWARD NICHOLAS DECKER, 8613 West Olympic, Los Angeles, a licensed private investigator In the State of

California, was introduced by SNOWDEN to PRUNER on September 41, 1962. Also present was CARLO ROPPOLO, age 27, a graduate geologist of Louisiana State University, residence 515 Egan Street, Shreveport, Louisiana. The meeting was to promote an oil additive known as Mustang, and ROPPOLO expressed an interest in being the Louisiana distributor. ROPPOLO claims he wanted to contact a wealthy and influential uncle in New Orleans, and BECKER and ROPPOLO were supposed to have gone to New Orleans to get this individual, who was subsequently identified as CARLOS MARCELLO. ROPPOLO alleged several days later that his mother is CARLOS MARCELLO's sister. The significance of the activities of SNOWDEN, PRUNER, and BECKER, insofar as the relationship with MARCELLO, is unknown. SNOWDEN is apparently an oil promoter who has numerous promotional interests and has apparently served in both the California State Penitentiary and the Federal Correctional Institution at Terminal Island. In view of the possibility that this information is part of the intrigue involving private investigators connected with the BILSOL case, the information is not being included in the body of the report; however, efforts will be made to determine any possible connections between MARCELLO and CARLO ROPPOLO. [FBI NO 92-36 RLK/mam]

Regis Kennedy claimed that during this interview about the Billie Sol Estes affair, the name of CARLOS MARCELLO was mentioned, but not about a possible Presidential assassination. Regis Kennedy (born October 9, 1908; died July 1978) was the FBI Agent in charge of CARLOS MARCELLO's case from 1957 to 1964, a period when CARLOS MARCELLO enjoyed immunity from Federal prosecution. One of the only complaints lodged against CARLOS MARCELLO during this period of time came from a private individual, who filed a complaint that alleged that CARLOS MARCELLO and Joe Poretto had allowed prostitution to flourish at the Town and Country Motel. Apparently he did this because he had been thrown out of another MARCELLO establishment. [FBI 92-2713-61, 132; NO 92-36 p12; NO Times-Picayune 3.17.61] The contents of Regis Kennedy's reports on MARCELLO were withheld. [FBI 92-2713-348 pB-D]

The FBI found out the name of Ed Reid's publisher and tried to convince him to delete the information from Ed Reid's book. The Bureau stated Ed Reid was an "irresponsible newspaperman guilty of dishonest reporting," and began to closely monitor his work. [FBI 62-109060-5589]

In the Fall of 1963, CARLOS MARCELLO was worth $40 million. [FBI 100-378, 541, 3.28.56; FBI 100-378591-3,5; FBI 109-601-8; FBI 100-378541-10 thru 16; FBI NR 7.31.63 pgs. 17-18, 11.10.64 pgs. 20-21, 5.3.63 pgs. 23-24, 7.14.66, 8.26.65, 10.15.65 pgs. 25-29, 3.13.67 p51; FBI 62-109060-1st NR 5314]

GENE SUMNER

After the assassination of John F. Kennedy, OSWALD was erroneously reported to have received money directly from the MARCELLO crime family on April 22, 1963.

Gene Sumner, (born June 24, 1898; died August 7, 1989), a Darien, Georgia, businessman, told his brother-in-law, Police Lieutenant Johnny Harris of the Midcounty (phonetic) Police Department, that around April 14, 1963, he left Darien, Georgia, and traveled to New Orleans, Louisiana with business acquaintance Ernest Insalmo. In New Orleans, Ernest Insalmo met with some of his associates in the mafia-controlled construction and seafood business (Paul and Salvadore Pizza and Benny Capeana); he then took Gene Sumner to the MARCELLO-owned Town and Country Restaurant, a known hangout for the hoodlum element. Gene Sumner was introduced to the owner of the restaurant, Joseph Albert Poretto, and given a table in the main dining room, where there were only two other couples. Joseph Albert Poretto (born March 21, 1906; died April 1983) was incarcerated in 1951 for refusing to testify before the Kefauver Senate Committee studying organized crime. CARLOS MARCELLO was tried for that same offense. [FBI 62-9-33-411, 73-10184-11, 92-8100-1 1.15.65 - serials 2 and 3 w/h, arrest rec. #1799932] Gene Sumner claimed he then observed a young couple enter the dining room, and sit at a table about two tables away from his. He claimed he observed Joseph Albert Poretto remove a wad of bills from his pocket and pass the money under the table to the man who just entered. A few minutes later, the couple left without ordering any food or drinks. On December 2, 1963, the FBI showed Gene Sumner pictures of OSWALD; he believed OSWALD was the same man he had seen in the Town and Country Restaurant. He described the woman who accompanied OSWALD as a blonde, white, female, 22 to 26 years of age, flashy dresser. FBI S.A. Reed W. Jensen interviewed Joseph Albert Poretto at the Town and Country Restaurant. Joseph Albert Poretto claimed he did not know OSWALD before the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and had never had any dealings with anyone who even slightly resembled OSWALD enough for a mistaken identity. S.A. Reed Jensen then questioned the brother of CARLOS MARCELLO, ANTHONY MARCELLO, the manager of the Town and Country Motel. ANTHONY MARCELLO told S.A. Reed Jensen the same thing Joseph Albert Poretto told him, and allowed him to examine the registration book of the motel. [FBI NO-44-2064 11.27.63, 44-24016-531; WCD 4 p811] The HSCA never questioned Gene Sumner and little background material is available on him. Johnny Harris was contacted in December 1993. He refused comment.

HEMMING did not believe this incident occurred. Neither does this researcher. Passing a wad of bills, in a public place, to a potential presidential assassin is farfetched. Secondly, the FBI had the mob under surveillance and had numerous informants within its ranks. The FBI reported: "NO 1238-PC who is a known associate of JOSEPH and CARLOS MARCELLO, as well as Joseph Poretto and who has been a manager of the Town and Country Restaurant up until October 1963, advised S.A. Reed Jensen on November 27, 1963 that he had never heard of OSWALD or RUBY prior to the Kennedy assassination." [FBI 44-1639-496] If OSWALD popped up in this context, the FBI could not have reconciled it with his background as a defector and Fair Play for Cuba Committee leader. Gene Sumner had a falling out with the mob. He believed his brother-in-law would make sure his identity was kept secret.

JAMES RIDDLE HOFFA

JAMES RIDDLE HOFFA, the son of a coal miner, was born on February 14, 1913. His father died when he was seven and in 1924, the family moved to Detroit. HOFFA left school at fourteen and worked as a department-store stock boy. An active trade unionist, in 1932, he led a strike at Krogers, a Detroit grocery store chain. Once the strawberries began to rot management recognized HOFFA's union. By the age of 37 he was chairman of the Central States Drivers Council in 1940 and two years later was elected president of the Michigan Conference of Teamsters. In 1952 HOFFA became vice president of the Teamsters Union under Dave Beck, the president. Allegations were made in 1956 that the leadership of the union was involved in illegal activities. The Select Committee on Labor, that included John F. Kennedy, decided that these charges needed to be investigated. Robert Kennedy, chief counsel of the committee, was instructed to collect information and discovered several financial irregularities. This included taking $85,119 between 1949 and 1953 from union funds to pay his own personal bill. The investigation also revealed that a Seattle builder had received $196,516 out of union funds to pay for work done on Beck's home. The investigations were televised and Kennedy's questioning turned him into a national political figure. Beck was eventually imprisoned for five years and HOFFA became the new president of the Teamsters Union. Robert Kennedy now began investigating HOFFA and he was eventually charged with corruption. Kennedy claimed that HOFFA had misappropriated $9.5 million in union funds and had corruptly done deals with employers. HOFFA's lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, managed to persuade the jury to find him not guilty. George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, did not agree with the verdict and HOFFA and the Teamsters Union were expelled from the association.

HOFFA was popular with his members and in 1960 was re-elected as president of the Teamsters Union. A long-term supporter of the Republican Party, HOFFA was a generous supplier of funds to Richard Nixon in his presidential struggle with John F. Kennedy. During the campaign, Robert Kennedy sent HOFFA a copy of his book, The Enemy Within. Kennedy wrote inside: "To Jimmy. I'm sending you this book so you won't have to use union funds to buy one. Bobby."

After Kennedy's election victory in 1960 he appointed Robert Kennedy as his attorney general. Once in office, Kennedy resumed his investigations into HOFFA's activities. HOFFA was eventually charged with taking money from the union's $300 Pension Fund.

A former official of the union, E. G. Partin, was in prison facing charges of kidnapping, murder, robbery and rape, agreed to do a deal with the authorities and provide evidence against HOFFA. At the first trial at Nashville in October, 1962, the hung jury voted 7-5 for acquittal. The judge, believing that HOFFA's team was guilty of jury tampering, called a mistrial. At the second trial at Chattanooga in January, 1964, HOFFA was found guilty and sentenced to eight years in prison.

In 1961 reports circulated that HOFFA, Teamsters' union leader, held a $429,000 mortgage on the home site Nixon originally bought in Beverly Hills. Nixon replied that he understood the mortgage antedated (date assigned to an event or document earlier than the actual date of the event or document) by five years his purchase of the property for $35,000 which he considered "a great deal." He added sardonically that of $4,300 it had cost to move his files and household effects from Washington, $1000 would go to the movers - members of the Teamsters Union "so that gives you a real relation between me and HOFFA." [NYT September 28, 1961]

In August 1960 Senator John F. Kennedy he was "extremely glad that the leadership of the International Longshoremen and housemen's Union and the national Brotherhood of Teamsters was not supporting him for President. On September 22, 1960 Teamster officials disclosed that their president, HOFFA, would begin next week the union's intensive nationwide campaign against Senator John F. Kennedy. HOFFA made a major personal effort to attack Kennedy without explicitly endorsing Nixon. On October 29, 1960 HOFFA said that "the Kennedy people are the most dangerous people who ever tried to get into the White House." During the Kennedy Nixon debates JFK stated, "I am not satisfied when I see men like JIMMY HOFFA, in charge of the largest union in the country, still free." As stated, HOFFA's first conviction came in March, 1964, when he was found guilty of tampering with a jury in Nashville, Tennessee, while standing trial for an earlier charge brought by the Government. In August 1964, he was convicted in United States District Court in Chicago on four counts of defrauding the teamster's pension fund of some $2 Million. He entered prison on March 7, 1967. Before his conviction on conspiracy and fraud charges in 1967, HOFFA had been on trial in Federal court four times in five years. He was acquitted twice, and one trial ended with a hung jury. On December 23, 1971 Nixon commuted the prison term of HOFFA. HOFFA walked free from the Federal Penitentiary in Lewisburg, Pa., after serving 4 years, 9 months and 16 days of a 13-year term. In 1972 the Teamsters Union switched law firms and was represented by Morin, Dickstein, Shapiro & Galligan, a firm to which Charles W. Colson, who was a special counsel to the President, was expected to move early the next year. Among those who tried to help HOFFA over the years were John D. Ehrlichman, assistant to the President for domestic affairs, and Murray M. Chotiner, a former Nixon aide. While Nixon was president ranking officials of the Department of Justice turned down a request by the Federal Bureau of Investigation to continue electronic surveillance that had begun to penetrate teamsters' union connections with the Mafia. These were Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst and Assistant Attorney General Henry E. Petersen. On July 30, 1975, HOFFA disappeared when travelling to a meeting with the Detroit gangster, Anthony Giacalone. In 1982 HOFFA was legally declared "presumed dead".

SANTO TRAFFICANTE Jr.

SANTO TRAFFICANTE Sr. managed the rackets in South Florida in the late 1940's and early 1950's, while his son, SANTO TRAFFICANTE Jr. (born November 15, 1914; died March 1987) took over the mob's concessions in Havana. TRAFFICANTE Jr.'s position was manager of the Sans Souci Casino when he was in charge of receiving the syndicate bulk shipments of heroin from Europe. In September 1962 TRAFFICANTE told wealthy Cuban exile Jose M. Alemán "Mark my words, Kennedy will get what is coming to him. He is going to be hit." The FBI: "Jose M. Alemán's father, Jose M. Alemán, Education Minister during the Grau Administration, misappropriated close to 60 million pesos from the public treasury, which he invested or deposited in Miami. After the death of his father, Subject inherited his father's fortune, as well as his political machinery and shrewdness." Jose Alemán had supplied Fidel Castro with arms in the late 1950's. Soon after Fidel Castro assumed control of Cuba, he ordered the confiscation of Jose Alemán's 50,000 acre estate. When Jose Alemán arrived from Havana in December 1960, he brought with him a list of war material allegedly purchased by Fidel Castro from the Soviets. Jose Alemán was the owner of Miami Stadium. Gaeton Fonzi doubted TRAFFICANTE made this statement in front of Jose Alemán, because Jose Alemán was not trusted by the mob. When Jose Alemán testified before the HSCA he said TRAFFICANTE meant President John F. Kennedy would be hit with votes.

Mr. Cornwall: How did you meet SANTO TRAFFICANTE?

Mr. Aleman: Mr. George Nobregas came to me after we had some other conversations with some other individuals and there were American businessmen, and those American businessmen had lost a lot of property in Cuba, then he came to me and he said SANTOS wants to meet you. I some way refused because I had to testify against SANTOS' people in 1960.

Mr. Cornwell: Who were those associates?

Mr. Aleman: Sammy Mannarino and Norman Rothman.

Mr. Cornwell: Do you have any knowledge of how it was that Nobregas came to know SANTO TRAFFICANTE prior to that time?

Mr. Aleman: The possibility that while we were smuggling arms in the 1950's they had all the connections with other mafia people and they came about to maybe he was connected with them.

Mr. Cornwell: And roughly during what period of time did the meetings take place?

Mr. Aleman: July, June around that time.

Mr. Cornwell: What was your objective in attending the meeting with TRAFFICANTE?

Mr. Aleman: Well, Mr. Nobregas came to me and said that J.J. Vica, Director of Public Relations in the city of Miami, wanted to see me because he had a message from President Bosch of the Dominican Republic and President Bosch was a man that was very grateful to my father and that he wanted to talk to me about bringing to the Dominican Republic a lot of businessmen and whoever wanted to invest there...one of the possible individuals that was interested in going was SANTOS

TRAFFICANTE...He talked to me about, in favor of the contracts in Dominican Republic, that I had a project, condominium project, and he wanted to facilitate the means for a loan with the Teamsters Union...One of the things he said HOFFA could not secure the loan so far because he had a lot of troubles with the brothers Kennedy...Well, he was very much upset. He said that the way the President was getting on HOFFA, a man of the workers, blue collar, and a man that was a very hard working individual and that at the same time he was very much upset, I mean he thought for a long period of time. At one point he said: 'You see, this man, he is not going to be re-elected, there is no doubt about it, he has been the man that has been giving everybody a lot of troubles and he is not going to be re-elected...he is going to be hit'.

Cuban intelligence reported: "Aléman facilitated or was involved in recruiting Cubela." [Z-R Rifle Cuba Vision Network 11.27.93] Rolando Cubela knew Jose Aléman. In 1994 Cubela stated: "Pepe Aléman, the son of the education minister in the first Authentic Government, is my friend." Rolando Cubela was recruited by the CIA to assassinate Fidel Castro. The FBI discovered the name "Jose Alemán, 575 NW 6th St., Miami, Florida," in the course of its Watergate investigation. [FBI 139-4011-1013(?) WFO 139-166 9.22.72] George Crile reported that Watergate burglar Eugenio Martinez was close to Jose Alemán. Jose Alemán was killed by Miami Police in August 1983, after he shot four of his relatives. [Gaeton Fonzi, Last Invest. p256]

TRAFFICANTE'S attorney, Frank Ragano, told the FBI that in early April 1967: "While driving through New Orleans in CARLOS MARCELLO's car, CARLOS MARCELLO was driving and SANTOS TRAFFICANTE was seated in the front seat, I heard SANTOS remark to MARCELLO, 'CARLOS the next thing you know they will be blaming the President's assassination on us.'" ## “EL TIGRE” ROLANDIO MASFERRER

Rolando Masferrer was the leader of a group of Batistiano murderers known as “El Tigres” who trademark was to dismember anyone connected to Fidel Castro or any other opposition figure. Masferrer had grandiose ambitions and the FBI reported:

On August 8, 1958 a follower of Prio, former President of Cuba, while being interviewed in another matter stated that Prio had requested him to advise the FBI that Prio had received info from a source in the Armed Forces in Cuba that Rolando Masferrer was planning to take over the Cuban Government when Batista fell and that about three days before one Carlos Sayas had come to Miami from Cuba as a representative of Masferrer. According to Prio’s sources, Sayas contacted Jimenez, former President of Venezuela. Jimenez agreed to give a sum of money to an agent of Sayas to purchase arms. Jimenez was also to leave Miami August 8, 1958 for NYC to obtain money there to give an agent of Sayas in NYC in order to purchase the guns. Miami advised that when Prio follower furnish information he was requested to advise Prio that this office preferred to receive this info from original source whenever possible and we would appreciate being place in contact with the original source of Prio’s info. [FBI 1-100-344127]

Masferrer fled to Miami with a yacht full of money in January 1959. Cuba demanded the extradition of Masferrer as a war criminal but C. Douglas Dillon, the Under Secretary of State during the Eisenhower Administration, refused to extradite Rolando Masferrer. A notation on Masferrer's FBI arrest record read: "Contributor of Prints: USINS, Miami, Florida, March 30, 1959, EXCLUDED from admission to the United States." In January 1959, 59 of Rolando Masferrer's Tigres were executed on San Juan Hill in Santiago de Cuba. As stated, STURGIS supervised these executions. In March 1959 four of Rolando Masferrer's men were arrested in Havana for plotting to assassinate Fidel Castro. [Wash. Post 3.27.59] In April 1959 the FBI was informed that Fidel Castro had hired Jack Youngblood, an American mercenary who had helped Castillo Armas escape from a Guatemalan prison, to kidnap Rolando Masferrer and return him to Cuba. The plan failed.

The FBI reported:

William Pawley, former United States Ambassador, advised CIA today of contact with Arthur Patton a Commissioner from Dade County, Miami, Florida. Patton stated that one of his police officers had been offered $200,000 to kidnap Rolando Masferrer. Police officer went to Patton for advice. Patton turned to Pawley who consulted CIA. In August 1959 the Bureau received information about an anti-Castro uprising sponsored by Rolando Masferrer. Most of this telex was withheld. [FBI 100-344127 NR 5.13.59, 26; FBI 109-584-305] In November 1959 the FBI received word that Rolando Masferrer was planning to drop phosphorus on Cuban sugar cane fields. [FBI 100-

Catherine Taaffe, who over the past year has provided considerable information on Cuban matters some of which has been discredited, advised Miami Office 1/26/60 that during three or four days prior to 1/15/60 she had several discussions in office of Raul Castro, Cuban Chief of the Armed Forces, with Cuban officials named Jorge Valdez, Roberto (LNU) and Eduarda (LNU). These men proposed plan to bribe a Miami police officer to falsely arrest Rolando Masferrer and/or Esteban Ventura and Julio Laurent, all of whom are anti-Fidel Castro, and thereafter transport the victims outside U.S. jurisdiction. The three Cuban officials reportedly planned to kill Masferrer as soon as he was delivered to them; put his body and unnamed items bearing U.S. identification on some undisclosed island in the Bahamas in order that Cuban Premier Fidel Castro could personally "discover" this "anti-Castro base" and then accuse the U.S. and Britain of assisting anti-Castro faction.

At 2:10 p.m. today SAC Teague, Miami, called to report that Taaffe had advised that Jorge Valdez and three other Cubans who work under Raoul Castro were then in Miami in Room 317, Airport Hotel, International Airport. They contacted Taaffe who told them she had a friend from Dade County Sheriff's office who might assist them in the plan they had previously proposed with regard to kidnapping captioned victims. She further told them she would contact this friend and if he would agree she would have him call Valdez. SA Bill Holloman of Miami posing as Bill Haley of the Dade Country Sheriff's Office then telephonically contacted Valdez; told him Taaffe had suggested he call as he was interested in this matter. Valdez asked Agent Holloman to meet with him and his friends tonight at the Airport Hotel between 7:30 and 8 p.m. and let him know if he would do so by 6:30 p.m. today.

SAC Teague proposed that Holloman meet with Valdez carrying credentials of the Dade County Sheriff's Office which Miami can readily secure for this purpose. Miami Office will rent another room at the same hotel and desires to place microphone (legal) in the rented room and try to arrange for the meeting between Holloman and the Cubans to take place in the rented room. If this is not possible Miami will attempt to place a microphone covering Room 317 under full security conditions and without trespass if at all possible.

VALDES said that FERNANDEZ DE CASTRO did not speak much English but understood some VALDES asked SA HOLLOMAN if CATHERINE had explained the deal. SA HOLLOMAN replied that she had explained it in general and that he knew it concerned ROLANDO MASFERRER but VALDES would have to explain the whole thing to him. VALDES stated that they wanted MASFERRER delivered to Cuba. SA HOLLOMAN asked if VALDES wanted him delivered dead or alive to which VALDES replied they wanted him alive so he could be made to stand trial in Cuba. VALDES asked how SA HOLLOMAN thought he could get MASFERRER out of the U. S. SA HOLLOMAN said he wished to hear whatever plan VALDES had and he would either agree to the plan or would disapprove it. VALDES said he thought MASFERRER could be arrested and taken to a boat where he could be turned over to them. VALDES said MASFERRER would be taken out of Miami by boat. VALDES asked SA HOLLOMAN if he would need any assistance. SA HOLLOMAN said he probably would need help in getting MASFERRER to the boat because MASFERRER would certainly not go voluntarily. VALDES replied that he could make two or three men available to help SA HOLLOMAN get MASFERRER on the boat....

VALDES agreed to pay SA HOLLOMAN 825,000.00 if MASFERRER was delivered to their boat within one week. SA HOLLOMAN asked VALDES if this was a final agreement or would it have to be approved by someone else. VALDES replied that this was a firm deal and SA HOLLOMAN could start working on his part immediately. VALDES said he would have to contact someone else about other details of the plan, SA HOLLOMAN expressed concern over what would happen when it was learned that MASFERRER had been kidnapped. VALDES said they planned to take MASFERRER into international waters, transfer him to a ship of the government of Cuba and then take him to Cuba. He said MASFERRER would be held in Cuba for several days then information would be released that MASFERRER had been captured while leading an invasion of Cuba. He would then be tried in the courts of Cuba. According to VALDES, this would make it appear that MASFERRER had come voluntarily to Cuba leading an expedition.

An G-2 agent named Fernandez de Castro came to Miami to consummate the deal and was arrested along with Valdes. After the arrest of two Castro agents on attempted kidnapping charges, J. Edgar Hoover sent a letter to then-Vice President RICHARD NIXON about the affair. [Castro agent Juan Fernandez De Castro Rodriguez FBI 105-84265-36] In March 1960 the Immigration and Naturalization Service ordered seven Cuban exile leaders to leave Miami. Among them was Rolando Masferrer and Estaban Ventura Novo. [FBI 100-344127 - NR 3.15.60] On October 3, 1960, Rolando Masferrer landed 27 men in Cuba. These men included Bobby Fuller, Tony Zarba and Paul Hughes. [FBI 2-1622-38, Cover Page 6, Hughes FBI File No. 105-3138] Only three of the men were captured; the others escaped. On November 9, 1960, Rolando Masferrer informed the FBI that it was:

During interviews with Masferrer and particularly on November 9, 1960, Masferrer indicated it was common knowledge that the Cuban Revolutionary Front [an anti-Castro exile group under the supervision of E. HOWARD HUNT] FRD was engaged in recruiting activities in the United States and in some Latin American countries (FRD is part of the CIA covert operation). He claimed that the United States Government, through CIA and Tony Varona, a Cuban exile and FRD leader, is paying hundreds of thousands of dollars each month. He claimed Varona helped Castro in allowing Russians and Chinese to enter Cuba and is egotistical to such an extent he is waging a private war against Cuban exiles. Masferrer expressed a desire to join the Cuban Revolutionary Front although Varona was head of that organization. He stated he would cease all operations in his anti-Castro movement if he was so directed by the United States Government. He indicated that without being specific that the Cuban Revolutionary Front receives aid from United States officials in some American Embassies as well as in the United States. (Deleted).

Secretary of State Christian Herter received a report on this interview. [FBI 2-1622-45, 46] The Miami Herald reported in December 1960 that Rolando Masferrer had composed an army of 23 Americans and nearly 200 Cubans who were allegedly poised to invade Cuba. Rolando Masferrer's men were training at a base at No Name Key, Florida. The FBI reported:

Masferrer planned to use as staging area prior to moving men to island or country other than the U.S. prior to invasion of Cuba to avoid violation of U.S. laws. Reference is also made to Miami report of S.A. James D. Hayes, dated December 15, last, in this case, which among other things mentions arrest of vagrancy by Miami Police Department of 13 Masferrer supporters, including Kenneth Joseph Proctor, Alvin Carl Wentz, Nick John Neri, Welburn Vernon Gee, and Larry Lee Bice, Jr. It is noted therein Proctor stated this group intended leaving the U.S. unarmed, and proceed to an island located in international waters, where they would be armed before proceeding to invade Cuba. On December 30, 1960,

Frank J. Devine Bureau of Un-American Affairs, Department of State, contacted an FBI Liaison Agent making reference to our letter of November 30, 1960, and requested FBI assistance in stopping Masferrer. Frank J. Devine stated that recent newspaper publicity on Masferrer presented a good opening wedge for an FBI Agent to call on Masferrer and take him up on his offer to cease operations. Frank J. Devine was advised that we had no legal basis under which the FBI could intrude itself into the situation, and if we attempted to do so, it would put the FBI into the role of a messenger for the State Department and involve us in a matter which is not our affair. On the memorandum prepared on the above contact by Frank J. Devine on December 30, 1960, the Director made reference to our letter of November 30, 1960, and noted: 'Note: State didn't get around to considering it for one month.' [Memo to Belmont FBI 2-1622-72]

HOOVER'S DILEMMA

On January 5, 1961, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover was under pressure to indict Rolando Masferrer from the Department of Justice, which was headed by Robert F. Kennedy, yet he wrote that Assistant Attorney General J. Walter Yeagley of the Internal Security Division of the Department of Justice called and stated he thought he ought to bring me up to date on the Masferrer case (Neutrality Matters). Mr. Yeagley stated that the Bureau had investigated and submitted a detailed report on the case last Friday and his Division thinks they have a case, not a real open and shut case, but as far as the facts and laws are concerned, it looks like enough to go before a Grand Jury. Mr. Yeagley stated this is delicate in view of the break in diplomatic relations with Cuba, because if we start a Grand Jury, people are going to ask which side are we on, Fidel Castro's or the United States. Mr. Yeagley continued that as late as last Friday, he believed it was, he had a call from the State Department to see what we were doing, whether going ahead or not, and he, Mr. Yeagley, thought when he called the State Department back, as he intended, to get confirmation that they ought to go ahead despite the break in relations, he thought he ought to mention it to me because from the Justice Department's standpoint, they would normally proceed, but when they go to Miami, Justice is going to have the public relations problem.

I told Mr. Yeagley that I thought it would be a difficult one and that I recalled last week, I thought it was, some fellow in the State Department had wanted to know if we would not go to Masferrer and ask him to refrain from any activities that might embarrass this Administration and we refused and said it was the State Department's place to do it. This chap replied he at least made an effort to get us to do it but thought our reaction would be what it was, but it took so many days and weeks to get something like that cleared in the State Department, he had hoped we might do it on his request. Mr. Yeagley inquired if I thought this represented Masferrer's position and I told Mr. Yeagley it did not; that it was the man in the State Department, but that we had received word from Miami from Masferrer, or from his man, that Masferrer would be very glad to refrain from action of any kind and abide by whatever this Government wanted him to do and this State Department man, having been advised of this, was the one who asked us to go to Masferrer and ask if he would not lay low for the time being. After checking with Mr. Belmont, I advised Mr. Yeagley that the man's name was Frank J. Devine, Special Assistant, Bureau of Inter American Affairs. I stated Devine apparently thought we would fall for it right away, but our man wisely refused on the spot and Devine said then that he had assumed that would be our reaction but that it was impossible to get the State Department to clear something like this for days or weeks. I stated that his occurred, of course, before we broke relations with Cuba and whether that would have any effect or not I did not know, but I think that for us to start proceedings now is going to be seized upon by the press in this country with severe criticism and it will be the Department of Justice that would be holding the bag, not the State Department as they won't do it.

I stated that if he, Mr. Yeagley, has been following the news releases, there was quite a number of Senators and Congressmen who have been loud in their commendation of what the Administration has done in breaking relations with Cuba and indicated it should have been done long ago.

I stated the whole area in Miami public opinion is strongly sympathetic to the anti-Castro forces and in many of the hotels there are waiters and busboys who were very prominent in Cuba, having been lawyers, doctors and dentists, and you also have 40,000 to 50,000 refugees and the papers there each day have stories on the front page about the refugees; that at Christmas time a lot of food was sent by religious groups and there was quite a celebration for the refugee children; and in the midst of that, if we come out and start proceedings against Masferrer when he stands as being against Castro, I thought there would be very bad public reaction, both in the newspapers and in Congress, as everyone now is saying the Administration has done the thing they should have done long ago, with which I agree. I stated, however that the State Department is not going to take the blame nor is CIA and it would be up to the Justice Department.

I stated it was almost parallel to the situation in Drew Pearson's column the past couple of days about the Hoffa case in Florida. I stated Pearson had jumped on Vice President NIXON for having tried to prevent the prosecution of Hoffa and successfully preventing the indictment until after the election and then the attorney general had gone ahead and indicted and now leaves it all with the new Attorney General. I stated I did not know whether NIXON interceded and I had my doubts, but, on the other hand, the case in Florida against Hoffa is fairly strong and I thought the indictment was proper. I stated I did know it had been held up a long time before finally going ahead; that the Special Assistant on the case, Dowd (phonetic) seemed to be a capable fellow and he had been trying to get an indictment for some time but there was a question of the individuals to be included, but there was no question about Hoffa, but a question about third party in Detroit. I stated Drew Pearson is trying to make it appear as if it were done just as a dying gasp by the current Administration and I think there would be the same reaction in the Masferrer case.

I advised Mr. Yeagley that he could use the information about the call from Devine and indicate the position we took and it seemed to me that the State Department ought to put in black and white what they want done. Mr. Yeagley stated he thought he had to ask them to. I stated this was loaded with dynamite, because of the way the public had been reacting in Florida; that there is a hatred of Castro and I cited some incidents which had occurred while I was recently in Miami and it seemed to me that with that kind of public opinion, they were inviting great trouble if they went against Masferrer. Mr. Yeagley stated he thought I was right and appreciated my help.

I mentioned to Mr. Yeagley that I thought Masferrer was under some kind of immigration bond to refrain from certain activities, but I did not know. Mr. Yeagley said that was a good thought. I stated there were several factions of Cuban who were anti-Castro, but each one wants to be king. I stated however, that the State Department is not going to take the blame, nor is the CIA, and it would be up to the Justice Department. (Deleted as of 2010) Mr. Yeagley stated that might be what is behind and mentioned the Senate Committee is going to start an investigation next week of this fellow. I stated George Sokolsky had come out with a column and Senator Eastland's Committee was going to hold public hearings on him as they think they have an Alger Hiss case. I stated that pressure to go against Masferrer may emanate from elements like this in State and CIA. I stated that CIA has a group training to go over and invade Cuba overthrow Castro and while it is supposed to be hush-hush, around Miami it more of less public knowledge that Castro knows about it as he has his agents over here who, no doubt, have penetrated the group, that Masferrer has not joined the group that CIA is backing and it may be some elements like that are involved. (Deleted as of 2010) I stated Masferrer was wealthy and I thought he got come money out of Cuba before he came to this country, but he has connections and is getting money and living in ease and comfort while other refugees are serving as waiters, etc. I stated Masferrer has not been allowed to join the group CIA has been supposed to be secretly backing and there may be some motivation to try to knock him off but it would backfire against Justice and not CIA.

Yeagley stated he has not been told but has inferred that (Deleted as of 2010). Mr. Yeagley stated they have a case where they would normally go ahead and indict with one count and maybe more, and he can't say don't do it, but the State Department can. (Deleted as of 2010) I stated it seems in view of the action of the President, it does not make sense and I did not see how getting an indictment against somebody trying to overthrow Castro can be explained to the public. I stated I had noted in the press that it had been intimated by somebody in the State Department that the only way diplomatic relations with Cuba could be resumed would be the overthrow of Castro and here you would be prosecuting somebody who may not have the good will of our Administration but who wants to remove Castro and has more facilities really than some of these groups with CIA backing. I stated the sympathy down in Miami is all with the anti-Castro forces and it seems in any move is made, it ought to be at the specific request of the State Department and it should be in black and white, that it ought to be put in writing by them.

Mr. Yeagley stated that was excellent and he thought that is exactly the kind of help he needed and would let me know the outcome. He stated we had gone ahead with the investigation and we are holding the bag and we out to make the proper disposition. I stated it seemed to me if the disposition is made properly the State Department should indicate that prosecution would be ill-considered or ill advised and should so state their desires. Mr. Yeagley stated he appreciated my help and would let me know the outcome. [FBI Memo Hoover to Tolson, Mohr, Parsons, Belmont and DeLoach 1.5.61 (deleted) 1622-65]

In late January 1961, when the FBI was made aware of an anti-Castro sea-borne strike backed by Rolando Masferrer, the Miami FBI telexed Headquarters:

TO DIRECTOR FBI
MASFERRER NEUTRALITY MATTER

MM (deleted) Dash S advised on January 25, 1961 instant that Kenneth J. Proctor, an American from Boston, Mass eleven Americans and three Cubans are going to leave in a day or two from Miami aboard the Marianne the Second, a six-eight foot yacht for an expedition to Cuba. The boat is presently in Miami, is of State of Virginia registry, and the owner, name unknown, gave permission to Proctor to take the boat. Two days after the expedition has gone the owner will report the boat stolen. Informant furnished names of Americans and Cubans participating. Proctor contacted FNU Cardenas CIA Cut out asked for arms and will receive an answer by 4:00 PM. Proctor swears that his group will go on expedition even without arms. Informant doubts if group can obtain arms from any other source. On January 24th last, Proctor allegedly received telephone call from Cuba telling him to land at Mamalata, Pinar Del Rio Province and proceed to Guajaibon, Pinar Del Rio. Proctor is to be met by two hundred anti-Castro revolutionists in Cuba and will join other anti-Castro forces in Cuba. Informant feels this may be a trap on the part of the Cuban Government. CIA, Miami, advised it had no operational interest in Proctor's group and will not supply arms. Miami Office notified US

Customs and US Border Patrol. US Customs said if boat has no arms aboard it will allow the expedition to leave. Unless Department of Justice authorized prosecution for conspiracy to violate neutrality act, Miami Office will take no action to stop this expedition. SAC Teague was instructed to locate and interview Proctor and such associates as are readily available regarding their plans...[Teletype to Dir. Fr. SAC Miami 1.25.61; JEH Memo for Tolson 1.5.61]

After the FBI interviewed Proctor's crew the expedition was called off.

ROLANDO MASFERRER AND JOHN F. KENNEDY

On February 4, 1961, Kenneth O'Donnell, Special Assistant to President John F. Kennedy telephoned the FBI and advised that "an individual whom he did not identify had just been in to see the President this morning and had discussed with the President the activities of a reported Cuban right-wing refugee now in Miami. Kenneth O'Donnell said that the name he got from the President for this Cuban was either 'Ferri' or 'Ferre' and his first name was 'Mas.' The President asked O'Donnell if he could identify this Cuban for him and find out something about him. O'Donnell wondered if we could be of any assistance, saying that this wasn't much to go on and the only additional information we had was that this Cuban may have been organizing troops." The FBI identified the Cuban as Rolando Masferrer.

Kenneth O'Donnell was called back and informed the individual to whom he referred was undoubtedly Masferrer. He was furnished briefly information as to his background and activities. It was specifically pointed out to O'Donnell that full details had been forwarded to the Justice Department, which at present time had a question of prosecution under consideration. O'Donnell was informed that we would be happy to send a letter to him furnishing him information relative to Masferrer. O'Donnell said this wasn't at all necessary as he had enough information to identify Masferrer for the President. O'Donnell was most appreciate and said nothing further need be done.

J. Edgar Hoover underlined the words "an individual whom he did not identify." He then wrote: "I don't understand how such a character gets in to see the President. H." [FBI 2-1622-78] On April 10, 1961, the Justice Department had the Immigration and Naturalization Service revoke Rolando Masferrer's parole as a warning to the Cuban exile community that he had no intention of restoring the Batista dictatorship in Cuba: "Acting District Director, Joseph Minton, INS, Miami, advised Masferrer served with written notice his parole has been revoked and Masferrer taken into detention. However, Masferrer, due to ill health (heart trouble) is under guard at Jackson Memorial Hospital, Miami, under care of Department of Public Health." [FBI 2-1622-92,94]

INDICTED BEFORE THE BAY OF PIGS INVASION OF CUBA

Rolando Masferrer was subsequently indicted for violations of the Neutrality Act. Secretary of State Dean Rusk wrote a letter to the United States Attorney General which stated in part: "The continued presence at large of Rolando Masferrer in the United States and particularly in the State of Florida is prejudicial to our national interest...revoking this alien's parole, deporting him, or restricting his presence at large, would accordingly advance our foreign policy objectives." The FBI was instructed to handle the Rolando Masferrer arrest "with the utmost secrecy." [FBI 2-1622-961 4.7.61] One of the witnesses against Masferrer, Julio Fernandez Trevejo was put at the disposal of the Justice Department by the CIA. The unindicted co-conspirators were Armentino Fera Perez, aka "El Indio," Julio Fernandez Trevejo, Anselmo Aliegro, Franklin Joseph Williams, Horacio Canizares, Santiago Alvarez and one (FNU) Cartaya. [USDC SDF Indictment 12, 105-M] The Kennedy Administration had Justin F. Gleichauf, a CIA representative who was in contact with various law enforcement agencies, contact Judge Emmet Choate and inform him that Masferrer sponsored anti-Castro activities at this time might be more a liability than an asset to developments in progress. Judge Choate was quite concerned that actions taken against Masferrer might be construed as a 'coddling' of anti-Castro elements, but indicated that he would delay Masferrer's hearing several days, and would give the matter further consideration. The U.S. District Attorney appeared to be quite happy with the developments as he stated that he had been afraid that Judge Choate would release Masferrer on April 17, 1961, the original date of the hearing." [CIA Justin F. Gleichauf to Chief, Contact Division.]

Released on bail, Rolando Masferrer was re-arrested in May 1961. He was charged with having violated the Neutrality Act by making war on Cuba. The charges were dropped five months later. FBI informant FRANK STURGIS became involved in the Rolando Masferrer case. [FBI 2-1622 NR 2.24.61, 107]

THE BAY OF PIGS BRIGADE - BRIGADE 2506

Manuel Artime was the military leader of the Cuban Revolutionary Front's military arm, Brigade 2506 (the Bay of Pigs Brigade). The Bay of Pigs Brigade was composed of

1,443 men. A split occurred within MRR when some of its leadership decided Manuel Artime had become a dictator who was to replace Fidel Castro, should the Cuban invasion be successful. Because of this Manuel Artime was assaulted, but HUNT stepped in and put an end to this revolt. HUNT made frequent trips between Washington, New Orleans, Miami and Guatemala trying to reconcile the dissension which plagued exile politics. He convinced Pedro Diaz Lanz and some expelled MRR members, who were followers of Carlos Prio Socarras, to disband their counter-organization - the Liberation Alliance. [FBI Miami 105-1742 9.13.60] Orlando Bosch left Cuba in July 1960. In early 1961 the CIA imprisoned the opponents of Manuel Artime, then ejected them from the camp. The CPUSA reported that despite his anti-Batista credentials, Manuel Artime cultivated Nicaraguan dictator Anastasio Somoza as a major supporter. [Daily World 11.19.76 p4]

VICTOR PANEQUE AND ORLANDO BOSCH

Victor Manuel Paneque y Batista (201-286382) assumed military leadership of MRR in Miami and organized a infiltration team to re-enter Cuba to continue MRR operations. Victor Paneque was born September 22, 1918 in Holguin, Oriente Province, Cuba. His formal education was short. From 1934 until 1942 he worked as a farmhand together with his father. In 1942 he had four months of military training and then served two years as an infantry private at the Military Base, Managua, and Province of Havana, Cuba. Released from military service in 1944 he found employment as a waiter and bartender in various barrooms in Holguin. He worked in this field until October 13, 1956, when he joined the 26th of July Movement and was appointed chief of all clandestine activity against the Batista regime for the Northern Coast of Oriente Province. Victor Paneque was arrested by the police of Bayamo, Oriente Province, sentenced to one year in prison by the Tribunal of Santiago De Cuba for conspiracy against the Batista regime. He served his sentence and was released on November 22, 1957. On November 27, 1957 he was appointed by the Castro organization Chief of Political Action, Sabotage and Violent Assaults, for Las Villas Province. He organized a "Front" on the North Coast of Las Villas which was eventually replaced by columns headed by Ché Guevara and Camillo Cienfuegos. In October 1958 Victor Paneque was chief of action for the Province of Pinar del Rio, Havana, and Matanzas and the area east of Havana. This operation took place between November 1959 and December 1959. From January 1, 1959, to January 5, 1959, the headquarters of Victor Paneque were located at the Sports Palace of Havana and when Fidel Castro entered the city, Victor Paneque turned over full control to his leader. On January 5, 1959, Victor Paneque was appointed Chief of the Revolutionary Army 5th Military District of Havana. He held this post for 22 days. In March 1959 he was made Chief of Public Order in the General Staff of the Rebel Army. In April 1959 Fidel Castro made him Chief of the Rural Police of Cuba. He was given full authority to set up and organize military schools for training a new rural police force. He established a school to train this force. None of the instructors there had been associated with the Communist Party of Cuba. Toward the end of October 1959 Castro was throughly disillusioned with the anti-Communist political attitude of the training school. He dissolved it and assigned its staff teaching jobs at the Peasant Militia schools. This decision was preceded by numerous violent arguments between Victor Paneque and Fidel Castro and convinced Victor Paneque that Fidel Castro was a Communist. On November 9, 1959, Victor Paneque was removed from his post as Chief of Public Order and Chief of Rural Police. He was appointed administrator general of a large state-owned truck company. In spite of this prestigious position Victor Paneque escaped Cuba by small boat in 1960 and was picked up by an American tanker after drifting for 14 hours. He came to the United States on September 3, 1960. The CIA reported:

Paneque, y Batista, Victor Manuel, 201-286382. According to Carlos Quiroga, Victor Paneque was in charge of the military training camp conducted for Cubans from Miami in August 1963 at Lacombe, Louisiana. Quiroga added that before the coup, Paneque had been in charge of all underground work in Havana. Traces have shown tht Paneque, AKA Commandante Diego, DPOB September 22, 1918 Holguin, Oriente Province, Cuba was the chried of rural police under Castro, was major in the army and also served as G-3 of the Cuban Army (chief of Public Order). Various reports indicate that:

(1) When Paneque arrived in the U.S. on or about September 7, 1960, he first stayed in the home of Dr. Orlando Bosch, suspected Castro agent and possible DGI member in Miami.

(2) He was associated with Carlos Rodriguez Castro, reported by an FBI source as a possible plant in anti-Castro organizations in U.S.

(3) Before he left Cuba, Paneque spent two hours with Raoul Castro.

(4) A Major Sanjenis, former G-2 Chief who, in 1960, was serving 10 years on the Isle of Pines, stated that Victor Paneque tried to give the impression that he was against the Castro Government but in reality was a Cuban Government agent. [CIA report from Joaquin Pedromo Sanjenis - dated September 21, 1960]

(5) That the general manager of the Pepsi Cola company said that Paneque had gone to Miami but was a member of G-2."

According to a report dated October 6, 1960, prepared by another office of this agency members of the Student Group at the University of Havana reported the presence in Miami of two Castro 'plants' said to be DGI agents. One of these was Victor Paneque. The information in this report came from a United States national with business contacts in the Latin American areas. UFGA-17153, August 10, 1964, discounted some of the foregoing and said that there had been reports that Victor Paneque had been on Castro's list of officers to be eliminated and that he had been in touch with anti-Castro groups in the Escambray before he fled Cuba. Moreover, he was given a polygraph examination on August 4, 1964, with positive results. The Station requested a POA and commo clearance as soon as possible. The POA was granted on November 13, 1964. Victor Paneque was granted a Provisional Operational Approval on November 14, 1964, for use by JMATE, which was canceled October 13, 1965. UFGA-23382, October 5, 1965, reported that Victor Paneque was to be terminated as of October 31, 1965, because there was no immediate operational use for him. [To: Ass. C. Of Staff Dept. Army Atten: Interagency Source Register. Subject: Paneque SD-10237]

In 1967 the CIA reported "Victor Manuel (Paneque) Batista 201-282382 Station has not had contact with Subject since his termination." [CIA 12.30.67 100-300-17 00005] The CIA received a report on March 31, 1962, which indicated that Victor Paneque was the organizer of a hunger strike group and was the first speaker at a rally to urge the United States to give arms to exiled Cubans. The CIA reported: "Victor Paneque was the first speaker. He advised the audience that the "Hunger Strike to Death" took place to show JFK that the Cubans are willing to die in exile if their right to defend Cuba from Communism is negated. The motto of the strike is 'Hunger or War.' The strike was primarily initiated to ask for arms for the Cubans in exile. He also stated that the compatriots in Cuba are asking in despair what the Consejo is doing to solve the Cuban problem. In answer to that question Paneque said the Consejo has done nothing and means nothing in the USA and Cuba. The Consejo should step aside and allow action people to take over the direction of the Cubans in exile." Luis Conte Aguerro also spoke at this rally. [CIA 201-286382]

MRR and MIRR

During a deposition in HUNT v. WEBERMAN, STURGIS explained MRR and MIRR were two different groups:

The MIRR was a group headed by Dr. Orlando Bosch, who broke off from the MIRR in Cuba and formed his own organization that was the MIRR. Manuel Artime never worked in the MIRR. Remember, there are two different organizations, two different leaders. Dr. Bosch was the leader of the MIRR. I just want to specify that, you know.

Associates of MRR in the United States included Alexander Rorke, William Johnson and STURGIS. The HSCA reported that STURGIS and William Johnson provided the CIA information on Cuban exile activities. A highly deleted FBI document read: "FIORINI is presently cooperating and associating with Orlando Bosch cooperating and associating with Orlando Bosch..." [CIA Secret Document F.O. Case # deleted]

ORLANDO BOSCH

In late 1961 Orlando Bosch was given CIA support and relocated to a camp at Homestead, Florida. Orlando Bosch, however, came to the conclusion the camp was an exercise in futility. He believed that the CIA had no intention of mounting another invasion of Cuba, or of even initiating guerrilla attacks. Unofficially, his CIA contact confirmed these suspicions. After nine months of inactivity, Orlando Bosch sent a complaint to President Kennedy and then he closed down the camp. On January 11, 1962, the CIA'S PM (Para-Military) stated that it maintained contact with Orlando Bosch through Case Officer (Deleted). [Memo For Chief of Operations. Subject PM Contact with the Constitutional Thesis (Garceran)]

MIRR engaged in a series of bombing raids over Cuba aimed at destroying Cuba's sugar-producing capacity. It also conducted air strikes against a MIG base in Cuba. The Justice Department charged Orlando Bosch with sponsoring these attacks. Orlando Bosch was acquitted with the help of sympathetic Federal judges like Emmett Choate who had stated: "I hope the American people are wise enough when they elect another President. I'm a staunch Republican; but I don't care whether he's a Republican or Democrat or a Socialist, if necessary, so long as he's a patriot and he'll do everything he can to wipe out this communistic influence that seems to pervade at times through our Capitol; namely Washington, D.C." [SD Fla 70-389-Cr-EC] Orlando Bosch felt betrayed by the Kennedy Administration and the CIA.

THE CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATIC MOVEMENT

The founder of the Christian Democratic Movement, Dr. Jose Ignacio Rasco, was a delegate to the Cuban Revolutionary Front. Jose Ignacio Rasco was a 35-year old former lawyer and professor who founded the Christian Democratic Movement during early 1960 in Cuba. Initially, this group, consisting of several hundred people, had supported the Cuban revolution in general terms, although it was critical of communist infiltration of the Castro movement. The Christian Democratic Movement also strongly advocated private property and the free enterprise system and warned against Castro's attacks on these institutions. As a result, the group found itself increasingly at odds with Castro's policy and by April 1960 Christian Democratic Movement leaders decided they could no longer operate freely in Cuba. On May 18, 1960, Jose Ignacio Rasco took refuge in the Ecuadorian Embassy, Havana, at the same time blasting Castro for his failure to hold elections and his tolerance of communist infiltration. Rasco was granted safe conduct and came to Miami on April 22, 1960. On May 3, 1960, the CIA's Office of Security made hotel reservations in New York City for Jose Ignacio Rasco for four days. By June 1960 Jose Ignacio Rasco had met with HUNT and aligned the Christian Democratic Movement with the Cuban Revolutionary Front. The Christian Democratic Movement was comprised of many former members of Fidel Castro's military including

Victor Paneque, however, the FBI reported: "The MDC had about 1,000 men operating in Havana and Pinar del Rio Provinces prior to the April invasion. They are led by Captain Ruben Carcines, a career military man who had an office job under Batista. The group is made up of persons who are former supporters of Batista but who did not participate in any strong man operations." [NO DA file-interview with Quigora p6; FBI 97-4133 NR 1.31.62] Pedro Diaz Lanz was a member of the Christian Democratic Movement. [HSCA V10 p72; HUNT Day p12; Facts On File NY 62 Lib. Cong. Cat. #64-16075] In late 1960 there were indications that the leaders of the Christian Democratic Movement were impatient with waiting for action and were becoming mistrustful of Cuban Revolutionary Front leadership. Beginning in November 1960, the Christian Democratic Movement occasionally initiated independent actions without consulting the Cuban Revolutionary Front. [FBI 97-4110 NR 191 3.24.61] The January 27, 1961, issue of the Washington Daily News reported that Rasco predicted that acts of great importance including sabotage and something more than sabotage. In February 1961 the FBI Office in Springfield, Missouri, requested permission from Washington, D.C. to open a case on the Christian Democratic Movement. The Springfield office was advised that the Christian Democratic Movement was a member of the Cuban Revolutionary Front and: "The Bureau has advised on a need-to-know basis that (deleted as of 2010). The Bureau has instructed that no investigation is to be conducted of Cuban Revolutionary Front and member organizations, but any information received should be furnished to the Bureau." [FBI 97-4110-28 2.6.61]

After the Bay of Pigs, the Christian Democratic Movement split into two factions. One group was headed by Laureano Batista Falla and the other by "Lucas." "Lucas" worked with the successor to the Cuban Revolutionary Front, the Cuban Revolutionary Council, while Laureano Batista Falla dissociated the Christian Democratic Movement from the Cuban Revolutionary Council. The FBI stated: "On June 5, 1961, Jose Cardoso, Chicago leader of the Christian Democratic Movement of of the anti-Castro Cuban revolutionary groups which comprised the FRD, advised as follows: In late May 1961 the Christian Democratic Movement disassociated itself from the Cuban Revolutionary Front on a national basis and it was believed that other anti-Castro groups had also dropped out of the Cuban Revolutionary Front, for one reason or another." [FBI 97-4110 Chicago 6.6.61] On May 16, 1961, the Chief of the CIA's Contact Division L/A Branch received this report from Robert P. B. Lohmann of Chicago:

Richard Cain (our private eye) passed the following on to me...He was hired as a bodyguard for Jose Rasco during Rasco's visit to Chicago last week and he heard details of some of the covers that took place. One Manny Fefferman, described by Cain as a 'thief, a sharpie with an arrest record' has been given the authority to collect funds for the Christian Democratic Movement by Rasco. When Cain told Rasco that Fefferman was no good, Rasco answered that some of the money was bound to be turned over out of Fefferman's collections and that the Christian Democratic Party needs all it can get. That Abascal, a delegate of the Christian Democratic Party was to see Robert Kennedy last weekend to try and get U.S. dollars switched from the Varona/Cuban Revolutionary Front/OA to the Christian Democratic Party and if they fail, to enlist the aid of Adenauer of West Germany, to intercede for them, in his capacity with the German Christian Democratic Party, with President Kennedy. That there are very bitter arguments and serious splits among the groups over which is to get control of the dollars. [Richard Cain file #272141 5.17.61]

From March 10, 1962, to March 12, 1962, Laureano Batista Falla was one of the organizers of the hunger strike in Miami protesting the lack of determination on the part of the Kennedy Administration to overthrow Castro. Batista was the Cuban who officially ended the strike. [FBI 109-584-3681]

ARTIME AND KENNEDY

In December 1962 Manuel Artime was released from prison in Cuba. In January 1963 Artime met with President John F. Kennedy and United States Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy and he asked them for six American Army Divisions for an attack on Cuba. The Kennedys refused because the United States was not planning military intervention in Cuba. [FBI 105-8544 NR 7.31.63] Manuel Artime told the FBI in June 1963, that he participated in CIA-authorized anti-Castro missions ever since his release. Soon, the Kennedy Administration ordered pay cuts for the Bay of Pigs veterans. In response, Manuel Artime formed a Bay of Pigs Brigade Veterans Association at the same time actively recruiting in Miami for MRR. The recruits were to be sent to a training camp located in Louisiana. From there, they would go to a base in Nicaragua sponsored by Anastasio Somoza. In July 1963 the CIA bugged Manuel Artime's safehouse. [CIA 210838 Folder 7] The coverage was requested by the Chief, Special Affairs Staff, DDO, Desmond FitzGerald. Results of coverage: Office of Security files do not contain reference to coverage results. The FBI reported in November 1963: "Artime had been offered aid by the Somoza regime...an American at Fort Benning, Captain Robert K. Brown, was reported as a possible acquaintance of Artime."

Manuel Artime told the FBI that the CIA supported his anti-Castro efforts. The FBI never disputed this: "For Bureau's information it is public knowledge among the Cuban colony in Miami...that MRR members themselves claim to have United States backing. Artime travels all over Central America, has no problem obtaining reentry permits from the U.S. Government, and neither Artime or the MRR have any financial problems." At this time, Manuel Artime attempted to undercut the efforts of the Kennedy Administration to train Cuban exiles at Fort Benning, Georgia, by persuading a group of Cuban officers to resign and join MRR. [RG I, 112th Intell. Group, San Antonio, Texas 1963 Army Rep Re: Cuban Officer Training Program 12.5.63, 12.28.63] The FBI reported that on July 16, 1963, Artime held a press conference and stated that the MRR was going to move out of the United States and establish bases in Central America. "He refused to identify the country or countries where the bases would be established. Artime accused the United States government of impeding Cuban exile efforts against the government of Cuba, and said that although the United States government is sympathetic with Cuban exiles, the Fidel Castro government in Cuba cannot be overthrown by sympathy. Artime said his group would continue to infiltrate arms and men into Cuba, and help the underground in Cuba, but MRR does not plan to conduct any raids against Cuban shipping." [FBI 97-4133-69]

THE DEATH PLOTS AGAINST CASTRO JAMES O'CONNELL AND TONY VARONA

William Harvey's established an assassination group within the CIA. Peter Wright stated in 1961 William Harvey told him: "We're developing a new capability [assassination] in the company to handle these kinds of problems." The HSCA interviewed James O'Connell about William Harvey's assassination group. James O'Connell, a former FBI Agent, started as a CIA Operational Support Branch Chief. He then served as the Chief of Station of a domestic field office and became Division Chief of Headquarters Operational Support between 1960 and 1962. In 1962 he was transferred to the Far East, and became Chief Regional Security Officer there. Upon returning to the United States, he assumed the title of Deputy Director for Physical, Technical and Overseas Security of the Office of Security. He retired in June 1973. James O'Connell contacted John Rosselli about Tony Varona. In 1993 the CIA revealed that "When Juan Orta was not successful in carrying out the mission against Fidel Castro, TRAFFICANTE suggested Tony Varona be used. John Rosselli contacted Tony Varona. Tony Varona was to use assets of his own to carry out the mission." HUNT told the SSCIA he served as a paymaster to Tony Varona, but was unaware of Tony Varona's role in an assassination plot against Fidel Castro. Artime told the SSCIA the same.

John Rosselli, born in Italy on July 4, 1905, entered the United States illegally at age six. John Rosselli joined the Capone Mob in Chicago, where he worked for Sam Giancana. When James O'Connell met with Rosselli he first "called Mr. Cregar per our agreement with the FBI." [CIA D-000678]

James O'Connell was asked by the HSCA: "Directing your attention to 1960, did there come a time when you, in your official CIA capacity, became involved in an operation to assassinate Castro?" James O'Connell answered, "Yes, he had." The CIA assassination effort to which James O'Connell referred was supervised by William Harvey. The HSCA asked James O'Connell if he were involved in Phase Two of this assassination plan, which took place about the time of the Bay of Pigs invasion. James O'Connell answered: "Very generally as I remember it, and again I'm calling upon my memory here. And I'm not sure, I remember Giancana meeting one of the members of the Cuban Junta, an individual by the name of Varona. Now whether that was before the Bay of Pigs or after the Bay of Pigs, I'm at a total loss to tell you. That, I think, was part of the Second Phase." [HSCA V5 p251] James O'Connell was referring to the Cuban Revolutionary Front when he said "Cuban Junta." The HSCA Report stated: "At the time of his introduction into the CIA-organized crime plots, Tony Varona was active in the Cuban Revolutionary Front and the Cuban Revolutionary Council. Adding to the support for the Cuban exile leader were the promotional efforts of Dino and Eddie Cellini...In his HSCA testimony Tony Varona described a meeting with an anti-Castro Cuban and Meyer Lansky in Meyer Lansky's home in Miami in the Summer of 1960." Tony Varona: "Mr. Lansky offered us to conducted (sic) a campaign in the U.S. favoring the Cuban movement and against Castro. At the beginning I accepted his offer. When I met with HUNT afterwards, he told me to discontinue the contacts with this man. And that was it; it ended. I did not ask Mr. HUNT how he knew of my contact with Mr. Lansky." James O'Connell added that either TRAFFICANTE or Sam Giancana introduced him to Tony Varona, who was given a poison pill to use against Castro. [HSCA Ev. & Imp. CIA Spon. Ass. Con. Against Castro p171]

Tony Varona's assistant for fund raising operations and for public relations matters was Edward Kipper Moss. Edward Moss (born June 23, 1916) was a graduate of Yale University and George Washington University Moss was a highly decorated World War II Navy veteran who had served in government under several Presidents. On October 22, 1962, the CIA considered issuing an Operation Clearance for Edward Kipper Moss. [Response to Green List Request No. 109631] On December 3, 1964, a Routing And Record Sheet on Moss from CI/OA was created which was sent to CA/PAG and CIA/OA 2B-11. Attached to this was a dossier on Edward Moss which indicated that he was a Staff writer, Atlantic City (N.J.) Evening Union 1935-1936, Atlantic Press 1936-37 etc. asst. chief analysis & reports div. Natl. Emergency Council 1939-40; chief info section Office of Govt. Reports, 1940-1942, dir. pub. Rel. Amer. Mgmt. Assn. 1946-50 etc. Moss was the Public Relations man for several African nations. [Response to Green List Request No. 109631 From Edward P. Dunn CA/PAG] On March 24, 1965, Lewis J. Lapham, Acting Chief, Covert Action Staff, generated a Memorandum to the DD/P regarding Edward Moss:

1. Our records show that clearances were obtained by NE Division and by CA Staff, for possible use of Subject in the public relations field. The records do not show any use of Moss by either element.
2. So far as CA Staff is concerned, Moss simply is a file under (Deleted) we have no intention of using him. A full bio sketch is available if anyone is interested. Signed Lewis J. Lapham Acting Chief, Covert Action Staff CA/PEG/WC Needham: rh..."

The CIA generated this report on Edward Moss.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Chief, Security Research Staff

FROM: Jerry G. Brown

SUBJECT: Moss, Edward K. #172 646

1. Reference is made to a memorandum, dated February 28, 1968, captioned "Brazil Fishing Venture and Russian Fishing Vessels" submitted by Edwin P. Wilson (#104 653) (Louis N. KAROKAI-ps) who at the time was a Staff agent under commercial cover under Domestic Operations Division / Deputy Director Plans. In this memorandum Wilson outlined his 'limited' contacts with Moss. Wilson stated that he had met Moss in 1966 through Frank O'Connell, Washington representative of the Transport Worker's Union. The memorandum also suggests that one of Wilson's business associates, Richard S. Cobb (#503 714), was also having business contracts with Moss.

2. In referenced memorandum, Wilson stated that "subsequent investigation surfaced information and a verbal report from Dunn and Bradstreet recognizing Moss' long standing 'Mafia' connections. Moss' operation seems to be government contracts for the underworld and probably surfaces money in legitimate business activities."

3. The Moss Office of Security file is devoid of any further information concerning potential Mafia connections on his part. The OS file will not be summarized as present, but will be highlighted in a forthcoming memorandum.

4. As a result of the foregoing, research was initiated concerning Moss which resulted in the recovery of an FBI letterhead memorandum, dated January 18, 1961, captioned, "Manuel Antonio Varona, Internal Security, Cuba," containing information furnished to the FBI by a "representative of an Agency of the United States Government." The information the FBI received from the other U.S. Government Agency is as follows:

A Washington businessman who desires that his name be left out of this record, called on me today and expressed his great concern about the relationships of one of the anti-Castro group leaders with representatives of the so-called International Crime Syndicate. In summary his observations were as follows:

(a) Tony Varona, 201-196435, is reputed to be the leader of an anti-Castro group in the Miami area. Varona lives in Miami at the present time.

(b) Varona had taken on Edward K. Moss as his assistant for raising funds to finance operations against Castro and for public relations matters. Edward K. Moss had an office address of 1025 Connecticut Avenue, North West, Washington, D.C.

(c) Julia Cellini is alleged to be Moss' mistress and operates a secretarial service at 1025 Connecticut Avenue, North West, Washington, D.C. It is reported her secretarial service is really a front for Edward K. Moss' activities.

(d) Julia's father is reported to have been one of the big numbers racketeers until a few years ago.

(e) Julia Cellini's brother, Dino Cellini, and his brother (FNU) are active fronts for two of the largest casinos that operated in Cuba until the Castro regime.

(f) It is alleged the Cellini brothers are in close contact with Tony Varona, through Edward Kipper Moss, and have offered to contribute considerable sums of money (reported as high as two million dollars) through Edward K. Moss to Tony Varona to finance operations against the Castro regime, with the understanding that they would have the major slice "in the Cuba of the future."

(j) My informant stated that American businessmen are being contacted by Edward K. Moss' organization to solicit funds for Varona's contemplated operations against the Castro regime.

The Washington businessman was quite concerned over the impact and potential propaganda value of this alleged connection of Tony Varona and the alleged racketeers in the event this organization is penetrated by Castro's intelligence organization. He enjoys many contacts throughout Latin America and fears that any propaganda stories by the Castro regime regarding such a relationship between Varona, American businessmen and Edward K. Moss' activities would have serious impact on United States prestige throughout Latin America.

5. The referenced FBI letterhead memorandum referred to CSCI 3/762,992 regarding the Cellini brothers, but this CSCI was not recovered when IP traces were conducted in the name of the Cellini brothers mentioned below. The FBI additionally reported that Julia, Dino, Edward and Goffredo Cellini are the children of Benvenuto Cellini and that Dino Cellini is believed to be identical with Dino Vincent Cellini, FBI Number 2198122. The FBI further reported that prior to the fall of the Batista regime in Cuba, that Edward Goffredo Cellini and Goffredo Cellini were known to be the evening manager and afternoon manager, respectively, at the Casino International in Havana, Cuba. Dino Vincent Cellini was formerly employed in the gambling casino at the Tropicana night club in Havana.

7. Polk's Directory reflects that all of the following were living at 8144 Eastern Avenue. N.W. Washington, D.C. phone TU-2-3627: Julia T. Cellini, Consultant, General Services Administration, Adorna Cellini, employee Federal Aviation Administration, Benvenuto Cellini, manager, Piece of Pizza Inc. and Liberata Cellini, wife of Benvenuto.

9. Office of Security File #529 101 concerns Julia T. Cellini. This file was established as result of the recent research relative to the association between Edward K. Moss and Julia T. Cellini. An FBI report was recovered in the name of Rouhi Jamil (Office of Security #36 384), dated June 18, 1957. Apparently the FBI was attempted to determine the subscriber to certain telephone numbers that Jamil was cognizant of, Jamil then being the Syrian Consul General and a member of the Syrian delegation to the United States. Among these numbers was TUckerman-2-3627 which was subscribed to by Benvenuto M. Cellini in 1956 with an address of 8144 Eastern Avenue N.W. Washington, D.C. The FBI report established the identities of the family of Benvenuto M. Cellini, among them being Julie Cellini, then President Treasurer of the Washington Business Service; that in March 1952 Adorna Linda Cellini, sister of Julia Cellini, stated that her brother Dino Cellini was in Cuba.

The FBI report concluded with the following statement: "On February 12, 1945, Inspector Baer of the Washington Field Office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service advised SA John P. Stutskan that during a naturalization investigation being conducted in Ohio concerning one Bernard Nucilli, it was learned that Nucilli had been making daily long distance telephone calls to Union 1645, Mt. Ranier, Maryland. Inspector Baer advised the Nucilli had a reputation of being a procurer and a nightclub gambler around Alliance, Ohio. Baer stated that the number UNION 1645 was listed under the name of Nella L. Cellini, of Mt Ranier and that Julia Cellini and Dino V. Cellini also resided at that address. Inspector Baer advised that Julia Cellini had been a procurer and there was some evidence that Dino V. Cellini was also a procurer. Inspector Baer among other things, based his opinion concerning Dino V. Cellini on the fact that Cellini had no apparent means of income but regularly traveled by plane from Washington, D.C. to New York City, from New York City to Ohio, from Ohio to Florida and from Florida to Washington. He further advised that in an INS investigation then going on there was evidence Dino Cellini was a procurer. Based upon Inspector Baer's allegation, an investigation was conducted by the FBI. At the conclusion of this investigation no definite information had been developed indicating a violation of the White Slave Traffic Act.

10. 201-885706 concerns Dino Vincent Cellini, born on November 19, 1914, which was opened in 1971 when an unsolicited dispatch was provided to the Rome Station for information on Dino Cellini who was then living in Rome. For the most part the dispatch referred to information already mentioned in instant memorandum. However the the dispatch did reflect that Dino V. Cellini was detained in May 1959 in Havana by Cuban authorities at the request of the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics. Cellini's name had been included in a list published by the U.S. Bureau of narcotics concerning U.S. citizens suspected of dealing in narcotics. Cellini was subsequently released June 1959 for lack of evidence. Dino V. Cellini worked at the Casinos Tropicana and Riviera in Cuba before going to Haiti, and as of 1961, he was residing in Miami, Florida.

11. The April 1970 edition of True Magazine contained an article entitled "The Mafia vs the CIA" by Andrew St. George. This article deals mainly with alleged CIA and Mafia conflicts for "influence" in the Caribbean. The article comments on the activities of Meyer Lansky (Office of Security #623 652) and mentions the name of Lansky's subordinates, one being Dino Cellini. It is considered quite possible that Dino Cellini is the brother of Julia T. Cellini. The article suggests the following were also Lansky's subordinates; Ben Sigelbaum, Ed Levinson, Sid Jacobs, Joe Napolitano, Joseph Krikorian and Mike McLaney. IS Subject files are negative in these names except for the names of Meyer Lansky (#623 652), Edward Levinson (#463 982) and Michael McLaney (#509 046) however these files contain nothing of pertinence to instant memorandum.

12. In regard to Julia T. Cellini, the Office of Security file of Subject, Edward K. Moss reflects that from 1950 to 1953, Moss was serving in an appointed position with the United States Government, first as an Assistant Administrator in charge of Public Information, National Production Authority; and then with the Defense Production Administration, both with the Department of Commerce. Moss's secretary during this period was Julia T. Cellini, who later became a close business partner of Moss.

13. The foregoing would suggest that Moss does indeed have potential underworld connections. Jerry G. Brown FIOB/SRS.

[CIA Memo for DC/SRS from Jerry G. Brown 5.14.73; CIA Index Card 138879]

Tony Varona told the HSCA he did not know Edward Kipper Moss or anyone named

Cellini. Robert Aime Maheu was part of William Harvey's assassination effort aimed at Fidel Castro. Robert Maheu [SF #111 540; born October 30, 1917, Waterville, Maine] had been employed as a FBI S.A. from 1940 to 1947. Upon resigning from the Bureau, Maheu formed a private enterprise doing business as "Dairy Dream Products." The venture culminated in bankruptcy in 1952. In 1952 he became Security Director of the Small Business Administration. In February 1954, he was forced to resign from the Small Business Administration because of political reasons, determined to be the result of his backing the wrong political party in the election. He then set up his own investigative organization known as Robert A. Maheu Associates. Prior to 1954 the CIA component NE/NS had an interest in Maheu.

In 1954 Maheu received a Cover Security Approval from Central Cover Staff. Maheu was recruited by the Office of Security of the CIA to perform certain operational support activities: "He was initially recruited by the Office of Security in 1954 and granted a Provisional Operational Approval on August 30, 1954. He performed many sensitive Office of Security assignments and also accepted assignments from elements of the Deputy Director for Plans.

5. Some of these assignments included the following:

A. (Deleted) The procurement of feminine companionship for President Sukarno during an official State visit to this country during the period (deleted) (See attached Tab 1 – taken from "Family Jewels" memorandum dated May 16, 1973.

B. Johnny Rosselli. The use of a member of the Mafia in an attempt to assassinate Fidel Castro, initiated in August 1960. (See attached Tab 2--- taken from 'Family Jewels' memorandum dated May 16, 1973)

C. Cover. Various Clandestine Service officers met with Mr. Maheu over the years from March 1954 to 1970 to determine the feasibility of using his firm for non-offical purposes. Actual cover uses were provided for one officer in Mr. Maheu's Washington Office from September 1964 to June 1966 and another officer used the cover of Maheu Associates from August 1, 1968 to December 31, 1970. (See attached Tab 3 - Director of Security Memorandum to Director / Counter-Intelligence January 20, 1971.)

6. No contact had been made with Mr. Maheu since the termination of the above cover arrangement." [CIA Eyes Only Memo 10.4.73]

In 1954 Robert Maheu received $500 a month from the OS. The CIA reported:

In July 1954, Maheu was engaged by 'British shipping interests' to check on Aristotle Onassis' activities while in the United States. This included technical coverage of the New York office of Aristotle Onassis. It was later learned that the principal 'British interest' was Stavros Niarchus and that the ultimate goal of this task was to scrap the Onassis/Saudi oil deal. Maheu took the job but conditioned his acceptance with the fact that he would do nothing inimical to the U.S. Government. Any information developed of interest to the United States was to be passed by Maheu to the appropriate government agency.

During this operation Maheu had his staff employee prepare a paper citing dangers to the U.S. economy and trade resulting from the Onassis deal. Through contacts in FOA, Maheu had Harold Stassen read this paper in the National Security Council on June 22, 1954. During the same period Maheu briefed Scott McLeod, Assistant Secretary of State for Security and Consular Affairs on the project. McLeod agreed to furnish State commo and pouch facilities subject to John Foster Dulles' approval. Additionally, Maheu briefed J. Edgar Hoover and Vice President Nixon.

In August 1954 Maheu advised this office of his relationship with Niarchus. NEA Division was contacted and expressed interest in this matter. They were put in touch with Maheu and furnished him a commo channel, a pouch sys and operational guidance. International litigation erupted as a result of the Onassis / Niarchus matter and as a result Niarchus claimed Government privilege in the case, the Agency was subsequently identified as being the Government agency involved. Files of this Office reflect extensive correspondence furnished us by the Office of General Counsel in 1956 regarding the Onassis matter.

On August 16, 1954 Subject was granted a covert security clearance for utilization as an agent under Project (Deleted) in the Near East. On August 30, 1954 he was granted a similar clearance to permit his use in the United States as covert associate under PROJECT LPHIDDEN. In November of 1957 a cable from (deleted) indicated that Mr. Maheu had allegedly been involved in a violation of the Mann Act in procuring and transporting prostitutes for (deleted) during (Deleted's) visit to the United States in (deleted). Mr. Maheu contacted this Office to advise that the allegations were without foundation and stated that he would take steps to immediately have his attorney see that appropriate (deleted) official would retract these charges. This was subsequently done. Edward Bennett Williams acted as Maheu's lawyer in this matter.

In 1957 information was received indicating that during President Sukarno's visit to Moscow in the fall of 1956, he was introduced to a Soviet woman within the Kremlin. He had an affair with her against the admonitions of his advisors. It was reported that the Soviets took detailed films of the affair and that a copy was sent to the PKI. In June of 1957 Al Ulmer and Samuel Halpern, FE Division, contacted the Director of Security and outlined a project wherein they envisioned a film being made simulating this affair. It was planned that clips from this film would be inserted in a leaflet for distribution throughout Southeast Asia suggesting that Sukarno was compromised by the Soviets. In July of 1957 Robert Maheu was given this assignment. He utilized a trusted make employee of this organization (since deceased) and his fiancé. Maheu, after an intensive makeup course, administered make up to the participants himself, utilizing available pictures and descriptions of the subjects as a guide. He hired a studio where he was given detailed instruction o the use of the lights and camera. When the film was taken, only Maheu and the two participants were in the studio. The project known as "Happy Days" was never completed and the film was not distributed.

Files of this office reflect that during the 1958-1959 period, FE Division was put in touch with Maheu by this Office for assistance in another operation relating to President Sukarno. This project was originated in May 1958 when FE Division initially contacted the Director of Security and briefed him on the project know as (deleted). Basically the project capitalized on Surkarno's weakness for Caucasian women. Robert Maheu was given the assignment to locate a female candidate. He advised that a prominent (deleted) attorney and "man about town" (deleted) could come up with a qualified woman. (Deleted) was investigated with favorable results and given a CSA on (deleted) but was not made witting of CIA interest. The female candidate was (deleted) resident of (deleted) considered to be highly intelligent and extremely attractive. In August of 1958 the Project (deleted) plan was concurred in by the COPS and DCI.

In September of 1958 Maheu and James O'Connell of this Office met with (deleted) in New York City. (Deleted) was briefed on Agency interest in this matter. Later in September Maheu met with (deleted) under his true name and told her of governmental interest. (Deleted) knew Maheu's true identity having been introduced to him socially by (deleted). On the same day (September 23, 1958) (deleted) was introduced to Joseph Smith, FE D Division (known to both (deleted) and Maheu as Joseph Sims. (Delted was briefed on the assignment, indicated that she understood exactly what was expected of her and stated that she could leave the country in 45 days. On September 24, 1958 Sims again met with (deleted) at which time she was told she would be accompanied by a female traveling companion. (Deleted) Hogarth (actually (deleted) FE Division) (Deleted) was told that Hogarth would ostensibly be her secretary but would be, in fact, the person she would look to for direction. It is known that she did meet Sukarno, but due to unfortunate timing that had him leaving his country on official business she had little time to cultivate him. Consequently the purpose of the mission was not fulfilled. The last known contact (deleted) had with the Agency was in the form of a telephone call on April 12, 1961 when she called on a sterile line and talked to Hugh Tovar. She advised that one (deleted) had asked her to give a party for President Sukarno on April 21, 1961. (Deleted) wanted to know whether the Agency was interested in sponsoring this party. A negative response was given...In August 1960 Richard M. Bissell, the then DD/P contacted the Director of Security regarding the Rosselli matter. Details concerning this are set forth in Attachment B.

SUBJECT: The Johnny Rosselli Matter:

1. In August 1960 Mr. Richard Bissell approached the then Director of Security, Colonel Sheffield Edwards, to determine if the Office of Security had any assets that may assist in a sensitive mission requiring gangster-type action. The mission target was Fidel Castro.

2. Because of its extreme sensitivity, only a small group was knowledgeable of the project. The DCI was briefed and gave his approval. Colonel J.C. King, Chief, Western Hemisphere Division, was briefed, but all details were concealed from any of the JMWAVE officials. Certain TSD and Communications personnel participated in the initial planning stages but were not witting of the purpose of the mission.

3. Robert Maheu, a cleared source of the Office of Security was contacted, briefed generally on the project, and requested to ascertain if he could develop an entree into gangster elements as the first step toward accomplishing the desired goal.

4. Mr. Maheu advised that he had met one Johnny Rosselli on several occasions while visiting Las Vegas. Maheu knew Rosselli only casually through clients but had been given to understand that Rosselli was a high ranking member of the Syndicate and controlled all of the ice making machines on the Strip. Maheu reasoned that, if Rosselli was in fact a member of the clan, he undoubtedly had connections leading into Cuban gambling.

5. Maheu was asked to approach Rosselli, who knew Maheu as a personal relations executive handling domestic and foreign accounts. Maheu was to tell Rosselli that he had recently been retained by a client who represented several international business firms which were suffering heavy financial losses in Cuba as a result of Castro's action. These firms were convinced that Castro's removal was the answer to the problem and were willing to pay a price of $150,000 for its successful accomplishment. It was to be made clear to Rosselli that the United States Government was not and should not become aware of this operation.

6. The pitch was made to Rosselli on September 14, 1960, at the Hilton Plaza Hotel in New York City. Mr. James O'Connell, Office of Security, was present during this meeting and was identified to Rosselli as an employee of Maheu. O'Connell actively served as Rosselli's contact until May 1962 at which time he phased out due to an overseas assignment. Rosselli's initial reaction was to avoid getting involved, but through Maheu's persuasion he agreed to introduce him to a friend, Sam Gold, who knew the Cuban crowd. Rosselli made it clear that he would not want any money for his part, and he believed that Gold would feel the same way. Neither of these individuals were ever paid out of Agency funds.

7. During the week of September 25, 1960, Maheu was introduced to Gold at the Fontainebleau Hotel, Miami Beach. During this meeting Maheu also met an individual identified as "Joe" who was supposedly a courier operating between Havana and Miami. Several weeks later Maheu saw photographs of both of these individuals in the Sunday Supplemental Parade. They were identified as Momo Salvatore Giancana and SANTOS TRAFFICANTE. Both were on the list of the Attorney Generals ten most wanted men. Giancana was described as the Chicago Chieftain of the Cosa Nostra and successor to Al Capone. TRAFFICANTE was identified as the Cosa Nostra boss of Cuban operations. Maheu called this office immediately upon ascertaining this information.

8. In discussing the possible methods of accomplishing the mission, Sam suggested that they not resort to firearms but that he be furnished some type of potent pill that could be placed in Castro's food or drink. Gold indicated that he had a perspective nominee in the person of Juan Orta, a Cuban official who had been receiving kickback payments for a gambling interest and who still had access to Castro and was still in a financial bind.

9. TSD was requested to produce six pills of high lethal content which were then delivered to Orta by Joe. After several weeks of reported attempts, Orta apparently got cold feet and asked out of the assignment. He suggested another candidate who made several attempts without success.

10. Joe then indicated that Dr. Anthony Varona, one of the principal officers in the Cuban exile junta, had become disaffected with the apparent ineffectual progress of the junta and was willing to handle the mission through his own resources. Varona asked that he be given $10,000 for his organization expenses and requested $1,000 worth of communications equipment. Dr. Varona's potential was never fully exploited as the mission was canceled shortly after the Bay of Pigs episode. Varona was advised the offer was withdrawn, and the pills were retrieved.

11. Of significant interest was an incident which involved a request levied by Sam upon Maheu.

At the height of the project negotiations, Gold expressed concern about Dan Rowan who he learned was (Deleted). Gold asked Maheu to put a bug in Rowan's room to determine the extent of Rowan's relationship with Phyliss McGuire. The technician involved in the assignment was discovered in the process, arrested and taken to the Sheriff's Office for questioning. He called Maheu in the presence of Sheriff's personnel and informed him that he had been detained. Subsequently the Department of Justice announced its intention to prosecute Maheu along with the technician. On February 7, 1962 the Director of Security briefed the then Attorney General Robert Kennedy on the circumstances leading up to Maheu's involvement in the wiretap. At our request, prosecution was dropped.

12. In May 1962 Mr. William Harvey took over as Rosselli's case officer and it was not known if he was used officially from that point on. It was subsequently learned from the FBI that Rosselli had been convicted on six counts involving illegal entry into the United States some time during November 1967. On December 2, 1968 Rosselli, along with four other individuals, was convicted of conspiracy to cheat members of the Friar's Club of $400,000 in a rigged gin rummy game. Mr. Harvey reported his contacts with Rosselli to this office during November and December 1967 and January 1968. Rosselli was facing deportation at that time but felt he could win an appeal.

13. On November 17, 1970, Mr. Maheu called James O'Connell, Rosselli's first case officer, to advise that Maheu's attorney, Ed Morgan, had received a call from Thomas Waddin, Rosselli's attorney, who stated that all avenues of appeal had been exhausted and Rosselli faced deportation. Waddin indicated that if someone did not intercede on Rosselli's behalf, he would make a complete expose of his activity with the Agency. On November 13, 1970, Mr. Helms was briefed on this latest development and it was decided that the agency would not in any way assist Rosselli. Maheu was advised of the Agency's position and was in complete agreement. He stated that he was not concerned about any publicity as it affected him personally should Rosselli decide to tell all. Subsequently Rosselli, or someone on his behalf, furnished Jack Anderson details of the operation. Anderson wrote two columns regarding this operation on January 13, 1971, and February 23, 1971. Rosselli was last known to be in the Federal Penitentiary in Seattle, Washington. [Memo for IG from Sidney D. Stembridge Acting Director of Security 3.16.76]

On May 9, 1962, Attorney General Robert Kennedy was advised by the CIA that Robert Maheu had been hired to approach Sam Giancana regarding an assassination plot against Fidel Castro. "Mr. Kennedy stated that upon learning CIA had not cleared its action in hiring Maheu and Giancana with the DOJ he issued orders that the CIA should never again take such steps with first checking with the DOJ." [FBI 62-109060-4984]

MEMORANDUM FOR: Chief, Security Analysis Group June 24, 1975

SUBJECT: Robert a. Maheu/ Johnny Rosselli Matter

1. The following is provided for your information.
2. Reference is made to previous memorandum, same subject, which have been provided to the Inspector General regarding information contained in Office of Security files concerning the existence of a separate file entitled "Project Johnny," which was alleged to have been kept in the safe of the Director of Security.

3. All attempts to locate a file maintained separately by the Director of Security entitled "Project Johnny" or any other separate unofficial file concerning the Maheu/Rosselli matter within the Office of Security, have met with negative results. However, in conducting research into this matter, a search of the Office of Security Top Secret Registry disclosed a Top Secret document control card concerning a May 14, 1962, memorandum for the Director of Security to the U.S. Attorney General. The Top Secret control card indicated that a copy of this memorandum was being retained in the Director of Security's personal safe "under Project Johnny."

4. The Office of Security file relating to Johnny Rosselli has a file number of 667 270. Memoranda contained within that file include the above-mentioned May 14, 1962, Top Secret memorandum from the Director of Security, as well as the originals of numerous other memoranda dating back to 1966, which concern various aspects of the Rosselli/Maheu matter. According to the Chief, Security Records Division, the above official file on Johnny Rosselli, using the 667 270 file number, was not established until November 1974. Further, one such memo contained in that official Office of Security file relating to Johnny Rosselli has the original "buck slip" which forwarded that memorandum to the Director of Security. On the buck slip, which is dated June 6, 1968, the following handwritten notation from the Director of Security appears: "Kathy, Johnny file."

5. In view of the above, it would appear that a separate file did exist prior to November 1974, the contents of which would appear to have been consolidated within the above noted Office of Security files on Rosselli. Further, presuming that the heretofore missing "Project Johnny" file is now an official file, the conclusion may be drawn that all the Office of Security files relating to the Rosselli/Maheu matter have been reviewed, and that the pertinent information contained therein has been forwarded to the Inspector General for review.

6. It should be noted that in 1967 the Inspector General conducted an investigation into the Rosselli/Maheu matter, and in doing so collected numerous memoranda from the various Agency components directly involved. As a result, additional memoranda which may have been previously held separately by the Director of Security, may be in the possession of the Inspector General. As a result, additional memoranda which may have previously been held separately by the Director of Security, may be in the possession of the Inspector General. John S. Hunt Security Analysis Group.

By 1964 the Public Relations firm of Robert Maheu, whose principal - and perhaps only - client was Howard Hughes, was utilized by two CIA components despite information which Charles Kane, Deputy Director of Security, received from the Society of Former FBI Agents and despite his close association with Howard Hughes: "I also indicated to Mr. Strange that it had been rumored that Maheu had been involved with labor unions and had been involved in a case investigated by the Bureau in Las Vegas. During the conversation I reiterated that the above information was rumored but that it might have an effect on the utilization of the Maheu organization. Mr. Strange indicated that he had also heard these rumors but that he did not feel that this would effect the utilization of the Maheu organization." [Memo for DD/S (IOS) 7.22.64]

HUNT AND MAHEU

June 16, 1966

MEMORANDUM FOR: Director of Security

SUBJECT: Call from Birch O'Neal

1. Birch O'Neal indicated that Mr. HUNT had asked him to check the Counter Intelligence Staff files to see if they had anything on Bob Maheu. He advised that he had completed his search and there was no information in Counter Intelligence files that we did not already have in Office of Security files. Charles W. Kane, Deputy Director of Security.

On July 14, 1968 ID/1 received a request for a "Covert Security Approval to permit utilization of (Deleted) in connection with the latter's employment with Robert A. Maheu and associates. In view of DDP policy as set forth in CSI-50-10 regarding use of employees of US private detective investigative agencies, the use of (Deleted) was discussed with Central Cover Staff; the writer was assured that the firm Robert A. Maheu Associates, which the Agency is using for cover purposes, is no longer associated with investigative or security activities. (See Central Cover Staff memorandum for the record dated July 30, 1968).

However, it appears that Robert A. Maheu does in fact own, or is a co-owner of the Bel Air Patrol which is one of the organizations that is currently establishing security services for Howard Hughes. (See LAFO RUC dated July 29, 1968. Subject: (Deleted) #517 843 and the above cited Central Cover Staff memorandum). This matter is being brought to your attention because of the possible interpretation that the use of Robert A. Maheu and Associates conflicts with CSI 50-10, and that the undersigned believes that the matter should be reviewed for that reason prior to ID/1's processing of the Covert Security Approval request on Peter Maheu and (Deleted).

Central Cover Staff does take the position that the use of Robert A. Maheu and Associates does not conflict with CSI 50-10 in as much as the firm is now solely engaged in public relations activities; they believe that Robert A. Maheu's ownership or interest in the organizations currently providing security and investigative services to Howard Hughes is irrelevant. The undersigned agrees with this position. Ervan E. Kuhnke Jr. Acting Chief, ID/1.

On February 14, 1969, an unnamed component requested a Provisional Operational Approval on Robert Maheu's son, Peter Maheu, a former CIA Office of Security clerical employee. The CIA: "Subject's son Peter Robert Maheu was a staff employee of the Agency and of this Office from 1963 to 1964. He was a clerical employee. In February of 1969 Peter Maheu was granted a covert security approval as an employee of Maheu Associates for use on PROJECT QKENCHANT."

When Jack Anderson exposed Robert Maheu's connection to the Fidel Castro murder plots on January 18, 1971, the Chief, Western Hemisphere Division/Cuban Operations Group requested an investigation. On March 19, 1971, this document was generated:

SUBJECT: Maheu, Robert A.
FILE No. 111 540
BEFORE ANY ACTION WHATSOEVER IS TAKEN REGARDING THE SUBJECT OF THIS FILE CONTACT:
Howard J. Osborn D/Security
Ermal P. Geiss DD/Security
Arthur C. Sheridan DDS (IOS)
James P. O'Connell DDS (PTOS) [NARA 1993.07.21.06:43:40:430140]

In January 1971, in light of the involvement of Maheu in a suit between executives of the Hughes Company and Maheu, the Director of Security recommended to the DCI that all existing clearance with Maheu and Associates be terminated. The DCI concurred in this recommendation. Files of this Office reflect that Subject's company, Maheu and Associates, cooperated with the Agency in supporting the activities of (Deleted) GLOBE agent (deleted) in Equador. Information regarding the possibility that Subject was involved in a leak of information concerning a sensitive DD/S&T Special Projects Staff project is set forth in Attachment C.

INTERTEL

Resorts International, a company that owned the Paradise Island casino in Nassau, reportedly put up two millions dollars to establish the International Intelligence Corporation (INTERTEL) security firm in Washington which was headed by former Justice Department experts on organized crime William Hundley and Robert Peloquin. INTERTEL was described as an organization that looked into the operations of large corporations to ascertain whether any of their assets were being directed towards activities controlled by organized crime. Three major accounts of that firm were Life Magazine, the National Football League and Resorts International. Resorts International owned 91% of INTERTEL'S stock. In the mid-1960's Eddie Cellini managed the Paradise Island casino where William Hundley and Robert Peloquin were in charge of casino security. [They Call it a Game - Bernie Parish - 1971] In March 1971 INTERTEL began an investigation of Robert Maheu Associates, before taking over its operations. INTERTEL had been engaged by Howard Hughes to look into his Las Vegas operations which was formerly managed by Maheu.

The CIA asked INTERTEL investigator Edward Mullin, who was formerly employed in the FBI, and CIA DDP, to report back to it on the investigation of Robert Maheu Associates. The CIA:

Officers in this organization who know and have dealt with Mr. Mullin vouch for the honesty of Mr. Mullin's willingness to do what he can to prevent unnecessary exposure of CIA's interests. Although he been described by Agency staffers who know him as 'not a mental giant' they believe he will cooperate even to the extent of advising us of the results of his investigations where our vital interests are concerned. It should also be considered that Mr. Maheu is currently under investigation in Las Vegas and we have no way of knowing what connection with CIA may be disclosed by a search of Robert A. Maheu Associates files. It would be highly desirable to have someone in Intertel on the alert for matters of concern to CIA which might be developed by the broad investigation of Robert Maheu Associates currently under way. It is my proposal after consultation with Mr. James P. O'Connell, DD/PTOS, that Mr. Mullin be briefed on the cover relationship between Robert A. Maheu Associates and (Deleted as of 2010) and (Deleted as of 2010) role in the removal of the (Deleted as of 2010). The briefing would be done by Mr. Connell and a member of my staff. Naturally, nothing of an operational nature will be revealed to Mr. Mullin. Erich W. Isenstead, Chief, Central Cover Staff. [3.25.71]

The CIA reported that "One of the things that concerns Mullin is that in perusing the material, they have noted that several of the records are missing. They want to be sure that if Maheu states that these particular records were purged from the files because they pertain to sensitive Government operations, this is actually the case and not a subterfuge to withhold pertinent information which could be used in the forthcoming law suit involving Hughes and Maheu."

Other members of the Castro assassination team included: Chief/Office of Security, Sheffield Edwards; Deputy Director / Plans, Richard Bissell and Chief / Western Hemisphere Division Colonel J.C. King. Richard Bissell told the HSCA he would not have become involved in the early assassination operations without personal authorization of then-Director Allen Dulles. He claimed: "If Dulles told me not to become involved in such a thing, I know for sure I wouldn't. You can't disobey the Director." This operation had been approved by the Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, Allen Dulles, and a May 14, 1962 CIA Memo reflected that $150,000 was allocated for it.

Senator Walter Mondale (Dem.-Montana), who uncovered the existence of the assassination group, claimed it that "petered out" in 1963. In 1975 William Harvey testified that he and then-Deputy Director/Plans Richard Helms had concealed the existence of the assassination plots from CIA Director John McCone.

THE ORIGINS OF THE BAY OF PIGS INVASION FIDEL CASTRO AND UNITED FRUIT

In December 1959 the newspaper of Fidel Castro, Revolucion, stated United Fruit was protecting anti-Castro plotters in Guatemala and Honduras and was helping them get airplanes, boats and arms. [NYT 12.29.59] In early 1960 Fidel Castro threatened the United Fruit Company. He repeatedly pointed out that United Fruit owned vast amounts of Cuban land, "While hundreds and thousands of peasants owned nothing." Soon Fidel Castro would seize $58 million worth of the Cuban assets of United Fruit. [Szulc, Tad Cuban Invasion p47; DuBois Castro p11] On March 17, 1960, President Dwight D. Eisenhower signed a National Security Council recommendation to arm and train Cuban exiles to overthrow Fidel Castro. At that time the National Security Council included Eisenhower, NIXON, Christian Herter and Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates, a Director of Nelson Rockefeller's International Basic Economy Corporation. Because of this directive, Allen Dulles, (who had been the Director of the Central Intelligence Agency after Arbenz was deposed and still held that post in 1960), ordered his Deputy Director, General Charles Pearre Cabell, to reactivate the team which had overthrown Arbenz in 1954. Charles Cabell was a West Point graduate, four-star Air Force General and former head of Air Force intelligence who came to the CIA in 1953, where he became an intelligence advisor to General Douglas MacArthur. In April 1953 Charles Cabell became a Deputy Director of the CIA. Charles Cabell was from Dallas, where his brother Earle Cabell would become Mayor. [HSCA V4 p153] Allen Dulles believed that the Arbenz operation had not raised the specter of massive American intervention in Latin America affairs, and was committed to overthrowing Fidel Castro in a like manner. General Charles Cabell activated Frank Wisner's successor, Deputy Director/Plans Richard Bissell, who activated his Assistant Deputy Director/Plans, Tracy Barnes. General Lyman Lemnitzer was included in the early planning of the Bay of Pigs. In 1961 Lyman Lemnitzer became head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and played an important role in the invasion.

MARIO ZUNIGA AND THE FIRST STRIKE

The Bay of Pigs began on April 15, 1961, when a B-26 bomber took off from an airfield at Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua. Authors Thomas Ross and David Wise elaborated:

The tall, 35-year-old Cuban exile pilot sat alone in the cockpit of the big bomber...On the nose of his plane the number 933 had been painted in black letters. On the tail, the letters F-A-R - the markings of Fidel Castro's Air Force. But Mario Zuniga was not a Castro pilot. He was flying on an extraordinary Top Secret CIA mission.

As part of the propaganda campaign against Castro, Mario Zuniga was slated to land at Miami Airport, then claim he was a Cuban Air Force defector who had joined with other defectors, and carried out an air strike against Fidel Castro. There was to be an air strike, but it would not be carried out by defecting pilots. A few hours after Mario Zuniga took off, eight B-26s headed to Cuba from Nicaragua, each with a payload of bombs. When Mario Zuniga landed in Miami, he cut his right engine as if it had been put out of action by gunfire. Photographers were allowed to take pictures of his bullet-pocked aircraft. Mario Zuniga read the pre-written statement prepared by HUNT and PHILLIPS: "I am one of 12 B-26 pilots who remained in the Castro Air Force after the defection of Pedro Diaz Lanz. My comrades and I had broken off earlier, to hit airfields that we agreed they would strike. On the way out, I was hit by some small arms fire..." Miro Cardona of the Cuban Revolutionary Council issued this statement: "The defections came as no surprise, because the Cuban Revolutionary Council has been in contact with, and encouraged, these brave pilots." The Cuban Ambassador to the United Nations, Raoul Roa, gravely protested the latest CIA violation of Cuba's sovereignty: "The statement of Miro Cardona that he had been in touch with those who did the bombing was a violation of United States Neutrality Laws." Tracy Barnes had briefed U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson about the invasion. Ambassador Stevenson accepted the cover story given to him by Tracy Barnes at face value, and was unaware that the attacks on Castro's airfields had been conducted by the Agency-sponsored Brigade. Ambassador Stevenson:

No United States personnel participated. No United States Government airplanes of any kind participated. The two planes, to the best of our knowledge, were Castro's own Air Force planes, and according to the pilots, they took off from Castro's own Air Force fields. These pilots have apparently defected from Castro's tyranny. I have here a picture of one of these planes. It has the markings of the Castro Air Force right on the tail, which everyone can see for himself.

Ambassador Stevenson went on to read Mario Zuniga's statement. The next morning, many papers ran the Associated Press lead out of Havana, Cuba: "April 15, 1961. Pilots of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Air Force revolted today and attacked three of the Castro regime's key air bases with bombs and rockets." Tad Szulc's story in The New York Times questioned how the Cuban Revolutionary Council had advance knowledge of the fliers' defection, since the pilot who landed in Miami described their escape as hasty. There were other unanticipated problems with the HUNT/PHILLIPS cover story. The B-26 which landed was the wrong model for the Cuban Air Force. When Mario Zuniga appeared on television, his wife called a wire service and asked, "What's my husband doing on T.V.?" A Miami reporter saw the bullet holes, but noted that dust and grease covered the bomb-bay fittings, and that the plane's guns did not seem to have been fired. The cover story was becoming transparent. Thanks to HUNT and PHILLIPS, the Bay of Pigs invasion was off to a bad start.

THE SECOND AIR STRIKE

Richard Bissell was encouraged by the partial success of the April 15, 1961, raid. Nine B-26s had left Nicaragua: one was shot down, three landed in the United States and Grand Cayman, and five returned to base. The next phase of the Bay of Pigs script called for the destruction of Fidel Castro's Air Force on the ground by another Cuban exile air strike. This second strike was scheduled to take place at dawn on Monday, April 17, 1961, as the 1,400-man exile invasion force fought its way to shore. Without bombing and strafing of Castro's troops there was no way a 1,400 man Army could defeat Castro's forces. The invasion, which was to supposedly coincide with an internal uprising, was meant to establish a beachhead, after which the exile government would call for help from the Organization of American States. President Kennedy insisted that no Americans be involved in the actual invasion.

The Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, Allen Dulles, was in Puerto Rico during the Bay of Pigs. Months before, he had accepted a speaking engagement there, and he believed its cancellation might have alerted Castro to the invasion date. With Allen Dulles in Puerto Rico, General Charles Cabell became Acting Director. En route home from a morning of golf, Charles Cabell decided to check on the progress of the invasion. HUNT related: "It was this chance decision that was to affect the destinies of men and nations from that moment on." When Charles Cabell heard about the second air strike, he reflected: "Now, seems to me we were only authorized one strike at the airfields." Charles Cabell was told there had been no restriction on the number of strikes. "Well," Charles Cabell said, "I just don't know about that. So to be on the safe side, I'm going to ask [Secretary of State] Rusk about it. Meanwhile, someone call Richard Bissell and get him in here. Cancel that strike order until I can get someone to approve it." Charles Cabell could not reach Secretary of State Dean Rusk, because Dean Rusk was attending a meeting at the State Department. Charles Cabell and Richard Bissell went to the State Department and met with Secretary of State Dean Rusk. Dean Rusk called President Kennedy. President Kennedy refused to authorize another air strike. HUNT called Tracy Barnes and reported what happened. PHILLIPS told HUNT that General Cabell's brain must have been "addled" when he didn't authorize the strike himself. Richard Bissell and Charles Cabell persuaded Dean Rusk and President Kennedy to at least allow the planes to fly limited support missions over the beach.

On the morning of the invasion - Monday, April 17, 1961 - the Cuban Revolutionary Council, on CIA orders, issued this HUNT / PHILLIPS press release:

Before dawn Cuban patriots in the cities and in the hills began the battle to liberate our homeland from the despotic rule of Fidel Castro and rid Cuba of the cruel oppression of international Communism...

Soon, HUNT dictated this bulletin: The Cuban Revolutionary Council announces a successful landing;" then a third, which claimed,

Our partisans in every Cuban town and village will receive, in a manner known only to them, the message that will spark a tremendous wave of internal conflict against the tyrant...before dawn, the island of Cuba will rise up, en masse, in a coordinated wave of sabotage and rebellion which will sweep Communism from our country...

In 1961 HUNT won a commendation from the Chief/Western Hemisphere Division "for performance of duties with distinction in support of the mission outlined in Project JMATE." On April 17, 1961, 27 Cubans were arrested in Havana and charged with having plotted to assassinate Fidel Castro. Partially because of this, there was no internal uprising, and no one came to the aid of the invaders. The Army of Fidel Castro arrived. They made short work of the exiles, who fought with a high degree of determination, although greatly outnumbered. Manuel Artime was taken prisoner, as were over 1,000 Brigade members. PHILLIPS wrote that the staffers in the CIA war room had a visceral reaction to the episode, and began to retch and vomit.

THE CUBAN REVOLUTIONARY COUNCIL'S LAST BULLETIN

The recent landings in Cuba have been constantly, though inaccurately, described as an invasion. It was, in fact, a landing mainly of supplies and support for our patriots who have been fighting in Cuba for months...We did not expect to topple Castro immediately. [Ross & Wise Inv. Gov. p73]

HUNT recalled this version to the Rockefeller Commission:

Within twenty-four hours prior to the time that the Cuban brigade was to hit the beaches at the Bay of Pigs. President Kennedy made two critical decisions that affected the final outcome: he cancelled plans for an airstrike on Cuba which would have destroyed the six remaining combat planes that were available to Castro; second, the order that there be no air cover for the invading brigade. The result was that the invading force was chopped up while it was still in the water; the ships carrying the armored vehicles were sunk, as were the supply ships, and the troops were left abandoned on the shore. The remnant of the Cuban Air Force was entirely adequate to demolish the invasion fleet. Hunt concedes that he was bitter about the decisions made by President Kennedy, but he primarily blames Arthur Schlesinger, Adlai Stevenson and Robert Kennedy for advising the President to follow the course he chose. He particularly feels that the Cubans had been recruited with certain promises and that those promises were withdrawn at the last minute. Hunt says, in fact, that the decision not to make the air strike and not to provide air cover was made after the invasion fleet had arrived at the point of no return, i.e., when radio communication to the invasion fleet had already terminated for security reasons.

THE AFTERMATH OF THE BAY OF PIGS INVASION

In January 1962 President Kennedy retired the CIA officials involved in the Bay of Pigs, including Richard Bissell, Charles Cabell and Allen Dulles, who was forced into retirement. Allen Dulles died on January 31, 1969. John McCone of Standard Oil and Bechtel became the Director of the Central Intelligence Agency. Richard Helms became Deputy Director (Plans) as a result of his having kept his name out of the Bay of Pigs CIA documents. General Charles Cabell went to work as a member of the board of the Pacific Corporation, the parent company of Air America, the CIA-run air carrier. General Charles Cabell (born October 11, 1903) collapsed and died after a physical examination at Fort Meyers in April 1971; his brother, Earle Cabell, (born October 27, 1906), died in September 1975 of natural causes. In Undercover, HUNT described Charles Cabell as a "short, rather aggressive man, who came to the CIA with no prior background in covert intelligence, much less in propaganda or political action operations." [p93] In Give Us This Day, he blamed Charles Cabell for the outcome of the Bay Of Pigs invasion: "If only Cabell hadn't come mousing around."

In 1962 [the FBI w/h the exact date of this document] the FBI reported that Jose Ignacio Lasaga prepared a document which accused the United States government of President John F. Kennedy for following a policy of peaceful coexistence with Cuba.

On April 26, 1962 Jose Fernandez Badue, head of the Christian Democratic Movement advised that he is the head of that organization and a member of the Cuban Revolutionary Council. Fernandez said that he had seen a copy of the document prepared by Lasaga which would be submitted to the Revolutionary Council on the following day. Fernandez said this document accuses the United States government of President Kennedy for following a policy of peaceful co-existence with Cuba. This policy is the same as that expounded by the government of the USSR and that this policy should be severely criticized by Americans and Cuban exiles alike. Fernandez said such a document, if accepted and approved by the Revolutionary Council, would cause the United States government to withdraw its support from the Revolutionary Council and cease to recognize the Council as the voice of the Cuban exiles in the United States. Fernandez said there is no chance the Council would accept this document or approve it inasmuch as the United States is the only country that is helping the Cuban exiles and the only country interested in the defeat of Communism.

Fernandez advised that they attended a meeting of the Cuban Revolutionary Council on the previous day, where Jose Lasaga, Nino Diaz and Cesar Baro, three leading members of the MRR, introduced a document for acceptance by the Revolutionary Council. This document claimed that Richard N. Goodwin of the United States State Department and certain other officials in the State Department had accepted a Communist policy of peaceful coexistence with Communist Cuba. This document was voted against acceptance by all members of the Council except Lasaga, Diaz and Baro. [FBI 94-4133-45]

Lasaga resigned from the Cuban Revolutionary Council on April 29, 1962.

THE CUBAN MISSILE CRISIS AND THE NO-INVASION PLEDGE

THE GUNS OF OCTOBER 1962

Fidel Castro, fearing another invasion of Cuba, had armed Cuba with Soviet missiles capable of carrying atomic warheads. The United States discovered the secret missile sights 90 miles off-shore and, outraged, issued an ultimatum for the removal of the missiles. A Cuban naval blockade was planned for October 24, 1962, and a nuclear confrontation was imminent. The crisis ended when the Soviet Union agreed to withdraw the offensive missiles from Cuba. In return, President Kennedy gave the Soviets and Cubans a no-invasion pledge. President Kennedy agreed to curtail the activities of the Cuban exile organizations. HUNT believed the Soviets had "gained a great deal for very little." STURGIS was asked:

Q. Did you feel that the Russians and President Kennedy had come together to make a deal to curtail these anti-Castro activities?

a. Yes, I felt that Russia and the United States made a deal.

Gaeton Fonzi wrote:

If the actions of President John F. Kennedy at the Bay of Pigs first raised doubts in the minds of Cuban exiles about the sincerity of the President and his determination to bring about the fall of Fidel Castro, his handling of the missile crisis confirmed those doubts. President Kennedy's agreement with Khrushchev was termed a violation of the pledge he had made three days after the Bay of Pigs invasion that the United States would never abandon Cuba to Communism. The bitterness of the anti-Castro exiles was exacerbated by the actions of the U.S. Government to implement the President's 'no invasion' pledge. Suddenly, there was a crackdown on the very training camps and guerrilla bases that had been originally established and funded by the United States, and the exile raids - which once had the Government's 'green light' - were now disavowed and condemned. The feeling of betrayal by the Cuban exiles was given reinforcement by prominent sympathizers outside their community... NIXON urged an end to what he called the 'quarantine' of Cuban exiles.

An undated document that originated with the CIA: "Subjects: Handwritten notes under heading 'General' Subject: Assassination; 'No-Invasion Pledge' CIA. Author unknown - date and place unknown." The text of the document:

General

-- Extent to which CIA picks up on loose language.

-- To what extent was the assassination fork contemplated, discussed etc?

Would "no-invasion pledge" leave U.S. in a position where assassination is a viable alternative because overt sabotage / invasion is estopped?

Extent of expectation by SG (a) that CIA will report in detail on any covert ass against Castro? E.G. any assassination planning would require reporting? [SSCIA 157-10007-10312]

During his deposition in HUNT v. WEBERMAN, HUNT made a vague reference to a secret agreement: "Well, I can speculate that the alleged Kennedy-Khrushchev agreements, if they ever existed, might be detrimental at this phase in the American policy; but, then, nobody seems to know if it was undertaken, or who was made to pay for it, Other than that, I know nothing."

ASSUMPTIONS:

A. The United States Government will give public assurances that, provided no nuclear or offensive weapons are present or re-introduced into Cuba, and provided Cuba does not take action to threaten the peace and security of the Western Hemisphere the United States does not intend to invade Cuba or support and invasion of Cuba.

B. Those assurances will preclude any meaningful CIA action on a phased basis to provoke a revolt inside Cuba, since unless there are major changes in operational and internal conditions In Cuba, such a revolt if provoked would be totally destroyed by Cuban counteraction in a matter of hours or, at the most, a few-days unless supported by a major United States Military commitment. In addition, the non-invasion assurances as a practical matter will preclude invading Cuba on the pretext of a contrived provocation such as an attack on Guantanamo.

C. CIA operations involving a high noise level and a distinct element of attributability, particularly paramilitary, guerrilla, and commando type operations will be unacceptable as a matter of policy.

D. The Castro-communist regime will remain in power for the indefinite future with its security and control apparatus relatively intact and with the capability not only of crushing unsupported resistance activity, but of ranking operational conditions in Cuba increasingly difficult. While it is possible that recent and future developments including the Soviet action in removing the offensive weapons from Cuba may serve to weaken and discredit Castro, there is as yet no hard indication that the control of the Castro-communist regime over Cuba has been substantially weakened.

E. The United States assurances of no invasion and no support of an invasion will, in effect, constitute giving Castro and his regime a certain degree of sanctuary. This will severely damage the morale and motivation of anti-regime Cubans both inside and outside of Cuba, which will make it increasingly difficult for us to recruit agents, maintain agents already recruited, and continue or intensify our intelligence and other efforts against Cuba and the Castro-communist regime.

F. Despite the above factor Higher Authority probably will continue heavy pressure on the CIA for a maximum effort against Cuba and may even continue to contend that the ultimate objective in the overthrow of the Castro-communist regime. This is an unrealistic objective, however, except on a very long-term basis as the United States Government, we believe, will be unwilling in the immediate future to commit troops to support such an overthrow. The United States Government in its overt dealings with the Cuban exiles probably will not express the above factors to them in the context or with the bluntness stated above.

In December 1962 the Bay of Pigs Brigade prisoners were released in return for a $53 million ransom in medical supplies. The final formation of Brigade 2506 took place at the Orange Bowl Stadium in Miami on December 29, 1962. President Kennedy was there to welcome back the surviving members, who had spent almost 20 months in the prisons of Fidel Castro. The President accepted the Brigade's flag and declared: "I assure you this flag will be returned to this Brigade in a free Havana." Gaeton Fonzi: "HUNT, once assigned liaison duties with the Brigade, claimed later that the Brigade feeling against Kennedy was so great that the presentation of the flag nearly did not take place."

Circa July 21, 1963, Anastasio Somoza (Tachito Jr.) visited Miami and spoke to Pedro Diaz Lanz and others. Anastasio Somoza told the Cuban exiles he wanted to support and direct them and he "planned something big." According to Anastasio Somoza, the Central American countries would fall to communism within five years. [Miami Herald 7.14.63] HEMMING told this researcher:

Somoza opened conversations with all of the nine action groups and their leaders and also held meetings with a limited number of exiled political leaders. Somoza offered the use of Nicaragua as a sanctuary, site for training camps, and a jumping off point for future raids and other operations against Cuba. Miami newspaper headlines announced that ex-Bay of Pigs Brigade leader, Manuel Artime, has decided to move his headquarters to Central America, ostensibly Nicaragua.

[Ltr. To Lester Logue, 628 Meadows Building Dallas 6, Texas for HEMMING 2450 N.W. North River Drive, Miami 35, Florida 8.13.63] The FBI reported:

On October 12, 1963 Santiago Alvarez Rodriguez advised that he is head of Commandos L, an anti-Castro organization, which has conducted raids against Cuba in the past. Santiago advised that he conferred with Luis Somoza in Miami in July 1963. Somoza went to Washington returned to Miami and they again conferred. Alvarez said when Somoza first went to Washington in July 1963, he claimed he had presented a plan for the liberation of Cuba to President John F. Kennedy, who seemed interested and sent Somoza to confer with officials at the Pentagon, CIA, and State Department. Then President Kennedy left on a trip to Europe. Military officials at the Pentagon and civilian officials at the CIA allegedly approved Somoza's plan but the State Department rejected it. When President Kennedy returned to the United States from his European trip, Somoza again visited Washington, but President Kennedy refused to see him. Alvarez was told by Somoza that the United States government was interested in his plan with some modifications and conditions, one condition being that Artime would be the military leader. Alvarez said that since President Kennedy refused to see Somoza, his plan never materialized. [FBI 97-4133-78 11.5.63]

Before the visit of President John F. Kennedy to Miami on Monday, November 18, 1963, the Secret Service learned from a confidential source that "Pedro Diaz Lanz, a Cuban political extremist, might attempt to approach the President to embarrass him publicly. Pedro Diaz Lanz attacked President Kennedy verbally at a Cuban rally in New York on November 3, 1963." The Secret Service ordered Pedro Diaz Lanz put under surveillance beginning Friday, November 15, 1963. Through Miami Immigration and Naturalization Service intelligence officer Charles Yaeger, "arrangements were (telephonically) made to have Pedro Diaz-Lanz report for an interview by that Agency [Immigration and Naturalization Service] during the time the President was in Miami. Mr. Yaeger subsequently confirmed that when Pedro Diaz-Lanz was requested to report to their office for an interview on Monday, November 18, 1963, he informed them that he was leaving for New York City on the morning of Monday, November 18, 1963." [Ernesto Aragon 12.30.63 File 2320, Miami] Miami television Newsman Vic Walters interviewed Pedro Diaz Lanz about this telephone call. Pedro Diaz Lanz neither remembered any phone call from the Immigration and Naturalization Service, nor any appointment or trip to New York City. As for his whereabouts on November 22, 1963, he was lecturing in front of a Woman's Club in Wichita, Kansas. Newspaper accounts supported Pedro Diaz Lanz, who appeared as a replacement for Alexander Rorke. [Wichita Eagle 11.22.63]

ORLANDO BOSCH AND MANUEL ARTIME

A United States Secret Service document on President John F. Kennedy's visit to Miami noted that Orlando Bosch was interviewed about a demonstration he was planning against the President: "From a confidential source of this office, information was received that Orlando Bosch was planning to picket the President by using widows of Cuban Freedom Fighters dressed in black. Orlando Bosch was interviewed about this report at his home, at which time he was told that he would be personally held responsible for any adverse incident." [USSS Field Force File, Miami, Florida (2326) 1-16--602.111 Aragon/Rowley 12.30.63 - Rowley dead 11.2.92 at 84] The United States Secret Service also received word that two former members of the Bay of Pigs Brigade were planning to ask President John F. Kennedy to return the Brigade flag that he had been presented in December. An article in the Miami Herald reported that Manuel Artime planned to demonstrate as well.

PAULINE VIRGINIA BATES: JUNE 1962

On June 18, 1962, OSWALD visited the office of Pauline Virginia Bates. Pauline Virginia Bates (born January 11, 1922; died October 7, 1978) was a public legal stenographer, from Forest Grove, Oregon. In an interview with Caroline Hamilton of The Fort Worth Press, Pauline Virginia Bates recalled her encounters with OSWALD:

LEE OSWALD wanted the world to think he'd gone to Russia 'on a job' for the State Department. He left that impression with Miss Pauline Bates. He did it by evasiveness. 'When the State Department granted my visa,' OSWALD told her, 'they stipulated they could not stand behind me in any way.' OSWALD went to see Miss Bates on June 18, 1962. He had in his hand a manila envelope full of notes condemning a criticizing life in Russia. LEE OSWALD had found the Soviet Union no utopia. Or so he said. 'I saw your name in the telephone book' he said 'Can you do some typing for me? Notes I made in Russia of conditions there.' In his manila envelope he had several sheaves of papers, stapled together in sequences, on different Russian cities. The first was Minsk. The second was Kiev. The papers were all sizes and shapes some snips like strips pulled from envelopes, some full sheets, some heavy brown wrapping paper. The notes were handwritten in pen and pencil and then typed. 'I'll have to change the names when my book is published.' He never said he was a U.S. secret agent either but he gave that impression. And the impression raised questions in Mrs. Bates' mind. Why would a secret agent have a public stenographer type his notes? Why was he short of money? Why couldn't he find a job? Why did he leave the impression he was a secret agent. She never found out. But she thought about it again after November 22, 1963. And she still doesn't know.

PETER PAUL GREGORY

Pauline Virginia Bates stated that OSWALD told her that a Dallas engineer named Peter Gregory was interested in publishing his manuscript. On June 19, 1962, OSWALD called Peter Paul Gregory, a petroleum engineer born January 25, 1929, in Siberia, who taught Russian at the Fort Worth public library. Peter Paul Gregory became OSWALD'S entré into White Russian exile community in Dallas. The White Russians came to the United States as a result of the civil war that erupted after the Bolshevik revolution of 1917. In order to aid the anti-Bolshevik forces, the Allied Expeditionary Force (which included the U.S.) invaded Russia and set up the geo-political area, White Russia, which was any area that was not controlled by Red (Communist) Russia. White Russian meant anti-Communist Russian. In August 1965 Peter Paul Gregory was hired by the CIA to work for its Joint Press Reading Service. [NARA 1993.07.20.15:10:32:710600] Peter Paul Gregory denied that he was the petroleum engineer who offered to publish OSWALD'S book.

PAULINE BATES: WARREN COMMISSION TESTIMONY

OSWALD walked into my office one day, said he had gotten my name out of the telephone directory. It so happens it's the first one in the public stenographers...He just walked in. It's not uncommon for people to walk in and say, "Miss Bates can you type something for me?" And I said, "Yes, I could, what was it?" ...then he told me he was LEE OSWALD. He said, "First, I want to find out what your prices are and see if I can afford it." He wanted a professional typing job done on his notes, and explained: "Some of them are typed on a little portable, some of 'em are handwritten in ink, some of 'em are in pencil." [I was] anxious to get on with it. He had just come back from Russia and had notes, I would like to have seen them. And he didn't look like he had - he looked like a High School kid to me when he first came in. I thought he was just a kid...And he said he had just gotten out of the Marine Corps and taken elementary Russian...while he was in the Marine Corps.[Pauline Virginia Bates typed OSWALD'S notes and found they were] very bitter against Russia...They were all done in Russia. And he smuggled them out of Russia. And he said that the whole time, until they were over the border, they were scared to death they would be found, and of course, they would not be allowed to leave Russia...He never once mentioned the word 'Communist'...He just said "the Party."He came up and he was quite nervous. The other two days, he'd sit right there at my desk and - uh - if I needed to ask him anything, why I would. But this day he was walking up and down looking over my shoulder and wanting to know where I was - and finally I finished the 10th page. He said "Now Pauline, you told me what your charges were. This is eight hours and you've worked ten pages. I have $10 and no more money. I can't let you go on."

When Pauline Bates testified before the Warren Commission, Counsel Albert Jenner asked her about Caroline Hamilton's article:

Jenner: Is that story accurate as you related it to her?"

Bates: That's right.

Jenner: Is there anything in that story that you would like to amend or correct.

Bates: No sir. It was read to me before it was ever printed twice. And we did it so very carefully to make it all -- so we wouldn't get the past and present mixed up. We kept it to the three days.

Jenner: Do you recall being interviewed by the FBI on December 2, 1963?

Bates: They came to my home on a Saturday after the story broke.

Jenner: Do you recall saying to the FBI men who interviewed you that the story was accurate --

Bates: Yes, sir. Gave them a copy of it.

Jenner: In every detail with one exception -- which was that OSWALD never stated that he was working for the U.S. State Department.

Bates: Well that is not in the story.

Jenner: Tell me about that.

Bates: That was what the radio and television was trying to put words in my mouth at that time. And uh - I don't know how many times I had to call and tell them to retract that. I never stated that. I stated that he first said he went to Russia and had gotten a visa that I thought - it was just a thought - that maybe he was going over there under the auspices of the State Department. As a student or something. From that they got that he was a secret agent for the -

Nonetheless, Pauline Virginia Bates told Albert Jenner substantially the same information she told Caroline Hamilton:

[OSWALD] had wanted to travel, and so he applied to the State Department for a visa. And I asked him if he was an exchange student - if he went over as an exchange student. Sometimes - I don't know, I was kind of ignorant about things like that. He said 'No,' that the State Department finally agreed to let him go over, but they would not be responsible for him; he was granted a visa to go over there but the State Department refused to stand behind him in case he got into trouble or anything.

PLAUSIBLE DENIABILITY

What visa had OSWALD referred to? The State Department could not have issued a Soviet visa - only the Soviet Union could do that. How could the State Department have refused to stand behind OSWALD after issuing him a visa? OSWALD chose to be deliberately oblique since he made reference to the CIA's doctrine of plausible deniability. When the CIA structured an operation, it did it so in such a way that were anyone apprehended, there would never be enough evidence to link him/her to the CIA. The CIA could then issue a plausible denial of any CIA-connection. In other words, if for any reason OSWALD were exposed as a CIA agent in Russia, ANGLETON would claim to have no knowledge of him, and not a shred of evidence to the contrary would exist. Pauline Virginia Bates wondered why a State Department undercover agent would hire a free-lance stenographer to type up his notes. Why was he short of money? Poverty was part of OSWALD'S cover. OSWALD was very secretive and never left Pauline Virginia Bates alone with the notes. He brought them when he came, took them when he left, and carried off the carbon paper. On June 20, 1962, OSWALD ended his relationship with Pauline Virginia Bates.

PARTIAL CONTENTS OF ONE OF THE MANUSCRIPTS

When elections are initiated in the USSR, or formulated, a whole huge mechanical apparatus is started, not only to ensure victory but to safeguard the state from any voice of dissent, either in abstention or opposition. All possible voters (that is from the age of 16 up) are registered well beforehand by "agitators" who go round to every door in their district getting names and notifying all voters of their duty to the motherland in voting, in the case of the elections held throughout the Soviet Union as on March 18, 1962 to "elect" the Supreme Soviet, including Khrushchev, the people Soviet (house of representatives) and the Soviet of Nationalities. The agitator came on January 24, 1962, and February 20, 1962, on Election day all voters go to the polls, usually a school, and vote. They are given a ballot which they immediately drop in a box. On the ballot is the single name of the candidate for each post. That's all anybody ever does to vote. This system assures a 99% turnout and a predetermined victory. In each polling place there is a booth for secret balloting (crossing out the candidate and writing in your own) Under Soviet law anyone can do this, nobody does for the obvious reason that anyone who enters the booth may be identified. There is a Soviet joke about the floor dropping out from anyone stepping into the booth. But the fact is that if the entire population used the polling booth they could beat the system, however, years of mass discipline and fear have made the people afraid to attempt any such demonstration.

THE DISHONORABLE DISCHARGE

As soon as OSWALD returned to the United States he recommenced his efforts to have his dishonorable discharge changed back to an honorable one. On June 19, 1962, OSWALD contacted the Navy Discharge Review Board in Washington, D.C.

In this case there is no question as to service, which, as the Naval records show, was of a strictly honorable nature. This case is a question of loyalty revolving around out of residence in the Soviet Union. In requesting a review of this case, I can show; I had not violated any laws or regulations pertaining to my prolonged residence abroad and that I am a loyal U.S. citizen...This board was given to consider whether I had gone to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics with the object of becoming a permanent citizen of that country. Since I was not in the United States at the time of the convening of the board and since I was completely unable to communicate with anyone in the outside world through the Iron Curtain, this board found against me...Since there is no other possible way to present my case, in consideration of the nature of the charge which was brought against me, I would like to include a request for reenlistment regardless of the findings of the board. In accordance with par. 15 (e) (5) I request that the Board consider my sincere desire to use my former training at the aviation fundamentals school, Jacksonville, Florida, and Radar operators school, Biloxi, Miss., as well as special knowledge I have accumulated through my experience since my release from active duty, in the Naval service.

What special knowledge had he acquired in Russia that could have helped the U.S. Navy? [WCE 2661] Was OSWALD offering the Navy information on the Soviet military? If so, where had he obtained this information? John Connally received a letter from OSWALD that protested the downgrading of OSWALD'S Marine Discharge. John Connally was Secretary of the Navy while OSWALD was a Marine, but had been replaced by Fred Korth, whose name was in OSWALD'S address book. Senator John Tower also received a letter from OSWALD about his discharge. The State Department forwarded four of OSWALD'S letters to Senator John Tower in order that he could familiarize himself with the case. [DOS Serial 0122, 1.26.62] In the late 1980's John Tower headed a Reagan-appointed Commission to investigate the Iran/Contra scandal which involved the CIA and anti-Sandinista Nicaraguans. On April 6, 1991, Senator Tower was killed in a plane crash in Brunswick, Georgia, along with 22 others. Tapes of communication between the aircraft and the controllers at Jacksonville were all normal. The plane was completely demolished and an investigation of the wreckage of the plane was begun. The Senate had recently refused to approve Tower as Secretary of Defense, because of consultancy fees he had received from arms manufactures while he was in the private sector. Tower was head President Bush's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board.

JOHN W. FAIN INTERVIEWS OSWALD

On June 26, 1962, 13 days after returning to the United States, OSWALD was interviewed by FBI Agent John W. Fain at the Fort Worth FBI office. He described OSWALD as cold, arrogant and uncooperative: "He denied having any involvement with Soviet intelligence agencies, but when asked if he would submit to a polygraph examination, he refused without giving a reason." Another FBI report stated:

On June 26, 1962, S.A. John W. Fain interviewed Mrs. Robert L. Oswald at Fort Worth, Texas. On June 26, 1962, S.A.S. B. Tom Brown and John W. Fain interviewed OSWALD. The attention of the Bureau is called to the fact on June 26, 1962, OSWALD was very difficult to interview. He was curt and short in many of his answers. He gave the impression of being cold and arrogant and on the whole interview was generally uncooperative. Near the end of the interview Subject was asked whether or not he would be willing to submit to a polygraph examination concerning answers given by him during the interview of June 26, 1962. Subject stated he would not be willing to take polygraph test as to whether his negative answers to the questions as to whether or not he had furnished any information to the Soviets, as to whether or not he had been recruited by the Soviet Intelligence Agents and whether or not he had made any deals with the Soviets in order to obtain permission to return to the United States. This report is classified Confidential since it contains information from other agencies which is so classified. A copy of this report is sent to ONI because of the initial interest of that agency in Subject. [NARA FBI 124-10171-10119 undated]

When the HSCA questioned FBI S.A. John W. Fain about this, he said he never asked OSWALD about a polygraph examination. "Fain is positive that he never asked OSWALD whether he was an agent for the U.S. Government, notwithstanding Robert Oswald's testimony before the Warren Commission that LEE HARVEY OSWALD said he was asked this question. He had no reason to ask him this." [HSCA R p190; WR p434; HSCA Fain interview by Genzman 6.25.78] OSWALD was afraid the polygraph would detect deception because he had been in contact with the KGB and OSWALD knew FBI Agent John W. Fain would have questioned him about the KGB: "I know your tactics; there is a similar agency in Russia. You are using the soft touch and, of course, the procedure in Russia would be quite different."

LOUV-R-PAC DIVISION OF LESLIE WELDING: JULY 1962

OSWALD was unemployed from June 10, 1962, until July 17, 1962, when he was hired by the Louv-R-Pac Division of Leslie Welding. Coincidentally, in 1961 INTERPEN member Loran Hall listed his occupation as "sheet metal worker" and INTERPEN member William Seymour worked as a welder. [FBI 105-82555-5235]

Some of the signatures on the back of the Louv-R-Pac paychecks were not OSWALD'S. The FBI Laboratory examined the endorsements and compared them against the signature on OSWALD'S passport. They did not match, although OSWALD had used his passport as identification to cash these checks, and his passport number was written on each one. The FBI stated: "Under date of December 5, 1963, the FBI

Laboratory advised that the hand printing and handwriting of LEE HARVEY OSWALD, available in Bureau files, have been searched in the National Security File without effecting an identification." [FBI DL 89-43 RPG:mja; WCD 7 p 360] The HSCA examined 63 specimens of OSWALD'S signature, but none of the signatures on the Louv-R-Pac paychecks, although their existence had been brought to the attention of the HSCA by this researcher. The HSCA chose instead to examine: "A letter dated July 13, 1962, to Leslie Welding Co. signed LEE H. OSWALD; written on part of the page from a yellow legal pad. Blue ink. Ball point pen. Location: Archives." [HSCA V8 p230]

TOM BARGAS

In a February 3, 1964, Memorandum to Files, a CIA component, presumably the Office of Security, stated: "The following notation appears on the cover of OSWALD'S address book: "Mr. Bargas 200 E.N. Vacey Louv - K P1316 (The FBI memorandum does not suggest it, but I would think that Louv - K might possibly refer to Louisville, Kentucky.) The Office of Security of the CIA came up with three spurious Bargas' from its files. [CIA 1300-479] "Bargas" was the name of OSWALD'S foreman at Louv-R-Pac, Thomas Bargas. Tom Bargas was interviewed in 1977 and asked if he saw OSWALD every day he worked there? He said: "Yeah, I did see him every day. He was a sheet metal worker, we used to make ventilators. We never had any Government contracts or anything. It was all commercial buildings. OSWALD always kept to himself - he wore the same old jacket." In May 1993 Tom Bargas said OSWALD never expressed any political opinions to him and was a good worker. "He was a general flunky - he did everything we put him to do. Because he comprehended so well, I was going to teach him to do layout work. Then he quit. No reason...He came in every day. He worked there two, three months, maybe longer. He didn't miss any days that I know of...I never miss work. We went in at 7:00 a.m. and got off at 3:30 p.m." [WCD 7; FBI DL 89-43 p360 - 1 RPG:mja - UnID; CIA 1300-479]

HOSTY STARTS HIS INVESTIGATION: JULY 1962

S.A. Hosty had conducted a supporting investigation on Marina Oswald for S.A. John Fain. S.A. James P. Hosty received a Bachelor of Science in business administration from the University of Notre Dame in June 1948; between 1948 and 1962 he was employed by the First National Bank of Chicago, and then employed by the Beechnut packing company as a salesman. He joined the FBI on January 21, 1952, and was assigned to the Louisville Division on General Investigation, then transferred to the Dallas FBI General Investigation Division until 1955, when he was assigned to the Internal Security Squad. [Hosty WC Test. P441]

S.A. Hosty:

The case on Marina Oswald was opened on a specific recommendation of this writer on July 19, 1962, at which time it was noted that she fell within the criteria of the SOBIR program (Manual of Instructions 105-R). By letter to the Bureau dated July 25, 1962, Bureau was advised on a UACB basis that in view of the pending investigation on LEE OSWALD this case would be put in a pending inactive status, to be reopened at a later date for consideration or advisable action.

The FBI document dated July 25, 1962, stated:

The case on LEE OSWALD is in pending status and he is to be re-interviewed. It is not believe any active investigation of his wife or interview of her under the SOBIR program is logical or advisable at this time. It is felt her activities can be sufficiently followed at this time in connection with the case on her husband. It is noted there are no subversive references on any member of the Subjects family, and under present circumstances she will be closely and intimately associated with them. According to INS records she is proficient presently only in the Russian language. In view of the foregoing, the case on Subject will be maintained in a pending, inactive status in the Dallas Field Division for a period of six months UACB. At the expiration of that time it will be reopened and considered for further warranted or advisable action. [FBI 105-42555-29]

James Hosty commented, "I didn't sign it to a pending inactive, Ken Howe did. The supervisor signs cases. I recommended the case be open and it was assigned pending inactive to John Fain." Hosty contacted the Immigration and Naturalization Service for information on Marina. He used this background information to prepare a report on July 19, 1962, that concluded: "Copies of this letter are being designated for Washington Field Office since Subject, according to information furnished by her husband in the interview with him on June 26, 1962, is to periodically report her whereabouts to the Russian Embassy. Should any information concerning contacts by the Subject with the Russian Embassy come to the attention of Washington Field Office, same should be promptly reported to the Bureau and Dallas." [FBI New 105-1435-I Fain Hosty]

JOHN W. FAIN INTERVIEWS OSWALD AGAIN: AUGUST 1962

On August 8, 1962, OSWALD and family moved into the Rotary Apartments. The telephone number "ED-5-0755," which turned out to be the Rotary Apartments at 1501 7th Street in Dallas, was found on a slip of paper in OSWALD'S possessions. OSWALD and family lived there until November 1962. Click HERE to see color film of OSWALD at that time. S.A. John Fain was dissatisfied with the first interview and arranged to see OSWALD again on August 16, 1962. At the outset of this interview, OSWALD invited S.A. John Fain and his partner to question him in his home, but they declined in favor of their car. He was much friendlier, and assured them he would inform them if he were approached by the KGB. He doubted this would happen since, "his employment did not involve any sensitive information." When asked why he went to live in the Soviet Union, OSWALD told the Agents it was "nobody's business." He advised that no representative of the Soviet Union, the MVD or any intelligence agent of the Soviet Union ever attempted to elicit secret information concerning the United States or its defense, from him. OSWALD denied he ever told the Soviets at any time he would make available to them information concerning his U.S. Marine Corps specialty." According to the Warren Commission, S.A. John Fain - having concluded OSWALD was not a security risk, potentially dangerous or violent - had recommended that the case be placed in a closed status. A copy of S.A. John Fain's report was sent to the CIA. On August 30, 1962, the FBI closed the OSWALD case. From August 1962 to March 1963, OSWALD was free of active FBI investigation. S.A. John Fain retired from the Bureau in October 1962 and the closed LEE OSWALD case was not reassigned.

THE WORKER

In August 1962 OSWALD sent for a subscription to The Worker, on September 28, 1962, "a source who has furnished reliable information in the past, made available photographs of the names and addresses of subscribers maintained by the Worker, an East Coast Communist newspaper."

FBI Warren Commission Exhibit Qc37 was "one photograph bearing postmark "New Orleans LA 8 JUN 1963 1 30 PM", bearing handwritten address "The Worker 23 W. 26th St. New York 10, N.Y. and handwritten return address "P. O. Box 30061 New Orleans, La." Qc38 Photographs of two-page handwritten letter to "The Worker" signed "Lee H. Oswald."

This information was sent to Dallas and initialed to file by S.A. Fain on October 22, 1962. The document contained this notation "1 verifax to Bur December 8, 1963 H." [FBI-100-10461-35] The Worker, known in the 1950's as The Daily Worker, was a Communist Party organ controlled by the Soviet Union. It received millions of dollars in illegal Soviet subsidies. Why was OSWALD still interested in Soviet-style Communism when he had expressed his disillusionment with the Soviet Union in his writing? OSWALD'S FBI case remained in a closed status despite specific orders to investigate subscribers to The Worker and despite his contact with the Soviet Embassy, Washington: OSWALD was in touch with the Soviet Embassy, Washington. He asked the Embassy to send him "any peridicals or bullitins which you may put out for the benefit of your citizens living, for a time, in the U.S.A." He inquired how he could subscribe to Pravda or Izvestia. Bells should have started going off as the FBI must have realized this guy acts out. But certain key FBI agents believed he was a CIA operation so they let Ozzie slid. HEMMING told this researcher:

OSWALD'S watched, he's checked. Because the bureaucracy over here doesn't know he's working for somebody. Because he's a deep cover operative. Ninety-nine percent of the bureaucracy, the FBI, the local police, the dog catcher, think he's just an asshole that re-defected. Now, all of a sudden, the guy is dipping his wick into paramilitary activity, intelligence activity. Our bureaucracy says, "Who the fuck is this guy?" He's barely out of the Soviet Union and he's fucking around with anti-communists. This is the kind of activity he ain't supposed to be involved in.

The FBI:

Marina was questioned concerning OSWALD'S reading habits while in Dallas, Texas. She said she had gone to the Dallas Public Library on many occasions and had brought back piles of books to their residence. She said that generally the books which he brought home to read were histories or biographies. She recalls that he read biographies of Hitler, Kennedy and Khrushchev. She is not clear in her mind as to whether he read these books in New Orleans or in Dallas. She recalls that he also read the book, Time to Live and Time to Die by Eric Maria Remarque. She recalls he read a book about Powers, the U-2 pilot. She cannot specifically recall what books he checked out of the Dallas Public Library. [Heitman & Boguslav DL 100-10461 2.25.64]

OSWALD RESIGNS FROM LOUV-R-PAC OCTOBER 8, 1962

The Secret Service reported: "OSWALD'S last two paychecks from the Leslie Welding, Fort Worth, Texas, are dated October 6, 1963, and October 13, 1963, and were mailed to him in care of Post Office Box 2915, Dallas. Under OSWALD'S endorsement on the back of these two checks appears the address 3519 Fairmount Street. These checks bear the bank stamp dates October 16, 1962, and October 22, 1962, respectively, and they were cashed at the Mercantile National Bank of Dallas." Marina Oswald and her daughter lived at this address in October 1962. On October 8, 1962, OSWALD resigned from the Louv-R-Pac division of Leslie Welding.

POST OFFICE BOX 2915

On October 9, 1962, OSWALD opened Post Office Box 2915, Dallas, Texas, using his own name and the address of Gary Taylor. Gary Taylor was the son-in-law of OSWALD'S friend, George DeMohrenschildt. When OSWALD endorsed his last two checks from Louv-R-Pac, he used the address of Gary Taylor; he never stayed there, however. The Warren Commission stated that OSWALD probably authorized "A.J. Hidell" to receive mail at this post office box. There was no proof of this. Dallas Postal Inspector Harry D. Holmes testified that the portion of the application which listed names of persons other than the applicant authorized to receive mail, in accordance with postal regulations, had been destroyed when the box was closed. On November 23, 1963, the Dallas FBI sent a cable to Headquarters, most of which is deleted as of 2010. [FBI 62-109060-49 11.23.63 highly deleted; USSS CO-2-34,030-641 p5; WR p120]

OSWALD HAS NO ADDRESS IN DALLAS

On October 15, 1962, Gary Taylor drove OSWALD to the YMCA in Dallas, where OSWALD checked in. OSWALD checked out of the YMCA on October 19, 1962, and, as stated, from October 19, 1962, to November 2, 1962, his address was a mystery to the Warren Commission. The Warren Report noted: "After OSWALD left the YMCA on October 19, 1962, he moved to a room or apartment somewhere in Dallas which has not been located. It seems likely that during that time he spent several weekends with Marina at the Hall house." [WR p720] (Marina OSWALD had moved in with Elena Hall). When OSWALD endorsed his last two checks from Louv-R-Pac, he used the address of Gary Taylor; he never stayed there, however. As stated, OSWALD'S whereabouts from October 19, 1962, to November 2, 1962, were not discoverable by the Warren Commission. He was not with Marina Oswald, who had moved out of their apartment on Mercedes Street in Fort Worth that OSWALD had rented in August 1962. With the help of Russian exile George Bouhe who had contact with the Texas Employment Commission, OSWALD was referred to the Jagger-Chiles-Stovall Photographic Company on October 11, 1962. On October 12, 1962, he began work there as a trainee. From October 9, 1962, when OSWALD listed Gary Taylor's address on his application for a Post Office Box, until October 11, 1962, OSWALD was unaccounted for.

OSWALD AND LARRY HOWARD IN THE FALL OF 1962
WITNESS: RICHARD MONROE MARGESON

On April 18, 1975, Sheriff Allen L. Capwell (NA) Wyoming County, New York, personally appeared at the Buffalo Office of the FBI and related the following information which he had obtained from Richard Monroe Margeson, DOB June 16, 1927, Rochester, New York, residing Webster Road, Wyoming County, New York, on April 14, 1975, whom Capwell has personally known for the past five years. Capwell has no reason to believe Margeson is not stable.

Margeson, while living in California, in 1962, met one LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD Jr. 6', 300 lbs., of Mexican descent. HOWARD was engaged in collecting funds to support the anti-Castro forces. HOWARD went to the Florida Keys in 1962 for six months for the purpose of training troops to invade Cuba and thereafter, in late 1962, returned to Los Angeles accompanied by Rudy Hernandez, Mexican and unsub, aka 'Slim,' no other name known, white male, 5' 6" also in his 20s. Slim and Rudy resided at the Olive Hotel, Olive Street, Los Angeles. HOWARD'S specific address unknown but he lived in East or Northeast Los Angeles.

All were employed by a Jack Casey, not further described, painting and refurnishing the old Union Temple building located behind the Los Angeles Greyhound Bus Station. This building reportedly housed the Marquade (PH) Printing Shop in the basement, which at the time was engaged in printing the original draft of Richard M. Nixon's book after he lost the Presidential election. Through these individuals Margeson met a man called 'Tex' who arrived from New Orleans in late 1962 or early 1963. Tex reportedly was a hitman and described as a white male, late 20's, 5'6" to 5' 9", slender build, 135 pounds, with former military service and a rotten disposition. Margeson said Tex visited his house on Trigg Street in East Los Angeles and furnished his name as HARVEY LEE. Tex left Los Angeles, destination unknown, after about two weeks.

Following the assassination of President Kennedy and picture of LEE HARVEY OSWALD appearing in the news media, Margeson realized that Tex and OSWALD were identical.

Margeson said HOWARD was later subpoenaed by former New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison...Margeson decided to come forth after viewing a recent T.V. documentary on the Warren Commission investigations wherein it was depicted OSWALD was in Russia while in fact OSWALD was in California. This caused Margeson to believe that a conspiracy could possibly have existed in that OSWALD may not have acted alone. Buffalo indices contain nothing identifiable with Margeson and HOWARD. Bureau is requested to assess the above information and furnish Buffalo with pertinent information to assist Buffalo with interview of Margeson in event Bureau so desires. [NARA FBI 124-10267-10007]

SHERIFF CAPWELL'S HANDWRITTEN NOTES

The FBI made a Xerox copy of Sheriff Capwell's notes of his interview with Margeson:

Moved to California 1950. Back to Wyoming, New York 1957 to 1958. Ruth Mildred Spencer Margeson wife / married in 1953 in L.A. Returned to California, 1959 worked at Recold Manufacturing refrigerators. Strike 1960 for a year. Met LARRY HOWARD at Recold working as a welder. Six foot, three hundred pound Mexican. Tex = w/m late 20's, 5' 6" or 5' 8", slender, 135 pounds, rotten person talked about killing people, assault on diamond mine and kill all (illegible) in Army but dislike authority. Invited him to dinner either on Sunday or Holiday. Slim and Rudy and LARRY reluctant. Later Tex accepted picked up in downtown L.A. Poor conversationalist. Asked him name to (illegible) 'HARVEY LEE.' acted (illegible) or (illegible). Triggs Street, East L.A. Stayed in L.A. about two weeks or more, maybe a month. Late 1962 or early 1963 then left. Late 1962 too small (100s) Wire to a printing press in a small shop. Talked with Jack Casey. Agreed to put in right size. Yes, someone else did it. Building torn down maybe November

1963 sold to city? Dick and wife opened a cigar stand...HOWARD went back to Florida once and Dallas several times - Mexico at least three times. [NARA FBI 124-10267-10008]

On May 6, 1975, William Nettles, Division #6, FBI Headquarters telephonically advised that the information supplied by Richard Monroe Margeson was ...still being evaluated through file reviews at Headquarters. According to William Nettles, as yet 'Tex' had not been identified, however, extensive investigation had previously been conducted concerning LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD mentioned in our teletype. According to Nettles, it appeared that the dates of activity mentioned in Butel were about eight to ten months off. He stated further response would be forthcoming in the near future. [FBI Buffalo 62-1827-153; NARA FBI 124-10267-10009]

The FBI searched its indices for Richard Margeson and came up with nothing. The FBI searched its indices for 'Tex' and came up with numerous non identifiable references. It searched for LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD Jr. and found he was mentioned in FBI 89-69-3662, 3663, 3666, 3768, 3774 p. 4, 3675, 3797; FBI 89-69-3798 p2, 3883p3, 3892; FBI 173-944-28A p2; FBI 123-393-3p8; FBI 157-12990. The FBI searched its indices on Sylvia Odio, William Houston Seymour [FBI 89-69-1797, 1809p2, 1839 p2, 3798p2] and Loran Hall [FBI 89-69-3666, 1275p.296]. [NARA FBI 124-10248-10489; NARA FBI 124-10248-10497] On May 19, 1975, the FBI recapitulated Margeson's story:

Margeson said HOWARD was later subpoenaed by former District Attorney Garrison, New Orleans, Louisiana, during course of Garrison's investigation of this matter. Margeson decided to come forth after viewing a recent television documentary on the Warren Commission investigations wherein it was depicted OSWALD was in Russia while in fact OSWALD was in California. This caused Margeson to believe that a conspiracy could possibly have existed in that OSWALD may not have acted alone. Buffalo indices contain nothing identifiable with Margeson or HOWARD. Bufiles contain no information identifiable with Margeson. Review of Bufiles reveals the following information:

There is no indication that LEE HARVEY OSWALD used the aliases Harvey Lee or 'Tex.' He did use the alias 'O.H. Lee' while renting a room in Dallas Texas in October to November 1963.

There is no indication OSWALD was in California in the 1960's. He left Russia in May 1962 and took up residence in Fort Worth, Texas, in June 1962. He lived at several residences there and in Dallas, Texas until April 1963, when he went to Mexico for several days and then returned to Texas.

Coverage of his movements at any time was not necessarily complete. For the end of 1962 and early 1963 there is a period of time, October 19, 1962 to November 3, 1962, when his wife resided with several people in Texas and there was no record of his residence. There are no readily discernable gaps in his stay in New Orleans.

LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD, Jr. DOB January 17, 1935, 5'11", 222 pounds, black wavy hair, brown eyes, medium olive complexion, who speaks English and Spanish fluently, was interviewed in 1964, in connection with the assassination of President Kennedy. At the time he resided with his wife Rose, and two daughters, at 3191 Blanchard Street, Los Angeles. He was employed at the I.T.E. Circuit Breaker Company.

This interview was based on an allegation by Sylvia Odio, an anti-Castro Cuban refugee living in Dallas, Texas, that she was visited in Dallas, Texas, on September 26, 1963, or September 27, 1963, by OSWALD and two Cuban companions. Investigation determined that on September 26, 1963 or September 27, 1963 OSWALD was en route from New Orleans to Mexico by bus. Subsequent investigations revealed that the persons who visited Odio were probably HOWARD, William Houston Seymour and Loran Eugene Hall. Odio was shown photographs of the three but her memory was hazy and she could not recall meeting them. She testified before the Warren Commission regarding this meeting. The Commission concluded that she had not met OSWALD. "HOWARD, when interviewed in 1964, denied ever meeting Odio or ever knowing OSWALD. He was in the Florida Keys in January 1963 training with a group of men planning for an anti-Castro invasion of Cuba. He met Hall in Florida. He returned to Los Angeles in August 1963, for 17 days and then returned to Florida, stopping off in Dallas.

Bufiles contain no information as to his whereabouts at specific times in 1962. Hall and HOWARD were subsequently subpoenaed to New Orleans, by District Attorney Jim Garrison in connection with his assassination probe.

Hall aka Lorenzo Pascillo, DOB January 4, 1930, 5'11", 200 pounds, black hair, hazel eyes, dark complexion, mustache since 1960 and a full beard in September 1963, resided in Kernville, California, when interviewed in 1964. He operated the Rainbow Motel in Kernville and was employed as a truck driver. He mentioned that Seymour generally resembled OSWALD and could be mistaken for him. He could recall no meeting with Odio.

Seymour was interviewed in Phoenix, Arizona, where he lived and worked as welder, in 1964. He admitted being involved in training anti-Castro Cubans in Florida, but denied ever meeting OSWALD. He said that in September 1963, he, Hall, and HOWARD went to Los Angeles. He stated he did not leave Florida between March 1962 and October 1962. Seymour is described as DOB January 12, 1937, 5'6", 140 pounds, brown curly hair and blue eyes, FBI # 365 647 D. Bureau files contain no information identifiable with Rudy Hernandez or 'Slim.'

Margeson's information pertaining to OSWALD allegedly being in Russia while in fact he was in California is incorrect relative to the time OSWALD was in Russia. Margeson alleges to have seen OSWALD in California in late 1962 or early 1963. He lived in Texas until April 1963 when he moved to New Orleans. Additionally, it does not coincide with the time OSWALD was in New Orleans.

Dallas, Los Angeles, and New Orleans should evaluate the information received from Margeson to determine if there is a possibility OSWALD was in Los Angeles in the company of HOWARD. All three offices should check indices regarding Margeson, Rudy Hernandez and 'Slim.' Buffalo hold any interview of Margeson in abeyance." [FBI 62-1827-154]

On May 29, 1975, the Los Angeles FBI Field Office determined

The Los Angeles files contain no information identifiable with Richard Monroe Margeson, Rudy Hernandez or Slim. A review of Los Angeles files reveals that Richard Monroe Margeson is referring to LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD Jr., who was interviewed in 1964. HOWARD freely admitted he trained with anti-Castro guerillas in Florida, and he denied knowing LEE HARVEY OSWALD, who was pro-Castro.

The Los Angeles files indicated that OSWALD was in California when he was in the United States Marines Corps; however, this was prior to 1960 and prior to his defection to the Soviet Union. Upon OSWALD'S return to the United States from Russia there was no indication he was in California or ever in Los Angeles in the company of LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD Jr. [NARA FBI # 124-10175-10304]

The Dallas FBI Office:

June 3, 1975...Dallas indices contain no information concerning Margeson, Rudy Hernandez and Slim. It is the observation of the Dallas Office that it is not likely LEE HARVEY OSWALD could have been in Los Angeles California in the company of LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD, Jr. in late 1962 or early 1963. It is suggested the Bureau may desire to have the Buffalo Office interview Margeson in order that the Agents conducting such interview can evaluate his information and conduct during the interview. ## THE FBI INTERVIEWS MARGESON

Margeson is a white male, born June 16, 1927, at Rochester, New York. He attended four years of high school but received no high school diploma. He completed a two year correspondence course in Traffic Management and a one year correspondence course in law. He was previously employed as a can machine mechanic for the T.J. Lipton Company, Albion, New York, until he was laid off in October 1974 and has been unemployed since that time. However, Margeson is a farmer and operates the farm at his residence and breeds and raises dogs.

Margeson and his wife resided in the Los Angeles, California, area from 1950 through 1972. In 1960 Margeson secured a position as a Material Handler for Recold Corp. He was residing on Trigg Street in East Los Angeles at that time, which Margeson described as an area chiefly composed of Mexican Americans. During 1960 Margeson met Lawrence J. HOWARD Jr. who was a welder at Recold Corporation. Margeson described HOWARD as a white male of Mexican descent whose father was from the United States and his mother was from Mexico. He said that HOWARD was in his late 20's or early 30's at that time and was approximately six feet in height, 300 pounds, large build, black hair, brown eyes, medium complexion and wore a large Fu Manchu mustache. HOWARD'S residence was only a few blocks from where Margeson lived. HOWARD was married and his wife, whose name is unknown to Margeson, was of Mexican heritage and was employed by the telephone company. Also, HOWARD had a girlfriend, Josephine, (LNU), who was of Mexican heritage and who lived only a few blocks from Margeson.

During most of 1960, the employees of Recold Corp. who were members of the United Auto Workers union local, were on strike. HOWARD was the leader of the Education Committee of this union, and Margeson was a member of the committee. Although HOWARD and Margeson devoted some of their time to the union activities, both had ample time to pursue their hobbies of camping, hunting, guns and fast draw contests. Because of their common employment and since they were both avid gun and hunting buffs, HOWARD and Margeson spent a considerable amount of time together.

There was a lot of publicity regarding Castro and Cuba at that time and it soon became common knowledge in the area where Margeson resided that recruiting efforts were being made, particularly among Spanish-speaking people, for volunteers to organize into an anti-Castro group. HOWARD became interested in this anti-Castro movement and decided to become involved in recruiting volunteers. Although Margeson was spending most of his time researching possible lost gold mines, he sometimes accompanied HOWARD in his recruiting efforts. HOWARD and Margeson would drive around at night in the area where Cuban refugees were living in the Los Angeles area and would attempt to recruit volunteers for an anti-Castro group at gas stations, parking lots and other places where Cuban refugees would congregate. Margeson was unable to understand these conversations because HOWARD spoke to the Cuban refugees in Spanish and Margeson does not understand that language. The purpose of these efforts was to recruit a volunteer guerilla army and to raise funds to train and support this army for an invasion into Cuba. Margeson commented that he observed the volatile Latin temperament displayed by HOWARD, other Mexican Americans and the Cuban refugees and that this temperament possibly explains their extreme emotions in connection with anti-Castro movement.

Sometime during 1961 HOWARD went to Florida for the purpose of training volunteers for the guerilla army which was to invade Cuba. HOWARD seemed particularly suited for this activity in view of his expertise in handling firearms and knives. HOWARD told Margeson he had served in the U.S. Army and had received a medical discharge because of an injury to his foot. Margeson noticed that HOWARD limped after he had been walking for a prolonged period of time. Margeson received a post card from HOWARD and the postcard was from Marathon Key, Florida, in the Florida Keys. HOWARD mentioned Big Pine and Little Pine as being nearby Marathon Key, and Margeson assumed that the guerilla warfare training was taking place in that area.

HOWARD returned to Los Angeles after several months, arriving sometime in 1962. Accompanying HOWARD was Rudy Hernandez, a white male of Mexican descent, in his 20's, 5'2" to 5'4" in height, stocky build, black hair and dark complexion. Also accompanying HOWARD was a white male, age in the late 20's, 5'8" to 5'9", 150 to 165 pounds, slender build whom Margeson knew only as 'Slim.' HOWARD resided with his wife in their home near Margeson's residence and Hernandez and 'Slim' resided in the Olive Hotel, Olive Street, Los Angeles. Hernandez, 'Slim,' and Margeson obtained employment painting and refurbishing the Old Union Temple Building located behind the Los Angeles Greyhound Bus Station, which was supervised by a man named Jack Casey. This building reportedly housed the Marquade Printing Shop in the basement which at the time was engaged in printing the original draft of Richard M. Nixon's book after he lost the Presidential election. HOWARD, Hernandez and 'Slim' began talking about a man called 'Tex' who was coming to Los Angeles from New Orleans. From their comments Margeson learned that 'Tex' was not involved in the guerilla training movement in Florida but that 'Tex' was considered to be a very important person by Margeson's friends. They indicated that 'Tex' was one of their people and implied that he had something to do with the Cuban invasion. HOWARD had mentioned that on his way back to Los Angeles from Florida, he had driven a car from New Orleans to Los Angeles for a company involved in 'dead-heading' or relocating cars. In late 1962 or early 1963 'Tex' arrived in Los Angeles and roomed with Hernandez and 'Slim' at the Olive Hotel. Margeson described 'Tex' as a white male age in his late 20's or early 30's, 5' 8" to 5' 9" in height, 150 to 160 pounds, slender build, brown hair and medium complexion. Margeson was curious about 'Tex' because of the fuss made over him by his friends and prior to 'Tex's' arrival, Margeson approached HOWARD with the suggestion of Margeson having 'Tex' at his home for dinner. HOWARD'S first reaction was one of reluctance but eventually he conceded. When 'Tex' arrived Margeson drove to the Olive Hotel in order to take 'Tex' back to Margeson's home for dinner. Margeson found it was very difficult to make conversation with 'Tex.' Many times 'Tex' would not reply to a question and generally had a very dull personality. 'Tex' told Margeson he had never been in the Los Angeles area before. In anticipation of introducing 'Tex' to his wife, Margeson asked 'Tex' his name. At first 'Tex' hesitated but then told Margeson his name. Although Margeson is not positive, he believes that 'Tex' gave the name of LEE HARVEY or HARVEY LEE. Margeson said he recalls these names through word association based on the fact that he has a relative by the name of Lee and another relative by the name of Harvey. After eating a delicious home cooked meal, 'Tex' did not even bother to thank Margeson or Margeson's wife.

'Tex' began working on the Old Union Temple Building with Hernandez, 'Slim' and Margeson. The supervisor of this work, Jack Casey, was seldom on the job and therefore, Margeson and the others spent only a small amount of their time actually working with most of their time being devoted to 'bull sessions.' 'Tex' gave the impression that he was a rough and tumble type person who liked the idea of guerilla type warfare, however, Margeson was told by the others that 'Tex' had received an undesirable or a bad conduct discharge from the military. Margeson did hold this against 'Tex' since Margeson had received a bad conduct discharge from the military. 'Tex' frequently talked about making big money and his schemes usually involved violence. As an example, Margeson recalled 'Tex' talking about a guerilla type raid on a diamond mine in Peru in which everyone in the mine would be killed and a fortune in diamonds would be seized. 'Tex' mentioned something about a $50,000 reward for Castro's head. One of 'Tex's' peculiarities was determine how quickly he could get from the top of the building in which they were working to the lobby and he would frequently challenge someone to a race. Margeson said he did not know how 'Tex' got from the top of the building to the lobby because they took different routes in their races but he thought that 'Tex' might be sliding down the elevator cables. In one of their bull sessions Margeson asked 'Tex' if he and his group had any contact with the CIA. In response, 'Tex' took a scrap of paper out of his wallet and showed it to Margeson. This scrap of paper had a name and telephone number on it. Margeson cannot recall the name but remembers that it was the name of a prominent family in the South. "Tex's" purpose in showing Margeson this name was to show Margeson that he had connections with important people. 'Tex' stayed for about one month then left the Los Angeles area, not indicating where he was going, and Margeson never heard from 'Tex' again. Hernandez and 'Slim' left at the same time but Margeson does not know if they left together. During the time that Margeson and the others were working the Old Union Temple Building, HOWARD never came to that building, and Margeson got the impression that HOWARD intentionally avoided being seen with that group at that building, but Margeson did not know the reason.

After the Bay of Pigs incident, Margeson asked HOWARD what he intended to do since the Cuban invasion had failed. Although HOWARD never made any statements, Margeson felt HOWARD implied that he or someone associated with the anti-Castro movement intended to do something very spectacular and to blame it on Castro. This incident was to be so horrendous as to put the United States Government in such a position that they would be forced to openly invade Cuba.

Around October 1963 Margeson moved from Trigg Street to East 53rd Street, Maywood, California, and he lost contact with HOWARD. At that time HOWARD was working for a trailer manufacturer on Whittier Blvd. in Los Angeles. Margeson saw HOWARD'S name and address in the Los Angeles Times in connection with HOWARD being subpoenaed by former District Attorney Garrison...Margeson and his wife drove to this address, which he believes was in San Gabriel or South San Gabriel, in order to see HOWARD and talk over old times. Margeson recalled that HOWARD resided near Rose Mead Blvd. When Margeson and his wife arrived at HOWARD'S residence, there was a truck camper parked in the driveway with a Cadillac parked behind it. Margeson rang the doorbell and could hear voices inside through the partially opened front door. HOWARD came to the door with an automatic pistol in his hand looking out of the door cautiously to see who was there. When HOWARD recognized Margeson, he told Margeson he was busy at the moment, and asked Margeson to return in about an hour. When Margeson returned in an hour, HOWARD again came to the door with the pistol in his hand. HOWARD then put the pistol in his belt and invited the Margeson's inside. During the time they were talking Margeson noticed there was another automatic pistol on the telephone stand near the sofa and HOWARD indicated during their conversation that he had seven loaded guns in his house. HOWARD told Margeson that things were a little tough since he had been subpoenaed to testify in New Orleans. He showed Margeson an envelope and said that it contained his airplane tickets to New Orleans and a letter from D.A. Garrison. Margeson asked HOWARD if he were going to go to New Orleans to testify. HOWARD answered that the man who had just been at his home who was driving the Cadillac was HOWARD'S attorney and that he had been taking HOWARD'S deposition so that HOWARD would not have to go testify. HOWARD said that if he might go to New Orleans they might lock him up and lose the key.

HOWARD told Margeson that his wife and two daughters were with his mother and that he was staying in his home alone. HOWARD commented that he did not know who could be an enemy and that he had to be very cautious. Margeson commented that HOWARD was not the kind of person who ever seemed to be afraid of anything, but that he appeared very frightened at that time. Margeson believes this visit took place in 1968.

After this visit, Margeson lost contact with HOWARD. Margeson stated that he subsequently observed a great deal of national publicity in the various media concerning the arrest of HOWARD and five other individuals in a 38 foot boat off the Florida coast for a violation of the Neutrality Act. The names of the other five individuals were Cuban names. HOWARD was in possession of a 7 mm or .32 caliber Browning automatic pistol that Margeson had previously sold to HOWARD.

Margeson's curiosity concerning the activities of HOWARD, Hernandez, 'Slim' and 'Tex' was aroused when the Watergate incident was receiving so much publicity. Margeson speculated that HOWARD, who always described himself as a soldier-of-fortune, must have been involved in President Kennedy's assassination and this was the incident HOWARD meant when he referred to something that would force the United States to invade Cuba. Margeson also speculated that HOWARD must have known E. HOWARD HUNT because E. HOWARD HUNT spent time in Florida when he was with the CIA and that HUNT would have known anyone such as HOWARD who was involved in training guerillas for a possible invasion of Cuba.

Margeson began thinking about 'Tex' when he reviewed photographs of LEE HARVEY OSWALD. Margeson stated that 'Tex' looked very much like OSWALD, but that he is certain that 'Tex' is not OSWALD because their mouths were considerably different and OSWALD had a weaker chin. Margeson said that the November 1971 edition of True Magazine contains an article concerning Alpha-66, a Miami based militant Cuban exile group. The author of this article was Dean E. Bostick. The same magazine contains a photograph of Bostick which seems to Margeson to be identical to HOWARD. The magazine also contains some information concerning Bostick, describing Bostick as a freelance writer and a soldier-of-fortune who had been involved in the seizure of a 38 foot boat by the U.S. Coast Guard in the straits between Florida and Cuba in early September of that year and that this boat contained ammunition and parts of a .50 caliber machine gun. The magazine indicated that Bostick was released on his own recognizance and that charges against him were later dropped.

Margeson stated that he does not actually have any information which would connect HOWARD or any of HOWARD'S friends with the assassination of President Kennedy. He explained that he had a lot of free time since he lost his job in October 1974 and that he had started thinking about these matters and formulating his own theories. He said that his memory has become somewhat hazy and that he is uncertain as to names and dates and much of the other information.

It was pointed out to Margeson that some of the information he had furnished was contradictory to that furnished by Sheriff Allen L. Capwell, Wyoming County, Warsaw, New York, as related by Capwell as having been told to him by Margeson. Margeson stated his only explanation is that Sheriff Capwell must have misunderstood him.

It is noted that Margeson's home has the appearance of a one room shack and was in a disorderly condition. Margeson was contacted at approximately 8:15 a.m. and still had not arisen. Although Margeson speaks relatively well, he appears to confuse fact with his own theories. Dallas, Los Angeles and New Orleans evaluate results of above interview and advise the Bureau. [NARA 124-10265-10228]

The Dallas FBI Office concluded:

From a review of the interview with Richard Monroe Margeson it does not appear that he has furnished any information that requires additional investigation. He has stated he is certain that 'Tex' was not LEE HARVEY OSWALD. If the Bureau feels additional investigation is warranted, it would appear an inquiry could be made to locate employment records of individuals working in the Old Union Temple Building or of registrations available for the Olive Hotel, both Los Angeles, in an effort to identify 'Tex.' It is the recommendation of Dallas that no further action be taken.

The FBI in New Orleans stated that LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD had requested that Garrison send someone to Los Angeles to depose him. Subsequently he went to New Orleans and conferred with Garrison. [FBI 62-1827-160, 161] HEMMING 1995:

Well that just tells me HOWARD probably recruited OSWALD. He had a habit of doing that, he was trying to set up his own organization. Which he did with Hall, when Hall showed up he recruited Hall. When these people go home they're working for whoever they're working for. HOWARD was not setting OSWALD up, he was finding out where he was coming from. The guy shows up on the scene and you're working as an informant for Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms or anybody else you're expected to fill out a goddamn index card on who this sucker is, try to get a copy of his prints and everything else. He probably was out on the West Coast meeting with HOWARD. And HOWARD would know shit about it, he just does he's told to fucking do.

Margeson witnessed OSWALD visit LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD in Los Angeles in late 1963. Both OSWALD and HOWARD were friends of GERRY PATRICK HEMMING. Manuel Aguilar would also put LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD and OSWALD together prior to the assassination of President John Kennedy. There was a period of time between when OSWALD was not working and OSWALD had no known address in Dallas.

OSWALD could have visited LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD at this time for two days at the most. He could not have worked there, dined with the Margesons, confided in Richard Monroe Margeson. If OSWALD was in Los Angeles for two weeks, someone else would have spotted him. Richard Margeson's story about OSWALD riding elevator cables was designed to show that OSWALD could have committed the Kennedy assassination then quickly appeared on a lower floor of the Texas School Book Depository. Another FBI document associated "Tex" and "Larry." [Allen L. Capwell 4808 Midlb Warsaw NY 14569 716-786-3897]

JERRY RODGERS

The FBI reported that on November 22, 1963, at 5:50 p.m.

Jerry Rodgers phoned, stated he was phoning from Oxford 1-9597, said he resided at 18805 NW 185th Street and was employed by Regal Advertising, located off the 1100 block of Flagler Street. He related two days ago a man came into the Miami area was driving a black station wagon bearing Texas plate. He was believed to reside at 9529 NE 29th Street and might still be residing there. This individual was named 'Tex' or 'Larry' but Rodgers did not know his last name. He made the statements that 'something big was going to happen in two days,' a few day ago. This statement was made by him in the Silver Moon Bar as well as Turner's Bar. Rodgers described 'Tex' as a white male, 6'4", 220 pounds, brown hair and eyes, glasses and a mustache, claims has a ranch near Austin, Texas. Above submitted for any action deemed advisable. Rodgers was advised that 18805 NW 185th Street did not seem to be an accurate address but he said that was the best address he recalled. Rodgers sounded as though he was drinking some. [NARA 124-10272-10011]

JAGGER-CHILES-STOVALL OCTOBER 12, 1962

Wallace A. Pope, one of OSWALD'S co-workers at Jagger-Chiles-Stoval, was contacted in July 1993. He related:

He worked in the art department. I worked in the photo setter department. There was a wall between us, but we used the same darkroom. He was an odd ball, it seemed like, but he was a nice enough guy. He just didn't talk. My department did classified work. All he had to do was go into our section and look what we were doin'. It was map work. We did some government maps. It was really nothing that anyone could look at and tell anything about. The classified work did not concern Cuba. My department had to be cleared for Secrets. OSWALD'S department was not classified, but I'm not sure about that. [After the assassination] the FBI didn't ask me if classified work was being done there.

ACCESS TO DEFENSE DATA AT JAGGER-CHILES-STOVAL

The Jagger-Chiles-Stoval Corporation was "cleared through the Navy Bureau of Materiel" to do classified work. While OSWALD worked there, Jagger-Chiles-Stoval was allegedly printing updated maps of Cuba for the CIA. A note that preceded this document stated:

A handwritten note with several redacted areas. The text includes: "a current employee", "contract variety", "indirectly", and "employed here". There are also some illegible words and numbers at the bottom, possibly "Have furnished" and "office".

(Deleted) Mr. Stavis or Stevens. A current employee (contract variety) is indirectly employed here. Have furnished (deleted) office. (deleted) file.

The CIA Office of Security report on Jagger-Chiles-Stoval that followed this note stated:

2. A check of the records disclosed a reference to the Dallas firm of Jagger-Chiles-Stovall on page 48 of an FBI report prepared by S.A. Thomas C. McGoldrick at San Francisco, 8/8. November 14, 1958, on John Joseph Bittner, Cost Accounting Clerk, Finance and Accounting Department, U.S. Corps of Engineers, Albuquerque, New Mexico, Espionage- R. The Bureau's report indicates that Jagger-Chiles-Stovall is a company dealing with matters involving topography and maps. The report also indicates that as of July 22, 1958, the company handled confidential work for Chance Voight Aircraft and for other national defense establishments.

Bittner is of interest in the case of (deleted) 208,608 SSD, who currently holds a covert Security clearance to permit his use under Project (08 deleted) Minnesota PH II, and regarding whom Security furnished information to the Chief, Special Security Clearance Center on April 17, 1963. (03 Deleted) signed a "memorandum of understanding" with CIA on May 13, 1963. (03 Deleted) resided in Bittner's rooming house from May 25, 1958 to July 1, 1958 during which time he knew Bittner socially as well as in his landlord capacity; and he was a close friend of Bittner's nephew, Al Scala, whom he continued to see.

5. The firm of Jagger, Chiles & Stovall Inc. came into the picture because on August 11, 1957 a telephone call was made to the Dallas telephone number of Jagers, Chiles & Stovall Inc. (RI-1-5501) from the Albuquerque, New Mexico, residence of John Earl Sherman and Katherine Sherman, at 1601 Granite, N.W. Katherine Sherman was a friend of Bittner and during 1955 / 1956 had lived in the rooming house in Albuquerque which was owned by Bittner. According to her statements to the FBI in about December 1958, she left Bittner's rooming house in July 1956; and immediately thereafter married John Sherman and from that time until July 1958 saw Bittner only once. In July 1958 when she again ran into Bittner, she was separated from John Sherman and began to date Bittner regularly. She admitted that she had an extremely close relationship with Bittner and he had visited her at her home at 1601 Granite, N.W. Albuquerque (from which address the call to Jagger, Chiles & Stovall Inc. was made on August 11, 1957.

6. As of August 1957, Katherine Sherman was employed in the Office of Information Services, Kirtland Air Force Base, where she had been granted a SECRET clearance on December 28, 1955. Her husband, John Sherman, was employed by Lytle Engineering Company, a firm in Albuquerque which was working on contracts for the Armed Forces in connection with which he had access to classified information.

7. On July 22, 1958, Thomas L. Jagers, President of Jagger, Chiles and Stovall Inc. made a check of his firm's records and long distance telephone call registry but said he could find no record of John or Katherine Sherman.

8. Jagger, Chiles and Stovall Inc. 522 Browder Street, Dallas, is principally a type setting company dealing with matters involving topography and maps. The firm does (or in 1957 was doing) confidential work for Chance Vought Aircraft, Dallas, and for other national defense establishments.

An earlier OS document stated:

According to the Bureau's report, a telephone call was made from the home of John Earl Sherman and his wife, Katherine Sherman, to the Dallas office of Jagger-Chiles-Stovall on August 11, 1957. The purpose of the telephone call and the name of the person called apparently has not been established. Bittner was investigated by the Bureau in connection with the allegation that he attempted to obtain information from military personnel for espionage purposes.

Lytle Engineering was involved in the production of atomic weapons. During World War II, Chet Lytle had provided engineering support for the seminal Manhattan Project. His company, Lytle Engineering, was secretly contracted by the U.S. Army to design and manufacture the explosive "lenses" used on the tower-mounted device detonated near Alamogordo, New Mexico, on July 16, 1945. The disc-shaped lenses uniformly focused a conventional high explosive blast inward, thereby crushing the two halves of the bomb's plutonium core into a single "critical mass" and triggering a nuclear chain-reaction. After the war, Lytle's company continued to manufacture various components for nuclear weapons and was also involved with a number of other highly-classified military R&D projects, ranging from radar development to aircraft autopilot design. His own supervisory position with the AEC involved weapons-stockpiling activities related to the U.S. military's burgeoning atomic and thermonuclear arsenal. Jagger-Chiles-Stovall played a small part in the most important espionage activity the Soviets had ever undertaken, the theft of America's atomic secrets. For Bittner to have called that number from Katherine's home there must have been something of high value at Jagger-Chiles-Stovall. Somewhere all thing line the FBI either got her long distance records or they had a tap or pen register on her phone. The company was not unknown to the CIA. George Bouhe, who had CIA ties, got OSWALD a job with a company that had CIA ties. Bouhe was the leader of the Dallas Diocese of the Greek Orthodox Church, which Newsweek reported was a CIA conduit. Shortly after World War II, George Bouhe returned to Russia with the American Committee for Russian Relief. He made a 5,000-mile uncensored tour, assessing war damage. George Bouhe was an accountant at the Lewis MacNaughton Oil Exploration Company. Lewis MacNaughton was a Director of the Republic National Bank. There, his fellow board member was Karl Hoblitzelle who established the Hoblitzelle Foundation, another CIA conduit. [WCD 735; WCD544; 8WH355; The War State Fred Cook; Wash. Post 2.18.67; Newsweek 2.27.67 p26, 3.6.67; Manchester, W. Kennedy p311] Page 19 of OSWALD'S address book contained the name "R. Harten Hawthorn."

Romain Harten, of 3719 Hawthorne Street, Dallas, Texas, told the FBI that George Bouhe had given OSWALD his name and address as a possible place to stay, but he did not want a communist living with him. [FBI DL 100-10461 WGB; mvs 1.10.64 Brookhart] Harten, an Estonian refugee from Communism stated : "I later found out the man was an American and I felt that if this were the case, I believed that this man must be a Communist because he was coming back from the United States from Russian with his Russian wife without any opposition from the Russian Government. George Bouhe, born January 11, 1904, died in October 1980. What the fuck was with Bouhe? He wanted another man who was exiled from his homeland because of the Communists, to let a freakin'

Communist crash in his pad? Bouhe knew OSWALD was no commie but was an Operation. Who's Operation he did not know. On January 31, 1964, Birch D. O'Neal of CI/SIG concluded:

On the basis of information available at this time, it is not possible to determine whether OSWALD had any contacts with Jagger-Chiles-Stovall, Inc. personnel or that he ever attempted to obtain employment with the company. Ann Egerter CI-SIG [10WH167; WCD75 p78; CIA 1305-472; WC Test. to Jenner by Stovall p171; CIA 507-802 - Bittner]

The President of Jagger-Chiles-Stovall, Robert Stovall, was contacted in July 1993. He related:

OSWALD was incompetent. Classified? All it was a bunch of words. It was some placement for maps, but we didn't have the maps. 'Moscow,' 'Berlin' a few other words like that - so what? We didn't make maps - we only set type. It was blown way out of proportion. OSWALD was not around when we handled Chance Voight work. It was over.

Robert Stovall told the Warren Commission OSWALD "never worked with Army maps and did not have access to that section." Stovall was trying to protect his company. Gerald Posner quoted Robert Stovall, rather than checking with Wallace A. Pope, who was listed in Edward Epstein's book, Legend. OSWALD had applied for work at other companies with ties to the defense establishment. OSWALD had the words "Howell instru. 3429 West Vickory (?)ove Rd Personal Labdell" in his address book. The Howell Instrument company was located at 3479 West Vickory. It produced ground test equipment and gauges for civilian and military aircraft. Isabell Corbell was personnel manager.

Flyleaf 3 contained the notation "Freef 12:00." - a Rowena W. Freefield lived in Dallas, Texas and was an analyst for Texas Instruments. When Rowena W. Freefield was contacted in April 1993 she stated she had no first-hand knowledge of OSWALD. The flyleaf contained the words "Ros Page." A Rosemary Page lived in Dallas and worked for Northrup in Garland, Texas. Rosemary Page worked with air conditioner parts.

1. Flyleaf 3: Original document required for accurate study. There are names, Lee Harvey Oswald in (Russian)...Plum S AP FREEF 1200 and so many other names and numbers in this unclear duplicate copy that it is impossible in places to see exactly what they are. OSWALD'S landlord on Mercedes Street, Chester Riggs, was contacted in July 1993:

I saw him weekly. He was an aloof, strange, different individual, very quiet, he read quite a bit. Not an aggressive person. He was relatively orderly. It was a low income area. The house was built during the war years for General Dynamics employees. I don't know how OSWALD found out the property was for let. OSWALD had his own entrance. The postman that came there also delivered to my commercial building where I had a business and told me that OSWALD was being investigated for receiving subversive literature.

OSWALD SUBSCRIBES TO THE MILITANT

In October 1962 OSWALD wrote to the Trotskyist Socialist Workers Party in New York City. He attempted to join the Socialist Workers Party, but his application was not accepted because no chapter existed in the Dallas area. He wrote the Socialist Workers Party again, and offered his assistance in preparing posters. In October 1962 OSWALD wrote to a splinter group called the Socialist Labor Party and he requested literature. Prior to this, OSWALD had contacted the Soviet Embassy and the Daily World, the organ of the Communist Party. Now he was contacting the splinter groups of the left, who opposed the Communist Party. On October 17, 1962, the FBI SAC in New York sent a memorandum to the SAC in Dallas, Subject, Publishers New Press Inc.

Bureau letter to all offices, dated March 24, 1960, entitled, 'Security Investigations of Individuals' requested New York to obtain subscription lists of The Worker and to furnish the identities of subscribers to appropriate offices. Enclosed herewith are separate memoranda with photographs attached containing the names, addresses and subscription expiration dates of subscribers in your area. Instructions to be followed by each office upon receipt of this information are set forth in referenced Bureau letter. [FBI 100-8264-168 10.17.62 Subj: Pub. New Press Inc.]

HEMMING & OSWALD DECEMBER 1962 NO NAME KEY

HEMMING AND STEVE WILSON AT NO NAME KEY

In December 1962 OSWALD sent the Socialist Workers Party money for a subscription to The Militant. OSWALD sent a New Years card to the Soviet Embassy in Washington, D.C. HEMMING told the HSCA:

On another occasion he met OSWALD, after his group had been arrested at No Name Key on December 4, 1962, OSWALD had been trying to infiltrate HEMMING'S group at the motel where they were being detained. HARGRAVES and Ashmann also saw OSWALD. Last year, while in Los Angeles, LAWRENCE HOWARD reminded HEMMING of the incident with OSWALD at the motel after the arrest." HEMMING claimed OSWALD was trying to "set me up for a fucking fall and I'm dismissing him right away. He's the guy that says he knows me from here, here and there. The fucker's following me. He shows up in Miami when we were released from jail in Key West and we fly back with Chuck Ashmann. Ashmann set up a press conference at the fucking motel. When we come into the airport, fresh out of jail, I got into a big fucking argument with Ashmann and the T.V. people and all. That's when LARRY HOWARD came over. He said, 'Hey, that guy over there says he knows you and it's very important.' I look over. He looks familiar. I send Steve Justin Wilson over to talk to him. Steve Justin Wilson comes back. This infuriates me. What am I fucking jacking my dick? I have a fuckin' argument going, and he's tapping me on the shoulder about some puke who wants to join the fucking group. I says 'Larry get that mother-fucker out of here!' and I pointed at him. As far as I'm concerned he's a fucking snitch. I look at him and the bells go off - 'Snitch! Snitch! Snitch!' and we run his fucking ass off. In 1981 HOWARD and I remembered it was OSWALD. He was trying to get in the group at that time. This was December 7, 1962. Why the fuck is OSWALD always running into me?

HEMMING was asked to identify the entity OSWALD was "snitching" to: "Army, G-2." There are no informants reports using OSWALD in Army Intelligence files. HEMMING claimed: "I had no conversations with him except for the ones before he left for the Soviet Union." OSWALD might have been at No Name Key. There was evidence in OSWALD'S address book that linked him with the International Anti-Communist Brigade and INTERPEN. Charles Ashmann may have encountered OSWALD that summer, or heard about the upcoming assassination. He wrote a series of bad checks beginning in November 1963. By September 1964, he had been convicted of three felonies; disbarred; adjudged insane; and committed to Florida State Mental Hospital for an indeterminate period. He told a psychiatrist the reason he wrote dozens of worthless checks was because, "he had found his cause as coordinator of the anti-Castro forces, and that since he had a worthwhile cause, anything was justified..." HEMMING told this researcher:

In 1964, Gene Marshall, Ashmann's roommate, was busted and sent to the funny farm. The bad checks started catching up with Ashmann in the Spring of 1964. I don't think he made the connection at the time, but maybe he did, he was pretty smart. The Warren Commission was sniffing around.

On April 21, 1965, Eugene Marshall, 38-years-old, head of the Southern Florida Narcotics Bureau since 1958, and Detective Frank Fountaine and Detective Roosevelt Tremble, both of the Miami Vice Squad, were arrested for taking bribes from drug dealers. In September 1966, Charles Ashmann was discharged from Florida State Hospital, and received a pardon from the Governor of Florida. [Criminal Court Dade County #63-9016; CIA 63-9088, 64-280] He moved to Los Angeles, wrote for the Los Angeles Free Press, and then became an investigative reporter for a television station. Charles Ashmann's associate, Robert Rust, went on to become a Federal prosecutor in Miami. He told a reporter that Coup D'Etat in America was the work of "a Castro double-agent." The CIA's Office of Security traces on Charles Ashmann were heavily deleted from a report on him dated December 26, 1967. [CIA 40463 *Allen v. HEMMING AT NO NAME KEY

WILLIAM JOHNSON

A report from a source of uncertain reliability put OSWALD and FIORINI together prior to November 22, 1963. STURGIS associate William Johnson:

I remember one time when he [OSWALD] was down in a Flagler Street hotel. I had driven down there with FRANK. FRANK went in an' seen him. When he was in the hotel, downtown, with the revolution group. It wasn't FRANK'S brigade. I couldn't give you the date, whatever the time that group of Cubans was down there, he was down there. It's in the books. He was going down to see the Cubans, there was somebody down there he was going to meet. But OSWALD was there too. Later I knew OSWALD was there with them when the story broke loose later. It was the same time I took FRANK down there. The local Cubans were recruiting, they had some group they put together. I don't know their leader. He never said he was going to see OSWALD. I read about it later, at the time. It was in the paper - OSWALD was there with a group of Cubans at the time. OSWALD was downtown, in Miami. I'll see if I can dig that story up for you. There's one you missed.

The FBI stated that "Information concerning HEMMING'S group's possible association with LEE HARVEY OSWALD is set forth on pages 4 and 5 of report of S.A. James O'Conner, December 3, 1963 at Miami captioned LEE HARVEY OSWALD aka; IS-R. Bureau file 105-82555; (New Orleans file 100-16601). Information concerning HEMMING'S possible participation in the assassination of President Kennedy is set forth on pages 296 and 297 of report of S.A. Robert P. Gemberling, June 19, 1964, at Dallas, captioned same as Airtel."

HEMMING VISITS DALLAS JANUARY 1963

On January 23, 1963, HEMMING and Loran Hall visited Dallas. They were interviewed by Larry Grove of the Dallas Morning News. The article stated: "'Someday GERRY will get back into Cuba and he'll be caught and lined up against the wall' Wally Welch summarized after his visitors had left. 'Some guys have it in them that way - they get an alligator by the tail and they won't let go.' Welch is an ex-Navy boatswain. They call him 'boats.' He was involved in Cuba back when Batista was the ogre and involved some more after Fidel Castro betrayed the revolution...GERRY appears en route back to No Name Key from a visit to his California home. He's just passing through."

OSWALD ORDERS A SMITH & WESSON .38: JANUARY 1963

On January 27, 1963, using the name A.J. Hidell, OSWALD ordered a Smith & Wesson, .38 caliber, revolver from George Rose and Company, a mail order house in Los Angeles. HEMMING said he did business with George Rose and Company. On the order form "D.F. Drittal" claimed that A.J. Hidell was a citizen and was never convicted of a felony. On January 28, 1963, ANGLETON generated CSCI 3/774,255, which linked HEMMING with anti-CIA exile Arimino Fonseca. HEMMING told this researcher: "He was killed later on in Cuba."

OSWALD, HEMMING & COURTNEY FEBRUARY 1963

On November 27, 1963, Allen Courtney called S.A. James O'Conner and told him that when GERALD PATRICK HEMMING, Steve Justin Wilson, Edward A. Collins, Howard K. Davis and Charles Ashmann were on his radio show in February 1963, he received a telephone call from a New Orleans man, a former Marine who wanted to join INTERPEN. The man had identified himself with some variation of the name LEE HARVEY OSWALD. Allen Courtney told S.A. James O'Conner that he should contact Howard K. Davis, the man to whom the caller was referred. Howard K. Davis denied that had spoken with OSWALD.

STEVE WILSON AND HOWARD K. DAVIS

The FBI:

On November 29, 1963, Howard Kenneth Davis, 3350 N.W. 18th Terrace, Miami, Florida, advised a Special Agent of the FBI that he is a U.S. citizen and is known as Davey. Davis stated he has been associated with revolutionary activities for the past six years. Davis advised that in about December 1962, he along with soldiers-of-fortune GERALD PATRICK HEMMING, Steve Wilson, LeRoy Collins and Miami Attorney Charles Ashmann, appeared on Allen Courtney's radio program. Courtney interviewed them concerning their activities in training Cuban refugees in military warfare for future guerilla activity in Cuba. Near the end of the program, a telephone call was received by Courtney, who turned this call over to Davis. The caller did not identify himself, said he believed Davis knew him, and spoke very complimentary of Davis' groups activities in training Cuban exiles. Davis recognized the callers voice as a person from Fort Lauderdale, Florida, who is the son of the dealer for Miller High Life Beer. Davis said he could not recall the person's name, that this person had previously donated some food to the military training camp operated by Davis and his group at No Name Key, Florida. Davis said there is no reason to believe that the caller was LEE HARVEY OSWALD. OSWALD'S name was never mentioned and up to that time neither Courtney nor Davis and his group had ever heard of OSWALD.

Howard K. Davis was contacted in April 1993:

OSWALD did make contact with us at one time that I'm aware of. He called and made inquiries regarding joining the Brigade. If it went any farther than that I'm not aware of it. I believe I spoke with him on one occasion, and I believe he might have spoken with some other people on another. But that was not so much for the International Anti-Communist Brigade...that was FRANK STURGIS, wasn't it? Whether or not he made any contact with him, I have no knowledge. You know, a lot of things happen.

HEMMING reported:

This was in February or March 1963. Allen Courtney's wife took the call, wrote OSWALD'S name on a piece of paper and stuck it up to the window of the studio. Howard K. Davis didn't take the call. I told Steve Justin Wilson to give the call to Collins. I told him that I thought the guy was a snitch.

On March 1, 1962 Mr. Jack Crevalle, 7865 S.W. 17th Terrace, Miami, Florida advised that on February 28, 1963 he was visited by Earl Simpkins, Coral Gables, Florida, who was accompanied by an individual named "JERRY" (LNU) and two girls. During the course of the conversation JERRY claimed that he was training Cuban exiles in military warfare and that there had been an announcement on the radio that the United States Government was going to place travel restrictions on Cuban refugees. JERRY said the American Government had a yellow streak, and that his group was planning to send a white feather to John F. Kennedy as a sign of cowardliness. Crevalle advised that JERRY also claimed that raids on Cuba would continue to be made from the United States and that if any American Navy sailors got in the way, they would be dead.

MM-T1 advised that the above mentioned person, (LNU) appears to be GERALD PATRICK HEMMING in as much as HEMMING does train Cubans and continuously speaks against United States Government policy. On April 26, 1963 MM T-1 advised that HEMMING lives with Earl Simpkins who works as a gardener and at times gets HEMMING part time work but even working part time HEMMING has to borrow money from Miami attorney Charles R. Ashmann to pay the rent and buy food.

MM-T1 on April 17, 1963 advised that Hemming is presently working part time as a gardner and continues to reside in Miami and continues to maintain his training camp at No Name Key, Florida. MM-T1 explained there are only about six Cuban nationals training in the camp and HEMMING seldom visits the camp. MM-T1 said that HEMMING is losing his desire to go on a military expedition against Cuba and is not more interested in the political aspect of Cuban revolutionary activities.

On April 19, 1963 MM T-1 advised that Joseph Gorman and HEMMING indicated a plan was being formed to perform an anti-United States demonstration. The idea originated with Gorman who on April 18, 1963 visited Mario Fontela to solicit his help in forming this demonstration. MM-T1 explained Fontela is a member of the the Federation of Democratic Revolutionary Workers of Cuba, an anti-Castro organization. MM T-1 described Gorman as an unemployed drifter, adventurer, mercenary and soldier of fortune. On April 19, 1963 Detective Charles Sapp, Intelligence Unit, Miami, Florida Police Department advised that he had received information that Gorman had planned a demonstration against the United States to be held on April 19, 1963. Gorman was then living in Miami and was advised that if Gorman continued with his plans and held a demonstration, the Miami Police Department planned to arrest the persons involved in the demonstration. [FBI HQ 2-1693-83 p1,3-4, w/h]

HEMMING told this researcher: "That's Loran Hall running his mouth. He'd seen this movie, The Four Feathers. Why would I go around bad-mouthing Kennedy? We were in touch with Kennedy's people." On February 17, 1963, Marina Oswald wrote to the Soviet Embassy in Washington, D.C. and stated that she wished to return to the Soviet Union, but her husband would remain in the United States.

THE THEORY: OSWALD AND THE WHITE RUSSIAN EXILES

While OSWALD lived in the Dallas/Fort Worth area he was acquainted with at least 30 Russian émigrés. [WR p281] Why did OSWALD, an alleged Marxist, associate with his enemies? Why did his enemies associate with him? Many of these exiles were connected with the CIA. Did birds of a feather, flock together? HEMMING told this researcher:

You don't just show up at people's doorsteps and say 'Here I am.' Who made the introductions? He didn't arrive in town with an address book full of names. He didn't stumble into these people. These people are all on the payroll. That's why they are in the country. Do you think they would voluntarily associate with a defector? Jesus Christ, how stupid is that? They weren't the kind of people that would allow that kind of asshole around. If he told them truth about his past, hell, they'd kick him so goddamned hard in the ass they'd both have to go to hospital. They'd go there to get their boot out of his ass. It would jeopardize their clearances, their Green Cards, their world would turn to shit if they were caught hanging out with a commie fucking defector. Jesus Christ, these cocksuckers even gave me a hard time because I was in Cuba. And at the same time they are sucking OSWALD'S dick? Bullshit! How the fuck would they take in an OSWALD? That's the phoniest goddamn story that ever existed. Somebody allowed, believed that he wasn't what he appeared to be, without going further. He went to the Soviet Union, but would not discuss who sent him, or what he was doing. The Warren Commission didn't want to hear that shit from these people that they suspected he was a government agent.

PAUL RAIGORODSKY

Paul Raigorodsky knew OSWALD. He was a former Russian Cavalry officer who left the Soviet Union during World War II and worked with the OSS. After the war, he worked as an aide to the Special Representative to Europe of NATO. Paul Raigorodsky opposed NATO concessions to the Soviet Union, and burned his credentials after he resigned. Paul Raigorodsky was a Director of the Tolstoy Foundation. The Tolstoy Foundation checked the bona fides of Russian exiles before they entered the United States to detect KGBniks using an "émigré" cover. He told the Warren Commission:

Raigorodsky: Now, anybody who comes through the Tolstoy Foundation, you know right off the bat they have been checked and rechecked and double-checked. There is no question about them. I mean that is the number one stamp.

Jenner: That's the number one stamp of approval of their genuineness?

Raigorodsky: Of approval, in fact the U.S. Government recognized that and has been, up to about a year or two ago, giving the Tolstoy Foundation as much as $400,000 a year. [9WH1]

In 1975 the Tolstoy Foundation received a grant from the Agency for International Development (AID). The Agency for International Development was often used as a CIA conduit and funded the construction of South Vietnam jail cells. The Agency for International Development also ran the International Police Academy. According to the Rockefeller Commission, "For more than 20 years the CIA, through a proprietary, conducted a training school for private police and security officers in the United States under Department of State and Agency for International Development auspices." [RR p39; J. Anderson NY Post 1.15.75; St. Petersburg Times 5.14.76] Thomas F. Milbank, a Director of the Tolstoy Foundation, funded the International Rescue Committee. Milbank, an associate of William F.

Buckley, was related to Jeremiah Milbank of the law firm, Milbank, Tweed, Hadley and McCloy. Milbank, Tweed, Hadley and McCloy partner Morris Hadley, a former member of the Doolittle Committee and former Chairman of the Carnegie Corporation, was then the head of the CIA-backed Rubicon Foundation. Mrs. Morris Hadley was a trustee of the International Education Institute, which brought exchange students to the U.S. [Fnd. Lib. Center Annual Report 1963 Tol. Found. as cited by Group Research; Domhoff, G.W. The Higher Circles p79; Judis J. William F. Buckley 1988 p121].

Paul Raigorodsky was a friend of J. Edgar Hoover. [FBI DL 105-632] According to John D. Manley, III, Paul Raigorodsky was President of the Brook Hollow Golf Club. John Manley reported: "This is one of the most prestigious clubs in Texas and I find it hard to believe that Mr. Raigorodsky hosted LEE HARVEY OSWALD." [ltr. to AJW 7.23.93] On November 22, 1976, Michael Canfield visited Paul Raigorodsky in Dallas. He stated: "I told everything I knew to the Warren Commission. What is your interest in all of this?" Michael Canfield: "Oh I'm just curious, that's all." He asked: "But don't you know that curiosity killed the cat?" When Paul Raigorodsky was interviewed, he suffered from chronic gout. He died on March 16, 1977. [Dallas Morning News 3.17.77] Paul Raigorodsky claimed he was an expert in detecting Soviet Agents - yet he never suspected that OSWALD might have been recruited by the KGB and sent to Dallas to spy on the White Russian community?

MAX CLARK

Max Edward Clark (born January 10, 1914), an attorney and former head of security for the Convair Division of the General Dynamics Corporation, knew OSWALD and his wife's name and address appeared in OSWALD's address book under "Russian speaker." The word speaker seems to be written later with another pen. Convair was an aircraft manufacturer that employed former Nazi scientists. Max Edward Clark had a CIA clearance:

It appears that this individual may well be the wife of Max Edward Clark 176266-SSD, who on April 22, 1959, was granted a Covert Security Approval under project ROCK/IDIO/SGAPEX. This approval was cancelled on March 14, 1960 by the Security Officer, DDP-SD/P, who advised on that date that CLARK would "no longer be used on the project". Max Edward Clark was employed by Convair, a Division of General Dynamics Corporation, Fort Worth, Texas, as a 'Supervisor of Industrial Security and Investigation, requiring access to classified matter up to and including Top Secret.'

4. CLARK' wife was listed in a biographical data sheet of July 14, 1955 as GALI SCHERBATOFF CLARK, whose father was born in Russian, and who as of that time was residing in Nice, France. Her mother, who had been born in England, was residing in England. She, herself, was born in France. Her address at the time Clark's biographical data sheet was prepared, July 14, 1955, was the same as that of her husband, i.e.: 2813 Binyon, Fort Worth, TOMES. (See biographical data sheet attached).

During an investigation of Max Edward Clark in 1959, an OSI informant of known reliability at CVAC Fort Worth, made numerous disparaging and derogatory allegations about him. M. D. Stevens.

Five pages of the file dated April 27, 1959, were totally blacked out. [CIA 1303-474] One page was later released and it was merely security information such as family members, addresses etc.

Clearance determination requested on the above employee(s) of the cited project.

DETAILS: Attached is (are) PSQ on above employee(s) of the cited project, who is (are) of interest to this office in connection with Project ROCK. The Subject(s) will become aware that his (their) firm has undertaken a Top Secret government project, and will also become exposed to, and familiar with, highly sensitive technical equipment which is being developed.

In another CIA document PROJECT ROCK is associated with PROJECT OARFISH which was a cryptonym for the construction of the U-2 spy plane. It is ironic that OSWALD associated with the very people who constructed the U-2 spy plane that he had shot down by the Russians.

[The CIA and the U-2 program 1954-1974, Volume 3 By Gregory W. Pedlow, Donald E. Welzenbach, Center for the Study of Intelligence (U.S.) also

In May 1977 Max Edward Clark stated: "I was never a CIA employee. I once worked for a defense contractor here and was cleared for Top Secret. I had a clearance from the Atomic Energy Commission." After receiving a CIA Office of Security memorandum about him, he acknowledged: "When I worked with General Dynamics I had a CIA contract during the time we were working on projects for them. I was cleared so many times it wasn't even funny."

If Max Edward Clark had all these Top Secret clearances, why had he associated with OSWALD? Max Edward Clark:

I was no longer working for Convair, I was in private practice as an attorney at the time. I met OSWALD because he came to Fort Worth and then he called. He called me directly. He got my number because my wife speaks Russian. He just wanted somebody to speak to his wife who could not speak English. The White Russian Community there were all very sympathetic people, and very kind people, and felt sorry for his wife and his small child because he was mistreating them. The White Russian community never had anything to do with OSWALD." [NYT 11.28.63 p17; 7WH475; Marchetti Cult of Intell. p122; CIA 1303-474]

LYDIA BERDYANSKAYA

Lydia Berdyanskaya was another émigré who knew Marina OSWALD. JAMES ANGLETON reported: "The files of this Agency contain the following pertinent information on one Lydia Dymitruk:

a. Lydia (nee Berdyanskaya aka Berjanskaya Dymitruk was born on April 3, 1926, in Rostow, Russia). She remained in Rostow with her parents until she was 16, when she was deported by the Germans to a work camp in Germany. When the war ended she entered a camp for displaced persons in Dusseldorf, Germany, where she met and married one Karel Lodwijk Verhelst, a Belgian citizen. With her husband she entered Belgium at an unknown date and resided in Antwerp. Reportedly she was a member of the Union of Soviet Patriots in Belgium from 1948 to 1952. Sometime in early 1952, while still married to Verhelst, Lydia began living with Gavrilovich (aka Pavel) Kostenko in Brussels. Belgian Police investigation of her relationship with Kostenko resulted in her being fined for adultery in September 1952. She was divorced by Verhelst in November 1953 and continued living with Kosenko, apparently as a common-in-law wife, until late 1954 or 1955.

(Vasiliy Gavrilovich (aka Pavel) Kostenko allegedly born on September 5, 1922, in Tula, USSR, served in the Soviet Army in World War II before joining the Vlassov forces in fighting against the Soviets. After the war he lived in Germany and Belgium and was active in several anti-Communist Russian emigre organizations including the National Labor Alliance (NTS). (Deleted) Kostenko was identified as a Soviet agent in clandestine contact with the Soviet Embassy in Brussels. He was expelled from the National Labor Alliance in February 1957 and on August 20, 1957, he left Brussels for Moscow. In a radio broadcast from East Berlin on September 17, 1957, sponsored by the Soviet Committee for Return to the Homeland, Kostneko bitterly attacked Russian emigre organizations in the West. Prior to leaving Belgium for the USSR Kostenko reportedly revealed that he had worked for Soviet intelligence since 1942 and that he was trained in the Soviet Union for intelligence work and dispatched to the West as a Soviet agent.

b. On June 27, 1956, in Ixelles, a suburb of Brussels, Lydia married Pavel Dymitruk who was born February 28, 1924, in Stariye-Dorohi, USSR [Stariye-Dorogi, Belorussian SSR], and who was described as a Belorussian student at the University of Louvain in Belgium. At an unknown date, possibly before his marriage to Lydia, Pavel Dymitruk immigrated to the United States. It was reported that in July 1957 he returned to Belgium to attempt to expedite a visa for Lydia to join him in the United States. As of August 1957, Dymitruk's U.S. residence was listed as 159 East Division Street, Rockford, Michigan.

c. In an interview in February 1977 in Antwerp, Belgium, concerning her application for a visa to the United States, Lydia Dymitruk disclosed that:

(1) Her father managed a macaroni factory in Rostov-Don during the war, and did not serve in the army. In 1945 he was arrested by the NKVD and held for six months on charges concerning his activities during the war. (Lydia claimed that she was unaware of the exact charges made against her father). He was also removed from his position as manager of the macaroni factory.

(2) She wrote to her mother often and occasionally received correspondence from her. Her mother is glad that Lydia is in the West.

(3) She had been associated with the Union of Soviet Patriots for about two years but denied knowing that the Union of Soviet Patriots was politically motivated or was in contact with the Communist Party of Belgium.

(4) Her visa application, which she submitted on July 27, 1956, was drawn up by her husband, Pavel Dymitruk. In filling out the application form her husband had indicated a negative response to a question concerning association with a Communist Party or an organization affiliated with a Communist Party because she had not been "an actual member" of the Union of Soviet Patriots, and furthermore, it was her husband's belief that she was not a Communist.

(5) Lydia Berdyanskaya arrived in Brussels from Antwerp in February 1952, and lived with her sister, Annia Bouchat, for several months. Her sister was in contact with one (fnu) Markachuk, an officer from the Soviet Repatriation Mission in Brussels who had been attempting to have the sister repatriate to the Soviet Union. Shortly after her arrival at her sister's a woman from Liege (not further identified), gave her an address to go to for aid in resettling in Brussels. Lydia went to this address and was surprised to find that it was the Soviet Repatriation Mission. There she met Markachuk who tried to persuade her to return to the USSR. As a result, she and her sister wrote to their mother for her opinion on the matter and the mother advised them to stay in the West.

(6) She lived with Vasiliy G. Kostenko for two or three years from April 1952 and left him because "he drank too much vodka." She described Kostenko as an active anti-Communist.

3. The file of the Agency on Lydia Dymitruk has no entries beyond 1957 when she was living in Brussels.

4. The foregoing information was furnished to the FBI and the President's Commission on the Assassination of President John F. Kennedy on April 22, 1964, in connection with the relationship between Lydia Dymitruk and Marina Oswald.

VASILY GAVRILOVICH (AKA PAVEL) KOSTENKO

Pavel Kostenko was a deep-cover KGB agent who had infiltrated Vlasov's Army during World War II. General Andey Vlasov was a Russian who was captured by the Wehrmacht in July 1942. During his confinement, he agreed to organize an army of disaffected Russian soldiers to fight against the Soviets.

During the postwar period, Pavel Kostenko penetrated the National Labor Alliance (NTS), a pro-Fascist émigré group whose members included the sons of former Czarist officials and generals in the White Russian Army. An acquaintance of OSWALD in Dallas, Igor Voshinin, was a member of the National Labor Alliance. The National Labor Alliance actively worked with the Nazis. Its wartime program condemned all Russian Jews to death. It had interlocking leadership with Vlasov's Army. Nonetheless, National Labor Alliance members were given immigrant visas to the United States. Beginning in 1949, the CIA dispatched National Labor Alliance members into the Soviet Union, since the National Labor Alliance had been sending spies there since the 1930's. National Labor Alliance agents either went in on a specific intelligence mission and then returned, or were integrated into Soviet society as sleepers, or active agents. Several spies apprehended by the Soviets in the mid-1960's admitted working for the National Labor Alliance.

Pavel Kostenko penetrated the National Labor Alliance until 1955, when his clandestine connection to the Soviet Embassy, Brussels, was finally uncovered. A CIA source reported that Pavel Kostenko tried to recruit him to work for the Soviets; "Pavel Kostenko told this source that he had been working as a Soviet agent for the past four years. Kostenko made this revelation prior to attempting to recruit source to work for Soviets. He said that his Soviet contact had questioned him about Source and was interested in Source's contacts with the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions through Elizabeth Phillips. Kostenko implied that the source would receive 6,000 Belgian Francs from the Soviets for a report on what he knew about Phillips. Elaborating on his contact with the Soviets, Kostenko said that he only met his Soviet contact once per month and was only asked about information about various persons. These contacts were always made out of doors and Kostenko said he was furnished an itinerary to follow to the contact site." [NARA 1993.07.31.10:10:07:51:060057] The CIA generated this document:

The reports were post dated at (Deleted)'s request so that, if necessary, (Deleted) could make it appear they were kept informed of the information as it developed.

2. The proposed interrogation of Kostenko has not taken place. The story behind this may be difficult for a non-Belgian) bureaucrat to understand, but (deleted) burying this case when he has a strong position for interrogation may be caused to some extent by the fact that his trump cards were supplied by the Station only after we were finished with a unilateral operation and therefore might reveal a lack of control over (deleted-24) In any case, (deleted) final decision not to interrogate Kosenko is apparently caused by more than inertia.

3. On April 1, 1957, 35 told Jouvenoy that Lydia Dymitruk divorced Vhehelst (DOB April 3, 1926 Bosto USSR) had contacted (deleted) and complained that Kostenko, her ex-lover, had returned from Germany and was causing her considerable trouble. Kostenko threatened to keep her from going to the United States to join her husband, Pavel Dymitruk. As Lydia is a Belgium citizen (by marriage to Karel Lodwijk Verhelst) (Deleted) apparently felt morally bound to protect her. (Deleted) and (Deleted) feared that in their enthusiasm (Deleted) might create a scene and cause Kostenko file to be rerouted.

4. (Deleted) first reaction was to get Lydia on a boat for the U.S. and therefore bury the subject. (Deleted) asks (Deleted) if (Deleted) would help her with her visa but (Deleted) told him the question of whether or not she received her visa was out of our hands (Attachment B is a Jouvenoy investigation of Lydia, Attachment C is (Deleted) report of his Lydia questioning of Lydia (par (Deleted)-287) which was sanitized and passed to (deleted) at the U.S. Consulate. Only after they were told that Lydia's visa application was being reviewed, and she would probably be around for some time did (Deleted) and (Deleted) start planning to interrogate Kostenko.

5. (Deleted) requested summaries of the (Deleted) CONVENIENT and Kostenko information which had been promised them in order to plan the attack and Jouvenoy passed the information on April 8, 1957. (Deleted) discussed an interrogation plan with (Deleted) and although (deleted) not able to set a date for the interrogation, he gave the impression that plans were firm. Several days later (Deleted) told (Deleted) that it appeared (Deleted) had lost interest in Lydia, and there was therefore no pressure to interrogate Kostenko. The relatively strong position which (Deleted) had for the interrogation of an RIS agent (they even had jurisdiction) was appreciated but discarded.

6. Pavel Dymitruk returned to Belgium in July 1957 to try and get Lydia's visa expedited so it is not inconceivable that Lydia may find a stronger sponsor than (Deleted) and (Deleted) might again be forced into considering action against Kostenko.

7. As noted in (Deleted) 7652 para 6 as far as (Deleted) is concerned the wraps are off on information about (Deleted) which may be passed to (Deleted) but we note in (Deleted) 2813 AEMUSTANG that Kostenko may once again benefit from Kubark's indirect protection. Elliot S. Jouvenoy

Jouvenoy seems to be the Belgian CIA Station from this ZR Rifle cable: "Request Jouvenoy determine from (deleted) if Mankel available week Oct 17. Reply should be sent to PRTY to Fran atten RABNEY. If affirmative RABNEY will contact Jouvenoy directly to arrange meeting with Mankel." The State Department reported: "It is noted that the subject engaged in propaganda against the repatriation to the USSR. This propaganda was necessarily discreet in order to avoid reprisals against her parents in Russia."

PAVEL DYMITRUK

Pavel Dymitruk (born February 22, 1924) was a former member of Vlasov's Army. On December 5, 1958, Pavel Dymitruk contacted S.A. Hosty at the Dallas FBI Office and requested he issue him a security clearance:

Dymitruk stated that he was originally from the Soviet Union, having served in the Soviet Army during World War II, and is presently a refugee in this country, having fled from the Soviet Union during World War II...Dymitruk was advised that the FBI does not grant security clearances and this office would not be able to assist him in this matter.

Lydia Dymitruk was admitted to the United States in March 1959. On September 24, 1959, Pavel Dymitruk applied for a position as an FBI translator. He listed S.A. Hosty as an FBI employee he had known for 14 months. He also indicated that in 1957 for a period of four to six months he knew "Cut Devis, N. York," an FBI employee. The FBI reported: "Under this entry he set out that he was not sure of the spelling and our personnel records disclose no such name. This information was not set forth in his 1962 application. (Paragraph Deleted)." [Sullivan to Branigan 5.5.64] On May 23, 1961, Dymitruk contacted Hosty: "Dymitruk stated he was having difficulty obtaining a job, in view of his Russian background, and stated he had recently divorced his wife and that everything was going wrong and he wanted the FBI to assist him." Pavel Dymitruk again applied for FBI employment in 1962. On November 12, 1963, Pavel Dymitruk contacted the Dallas FBI and informed it he had previously made application for the position of translator through the Houston FBI office: "This (deleted) was not recommended for the position by the Houston Office." [FBI 105-82555-3577] On May 12, 1964, the FBI interviewed Pavel Dymitruk who advised that his ...former wife's parents still reside in the Soviet Union and that her father was arrested by the Soviet Army when they re-occupied Rostov, because they had not evacuated Rostov in accordance with Soviet orders. He was therefore accused of collaborating with the Germans and was held in a Soviet prison for a number of months before being released. Dymitruk stated that he met his former wife through her sister, Anna, in 1954, having previously met his former wife's sister while studying at the University of Louvain. Dymitruk stated that before he met his former wife, she had been living with a man named Vailiy, last name unknown. According to Dymitruk, this Vasiliy had been active in the National Labor Alliance, (NTS), an anti-Soviet Russian emigre organization, and he served as a Lieutenant in the Vlassov Forces during World War II. Dymitruk explained that he also had served in the Vlassov Forces...Dymitruk further stated that this individual named Vasiliy later returned to the Soviet Union and he heard conflicting stories as to the reason for his return, some people, names unrecalled, stated that he, Vasiliy, had been pressured into returning through pressure on his parents in the Soviet Union; other individuals, names unrecalled, stated that Vasiliy was actually a Soviet agent working in the Vlassov forces and later in the NTS forces, and reporting to the Soviets as to their activities."

HOSTY INTERVIEWS LYDIA DYMITRUK

After the assassination, Lydia Dymitruk advised S.A. Hosty that she met Marina Oswald in October or November 1962 when her friend, Anna Meller, asked her to drive a sick child and her mother to Parkland Hospital. She did this but found no doctor was available and she was forced to return later that evening. OSWALD, who was eating supper, said it was not necessary to bring the child to the hospital. Marina argued with LEE about it and he finally agreed to accompany them to Parkland Hospital where the child was given medication. The next time she saw Marina was when Marina and Ruth Paine came into a grocery store where she worked. Lydia told SA Hosty:

In 1942, when she was not quite 16 years old, the German Army captured Rostov and shortly thereafter took a large number of young people from the city back to Germany as slave laborers. Mrs. Dymitruk stated that she and her older sister, Anna, were among those taken to Germany. They were both assigned as domestic helpers in Dusseldorf, Germany. Shortly before the American Army captured this city in 1945, all non-Germans were removed to a prison camp and, shortly before the American Army arrived, Mrs. Dymitruk stated she, together with her sister and two Belgians, escaped from this camp. When the American Army arrived, the various non-German groups were placed in camps according to their nationality and her and her sister went with two Belgian citizens to the Belgian camp, rather than go to a Russian camp, since it was learned that all of the Russian citizens would be forced to return to Russia, and she and her sister did not desire to return to the Soviet Union, because they realized there was a much better standard of living in Western Europe. Mrs. Dymitruk advised that, a short time later, a French Army Officer came to the camp where they were staying and told her and her sister that they would have to move to a Russian camp. However, when they told this French Army Officer that they did not desire to return to the Soviet Union, he said that the only way they could avoid this was to marry Belgian citizens. Mrs. Dymitruk stated she had been living with Karl Verelst, a Belgian citizen, so she was married to an American Army Chaplain to him and thus permitted to remain in the Belgian camp. They were later transferred to Liege, Belgium, and finally returned to her husband's home in Antwerp, Belgium.

Mrs Dymitruk stated that during this period the Soviet Government was permitted to send repatriation officers throughout Western Europe in an attempt to talk Russian citizens into returning to the Soviet Union. Mrs. Dymitruk stated she was contacted several times, but refused to return to the Soviet Union.

In 1949 when she was still married to Karl Verelst, she attended several social meetings of the Union of Soviet Patriots in Belgium. Mrs. Dymitruk stated she knew this organization was pro-Soviet and was controlled by the Communists; however, she went to the meeting for social reasons to meet other Russian people and to dance and see movie films. Mrs. Dymitruk explained that, at this time, the Belgian Government would not force any Soviet citizens to return to the Soviet Union, so she felt perfectly safe in attending meetings of this organization for purely social reasons, even though she knew this organization to be Communist controlled. Mrs. Dymitruk stated that, after 1946, she started receiving letters from her mother, who advised her that her father had been put in prison by the Russians for a short while in 1945, apparently because her father would not retreat from Rostov when the German Army occupied that city. Her mother urged Mrs. Dymitruk to remain in Belgium and not to return to the Soviet Union.

Mrs. Dymitruk further explained that another reason she attended the meetings of the Union of Soviet Patriots in Belgium was because she had what she described as mental trouble and also had considerable trouble with her mother-in-law and father-in-law, and the doctor urged her to associate with other Russian people. Because of these troubles, Mrs. Dymitruk stated she then left her husband in Antwerp and went to Brussels, where her sister Anna, now named Bouchat, resided.

Mrs. Dymitruk stated that, while in Brussels, she began living with a man named Vasilii Kostenko, who had formerly served in the Vlassov forces, which Mrs. Dymitruk described as an Army force which fought with the Germans against the Soviet Union during World War II, being Russian prisoners of war. Kostenko, according to Mrs. Dymitruk, was a Lieutenant in the Vlasov forces and when she met him he was the leader of an anti-Communist group, which Mrs. Dymitruk stated was either called Cvomr or Chohp. This group was not connected with the National Labor Alliance (NTS), but cooperated with the National Labor Alliance and was made up of former members of Vlassov forces. Mrs. Dymitruk stated she lived with Kostenko for two or three years and left him because he drank too much. According to Dymitruk, she helped Kostenko in his work in this organization, but she cannot recall the names of any other individuals in this group. Mrs. Dymitruk stated that Kostenko's father was allegedly a Russian engineer who was shot by the Soviet Government because of his religious beliefs, and that his mother was allegedly Polish, and he had escaped, being sent back to Russia after the war by posing as a Pole.

Mrs. Dymitruk stated Kostenko was a very militant anti-Communist and had tried to join a group of individuals who were parachuted into Belorussia area of the Soviet Union. According to Mrs. Dymitruk, this group was captured immediately by the Soviet Government as soon as they landed, and they were all allegedly shot. Kostenko then became quite upset about this matter and stopped associating with his Russian friends in Brussels. Mrs. Dymitruk stated that she had, meanwhile, left Kostenko and she later heard he went to Germany and then to the Soviet Union. Mrs. Dymitruk stated she did not believe Kostenko was a Soviet agent and she stated that he was a militant anti-communist and had returned to the Soviet Union because his attempts to fight communism through refugee groups had apparently failed, and she believed he had gone back to the Soviet Union to fight Communism inside the Soviet Union. When Mrs. Dymitruk was asked how she thought Pavel Kostenko could fight communism from inside the Soviet Union, she merely stated that she was sure he was an anticommunist and not a Soviet agent.

Mrs. Dymitruk stated that a short time later she began living with Paul Dymitruk, who immigrated to the United States in 1956. Mrs. Dymitruk stated that in 1957, when she attempted to join him in the United States, she was denied an American visa because of her past membership in the Union of Soviet Patriots in Belgium. However, after two or three years her former husband succeeded in getting her a visa and she entered the United States in March 1959. Mrs. Dymitruk stated she and her former husband were divorced in Dallas in December 1960, and she has not seen her former husband since that time. Mrs. Dymitruk stated she wanted it to be known that she was never a communist or a communist sympathizer, and was not pro-Soviet in any manner, and hoped to become a citizen of the United States in the near future.

There were questions about Lydia Dymitruk's loyalties. She had been a member of a pro-Soviet organization and lived with a KGB agent. Either Lydia was incredibly stupid or she was lying when she said she believed that Kostenko was not a KGB agent. Her ex-husband knew differently and no doubt had discussed the matter with her. She was in contact with the Belgian Police, the State Department and the CIA Station in regard to Kostenko. Was Lydia Dymitruk a Soviet double-agent? Did she report OSWALD'S presence in the Dallas White Russian community to the Soviets? Unlikely, although she might have mentioned him to someone who did. William Hood reported: "Western intelligence had learned from bitter experience that most Russian officials were so impressed with the KGB record of penetration and manipulation of the Russian emigration that they would as soon look death in the face as to confide in any émigré, let alone to use him as a conduit for an illicit relationship with a foreign intelligence service." GEORGE DEMOHRENSCHILDT'S ANCESTORS

OSWALD'S best-known associate in Dallas was Russian exile George Sergius DeMohrenschildt. Click HERE to see footage of him. The grandfather of George DeMohrenschildt, Sergius Von Mohrenschildt, was a German Baron who had moved to Russia in the mid-19th Century. There he married a Russian aristocrat. In 1944 DeMohrenschildt told the FBI that his grandfather was born somewhere in Pennsylvania and later went to Russia, and entered into the oil business which was inherited by his father on his grandfather's death. The father of George DeMohrenschildt, Sergius Von Mohrenschildt, was both a German Baron and a Russian Baron in the Court of Czar Nicholas II. The uncle of George DeMohrenschildt, Ferdinand DeMohrenschildt, was First Secretary of the Russian Embassy in Washington, D.C. during World War I.

The Von Mohrenschildt fortune emanated from the Nobel Oil Company, which had fields in Baku, Byelorussia. In 1944 George De Mohrenschildt told the FBI that Sergius Von Mohrenschildt "was a Vice President of the Nobel Oil Company in Russia with holdings in Poland and Russia prior to and during World War I...his father continued in the oil business until the confiscation of these holdings following the first World War. His father then became interested in the Agrarian Movement and became Vice-Minister of Agriculture of the White Russian Republic [which included Byelorussia and the Ukraine] during 1920 to 1922, until he was accused of protecting the Jewish and Greek Orthodox religions as well as the Catholic religion. As a result of the disagreement his father had been jailed by the Soviets for several months, then with the help of his friends he escaped Russia and went with his family to Wilno, Poland." [WCD 533 p53] After the Bolshevik revolution the Standard Oil Company, which was owned by John D. Rockefeller, bought a 50% interest in the Polish operations of Nobel Oil. [The Russian Rockefellers - Robert W. Tolf - The Hoover Inst. Press-1976 p214]

DeMohrenschildt lied to the FBI. In reality what happened was that when the Russian civil war ended with the Communists in power, Baron Sergius Von Mohrenschildt was imprisoned (with his other son, Dimitri Von Mohrenschildt) and both were held for over a decade. Baron Sergius Von Mohrenschildt was released from prison in 1935. He traveled to Germany to join his family there. In Nazi Germany, Baron Sergius Von Mohrenschildt resided with his sister, who had married high-ranking Abwehr Officer, Baron Konstantine Von Maydell. The Abwehr was the military intelligence section of the Nazi Army. In 1944 DeMohrenschildt also told the FBI that his father "had been interned, presumably by the Germans." Baron Sergius Von Mohrenschildt hoped to reclaim his oil fields after a Nazi invasion of the USSR.

GEORGE DEMOHRENSCHILDT - NAZI SPY

Born on April 11, 1911, in Mozyr, Russia, George Von Mohrenschildt had escaped to Poland after the Russian civil war. He graduated from gymnasium in Wilno, Poland, in 1929, then attended the Polish Military Academy. He attained the rank of sergeant in 1931. He left for Belgium, where he studied business and changed his name to DeMohrenschildt to avoid the Germanic implications of the title, "Von," which was going increasingly unpopular.

DEMOHRENSCHILDT'S COVER: POLISH GOVERNMENT-IN-EXILE

Nobel Oil operated in Russia and Poland and the Von Mohrenschildt family owned several estates in Poland. George DeMohrenschildt used his family's connection to Poland along with his rank in the Polish military, as a cover when he joined the Polish Cavalry. Circa 1938 George DeMohrenschildt was a lieutenant in the Polish Cavalry. A few months before Germany invaded Poland, George DeMohrenschildt embarked upon a European tour, so he was absent when the Nazi tanks rolled in. He professed to be an exile correspondent of the official Polish News Service during that trip. Evidence suggested Baron Konstantine Von Maydell contacted George DeMohrenschildt and in early 1938, arranged for DeMohrenschildt to become a spy for the Nazis. George DeMohrenschildt used his connections with the Polish government-in-exile to enter the United States in May 1938, under the Belgian quota, where he joined the shadowy infrastructure of Nazi spies that operated in the United States during World War II.

FRENCH INTELLIGENCE: 1939

George DeMohrenschildt may have penetrated French Intelligence. He claimed to have "collected facts on people involved in pro-German activity" when he worked for Pierre Freyss in the information and economic departments of French Intelligence.

Subject stated that Freyss sent him to Louisiana and San Francisco in an attempt to locate individuals sympathetic to France who would be able to advise of contemplated sales or shipments on large quantities of oil [to Germany]. No employment record existed with that organization. Journalist Edward Epstein contacted Pierre Freyss, who stated that he was in French intelligence in the United States in 1939 to 1940 and stated in part that DeMohrenschildt "graciously cooperated with us, his sympathies being with the Allied Forces. Freyss further related that DeMohrenschildt was 'never in the pay or officially appointed by us.

FILM FACTS AND BARON VON MAYDELL

The FBI interviewed Pierpont Hamilton:

(Deleted) it was desired to contact him for whatever material he possessed relative to the Subject. Upon being interviewed in the offices of the (deleted) stated that he would be happy to supply and information in his possession relative to the person in that case. He related that prior to the spring of 1939, he and (deleted) were managing entrepreneurs of the (deleted) a corporation engaged in the production and distribution of commercial motion picture films. At that time they were also engaged in fulfilling contracts with individual concerns for the production of various industrial shorts, utilized to acquaint employees with the necessity of observing safety rules while at work. In the Spring of 1939, he continued, an individual by the name of Konstantine B. Maydell entered their office and stated that he had a film entitled, 'Spain In Arms,' which he desired to distribute, for a fee, to various groups throughout the country, but that he had not the necessary organization to effect such distribution. He offered therefore to allocate a certain percentage of the profits to (deleted) and (deleted) for their assistance in effecting the distribution of the film to various religious groups, primarily Catholic groups in this country. At time, however, the film required a certain amount of cutting and technical reformation so it was accordingly referred to the Cine Lab Motion Picture Laboratories, 33 West 60th Street, where the desired changes were affected.

As reflected by reference report, it will be noted that Film Facts Inc. had absolutely no connection with the Cine-Lab Company and the studio facilities of the latter were only rented for a brief period for necessary technical revision of the film 'Spain In Arms.'

Continuing, the same source related that through the contacts of (deleted) and himself, they were able to effect the distribution of the film to various Catholic Church groups throughout the country and in addition to one or two individual public exhibitors. As the film was pro-Fascist, profits were quite meager, and they totaled less than $1,000, it was decided in 1940 by him and (deleted) to cease their relationship with Maydell and terminate further distribution of the film.

While Film Facts Incorporated, at the present time, is a dissolved corporation, Pierpont Hamilton still retains the right to the corporate name and pays a tax to retain such right. This was also ascertained from the interview with (deleted).

As to Von Mohrenschildt personally, he related he was unacquainted, but he was under the impression that he had heard Maydell on one or two occasions refer to such an individual as his associate or employee. Pierpont Hamilton was insistent, however, that Subject Von Mohrenschildt at the present time was neither affiliated or associated in any capacity with Film Facts Inc. and had absolutely no connection with either him or his partner (deleted). He pointed out that he and (deleted) retained the legal rights to the name Film Facts Inc. It would be both a falsification and a legal violation for Subject to refer himself as an employee of Film Facts Inc.

As to the origin of the film, 'Spain In Arms' neither Pierpont Hamilton or (Deleted) could offer any information both advising that Maydell had appeared in their office early in the Spring of 1939 with such film reporting it as his own...The film, according to both gentlemen, was reputedly pro-Fascist and supported the cause and military actions of General Francisco Franco during the Spanish Civil War. Neither Pierpont Hamilton nor (Deleted) could offer any information as to the antecedents of Maydell other than stating they believed him to be German or Austrian and a comparatively recent immigrant from Europe. As to maintenance of offices by Maydell both related that they believe his office was maintained exclusively 'beneath his hat.' It was their belief, however, that he maintained a room at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. [FBI 100-10310]

Mrs. J. Smith, Vice President of Cine-Laboratory, 33 West 60th Street, advised that FBI

...that she occasionally leased or rented studio space. In pursuance of such she permitted DeMohrenschildt and Konstantine Maydell to produce two films in their laboratory for the Polish Information Center, 151 East 67th Street. The films produced were 'Poland Forever' and 'Spain In Arms.' It was her impression that the film intended to support the General Franco faction of the Spanish Civil War. She stated that the Polish Information Center paid her for use of her studio."

When the FBI questioned George DeMohrenschildt in 1944 he stated:

...that he became acquainted with Constantine Maydell through Maydell's showing of a picture 'Spain in Arms' at the Ritz-Carlton hotel. George DeMohrenschildt considered this the best documentary film that he had ever seen, and after contacting Maydell had been informed by Maydell that he had material coming from the German film company, UFA, all of which was documentary film. He contacted the Polish Consulate regarding the making of a documentary film concerning Poland and after securing their cooperation and financial backing had started with Maydell in the preparation of 'Poland Forever,' for the Polish Government. This venture was doomed to failure from the start, according to the Subject, since they never had enough money; further, part of the film that was coming from Germany was seized by the British and held up for a long period of time and then released, but at that time was much older and thereby less interesting than it would have previously been...George also related that he had previously been questioned concerning Maydell and had furnished all the information in his possession regarding him, but he repeated that he did not consider Maydell a spy nor did he consider him the type of person that would be selected by any country for that type of work. Subject added that he believed Maydell's sympathies were definitely with Germany; but in Subject's opinion, Maydell was nothing but a soldier-of-fortune interested in making money who 'didn't give a darn' about one country over another or anything else. Maydell's outstanding characteristic was his anti-Semitism."

BARON KONSTANTINE VAN MAYDELL AND FILM FACTS

In The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich, William Shirer described Baron Konstantine Van Maydell as "a Baltic German of Estonian citizenship who told the German Embassy, Washington, that he had come to the United States on an Abwehr sabotage mission." In Game of the Foxes, Laslo Farago described Baron Konstantine Van Maydell as "the top Abwehr agent in the United States in 1940." Baron Konstantine Von Maydell was arrested on a Presidential warrant as a dangerous alien in September 1942, tried for espionage in Federal District Court for the Southern District of New York, and interred for four years in North Dakota. The proceedings were either closed, or the Court records have disappeared. He was released in 1946. George DeMohrenschildt intimated that he had once testified against Von Maydell in a legal proceeding. There was no record to support this. Assistant United States Attorney Stuart Z. Krinsky of the Southern District of New York advised S.A. Stanley Ross in October 1944, that "the government had contemplated using George DeMohrenschildt as a witness for the Government in the habeas corpus proceedings involving Baron Konstantine Van Maydell who had been interned as a dangerous enemy alien, but at the time of the trial the government decided not to use George DeMohrenschildt as a witness." [WCD 533 p27] George DeMohrenschildt told the FBI: "In regard to having a cousin in an Internment Camp in the United States, Subject stated the only manner in which this could have arisen was from statements made by Konstantine Maydell that he was a fifth cousin of his, and he had gone to Dimitri regarding this statement and Dimitri had informed him there was no relation whatever." Edward Epstein reported Baron Konstantine Van Maydell was subsequently "sent to Russia, never to be heard from again." [Farago, Game of the Foxes Simon and Shuster p685 f.n.; WCD 533]

WARREN COMMISSION AND MAYDELL

Albert Jenner asked:

Q. At this particular time, did you have some, oh, let me call it tenuous connection with some movie business...what was it?"

A. I have a distant cousin by the name of Baron Maydell...some people considered him pro-Nazi.

Q. He was accused of being, was he not, during this period, a German spy?

A. No. I didn't know that...He was White Russian. And having lost everything through Communism, he saw the future of his return to Russia, back to his estates, through German intervention...he had a very interesting movie there of the Spanish revolution which he made...This movie was backed by quite a number of people here. I remember most of them. By Grace, who is President of Grace Lines today. So we decided with Maydell that we could make another documentary movie, on the resistance of Poland.

Q. Resistance Movement?

A. Yes.

GERALD POSNER AND BARON KONSTANTINE VAN MAYDELL

Gerald Posner, whose other books included Mengele, The Complete Story and Hitler's Children, failed to mention Baron Konstantine Van Maydell. He attributed George DeMohrenschildt's praise of Nazism to a "provocative" streak in his nature. Gerald Posner wrote "During its peak operational period, from 1942 to 1944, the Abwehr employed more than 1,500 agents and informants in Argentina."

SKETCHING A COAST GUARD STATION: JUNE 1941

After two years of successful spying in the United States, George DeMohrenschildt was apprehended.

On June 2, 1941, Mr. Eugene J. Wilson and Mr. Russell Brown, Special Assistants to the Attorney General, with an office in Corpus Christie, Texas, advised S.A. R. J. Clements that Mr. Bill Ellis Justice of the Peace and proprietor of the Tarpon Inn at Port Arkansas, Texas, had informed them that George Von DeMohrenschildt who appeared to be a German, was registered at the Tarpon Inn and was accompanied by a Mexican woman named Lilia Pardo Larin, who was registered as his wife...Ellis informed that Von DeMohrenschildt had been observed sketching and photographing the local Coast Guard Station and ship channel at Port Arkansas, Texas, and acted in such a suspicious manner as to lead him to believe Von DeMohrenschildt was a German spy...Mr. Victor J. Biltiff, Inspector in Charge of Immigration and Naturalization, together with Inspectors Alfred R. Perkins, Ralph J. King and S.A. R.J. Clements, questioned Von DeMohrenschildt on June 3, 1941... Von DeMohrenschildt advised he had a small folding camera and two rolls of exposed film in his possession at the time of interview, and stated that the film consisted of some snapshots of the beach at Port Arkansas. He also exhibited a number of water color paintings which he had made, and stated that painting was his hobby. His personal effects also contained a zipper briefcase and a large amount of papers which Von DeMohrenschildt did not volunteer for examination by the inspectors... Von DeMohrenschildt's effects contained several copies of two biographical sketches copies of which were furnished Inspector Petty. The sketches carried by Von DeMohrenschildt are set out for comparison: 'George Von DeMohrenschildt, 950 Park Avenue, New York City, RH-4-0810 Of Swedish origin, Born April 17, 1911...George Von DeMohrenschildt 1024 Park Avenue, New York City, RH-4-9257...

DeMohrenschildt advised Inspector Victor J. Biltiff that "after he left his employment with the Humble Oil Company, he accepted a position offered to him by the Polish Consulate in New York City. The employment consisted of producing a motion picture entitled 'Poland Forever' which was financially backed by the exiled Polish Government in this country. He informed that this film was actually produced in the laboratory of the Facts and Films Motion Picture Company, 30 W 60th Street, New York City. He stated that he was still employed as a representative of this firm and that the purpose of his visit to Mexico was to produce a picture of Pan American relations." An FBI cable to Headquarters read that Larin DeMoarenschidt "has been observed making sketches of ship channels and taking photographs promiscuously." Headquarters had no traces on Larin DeMoarenschidt. J. Edgar Hoover recommended that Larin DeMoarenschidt's personal effects should be search on entrance into Mexico "as well as his return to this country."

Albert Jenner of the Warren Commission asked DeMohrenschildt about this incident:

A. Some characters stopped the car and came out of the bushes and they said: "You are a German spy." They said "You are a German citizen, you are a German spy. It was very strange. Here is my Polish passport. So, they never said anything about sketching. I thought they were from some comedy actors.

Q. Didn't they identify themselves?

A. I think they said they were from the FBI.

Q. They might have been from some other government service [OSS]?

A. Maybe some other government service. But I have the impression they told me they were from the FBI and they followed me all the way from New York - all the way from New York.

Q. In any event five men stopped you and searched at that time, searched your car.

A. Searched the car, found absolutely nothing, except the water colors, the sketches. I still have the sketches.

DeMohrenschildt stated that:

...he had been waiting for his Mexican visa which had not arrived so he decided to drive through with Lillia Larin (which name she had continued to use despite her additional two marriages since the death of Larin) and they had driven to Corpus Christi, Texas, where they registered at the Nueces Hotel. They occupied separate rooms at this hotel and remained for a few days. He stated while on the beach swimming one of those days he snapped some pictures of Lillia in a bathing suit with a box-type Brownie camera which he purchased some time prior in New York City. (Subject emphatically stated that this was the only pictures that had been taken by either one of them, and further, that they had not at any time gone near any military installation). Subject continued that while waiting for his visa they had decided to go to Arkansas Pass, Texas, to fish and had accordingly driven over and stayed at a hotel at Arkansas Pass as man and wife, registering under his name. Subject stated that at that time he had intended marrying Lillia, and further, did not at that time know of any law that prohibited it in the United States. [FBI SA#100-839]

Lillia Pardo Larin was a relative of, (deleted) Minister for Mexico, Vichy, France. At this time she listed her husband one (deleted) Vichy, France. DeMohrenschildt helped her enter the United States. [FBI 100-32965-50] Her letters to DeMohrenschildt were intercepted at the Postal Censorship Station in Miami, Florida.

George DeMohrenschildt was detained by the FBI and the Immigration and Naturalization Service, but was not arrested. George DeMohrenschildt informed the FBI and the Immigration and Naturalization Service that he was employed by Film Facts Incorporated, making anti-Nazi films for the Polish government-in-exile. The FBI determined that: "(Deleted)The present status of the company would discredit the Subject's statement that he was presently functioning as a Film Facts Inc. employee in Mexico and engaging in obtaining scenic films for such company." The Office of Naval Intelligence investigated DeMohrenschildt. He became of interest to the Assistant Chief of Staff for Intelligence of the Department of the Army. DeMohrenschildt said he was a cousin of Texas oil millionaire George Farenthold. Questioned by the FBI several weeks later, George Farenthold stated:

In June 1941 George Farenthold advised S.A. R.J. Clements that he met George Von Mohrenschildt through Ted Jamison, an oil operator in Texas. Farenthold stated that the Subject is not his cousin; that he had no relatives in the United States. Farenthold advised that he had received a telephone call from Bill Ellis asking him whether he was related to George Von Mohrenschildt and he told Ellis he was not. After receiving the telephone call Farenthold made a trip to Fort Arkansas and met George Von Mohrenschildt in the Tarpon Inn. George Von Mohrenschildt approached Farenthold and requested him not to inform Ellis that the Mexican woman with whom he was traveling was not his wife, because he had registered at the hotel as man and wife. The group had dinner together and upon George Von Mohrenschildt's suggestion, went to Hillwood's Tavern, which was a beer parlor frequented by sailors and a large number of foreign-speaking peoples. George Von Mohrenschildt became involved in a discussion of the War, at which time Farenthold expressed his opinion that England would be victorious. George Von Mohrenschildt thereupon stated, 'No, I do not agree with you. Germany has not used 1/100 of her strength.' Farenthold was surprised to note this remark and questioned George Von Mohrenschildt as to where his sympathies lay. George Von Mohrenschildt replied that he had been bitterly opposed to Germany until the occupation of France, but that he had been favorably impressed by the decent way the Germans treated the French citizenry. Farenthold disputed this remark and stated that it was his impression that the French people were starving; whereupon George Von Mohrenschildt said, 'No Hitler is taking care of them. They are not starving like they were in the last War.' Farenthold stated that when he first met George Von Mohrenschildt, the latter told him he was a Swedish refugee and had a 'Nasen' Passport, which type of Passport was originally issued to the White Russians and subsequently to other types of European refugees. During the subsequent discussion George Von Mohrenschildt related that his father was a German and possessed a large estate in Poland. He said that the Germans have protected his father's estate after the occupation of Poland and that his father was presently living in Berlin, Germany, where he was confined to a hospital; however he advised that his father was well-treated and that he had received numerous letters from him. During the discussion relative to the prospect of the United States becoming involved in the War, George Von Mohrenschildt stated, 'Don't think Germany is ever going to declare war on the United States. They are led by a smart Austrian and not a Kaiser, and there will be a lot of people in the Middle West who will not endorse the United States becoming involved in war and there will be a big upheaval.' He also stated that this war can end only in one of two ways - either by a compromise or a German victory. He remarked that the South American Republics were not friendly to the United States and that America would never be able to defeat Germany even if the South American Republics assisted.

In 1993 George Farenthold stated: "I just met George DeMohrenschildt a couple of times. I didn't know him really well. I thought it was possible that this guy was really a spy. He was a great one for young women. I don't know why the University of Texas ever hired him. He was a professor there. I don't remember anyone else he associated with except some ladies."

EDNA FOX: FALL 1941

Mrs. Edna Fox, the proprietor of the rooming house at 109 East 73rd Street, where Subject resided in 1941, advised Detective Raymond J. Gill of the New York Police Department, in the Fall of 1941, that while the Subject resided at her residence he acted very suspicious and made it a point to become acquainted with Robert Matsuoka (born December 18, 1931; died December 17, 1990), whom she described as the son of a former premier of Japan. She stated that when Matsuoka was returning to Japan, Subject gave him a letter addressed to Subject's father. At the time Subject stated that his father would get the letter in Germany sooner if it was mailed from Japan by Matsuoka. Mrs. Fox also advised Detective Gill that one occasion she had heard Subject greet a visitor to his apartment with the salutation, 'Heil Hitler.'

Robert Matsuoka was called before the House Un-American Activities Committee.

HELEN KRAVADSE: MARCH 1941

Helen Kravadse, an employee of the Washington Evening Star, in March 1941, advised that Baron George DeMohrenschildt, residence 109 E 73rd Street, New York City, is suspected by her of being a Nazi propagandist. Miss Kravadse first met George DeMohrenschildt during 1940 to 1941 when he came to Washington, D.C. and interested himself in theatrical work, in which Miss Kravadse was engaged. At that time Baron DeMohrenschildt represented himself as being connected with Variety Magazine. He told Miss Kravadse that he had been born in Germany, that his father was residing in Germany, and that he, the Baron, intended to return to Germany in the near future. He also told her that he had been taking pictures in various parts of the United States and had edited propaganda moving pictures for German interests, which pictures were sent to Germany and Poland. He told her that he had had a cavalry position in the Polish Army, which Miss Kravadse interpreted as meaning that the Baron was connected with that portion of the German Army which was then occupying Poland. Subject inquired of Miss Kravadse concerning her sympathies with respect to the Nazis. She is said to have indicated that she was indifferent to the Nazis. George DeMohrenschildt then spoke at great length concerning the virtues of the German form of government and the disadvantages of democracies. Miss Kravadse advised that while in New York, through curiosity, she checked with Variety Magazine and learned that the employees there had never heard of Baron George DeMohrenschildt and advised her he definitely was not connected with that publication. Miss Kravadse advised that through her other sources, whose identities she did not divulge, she had heard that Baron George DeMohrenschildt had been in Brazil and Mexico, in which latter country he had some connection with oil development. She also subsequently heard while in Washington, D.C. that Baron George DeMohrenschildt was intimately acquainted with Descio Machado, who allegedly had some connection with the Brazilian Embassy and was referred to as the 'Brazilian Banana King.'" [FBI DC 100-32965-X1; WCD 533p32; FBI 32965-XI]

Descio Machado's cousin was the Air Attache of the Brazilian Embassy, Washington. Both Descio Machado and his cousin were called before the House Un-American Activities Committee and accused of have been recruited as spies by Brazilian Nazis. On August 2, 1941, DeMohrenschildt sent this Western Union cable to the FBI: "This is very urgent. George Von Mohrenschildt...in business. Official Mexican government blackmail me pretending that I am under suspicion in the States. Please wire Secretary United States Embassy Carrigan in Mexico that my dossier is clear otherwise will suffer grave financial damage." [FBI 100-327765-6] George DeMohrenschildt had been ordered to leave Mexico.

MAIL INTERCEPTED: JULY 1942

Edward Epstein wrote that British mail intercepts in Bermuda turned up evidence that he was working for Nazi interests. American mail intercepts on George DeMohrenschildt indicated that on July 6, 1942, J.A. Helguera wrote this letter to DeMohrenschildt that was copied by SA-47388, Examiner 12003.

I have just received your letter of the 1st instant, which crossed mine of the 3rd. As soon as I can go out, which will be by the end of this week, I shall go to the Gobernacion and have a talk with Mr. Garcia Ojeda. As I wrote to you, I had not done anything because Lic. Jarza had told me that he had instructions from you to arrange your re-entry as a resident. I shall state that you are coming here as an investor, to enter into a business deal here with me and that you are bringing both capital and brains into this country which is only right. This might help...

INFORMANT (DELETED) SEPTEMBER 16, 1942

A girl named Carmen Barnes who is alleged to be extremely intimate with Bendix of the Bendix Aviation Corporation, has been seen frequently in DeMohrenschildt's company. She introduced him to Bendix who has been suspected of some pro-Nazi views at least prior to our entry into the war. On Sunday, August 30, 1942, or September 6, 1942, two couples were taken into custody on the beach at East Hampton, Long Island. The people had a speaking acquaintance with DeMohrenschildt. On many occasions DeMohrenschildt has said he was going to visit some prominent person at East Hampton or vicinity where such person had an estate. Actually he would go to East Hampton to a rooming house or small hotel. On these trips he was accompanied by some others.

ATTEMPTED PENETRATION: OFFICE INTER-AMERICAN AFFAIRS
NELSON A. ROCKEFELLER

In 1937, at age 30, Nelson A. Rockefeller traveled to Latin America. Three years later, Nelson Rockefeller was Coordinator of the Office of Inter-American Affairs. He remained in this position until 1944. In this capacity, Nelson Rockefeller monitored United States concerns in South America represented by German intelligence agents, and studied the feasibility of transferring German agencies of American firms to native agencies. FBI Agent P.E. Foxworth reported the details of a meeting he had with Nelson Rockefeller on August 23, 1940:

Rockefeller said the main reason for his call at the Bureau this morning was that he was sending an 'economic commission' to South America in the immediate future. He has been furnished with the names of German representatives of American concerns in South America. His Economic Commission will contact these German representatives for the purpose of determining just how they are doing business. At the same time they will determine the possibilities of the business now done by the Germans being taken over by American representatives. They are to contact the various members of the United States Diplomatic Corps in the various countries and, otherwise, get 'bird's eye view' of the situation existing. He believes that they will not be gone more than 60 days and will visit each country during his period of time...Rockefeller felt it would be of inestimable value if he could secure a representative of the Bureau to be a member of the Commission. The two representatives who he has selected are Percy Douglas, export manager of the Otis Elevator Company and Thomas S. Gates Jr. who is at present a partner in Drexel & Company, Philadelphia. Rockefeller thought that Douglas was probably the best informed man in this country on Latin American psychology. His father was the president of the Southern Pacific Railway in Mexico for many years and Douglas is thoroughly familiar with the Central and South American countries. Drexel & Company was formerly a J.P. Morgan affiliate. Gate's father is president of the University of Pennsylvania. The other member would be a Special Agent of the FBI. Subsequent to my conversation with you, I told Rockefeller that an agent would be designated. Several names will be furnished you. Rockefeller also told me that to promote the commercial relations, he proposed to form a holding company here in the United States and then a development company in each of the Latin American republics, the development company, so far as possible, to be financed in the country in which it is located. This proposition would be to promote trade with the United States in whatever manner possible. These are tentative plans. He also has made arrangements with George Gallup to start an Institute of Public Opinion in South America. This is still in the tentative stage but Gallup has agreed. Gallup is now making a survey of the possibility of such an Institute of Public Opinion and Rockefeller expects to have his report soon. Of course, an ideal cover for any for any of our men would be such an organization as the Institute of Public Opinion. Rockefeller said that he would be very glad to help us with either placing our men with either the Institute of Public Opinion or with the developing company if we so desired and thought that we could be of much value and assistance to him in connection with both propositions." J. Edgar Hoover wrote: "I want to work very closely with him.

Percy Douglas became a staunch supporter of Barry Goldwater in the 1960's. Thomas S. Gates, a Director of General Electric, was Undersecretary of the Navy from 1953 to 1957. He was Secretary of the Navy from 1957 to 1959. President Dwight Eisenhower's Secretary of Defense from 1959 to 1960. Morgan Guaranty Trust, which Gates was affiliated with, had made two twenty-million dollar loans to the Belgium Congo. In 1961 Gates became president of Morgan Guaranty Trust. Gates supported the war in Vietnam and his name appeared in an advertisement supporting President Johnson that was also signed by David Rockefeller, Arthur H. Dean of Sullivan and Cromwell, Dean Acheson and John J. McCloy. Gates helped write NIXON'S defense platform. The FBI agent chosen for this mission was P.E. Foxworth. In 1941 Foxworth investigated Communist activity at Harvard University. In December 1941 Foxworth was an Assistant Director of the FBI, and head of the FBI's New York Bureau and Director of the Special Intelligence Service Branch. He received training from the OSS. [Compromised Campus, Diamond, S.]To conduct these activities, Nelson Rockefeller was given a three-million-dollar budget. Each month the Bureau checked the telephones in the White House office of Nelson Rockefeller. By 1942 President Franklin D. Roosevelt considered merging the Nelson Rockefeller organization with that of the organization of the Coordinator of Information, Colonel William Donovan. [FBI 62-67719-1 5.5.42; 62-61140X 9.9.40, LHM 8.30.40, 9.5.40 to Director] The same year, the FBI prevented Nelson Rockefeller from publicly revealing that the United States had intercepted 84 Axis radio messages transmitted from Latin America: "It is believed that this statement is most ill-advised and is one we should object to since the Axis will do nothing more than to change their code." The Bureau believed Nelson Rockefeller had been indiscreet when he publicly announced in 1943 that the Nazis had established training schools for saboteurs in Argentina. These, however, were considered only minor gaffes, and in 1944 he became Assistant Secretary of State for American Republic Affairs.

DEMOHRENSCHILDT AND NELSON ROCKEFELLER

When the FBI detained George DeMohrenschildt in June 1941 it found: "Letter dated April 5, 1941, to Von Mohrenschildt, 109 East 73rd Street, New York, from K. Maydell, Facts and Films, 33 West 60th Street, New York City, mentioning getting necessary letters from Nelson Rockefeller...Letter of credit from Chase National Bank, New York City, number C16745, dated May 3, 1941, for $1250.00." [WCD 533 p18] When George DeMohrenschildt wired the FBI about a problem he was having procuring a Mexican residence permit he advised: "Chase National Bank, New York, will answer financially for me." What was the relationship between DeMohrenschildt and Nelson Rockefeller?

3822 BENTON STREET

In October 1942 the FBI interviewed Paul Joachim, who rented the boarding house and was employed at the time in the Navy building. He told the FBI that he rented the house at 3822 Benton Street, N.W. and that Subject had formerly lived with him there...He advised that Quintan Quines, who was employed at the British Embassy and who lived at the house had visited the Subject in New York City. Joachim stated that during the time Subject resided he was not employed but was supposed to be endeavoring to obtain a commission in the United States Army as well as in the organization headed by Nelson Rockefeller and that during the time he resided here had stated that he was waiting to be investigated for one of these positions. Joachim stated that he had heard say he had been in the Polish Army during the war as an officer. He stated that the Subject had said that he was a Russian and that his family had moved to Poland during the time of the Russian revolution inasmuch as they were Czarist in sympathy.

Joachim stated that Von Mohrenschildt made no pro-Axis remarks. The other boarder at 3822 Benton Street, N.W. was U.S. Navy Lt. Cmdr. Harry Hull. The FBI could locate no record that Von Mohrenschildt applied for a position with the United States Army or with the Office of Inter-American Affairs. The FBI:

In March 1953, through the cooperation of Miss Ann Wickham, a member of the British WAAFS, it was ascertained that Patricia Deuel, who resided at the same address as Miss Wickham, maintained an address book with the following listing: 'George Mohresschilgt Care Quentin K. 3622 Washington, D.C.' On April 13, 1942, agents of the FBI observed Grace Buchanan Dineen, as admitted German espionage agent during World War II, who was convicted of conspiracy to commit espionage and sentenced to 12 years, depart the Statler Hotel in Washington, D.C. and walk to the Roger Smith Hotel where she met Patricia Deuel in the lobby. They proceeded to the Oak Room of the hotel and had lunch. In 1943, Grace Buchanan Dineen had advised S.A. James H. Kirby that during an extended conversation between Deuel and her in Dineen's room at the Statler Hotel, Deuel stated that she herself was 'terribly anti-American.'

Grace Buchanan-Dineen had been recruited by the Abwehr in Europe between 1939 and 1941 and returned to the United States before Pearl Harbor. She surrounded herself with a few assistants or subagents and forwarded reports in secret writing on shipping, war production, and other military information to cover addresses in neutral countries in Europe. The existence of all this agent first became known through Allied censorship, largely because of her use of cover addresses which were already compromised; and while in some cases it took long and painstaking research and the comparison of thousands of handwriting samples to identify her and her confederates, their reports to Germany were under the control of United States counter-intelligence agencies from a fairly early date in their active career.

DEMOHRENSCHILDTS ATTEMPT TO PENETRATE THE OSS

A CIA document indicated,

The records of the Coordinator of Information and the Office of Strategic Services...[show]...George DeMohrenschildt had been considered for employment in 1942 but was not hired since he was alleged to be a Nazi espionage agent. [WC Memo: Helms/Rankin CIA 18-522]

Another FBI Report stated

(deleted) of the Personnel Department in the office of Coordinator of Information advised that a check of their applications reflected that Subject had filed an application on May 19, 1942. She advised, however, that Subject has not been employed and no further action relative to his application has been taken.

On July 18, 1942, the Security Office of the OSS reported all informants seem to believe that Subject is loyal to the American form of government.

One of the government agencies indicates that Subject is a Nazi sympathizer and possibly an agent. He is stated to be definitely suspect. In view of this report it would be difficult to approve Subject. Recommendation: Security disapproval probable but interview necessary. Ellery C. Huntington, Jr. Lt. Col. AUS July 20, 1942.

The OSS file of George DeMohrenschildt contained a Memorandum dated July 30, 1942 which referred to the film enterprise of Baron Konstantine Van Maydell. The memorandum, was written by Ensign William J. Horrigan and directed to OSS Commander William Vanderbilt:

I have met Subject on one or two occasions. At that time he was known as George von Mohrenschildt. He told me at the time that he was representing an Irish film company distributing films taken under the auspices of the Irish Government during the Spanish War. Sometime after that his uncle's place was raided at the suggestion of a friend of mine. They found many films of a pro-Nazi nature which are intended to show the force and effectiveness of the German Army.

"I have other information concerning him which is helpful and some of which is not, nothing very definite, but all of which tends to place this fellow under very grave suspicion. As a matter of fact, I strongly suspect him personally, although I don't have anything really definite to pin a hat on him. I do know that he was in Mexico for about a year, and I have never received a satisfactory explanation of the work he did down there. He had told various people that he was engaged in real estate, but conversation with the man readily and instantly discloses that he knows absolutely nothing about the real estate business. This is one fellow I would like to see the Security officer go after fully and completely in every detail and respect. He is not very smart, is an absolute boor, and it is impossible to insult the guy. In other words, he's not a very good character. [HSCA V12 p51]

William J. Horrigan stated during a telephone interview in May 1993 that Bill Vanderbilt had been head of the OSS unit "O-2" which was in charge of covert operations, and he was his assistant. Eighty years old, William Horrigan did not remember the investigations he conducted of George DeMohrenschildt or Baron Konstantine Van Maydell. Dimitri DeMohrenschildt, the brother of George DeMohrenschildt, was in the OSS from 1942 to 1945 "but there is no file available on Dimitri prior to 1950, and this employment cannot be verified." [CIA 1241-1004; 2.23.50 Memo EE 775E] Dimitri DeMohrenschildt was freed from Soviet prison as part of a Russian/American prisoner exchange program and studied at Yale. During World War II, he was employed as a Foreign Language Examiner with the Bureau of Censorship, after which he "became affiliated with the War Department in some unknown manner." In 1946 he received a Rockefeller Fellowship in Slavic studies at the Hoover Institute for War, Peace and Revolution. In 1950 he was appointed a Director of the Tolstoy Foundation, and in the late 1970's he was the editor of the exile publication, The Russian Review. [Mader CIA 500; WCD 543, 531; 9WH166; Tolf The Russian Rockefellers Hoover Institute Press]

THE REFUSAL SHEET AND LOOKOUT CARD

On October 8, 1942, the State Department placed a Refusal Sheet and Lookout Card in the passport office file of George DeMohrenschildt. The State Department informed the HSCA that the effect of such a Lookout Card would be that, when the person applied for any type of passport action, the file would be reviewed to determine if the person posed a security threat. The reason for the Lookout Card in George DeMohrenschildt's file was: "Alleged to be Nazi agent. Refer any application to Fraud Section." [FBI 100-32965-50; WR p546; Epstein Legend p178; WCD 777A, 531, 533; CIA 431-154b; 9WH166; HSCA V12 p51] In 1964 DeMohrenschildt claimed he worked for British Intelligence during World War II. The FBI cabled the London Legal Attaché for corroboration. The results of this inquiry were withheld. [FBI 100-32965-243] Lawrence Wilson Joven, another associate of George DeMohrenschildt, was reportedly acquainted with Nazi officials. In a 1943 FBI interview, Lawrence Joven stated ...that he had visited in Hungary [in 1939] with distant relatives and former acquaintances of his mother's family and while there he borrowed the uniform of an acquaintance who was in the Hungarian Cavalry and had his picture taken in this uniform as a souvenir. He stated he was not acquainted with any Nazi officials and had never had a photograph of Hitler, but may have had some postcards which he picked-up while in Germany as souvenirs...He said his father was formerly a doctor and had practiced for a short time at the London Hospital before coming to the United States where Joven was born. His father, he said, had attended the Rush Medical School in the U.S. before going to London. He said his mother had been born in Hungary but came to the U.S. when she was a very small child...Joven stated that his father had formerly been in good financial circumstances and had received a substantial income from his sugar plantations in the Philippine Islands but with the advent of the war his income had been cut off. [WC CR546 FBI NY 100-10310]

On August 24, 1944, the FBI questioned Dr. Joseph Jordan Eller of 745 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Dr. Eller advised S.A. Stanley Ross that he had always been suspicious of DeMohrenschildt and Joven because of their

...general attitude toward the United States...Joven had indicated at certain of the social gathering that he attended that he was an agent of the Hungarian Government. This, of course, was before the entrance of the United States into war. Dr. Eller further stated that he was formerly married to Artemisa Calles, the daughter of the former President of Mexico, but that they were divorced.

S.A. Ross interviewed Mr. Bertram Wolff who told him "De Jovan did make decidedly pro-German statements at various times." [WCD 533 p29] George DeMohrenschildt and Lawrence Wilson Joven were Nazi spies, who outsmarted the FBI by operating in ruling class circles.

On October 7, 1944, Mrs. Beverly Miles, 116 East 63rd Street, New York City, advised S.A. Stanley Ross that...George DeMohrenschildt made several statements praising the work of Hitler and indicating at the time that he was sympathetic towards the Germans...Mr. Beverly Miles was interviewed at his office at 60 East 42nd Street, New York City...He indicated that George DeMohrenschildt's source of income and general indifferent attitude were always a source of mystery to him and did cause him to become suspicious of the Subject. He stated George DeMohrenschildt always contemplated doing something that would cause him to be in what Mr. Miles termed, a hot spot. In explaining this he said that George DeMohrenschildt had told him a year or so previously that he was going skiing in the Northern part of New York State and a short time after George DeMohrenschildt was to have left for this ski trip, Miles read in the newspapers that some German prisoners had crossed the border of the United States into Canada. He, likewise, observed that George DeMohrenschildt had made trips into Mexico just at the time that the newspapers were commenting on the fact that there were supposed to be Axis agents in Mexico, and finally, about a year previous, when the Allied forces were contemplating a push into Africa, George DeMohrenschildt told him he would like to become a liaison officer with the free French, in view of his knowledge of foreign languages.

LILIA PARDO LARIN - SEPTEMBER 1944

On September 13, 1944, George DeMohrenschildt was investigated by the FBI for alleged violations of the Foreign Agents Registration Act:

This office has been conducting an investigation in an effort to determine if George DeMohrenschildt was engaged in any activities against the best interests of the United States, and in particular whether or not he was acting as an agent of a foreign government in attempting to secure information concerning the national defense of the United States or in spreading propaganda as a result of his participation in the films 'Poland Forever' and 'Spain In Arms' produced by Film Fact Inc.

It is to be noted that while the Subject was employed by Film Facts Inc. he was associated with Baron Konstantine Maydell who controlled the company and who has subsequently been interned as a dangerous enemy alien. Information has been received that the former girlfriend of the Subject, who is now Lilia P. De Caballero wrote to (deleted) in Washington, D.C. stating in part as follows: "Now I understand how right a certain government was to suspect him. He is a man capable of anything and for his useless and vicious life he needs large sums of money and so naturally sells himself to the highest bidder. Now I know that a cousin of his is in a concentration camp, his crime proved and the two were partners in all of their obscure and mysterious intrigues. I am so amazed to know that citizenship has just been granted to that traitor in the country in which he is living. That can be explained only by the fact that that country, having practically won the war, has abandoned or relaxed its vigilance and distrust and, in a boast of power and generosity, gives citizenship to dangerous snakes such as the individual in question.

The Warren Commission stated:

George DeMohrenschildt is a highly individualistic person of varied interests...eccentric, outspoken and a strong believer in individual liberties and in the U.S. form of government...the investigation of the Warren Commission has developed no signs of subversive or disloyal conduct...Neither the FBI, CIA, nor any witness contacted by the Warren Commission has provided any information linking George DeMohrenschildt to subversive or extremist organizations. [WR p283]

The FBI investigated DeMohrenschildt in 1945 and 1947. [CIA 431-154b]

THE POST-WAR PERIOD

During the postwar period, George DeMohrenschildt taught French and studied engineering at the University of Texas. Jane Gulick recalled, "Everybody there knew George because he was tall, good-looking, tan and entirely different. He fell right into the Texas scheme of things. He was dating the Governor's daughter when I met him. He knew the Murchisons and the Schlumbergers. He hung out with the top drawer, first cabin bunch. Money was necessary. I didn't know he was an international spy, but I've always romanced good theater. The Nazi thing is spooky, I hate to think of that. I guess George wasn't Jack Armstrong, the all-American Russian. Well, all reality is harsh, isn't it?" After leaving the University of Texas, George DeMohrenschildt worked for Pantipeec Oil. He explained: "In 1946 I was working in Venezuela for William F. Buckley's family's company, Pantipeec Oil Company. I met the Soviet Ambassador there who had been, before World War I, a roustabout for the Nobel Oil interests, and my uncle was a director of that outfit." The names, "Buckley, W.F." and "Buckley Bros." appeared in the address book of George DeMohrenschildt. The FBI Office in Washington, D.C. discovered that in 1946 George DeMohrenschildt was in contact with Fedor Aleksevovich Garanin, a member of the Soviet State Security Service. On August 2, 1996 the FBI stated, in a letter to this researcher, that "a search of the indices to our central record system files at FBI Headquarters revealed no record responsive to your request on Fodor Alexecobvich Garanin."

On July 11, 1948, George DeMohrenschildt married Phyllis Washington, the daughter of a Jewish, high-ranking State Department official. A CIA Office of Security document revealed that Phyllis DeMohrenschildt was employed by a covert CIA project (NCFE), as a receptionist, during their marriage. She had a position at NCFE "from (or before) 1950 until her termination (reasons unknown) on January 12, 1951. It is noted that in connection with this employment, she named (deleted) as a reference." [CIA 443-180 OS C - 45478] On June 1, 1949 a group of American businessmen, lawyers, and philanthropists – called the National Committee for Free Europe (NCFE) – filed incorporation papers in New York City. The event drew little notice at the time. Only a handful of people knew that NCFE was actually the public face of an innovative "psychological warfare" project undertaken by the CIA. That operation – which soon gave rise to Radio Free Europe – would become one of the longest running and successful covert action campaigns ever mounted by the United States. The couple was divorced December 29, 1949. George DeMohrenschildt commented: "She slept around with oil field workmen. She was also an alcoholic." On January 9, 1964, Phyllis Washington was admitted to the Washington, D.C., General Hospital, for mental observation. "

A responsible person who has personal knowledge of the facts concerning her mental condition advised she was diagnosed as an unstable, unpredictable, immature, childish person and a borderline mental case. While she could answer questions of a personal nature he doubted that she could give an objective opinion if subject matter of an emotional interest was discussed with her. He stated that if it was a case of testifying he would legally have to allow Phyllis DeMohrenschildt but medically would recommend against it. (See report of S.A. James F. Morrissey March 27, 1964, at Washington, D.C.)" [FBI Hoover to Rankin 5.4.64]

In 1956 George DeMohrenschildt and his superior at Pantipeec resigned and formed their own company called The Cuban-Venezuelan Oil Trust Company. George DeMohrenschildt visited pre-Castro Cuba and reached an agreement with Fulgencio Batista. He told the Warren Commission: "It was a large development company to promote eventually a large oil drilling campaign in Cuba...[We] almost owned about one half of the whole country under lease..." By the mid-1950's, George DeMohrenschildt had divorced two wives: Phyllis Washington and oil heiress Winnie Sharples. His attorney was Morris Jaffe, whose law partner represented Marina Oswald in 1964. George DeMohrenschildt's net worth was $300,000. [CIA 431-154b; 9WH201 as cited by Scott; WCD 734] George DeMohrenschildt was on the payroll of Three States Natural Gas as well.

JEANNE FOMENKO LE GON

In early 1957 George DeMohrenschildt and Jeanne Fomenko Le Gon, whose father had owned the Chinese National Railroad in pre-Communist China, ran off to Mexico together. The husband of Jeanne Fomenko Le Gon, Robert LeGon, went to the FBI, and asked the Bureau to open an Internal Security investigation on George DeMohrenschildt. Robert Le Gon was interviewed by FBI S.A. Hosty. James Hosty commented: "I was the second agent. It was actually Ed Kirkenthal who did the investigation. He would have written it up." [WCD 533 p69] The FBI Report concerning Robert Le Gon's complaint contained a deleted paragraph followed by the words "(The Dallas County District Attorney is Henry Wade, from Special Agent of the FBI." [Ltr. To Bureau 2.1.57 From SAC Dallas (105-632)] The interview with Robert Le Gon determined that another brother of Jeanne LeGon, Sergei Fomenko, worked with Robert Oppenheimer on the Manhattan Project developing the A-Bomb. The FBI had suspected that George DeMohrenschildt had been collecting data regarding the operation of a uranium plant. [WCD 532] On August 8, 1960, Robert Le Gon was officially committed to the Camillo State Mental Hospital and was diagnosed as schizophrenic reaction, paranoid type. [FBI 62-109060 Not Rec. 5.5.64] A daughter of George DeMohrenschildt married the son of a Vice President of Lockheed Aircraft. Lockheed, like General Dynamics, employed former Nazi scientists.

CIA CONTRACT AGENT

In 1957 George DeMohrenschildt was hired as a contract agent by the International Cooperation Administration (ICA) and was granted a security clearance. Philip Agee: "The International Cooperation Administration is valuable to the CIA because it provides cover..." [Agee CIA Diary p63] The International Cooperation Administration was the parent agency of the Agency for International Development. George DeMohrenschildt was granted an ICA/AID clearance to go to Yugoslavia and advise the government of Marshall Tito "on ways to increase oil production." He told the Dallas Times Herald that the real purpose of the trip was to further estrange Yugoslavia from the Soviet bloc: "Yugoslavia now buys oil and oil machinery from Russia and the Soviet bloc. Our State Department would like to see Yugoslavia become self-sufficient in oil." [FBI SD 105-5228] The Agency for International Development did its own security check on George DeMohrenschildt, then had the Civil Service Commission do the same. The findings of both these investigations were classified as of 1994. [WCD 535] George DeMohrenschildt was to spend a minimum of eight months in Yugoslavia, for which the Agency for International Development would pay him $13,000. Supposedly, while in Yugoslavia, he tried to boat to Marshall Tito's private island on two occasions and was fired upon by security guards. In Warren Commission testimony he conceded Marshall Tito's police suspected him of spying - but again he was "sketching landscapes."

J. WALTON MOORE

When George DeMohrenschildt returned from Yugoslavia, he was contacted by Dallas CIA Domestic Contacts Division representative J. Walton Moore. Moore: "My initial contact with DeMohrenschildt was the result of a November 22, 1957, source lead from headquarters, advising that he had recently returned to Dallas after spending approximately a year in Yugoslavia for the International Cooperation Administration. I called on him in early December 1957 and submitted a name check, dated December 6, 1957. At that time he gave me a copy of standard personal history form 57, which gives considerable biographic data." A CIA document noted: "In the course of several meetings, the CIA representative obtained foreign intelligence which was promptly disseminated to other Federal Agencies in ten separate reports. The Dallas representative continued informal, occasional contact with him until the autumn of 1961." [CIA 18-522] In his Warren Commission testimony, George DeMohrenschildt affirmed he was acquainted with J. Walton Moore, whom he described as "a Government man, either FBI or Central Intelligence." In the early 1960's the Domestic Contacts Division maintained a two-man office in Dallas, Texas, consisting of Moore and a military assistant. [CIA 1642-1092] Everett D. Glover told the FBI that George DeMohrenschildt told Glover "he had been told by an FBI Agent that OSWALD was completely harmless. Glover stated that he asked this question of George DeMohrenschildt in 1962...Glover advised that he recently received a letter from George DeMohrenschildt postmarked January 16, 1964, wherein George DeMohrenschildt repeated, 'It's interesting, but before we began to help Marina and the child we asked the FBI man in Dallas or in Fort Worth about LEE and he told us he was completely harmless.' Glover furnished this letter to the interviewing agent." [WCD 555 pg.75] When George DeMohrenschildt was questioned about this by the FBI, he denied making any such statement. He said the only person he talked to from the FBI was J. Walton Moore. George DeMohrenschildt testified to the Warren Commission that J. Walton Moore first interviewed him in 1957, when he returned from a trip to Yugoslavia. He said he had discussed OSWALD with J. Walton Moore and Max Clark and he was told, "by one of these persons, 'The guy seems to be okay.'" [HSCA R p217] Max Clark denied that he "ever intimated in any way that he had been with the Bureau." [FBI DL105-632 E Cover Page]

The CIA record of J. Walton Moore was examined by the HSCA:

In 1963 Moore was employed by the Dallas Domestic Contacts Division Office of the CIA...he had been assigned to the Division in 1948. During the period April 1, 1963, to March 31, 1964, he was an overt CIA employee assigned to contact persons traveling abroad for the purpose of eliciting information they might obtain. He was not part of a covert or clandestine operation.

There was some controversy within CIA as to the function of the Domestic Contacts Division. According to a 1972 Memorandum from the Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, William Colby, the service "establishes discreet but overt relationships with American private citizens, commercial, academic, and other organizations and resident aliens." During hearings on his appointment as Ambassadorship to Iran Richard Helms claimed that all Domestic Contacts Division did was to debrief returning travelers. [Wise The American Police State p189] Scott Malone: "I used to think the Domestic Contacts Division guys were wimps. I was wrong, they are heavy hitters." The HSCA continued:

In an April 13, 1977, Agency Memorandum contained in George DeMohrenschildt's CIA file, Moore set forth the facts to counter the claim...that OSWALD had been employed by the CIA and that Moore had known him. In that memorandum, Moore was quoted as saying that, according to his records, the last time he had talked with George DeMohrenschildt was in the Fall of 1961. Moore said that he had no recollection of any conversation with George DeMohrenschildt concerning OSWALD...Moore recalled only two occasions when he had met with George DeMohrenschildt- first, in the Spring of 1958, to discuss a mutual interest in China; and then in the Fall of 1961, when George DeMohrenschildt and his wife showed films of their Latin American walking trip. Other documents in George DeMohrenschildt's CIA file, however, indicated more contact with Moore than was stated in the 1977 Memorandum. In a Memorandum dated May 1, 1964, , submitted to the Acting Chief of the Domestic Contacts Division, Moore stated that he had known George DeMohrenschildt and his wife since 1957 when he had obtained biographical data on DeM; Moore also wrote that he had seen George DeMohrenschildt several times in 1958 and 1959. George DeMohrenschildt's CIA file contained several reports submitted by George DeMohrenschildt to the CIA on topics concerning Yugoslavia.

The HSCA's "interview with J. Walton Moore and its review of the CIA files of J. Walton Moore and George DeMohrenschildt show no evidence that he had ever been an American intelligence agent. In this regard, the Committee noted that from 1959 to 1963, upon returning from trips abroad, as many as 25,000 Americans annually provided information to the Domestic Contacts Division on a non-clandestine basis. Such acts of cooperation should not be confused with an Agency relationship." A CIA document noted: "J. Walton Moore was involved in the Agency's effort to support the Warren Commission during its investigations." [CIA 1634-1085-88] On August 13, 1958, the Chief, Domestic Contacts Division received an interoffice memorandum from the Chief, Personnel Security Division, Office of Security about DeMohrenschildt. The Office of Security determined that:

Certain information has been received which your division will wish to consider in determining the extent and level of your use of Subject. W.M. Knott, Chief, Personnel Security Division. DISAPPROVED-U. This category is assigned by index for Headquarters use only. The Field Chief determines the classified disclosure level. Subject was investigated by Federal Agencies in 1941, 1942, 1945, 1947 and 1957. The investigation reports as well as the file of other Federal Agencies reflect the following: Between 1940 and 1942 Subject was considered to be pro-German and suspected of being a German propagandist and an espionage agent. EYES ONLY.

In 1960 George DeMohrenschildt visited Ghana, which was governed by the leftist President Kwame Nkrumah. George DeMohrenschildt posed as a wealthy stamp collector representing a Swedish firm. He had visited Ghana shortly after leaving Yugoslavia. [WC Voshinin Deposition]. The Warren Commission and the HSCA studied all Government records on George DeMohrenschildt, yet it never uncovered any International Cooperation Administration records or reports. The only reports about his trip were originated by the CIA. The HSCA interviewed J. Walton Moore, yet this interview was not mentioned in the text of the report nor has it been released as of 1994. DeMohrenschildt said that J. Walton Moore, an FBI agent, told him OSWALD was alright. Did he mean JAMES HOSTY?

THE BAY OF PIGS TRAINING CAMP

In June 1960 George DeMohrenschildt and his wife, Jeanne, set out on a walking trip through Central America. The Warren Report: "In 1960, after his daughter's death, he and his wife made an eight-month hike from the United States-Mexican border to Panama, over primitive jungle trails. By happenstance, they were in Guatemala City at the time of the Bay of Pigs invasion." [WR p283] In 1976 George commented: "The original plans were to walk all the way to the tip of South America, however we did not make it because the mule we were taking with us on the trip could not pass the Panama Canal." George DeMohrenschildt played some role in the Bay of Pigs. He had a personal interest in overthrowing Fidel Castro, since he had a lease which gave him Cuban drilling rights which was invalidated by Fidel Castro. George DeMohrenschildt testified to the Warren Commission that he encountered Cuban exiles, but did not know who they were. This was strange. The camp had no access roads and was "a self-contained city with 100 kilometers of private roads running through 5,000 acres...the nearest habitation was the remote village of San Felipe...the entire plantation was heavily guarded, so there was little chance that any curious outsider would stumble onto the exile camp, or penetrate its secrets." [Ross & Wise Inv. Gov. p25] George DeMohrenschildt claimed he encountered these men on the streets of Guatemala City - the exiles were not allowed off the remote base. In April 1961 George DeMohrenschildt was in Guatemala City. DeMohrenschildt left a few days after the Bay of Pigs for Panama, where he spoke with United States Ambassador Joseph Simpson Farland. Joseph Simpson Farland was a S.A. of the FBI from 1942 to 1944, then he joined Naval Intelligence. Joseph Farland was in the Dominican Republic from 1957 to 1960. He was named Ambassador to Panama in 1960. Joseph Farland was in Pakistan from 1969 to 1972 and in Iran from 1972 to 1973. He was listed in Who's Who in the CIA. In October 1962 George DeMohrenschildt wrote the Under Secretary of State in Washington, D.C., and offered to submit a "travelogue" which he prepared following his visit to the Bay of Pigs training camp. According to George DeMohrenschildt, he was about to send it to England and France and had been told by his European friends that they might send his typescript to the USSR, "where there is a great demand for travelogues and adventure stories." [CIA 431-154B]

DEMOHRENSCHILDT ASSOCIATE: LEE HARVEY OSWALD

George DeMohrenschildt knew OSWALD from January 1962 to June 1962. The HSCA commented, "George DeMohrenschildt was an enigmatic man - a geologist-businessman who befriended OSWALD in Texas in 1962, thus causing considerable speculation based on the contrasting backgrounds of the two men. George DeMohrenschildt was sophisticated and well educated, a man who moved easily among wealthy Texas oil men and a circle of Dallas White Russians, many of whom were avowed conservatives. OSWALD, because of his background and his Marxist ideological positions, was shunned by most of the people George DeMohrenschildt counted among his friends."

DEMOHRENSCHILDT ASSOCIATE: ADMIRAL H.E. BRUTON

George DeMohrenschildt introduced OSWALD to Mrs. H.E. Bruton, the wife of Admiral H.E. Bruton. Before he retired, H.E. Bruton had been Chief of Naval Communications and Navy Chief Counsel. Phil Wienert recalled:

My wife and I spent an afternoon in the Bruton's Dallas suburban home talking to OSWALD in July 1962. First OSWALD'S wife and baby showed up, then OSWALD. Mrs. Bruton and the DeMohrenschildts were present. The DeMohrenschildts were friends of the Brutons. Admiral Bruton was in France as a sales representative for Collins. [Collins radio had CIA classified contractual relationships -CIA OLC #78,2100/1] I was an active army captain on active duty at that time on my way to my next assignment. I had known Mrs. Bruton all my life. OSWALD was very closed mouth. No Marxist-Leninist rhetoric. He didn't talk about much of anything. I'd been given a heads-up by Mrs. Bruton as to what his background was. I avoided baiting him. Mrs. Bruton knew he was a defector before George DeMohrenschildt- who had just returned from his walking trip - brought him over. OSWALD was described as an unfortunate guy, a Marine who had gotten off the track in Russia. This was how Mrs. Bruton portrayed him. There would be no other source for this other than DeMohrenschildt. I pegged him as not a very smart guy, very non-committal. No suspicion he might be a spy, in retrospect one could suspect almost anything. His wife and child were in the back room because of an estrangement between the two. Mrs. Bruton told me that George DeMohrenschildt had gotten him a job and, in a sense, had become his patron.

DEMOHRENSCHILDT ASSOCIATE: CLINT MURCHISON

George DeMohrenschildt knew Clint Murchison, who was a friend of J. Edgar Hoover. Three States Oil and Gas was one of Clint Murchison's oil companies. Lehman Trading was the parent company of Three States Oil and Gas. Lehman Trading was owned by a Director of United Fruit. [9WH202; Robert Lehman Trag. of United Fruit Crown NY 1976 pp. 118-19] Clint Murchison was friendly with John J. McCloy. According to researcher Tony Summers, Clint Murchison funded the anti-Semitic press and was the primary source of funds for American Nazi Party founder George Lincoln Rockwell. George DeMohrenschildt also knew H.L. Hunt, who funded numerous anti-Semitic groups. Clint Murchison's son, Clint Murchison Jr., allegedly established financial ties with CARLOS MARCELLO. [Summers Secret Life JEH pp. 181, 223]

DEMOHRENSCHILDT ASSOCIATE: THE SHAH OF IRAN

George DeMohrenschildt was acquainted with Richard Helms's associate, Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, the Shah of Iran. In 1953 Richard Helms organized and directed the coup which overthrew Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh and restored the Shah to his throne. Mohammed Mossadegh had ties to the Communist Party of Iran and the CIA believed the Russians might seize the oil reserves of Iran. Richard Helms, Tom Braden and other CIA men parachuted into Iran and Mohammed Mossadegh was overthrown.

DEMOHRENSCHILDT ASSOCIATE: W. R. GRACE

George DeMohrenschildt was acquainted with William Russell Grace Sr., Chairman of Grace Lines. When Richard Helms wanted an independent audit of the finances of the CIA, he chose William Grace Sr. Robert C. Hill, a former President of W.R. Grace, was linked in Senate testimony to PB SUCCESS. Robert C. Hill, a CIA officer and Ambassador to Argentina before joining the board of W.R. Grace, was also a Director of United Fruit. William Grace Sr.'s son, J. Peter Grace, was on the board of directors of the American Institute for Free Labor Development. Philip Agee wrote that the American Institute for Free Labor Development was founded to expand CIA labor operations in Latin America, and its funding came from the Agency for International Development. The board of directors of the American Institute for Free Labor Development included a director of the Rockefeller Foundation and a former director of the Free Cuba Committee. J. Peter Grace helped Nazi war criminal Otto Ambros enter the United States. [Lovestone Nation 1.16.67; 7.5.65; Facts on File 1974; transcript News Closeup ABC-TV 1.16.80 cited in Covert Action #25; Village Voice 4.12.83 - Joe Conason] The senior vice president of W.R. Grace was Cuban exile leader Anthony Navarro.

DEMOHRENSCHILDT ASSOCIATE: MRS. BOUVIER

George DeMohrenschildt knew the mother of Jacqueline Kennedy, Mrs. John V. Bouvier, since 1938. After the assassination of President Kennedy DeMohrenschildt wrote her a letter about his relationship with OSWALD. [CIA 922-396d] John Manley wrote:

In 1945 I was attached to the OSS and met my ex-wife, Jacque Manners through her brother, OSS Colonel John Manners, who served under Colonel Obolensky in Norway. In 1951 John Manners was shot in the head under mysterious circumstances and was paralyzed on his right side. George DeMohrenschildt was introduced to Colonel Serge Obolensky by Mrs. John Bouvier, in the mid-1950's.

George DeMohrenschildt stated that after he testified before the Warren Commission, he visited with Mrs. Bouvier who had become Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss: "This luxurious home was located in Georgetown and Auchincloss' money originated because of some association of Hugh's family with John D. Rockefeller, Sr. Eventually, we had to talk sadly about the assassination. Allan [sic] Dulles was there also, and he asked me a few astute questions about LEE." [Johnson Lee and Marina p222; HSCA V12 p225] George DeMohrenschildt knew Admirals, Texas oil men, Shahs, shipping magnates, the family of America's First Lady - all anti-Communists. Why was OSWALD the only communist he associated with? What did he see in OSWALD? Why was OSWALD being introduced to George DeMohrenschildt's social circle?

TITO AND CONCHITA HARPER

During his testimony before the Warren Commission, George DeMohrenschildt told Albert Jenner he had visited Tito and Conchita Harper on their ranch straddling the U.S./Mexican border. On July 3, 1972, The New York Times reported that Federal officials arrested nine men in Texas and Louisiana on charges of conspiring to smuggle munitions to Mexico. Among those arrested were Richmond C. Harper, 48, the brother of Tito Harper, a rancher and Director of the Frontier State Bank of Eagle Pass, Texas, and Marion Hagler, a former Inspector with the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Murray Kessler and Alder B. Seal were also arrested. Kessler, who was a house guest at the Harper ranch last June, had a record of six convictions in Federal and state courts on charges of interstate theft, transporting stolen property, bookmaking and conspiracy to possess heroin. Federal authorities described him as an associate of the Gambino organized-crime family. The buy was made by Customs Agent Cesar Diosdado: The CIA reported:

FOR CHIEF LEOB September 1, 1967

1. During the interrogation of Jose Ricardo Rabel Nunez, Cuban prisoner and alleged CIA agent, by members of LASO and the newsmen present early in August 1967 in Havana, Cuba, he advised that upon his arrival in the United States from Cuba he was met by a group of U. S. officials and that he knew the names of but two of these individuals - James McGarran

(phonetic) aka "Joaquin" and one Diosdado. The latter was believed by Nunez to be a Mexican and a Immigration official in Key West also. When asked by the Cuban Security Officer if he meant Cesar Diosdado Nunez replied in the affirmative and added that Diosdado is supposedly the Immigration official who really does the recruiting for the Central Intelligence Agency.

2. Cesar Diosdado, the Subject of files #276 656 and #32 469, who was born on August 16, 1921, in Laredo, Texas, and had been employed by the Customs Bureau, Treasury Department, since 1951, and is presently resident Customs Agent-in-Charge, Key West, Florida. Diosdado has been of interest to this Agency since 1961 and his last Liaison Clearance was approved on March 2, 1967, for use on JMWAVE Project in Miami, Florida. Prior to his clearance an investigation conducted on the Subject proved to be clear.

3. In April 1966 Diosdado was under investigation relative to allegations made against his mental stability and a charge that threats had been made on his life by the Cuban community in Florida. At this time Subjects salary was being paid by Wave Station. Subject is described as a controversial individual who has antagonized several of his fellow employees because of his brusque manner and attitude although he was doing an excellent job for WAVE. An investigation conducted by the Treasury Department on the above charges disclosed that they resulted from immaturity on the part of several individuals under the supervision of Diosdado and had no basis in fact.

4. The threat on Diosdado's life was made after the seizure of an automatic gun found concealed on a boat in Key West during July 1965 and a subsequent allegation was made that he had planted the weapon in the vessel. Diosdado had advised two of his agents to advise the agent who had made the allegation against Diosdado that he should be careful, to watch out and to stop spreading lies. It was the opinion of the investigating officers the Diosdado meant that his agent should be careful of Cuban nationals who might harm Customs agents in that area and he was not found to be unstable mentally.

5. In January 1967 another complaint was received from a Confidential Informant by the Internal Revenue Service on Diosdado's alleged sale of guns to a group of individuals planning an invasion of Haiti as well as his participation in a raid in which the persons were arrested by the U.S. Customs agents and the Miami County Deputy Sheriff on January 1, 1967. Informant claimed that Diosdado had been selling guns to persons and groups since 1957, and that he had sold arms to Castro prior to Castro's taking over Cuba, as well as getting individuals in and out of Cuba for a price. Moreover the informant advised that Diosdado was known to the FBI who have a file on the Subject but who do not interfere with his activities since the FBI believes he is acting for the CIA.

6. As a result of the above allegations by the Confidential Informant the Deputy Director, Internal Security, Internal Revenue Service, was apprized of this Agency's operational interest in Diosdado and no action was taken on the allegations. The Deputy Director advised that he would inform his representatives in Miami that the complaint had been channeled properly and that he should not undertake any investigation of such charges.

7. Western Hemisphere officials were informed of the allegations made against Diosdado and they in turn spoke in glowing terms of the great service performed by Subject for this Agency in his particular area, and it is their opinion that his activities are part of his work in behalf of its Project.

8. Upon inquiry of the Security Officer/Western Hemisphere it was learned that the LASO Conference and resultant publicity is being followed closely by that Office. (Deleted).

A "United States Government Memorandum File Alien Affairs Officer Subject Cesar Diosdado February 23, 1967" stated:

On February 13, 1967, Larry Flushman, Deputy Commissioner, U.S. Customs Service, made available a copy of a letter written by Inspector John F. McKenna, Internal Revenue Service, Miami, Florida, and received by William F. McCarthy, Director of the Internal Security Division, wherein it was alleged Subject was engaged in selling arms to persons involved in aborted Haitian revolution...Mr. Flushman reported he was not going to take and action in this matter as Diosdado's salary is being reimbursed to the Customs by CIA. Diosdado also has been the Subject of many such complaints and previous investigations have disproved such allegations...On February 13, 1967, Howard J. Osborn, Director of Security, was briefed on the allegations made against Diosdado at which time he recommended the viewpoint of the Western Hemisphere Division be solicited prior to attempting any action in this matter. He also suggested that Office of the General Counsel be briefed on this matter because of its relationship to Rolando Masferrer Rojas case involving his part in the aborted Haitian revolution...

On February 14, 1967, Mr. Meredith Flook, OS/AAS, met with John Dimmer, Chief of Base WAVE Donald C. Maurelius WH/EXO, and Richard Hannah, WH/SO, at which time Mr. Dimmer spoke in glowing terms of Subject's contribution to the Agency. Since there had been numerous complaints against Subject in past and they had been handled locally in the WAVE area, Mr. Dimmer suggested that Mr. Flushman be requested to return the matter to the Key West area for investigation and that OS/AAS assure IRS and FBI that this would be accomplished to their satisfaction. On February 14, 1967, William Cregar, FBI liaison, was requested to advise IRS to refer all queries concerning Subject to this Agency. The FBI will take no further action in this matter. On February 15, 1967 John Olds, Deputy Director, Internal Security Division, was contacted at his office IRS Building [in D.C.] at which time he agreed IRS would take no further action in this matter. They would advise John F. McKenna, IRS Miami, Florida, not to pursue any further action in this matter, and that if he receives any additional information it will be transmitted to IRS Headquarters for transmittal to U.S. Customs and this Agency.

On February 16, 1967 at a meeting with Mr. Flushman, he was advised of the resolution of the problem and he stated he was taking no further action in this matter. Mr. Flushman further related that when Subject's services will no longer be required by this Agency, he intends to continue to use the subject in the Key West area. Mr. Osborn was so advised of the above information.

HEMMING told this researcher in 1994: "Diosdado worked for JMWAVE from January 1960, when it started."

DIOSDADO'S TESTIMONY

During a preliminary hearing on the case Diosdado said that he had been summoned to Mexico on May 26, 1972, by the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs and told by Arthur Sedillo, a special agent of the Bureau, to investigate a group of gun smugglers. Diosdado said that Sedillo had told him that "this group had approximately 10,000 assorted weapons and they were asking or they were trying to trade the weapons for 25 kilos of heroin. He said that he arranged with Mr. Hagler to meet Mr. Harper on May 30, 1972, at the Eagle Hotel in Eagle Pass. Diosdado then placed his initial order: 3,500 to 4,500 M-1 rifles, with 500 rounds of ammunition for each weapon. "At that time Mr. Diosdado testified: 'Mr. Harper asked me as to what was the final destination of the weapons I was intending to purchase. I told him that was my business, it was nobody else's business but my own.' Mr. Harper then put Mr. Diosdado in touch with Kessler, who invited him to visit a tool company in Newark. After touring the premises, they entered a door at the east end of the warehouse which was partitioned off from the rest of the building. Mr. Diosdado testified that there was "numerous tooling machinery there, all green in color. Kessler stated that these were the machines, the tooling equipment that they were using to manufacture their own weapons, made the spare parts for the same." Diosdado produced the 25 pounds of heroin which was judged to be defective by the Harper/Kessler group. Now, they wanted cash and Diosdado wanted explosives. To cover the cost of the transaction, Mr.

Pollack of the Brooklyn Strike Force deposited $1-million in cash in $100 bills in a safe-deposit box at Chase Manhattan Bank branch in New York City. Another $1-million in cash was placed in a deposit box in San Antonio. Two other Customs agents flew to Shreveport to verify delivery and loading of the explosives on a DC-4 as planned, before Diosdado was to pay off Kessler in New Orleans. The agents seized the plane at Shreveport where it was to have embarked for Mexico, Diosdado testified. Harper was described as the catalyst and middle-man in the weapons for heroin deal." [NYT 11.11.72] The DC-4 aircraft that was seized contained 15,000 pounds of plastic explosives, 2,600 electrical blasting caps, 7,000 feet of cord and 25 electrical detonators.

PETER BREWTON'S INFORMATION

Brewton quoted Adler Berriman Seal: "The request for arms and ammunition was brought across the border to a rancher/banker by the name of Richmond Harper...who had very deep White House ties." During a trial in Las Vegas ten years later, Berriman Seal testified that the explosives were for CIA-trained anti-Castro Cubans. Peter Brewton reported that the New Orleans U.S. Attorney's Office believed Richmond C. Harper was under the impression that the weapons would be used by anti-Castro forces. Brewton reported that Richmond C. Harper was an associate of alleged CARLOS MARCELLO front man, Herman Beebe. The case against Richmond Harper and his codefendants was dismissed. According to Peter Dale Scott, a few years later, Richmond Harper became addicted to heroin and died under mysterious circumstances in Mexico City. Brewton reported that Berriman Seal was murdered in the parking lot of a Baton Rouge halfway house in February 1986. ### MILES AMBROSE

Myles Ambrose, was born in New York City on July 21, 1926. He was of Irish descent. He was a former prosecutor and defense attorney who was appointed head of the Waterfront Commission for New York Harbor. From 1957 to 1960 Myles Ambrose had been a Special Assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury; he was named Commissioner of Customs in June 1969. Myles Ambrose masterminded OPERATION INTERCEPT, which cut off the supply of Mexican marijuana. In this capacity he worked with Egil Krogh and Gordon Liddy. G. Gordon Liddy, a member of the Presidential Narcotics Marijuana Task Force, had several CIA clearances and was briefed by the CIA in August 1971 and February 1972. [FBI WFO 139-166 2 059; CIA FOIA #2146-12] NIXON named Myles Ambrose head of the newly created Drug Enforcement Office in January 1972 which later became the Drug Enforcement Administration.

MILES AMBROSE AND RICHMAN C. HARPER

United States Customs Commissioner Miles Ambrose resigned in May 1973 when The New York Times revealed he visited the Richmond Harper Ranch in December 1971.

Mr. Ambrose later acknowledged that William Hughes, the customs agent in charge of the San Antonio office, had told him after the two day visit, that he had warned him not to make the visit because Mr. Harper had a bad reputation. The warning was confirmed by other Federal officials, but Mr. Ambrose said he had no recollection of the warning. After the visit, Ambrose said, he discovered that Mr. Harper had been the defendant in a civil suit involving mislabeling as dog food, food that was intended for humans, and shipped over the border from Mexico to the United States. Ambrose would not give the New York Times a reason for his resignation. Charles Colson told Senator Lowell Weicker that "Ambrose would set up the CIA in the Drug Enforcement Administration. He said there were certain mafia figures who had cordial relations with Ambrose." [75-640-CR-PF-USDC SD FLA Def. Ex. 4]

In January 1963 George DeMohrenschildt brought OSWALD to a Russian Christmas party at the home of Declan Ford. After the assassination, "Dr. Paul Reichertz, the Director of Socony Mobil Research Laboratory at Duncanville, Texas," advised the Domestic Contacts Division "that members of his staff had attended some social or discussion group in January 1963 at which LEE HARVEY OSWALD was present. I called the FBI and they said they would send somebody out to talk to Dr. Reichertz. I made no effort to follow up on the matter with Reichertz since I felt it was none of my business, but during a visit with Maryann Duggan, the Socony Mobil Research Lab Librarian, and a good contact of mine for many years, she advised that she had heard that George DeMohrenschildt had befriended OSWALD after his arrival in Dallas and had introduced him to a study group." [CIA 1630-1083]

VOLKMAR SCHMIDT

The DeMohrenschildts had held a dinner party for OSWALD on February 13, 1963. There were two other guests at this party: the son of a Director of Radio Free Europe (Radio Free Europe was "originally owned and operated by the CIA and provided both facilities and 'cover'...for the Agency.") [ RR p218] Everett Glover and Volkmar Schmidt, a geologist who worked for Standard Oil. During World War II, Volkmar Schmidt lived in Germany and was an assistant to a psychiatrist.

Mentally ill and mentally deficient people were exterminated by the Nazis. Did Volkmar Schmidt conduct experiments on his patients? Edward Epstein reported Volkmar Schmidt worked for Dr. Wilhelm Kuetumeyer who, according to Volkmar Schmidt, "had been experimenting on a group of schizoids during World War II." [Epstein, Legend f.n. p647] OSWALD reportedly described Volkmar Schmidt as a fascist. [Johnson, Lee and Marina p321]

OSWALD, DEMOHRENSCHILDT AND RACISM

After having lived under Soviet rule for almost two and one-half years OSWALD may have adopted the ideology of Nazism. George DeMohrenschildt gave him a copy of Hitler's Mein Kampf to re-read - he had already read it in the Marines. The CIA reported in regard to Marina Oswald's Notes on Poetry Notebook:

The most interesting thing of note is, on the last page of the notebook, the inscription "Shil'kgruber, Adol.f (G.)." obviously meaning Adolf Schickelgruber - Adolf Hitler." [Mementos Notes On Poetry Notebook CIA]

George DeMohrenschildt claimed that he and OSWALD were anti-Nazi and anti-racist. In his unpublished manuscript, I Am a Patsy, written in the early 1970's, he professed that much of his conversation with OSWALD revolved around civil rights issues:

LEE was indeed all wrapped up in his work, books, his ideas on the equality of all people, especially of all races; it was strange for a boy from a poor white family from New Orleans and Texas, purely Anglo, to be so profoundly anti-racist. 'Segregation in any form, social or economic, is one of the most repulsive facts of American life,' he often told me. He also said: 'I would be willing anytime to fight these fascistic segregationists - and to die for my black brothers.'...In this he was so different, and so noble, compared with the Southerners and rednecks, whose segregationism stems from their fear of the blacks, of their strength and of the possibility of their prominence in every field of endeavor. Education for the Blacks was anathema for them, while LEE was fullheartedly for it. He loved black children and admired their cute, outgoing ways. LEE despised the reactionary groups, the white supremacists, the so-called hate groups and did not hide his feelings...Of course he greatly admired Dr. Martin Luther King and agreed with his program. I just mention it here, but he frequently talked of Dr. King with a real reverence.

In I Am A Patsy DeMohrenschildt wrote that OSWALD predicted a coup d'etat in America: "LEE thought someday there would be a coup d'etat in this country..." In another part of the book he wrote: "Hope and religion are a peculiar mixture. They make lots of people happy, but they also made the Jewish people go to gas chambers singing Hebrew songs, instead of fighting the Nazis." By having associated OSWALD with the civil rights struggle, George DeMohrenschildt discredited it. Note the use of words like "profoundly," "noble," "the possibility," and "so-called." There was more than a hint of sarcasm here. The construction of this sentence: "Education for the blacks was anathema for them [for blacks?], while LEE was fullheartedly [foolheartedly] for it," was curious. The "cute outgoing ways" of black children was a racial stereotype. Of course OSWALD admired the non-violent ways of Martin Luther King - that was why he had a Derringer handgun, a Mannlicher-Carcano rifle and a Smith & Wesson .38 handgun. Volkmar Schmidt had his roommate, Everett Glover, throw a party for the OSWALDS, "one of the purposes of which was to permit his friends, many of whom were studying Russian, to meet the OSWALDS." The DeMohrenschildts were to leave Dallas for Haiti in a few months, and were attempting to integrate LEE and Marina OSWALD into Dallas' White Russian community.

POLITICAL CLIMATE IN HAITI IN APRIL 1963: CLEMENT BARBOT

In April 1963 Clement Barbot, a political rival of "Papa Doc" Duvalier who had been recently released from prison, planned to kidnap the children of "Papa Doc" Duvalier, who were to be held as hostages until he resigned and left Haiti. The kidnapping attempt failed, and "Papa Doc" immediately had six people executed - merely on suspicion that they had been involved in the coup attempt. In the search for Clement Barbot which followed, "Papa Doc" Duvalier had every black dog in Haiti shot when it was rumored Clement Barbot could turn himself into a black dog. George DeMohrenschildt told the Warren Commission that he left Dallas in May 1963 and traveled to New York, Philadelphia, and Washington, D.C., before arriving in Haiti in June. He acknowledged that while in Washington, he was preparing for a project involving "Papa Doc" Duvalier, but gave no further details.

DOMESTIC OPERATIONS DIVISION EXPEDITE CHECK

Another CIA document read: "On April 29, 1963, the Office of Security furnished (deleted) DODS a thermofaxed copy of the 1958 OO/C summary referred to above. (Deleted) case officer, had requested an expedite check of George DeMohrenschildt for reasons unknown to the Office of Security." [CIA 431-154B] Jerrold Brown of the CIA commented:

It may or may not be of interest that on April 29, 1963, the Office of Security provided (deleted), Domestic Operation Divisions, a copy of a 1958 summary of the case of George DeMohrenschildt (#775). Gale Allen, then a DODS case officer had requested an expedite check of George DeMohrenschildt, 'exact reasons unknown.'

Apparently, Gale Allen's initial request was initiated through (deleted) Domestic Operations Division, on April 26, 1963. In late 1963 and early 1964 DeMohrenschildt received extensive attention in the investigation of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. DeMohrenschildt was a close associate of LEE HARVEY OSWALD in Dallas. Office of Security information is minimal concerning their association, but DeMohrenschildt is mentioned extensively in the Warren Commission Hearings and his testimony and the testimony of his wife, encompasses one of the longer testimonies in the Hearings. The testimonies reveal that the DeMohrenschildts did not associate with LEE HARVEY OSWALD after April 19, 1963, when they left Dallas for a trip to New York, Philadelphia and Washington, D.C. returning to Dallas for two days near the end of May 1963 and then traveling to Haiti where they were located on November 22, 1963. There is no information in the testimonies as to what the DeMohrenschildts were doing, or with whom they had contact, during the period April 19, 1963, to late May 1963. It is interesting that Gale Allen's interest in DeMohrenschildt coincided with the earlier portion of this trip and the information would suggest that possibly Gale Allen and

George DeMohrenschildt were possibly in the same environment in Washington, D.C., circa April 26, 1963." [CIA Memo 12.30.74 Jerrold G. Brown Security Analysis Group - highly deleted]

DEMOHRENSCHILDT MEETS WITH WUBRINY/1 APRIL 29, 1963

On April 29, 1963, a Contact Report from the Chief/DO/COEO to the DO/COEO stated:

1. WUBRINY/1 telephoned the sterile line at approximately 5:00 p.m. to report on a meeting held this afternoon as described below.
2. WUBRINY/1 said that Mr. Clemard Joseph Charles, subject of earlier contact reports, bought to the WUSALINE office George DeMorhenschildt.
3. Mr. DeMohrenschildt is the son of a Swedish father who was in Baku on a Nobel Enterprise at the time DeMohrenschildt was born. Left Baku at age two. He has had two wives...In 1960 DeMohrenschildt spent a year in Mexico with his wife and child and a donkey and is publishing a book on this titled something like 'Trois et le Mule.'
4. WUBRINY/1 says that DeMohrenschildt is a geologist who is presently involved in exploring Haiti's mineral resources. This has been written up in Le Monteur of March 13, 1963, the official issuance of the Haitian Government. WUBRINY/1 has a copy of this in the event it is not available in Kubark. According to this article, a $280,000 survey has been awarded to DeMohrenschildt plus a ten year option of a concession on sisal.
5. DeMohrenschildt claims that he has done geological work for the Meek Company in offshore oil, the Arabian Peninsula, and mentioning this (deleted) says DeMohrenschildt looked around the room and over his shoulder and said, 'My connection with this is, of course, confidential.'
6. WUBRINY/1 reports that deM claims to be an important person in Port-au-Prince and said that he did not go to the President to gain the concession, but instead worked through the Minister of Finance, Herve Boyer. DeM claims to be very close to this Minister and says that he is likely to survive any changes in the regime.
7. WUBRINY/1 characterized DeMohrenschildt as being a typical international financier and wheeler-dealer who apparently shared with M. Chari various business interests including a bank and sisal business.
10. WUBRINY/1 said that both men showed an element of bluff in their presentations and they spoke depreciatingly of the President but spoke glowingly of the investment possibilities in Haiti. C. Frank Stone III Chief DO / COEO [NARA 1993:07.31.11:47:55:210047]

On May 21, 1963 WUBRINY/1 telephoned Stone and reported:

Mr. DeM dropped into the [deleted] SALINE offices this afternoon. He said that Mr. Charles has returned to Haiti and is being seriously considered as the next President. DeM said Charles is receiving considerable support and in his opinion would make an excellent President of Haiti as soon as Duvalier can be gotten out.

DEMOHRENSCHILDT, CIA & ARMY INTELLIGENCE MAY 7, 1963

1. On April 29, 1963 Dorothe Matlack, Domestic Exploitation Section ACSI Army telephoned to the effect that Charles had left Haiti six days earlier and had just arrived in New York. A friend of Charles, named Joseph Dryer, West Palm Beach, Florida, had written to General Delmar, former CO Antilles Command recommending Charles as a man of great interest to the U.S. Government in view of the events in Haiti. Charles was described as President of the Bank Commerciale, Port-au-Prince, Haiti, who is in President Duvalier's favor. Mrs. Matlack mentioned that she had already alerted Col. Sam Kail in Miami to contact Dryer in order to obtain more background information and an assessment on Charles.

2. On May 1, 1963, Mrs. Matlack advised that Charles was staying at the Park Sheraton Hotel, New York, and that he had telephoned her since her name had been supplied to him by Dryer. Charles considered her to be his point of contact in Washington. According to Mrs. Matlack he had appointment to see Vice President Johnson, Senator Keating and Congressman Rogers Florida. However Charles was willing to talk to representatives of Mrs. Matlack's office (Illegible) Matlack stated that the Haitian Desk man at ACSI was was ready to go to New York to talk to Charles and invited CIA to accompany him. Charles speaks very little English and a fluency in French, was therefore assigned for the interview. Mrs. Matlack stated that she might be able to a linguist from First Army Governor's Island but he would not be an intelligence officer. It was decided that James Belog, New York Office, who has a knowledge of the French language could accompany ACSI representative under Army cover. It was also arranged that Balog would meet the ACSI representative (Captain Rogers) at the Park Sheraton Hotel where Charles was staying.

3. On May 2, 1963, Mrs. Matlack reported that Colonel Kail had interviewed Mr. Dryer in West Palm Beach. Dryer had appointed Charles the Director of his bank in Haiti. Charles, according to Dryer, formerly had no political ambitions but in view of the current political situation in Haiti, Charles now thinks that he may someday be president. Dryer described

Charles as well connected politically and financially on both side of the fence in Haiti. He is also a good friend of President Duvalier. Dryer had given Charles letters of introduction to Senator Keating and other officials in Washington. Charles wanted to see President Kennedy and indeed had gone to the White House to arrange for an appointment. He was well received by the President's appointment secretary and invited to dinner that evening with the appointment secretary. Through a misunderstanding, however, Charles did not attend the dinner but went to New York instead.

5. On May 3, 1963, Jim Balog telephoned to advise that he had had a five hour session the previous day with Charles and that he had obtained both personality data and views by Charles on what the United States should do in the current Haitian situation. Balog advised that he was transmitting the information to Washington. Upon arrival, copies of the teletypes were transmitted to ACSI (Mrs. Matlack), Western Hemisphere Division, and the Latin American Branch.

Joseph F. Dryer stated during a telephone interview: "It was Clemard Joseph Charles' bank. He wanted to make me a director of his bank, but I declined. Clemard Joseph Charles had very definite political connections in Haiti. He had political aspirations, but he was being very careful because he could have lost his life, if 'Papa Doc' had known what he really wanted to do. He saw himself as a self-made Haitian businessman. He considered himself honest."

MEETING BETWEEN CIA AND CLEMARD CHARLES IN NEW YORK

Jim Balog wrote:

Charles expressed hope that President Kennedy and other high U.S. Government officials will give him an opportunity to present his plan to save Haiti from 'Duvalier and Communism.' He plans to visit his friend and American business partner, Joseph F. Dryer, in Tampa and hopes that an audience with high U.S. Government officials could be arranged after the weekend 'most discreetly.' Utmost caution imperative in this regard since "Papa Doc" Duvalier would kill his family if he learned about Charles' cooperation with U.S. After the four hour interview Charles insisted that we meet his good friend and business partner, DeMohrenschildt. He told us that he has absolute confidence in the honesty and ability of Charles whom he considers a potential leader in a Democratic Haiti. Charles' great advantage is that he has never been tied up with any political party."

Charles would eventually ask to meet with these officials without DeMohrenschildt being present. Joseph F. Dryer commented, "It's Palm Beach, not Tampa. We used his bank and he was a director of our company in Haiti." The NY CIA reported:

1. On May 6, 1963 we had a private conversation lasting about an hour with Clemard Charles. He told us from now on if possible he preferred to deal with U.S. Government officials without his friend and business partner, DeMohrenschildt. He realizes that any indiscretion (this is, if Duvalier learned about his contact with U.S. Government may cost his wife's life who is still in Port-au-Prince.) Charles was in a fine frame of mind having just received a promise from Jerry W. Johnston, assistant Vice President, the Chase Manhattan for a million dollar loan which Charles' bank hopes to use for construction of low-cost housing in Haiti. The loan is dependent on two conditions: return of political stability to Haiti and a 90% guarantee of the loan by the Agency for International Development. The remaining 10% would be guaranteed by Charles' Bank.

2. Vice President Johnston suggested that Charles discuss the matter with Edmund Wise, Agency for International Development, State Department.

3...He invited Balog to visit him in Port-au-Prince 'as soon as Duvalier crisis is solved.'

6. On May 6, 1963, Mayo Stuntz, Support Branch, advised that Western Hemisphere Division wished to speak to Charles and Balog was asked to arrange an appointment. Mrs. Matlack telephoned at approximately 1715 to advise that she had just received a telephone call from Mrs. DeMohrenschildt asking assistance in obtaining hotel reservations in Washington. Upon being told that we had no special means of obtaining reservations, Mrs. Matlack stated that she would check with the State Department Protocol Office to determine which hotels would admit negro guests. Mrs. Matlack finally made reservations at the Alba Towers. A check with Jim Balog revealed that he had arranged for Charles to meet with the Western Hemisphere representative in the lobby of the Willard Hotel in Washington, D.C. at 12:00 p.m. on May 7, 1963. Attempts to reach Mrs. Matlack that afternoon were unsuccessful. At 0630 May 7, 1963, a call was made to Mrs. Matlack to confirm that Charles would be in Washington on that day and that arrangements had been made for a meeting with an Agency representative for 12:00 noon. Mrs. Matlack reported that both Mrs. DeMohrenschildt and Charles had called her that previous evening to confirm a 12 o'clock luncheon appointment with her. Mrs. Matlack was concerned that the CIA and Army should not be working at cross purposes. She had received authorization from ACSI to meet Charles at lunch and felt it would not be polite for her to withdraw from her appointment since Army considered her the point of contact with Charles. Mayo Stuntz informed Western Hemisphere Division of conflict and passed (deleted) suggestion that the Western Hemisphere Division representative might meet Charles and Mrs. Matlack at noon and that Mrs. Matlack offered to withdraw shortly thereafter. The Western Hemisphere representative declined the offer and requested that a meeting later in the afternoon be arranged. Mrs. Matlack believed that due to conflicting instructions, she had been placed in the middle in the situation from which she could not graciously withdraw and requested that someone accompany her.

7. I met Mrs. Matlack in the lobby of the Hotel Willard shortly before noon, and a few minutes later, Mr. Charles arrived accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. DeMohrenschildt. We lunched in the restaurant in the hotel. Mr. DeMohrenschildt mentioned that he had been born in Baku, Russia, but during the Bolshevik Revolution had been taken to Poland as a small child. He had spent approximately 20 years in Poland prior to World War II, and had served in the Polish Army. He also mentioned that he had been a member of an International Cooperation Administration team to Yugoslavia and while in Belgrade he had met Gomulka who was visiting Belgrade at the time. He had spoken to Gomulka and was invited to visit Poland, which invitation he accepted...DeMohrenschildt mentioned that he had known (deleted) for some time and he is a partner with him in a sisal business in Haiti.

8. Both Charles and DeMohrenschildt were anxious to arrange meetings with government officials in Washington. I mentioned to Charles that a meeting had been arranged for him at 2:15 p.m. and that a Mr. Green would meet him in the lobby. At 1410 Mrs. Matlack, Mr. and Mrs. DeMohrenschildt and I departed and Charles remained in the lobby waiting for contact.

9. In the course of the luncheon conversation Clemard Joseph Charles had mentioned to Mrs. Matlack that he desired to see a Mr. Wise of the Agency for International Development, to discuss U.S. aid to Haiti. Later that afternoon, Mrs. Matlack called to State and passed along Charles' request. Mr. Zagorski had called her back to pass on the Haitian Desk man's extreme displeasure that anyone in the United States Government should be in official contact with Clemard Joseph Charles. The desk man considered Clemard Joseph Charles to be close to the "Papa Doc" Duvalier Government, to have been involved in several shady financial dealings, and in general to be an undesirable character. Mrs. Matlack asked whether the Agency had any interest in Clemard Joseph Charles which would dictate further contact with him.

10. Mayo Stuntz checked with Western Hemisphere Division and determined that as a result of the meeting with Clemard Joseph Charles, the (illegible) Haitian desk had no further plans to contact him. I told Mrs.

Matlack that our interest seemed to have been satisfied, and that I believed we should disengage ourselves as gracefully as possible.

11. (Deleted) DD/P Coordinator, called on May 7, 1963, to inquire concerning our involvement in the Charles case. He stated that ASCI had called him earlier that day to assure him that ASCI had no direct interest in Charles and that it was acting as an intermediary at the request of General Delmar who had passed the lead to General Fitch. ACSI was concerned that due to the mix up in appointments to see Charles, charges might later be made that ACSI had interfered or had been in contact with Charles. I explained to Mr. (Deleted) what had happened and he later called back to state that ASCI was completely satisfied in the way that matter had been handled.

12. On May 8, 1963, Mrs. Matlack telephoned to advise that the Operational Branch of ASCI was discussing the Charles case with DD/P to determine future course of action. She was still somewhat concerned over her own position in the case as Charles considered her to be the focal point in Washington. I reiterated to her that the matter was one for either the State Department or the operational elements to handle and that we preferred to disengage ourselves. Mrs. Matlack mentioned that a dispatch had been received to the effect that a cousin of Clemard Joseph Charles was prominently mentioned as a successor to "Papa Doc" Duvalier, should the latter be overthrown. She was of the opinion that the U.S. Government should continue to 'play ball' with Clemard Joseph Charles as a future asset in Haitian affairs. A.F. Czaikowski."

Dorothe Matlack, (born February 27, 1906; died September 29, 1991), worked for the Chief of Staff of Army Intelligence. In December 1960 she received liaison renewal in connection with "defectors, escapees and refugees as they pertain to the (deleted) chaired by CIA Defector Coordinator." [CIA Req. Approv. Liaison 12.8.60] When the HSCA interviewed her about the meeting, Dorothe Matlack "described Clemard Joseph Charles as 'frantic and frightened.' He urged Dorothe Matlack to get the U.S. Marines to invade Haiti and overthrow Duvalier." [HSCA V12 p57] Dorothe Matlack said she felt George DeMohrenschildt dominated Clemard Joseph Charles in some way. Dorothe Matlack said that, despite George DeMohrenschildt's subterfuge, that he and Clemard Joseph Charles were in the jute business together, she did not believe this to be the real reason for George DeMohrenschildt's presence at that meeting: "I knew the Texan wasn't there to sell hemp." The HSCA reported that the CIA maintained contact with Clemard Joseph Charles after this meeting. Joseph F. Dryer recalled George DeMohrenschildt's activities in Haiti in his testimony before the HSCA:

I met him in Haiti. We were there as fiber growers. I had been living in Cuba for ten years. When we saw that was coming to an end we began looking for a new base to multiply seed for our fiber. So we moved simultaneously into Guatemala and Haiti. Our banker was a man who I had met in Havana, during a trip he made there to attract potential business to Haiti, Clemard Joseph Charles. George DeMohrenschildt was trying to become an advisor to Clemard Joseph Charles and to his bank. George DeMohrenschildt would follow Clemard Joseph Charles home at night in his automobile. He was always very polite. I believe he was looking into oil and mineral leases there. Clemard Joseph Charles had political aspirations at the time.

In the early 1950's Joseph F. Dryer had been involved with a U.S. Government-sponsored plan to develop a jute substitute so that Caribbean countries need not import it. He set up a jute subsidiary operation in Cuba. Joseph Dryer reported that Clemard Joseph Charles had many CIA connections, and believed the Agency may have dispatched one of his secretaries. Clemard Joseph Charles introduced Joseph F. Dryer to DeMohrenschildt, who claimed he came to Haiti to scout for oil. Joseph Dryer: "I could never figure out what he did." Joseph Dryer expressed the belief that George DeMohrenschildt had "some intelligence connection." According to Joseph Dryer, he, Clemard Joseph Charles and George DeMohrenschildt were associated with Jacqueline Lancelot, whose restaurant was frequented by many CIA agents working out of the American Embassy. "She'd come from a fairly well-to-do family. She seemed to have her own connections into the Palace. She was very anti-Papa Doc. She was close personal friend of Phillipe De Beaujolais, who was head of French Intelligence for the French Embassy in Washington, D.C. I don't think she had any connection to the CIA. Jacqueline did not like DeMohrenschildt.. She said. 'If I were you, I wouldn't be talking to that person.'" According to the HSCA, Jacqueline Lancelot passed information to the CIA, and gave Joseph F. Dryer messages for French intelligence agents in the United States" Joseph Dryer said: "Clemard Joseph Charles was sending messages that he was someone who should be considered as possible Presidential timber."

AIRPORT MEETING WITH CLEMARD CHARLES: MAY 9, 1963

On May 9, 1963, the following Contact Report was generated by the Chief/ DO/ COEO:

1. "(Deleted) called on the sterile line from Washington at 1430 hours to discuss the subject covered below. (3 para deleted)
3. (Deleted) said that he had encountered Mr. Charles at the National Airport in Washington at 1920 just at the time he was reporting in to me at my home. (Deleted) said that Charles was nattily dressed in a gray silk suit and said he was on his way to Chicago but had not said why. Charles was accompanied by DeMohrenschildt. (Deleted) asked Charles what in the world is going on now in Haiti and Charles shrugged and said that he felt that they would 'bring down Papa Doc.' No further details were given and this was apparently a personal opinion rather than something based on fact or knowledge.

DOMESTIC OPERATIONS DIVISION EXPEDITE CHECK RESULTS

On May 9, 1963, (Deleted) of Domestic Operations/HQT replied to the Domestic Operations /COEO's request of April 26, 1963, requesting traces on DeMohrenschildt. Records Integration Division files revealed several references to George DeMohrenschildt including OSS File 13526 and a 201 file. Checks were made at Western Hemisphere/Mexico, SR/6, and EE/Poland. The report ended by suggesting "a check be made with OO/C through (deleted) office." Another document stated "DeMohrenschildt was of interest to CIA in 1958, at which time the attached summary of information was furnished by Security (Tab B)."

Clemard Joseph Charles was listed as a member of "Papa Doc" Duvalier's Ton Ton Macoutes. [CIA FOIA 06773 11.16.67] Joseph F. Dryer: "I don't think he was. That would have been a surprise to me and to the employees of my company who knew him quite well, because I had one or two Ton Ton's Macoutes working for us in the interior, and I think I would have known." In the mid-1960's Clemard Joseph Charles was placed on the board of directors of 14 major companies and received numerous commendations from "Papa Doc" Duvalier. In May 1967 Clemard Joseph Charles was in New York City, attempting to borrow money on Government of Haiti bonds. [CIA 201-743323 Index Card] In late 1967 "Papa Doc" Duvalier had Clemard Joseph Charles thrown in jail for plotting against him. That year the CIA described Clemard Joseph Charles as "slippery, less than ordinary intelligence and generally weak man who is a toady of the Duvaliers. Clemard Joseph Charles made all his money through various manipulations in conjunction with, or known to, Duvalier." Clemard Joseph Charles was released in July 1968 after paying a $250,000 ransom. [NARA 1993.07.29.17:17:58:710028] Clemard Joseph Charles was jailed again in April 1970 for having financed another coup attempt. Clemard Joseph Charles had help from André Labay, later arrested for drug trafficking. In 1979 Clemard Joseph Charles discussed the ouster of "Papa Doc" Duvalier with HEMMING'S associate, Mitch Werbell. In the 1980's Clemard Joseph Charles laundered money for Mario Renda, a leading mob money broker for failed savings-and-loan banks, a number of them controlled by Herman Beebe, who was an associate of Richmond Harper. [Scott, Deep Politics p79]

CLEMARD JOSEPH CHARLES AND FRANK STURGIS

Clemard Joseph Charles moved to the United States and became a director of the St. Charles Pacific Peace Organization, a non-profit company which filed to do business in 1988. STURGIS was another officer of this organization. HEMMING told this researcher:

Sam Benton and STURGIS set up a private investigative thing in 1962. They had a little office off of Brickell. This was paid for by Clemard Joseph Charles, because "Papa Doc" Duvalier, like with FRANK'S buddy, Vincent Hannard, had private investigators spying on his enemies. They used the INTERPEN thing as a name. Benton could lead FIORINI into doing almost fucking anything.

Clemard Joseph Charles ran for President of Haiti in 1988, but three days before the election, the Supreme Court of Haiti disqualified him. [Brewton CIA, Mafia, Bush p195; interview with G. Fonzi]

HUNT worked at Domestic Operations Division in April and May 1963 when the checks on DeMohrenschildt were being made but what was significant here was that OSWALD was in the company of DeMohrenschildt, who was planning a coup. OSWALD was also in the company of others who were planning a coup - HEMMING, LAWRENCE HOWARD etc.

I. IRVING DAVIDSON AND CLEMARD CHARLES

In May 1963 Washington lobbyist I. Irving Davidson, a licensed arms dealer, visited Haiti. I. Irving Davidson had come to Washington in 1941 and worked in the War Production Board. He entered the public relations field in 1944. He registered as an agent of the Nicaraguan Government in 1955: "My fee arrangement was an oral one with Anastasio Somoza." The CIA reported that I. Irving Davidson "always protects himself when dealing with representatives of other countries by reporting any proposed transaction to a U.S. Government Agency or Official. Approached Kubark in 1955 to obtain financial backing for a travel agency which would publicize Yugoslavia tourist attractions to Americans. In exchange Subject would pass on to Kubark any information he might be able to obtain through said agency." [CIA Cite Dir 19472 Hart and Fitzgerald 6.15.65] In the late 1950's, I. Irving Davidson arranged arms deals between Israel, Nicaragua and Batista's Cuba: "We decided to sell 20 Israeli Staghound tanks to Batista. We turned them over to a general, who was a traitor. Castro got hold of them. Next thing I knew, Castro was riding into Havana on one of our tanks." In the early 1960's Davidson became friendly with certain anti-Castro groups. I. Irving Davidson's business interests took him to Haiti in 1962, where he worked with the American Embassy, Port-au-Prince, a center of CIA activity. He met Masferrer in 1963.

The activities of I. Irving Davidson were investigated by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. I. Irving Davidson testified before that committee in March 1963. In April "Papa Doc" Duvalier read the testimony of I. Irving Davidson and hired him to represent the Haitian Government. The CIA's Office of Security had a file on I. Irving Davidson; a Memorandum dated January 7, 1964, reported that a confidential informant advised that "Papa Doc" Duvalier sent I. Irving Davidson a confidential message during the last week of December 1963.

I. Irving Davidson reported he met Clemard Joseph Charles on one occasion in "Papa Doc" Duvalier's presence, when Clemard Joseph Charles was attempting to explain to a Haitian woman what had become of a relative who was in prison. I. Irving Davidson told a HSCA investigator that he was unaware of newspaper stories that he traveled with Clemard Joseph Charles in the United States. In June 1993 he stated: "I met him once in Haiti, and I knew him. He was a big man. I think I saw him about three or four years ago. He might be in jail. He came into my office to see me." I. Irving Davidson told the HSCA that he may have known the name, but he was not acquainted with George DeMohrenschildt in Haiti or in the United States. Later in the interview, I. Irving Davidson alleged he was not aware of the name George DeMohrenschildt until 1978, when an article by Jeremiah O'Leary suggested I. Irving Davidson had approached the FBI to find out what information the Bureau had on George DeMohrenschildt in connection with the assassination of President Kennedy. The article mentioned an FBI memorandum about a meeting with I. Irving Davidson and two agents in October 1967.

I. IRVING DAVIDSON AND HUGH C. McDONALD

According to a November 1, 1967, FBI Memorandum, I. Irving Davidson telephoned the Bureau on October 28, 1967, and requested a meeting with Assistant FBI Director Clyde Tolson. I. Irving Davidson told a HSCA investigator that he was not actually an FBI informer, but he would pass useful information along to the Government. He spoke with Clyde Tolson's assistant, who advised him Clyde Tolson was "only back at the office for a short period of time each day...and had not been making any appointments for that reason."

I. Irving Davidson was interviewed by two FBI Agents; he related he had been approached by Leonard Davidov, whom he described as a business acquaintance, and the president of a Washington, D.C., burglar alarm company. Leonard Davidov told I. Irving Davidson that an "Eastern group" was putting up "a ton of money" to learn the truth about the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. This group was working with Hugh C. McDonald. (When questioned about this in 1993, I. Irving Davidson said that he did not know Hugh C. McDonald).

I. Irving Davidson said he understood that Hugh C. McDonald was a Los Angeles Police Commissioner and former bodyguard for Barry Goldwater during the last presidential campaign. I. Irving Davidson commented, "I don't remember that! I don't know who gave it to you. Have you printed this yet? I'll correct it right now. I don't know this guy Leonard Davidov for years. Once and a while I bump into him in a restaurant, but I don't know him." I. Irving Davidson told the FBI that Leonard Davidov had told him Hugh C. McDonald was currently engaged in a business arrangement with Howard Hughes, involving helicopter sales to law enforcement agencies. Hugh C. McDonald was alleged to know that President Johnson had prior knowledge of a Kennedy assassination plot which involved George DeMohrenschildt and OSWALD. I. Irving Davidson told the FBI he had advised Leonard Davidov to have nothing to do with any attempt to smear President Johnson. Leonard Davidov did not listen to him because Leonard Davidov had been promised a share in a police helicopter business if he would help Hugh C. McDonald link LBJ to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. Reportedly, Leonard Davidov approached I. Irving Davidson for the purpose of learning about George DeMohrenschildt's background. I. Irving Davidson informed the FBI he already contacted Edward Cohen, whom he described as a former reporter for the Washington Post, for help. In 1993 I. Irving Davidson said he had no memory of Edward Cohen. The FBI checked its files and found nothing pertinent concerning Leonard Davidov, then discovered that Hugh C. McDonald retired in January 1967 as Chief of Detectives, Los Angeles County Sheriff's Office: "McDonald is a graduate in good standing of the FBI National Academy, 67th Session ...McDonald has always supported the FBI and often expressed his admiration for it and for the Director." Hugh C. McDonald was in Army Intelligence during World War II and remained in the Army Reserve Corps until 1954. He served as the Security Director for the Hughes Corporation, and was the Los Angeles Police Department's CIA liaison man.

When the FBI checked its files for Edward Cohen, the Bureau thought it possible he was identical with an Edward Stone Cohen, who had never been the Subject of an FBI investigation. However, FBI files indicated that Edward Cohen "allegedly was in contact this year with Ramparts Magazine for the purpose of soliciting publication of an exposé type story on Overseas National Airways and President Johnson's alleged association with it. In July 1959 Cohen had advised the State Department that he planned to attend the Seventh World Youth Festival in Vienna, Austria, during the Summer of 1959." According to I. Irving Davidson, the Edward Cohen he contacted was employed by another government agency believed to be the Office of Economic Opportunity. I. Irving Davidson told the FBI that he contact the Bureau because he was trying to prevent President Johnson from being smeared. The FBI, however, believed that his motive was to seek information on George DeMohrenschildt and Hugh C. McDonald: "It was obvious to S.A. Adcock and me that I. Irving Davidson had come to the FBI hoping to get information about DeMohrenschildt. We gave him nothing." In support of this, the FBI noted that before calling them, he had been in touch with Edward Cohen for background information on DeMohrenschildt, and had spent the previous weekend in Dallas, Texas. I. Irving Davidson confirmed to the HSCA that Hugh C. McDonald and Leonard Davidov had contacted him about investigating the connection of George DeMohrenschildt to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, and that he contacted the FBI. He said he called Clyde Tolson, but never spoke to the two FBI agents who wrote the document about him. From the available evidence, it appeared that I. Irving Davidson was approached by Hugh C. McDonald and Leonard Davidov to use his Haitian connections to gather information on George DeMohrenschildt which they would use in a disinformation campaign to link President Johnson with the Kennedy assassination. I. Irving Davidson cooperated with them at first; he visited Dallas and contacted Edward Cohen. Then he changed his mind and went to the FBI with the story. The FBI took no further action on the information supplied by I. Irving Davidson. The FBI reported: "Bufiles reflect that I. Irving Davidson is an unsavory individual." The FBI should have asked: On whose behalf was Hugh C. McDonald spreading this disinformation?

WILLEM L. OLTMANS

Instead, the FBI cited a similar allegation made by Willem L. Oltmans, of the Netherlands Television Company. On April 3, 1967, "Willem Oltmans credited Dutch correspondent in U.S. and presently representing Netherlands Television Company (NTS) Holland, advised this date that information received from an informant in Western Europe that George DeMohrenschildt was the principal organizer in the assassination of President Kennedy. Dimitri DeMohrenschildt, brother of George DeMohrenschildt, allegedly was a participant in this plot." Dimitri DeMohrenschildt was allegedly the second gunman. [FBI 62-109060-

5024] The FBI: "Willem Oltmans was born June 10, 1925, in Holland. He entered the United States and attended Yale University from November 1, 1948, to March 4, 1950. [In 1956 Oltmans was in Indonesia.] He was reported as of 1959 to be a United Nations correspondent and free lance reporter and lecturer. Oltmans traveled extensively, and allegedly was a close personal friend of President Sukarno of Indonesia and spoke highly of Fidel Castro. He visited Cuba on three occasions and appeared before the U.S. Senate Subcommittee on November 30, 1962, concerning his knowledge of Sukarno and Castro. On March 24, 1964, Mrs. Marguerite Oswald visited the United Nations, as a guest of Willem Oltmans. Following this visit, he accompanied her to the Russian Embassy to find out details concerning her son's stay in Russia. On March 7, 1968, the CIA deleted Office of Security Indices results on Willem Oltmans from a document about him which the Agency generated after he interviewed New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison. The Agency stated that the CIA connections of Willem Oltmans were "None," yet the details of that report were deleted. [CIA Allen v. DOD 40200 118 3.7.68] When Prince Bernhard took $1.1 million from Lockheed to influence government decisions regarding that Starfighter Jets used by the Dutch Air Force Willem Oltmans was a key anti-Bernhard propagandist. "Oltman's chumminess with Soviet diplomats in the Hague has aroused the curiosity of the Netherlands FBI, the BVD (Binnenlandse Veiligheidsdienst). Many believe that his anti-Bernhard allegations are part of a well-orchestrated program to swing public opinion in favor of abdication. Said one Dutch official: "If the KGB is not behind the campaign, then at least they must be delighted in Moscow." [Unidentified Newsweek article circa 1972] "Between 1971 and 1976 Oltmans made ten long journey's throughout the Soviet Union. His aim was to study the creation of what the Kremlin calls 'A New Marxist Man.'" [Willem Oltmans Lecture Brochure]

CARLOS MARCELLO AND I. IRVING DAVIDSON

In 1959 I. Irving Davidson became a professional lobbyist for national crime syndicate member James Hoffa. While engaged in a business deal in New Orleans for the Murchison family, he became friendly with CARLOS MARCELLO. Soon he represented CARLOS MARCELLO'S interests in Washington.

In 1970 I. Irving Davidson and Leonard Bursten pleaded guilty to charges of concealing $500,000 in a bankruptcy proceeding. Writer Gordon Chaplin revealed: "What happened after Davidson's guilty plea is not precisely clear. The record indicates his lawyers moved to have the plea expunged and vacated partly because of Davidson's cooperation on Bursten's guilty plea. The motion, in an unusual turn of events, was granted." I. Irving Davidson showed Gordon Chaplin "bits of paper" indicating that I. Irving Davidson had engaged in activities "in the interest of the United States [which] involved Haitian matters. The details are of a sensitive nature."

On June 17, 1980, I. Irving Davidson and CARLOS MARCELLO were indicted by a Federal Grand Jury on charges of racketeering, conspiracy, and fraud in the BRILAB sting operation. The Bureau set up a fictitious concern called Fidelity Financial Consultants. A confidant of CARLOS MARCELLO and an FBI informant worked for Fidelity Financial. He offered CARLOS MARCELLO and his associates a substantial kickback if they obtained insurance contacts for Fidelity Financial from Jefferson Parish, Louisiana. The trial of I. Irving Davidson began on March 3, 1981, in New Orleans. The evidence against him consisted of telephone tape recordings. I. Irving Davidson testified that the FBI had offered not to indict him if he helped get CARLOS MARCELLO. The trial lasted 14 weeks. CARLOS MARCELLO was found guilty of one count of Conspiracy and sentenced to seven years in prison. His conviction was overturned when the Supreme Court invalidated the mail fraud statute under which he was prosecuted. I. Irving Davidson was acquitted. CARLOS MARCELLO was convicted of trying to bribe a California judge in 1981 and sentenced to seven years in prison. [Potomac 3.21.76 pp 12-13, 18, 34-39; FBI 62-109060-5836; Outside Contact Report HSCA 11.2.78 ARA file; Hearing Committee on Foreign Relations U.S. Senate Act. Of Non-Dip. Rep. of For. Principals in the U.S. Part 11-3.8.65]

The HSCA Report contained the following footnote: "DeMohrenschildt's file also contained a reference to an occasion when he may have been involved in arranging a meeting between Haitian Bank officer Clemard Joseph Charles, and a CIA or Defense Department official. The Defense Department official, interviewed by the HSCA, stated that the meeting was arranged by Defense Department officials and that DeMohrenschildt's presence (in the company of his wife) was unanticipated. The committee did not regard this incident as evidence of a CIA relationship." As stated, George DeMohrenschildt was seeking the backing of the Army and the CIA in a scheme to oust "Papa Doc" Duvalier.

GEORGE BUSH AND GEORGE DEMOHRENSCHILDT

John DeMenil was part of the Houston oil/Intelligence community and was an associate of former President George Herbert Walker Bush. George Herbert Walker Bush's oil company, Zapata Off-Shore Oil, a multimillion dollar concern with operations in Latin America and the Caribbean, was used for CIA cover in the early 1960's. [Current Biography as cited in The Austin Chronicle by David Armstrong] George Herbert Walker Bush remarked: "I'd come to the CIA with some general knowledge of how it operated." [George Bush Looking Back] The following entry was found in the address book of George DeMohrenschildt: "Bush, George H.W. (Poppy) 1412 W. Ohio also Zapata Petroleum Midland 46355." According to the 1956 Midland telephone directory, the telephone number was that of the Walker-Bush company, one of George Herbert Walker Bush's early ventures. George Herbert Walker Bush recalled, "I first met de Mohrenschildt in the early 1940's. He was an uncle to my Andover roommate."

BUSH FAMILY'S NAZI CONNECTIONS

Prescott Bush, grandfather to Presidential candidate George W. Bush, was involved in Nazi banking operations. The Bush fortune, as well as the family's political success, is directly connected to his questionable activities. On October 20, 1942, the US Government, under the "Trading with the Enemy Act," seized Prescott's Nazi operations, and took over the Union Banking Corporation, for which he was director. The US Alien Property Custodian grabbed the company's stock shares, all of which were owned by Prescott, E. Roland "Bunny" Harriman, three Nazi executives, and two other associates. The Government then seized two Nazi front organizations run by the Bush-Harriman bank. They were the Holland-American Trading Corporation and the Seamless Steel Equipment Corporation. A 1942 US Government document also shows that Prescott Bush's bank had close ties with the German Steel Trust. During the war, that Trust produced a massive 50.8% of Nazi Germany's pig iron, 45.5% of their pipes and tubes, 22.1% of their wire, and 35% of their battlefield explosives. At the time, this information stunned the American public, and revealed the Bush family's central role in financing and arming Adolf Hitler for his domination of Europe. But since then, the media has virtually buried all such reports. Years later, former US President George Bush Sr. was boosted into the CIA and then the White House, thanks to powerful Anglo-American associates. Those men also happened to be partners in his father's war time "Hitler Project." And just before he was elected into office, Bush Sr. asked William Stamps Farish III, one of the richest men in Texas, to manage his personal wealth. Bush counted on his friend not to reveal the secrets of his fortune. After all, Farish's family got rich through the Hitler Project too, in a lucrative partnership with Prescott.

GEORGE DEMOHRENSCHILDT'S HOLDING COMPANY HAITI: JUNE 1963

George DeMohrenschildt left Dallas on April 19, 1963, and remained in Washington until two days before his trip to Haiti; he then returned to Dallas to make final preparations for his departure. On June 2, 1963, he moved to Haiti. George DeMohrenschildt had agreed to do a "mineral and petroleum wealth" survey of Haiti for "Papa Doc" Duvalier for which he was to be paid about $300,000. This money was destined for a holding company, where other foreign investors would invest funds as well. George DeMohrenschildt persuaded "Papa Doc" Duvalier he could attract investors like John DeMenil of the Schlumberger Corporation to invest in his project. [WCD 386, 1041; Memo: Mosk to Jenner 5.25.64; USA Today 3.20.92 p6a] As with the Hughes Corporation, it was hard to tell where Schlumberger Corporation "began and where the CIA left off." Paul Raigorodsky stated: "The Schlumberger Corporation is a world wide organization that deals with every country in the world - you know what I am trying to say..." In 1976 Paul Raigorodsky was asked what he meant by this. He answered: "I meant just what I said, if you want to tie it into anything else, that is your business." George DeMohrenschildt's holding company was to control a large part of the economy of Haiti. Clemard Joseph Charles was listed in the prospectus as Haiti's only native bank president whose partner had obtained a monopoly on the "total export of bananas from Haiti to the U.S.A." The company was to build a cigar factory; a food processing and exporting plant; put together an insurance company; revitalize the telephone system; as well as construct and run a hotel and casino. George DeMohrenschildt contemplated victory where organized crime had met failure: Meyer Lansky had unsuccessfully tried to get a casino franchise from "Papa Doc" Duvalier. [WC DeMohrenschildt Ex. 6, 16; Messick Silent Syndicate p28] The Inter-American Development Bank and the Alliance for Progress were ostensibly to lend funds to the projected holding company. No evidence existed that either of these two institutions was ever contacted about securing a loan. George DeMohrenschildt's holding company never materialized because it was a front for an effort to unseat "Papa Doc" Duvalier. Jacqueline Lancelot informed Joseph Dryer that shortly after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, $250,000 had been deposited in the Port-au-Prince bank account of George DeMohrenschildt. The money in that account was subsequently paid out. Jacqueline Lancelot's source was George DeMohrenschildt's bank teller. Joseph Dryer said that a large amount of money had been placed in bank account of Clemard Joseph Charles before George DeMohrenschildt left Haiti in 1967.

THE DEMOHRENSCHILDTS: POST COUP HAITI: NOVEMBER 22, 1963

The CIA received a report from "usually reliable sources," who were among the guests at a November 22, 1963, cocktail party the DeMohrenschildts attended. The sources described the reaction of the DeMohrenschildts to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy as blasé. The same sources reported they encountered the DeMohrenschildts again in early June. This time most of George DeMohrenschildt's remarks were blacked out by the CIA. [CIA 763-330, 733-316A] In his unpublished manuscript, George DeMohrenschildt claimed that his first response was, "If he had his Ton Ton Macoutes around, this would not have happened." George DeMohrenschildt added that shortly after receiving news of Kennedy's death, he visited a friend who was an attache at the American Embassy. [HSCA V12 p71] In May 1964 the CIA received another report on the activities of George DeMohrenschildt in Haiti. A CIA source who was acquainted with DeMohrenschildt through the Petionville Country Club reported having attended a party where films of the DeMohrenschildts 1961 walking trip through Central America were shown: "There were several sequences in which Mrs. DeMohrenschildt was shown bathing and traipsing around in the nude. Whenever these sequences appeared, Mrs. DeMohrenschildt would blur the image, but in the meantime the spectators had gotten a very good view. Many 'oohhs' and 'ahhs' were uttered by the spectators and Mrs. DeMohrenschildt seemed to enjoy this attention." George DeMohrenschildt displayed an I.D. card given to him by "Papa Doc" Duvalier and the DeMohrenschildts were described as "very strange, and it is very likely that they have been engaged in dubious activities of some sort during their stay in Haiti - exactly what has not yet been determined." George DeMohrenschildt was also observed in the company of the Polish Economic Attache. [CIA 1993 release 6978, 6979] During their stay in Haiti, the DeMohrenschildts lived in "Papa Doc's" compound. A CIA cable stated:

The DeMohrenschildts and RUBRICIUS are members of the Petionville Club and often play tennis together. On June 8, 1964, RUBRICIUS was invited to dinner at the home of the DeMohrenschildts...When RUBRICIUS arrived at the DeMohrenschildts, RUBRICIUS was introduced to Father Stockman (phonetic) a Dutch priest whose parish is located along the Haitian-Dominican border east of Hinche. Present also for the dinner were Austen and Vesla Boyd, a young American couple that (deleted) had met several time previously...Father Stockman mentioned that he had spent many years in China and Indonesia. He was forced to leave China in 1948 at the time of the Communist take-over. He came to Haiti in the early 1950's. Father Stockman stated that his parish stretched along 65 miles of the Haitian-Dominican border and that the political situation in this area, like most other areas of Haiti was very tense. When (deleted) agreed that present conditions were very bad in Haiti, George DeMohrenschildt opined that these conditions had always existed throughout Haitian history and that the present situation was not unusual. Father Stockman disagreed and said that Haitians of all classes lived in a state of terror and that this condition did not exist when he first came to Haiti...The DeMohrenschildts said that when they knew LEE HARVEY OSWALD, he was a very confused and disturbed young man. They described OSWALD'S wife as being a very vicious and evil woman. Mrs. DeMohrenschildt said that Mrs. Oswald discussed openly and frankly her marital sex life and often complained about her husband's sexual inadequacy...On the afternoon of June 18, 1964, (deleted) encountered Mrs. DeMohrenschildt at the Petionville Club. She asked to speak to (deleted) privately on a very urgent matter. She explained that just recently she and her husband had been to see President Duvalier. She stated that Duvalier had inquired concerning the divorce of Ambassador E. L. Timmons. According to Mrs. DeMohrenschildt, President Duvalier stated that he thought Timmons was doing a good job and regreted any development that might interfere with Timmons mission in Haiti...She said that the President offered his services to do whatever he could to bring about a reconciliation between Ambassador Timmons and Mrs. Timmons. [CIA 210-725439 6.16.64 - CIA 987-397]

WATCHED BY THE CIA AND FBI

The DeMohrenschildts had contact with the CIA in 1964. They informed the Agency of their media appearances. On February 26, 1964, the Washington Field Office of the FBI sent a highly deleted Secret Urgent Teletype to J. Edgar Hoover. [FBI 100-32965-118] By January 1965, the CIA had a mail cover on them and when they received a letter from a Guadalajara, Mexico, post office box, Desmond FitzGerald C/Western Hemisphere Division asked the FBI to determine the identity of the box holder. This request was included in a "voluminous report on DeMohrenschildt's recent activities which is being prepared for FBI by CIA Headquarters." The FBI replied that the post office box belonged to a department store in Guadalajara, Mexico. [CIA 990-935, NARA 1993.06.19.13.27:11:500000; CIA 989-934] On another occasion, Desmond FitzGerald supplied the FBI with a Mexican Street address for the DeMohrenschildts. [CIA 987-397] In 1967 the Agency showed some interest in a Ramparts article concerning the DeMohrenschildts. It also showed interest in Ramparts. On September 20, 1967, the CIA recommended the FBI intensify its investigation of Ramparts: "Your investigation should be directed to determining any subversive ramifications of the magazine and the individuals associated with it paying particular attention to...any foreign inspiration behind the magazine...This matter must receive vigorous and continuous investigative attention." [FBI 100-445393-88] The DeMohrenschildts moved back to Dallas in November 1966. A still withheld as of 2010 CIA document dated June 3, 1967, probably concerned the DeMohrenschildts:

The document is an operational dispatch from an Agency station abroad which relates in considerable detail the operational relationship between an Agency case officer and a foreign intelligence source. That source, during the course of activities, made a temporary acquaintance of an individual who testified before the Warren Commission. That witness repeated some of the text of his testimony without adding anything which was not already on the record. The release of this document would result in the identification and compromise of an Agency foreign intelligence source without adding any substance to the record of the Warren Commission testimony. That compromise would result in putting an individual in personal hazard and possibly causing some foreign relations difficulties between the U.S. Government and several other countries. Consequently, the cloak of Executive Order requires the classification of such information. [CIA 999-938, 1084-956-w/h, 989-934, 990-935, 987-397,842-887, 397-488]

THE LETTER TO GEORGE BUSH

By the 1970's the DeMohrenschildts were declass  . George DeMohrenschildt's association with OSWALD made him unwelcome in business circles, and none of his plans materialized. He taught Russian language classes at Bishop College, an all black school. On September 17, 1976, the CIA/Counter/Intelligence Staff requested that the FBI locate DeMohrenschildt, because he had "attempted to get in touch with the CIA Director." [CIA Message Reference Number 915341] George DeMohrenschildt had "written a letter to the Director of the Central Intelligence Agency asking for his assistance. It seems that Subject feels he is being harassed as a result of his involvement with the OSWALD case." [CIA MFR Raymond M. Reardon SAG 9.20.76] George Bush wrote this to his old friend:

Let me say first that I know it must have been difficult for you to seek my help in the situation outlined in your letter. I believe I can appreciate your state of mind in view of your daughter's tragic death a few years ago, and the current poor state of your wife's health. I was extremely sorry to hear of these circumstances. In your situation I can well imagine how the attentions you described in your letter affect both you and your wife. However, my staff has been unable to find any indication of interest in your activities on the part of Federal authorities in recent years. The flurry of interest that attended your testimony before the Warren Commission has long subsided. I can only speculate that you may have become 'newsworthy' again in view of the renewed interest in the Kennedy assassination, and thus may be attracting the attention of people in the media. I hope this letter had been of some comfort to you, George, although I realize I am unable to answer your question completely. George Bush, Director of the Central Intelligence Agency. [CIA Exec Reg. # 76,51571 9.28.76]

GEORGE DEMOHRENSCHILDT GOES INSANE

A FBI source reported:

DeMohrenschildt believed all sorts of people were following him, including the FBI, CIA, and KGB. In the last six months he even became very suspicious of the black people he worked with at Bishop College, and seemed to develop a real fear of blacks. On at least two occasions during the past year George DeMohrenschildt attempted suicide. The most recent attempt, as far as he knows, was in September or October 1976. After that attempted suicide, the relationship between Mr. and Mrs. DeMohrenschildt really starting deteriorating and they started committing acts of physical brutality against each other. DeMohrenschildt's situation finally got so bad that Jeanne DeMohrenschildt called the Dallas Mental Health Unit to have George DeMohrenschildt picked up. From approximately mid-November 1976, until December 30, 1976, George DeMohrenschildt stayed in the Psychiatric Unit at Parkland Hospital, Dallas, Texas, on a voluntary commitment. When George DeMohrenschildt went home, he and Jeanne DeMohrenschildt still did not get along. George DeMohrenschildt was still not healthy and they argued constantly. It got so bad they got evicted from their Kings Road apartment during the middle of January 1977, for being constantly loud, noisy and causing disturbing arguments. After the DeMohrenschildts got evicted from the apartment, George DeMohrenschildt moved to a student type apartment at Bishop College, and Jeanne DeMohrenschildt moved to California to live with a brother. (Deleted) [FBI 62-109060-7759; FBI Interview with (Deleted) DL 8943 3.31.77]

George DeMohrenschildt had tried to slash his wrists, drown himself, and poison himself with Digitoxin during 1976. On November 9, 1976, George DeMohrenschildt was committed to Parkland Hospital for treatment. He had brutally beaten his wife on a number of occasions: "He had broken some of my ribs, teeth, boxed my ear till it gushed blood." Jeanne DeMohrenschildt: "says his telephone is bugged. The house is bugged - voices and people eavesdropping to what he says. FBI after him. The Jewish mafia is closing in on him. Ghosts of FBI and Jews. Ghosts hear and listen to everything he does. Cars that go by are spying on him."

DEMOHRENSCHILDT'S DISCHARGE SUMMARY

The patient is a 65 year old white unemployed married male. Chief Complaint: 'I feel depressed at my age I'm at the end of the line of being a productive person. I'm afraid some Jewish doctors are after me. I'm not sure of any of this. I am aware that this could all be in my mind.' The patient feels his present illness started around four or five months ago when he went to visit a Dr. Mendosa, who was recommended to him by Dr. Jacobson. This Mendosa injected him with some kind of drug that made him violently ill. He could not urinate and he babbled as a child and became like a patsy to him. This information was verified by the patients wife, who also said that whenever the patient would go an visit the doctor, the doctor would be alone in the office and would not let the patients wife know what kind of medication he was giving to the patient...The patient, according to the wife began to trust his enemies and suspect his friends. He has tried to commit suicide four times. The first time in July he took one bottle of Valium. The second time, two or three weeks ago, took a bottle of Digoxin. Afterwards he tried to cut his wrists and submerge himself in the bathtub. One month ago he resigned his position as Professor of French at Bishop College where he worked for seven years....He feels the main problem is putting his nose in the Kennedy assassination again.

George DeMohrenschildt told Dr. Solomon Grinberg that his father died in 1941, in a nursing home in Denmark, during an air raid. His mother died of typhoid fever in 1919, while they were trying to escape from newly-formed Communist Russia, because his father had been sentenced to hard labor in Siberia, for life. He attended a Russian-Jewish School in Poland. His daughter was an "acid head" and his wife an alcoholic. George wore a big buckle with a peace sign on it during this interview and said "James Wood of the FBI tried to make me deny that FBI and CIA Dallas told me 'he is a harmless lunatic.' It never occurred to me that he could have been connected with CIA. Not the slightest indication he played the double-agent game." George DeMohrenschildt was administered Digitoxin, Naque, Aldomet and Haldol. He tried to escape from the Dallas County Hospital several times; he was finally given nine electroshock "treatments," all of them uneventful except for one thing: "Sometimes it was noted he would not have the convulsion until eight or ten minutes after the treatment was over. Two times he had a convulsion upon waking up. This was noted as a rather unusual effect." When George DeMohrenschildt was released from the hospital on December 30, 1976, he lost his job at Bishop College.

JANUARY 1977 TELEPHONE INTERVIEW W/ JEANNE DeM.

Q. Can I speak with Mr. DeMohrenschildt please?

A. He will not talk, I won't let him.

Q. Mrs. DeMohrenschildt, the CIA is releasing documents that say your husband was a Nazi spy. They also say the Domestic Operations Division ran a check on him in April 1963.

A. What? I don't give a damn, they have a lot of junk. I don't give a damn, so please forget it. You can't speak with him. He was just in the hospital for two months and that's enough. I've heard about the Nazi spy thing many times before. It's all baloney.

Q. Did you know Baron Von Maydell?

A. Yes.

Q. Well it says in the book, The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich that he was a very important Nazi spy. I'll read you the passage.

A. Oh? It was awfully nice of you to call me any way. It's damn nice of you to call. And all of this is total baloney. I don't want to hear anymore about the Kennedy assassination...We happened to adore the Kennedys. We were out of the country a year before it happened. We lived a beautiful life in Haiti, nothing wrong with that...my daughter was there. He had three geologists working for him.

Q. What about your walking trip?

A. That's not your goddamned business. Not yours and nobody else's.

Q. How did you run into the Cuban exiles who were training there?

A. I don't know how it happened, it's not my fault. Listen, I am sick and tired of it. If you want to make something out of it I have very good lawyers.

Q. Did George meet with the CIA when he came back from Yugoslavia in 1958?

A. He was with the ICA not the CIA, you understand? We had nothing to say. I was with him in Yugoslavia, I am his goddamned wife. He never had any meetings, the CIA documents are absolutely false. I am sick of that falseness...We weren't there and had nothing to do with it.

George DeMohrenschildt traveled to Europe with journalist Willem Oltmans in early March 1977. According to Edward Epstein, Willem Oltmans paid George DeMohrenschildt $5,000 and expected that DeMohrenschildt would furnish him with details of the conspiracy in return for the payment. Willem Oltmans introduced George DeMohrenschildt to someone affiliated with the Soviet Embassy, Brussels. Oltmans reported that George DeMohrenschildt disappeared on March 5, 1977. Alexandria DeMohrenschildt, the daughter of George DeMohrenschildt, said her father "felt that he had been drugged by Oltmans."

EDWARD EPSTEIN

George DeMohrenschildt arrived in West Palm Beach, Florida, from New York City in late March 1977 to meet with Edward J. Epstein at the Breakers Hotel. Edward Epstein was born in 1935 in New York City. He visited the Soviet Union shortly after his military discharge in 1958. A report on his trip was prepared by the State Department and forwarded to the FBI. [FBI 100-351585-3339] Edward Epstein 1994: "I was questioned about my trip by a State Department official, probably a CIA agent. I took one of the first automobile trips to the USSR." In 1959, while a student at Cornell, Edward Epstein complained to the FBI that his rights were being violated because other students were bugging or taping statements he made during a student election. In 1964 Edward Epstein prepared a master's thesis which was supportive of the Warren Commission.

EPSTEIN, FLETCHER KNEBEL, ALLEN DULLES AND SAM PAPICH

Allen Dulles called FBI/CIA liaison Sam Papich on May 23, 1966:

Dulles had just received a phone call from Fletcher Knebel, well-known writer. Knebel informed Dulles that he was collaborating with one Edward J. Epstein in writing a book on the Warren Commission Report dealing with the assassination of President Kennedy. Knebel indicated that this book would throw a whole new light on everything. He did not elaborate but stated that Epstein had access to FBI reports. He explained that this access had been arranged through Wesley J. Liebler, who had been a member of the Warren Commission working staff. Knebel was looking for Dulles' reaction and Dulles advised Knebel that he would be way out of line if he were using FBI reports. Dulles raised the question concerning legality and handling of classified information. Knebel made no further comment but did indicate that Epstein personally may have been in contact with Dulles in the past.

Shortly after, Dulles called again stating that he had checked his diary. He learned that Epstein had telephonically contacted him on September 27, 1965, explaining that he was a graduate student at Cornell University and that he was writing a thesis on the Warren Commission Report. Epstein told Dulles that he had talked to other members of the Commission and he was interested in meeting with the former CIA Director. Dulles stated he saw Epstein about three days later and they had a conversation concerning the work of the Commission. The entire conversation was in general terms, and he recalled that Epstein never expressed any personal views concerning the work of the Commission. He definitely gave no indication that he was planning to write a book.

Dulles asked that we not contact Knebel or Epstein at this time and not identify Dulles as the source of this information. Dulles made the observation that the current atmosphere is such that he and the Bureau can easily be charged with 'suppression.' Dulles made it clear that he certainly was not restricting the Bureau from making any inquiry and he fully recognized that this might become necessary."

Sam Papich advised the CIA of this phone call: "Mr. Papich has informed Mr. Rocca and Mr. Pforzheimer that shortly before Allen Dulles left on his current trip to Europe, he called to say that he had received a call from the journalist and author Fletcher Knebel [who] told Mr. Dulles that he had collaborated with Edward Epstein in the preparation of book, Inquest. Fletcher Knebel reminded Mr. Dulles of the latter's interview with Edward Epstein some months before and sought Mr. Dulles reaction (to what was apparently uncertain, but it may be that Dulles saw an advance of the book). There is no indication in Inquest of any collaboration by Knebel. However, Knebel may not have wished to use his name openly on a book of this type. Knebel's possible collaboration on this book would explain its readability which goes beyond the usual capabilities of a student-author of an expanded master's thesis." [Walter Pforzheimer 6.10.66] This document was sent to ANGLETON Deputy, James Hunt, Paul Gaynor and Raymond Rocca. [CIA Memo: William Pforzheimer 6.10.66] Edward Epstein's book, Inquest, was published in 1966. On July 7, 1966 the CIA stated:

This alleged 'collaboration' now appears to be inaccurate in light of Fletcher Knebel's slashing attack on Edward Epstein's book in a lengthy article which appears in Look magazine. Knebel finds that Epstein was guilty of the sins of which Epstein accused the Commission: '...distortion, ignoring testimony, shifting the evidence and adroitly selecting it to fit his theories and assumptions. At worst, Epstein has written a dangerously deceptive book...I have talked with Allen Dulles (without mentioned Mr. Papich's conversation) but Mr. Dulles' recollection of his conversation with Fletcher Knebel is hazy. Furthermore he has no recollection of Knebel ever stating that he was collaborating on the Epstein book. Yet when Sam Papich rechecked his notes on this conversation, they included the word 'collaboration,' and he was at a loss to explain this apparent conflict.' [Walter Pforzheimer 7.7.66]

Fletcher Knebel was the author of Seven Days In May, the story of an attempted right wing military coup in the United States. Fletcher Knebel said he got the idea for the book while interviewing General Curtis LeMay, onetime Air Force Chief of Staff, who went off the record to accuse President Kennedy of cowardice in his handling of Bay of Pigs. Fletcher Knebel, 81, committed suicide on February 28, 1993. Edward Epstein 1994: "Dulles was confused." An unnamed Staff member stated,

A search of Security Indices and sources available in the Agency Library has been unproductive...Inquest has the name of an Agency employee who has been concerned with the OSWALD case, namely Raymond Rocca. Due to this surfacing of an Agency employee, Edward Epstein and his sources are of importance to the Agency." It was noted on this document: "Raymond Rocca was the official Agency liaison to the Warren Commission under his true name." [CIA Memo for Rec. 6.8.66 probably Walter Pforzheimer] Another document stated: "Office of Security concern with Inquest appeared to be based on Epstein's mention of Ray Rocca, Counter-Intelligence Staff employee, which presumably tied in with concern about Nosenko.

AN OFFICE OF SECURITY FILE IS OPENED ON EDWARD EPSTEIN

On June 8, 1966, a CIA Office of Security File (OS #488 768) was initiated on Edward Epstein. "To (deleted) Room GE-31 Hdqrs. Please set up a MS file on Edward Jay Epstein and forward same to me. From: [deleted] 4E13 Hdqrs." On October 3, 1977, a copy of a memorandum that concerned Edward J. Epstein, was generated by Bruce Solie, Chief, Security Analysis Group. "A copy of the attached memorandum is being placed in the following security files: JAMES ANGLETON #8683, Raymond Rocca #16 791, David A. Murphy #31 454, Tennent H. Bagley #38 638, Donald Jameson #43 840. In addition, a copy of the attached memorandum has also been forwarded to the Chief, Clearance Division for the security file of the undersigned. Bruce L. Solie." The memorandum, which was for Deputy Director of Security (PSI), read:

1. Gordon Stewart, former Director of Personnel and Inspector General, who retired circa 1971, telephoned the undersigned at his residence on the evening of September 23, 1977. By way of background, Stewart, who was the Inspector General in early 1968, was selected by the Director of Central Intelligence to act in a 'middle man capacity' in the controversy in the Nosenko case. Nosenko had become the responsibility of the Office of Security in October 1967 at the direction of the Director of Central Intelligence and it became quite apparent that the Office of Security viewpoint concerning Nosenko was in conflict, if not in direct opposition to the views expressed by the Chief and Deputy Chiefs of both the SR Division and the CI Staff. The above officials, respectively, were David Murphy, H. Tennent Bagley, James ANGLETON and Raymond Rocca.

2. Stewart advised the undersigned that an Edward Epstein is writing a book on the Kennedy assassination. Stewart inquired as to whether the undersigned was willing to be interviewed concerning an area in which the undersigned had particular knowledge (it was clear to the undersigned that the reference was to Nosenko although name not mentioned). The undersigned told Stewart that he was still employed by the Agency but, in any event, had no interest in contact with any reporter. Stewart indicated that he understood the attitude of the undersigned and that it was not entirely unexpected. The undersigned is of the opinion that Stewart was only relaying a request or inquiry from Epstein who must have the name of the undersigned.

3. During the conversation, Stewart advised that Epstein, in addition to Stewart, has interviewed the following: Richard Helms, James ANGLETON, Raymond Rocca, Pete Bagley and Donald Jamison. (Stewart did not know if Epstein has contacted David Murphy).

4. In view of the individuals interviewed by Epstein, it is presumed that the book by Epstein will have considerable coverage of the past controversy over the bona fides of Nosenko.

5. Stewart advised that he had little knowledge concerning Edward Epstein but that Helms had a favorable opinion concerning Epstein.

6. Edward Epstein is undoubtedly identical to Edward J. Epstein (OS #488 768). There is no indication that Epstein has been used in any way by the Agency. The Security File was initiated in 1966 because of his authorship of articles on the Warren Commission. Stewart remarked that he did not believe Epstein, in his book, would materially disagree with the findings of the Warren Commission. This opinion may not be correct since Epstein has been quite critical of the Warren Commission and supportive to the 'more than one assassin' theory. Bruce Solie." [Solie, C/SAG Memo for DDS 9.26.77]

According to the CIA, in 1967 Edward Epstein "was in doctoral program (American Government) at Harvard. Reportedly travelled to the USSR in 1958 [CIA FOIA #41083] In 1968 Edward Epstein wrote an article critical of New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison which the CIA used to "brief interested contacts." In the early 1970's Edward Epstein continued to debunk CIA conspiracy theories regarding the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. He visited India in 1974, on behalf of the United States Information Agency, and in 1978 published Legend, which attempted to link OSWALD to the KGB. According to Edward Epstein, George DeMohrenschildt told him OSWALD had been recruited into the KGB while in Japan, went to the USSR, married a KGB agent, returned to the U.S. then went to Mexico, where he received his orders from the KGB to kill JFK. The title, Legend, reflected ANGLETON'S view that everything we thought we knew about OSWALD was merely a clever KGB-invented cover story or legend. ANGLETON was the major source of disinformation contained in this book. Deputy Chief, Counter-Intelligence Leonard McCoy stated that ANGLETON "identified or encouraged others as sources for Epstein." [CIA 17417 Memo for Rec. re Marchetti] Edward Petty commented: "If ANGLETON really believed so strongly that OSWALD was a Soviet agent, why did he never make any effort in that respect with the Warren Commission?" ### OLTMANS AND EDWARD JAY EPSTEIN

On April 12, 1977, Edward Jay Epstein, investigative writer, Reader's Digest Magazine, was re-interviewed by the FBI:

Concerning the Dutch journalist, Willem Oltmans, Epstein stated that any representation by Oltmans that DeMohrenschildt had claimed any personal knowledge of or involvement in the assassination of President Kennedy would be absolutely false...Based on George DeMohrenschildt's statements upon his return from Belgium, he was completely revolted and appalled by Oltmans and his associates and considered Oltmans despicable for trying to put words in his mouth after he specifically told Oltmans he had no knowledge of any conspiracy or details relating to the assassination of President Kennedy. At other times DeMohrenschildt referred to Oltmans and his associates as nuts and indicated Oltmans and his associates were homosexuals and at some point placed hands on him and touched him...Without elaboration, DeMohrenschildt referred to Oltmans as a Communist and as a Soviet Agent. DeMohrenschildt indicated that at the end of a long car ride, he was introduced to a Soviet who seemed interested in him. DeMohrenschildt furnished no other details concerning this man. At that point DeMohrenschildt said the events had become a nightmare and when he returned to his hotel he ran away from Oltmans without really taking his clothing." In another interview with the FBI Epstein stated that DeMohrenschildt "was most upset about an allegation that during World War II, he was a Nazi. According to Epstein's speculation, he believed this rumor may have come about when during 1940, DeMohrenschildt worked with one Baron Maydell.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director for Operations

FROM: Leonard McCoy

A/ Chief, Counterintelligence Staff

Subject: Book by Mr. Edward Epstein that May Jeopardize the Security of Nosenko and Reflect Adversely on the Agency.

REFERENCE: Office of Security Memo Dated 26 September 1977

2. In connection with the above it should be noted that in March 1976 Mr. Epstein interviewed Mr. Nosenko while he was being handled by the Office of Security.

DeMohrenschildt arrived in West Palm Beach, Florida, on the evening of March 16, 1977, from New York City, after having returned from a business trip in Belgium. He arrived at the Grey Hound Bus Station in that city and was met there by Mrs. Tilton and Miss Lomis...He was taken to Mrs. Tilton's oceanside home, where he was reunited with his daughter, Alexandria." On the morning of March 29, 1977, George DeMohrenschildt met Edward Epstein at the Breakers Hotel. While the two men conversed, HSCA investigator Gaeton Fonzi appeared at the Palm Beach house where the DeMohrenschildts were guests and spoke with Alexandria DeMohrenschildt. [CIA 1297-480] CIA Office of Security traces on Alexandria DeMohrenschildt's ex-husband were withheld. Alexandria DeMohrenschildt relayed Gaeton Fonzi's message to her father when he returned at 12:45 p.m. George DeMohrenschildt "was apparently upset" about Gaeton Fonzi's visit. He went to his room, and at 2:00 p.m. he emerged and complained about hearing scratching noises, like those made by a cat; there were no cats in the vicinity. He repeated to the maid he heard a cat, and began pacing up and down the hall.

At 2:21 p.m. on March 30, 1977, George DeMohrenschildt placed the barrel of Mrs. Tilton's shotgun in his mouth and pulled the trigger. He was found slumped in a chair. "The victim slumped over in a high-backed chair in the southwest corner of the hallway. His head was facing downward, and blood quite prominently was dripping from his mouth in large amounts and accumulating on the floor below...Lying across the left foot was a double-barrel shotgun, lying with the barrel pointing in a southeasterly direction...the death of this individual could possibly be of major importance." None of the domestic employees in the house at the time heard the shot. When his daughter returned at 2:30 p.m., she called the police. The death was ruled a suicide. No one suspicious had been seen around the house; all the beeps of the alarm system, which sounded whenever anyone opened a door or window, were accounted for by the police.

Shortly after the suicide, Willem Oltmans reported to the HSCA that George DeMohrenschildt had apprised him that H.L. Hunt was OSWALD'S superior and that former President John F. Kennedy was shot by Cubans angered over the failure of the Bay of Pigs. Willem Oltmans held a press conference in August 1977 at which he announced that a European source told him that former President Gerald Ford had been told the name of the person who ordered the assassination. At a press conference the following month, Willem Oltmans announced that H.L. Hunt had nothing to do with the assassination. The FBI Director sent Assistant Attorney General, Criminal Division, Robert L. Keuch, a May 5, 1978 Memorandum about Oltmans, most of which was withheld. It read: "This is to provide a response to Mr. Keuch's March 24, 1978, request that the reported attorney of a (deleted) be contacted." [FBI 62-117290-764X4, FBI 62-109060-7894] In 1971 Robert L. Keuch was Appellate Section Chief of the Internal Security Division. The Internal Security Division merged with the Criminal Division. In 1978 he was the main contact point between the HSCA and the Carter Administration.

THE RISE AND FALL OF GEORGE DEMOHRENSCHILDT

George DeMohrenschildt knew that OSWALD was not a Communist, however, he did not know of OSWALD'S connection to HEMMING and his crew. He knew nothing of the plot to assassinate President Kennedy. He was not murdered. The decline in DeMohrenschildt's social and economic status, coupled with the fact that Nazis are not stable individuals to begin with, led DeMohrenschildt down the path of insanity. His suicide occurred shortly before he was scheduled to testify before the HSCA about the numerous allegations that he was a Nazi spy during World War II. The Chief Consul of the HSCA, Robert Blakey, was Jewish. Gaeton Fonzi and this researcher were on DeMohrenschildt's case about these allegations, at this time. I hope our interest someone played a contributory factor in his suicide.

HOSTY

S.A. Hosty was acquainted with many White Russian exiles. Hosty disagreed, "I didn't have that close contact with the White Russians. I never heard any White Russians mention OSWALD prior to the assassination. I worked on the Klan and so forth." FBI documents indicated that his was not the case. When OSWALD returned to Dallas, S.A. Hosty should have become aware that OSWALD was not a run-of-the-mill Communist when he received reports of his presence among people like DeMohrenschildt, Dymitruk, Le Gon and Raigorodsky. The presence of an unrepentant Marxist in the White Russian community could only be explained in one way. The White Russians believed OSWALD had been a spy during his sojourn in the Soviet Union. S.A. Hosty knew, that despite their sympathy for OSWALD'S wife and child, anti-Communist émigrés were not about to befriend someone who espoused the ideology that had turned them into exiles. HOSTY knew there was more to OSWALD than first met the eye.

Evidence suggested that no one in the White Russian community in Dallas had any foreknowledge of the details of the assassination, however, afterwards, they knew or suspected that OSWALD was not really a communist. None of them came forward with this information. Priscilla Johnson told this researcher: "I think that OSWALD, because of going to the Soviet Union and coming back, he fell into a sort of demi-monde in which everyone was watching everybody. I don't think anybody, even in that world where everybody was considered for every possible, whatever, use somebody might put them to, I say he couldn't have made the cut either place. He was too unstable and stupid to be a covert agent."

GEORGE DEMOHRENSCHILDT AND RUTH PAINE'S FATHER

Joseph Dryer informed the HSCA that George DeMohrenschildt had mentioned the name of Dorothe Matlack with that of William Avery Hyde. Joseph Dryer did not recall this incident in 1993. The HSCA remarked: "The possible association between George DeMohrenschildt and Hyde may have some significance because Hyde is the father of Ruth Paine, the woman with whom Marina was living at the time of the assassination. The connection was intriguing because there was never any intimation by the Warren Commission that George DeMohrenschildt had more than a brief acquaintance with Ruth Paine." In his testimony before the Warren Commission, George DeMohrenschildt denied ever having met Ruth Paine before - except at the party at Volkmar Schmidt's house. Ruth Paine testified similarly, and conveyed that she had "no conversations, no letters, no contact whatsoever" with George DeMohrenschildt either before or after that party.

SOURPUSS RUTH PAINE IN THE BUTT

It was no accident that Ruth Paine found OSWALD a job that overlooked the parade route. She did so at the request of a family member.

Ruth Paine was born Ruth Hyde in New York City on September 3, 1932. When Ruth Paine was 15 years old, she preached with a traveling Bible school. Ruth Paine told the Warren Commission: "I was asked to be a leader, a teacher with a traveling Bible school. We went to three different small towns in Indiana and Ohio, and taught young children. I led songs and games and read stories." Ruth Paine became a Quaker while attending Antioch College in 1951 and was a delegate to two conferences of the Friends World Committee in England in 1952. She graduated from Antioch College in 1955. In 1993 Ruth Paine described herself as a financial contributor to the Friends World Committee. According to the Warren Report:

In 1955 Mrs. Paine was active in the work of the North American Young Friends Committee, which, with State Department cooperation, was making an effort to lessen the tensions between Soviet Russia and the United States by means of...exchanges of young Russians and Americans. It was during this period that Mrs. Paine became interested in the Russian language. Mrs. Paine participated in [and arranged] a Russian-American student exchange program...Ruth Paine was the "convener or clerk" of the East-West Contacts Group of the North American Young Friends Committee which was established in 1955. She has corresponded, until recently, with a Russian schoolteacher. [WR p285]

Ruth Paine told the Warren Commission:

Paine: It was at this conference, toward the later part, arising out of a discussion of the need for communication and more of it between the United States and the Soviet Union, by no means the bulk of business of this conference, but a small committee of interested people, was working on this matter.

Jenner: Are these interested young people?

Paine: These are all young Friends.

Jenner: And you were then of what age, 1955. Twenty-three?

Paine: Yes...This was at the time that plans first began for encouraging an exchange of young people between the Soviet Union and the United States, and I became active with the committee planning that, and from the planning there was an exchange, three Soviet young people came to this country and four young Quakers went to the Soviet Union...

The Committee worked on: "Organization of pen pal correspondence between American and Soviet young people." In 1958 Ruth Paine was involved in a Russian/American exchange program on a leadership level. [Friends Journal 4.26.58] Another Quaker group, the American Friends Service Committee, sent a delegation to the Soviet Union in 1955. The American Friends Service Committee was very much on the Left. The Friends World Committee soon sent a delegation to the Soviet Union. The CIA had an interest in "cultural exchange programs." CIA DD/P Richard Bissell stated: "Exchange of person programs...are more effective if carried out by private auspices than if officially supported by the United States Government." [Marchetti Cult of Intell. p52] The SSCIA reported that from 1964 to 1974 "the FBI identified over 100 intelligence officers among the approximately 400 Soviet students who attended universities as part of an East-West student exchange program. Also, in this program's 14-year history, more than 100 American students were the target of Soviet recruitment approaches in the USSR." [SSCIA For. & Mil. Intell. V1 p164] What was the story behind the Friends World Committee?

Ruth Paine answered negatively when she was asked if she had been aware of any intelligence community interest in student exchange programs. She stated: "The Soviets that came over were real party-line types, very doctrinaire." Ruth Paine was asked to name the State Department official who was involved with her program. She responded, "I haven't a clue, but you know they were working on cultural exchange at that point. Trying to make a crack in the Iron Curtain." Michael Paine stated, "I remember reading about that kind of thing in The Times and finding it so frustrating that a genuine effort to try to get person-to-person contact was being subverted by the government there."

Neither CIA Headquarters, nor the CIA's Office of Security traces on Ruth Paine have been released as of 1996, and she was mentioned only tangentially in the HSCA Report - "They never even called me. Someone called - to be sure where I was - if they wanted to call me." Despite much correspondence with the USSR, Ruth Paine did not show up on HT LINGUAL indices before 1966. (That year an American sent a letter to her from Moscow.) Withheld documents on the Paines included USSS 179-10001-10034, 10036; FBI NARA 179-10001-10091, 10094, 10101, FBI 179-10002-10084, 10244, 10251; HSCA 180-10116-10150; HSCA 180-10112-10450.

WILLIAM AVERY HYDE AND ANGLETON

The father of Ruth Paine, William Hyde, had contact with the CIA and the CIA's Office of Security had traces on him: "Files of the Office of Security reflect that Ruth Paine is the daughter of William Avery Hyde, OS C-157,435, (deleted)." William Avery Hyde [CIA SSD-157,435] was an anti-Communist who supported Socialist Party candidate Norman Thomas. Norman Thomas received millions of dollars in CIA subsidies because of his anti-Communist views. William Avery Hyde related: "Our introduction [to the Communists] came at the 1929 annual meeting of the Eastern Cooperative League. There were a number of Communist delegates to the convention. When they found out they did not have enough votes to control the meeting, they set out to obstruct it, and succeeding in preventing it from doing any business worth mentioning. Mother and I entered the meeting knowing very little about Communists, and left as their enemies, which we have been ever since 1948. From 1930 to 1942 I worked for, and with, various New York metropolitan area consumer cooperatives. They were subject to attempts at communist infiltration almost continuously. Both Mrs. Hyde and I took our part in trying to block this. From 1939 to 1941 I was the District Sales Manager of Greater New York for the Farm Bureau Insurance Companies of Ohio (now Nationwide). No one could get an agent's contract from the companies in my district except through me. Apparently the Comrades were anxious to infiltrate the outfit because a continuous stream applied for contracts. The fact that we had no specifically Communist type trouble from any agent I appointed leads me to think that my screening was successful. In our first few years in Columbus we met a few people we suspected of Communist leanings, but we have not been aware of such since the end of the Wallace campaign." A report by Bruce Solie of the CIA generated on December 5, 1963, stated:

Files

Chief, Research Branch/OS/SRS

PAINE, RUTH

aka: Mrs. Ruth Paine

1. FBI S.A. Cregar on December 4, 1963, confirmed that the Subject is the daughter of William Avery Hyde, SSD-157435. Cregar was furnished a copy of two 1957 investigative reports on William Avery Hyde, for lead purposes only, and was informed that Hyde was under consideration for a covert use by this Agency in Vietnam in 1957, but was not used. This information had previously been obtained from [03] CI/SIG.

2. Subject is the individual who is taking care of the widow of LEE HARVEY OSWALD and has apparently been quite well known to the widow of LEE HARVEY OSWALD for an undetermined period of time. The possibility that William Avery Hyde was the father of Ruth Paine was previously brought to the attention of Mr. Papich through Mr. O'Neal, CI/SIG. The Security File of William Hyde contains a copy of a 1956 FBI investigative report (Security of Government Employees) on Sylvia Ludlow Hyde aka Mrs. John Hoke who is the sister of Ruth Paine. The file of William Hyde also contains a 1956 OSI report on Sylvia Hoke.

3. In addition to the above, it was previously known that William Avery Hyde and wife Carol Hyde were associates in the late 1920's and later of Talbot Bielefeldt, #29931, who is currently employed by this agency in FDD. A certain amount of information concerning William Hyde, Carol Hyde, and other associates of Hyde and Bielefeldt during the latter 1920's was furnished by Talbot Bielefeldt during interviews several years ago. At that time the Bielefeldt case was under extensive investigation. Bruce Solie.

On April 8, 1964 the Office of Security reviewed the Ruth Paine entry in OSWALD's address book:

Files reflect that Ruth Paine is the daughter of William Avery Hyde, OS C-157435, who was being considered for covert use in 1957 by IO Division; however Hyde did not receive a security clearance for the proposed utilization. Files contain no pertinent information regarding Ruth Paine of her husband, and further reflect that the FBI is aware of the relationship of Paine and Hyde. [CIA 646-277]

On April 30, 1964, Birch O'Neal generated the following document:

MEMORANDUM FOR FILE (CI/OA File 59751)

SUBJECT: Mrs. Ruth Paine nee Hyde

Shortly after the assassination of President Kennedy the press carried information concerning a Mrs. Ruth Paine who had befriended the OSWALD family. Mr. Bruce Solie, of the Office of Security, called to my attention that the Office of Security has information of possible interest concerning William A. Hyde, who had three children; namely Ruth Hyde, Sylvia Hyde Hoke and Carl Hyde. Mrs. Ruth Paine was known to have had the name Hyde prior to her marriage.

On November 29, 1963, I advised Sam Papich to contact Mr. Solie of the Office of Security for information of possible interest in connection with Mrs. Ruth Paine. I indicated to Mr. Papich that the Office of Security information was of possible security significance and consideration and I was subsequently informed that the Bureau had been in touch with Mr. Solie for its information. Birch D. O'Neal Chief, CI/SIG.

[NARA CIA 1993.07.08.09.:07:31:900520]

On March 1, 1964, FBI S.A. Charles M. Beall, Jr., ascertained at CIA that its security and foreign indices did not contain any references identifiable with Michael Ralph Paine. CIA advised its only reference to Ruth Avery Hyde, nee Hyde, was set out in CIA Report prepared in 1957 on William Avery Hyde, father of Ruth. This CIA material was furnished the Bureau via Liaison on December 4, 1963, with request the CIA material not be inserted in the Bureau reports. Dallas is cognizant." [FBI 105-1717-225 - Hosty's name on the "Searched, Indexed, Serialized and Filed April 19, 1964, FBI - Dallas" stamp on this document.] HEMMING told this researcher: "He was covering his ass." The FBI reported:

On December 4, 1963, CIA made available information to the Bureau Liaison that in 1957 CIA considered using this individual to operate a cooperative educational center in Vietnam but he was not used by the CIA. Investigation by CIA at that time concerning William Avery Hyde was favorable.

Ruth Paine commented: "The information about the CIA considering my father for Vietnam was a surprise. I doubt if he would have accepted such an invitation, if it was offered. He certainly didn't go. He went to Peru. He was working with the Agency for International Development. He helped to develop rural credit unions for the compasinos so that they could save enough money to make loans to themselves, instead of always paying the huge bank rates. He loved it. I know that USAID asked my father to appraise a situation in Georgetown, Guiana. He recommended against starting a project there, as he thought the local officials corrupt." In 1964 Ruth Paine informed the Warren Commission:

Paine: My father is working for Nationwide Insurance Company. He has been on special assignment from them to - I am not certain of the name of the organization - to cooperative alliance in Europe.

Jenner: That is a cooperative alliance of insurance companies?

Paine: Having to do with insurance; yes.

Jenner: Insurance companies?

Paine: Yes; that is my understanding.

Jenner: This is a commercial activity, isn't it?

Paine: Yes; I believe so. And -

Jenner: The cooperative alliance in Europe, does that include any Iron Curtain countries?

Paine: No. He is presently teaching a course at Ohio State University and he is on loan for that portion of time which he occupies with teaching from his regular job at Nationwide, although he is at the company most of the time.

Michael Paine was told about William Avery Hyde and ANGLETON. Michael Paine: "I thought he was an insurance salesman. He would never have any connection to the CIA. This is getting ridiculous. Out of hand." Michael Paine, who was usually talkative, said: "There's a good movie on T.V. and I want to watch it now, so goodbye." He later refused further comment upon receipt of the documents.

Ruth Paine grew up in the Democratic Socialist, anti-communist tradition of Norman Thomas. Democratic socialists were willing to work with the CIA to defeat the Communists, who they viewed as a totalitarian perversion of socialism. William Avery Hyde was not the only socialist-type CI was willing to collaborate with; it also worked with David Dubinsky of the Garment Worker Union. [Scott - Deep Politics p374]

CAROL E. HYDE

According to Herbert Philbrick, the mother of Ruth Hyde Paine, a Unitarian Minister, Mrs. Carol E. Hyde, was a radical: "Ruth Paine's mother, Mrs. Carol E. Hyde, was active in the Woman's International League for Peace and Freedom, one of the very first fronts I came to know through the Cambridge Youth Council." (If this was correct, why did the CIA consider her husband for employment)? The FBI stated that Carol E. Hyde was insane, and had been institutionalized for mental illness. J. Lee Rankin of the Warren Commission was informed that these reports were Secret. The FBI also discovered that Carol E. Hyde had allegedly admitted to neighbors that she was a communist. During the Warren Commission hearings Ruth Paine was asked:

Jenner: Do you now or have you ever had leanings which we might call Communist Party leanings?

Paine: No, on the contrary.

Jenner: Are you now or have you ever been a member of any groups which you consciously recognize as being, let us say, a Communist front group?

Paine: No; I have not and I would be quite certain I had not been unconsciously a member of any such groups.

Jenner: I take it from your response that you have an aversion to communism?

Paine: Yes; I do...I am offended by the portion of the communist doctrine that thinks violence is necessary to achieve its aims. I am likewise offended by the doctrine that any means to what is considered a good end is legitimate. I, on the contrary, feel that there is no justification at any time for deception, and the Communists, as I have observed their activity, have no reluctance to deceive, and this offends me seriously...

Paine: As I have already testified, I dislike deception in any form. I might go on to say that I think the people of Russia on the whole have very little choice about their leaders at elections.

Jenner: It is the antithesis of democracy?

Paine: Yes it is certainly a dictatorship.

Jenner: And that is abhorrent to you?

Paine: Yes it is.

Jenner: I take it, far from having any sympathy or admiration for communism or what we call the Russian system or philosophy, you have an aversion?

Paine: I have an aversion.

Jenner: Have you ever studied Karl Marx?

Paine: No; not in the sense of studied. I think one history course in college included a few readings from Karl Marx.

Jenner: I think I have asked you this, but I want to make sure it is in the record. You are a pacifist?

Paine: I consider myself such. I don't like to consider myself as adhering to any particular doctrine. I believe in appraising a situation and determining my own action in terms of that particular situation, and not making a rigid or blanket philosophy dictate my behavior.

Jenner: But you are opposed to violence?

Paine: I am...I consider violence to be always harmful to the values I believe in, and just reserve the right to, as I have said, appraise each situation in the light of that initial belief.

As stated Ruth Paine came from a democratic socialist, anti-Communist tradition and was a genuine anti-Communist. The only reason she let a "Communist" like OSWALD live with her was because someone in her immediate family had told her that OSWALD was "alright." Ruth Paine was a Quaker but not a pacifist. She commented, "Pacifist is a label I object to. I would tend to look first and much harder for non-violent solutions than most people. I am not a Desert Storm enthusiast."

SYLVIA HYDE'S CIA SECURITY FILE

The sister of Ruth Paine, Sylvia Ludlow Hyde Hoke (born October 2, 1929), worked at the Labor Department from 1949 to 1953. She started working at the CIA in 1954. Her cover was Personnel Research Technician, Placement and Employee Relations Division, Director of Civilian Personnel, Headquarters, Department of the Air Force, Washington, D.C. Marina Oswald told this researcher in 1994: "Ruth Paine never mentioned her sister was in the CIA." The Sylvia Hyde Security File 348 201 was held by the Office of Security, Security Analysis Group. On June 15, 1955, this CIA Official Routing Slip from Bruce Solie was sent to illegible whose initials were "wmw"- "Remarks: Please have file set up on Sylvia Hyde Hoke nee Hyde MS 8201."

TALBOT BIELEFELDT

On December 21, 1955, this document was generated:

To: Mr. Bruce Solie, 2046 I Bldg.

From: Talbot Bielefeldt, 2401 Y Bldg. (Ext 2150)

Subject: ORR, Paul and Violet and others.

1. William A. Hyde was in Washington this last weekend, visiting his daughter and son-in-law, Sylvia and John Hoke, 763 Kennedy N.E. The latter invited (Deleted) and me over to meet him on Saturday night December 17, 1955, since we were friends at Stanford. (Deleted) Memo Dated December 21, 1955. Sanitized version appears above. Deleted Sections contain references to the Hokes, only 3rd party personal info.

In 1965 Talbot Bielefeldt, Chief USSR Branch, Foreign Documents Division, CIA, 1200 Wilson Boulevard, Arlington, Virginia, was questioned by Naval Intelligence about Hoke. He gave the Navy favorable references and stated that "the sister of the Subject's wife was the one who rented an apartment to LEE HARVEY OSWALD and wife in Texas."

On March 21, 1956, the Department of the Air Force issued Sylvia Hoke a Final Secret Clearance which remained in effect until May 31, 1957, six months after the investigation by OSI, at which time Sylvia Hyde resigned her cover employment with the U.S. Air Force to accompany her husband overseas to Germany. As of 1965 the above clearance was still in effect. Sylvia Hyde Hoke was granted a Top Secret Clearance from the Agency for International Development on April 17, 1956. On September 20, 1956, and on September 21, 1956, the CIA noted that Sylvia Hyde Hoke's name appeared in FBI Reports about her father, William A. Hyde. Another document stated: "For additional Information regarding Sylvia Ludlow Hyde Hoke Refer to:

1. OSI (U.S.A.F.) Rpt. dated December 14, 1956, (#33-3439) Title: Sylvia Ludlow Hyde Hoke.
2. FBI Rpts covering period September 17, 1956, to February 6, 1957, (FD-204; May 7, 1954). Title: Sylvia Ludlow Hyde Hoke.

DOROTHY H. WILSON

In February 1957 Sylvia Hyde Hoke was the Subject of an FBI investigation, when her mother-in-law called her husband from a telephone monitored by the FBI. Mrs. Helen Hoke had called her son from the office of Dorothy H. Wilson:

Dorothy Wilson, according to the informant, also advised (Deleted) that Helen Hoke has a son, John Lindsay Hoke, who works for "AAA" in Washington, D.C. and whose wife works in 'Navy Intelligence.' Wilson continued with the information that John Hoke's wife was being upgraded from a semi-secret position, to a top secret position, and the authorities had informed her that she could not have this top secret position because of Helen Hoke's association with Wilson. Too, Wilson advised (Deleted) John Hoke's wife was told that it did not appear that she would get the top secret position if she could not be cleared, they did not believe she was fit to hold her present position. Wilson said John Hoke's wife was faced with dismissal, which could have been frightful, except that she was expecting a child and was leaving in February anyway. [WCD 508 p1] The FBI reported that

New York T-2 (SF 613-S* Telsur on CP Headquarters San Francisco), who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised in February 1943, Dorothy Wilson was a member of the North Beach Branch of the Communist Party in California and attended her first party meeting during that month. In 1943, Dorothy H. Wilson's name turned up as Communist Party member during a FBI trash cover. In 1946 Sylvia Hoke gave the name of Gerritt E. Fielstra as the person to contact in case of emergency when she worked for Time Magazine. Fielstra was a Communist sympathizer and union organizer. [FBI 105-1716-16]

The United States Civil Service Bureau advised the FBI by letter dated June 27, 1957, that Sylvia Hoke had resigned prior to a determination being made in her loyalty case.

[FBI 105-82555 NR 199 4.3.64] On August 13, 1958, a Card For Action Report contained a cross reference between Sylvia Hoke and "CF #29931 (Talbot Bielefeldt) rep. December 21, 1955, p.1. Sylvia Hoke's CIA Security File contained "Two sealed envelopes" were withheld as of 2010 as was "Information regarding father / 3rd Party / 3rd Agency Information Contained memo dated June 11, 1959, (3rd Agencies - OSI, U.S.A.F. + FBI)." [NARA CIA 1993.07.25.08:39:37:560310] Sylvia Hyde Hoke's clearance with the Agency for International Development was revalidated on January 17, 1962. On November 11, 1963, Bruce Solie asked Mrs. M.D. Stevens of the Office of Security to do a search on Sylvia Hoke and Carl Hyde. There were overt and covert traces on Sylvia Hyde and covert traces on Carl Hyde. The files on Sylvia Hoke and Carl Hyde included "**157435 Type Covert *Hyde, William A. FBI report September 20, 1956, p 2. FBI Report September 24, 1956, p2, MS-8201 Overt and *157435 Covert Hyde, William A. FBI Report September 21, 1956 p1. FBI Report September 20, 1956, p1. Ethel Mendoza SRS." On September 22, 1963, the CIA reported its files contained "No Pertinent Identifiable Information on Subject." In 1965 Sylvia Hyde Hoke worked for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in a non-sensitive position. On May 9, 1967, Mrs. E. Mendoza of OS/SRS wrote: "Files of the Office of Security contain numerous references to Subject who is daughter of William a. Hyde, G-157435. (Sister to Sylvia is Ruth Paine, known to have been a close associate of LEE HARVEY OSWALD and Marina Oswald).

Hoke's mother-in-law is Helen Hoke Watts, who is a partner in a New York publishing firm with Dorothy Wilson, aka Dorothy Wilson Seligson, aka Mrs. Lou Seligson, who has been identified as a member of the Communist Party. Wilson is known to have been in contact with Isadore Gibby Needleman concerning financial payments received by her from Bernard Geis (1962 to 1963).

Gibby Needleman was an attorney who represented the Amtorg Trading Corporation, the registered Russian Trade Agency in the United States.

SYLVIA HOKE IS IDENTIFIED AS CIA EMPLOYEE

June 30, 1971

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

SUBJECT: HOKE, SYLVIA H.

FILE # 348 201

1. Subject, under name of Sylvia Hoke with an address of 523 Monticello Drive, Falls Church, Virginia, was identified as a CIA employee in the 1961 issue of the Falls Church Virginia Directory.
2. Since it is known that opposition intelligence services have in the past checked similar publications, it should be presumed that the indicated employment of Subject by the CIA is known to other intelligence organizations. The basic memorandum on which paragraph one is based is available in Volume III of Exposure of CIA Personnel, OS #601 818.

This memorandum contains no additional information concerning SAC and further review of file # 601 818 can normally be considered unnecessary. Bruce Solie, Deputy Chief, SRS.

Hill's 1961 Falls Church, Virginia, City Directory contained the listing:

Sylvia Hyde Hoke was contacted on November 22, 1993. She was asked if she had ever worked for the CIA: "No, I'm not going to answer any questions. I refuse to give interviews." Ruth Paine was asked about her sister: "I would doubt it seriously. When I asked her if she worked for the government she said she did statistical work for the Air Force. It's very unlikely and something I never heard from her. It's unknown to me." Michael Paine was told about Sylvia Hyde Hoke's connection to the CIA. Michael Paine: "I don't believe it. It is not true. I don't remember what her occupation was. I had no idea this was the case. Ask Ruth, what does she say? If it was true, it had no bearing on the Kennedy assassination." [Hoke, Sylvia Hyde 5421 Waneta Road Bethesda MD 20816 telephone 301-229-5998]

JOHN LINDSEY HOKE
THE AGENCY FOR INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Ruth Paine's brother-in-law, John Lindsey Hoke, (born June 26, 1925, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania), worked for the American Automobile Association from 1951 to 1957. He accepted an appointment with the International Cooperation Administration (the predecessor of the Agency for International Development) on February 4, 1956, as a "audio visual consultant (regional) to be assigned to the U.S. Operations Mission (USOM), Panama City, Panama." John Lindsey Hoke told the Deputy Director of Communications of the International Cooperation Administration, Gale Griswold, that, "while assigned in Latin America he had been requested, and did, intelligence type work for the American Embassy." Gale Griswold did not know for whom John Lindsey Hoke worked, or what his job was.

On June 24, 1957, John Lindsey Hoke was transferred to Paramaribo, Surinam, where he worked with the International Cooperation Administration's Office of Program Support, Communications Research Division. One of his family members could not adapt to the field and Hoke returned to Washington, D.C. where he worked with the Agency for International Development in the Office of Program Support, Communications Research Division. Ruth Paine stated, "You want to know why he left - his wife couldn't stand Surinam." A notation in Hoke's Naval Intelligence File was "Mrs. Van Sast, CIA, on September 25, 1962, called and wanted to know Hoke's TS clearance and basis." On June 30, 1963, Hoke terminated his employment with AID, no reason given. In 1962, "DIO-NDW Confidential Informant (P-1) advised that Subject was approved as eligible for Top Secret Clearance during the years of 1962 to 1963 by a Government Agency who conducts security investigations [CIA]." On August 21, 1962, the CIA granted an Approval for Liaison with John Lindsey Hoke:

TO: Chief, Employee Activity Branch PSD/OS

THROUGH: Chief, Security Officer, OC

The following is hereby requested to be effective on a continuing basis:

CIA Employees: NAME (Deleted) and other such member of the Engineering Staff designated by him. Ext. 2952 Office OC-E

Non-CIA Employee: John L. Hoke. Organization AID, Communications Resource Specialist State Annex #1, Washington, D.C. On September 28, 1962, Subject's Security Officer advised that SAC was cleared for access to classified information up to and including TOP SECRET April 19, 1954, per (Deleted) x 113-3005] Classification of matter to be discussed: SECRET, Chief Engineering Staff, OC Ext. 2952 (Deleted) Authorized Signature.

Agency For International Development personnel and security records reflected that Congressman Porter Hardy, Chairman, Subcommittee on Government Operations, held hearings on John Lindsey Hoke on August 13, 1962, that produced evidence that Hoke seemed to be serving two masters, in connection with a solar-powered boat project between AID and Hoffman Electronics Corporation of California under circumstances which Congressman Hardy described as "collusion." Hoffman's president denied company profit on the contract. Hoffman "denied banality and explained false limousine fares covered purchases." A newspaper clipping, undated, Washington Daily News, stamped September 25, 1962, reflects results of a committee hearing, that caption read "Aid Official Has Wings Clipped." This article charged that Hoke was the promoter of a project to finance a solar powered boat for use in Surinam while at the same time he was planning to "make personal profit from the venture." On November 9, 1962, Assistant United States Attorney, Fredrick G. Smith declined prosecution in the case on the grounds that violation of Federal laws by Hoke were merely a technical nature. Hoke was embittered over the way this Congressional investigation was handled.

On June 20, 1963, the Hokes received a telephone call from the Paines to congratulate their son on his 10th birthday. On June 30, 1963, John Lindsey Hoke left the Agency for International Development. No reason was given.

On August 22, 1963, the CIA again granted an Approval for Liaison with John Lindsey Hoke on a continuing basis. This document was identical to the first Request for Approval of Liaison except that a block stamp on it was signed by Howard Osborn and the notation "EAB card reflects on September 28, 1962, Subject's Security Officer advised that SAC was cleared for access to classified information up to and including Top Secret." Ruth Paine visited the Hokes in August 1963. In August 1963 Ruth Paine was in Washington D.C. to attend a mass civil rights march. [WCE 1983 page 7] Ruth Paine described her trip in a letter to Marina: "Tomorrow we and the children will go to Baltimore, Maryland, where Michael's brother and wife live. We will spend one day there and then we will go back further to Washington, where we will stay with sister until Thursday. Then back to Paoli again, where we will wait for my father. He will be here with us for two days. I expect to be in Paoli until September 10, 1963, and then to go to Ohio and Indiana, where our relatives and friends live, and to arrive in New Orleans on the 20th..." [WCE 78 p253] When Hoke's Request for Liaison Approval was renewed on August 13, 1964, it was identical to the others except for a block stamp that read "On August 20, 1964, Subject's Security Officer advised that Subject was cleared for access to classified information up to and including Top Secret TERMINATED June 30, 1963. Return, no action."

In July 1965 John Lindsey Hoke was the subject of a security investigation by U.S. Naval Intelligence because of his connection to Ruth Paine combined with his employment by Atlantic Research. Atlantic Research was founded in 1949 and is an Alexandria-based, high-technology firm, which is engaged in the production of rockets, gas generators and chemical research techniques, design and development of command and control systems for space and air defense, data processing, computer facilities management, computer based research and analysis and the development of defense software. Atlantic Research was involved in launching unmanned satellites in 1956. Hoke was granted a company confidential clearance. [NYT 9.25.56] Everyone who was interviewed by Naval Intelligence recommended him "for a position of trust with the U.S. Government."

TELEPHONE INTERVIEW

John Lindsey Hoke was contacted in November 1993. He asked: "What is the purpose of your book? If this is another one of these books that's doing an exposé on plots and so forth and so on, I'm simply not interested in getting mixed-up in it." It was explained to John Lindsey Hoke that his wife's close connection to the CIA had been exposed. "She worked for the CIA, no (laughs). Well, let me ask her and find out. Honey, did you work for CIA? I don't know what you got, or where you got it. I don't particularly want to get into it. I don't need a copy. I don't know where all this crap is coming up from. I'm sure I'm in it too." John Lindsey Hoke was read the document that stated he was doing intelligence work: "Me? I really don't want to discuss it anymore. Thanks for calling."

CARL HYDE

On December 12, 1963, the FBI reported:

Ruth Paine's brother, Dr. Carl D. Hyde, was investigated by the Bureau in 1953 as a Conscientious Objector (CO), basing his objections on religious convictions. No subversive information was developed during investigation and persons interviewed expressed belief he was sincere in claiming status as CO [new paragraph] (deleted) CIA (deleted). CIA confidentially advised (deleted). On December 6, 1963, CIA furnished (deleted)...Separate investigations have been initiated in the view of the Paine's association with LEE HARVEY OSWALD and the subversive background of Michael Paine's parents (deleted) 3rd Agency. [FBI 105-126129-NR 12.16.63]

Ruth Paine came from a family well-known to the intelligence community. She was not the run off the mill housewife she pretended to be. Ruth Paine was asked that if her father, sister and brother-in-law worked for the CIA, what about her? She said this was "guilt by association."

RUTH PAINE MEETS OSWALD

Ruth Paine claimed her first meeting with OSWALD happened purely by chance. Michael Paine said he met Everette Glover at the Unitarian Church. Everette Glover asked him if I wanted to meet a Marine who had defected, then redefected, from the Soviet Union. Michael Paine:

I thought, 'Oh boy, that sounds interesting.' It never struck me too odd that he should be allowed to come home. To be allowed back would be a feather in the cap of the United States. So I didn't have trouble. Without asking him, I assumed that was why he was so readily allowed back. I expected to find him politically interesting. And I didn't find him that way. He was very different from the kinds of people who had come to talk to my father. He didn't like complexities.

Michael Paine did not attend Everette Glover's party, but Ruth Paine did. In July 1993 Ruth Paine stated:

This whole thing is still very painful. Kennedy was the first President I ever voted for who won. I had no association with the Dallas White Russian community. I did not know DeMohrenschildt. The party was put on by Everette Glover. I sang English Madrigals with Everette. That was the only time I met DeMohrenschildt. A colorful fellow, though.

It was pointed out to Ruth Paine that the HSCA linked her father to George DeMohrenschildt. Ruth Paine: "Well it might be, you know, things happen." On February 22, 1963, Ruth Paine met Marina Oswald and LEE HARVEY OSWALD. Ruth Paine said she discussed censorship in the Soviet Union: "He referred to a letter sent to him by Robert Oswald that he later learned, after he had come back to the United States, had been sent. He had not received it. He judged that they had simply stopped it, and he commented that they are more apt to just take a letter than to take out a piece of it and then send it on, and that censorship is more obvious." Ruth Paine said he told her how he attempted to give up his United States citizenship when he was in Russia. Ruth Paine was asked:

Jenner: When was your next contact with either LEE OSWALD or Marina Oswald?

Paine: I wrote a letter, a note to Marina at the address I had been given, and I got a note back saying, 'We have moved. This is the new address. Come in perhaps a week.' From that time. She wanted to get the house cleaned up before I came...I drove to her home. There would be no way for her to come.

Jenner: You just waited a few days, guessed how long it would take her to have her home in order, and you visited her. Am I correct in my summary?

Paine: She suggested Tuesday, as I recall in her letter, but what Tuesday I don't know. If it was written on the Tuesday March 8, 1963, that would be Tuesday March 12, 1963. There is no notation on my calendar.

RUTH PAINE TAKES THE INITIATIVE

Ruth Paine visited Marina Oswald on March 20, 1963. On April 2, 1963, she invited LEE and Marina to her home for dinner. Michael Paine picked them up and drove them to Irving, then joined them for supper. On April 7, 1963, Paine invited Marina to move in with her. On April 10, 1963, Marina and Paine got together and on April 20, 1963, OSWALD went on a picnic with Ruth and Marina. A visit was arranged for April 24, 1963. When Ruth Paine arrived on April 24, 1963, OSWALD was about to depart for New Orleans. Paine offered to drive OSWALD to the bus station. She said his trip came as a complete surprise. Ruth Paine and OSWALD drove to the bus station, cashed in a ticket OSWALD had purchased for Marina, (since Ruth Paine had offered to drive Marina to New Orleans), then they returned to OSWALD'S apartment and moved some belongings to Irving. They then returned to the bus station and OSWALD left for New Orleans. Ruth Paine launched an aggressive campaign to insert herself in OSWALD'S life. She called on Marina, and not visa versa. She acted hastily in exposing her children to strangers. Someone had instructed her to do this.

RUTH PAINE'S "NEWSPAPER AD"

On January 9, 1964, the FBI questioned members of the East-West Contacts Group about Ruth Paine. Wilmer Joseph Stratton told the FBI

It is his understanding that either Ruth Hyde Paine and Mrs. Marina Oswald placed an ad in one of the Dallas, Texas, newspapers expressing a desire to establish contact with some person who could exchange conversation in Russian language. He said he did not recall Ruth's statements concerning this fact but is of the opinion that Ruth Paine took the initiative in placing the newspaper ad. He related it was through the newspaper ad at Ruth Paine met OSWALD.

Another Quaker, Paul Alvin Lacey, told the FBI:

He recalled Ruth Paine had mentioned that either she had placed an ad in the Dallas newspaper for contact with some person who spoke Russian, or that Mrs. Oswald had placed the ad, seeking some one who would teach her to speak English. He stated, on reflection on the conversation, he is of the opinion that Mrs. Paine placed this and in this way, Mrs. Paine established her original contact with Mrs. Oswald. He related that he did not know when Mrs. Paine first made contact with Mrs. Oswald but assumed that it would have been during winter of 1962 or spring of 1963 and prior to that time Ruth returned East for the summer to visit with relatives. He stated that Ruth had commented on the fact that Mrs. Oswald was unhappily married and that her husband was an emotionally upset person, and she expressed concern as to the possible reception she would receive in making contact with Mrs. Oswald and was uncertain as to the reaction of LEE HARVEY OSWALD with regard to returning Mrs. Oswald to Dallas, Texas." [FBI interview with Stratton, Lacy IP 105-3441 Pettijohn / McDonald-1.15.64]

Ruth Paine commented: "You are way off here. I have no idea of what you are talking about. You know how I established my relationship with Marina." She was told that the FBI was merely passing on reports from several reputable Quaker leaders. Ruth Paine interjected, "You believe everything the FBI says, huh?" I told her I did not. She continued, "Now we can talk." Ruth Paine was upset because she was caught lying. Why did Ruth Paine lie about the circumstances of the origin of her relationship with OSWALD before the assassination? Why didn't she say that she met OSWALD at a party through a mutual friend? How did she really meet OSWALD? Ruth Paine knew the OSWALDS for about two months before she allowed Marina Oswald and her daughter to move in with her on a full-time basis and LEE on a part-time basis. Ruth Paine stated, "I visited with them in Dallas and discovered that LEE was all packed-up ready to go to New Orleans to look for work. This is late April, or early May 1963. He had tickets for Marina Oswald to get on a bus and follow him as soon as he found work. They did not have a phone. She was pregnant. I suggested she stay with me for ten days so OSWALD could call her." A few months later, she allowed OSWALD to live with her on weekends. The Warren Commission:

Sen. Cooper: What made you willing to have this man, you have said, this very curious man, from all you have described about him, to have him in your house?

Paine: He was Marina's husband and I, like her, as I have described, was both lonely and interested in learning the Russian language. I would have been happy had he never come out, indeed happier had he not come out on the weekends. But they were not separated as a married couple nor contemplating such separation, and I didn't feel that this - it was appropriate for him to have to stay away. I did not ask that.

Ruth Paine was already teaching Russian when she met Marina Oswald. She testified: "I presume to teach Russian, not because I am fluent, but because I think my pronunciation is particularly good for a non-native." Ruth Paine commented in 1994: "I had one student." Why had Ruth Paine trusted OSWALD enough to live with her two children and herself on weekends? If she honestly thought OSWALD was a Communist, Ruth Paine would not have let him in her home. S.A. Hosty said Ruth Paine told him OSWALD was "a very illogical person and that he had told her that weekend that he was a 'Trotskyite Communist.'" Ruth Paine knew that OSWALD was connected to the CIA through someone in her family. Her family had strong ties to the intelligence community and may have been unwittingly used. What was not accounted for was that a sexual relationship developed between Ruth and Marina.

Scott Malone reported that when Dallas Police searched the home of Ruth Paine after the assassination they found a commercial pornographic film depicting acts of lesbianism. Ruth Paine: "I certainly never saw them. I don't know what they thought they found." The police also found "Operating Manual for Sears Tower Automatic Projector No. 9885." [FBI 105-126128-Enc.] On page 17 of the description of items found in the Paine home items J and K are marked DELETED. [FBI 105-82555-5TH NR 2579] On November 26, 1963, S.A. WARREN C. DEBRUEYS informed SAC Gordon Shanklin: "Movie reels in possession of Dallas Pd on November 24, 1963, and November 25, 1963, as result of seizure by search warrant from the home of Ruth Paine, November 23, 1963...were reviewed and bore no pertinence to instant case." [FBI DL 89-43-616] The National Archives reported: "After an extensive search we cannot locate this film in the JFK collection." [Ltr. 1.5.96 from Martha Wagner Murphy NARA to AJW] The movie reels were probably returned to Ruth Paine. The FBI explored the possibility that Ruth Paine was a lesbian, however, it found no evidence and excised any indications of Bureau interest: "Stratton related that he had no reason to consider that Mrs. Paine was a sex pervert or in this way involved with either of the OSWALDS. Amended page inserted February 17, 1964." [FBI IP 105-3441 p13]

HEDE MASSING, RUTH PAINE AND THE FIVE LETTERS

Hede Massing was a friend of Isaac Don Levine. A CIA document indicated that Massing had spoken with Isaac Levine and he had told her Paine "gave him five letters written by LEE OSWALD and that these letters are new evidence." [CIA 1283-1022] The FBI reported: "The existence of these letters allegedly has never been made known to any U.S. Government authorities." William Branigan stated "Bureau would like to have Ruth Paine immediately interviewed to determine whether or not she has been in contact with Isaac Don Levine and if she has been in contact with him, has she given him any letters or any documentary material concerning LEE HARVEY OSWALD. (Paragraph deleted.) Mrs. Paine allegedly has given Levine some documents not previously explained. Mr. William Branigan suggested we go one step further, and interview Marina to see if she has given him anything." [FBI-100-10461-4869 Dallas copies: Gemberling, Heitman, Odum and Hosty]

On March 31, 1964, SAC Gordon Shanklin, Dallas, advised that Mrs. Paine

...denied giving any letters to Isaac Don Levine. It will be noted, according to SAC Shanklin, that on March 6, 1964, Mrs. Paine was contacted concerning her effects as they might relate to the OSWALD investigation. At that time she advised she had six letters, four personal, written to her from Marina at New Orleans and two short notes written by Marina while Marina and LEE HARVEY were living at 214 West Neely, Dallas. She also had a note which she intended to deliver to Marina but never did. All of these were in the Russian language. She stated that she had reviewed them and that they contained nothing of any significance regarding the investigation of LEE HARVEY OSWALD. One letter, written about June 5, 1963, at New Orleans, by Marina, indicates that LEE OSWALD wanted to send Marina back to Russia. She said she recalled sometime in the latter part of March 1963, Marina told her LEE wanted to send her back to Russia. She said the tone of conversation and the letter indicated to her that LEE did not intend to return to Russia himself. At that time she declined to make these letters available because they contained a great deal of personal talk regarding personal difficulties both in the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Paine and in the marriage of LEE HARVEY OSWALD and Marina Oswald. She stated that she did not desire the contents of these letters to be made public and if she furnishes them to the Commission, it will be with the understanding they are not to be made public. On March 21, 1964, when she was contacted, Mrs. Paine, Mrs. Paine advised that when she appeared before the President's Commission, she was required to turn the letters over to the Commission in whose possession they now remain. In addition, the letters were read into evidence as part of her testimony. [FBI Branigan to Sullivan 105-82555-29(?)84]

Some correspondence between Ruth Paine and Marina Oswald contained veiled references to lesbianism. One of them concerned a conversation with Dr. Froelick Rainey of the University of Pennsylvania's Music Department. Ruth Paine alleged that the reason she associated with Marina Oswald was because she was merely interested in speaking Russian. She wrote Marina Oswald: "I confess that I think the opportunity for me to know you came from God...God asked me that I study a language..." Michael Paine agreed that it was his wife's interest in the Russian language that brought her together with Marina Oswald:

Ruth would have been more effective in the East/West Exchange program had she spoke Russian. She went to Middlebury College one summer to learn it, and then, in Dallas, she was paying people from the Russian community to read Russian literature on to tape for her. That was fairly expensive and cumbersome. She mentioned, when we were in bed together, the possibility of inviting Marina to come live with us. And would there be a danger in that? And how would OSWALD respond to that? How would I feel about that? Well, I was fully in favor of it. I thought, he probably won't be hating us because we would be relieving his economic load. As for the cost to us, it was negligible. We had a free house, I mean a free room there, and it was baby sitting and company for Ruth and a free in-house tutor.

Michael Paine was asked if his hospitality to OSWALD was totally innocent and not effected at the request of an intelligence agency: "Absolutely, not. It was a free way to get a Russian-speaking person in the house. A windfall." HEMMING told this researcher:

I doubt if they found lesbian movies. Her watching movies? She's a religious freak. If she was involved in homosexual activities she could have been compromised. They wouldn't take the chance.

Ruth Paine was nine years older than Marina Oswald and had never conducted a similar living arrangement with a woman before. Evidence presented in later information nodules indicated that Marina Oswald was a sexually active individual. She could have engaged in homosexual activities with Ruth Paine. Ruth Paine looked very "butch" around this time and had separated from her husband, perhaps for sexual reasons. She never remarried. Ruth Paine maintained that everything she did was totally innocent, including her relationship with Marina. Another possibility was that the films belonged to Michael Paine and he had left them behind when he moved out of the dwelling.

Although her husband lived nearby and visited her frequently, Ruth Paine was separated from Michael Ralph Paine while she knew OSWALD. On November 13, 1963, Ruth Paine filed a petition for a divorce from Michael Paine in Domestic Relations

Court. This petition stated they were married on December 28, 1957, and separated on September 1, 1962: "This petition alleged that about six months before their separation, Michael Paine commenced a course of unkind, cruel, harsh and tyrannical treatment and conduct toward Ruth Paine of such a nature as to render their future living together insupportable." [DK-105-1716-Hosty] Wilmer Joseph Stratton, a close friend of Ruth Paine, told the FBI that Ruth Paine, in the past, "complained of the fact that Michael Paine was so engrossed in his activities that he spent little time with his family and when with them, he was so absorbed in his thoughts and plans that he rarely discussed family matters or showed an interest in any way with problems concerning Ruth or other members of the family." Paul Lacy, the best man at Michael and Ruth Paine's wedding stated: "He had never gotten to know Michael Paine due to his reserved disposition. He said that he knew of no close friends or associates of Paine's. He stated Paine is the type of person who while friendly, is very quiet an uncommunicative and involves himself in his own affairs and never takes time to seek out friendly relations with other people or to become interested in other people or their activities." In 1960 Michael Paine inherited money from his maternal grandmother, Elsie Cabot Forbes. Under terms of her will, each of her 15 grandchildren were to receive equal shares of a fund when they reached the age of 21. The appraised value of Michael Paine's share of this fund as of January 1, 1963, was $269,000.00

MICHAEL PAINE'S FAMILY HISTORY

MICHAEL PAINE'S MATERNAL GRANDMOTHER

Michael Ralph Paine was born into the Paine and Forbes families on June 25, 1928. He attended Harvard University and was dropped because of low grades. He was noted as being shy and lazy. His only activities were Glee Club, Bach Coral Group and Outing Club. He then worked at the prestigious Bartol Scientific Research Foundation at Swathmore University. He served in the U.S. Army from July 15, 1952, to April 28, 1954, and received an Honorable Discharge. His military service record contained the statement dated July 15, 1952: "The following inductee, Paine, was inducted today but refused to take the oath of allegiance." [FBI 105-82555 NR 12.17.63] Like Ruth Hyde, Michael Paine's family also traced back to the CIA. Michael Paine's maternal grandmother, Elise Cabot Forbes, was the brother of Thomas Dudley Cabot, the President of United Fruit in 1948. Michael Paine commented: "He was active in the United Fruit Company. I only know we were related to the Cabots through Elise, my grandmother. I wouldn't recognize a Cabot, I've never seen one." The brother of Thomas Dudley Cabot, John Moors Cabot, was the Assistant Secretary of State for Inter-American Affairs during OPERATION PB SUCCESS. John Moors Cabot visited Guatemala and reported: "Jacobo Arbenz had the pale, cold-lipped look of the ideologue and showed no interest in my suggestions for a change in his government's direction. He had obviously sold out to the communists, and that was that." John Moors Cabot held a large block of shares in United Fruit. [Mooney, Brown, Truman to Carter, p77 as cited in Washington Silhouettes] During the Truman Administration, John Moors Cabot was the Director of the International Security Affairs Office for the Department of State. In 1961 he offered the use of one of his companies, Gibraltar Steamship, to the CIA during the Bay of Pigs. Ruth Paine commented that these personages were "out of where I come from."

MICHAEL PAINE'S MOTHER: RUTH FORBES

The mother of Michael Paine was Ruth Forbes. Ruth Forbes was a great-granddaughter of Ralph Waldo Emerson. Ruth Forbes grandfather, who died in 1937, had been a founder and former president of American Telephone and Telegraph.

MICHAEL PAINE'S MATERNAL UNCLES: THE FORBES

Michael Paine commented, "Uncle Cam [Cameron], W.C. Forbes, yes, there were five brothers there, actually one of them died earlier, but five that I knew. Forbes was Governor of the Philippines and Ambassador to Japan."

David Cabot Forbes was another of Michael Paine's maternal uncles. David Cabot Forbes was a distinguished Bostonian financier who owned Naushon Island, located a half-mile from Cape Cod. David C. Forbes told the United States Secret Service that "during the summer months Paine and his wife Ruth usually came to Naushon Island, at Woods Hole, Massachusetts, and remained there a few weeks each summer, but for the past two years Paine has not appeared and his wife and two children came along alone while he remained in Texas. He stated that he realized there was a family strain, but did not pry into the whys and the wherefores; that during the first two weeks in August 1963, Ruth Hyde Paine came to Naushon Island and remained there with the children for the two week period, residing with Mrs. Arthur Young, who has a home on the island. The island is owned by the Forbes estate and has been owned by this family for over 100 years. At present there are approximately 20 houses and 500 sheep on the island. All inhabitants are members of the Forbes family and very seldom, if ever, are any homes rented or leased to outsiders." Ruth Paine disagreed: "David didn't own that island. No individual does," however Michael Paine stated: "The island has been owned by the descendants of J. M. Forbes who bought it in 1834. I'm the fifth generation." One such outsider to rent from the Forbes family was J. Richardson Dilworth. The Secret Service reported that Dilworth "is employed by the Rockefeller Brothers, New York, New York. He resides at 141 Hodge Road, Princeton, New Jersey." [CD 687 p1252] In 1964 an employee of J. Richardson Dilworth, William T. Coleman, was an Assistant Counsel to the Warren Commission.

MICHAEL PAINE'S PATERNAL GRANDFATHER

The paternal grandfather of Michael Paine, George Lyman Paine, Senior (born July 29, 1874; died September 1967), was a descendant of a signatory to the Declaration of Independence. He graduated from Harvard University in 1896. An Episcopal Priest, he described himself as a pacifist. He was in the War Resisters League, and was involved in a lawsuit around the time of World War I, after a Naval officer stormed into his office and hit him for flirting with his wife. The Reverend George Lyman Paine defended himself on the witness stand by saying he had driven her out to the meadows around Boston and "tickled her under the chin" with a piece of "Timothy grass." From then on he was known as "The Reverend Timothy Grass Paine."

Herbert Philbrick wrote: "The Communist use of the Paine family is a tragic reminder that the seeds of Marxism bear evil fruit. During my years as a counterspy, I frequently came across George Lyman Paine Sr. as a sponsor and supporter of numerous communist-front activities. Paine fathered George Lyman Paine, Jr...a follower of Leon Trotsky. "Michael Paine commented, "It sounds exaggerated about my grandfather, he was a subscriber to Readers Digest. Compared to his son, I never thought of him as a radical."

MICHAEL PAINE'S FATHER

The father of Michael Paine, George Lyman Paine Jr., was born in New York City on November 16, 1901. He married Ruth Forbes on March 20, 1926, at Milton, Massachusetts. She was Ralph Waldo Emerson's great granddaughter. They were divorced in 1934 and George Lyman Paine Jr. married, Frances Drake, a follower of Leon Trotsky, the Russian Communist leader who believed in waging war against Capitalism rather than encouraging internal revolution. Leon Trotsky, exiled to Mexico, was assassinated by Soviet agents in 1940. Lyman Paine was a Trotskyist and wrote: "I came into contact with Marxism. The writings of Marx, Lenin, Engels and Trotsky opened new doors upon an old world...I became a follower of Leon Trotsky and a partisan of the world working class." [25th Ann. Rep. Harvard Class of 1922] Ruth Paine commented:

He was involved in left-wing politics before their marriage. That was part of the problem with the marriage." Michael Paine agreed: "He was very political before that, that was one of the difficulties they had." Michael Paine's parents separated when he was four years old. Ruth Paine: "It was not because of Trotskyism that he did not see his father. People didn't divorce as much then, as they do now, and there was much less skill and knowledge on how to deal with being co-parents. My understanding from Ruth Forbes was that she and Lyman thought it would be best to make a clean break and not see each other. Michael didn't really get acquainted with his father until he was grown.

Michael Paine:

I saw my father very occasionally. He was an idealist. I won't say that he didn't love us. He considered his political actions far more important than tending to his own little personal thing of raising his family. I do remember going to Communist meetings with him in New York City. That absorbed his time, he didn't have much interest in his children. I did not feel any resentment against the left. I admired his idealism in High School and I mentally or emotionally followed a tact that was quite similar to my father, but it led me in quite a different direction. In high school I had a long daydream of a better society. The nature of it did not fit with Socialists or Communists. During the war, my father may have gone under a pseudonym and his wife Freddie was very active in union organizing. The Trotskyites biggest quarrel was not with the Democrats or Republicans, but with the Stalinists. My father called the Soviets 'state capitalists.' No friendly blood there.

ALLEN DULLES AND THE PAINE FAMILY

Mary Bancroft, who claimed she had an intimate association with Allen Dulles, knew Lyman Paine: "Two of our Boston friends, Ruth and Lyman Paine, had moved to New York and gave wonderful parties in their West Side apartment. We met a lot of their friends, mostly in the arts. Ruth was a painter. Lyman, an architect, was interested in what he termed 'The ultimate reality,' which I interpreted as my old friend, Truth. Lyman and I had endless discussions about this ultimate reality while sipping highballs of bathtub gin and ginger ale..." [Bancroft, Autobiography of a Spy p54] Abigail Schaffner, who knew Michael Paine until he was seven years old gave Allen Dulles information on Michael Paine which ANGLETON gave to the FBI:

TO: E. J.Brennan, Jr. DATE: December 9, 1963

FROM: S.J. Papich

SUBJECT: OSWALD

Enclosed herewith is a copy of a memorandum dated December (?) 1963, which Allen Dulles, former Director of the CIA received from a friend, not identified. The document, which was furnished to the liaison Agent on December (?) 1963, by JAMES ANGLETON, CIA, sets forth information concerning the family of Michael Paine. [FBI 105-126129-61 NR 199 12.17.63]

EDWARD AND ABIGAIL SCHAFFNER

On March 13, 1964, Edward and Abigail Schaffner were interviewed by the FBI in Miami, Florida. They said they were 'employed from 1930 to about 1942, and then again immediately after World War II until about 1948, at the Forbes Estate, Naushon Island, Woods Hole, Massachusetts. During these periods, Edward Schaffner was employed in a caretaker capacity, and also assisted in the operation of a ferry boat owned by this estate which traveled from the island to Woods Hole. Abigail Schaffner was employed part-time in a domestic capacity. Her father, William Allen, was superintendent of the caretakers at this estate.

During the above periods the Schaffners knew Michael Paine as a small child, and later as a teenager, when he visited the estate during the summer school vacations." [FBI 105-1717-181]

The letter to Dulles:

It has been reported in the press that a Mrs. Michael Paine had given shelter to Mrs. Oswald and her children -- and that Michael Paine, who is separated from his wife, liked to talk politics and philosophy with OSWALD. All I know -- second hand -- about Mrs. Paine is that she is a Quaker and had 'studied Russian.' However I know about Michael Paine's background and knew him until he was seven years old. He is now approximately 35. His mother is Mrs. Arthur Young of 1810 Delancy Place, Philadelphia. Mrs. Young was born Ruth Forbes. Her mother was a Cabot and her father was Ralph Waldo Forbes, a direct descendant of Ralph Waldo Emerson. Ruth Forbes was also a cousin or niece of Cameron Forbes, one time Governor of the Philippines and U.S. Ambassador to Japan. Ruth Forbes had been married three times, Arthur Young being her first husband. He is an inventor (having 'invented' the helicopter.) I put this in parenthesis because, I believe, he invented improvements to the helicopter rather than he machine itself -- but am not sure. In any case, he is wealthy -- as is his wife -- and in recent years he had devoted himself entirely to researches in what is know under the general heading of ESP (Extra-Sensory Perception). (He believes that there is another 'force' in the universe -- like electricity or similar -- that has not yet been tapped). His researches have been extremely complicated an esoteric and he has worked with the Institute for Advanced Studies at Princeton -- consulted with them -- and also with Bell Laboratories. Ruth Young's first husband -- and Michael Paine's father -- was Lyman Paine who father, Reverend George Lyman Paine -- descendant of a signer of the Declaration of Independence -- was a famous Boston crackpot. He was involved in a lawsuit around the time of World War I, after a Naval officer stormed into his office and slapped or hit him for flirting with the Naval officer's wife. The Reverend Paine on the witness stand defended himself by saying that his relations with the Naval officer's wife had been entirely harmless. He had simply driven her out to the meadows around Boston and 'tickled her under the chin with a piece of 'Timothy Grass.' From then on the Reverend Paine was known as 'Timothy Grass' Paine. I understand he is still alive and in his late 80's -- if not older. He is, of course, Michael Paine's grandfather.

Lyman Paine, Michael's father -- and Ruth Young's first husband -- was an architect -- but around 1930 -- 34 after divorcing Ruth, he became a 'Trotskyite' and married a girl active in Trotskyite circles. However, typical of the sort of New England crackpot tradition, they were not real Trotskyites, but belonged to some infinitesimal splinter group that as far as I know did nothing but sit around and talk, talk about how the other Trotskyists were 'betraying the Revolution' as conceived by Trotsky. I have not heard for many years anything about Lyman Paine. I believe he and his wife lived -- in the 30's -- in California...Mrs. Young is very much upset about recent happenings and my friend who is her cousin -- although I also know Mrs. Young very well -- 'imagines' that the fact that Lyman Paine was such a talky, talky 'Trotskyite' will lend to Michael's association with OSWALD an implication that in reality it may not have. In other words, Michael's talk may well have been -- although not necessarily was -- simply an offshoot of what he knew to be his father's interests. My own evaluation of Lyman Paine, whom I also knew well in the 1920's, is that he could not do anything, that he was thoroughly incompetent. However, he sure could talk. And I think that it should be pointed out that granted the social position and standing of someone like Michael Paine -- plus someone of his obvious advantages -- for advantages he did have -- and education -- that for a character like OSWALD to tune in on what all this must have meant to him could actually be a 'trigger." I have also heard, but not from his mother, that Michael had homosexual tendencies -- although he did marry and have children.

SPLINTER GROUP POLITICS

George Lyman Paine moved to the West Coast where he became part of the Forest-Johnson Faction, a Trot splinter group. The Johnson-Forest faction was a group of former Socialist Worker's Party members who broke away from the Socialist Worker's Party in 1951 over the question of whether Yugoslavia should be considered a 'worker' state. George Lyman Paine Jr. and his wife were described as the brains behind the Forest-Johnson Group in the Los Angeles area. The Forest-Johnson then broke into the Forest Faction and Johnson Faction. In 1964 the Johnson faction had six members. Lyman Paine was a factionalist - he was more interested in debating the fine points of Socialism than in defeating the capitalists. He was an armchair revolutionary. OSWALD wrote that he hated the "factional mutants...odd ball Hegelian idealists out of touch with reality."

Abigail Schaffner wrote, "Michael Paine from the minute he was born was a strange child. He yelled all the time, was afraid of everything, very destructive and generally weird. His mother, a very placid person, was in despair coping with him, as he would become excited at just about anything." The FBI reported a file from the Military Personnel Records Center in Saint Louis, Missouri, concerning Michael Paine, "contains the following statement: (deleted)." Ruth explained: "When he was sworn into the Army during the Korean war he indicated that he refused to follow orders he felt were immoral." The CIA checked its "security and foreign indices" and reported "no reference identifiable with Subject." [FBI 105-126129-44] The stepfather of Michael Paine was Arthur Young, an inventor who helped perfect the helicopter. Arthur Young helped found

Bell Helicopter. Michael Paine was a research engineer at Bell Helicopter with a high security clearance. [WCD 208, 213] Walter R. Dornberger, a senior vice president of Bell Helicopter, was a former Nazi general who supervised the construction of the first guided missile, developed by Werner von Braun. He was an ardent supporter of Adolf Hitler and used slave labor to build his missiles. After the perfection of the V-2 rocket in 1942, Dornberger directed the bombardment of London with V-2's late in the war. From 1945 to 1947 he was held as a prisoner-of-war in Great Britain. He was brought to the United States in 1950. FBI files indicated "that this individual is a German scientist brought to the United States under the custody and control of the Joint Intelligence Objectives Agency."

In 1957 it was alleged that Dornberger was still a Nazi:

Airtel TO: Director, FBI

FROM: SAC, Los Angeles (105-5122) December 3, 1957

RE: Werner Von Braun and Walter Dornberger.

Regarding Los Angeles letter to the Bureau, October 11, 1951, captioned (Deleted) INFORMATION CONCERNING; Albany letter to the Bureau November 9, 1951, titled "Guy Boisino del Vall, Misc;" two Washington

Field airtels to the Bureau and Los Angeles, July 30, 1954; Washington Field airtel to the Bureau and Los Angeles, August 1, 1954; Los Angeles airtel to the Bureau August 6, 1954, setting out background information concerning (Deleted) and Los Angeles airtels to the Bureau, August 13, 1954, and August 23, 1954, all captioned "(Deleted) Misc. Info Concerning,"

Referenced communications deal largely with de Valle efforts to interest the Department of the Navy and Air Force in (Deleted) and his efforts to have the FBI assist him in this regard.

Enclosed herewith is a blank memorandum with five copies to the Bureau concerning the captioned individuals.

On December 2, 1957, (Deleted) advised ASAC Ralph W. Machman (Deleted) had been in (Deleted) office on December 2, 1957, and claimed to have information that Von Braun is still a Nazi.

On December 3, 1957, (Deleted) interviewed by SA's (Deleted) and (Deleted) and furnished information which is set up in enclosed blank memorandum.

(Deleted) advised that his primary purpose in contacting (Deleted) was to attempt to have either (Deleted) of the FBI arrange and introduction of (Deleted). He said if (Deleted) believed that this (Deleted) that it would tend to prove the activities of Von Braun and Dornberger have not been in the best interests of the United States. (Deleted) was advised that the Bureau could not arrange such an introduction. (Deleted) One copy of each blank memorandum is being furnished for San Francisco (Deleted) California, Birmingham (Werner Von Braun, Huntsville, Alabama) and Albany (Walter Dornberger, Ithaca, New York).

Another FBI document stated:

FBI files and other agency files of the FBI do not contain any derogatory information concerning Dornberger. Files of the Cincinnati Office revealed that (Deleted) the subject of Bufile entitled (Deleted). A review of this file reflected that (Deleted) was very pro-Nazi and might be a security threat to the United States. Investigation revealed that (Deleted) may have made statements which were considered pro-German, but many of these statements (Deleted) later denied, others, he insisted, were misinterpreted. A large number of neighbors, friends and acquaintances testified to (Deleted)'s loyalty to the United States. There was no evidence of organizational activity. The facts of this case were presented to the United States Attorney on November 13, 1943, who informed that in view of existing court decisions and policies of the Department, this was not a strong enough case to institute denaturalization proceedings against (Deleted). Confidential Informant T-1, another Government agency which conducts security type investigations, advised that their files contained no record of derogatory information regarding Dornberger and no record of any security violations.

In 1958 Dornberger was considered for a non-sensitive position with the United States Government. The FBI reported: "No investigation of this individual is being conducted by the FBI in the absence of a specific request. This is not to be considered as a clearance or disapproval of this individual by the FBI for Federal employment." Dornberger died in July 1980. [FBI 140-0-497321; Newsweek 7.14.80]

Bell Helicopter supplied many CIA-sponsored dictators, such as the Shah of Iran, with materiel. The Textron Corporation, which eventually purchased Bell Helicopter, was investigated for having paid millions of dollars in kickbacks to an Iranian sales agency. Bell Helicopter was a member of the Aircraft Manufacturers Association, like Lockheed, Martin-Marietta and the General Dynamics Corporation. This Association was represented by Albert Jenner when it was a defendant in a Federal antitrust lawsuit. [72-Civ-1307-USDC-NY] Albert Jenner went over Ruth Paine's account of OSWALD with her on the morning that she testified. [WC Paine Testimony p455] He personally knew the Paine family and generated this memo:

After reading the attached article, it occurred to me that may be Michael Paine's father, Lyman Paine, whom I knew well thirty years ago but have not seen since, possibly did play a role somehow. As I told you before, Lyman Paine was -- and I believe still is -- a Trotskyite, but based on my knowledge of his ineffective personality and to the fact that I have been told that he belonged to a small splinter group of the Trotskyites. -- I imagine that all he ever did was talk. However, granted that Trotsky lived in Mexico -- maybe Michael knew of connections and maybe names of various individuals was all OSWALD needed. I don't know if Trotskyites are pro-Castro - but I suppose they could be anything. I have reflected on whether it would make any sense to talk to Lyman Paine -- for I imagine I could locate him -- but I am inclined to think he wouldn't talk -- that he would resent any authority -- for that was always his trouble. However, I think if anyone wanted to talk to him -- it would be wisest -- and most productive -- to talk first to Michael Paine's mother, Mrs. Arthur Young, whom I am sure would be cooperative -- and who could probably tell as much about Lyman Paine as he would tell himself." [UnID Warren Commission document by Jenner to file]

Ruth Paine claimed her husband only worked for Bell Helicopter for six or seven years: "He got the job because of his stepfather. Michael is not somebody who likes the military-industrial complex." Michael Paine was questioned about his association with Bell Helicopter:

The company was not like that. Personally, I went out there quite independent of that. My stepfather invented the Bell Helicopter. Larry Bell from Bell Aircraft in Buffalo saw it and bought the idea. They got a license around the same time Sikorsky did in 1941. Then I came along - my mother married Arthur in 1946. Arthur engaged me to make models and another friend of his, a Vice President of Bell Helicopter and I were invited to go to Dallas. I stayed for ten years. Union regulations made it very difficult for an engineer to handle a tool. I worked on the 'convertiplane' that eventually became the Osprey. Bell Helicopter was largely a commercial company and it wasn't until the Vietnam war - maybe they used helicopters in Korea - but it was during the Vietnam War that Bell Helicopter made 40% of the aircraft that were used. So it was a vital part of the Vietnam War. I was president of the Committee for Peaceful Solutions in Vietnam. Bell allowed me to show a movie by a CBS correspondent which looked favorably on Ho Chi Minh. Another high officer there named Bob Lichten, the promotor of the XB-3, was President of the Dallas American Civil Liberties Union. He died in an automobile accident. Bell was more liberal than many other companies that made the major part of it's income from military sales.

After the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, S.A. Hosty questioned Mrs. Werner R. Grimes about Michael Paine. She informed S.A. Hosty that

...on two or three occasions in the Fall of 1963, Michael Paine requested that he be permitted to attend a meeting of the John Birch Society of which Mrs. Grimes stated she was an active member. Mrs. Werner R. Grimes stated she invited Michael Paine to attend one John Birch Society meeting at her residence and later, when this meeting was canceled, she was unable to get in touch with Michael Paine to advise him of this cancellation. Michael Paine appeared at her residence for this meeting, which was not held. Mrs. Grimes stated she then tried on another occasion to get in touch with Michael Paine and advise him of another meeting but she was unable to get in touch with Michael Paine." [FBI DL 105-1776 3.15.64 Hosty]

Mr. Werner R. Grimes was interviewed by telephone in April 1993:

No, I was not Michael Paine's friend, I barely knew him. This was a number of years ago, and I was interviewed by the FBI at the time because I mentioned to a friend of mine in the Unitarian Church choir that I had met somebody who knew [OSWALD]. My job at Bell Helicopter was field engineer in high-pressure hydraulics. I met Paine in that lab. I don't know if this was the initial meeting, or if I first met him at the church choir." Werner Grimes was a Unitarian because he and his wife came from differing Protestant backgrounds. Mrs. Grimes died about 1983. According to Werner R. Grimes: "Mrs. Grimes was not an active member of the John Birch Society, although she attended several meetings. I was at that John Birch Society meeting held in my house, I also was at one other meeting. Otherwise, I had nothing to do with it." Ruth Paine was asked if her husband joined the Birchers for counter-intelligence purposes? She laughed and said, "You live in an entirely different world than me. He was curious about their beliefs and wanted to see what a meeting would be like. He figured he'd go and make his own judgments. To him, it was a way of gathering information. Michael's a freethinker. He doesn't always do what is politically correct." Michael Paine explained, "I was a member of the Unitarian Church and was quite proud of the fact there was a member of the John Birch Society in our church, that it could span that much political spectrum. I didn't realize he had any connection to Bell Helicopter. I was distressed because there was no conversation between the liberals and the right-wing. We both said we cherished freedom of speech, but in practice, my actions and the right-wing were very far apart. So I was going to various right-wing seminars and groups trying to discover for myself why they didn't like the liberal point of view. So I was trying to find a bridge, language, ideas, that would get back to the root where we agreed and disagreed. I recall talking with LEE. He was likewise going around to - by the way I did go to a private home of a right-wing group - I don't recall the name. The only thing I can remember about it, nobody ever asked me what my point of view was. I wouldn't have lied about it, I can't lie. But I was glad I didn't have to tell them. I didn't view myself as spying on them. I was trying to understand what was the real bug under the skin that made these people feel that way. I wanted to be able to write something about how we both cared about freedom of speech, yet they didn't want to give Communists freedom of speech. And I remember taking LEE OSWALD to an American Civil Liberties Union meeting. I asked him, in my car, if he would like to join the American Civil Liberties Union. He said, 'No,' he did not want to give freedom of speech to the right-wing, Nazis. We had mentioned specifically Walker at this supper where I had mentioned that I was going around sort of observing right-wing groups, and he was doing it also. I didn't want to pursue it further, because I wanted to have a pleasant evening with him. I didn't find out explicitly, but I assumed he was doing it because he was of the view that America was controlled by a capitalist cabal, who manipulated the country to its interests. He thought the church, for instance, was just 'an opiate of the people.' He thought it was manipulated and controlled and put in place by capitalists who were trying to keep the people happy. And he wouldn't tell me much about them. I think David Rockefeller was the only name he ever gave. I surmised that when he was listening in on some of these right-wing groups, that he thought he was listening to the people who were behind the actions of this country. I saw them as a fringe groups.

An airtel from the FBI Legal Attaché in London dated February 5, 1964, regarding Michael Paine was almost totally deleted. [FBI 105-126129-44]

JOHN FORBES KERRY, MICHAEL PAINE, LEE HARVEY OSWALD AND JOHN F.
KENNEDY

John Forbes Kerry's mother was Rosemary Forbes, a member of the Brahmin Bostonian Forbes' who made its name and wealth developing trade routes to bring tea from China. Cameron Forbes was the key player in this undertaking. The Boston Globe reported, "Today, the Forbes's own most of the Elizabeth Islands off Cape Cod where John Forbes Kerry still goes to sail and ride horses."

When Lee Harvey Oswald, the fall guy in the Kennedy assassination, lived in Texas prior to the November 22, 1963 coup d'etat he stayed at the home of Michael and Ruth Paine, in Irving, before moving into a rooming house in Dallas. Subsequently he stayed with the Paine's on weekends. Michael Paine's mother was Ruth Forbes. Ruth Forbes grandfather was Cameron Forbes. Michael Paine commented, "Uncle Cam [Cameron], W.C. Forbes, yes, there were five brothers there, actually one of them died earlier, but five that I knew. Cam Forbes was Governor of the Philippines and Ambassador to Japan." David Cabot Forbes was another of Michael Paine's maternal uncles. David Cabot Forbes was a distinguished Bostonian financier who owned many of the Elizabeth Islands including, Naushon Island, located a half-mile from Cape Cod. On August 26, 1962 John Kerry went boating with JFK. Did the young John Kerry run into Ruth Paine the same summer he met President Kennedy? According to documents released under the JFK Documents Act Ruth Paine's sister and father were connected with the CIA. Was Ruth Paine informed that Oswald had some tangential connection with the intelligence community and was this why she put him up? Did the fact that Oswald had a connection with people on this social level play a part in the subsequent cover up of the assassination? This is will always remain one of the most closely guarded secrets of the American Government. The truth will never be known.

THE SOVIET VISA: MARCH 1963

As stated, on February 17, 1963, Marina Oswald wrote to the Soviet Embassy in Washington, D.C. and said that she wished to return to the Soviet Union. Her husband would remain in the United States. Directing her letter to Mr. Reznichenko, Marina requested his assistance in helping her return to her "homeland in the USSR where I will again feel myself a full-fledged citizen." She asked what steps she should take to achieve this end, and requested that the Embassy furnish her material aid, if possible, for the trip. She commented that her husband would remain in the United States, "as he is an American by nationality." Marina concluded the letter: "I beg you once more not to refuse my request." She was informed on March 8, 1963, that it would take from five to six months to process her visa application. This letter contained a visa application form and a list of prerequisite photographs and letters. [WR p309]

Marina Oswald told the Warren Commission: "It seems to me that it was at that time the LEE began to talk about his wanting to return to Russia. I did not want that and that is why we had quarrels." [WC V1 pg. 10 2.3.64] Marina Oswald also said: "I never wanted to return but LEE insisted and there is nothing else I can do." [WC V1 pg. 49 2.4.64]

There is a contradiction here. In her letter, Marina stated that her husband was not going to accompany her to the Soviet Union. In her testimony before the Warren Commission she said that it was his idea to return to the Soviet Union. Marina was unhappy with her life with OSWALD at this time, but it was unlikely that she wanted to return to the USSR. OSWALD probably suggested to her that she write this letter, because OSWALD wanted a Soviet visa for himself, so that he could enter Cuba in transit to Russia. Was OSWALD going to have his wife obtain a Soviet visa and then ask the Soviets for one for himself? That way, if the Soviets did not issue the visa, they would appear to be breaking up a family. If OSWALD made the suggestion, then the plot to frame him was already underway. OSWALD was in touch with Ruth Paine by this time.

HOSTY AND THE SIX MONTH FREEZE MARCH 1963

FBI S.A. James Hosty had already put off interviewing Marina for six months. It was around this time, March 1963, that S.A. James P. Hosty was supposed to interview

Marina Oswald, pursuant to a regular FBI practice of interviewing immigrants from Iron Curtain countries. S.A. Hosty received permission to handle OSWALD'S case as well. After reviewing OSWALD'S files, S.A. Hosty and his supervisor, Supervisor Kenneth C. Howe, reopened the OSWALD case, but S.A. Hosty did not interview Marina Oswald.

MARCH 4, 1963

On March 25, 1963, Hosty wrote that on "March 4, 1963, Mr. Jeff Woosley, Supervisory Clerk, INS, Dallas, Texas, advised that Mrs. Marina Oswald was, as of January 1963, resided at apartment two, 602 Elsbeth Street, Dallas, Texas." Hosty would later state: "I determined on March 4, 1963, through Immigration and Naturalization Service records that she had moved from Fort Worth to the Dallas area."

MARCH 11, 1963

Hosty:

On March 11, 1963, Mrs. M.F. Tobias, Apartment Manager, 602 Elsbeth, advised that on March 3, 1963, OSWALD and his wife Marina moved from that apartment building to another apartment building in Dallas, Texas. Mrs. Tobias advised that they had considerable difficulty with Mr. OSWALD, who apparently drank to excess and beat his wife on numerous occasions. Mrs. Tobias advised that they had a small child and that Mrs. Oswald apparently spoke little or no English and seldom associated with any other individuals. They had had numerous complaints from the other tenants due to OSWALD'S drinking and beating of his wife." Hosty would later state:"On March 11, 1963, I made inquiry at this Elsbeth address, and determined from the landlady, that she had evicted LEE and Marina Oswald on March 3, 1963. On that same date, I was able to determine from the postal authorities that they had changed their address to 214 Neely Street...

There was no evidence that OSWALD drank to excess. Scott Malone: "The reason he beat her was because she was fucking other guys." Marguerite Oswald: "There may be time a woman needs to have a black eye."

Hosty:

On March 14, 1963, I verified that the OSWALDS were residing at this address when I found the mailbox with LEE and Marina Oswald at this address...Now, because of the alleged marital difficulties they were having, I, in my judgment, decided this was not the time to interview Mrs. Oswald, but to allow a certain cooling off period. So then I checked OSWALD'S file, at which time I determined that he had a contact with New York office of The Worker. I noticed it, and then because of the domestic difficulty and the fact that I knew I would be interviewing his wife in the near future, I requested that the case be reopened. I requested the Dallas supervisor reopen the case to me...So I set it up that I would go back and recheck in 45 days.

On March 17, 1963, Marina Oswald sent a signed request for an entry visa to the Soviet Embassy in Washington, D.C., a completed two-page questionnaire for persons desiring an entry visa and a one-page autobiography. No letter transmitting these documents was found.

On March 25, 1963, S.A. Hosty sent a letter to the FBI Headquarters stating that "conditions promising a successful interview did not exist as of that time, thus justifying a 'cooling-off' period prior to again making an effort to interview Marina Oswald." That same day, S.A. Hosty received a lead on Marina Oswald. Gordon Shanklin, the Dallas SAC, questioned S.A. Hosty about this lead after the assassination: "There has been no report concerning the lead on March 25, 1963, to interview Mrs. Oswald. Explain why not." Hosty:

Upon careful review of the Manual of Instructions, Section 105-E, it was noted that it would be necessary to utilize a friend or sponsor of Marina Oswald for interpreter and that the atmosphere of the interview would have to be conducted in such a manner as not to cause any undue emotional stress or strain on the person being interviewed. In view of the reported marital difficulties between the OSWALDS, it was decided to wait a suitable period to determine whether the domestic situation had been sufficiently clarified, so as to permit a proper interview as desired in Section 105-E of the manual." [FBI To SAC Dallas from Hosty 12.6.63]

J. Edgar Hoover commented: "Certainly an asinine excuse." FBI Inspector J.H. Gale wrote: "Inspector feels this entire facet of investigation mishandled. OSWALD definitely should have been interviewed and Inspector feels best time to get information from her would be after she was beaten up by her husband as it is felt she would be far more likely to cooperate when angry at OSWALD than otherwise." J. Edgar Hoover commented: "This certainly makes sense." [FBI Memo Gale to Tolson 12.10.63]

HOSTY MAY 27, 1963

FBI S.A. James P. Hosty had begun his 45-day cooling off period in relation to interviewing Marina Oswald on March 14, 1963. At the end of this period S.A. Hosty was to interview Marina Oswald. About 70 days later, on May 27, 1963, S.A. Hosty checked the OSWALDS last known Dallas residence and found they had moved three weeks ago. On May 28, 1963, Hosty sent this memo to SAC Gordon Shanklin.

On May 27, 1963, an attempt to interview subjects under pretext reflected that they had moved from their residence. A check with the former Postmaster reflects that the subjects have moved and left no forwarding address. The owner of subjects former residence at 214 Neely, Dallas, M.W. George, will be interviewed for information regarding subjects as well as subjects Brother in Fort Worth." [FBI 105-1435-4; FBI DFO 100-10461-35, 36, 37]

S.A. Hosty testified to the Warren Commission that after the 45-day freeze on interviewing Marina Oswald was over, "I went back to check again in May, the middle of May, I found they had moved from their Neely Street address and had left no forwarding address." This was untrue: He went back to the Neely Street address at the end of May - on May 27, 1963.

Hosty commented,

That's not ironclad. Remember I was working on the General Walker case. Anyway, it wasn't a freeze. It was still active. Where does it say freeze? 'Freeze' is their wording. The letter was written March 31, 1963, and that is when the cooling off period started. Not March 14, 1963. That would make it a 57-day cooling off period. What's the big deal? What's the point? I had 40 cases and his case was one of the lowest priorities at that time. Walker's case was the number one priority. It's not like in the movies or on the T.V., when you have one case and that's all you do. I had 40 cases at that time. The trouble is, you people don't understand our system.

S.A. Hosty had put "a freeze" on Marina Oswald's case on March 14, 1963, because that was when he stopped actively investigating her. When S.A. Hosty visited 602 Elsbeth Street, he missed OSWALD by about a week, and when he visited Neely Street, he missed OSWALD by two to three weeks. S.A. Hosty was deliberately avoiding OSWALD. He waited five months, until OSWALD'S arrest in New Orleans, before he added any new data to the OSWALD file. These reports concerned OSWALD'S employment and whereabouts; yet even then, S.A. Hosty never spoke to the Subject of his investigation, nor approached him for an interview. Hosty commented, "He'd been interviewed twice when he returned from the Soviet Union." HEMMING told this researcher:

The FBI should have been on him like flies on shit. ANGLETON convinced the Bureau not to go near this guy cause he's a fucking asset.

James Hosty denied he even heard the name ANGLETON "until his name appeared when he got canned that time. Because I'm pretty far down the totem pole. I'm a field agent. I wouldn't know about top CIA people."

WHY DID HOSTY WORK THE OSWALD CASE ALONE?

Most FBI reports contained the signatures of two Agents. James Hosty commented, "This was after the assassination. You don't know the system. You're jumping ahead and making up things." Bardwell Odum, contacted in July 1993, commented: "Agents used to work individually." HEMMING told this researcher:

They never interview Lone Ranger style. There are always two agents. Hoover was trying to keep the corruption down.

James Hosty: "I was a staunch Kennedy supporter and I would have prevented it. If you were going to have a conspiracy, I'd be the last person you'd want to have involved. I'm a registered Democrat. A Mayor Daley Democrat. These records are public."

S.A. Hosty was not accused of being part of the conspiracy to assassinate President Kennedy, however, the fact that S.A. Hosty worked the OSWALD security case alone, or in the company of an agent-in-training, suggested S.A. Hosty suspected or knew that there was more to LEE HARVEY OSWALD that first met the eye. The safest thing for Hosty to do was to stay away.

On March 12, 1963, OSWALD ordered a Mannlicher-Carcano rifle with a scope sight from the Klein's Sporting Goods Company of Chicago, Illinois, under the name of A.J. Hidell. HEMMING told this researcher:

We had reason to find out about Klein's Sporting Goods, their delivery times and the whole fucking thing. Whenever we wanted to tell people about gear, we referred them to Klein's. I drafted a form. The FBI complained in 1961 that we were telling people to go Klein's for their gear. Let's presume that he's been guided to order the weapon. Why would he have a weapon? He's got to go to a fucking training camp. He's got to practice marksmanship. Any number of things. He had to show some skill with a weapon to the right people.

HEMMING said he saw an FBI document about his connection to Klein's Sporting Goods while visiting the Miami FBI Field Office. HEMMING alleged that S.A. Robert Dwyer allowed him to go through the FBI's file on him. This researcher was unable to locate this document. Wallace Shanley: "Dwyer had constant letters of reprimand and was constantly on the edge of being fired. He was a renegade, but he was brilliant." As stated, on HEMMING'S CIA employment application he listed "Klein's 227 W. Washington St. Chicago, Ill." as a financial reference.

HEMMING was asked if this was the same Klein's Sporting Goods where OSWALD ordered his rifle. HEMMING told this researcher:

I don't know what you're looking at. How the fuck would I know? Maybe they're trying to set me up? I don't know. Send me a copy. I had nothing to do with Klein's. My brothers had a credit thing with Klein's. It's a catalogue that covers sporting goods, clothing, the whole thing. I had a fat brother that bought fat man's clothes from them. It's probably the same Klein's where OSWALD got his rifle from. I didn't put nothing down for references. They told me what the fuck was going to go on the son-of-a-bitch. There was no Klein's on there. I didn't put Simpson, Spiegel or Klein's. I don't see who the fuck put that in there. They might have put it in there last week, how the fuck would I know? Nobody's that fucking stupid. You're telling me honestly that somebody put that, linked with my name? That just tells me a story. Ain't nothing new to me. I can give you more damaging shit than that, that I know is in the fucking files. They're worried, because I know who put it in the fucking file, and I know where their fucking children live. And they're scared shitless. They'd like to call a truce with me. I know what credit references I gave. CIA proprietary Andrew Hamilton fund which I drew $2,500 out of when I came back from Cuba and a couple of others. Number one, Klein's ain't got a credit operation. They have a lay-away-plan like Sears. Spiegel's the same way. You don't give those as credit references because they're not in the credit business. That tells me somebody didn't do their research. Now somebody else put something else down that tells me a fucking story. I doubt it, but I'd like to see it. I can go out and print up my own CIA forms and rubber stamps. I can create better documents than they can. And because it's post-1982, they're looking at ten years for doing that shit. If it's worth ten years to link me to something, good. And I'll put their fuck ass away, and I'll know where their kids live.

After HEMMING was confronted with documentation of his connection to Klein's Sporting Goods he denied having told me that he had referred people there: "You transcribed the tape wrong. I had no dealings with Klein's. The FBI was after me for Neutrality Act violations. That's why I saw the inside of so many jails then. I was arrested half a dozen times. I would never tell people where to get weapons."

HEMMING goofed when he used Klein's Sporting Goods as a reference in his CIA employment application and then had OSWALD order his weapon from them. You have seen HEMMING'S application for employment with the CIA and OSWALD'S invoice from Klein's Sporting Goods. After I brought this to HEMMING'S attention he lost his temper and threatened the children of CIA employees.

OSWALD had the weapon mailed to Post Office Box 2915, Dallas. After November 22, 1963, the FBI authenticated the signatures on OSWALD'S application for Post Office Box 2915, Dallas, and two forwarding orders. According to Postal Inspector Harry D. Holmes, in the event A.J. Hidell was unauthorized to receive mail at this box, OSWALD could have received any packages addressed to A.J. Hidell by bringing the package notice from his box to the appropriate window. The weapon, which in the future would be used in the assassination, would not be traceable to anyone else, except OSWALD, because OSWALD himself had procured it.

OSWALD'S FALSE IDENTIFICATION CARDS

OSWALD was manipulated into further linking himself to A. J. Hidell. Among the identification cards found in OSWALD'S wallet after November 22, 1963, was a Selective Service Classification Notice, and a Selective Service Registration Card, in the name of A. J. Hidell. OSWALD'S photograph appeared on the classification notice. A U.S. Marine Corps Service Certificate in the name of Alex James Hidell was also found. These linked the rifle directly to OSWALD.

Government experts on questioned documents testified that OSWALD'S false ID was a counterfeit photographic reproduction made by photographing and retouching negatives to insert into blank spaces where it appeared information had been. A print was made from the retouched negative; new information was typed or written on the second print. This print was then photographed and printed. The Warren Commission admitted this was not a simple process: "The preparation of the negative, apart from retouching, would probably have required a very accurate camera, such as would be found in a photographic laboratory or printing plant." The Report stated that OSWALD "probably produced them at Jagger-Chiles-Stovall." Someone had taught OSWALD the trade craft necessary to produce these documents. One CIA intelligence analyst wrote: "Technical Services Division analysis of this document would undoubtedly help decide whether this card was a transparent phony made by OSWALD himself, or by some small-time operator, or whether it was professionally produced. The elaborate A.J. Hidell fabrication, complete with phony draft card, may be more than just the devious clandestinity of OSWALD himself." [CIA "Indications of Witting Intelligence Involvement by OSWALD"]

HEMMING told this researcher:

I had also put a photograph on a draft card. It was trade craft, and it was to accomplish a scheme. My associates didn't have any alias ID, so I built it on the spot. I had blank Selective Service Cards. There's no place there for a photograph, except for a little square where they stamp in your Selective Service address. Then, when I see OSWALD puts a photograph on a Selective Service card a few months later, he's doing this shit a few months later, I thought to myself, 'What the fuck is this?'"

CLARENCE ARCHIE ABBOTT

On July 29, 1962, Clarence Archie Abbott, a male Caucasian, born June 24, 1926, at Warren's, Wisconsin, admitted to an FBI agent the theft of a 1958 or 1959 Mercury automobile at Monterey Park, California, and transportation thereof to Biloxi, Mississippi. In a signed statement to the FBI, Clarence Archie Abbott advised that GERRY PATRICK HEMMING JR. was aware of the manner he had obtained the Mercury in California and had accompanied him from California to Mobile, Alabama, and to Biloxi, Mississippi, where HEMMING received a portion of the money from the sale of the Mercury. On February 22, 1962, Clarence Archie Abbott also advised that HEMMING was in possession of blank United States Navy and United States Air Force identification cards and a United States Navy Identification Card filled out in another name. On September 18, 1962, Assistant United States Attorney Donald Strange advised that he did not feel the evidence in these matters was sufficient to obtain a conviction, and would therefore decline prosecution of HEMMING on both violations. [FBI 62-109060-5583] After the assassination, a group of retouched negatives was found in Ruth Paine's garage, among which were retouched negatives of the original identification cards. HEMMING denied having instructed OSWALD to make the draft card photo I.D.

THE BACKYARD PHOTOGRAPHS

OSWALD picked up both the Mannlicher-Carcano he had ordered on March 12, 1963, and the 38-caliber Smith & Wesson revolver he had ordered from George Rose and Company in Los Angeles on January 27, 1963, on March 25, 1963. Both had been shipped on March 20, 1963. The rifle was at the Post Office and the pistol was at the REA Express office. Had he been instructed to order these weapons by someone familiar with the shipping schedules of both companies? HEMMING told this researcher:

I am familiar with George Rose and Company. They are an Import-Export firm in Los Angeles, my home town.

HEMMING also said he had owned two Mannlicher-Carcanos in 1962:

I had those guns since I was 13 years old. I bought them around 1950. Piece of shit fuckin' weapons. Strange isn't it, both of those were taken by Saul Sagué, the guy in Hugh C. McDonald's book, to Honduras in 1962.

When he came back, I asked him for the rifles back. He may have given them to the niggers down there. I don't know.

Hugh C. McDonald claimed that an assassin named "Saul" was responsible for the death of President John F. Kennedy. HEMMING claimed this was Saul Sagué. A Mario Tauler Sagué took part in an assassination attempt against Fidel Castro: "Summer 1960. Armando Cubria Ramos and Mario Tauler Sague, members of the counter-revolutionary organization La Cruz, were put ashore in the area of Punta Hicacos in Matanzas. CIA had instructed the two to assassinate Fidel Castro and at the same time commit other acts of terrorism and sabotage. When the two hired assassins were arrested they had on them a whole arsenal of equipment provided by the CIA." [Parakal, P. Secret Wars of CIA, 1984 p54 KGB Press] OSWALD had Marina photograph him with the revolver, the rifle and a Communist paper. He was photographed holding the March 24, 1963, issue of the Worker, and the March 11, 1963, issue of The Militant.

It has been suggested that these photographs were created by splicing OSWALD'S head on someone else's body. This procedure was unnecessary. It was OSWALD'S idea to take these pictures. When questioned about the photographs after the murder, OSWALD realized he made a mistake, and he advised the Dallas Police Department they were doctored and his head had been spliced on. Michael Paine:

When I went over to pick him up for the first time we invited them over to supper with us, the first thing he showed me was that picture of himself taken outside the house there with a rifle and the two documents in his hands.

HEMMING told this researcher:

The photographs are unusual. I go along with the proposition that the photos exist. He voluntarily had his picture taken. But it doesn't look like trade craft there. It looks like a fucking stupidity. It doesn't sound like somebody into trade craft...When you start talking guns, you start talking bombs. It's the kind of shit that can blow an operation. It was more of his idea, than someone else telling him to do it. But it kind of fell in. Taking those pictures helped cost him his life. If he connects himself up with a weapon, then he was through dealing.

Marina Oswald: "I took the pictures. But the pictures had been tampered with. Guess whose body was on the picture? Roscoe White. [White was a Dallas Police Officer whose son claimed was involved in the assassination.] There was more to it, but it was quickly hushed up."

OSWALD AND GENERAL WALKER APRIL 1963

A photograph found in Lee Harvey Oswald's possession after the assassination of John F. Kennedy shows the house of Maj. Gen. Edwin Walker, a victim of a prior shooting on April

On April 10, 1963, OSWALD witnessed, what he believed to be, a bogus assassination attempt against General Walker by HEMMING in order to get Walker favorable publicity. HEMMING planned to deliberately miss his target. OSWALD had supplied HEMMING with information on Walker and HEMMING used OSWALD'S Mannlicher-Carcano rifle during the phony assassination attempt. OSWALD'S "homework" in regard to General Walker was to photograph the residence of General Edwin Walker and some nearby railroad tracks, check nearby buildings, bus schedules, etc. OSWALD hid his rifle in some railroad tracks later on and retrieved it later.

Walker Escapes Assassin's Bullet

DALLAS, April 11 (AP)—an unseen rifeman fired through a window and missed former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker by a scant inch in his home last night.

Mr. Walker brushed fragments of glass from his hair as reporters arrived shortly after the incident, which he described as an attempted assassination. It happened about 9:30 o'clock.

The police said that a slight movement by Mr. Walker, at a desk working on his income tax report, presumably saved him.

"Somebody had a perfect bead on him," Detective Ira Van Cleave said. "Whoever it was certainly wanted to kill him."

The bullet, from a 30.06 rifle, was fired from an alley behind the Walker home. It went through wood framing the glass window.

THE WALKER INCIDENT MADE THE NEW YORK TIMES

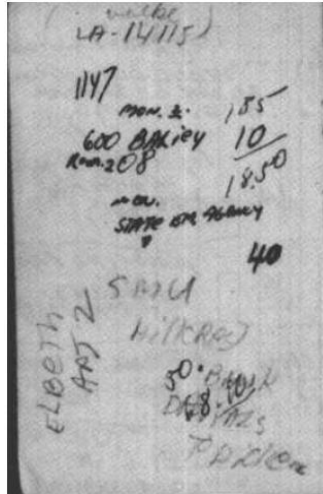

The purpose of the Walker Incident from HEMMING'S point of view was two-fold. The first was to create a history of violent behavior for OSWALD that would be discovered after the Kennedy assassination. HEMMING had OSWALD create the evidence against himself in the Walker incident. The second was to pay back General Walker for the help he had given INTERPEN because having been shot at by OSWALD would make him into a hero after the Kennedy assassination. HEMMING'S method of operation often involved shots that missed. During my association with him in 1977, HEMMING told two members of his crew (in Spanish) to pull up alongside the car of a man who had arrived at Miami's International Airport, and shoot at him - but miss. About two hours later, a Latin American male entered HEMMING'S office, and told HEMMING, in Spanish, about the incident.

HEMMING IN DALLAS: APRIL 1963

An FBI document confirmed that HEMMING was in Dallas in April 1963 just before someone took a pot shot at General Walker on April 10, 1963. On April 11, 1963, the FBI generated a document titled "FBI, Dallas, Texas. Subject: GERALD PATRICK HEMMING, Lorenzo Hall, Dallas, Texas 2-65 (field) 2-1693 (Bureau)." HEMMING denied being in Dallas at this time and said he wasn't there until July 1963.

OSWALD WAS AWARE OF WALKER'S ADDRESS

Evidence that linked OSWALD to the Walker Incident included the fact that the name and telephone number of General Edwin Walker were found in OSWALD'S address book. OSWALD was aware of Walker and mentioned him frequently to Michael Paine. Like Philbrick, OSWALD idolized Edwin Walker. In an essay entitled "Speech Before..." OSWALD wrote:

Americans are apt to scoff at the Idea, that a military coup in the US, as far as often happens in Latin american countries, could ever relplace our goverment. but that is an idea that has grounds for consideration. which military organization had the potentialities of executing such action? Is it the army? with its many constripes, its unwieldy size it score of bases scattered across the world? The case of Gen. Walker shows that the army, at least, is not fertail enough ground for a far right regime to go a very long way. for the same reasons of size and disposition - the navy and air force is also to be more or less disregarded. Which service than, can quilalify to launch a coup in the U.S.A. Small size, a permanent hard core of officers and a few bases is necscary only one outfit fits the description and the US Marine Corps a right wing infiltrated organization of dire potential consequences to the freedoms of the U.S. I agree with former President Truman when he said that the Marine Corps should be abolished. [FBI DL 100-10,461 WRH/gm]

(Former President Truman never said the Marine Corps should be abolished. He said the CIA should be abolished; however, this was in December 1963: "The operational duties of the CIA should be terminated)." [Wash. Post 12.22.63]

MARINA'S ACCOUNTS: THE PHOTOGRAPHS

Before the incident with General Walker I know that LEE was preparing for something. He took photographs of that house and he told me not to enter his room. I didn't know about these photographs, but when I came into the room once in general he tried to make it so I would spend less time in that room. I noticed that quite accidentally one time when I was cleaning the room he tried to take care of it himself. I asked him what kind of photographs are these, but he didn't say anything to me. [WC Vol. 1 pg. 14 2.3.64]

MARINA'S ACCOUNTS: THE PHOTOGRAPHS

Marina stated that she had originally seen these photographs about two or three days after the Walker shooting. On this occasion, she smelled smoke in the house which they rented on Neeley Street. She investigated and found LEE HARVEY OSWALD in the bathroom burning pages from a loose leaf notebook. OSWALD identified the paper he was burning as being the plans for the shooting of General Walker. Marina stated these pages came from a loose leaf notebook with a blue cover. She has seen this loose leaf notebook about the house since the Walker incident and knows that OSWALD did not destroy the notebook also. She also recalls seeing a bus timetable in the notebook at the time he was burning the pages. At this time OSWALD had in his hand some photographs. She asked to see the photographs and then asked OSWALD what they were. He identified them as being photographs he had taken of the Walker home. Marina is of the opinion that OSWALD developed and printed the photograph himself as he had available material for such work at his place of employment, and because he did not trust anybody else to do the development and printing. [FBI 2.18.64; CE 1156]

MARINA'S ACCOUNTS: THE PHOTOGRAPHS

Marina Oswald told S.A. Wallace Heitman that OSWALD showed her a notebook containing photographs of General Edwin Walker's home, and a map of the area where his house was located, three days after the Walker incident. She claimed she told LEE it was a bad idea to keep this book; subsequently she said she smelled smoke in their Neely Street home. When she investigated, she found OSWALD burning pages from a loose-leaf notebook. OSWALD identified the paper he was burning as plans for General Edwin Walker's shooting. She also recalls seeing a bus timetable in the notebook, at the time he was burning the pages. At this time, OSWALD had in his hand some photographs. She asked to see the photographs, and then asked OSWALD what they were. He identified them as being photographs he had taken of the Walker home. [WCE 1156]

The Warren Commission asked Marina Oswald:

Did you ask LEE why he had not destroyed the book before he actually went to shoot General Edwin Walker?" She answered: "It never came to me myself, to ask him that question...I asked him what for he was making all these entries in the book and he answered that he wanted to leave a complete record, so that all the details would be in it.

From this testimony, the Warren Commission concluded: "OSWALD was not particularly concerned about his continued possession of the most incriminating sort of evidence," because he left it for historical purposes. OSWALD had turned his report over to HEMMING and HEMMING did not return it to him until after the Walker shooting.

EVIDENCE OSWALD PHOTOGRAPHED THE WALKER RESIDENCE

On December 3, 1963, Marina Oswald identified five photographs of the Walker residence and some nearby railroad tracks, found among OSWALD'S possessions in Ruth Paine's home, to the FBI and United States Secret Service. The photographs depicted the wall through which the bullet aimed at General Edwin Walker passed, the spot where his assailant stood, and the fencepost upon which the shooter's rifle rested. (The Dallas Police Department found a chipped edge on this fencepost, which indicated something had been laid on it.). A fourth photograph that showed a stretch of railroad tracks was identified by Marina Oswald as having been taken by her husband in connection with the General Edwin Walker shooting. The FBI determined this photograph was taken approximately seven-tenths of a mile from General Edwin Walker's house. Another photograph of railroad tracks found among OSWALD'S possessions was taken from a point slightly less than one-half mile from the house of General Edwin Walker. The Bureau ascertained these photographs were taken with OSWALD'S Imperial Reflex camera. OSWALD forgot to burn these photographs.

MARINA'S ACCOUNT: THE RIFLE

She does recall she had asked OSWALD when he returned home and confessed he had attempted to assassinate General Walker that night what he had done with the rifle because she was afraid the rifle might be found and traced to OSWALD. In answer to her query, OSWALD told her he had buried the rifle in the ground or in the bushes far away from the actual spot of the shooting. She recalls OSWALD mentioned a field and also a railroad track and she has the impression OSWALD might have meant he hid the rifle in a field near a railroad track. Marina said she recalled OSWALD showing her photographs he had taken of the General Walker home. She also recalled OSWALD had shown her some photographs he had taken which depicted a railroad track. It is her recollection that these railroad tracks were near the Walker house...Marina was asked if OSWALD had mentioned being associated with any other person in connection with the attempted assassination of Walker. She said OSWALD had never mentioned another person in this connection. She said she was sure in her own mind he had planned and attempted the assassination completely alone. She said it was not like OSWALD to be associated with anyone else in such an endeavor...She does recall OSWALD mentioned on one occasion, when they were discussing the Walker incident, a gathering at a church near the Walker house. He told her he had postponed his assassination attempt until the evening of the gathering at this church. [WC CD 1124]

The fact that Marina knew that there was a church meeting on the night of the Walker Incident indicated that OSWALD had discussed this event with her.

SUSPICIOUS AUTOMOBILES ROBERT SURREY

On Friday, April 5, 1963, OSWALD was fired from his job at Jagger-Chiles-Stovall for reading a Russian-language Communist newspaper. Robert Surrey, an aide to General Edwin Walker, reported that on Saturday, April 6, 1963, at about 9:00 p.m., "two white men in a 1963 Ford [four door Sedan], dark purple or dark brown, parked in the alley directly behind the complainant's [General Edwin Walker] house. These persons were witnessed getting out of the car and walking up to the property line and smoking the place over." They were dressed in suits. Robert Surrey followed them for thirty minutes as they left the alley and stated: "There was no license plate on this car, either front or rear." On Monday April 8, 1963, Robert Surrey had seen "two men around the house peeking in windows" of the Walker residence. [WR p183; HSCA R p98] When Kennedy came to Dallas in November 1963, Surrey and Walker had "Wanted For Treason" leaflets printed. The Secret Service reported:

Mr. Robert A. Surrey is known to be associated with General Edwin Walker. Information at the (Deleted) indicates that Mr. Surrey is an aide to General Walker." Surrey was President of the American Eagle Publishing Company which was "believed to be controlled by Edwin Walker. Lt. Jack Revill, Criminal Intelligence Section, Dallas Police Department, reports that he has received numerous complaints that the American Eagle Publishing Company is anti-Jewish and anti-Negro. Lt. Revill reports that some organizations from the opposite end of the spectrum try to keep tabs on what the American Eagle Publishing Company is doing. For this reason, it is possible that Mr. Surrey did not want to print the 'Wanted For Treason' leaflets at the American Eagle Publishing Company.

On September 30, 1962 Ashland Frederic Burchwell, (CO-2-36,862) was arrested in Dallas, Texas with several guns and a large quantity of ammunition in his car. Burchwell stated at that time that he was enroute to Mississippi to assist General Walker. Burchwell had in his personal effects the unlisted telephone number of Mr. Robert A. Surrey. Burchwell also admitted working for General Walker. [USSS CO-2-34,030-1505]

Scott Hansen, a Mormon, aged 15, advised that on the night of April 10, 1963, he was attending a Scout meeting at a church that was nearby the Walker residence. "Hansen stated that he recalls observing a 1958 black over white Chevrolet parked along the fence next to Major General Edwin A. Walker's property on the night of April 10, 1963. He stated that he recalled seeing the same automobile parked along this fence on a previous Wednesday, but has not seen the car in the church lot since April 10, 1963." [FBI DL 100-10461 6.4.64 Barrett and Lee] A Dallas Police report stated:

A witness by ear, Kirk Coleman, w/m 14 states he was sitting in the back room of his home and heard what sounded like a shot. (Illegible) up over the backyard fence and he looked onto the church parking lot he saw some unknown white male speed down the driveway towards Turtle Creek, in either 1949 or 1950 Ford, light green. He then noticed what appeared to be (illegible) with the door open on a 1953 Chevrolet, black with white stripe side down, states this person (illegible) pushed up and was leaning over as if he was putting something into the floorboards. This person got inside the Chevrolet and sped away from the lot. (There was a meeting of some sort at the church and the lot of was full of cars but at the time the witness looked out there they were the only people on the lot).

When Dallas policeman W. E. Chambers contacted Kirk Coleman, Coleman stated:

...that he was in the back room and heard a noise. He thought it was a blowout. The boy who was with him, Ronald Andries said it was a gun shot. Kirk stated that he then ran out the back and climbed the back fence and saw a man getting into a 1949 or 1950 Ford, Light Green or Light Blue and take off. This was on the parking lot of the church next to General Walker's home. Also on further down the parking lot was another car, unknown make or model and a man was in it. He had the dome light on and Kirk could see him bend over the front seat as if he was putting something back in the floorboard. The only description Kirk could give on this car was the fact that it was black with a white stripe. The other boy, Ronald, did not climb the fence, so he did not see this. The only description the boy could give on the person who got into the Ford was that he was middle size and had long, black hair. There were several other cars on the parking lot because some function was in process at the church. The church has lights for the parking lot but Kirk stated the lights were not on. The person that was in the Ford took off in a hurry but the person in the other car did not seem to be in a hurry."

General Edwin Walker believed OSWALD had accomplices: "There were two people in the alley and they were seen by a 15-year-old boy that was a-carpenterin' with his daddy. The kid saw them sitting in the church parking lot, the two men got into their cars and sped away." [FBI DL-100-10461-6.8.64 Barrett & Lee; 11WH404; WCD 1124] The HSCA stated: "It is possible that OSWALD'S associates in the Kennedy assassination had been involved with him in earlier activities. The committee conducted a limited investigation to see if leads could be developed that might assist in identifying these possible associates. No leads were developed and this line of inquiry was abandoned." [HSCA R p61]

HEMMING AND OSWALD TAKE A POT SHOT AT WALKER

According to the Warren Commission: "At approximately 9:00 p.m. on April 10, 1963, Major General Edwin A. Walker...narrowly escaped death when a rifle bullet fired from outside his home passed near his head as he was seated at his desk." Marina Oswald related that on Wednesday April 10, 1963, OSWALD left their Neely Street apartment shortly after dinner. He said he was going to typing class at Crozier Technical High School; he last attended Crozier Technical High School on Monday April, 8, 1963. [FBI 62-109090-1859]

The Dallas Morning News reported:

CLOSE CALL

Rifleman Takes Shot at Walker

by Eddie Hughes

A gunman with a high powered rifle tried to kill former Major General Edwin Walker at his home Wednesday night, police said, and missed the controversial crusader by less than an inch. Walker was working on his income tax at 9:30 p.m. when the bullet, identified as a 30.06 crashed through a rear window and slammed through a wall next to him. Police said a slight movement by Walker apparently saved his life. 'Some one had a perfect bead on him,' said Detective Ira Van Cleave, 'Whoever it was certainly wanted to kill him.'

Walker dug out several fragments of the shell's jacket from his right sleeve and was still shaking glass and slivers of the bullet out of his hair when reporters arrived. Walker said he returned to his Dallas home Monday after an extensive coast-to-coast crusade which he called 'Midnight Alert.' It was on Monday night that one of his assistants noticed a late modeled unlicensed car parked without lights in the alley behind the Walker house at 4011 Turtle Creek. The car remained there for about 30 minutes while several occupants once walked up to the back door to look in, then left. Asked if he had any idea who shot at him, Walker replied: 'There are plenty of people on the other side. You don't have to go overseas to earn a Purple Heart. I've been saying the front was right here at home. When I saw the hole in the wall I went upstairs and got my gun, then went outside to take a look. I didn't see anybody so I went back in the house and notified police.'

In May 1977 I questioned General Edwin Walker:

I don't think the Warren Commission would have found out if it was OSWALD unless they had to and were sure of that. He did not deliberately miss. He was dead on me with a telescopic sight. I didn't move. He hit the window framework and the bullet was deflected. There were two people in the alley and they were seen by a kid out in the alley 15 years old that was carpentering with his daddy and he told the police there were two men in the alley...there were two cars. The kid saw them sitting in the church parking lot, the two men got in the cars and drove away. I never heard of OSWALD or knew he was at a DRE meeting.

THE TRAJECTORY

In 1970 General Edwin Walker recalled, "In my home window today there is a perfect bullet hole through a copper strip." [ltr. Walker/Russell 3.11.70] Dallas Police photographs revealed the bullet nicked the window frame. The trajectory of the high powered bullet would have been changed as a result of this. No tests were ever conducted by the Warren Commission on General Edwin Walker's windows, so it was difficult to determine precisely what role they played.

The bullet whizzed by General Edwin Walker's arm (he said he had been hit in the right arm by wood, glass or bullet fragments), passed through a wall, then landed on a stack of packages of papers in an adjoining room. The gunman rested his rifle on a wooden fence, slightly chipping it in the process, and had a clear downhill shot at General Edwin Walker. General Edwin Walker could have been easily killed, but only one shot was fired.

HOSTY ASSIGNED THE WALKER CASE

On June 6, 1963, S.A. Hosty was informed by an ex-employee of General Walker, William MacEwan Duff, that he was involved in an arrangement to kill General Edwin Walker, with two other men. William MacEwan Duff had received an Undesirable Discharge from the Army on June 2, 1964, by reason of unfitness due to Fraudulent Entry in the Army (concealment of other service). His record contained a letter entitled: "Fraudulent Entry" that stated: "During the entire period of time EM has been assigned he continually cause trouble because of his refusal to tell the truth." Duff came to Dallas where he married Frances Barnard. The marriage was annulled after two weeks.

In June 1963 two private investigators hired by General Edwin Walker told the Dallas Police Department that Duff was planning to kill Walker. These were the two men named by Duff as plotting to kill Walker. Duff was arrested and polygraphed. The polygraph test indicated he had no knowledge of the Walker Incident.

OSWALD WAS UNSURE OF THE OUTCOME OF WALKER INCIDENT

The FBI reported: "Dallas report of S.A. WARREN C. DeBRUEYS dated December 8, 1963, on pages 284 and 285 set out interviews of Marina Oswald on December 3, 1963, and December 4, 1963. She advised during the Spring of 1963 they resided on Neeley Street. One evening in the Spring of 1963 her husband indicated he was going to typing class at the Dallas evening school (Crozier Technical High School where OSWALD last attended on April 8, 1963) where he normally attended two or three times a week. On this particular evening he was very late and arrived home about midnight, very pale, agitated and excited at which time he admitted trying to kill General Walker by shooting at Walker with a rifle. Marina Oswald stated her husband normally would depart the Neeley Street address sometime between 6:00 p.m. and 7:00 p.m. returning home about 9:00 p.m."

In 1964 Marina told the Bureau: "When he came back, I asked him what happened. He was very pale. I don't remember the exact time, but it was very late. And he told me not to ask him any questions. He only told me he had shot at General Edwin Walker." OSWALD went on that he did not know if he had hit General Edwin Walker; when he learned from the newspapers the next day that he had missed, he told her he was "sorry that he had not hit him." Marina Oswald told the HSCA: "[When he returned late that evening] he turned the radio on and he was very pale and he was listening to the news, changing from station to station. I ask him what it was all about, and he said that he tried to shoot General Edwin Walker. I told him, how dare you take somebody's life and you should not do things like that, I mean you have no right to do it. He said well if somebody shot Hitler at the right time you will do justice to humanity so since I do not know anything about the man I should not talk about it." [Marina's HSCA Test. pg. 383] In 1994 Marina Oswald told this researcher: "All I can tell you is what he told me when he came home. And people have pointed out how nervous he was after that, and he was cool as cucumber after Kennedy? Are you asking me, did I make this up? No. He came home from work, it was late, I found the note in one of the little closets. I confront him when he came what it was all about? Then he turned the radio on. He told me he shot at Walker."

If OSWALD shot at General Edwin Walker he would have known immediately if he hit him or missed him. Marina Oswald pointed out to this interviewer that all she had was her husband's word he shot at General Edwin Walker. She was not a witness to the event. HEMMING was the shooter and knew the outcome of the Walker incident. OSWALD was exaggerating his importance in the event to his wife. He had not done the shooting. If he had, he would have known that he missed.

EVIDENCE FABRICATED BY DEMOHRENSCHILDT

DeMohrenschildt told the Warren Commission that while he and his wife were visiting the OSWALDS one evening at Neely Street, Marina Oswald remarked that LEE bought a gun and showed it to Mrs. DeMohrenschildt. George DeMohrenschildt told the FBI that this visit occurred on Saturday, April 13, 1963. That year Easter Sunday fell on April 14, 1963. The purpose of the visit was to deliver an Easter present to OSWALD'S daughter. In 1964 Marina Oswald stated "when she had asked her husband what he had done with the rifle, he replied that he had buried it in the ground or had hidden it in some bushes. He also mentioned a railroad track in this connection. She testified that several days later, OSWALD recovered his rifle, and brought it back to the apartment." Marina Oswald stated that OSWALD did not retrieve his rifle until April 14, 1963.

Nonetheless, George DeMohrenschildt claimed he and OSWALD stood in the front room talking, and Marina Oswald opened a closet to show Mrs. DeMohrenschildt the gun; Mrs. DeMohrenschildt called out to her husband in the next room. He did not get a look at it, but remembered a telescopic sight. Marina Oswald told them LEE used it for target shooting. George DeMohrenschildt noted he then "jokingly" asked LEE if he had taken the shot at General Edwin Walker. LEE became tense, "sort of shriveled," and made a face in answer to the question without specifically answering it.

In a State Department interview at the American Embassy, Haiti, on December 1963 the DeMohrenschildts claimed they had seen the rifle in the Fall of 1962, and not the following Spring. In that interview, they claimed the last time they had seen the OSWALDS was in January 1963, not April 1963; they were too busy preparing for their forthcoming trip to Haiti to see LEE and Marina Oswald after that. [HSCA V12 p52] The HSCA asked Marina Oswald whether she exhibited the rifle to the DeMohrenschildts: "I cannot tell you that, not because I am hiding, but because I cannot recall." [HSCA V12 p301]

In George DeMohrenschildt's unpublished manuscript, he blamed the Walker incident on a Jew: "There is another thing which makes me believe that LEE possibly tried to shoot General Edwin Walker. A man, whose name I do not recall, a Jewish man, whom LEE met at Ford's Christmas party, described General Edwin Walker as the most dangerous man in the United States, a potential neo-fascist [sic] leader. I noticed that LEE kept on asking why. And the other fellow explained clearly his reasons. LEE might have been influenced by this statement." Marina Oswald told this interviewer in 1994: "I think he waited two days before recovering the rifle. They did come and bring that. If it was Easter it had to be Sunday. I liked DeMohrenschildt very much."

EVIDENCE - THE NOTE

OSWALD left a note for Marina Oswald in Russian with practical instructions in case the Walker mission ended in failure. Marina Oswald testified she became agitated the night of the Walker incident when she found the note in OSWALD'S room; she entered the room contrary to his instructions when she began to worry about his absence. She allegedly kept the note, to turn over to the authorities "if something like that should be repeated again." When asked whether LEE requested she return the note, she claimed: "He forgot about it." Marina Oswald did not bring the note to the attention of the Dallas Police Department, but kept the note in a Russian book entitled Useful Advice. Ruth Paine accidentally turned the note over to the Dallas Police Department on December 2, 1963. Michael Paine: "I accept that he took a shot at Walker and nothing came of it. I think he probably meant to kill him, but Walker had the good fortune to duck at the right moment. He wrote a letter and left it with Marina Oswald just before he went out that night. My wife was raked over the coals by the FBI when she quite unwittingly sent that letter to Marina Oswald. Ruth was sending Marina things she thought Marina would like, and this was a book written by Doctor Spock on babies. The FBI came back thinking she was trying to smuggle important information to Marina. So they grilled her, brought her to tears, and she was totally ignorant of that letter being in the book. She had never seen it. And she was very angry at Marina for keeping from her that LEE had done that. Later on, I remember discussing with Ruth why she had done that: Marina Oswald was afraid of being deported back to Russia." Ruth Paine: "This was a book that Marina had read to me from. It was child raising manual. After she left on November 23, 1963, I expected her to come back, but she didn't. So every day or so I would send something the baby that might need - a change of clothing, etc. Mail began to come for her. I would give it to the police. The FBI had overlooked it. Later, I understood Marina had hidden a note in a book. First I heard about it, two guys from the Secret Service came and asked if I knew anything about it. They presented it as if I did know something about it. I said, 'I just sent a book to her.'" The text of the note:

(1) This is the key to the mailbox which is located in the main post office in the city on Ervay Street. This is the same street where the drugstore, in which you always waited is located. You will find the mailbox in the post office which is located 4 blocks from the drugstore on that street. I paid for the box last month so don't worry about it.

(2) Send the information as to what has happened to me to the Embassy and include newspaper clippings (should there be anything about me in the newspapers). I believe that the Embassy will come quickly to your assistance upon learning everything.

(3) I paid the house rent on the second so don't worry about it.

(4) Recently I also paid for water and gas.

(5) The money from work will possibly be coming. The money will be sent to our post office box. Go to the bank and cash the check.

(6) You can either throw out or give my clothing etc. away Do not keep these. However I prefer you hold on to my personal papers (military, civil etc.)

(7) Certain of my documents are in the small blue valise.

(8) The address book can be found on my table in the study should you need same.

(9) We have friends here. The Red Cross also will help you. (Red Cross in English). [sic]

(10) I left you as much money as I could, $60 on the second of the month. You and the baby (apparently) can live for another two months using $10 per week.

(11) If I am alive and taken prisoner, the city jail is located at the end of the bridge though which we always passed on going to the city (right in the beginning of the city after crossing the bridge).

The note referred to the Walker Incident.

1. This is the key to the mailbox which is located in the main post office in the city on Ervay Street. This is the same street where the drugstore, in which you always waited is located. You will find the mailbox in the post office which is located 4 blocks from the drugstore on that street. I paid for the box last month so don't worry about it.

OSWALD gave Marina Oswald the key to his post office box for the first time. He had previously withheld it from her. OSWALD had Marina Oswald wait in a drugstore rather than accompany him into the main post office on Ervay Street, where OSWALD rented Box 2915 from October 9, 1962, to May 14, 1963. What was he up to at the Post Office? The Warren Commission: "Although the possibilities of investigation in this area are limited, there is no evidence that any of [OSWALD'S three boxes] were ever used for the surreptitious receipt of messages...The single outstanding key was recovered from OSWALD immediately after he was taken in custody." [WR p312] In 1994 Marina Oswald did not recall having been told to wait in the drugstore while her husband went to the post office: "It was just to remind me where it was."

Send the information as to what has happened to me to the Embassy and include newspaper clippings (should there be anything about me in the newspapers). I believe that the Embassy will come quickly to your assistance upon learning everything.

OSWALD feared his action might escape notice not only by the Washington newspapers, where the Soviet Embassy was located, but by the local media in Dallas. General Edwin Walker was headline news in 1963; even the anonymous pot shot made the front page of the Dallas Morning News. OSWALD was incredibly stupid. OSWALD was about to commit a political act which would be viewed sympathetically by the Soviets. According to Marina Oswald: "LEE said he was a very bad man, that he was a fascist, that he was the leader of a fascist organization...if someone had killed Hitler in time it would have saved many lives." [WR p406]

I paid the house rent on the second so don't worry about it. Recently I also paid for water and gas. The money from work will possibly be coming. The money will be sent to our post office box. Go to the bank and cash the check.

The reference to OSWALD'S check having been mailed to his Post Office Box meant the letter was written sometime after April 5, 1963, when he lost his job at Jagger-Chiles-Stoval.

4. You can either throw out or give my clothing etc. away Do not keep these. However I prefer you hold on to my personal papers (military, civil etc.) Certain of my documents are in the small blue valise. The address book can be found on my table in the study should you need same.

OSWALD was about to commit a crime that could result in a stiff prison sentence.

5. We have friends here. The Red Cross also will help you. (Red Cross in English). [sic] I left you as much money as I could, $60 on the second of the month. You and the baby (apparently) can live for another two months using $10 per week. If I am alive and taken prisoner, the city jail is located at the end of the bridge though which we always passed on going to the city (right in the beginning of the city after crossing the bridge).

OSWALD was going after a former General , a tough customer. He could have been killed or taken prisoner. [DeMohrenschildt/W WR p282; WR pp. 416, 738, 592; HSCA R pp. 98, 60, 62]

Marina Oswald told this researcher 1994:

If he was apprehended as you said, but something more will be printed, then identify people who tried to shoot at Walker as it was in newspapers, you follow me? Maybe the Embassy would help me to go back to Russia? He was giving instructions where to go if he doesn't come home. Maybe he was with a group and maybe they would kill him. Its unlikely Walker would have killed him. The police aren't going to kill him. The message of the thing was that he had a mission or had another second life. He did not indulge in a explanation to me. I knew nothing about it. So, if something happened to me, he was just giving directions to go to get help. Maybe somehow also he betrays himself by saying it. That's a giveaway without him realizing that. The note did not say he was going to kill Walker. He came home without that rifle. What was all that about? If HEMMING put my husband up to this, the main thing was to show LEE was a killer.

BULLET PROBABLY FIRED FROM A MANNLICHER-CARCANO

The Warren Commission Report stated: "Specimen Q188 was fired from a barrel rifled with four lands and grooves, right twist. Mannlicher-Carcano rifles of the type used in the Kennedy assassination are among those which produce general rifling impressions such as were found on specimen Q188." FBI ballistics expert Robert Frazier apprised the Commission that relatively few types of rifles could produce the characteristics found on the bullet. [WR p186]

The FBI's tests did not prove conclusively the bullet was fired from a Mannlicher-Carcano or was fired from OSWALD'S Mannlicher-Carcano rifle to the exclusion of all others: "The FBI was unable to reach a conclusion as to whether or not the bullet recovered from the house of General Edwin Walker had been fired from the rifle found in the Texas School Book Depository." The FBI reported: "Bullet submitted as recovered from Walker's home has same physical characteristics as the bullet and bullet fragments recovered in connection with the assassination of President Kennedy. Walker bullet is 6.5 MM caliber bullet fired from a four land and groove, right twist barrel Mannlicher-Carcano rifles of type used in the assassination are among those which produce rifling characteristics such as on Walker bullet. Not possible to determine whether or not Walker fired from rifle used in assassination due to extreme distortion and mutilation and because individual microscopic marks produced by barrel may have changed subsequent to time Walker bullet fired." [Memo R.H. Jevons to Conrad 12.4.63] The FBI Lab Report that this document was based on stated:

The copper jacket and the lead core of the Q188 bullet were determined to be slightly different in compositions from the copper jackets and lead cores of the Q1 and Q2 bullets. Although the differences in composition between the Q-188 and the Q-1 and Q-2 bullets were small and do not indicate that these bullets came from the same box. It is to be noted that there is no assurance in the fabrication of ammunition that all the ammunition ending up in one box possesses bullets from the same batch of metal, that is, with the same composition. [NARA HSCA 180-10100-10288]

The HSCA:

The firearms panel of the committee examined the bullet fragment that was removed from the wall in the home of General Edwin Walker and found that it had characteristics similar to bullets fired from OSWALD'S Mannlicher-Carcano rifle. In addition, neutron activation analysis of this fragment confirmed that it was probably a Mannlicher-Carcano [6.5 millimeter] bullet.

HEMMING used OSWALD'S Mannlicher-Carcano rifle to shoot at Walker. Any tests conducted on the bullet would show that it was fired from a rifle whose barrel had the same or similar rifling characteristics to OSWALD'S.

30.06 OR 6.5 MM?

In the original story about the Walker shooting in the Dallas Morning News, Q188 was identified as a 30.06: "Walker was working on his income tax at 9:30 p.m. when the bullet, identified as a 30.06 crashed through a rear window and slammed through a wall next to him."

An early police report described the bullet as "of unknown caliber, steel jacketed." [Supp. Offense Report 4.10.63] General Edwin Walker did not believe that the bullet fired at him was in the possession of the HSCA and he sent this Mailgram to Robert Blakey: "The bullet before your Select Committee called the Walker bullet is not the Walker bullet. It is not the bullet that was fired at me and taken out of my house by the Dallas City Police on April 10, 1963. The bullet you have was never gotten from me, or taken out of my house, by anyone at any time."

THE CHAIN OF EVIDENCE

The FBI investigated General Edwin Walker's contention. Billy Gene Norvell discovered the bullet in the home of General Edwin Walker. On June 3, 1964, Norvell advised an FBI agent that "...he then picked up the bullet and scratched his initials 'B.N.' or his initial 'N' on the base of it." Norvell gave the bullet to B.G. Brown of the Crime Scene Search Section of the Dallas Police Department. Brown stated that he marked the bullet. On April 25, 1963, J.C. Day transported the bullet to the City/County Criminal Investigation Laboratory, where he turned it over to F.T. Alexander and Louie L. Anderson: "Lieutenant Day advised that he retrieved the Walker bullet from the CCCIL on December 2, 1963, and gave it to FBI S.A. Bardwell Odum on that date...S.A. Odum forwarded the Walker bullet to the FBI Laboratory."There, it was initialed JH and RF.

In June 1979 the FBI examined the bullet for the officers initials who were links in the chain of evidence: "Identifiable marks were found inscribed on varying portions of the bullet itself. It must be understood that certain markings are clearly discernible, others admit of more than one interpretation, while others may be obscured by oxidation or otherwise." The markings found were, "Q 188," and letters which appeared to be as follows: "HJ," "RF," "N," "B," "J," "D," "A," "O" or "D." The bullet was contained in an original Dallas Police evidence box: "The cover (top) of the box bears 'HJ, RF, April 10, 1963, 4011 Turtle. CK Burg by F.A. BGB Q 188. The inside bottom of the box bears 'Day 7640' and the outside bottom bears '7640 Day' as well as 'Q 188' and 'Rm.'" [FBI Director to Keuch 62-117290-144 7.3.79]

HEMMING owned a 30.06 rifle at this time, however, it was unlikely that he would have utilized it in the Walker attack, when he had OSWALD'S Mannlicher-Carcano rifle at his disposal. The rationale behind the Walker attack was to create a history of violence for OSWALD by linking him to the Walker incident. Firing at Walker with OSWALD'S Mannlicher-Carcano would further this end. The newspaper reporter who stated that the bullet was a 30.06 may have gotten his information from Walker. Walker was convinced the bullet the FBI had was not the one taken from his wall, however, Walker was a crackpot. The initials on the bullet matched those of the police officers who handled it.

THE CRYPTIC FBI DOCUMENT

An FBI document dated December 4, 1963, to the SAC, Dallas, from SA (Deleted), Subject, Edwin A. Walker, Information Concerning, stated:

Assistant Director William C. Sullivan called at 3:10 a.m. and instructed he receive a return telephone call and be filled in on the details relating to the alleged bullet being shot into the home of Edwin Walker. I returned the call and advised Mr. Sullivan that the General Walker shooting details are not contained within the Dallas files. However, I mentioned that a slug obtained from the Dallas Police Department had been sent to the Laboratory for examination, and the transmittal letter reflects the slug was recovered from Walker's home through a window and that no one has been identified as firing the bullet. Mr. Sullivan then instructed that Agents review Dallas newspaper morgues first thing Wednesday morning, November 4, 1963 and the details be obtained and furnished him by teletype. Mr. Sullivan cautioned this be done discreetly since no one knows of OSWALD'S possible involvement in the shooting. Lead (AM, November 4, 1963). Immediately review morgues for new articles on or about April 10, 1963 relating to General Walker shooting. Prepare detailed teletype, attention: Assistant Director Sullivan. Addendum: In connection with the Walker case, FBI S.A. Kenneth Howe advised that (deleted) called him (Howe) on evening of December 3, 1963, and said an unidentified (deleted) mentioned 'I suppose you (deleted) know about it - OSWALD taking a shot at Walker - he admitted to it in a letter to his wife. 2- Dallas (Deleted)' [FBI 157-218-45 re. 1983]

OSWALD allegedly chose an enemy of President John F. Kennedy as his first target before assassinating President John F. Kennedy. The HSCA: "Kennedy and Walker hardly shared a common political ideology. As seen in terms of American political thinking, Walker was a staunch conservative, while the President was a liberal...It can be argued, however, that from a Marxist's perspective, they could be regarded as occupying similar positions." Most Communist Party-oriented Marxists believed that certain capitalist forces were more progressive than others and should be encouraged. The Warren Report stated that OSWALD'S attack on General Edwin Walker betrayed a predisposition to take human life. Once the Warren Commission established this, the Walker attack became probative evidence OSWALD killed President John F. Kennedy. [WR p187] HEMMING told this researcher:

OSWALD didn't do the Walker shooting. The whole clownish story of the Walker shooting: he's gonna ride a bus with a rifle. Oh, he breaks it down, and rides the bus. Then he hides it somewhere in the railroad tracks and picks it up. Jesus Christ.

Marina had the battered wife syndrome, as they call it today. Let me tell you, if he was doing that kind of shit, she would have blown the whistle in a heartbeat to keep her kids. Why should her kids suffer for this kind of activity? In the Soviet Union, whatever you do - your family is going to pay for it. You talk about deterrence of crime, police states have got it. She's gonna come over here, from that kind of society, and she's gonna look around and think this country's any goddamn different? How the fuck would she know? What would she have done in the Soviet Union if he started talking about hitting the Kremlin? She would have snitched him out. What was the difference in her frame of mind between living in Minsk and living in Dallas, Texas. No difference. Whatever she would have done there, she would have done in Dallas. So all this bullshit about her being aware, this was to dirty her up, to get her to admit that kind of shit.

We got suspicious of Walker when he went out there just a short time after somebody took a shot at him, yet we were sitting in Walker's study with the curtains open, the lights on, bullshitting with Walker until 5:00 a.m. in the morning. We're thinking, 'What's gonna keep the rig from coming back?' And we're sitting there with him. He took no security precautions at all after the shooting. Either this guy's a total fucking nut or he knows something we don't know. Me and Howard Davis are kinda wondering if he must have had something to do with setting it up himself. This was May 1963. We were out there again in July and we were wondering, 'Maybe Walker's people set it up to promote Walker?' Or maybe some of the right wing people in Dallas, to promote Walker, conned OSWALD into you know, all speculation. Walker had already met with some of our Texas financial backers. The backers were backing Walker. We hadn't elected Walker our leader.

GENERAL EDWIN WALKER WENNIE WAGER

In January 1963 American Mercury employed General Edwin Walker as its military editor. [CIA SAG J.G. Brown 12.6.74] On June 23, 1976, General Walker, who was 66 years old, was arrested for public lewdness in rest room at a city park. General Walker, 66, had fondled an undercover policeman. [NYT 7.9.76] On March 17, 1977, General Walker was arrested on a similar charge. HEMMING told this researcher:

Because he helped us out I was willing to overlook that. But this Loran Hall shithead, he's got to badmouth the queer business the first time he's in the man's house with STURGIS' buddy, Wally Welch.

General Walker, 84, died of a pulmonary ailment on November 2, 1993.

THE SOVIET VISA

On April 18, 1963, the Soviet Embassy, Washington, sent Marina Oswald a letter requesting that she come in for an interview. If this was impossible, it suggested she furnish her reasons for beginning proceedings for permission to enter the Soviet Union for permanent residence in writing. Marina Oswald did not follow up on her request until June 1963. Then she informed the Soviets that her husband would be accompanying her back to the Soviet Union. Marina Oswald and LEE OSWALD had planned to separate, now they were back together again. HEMMING told this researcher:

It could have been a homesick thing, Cubans, Russians, everybody goes through this shit. But when it comes down to the nitty-gritty, where she's got to make the decision voluntarily - and he's talking about going back? We are led to believe that he's trying to convince her to go back because she's supposedly writing these letters for him to the Soviet Embassy in D.C. And he's going back? Bullshit. Did you get what I just said?

Marina Oswald told this researcher: "He made me to write letters to Embassy. Go away. He cannot tell me why."

OSWALD AND THE FAIR PLAY FOR CUBA COMMITTEE

The Warren Commission stated "Some time between April 12, 1963, and April 18, 1963, OSWALD distributed Fair Play for Cuba Committee materials in Dallas apparently uneventfully." OSWALD wrote a letter on April 19, 1963, to the Fair Play for Cuba Committee in New York, requesting literature and announcing he had already distributed Fair Play for Cuba Committee pamphlets in Dallas:

Dallas, Texas.

Dear Sirs: I do not like to ask for something for nothing but I am unemployed. Since I am unemployed, I stood yesterday for the first time in my life, with a placare around my neck, passing out fair play for cuba pamplets, ect. I only had 15 or so. In 40 minutes they were all gone. I was cursed as well as praised by some. My homemake placard said: 'HANDS OFF CUBA! VIVA Fidel. I now ask for 40 or (50) more of the fine, basic pamplets - 14."

HEMMING told this researcher:

Never happened. The White Russians wouldn't have stood for it. He never gave out the leaflets. There were no pro-Castro demonstrations in Dallas. He would have got his ass kicked.

The FBI had several informants in the Fair Play for Cuba Committee and had burglarized the offices of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. On April 21, 1963, the FBI in New York City became aware of OSWALD'S letter.

HOSTY, OSWALD & FAIR PLAY CUBA COMMITTEE JUNE 1963

The news about OSWALD'S contact with the Fair Play for Cuba Committee did not reach S.A. Hosty until early June 1963. The FBI: "A Special Agent in New York was censured for failing to promptly disseminate information on the Fair Play for Cuba to Dallas concerning OSWALD. Another Special Agent in New York was censured for failing to insure that Fair Play for Cuba information concerning OSWALD was more promptly disseminated to Dallas." S.A. Hosty had been instructed to be on the alert for Fair Play for Cuba Committee activities in Dallas, yet when he received the telex about OSWALD'S leafleting, he claimed the information was "stale." He made no attempt to verify OSWALD'S claim of having distributed leaflets: "When I got it, it was approximately six or seven weeks old, past the date it allegedly took place..." S.A. Hosty refused to investigate OSWALD despite his contacts with the notorious and highly subversive Fair Play for Cuba Committee.

THE FAIR PLAY FOR CUBA COMMITTEE

When the Fair Play for Cuba Committee was first formed, the CIA commented: "We bet this one winds up on the Attorney General's list." The announcement of the formation of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee was made on April 5, 1960, at a cocktail party given by Cuban Consulate. On April 6, 1960, a full-page advertisement in The New York Times listed Richard Gibson, authors James Baldwin, Truman Capote, Norman Mailer, Jean Paul Sartre, Robert Taber (a Robert Taber born May 10, 1919; died in September 1981) and others as sponsors.

ROBERT TABER

Robert Taber's CIA file reflected allegations that he served a term in the penitentiary in the 1930's for armed robbery. It was reported in 1950 he was a Communist. He became interested in Fidel Castro's revolutionary movement in 1957, when he served in the mountains with the Castro forces. A Passport Record check in 1962 noted that he may have lost his U.S. citizenship because of this. A 1960 Domestic Contacts Division report categorized him as a resentful, frustrated foreign correspondent. He received extensive publicity in 1961 when he defected to Cuba because he was facing a perjury charge in the United States: he had testified before the House Un-American Activities Committee that the full-page advertisement in The New York Times was paid through voluntary contributions, but the FBI developed evidence that Cuba's delegation to the United Nations advanced the money. [CIA F82-0489] Fifteen months later Robert Taber returned to the United States and was questioned in closed session by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. In March 1964 Robert Taber applied for employment with the CIA. The CIA's Office of Security rejected him because "In view of Subject's notorious background, which raises serious questions on his honesty, loyalty, integrity and (deleted) trustworthiness, (deleted). Leo J. Dunn." [CIA Memo 3.13.64 Chief, Personnel Security Division] HEMMING told this researcher:

Taber went up in the mountains for the Agency. He put out money for a hit on Fidel. St. George went up there. He was a stalking horse to take out Fidel. He had a price on his head.

The CIA believed the Fair Play for Cuba Committee was controlled and financed by Cuba. It uncovered evidence that a U.S. national in the Fair Play for Cuba Committee had been given the monopoly on the distribution of Cuban cigars. [CIA F82-0489/3] The Fair Play for Cuba Committee immediately came under intensive FBI investigation. [CIA F82-0489/28; F82-0489/2] By January 1961 the Justice Department solicited its registration as a Cuban Government agency. However, the organization advised through an attorney that it would not register. The Justice Department had already forced the 26th of July Movement to register, listing its foreign principal as the 26th of July Movement, Havana, Cuba. In April 1961 the Fair Play for Cuba Committee charged that the CIA organized troops to invade Cuba, and were training in Louisiana, Florida, and Guatemala, in violation of the Charter of the United Nations. [NYT 4.18.61] The CIA penetrated the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. According to the Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, Richard Helms, to "monitor" a group was merely to attend its public meetings and hear what any citizen present would hear; to "infiltrate" a group was to join it as a member and appear to support its purposes in general; to "penetrate" a group was to gain a leadership position, and influence or direct its policies and actions. [RR fn p152] In 1979 Richard Helms was asked if he was familiar with the Fair Play for Cuba Committee: "I recall the name Fair Play for Cuba Committee, but I can't, for the life of me, remember whether it was pro-Castro or anti-Castro at this stage."

RICHARD T. GIBSON

A member of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee National Office was recruited as a CIA asset during the CIA's investigation of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. When Richard Gibson was questioned at the American Embassy, Paris, he explained his motivation for working in an organization like the Fair Play for Cuba Committee was purely economic. In 1994 the CIA released a document that indicated Richard T. Gibson had been indirectly hired by the Agency. [CIA Memo 10.7.76 Joel Keys to Rod Brooks; CIA ltr. 10.20.76] Richard Gibson headed the New York Office of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee before he was replaced by V.T. Lee. This researcher met V.T. Lee circa 1977. V.T. Lee was a violent individual who believed the Jews had exaggerated the holocaust. [CIA F82-0489/9; FBI 105-82555-124, 355; CIA 637-799, 416-755, 387-738, 102, 375-155; WCE 799; WCD 137, 6; WCE 1154; WR pp.729, 407, 14, 435] HEMMING told this researcher:

OSWALD got the name of V.T. Lee from Senator Eastland's publication, Castro's Network in the U. S. V.T. Lee's testimony had been taken in 1961 and kept secret until April 1963. In there he's got a guide manual and addresses of people targeted by Eastland. He's given this shit before it's made public. They give it in the galley format and he's reading this stuff before it's available to the public. He focused on Lee because of the hearings. Who ever heard of V.T. Lee in our circles? I never heard of the son-of-a-bitch. The highest priority was to nail V.T. Lee, the insolent son-of-a-bitch, who, while giving testimony, snitched out Eastland for taking bribes from Trujillo and Somoza. So OSWALD gets recruited in the fucking deal. 'Pro-Castro' people with guns taking a shot at Walker. 'Pro-

Castro' people with guns taking a shot at the President. Get the picture. This is what OSWALD'S going along with. Somebody's gonna pop a couple of caps. They are going to be labeled pro-Commie. There going to have pamphlets and histories, they're going to be connected with V.T. Lee and they are going to bust V.T. Lee for running an armed group of pro-Castro Cuban agents. That's where the whole assassination thing got fucked up. Too many fucking people trying to do crazy shit for their own fucking agenda. That's why the cover up was so sloppy. Because there was so much to cover up. Everybody was stumbling over everybody else.

THE NIXON INCIDENT: APRIL 1963 THE THEORY

After the assassination Marina Oswald was instructed to say that NIXON was one of OSWALD'S targets in April 1963, when NIXON was scheduled to travel to Dallas.

EVIDENCE OF FABRICATION: A LATE STORY

During an interview with the FBI Robert Edward Oswald advised that on January 13, 1964, James Herbert Martin had told him that Marina Oswald said that when RICHARD NIXON visited Dallas, date not indicated, OSWALD intended to shoot him. Robert Edward Oswald said that Marina Oswald related the same story to him on January 13, 1964, when they visited OSWALD'S grave. Marina Oswald told this researcher:

What did I know about NIXON matter? Don't forget I'm only 23 years old. My husband is an accused assassin. You think I'm going to tell everything about him when he's in hot water? You defend your husband. I told them all eventually, but I did not tell them immediately.

In January 1964 Marina told the FBI:

Approximately two weeks after the Walker incident, and while they resided on Neely Street, [between April 10, 1963 and April 22, 1963] some time between 11:00 a.m. and 1:00 p.m. OSWALD dressed himself in a suit and tie and put a pistol under his jacket. OSWALD was unemployed. Marina Oswald asked where he was going and OSWALD replied, 'NIXON is coming, and I'm going to take a look.'

MARINA OSWALD TELLS HER STORY TO THE HSCA

A. I was scared because he was going with the gun and he said, "Mr. NIXON is coming to town and I am just going to look around." I said, "Well, I said, how can you look around? Why do you need a gun just to look around?" So we were having a big argument and fight.

Q. Did you know who Mr. NIXON was?

A. Yes, I heard of him in Russia, yes.

Q. And you knew that was the same Mr. NIXON that you heard of?

A. Yes.

Q. What started the fight between you and LEE?

A. Well, I didn't want him to leave the house with a gun.

Q. What happened?

A. Well he stayed home all day, he didn't go out.

Q. Did he just voluntarily stay home?

A. Well I already told you before that everybody asked him the same silly question, how does a small woman lock him in the bathroom and things like that. I did not know. He wanted to provoke me. I just now can speculate about his state of mind, what the reasons were for it. Maybe just to punish me.

Q. How did he get into the bathroom?

A. Well we fought and I cannot give you the details right now. First there was a struggle and I guess I pushed him in, so somehow he went there, and I held the door for a long time, but I could not go on holding the door, so I finally begged and pleaded with him and he said he would not go and I believed him. So then I told him to take the clothes off. I know that he cannot go without the clothes, so he sat and read the books then.

Q. Was he trying as hard as he could?

A. Before I said I didn't hold the gun. Well, if I asked him to give me the gun then, for example, during the fight, I could have held it and hidden it somewhere so he would not leave.

Q. How did he give you the gun? Was he still in the bathroom?

A. Could be. It was a second floor and there were stairs. There was a little like a platform there or a small hall. I don't know if he gave it to me or I took it, I don't remember.

Q. Was he trying as hard as he could, do you think, to get out of the bathroom.

A. Well, at the beginning he would have probably have tried but, well, it was quite loud and I was embarrassed that the neighbors that lived below would hear us fighting and fussing...LEE took off his shoes, pants, and shirt, gave me his pistol, remained in the bathroom for three hours, then came out and sat around the apartment in his underwear the rest of the day.

THE BATHROOM DOOR

Marina Oswald told the Warren Commission that she went into the bathroom and called her husband. When he was in the bathroom, she jumped outside and held the door shut behind her, holding onto the doorknob and bracing her feet against the wall so her husband could not push the door open. The Warren Commission did not believe Marina Oswald. First, the bathroom door opened from the inside, so OSWALD would be pulling the door open, not pushing it as Marina Oswald described. Secondly, there was no lock on the outside of the door. OSWALD could have pulled on the doorknob and gotten out.

Even the FBI did not believe this tale:

The Director had indicated it seemed a little incongruous that she had been able to lock her husband in a bathroom for all, or part of, a day when he was supposed to be a man of violent temper and one would think he would have broken down the door..." J. Edgar Hoover: "I stated why she did not tell us about this NIXON matter, I did not know, as she told us about the General Edwin Walker matter. I stated my reaction about this business of locking LEE in the bathroom is that there is something fishy here because she would not be able to do this because he beat her up on occasion...I stated it was a fact NIXON was there the day before the assassination and it will be a sensational story because he is former Vice President and very anti-communist." [FBI Hoover to Tolson 2.24.64]

HEMMING told this researcher:

OSWALD was a macho guy. Arguing with people. Slapping his old lady around. He ain't gonna kick the door down, then beat the shit out her, then fuck her? In our group you're talking about heavy testosterone Rambo types. There ain't no fucking wimps in our group. He had the Marine Corps razz-a-matazz behind him too. The killing machine shit.

Marina Oswald said "No one could dominate [my husband]." [CIA 673-280]

RICHARD WHO?

HEMMING told this researcher:

I don't think he said anything to her about NIXON and she wouldn't remember anyway who the fuck NIXON was. Where would she get a picture of him or an article or anything to lock into her memory banks who the son-of-a-bitch was? Everybody carried a gun in Texas. 'Take a look' don't mean shit. Most of it would be to show a psychological profile of a guy who was down on anybody in a leadership capacity, regardless of his political party. The whole gist of the psychological profile is 'This guy kills leaders.' That's the profile they want to push. He didn't say anything about Kennedy to her, when he says something about NIXON? If it is true, someone must have told him NIXON'S coming. Only NIXON'S friends would know. How does OSWALD get to one of his friends? Anyone who's friendly to RICHARD NIXON, what the fuck are they doing talking to OSWALD? With his reputation as a defector? She was programmed. When you've been threatened by government people, you think it ever goes away? When you've been raised in a police state? It could be someone told her to make up that story.

The FBI reported Marina Oswald did not know who NIXON was when this incident occurred, and did not recall OSWALD ever mentioning NIXON'S name prior to the incident. During and after the incident, NIXON was not discussed. Marina Oswald told the Warren Commission, she knew NIXON once ran for the Presidency, but still claimed to know little about him. When Marina Oswald testified before the HSCA in 1978 she changed her story: "I had heard of him [NIXON] in Russia." She was then asked, "You knew that that was the same Mr. NIXON that you had heard of?" She answered, "Yes." James Hosty said, "Some people think OSWALD was talking about Johnson and that she didn't know the difference between Johnson and NIXON. Vice President Johnson, Vice President NIXON." In 1994 Marina Oswald told this researcher that she knew who NIXON was at the time: "I am from Russia and I am not idiot. He was a political figure in America."

MAURICE CARLSON

The FBI checked with a close associate of NIXON in Dallas, Maurice Carlson, President, Reliance Life and Accident Insurance Company, who advised the Bureau that NIXON had been invited to Dallas in April 1963, by the Southeast Dallas Chamber of Commerce, to receive its annual "Good American" award. At the last minute NIXON was unable to attend. Maurice Carlson later advised the FBI: "He was previously confused as to the South and East Dallas Chamber of Commerce inviting RICHARD NIXON to speak in April 1963 to their annual banquet. He stated efforts were made to get Barry Goldwater but they did not work out...Carlson stated to his knowledge NIXON was not in Dallas in 1962 and was here only once in 1963, on November 21, 1963." Maurice Carlson, 75, died on December 28, 1989. The FBI questioned Robert R. Parks who was a member of the South and East Dallas Chamber of Commerce. Robert R. Parks was in charge of finding a speaker for the annual banquet. Robert R. Parks said to his knowledge, "at no time was NIXON ever invited to speak before the South and East Dallas Chamber of Commerce and particularly he was not invited to do so in April 1963. Check at newspaper morgue at Dallas Morning News for period March 16, 1963 to May 16, 1963 last negative regarding NIXON visit to Dallas." [NARA 124-10169-10365] Peter O'Donnell, Chairman of the Republican Party of Texas knew of no invitation or publicity concerning Mr. NIXON in 1963 other than the time he was in Dallas in November 1963. [FBI 105-82555-2652] The FBI checked all the Dallas media but there was no publicity anywhere about NIXON'S Dallas trip.

February 26, 1964.

TO: Mr. Sullivan

FROM: Mr. Branigan

On a teletype from the Dallas Office which reported the results of the interview of Marina Oswald concerning the alleged threat of OSWALD to shoot former Vice President Richard Nixon, the Director inquired, "Approximately what date would NIXON incident be?"

The Dallas office reported that Marina Oswald put the date at approximately two weeks after the Walker incident. Since the Walker incident occurred April 10, 1963, the date of the NIXON incident would be approximately April 24, 1963.

Information developed by the Dallas Office casts considerable doubt on the validity of the story related by Marina Oswald. It will be noted that Mr. Maurice Carlson, President of the Reliance Life and Accident Company, had previously indicated that former Vice President RICHARD NIXON was scheduled to appear in Dallas, April 1963, to receive an award from the Chamber of Commerce. On recontact Carlson admits he was mistaken in furnishing his first information. A check at the newspaper morgue of the Dallas Morning News for the period of March 16, 1963, to May 16, 1963, was negative as to any publicity concerning a visit of former Vice President NIXON to Dallas. It is inconceivable that a person of the public stature of former Vice President NIXON could visit Dallas without some public notification. We have furnished the available information on the NIXON incident to the President's Commission and we will have to completely run this out until we are satisfied we have arrived at the truth. Action: The quickest and most satisfactory way to resolve whether former Vice President NIXON visited or intended to visit in Dallas in 1963 is to ask him. Attached is a teletype to the New York Office instructing that former Vice President NIXON be interrogated to determine if during 1963 he had any invitation or any intention to visit Dallas and whether, in fact, he did so visit in that city. [Hoover's handwritten note] He was in Dallas the day before the assassination of Pres. Kennedy. H. [NARA FBI 124-10021-10303]

The FBI also reported: "We located no articles indicating Mr. NIXON planned a trip to Dallas during the aforementioned period (May 15, 1963 to October 1, 1963)...We contacted Mr. NIXON'S office and ascertained that Miss Rosemary Woods did not have the article in question, but she believed such article did appear in a Dallas newspaper..." The FBI interrogated NIXON on February 28, 1964:

On February 28, 1964, the Honorable RICHARD M. NIXON, former Vice President of the U.S., was contacted by Assistant Director in Charge of the New York Office, John F. Malone, and furnished the following information: Mr. NIXON advised that the only time he was in Dallas, Texas, during 1963 was two days prior to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. He vaguely thought there was some invitation extended during the early part of 1963, probably in April, for him to come to Dallas, but that it never materialized, nor did he give any consideration to going there. Mr. NIXON could not even recall the circumstances surrounding the invitation, but did observe that conceivably there could have been some publicity indicating that he had been invited to come to Dallas. Mr. NIXON said that if anything more concrete comes to his mind or after his secretary checks his records, which would indicate the circumstances surrounding this, he would immediately notify the FBI. He did say positively that he had no intention of visiting Dallas during April 1963. [WCE 1973]

ISAAC DON LEVINE, ALGER HISS AND RICHARD NIXON

Isaac Don Levine, an associate of RICHARD NIXON, collaborated with General Walter Krivitsky, a Soviet defector, on a book titled, I Was in Stalin's Secret Service. In 1939 General Walter Krivitsky was found mysteriously dead in a hotel room. In 1939 Isaac Don Levine met with Whitaker Chambers, who worked for the Department of State, and Adolf Berle, the head State Department's Office of Security. Whitaker Chambers alerted Adolf Berle to the existence of Communist espionage at the State Department. Isaac Don Levine helped persuade Whitaker Chambers to testify against Alger Hiss, a State Department official, during Alger Hiss' espionage trial in 1948. Isaac Don Levine testified at this trial: he said that Whitaker Chambers had told him in 1939 that Alger Hiss had destroyed all evidence linking him to the Soviets, except for some typewritten pages (typed on a 'Woodstock' typewriter) and microfilm (later found in a pumpkin).

THE WOODSTOCK TYPEWRITER

NIXON told White House Counsel John Dean, "We built the typewriter in the Hiss case." Author Tony Summers reported that in 1960 the FBI considered using forgery to neutralize a member of the Communist Party by "exposing" him to his colleagues as an FBI informant. The scheme involved typewriter forgery. J. Edgar Hoover remarked: "To alter a typewriter to match a known model would take a large amount of typewriter specimens and weeks of laboratory work." [Summers Secret Life Hoover p167] Alger Hiss insisted the incriminating documents produced by the prosecution had been typed on a fake model Woodstock typewriter deliberately constructed by his enemies to match his own. Alger Hiss was convicted of perjury, not espionage. Author David Leigh reported that BRIDE, an National Security Administration code-breaking program, "gave clues which led to the prosecution of Hiss." [Wilson Plot p6] In 1992 the head of Russian Military Intelligence was advised that a search had been completed of the now-defunct KGB records for traces on Alger Hiss. There were none, although written records may have not been kept. RICHARD NIXON attempted to frame Alger Hiss for espionage. Isaac Don Levine was tied to Eastern European exile groups and was a trustee of the American Committee for Liberation from Bolshevism. This committee, under the guiding hand of Frank Wisner, funded numerous émigré research institutes that employed ex-Nazi intelligence officers. [Loftus CAIB Winter 1986; Ziger Memo To: Rankin Fm: Slawson 9.6.64; Levine WC Test pp.14-16] Levine was an associate of Cuban exile Mario Kohly. In 1964, during the Warren Commission Hearings, Isaac Don Levine told Allen Dulles:

I ascribe utmost importance to the whole matter of these Argentines. The two girls [the daughters of Alexander Ziger]. They were in Minsk, but Marina has address of relative in the United States. Marina and LEE OSWALD smuggled out a letter or a manuscript for the Argentine family with them when they came...It was not clear whether it was he or she who smuggled it. I was surprised and asked her how did LEE take out something like that? Well, the implication was rather nice -- that he was warm-hearted -- that he was kind. They were stuck and it had to do with a communication to one relative in the United States and others in Argentina. To try to get those two girls out and never had a word. The old folks had given up their Argentine citizenship, but the girls were born in Argentina and claimed that by right as their citizenship. Mr. Dulles, if their [emigration] could be arranged, it would be worthwhile. The Soviet Union is not going to hold two Argentine citizens even though they were friends of OSWALD'S. They are not quite that smart" Allen Dulles replied it was a matter of finding the right contacts, possibly the Argentine Ambassador to the Soviet Union, and having him intervene. Isaac Don Levine wanted Allen Dulles to have the CIA contact the Argentines "to set the machinery in motion.

Isaac Don Levine became a director of the CIA proprietary, Radio Liberty, in 1970.

ISAAC DON LEVINE AND MARINA OSWALD

Isaac Don Levine contacted Marina Oswald regarding their collaborating on a book. The FBI reported:

James Hunt, CIA, furnished the following information to the Liaison Agent on March 27, 1964. Isaac Don Levine has been collecting material for a book concerning OSWALD. This book is scheduled to be published in April 1964. Levine allegedly has spent considerable time with the widow of the Subject. Hunt explained that the CIA's source for this information was Hede Massing, who is known to the Bureau. Massing has been in contact with Levine. [FBI 105-82555-2184]

There were widespread deletions in a CIA document describing the relationship between Isaac Don Levine and the NIXON incident. William Branigan commented, "Levine was pursuing Marina as a source of information. That would be the only reason. Because Marina was involved in the Walker shooting. At any rate, it didn't amount to anything. To me it was something. You don't try to shoot somebody and then try to keep it all quiet. Marina was a little bit involved in that. She had to be. I don't know much about the OSWALD/NIXON thing." [Tel. Interview w/Branigan] In February 1964 William Branigan wrote: "Information developed by the Dallas office casts considerable doubt on the validity of the story related by Marina Oswald." [FBI 105-82555-2177] Ruth Paine commented, Levine was a semi-retired journalist. He and his wife traveled across the country twice a year, then returned to the Washington area. He stopped by occasionally. He was one of the most interesting people I met. He came to the States as a teenager from Russia. He explained to me the various branches and fractions and factions of communism. I had a feeling that he would understand some of the gyrations of OSWALD'S thinking - he never had a chance to talk directly to OSWALD. I didn't know of his connection with the Hiss case.

Warren Commission Counsel David Slawson questioned Isaac Don Levine about the NIXON incident. Isaac Don Levine:

The NIXON story. I suppose that you know that I went to see Rose Mary Woods since I saw you and NIXON'S papers are now brought from San Francisco to the New York office. The first I heard of it was from Jim Martin [the business manager of Marina Oswald] during the last week in January. He told me about it and said that of course this is something that Marina herself would not want to talk about, but he wanted me to know about it. He didn't say at the time [when he got the information]. Before I left Dallas he said he got it from his wife Wanda, whereupon when he was in Oklahoma I drove out with my wife and we visited Wanda alone. She told us the story as it happened that Marina one evening in conversation opened up and told her that a week or so after the attempt on the life of General Edwin Walker, he came home disgusted. He had been out hunting for NIXON who had been reported as due to attend some sort of Dallas affair. She naturally tried to quiet him and do what she could...He had been out with the rifle...He dressed neatly, put on his best suit, necktie, shirt and was going out with the rifle, and he went into a tirade saying he was going to get that so and so. When I finally got to Miss Rosemary Woods and she told me the girl was out in California bringing the NIXON papers, she gave me the following information. She believed that a certain Tad or Ted Smith, an influential Republican, maybe Treasurer - had sent an invitation some time before for NIXON to attend a Republican fund raising dinner; she thought there was one piece in the press announcing NIXON'S invitation and acceptance. There may have been a radio announcement, maybe a Walter Winchell column. I looked for straight news from April 10, 1963, onwards.

ROSE MARY WOODS

Levine continued: "Last week I spoke on the phone to Rose Mary Woods and she said that they are short staffed, and there are many immense cartons, and she doesn't know whether they can get into it and check on the invitation dates and who it came from."

Evidence suggested Isaac Don Levine coached Marina Oswald into saying that NIXON had been another potential victim of OSWALD. At first, Maurice Carlson remembered the NIXON was asked to visit Dallas in late April 1963. No invitation or clipping that indicated NIXON was to be in Dallas surfaced. How could OSWALD have known that NIXON had been asked to visit Dallas? He did not know Maurice Carlson. Levine claimed that Marina told Wanda Martin about the NIXON Incident. Recently released Warren Commission documents indicated Marina Oswald was having sexual intercourse with James Martin, and that Marina Oswald told his wife about it. This would not have made Wanda Martin someone who Marina Oswald was likely to confide in. The HSCA asked Marina Oswald how the information about the NIXON incident got into the press:

A. Well, to tell you the truth, right now I don't remember how this information about the NIXON incident got to the Secret Service or I told him [Martin] my own or somebody. I really do not recall right now how it got into the press or knowledgeable to you and everybody else.

Q. Well, you must have -

A. I do not remember who was the first one that I told that.

Q. But you told somebody.

A. Of course I did, nobody cooked this up.

Marina Oswald "cooked up" this story. The HSCA conceded that "Marina Oswald, because of her testimony, played a central but troubling role in the investigation of the Warren Commission. A great deal of what the Commission sought to show about OSWALD rested on her testimony, yet she gave incomplete and inconsistent statements at various times to the Secret Service, FBI and the Commission..." [HSCA R p55]

The Warren Commission concluded: "Regardless of what OSWALD may have said to his wife, he was not actually planning to shoot Mr. NIXON that time in Dallas...and the incident was of no probative value."

Marina Oswald told this researcher in 1994:

But why would I make one more thing against him if it didn't happen? He took his clothes off and sat in the bathroom. I do not know if he was testing me or not. You can check it out if NIXON was coming there. There was no publicity? That's fine and dandy. He said he go by newspaper. How stupid or dumb that incident is, it happened. What was behind it, I do not know. He never went that day. But he mentioned NIXON that day. I would tell you by now if that was a lie or this or that. What the motives were, I had no idea. It happened after the Walker incident and I was terrified. It had nothing to do with Levine. He never suggested I say this. I met him for hour. He never coached me. He came under the pretense that he wanted to write about me. Somebody suggest that he wasn't the right one to do the book. He never tutor me. Nobody tutored me. Only trouble with NIXON is I volunteered that information. Just to prove to them I have nothing more to hide, I said it all. It's not because to put more blame on me. But to figure out for myself what in the world was going through his head. How could I have gone to the Feds? In what language? How did I know the Feds spoke Russian. Ask your wife if she would snitch you out? She'd call the doctor. She not going to FBI. Especially she don't know the number.

NODULE X18

NEW ORLEANS: APRIL 1963 TO SEPTEMBER 1963

For the most up-to-date version of this Nodule go to <http://ajweberman.com/nodulex18.pdf>

On April 24, 1963, OSWALD moved to New Orleans. Marina Oswald and her daughter

June Oswald moved in with Ruth Paine. When OSWALD arrived at the bus station in New Orleans, he called Lillian Murret and asked her if he could stay with the Murret family while he sought employment. Ruth Paine wrote this to her mother "LEE told me he had learned a little from his uncle [Charles] how to drive a car." On April 26, 1963, OSWALD began his search for employment. The Louisiana Labor Department sent him out for several interviews; however, he "relied primarily upon newspaper advertisements." [WR p725] It took OSWALD two weeks to find suitable work. On

May 9, 1963, OSWALD rented an apartment at 4905 Magazine Street. In July 1993 Alexander Eames, OSWALD'S next door neighbor, was contacted: "It was old, lower middle class, residential, New Orleans. He lived on a main thoroughfare. The neighborhood was somewhat on the seedy side. One time I was coming home from across the street from a direction I didn't normally approach the house from. I had my garbage can out front. I saw OSWALD lift my garbage can cover and throw his trash in my garbage can. I was angry. It could have occurred other times that I didn't detect it. Garbage cans were all individually owned, not furnished by the landlords. I think he had his own can. It was probably filled up." OSWALD'S landlady, Mrs. Jesse Garner, testified that she watched him stuffing all the garbage cans up and down the block with his trash. [WC Hearings Vol. X p268] Was OSWALD afraid his garbage might be searched?

DALLAS MAIL FORWARDED TO NEW ORLEANS STREET ADDRESS

On May 10, 1963, OSWALD started work at the William B. Reily Coffee Company at 640 Magazine Street, oiling coffee grinding equipment for $1.50 an hour. The CIA reported, "The firm W. B. Reily & Co., Inc., for which no address is given, is the Subject of #EE-314. This firm was of interest as of April 1949. There is, however, no information whatever by which the firm can be identified, as being, or not being, that named in OSWALD'S address book. The only information we have regarding the firm is that a James W. Reily was associated with it." My guess is that the CIA was interested in Reily because of its international connections or funneled money through the Reiley Family Foundation which was known as the Luzianne Foundation in 1949.

On May 10, 1963, Ruth Paine drove Marina and June Oswald to New Orleans, where they arrived on May 11, 1963. OSWALD had his and his family's mail forwarded from Post Office Box 2915 Dallas to 4907 Magazine Street, New Orleans, on May 12, 1963.

He lived at 4905 Magazine Street. Was OSWALD attempting to confuse anyone who might try to locate him through his Post Office Box? On May 26, 1963, as per HEMMING'S instructions, OSWALD requested membership in the Fair Play for Cuba Committee:

Dear Sirs: I am requesting formal membership in your organization. In the past I have received from you pamphlets ect., both bought by me and given to me by you. Now that I live in New Orleans I have been thinking about renting a small office at my own expense for the purpose of forming a F.P.C.C. branch here in New Orleans. Could you give me a charter? also I would like information on buying pamphlets ect. in large lots, as well as blank Fair Play for Cuba Committee applications ect. also a picture of Fidel, suitable for framing would be a welcome touch. Office down here rent for $30. a month and if I had a steady flow of literature I would be glad to take the expense. Of course I work and could not supervise the office at all times but I'm sure I could get some volunteers to do it. I am not saying this project would be a roaring success, but I am willing to try, an office, literature, and getting people to know who you are the fundamentals of the F.P.C.C. as far as I can see so here's hoping to hear from you. Yours respectfully LEE HARVEY OSWALD.

OSWALD was going to open a public office in New Orleans and hang a picture of Fidel Castro on the wall. OSWALD was the one suitable for framing, not Fidel. Most Fair Play for Cuba Committee chapters had no public street addresses. OSWALD wrote:

On May 27, 1963 I requested permission from the Fair Play for Cuba Committee headquarters at 777 Broadway New York, 3, New York to try to form a local branch in New Orleans. I received a cautionate but enthusiastic response from V.T. Lee National Director. [WCE 2003]

V. T. Lee was sent samples of OSWALD'S Fair Play for Cuba Committee literature, but he never authorized him to open a chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee in New Orleans, nor did he supply him with funds to support his activities there. The Warren Commission admitted that the New Orleans Fair Play for Cuba Committee chapter was fictitious. [WR p291] Michael Paine, who erroneously believed OSWALD was a genuine leftist, was questioned about this. He responded,

One activity requires a lot more effort than the other. One thing is like printing up a business card and saying this is what you are, and the other is starting up a business, so you can have a business card.

Michael Paine was asked why OSWALD hired teenagers to give out his leaflets, "He sounded lonely to me."

V. T. LEE'S RESPONSE TO OSWALD

On May 29, 1963, the National Chairman of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, V. T. Lee, responded to OSWALD'S letter. He stated that a search of the files of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee indicated that there was little interest in the organization in the Louisiana area, but "we are certainly not adverse to a small chapter." V. T. Lee thought the New Orleans chapter should have had twice as many members as the number "needed to conduct a legal executive board for the Chapter." If OSWALD attracted enough members, he would be granted a charter. V. T. Lee advised him, however, not to open a public office since "we do have a serious and often violent opposition...the lunatic fringe," instead, V. T. Lee advised him to open a post office box.

MARINA OSWALD'S SOVIET VISA: JUNE 1963

In early June 1963, Marina Oswald received another letter from the Soviet Embassy regarding her failure to follow through on her visa request. In her three-page handwritten response, Marina Oswald apologized for not answering the two previous letters she had received from the Soviet Embassy earlier, and related she was expecting her second child in October 1963; that her relationship with OSWALD seemed to have improved; and that her husband agreed to return to the USSR with her and the children. She wrote that OSWALD now expressed "a sincere desire" to return with her and she earnestly begged Chief of the Consular Section Reznichenko's assistance.

There is not much that is encouraging for us here and nothing to hold us. I would not be able to work for the time being, even if I did find work. And my husband is often unemployed. It is very difficult for us to live here. We have no money to enable me to come to the Embassy, not even to pay for hospital and other expenses connected with the birth of a child."

Marina noted that the main reason she wanted to return home was "of course homesickness, regarding which much is written and spoken, but one learns it only on a foreign land. Marina also noted she was enclosing her husband's application for permission to enter the Soviet Union.

OSWALD'S READING HABITS

On June 1, 1963, Oswald borrowed The Berlin Wall by Dean and David Heller and the Huey Long Case by Hermann B. Deutsch. Deutsch also wrote a book on psychoanalysis. He returned these books on June 15, 1963. On June 12, 1963, OSWALD borrowed Conflict by Robert Leckie. Leckie was the author of ten other books including a history of the Korean war. On June 17, 1963, he borrowed Soviet Potentials by George B. Cressy, What We Must Know About Communism: It's Beginnings, Growth and Current Status by Harry Bonero Overstreet (this title was on Herbert Philbrick's Recommended Reading List). Overstreet's other books included The Strange Tactics of Extremism and The Iron Curtain. OSWALD also read This is my Philosophy edited by Whit Burnett. On July 1, 1963, OSWALD returned these books. On June 24, 1963, OSWALD borrowed Thunderball by Ian Flemming which he returned on July 8, 1963. None of the books that OSWALD read were written by leftists. OSWALD was an anti-Communist, not a Communist.

OSWALD WANTS TO TRY MESCALINE

The FBI reported:

From SAC: At approximately 10:45 p.m., November 24, 1963, an individual who identified himself as Edward Gillen, Assistant District Attorney, Juvenile Division, New Orleans Parish, called me at my residence. Gillen stated that in June or July an individual called at the District Attorney's Office stating he wanted to see the District Attorney about a problem. The individual was in some manner unknown to Gillen referred to Gillen's office. He remained standing and he talked to Gillen from across the desk. Gillen stated he asked the person to sit down, but the individual remained standing.

Edward Gillen said the visitor advised he was reading a book, but did not exhibit a book, and continued that according to the author of the book in question, one reading the book should take a certain type of drug to fully appreciate the comments and data in the book. The person visiting Gillen office desired to know if the drug in question was legal. Gillen stated the visitor did not have the book in question with him but he does recall that this individual had some kind of a paperback book which Gillen describes as about the size of a "Laurel Review" publication. Gillen recalls the individual indicated the book he had with him had to do with socio-economic matters, and at some point during the conversation the visitor finally sat down. Gillen believes, but he cannot be certain, that the book referring to a drug was possibly written by an individual named Huckley. Gillen also believed he saw an item in the New Orleans Sunday paper on page one indicating that some author by the name of Huckley had died recently in Los Angeles, and that this article indicated Huckley had written a book about the effective use of drugs. Gillen states he told his visitor that he could not be certain but could only assume that the drug that would produce the visitor indicated the book described would be some kind of narcotic and referred the visitor to the office of the City Chemist. Gillen said the visitor took down the name, address and room number of the City

Chemist but Gillen did not know if this party actually called at the office of the City Chemist.

Gillen states he believes his visitor was LEE HARVEY OSWALD, but he cannot identify newspaper photographs of OSWALD as the person mentioned above. Gillen explained that his eyesight is not good even though he wears glasses, but he claims that his voice reception is above average, and he feels sure that the voice of the above visitor is the voice of LEE HARVEY OSWALD, basing his statement on the sound of OSWALD'S voice, which Gillen heard on a radio and television program in which OSWALD was interviewed by Bill Stuckey. Gillens stated he believed Edward S. Butler was also on this program.

Gillen stated that in view of what happened in Dallas, namely the shooting of a police officer, the assassination of the President and the subsequent death of OSWALD, that he feels it is possible that OSWALD may have been taking some kind of drugs. [NARA FBI 124-10248-10140]

In a telephone interview with this researcher Edward Gillen said he made the connection on November 22, 1963, and informed the FBI and New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison:

My eyesight is pretty poor. I'm legally blind. So I could never say I could identify him from the picture on television but I have a keen remembrance of voices. It hit me pretty solid. He said he wanted to know if a certain drug was legal or illegal. He looked very clean, very military. He had a white t-shirt and khaki pants. I was working the Civil Court, Juvenile Division. OSWALD was misdirected. I told him I never heard of the drug and he should go talk it over with the District Attorney in the Narcotics Division. In those years they sometimes use the City Chemist to identify the nature of the drug. He did not say LSD I would have remembered that.

Enno A. Schoenhardt, City Chemist, New Orleans City Hall, advised that he recalled vaguely that a young man had called at his office sometime during the Summer of 1963 requesting information concerning a particular plant which produced an alkaloid. The person calling said that he was making a study that he believed would be of importance psychologically. Enno A. Schoenhardt examined a photograph of OSWALD and could not identify it as being of the person who had called at his office. [FBI NO 100-16601 1.10.64 Van Eps]

Beverly P. Pancamo, Laboratory Technician, City Chemist, New Orleans City Hall, advised that she was present when the person mentioned by Mr. Schoenhardt called to inquire about a plant which produced the alkaloid. She stated that this could not have been between June 10, 1963, and July 5, 1963, as she was on leave during that period. Mrs. Pancamo said that she recalled this person as well, in stature, he resembled her husband. She described the caller as a white male, age about 24, 5'6" tall, who weighed 135 pounds and had a receding hairline. Mrs. Pancamo could not identify a photograph of OSWALD as being a photograph of the person who had called at the office of the City Chemist. She stated the caller had been referred to the Coroner's Laboratory.

OSWALD was reading The Doors of Perception by Aldous Huxley which was about the mescaline "trip." In Case Closed Gerald Posner wrote that the drug in question was L.S.D. [Posner, Case Closed fn p166] On September 19, 1963, OSWALD borrowed Ape and Essence and Brave New World, both written by Aldous Huxley from the New Orleans Public Library. He also borrowed Goldfinger and Moonraker by Ian Fleming. He returned them on October 3, 1963. In 1993 Edward Gillen claimed OSWALD appeared on Bruce Miller's New Orleans radio show. Bruce Miller denied this. Norman Mailer reported that OSWALD asked Marina Oswald to steal narcotics from the pharmacy where she worked. I don't believe this. [Norman Mailer Oswald's Tale p294]

HANDS OFF CUBA!

In early June 1963, using the name Lee Osborne, OSWALD printed handbills reading "Hands Off Cuba," as well as application forms and membership cards for the New Orleans branch of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. Some of these leaflets were stamped with OSWALD'S actual name and home address; others were stamped with the name, "A. J. Hidell P.O. Box 30061."

U.S. MAIL SERVICE POSTAGE OFFICE 18-4742

On June 11, 1963, OSWALD opened Post Office Box 30061, New Orleans, Louisiana. A.J. Hidell and Marina Oswald were authorized to receive mail through the box. His application listed his address as 657 French Street (Lillian Murret lived at 757 French Street) rather than 4905 Magazine Street. OSWALD had the mail from his Dallas Post Office Box forwarded a street address on Magazine Street in New Orleans quite similar to his real address. If the authorities wanted to locate him they could have traced him through his Post Office Box in Dallas to his street address, so what was the purpose of falsifying his address in this instance? The FBI authenticated the signatures on the application for Post Office Box 30061, New Orleans.

OSWALD distributed handbills and other material uneventfully on June 16, 1963, in the vicinity of the USS Wasp, which was berthed in New Orleans Sometime in June 1963 he wrote V. T. Lee:

I was glad to receive your advice concerning my try at starting a New Orleans F.P.C.C. chapter. I hope you won't be too disapproving at my innovations but I do think they are necessary for this area. as per your advice, I have taken a P.O. Box. (NO 30061) against your advice I have decided to take an office from the very beginning. As you see from the circulars I had jumped the gun on the charter business but I don't think its too important, you may think the circular is too provactive, but I want it too attract attention, even if its the attention of the lunitic fringe. I had 2000 of them run off. The major change in tactics you can see from the small membership blank, In that I will charge $1.00 a month dues for the New Orleans chapter only, and I intend to issue N.O.F.P.C.C. membership cards also. This is without recouse to the $5.00 annual national F.P.C.C. membership fee. However you will lose nothing in the long run because I will forward $5.00 to the national F.P.C.C. for every New Orleans chapter member who remains a dues paying member for 5 months in any year. It just that the people I am approaching will not pay 5 dollars all at once to a committee in New York which they cannot see with their own eyes. But they may pay a dollar a mont to their own chapter, after having received their membership card from my hand to their's. also I think such a dues system binds the members closer to the F.P.C.C. I will promise only a membership card and a chapter vote to future members, that is, I don't expect you to extend them national F.P.C.C. mailing for their one dollar a month. as you will notice on the membership blank there is a place for those who do wish to subscribe to the national mailings for the fee of $5.00, that fee will go directly to you in New York. As soon as any member has paid dues adding up to five dollars in any year, I will forward that fee to you and then you may handle it as if it was a usual application for membership in the F.P.C.C. In any event I will keep you posted, and even if the office stays open only 1 month more people will have to find out about the F.P.C.C. than if there had never been any office at all, don't you agree? LEE H. OSWALD 4907 L/C Magazine New Orlean, LA.

On June 29, 1963, J. Edgar Hoover received a letter from Rafael Aznarz Costea: "Attached hereto please find a panflet given to me by a young american that was at Canal Street with a big advise "HANDS OFF CUBA" you know that is a communist slogan against the United States. I argued with him and called him a communist, but you know they denied belong to the party [sic]." [FBI 97-4196-850]

OSWALD could not have invented members of the New Orleans Chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee then sent their names to V. T. Lee without having risked detection. Instead, he circumvented the rules of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, by having his own membership cards printed. OSWALD still intended to open an office of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee in New Orleans. OSWALD seems to think more like a capitalist in this letter than a Communist.

THE REFUSAL SHEET AND LOOKOUT CARD DISAPPEAR

On June 24, 1963, OSWALD applied for a new passport; he received it the following day. He listed his occupation as photographer, and stated he planned to travel to "England, France, Germany, Holland, USSR Findland, Italy, Poland." As stated, before the State Department issued or renewed a passport, it checked the name of the applicant against its lookout card file. The State Department had issued a refusal sheet on OSWALD after he defected. In addition, a lookout card for OSWALD should have been prepared in June 1962, when he received a repatriation loan. These additional refusal sheets and lookout cards disappeared or were never prepared. [WCD 2, 294, 427]

On June 22, 1962, the records of the Immigration and Naturalization Service on OSWALD were reviewed by S.A. William F. Martin: "The file reflects that an emergency lookout was placed on OSWALD on May 4, 1962." [FBI 105-8255-27] OSWALD'S repatriation loan was repaid in January 1963. A State Department employee was obliged to cancel the refusal sheet and remove the lookout card. This also failed to occur. Gerald Posner quoted State Department Legal Advisor Abram Chayes as having said this was a "bureaucratic error." It was not simply one error. Lookout cards should have been prepared for OSWALD on two occasions. They were not. A lookout card was supposed to be removed on two occasions - when OSWALD'S passport was returned to him in Moscow and after he paid his repatriation loan. They were not. The reason for this was because they were removed at the secret request of CIA.

ROBERT D. JOHNSON

A State Department document that named employees who had access to OSWALD'S passport file included Bernice Waterman, John T. White, George M. Masterton, Giacomo Cacciatore, Henry F. Kupiec, Edward J. Hickey, Carroll H. Seeley, William E. Duggan, James L. Ritchie and Robert D. Johnson. Robert D. Johnson was listed in Who's Who in the CIA: "Born: October 7, 1926, Languages: German; 1944 to 1946 Captain in CIC of U.S. Army; from 1951 in Department of State; 1955 Chief of Intelligence Reporting Section, Department of State. Opa: Washington." The State Department Biographic Register indicated Robert D. Johnson became Chief of the Passport Legal Division in 1957. In 1962 he became the Chief Counsel of the Passport Division. Robert D. Johnson told Frances Knight: "I was not satisfied with the implication in Mr. Rando's memorandum that we did NOT have a catch card on OSWALD. No one knows for sure whether we did or did not, and the making of the flat statement has caused many more questions than it has answered." [DOS RDJ to FGK 3.27.64]

Former State Department official Giacomo Cacciatore was contacted: "I was never questioned about OSWALD. The Watch Card or Lookout Card was done by another section of the Passport Office. I worked in the Foreign Passport Division and was concerned with determinations of citizenship and loss of nationality." Former State Department official William E. Duggan was contacted in November 1993. He stated that a court action forbade the State Department from withholding passports for non-payment of repatriation loans. William E. Duggan could not say precisely when this occurred. A spokesman for the Legal Division of the State Department recalled no such decision.

THE FBI DISCOVERS OSWALD HAS STARTED A CHAPTER OF THE FPCC

On June 27, 1963, the FBI in New York sent the FBI in Dallas two copies of a photograph of OSWALD'S name on the mailing list of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. This document indicated that one copy of it was filed in NY 97-1792 and the other was filed in NY-97-2229. It was received by the Dallas Office on July 1, 1963, and initialed into file by S.A. Hosty. "2 photograph – one an envelope addressed to the FPCC bearing return address L. H. Oswald (Lee H. Oswald) Post Office box 2915 (?) Dallas, Texas and a handwritten letter from Oswald to the FPCC." The document contained the notations: "1 verifax to Bur December 8, 1963, H cc to 105-1201 H." [FBI 105-10461-37, ~~105-1201-15~~] Not only were the Feds copying the return address of letters to FPCC they were photographing their contents.

On June 27, 1963, S.A. Hosty was advised by the New York FBI that his Subject was living in New Orleans. On June 28, 1963, S.A. Hosty asked the New Orleans FBI to determine OSWALD'S address and activities, and asked it to take partial responsibility for the case, because the Subject was now in its area. [WR p435; FBI 100-10,461-36 "Re: Dallas ltr. to NO /28/61" - date on this 7.17.63 doc. should have been 7.28.63] S.A. Hosty explained:

After it had been determined that the Subjects had left Dallas, the lead to determine OSWALD'S employment [from Marina Oswald] appeared unnecessary at the time. The Subjects were not active in any subversive organizations and had done nothing to arouse any undue interest. The sole purpose of the investigation at this time was to locate and interview Marina Oswald in accordance with 105-E, Manual of Instructions. [FBI 100-10461 Hosty to Shanklin 12.6.63]

S.A. Hosty responded to the New Orleans Office of the FBI. S.A. Hosty told the Warren Commission:

In June, I believe it was the middle of June, we received a communication from our New Orleans office advising that one LEE OSWALD was apparently in New Orleans, and requested information on him...This was June 17, 1963, I believe, they notified us, and by the time I got the letter back to them within a week or two, it would have been the end of June, early part of July. I sent a request back that they verify his presence in New Orleans. They then wrote back a letter to me, within two or three weeks. It would have been in August 1963, when it came back, that they verified OSWALD'S presence in New Orleans, and that he was working in New Orleans...Dallas became an auxiliary office upon the submission of the proper forms to the New Orleans office in which I designated them as the office of origin.

OSWALD'S LETTER TO SOVIET EMBASSY JULY 1963

On July 1, 1963, OSWALD sent a letter to the Soviet Embassy asking the Embassy to rush an entrance visa for his wife; additionally, he requested his visa be considered separately: "Please rush the entrance visa for the return of Soviet citizen, Marina Oswald. She is going to have a baby in October, therefore you must grant the entrance visa and make transportation arrangements before then. As for my return entrance visa please consider it separately." On July 1, 1963, OSWALD borrowed Portrait of a President, by John F. Kennedy, from the New Orleans Public Library. He returned this book on July 15, 1963. On July 6, 1963, OSWALD borrowed One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich, by Alexander Solzhenitsyn, and The Hornblower and The Hotspur, by C.S. Forester. According to the records of the Soviet Embassy, Marina Oswald wrote the Embassy on July 8, 1963, seeking the "results of the replies to my appeals with regard to the departure of our family to the USSR..." She asked the Embassy to "hurry the expediting" of this matter.

Possession of a Soviet visa meant the Cuban Government would automatically issue its holder a transit visa, and you could stop in Cuba en route to the USSR. Marina Oswald believed this was why OSWALD wanted the visa. [WCD 2, 294, 427; DOS Ex. 12f (File j), file 2943, Ex. 12g; WR 436] On July 10, 1963 OSWALD checked out Russia under Khrushchev, by Alexander Werth. Werth was the author of Russia at War 1941 to 1945, Countess Tolstoy's Later Diary and Nataji in Germany, an eyewitness account of freedom struggle in Europe during World War II. OSWALD also checked out Hugo Winners, edited by Isaac Asimov, from the Napoleon Branch of the New Orleans public library. These were returned on July 24, 1963. On July 15, 1963, OSWALD borrowed The Blue Nile, by Alan Morehead, an Australian war correspondent who wrote for Reader's Digest, and Profiles in Courage, by John Kennedy. On July 18, 1963, OSWALD borrowed Five Spy Novels, selected by Howard Haycraft. He returned it on August 1, 1963.

OSWALD LOSES JOB REILY COFFEE JULY 19, 1963

Emmett Barbe, OSWALD'S supervisor the William B. Reily Coffee Company was contacted in July 1993 in regard to why he fired OSWALD. He stated:

OSWALD was an oiler and he wasn't doing his job. He always had some lame excuse of where he was when I was looking for him, but I knew the plant. It seemed like he was leaving the premises. He was supposed to clean the roasters each night. He would tend the front row and not even do the back row, then stand and wait for the elevator. When I tried to talk with him, he gave me a lot of bullshit. So I said 'Fire him.'

During OSWALD'S period of intense activity on behalf of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, OSWALD lectured at the Jesuit House of Studies in Mobile, Alabama on July 27, 1963, at the request of his cousin, Eugene Murret, who was studying there. From 1969 to 1971 Eugene Murret was Executive Counsel to Louisiana Governor McKeithen. By 1977 he was Chief Administrator of the Louisiana Judicial System. [WR p728; tel. con. with E. Murret 1.77] He was contacted in 1993 but declined comment. OSWALD's speech:

The Communist Party of the United States has betrayed itself! It has turned itself into the traditional lever of a foreign power to overthrow the Government of the United States; not in the name of freedom of high ideals, but in the servile conformity to the wishes of the Soviet Union and in anticipation of Soviet Russia's complete domination of the American Continent. The Forster's and the Flynn's of the subsidized communist party of the United States have shown themselves to be willing, gullible messengers of the Kremlin's International-List Propaganda. There can be no international solidarity with the arch-betrayers of that most sublime ideal. There can be no sympathy for those who have turned the idea of communism into a vill curse for western man. The Soviets have committed crimes unsurpassed by their early day capitalist counterparts. The imprisonment of their own peoples, with the mass extermination so typical of Stalin. The individual suppression and regimentation under Khrushchev.

The deportations, the purposefull curtailment of diet in the consumer slighted population of russia, the murder of history, the prostitution of art and culture. The communist movement in the U.S., personalized by the Communist Party U.S.A. has turned itself into a 'valuble gold coin' of the Kremlin. It has failed to denounce any actions of the Soviet Government when similar actions on the part of the U.S. Government bring pious protest.

Through the refusal of the Communist Party U.S.A. to give a clear cut condemnation of Soviet piratical acts, progressives have been weakened into a stale class of fifth columnist of the Russians. In order to free the hesitating and justifiably uncertain future activist for the work ahead we must remove that obstacle which has so efficiently retarded him, namely the devotion of Communist Party, U.S.A. to the Soviet Union, Soviet Government, and Soviet Communist International Movement. It is readily foreseeable that a coming economic, political and military crisis, internal or external, will bring about the final destruction of the Capitalist system, assuming this, we can see how preparation in a special party could safeguard an independent course of action after the debacle, an American course steadfastly opposed to intervention by outside, relatively stable foreign powers, no matter from where they come, but in particular, and if necessary, violently opposed to Soviet intervention. No Party of this type can attract into its ranks more than a nominal number of Fundamental radicals. It is not the nature of such an organization to attract such a membership, as lets say, the Republicans or even the Socialist Party, but it is possible to enlist the aid of disenchantred members of the Socialist Party and even some from more "respected" (from a capitalist viewpoint) parties. But whereas our political enemies talk loudly now, they have no concept of what total crisis means. The faction which has the greater basis in spirit and the most far-sighted and ready membership of the radical futurist, will be the decisive factor. We have no interest in violently opposing the United States Government, why should we manifest opposition when there are far greater forces at work, to bring about the fall of the United States Government, than we could ever possibly muster. We do not have any interest in directly assuming the head of government in the event of such an all-finishing crisis.

As dissenting Americans we are merely interested in opposing foreign intervention which is a easily drawn conclusion if one believes in the theory of crisis. The emplacement of a separate, democratic pure Communist society is our goal, but one with Union-communes, democratic socializing of production and without regard to the apart of Marxist Communism by other powers. The right of the private personal property, religious tolerance and Freedom of Travel (which have all been violated under Russian "Communist" rule) must be strictly observed. Resoufuyllniss and patient working towards the aforesaid goal's are preferred rather than loud and useless manifestations of protest. Silent observance of our principles is of primary importance. But these preferred tactics now, may prove to be too limited in the near future, they should not be confussed with slowness, indesion or fear, only the intellectually fearless could even be remotely attracted too our doctrine and yet this doctrine requires the utmost restraint, a state of being in itself majustic in power. This is stoicism and yet stoicism has not been effected for many years, and never for such a purpose. There are organization already formed in the United States who have declared they shall become effective only after the military debacle of the United States. Organizations such as Minutemen or the opposite of a stoical organization but these performers are simply preparing to redefend in their own back yards a system which they take for granted will be defeated militarily elsewhere, a strange thing to hear from "Patriots." These armed groups represent the hard core of American capitalist supporters. There will also be a small armed Communist and probably Fascist groups. There will also be anarchist and religious groups at work. However, the bulk of the population will not adhere to any of these groups because they will not be inclined to join any of the old factions with which we are all so familiar. But the people will never except a new order presented by presented by politicians or opportunist. Logically they will deem it necessary to oppose those system of government against whom they have been educated, but they will be against anything resembling their former Capitalist master also. Steadfastly opposed to the revival of the old forces, the will seek a new fore. This will be the sentiment of the masses. But any organization clearly manipulating words may sway the masses. This is where a safeguard is necessary. And not only a safe guard but a safety valve, to shut off opportunist forces from within, and foreign powers from without. There can be no substitute for organization and procurement work towards the aforestated ideals and goals. Work is the key to the future door, but failure to apply that key because of possible armed opposition in our hypothetical, but very probable crisis, is as useless as trying to use force now to knock down the door. Armed defense of our ideals must be accepted doctrine after the crisis just as refraining from any demonstration of force must be our doctrine in the meantime. No man, having known, having lived, under the Russian Communist and American Capitalist system, could possibly make a choice between them, there is no choice.

One offers oppression, the other poverty. Both offer imperialistic injustice, tinted with two brands of slavery. But no rational man can take the attitude of "a curse on both your houses". There are two world systems, one twisted beyond recognition by its misuse, the other decadent and dying in its final evolution. A truly democratic system would combine the better qualities of the two upon an American Foundation opposed to both world systems as they are now. This then is our ideal. Membership in this organization implies adherence to the principle of simple distribution of information about this movement to others and acceptance of the idea of stoical readiness in regards to practical measures once instituted in the crisis.

In another version of this speech OSWALD stated:

...a symbol of the American way, our liberal concisions, is the existence in our midst of a minority group whose influence and membership is very limited and whose dangerous tendencies are sufficiently controlled by special government agencies. The Communist Party, U.S.A., bears little resemblance to their Russian counterparts, but by allowing them to operate and even supporting their right to speak, we maintain a tremendous sign of our strength and liberalism. Harasment of their party newspapers, their leaders, and advocates, is treachery to our basic principles of freedom of speech and press. Their views, no matter how misguided, no matter how much the Russians take advantage of them, must be allowed to be aired. after all communist [Party] U.S.A. have existed for 40 years and they are still a pitiful group of radicals. Our two conountries have too much too offer to each other to be tearing at each other's throats in an endless cold war. Both are conountries have major short comings and advantages. But only in ours is the voice of dissent all allowed opportunity of expression, in returning to the U.S., I hope I have awoken a few who were sleeping, and other who are indifferent. I have done a lot of criticizing of our system I hope you will take it in the spirit it was given. In going to Russia I followed the old priciple "Thou shalt seek the truth, and the Truth shall make you free." In returning to the U.S. I have done nothing more or less than select the lesser of two evils."

THE JESUITS IMPRESSION OF THE SPEECH

Eugene Murret testified before the HSCA. He recalled that OSWALD'S speech dealt with his "Marxist philosophy, the communist philosophy, since he, I think, was sympathetic to that viewpoint." A student at the Seminary reported that OSWALD said that the Russian peasants

Were very poor, often close to starvation...in each hut there was a radio speaker, even in huts where there was no running water or electricity. The speaker was attached to a cord that ran back to a common receiver. Thus, the inhabitants of the hut could never change stations or turn off the radio. They had to listen to everything that came through it, day or night.

OSWALD denounced the Communist Party in his speech to the Jesuits as a tool of Soviet imperialism, yet he subscribed to The Worker, the organ of the Communist Party of the United States, and two months later, he offered his services to the Communist Party. He attacked Soviet Communism at the same time he applied for a Soviet visa. OSWALD wrote that he hated "the USSR and the socialist system." [WR 397-400, 712] He called the Communist Party of the United States "subsidized," "messenger of the Kremlin's Internationalist propaganda," "fifth columnist of the Russians," and "arch betrayers." He called the Soviets: "criminals" guilty of "mass extermination" "suppression" "murderers of history." OSWALD'S ideal activist had to throw off the shackles of Soviet Communism. OSWALD'S activist would emerge after an economic crisis, just as Hitler did in Nazi Germany, and become part of a "special party" of those "violently opposed to Soviet intervention." OSWALD was willing to enlist disenchanted members of the Socialist Party. The National Socialist Party in Germany attracted many former Socialists. OSWALD cited the Minutemen as a group that would be active after the "military debacle of the United States." OSWALD portrayed the Minutemen as "redefending their own backyards," a noble purpose. OSWALD wrote: "This is where a safeguard is necessary. And not only a safe guard but a safely valve, to shut off opportunist forces from within, and foreign powers from without. There can be no substitute for organization and procurement work towards the aforesaid ideals and goals." Was OSWALD proposing to shut off the lives of members of the Communist Party after his revolution? Was that why it was necessary to penetrate the Communist Party and procure membership information? Essentially, OSWALD was proposing the formation of death squad, similar to OPERATION 40, to take out CP members during a time of crisis since they were agents of a foreign power. This group would remain underground - "stoic" - until the crisis came. The "practical measures" OSWALD made reference to was assassinations. This translated to "The only good Communist is a dead Communist." In another version of this speech, he said Americans should be tolerant of the views of American Communists.

OSWALD'S politics made little sense. OSWALD said he was alarmed about Soviet "domination of the American continent," yet he supported Fidel Castro's Cuba, which had been widely regarded as Moscow's "stepping stone" to the American continent since 1961. OSWALD was aware of the close relationship between Russia and Cuba and, in an anti-Communist essay, had described Cuba as a "fellow traveler" of the Soviet Union. OSWALD wrote: "The third part is filled with foreign news items. Often covered and credited to A.P. or Reuters news agencies, they usually concern strikes and clashes with police, crime and race incidents in capitalist countries as well as other "News" slanted to give a bad (illegible) about all countries except those who are members of the Socialist camp or their fellow travelers such as Cuba who are painted as properous democracies fighting against imperialism from without and and capitalist says and agents from within." [HSCA V8 p362; WCE 92] OSWALD attempted to explain this contradiction when he appeared on radio in New Orleans in August 1963: "Castro is an independent leader of an independent country. He has ties with the Soviet Union, with the eastern bloc...you cannot point at Castro and say he is a Russian puppet."

OSWALD mentioned Cuba only once in his speech. This made no sense in light of his intensive Fair Play for Cuba activity at the time. In one version of this speech OSWALD wrote "In returning to the U.S. I have done nothing more or less than select the lesser of two evils." In another version of the same speech he wrote, "No man, having known, having lived, under the Russian Communist and American Capitalist system, could possibly make a choice between them, there is no choice. One offers oppression, the other poverty. Both offer imperialistic injustice, tinted with two brands of slavery." OSWALD wrote: "But no rational man can take the attitude of "a curse on both your houses". There are two world systems, one twisted beyond recognition by its misuse, the other decadent and dying in tis final evolution." Earlier he wrote: "...it is imature to take the sort of attitude which says "a curse on both your houses!" their are two great represative of power in the world, simply expressed, the left and the right, and their offspring factions and concers."

On July 30, 1963, OSWALD borrowed The Hittite by Noel Gerson. Other books by Gerson included Kit Carson, The Folk Hero and the Man. Gerson writing was reprinted in Reader's Digest. OSWALD borrowed the science fiction book Mind Partner edited by H. L. Gould. He returned these on August 13, 1963. On July 31, 1963, he borrowed Everyday Life in Ancient Rome by F. R. Cowell, who was a very serious scholar. He returned this book on August 14, 1963. In a letter dated August 1, 1963, postmarked August 4, 1963, OSWALD wrote this to V.T. Lee of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee:

Dear Mr. Lee

In regard to my efforts to start a branch office in New Orleans.

I rented an office as I planned and was promptly closed three days later for some obscure reasons by the renters. They said something about remodeling etc. I'm sure you understand.
After that I worked out of a post office box and by using street demonstrations and some circular work have sustained a great deal of interest but no new members.

Through the efforts of some cuban-spirited "quasinos" a street demonstration was attacked and we were officially cautioned by police.

This incident robbed me of what support I had leaving me alone.

nevertheless thousands of circulars were distributed and many, many pamphlets which your office supplied.

We also managed to picket the fleet when it came in and I was surprised at the number of officers who were interested in our literature.

I continue to receive through my post office a lot of inquiries and questions which I shall endeavor to keep answering to the best of my ability.

Thank you.

In regards to my efforts to start a branch of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee in New Orleans. I rented an office as planned and was promptly closed 3 days later for some obscure reasons by the renters, they said something about remodeling, ect. I'm sure you understand after that I worked out of a post office box and by using street demonstrations and some circular work have substained a great deal of interest but no new members. Through the efforts of some cuban-exial "gusanos" a street demonstration was attacked and we were oficialy cautioned by the police. OSWALD wrote the Fair Play for Cuba Committee about an incident that had not yet occurred. (He had not been attacked by exiles, or questioned by the police, before he wrote this letter.) The Warren Commission: "In his letter to V.T. Lee, he stated that he was then alone in his efforts on behalf of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, but he attributed his lack of support to an attack by Cuban exiles in a street demonstration and being 'officially cautioned' by the police, events which 'robbed me of what support I had leaving me alone. In spite of those claims, the Commission has been unable to uncover any evidence that anyone ever attacked any street demonstration in which OSWALD was involved, except for the incident which occurred eight days after OSWALD wrote the above letter to V.T. Lee. BRINGUIER, who seemed to be familiar with many anti-Castro activities in New Orleans, was not aware of any such incident. Police reports also fail to reflect any activity on OSWALD'S part prior to August 9, 1963, except for the uneventful distribution of literature at the Dumaine Street wharf in June 1963. Furthermore, the general tenor of OSWALD'S next letter to V.T. Lee, in which he supported his report on the BRINGUIER incident with a copy of the charges made against him and a newspaper clipping reporting the event, suggested that his previous story of an attack by Cuban exiles was at least greatly exaggerated."

OSWALD was not exaggerating, nor was he clairvoyant. OSWALD wrote about his fight with Cuban exiles before it took place because the fight had been planned before it took place. The brawl was the work of collusion between Cuban exile CARLOS BRINGUIER and OSWALD. Its purpose was to attract media, police, and FBI attention, to OSWALD and the New Orleans Chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, in order to establish bona fides with the Cubans which would allow OSWALD to travel to Cuba. [WR p408] BRINGUIER was asked, in April 1993, how OSWALD had knowledge of "the brawl" before it happened. He responded,

You said that he wrote the letter, I don't know. I found two possible explanations. First OSWALD was, what you can say, he make a lot of mistakes, like him transferring dates and things like that, and I believe he made a mistake. He left a zero out. The date was the 10th." BRINGUIER was asked why the letter was postmarked August 4, 1963: "Sir I didn't finish yet. I believe that you have a preconceived idea. Then there would be no possible way for me to change your idea. Most of the people who have those preconceived ideas are communists...My idea is this. Since the Fair Play for Cuba Committee was involved in the whole thing, because I am sure that the Fair Play for Cuba Committee and Castro were involved in the assassination, and OSWALD didn't write to the Fair Play for Cuba Committee just one letter. And OSWALD wrote several letters to the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. When the Fair Play for Cuba Committee presented that to the FBI, they transposed the envelopes. That is very simple. You get one letter that was dated on the tenth the guy missed and sealed [or misconcealed?] and he did that several times in his life. Not for the first time that he did that. And then you use another envelope. I have envelopes here that were written to me in 1962...The only two reasons that I see is that because first, OSWALD could not have been a psychic, and foresee that there was to be that incident. Because if my friend would not have seen him on Canal Street when he walked out of the bus, I wouldn't have known that, because I didn't know about the second time, because I was working, and on August 16, 1963, he held the other demonstration, I didn't know about that until it was too late for me to arrive over there, and I didn't know about the previous demonstration when he did the thing about the Navy ship that was here in New Orleans and he went over to one of the piers and he did a demonstration over there.

WHO IS CARLOS BRINGUIER?

On May 4, 1960, BRINGUIER left Cuba for Guatemala, and then Argentina. He entered the United States on February 8, 1961, and arrived in New Orleans on February 18, 1961, where he became associated with the Cuban Revolutionary Front. BRINGUIER's stated that his first job in New Orleans was with the California Redwood Produce Company. BRINGUIER lasted two days. BRINGUIER then worked at Mac's Discount House for about one year, beginning April 1, 1961. BRINGUIER became a self-employed peddler in April 1962, with his brother-in-law, Rolando Pelaez. They bought clothing and radios at wholesale prices and went aboard ships to sell the same. BRINGUIER stated that he had a Port Security Card. BRINGUIER stated that on October 1, 1962, he opened the Casa Roca clothing store and has been working there since. Jack Anderson wrote about a CIA Office of Security document wherein BRINGUIER was named as a CIA informant. Several CIA documents generated by the Domestic Contacts Division indicated a close relationship between BRINGUIER and the CIA. BRINGUIER was contacted in 1978, then he was mailed the CIA Office of Security documents about him. He stated:

I got them. As far as I remember, because I did not pay that much attention to them, I don't see anything worthwhile in them. The best thing to find out is if the CIA is now working for Castro, or how deep is Communist infiltration in the U.S. at this moment? I never met any CIA people until after the assassination. I wish I would have known [the Watergate burglars]. Your line of questioning suggests you are trying to make some kind of wild link...the Communists are trying to bring something about in that regard.

He enlarged upon this in April 1993:

I was with the Cuban Revolutionary Front until the beginning of 1962. I was just for a few months with the Cuban Revolutionary Council. I have never met HOWARD HUNT or "EDUARDO." I was here in New Orleans and the only one I met here that was with the Cuban Revolutionary Council was Mr. Arcacha. Then the person who was appointed chairman of the Cuban Revolutionary Council here was Mr. Rabel, and I was working with Mr. Rabel as secretary of press of propaganda just for a few months. I also was trying to find out who were the communists that were helping Castro from here.

HUNT AND BRINGUIER

HUNT and BRINGUIER were both connected to the Cuban Revolutionary Front and Cuban Revolutionary Council. HUNT described himself as involved in the propaganda efforts of the Cuban Revolutionary Council. BRINGUIER described himself as secretary of press of propaganda of the Cuban Revolutionary Council. BRINGUIER'S brother, Juan Felipe Bringuier, was a member of Brigade 2506 and was captured during the Bay of Pigs. The CIA had a 201 file on Juan Felipe Bringuier. HUNT and BRINGUIER held many common ideas. Both felt President John F. Kennedy was going to replace Fidel Castro with leftist Manolo Ray. BRINGUIER termed this Operation Judas. Both men had connections to the upper echelons of the Republican Party. HUNT worked for NIXON. On November 27, 1963, Dr. William Prendergast, Republican National Committee, Washington, D.C., told the FBI that he had received information from a source available to him that OSWALD had "approached CARLOS BRINGUIER, Head of the New Orleans Student Directorate, DRE, New Orleans, during approximately early August 1963, and had offered a $10 contribution toward the furtherance of the anti-Castro causes of that organization. Since he was a former United States Marine, he also offered to assist in the military training of members of this group. The DRE was suspicious of OSWALD, suspecting possibly he was a member of the CIA or FBI who was attempting to penetrate their organization. They forwarded his offer to DRE Headquarters, Miami, Florida, for consideration. In the meantime they placed OSWALD under surveillance." [NARA FBI 124-10272-10128] William Prendergast suggested that the FBI contact BRINGUIER and Jose Antonio Lanusa about this matter. In 1972 BRINGUIER was head of Cubans for NIXON in New Orleans. "We had a committee here Cubans for NIXON and Breen in New Orleans. Yes, sir. We had." [FBI WFO 89-35-131] In April 1993 BRINGUIER received the references to him in this investigation. When recontacted he commented:

I saw the amount of lies you put about me there. Listen, I don't want to discuss them one by one with you because there are only two reasons: you are either a communist, or you are an idiot. And I don't have time for either one of them.

Pedro Diaz Lanz told Gaeton Fonzi he "knows a young man in New Orleans, one CARLOS BRINGUIER, who had a fight with OSWALD in the street. Lanz states that he was with BARKER many times...met Bender at a safehouse..." [HSCA Gonzales and Fonzi 9.23.77] The conspirators endorsed BRINGUIER by having OSWALD stage an incident with him. BRINGUIER, like General Walker, would become an anti-Communist hero after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy because OSWALD he had attacked OSWALD. [16WH67; 10WH32; HUNT Day pp45, 62, 95-105; Firman, Peraza Cuba En El Exilo Gainesville, FL X13, V26; WCD 1214; Miami Herald 5.5.76; CIA 1236-520, 1326-1042] OSWALD wrote V.T. Lee that the Fair Play for Cuba Committee had been evicted from its office for political reasons, when it never had an office. Nor did OSWALD receive Fair Play for Cuba Committee correspondence at his post office box. OSWALD had leaflets printed, but they had not been widely distributed.

CARLOS BRINGUIER, THE DRE AND THE CIA

In the late spring of 1960, three DRE leaders escaped from Cuba and arrived in Miami, where they immediately offered the Cuban Revolutionary Front their services. The DRE was rendered an affiliate of the Cuban Revolutionary Front and Cuban Revolutionary Council. DRE leaders, and members, were supplied with weapons and money:

Although there is no record of the DRE in Office of Security indices, Western Hemisphere/COG files reflect the DRE was conceived, created, and funded, by the CIA in September 1960, and terminated in December 1966. It was an outgrowth of an activist student group in Cuba which fought against Batista and later against Castro. After many of the leaders came into exile in the United States, they were trained and infiltrated back into Cuba for intelligence duties. After the Bay of Pigs, from 1962 to 1966, members were used as political action groups throughout the Western Hemisphere. During the organization's six year period of existence many DRE personnel were in contact with JMWAVE staffers but from 1965 to 1966 contact was limited to two agents Juan Manuel Salvat, the current DRE Secretary General who is now operating a bookstore in Miami and Fernando Garcia Chacon who is relocated in El Salvador. Fernando Thomas Garcia Chacon (deleted) was identified as a member to the DRE in 1963 but no Agency affiliation was indicated. [CIA Memo 11.9.67]

OS indices checks were negative on Juan Manuel Salvat except for a New York Times article of August 27, 1962, which identified Salvat as the leader of the DRE. Salvat headed a raid on Havana, Cuba, in August 1962, which proved embarrassing to United States authorities. Jack Caufield, a former New York City Police Department Detective in the Intelligence Division who worked for NIXON in the early 1970's, was in charge of monitoring DRE activities in New York City. The first DRE infiltration team landed in Cuba in November 1960.

THE DRE AND JFK

On April 2, 1961, the DRE called a special meeting of its military section.

PRITY DIR CITE WAVE 6756

TOPIC: ANSPELL

1. On April 3, 1963 AMMINT-8 reported Morning April 2, 1963 ANSPELL called a special meeting its military section. The speaker was AMMINT-5. He told military section relations with KUBARK have come to an impasse and no alternative for ANSPELL [words DRE written in] but break relations and continue without aid. Citing one of reasons AMMINT-5 said KUBARK wanted military section dismantled, a condition ANSPELL could not accept. He said ANSPELL will go it alone and cannot give up anti-Castro struggle. Explained this difficult because mobility of leaders limited, but he promised that ANSPELL would continue making 'strikes' against Castro whenever possible.

3. AMMINT-5 said KUBARK may ask certain members military section to continue employment with KUBARK in different capacities. He said such members free to work with KUBARK but they would have to break ANSPELL ties.

5. AMMINT-5 then gave members small subsistence allowance causing disappointment because members previously promised a double payment on termination. (March 25 JMWAVE gave AMMINT-53 termination payment 18 military members equivalent two months salaries)

6. AMMINT-8 said subsequent to meeting most military members said they were going to look up KUBARK contact and offer their services KUBARK. In meantime ODENVY (FBI) reps arrived at ANSPELL Hqs. and took AMMINT-53 to FBI offices allegedly 'to have private talk.'

By November 1961, Castro had driven the DRE group operating inside Cuba underground. The DRE withdrew from the Cuban Revolutionary Council in March 1962. [FBI 105-107224-NR 3.29.62, NR 3.19.62] The Miami-based DRE was shelling Havana from boats in August 1962, which brought it to the attention of United States Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy. After a warning from the Justice Department, the DRE distributed leaflets that accused President John F. Kennedy of abandoning it. It warned it would continue to attack Cuba, since the Bay of Pigs had "culminated in treachery."

The military operations chief of the DRE, who infiltrated Cuba before the Bay of Pigs, told the HSCA the Cuban underground mistakenly believed it had the total endorsement of the United States. On August 25, 1962, the DRE almost assassinated Fidel Castro when it attacked the Sierra Maestre Hotel in Havana. Two speedboats fired 30 rounds of 20-millimeter cannon shells, of which 28 hit the hotel. Two rounds went wild and hit the Blanquita Theater, where Fidel Castro was watching a Chaplin film. Fidel Castro was enraged and claimed it was a CIA attempt on his life. The DRE leaders were brought to Washington, and were congratulated by DD/P Richard Helms. Despite political differences, the DRE began working closely with Alpha-66 at this time. [CIA F82-0430/24] The CIA's DRE file covering the periods of August 1962, through December 1962, contained an uncontrolled Top Secret document. In October 1962 a DRE member was arrested in Havana and sentenced to 30 years in prison. The CIA: "We had our first contact with him in September 1961, in the U.S., and provided him with some material assistance for paramilitary operations. His Provisional Operational Approval for use in paramilitary activities was granted January 3, 1962, and cancelled November 8, 1962. The date of his return to Cuba has not been established." After the October 1962 Cuban missile crisis, the Kennedy Administration curtailed the activities of the DRE, although it was apparently moving closer to assassinating Fidel Castro. [NYT 7.1.59; Agee CIA Diary p618] In December 1962 the DRE and Alpha-66 planned joint raids against Cuba. [CIA F82-0430/126] On January 23, 1963, MM T-1 advised the FBI that Esiero Borja, the military chief of the DRE,

...recently contacted a representative of GERALD PATRICK HEMMING'S INTERPEN group, and said that the DRE desired to receive military training at INTERPEN training camp at No Name Key, Florida. HEMMING agreed to accept a certain number of DRE members and provide them with military training, which will start at some time in the near future. [SCCIA 157-10003-10483]

In March 1962 the DRE announced that it was quitting the Cuban Revolutionary Council. [FBI 105-107224-A N.R. 3.19.62] Gaeton Fonzi wrote: "In April 1963, President John F. Kennedy prohibited DRE and Cuban Revolutionary Council exile leaders from leaving the United States. In New Orleans, CARLOS BRINGUIER, the DRE leader, proclaimed his group 'would continue efforts to liberate Cuba despite United States action to stop raids originating from U.S. soil.'"

On November 15, 1963, Desmond FitzGerald, Chief, Special Activities Section and Arthur A. Maloney C/SAS/MOB sent this message to JMWAVE:

Per discussion Headquarters Station authorized to proceed as outlined paragraphs 11 and 12 reference with understanding that AMSPELL will be given appropriate time to phase out Kubark support to military section, and that they be encouraged to seek support of an organization which has the means and facilities outside continental limits of U.S. to conduct operations against PBRUMAN. No mention AMBIDDY or AMWORLD this context, since AMSPELL will obviously understand what you intend to convey.

2. Headquarters proposes advise AMBIDDY-1 if learned that military section of AMSPELL 'cast adrift' and may be seeking some form of association with AMWORLD. Shall allude to previous exchanges re general subject or associations between AMWORLD and other exile groups in which it is stressed such alliances should not derogate from AMBIDDY-1's authority. Hence AMBIDDY-1 will presumably insist that military section not be absorbed as entity but as individuals.

Handwritten signatures and stamps of Desmond Fitzgerald and Arthur A. Maloney. The stamps include titles such as 'COORDINATING OFFICER', 'RELEASING OFFICER', and 'AUTHENTICATING OFFICER'. A central stamp reads 'S-E-C-R-E-T'. At the bottom, there is a reproduction notice: 'REPRODUCTION OF THIS DOCUMENT IS PROHIBITED EXCEPT BY AUTHORITY OF THE DIRECTOR, CIA'. A 'Copy No.' field is also present.

BRINGUIER was in Dallas in 1963. A withheld CIA document "contains a detailed report about an intelligence source who normally reported on matters of intelligence interest concerning Cuba. This particular document became part of the OSWALD CIA file, apparently on the basis of several sentences indicating the source had met a well-known, anti-Castro emigre in Dallas, Texas. That individual was CARLOS BRINGUIER." [CIA 1323-1040-5.23.67]

On August 5, 1963, Marina OSWALD received word from the Soviet Embassy, Washington that her request for a visa had been forwarded to Moscow for processing. Vitaly Alekseevich Gerasimov, who signed the letter, advised her that as soon as the Embassy received a reply she would be advised. Oleg Nechiporenko wrote that Vitaly Alekseevich Gerasimov was a member of the KGB. On August 5, 1963, the New Orleans FBI investigated and located OSWALD, learning his address and that of his former employer.

OSWALD'S ATTEMPT TO INFILTRATE THE DRE

On August 5, 1963, OSWALD borrowed The Expert Dreamers edited by Frederick Pohl. He returned this book on August 19, 1963. On August 5, 1963, OSWALD initiated contact with BRINGUIER at the Casa Roca retail clothing store at 107 Decatur Street, New Orleans. He had the words "Cuban Student Derectorate, 107 Decatur St, New Orleans, La, CARLOS BRINGUIER" in his address book. Where had OSWALD obtained this information? The FBI reported:

EVELIO LEI, an officer in the Directorio Revoltionaire Estudiantil (DRE) Students Revolutionary Directorate), an anti-CASTRO organization with offices at Miami, Florida, advised on November 22, 1963 LEE H. OSWALD in August, 1963, at New Orleans, Louisiana, had offered his service to the DRE delegate at New Orleans Louisiana, in the capacity of military trainer, based on OSWALD's former United States Marine Corps experience. According to LEY, CARLOS BRINGUIER, DRE delegate at New Orleans, discovered OSWALD's association with Fair Play for Cuba Committee (FPCC), and OSWALD was rejected for affiliation with the DRE. LEY stated OSWALD reportedly spoke both Spanish and Russian. Also, according to LEY, following the discovery by the DRE, New Orleans that OSWALD a CASTRO sympathizer OSWALD, engaged in a debate with CARLOS BRINGUIER over New Orleans radio station TDSU during August, 1963.

VANCE BLALOCK

The OSWALD / BRINGUIER meeting was witnessed by two young anti-Castro Americans, Vance Douglas Blalock and Philip Geraci, who were collecting money for the DRE. Vance Douglas Blalock told the Warren Commission:

Liebler: Tell us, to the best of your recollection, the things that happened as far as OSWALD was concerned.

Blalock: He walked up to us and leaned against the desk and listened to the conversation. Then he started asking questions about the organization, and we were talking about guerrilla warfare, just in case the country got in war, how young students could help - something in that nature and then OSWALD asked CARLOS BRINGUIER all about the organization and what part it played in the main movement in Florida...and he explained that he took training in guerilla warfare, and he told me how to blow up bridges, derail trains, make zip guns, make homemade gunpowder...He told us to put powder charges at each end of the bridge from the foundation to where the foundation meets the suspension part, and to blow that part up and the center part of the bridge would collapse. ...He told us how to derail a train without gunpowder. He said put a chain around a railroad track and lock it to the track with a lock.

Liebler: Did he talk to BRINGUIER about helping BRINGUIER in this organization, or just what was the general context of this conversation?

Blalock: He just asked him about the anti-Castro organization and asked him to explain it to him, and said he was interested in finding out how it operated. He didn't say he wanted to join it. He just said he was interested in it. Oh, and BRINGUIER gave him literature, a Cuban newspaper and leaflets or booklets.

Liebler: Did he say anything about Florida?

Blalock: Just mentioned the Cuban anti-Castro organization there.

Liebler: What did he say about that?

Blalock: I don't remember exactly, but I think he said he had been there and he had looked into it. I couldn't say for sure on that...I don't recall any name..."

Liebler: Do you remember talking to the FBI agent about OSWALD'S remark concerning having been to Florida?

Blalock: I think he said that he had been there.

Liebler: Well, the report I have here says that you seemed to remember something about having recently visited something called Casa Nostre, C-a-s-a N-o-s-t-r-a. Do you remember saying anything about that to the FBI man?

Blalock: I remember mentioning that organization, it was mentioned in the conversation with CARLOS BRINGUIER and HARVEY OSWALD.

Liebler: It was?

Blalock: I believe so.

Liebler: Do you remember that it was OSWALD who mentioned it?

Blalock: I don't remember which one mentioned it first.

Liebler: And it was mentioned as being a Cuban organization in Florida?

Blalock: Yes sir, I think that is the name they mentioned. It could be something similar. I know I got this mafia name mixed up with a Cuban organization name.

Liebler: Well you know that that name I just mentioned Case Nostre, is very similar to the Cosa Nostra. Do you think you may have been confused at the time you talked with him?

Blalock: Well, I meant the Cuban organization. I may have said the Mafia, the Cosa Nostra.

Liebler: You may have used that name?

Blalock: But I meant the Cuban-

Liebler: You meant some anti-Castro organization?

Blalock: Yes sir.

Liebler: So, the best you can recall, OSWALD didn't say that he had recently visited some one in the Cosa Nostra?

Blalock: No Sir. Yes Sir.

Liebler: But you do recall sort of vaguely that OSWALD did say that he had been in Florida and that he had visited an anti-Castro Cuban organization there?

Blalock: Yes sir, I do.

PHILIP GERACI

Philip Geraci, (born February 21, 1948; died of accidental electrocution, 1968) was a mentally unbalanced guerilla warfare buff. While he was raising money for CARLOS BRINGUIER in the summer of 1963 he informed the FBI of BRINGUIER'S activities. Philip Geraci testified: "Well CARLOS and me and Vance were kind of talking among ourselves and he came in...and he asked 'Is this the Cuban exile headquarters?' And, 'Are you a Cuban exile?'...CARLOS said yes. He asked him some questions like was he connected with the Cosa Nostra...and CARLOS said no, he wasn't."

On May 6, 1965, Philip Geraci was declared a missing person. The Deputy Sheriff of Jefferson Parish alerted the FBI that it had come to his attention that "Geraci had an interest in guerilla warfare, explosives and the organizing of groups...Geraci is a mentally disturbed youth who received psychiatric treatments...His investigation reflected Geraci had offered to join Alpha-66, a group of Cuban refugees...Geraci's services were refused. Geraci also offered to join the Morgan Brigade, a group of Americans who wished to go back to Cuba and overthrow Castro, and was also refused." Philip Geraci's interview with the United States Secret Service was missing from the National Archives, as was the FBI's interview with his mother. [WCD 72 #2; National Archives Sec. Class. Prob. Inv. WC Comm. on Gov. Ops. 11.11.75]

BRINGUIER'S VERSION

BRINGUIER said that OSWALD reportedly told him that he wanted to join the DRE and, according to BRINGUIER,

OSWALD asked me for some literature against Castro, explained that he had experience in guerrilla warfare, and expressed that he was willing to help train anti-Castro Cubans in guerrilla activities. When I explained to OSWALD that I didn't have anything to do with military activities, he put his hand in his pocket and offered to contribute some money to our cause. I refused because Geraci [who was present] had informed me that he was stopped from selling 'bonds' by the police because we did not have a City of New Orleans permit to collect money. [BRINGUIER Red Friday p25]

OSWALD wrote:

I infiltrated the Cuban Student directorite and than harressed them with information I gained including having the N. O. city attorny general call them in and put a retraining order pending a hearing on some so-called bonds for invasion they were selling in the New Orleans area.

BRINGUIER indicated that OSWALD immediately aroused his suspicions and he told OSWALD to deal directly with the Military Section of the DRE in Miami. Juan Francisco Blanco-Fernandez was the head of the Military Section of the DRE in Miami. BRINGUIER later commented he was concerned that OSWALD knew of the LaCombe, Louisiana, training camp, because OSWALD had mentioned that he wanted to help train anti-Castro guerrillas. BRINGUIER explained:

As there was a Castro's spy infiltrated in an anti-Castro training camp in existence at that moment across the Lake Pontchartrain, and the Castro's spy, Fernando Fernandez, was sending his information to the Cuban Ambassador in Mexico City, it is possible and logical that the Cuban Government could have put that situation in the acknowledgment of any of the pro-Castro organizations in the country.

BRINGUIER said he was worried about infiltrators, because one of his brothers-in-laws was a Castro double-agent. [WCD 1085d9; WCE 1413 p4] The DRE'S operations in Cuba were effectively destroyed in 1962 when Jorge Medina Bringuiet, born in 1941, in Cuba, infiltrated the DRE underground in February 1962 for the Cuban Intelligence Service. He rose to the position of National Coordinator of the DRE in Cuba, and systematically furnished information to the Cuban Government which resulted in numerous arrests and a complete breakdown of the DRE. [FBI Interview with Luis Fernandez Rocha WCD 1085d4] On December 17, 1963, BRINGUIER told the FBI that he "knew of no connection that OSWALD had with any Cubans, and that OSWALD made no mention of any Cuban training camp, and gave no indication of knowing about a training camp, or of being acquainted with any Cubans." [FBI NO 100-16601 SA John T. Reynolds]

JOHN V. MARTINO

Gaeton Fonzi reported: "Edward Martino said that his father did mention to him that he saw OSWALD handing out Fair Play for Cuba Committee pamphlets in New Orleans. He said it was a coincidence his father was in New Orleans that day [Friday August 9, 1963] on his on his lecture circuit. Edward said he did not know whether or not his father saw the incident involving OSWALD and CARLOS BRINGUIER, but the latter's name was not familiar to him." [HSCA Memo From Fonzi and Gonzales to Cliff Fenton 10.7.77] MARTINO was also in New Orleans and Lake Charles, Louisiana, on September 27, 1963, and he was in Dallas on October 27, 1963. HEMMING told this researcher:

MARTINO was acquainted with OSWALD. There was weird shit going on. If you wanted a guy that could play George Raft, and come on sinister, and lay a line on a punk like fucking OSWALD, he was the guy to do it. Talkin' about the mob and all that kind of stuff. He knew CHRIST. He knew JACK RUBY. And he's the old time guy that takes care of everybody. He makes sure the food that is delivered from the family, gets to the cell. MARTINO was behind the scenes manipulating a few things. Now that don't mean shit. I don't know what they sat down and discussed. He had a hand in a lot of Cuban deals.

OSWALD returned to BRINGUIER'S store on August 6, 1963, and left his Marine training manual with BRINGUIER'S brother-in-law. Despite OSWALD'S Fair Play for Cuba Committee activity when the FBI released its Cuban NATIONALITY GROUP COVERAGE report on AUGUST 7, 1963 it was stated unequivocally that there was no Fair Play for Cuba Committee activity in the New Orleans area. Warren De Brueys put the report together for the New Orleans SAC. Here is the document:

5. CUBAN DIPLOMATIC OR OFFICIAL ACTIVITIES
None exists in the New Orleans territory and all former Cuban Consulate officials in New Orleans are alleged to be anti-CASTRO. (u)

6. ANTI-CASTRO ACTIVITIES
Only one anti-CASTRO organization as a group exists in the New Orleans area, and this group is known as:
Missal Smith
INE Park, La
Cuba

Cuban Revolutionary Council, New Orleans, Louisiana
Headquarters of the Cuban Revolutionary Council (CRC) are located in Miami. The New Orleans group is headed by FRANK BARTES, a Cuban citizen who was formerly head of the Cuban National Railways. This group has had only one assembly type meeting since the beginning of 1963, which meeting was held on 5/20/63, to celebrate the Independence Day of Cuba. The meeting was made up, for the most part, of patriotic speeches, which was given some local publicity. (u)

Mr. J. WALTER YEAGLEY, Asst. Attorney General, Internal Security Division of the Department of Justice, advised in a letter to the Bureau dated 8/2/62, as follows: (u)

"In view of ... the noted interest of CIA in the council's activities, this Division is requesting no further investigation in this instance." In view of this statement by Mr. YEAGLEY, New Orleans limits its activities in this matter to reporting information received from BARTES and other sources regarding this organization. (u)

SOURCES OF INFORMATION IN ANTI-CASTRO MATTERS

- 233 Chartres Street, New Orleans, La
- ORLANDO PIEDRA (Former Commander of Cuban Federal Police under BATISTA)
- 5386 Charlotte Drive, New Orleans, La Cuba
- FRANK BARTES (Former official in Cuban Railroad)

NO 1213-S continues to have contact among a large group of Cubans in the New Orleans area and is an active informant of the New Orleans Office. Contacts with all the foregoing sources of information are conducted with a view to possible development as PSI. While there are no known branches of the FPCC or of the July 26th Movement nor any pro-CASTRO type organisations in the New Orleans area, New Orleans, nevertheless, canvasses all sources in Cuban matters on a continuing basis to be alert for any activity indicating efforts to establish moth groups in the New Orleans area. The above coverage has proven adequate in Cuban matters; however, New Orleans is consistently alert to the possibility of developing new sources to provide pertinent data regarding both anti-CASTRO and pro-CASTRO matters. New Orleans will submit its semi-annual report on informant coverage in Cuban matters prior to 2/1/64.

DeBruey's sources for 1962 included BRINGUIER, ORESTES PENA, PSI ARNESTO RODRIGUEZ, ORLANDO PIEDRE, CARLOS MARQUEZ and FRANK BARTES. Notice the sources for DeBruey's information in 1963, PIEDRA and BARTES, both of whom appear in Oswald's addressbook. It was no accident this report was composed one day before OSWALD'S FPCC could no longer be ignored.

OSWALD'S PRO-CASTRO DEMONSTRATION

Click HERE to see rare footage of OSWALD in New Orleans. On August 8, 1963, OSWALD borrowed The Worlds of Clifford Simak from the New Orleans Public Library. On Friday August 9, 1963, BRINGUIER said he was informed that an unidentified man was carrying a pro-Castro sign and handing out literature on Canal Street. Major Presley J. Trosclair, Intelligence Unit Commander of the New Orleans Police Department, was of the opinion that OSWALD, prior to arrest his arrest in New Orleans on August 9, 1963, contacted him by phone to secure a picketing permit. OSWALD was told to consult with his attorney concerning this matter. The Traffic Division Unit of the New Orleans Police Department advised that it was not necessary to secure a permit in order to picket. [FBI NO 89-69-566] BRINGUIER, and two of his friends, confronted the unidentified male. BRINGUIER stated that when he recognized him as the man who had offered the DRE help, and realized that OSWALD had evidently tried to infiltrate his group, he

...cursed OSWALD in English...The incited people started calling names at OSWALD. Celso could not contain himself. He moved near OSWALD, grabbed the literature that he had and threw it up in the air. I lost my temper and moved close to OSWALD with the intention to hit him, and when OSWALD sensed this he put his arms down and told me: 'O.K. CARLOS, if you want to hit me, hit me.' Immediately I realized OSWALD would like to appear as a martyr, and for that reason I decided not to hit him.

HEMMING 1994:

I may have met BRINGUIER through Luis Rabel. OSWALD staged this because he wanted to impress Castro's intelligence operatives how good he was at penetrating, and he could go down and get on T.V. and expose all the anti-Castro thugs. Someone was giving him guidance on this shit. A dangerous fucking game. OSWALD was not thinking of JFK at the point in time that he was doing his thing in New Orleans. There was a plan to put him in Cuba as a spotter for a hit on Fidel.

BRINGUIER: "I read about him in some books, or something like that, but I personally never met HEMMING. Never met FIORINI either. I met Pedro Diaz Lanz in 1964. New Orleans was very isolated. I was not making continuously trips to Miami. When I was going to Miami I was going on vacation." During testimony in HUNT v. WEBERMAN, STURGIS testified he may have known BRINGUIER.

OSWALD'S ARREST AND INTERROGATION

On August 9, 1963, the police came and arrested all participants. OSWALD spoke with Officers Horace J. Austin and Warren Roberts. This was their report:

He is a member of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, whose address is 799 Broadway, New York 3, N.Y. telephone OR-4-8295. OSWALD had in his possession a National Membership card issued on May 28, 1963, and the president's name on this card was V.T. Lee. OSWALD also had a local membership card dated June 6, 1963, and the president of the local chapter, whose name was on the card was A. Hidell. OSWALD presented his Social Security Card, which did not bear his signature, and the number of this card was 433-54-3937. OSWALD presented his U.S. Marine Discharge Card (Honorable) bearing service number 1653230 and date of active duty from October 24, 1956, to September 11, 1959.

OSWALD stated he was born in New Orleans on October 18, 1939, that he is about 5' 9" tall, about 140 pounds, and is a mechanic by trade. He stated he did mechanic work in the Marine Corps, and that he is presently unemployed, and has been so about three weeks. Before he was laid off, OSWALD stated, he worked at the Louisiana Coffee Company for about three months, and before that he had worked at Fort Worth, Texas, at a sheet metal place. OSWALD stated he worked at the sheet metal place in Fort Worth for several months, but was very evasive in answering any further questions of employment prior to that time.

OSWALD stated that he lives with his wife, whose maiden name was Marina Pross, WF, age 21. They were married in Fort Worth, have one child 17 months of age, and presently reside at 4907 Magazine Street, lower center, New Orleans. OSWALD stated that he has two brothers who reside like his mother in Fort Worth, Texas. He stated his father, John Lee Oswald, is deceased. OSWALD stated he had talked to Major Trosclair about getting a permit for the Fair Play for Cuba Committee and the major advised him to consult his attorney. OSWALD said he never did go and see about a permit at city hall.

OSWALD further stated the Cubans came up to him where he was giving out the leaflets and began to tear them up and throw them in the street. OSWALD stated that they started to yell that he was a communist, and about that time, the officers from the first district came up and a crowd gathered. OSWALD stated he joined the Fair Play for Cuba Committee when he found a leaflet on the street one day and read what was on it, and sent $5.00 to the address which was in New York City, and, after a brief period of time, he was sent material through the mail and contacted locally, and he started to attend meetings, which he stated were held in each others homes. OSWALD stated they, the members, get together and talk about how it would be to visit Cuba, life in Cuba, etc. OSWALD denied the organization was communist, or a communist front, when asked by Captain James Arnold, Commanding Officer of the First Police District, who came in during the interview, but OSWALD had in his possession and was carrying a piece of cardboard with VIVA Fidel painted on it and the paraphernalia he was handing out was pasted on this cardboard also. OSWALD stated he has never been to Cuba, and it appeared as though he is being used by these people and is very uninformed and knows very little about this organization he belongs to and its ultimate purpose or goal. OSWALD stated that the people that attend these informal meetings are working class people, such as clerical trades, etc.

THE PAPER WITH RUSSIAN NAMES AND PHONE NUMBERS

The police discovered a small piece of paper with Russian writing in OSWALD'S wallet:

The CIA reported: "The address book lists a 'Maria, tele 3-38-53, with the incomplete address 'Kv. 20 Dom - ' [Apt 20 house -], and a paper found in OSWALD'S possession by the New Orleans police in 1963 contains the note 'Maria [?] 33853.'" OSWALD inadvertently left the piece of paper in his wallet. The police reported the existence of this document to the FBI. OSWALD might have been a Russian spy disguised as an organizer for the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. Despite this, DeBRUEYS did not step-up the FBI investigation of OSWALD and the New Orleans Chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee.

OSWALD ASKS TO BE INTERVIEWED BY THE FBI

Before the New Orleans police could alert the FBI about OSWALD, OSWALD requested a meeting with the FBI. OSWALD was interviewed by S.A. John Lester Quigley on Saturday, August 10, 1963. OSWALD claimed he received an honorable discharge from the Marines and, about four months ago, he and his wife Marina Prossa, who he married in Fort Worth, moved to New Orleans:

After coming to New Orleans he said he began reading various pieces of literature distributed by the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, and it was his understanding from reading this material that the (illegible) and theme of the Committee is to prevent the United States from invading or attacking Cuba or interfering in the political affairs of that country. Further, that the people of that country should be given an opportunity to go and visit Cuba, and in this way they could make up their own minds as to what the internal conditions of Cuba are like at the present time. He says he does not consider the Fair Play for Cuba Committee to be communist, or a communist-controlled, group. OSWALD said that inquiry in New Orleans developed the fact that there apparently was a New Orleans Fair Play for Cuba Committee chapter, but he did not know any of the members or where their offices were located. He said he sent a letter to Fair Play for Cuba Committee headquarters...and told them he wished to join this committee...During the latter part of May of this year he received a membership card which bore a date of May 28, 1963, and was made out in the name of LEE HARVEY OSWALD and was signed by V.T. Lee. He described this card as being grey in color and signifying membership in the national organization. A short time thereafter, he said, he received in the mail a white card which showed that he was made a member of the New Orleans chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. This card was dated June 6, 1963. It was signed A.J. Hidell and it bore in the lower right hand corner the number 33 which he said indicated membership number. OSWALD had in his possession both cards and exhibited both of them. Since becoming a member of the national committee, OSWALD said he has been receiving the monthly circular of the committee which is about seven pages in length. He claimed that he could not recall the name of this publication.

Since receiving his membership card in the New Orleans chapter of the committee he said that he had spoken with Hidell on the telephone on several occasions. On these occasions, Hidell would discuss general matters of mutual interest in connection with committee business and on other occasions he would inform him of a scheduled meeting. He said he never personally met Hidell, and he knows Hidell did have a telephone, but it has now been discontinued. He claimed that he could not recall what the number was.

"OSWALD said that the committee did not have any offices in New Orleans, and whenever meetings were held, they were held in the residences of various members. OSWALD maintained that he had attended only two committee meetings, and at each of the meetings there were about five different individuals. At each of these meetings the persons present were different. He did not know the last name of any of these individuals, and claimed he was only introduced to them by first name. He maintained that he could not recall any of the first names. From what he understands, there are no regularly scheduled times for meetings, and the only way he knows about them is when somebody gives him a call and tells him there will be a meeting. At these meetings he said the general conversation deals with Cuba, and the latest news on the internal affairs of Cuba. OSWALD admitted that on one occasion he held a committee meeting at his home, but he declined to elaborate on how he got word to the various members that it would be held.

Last Wednesday, August 7, 1963, OSWALD said he had received a note through the mail from Hidell. The note asked him if he had time would he mind distributing some Fair Play for Cuba Committee literature in the downtown area of New Orleans. He said that Hidell knew he was not working and probably had time. Hidell also knew that he had considerable literature on the committee which had been furnished to him by the national committee in New York. Since he did not have anything to do, OSWALD said decided he would go down to Canal Street and distribute some literature. He denied that he was being paid for his services, but that he was doing it as a patriotic duty...About 1:00 p.m. on August 9, 1963, OSWALD said he went down on Canal Street by himself and started distributing committee literature.

OSWALD told S.A. John Quigley that he made up a sandwich-board sign reading VIVA FIDEL and had leaflets, membership applications and several pamphlets entitled, "The Crime Against Cuba," with him that day. S.A. John Quigley's copy of The Crime Against Cuba did not carry the 544 Camp Street stamp - unlike the copy seized by the New Orleans Police. OSWALD'S application for membership in the Fair Play for Cuba Committee was very professionally laid out and contained no spelling errors: "OSWALD had in his possession at the time of the interview a copy of the three described documents and made available a copy of each to the Agent."

OSWALD'S story was filled with lies. He omitted any mention of his defection, claimed his wife was American, said his membership number in the New Orleans Chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee was 33, which implied that the Chapter had at least 33 members. He said he was contacted by telephone - OSWALD didn't have a telephone. Jessie James Garner "advised [S.A. Warren DeBRUEYS] on October 7, 1963, that LEE OSWALD and his wife did not have any meeting to her knowledge when he was residing at 4907 Magazine Street. She advised that they did have some friends, approximately three or four people, who used to visit them on occasions. She had no information as to the identity of these persons..."

DEBRUEYS' "INVESTIGATION" OF FAIR PLAY FOR CUBA

S.A. Warren C. DeBRUEYS was in charge of investigating the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. S.A. Quigley's report was turned over to him. The FBI had been unable to locate a chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee in New Orleans, yet OSWALD could readily join this shadowy organization, which sporadically met in cells of five, where no one knew anyone else's name. The organizer, A.J. Hidell, did not appear at meetings, and could be reached only by telephone. OSWALD had given S.A. John Quigley his true date of birth and the address - 4907 Magazine Street. A check of FBI records would immediately have indicated to S.A. DeBRUEYS that OSWALD was a defector, with a dishonorable discharge from the Marines, who married a Russian woman. This would have rendered him more suspicious of OSWALD and the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. A shadowy organization of this nature had to be infiltrated by the FBI. Moreover, OSWALD said he was born in Cuba. None-the-less, the FBI investigation of A.J. Hidell, the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, and OSWALD, was not stepped up because S.A. DeBRUEYS knew that OSWALD'S Fair Play for Cuba Committee was an Operation. Additionally, S.A. DeBRUEYS had covert contact with OSWALD. In 1978 S.A. DeBRUEYS was asked why OSWALD would ask to be interviewed by FBI agents. He responded: "I mentioned that he may have been concerned about being in custody of the local police and perhaps thought it would be safer if the 'Feds' were aware of his being incarcerated." [FBI 62-117290-996X5] OSWALD had not been contacted by the FBI since August 1962, and he needed its attention to strengthen his bona fides, so he could enter Cuba like other leaders of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee had. He was determined to spark an investigation of the New Orleans Chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, hoping word of it would reach the Headquarters of the New York Fair Play for Cuba Committee, where it would be covertly transmitted to the Cuban Government.

When OSWALD wrote a résumé of his left-wing activities for the Russians several weeks later, he omitted this conversation with the FBI. He wrote: "I am experienced in Street agitation having done it in New Orleans in connection with the F.P.C.C. On August 9, 1963 I was accosted by three anti-Castro Cubans and was arrested for 'causing a disturbance' I was interrogated by the intelligence section of the New Orleans Police Dept. and held overnight being bailed out the next morning by relatives I subseñly was fined 10.$ charges against the three cubans were dropped by the judge."

Pamphlet Case Sentence Given

Lee Oswald, 23, 4907 Magazine, Monday was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 or serve 10 days in jail on a charge of disturbing the peace by creating a scene.

Oswald was arrested by First District police at 4:15 p. m. Friday in the 700 block of Canal while he was reportedly distributing pamphlets asking for a "Fair Play for Cuba."

Police were called to the scene when three Cubans reportedly sought to stop Oswald. Municipal charges against the Cubans for disturbing the peace were dropped by the court. 12/6/63

OSWALD IS BAILED OUT OF JAIL

OSWALD spent the night in jail. On August 10, 1963, he telephoned the Murrets and asked them for help in arranging bail. OSWALD was released after Charles Murret got his business partner, Emile Bruneau, to intervene. Emile Bruneau had close ties to CARLOS MARCELLO and Nofio Pecora. In 1978 he was the Chairman of the State Boxing Commission. As an elected official, Emile Bruneau had parole power. OSWALD pleaded guilty to disturbing the peace and was fined $10 on August 12, 1963. The anti-Castro Cubans had not been charged. [Summers Conspiracy p449] The newspaper clipping would become part of OSWALD's bona fides in his attempt to enter Cuba.

On August 12, 1963, OSWALD wrote another letter to V.T. Lee: "Continuing my efforts on behalf of the F.P.C.C. in New Orleans I find that I have incurred its displeasure of the Cuban exile 'worms' here. I was attacked by three of them as the copy of the enclosed summons indicates I was fined ten dollars and the three Cubans were not fined because of 'lack of evidence' as the judge said. I am very glad I am stirring things up and shall continue to do so. The incident was given considerable coverage in the press and local T.V. news broadcast. I'm sure it will all be to the good of the Fair Play for Cuba committee." On August 12, 1963, OSWALD borrowed The Treasury of Science Fiction Classics, edited by Harold Kuebler, from the New Orleans Public Library.

FRANK BARTES MEETS OSWALD 1963

During the incident with BRINGUIER, OSWALD encountered Frank Bartes. After BRINGUIER and OSWALD were arrested in the street scuffle, Frank Bartes appeared in court with BRINGUIER on August 12, 1963. During the hearing, OSWALD sat in the section of the courtroom reserved for "Negroes." According to Frank Bartes, the news media surrounded OSWALD hoping for a statement after the bail hearing. Frank Bartes then engaged in an argument with OSWALD and the news media. Frank Bartes claimed he also spoke to an FBI agent that day and warned that OSWALD was potentially dangerous. [Fonzi HSCA]

BARTES DENIES HE MET OSWALD

"Confidential Informant NO T-1, who is familiar with Cuban activities in the New Orleans area, advised on September 9, 1963, that OSWALD was unknown to informant." Confidential Informant NO T-1 had supplied information on Banister to the FBI. [WCD 692] When Frank Bartes was questioned by S.A. Lester Quigley on September 10, 1963, he responded that OSWALD was unknown to him: "Frank Bartes, 1608 Mason Smith Avenue, New Orleans, who is a delegate of the Cuban Revolutionary Council in New Orleans advised on September 10, 1963, that OSWALD was unknown to him." [FBI NO 100-16601/cv p12] On September 23, 1963, the CIA received a copy of this FBI report. The Routing and Record Sheet indicated that these components were sent the document:

TO:

1. CI/LS Forwarded September 23, 1963, (Initials JAN)
3. CI/OPS (Deleted) Received it on September 25, 1963, (Initials P)
4. CI/IC (Initials CT)
5. SR/CI (Initials illegible)
6. (Deleted)
7. Annette 2003
9. SR/CI/K/TR (Initials W)
11. 2BO3 Annette.

When BRINGUIER was asked whether Frank Bartes was at OSWALD'S trial, he stated: "I believe that Frank Bartes was at the trial. I'm not sure." BRINGUIER was asked why Frank Bartes had lied to S.A. Quigley about OSWALD:

Sir, you have to ask that to Mr. Frank Bartes. But I told you I am used to people misquoting my words, and now you will probably do the same thing. I am used to that. But I didn't say to you that Bartes met OSWALD. I have never said that to you. If you are taping this conversation, I want that to be very clear. I have never said that, and I am not giving you authorization to tape this, but if Bartes met OSWALD or not I don't know. I don't remember if Bartes was at the trial.

I asked WARREN DeBRUEYS if he had spoken to Frank Bartes about OSWALD. He responded, "I don't recall having questioned Frank Bartes. I remember talking to him on numerous occasions, but I just don't specifically remember talking to him about that."

BARTES AND PRESIDENT KENNEDY

Frank Bartes made a speech in May 1963 in which he accused the American Government of selling out the Cubans. On June 14, 1963, Bartes told the FBI in New Orleans that "local Cuban exiles in New Orleans all feel frustrated in their desire to effectively oppose the Cuban Government of Castro. While they in no way want to engage in any activity against Castro contrary to the laws of the United States, they feel that ultimately decisive action against Castro will, of necessity, have to be taken by the United States Government." [FBI LHM New Orleans Bartes: Info. Concerning. 6.14.63] Frank Bartes wrote to President Kennedy in October 1963 communicating that, "Cubans have been restrained in their fight for freedom." [WCD 86; CIA 1221-513] On November 22, 1963, Frank Bartes prepared a one-page statement on behalf of the New Orleans Cuban Revolutionary Council which began:

We have felt the death of your President as if it had been ours, even if in its political aspect we had difference of opinion caused by soft hand policy and indecision, wether [sic] or not apparent, by U.S. Government...the Kennedy assassination, at the hands of a man whose background was Marxist and pro-Castro is the unquestionable proof that a 'second Pearl Harbor' had been committed in a cunning and infamous way on American soil...

When Frank Bartes suggested to a local television station that they read his statement over the air, the management refused.

BARTES NAME WAS IN OSWALD'S ADDRESS BOOK

Because the name "Bardes" appeared in OSWALD'S address book the FBI interviewed Frank Bartes on December 10, 1963. On April 10, 1964, Frank Bartes advised the FBI that the New Orleans Chapter of the Cuban Revolutionary Council was inactive. [FBI 109-584-39; Memo Martin/Garrison 7.29.67; FBI 100-16601/cv, 62-109060-6267, 62-109060-5583] Frank Bartes knew OSWALD and HEMMING. WCE 3036:

FRANK BARTES, 1608 Mason-Smith Avenue, New Orleans, Louisiana, who is a delegate to the Cuban Revolutionary Council in New Orleans, advised on September 10, 1963, that OSWALD was unknown to him.

TELEPHONE INTERVIEW

This researcher interviewed Frank Bartes by telephone in 1977:

Q. Did you know HEMMING?

A. This one in particular I did because he came in advance and visited me in Cuba - JERRY PATRICK. Whenever we talked it was related to things we were going to do to help the Cubans...but I have never been involved in any landing in Cuba with him.

Q. HEMMING said this had to do with a plot against John Kennedy.

A. No sir. Don't quote me because I will deny it. Nobody has talked to me about nothing in reference to President Kennedy, until after he was shot.

Gaeton Fonzi concluded: "The evidence would seem to indicate that the New Orleans Chapter of the Cuban Revolutionary Council had no relationship with OSWALD other than a brief encounter with Cuban Revolutionary Council delegate Frank Bartes." [HSCA V10 p62; WCE 18 p69 of doc.]

Frank Bartes signed up as a mercenary in the CIA-funded Congolese air force in 1965. He served for two and a half months. Frank Bartes told New Orleans Domestic Contacts Division Chief, Lloyd A. Ray, he was sponsored by "Colonel (deleted) and a Mr. (deleted). I strongly suspect of course, that this was a Agency operation." [CIA 12.28.66 NO-380-66] The CIA reported:

(1) Prior references: Memorandum Subject: Garrison Investigation of Kennedy Assassination: Francisco Antonio Bartes Clarens (201-286885) November 20, 1967.

(2) Involvement in Garrison's investigation: None to date. His former position as head of the Cuban Revolutionary Council in New Orleans and his earlier tie to Lawrence La Borde and others in respect to guerilla training for anti-Castro Cubans has already been drawn to Garrison's attention.

(3) DDP and DCS relationships:

(a) DDP. Although a Provisional Operational Approval for use in JMATE was requested on December 29, 1960, and granted January 30, 1961, the request was canceled on August 30, 1961, and Bartes was not used during this interval. (Per JMWAVE 0483 December 4, 1967). On May 27, 1965, SOD/AB/OPS/3 requested a Provisional Operating Approval to permit the use of Bartes as a pilot in the Congo. The Provisional Operational Approval was granted on July 20, 1965, and an Operational Approval was granted on September 9, 1965. Testing of the Subjects skill as a pilot revealed, however, that he was not qualified for the intended assignment. He was returned to the U.S. on February 11, 1966, without having been used operationally.

(b) The first contact of DCS New Orleans with Bartes occurred on May 4, 1961. Between that date and January 9, 1967 a total of thirteen meetings took place. Bartes is the source of six DCS reports. Contact has not been terminated.

Another CIA document regarding Bartes and the Garrison investigation stated:

f. On 27 May 1965 SOD/AB/OPS/3 requested a FOA on Subject to permit his use as a pilot in Project (deleted) THRUSH. The POA was granted on 20 July 1965. A PRQ II, filled out on 9 September 1965, shows that BARTES' file did not indicate that he knew personally any WOFIRM case officers except Roberto MEDELL, principal agent in Miami for the (deleted) THRUSH project.

g. An OA was granted 9 September 1965. Subsequent traffic from (deleted) however, indicated that Subject was not qualified for his assignment, and with the concurrence of Headquarters he was sent back to the U.S., where he arrived on 11 February 1966. He was "very unhappy over termination, claiming that he had not been treated fairly" In a memorandum of 16 February 1966 SOD/AB/GIPS/3 stated that Subject was of no further interest and requested cancellation of his OA.

h. A memorandum of 1 March 1967 to Chief RI/DS from Director, DCS (Chief, Services Division), subject: "Alien Interview: Frank BARTES", includes the following: "This office has requested FBI approval to contact Frank BARTES, an alien national and expects to exploit him as a source of foreign intelligence."

BARTES ATTEMPTS TO RECRUIT HIS COUSIN FOR THE CIA

A CIA document stated:

On December 20, 1966, Frank Bartes called the New Orleans Domestic Contacts Division office to inform that office that his mother had arrived from Cuba and would be willing to provide information. He also stated that a cousin, a 29 year old Cuban ballerina, Alicia Cruz Bustillo, not a communist, and still residing in Cuba (deleted). There is no record of Bustillo in Office of Security indices and no indication these offers were accepted by the Agency. [CIA OS 12.28.67]

On December 23, 1966, the New Orleans Domestic Contacts Division sent the Director, Domestic Contacts Division, a memorandum titled "Possible Opportunity to Recruit Agent in Place in Cuba" in reference to Alicia Cruz. [CIA Pratt Memo 11.20.67] A memo of March 1, 1967, to Chief RI/DS from Director, Domestic Contacts Division, Subject: "Alien Interview: Frank Bartes" included the following: "This office has requested FBI approval to contact Frank Bartes as alien national..." [CIA 11.20.67 Memo on Bartes] In 1967 Frank Bartes applied for a State Department position as an escort-interpreter. What connection did this have to his offer to recruit an agent in place? [CIA OS Memo 12.28.67]

JMWAVE review Frank Bartes file to determine if Subject used operationally subsequent to January 1961, POA requested, Havana. Subject granted OA September 1965 for use by another WOMACE [DDO] component but OA canceled February 1964, since Subject found unsuitable for proposed Congo assignment. In March 1967 (deleted) requested (deleted) approval to use Subject as FI source. In view of Subject's (deleted) contacts, his former CRC position in New Orleans and his contact with certain individuals involved in both Brown/Slafter and Garrison investigations, (deleted) interested in all phases of Subject's WOMACE activity. Claire Booth Luce, the wife of Time-Life publishing boss Henry Luce, was born in New York City on April 10, 1903. She was a socialite, playwright, author, and war correspondent, who was elected to the House of Representatives in 1943. Despite her own brief infatuation with Communism in the 1930's, Claire Booth Luce emerged as hard line anti-communist. She was appointed Ambassador to Italy in 1952 and embarrassed the Agency when she publicly insinuated that Italians would face unpleasant consequences if they voted for the Communists in an upcoming election. [Winks Cloak & Gown p388] In Italy, she contracted a mysterious illness, finally diagnosed as arsenic poisoning. The CIA was consulted, and determined the cause was paint dust from her bedroom ceiling. In 1959 she was nominated Ambassador to Brazil. Claire Booth Luce campaigned for Barry Goldwater in 1964 and, in due course, acted as an advisor to the Defense Intelligence Agency and was a member of the National Intelligence Study Center Advisory Board. She was also a member of the International Rescue Committee. In July 1973 NIXON appointed Claire Booth Luce to his Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board (Ronald Reagan appointed Luce to an identical position in 1982.) She was granted numerous security clearances. Henry Luce died in 1967 and Claire Booth Luce, 84, died of cancer in October 1987.

THE LUCE CANNON

On May 17, 1975, the FBI

...received information that during the years 1960 to 1961 former Congresswoman Clare Booth Luce financed operations of a fishing boat to transport Cuban citizens from Cuba to Miami, Florida. The Captain of the ship allegedly advised Luce that LEE HARVEY OSWALD and others were involved in the infiltration of a Communist cell group in that area and had discussed assassination plans. The proposed target of the assassination has not been identified. Luce instructed the Captain to notify the FBI. He later told Luce he had contacted the FBI and that he was immediately leaving the country. It is alleged this same group plotted to use dart guns which fired darts containing fluid intended to cause an individual to act in a peculiar manner. These darts were to be used against American tourists in France to create the impression that it was caused by some strange malady. The purpose was to discourage tourism and upset the international balance of payments. There is no information concerning names of individuals involved or time period. There is also the possibility that a dart of this nature was to be used against former French President DeGaulle. Note: On May 16, 1975, Deputy Attorney General Harold Tyler advised that he had received the above information from Roderick Hills, Assistant Counsel to the President.

Claire Booth Luce told journalist Veda Glasser:

I am a great friend of Bill Pawley. Pawley had been the Ambassador to several countries including Brazil. I got to know him well in China and India before we were in the war, because he had put together a thing called Flying Tigers which was a mercenary air force which for some time was the only air force fighting the Japanese in the orient. Bill Pawley was an American born in Cuba. Bilingual. He was used by the CIA before the Bay of Pigs to recruit Cubans for the operation. When the Bay of Pigs flopped, and before the nuclear showdown, Bill came to see me, and I suppose a number of others, and said 'Let's have a Cuban Flying Tigers,' but we used motorboats. Bill gathered a fleet of motor boats that took off from Key West to Miami, manned by these young Cubans, three to a boat, at least my boat had three. They would go into Cuba and bring back information about what was going on after Bay of Pigs. They brought back the first news of the missiles. We fed this to Ken Keating. On the basis of the news they brought back I wrote an article for Life in which I said this is going to happen and it will come to force. This was a month or two before the nuclear showdown in 1962. Anyhow, every now and then, maybe three times, my crew came to New York. Wonderful young Cubans determined to liberate their country. I got to know them fairly well. Then came the nuclear showdown and the President made his deal with Khrushchev. Bill Pawley was notified and word went down the line that the United States has now invoked the Neutrality Act, been on the books since 1923, and no one may leave the United States for any kind of mission in Cuba. Okay, that was it and the operation was off. No more free Cuba. That was in 1962 (year of the missile crisis). I never saw my young Cubans again.

[On the night of November 22, 1963] my maid came and said Julio Fernandez (one of the young Cubans, can't remember if that was his name) called, very urgent. He had to talk to you about the assassination of the President. He was calling from New Orleans. He said, 'I was with your boat crew.' Said, 'Mrs. Luce, I must tell you something of tremendous importance. When the Bay of Pigs was over, government people came down to Miami and told us all we had had it as far as liberating Cuba. That we must disperse (you know they tried to break the Free Cuba Units in Miami).' He said 'I and these two fellows who were his pals, one a lawyer, one a doctor, came to New Orleans and opened a Free Cuba cell. We recruited, looked for people who would still work with us. Still determined to free Cuba although told to get out of Miami.' He said 'This fellow OSWALD came into our cell, and said he wanted to join. Said he had tried to be a communist, had become disillusioned. Said he could shoot Castro for us. Claimed to be the greatest shot in the world with a telescopic lens. We looked into him. He didn't have a dime. No money at all.

We thought he was a crackpot. We thought also he might be a Soviet agent. So we just babied him along, and dropped him. Then we decided to follow him. He had the communist cell. We penetrated his cell, and took a tape recorder with us. He would get up there and say he could shoot anyone, including the Navy Secretary. We thought he was a little mad. Then he suddenly seemed to have a little money. We were interested because we thought his communist cell was getting some money. He kept going to Mexico City. He came back from Mexico City and went to Dallas.

He said 'We have a tape recording of the things he said in that cell. We also have some photographs of him passing out communist handbills on the street. I'm telling you all things, because I think he is a Cuban agent, and he shot the President at Castro's instigation. What shall I do with the information?' "I said 'What you do is call the FBI at once. Don't waste a minute. Go right in and call up the FBI. Then in San Francisco with my husband, when Garrison in New Orleans suddenly hits the headlines by saying there was a conspiracy to assassinate Kennedy. But didn't say who. Then I began for the first time to recall that night and things told to me.

I thought I wonder if Garrison knows anything about the cell OSWALD ran in New Orleans. I got Garrison on the phone. No I didn't get Garrison because right away I knew I didn't have the boys names. So I called Bill Pawley. He tracked one of them down for me and gave me his telephone number and address. I called up Garrison. Told him just what I have told you. Hadn't been talking to him more than ten minutes when I said that fellow isn't serious, a phony, disorientated, as if he was making some sort of political pitch. Then I called up my young Cuban, reminding him of the conversation. This was about 3 or 4 years after. Said 'What happened that night?' He said, 'Mrs. Luce, we did just what you said. We got it all to the FBI. They came, took our tape recordings, took our photographs. Told us to damn well keep our mouths shut until the FBI sent for us. When the Warren Commission came on I was enormously interested thinking they would send for us, or ask us for a deposition. We never heard a thing.' He said, 'Mrs. Luce, I am married. I am a lawyer with a very successful practice in Miami. I have two children. The two other chaps, one was suddenly deported and one was murdered - stabbed to death in front of a shop window in Miami. I don't want any part of the Kennedy assassination. You couldn't torture it out of me.' "What do I make of all that? I do not make of it what these wretches on T.V. make of it. My impression is that OSWALD was hired by the Cubans to assassinate Kennedy and that makes sense because the Castro Government must have known - in fact he said so - that he thought the Americans were trying to assassinate him.

This was different than the initial report, since it characterized OSWALD as pro-Castro.

FONZI INTERVIEWS LUCE

During those early morning hours she received a telephone call from one of her boys in New Orleans. He was wildly excited. He told her all the crew had been told by the authorities to get out of Miami. He and the other two crew members transferred their efforts to New Orleans where they had a Free Cuba cell. OSWALD penetrated their cell a few months prior to the assassination, bragged about his marksmanship and that he had recently returned from Russia and wanted to work for their Free Cuba Committee and join their cell. The young caller told Luce that his group did not 'like the cut of his jib.' They resented OSWALD'S assumption that they would hire someone to kill anyone. OSWALD said he could shoot the Secretary of the Navy. They kidded him along for a while. OSWALD wanted money and they told him they did not have enough for him. The boys then infiltrated the Fair Play for Cuba Committee in New Orleans. OSWALD spoke at a meeting and repeated that he could shoot anybody but added that he was a Communist. The Cubans then began to follow him around. [NARA HSCA 180-10099-10300]

The CIA was concerned about this flap, and put together a 1977 Task Force Report on Luce's reported contact with the DRE. During a tape recorded telephone conversation between Luce and William Colby, Colby requested: "I wondered if you could (slice?) off that New Orleans thing (and not go any further on that?)." Note that whoever called Claire Booth Luce knew about OSWALD'S trip to Mexico City before it appeared in the media.

JOSE ANTONIO GONZALEZ LANUSA GOBEL AKA "CHILO"

The FBI checked its files in 1975 and found that in 1967, Claire Booth Luce had told New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison that Jose Antonio Lanusa [201-339258], a leader of the DRE, knew about OSWALD'S activities before the assassination. Jose Antonio Lanusa denied this to New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison, and stated that all he knew about OSWALD prior to the assassination had been furnished by CARLOS BRINGUIER. HEMMING knew Jose Antonio Lanusa. Jose Antonio Lanusa, interviewed by the HSCA in 1978, recalled that on November 22, 1963, he and a small group of DRE members were at a Miami Beach hotel when they heard the news of the assassination. When OSWALD'S name was broadcast, he recalled the name as that of someone who had something to do with a delegate of the DRE. They went to their office and found BRINGUIER'S report from New Orleans, detailing his encounter with OSWALD. With it was a sample Fair Play for Cuba Committee leaflet, and a tape of OSWALD'S radio broadcast. One of them telephoned the CIA. FBI S.A. James J. O'Conner, who handled DRE matters in Miami, and conducted 16 interviews with Cuban exiles after the assassination, visited DRE headquarters the next day and was given all the material on OSWALD the DRE possessed. S.A. James O'Conner refused to give them a receipt for the material, nor was it ever returned. Jose Antonio Lanusa also related he had been introduced to Claire Booth Luce in 1962 by Justin McCarthy, the public relations contact for the DRE with the major New York media. Luce later wanted to publish a story about the DRE for remuneration of $600. According to Jose Antonio Lanusa, that was the only contact the DRE had with Claire Booth Luce. He found it doubtful she had paid for the speedboats. Jose Antonio Lanusa was the Subject of Inter-Source Registry No. 9518. A note dated October 29, 1962, in Jose Antonio Lanusa's CIA file, said there was no present contact with Subject. [FBI Miami 87-8756 George Davis 2.23.62] According to a document dated November 1, 1968: "SD 10658 is terminated without prejudice by the Department of the Army and additional information should be referred to the Army Source Registry." When Senator Richard Schweiker contacted the FBI about BRINGUIER/Luce he was informed: "CARLOS BRINGUIER, a DRE leader, appeared before the Warren Commission. He provided information relative to his group's contact with OSWALD during the Summer of 1963." [FBI 62-109060-7654 EBF enclosure w/h]

Jose Antonio Lanusa circulated the same story as Salvador Diaz Verson that linked Castro to OSWALD. [CIA 457-772] FBI S.A. James O'Conner questioned Jose Antonio Lanusa. The CIA insisted that his reports could not be declassified. [FBI 62-109090 NR 8.29.64] On November 23, 1963, Jose Antonio Lanusa, told FBI S.A. James O'Conner that on the evening of November 22, 1963, he had been in telephonic conversation with Paul Bethel. The two men discussed the possibility of Fidel Castro having ordered President Kennedy's assassination. The CIA reported that the attempts of the local FBI to determine the source of Jose Antonio Lanusa's information was "thwarted by Lanusa who used series pretexts when contacted to avoid naming sources and ultimately stated he had to check matter out with JMWAVE before divulging information. Local FBI called JMWAVE for assistance...JMWAVE had instructed the DRE not to dramatize facts, or attempt to slant news, but DRE continues pursue course of action...hope FBI query may inhibit future DRE spokesmen from making slanted or dramatic statements." [CIA D:200-5-41] Dr. Guillermo Belt, the former Cuban Ambassador to the United States from 1945 to 1947 advised the Washington Field Office of the FBI on November 26, 1963, that he had received a call from Jose Antonio Lanusa November 25, 1963 last, in connection Subject. Lanusa advised Subject appeared in Miami one or two months ago and attempted to infiltrate anti-Castro organization DRE. Subject stated he could train DRE members in guerrilla warfare to be used against Castro. Subject later observed in New Orleans passing out Communist literature and therefore labeled Communist and Castro supporter. DRE had nothing further to do with Subject." [FBI DL 89-43-699 NARA FBI 124-10159-10416] Jose Antonio Lanusa later retracted his statement that linked OSWALD to Castro.

LUIS FERNANDEZ-ROCHA RODRIGUEZ

Luis Fernandez-Rocha Rodriguez
(Formerly AMTOPIC-2, AMHINT-53)
DPOB: May 3, 1939, Havana
201-316766

DRE leader Luis Fernandez-Rocha Rodriguez (born May 3, 1939; 201-316766), was formerly a pre-medical student at the University of Havana. He was granted a Provisional Operational Approval on April 18, 1962. He quit his job as Secretary of the DRE in July 1964 to pursue his medical studies: He was paid his final salary payment of $425 on September 1, 1964, under the DRE PROJECT. He was to do some unwitting work for JMHOPE, Swan Island propaganda broadcasting, and WIBALDA. There was no further indication in file that he was terminated, no quit claim, no OA or POA cancellation. However there is no information on his use since 1964. Per document dated June 7, 1965 he was studying at University of Miami and worked as a switchboard operator. According to Cuban Families Yearbook of 1974 Dr. Luis Fernandez Rocha is living in Hialeah, Florida with wife and four children. He became a naturalized US citizen in September 1967.

Was "Julio Fernandez," referred to by Claire Booth Luce, Luis Fernandez-Rocha or Jose Antonio Lanusa? Or was he Juan Francisco Blanco-Fernandez?

BRINGUIER told the HSCA he never engaged in any paramilitary activities, knew Clare Booth Luce only by reputation, had never contacted her personally, and never told her anything about his experiences with OSWALD. During a follow-up telephone call he added that no one in the DRE had contact with Clare Booth Luce and that "the Committee would go down the drain like the rest of the country." [Outside Contact Report 12.2.78 Johnathan Blackmer; BRINGUIER telephone 504-523-5605] The HSCA concluded: "The evidence indicates that the Luce allegations, although related to certain facts, cannot be substantiated in the absence of corroboration by other individuals."

THE DEATH OF WILLIAM PAWLEY

On February 20, 1964, the Chief, SAS, (Special Affairs Staff) requested that Pawley be granted a POA for use by JMWAVE on a continuing basis. In May 1964, Victor R. White granted the POA. On April 30, 1975, William Pawley became of interest to the CIA's Western Hemisphere Division:

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

SUBJECT: WILLIAM DOUGLAS PAWLEY

SF # 078 435

1. Subject, a U.S. citizen and former U.S. Ambassador to two Latin American countries, was of interest to the Director of the Central Intelligence Agency circa 1952 to 1954, apparently in connection with Agency operational requirements. In 1959 Subject again became of operational interest to the Western Hemisphere Division in connection with the Agency's activities directed against Cuba. At that time Subject was an executive with a private corporation in Miami, Florida. Subject was granted a Covert Security Approval in connection with WH Division's interest circa December 1959.

2. On October 7, 1959 the Chief WH Division requested the Office of Security to install an audio mike and wire devices in Subject's Miami Office for the purpose of making available to WH Division representatives in Miami detailed reports of conversations held by subject with his numerous contacts among Caribbean revolutionary groups, especially anti-Castro Cuban exile leaders." Cited request from the Chief, WH Division, indicated that Subject is a personal friend of the then DCI and that he had cooperated with the Agency in the past. Subject's file also indicates that the then DCI was made aware of the planned audio installation.

3. Subject's file specifically states that the audio mike and wire was to be installed in Subject's office desk in such a manner that subject could activate the recording device while talking to foreign nationals. The file reflects that subject was not only witting of the mike and wire installation but was in complete control of the equipment.

4. Cited mike and wire installation was made on October 15, 1959 by employees of the Office of Security field office. Subject's file does not reflect when or if the audio equipment was removed from Subject's office. However a report dated January 1961 indicates that the equipment was in operation as of that time as two Office of Security employees were dispatched to Miami, Florida, to repair certain audio equipment which was malfunctioning.

5. Subject's file does not reflect the results given to WH Division representatives. Subject appears to have remained of interest to the WH Division and to the DCI until as late as 1964. [CIA D-00780]

On January 8, 1977, William Pawley shot himself in the chest at the age of 80. The bullet passed through his lungs, but he was still alive when the ambulance reached his home on Sunset Island, Miami. He died in the emergency ward of Mount Sinai Hospital after suffering excruciating pain. Pawley left a suicide note asked the forgiveness of his wife. Anita Pawley, his niece and secretary, said he had been suffering from shingles, a painful disease of the nerve endings. Pawley was not questioned by the HSCA as to the identities of his crew. HEMMING told this researcher:

Pawley was hit. People thought the cocksucker was going to come around and admit to having thrown some money into a fucking pot. Pawley had been blackmailed. People were shaking him down. I found one of the groups that blackmailed his ass. They were pseudo-assassins, and he had already paid them a chunk of money. You want me to come forth and make a clean breast of the affair? Look at how many people paid for it, got fucked, and got killed.

HEMMING was asked if this blackmail related to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. HEMMING:

It wasn't being put that way to him. It was being put that he had helped finance an operation like OPERATION CRYPT and that these people were demanding some satisfaction for loss of family members. A couple of them hinted it had something to do with Dallas. I talked to him when I came back from Peru in 1970. Nathaniel Weyl was there. There was nothing happening on Kennedy in 1970 at all.

CHARLES STEELE'S STORY

OSWALD was again observed distributing pro-Castro literature on August 16, 1963. He hired two men from a local employment agency to help him pass out his leaflets:

I hired persons to distribute literature. I then organized persons who displayed receptive attitudes towards Cuba to distribute pamphlets...I caused the formation of a small, active, Fair Play for Cuba Committee organization of members and sympathizers where before there was none...I sought response from Latin American consuls of which there are many here in New Orleans...

One of these men was Charles Hall Steele, Jr., born November 5, 1943. On November 24, 1963, Charles Hall Steele, appeared at the New Orleans FBI Office in the company of his father, who is a Civil Deputy Sheriff in New Orleans, a Major in the Louisiana National Guard, and a candidate of Central Democratic Committee.

Charles Steele Jr. stated that on Friday August 16, 1963, he went to the Louisiana Employment Service, a State Agency, with his girl friend who was to take a typing examination. While waiting in the reception room for her to take the examination Steele was approached by an individual who Steele believed told Steele, his name was OSWALD. OSWALD asked Steele if Steele would be interested in making two dollars for about fifteen to twenty minutes work distributing leaflets. Steele stated he agreed, and met OSWALD at noon in front of the International Trade Mart Building, at which time OSWALD handed Steele some leaflets to distribute. Steele Jr. stated he did not look at the leaflets, but began handing them out to passerbys, and when he had distributed all of the leaflets he returned to OSWALD who was also passing out leaflets and OSWALD gave Steele a few more to distribute. Steele stated he then looked at the leaflets and discovered there was some wording to the effect "Hands Off Cuba." Steele stated he believed the leaflets to be communist in nature, threw them in a trash can and told OSWALD he wanted to talk with him. Steele stated that he and OSWALD then went into the foyer of the International Trade Mart Building where he asked OSWALD if these were not communist leaflets and was advised by OSWALD that it was a group connected with Tulane University. Steele stated he told OSWALD he wanted nothing further to do with the leaflets, was paid two dollars by OSWALD and departed.

Steele Jr. stated when OSWALD met him in front of the International Trade Mart Building, OSWALD was accompanied by another person described as white male, 19 to 20 years of age, about six feet, slender build, dark hair, olive complexion. Steele stated this individual was distributing some of the leaflets but did not appear to have any conversation with OSWALD, and it was Steele's impression that this person had also been hired in the same manner as Steele. Steele stated he could not identify this individual should he see him again. Steele stated he has had no prior contact with OSWALD nor any subsequent contact with him and knows nothing further concerning him. Steele, Jr. identified photograph of OSWALD as person for whom he distributed leaflets. Indices concerning Steele, Jr. his father, and his girl friend, Charline Stouff, negative. [FBI NARA 124-10248-10130; FBI NO 89-69-70 11.24.63]

On August 20, 1963, the New Orleans FBI Office received a letter from Jesse Core, the FBI contact at the International Trade Mart. The letter contained one of OSWALD'S "The Crime Against Cuba" leaflets that was stamped FPCC 544 CAMP STREET NEW ORLEANS LA." [FBI File No. 97-74-1A-1 A 5 181-10315] S.A. DeBRUEYS, who was in charge investigating the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, conducted no investigation. Mrs. M.D. Stevens of the CIA'S Security Research Section reported that one SRS Card existed on Jesse Core.

CARLOS QUIROGA

Carlos Quiroga (born January 27, 1936), was a member of the Cuban Revolutionary Front. His father was imprisoned in Cuba. His mother still lived there. Carlos Quiroga, who resided at 3134 Derby Place, New Orleans, Louisiana, was FBI New Orleans informant NO T-5. On November 27, 1963, Carlos Quiroga told the FBI that he

"...is acquainted with CARLOS BRINGUIER, DRE, New Orleans, and was aware of the arrest of BRINGUIER and two other Cubans along with LEE HARVEY OSWALD on August 9, 1963...Approximately a week later, August 16, 1963, he was seated in Thompson's Restaurant when the representative of Puerto Rico, who has an office in the International Trade Mart showed him Fair Play for Cuba Committee handbill telling Quiroga these handbills were being passed out in front of International Trade Mart. Quiroga notified police, but police arrived too late, and person passing out handbills had gone.

Carlos Quiroga drove to the address listed on the handbill. When OSWALD saw Carlos Quiroga was Cuban, he allegedly said: "Don't hit me. If you are coming as a friend come in." He said he met with OSWALD for about an hour. OSWALD told him Castro was not a dictator; all Cuban exiles were criminals; he hated Anastasio Somoza and believed that he should be eliminated; if the United States invaded Cuba, he would fight with Fidel Castro.

OSWALD claimed to be a student of language at Tulane University and to be the delegate for the Fair Play for Cuba Committee in New Orleans. He claimed that he was conducting private meetings, and would be proud to have Quiroga join them. He did not identify the place of the meeting or any other alleged members of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. Carlos Quiroga learned that OSWALD had a Russian wife, and he spoke Russian. Carlos Quiroga was given a membership application to the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. Following this conversation, Carlos Quiroga contacted Lt. Branch Martello of the New Orleans Police Department and offered to infiltrate the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, but he received no encouragement from him, and so took no further action. [FBI 62-109060-466,5263,5218, 105-82555-5263A, LHM 2.21.67]

Marina Oswald told the FBI that "after the conversation, OSWALD told her that he strongly suspected that the man who had come was an anti-Castro Cuban pretending he was pro-Castro." Carlos Quiroga, contacted in 1994, stated:

He was a pro-Castroite, a Communist and a Marxist, that's a fact. I want to find out who in the hell was with him? I don't want to get into anything that hasn't appeared elsewhere unless I know...Talk to CARLOS BRINGUIER. I talked to Carlos about a month ago about Posner. He wrote a very damn good book. I try to stay away from people who put a bunch of lies in their books.

HOMOSEXUAL AND POSSIBLE DOUBLE AGENT

The CIA reported that Carlos Quiroga was possibly identifiable with Carlos Quiroga, a former student at Louisiana State University

...who was a candidate for the Agency Student Recruitment Program. This involved recruitment of Cuban students in the US who would return to Cuba as agent in place. JMWAVE traces reflect an individual of the same name was an electrical engineer, residing at 3134 Derby Place, New Orleans, in December 1964. Subject reportedly had homosexual tendencies, low morals, and until the middle of 1961, was an ardent Castro supporter and made anti-US statements. There is no indication that he was ever employed by the Agency in any capacity."

A CIA document stated: On the basis of the foregoing, the possibility is suggested that Quiroga may be, or may have been, a penetration of the Cuban Revolutionary Front on behalf of Cuban intelligence." The CIA Office of Security Indices Results: "Subject's security file contains FBI reports on internal security investigation on Subject in 1960. Allegations that he was a plant by Castro in anti-Castro groups in U.S. were explored. (Deleted) Subject's file reflects that he was covertly investigated in 1964 in connection with a POA for use by JMATE in Miami and Cuba; and cancellation of his clearance is dated October 13, 1965. His file contains no information to indicate connection to the Lacombe, Louisiana area.

ANGLETON

A document signed by James Hunt for JAMES ANGLETON elaborated on the double agent theory. This document concerned Carlos Quiroga's interview on July 20, 1967, with New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison and pointed to these statements:

"At the same time, the only reason I did not -- of course I was with the other group too..."

"Quiroga refers to his 'fight against the Warren Commission' and makes an obscure reference to trying to 'infiltrate this organization.'"

"Quiroga gave someone named Juan, not further identified, the same name of one Paneque, who seems to have been in charge of the military training camp in LaCombe, Louisiana, in 1963. Quiroga also gave Juan 'the names of all the people I have been carrying in my pocket for last four years...'"

"Quiroga: 'I'm a Cuban and don't want to betray my country.'" [CSCI 316/03521-67]

Carlos Quiroga stated during a telephone interview with this researcher: "All this is false. I was never in the Recruitment Program, and was never employed by the CIA. Somebody wrote some bullshit. I never been a homosexual in my life." He was asked if he had been a Castro supporter. "When I was at Louisiana State University, when I finish up in 1960, in 1961 I could not be - my father was in prison against Castro. In 1961, before Batista was overthrown, I was not really pro-Castro, I was against Batista. I never was a Castro agent."

Jim Garrison arranged for Quiroga to undergo a polygraph examination. "Results: Subject was given five test. Test #1. After careful analysis of this Subject's first polygram it is the opinion of the examiner that he has specific reactions indicative of deception to the relevant question under examination. Question #4. Do you have any first hand knowledge of the conspiracy to assassinate President Kennedy? Answer No. Test #2. After careful analysis of this Subject's second polygram it is the opinion of the examiner that he gave specific reactions indicative of deception to the relevant questions under examination: Question #2. In the Summer of 1963 did you see OSWALD with any Latin decent Subject? Question #3. Isn't it a fact that you knew that the Fair Play for Cuba Committee was in reality part of an anti-Castro operation?" [NARA 180-10088-10483]

Another CIA document stated: "In 1961 Carlos Quiroga, then a student, met David Ferrie through Sergio Arcacha Smith, who was often with Ferrie. Ferrie lent Sergio Arcacha Smith money." Carlos Quiroga felt Sergio Arcacha Smith had "made sacrifices for the anti-Castro cause" and gave the family of Sergio Arcacha Smith "food money."

[RYBAT SECRET Unmarked CIA document] Carlos Quiroga:

I don't want to discuss this with anyone for a book unless I know who is writing, and what they are writing for. I was unhappy with the Garrison investigation, I know that whole thing was a fraud. I tried to get the Justice Department to go after Garrison for what he did. I don't want to discuss this time in my life over the telephone." Carlos Quiroga told the HSCA that: "When I had finished up school in August 1961, I had gone to see an FBI Agent. I went to the FBI office to find out which Cubans were active at that time in New Orleans. And I had an interview with Agent DeBRUEYS, and he referred me to an office which was right across the street from the FBI Office, by the Balter Building. And that's how I got in touch with Smith, which, at that time, was the Delegate of the Cuban Revolutionary Front in New Orleans.

HEMMING told this researcher: "Quiroga's cousin was one of the top aviation guys in Miami. He had the same name. A top CIA operator."

QUIROGA, BRANIGAN AND SULLIVAN

The SAC of the New Orleans FBI Office sent this memo to file:

On November 27, 1963, at 11:21 p.m. Supervisor Bill Branigan called and stated he was calling for Assistant Director William C. Sullivan. Branigan stated that (Deleted) who is acquainted with Assistant Director Sullivan has advised that Carolos Quiroga of New Orleans (no address available) had allegedly penetrated OSWALD'S organization. According to (Deleted) Quiroga can be located through CARLOS BRINGUIER. [FBI NO 89-69-323]

WILLIAM STUCKEY, BRINGUIER AND OSWALD

Jenner: How did you learn about the Fair Play for Cuba Committee?

Stuckey: Most of the organizations that I had contact with were refugee organizations, very violently anti-Castro groups, and there were a number of them in New Orleans. These people were news sources for me also. I used them quite frequently. One day, I think it was [August 9, 1963] I was in the bank and I ran across a refugee friend of mine by the name of BRINGUIER. BRINGUIER told me-

Jenner: Excuse me. Identify Mr. BRINGUIER.

Stuckey: Mr. BRINGUIER at that time was the New Orleans delegate to the Revolutionary Student Directorate which was an anti-Castro group with headquarters in Miami. He also ran a clothing store called Casa Roca. He was an attorney in Havana before the revolution, the Cuban Revolution of 1958, and had been very active ever since I have known him in New Orleans in anti-Castro activity. I had interviewed him on a number of occasions in connection with Cuban current events. Mr. BRINGUIER ran into me in the bank, and I spoke to him, and he said that a representative of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee had appeared in New Orleans, and that he had an encounter with him shortly before.

Jenner: That interested you?

Stuckey: Yes, very, very much because I knew something of the reputation of this group. I regarded them as being about the leading pro-Castro organization in this country, a propaganda organ for Castro forces, and I had done a considerable amount of reading Congressional testimony, articles and this sort of thing about their activities. BRINGUIER said he had an encounter with a young man who was representing the Fair Play for Cuba Committee in New Orleans.

Jenner: You had known BRINGUIER and had contact with him; had he ever been on your program up to this moment that you spoke of?

Stuckey: No; he had never been on my program, but, as a newspaperman, I had contacted him quite frequently for information.

Jenner: Proceed.

Stuckey: He told me that - this was in the bank - a few days before - I don't recall exactly -

Jenner: This was a chance meeting?

Stuckey: This was a chance meeting with Mr. BRINGUIER. I was cashing my paycheck and BRINGUIER told me a few days before he had run into this fellow in his store, this Casa Roca - this young man had approached him.

Jenner: A young man had come in?

Stuckey: A young man. At the time he had mentioned no name. If he had, it wouldn't have made any difference to me because the name meant nothing. He said a young man came in, introduced himself and said he was a veteran of the Marine Corps, he had just gotten out, and that he was very disturbed by the Cuban situation and wanted to do something about hurting Castro, or trying to change the regime...Now this young man said somehow he knew BRINGUIER was connected with the Revolutionary Student Directorate, how, I don't know. But, at any rate, as I said, he offered his services. Then he presented a Marine Corps Handbook to BRINGUIER. He said "This might help you in your guerilla activities and such. This is my own personal Marine Corps Handbook" which BRINGUIER accepted. BRINGUIER told me that sometime after that, I don't recall exactly how long it was, he was walking on Canal Street, the main street of New Orleans, about a block away from his store, and he ran into this young man again. This time he was distributing literature, handbills, and the handbills said, "Hands Off Cuba."...It was this same young man. BRINGUIER, who was a rather excitable fellow, and he couldn't understand why this fellow was now distributing pro-Castro literature, whereas a short time before he had posed as an anti-Castro man. So BRINGUIER got in a shouting match with him on the street corner, and I think some blows were exchanged, I'm not sure...So I mentioned to BRINGUIER that I was interested in locating this fellow and talking to him. BRINGUIER gave me his address.

BRINGUIER and Stuckey's meeting did not happen by chance. BRINGUIER made sure it happened so that he could help OSWALD promote himself as a pro-Castro figure. BRINGUIER aroused Stuckey's curiosity in OSWALD and gave Stuckey OSWALD'S name and address. Why was BRINGUIER promoting the ideology he abhorred?

STUCKEY VISITS OSWALD

On August 17, 1963, William Stuckey visited OSWALD at his apartment on Magazine Street to invite OSWALD to appear on his radio program. William Stuckey told the Warren Commission:

I didn't meet him until August 17, 1963, at which time I went by his house on Magazine Street to ask him to appear on my program. This was early in the morning, about 8:00 a.m. I went early because I wanted to get him before he left. It was a Saturday. I knocked on the door and this young fellow came out, without a shirt. He had a pair of Marine Corps fatigue trousers on. I asked him 'Are you LEE OSWALD?' And he said, 'Yes.' I introduced myself and told him I would like to have him on my program that night. So he asked me in on the porch. This was a screened porch and I had a very brief chat. He said he would ask me inside for some coffee but his wife and his baby were sleeping so we had better talk out on the porch...So we had a few cursory remarks there about the organization. He showed me his membership card to the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, and it was signed by A. Hidell, president...OSWALD was identified on the card as secretary...he showed me the Fair Play for Cuba membership card. I asked him about the membership of this organization, and he said there were quite few, quite a few members. The figure 12 or 13 sticks in my head. There were that many officers or something like that, 12 or 13 people he mentioned that he was responsible to, or active workers, something like that, although I guess I shouldn't mention it until I have a more coherent idea of why he used that. Also, as I recall, he was very vehement, insisting he was not the President, but was the secretary, and that was the occasion in which he pulled out his card showing that he was secretary, not the president, and that this other gentleman, Hidell, was the president...the name meant nothing to me at all, the name never occurred to me again, I never thought of the name again, until after the assassination when Mr. Henry Wade of Dallas on television on a Sunday mentioned that OSWALD purchased a rifle from a Chicago mail order house and used the name A. Hidell in purchasing the rifle. When he said 'A. Hidell' it hit me like it was a light bulb over my head. I recalled the name. Otherwise I would never have remembered the name." Warren Commission Counsel Albert Jenner asked Stuckey: "Did that strike you in any special way that he was apparently careful to point out to you that he was secretary instead of President?" Stuckey responded "No it made no impression on me, none whatsoever. It seemed logical. He appeared to be a very logical, intelligent fellow, and the only strange thing about him was his organization. This was, seemed incongruous to me, that he should associate with this type of group, because he did not seem the type at all, or at least what I have in my mind as the type or he should associate with a group of this type, because he did not seem to fit the type at all or at least what I have gotten in my mind as the type. I would like to mention this. I was arrested by his cleancutness. I expected a folk-singer type, something of that kind, somebody with a beard and sandals, and he said - I found this fellow who was neat and clean and watched himself pretty well. He seemed to be very conscious about all of his words, all of his movements, sort of very deliberate. He was very deliberate with his words and struck me as being rather articulate. He was the type of person you would say would inspire confidence. This was the incongruity that struck me, the fact that this type of person should be with this organization. That is the gist of the first meeting. I asked him to meet me at the radio station that afternoon about 5:00 p.m. for the interview and he agreed. This was to be a recorded interview prior to the broadcast [done] to avoid the possibility of errors. It is a risky business going on live."

Stuckey's preliminary interview last 32 minutes. He condensed it down to five minutes. The condensed tape of OSWALD was broadcast on William Stuckey's radio program, Latin American Listening Post on August 17, 1963.

It was interesting to note that Stuckey was suspicious of OSWALD because OSWALD did not look the part. OSWALD looked more like an INTERPEN member in his Marine fatigues, than a member of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. OSWALD insisted he was the secretary, not the president, of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, to divert Stuckey's attention from other issues, such as whether the organization had charter from the national office, if it had members, meetings, and demonstrations.

OSWALD'S INTERVIEW WITH STUCKEY

Stuckey: This is the first of a series of Latin Listening Post interviews of persons more or less directly concerned with the conflict between the United States and Cuba. In subsequent programs, we will present talks with people who are connected with the Cuban Refugee Organizations, people who are connected with President Batista, and United States citizens with direct stakes in the outcome of the Cuban situation. Tonight we have with us a representative of probably the most controversial organization connected with Cuba in this country. The organization is the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. The person, LEE OSWALD, Secretary of the New Orleans Chapter for the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. This organization has long been on the Justice Department's blacklist and is a group generally considered to be the leading pro-Castro body in the nation. As a reporter for Latin American affairs in this city for several years now, your columnist has kept a lookout for local representatives of this pro-Castro group. None appeared in public until this week when young LEE OSWALD was arrested and convicted for disturbing the peace. He was arrested passing out pro-Castro literature to a crowd which included several violently anti-Castro Cuban refugees. When we finally tracked Mr. OSWALD down today and asked him to participate in Latin Listening Post, he told us frankly that he would, because it may help his organization to attract more members in this area. With that in mind, and knowing that Mr. OSWALD must have had to demonstrate a great skill in dialectics before he was entrusted with his present post, we now proceed on the course of random questioning of Mr. OSWALD. Mr. OSWALD, if I may, how long has the Fair Play for Cuba Committee had an organization in New Orleans?

OSWALD: We have had members in this area for several months now up until about two months ago, however, we have not organized our members into any sort of active group, until, as you say, we had decided to feel out the public, what they think of our organization, our aims and for what purpose we have been as you said, distributing literature on the street for the purpose of trying to attract new members and feel out the public.

Stuckey: Do you have any other activities other than distributing literature at the present time?

OSWALD: Well, I assume you mean do I have any organizational duties myself?

Stuckey: Yes.

OSWALD: Yes, as secretary I am responsible for the keeping of the records and the protection of the member's names so that undue publicity or attention will not be drawn to them, as they do not desire it. My duties are the duties of a secretary of any organization. However, our organization has a president, a secretary and a treasurer. The duties of those people would be more or less self evident than those that are my duties. I do not however belong to any other organizations at all.

Stuckey: Are you at liberty to reveal the membership of your organization?

OSWALD: No, I am not.

Stuckey: For what reason?

OSWALD: Well, as secretary, I believe it is standard operating procedure that our organization, consisting of a political minority, protect the names and addresses of its members and I have every, uh, that is my duty and that is my reason to do that.

Stuckey: Mr. OSWALD, there are many commentators in the journalistic field in this country that equate the Fair Play for Cuba Committee with the American Communist Party. What is your feeling about this and are you a member of the American Communist Party?

OSWALD: Well, the Fair Play for Cuba Committee with its headquarters at 799 Broadway in New York, has been investigated by the Senate Subcommittee who are occupied with this sort of thing. They have investigated our organization from the viewpoint of taxes, subversion, and allegiance and in general, where and how and why we exist. They have found absolutely nothing to connect us with the Communist Party of the United States. In regards to your question about whether, I, myself, am a Communist, as I said I do not belong to any other organization.

Stuckey: I notice from your pamphlets, one bears the title "Hands Off Cuba." I am curious as to whether this applies to the Soviet Union as well as to the United States.

OSWALD: This organization is not occupied at all with the problems of the Soviet Union or the problem of International Communism. 'Hands Off Cuba' is the main slogan of this committee. It means, it follows our first principle, which has to do with non-intervention, in other words keeping your hands off a foreign state which is supported by the Constitution and so forth and so on. We have our own non-intervention laws, that is what 'Hands Off Cuba' means. And as I say, we are not occupied with the problems of the Soviet Union.

Stuckey: Does your group believe that the Castro regime in Cuba is not actually a front for a Soviet Colony in the Western Hemisphere?

OSWALD: Very definitely. Castro is an independent leader of an independent country. He has ties with the Soviet Union, with the Eastern Bloc, however I think it is rather obvious as to why and when they are because of the fact that we certainly don't have any trade with them. We are discouraging trade with that country, with our allies and so forth, so of course he has to turn to Russia. That does not however mean that he is dependent upon Russia. He receives trade from many countries including Great Britain to a certain extent, France, certain other powers in the Western Hemisphere. He is even trading with several of the more independent African states so that you cannot point at Castro and say that he is a Russian puppet. He is not. He is an independent person. An independent leader in his country and I believe that was pointed out very well during the October crisis when Castro very definitely said that although Premier Khrushchev had urged him to have on-site inspection at his rocket bases in Cuba, that Fidel Castro refused.

Stuckey: Do you feel that the Fair Play for Cuba Committee would maintain its present line as far as supporting Premier Castro if the Soviet Union broke relations with the Castro regime in Cuba?

OSWALD: We do not support the man. We do not support the individual. We support the idea of an independent revolution in the Western Hemisphere, free from American intervention. We do not support, as I say, the individual. If the Cuban people destroy Castro, or if he is otherwise proven to have betrayed his own revolution that will not have any bearing upon this committee. We are a committee who do believe that Castro has not, so far, betrayed his country.

ANALYSIS

1. When OSWALD said that the allegiance of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee had been investigated, he implied that the Fair Play for Cuba Committee had been accused of being part of Moscow's international spy network: "They have investigated our organization from the viewpoint of taxes, subversion, allegiance and in general, where and how and why we exist. They have found absolutely nothing to connect us with the Communist Party of the United States." OSWALD stated that no evidence of a tie to the Communist Party had been discovered, however, that did not mean that one did not exist.

2. OSWALD stated that America had its own non-intervention law supported by the Constitution: "We have our own non-intervention laws, that is what 'Hands Off Cuba' means." America had the Monroe Doctrine. The non-intervention law OSWALD referred to was the Neutrality Act Statutes which made it a crime for American citizens to involve themselves in a foreign conflict while under Federal jurisdiction. This law, which dated back to the 1800's, was used against STURGIS and Alexander Rorke.

3. OSWALD characterized the Fair Play for Cuba Committee in a way that better described the America First Committee. The America First Committee claimed it was not pro-German, but anti-interventionist. OSWALD claimed the Fair Play for Cuba Committee was not pro-Castro, but non-interventionist. OSWALD stated that the Fair Play for Cuba Committee did not support Fidel Castro. "We do not support the man. We do not support the individual." Why then did OSWALD ask V.T. Lee to send him a picture of Fidel Castro "suitable for framing?"

4. OSWALD never denied being a communist, he just denied being a member of the Communist Party: "In regards to your question about whether, I, myself, am a Communist, as I said I do not belong to any other organization."

5. Stuckey stated that OSWALD had to have demonstrated " a great skill in dialectics before he was entrusted with his present post." OSWALD was a rank and file member of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. He had no post. Stuckey never bothered to call the Fair Play for Cuba Committee in New York City and asked about OSWALD. He took OSWALD at his word.

Note that OSWALD stated that he did not wish undue publicity or attention will not be drawn to the other members of the New Orleans Chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, as they did not desire it. What other members? There were none. This was why OSWALD could not name them, not because of privacy considerations.

THE STUCKEY INTERVIEW CONTINUES

Stuckey: Do you believe that the Castro regime is a communist regime?

OSWALD: They have not, well they have said that they are a Marxist country, on the other hand so is Ghana, so is (sic) several other countries in Africa. Every country which emerges from a sort of a futile state as Cuba did, experiments, usually in socialism, in Marxism. For that matter, Great Britain has socialized medicine. You cannot say that Castro is a communist at this time, because he has not developed his country, his system, so far. He has not had the chance to become a communist. He is an experimenter, a person who is trying to find out the best way for his country. If he chooses a socialist or a Marxist or a communist way of life, that is something upon which only the Cuban people can pass. We do not have the right to pass on that. We have our own opinions, naturally, but we cannot exploit that system and say it is a bad one, it is a threat to our existence and go and try to destroy it. That would be against our principles of democracy.

Stuckey: As a representative of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, do you feel that capitalism in any form, or at least capitalism as we know it, has any place in the future of Cuba?

OSWALD: Well, so far the situation has developed where they, Cuba is irrevocably lost as far as capitalism goes and there will never be a capitalist regime again in Cuba. Cuba may go the way of Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia or it may go to the other extreme. It may go the way of China, in other words, a dogmatic communist system that depends on how we handle the matter here in the United States.

Stuckey: Does the Fair Play for Cuba Committee have any particular position in the Cuban, or rather the Chinese and Russian conflict? Has it taken sides as opposed to China's position in the conflict as opposed to Russia's position?

OSWALD: Well, no, we do not believe in international situations of that sort. As the name implies, Fair Play for Cuba Committee, we are occupied only with the narrow point of Cuba, the problem of Cuba and what it is to us. We are not occupied at all with the problems of the Chinese and Russians or the Yugoslavian Russian problems whatsoever.

Stuckey: I have here with me tonight, various pieces of literature that Mr. OSWALD has been distributing on street corners here in the last week. I would like to read to you some of the titles. The first is a yellow handbill entitled Hands Off Cuba. Join the Fair Play for Cuba Committee in New Orleans Charter Member Branch. There is another pamphlet by the name of "The Revolution must be a school on unfettered thought -- Fidel Castro. There is still another pamphlet entitled Fidel Castro Denounces Bureaucracy and Sectarianism. And a fourth pamphlet entitled Ideology and Revolution by Jean Paul Sartre. I am curious about the fifth pamphlet I have, Mr. OSWALD. This, to me, was most interesting. It is entitled "The Crime Against Cuba" by Corliss Lamont. The theme of this pamphlet is that the United States committed a grave injustice when it backed the Bay of Pigs invasion in 1961. Now it has probably a complete ideology here for the National Liberation Movement type of philosophy that we know of in the new countries. Picking among the paragraphs I see one here that I'd like to hear Mr. OSWALD'S comment on and I'd like to quote, "It is well to recall that the national emergency proclaimed by President Truman in 1950 during the Korean War is still in effect in the United States and has been utilized constantly for the curtailment of civil liberty." What is your comment about the veracity of this statement?

OSWALD: Well of course, that is the last paragraph of a very long page. That has to do with the fact that propaganda in the United States has slanted and shown Cuba and Castro to me to be in a very bad light. Now they have mentioned, the United States Government, has mentioned that Castro has declared an emergency in Cuba. He has not held elections for instance, because of the fact that there is an emergency situation in Cuba. Now the Castro Government is declaring that it is doing just what this points out. It is doing what we did in 1950 and you recall what happened in 1950. That was during the beginning of the Korean war when we felt that we were going to be in a very very dangerous situation. We adopted an emergency law which restricted newspapers, broadcasters, radio and TV from giving any opinions, any comments which were not already checked out by certain administrative Bureaus of the United States Government. That was under our emergency. At this time Fidel Castro has his emergency. It is because of us and our attitude and because the attitude of certain other people, certain other countries in Latin America, certain other countries. This is the parallel, the parallel which this is talking about. An emergency in our country at that time and an emergency in their country at this time.

Stuckey: Mr. OSWALD this is very interesting to me to find out about the restriction on newspapers in 1950 because I was in the newspaper business at that time and I do not recall seeing any such government bureau established in my office to tell us what to print. Exactly what do you have reference to?

OSWALD: Well, I have reference to the obvious fact that during war time haphazard guesses and information are not given by anyone. In regards to military strategical comments such as comments or leaks about new fronts or movements and so forth. News was controlled at that time to that extent as it is always controlled during a war or a national emergency, always.

Stuckey: Do you feel that news is controlled in the United States today regarding Cuba?

OSWALD: It is a self control, yes, imposed by most newspapers. Of course I don't know whether I am being fair but of course I would have to point to the Times Picayune-States Item syndicated, since it is the only paper we have in New Orleans and a very restricted paper it is. The Fair Play for Cuba Committee has often approached this paper with information or comments and this paper has consistently refused, because of the fact that it is sympathetic to the anti-Castro regime. It has systematically refused to print any objective matter, giving the other man's viewpoint about Cuba.

Stuckey: Would you care to list the dates and the persons who you talked to at the paper that refused to print your material?

OSWALD: I do not know the name of the reporter. I did speak to the City Editor. I spoke to him one week ago and I spoke with him yesterday, Friday, which was immediately after our demonstration when I and several other of my members had a demonstration in front of the International Trade Mart which was filmed by WDSU-TV and shown last night on the news. At that time, 2:00 I went to the Times Picayune, informed them of our demonstration, which was very well covered by WDSU-TV and they told me at that time that due to the fact that they were not sympathetic to this organization or to the aims and ideals of this organization that they would not print any information that I gave them. They did say that if I would care to write a letter to the editor they might put that in the letter to the editor column.

Stuckey: Mr. OSWALD, does it make any difference to you if any of the activities of the local branch of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee benefit the Communist Party or the goals of international Communism?

OSWALD: Well, that is what I believe you would term a loaded question. However, I will attempt to answer it. It is inconsistent with my ideals to support communism, my personal ideals. It is inconsistent with the ideals of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee to support the ideals of international communism. We are not occupied with that problem. We are occupied with the problem of Cuba. We do not believe under any circumstances that in supporting our ideals about Cuba, our pro-Castro ideals, we do not believe that it is inconsistent with believing in democracy. Quite the contrary. We believe that it is a necessity in supporting democracy to support Fidel Castro and his right to make his country anyway he wants to. No so much the right to destroy us of our rights about defense. In other words, we do not feel that we are supporting international communism or communism, in supporting Fidel Castro.

Stuckey: What other political leaders in Latin America do you feel fulfill the Fair Play for Cuba Committee's requirements for a democratic political leader?

OSWALD: Well, you know there's a funny story about Latin America. It goes something like this. Coffee, bananas, sugar and a few other products. In other words that refers to the so called banana countries which, like Cuba up to this time, had a one crop agriculture, a one crop economy and where did those crops go? They went to the United States. Now the attitude of those countries who are controlled by the United States, whose economy depends almost 100% upon how much money the United States pours into them, those countries cannot be expected to give an independent viewpoint on Cuba or Castro. The few countries which abstained at certain international inter-American meetings during the last year, are those countries which are big enough to support themselves. Those countries being only Brazil, Argentina and perhaps on some occasion the democratic republic of Costa Rica, which is, by the way, the only democratic republic in all of Central America.

Stuckey: What is your definition of democracy?

OSWALD: Well the definition of democracy, that's a very good one. That's a very controversial viewpoint. You know, it used to be very clear, but now it's not. You know when our forefathers drew up the Constitution, they considered that democracy was creating an atmosphere of freedom of discussion of argument, or finding the truth. The rights, well the classic right of having life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. In Latin America they have none of those rights, none of them at all. And that is my definition of democracy, the right to be in a minority and not be suppressed. The right to see for yourself without government restrictions such countries as Cuba and we are restricted from going to Cuba.

Stuckey: When was the last time you were in Latin America?

OSWALD: I have been only to Mexico in my life, sir. I am not fully acquainted with Latin America personally but then I am not the President of this organization either, I am only a volunteer, a secretary of this local chapter. I do not claim to be an expert on Latin America, but then very few people do. Certainly it is obvious to me, having been educated here in New Orleans and having been instilled with the ideas of democracy and objectiveness, that Cuba and the right of the Cubans to self-determination is more or less self evident and one does not have to travel through Central and South America. One does not have to travel through these countries to see the poverty in Chile or Peru or the suppression of democratic liberties between the Somoza brothers in Nicaragua in order to draw one's conclusion about Cuba.

Stuckey: Does the Fair Play for Cuba Committee have any opinion about the suppression of democratic liberties in Hungary in 1956 or the poverty in any of the Eastern Bloc countries today?

OSWALD: Officially no, but of course we have our own opinions about such situations. We consider that Russian imperialism is a very bad thing.

It was a bad thing in Hungary. We certainly do not support dictatorship or the suppression of any peoples anywhere, but as I say and as I must stress, we are preoccupied only with the problem of Cuba, officially.

Stuckey: Mr. OSWALD, you have the title of Secretary of the New Orleans Chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, however you have just said that you have never been to Latin America except for a few ventures into Mexico. In that case, just exactly how do you get your information concerning Latin American affairs or Latin American conditions?

OSWALD: Well, as I say we are preoccupied with the problems of Cuba. There are correspondents that correspond with the headquarters in New York, directly from Cuba, that is where we get the information about Cuba. Now in regards to Latin and Central America, you do not have your own correspondent there. The AP and the UP cover it very well and they certainly give a very clear picture of the situation in certain countries, Nicaragua etc., as I mentioned, which have very undemocratic regimes, dictatorships, and as I say these things are well known by everyone and they are accepted as truth. For instance, who will be able to find any official or any person who knows about Latin America who will say that Nicaragua does not have a dictatorship?

Stuckey: Very interesting that you should mention dictatorships in Nicaragua, because we, naturally familiar with the place, have heard about these dictatorships for many years but it is curious to me as to why no Nicaraguans fled to the United States last year, whereas we had possibly 50 to 60,000 fleeing from Cuba to the United States. What is the Fair Play for Cuba Committee's official reply to this?

OSWALD: Well, a good question. The Nicaraguan situation is considerably different from Castro's Cuba. People are inclined not to flee their countries unless some new system, new factor, enters their lives. I must say that very surely no new factors have entered into Nicaragua for about 300 years, in fact the people live exactly as they have always lived in Nicaragua. I am referring to the overwhelming majority of people in Nicaragua which is a futile dictatorship with 90% of the people engaged in agriculture. These peasants are uneducated. They have one of the lowest living standards in all the Western Hemisphere and so because of the fact that no new factor, no liberating factor, has entered into their lives, they remain in Nicaragua. Now the people who have fled Cuba, that is an interesting situation. Needless to say, there are classes of criminals; there are classes of people who are wanted in Cuba for crimes against humanity and most of those people are the same people who are in New Orleans and have set themselves up in stores with blood money and who engage in day to day trade with New Orleanians. Those are the people who would certainly not want to go back to Cuba and who would certainly want to flee Cuba. There are other classes. There are peasants who do not like the collectivization in Cuban agriculture. There are others who have one reason or the other in their legitimate reasons, reasons of opinion for fleeing Cuba. Most of these people flee by legal means. They are allowed to leave after requesting the Cuban Government for exit visas. Some of these people for some reasons or another. Most of these people flee by legal means. They are allowed to leave after requesting the Cuban government for exit visas. Some of these people for some reasons or another do not like to apply for these visas or they feel that they cannot get them; they flee, they flee Cuba in boats, they flee any way they can go and I think that the opinion and the attitude of the Cuban government to this is good riddance.

Stuckey: I have been interviewing refugees now for about three years and I'd say that the last Batista man, officially, that I talked to left Cuba about two and a half years ago and the rest of them I've talked to have been taxicab drivers, laborers, cane cutters, and that sort of thing. I thought this revolution was supposed to benefit these people. What is the Fair Play for Cuba Committee's position on this?

OSWALD: Well, as I say there are different classes. A minority of these people are, as I say, people who were Batista criminals and so forth. It may not be true that the people fleeing nowadays are completely cleansed of Batista elements, certainly some of these Batistaites have been hiding or have been engaged in counter-revolutionary activities ever since the Bay of Pigs invasion and even before that, just after the revolution. In other words, they have remained underground. Undoubtedly the overwhelming majority of people during the last year for instance who have fled Cuba have been non-Batistaites, rather peasants class. You say the revolution is supposed to benefit these people. You know it's very funny about revolutions. Revolutions require work, revolutions require sacrifice, revolutions, and our own included, require a certain amount of rationing, certain amount of calluses, a certain amount of sacrifice. Sacrificing ones own personal ideas about countries, citizenship, work, indicates people who have fled Cuba have not been able to adapt themselves to these new factors which have entered these people's lives. These people are uneducated. These people are the people who do not remain in Cuba to be educated by young people who are afraid of the alphabet, who are afraid of these new things which are occurring, who are afraid that they would lose something by collectivization. They were afraid that they would lose something by seeing their sugar crops taken away and in place of sugar crops, some other vegetable, some other product, planted, because Cuba has always been a one product country, more or less. These are people who have not been able to adapt.

Stuckey: You say their sugar crops. Most of the Cubans I have talked to that have had anything to do with agriculture in the last year and half have not owned one single acre of ground, they were cane cutters.

OSWALD: That is correct sir. That is very, very true and I am glad you brought up that point. You know it used to be that these people worked for the United Fruit Company or American companies engaged in sugar refining, oil refining in Cuba. They worked a few months every year during the cane-cutting or sugar-refining season. They never owned anything, and they feel now that that little bit of right, the right to work for five months a year, has been taken away from them. They feel that now they have to work all year round to plant new crops, to make a new economy and so they feel that they have been robbed, they feel that they have been robbed of the right to do as they please because of the fact that the government now depends upon its people to build its economy, to industrialize itself, so they figure they have been robbed. What they do not realize is that they have been robbed of the right to be exploited, robbed of the right to be cheated, robbed of the right of the New Orleanian companies to take away what was rightfully theirs. Of course they have to share now. Everybody gets an equal portion. This is collectivization and this is very hard on some people. On people preferring the dog eat dog economy.

Stuckey: What do you refer to as the dog eat dog economy? Is that capitalism in your definition?

OSWALD: No that is an economy where the people do not depend on each other, they have no feelings of nationality, they have no feelings of culture, they have no feelings of any ties whatsoever on a high level. It is every man for himself. That is what I refer to by dog eat dog.

Stuckey: Are you familiar with the existence of a Black Market in Soviet Russia or in Red China, whereas the majority of the populace get their food, their truck crops and vegetables and such from this market. Do you know of such a market?

OSWALD: Well I know about the fact that there is a market in the Soviet Union only for western apparel, and certain other items. There is no black market in the Soviet Union for food, none whatever. By black market, I assume that you mean a situation where food is either stolen or grown in one area and taken to another area and sold covertly, under cover. No such system exists in Russia.

Stuckey: Mr. OSWALD, I am curious about your personal background. If you could tell something about where you came from, your education and your career to date, it would be interesting.

OSWALD: I would be happy to. I was born in New Orleans in 1939. For a short length of time during my childhood I lived in Texas and New York. During my Junior High School days, I attended Beauregard Junior High School. I attended that school for two years. Then I went to Warren Easton High School and I attended that school for over a year. Then my family and I moved to Texas where we have many relatives and I continued my schooling there. I entered the United States Marine Corps in 1956. I spent three years in the United States Marine Corps, starting out as a Private, working my way up through the ranks to the position of Buck Sergeant and I served honorably, having been discharged. Then I went back to work in Texas and have recently arrived in New Orleans with my family, with my wife and child.

Stuckey: What particular event in your life made you decide that the Fair Play for Cuba Committee had the correct answers about Cuban-United States relations?

OSWALD: Well of course, I have only begun to notice Cuba since the Cuban Revolution, that is true of everyone I think. I became acquainted with it about the same time as everybody else, in 1960. In the beginning of 1960. I always felt that the Cubans were being pushed into the Soviet Bloc by American policy. I still feel that way. Our policy, if it had been handled differently and many others much more informed than I have said the same thing, if that situation would have been handled differently we would not have the big problem of Castro's Cuba now, the big international political problem. Although I feel that it is a just and right development in Cuba, still we could be on much friendlier relations with them had the Government of the United States, its Government Agencies, particularly certain covert, under cover agencies like the now defunct CIA.

Stuckey: Now defunct?

OSWALD: Well it's leadership is now defunct. Allen Dulles is now defunct. I believe that without all that meddling, with a little bit different humanitarian handling of the situation, Cuba would not be the problem it is today.

Stuckey: Is there any particular action of the United States Government do you feel that pushed Castro into Soviet arms?

OSWALD: Well, as I say, Castro's Cuba, even after the revolution, was still a one crop economy, basing its economy on sugar. When we slashed the Cuban sugar quota, of course we cut their throats. They had to turn to some other country. They had to turn to some other hemisphere in which to sell this one product. They did so and they have sold it to Russia and because of that Russian sugar is now down quite a bit, whereas ours is going up and up and up and I believe that was the big factor, the cutting of the sugar quota.

Stuckey: Do you think the United States Government, under President Eisenhower, ever wanted to help the Castro regime? Ever offered or shown any help to it?

OSWALD: True to our democratic policies, certain policies were adopted very late, but adopted, but the Government helped Fidel Castro while he was still in the mountains, that is very true. We cut off aid to Batista just before the revolution, just before it. That was too late. We had already done more harm than we could have done before. We were just rats leaving a sinking ship, you see. That was not the thing to do. We have, however, as I say, helped him. We have now cut off all that help.

Stuckey: There is one point of view which I have heard to the effect that Castro turned left because he could not get any aid for industrialization in Cuba from the United States. Does the Fair Play for Cuba Committee believe that?

OSWALD: Not entirely, no. We feel that was a factor, certainly. We feel that the current of history is now running to that extreme, in other words countries emerging from [capitalist] domination are definitely adopting socialistic, (?) Marxist even on occasion what will be in the future, communist, regimes and communist inclinations. You see, this is something which is apparently a world trend.

Stuckey: Does the Fair Play for Cuba Committee believe that this trend should also be copied in the United States?

OSWALD: No, the Fair Play for Cuba Committee is occupied only with the Cuban problem. I do not think that they feel that way, no.

ANALYSIS

OSWALD did a credible imitation of a Communist who saw the Fair Play for Cuba Committee as vehicle to further the Communist goals under the pretext of American non-intervention. OSWALD denied being ideological, although OSWALD'S reference to a dog-eat-dog economy, as opposed to one of cooperation, put him in the leftist ideological camp. He called Communism the wave of the future. Yet he claimed he was motivated by non-interventionist, democratic, feelings. He came off as some turkey with a hidden agenda. There were numerous anomalies in OSWALD'S interview:

1. OSWALD stated that Castro was something upon which only the Cuban people could pass. How could the Cuban people "pass" on Fidel Castro when there were no elections in Cuba? They would have had to assassinate Castro.

2. OSWALD stated: "We have our own opinions, naturally, but we cannot exploit that system and say it is a bad one, it is a threat to our existence and go and try to destroy it." If America felt that Cuba was a threat to its own existence, then of course America had the right to destroy it. OSWALD stated: "Not so much the right to destroy us of our rights about defense." This was a reference to the Cuban Missile Crisis, during which America felt its existence was in jeopardy, due to Cuba.

3. OSWALD stated: "The right to see for yourself without government restrictions such countries as Cuba and we are restricted from going to Cuba." OSWALD was laying the groundwork for his trip to Cuba.

4. OSWALD stated that he had been in Mexico. Oswald already knew he was going to go to Cuba via Mexico.

5. OSWALD stated he had approached newspaper people about the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. After the assassination of President John Kennedy, no one from the Times Picayune or the States Item reported that they had been approached by OSWALD in this fashion. If they had, they might have investigated OSWALD'S committee and found that it did not exist.

6. In the first part of his speech, OSWALD theorized that because no "new liberating factor" had entered Nicaragua, no one had fled to the United States. Why flee from liberation?

7. OSWALD had a stereotypical views of Latinos and suggested that the peasants, who only worked five months out of the year under Batista, were also leaving Cuba, because under Castro they had to work all year round.

8. OSWALD said that the Cuban Government freely provided exit visas, in addition to the statement that many people chose to flee in boats, any way they can go. Why would they have risked their lives in rickety boats if exit visas were freely available?

9. OSWALD said he attended Warren Eastern for one year, actually it was about six weeks or two months. He attended Beauregard High School for one year instead of two years. OSWALD said he worked his way up though the ranks of the Marine Corps to Buck Sergeant. This was untrue. OSWALD implied he had received an Honorable Discharge. Untrue. OSWALD said "I became acquainted with Cuba about the same time as everybody else, in 1960. In the beginning of 1960." Untrue, OSWALD first showed an interest in Cuba in 1959. OSWALD stated that we cut off aid to Batista just before the revolution. To this researcher's knowledge, this never happened. Note how OSWALD characterized the CIA: "covert, under cover agencies like the now defunct CIA" then he back tracked on this statement. This was INTERPEN'S line that the CIA was not doing its job in regard to Cuba. OSWALD said that "the Government helped Fidel Castro while he was still in the mountains." FRANK STURGIS said the same thing.

V. T. Lee

Dear Mr. Lee,

Since I last wrote you (Aug 13th) about my arrest and fine in New Orleans for distributing literature for N.P.C.C., things have been moving pretty fast.

On August 16th I organized a N.P.C.C. demonstration of three people. This demonstration was given considerable coverage by WDSU-TV channel 6, and also by our channel 4 T.V. station.

Due to that I was invited by Bill Stucke to appear on his T.V. show called "Latin American Focus" at 7.30 P.M. Saturday's on WDSUchannel 6.

On August 17, 1963, OSWALD wrote his last letter to V.T. Lee: "Since I last wrote you (aug 13.) about my arrest and fine in New Orleans for distributing literature for the F.P.C.C., things have been moving pretty fast. Due to that I was invited by Bill Stucke to appear on his T.V. show called "Latin american Focus" at 7:30 P.M. Saturday's on WDSU-channel 6. after this 15 minute interview, which was filmed on magnetic type at 4:00 P.M. for rebroadcast at 7:30 I was flooded with callers and invitations to debate's ect. as well as people interested in joining the F.P.C.C. New Orleans branch. That than is what has happened up to this day and hour. You can I think be happy with the developing situation here in New Orleans...I would however, like to ask you to rush some more literature particularly the white sheet 'Truth about cuba' regarding government restrictions on Travel, as I am quickly runing out." OSWALD characterized himself as a highly successful political activist who had received television coverage. He had been on the radio. OSWALD'S tape was condensed and he was heard for less than five minutes on August 17, 1963. OSWALD had only one caller, an agent of BRINGUIER'S. [WR p408]

William Stuckey told the Warren Commission that he wanted to air the OSWALD tape in its entirety, and suggested this to the station manager. The station manager asked Stuckey to arrange a debate during which OSWALD'S pro-Castro views could be countered by others. OSWALD'S second appearance on William Stuckey's radio show took place on August 21, 1963. He was part of a debate. It was OSWALD versus BRINGUIER and Edward Scannell Butler, who headed the Information Council of the Americas. [CIA 476] Edward Butler was a public relations man with the Army from 1957 to 1959. The former employer of Edward Butler, William Klein, stated: "We learned that he either withdrew or flunked out of two schools; (Loyola University and a private school in Mississippi); that he was an ex-male model for Maison Blanche; and a Fuller Brush-man." Edward Butler worked for Radio Free Cuba, but was fired for right-wing extremism. The former president of Radio Free Cuba, William Klein, stated: "This young man's ultra right-wing ideas were not only embarrassing but, in my opinion, dangerous. After assuming office as Executive Director, this ex-John Bircher metamorphosed into a kind of leashed Robespierre. He could think of nothing but the danger of a globe-encircling communist conspiracy. Butler apparently made a tremendous impression on Hale Boggs...he was lauded by Congressman Boggs before the U.S. House of Representatives (Cong. Record 1965)...I understand that he is now sending messages to Latin American radio stations called 'truth tapes.'"

When Edward Butler left Radio Free Cuba, he took Dr. Alton Ochsner, its major sponsor, with him, and formed the Information Council of the Americas. William Stuckey described the Information Council of the Americas as an "anti-communist propaganda organization. Its principal activity is to take tape-recorded interviews with Cuban refugees and distribute these tapes...to radio stations throughout Latin America." In September 1961, Edward Butler worked with Sergio Arcacha Smith. An FBI source reported: "Butler had requested to assist Smith in any way he could, as Smith was working on plans to overthrow Fidel Castro in Cuba." [FBI 62-109060-4707]

INFORMATION COUNCIL OF THE AMERICAS

The CIA:

The Information Council of the Americas is an anti-Communist propaganda organization with headquarters in New Orleans that disseminates English and foreign language propaganda tapes and films on a worldwide basis. The organizational impetus and funds come from New Orleans figures including Alton Ochsner of the Ochsner Clinic and Willard E. Robertson. In recent years, funds have been supplied by the Schick Safety Razor Company. An Information Council of the America's letterhead, listing all the officers and officials, has been requested from JMWAVE, which has had some casual correspondence with the organization concerning Juanita Castro. There is no indication of any Agency relationship with the Information Council of the Americas prior to January 1965, when the Information Council of the Americas sponsored the appearance of Miss Juanita Castro in New Orleans. At that time, an Agency asset who functioned as Miss Castro's business manager was involved with Information Council of the Americas officials in planning the New Orleans visit where Miss Castro was given an award at a dinner sponsored by the Information Council of the Americas. The dinner, which was attended by civic leaders and representatives of all the news media, took place shortly after Miss Castro's defection, and there was considerable interest in her appearance. INCA was particularly interested since it had distributed hundreds of English and Spanish language tapes contained her statement when she was surfaced in Mexico.

In October 1966, the Information Council of the Americas again requested Juanita Castro appear as a guest speaker in major American cities in connection with the release of the Information Council of the Americas motion picture production, Hitler In Havana. Following various reviews of the film, JMWAVE decided the film would probably become controversial and it would be inadvisable to permit Miss Juanita Castro to accept this invitation. Because of the extremist political orientation of the Information Council of the Americas, JMWAVE has wanted to avoid anymore involvement between Miss Castro and the Information Council of the Americas and the Station asset, in his capacity as business manager, has managed to prevent this. There has only been one casual contact between our asset and Edward Butler since Miss Castro's 1965 New Orleans trip. This took place recently when Butler was in the area promoting his Hitler In Havana film. According to JMWAVE, Information Council of the Americas officials have never indicated in any way that they are aware of Agency control of Miss Castro or her business agent and there is no indication that Information Council of the Americas officials have had any official contact with Agency officers. [CIA ATTACH 2 to WH (deleted) 67-194] [CIA WH/COG 67-194 AC/WH/COG to Rocca]

Herbert Philbrick became a Director of the Information Council of the Americas in 1966. Manuel Gil was production manager of the Information Council of the Americas.

AMERICAN SECURITY COUNCIL

Edward Butler was also youth editor of the Washington Radio Report of the American Security Council. The American Security Council was funded by individual donors and blue chip corporations, such as Lockheed, Standard Oil and General Dynamics. It promoted a hard-line anti-Communist defense policy and had ties to the intelligence community. For example, Stefan Possony, the former Strategy and Military Affairs advisor of the National Security Council worked for Naval and Air Force Intelligence and, along with Christopher Bird, was a staff member of Mankind Research Unlimited, a Washington, D.C., CIA-funded, Psychic Warfare Think Tank. Mankind Research Unlimited was headed by Karl Schleicher. Stefan Possony believed OSWALD was connected to the KGB. [FBI 105-82555-1489]

NIXON appointed many advisors to the American Security Council to his Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board. [FBI NO-62-109060-5777, LHM 4.24.68 N.O.; 1966 INCA Brochure; CIA 741-319B, 196; WC Stuckey Exhibit No. 3]

EDWARD BUTLER AND THE CIA

In 1965 Edward Butler visited the New Orleans Domestic Contacts Division office at least once a month. Dorothy A. Brandao wrote:

While I was screening INCA foreign correspondence files, I called on Mr. Butler about once a month. Since that potential has been exhausted there is no reason to see him. I have never had occasion to brief Mr. Butler except on the mission of the Domestic Contacts Division. Mr. Butler is a very cooperative source, and seems to understand the intelligence collection function, and to welcome any opportunity to assist the CIA. He is an intelligent, animated, articulate outgoing individual. His only fault which may hinder my association, but which can of course be circumvented, is his laziness and tendency to procrastinate. He is aware of the sensitivity of agency activities and is appropriately discreet.

He is cleared for the use of SECRET material, as of July 20, 1965. Since another component of the Agency apparently had or still has an interest in using him in its operations, the Office of Security checked with that component and determined that there was no objection to Domestic Contacts Service use of Mr. Butler on a continuing basis in the future. The Information Council of the Americas is primarily concerned with the preparation and dissemination of taped recordings of anti-Communist material, written or edited by Mr. Butler to a selected group of broadcasting stations in Latin America and North America, for use as a weapon against Communist penetration in the Americas. These tapes are called 'Truth Tapes.' I have found Mr. Butler to be discreet in our dealings. I have never had occasion to discuss operational matters with him; my educated guess is that he would welcome such requirements...When he does produce intelligence information the quality is uniformly good. [DCD Source Information Sheet 8.1.66]

THE WESTWOOD SQUARE

In the late 1960's, Edward Butler moved to Los Angeles, where he started a public relations firm called Scannell Associates. Scannell Associates opposed the hippie movement. Edward Butler characterized OSWALD as an early hippie:

Well, when I knew OSWALD he was a propaganda addict, and I think this is a point I believe most Americans can't understand. But OSWALD traveled with his own surroundings of propaganda, his own underground newspapers...and since then I've been in many confrontations with kids around the country - many of whom belong to Students for a Democratic Society...By early 1966 scores of new underground publications, launching pads in America's midst for mental missiles, have been put into operation, recruiting new adherents, and converting them into carbon copies of LEE HARVEY OSWALD...Communists focused all the publicity they could muster upon the incipient Beatnik movement."

Edward Butler published Revolution Is My Profession in 1968. In it he suggested that "square" Americans become "conflict managers" who would "penetrate the Party." According to Donald Freed, in 1969 Edward Butler worked with NIXON aide Charles Colson, and helped organize violent "hard hat" counter-demonstrations at Vietnam peace rallies. [Big Brother and the Holding Company, Ramparts Press, 1974] Charles Colson mailed out American Security Council material under cover of White House stationery. In 1970, Richard Warren, the man running the Information Council of the Americas in the absence of Edward Butler, appeared in New Orleans with BRINGUIER and Dr. Alton Ochsner. BRINGUIER stated: "This country is slowly being taken over by communists." [FBI 105-1095-299] Edward Butler was dropped by the Domestic Contacts Division in 1970: "After he took up residence in Los Angeles he subsequently created, edited and published the magazine, The Westwood Village Square. He currently has a weekly TV program entitled 'The Square World of Ed Butler.' It is believed that his current business activities in California offer little opportunity to obtain positive foreign intelligence information." A CIA document revealed that Edward Butler's Office of Security files were "inadvertently destroyed in 1979 after moratorium lifted on destruction of files."

THE BUTLER / WEBERMAN DEBATE

Edward Butler was interviewed in May 1993.

Q. Did it ever cross your mind that OSWALD might have been an operation, that he might not have been for real?

A. No. I think OSWALD was very definitely what he proposed to be or presented himself to be.

Q. How do you account for the fact OSWALD was the only member of the New Orleans Chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee?

A. I don't think he was the only member.

Q. He had to hire people from an employment agency to give out his leaflets.

A. Where are you getting that information?

Q. From the Warren Commission.

A. How can you rely on that evidence from the Warren Commission Report if you don't believe it?

Q. I checked the FBI interviews that Warren Commission based its conclusions on. Interviews with Charles Steele [born November 5, 1943], one of the kids hired by OSWALD. He had no left-wing connections. Got the job at an employment agency - the whole thing was a scam.

A. Well, okay.

Q. Did you ever wonder if OSWALD was a sting operation being run by anti-Castro Cubans?

A. It wasn't happening that way. There wasn't...When OSWALD did what he did he was a rara avis. There just wasn't a whole panoply of options for him to take, much less a regiment of people for him to join. It just wasn't available. He was a very different type of a character for that time, and I think that was his great strength. He was an avatar. The first New Leftist, really. A political ideologue. He was in touch with lots of people.

Q. He was not in personal contact with any American leftists.

A. He was in touch with the top leadership of the Communist Party of the U.S.A. including Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, who was the chairman, and Arnold Johnson, who was the publicity director. The point is, when you say he wasn't in touch with any leading leftists, you are totally off base there.

Q. Joe McCarthy could have written Johnson a letter to the public relations department of the Communist Party, and Johnson would have written him back. Would that have made Joe McCarthy a commie? What about OSWALD'S best friend in Dallas, DeMohrenschildt? He was a Nazi.

A. DeMohrenschildt was a very murky figure in the whole thing.

Q. Murky figure? His parents lost their oil fields to the Bolsheviks and he hoped the Nazis would invade Russia and get him his oil fields back.

A. No one knows which side George DeMohrenschildt was really on. He's a murky figure, but if you believe precisely what he said he was, then to be consistent, you have to also believe that OSWALD was what he claimed to be, that is, a Marxist and a Castroite. I am totally convinced that OSWALD was a sincere, dedicated political ideologue and his sympathies were with Fidel Castro and the Castro movement in the United States.

Q. Why did he have the address 544 Camp Street on his leaflets, Guy Banister's headquarters.

A. All of those buildings at that time were filled with people who came and went. The odds are that you would never know who else was in the building.

Q. If OSWALD had set up shop at 544 Camp Street, Banister and his associates would have assaulted him.

A. That's not the way things were back then, and I assure you it wouldn't have happened that way. I didn't know Guy Banister very well, I think I may have met him a couple of times.

Q. Where is your evidence, independent of OSWALD'S self-serving statements, that proves he was a leftist?

A. OSWALD renounced his American citizenship, or tried to, at the American Embassy. He lived in the Soviet Union for two or three years, so there's no question as to where his sympathies lay.

Q. Have you ever heard of a dispatched defector?

A. No, tell me what that means.

Q. A dispatched defector pretends to defect although he still works with the government he claims to be defecting from. All defectors are suspect.

A. I'm telling you that OSWALD was a Communist. It was one of the most courageous acts anybody could make at that time. OSWALD was probably the most unpopular kind of guy, he was doing it with virtually no support, as you yourself pointed out. He subjected himself to a lot of verbal abuse and, according to your own testimony, physical abuse. The guy was a revolutionary. #### OSWALD'S SECOND APPEARANCE ON WILLIAM STUCKEY'S LATIN AMERICAN LISTENING POST

The debate that took place in August 21, 1963, began when William Stuckey related, "Recently attempts have been made to organize a [Fair Play for Cuba Committee] chapter here in New Orleans. The only member of the group to have revealed himself publicly so far is 23-year-old LEE HARVEY OSWALD, who is the secretary of the local chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee." William Stuckey stated that when OSWALD was on his show last week, he had questioned him about his background. OSWALD said he attended high school in New Orleans, joined the Marines and had lived in Fort Worth, Texas, before he returned to New Orleans.

STUCKEY FINDS OUT ABOUT OSWALD'S DEFECTION

On August 21, 1963, William Stuckey discovered that OSWALD omitted the fact that he had defected to the Soviet Union. William Stuckey told the Warren Commission that "a source" gave him clippings from the Washington Post dated 1959 and 1962, about OSWALD:

Stuckey: I mention this because with this in mind, this is why it was so interesting to me to find out on that day, August 21, 1963, that he had lied to me, and that he, had, in fact, lived in Russia for about three years, and had just recently returned, and this individual who called me and gave me this information gave me dates of Washington newspaper clippings that I could check, which were stories about his leaving for Russia, or rather his appearance in Moscow in 1959.

Jenner: Now this information came to you between the time of your interview transcribed as Stuckey exhibit No. 2 and August 21, 1963, when you were about to put on your debate program, the discussion program.

Stuckey: That is correct.

Jenner: Did this come to you sufficiently in advance to enable you to do some checking vis-a-vis newspapers or article?

Stuckey: Yes.

Jenner: And was he unaware when he came in at 5:30 p.m. on the afternoon of Wednesday that you had done this, had received this information and done some research.

Stuckey: He was unaware of that fact. During that day Mr. Butler called, after I had already been tipped off about his Russian residence, Mr. Butler called and said he too had found out the same thing, I think later; his source was apparently the House Un-American Activities Committee or something like that. At any rate, we thought this was very interesting and we agreed together to produce this information on the program that night.

Jenner: You were going to face him on the program with this?

Stuckey: Unawareness.

Jenner: You thought it might be a bombshell and be unaware to him.

Stuckey: Exactly. And we decided it would be me who would do it as the introducing participant.

On another occasion Stuckey stated: "One of my news sources called me up and said, 'I hear you are going to have OSWALD on...we have some information about Mr. OSWALD, the fact that he lived in Russia for three years...and this individual, who called me and gave me this information, gave me dates of Washington newspaper clippings that I could check.'" [?]

Stuckey stated:

Mr. Edward Butler brought some newspaper clippings to my attention, and I also found some through an independent investigation - a Washington newspaper clipping to the effect that Mr. OSWALD had attempted to renounce his American citizenship in 1959, and become a Soviet citizen. There was another clipping dated 1962, saying Mr. OSWALD had returned from the Soviet Union with his wife and child after having lived there for three years.

Who was Stuckey's source for this information? The Warren Commission never pressed him on the issue. Stuckey had been in contact with HEMMING, BRINGUIER, STURGIS and other principals of the conspiracy.

THE MEETING BEFORE THE SHOW

Stuckey: So at about 5:30 p.m. that afternoon I arrived at the studio alone. OSWALD appeared in a very heavy grey flannel suit, and this is August in New Orleans, it is extremely hot, that he appears in a heavy grey flannel suit, very bulky, badly cut suit, and looking very hot and uncomfortable. He had a blue shirt on and a black tie, and a black looseleaf notebook. [The others] arrived a little bit later.

Jenner: Did BRINGUIER and OSWALD recognize each other?

Stuckey: Oh, yes.

Jenner: And was it apparent to you they were acquainted?

Stuckey: Oh yes, indeed.

Jenner: And that OSWALD was acquainted with BRINGUIER and visa versa?

Stuckey: Right...So it was a somewhat touchy exchange there between BRINGUIER and OSWALD in the studio. BRINGUIER, as well as I recall, started out with a remark like this, saying, "You know, I thought you were a very nice boy. You really made a good impression on me when I first met you...I don't think you know what you are doing." OSWALD said something to the effect that "I don't think you know what you are doing," and back and forth such as this. BRINGUIER said "Any time you want to get out of your organization and join mine there is a place for you" and he says "I hope one day you will see the light. And again OSWALD says, "I hope one day you will see the light" and that was about all there was to that...

Jenner: What impression did you obtain of this man with respect to his volatility, that is, did you get any impression that he was quick to anger?

Stuckey: No; very well disciplined as a matter of fact. After all, he had been provoked on several occasions that afternoon by BRINGUIER, and Butler on the show.

Jenner: Or that evening?

Stuckey: That evening, yes. And, of course, BRINGUIER'S attempt to convert him to the cause of the Revolutionary Student Directorate was presented in a rather biting way, and OSWALD just took it and just more or less told him that he wasn't interested, whereas other people might have gotten a little mad. After all you have to recognize that OSWALD - they were ganging up on him. There were a bunch of us around there. There were three people who disagreed with him, and he was only one man, and the fact he kept his composure with this type of environment indicates discipline.

As described by Stuckey, OSWALD and BRINGUIER'S dialogue was unreal. BRINGUIER is an obnoxious, loudmouth who would have been hostile to OSWALD. Assuming OSWALD and BRINGUIER were not in collusion, BRINGUIER would not have been willing to let OSWALD anywhere near the DRE, no matter how vehemently OSWALD denounced the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. OSWALD had proven untrustworthy. He would probably prove untrustworthy again. This is why background investigations are conducted. The reason for the lack of animosity between OSWALD and BRINGUIER was a result of the fact that both men deeply admired each other and no real hostility existed.

THE RADIO DEBATE

William Stuckey confronted OSWALD with the clippings:

Q. Mr. OSWALD, are these correct?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. You did live in Russia for three years?

A. That is correct and I think those - the fact that I did live in the Soviet Union for a while gives me excellent qualifications to repudiate charges that Cuba and Fair Play for Cuba Committee is Communist-controlled.

BRINGUIER: Well I want to know exactly the name of the organization that you represent here in the city because I have some confusion. It's Fair Play for Cuba Committee, or Fair Play for Russia Committee?

A. Well, that is of course very provocative and a question - I don't think it requires an answer.

Q. How many people do you have in your committee here in New Orleans?

A. I cannot reveal that as secretary for the Fair Play for Cuba Committee.

Q. Is it a secret society?

A. No Mr. Butler, it is not. However, it is a standard operating procedure for a political organization consisting of a political minority to safeguard the names and the number of its members.

Q. Well, the Republicans are in the minority. I don't see them hiding their membership.

A. The Republicans are not a - well, the Republicans are a established political party representing a great many people. They represent no radical point of view; they do not have a very violent and sometimes emotional opposition as we do.

Q. Well, would you say that the Fair Play for Cuba Committee is not a Communist front organization?

A. The Senate Subcommittee, who have occupied themselves with investigating the Fair Play for Cuba Committee have found that there is nothing to connect the two committees. We have been investigated from several points of view, that is points of view of taxes, allegiance, subversion, etc. The findings have been, as I say, absolutely zero.

Q. Who is the Honorary Chairman of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee?

A. The honorary chairman of this Committee - the name of that person I certainly don't know.

Q. Well, let me tell you in case you don't know about your own organization.

A. No, I don't know about it.

Q. His name is Waldo Frank. [A self-admitted Communist] Who is the National Secretary of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee?

A. Well, we have a national director who is Mr. B. T. Lee, who has recently returned from Cuba and because of the fact that the United States Government has imposed restrictions on travel to Cuba, he is now under indictment for his traveling to Cuba. This, however, it's very convenient for a rightist organization to drag out this or that literature purporting to show a fact which has not been established in law. I have said the Fair Play for Cuba Committee has definitely been investigated. That is very true. I have also said that the total result of that investigation was zero, that is, the Fair Play for Cuba Committee is not now on the Attorney General's Subversive List. Any other material you may have is superfluous. [He pronounces it superfluitous]

Q. Mr. OSWALD, if I may break in a moment, I believe it was mentioned that you at one time asked to renounce your American citizenship and become a citizen of the Soviet Union?

A. Well, I don't think that has a particular import to this discussion. We are addressing Cuban-American relations -

Q. Well, I think it has a bearing to this extent, Mr. OSWALD, you say Cuba is not dominated by Russia and yet you apparently, by your past actions, have show you have an affinity for Russia and perhaps Communism...Are you or have you been a Communist?

A. Well, I had answered that prior to this program, on another radio program.

Q. Are you a Marxist?

A. Yes, I am a Marxist.

Q. What's the difference?

A. Well the difference is primarily the difference between a country like Ghana, Guiana, Yugoslavia, China, or Russia - very, very great differences. Differences which we appreciate by giving aid, let's say to Yugoslavia, in the sum of a hundred million or so dollars every year.

Q. That's extraneous. What's the difference?

A. The difference is, as I said, a very great difference. Many parties, many countries are based on Marxism. Many countries, such as Great Britain, display very socialistic aspects and characteristics. I might point to the socialized medicine of Britain.

Q. Did you have a government subsidy in the Soviet Union?

A. Well, as I - Well, I will answer that question directly then, since you will not rest until you get your answer. I worked in Russia. I was under the protection of the - of the - that is to say I was under the protection of the American Government but that is I was at all times considered an American citizen. I did not lose my American citizenship...I am back in the United States. A person who renounces his citizenship becomes legally disqualified for returning to the United States.

Q. Were you ever in Building 11 Kuznetskoy (?) Street in Moscow?

A. Kuznetskoy? Well, that would probably be the Foreign Ministry, I assume. No, I was never in that place...

Q. How do you hope to bring about what you call fair play for Cuba, knowing the sentiment?

A. The principles of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee consist of the restoration of diplomatic trade and tourist relations with Cuba. That is one of our main points. We are for that. I disagree that this situation regarding American-Cuban relations is very unpopular. We are a minority, surely. We are, however, not particularly interested in what Cuban exiles or rightist members of rightist organizations have to say. We are primarily interested in the attitude of the United States Government toward Cuba and in a way that we are striving to get the United States to adopt measures which would be more friendly toward the Cuban people and the new Cuban regime in their country. We are not at all Communist-controlled, regardless of the fact that I had the experience of living in Russia; regardless of the fact that we have been investigated; regardless of any of those facts, the Fair Play for Cuba is an independent organization not affiliated with any other organization. Our aims and our ideals are very clear and in the best keeping with American traditions of democracy.

BRINGUIER: Do you agree with Fidel Castro when he gave his latter speech of July 26 this year - he qualified President John Fitzgerald Kennedy of the United States as a ruffian and a thief. Do you agree with Mr. Castro?

A. I would not agree with that particular wording. However, I and the Fair Play for Cuba Committee does think that the United States Government through certain agencies, namely the State Department and the CIA, has made monumental mistakes in its relations with Cuba. Mistakes which are pushing Cuba into the sphere of activity of - let's say a very dogmatic Communist country, as China is.

Q. Mr. OSWALD, would you agree that when Castro first took power, would you agree the United States was very friendly with Castro, that the people of this country had nothing but admiration for him, that they were glad to see Batista thrown out?

A. I would say that the activities of the United States Government in regard to Batista were a manifestation of not so much support for Fidel Castro but rather a withdrawal of support from Batista. What we should have done was to take those armaments and drop them into the Sierra Maestre where Fidel Castro could have used them. As for public sentiment at that time, I think even at that time, even before the revolution, there were rumblings of official comment etc. from Government officials against Fidel Castro.

Q. You have never been to Cuba, of course, but why are people in Cuba starving today?

A. Well, in any country emerging from a semi-colonial state and embarking upon reform which require a diversification of agriculture you are going to have shortages. After all, 80% of imports into the United States from Cuba were two products: tobacco and sugar. Nowadays, while Cuba is reducing its products as far as sugarcane goes, it is striving to grow unlimited - and unheard of for Cuba - quantities of certain vegetables: sweet potatoes, lima beans, cotton etc. so that they can become agriculturally independent.

BRINGUIER knew that the purpose of the debate was to further establish OSWALD as the leader of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee in New Orleans. BRINGUIER also knew that OSWALD could not have possibly furthered the case of Cuba, because he was a former defector to the Soviet Union. No other leaders of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee had similar backgrounds. When asked if the Fair Play for Cuba Committee was controlled by the Communist Party, OSWALD never responded; instead he said the Senate Subcommittee that had investigated the Fair Play for Cuba Committee found no connection "between the two committees." What other committee that supported Cuba was he referring to? OSWALD was unfamiliar with the leadership of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, although he claimed to be the Secretary of the New Orleans Chapter. The only name he knew was V.T. Lee, who he called B.T. Lee, with whom he corresponded. OSWALD linked the British democratic socialists who sponsored socialized medicine with Marxism. This was a right-wing opinion. When OSWALD was accused of being a KGB agent, he merely confirmed his opponent's beliefs by saying he was aware of the building at 11 Kuznetskoy Street. In OSWALD'S summation, he repeated "regardless of the fact." He was arguing against himself by doing this.

BRINGUIER brought up President John F. Kennedy, and got OSWALD to admit he was against him and the CIA. This was the second and last time OSWALD mentioned the initials C-I-A. When OSWALD first mentioned it, he called it, "the now-defunct CIA." The Cuban and Fair Play for Cuba Committee leadership were convinced that despite the replacement of Allen Dulles by John McCone as the Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, the CIA continued to conspire against them. A right-winger who believed the CIA had been hamstrung by President John F. Kennedy, would have called it "now-defunct." Marina Oswald told this researcher: "I'll tell you one thing, LEE HARVEY OSWALD loved Kennedy. I know it. You can tell something. He would defend him. He loved his country, not in a twisted way. I'm talking to you just because I love this country."

In a handwritten statement dated November 25, 1963, William Stuckey wrote: "OSWALD admitted to me in our private conversation following the Conversation Carte Blanche program that 'In Russia they never would permit something like the Fair Play for Cuba Committee to exist. Life is very bland there. They have eliminated all dissidents.'"

THE FBI FINDS OUT ABOUT THE DEBATE

15. QUESTION: The report of SA Quigley of October 31, 1963 states that on August 22, 1963 Radio Station WDSU made available a transcript of the radio broadcast in which Oswald participated on August 21, 1963. Why does the report of SA DeBrueys of October 25, 1963 not include this item, but state instead that on September 12, 1963 a confidential informant made available a transcript of the same radio broadcast?

ANSWER: Concerning your reference to the report of SA Quigley of October 31, 1963, it is assumed you have reference to the report of SA Milton R. Knack dated October 31, 1963, at New Orleans concerning Lee Harvey Oswald. Page 11 of that report stated that on August 22, 1963, Mrs. Jeanne Rodgers Secretary to the Manager, Radio Station WDSU, New Orleans, Louisiana, had made available a transcript of a radio broadcast. Page 12 of the report of SA Warren C. DeBrueys dated October 23, 1963, at New Orleans captioned "Fair Play for Cuba Committee -- New Orleans Division" reported that on September 12, 1963, confidential informant NO T-3 made available a transcript of the same radio broadcast. That source is Mrs. Jeanne Rodgers. The date this transcript was obtained from her should have been reported in SA De Brueys' report as August 22, 1963.

On August 21, 1963, the Director of the FBI advised the SAC of the New Orleans office to "ascertain facts concerning Subject's [OSWALD] distribution of above mentioned pamphlet, including the nature of pamphlet following which contact should be made with established sources familiar with Cuban activities in the New Orleans area to determine whether Subject involved in activities inimical to the internal security of the U.S. Submit results in LHM form suitable for dissemination, with appropriate recommendation as to further action." [FBI 105-1435-7]

ORESTES PENA'S ADDRESS HIDDEN IN OSWALD'S ADDRESS BOOK

OSWALD'S address book contained the following notations:

117 Camp Cuban
107 Decatur exile
1032 Canal store

117 Camp Street

117 Camp Street was the address of a clothing-rental store owned by Orlando Piedra. [1963 N.O. X-Cross Directory]

ORLANDO PIEDRA

On May 8, 1959, the FBI identified Orlando Piedra as a supporter of Rolando Masferrer. [FBI 100-344127 NR 5.13.59] An FBI informant said that Orlando Piedra is not giving money to the anti-Fidel Castro groups in Miami and he is working with Rolando Masferrer. Orlando Eleno Piedra Neguerela (born June 1, 1919; died February 1980, 201-247879) had been Chief of the Investigations Bureau of the Cuban National Police until January 1, 1959. Orlando Piedra worked closely with the crime syndicate and the CIA. He had monitored the activities of Fidel Castro when Fidel Castro trained anti-Batista troops in Mexico. Orlando Piedra was involved in the kidnapping of Fidel Castro's son, and used a Mexican drug trafficker to kidnap a chief supporter of Fidel Castro in Mexico. The FBI reported: "Orlando Piedra enjoys the distinction of being considered by the Castro regime as one of the principal war criminals in the United States."

The CIA: "AMOT Report DD 1836 of April 20, 1966 states Orlando Piedra...is one of the main organizers and exponents of political propaganda in favor of Batista; close to him and enjoying his trust. AMOT report CC 82 dated April 12, 1963 describes Subject as friend of Vincente Gonzalez Miranda, old militant commie." Orlando Piedra was associated with Enrique Fernandez Parajon, the former Chief of Batista's Secret Police, and he was a friend of BRINGUIER. Ronnie Caire stated he had been introduced to "the man who had been head of Batista's Secret Police" by Sergio Arcacha Smith. FBI SAC James J. O'Conner questioned Piedra about his connection to OSWALD on December 20, 1963.

Mr. Orlando Piedra, former Chief of the Bureau of Investigations of the Cuban National Police until the overthrow of the Batista regime was located at Fort Lauderdale, Florida. He stated he was visiting relatives and would return to his residence in New Orleans about January 1, 1964. It was explained to Mr. Piedra that OSWALD'S personal effects contained a listing of Cuban exile stores at various addresses in New Orleans, Louisiana, including one such store at 117 Camp Street in New Orleans. Mr. Piedra stated that he had been a partner in a store at that address called the Hispanic American Discount House, Inc. which was opened in January 1963. He said that in April or May 1963, he sold his interest to his partner, Joseph B. Namer, who he stated is a United States citizen who had been born in Cuba. He said that Mr. Namer subsequently closed down the store about October 1963. Mr. Piedra stated that he himself had never had any personal contact with OSWALD. He suggested OSWALD probably listed the locations of various Cuban exile stores in New Orleans as part of his activity directed against anti-Castro Cuban exiles.

Orlando Piedra related that in his contacts with other Cuban exiles in New Orleans, he had been advised that the wife of a Cuban attorney named (FNU) Cusco, received information that OSWALD had attempted to buy trucks for the Government of Fidel Castro. According to Orlando Piedra, the wife of Cusco was employed in an office in New Orleans where the boss stated that a friend, who is a truck dealer, had refused to do business with OSWALD when the latter attempted to buy trucks for the Cuban Government. [FBI Miami 105-8342]

BRINGUIER told the New Orleans Secret Service office the same story. The FBI checked with Mrs. Cusco's employer and found that he was a friend of Oscar W. Deslatte of Bolton Ford. [FBI Miami 105-8342 12.18.63 O'Conner Ft. Lauderdale] HEMMING said he knew Orlando Piedra in the early 1960's. HEMMING told this researcher:

He was a Godfather kind of guy who, like Ventura, had a private detective agency. Very personable. He belonged to the Junta of National Liberation. William K. Harvey's people supported it. William K. Harvey was setting up this team of people, which a lot of people call OPERATION FORTY, which is an erroneous name. They were setting up this team of people to eliminate Fidelista without Fidel, like Manuel Ray. They were to eliminate everybody in place, if accidentally the former Castro people got into power militarily, or civilly, during the anarchy that would follow a victory over Castro. FRANK was kept on tap to blow a few fucking people away. It was an extension of ZR RIFLE. Ethnic cleansing of the new government after the Bay of Pigs. It would be impossible for him to get Piedra's address. Ventura and Piedra did not advertise where the fuck they were. They were in business but they didn't advertise where the fuck they were. If you wanted to see them, you had to make an appointment, and be escorted there. There was kidnap money out on them. Juan Orta set up a couple of operations to snatch all these people. These people were fucking war criminals. So how would an OSWALD come up with this? Somebody in the government had to give it to him.

During the radio debate with William Stuckey and BRINGUIER, OSWALD observed that "criminals," who are wanted in Cuba for crimes against humanity, are now engaged in day-to-day trade with the people of New Orleans. Was he referring to Orlando Piedra? Had they really been criminals in Cuba, or did OSWALD mean 'war criminal'? On June 25, 1962, the Department of the Army reported: "Ex-Dictator of Cuba Batista is sponsoring and financing the military training of Cubans in exile in the U.S...Recruiters for this pro-Batista armed force are offering a bounty of $200 upon enlistment. The trainees are fed, housed and provided with a khaki uniform. Recruiters are: Orlando Piedra, New Orleans. Eladio Del Valle recruiter in Miami." [Army Report ID 2205713]

In 1967, Arnesto N. Rodriguez Sr. suggested that the District Attorneys office in New Orleans contact Orlando Piedra about the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, since Orlando Piedra possessed files on exiles suspected of being double-agents. [Dubois Castro Bobbs Merrill 1959 p130; WCD 1203a; Memo: Sciambra /Garrison 2.14.67; Interview with R 1.23.67 ARA files] On May 8, 1973, the name of Orlando Piedra appeared on a document titled "Memo from DDO from James Flannery, Subject; Media Inquiry to Cuban Exile Journalist in Miami regarding: Cuban Involvement in Watergate Case and Attitudes in Miami Area w/bio summaries." This CIA Index Card read "Rene Viera Gonzalez, S. Gottlieb, Renaldo Pico, Orlando Piedra, Rolando Masferrer, ITT, Joaquin Pedromo Sanjenis, Juan A. Paula, Edgardo Buttari, Charles 'Bebe' Rebozo, Anthony Felix Corzo Genova, Ernesto Betencourt, Mr. Kercher, Avany, John Dean, James Flannery, Marvin L. Evans." [IG File 15, Tab 26] James E. Flannery was in Bolivia from 1961 to 1964, Mexico from 1964 to 1965, where he served under Winston Scott. Flannery served in the Dominican Republic from 1965 to 1969. He was a colleague of Desmond FitzGerald, Richard Bissell and DAVID PHILLIPS. He served as an assistant to Ted Shackley.

JUAN PAULA

Juan Paula was in Cuba in 1961 and was mentioned in HUNT'S book, Give Us This Day as an accountant who served as treasurer of the FRD. HUNT recalled:

A Headquarters finance officer escorted by two guards flew to Miami and met me at my Brickell Point apartment. He was the same finance officer with whom I had worked during the Guatemalan operation and we had a complete understanding of the problems that lay ahead. He gave me a briefcase containing $115,000 in cash, and I signed a receipt for the money. Then I drove across Miami and delivered the money to Juan Paula, the FRD treasurer, a serious and nonpolitical young Cuban who had been a successful CPA in Havana before the revolution...My first meeting that day was held with Juan Paula. I received from him a number of accountings, approved them, and remarked on the increasing number of supernumeraries on the FRD payroll...After breakfast Juan Paula arrived. We went over the Frente's books together.

Another card contained these additional names: "Ruben Mediola, (Deleted) E. Hernandez DD/WH File Review 74 IG File 30 Tab 9 (Deleted) 3041 to C/WH from COS/WH/Miami. Subject: Inquiries by Gotlieb, a Journalist, on ITT and Cubans in Miami area." This handwritten notation appeared: "Could not find actual cable in file - circled in red is only mention of reference."

107 DECATUR

Researcher Harold Weisberg cracked this code. 107 Decatur was CARLOS BRINGUIER'S store. If these numbers were interchanged, they became 107 Camp Street, the office of Ronnie Caire, and 117 Decatur, the Habana Bar owned by Orestes Farnicio Pena (born August 15, 1923). [FBI 105-82555-813; WCD 227 p14] There was no such number as 1032 Canal. [FBI NO 100-16601 12.16.63 Richard Logan]

The FBI stated:

A complete review of a photograph of OSWALD'S address book available at Dallas fails to reflect any information indicating Ronnie Caire's office address is in this address book. It would appear that Weisberg's claim that OSWALD'S office address is 'masked' in this address book is a statement that only Weisberg can clarify. In the event Weisberg can relate how such address is 'masked,' it is possible that some pertinent observations could then be made. [FBI 105-82555-5649]

The FBI listed Caire's address in 1963 as 704 Cigali Building, New Orleans 12, Louisiana. The Cigali building was located at 107 Camp Street. [FBI 105-82555-5647]

THE BACKGROUND OF ORESTES PENA

The FBI fingerprint record of Orestes Pena, a naturalized United States citizen, indicated that he joined the U.S. Army in 1949 and was honorably discharged, then went into the Coast Guard in 1954 and 1955. In July 1958, Orestes Pena was arrested by the New Orleans Police Department and charged with assault on officers, using obscene language and resisting arrest. Disposition: Dismissed. In 1959 he was arrested for operating a hotel without a permit. On August 23, 1961, Orestes Pena was arrested for vagrancy and investigation of pandering. Disposition: Dismissed. On October 9, 1962, Orestes Pena was arrested for having a lascivious and immoral person employed in a bar holding a liquor permit. On November 12, 1963, he was arrested for assault. Disposition: Dismissed. Orestes Pena, an amateur boxer, was the bouncer at his own bar.

PENA AND DeBRUEYS PRIOR TO 1959

Orestes Pena told the Warren Commission:

Pena: Before [the FBI] would just come around and tell me that they are asking me many things about people that was for Castro. When you got a bar room, especially in Spanish like I got, most of my customers are Spanish seamen, foreign seamen, you hear the way they talk, and before, as I was against Batista, most of the people here for Castro, really for Castro, they was going to my place. So when I joined the organization against Castro in New Orleans [the Cuban Revolutionary Front], one of the agents of the FBI, DeBRUEYS, started going to my place very, very often asking me about many different people, Spanish people, what I knew, what I thought. I told him what I knew; that some people was for Castro and some people was against. I told him what I saw. I never did ask him what he found out about those people.

Liebler: Do you remember who you talked to at the FBI?

Pena: I don't know exactly. See, I used to call DeBRUEYS. You are from Washington, huh?

Liebler: Yes.

Pena: I am going to talk to you about DeBRUEYS and the FBI agency in New Orleans, in Louisiana. Liebler: Do you think you talked to DeBRUEYS...

Pena: I don't know exactly. Sometimes you call there and they tell you he is not in there and you talk to somebody else if you want to give the message in the FBI see, because DeBRUEYS isn't there.

ORESTES PENA AND DeBRUEYS AFTER 1960

Pena: Then DeBRUEYS came to the organization. Maybe – I don't know if he was sent by the government or how.

Liebler: He join it?

Pena: No he didn't join it but he was sticking with the organization very, very close.

Liebler: They knew he was an FBI Agent.

Pena: Yes, we knew he was an FBI agent. So from time to time he called me at my place. He went to my place and was asking me about this guy and that guy, different people here in New Orleans. So I told him what I thought about the men. I tell you that and then you find out if I am right or I am wrong. I never did ask if I was right or wrong. I told him about that I am for sure they are for Castro here in New Orleans. So one way of the other, he was interfering with me somehow, Mr. DeBRUEYS, so –

Liebler: DeBRUEYS was interfering with you?

Pena: Yes. Somehow. So one day I went to the FBI. They called me to the FBI. I don't remember exactly what for they called me. So I told DeBRUEYS, - I told DeBRUEYS or somebody else that I talked to – DeBRUEYS' boss – I didn't ask them who it was. They was the FBI. They was in the FBI Office – I told the agency there I don't talk to DeBRUEYS. I don't trust him as an American.

Leibler: Did you tell them any reasons why you didn't?

Pena: Because he was interfering very close with the organization against Castro. So since that day – we got into a little bit of an argument there. We was talking about somebody. The FBI asked me about a man that had been in the group before, about somebody, if I knew somebody – if I knew his way of signing. So I asked DeBRUEYS, ‘Did I told you about this man?’ He said, ‘No.’ I got mad I said ‘If you said I didn’t told you about that man, I don’t trust you as an American, to be for an American. So two days later he went to my place of business. He said to me at the table ‘I want to talk to you. I said, ‘Okay, let’s go.’ He said not to talk about him anymore because what he could do is get me in big trouble. He said, ‘I am an FBI man, I can get you in big trouble.’ But he made a big mistake. I had a girl that was with me that was here when he was discussing me.

Liebler: Somebody else was there and heard it?

Pena: Yes. He was discussing me not to talk about it. He was an FBI man and he could get me in big trouble. So I talked to my girlfriend and said ‘Look, I better pull out of this thing. What the FBI wants me is to pull away pull away and I never did heard from the FBI until Mr. Kennedy got assassinated. They left me alone completely. They never asked me after I pulled out of the organization. After that, I never listened to anybody talking about politics in the place. I tried to keep out of it the most I could. They never did call me anymore until OSWALD got – and then they started coming here talking to me because we was talking about the incident.

Liebler: So your complaints about the FBI here in New Orleans relate basically to the anti-Castro proposition and not to the investigation of the assassination, is that correct?

Pena: No, no. That was way before.

S.A. DeBRUEYS denied that Orestes Pena had been his informant. FBI records indicated that Orestes Pena had, “during the years 1961 and 1962, furnished information to the FBI Office New Orleans, concerning persons he claimed were pro-Castro in his opinion.” [FBI 105-82555-NR 8.12.64 #199]

ORESTES PENA AND THE CUBAN REVOLUTIONARY FRONT

During the early 1960’s Orestes Pena was a delegate of the Cuban Revolutionary Front. When the Cuban Revolutionary Front opened its offices in the Balter Building The New Orleans States Item did a story on it that included a photograph of Orestes Pena, Sergio Arcacha Smith, Carlos Marquez, Manuel E. Quesada, Francisco U. Uriatre, Luis Menendez, Ramon Noda and Jorge Tarafa. [FBI 105-87912-P NR 1.4.61 #117] Orestes Pena told the Warren Commission:

Pena: You see – I started – like I told you when the organization moved to New Orleans –

Liebler: This is the anti-Castro organization?

Pena: Yes. So I went down there and joined the organization. In 1959 when I went to Cuba my mother told me how everything was going; so she says 'Castro is even worse than Batista.' So when I came back I joined the organization a little bit after that, the organization here in New Orleans [the Cuban Revolutionary Front]. So I went and joined them and started working for the organization collecting money at my place of business and giving my own money for many things to the organization, you know a dollar, two dollars...The FBI know very well because a person from the FBI was there all the time. I don't remember exactly the name of the organization right now, but the organization was in the Balter Building, I think, in the second floor.

Liebler: Whatever the organizations name was, was it an anti-Castro organization?

Pena: It was in the Balter Building, the only one there.

Liebler: Is that the organization sometimes known as JURE, J-U-R-E?

Pena: I don't know.

Liebler: Junta Revolucionario Cubana?

Pena: The chief or the boss of that organization, who was in Miami was Barrona [Varona]. He was the boss of the organization.

Liebler: Barona?

Pena: Yes. He was the boss of that organization.

Liebler: When did you leave Cuba?

Pena: I left Cuba in September 1946...many times I went to Cuba. My last time I went to Cuba was about eight months, I believe, after Castro took over, but before I used to go very often because all my family is in Cuba...

Liebler: Were you in Cuba in April or May of 1959.

Pena: I think that's the last time I was in Cuba.

Liebler: What was the purpose of your trip to Cuba at that time?

Pena: I went to Cuba – I don't know, I went to have an operation. Yes.

Liebler: While you were in Cuba [in 1959] did you have any contact with officials of the Castro Government?

Pena: No; not any.

Liebler: Have you ever expressed a favorable attitude toward the Castro regime?

Pena: No, I was never for, I was against Batista, but I was never even, I didn't even know Castro.

Liebler: You had nothing to do with Castro?

Pena: No.

HUNT AND THE NEW ORLEANS CUBAN REVOLUTIONARY FRONT

When HUNT was asked if he knew Orestes Pena, he replied: "Not to the best of my knowledge. They may have known me in the 1960 to 1961 period under different names, but those names are not familiar to me." HUNT was unfamiliar with Cuban Revolutionary Front delegates Arcacha Smith, Luis Rabel, and Frank Bartes, nor had he heard of the Cuban Revolutionary Front support group, Friends of Democratic Cuba.

Tony Varona denied that he visited the New Orleans office of the Cuban Revolutionary Front [HSCA Exec. Session 3.10.78 p15] although he knew a Dr. Guitart in Cuba, and subsequently visited him in New Orleans. On September 12, 1960, the FBI reported that Tony Varona, using the name "Varone" visited New Orleans. A FBI document about his visit was highly deleted: "To: SAC New Orleans From: Director FBI (Deleted) Varone appears identical with Manuel Antonio De Varona Y Loreda (deleted) one of the leaders of the Cuban Revolutionary Front. (Deleted)." [FBI 105-76461 NR 9.12.60]

Orestes Pena resigned from the Cuban Revolutionary Front because of a dispute involving Sergio Arcacha Smith. According to Orestes Pena, S.A. DeBRUEYS accused him of complicity in Sergio Arcacha Smith's theft of the funds of the Crusade to Free Cuba, and the FBI questioned him about this: "The FBI asked me about a man that had been in the group before, if I knew his way of signing." [FBI 105-87912-P] Orestes Pena participated in an anti-Castro operation in Cuba: "I went to Cuba – I don't know, I went to have an operation. Yes." As far as HUNT was concerned, the New Orleans Chapter of the Cuban Revolutionary Front did not exist since if HUNT linked himself to any of its members, he would have been linking himself to OSWALD.

ORESTES PENA AND OSWALD

On December 5, 1963, BRINGUIER informed the FBI that Orestes Pena had seen OSWALD in his bar. Pena allegedly told BRINGUIER that OSWALD was with a Cuban (BRINGUIER later identified him as a Mexican Communist the FBI wanted to question) and said OSWALD'S conversation was pro-Castro. When the waiter charged him 15 cents for a glass of lemonade, OSWALD remarked: "This man must be a former Cuban capitalist." Orestes Pena confirmed to the FBI that OSWALD was in his bar and added he became so intoxicated, he vomited. The brother of Orestes Pena, Ruperto Pena, said that two men entered his bar and had a pro-Castro discussion. He turned over this information to CARLOS BRINGUIER, and to the FBI, and was later able to get the license plate numbers of these men. Although Ruperto could not make a positive identification, Evaristo Gilberto Rodriguez, a waiter at the Habana Bar, said one was OSWALD. [WCD 984B] When Ruperto Pena testified before the Warren Commission, he stated that his brother was not in New Orleans when this incident occurred, and that the man was not OSWALD. The Warren Commission noted the testimony of Habana Bar bartender, and informant for S.A. DeBRUEYS, Evaristo Rodriguez, that he saw OSWALD in the Habana Bar sometime about August 9, 1963, in the company of a Latin-appearing man. [Testimony to Liebler 7.21.64] Rodriguez told the FBI that around 3:00 a.m. or 4:00 a.m. that two men, one OSWALD, came into the Havana Bar. [WCD 1389A] Orestes Pena was asked by the Warren Commission:

Liebler: Is this the story that you told to the FBI after the assassination, that you had seen OSWALD in the bar and Rodriguez has seen him in the bar?

Pena: More or less.

Liebler: When you talked to the FBI two weeks ago, did they ask you about this again?

Pena: Yes; they asked me about this more than a dozen times.

Liebler: They asked you more than a dozen times about this?

Pena: Yes.

Liebler: And did they come to your bar to ask you about this?

Pena: They come to my bar. They been calling me to come to the FBI office. That's why sometimes – one time I went down and got a lawyer. I don't need a lawyer about for this. I just tell you the truth.

Liebler: Did you tell Mr. BRINGUIER about having seen OSWALD in the bar?

Pena: Yes; we was talking about it. You see I did like very very much Mr. Kennedy...So I was hurt when he got killed. So when I saw the man there – I saw the man – so I went around and told most of my customers that I saw OSWALD came to my place.

Liebler: When you talked to the FBI on June 9, 1964, you told them, did you not, that you had never told anybody that OSWALD had been in the bar?

Pena: That I never told anybody?

Liebler: Yes.

Pena: That's not true.

Liebler: Didn't you tell that to the FBI?

Pena: I don't think that so. That I never told anybody?

Liebler: Yes.

Pena: I didn't told anybody before?

Liebler: I have a report before me, Mr. Pena, of an interview with you in the presence of your attorney, Mr. Tamberella, which was made by Mr. DeBRUEYS and Mr. Wall. That was in the FBI office on June 9, 1964, and on page two of this particular report, it says, and I quote: "Orest Pena specifically stated that he never told anyone, including CARLOS BRINGUIER, that OSWALD had been in the Habana Bar with a Mexican prior to the assassination of President Kennedy. He also said he never heard his brother, Ruperto Pena, say that OSWALD had been in the bar with the Mexican. He also stated that he had no information that the FBI was ever looking for a Mexican who had ever patronized the bar." Did you tell the FBI that?

Pena: I don't think so.

Liebler: In fact, you did tell BRINGUIER that you saw OSWALD in the bar?

Pena: When we were talking after the assassination, we were talking about it...After the assassination, they came and asked me so many times about the same thing, lemonade, it just looked silly to me.

ORESTES PENA'S ALLEGED VISIT TO MOSCOW

The FBI reported: "Investigation in this case was instituted on the basis of information received from a source who related that Pena had stated he was going to Europe on May 1, 1964, and would visit Moscow. Through investigation, it was later determined that the person who had originally been told by Pena that Pena was going to Europe and would also visit Moscow was Guillermo Fiallo, 2003 Laurel Street, New Orleans, who admits his past connection with the Batista regime in Cuba and who is openly anti-Castro. Fiallo, upon interview has advised that the statement made by Pena was obviously made in jest and expressed the firm conviction that Pena is definitely anti-Castro...Fiallo related that he is a very close acquaintance of Orestes Pen, however, he added that he is very definitely anti-Castro and a follower of Orlando Piedra, who had been Chief Investigator of Fulgencio Batista before Castro defeated Batista...In addition to the foregoing, investigation has failed to reveal any activity on the part of Pena that would substantiate that he has performed or is performing any services on behalf of Fidel Castro or the present Cuban Government. In view of the foregoing, Subject is not being recommended for inclusion in the Security Index. [WCD 1539c; FBI SAC N.O. 105-1926-11.6.64; FBI 8.11.64 From Legat, Rome to Director withheld 1994]

S.A. DeBRUEYS conducted an intensive investigation of Orestes Pena from April 1964 to July 1964. Everyone contacted said the Orestes Pena was anti-Castro, even CARLOS BRINGUIER: "On June 22, 1964, CARLOS BRINGUIER, who runs a clothing business at 107 Decatur Street, just two doors from the Habana Bar, advised that Pena is a complicated individual who has all sorts of complexes, however, BRINGUIER claims that Pena is definitely anti-Castro and has never defended Castro. He stated Pena would argue with BRINGUIER in defense of President Kennedy, but would never argue in favor of Castro."

Initially, Orestes Pena's story about OSWALD having a meeting in the Habana Bar was part of BRINGUIER'S disinformation campaign to link OSWALD with a Castro double-agent in New Orleans. The FBI was intent on proving that OSWALD had no associates in New Orleans and pressured Orestes Pena to change his testimony by accusing him of being a Communist. S.A. DeBRUEYS started a rumor based on a report Guillermo Fiallo that Orestes Pena was a Communist. S.A. DeBRUEYS recommended that Orestes Pena be put on the security index. On June 9, 1964, Orestes Pena went to the New Orleans FBI with his attorney, and said he was on vacation when the alleged OSWALD incident occurred. [WCD 1203] When he testified before the Warren Commission he went back to his story that OSWALD was at the Habana bar. This displeased the Warren Commission.

Orestes Pena was questioned by Warren Commission Counsel Wesley Liebler. Before Orestes Pena testified, Wesley Liebler had warned him that he might have to reveal that Mrs. Pena was involved with drugs in the Fall of 1963. As it was, Wesley Liebler never brought this up. Wesley Liebler was interested in Orestes Pena's trip to Mexico in May 1963, and the fact that he applied for a passport on the same day OSWALD did. He requested Orestes Pena let the Warren Commission photograph his passport, so it could be sure he did not visit Moscow.

OSWALD'S LEAFLETS

Pena: I talked to the Agency about if that propaganda, where they was printing that propaganda, and I said, 'Why can't you find that place?' He said, 'Because the United States is a big country.' I said, 'It doesn't matter. Each printing has their own type or letter that can be found somehow.'

Liebler: So you told this FBI agent that they should find where the propaganda literature had been printed?

Pena: The propaganda that OSWALD was giving away. They put that on television four or five days after the assassination – OSWALD giving that propaganda. They knew that OSWALD was giving that propaganda away before Mr. Kennedy was killed. They got all of that propaganda and all that from taken of OSWALD.

Liebler: You think they should find out where those leaflets were printed? This is what you told them?

Pena: The little bit I know about the investigation,, they even – let me see how to say it. Let me see – they even keep OSWALD from killing Mr. Kennedy. From my point of view as an investigator, if they went all the way from that propaganda, from where it was printed, maybe they can put OSWALD in jail. Maybe the President not be killed. That was before Mr. Kennedy was killed.

Liebler: Let me ask you this: Do you have any evidence or do you know of any evidence that would link OSWALD to anyone else in a conspiracy to assassinate the President?

Pena: No.

Liebler: Do you have any information or knowledge that OSWALD was involved with pro-Castro people in connection with the assassination.

Pena: No; I can't say that.

Liebler: Do you have any information that this was a pro-Castro or a Castro plot to assassinate President Kennedy?

Pena: No; I can't say that.

Liebler: Do you know if anyone else in New Orleans has information like that?

Pena: No; I can't say that.

Liebler: What about BRINGUIER?

Pena: What I think about BRINGUIER? He is just trying to get big name, collecting big name to make himself big when he come back to Cuba. Be one of the bosses. That's my point of view. I told you he don't like the United States and what I told you about; you can bring him here and tell him that Orest Pena told you that. I will stand a lie-detector test and I invite him to take one, and I invite DeBRUEYS too, to ask DeBRUEYS if that's true or not true he went to my place and tried to intimidate me. If he say no, I take a lie-detector test and he take a lie detector test and maybe you find one Communist in the FBI.

Liebler: You think that BRINGUIER is using his association with OSWALD to give himself a big name in connection with that?

Pena: That's what it is.

Liebler: As far as I know, BRINGUIER doesn't have any evidence that there was a pro-Castro plot to assassinate the President.

Pena: No, I don't know. See, BRINGUIER know OSWALD very well. He told me one time – I don't know if that is true or not – he said that OSWALD brought him some kind of manual or book. I believe he still have the book. And BRINGUIER has his own organization here. They call it –

Liebler: DRE...

Pena: He said OSWALD came to infiltrate his organization. That's what he told me. Before I used to talk to him, go there or he came to my place.

Liebler: You and Mr. BRINGUIER are not good friends any more; is that right?

Pena: We was quite close until – when they started the blockade in Cuba, the way he spoke about President Kennedy. And I pulled a little bit out. I even used to give him sometimes more than $2. I don't know. He collected to send to Miami, if he don't send it somewhere else. That's what he said. I tell you, BRINGUIER don't do many things that he will tell you. He don't like America. Time will tell. He is one of the guys that – do you remember when they were saying 'Yankee go home' in Cuba? He was in Cuba at that time. He was calling, 'Yankee go home!'

Liebler: Has he ever favored Castro that you know of?

Pena: Of course.

Liebler: You don't think that BRINGUIER is in favor of Castro at this current time?

Pena: He? No. He hate Castro and he hate Russia, but he hates America as much too. He just want to go back to Cuba and be one of the bosses. I want you to know something. I love the United States more than many people who were born in this country and I got a place of business and I hear – they don't talk much now. They are very scared but before, when Castro was started, I learn many people, how much they was against this country, people that was born in this country. I love this country, believe me. Maybe you don't believe me or have a bad report about me, but nobody make me a Communist. Believe that. Believe or not.

Orestes Pena believed the assassination could have been prevented if the FBI had tracked down the printer who ran off OSWALD'S Fair Play for Cuba Committee leaflets. This did not make sense unless BRINGUIER, who hated America more than he hated Russia, was behind their being printed. Pena was trying to tell the Warren Commission that BRINGUIER was part of the conspiracy: "BRINGUIER know OSWALD very well." Orestes Pena told the Warren Commission that when BRINGUIER was arrested for attacking OSWALD, it was he, Pena, who put up his bail. All the Cubans involved in that fracas were released.

Pena: When I finish with him – you are from Washington. I tell you BRINGUIER hates the United States as much as he hates Russia.

Liebler: BRINGUIER does?

Pena: The day Mr. Kennedy put a blockade in Cuba – you remember about a year and a half more or less – Mr. CARLOS BRINGUIER was telling me – excuse me – (obscenity) in Spanish more than a dozen times, and I couldn't stand that. I have never done anything against the United States. I said, "No." Anyway, anything you want to ask me and you can asked Mr. BRINGUIER is that true or not, and let him and me take a lie detector test to see who is right on it.

Liebler: You say you have never done anything against the interests of the United States?

Pena: No; I have not ever.

Liebler: Well, I have no reason whatsoever not to believe that statement, Mr. Pena.

Pena: Okay.

Liebler: Why do you say that Mr. BRINGUIER hates the United States more than he does Russia?

Pena: Because he does as much.

Liebler: As much?

Pena: Yes.

Liebler: Why does he dislike the United States? Has he ever told you?

Pena: No; but the way he talks the United States didn't help to overthrow Castro, and he can't go over there and take over.

Liebler: Is that the basis for Mr. BRINGUIER'S bad feelings toward the United States, that we haven't done anything to overcome the Castro regime?

Pena: Well the way he talks to me he hates the United States as much as he hates Russia. That's what I told you, that's what he said more than a dozen times. And if that is not true let him take a lie detector test and find out whether that is true or not.

Pena parted ways with BRINGUIER because of BRINGUIER'S involvement in the Kennedy assassination: "BRINGUIER don't do many things that he will tell you. He don't like America."

HAROLD WEISBERG'S INTERVIEW WITH PENA

Orestes Pena told the FBI that BRINGUIER called President Kennedy "a motherfucker, son of bitch and no good because he didn't send planes to bomb Cuba. This was during the Cuban Missile Crisis...Mr. DeBRUEYS came to me one morning and called me very early and we got into a talk. This time he came all by himself. He told me that if I ever have anything to talk about him that he would get my ass and he will see that I got hurt so I got very mad and I told him if he wanted to get my behind, come inside the bar..."

ORESTES PENA, OSWALD AND WARREN C. DeBRUEYS

Orestes Pena told Dan Rather of CBS-TV News in 1975 that he had seen OSWALD and S.A. DeBRUEYS together in the summer of 1963. This explained why DeBRUEYS threatened Orestes Pena. OSWALD'S addressbook provided evidence S.A. DeBRUEYS was in contact with him. As stated the name "Warrin DeBryuelu" appeared there, disguised as two Russian words. DeBRUEYS was sent a copy of this entry in July 1993. He stated: "I find it interesting, but I think obviously he put my name in his addressbook because I had investigated him prior to the assassination. I talked to the landlord, I guess, I assume, I have no idea, there was a multitude of ways he could have gotten my name. I talked to his landlady on Magazine Street. The idea was to confirm if he had any employment that placed him in contact with sensitive material, as far as national security was concerned. And, of course, I gave her my name, and showed her identification."

The HSCA questioned Mrs. Jesse Garner, OSWALD'S landlady at Magazine Street. She said that an FBI agent came to her home and questioned her about OSWALD.

Q. Do you remember the name of this FBI agent?

A. His name was Milton Cage.

Q. Could that have been Milton Kaack?

A. Could have been...It was about a month after Lee moved in.

Mrs. Jesse Garner checked her address book and found she had spelled the word Kasch. Mrs. Jesse Garner told the United States Secret Service that "an FBI Agent, believed to be Milton Kooch or Koach, was investigating OSWALD during the time he lived at 4907 Magazine Street, that he had interviewed her four or five times about OSWALD." She also that a Cuban male had visited OSWALD. She also stated that "OSWALD had been visited on about three occasions, always late in the evening or about dark, by a middle aged grey haired man who was rather thin, not very tall and had a receding hairline, very fair complexioned and a neat dresser. She stated that on one occasion this man was accompanied by a woman." [USSS CO-2, 34,0"0-988] DeBRUEYS was asked why OSWALD disguised his name as two Russian words. He responded, "I have no idea. I got the impression he fancied himself as a spook. I have no idea. I never met him ever, and to my knowledge, I never spoke to him." DeBRUEYS claimed he came face to face with OSWALD for the first time on November 23, 1963. [WCE 2003 p161] S.A. DeBRUEYS told Senator Schweiker's Subcommittee on the Assassination of President Kennedy:

I was asked if I personally met LEE HARVEY OSWALD and my answer to that question was a categorical 'No.' I stated that I had not knowingly spoken to LEE HARVEY OSWALD by phone. I was then asked how many times I had contact with Orestes Pena and I responded by a rough guess of a minimum six to a probable maximum for 12 times. I was asked if Orestes Pena had been an Informant or Potential Security Informant of the New Orleans Office of the FBI. My response again was a definite 'No.'...My recollection him is that he was not the type of person I would have been inclined to develop as an informant simply because he was not inclined to furnish data freely or voluntarily...It was then asked why would Orestes Pena have made a statement that he had seen me with OSWALD. I reminded the Committee that it was my belief that such a statement by Pena was not supplied by him to the Warren Commission. In fact, I suspect that the first time he made such a statement was not more than a year or two ago. I then said that the accusation was an unmitigated and bare-faced lie...Orestes Pena was an undesirable individual; a pervert who allegedly engaged in unnatural acts with females, and who had the reputation of often bullying some seamen who patronized his bar. These same sources, whose identities I can no longer recall, had also commented that he had beaten some of his clientele with a pool stick, and that he felt that he could get away with almost any activity, as he had contacts within the New Orleans Police Department...he was trying to gain an aura of importance and respectability by becoming an officer in one or more of the anti-Castro organizations in the New Orleans area.'" On December 8, 1975, S.A. DeBRUEYS cited: "the outright lie uttered by Orestes Pena on the CBS documentary that he saw me in company with OSWALD, form, in my opinion, the basis for the growing suspicion that OSWALD was an FBI informant...If such allegations are permitted to persist without strong refutation, they will in time acquire an aura of truth and, as such, grossly and adversely affect that Bureau's reputation and provide a false basis for historical evaluation of various Government institutions. In short, it could seriously damage our national prestige. It would be well for the Bureau to insure that CBS provides, as promised by their representative Bruce Hull [Bruce Hall] a full copy of the transcript of Hull's interview of me for the CBS Documentary.

When DeBRUEYS testified before the HSCA, he was less certain about the FBI connection to OSWALD: "OSWALD was never an asset. We did not use that term, at the time. It would have been tantamount to saying he was an informant. He was never an informant. I am disinclined to believe he was ever recorded as a source, but that possibility exists, because a source of information can be almost anybody. I would reiterate that he was not the type of person that would initiate information flowing to us. He would be somebody who would be in the area, somebody else who could tell us about what went on in the bar. We may have talked to him. [HSCA Test. 5.3.78]

ADRIAN ALBA

Additional corroboration for Orestes Pena's report was supplied by Adrian Alba. Adrian Alba was proprietor of the Crescent City Garage, which was located next door to the Reily Coffee Company, and which was a block away from 544 Camp Street. The Warren Commission stated that OSWALD frequented his garage, and read gun magazines. [WR p726]

The HSCA interviewed Alba on January 24, 1978:

Adrian Alba states that he is 28 years in the business. In 1963, being a gun buff, he maintained three stacks of magazines within the office of his garage on Hunting, Fishing, Guns, etc. The first time that he saw LEE HARVEY OSWALD was in the early part of the summer of 1963 when the Subject was seated on the couch, in the office, drinking a Coke and reading a magazine. When Mr. Alba entered the office, he stood up and asked permission to sit there and read the magazine.

Over a period of time he knew OSWALD worked next door in the Reily Coffee Company, aka Louisiana Coffee Company, which is alleged to be a subsidiary of the United Fruit Company. He states that OSWALD would come into his office almost daily, spending as much as 30 or 40 minutes at a time drinking an awful lot of Coca Colas. Mr. Alba states that he cannot recall the dates that well at this time, but to the best of his recollection it was one week, to two months, prior to the assassination that he last saw OSWALD. Just prior to his leaving, about one week to ten days, he told Alba he would be leaving for 'a pot of gold' in 'Gentilly. Whe' the day arrived (it might have been as long as two weeks) OSWALD waved to Alba from the street and informed him he was going to his pot of gold in Gentilly and he left. According to Mr. Alba he and OSWALD would hold many conversations, usually about guns. They would never discuss religion or politics. Alba further states that over at the garage OSWALD was very talkative, while at the coffee company he was very quiet and mouey-like. Mr. Alba refers to him as something akin to a whipped puppy dog and, being the type of individual he is, he was trying to bring him out of his shell. The only type of weapon that OSWALD talked about obtaining was an M1...

One time while OSWALD was in the garage office, Alba was seated at his desk a car pulled halfway into the garage and OSWALD said his child was in the car. Alba paid him the courtesy of going to the office doorway and waving to the car. He states that there was two women in it with the older of the two driving and he did not recall seeing OSWALD in it. OSWALD went out, held a short conversation; the car left and he returned to the office for a brief time before he returned to work...Shortly after this, perhaps the next day, OSWALD asked if he could borrow his car. Alba informed him that he had a brother and brother-in-law and he would not loan them his car due to insurance reasons.

One time OSWALD came into the garage with a rifle sling and asked if he could put a rivet in a piece of leather. Alba did, using a small anvil from his shop which he still has in his possession. The piece that he put in was a light tan color and slightly wider, but not as thick as the original which, according to him, was black leather. OSWALD told him it was from his Italian rifle. Alba always ate his lunch at Jack Mancuso's Restaurant and 'e saw OSWALD there many times, but usually alone because he cannot remember anyone with him. [Mancuso's Restaurant was located on the first floor of 544 Camp Street and Guy Banister frequented it.]

During this period of time, the Secret Service stored their cars, as well as vehicles that were seized by them, at Alba's garage. One particular day, he remembers it because it was rather unusual and his memory was jogged by a TV commercial begin shown just a couple of years ago, a FBI man came down, showed him his credentials and also showed him a pass issued by the Secret Service allowing this FBI man to take out what he recalls as a light greenish Plymouth. The car was kept out, apparently by this agent, for two or three days. During this time he was standing outside of his garage and he saw, as he referred to it, 'my car' coming do'n the 'treet. He saw the plate number so it was the same one. The car stopped at the corner just outside of the Reily Coffee Company, and he saw OSWALD come out of the building, go over to the car, not to hold a conversation of any duration, but take a legal sized envelope, hold it to his stomach under his T-shirt, turn around in a crouched position, and go back into the building, straightening up as he went. The thing that jogged his memory was the commercial of a businessman (Rosenberg) showing a similar action. He states he has not mentioned this in the past.

Alba has a record of books going back to that time, and an attempt was made to ascertain the license plate number and the agent assigned to the vehicle. The records that were checked by Daly and Buras only showed three of the five or six that were stored there, and none was the vehicle in question. Further efforts will be made in this direction.

Alba was the only patron who had seen OSWALD in Mancuso's restaurant. Man'uso did not remember him. [HSCA interview with Mancuso 1.26.78 Daly/Buras]

Why did OSWALD associate with Alba, 'a good ole boy,' 'ather than with other left wingers? Adrian Alba was contacted in April 1993. He said he was "not interested in talking." He spoke with Gerald Posner who dismissed him as a kook. [HSCA R p146; Case Closed p131]

The HSCA called Orestes Pena to testify. He reiterated to the Committee that he had seen OSWALD and S.A. DeBRUEYS together several times: "Pena maintained t"at a few days before he went to testify before the Warren Commission, S.A. DeBRUEYS threatened him physically and warned him not to make any accusations against him. Orestes Pena stated that Wesley Liebler did not cooperate with him, and did not let him talk freely, so he decided to keep his mouth shut." [HSCA R p193] Th" HSCA found that Orestes Pena was not a credible witness. The CIA claimed to have no "pertinent identif"able information" on Orestes Pena." [DOJ LHM 7.6.64] As of 1993 Orestes Pena, who recently suffered a stroke, lived in Florida.

ATTEMPTS TO BOMB THE SHELL OIL REFINERY IN HAVANA
MIAMI, FLORIDA JUNE 1963
SAM BENTON AND VICTOR ESPINOSA

On June 15, 1963, Sam Benton and Victor Espinosa were arrested in Miami while preparing for an air strike on the Shell Oil Refinery in Havana. Sam Benton claimed he "was acting in a consultant capacity," and was there to photograph the raid for the news media. A few days later, the Justice Department dropped charges against Sam Benton and Espinosa. On July 5, 1963, MM T-1, a Cuban exile pilot, advised that several days prior to June 15, 1963, he was contacted by Victor Espinosa and asked to do a bombing run over Havana. An FBI report dated July 22, 1963, revealed that several days prior to June 15, 1963, a Cuban exile pilot (not identified in the report but known to be reliable to the FBI) was contacted by Victor Hernandez and propositioned to pilot a twin Beechcraft plane on a bombing mission against Havana, Cuba. During this conversation, Espinosa disclosed that one Mike McLaney had supplied the money and the Beechcraft plane to stage this proposed raid. The FBI informant said he was personally acquainted with both Espinosa and McLaney, and that he declined the proposition, and had no part in the operation. The informant said that Mike McLaney formerly operated a gambling concession in the Hotel National, Havana, Cuba, during the Batista regime and the informant was of the opinion that McLaney was investing in this raid in order to earn some credit for future business opportunities in Cuba should the Castro regime ever be overthrown. McLaney was reported to be a well-known figure among gambling circles in Havana, Cuba, and South Florida." When questioned by the FBI, Victor Espinosa denied that Michael J. McLaney had donated funds or assisted in plans for the raid. [FBI from SSCIA 157-10007-10104; NARA 124-10236-10075]

Victor Espinosa arrived in the United States on May 2, 1960. He was granted a CIA Provisional Operational Approval on October 18, 1960, and April 18, 1961, for participation in Project Zenith. Before Bay of Pigs, Victor Espinosa participated in several CIA missions within Cuba. Victor Espinosa, a former member of OPERATION 40, had been trained in Panama. One CIA document stated he was terminated on March 20, 1961, as a malcontent. Another stated: "Interest was cancelled on October 30, 1961, and Subject's Immigration and Naturalization Service status was changed from parolee to refugee. Cancellation of clearance is dated May 15, 1963." The CIA claimed: "At the time of the FBI raid on the LaCombe arms cache, in July 1963, Victor Espinosa was not employed by the CIA." [CIA OS Memo 2.19.68] After the raid on the home of William McLaney, Wallace Shanley put Victor Espinosa under surveillance. HEMMING commented: "Espinosa lived with McLaney until the Bay of Pigs."

Richard Lauchli sold the dynamite to Sam Benton and Victor Espinosa for the June 15, 1963 raid. MM T-3 advised on June 14, 1963 "Rich Albert Lauchli arrived in Miami, Florida, in a Ford Station wagon with a load of arms for sale. American adventurers and mercenaries HEMMING and STURGIS took Lauchli around to meet the different Cuban exile leaders in Miami. Lauchli subsequently sold a .57 mm recoilless rifle to the Second National Front of Escambray, a Japanese machine gun to American mercenary Bill Garman, two automatic rifles and two French guns to Ramon Font of Commandos L, and miscellaneous other equipment to other organizations. MM T-3 explained that when Lauchli arrived in Miami in June 1963 his station wagon contained .50 caliber machine guns, nine sub-machine guns, automatic rifles and a number of foreign made weapons. Lauchli sold nearly all of these arms, and at reasonable prices. MM T-3 explained that Lauchli is more interested in arms sales as a gun dealer, and he has no emotional feeling about the Cuban exile cause of trying to overthrow the present government in Cuba." [FBI Miami MM 105-1742] HEMMING introduced Richard Lauchli to Sam Benton and Victor Espinosa. [FBI 62-109060-7543] HEMMING claimed it was not him, but someone in "the Bureau or Customs."

THE ATTEMPTS TO BOB THE SHELL OIL REFINERY IN HAVANA NEW ORLEANS JULY 1963

In early July 1963, a FBI informant in the DRE advised that Sam Benton had 2,500 pounds of dynamite hidden in Mississippi, and wanted to obtain B-24 aircraft for a new strategy against the oil refineries that involved the DRE. This joint Christian Democratic Movement-DRE operation was scheduled to take place in August 1963. The FBI released a document in 1984 that described the DRE airstrip near the camp. Two aircraft were scheduled to take off from this strip, then bomb Havana's oil refineries. The document noted that the only other "group in New Orleans which appears to have sufficient organization to attempt such an adventure is the Cuban Revolutionary Council headed by Frank Bartes." [FBI 2-1821-10]

A house in LaCombe, Louisiana, stored dynamite to be used on a bombing raid against the Shell oil refineries in Havana. HEMMING told this researcher: "Richard Lauchli was supposed to prepare the fucking fuses. He hadn't even started working the deal." On July 31, 1963, FBI agents raided the house in LaCombe. The search warrant had been based on the affidavit of S.A. DeBRUEYS. The FBI reported:

It is noted that we received information from Miami, Florida, source on July 18, 1963, that Acelo Pedroso, former Cuban pilot, had gone to New Orleans about July 16, 1963, to check some bombs allegedly to be used on bombing raid over Cuba. Pedroso, upon interview July 19, 1963, admitted traveling to New Orleans with two Cubans and being taken to a house in the New Orleans area where some bombs, fuses and dynamite were located. The bombs were not suitable for use on bombing mission. Pedroso voluntarily accompanied Miami Agent to New Orleans on July 30, 1963, and identified house which had been pin-pointed by New Orleans Office agents, as house where munitions were stored. On July 31, 1963, representative of our New Orleans office, which authorized search warrant, searched residence located in St. Tammany Parish, Louisiana, owned by William Julius McLaney, 4213 Encampment Street, New Orleans, Louisiana...There are no references in the OSWALD case to any of the Subjects of the seizure matter. We have no indication that OSWALD had any connection with it. [FBI 62-109060-4760]

The FBI also reported that Pedrosa stated that

Two B-26 airplanes were located some distance from New Orleans, possibly in the Houston area, although Pedrosa was not certain of this. After Pedrosa approved the equipment to be used in this raid, he was to call his pilot friend in Miami, who would arrange for the plane to be flown to an airstrip located about ten miles from the house where the bombs are located. After the bombs were loaded, the planes would take off for the bombing mission to Cuba. It was indicated to Pedrosa this operation would be a one time deal, and to avoid any problems with the U.S. authorities, the planes would not be returned to the U.S. but proceed to an unknown destination or be ditched in the ocean.

It is noted that MM T-1, previously mentioned, stated he believed one of the pilots to be used in flying this mission was Antonio Soto Vazquez, a Cuban exile and former Cuban Air Force pilot who participated in the invasion at Bay of Pigs, and who is good friend of Pedrosa.

HEMMING told this researcher: "They didn't have B-25's. They had a Twin-Beech. They were going to roll the bombs out of the fucking door. Show me the fucking document." The FBI reported:

MM-T2 a Cuban exile pilot, advised the Miami Division on July 5, 1963, that several days prior to June 15, 1963, he was contacted by Victor Espinosa in connection with a proposition that MM-T2 pilot a twin engine Beechcraft airplane on a bombing mission against Cuba. Espinosa disclosed at that time that Mike McLaney had supplied the money and Beechcraft airplane to be used in the raid...Frank Bartes, advised on September 26, 1963, he met Rene and Victor Espinosa in Coral Gables, Florida, in June 1963. They told Bartes they had previously been picked-up by Federal authorities for attempting to bomb an oil refinery in Cuba. Bartes advised that neither Rene, nor Victor Espinosa, mentioned having any explosives in Louisiana. Bartes denied any knowledge of a cache of explosives at the residence of William J. McLaney and denied knowing William McLaney or his brother Mike. Bartes also denied knowledge of any plans by anyone to bomb Cuba...By letter dated January 3, 1964, the Internal Security Division, U.S. Department of Justice, advised that since the plan of the Subjects to undertake an aerial attack on Cuba was effectively thwarted by the seizure of the material criminal action in this matter was not being contemplated at that time. [NARA FBI 124-10236-10075]

In a memorandum to his FBI superiors, S.A. DeBRUEYS recalled that Senator Richard Schweiker "seemed to be interested in an anti-Castro training camp which was alleged to have been located in a rural area across a lake in New Orleans. He requested if I was involved in, or knew about, a raid of such a camp. I replied that rumors were rife in approximately 1963 that such a camp existed, but I had no corroborative information that one did exist...I did state that there was a case in which a search warrant was effected by me and other Special Agents of a residence located on the other side of the Lake from New Orleans some time in the Summer of 1963...the owner of the property was a man named McLany (ph.) who I recall may have had some prior gambling connections in Cuba..."

WILLIAM AND MIKE MCLANEY

The house in LaCombe belonged to William J. McLaney. With his brother Mike McLaney, he had purchased Nacional Hotel and Casino in Havana from the syndicate in December 1958. Mike McLaney was arrested in Cuba on March 13, 1959, and charged with the illegal importation of Cuban currency. Tourists coming into Cuba were searched to see if they were smuggling pesos. The Cuban Government ordered the search in an effort to halt any covert returned of money cached outside Cuba by ousted President Batista and his associates. Meyer Lansky's brother, Jake Lansky, was also arrested in Cuba on March 13, 1959. They were freed seven days later. The Castro Government issued an apology to McLaney. Jake Lansky left the country, but Mike McLaney continued to operate. In late 1960 Fidel Castro nationalized Mike McLaney's casino and deported him. During testimony before a Bahamian Gaming Board in 1967 Mike McLaney was asked:

Q. When did you operate the Hotel Nacional?

A. I was unfortunate in buying it about seven months before the bearded, mongrel, Communist dog took it over. He stole it from me about a year later, in addition to other lands and businesses I had in Cuba.

Q. I wonder, McLaney whether you can confine your evidence to the facts. Your description of Mr. Castro may be interesting but it is not language appropriate for use in court.

A. I will take the dog part out of it.

LANSKY AND MCLANEY

When Life Magazine printed a story that linked Mike McLaney with Meyer Lansky, he filed a multimillion-dollar lawsuit against Life Magazine. Life Magazine produced newspaper clippings that confirmed that no casino operated in Havana without the consent of Meyer Lansky. Since Mike McLaney owned a casino in Havana, he had to have been some connection with Meyer Lansky. Life Magazine had Robert Peloquin, a specialist in organized crime with the Department of Justice, testify on its behalf. After his departure from the Department of Justice, Robert Peloquin was hired by INTERTEL. Mike McLaney lost the lawsuit. The Internal Revenue Service filed income tax evasion charges against McLaney and he was convicted of evading $118,000 in taxes and sentenced to three months in Federal prison. The agent from the Internal Revenue Service who initially questioned Mike McLaney, (FNU) Mann, was also hired by INTERTEL, as was IRS agent Michael Zier, who was hired in June 1972. Mike McLaney denied he had been associated with Meyer Lansky during testimony before the Bahamian Gaming Board in 1967:

Q. Did you have at any time an association with Meyer Lansky?

A. Never, I don't even know Mr. Lansky. If he was in the room, I would not even recognize him unless he was pointed out to me.

Q. You were at some time a resident in New Orleans?

A. Yes, I was in the construction business there, the sporting goods business. I have lived only two places all my life. For the first 32 years of my life in New Orleans and in Miami Beach from that period until now. I am 52 years of age.

Q. Did you ever gamble at the Colonial Inn in Hallandale?

A. No.

Q. Do you know who operated it?

A. No I think it was closed before I came to Florida.

Q. Mr. McLaney, in relation to this last statement, you were asked whether you knew Meyer Lansky, and you said you had never met him.

A. I don't to my memory, ever remember meeting Meyer Lansky.

Q. He was in Cuba when you were in Cuba. Is that right?

A. If Meyer Lansky was in Cuba when I was, I never met him, never discussed business with him of any type.

Q. If you didn't know him, did you know Jake, the brother?

A. Jake Lansky was one of the employees or owners of the casino I purchased. I was a customer and you establish when you play you have a line of credit. I would see Mr. Lansky, who has prominent eyebrows, that would be the extent of my knowledge of Mr. Lansky. He would nod his head - my credit would be okay.

Q. Was he the credit manager?

A. I don't know - he was one of the bosses, I assume, whether he was the credit manager or not he had the authority.

Q. Would you have known him quite well?

A. Not quite well. He would know me as a customer.

Q. Was he never associated with you in business?

A. Positively not.

Because of the Life Magazine story, the Miami Police Department began an investigation of McLaney. The report of this interview stated: "In the course of the conversation Mr. McLaney named some of his close friends. To the best of my recollection those named were J. Edgar Hoover, John S. Knight, publisher of the Miami Herald and Rocky Pomerantz, Chief of the Miami Beach Police Department. He stated that he could use these people as references, along with the Chief of Police and Mayor of New Orleans. Upon departure it was noted that his next door neighbor is alleged crime figure Tony Salerno." [Inter-office Memo, City of Miami, McCracken/Swilley 2.9.67] Jack Anderson reported that after the Bay of Pigs invasion, Mike McLaney sent the Agency a detailed plan for destroying Cuba's oil refineries. The refineries were owned by American multi-national oil companies and for that reason the CIA opposed the plan. [Messick Syndicate Abroad p32, 137; Miami Herald James Buchanan 10.2.61]

WILLIAM JULIUS MCLANEY

The brother of Mike McLaney, William Julius McLaney, told the FBI he knew nothing about the dynamite and merely permitted a Cuban exile named "José Martí" to store some personal belongings in the house. Mike McLaney told the FBI he knew nothing about the dynamite. In the course of the Garrison investigation in 1967 M.D. Stevens of the Security Research Service of the CIA's Office of Security found no traces on "McLaney, William Julius."

HEMMING told this researcher:

McLaney never dealt with STURGIS. When STURGIS came into his casino, and STURGIS was the casino police? McLaney never dealt with STURGIS after that. He helped out people that STURGIS was associated with. If McLaney hadn't been a stubborn son-of-a bitch, he'd just given me a brand new pair of Italian shoes. He thought we were looking for handouts. We set his ass straight, but he'd already started this goddamned project. If he had gone with us, he would not have had any problems. He wanted to part of our team. He said he could raise funds. I was in touch with him long before this. We did a number of interviews in New Orleans. McLaney puts the word out that he wants to see us. He was in with Papooch [Espinosa] and some of William K. Harvey's people and JMWAVE type assholes. McLaney set up a meeting with Sam Giancana in the Boom Boom room. He wanted us to wear our uniforms.

William Dalzell told the HSCA that a "Mr. Popich," (Papooch - Espinosa?), who owned large gambling operations in pre-Castro Cuba, owned land across Lake Pontchartrain: "Mr. Popich knows the MARCELLO family well, and unconfirmed reports from some sources state that this land might have been used to train Cubans. On one occasion Dalzell drove Sergio Arcacha Smith to the Slidell area to a training camp." [HSCA Buras and Delsa interview 12.9.77] HEMMING 1994: "The men at the LaCombe training camp were the top terrorists in the Cuban community." Jorge Soto Martinez was one of 11 men who the FBI interrogated about the camp.

FBI investigation indicated the LaCombe dynamite was "ordered from the American Cyanamid at Collinsville, Illinois, by Richard Lauchli of 2012 Keebler Street, Collinsville, Illinois. The dynamite was picked up by Richard Lauchli and an unidentified man at the magazine in Millstadt, Illinois on July 10, 1963. The dynamite was paid for in cash in the amount of $642.09." [ARA file cites St. Louis Globe Democrat 5.21.64; Kansas City Times 11.30.65; St. Louis Post Dispatch 10.7.65 - not located.] The toll records of Sam Benton indicated he was in touch with "Victor, Collinsville, Illinois, DI 4-3195." "The FBI in their investigation into the purchase of 2400 pounds of dynamite by Richard Lauchli from the American Cyanamid Company in St. Louis checked into the rental of a 1963 Chevrolet station wagon from Avis-Rent-A-Car in St. Louis. The supposition is that this car was used in the transportation of the dynamite from St. Louis to New Orleans on July 11, 1963. Avis Rent-A-Car records show that the station wagon was rented to Victor Espinosa...50 Sutton Place, New York."

John Koch Gene, Sam Benton, Richard Lauchli, Earl J. Wasseem Jr. Ralph Folkerts, Victor Espinosa, Carlos Eduardo Hernandez Sanchez, Acela Pedros Amores, Miguel Alvarez Jimenez, Antontio Soto Vasquez, Victor Paneque. In response to FBI queries, Carlos Hernandez took the Fifth Amendment about the dynamite, and said he was associated with Manuel Artime. The FBI questioned Victor Paneque about the explosives. Carlos Quiroga told the New Orleans District Attorney's Office that Victor Paneque was in charge of training at this camp. The CIA reported: "His file contains no information to indicate connection in the LaCombe, Louisiana, area."

On September 26, 1963, the FBI questioned Frank Bartes, who denied knowledge of either the dynamite or the McLaney brothers. He did, however, admit acquaintance with two of the men who were picked up in the raid. [FBI NO 89-69 ECW: sab] Sam Benton was questioned about the dynamite seizure that took place on July 31, 1963, in LaCombe. Benton admitted knowledge of the dynamite, but denied he furnished the Cubans with the money for it.

SAM BENTON AND JOHN LOMBARDOZZI

Sam Benton was accused of selling fraudulent securities in the late 1960's. In 1971 Sam Benton was indicted with John Lombardozi, a target of the Justice Department Organized Crime Strike Force, who had a criminal record for sale and transportation of stolen securities. When he was arrested for tax fraud in 1978, John Lombardozi protested that he had testified to a Grand Jury about NIXON associates Robert Vesco and B.B. Rebozo, and said he furnished the Justice Department information which "aborted a Cuban invasion." Sam Benton pleaded guilty to income tax fraud in August 1974. He died of a heart attack on March 11, 1975. Sam Benton never testified before the HSCA. He was 55.

HEMMING told this researcher:

Sam Benton ran scams. He gave us stolen American Express money orders, and told us to use them out of the country. He was the conduit for a lot of bad paper used in Latin America. Benton wanted us to do a couple of operations for him.

THE TRAINING CAMP NEW ORLEANS JULY 1963 THE CHRISTIAN DEMOCRATIC MOVEMENT

The Louisiana training camp referred to by BRINGUIER in relation to OSWALD was organized by the Christian Democratic Movement in June 1963. Victor Paneque of the Christian Democratic Movement was also in the International Anti-Communist Brigade. The Christian Democratic Movement and the DRE worked together. In August 1963, the FBI issued a Letter Head Memorandum about the Christian Democratic Movement:

MM T-1, a Cuban national and an officer in Movimiento Democrats Cristiano (MDC), who has furnished reliable information in the past, on July 30, 1963, advised that the previous week Miguel Cucu Leon, former Cuban Revolutionary Council delegate to Nicaragua, returned to Miami with a Nicaraguan military officer, whose name is unknown. The Nicaraguan and Leon visited MDC headquarters in Miami on July 29, 1963. The Nicaraguan claimed to be an army lieutenant and for years to have been an aide to General Anastacio Somoza, of Nicaragua. This Nicaraguan acted tough, talked about assassinations, and left no doubt he is a Nicaraguan military man. He offered to the MDC training camps, military equipment, and military bases in Nicaragua from which Cuba could be attacked. He spoke very derogatorily of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) and explained that his proposed operations had the sanction mud support of top United States military officials. The Nicaraguan said all the expenses of moving MDC personnel and other Cuban exiles to Nicaragua would be paid for but the Cubans would receive no salary while in military training camp or while fighting in Cuba. He went on to say that as of that date there were no Cubans training in Nicaragua, but that he recently spoke to Manuel Artime and Laureano Batista Falla in Nicaragua. It is noted that the Cuban Revolutionary Council is a unity group of anti-Castro organisations presided over by Antonio de Varona, former Prime Minister in Cuba. Artime is the head of the Movimiento Recuperacion Revolucionarie, and Batista is the military head of one of the Christian Democratic Movement factions.

On August 7, 1963, NM T-3, who has furnished reliable information in the past, who is an officer in the Revolutionary Council, and who is a close friend and associate of the Council's President, Anthony De La Varona, advised that when the ex-President of Nicaragua, Luis Somoza was in the United States in July, 1963, he conferred with Verona in Miami and New York. Later, near the middle of July, 1963, Somoza returned to Nicaragua. About a week or so later a Nicaraguan Army colonel, who represents either Luis Somoza or General Anastasio Somoza, visited Verona and wanted to canter with his concerning the establishment of future Cuban revolutionary activities in Nicaragua. Verona replied that inasmuch as he previously conferred with Somalia, he preferred to continue his discussions with Somme and not the Nicaraguan Army colonel. The colonel stated he would notify Somoza of Verona's answer. [FBI 109-584-3681]

In August 1963, Laureano Batista charged that Fernando Jose Fernandez Barcena was engaged in espionage activities on behalf of Fidel Castro. Batista advised the FBI that "Fernandez had voluntarily confessed to him and other MDC members that he was a member of an espionage net operating in the Caribbean area, in behalf of Cuba. Subsequently, Batista, accompanied by other members of the MDC, brought Fernandez to the Miami Office, at which time Fernandez advised of his activities in connection with anti-Castro matters. Fernandez stated that he had confessed to being a Cuban intelligence agent under duress and threats of murder by MDC members. The Miami Office believed that Fernandez was not a Cuban agent, but had attempted to set up his return to Cuba under favorable circumstances." On August 6, 1963, the CIA generated a document about Alexander Rorke, Laureano Batista and the MRP. [FBI 97-4623-149 pages w/h]

OS INDICES RESULTS:

Laureano Batista, a 32 year old Cuban exile, was from a wealthy Cuban family and in Cuba he was a banker. He was granted a POA in December 1959 and an OA in February 1960 for use as a PP agent in Havana, Cuba. A copy of a letter in Subject's file dated November 22, 1963 signed by Subject as Secretary for Military Affairs, Executive Committee, Movimiento Democrata Cristiana (Christian Democratic Movement) is addressed to Major General Bela K. Kiraly, President, Hungarian Freedom Fighters Federation, Inc., and offered the services of the MDC in arranging meetings and discussions with other anti-CASTRO organizations and the Hungarian Freedom Fighters. The Hungarian Freedom Fighters were (deleted) was interested in information on the MDC before granting approval for contact between the two organizations.
[CIA OS Memo 12.13.67]

RUDOLPH RICHARD DAVIS

Rudolph Richard Davis organized the LaCombe, Louisiana training camp. Rudolph Richard Davis Jr., aka Ricardo Davis, was born September 9, 1936, Manhattan, N.Y. His father Rudolph Richard Davis Sr. was Cuban. His mother, Lorraine Elizabeth Blair, was a U.S. citizen, born in New Jersey. The family of Rudolph Richard Davis had owned the Cuban/American Sugar Company. Rudolph Richard Davis left Cuba in January 1961, after Fidel Castro seized the property of his family. He settled in New York City, where he worked at the branch office of the Cuban/American Sugar Company. According to Rudolph Richard Davis, the CIA contacted his company before the Bay of Pigs to secure its help. Rudolph Richard Davis served as a coordinator between the Christian Democratic Movement and the New York City Police Department. He moved to New Orleans in August 1961. On October 31, 1961 Rudolph Richard Davis went to the New Orleans FBI Office and offered his services to the agents there.

In June 1963 Rudolph Richard Davis moved Cuban exiles into the LaCombe camp by automobile from Miami. When two of these cars broke down, the driver and passengers went to the Catholic Cuban Center, where they spoke with Elsie Cerniglia. [FBI MM 105-1095 p20] Elsie Cerniglia advised S.A. DeBRUEYS on June 30, 1963, that 10 refugees arrived in New Orleans on the night of June 24, 1963, for the purpose of attending a training camp some two hours from New Orleans. The refugees stated that Rudolph Richard Davis was in charge of the training camp. This is S.A. WARREN DeBRUEYS report on the training camp:

On August 14, 1963, NO T-2 advised that T-2 had understood that a group of Cubans had come to New Orleans from Miami about two weeks ago for the purpose of being trained at a camp located on the other side of the lake from New Orleans. It is his understanding that these Cubans expected to have a complete training area, as well as equipment, but that when they arrived, they learned that their quarters were a summer cottage owned by RICHARD DAVIS of New Orleans, and that the only equipment was broomsticks to be used in training in place of weapons. T-2 also understood that DAVIS allegedly had funds for these people which he had derived from some unknown source, but when the Cubans arrived in New Orleans, DAVIS had no funds to give them. NO T-2 explained two Cubans of this group, in particular one who was allegedly from Puerto Rico, were looking for DAVIS to harm him because he had apparently deceived them. For this reason DAVIS' whereabouts during the presence of these Cubans was unknown. It was T-2's further understanding that these 11 Cubans joined about 9 others who were already at the summer house, and that the entire 20 had returned to Miami disappointed.

On September 12, 1963, Mrs. ELISE CERNIGLIA, head of the Catholic Cuban Center in New Orleans, who had been out of town for the previous several weeks on vacation, advised on or about July 24, 1963 she had received a telephone call to the effect that some 10 Cubans had arrived in New Orleans from Miami. She explained that these 10 Cubans had been stopped by the New Orleans Police. She stated the police turned the Cubans over to the Border Patrol and when they learned they were Cuban refugees, they were contacted at the Catholic Cuban Center in New Orleans. Mrs. CERNIGLIA stated she learned that these men had come to New Orleans allegedly through efforts of RICHARD DAVIS, JR. She stated she had contacted DAVIS and he said that they were his men and that he had a company in Guatemala who was going to hire them. She stated that DAVIS requested financial assistance in their lodging since they were Cuban refugees. Mrs. CERNIGLIA stated she reluctantly found them lodging at the Monterey Motel on the Chef Menteur Highway in New Orleans and paid for the lodging there. She stated these men were not registered individually but had registered under the account of the Catholic Cuban Center in New Orleans. Mrs. CERNIGLIA stated the only other pertinent information she had was that DAVIS allegedly had some type of business firm in the Pere Marquette Building in New Orleans which allegedly was to hire these people. She remarked that it was her understanding that all of these Cubans returned to Florida on the following Sunday after their arrival in New Orleans. She had no information concerning the camp where they were to train outside of New Orleans but understood it was owned by someone in the same firm in which DAVIS was a member.

RUDOLPH RICHARD DAVIS, JR., 1570 Westbrook Street (Parkchester Apartments), New Orleans, voluntarily furnished the following information: He advised he was born September 9, 1934 at Manhattan, New York, but had resided in Cuba between the ages of 2 and 26. He stated he had returned to the United States on January 12, 1961 from Cuba via Miami, after which he resided in New York City until August, 1961. Since the latter date he has been residing in New Orleans. He claims he is presently a Cuban alien with Alien Registration #A12-290-713 however he has a special litigation current to re-establish his United States citizenship by birth. He explained that he had become friendly with a university professor by the name of JOSE IGNACIO ROSCO some time ago in Cuba and added that ROSCO had been a professor at the University of Havana. In 1959 ROSCO formed a movement against CASTRO. In 1959 DAVIS told ROSCO that he would like to become a member of his movement in Cuba but about a week later ROSCO and his organization 'Went underground.' DAVIS mentioned that he left Cuba in January, 1961 and went immediately to New York City, where he had become acquainted with friends of his active in the Christian Democratic Movement (CDM) (Movimiento Democratico Cristiano) (MEC). He related he acted as a coordinator between this group and the New York Police Department. He stated he is definitely anti-CASTRO. According to DAVIS, he came to New Orleans in August, 1961. He then related that sometime early in 1963 he had made friends with persons in the lumber business in Guatemala and had formed with them the Guatemalan Lumber and Mineral Corporation. This is a Louisiana corporation that has a contract with the Guatemalan Government to take mahogany out of Guatemala. Having need of some men to work in Guatemala in cutting-lumber for this firm, he had contacted LAUREANO BATISTA, who happens to be connected with MDC in Miami, to see if Laureano had some men he might send to work in this lumber company's business in Guatemala. According to DAVIS, some 19 men were sent by LAUREANO BATISTA from Miami to New Orleans in response to DAVIS's request. Unfortunately these men, for some reason or another, came to New Orleans with the idea that they were going to be trained in New Orleans for a military operation and sent to Guatemala for additional training. He claims that when he advised of the real purpose of their travel to New Orleans, they were disappointed and some were angry with him. DAVIS claims that these people were dressed in khaki military-type clothing and it was necessary to buy them regular clothes. He then explained that his corporation is made up of the following officers:

JOSEPH MILL A, President (a Guatemalan);
GUS de LaBarre, Vice President;
RUDOLPH RICHARD DAVIS, JR., Vice President;
FRANK de LaBarre, Secretary and Attorney for this company.

DAVIS stated that GUS and FRANK de LaBarre contributed to the food and clothing of these men and sent them across the lake from New Orleans for housing-and any training they could give them in connection With their lumber cutting Work in Guatemala. He stated that the home where they stayed in St. Tammany Parish is located in Lacombe, Louisiana, about a mile from Highway 190 West on a secondary road.DAVIS stated that during the list days of July the FBI had seized some dynamite and other explosives stored in a Lacombe, Louisiana residence which material, according to the newspaper, was to be used against Cuba. He stated this action disturbed these Cuban refugees and was probably partially responsible for the decision to return to Miami. Since they had come to New Orleans with the idea of receiving military training and additional military training in Guatemala, they were not willing to proceed to Guatemala to be employed in mahogany lumber cutting. For this reason their passage on Greyhound Bus was paid for by the Guatemalan Lumber and Mineral Corporation, New Orleans, Louisiana. DAVIS states this is the extent of the information he has concerning this matter and he attests he had no intention of givin6 these people any military training or using them in any military adventure against Cuba. DAVIS stated he did not know any of these refugees personally but could recall the names of the following:

VICTOR PANEQUE; LEMOVINO INTER/AN;
FERNANDO FERNANDEZ;
Man named FORNES.

[FBI NO 109-584 rel. 8.1.85]

Rudolph Davis told DeBRUEYS that Laureano Batista, of the Christian Democratic Movement in Miami, had sent the men to New Orleans. In a follow-up report dated September 18, 1963, the SAC of the New Orleans FBI Office informed the Director, that in view of the interview with Rudolph Richard Davis, "New Orleans will limit its inquiries to the possible existence in Mississippi of a training camp where 12 men were allegedly being trained on a ranch." [FBI NO 97-4110-65 rel. 8.1.85] S.A. WARREN DeBRUEYS prepared a report on October 3, 1963, which concerned Rudolph Richard Davis. [FBI 97-4110 10.3.63]

RUDOLPH RICHARD DAVIS DENIES HAVING MET OSWALD

On November 23, 1963, S.A. Reed Jensen reported that

At about 3:30 p.m. a Richard Davis, 1570 Westbrook Drive, phone 288-9986, Business, House of David, 531 Decatur Street, phone 532-5482, phoned saying he was calling in regard to LEE OSWALD. He said he had come to the U.S. 25 years ago going to New York, coming to New Orleans about 2 years ago. He said while in New York he aided the New York P.D. in providing information about the Fair Play for Cuba Committee and has always been a fighter against Communism. He stated he had not known OSWALD at any time, and did not know specifically what OSWALD'S activity was in New Orleans or anywhere else in connection with OSWALD'S communist activity. He said he assumed OSWALD had been a member of the Fair Play for Cuba organization. Davis said what he wanted to do was to talk to an agent who was familiar with Cuban matters and explain to the agent the workings of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, and go on the record as saying that in his opinion such action by OSWALD was not a lone wolf operation, and such activity was ordered by higher authority, and that OSWALD must have had some help. He said he had no information that this had taken place in this regard...Davis said he wished to be contacted in this matter as soon as possible. He said the only person he knew who might have known OSWALD was Carlos Quiroga, who he said had been in contact with the FBI. [NARA 124-10248-10147]

S.A. Jensen suggested that Rudolph Richard Davis be interviewed immediately. The SAC of the New Orleans Office stated in a memorandum dated November 23, 1963, that "It does not appear that Davis' information is of any value in connection with captioned case but it is possible he might be a potential security informant. It is suggested a copy of this memo be routed to S.A. DeBRUEYS and consideration be given to contacting Davis in regard to Cuban matters." [NARA 124-10248-10110] On November 25, 1963, the FBI contacted Rudolph Richard Davis at his request. "Davis said that he had been raised in Cuba and was sure that OSWALD was being directed and backed by the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. He says he has no actual proof, but knows Carlos Quiroga and although Quiroga is an anti-Castro and loyal American, he had met OSWALD as a result of OSWALD'S appearance on T.V. Through discussions with Quiroga, Davis had concluded OSWALD was associated with the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. Davis informed that he has not actual information about OSWALD." [FBI NO 89-69-204]

On April 20, 1964, Rudolph Richard Davis was interviewed by DeBRUEYS. "Davis stated that in the past three years he has worked closely with various security branches: the New York City Police Department; Secret Service in New York City; Immigration Department; and the FBI in New Orleans...Davis stated at no time did he ever represent himself as an Agent of the FBI or tell anyone that he was employed by this agency. He did state that he had cooperated with agents of the FBI. He told agents of the FBI what he knew regarding Cuban matters. He further advised that at no time did he ever tell anyone that he was an agent of the CIA." Rudolph Richard Davis listed Kenneth O'Donnell, Appointment Secretary to the President of the United States, as some he had been associated with in the past three years. The United States Attorney at New Orleans "declined prosecution of Davis in view of the fact that he did not receive anything from having made statements that he was an agent of the FBI or CIA." [NARA 124-10248-10110]

RUDOLPH RICHARD DAVIS ADMITS HAVING KNOWN OSWALD

In February 1967, Rudolph Richard Davis became of interest to New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison. On February 20, 1967, an FBI teletype indicated that a security informant from the New Orleans Office of the FBI "has been contacted by investigators from D.A. Garrison's staff who, from the questions asked, it was indicated they had information that Sergio Arcacha Smith, Carlos Quiroga and Richard Davis, had an office at 544 Camp Street." Rudolph Richard Davis told Jim Garrison on March 22, 1967, that he knew David Ferrie, Sergio Arcacha Smith, Guy Banister, Ronnie Caire etc. He said he had been a member of the Crusade to Free Cuba. Rudolph Richard Davis stated "that he was standing on a corner near where OSWALD was distributing pamphlets and witnessed the scuffle between OSWALD and BRINGUIER. Davis said he was introduced to OSWALD by Carlos Quiroga. Davis said he wanted to infiltrate OSWALD'S group and went to OSWALD'S house with Quiroga about 8:00 p.m. one night shortly after the BRINGUIER debate on television. Davis did not actually enter the house as OSWALD came out on the sidewalk and conversed with them there. According to Davis, prior to this, OSWALD had wanted to join Davis' group and spoke of his Marine training..."

On June 30, 1967, C.P.H. Bell, Supervisor, Travelers Insurance Company of Hartford, Connecticut, with offices in Houston, Texas, informed the FBI that "one Rudolph Richard Davis applied to his company for employment, approximately one week previously. While his application was being processed, another employee in Bell's office informed Bell he was acquainted with Davis. This employee related that...Davis allegedly stated while living in New Orleans his living expenses were paid for by an anti-Castro organization known as the Minutemen. Davis allegedly stated that LEE HARVEY OSWALD was connected in some manner with the Minutemen organization." [NARA 124-10244-10213]

Interviewed on July 17, 1967, Rudolph Richard Davis said that he never had been associated with the Minutemen, and knew nothing of any such association on the part of OSWALD:

Davis, in the fall of 1963, met OSWALD on two occasions in New Orleans, in connection with anti-Castro activities in which Davis was active at the time in the New Orleans area. In connection with these meetings with LEE HARVEY OSWALD, Davis stated he met OSWALD at the time that OSWALD was passing out pro-Castro handbills on Canal Street, New Orleans. Shortly thereafter, Davis contacted OSWALD at OSWALD'S apartment in New Orleans in an effort to obtain any information concerning OSWALD'S pro-Castro activities. OSWALD refused to have anything to do with Davis...Through his business connections and his anti-Castro activities, Davis became acquainted with members of the John Birch Society at New Orleans. With the assistance of John Birch Society members, Davis set up a training site for exiled Cubans on the DeLeBarre estate, LaCombe, Louisiana, which is near New Orleans...Davis emphatically denied any association between the cache of bombs and his training camp. It is Davis' understanding, a gambler who formerly had ties in Cuba and Las Vegas, was responsible for the bomb cache...Rudolph Richard Davis said he refused to talk to Garrison. [Rudolph Richard Davis Enclosure 7 to Garrison Trace Reports of Rocca; NARA 124-10244-10256]

The CIA ran a check on Rudolph Richard Davis as a result of the Garrison investigation: "Source Document 00/C D CS [illegible] March 23, 1967, Overt Result." [Stevens SRS NARA 1993.08.20.16.00:46:000028] HEMMING told this researcher: "Who gives a fuck? What is the significance of it? OSWALD was around these people, so he was around Davis. What the fuck does that mean?" HUNT was asked if he knew Paneque or Davis:

A. I have heard of them.

Q. Rudolph Richard Davis, Jr.

A. No.

In 1967 the CIA denied having had knowledge of the training camp at LaCombe, Louisiana:

Old hands at station confirm JMWAVE was the only Agency-sponsored training camp. To the best of Station knowledge there was no station or agency support or funding of the [Christian Democratic Movement] training camp. The only information we can dig up which may relate to the Christian Democratic Movement is AMOT Report DD 293, July 25, 1963, which states that the camp was located about 15 miles from New Orleans, right after crossing very long bridge right at entrance to the State of Louisiana. Source of report did not know the name of ranch which belonged to some American millionaires who were defraying expenses for maintenance of men in training and providing equipment. Approximately 30 men were training there. Source also stated that on July 24, 1963, two automobiles left for Louisiana with Commandante Diego. (Victor Paneque)" The New Orleans CIA station ignored the Christian Democratic Movement camp, since it had Agency backing. In June 1975 the CIA's Jerrold G. Brown stated that "an unknown group" had backed INTERPEN/IACB. [CIA 1315-1059b, 1228-513]

The FBI ignored the existence of the camp. S.A. DeBRUEYS explained:

I was then asked [by the Senator Schweiker Subcommittee on the Kennedy assassination] whether I knew about the Cuban training camps in the New Orleans area. I commented that there were numerous rumors that the Federal Government had such camps in the New Orleans area, but I never really confirmed their actual existence. I added that I had not conducted any investigation concerning the alleged establishment of the U.S. Government of camps in the area as I felt that one Federal Government agency should not investigate the alleged official activities of another [CIA] unless specifically instructed to do so for suitable reasons by higher authority. [FBI 62-117290-996X5]

S.A. DeBRUEYS told the SSCIA:

It was pointed out that although anti-Castro individuals investigated professed to be pro-United States and anti-Castro, they were admonished on numerous occasions in a most objective manner that were they to engage in any activities in violation of Federal law, they would run the risk of arrest and prosecution.

I recollect that I revealed during the interrogation that I had contact with Orestes Pena perhaps as many as a dozen times possibly to obtain information from him concerning various individuals about whom some allegation had been received that they had been pro-Castro seamen. As Pena's bar catered to semen, some of whom were rumored to be pro-Castro seamen, it made it logical to contact Pena concerning his knowledge regarding such individuals. On several instances during the interrogation, inquiry was made whether I knew OSWALD or had ever talked to him. My response was an empathic 'no.' I was shown a typewritten letter that Oswald had written to the Soviet Embassy in Washington, D.C. dated November 9, 1963, the general content of which indicated he had been investigated by the FBI concerning his membership in the Fair Play for Cuba Committee (FPCC). If I recall correctly, the letter also mentioned the fact that such inquiry by the FBI had ceased since he moved to Dallas from New Orleans. I indicated that I had not seen such a letter previously. THE PARROT JUNGLE INCIDENT
UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT MEMORANDUM

Miami, Florida, December 13, 1963.

MEMO SAC: RE: Assassination of President John Kennedy

At 4:20 P.M. instant date, Mrs. Kenneth Basthome, 6020 SW 102 St, telephone MO-1-4728, telephonically contacted this office to relate the following information on a confidential basis.

Caller stated that she was told a story by her girlfriend, Mrs. Lillian Springler, 6350 SW 102 St. an employee of Parrot Jungle gift shop.

Springler told her that about the first week of November 1963, while working at the gift shop, a Cuban male entered the shop. In the ensuing conversation the Cuban stated that he was extremely ambidextrous and also a very good shot. He then said he was going to shoot Kennedy right between the eyes, pointing to that location on himself, when he came to Miami. He then said that if I do not get him, I have a friend, an American Marine in Texas who will. Springler said he then left the shop, and she discounted the story as some crank.

On December 10, 1963, Springler said the same Cuban was in front of the gift shop. Both parties recognized each other and the Cuban began to run. Springler ran after him but he finally drove off in a white over blue Chevy. She states she would remember him anywhere.

Basthome stated she was passing this information on to this office for any action we deem necessary.

Robert John Schamay I.C.

Lillian Springler told the FBI that an unidentified Spanish-looking male made some remarks on November 1, 1963, which led her to believe he had been acquainted with OSWALD. The man had told her he hated President Kennedy, and would like to shoot him between the eyes, and he had a friend named LEE who was also a sharp-shooter, spoke Russian and German, who was either in Texas or Mexico. FBI S.A. James O'Conner interviewed her:

On March 6, 1964, Mrs. Lillian Springler, the Parrot Jungle employee who previously furnished the information concerning the aforementioned unidentified male, contacted the Miami Office of the FBI to advise that the unidentified individual had returned to Parrot Jungle on that date, and was observed by her to drive a blue and white Chevrolet bearing 1964 Florida license 1-143874. Mrs. Springler said that Mrs. Mary Tyson, who operates the ticket booth at the Parrot Jungle and speaks Spanish, ascertained that the unidentified male's name was Martinez.

Records of the Dade County, Florida, Automobile Registration Office, reflect that 1964 Florida License was issued to Jorge Soto Martinez, 464 N.E. 31 Street, Miami, for a 1954 Chevrolet four-door.

On March 16, 1964, Mrs. Anna Fisher, 464 N.E. 31st Street, Miami, stated she recalled Jorge Soto Martinez as a tenant in one of her apartments for a period of about a year, until approximately 1963. She said she did not know his current residence, but recalled that he worked at the Fontainebleau Hotel in Miami Beach. She said she did not know any of his associates, and that he resided alone, although she understood he had been married.

On March 17, 1964, Miss Kaye Bourbeau, Personnel Office, Fontainebleau Hotel, Miami Beach, advised that Jorge Martinez was currently employed as a bell boy at the hotel, and had begun employment with the hotel on July 14, 1961. His record indicated that he had worked for the Cuban Customs Service in Cuba during the period October 1949 to March 1959. She stated that Martinez's address was 711 S.W. 5th Street, and that his Social Security number was 262-70-6632. His employment references were reflected as Michael J. McLaney, casino owner, known three years; Jim Byres, Transportation Manager, place not identified, Emilio Garcia, property owner, place not indicated, and Miguel A. Garcia, Manager of the Light Company in Cuba.

Inquiry conducted at 711 S.W. 5th Street, resulted in learning that Jorge Martinez was not known at that address.

On March 18, 1964, Miss Kaye Bourbeau advised that the inquiry made of Jorge Martinez resulted in obtaining his current address as 301 N.E. 62nd Street, Miami, Florida.

On March 17, 1964, record at the office of U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, Miami, Florida, Number A11 873 416, pertaining to Jorge Antonio Martinez Soto reflected that he was born on February 15, 1928, in Havana, Cuba. He had been granted a U.S. resident visa at the U.S. Embassy, Havana, on June 28, 1960, and arrived at Miami via Pan American Airways on July 21, 1960. His sponsor for immigration into the United States, who furnished an affidavit promising employment and keep of Martinez, was indicated at Michael J. McLaney.

On March 22, 1964, Jorge Martinez voluntarily appeared at the Miami Office of the FBI in answer to a telephone call placed to him at the Fontainebleau Hotel on March 22, 1964. Martinez said he is known as Jorge Martinez, and he felt he had sufficient comprehension of English to permit conduct of the interview in the English language.

Martinez said he has, on occasions in the past, taken visitors in his personal car to tourist attractions in the Miami area, including the Parrot Jungle. He recalled the occasion on or about November 1, 1963, when he took tourists to the Parrot Jungle, and while there engaged in a conversation with the employees in the gift shop and displayed his ability to write with both hands simultaneously. During interview, he exhibited this ability by writing his name, Jorge Martinez, with both hands simultaneously. Mr. Martinez stated that he had no personal acquaintanceship with, or knowledge of, LEE HARVEY OSWALD. He said that if the Parrot Jungle employee thought he had expressed an association or acquaintanceship with OSWALD, this misunderstanding on the part of the employee must have resulted from his poor pronunciation of English, and lack of grammatical correctness. He stated that, in fact, he knew of no one with the first name LEE, and was at a loss to understand how the employee might have obtained this misunderstanding. He said, likewise, he had no friend located in either Texas or Mexico, and that the incident of his having allegedly spoken in this sense was completely erroneous.

Martinez stated that he does regard himself as excitable, and particularly so with regard to the control of Cuba by Fidel Castro, and that he may have made some remarks related to Castro which were misinterpreted by the Parrot Jungle employee as directed toward President John Kennedy. He said he vaguely recalled having spoken about Castro and the Cuban situation. He said, by way of explaining remarks attributed to him by the Parrot Jungle employee, that he may have said that he wished he were in Washington, or that he were the President of the United States, so that he could exercise the power to blow up Fidel Castro. Martinez said he may have also expressed some displeasure as what he regards as the failure of the United States to rid Cuban of Castro, but it was not a criticism of the United States Government, which he considers to be the best in the world. Martinez denied that he would have made any such statement as 'shooting between the eyes of President Kennedy,' and explained that if he made any such references, it would most certainly have been with respect to Fidel Castro.

Martinez stated that he is acquainted with no one whom he knows to be a U.S. citizen and Marxist, or such an individual who served in the U.S. Armed Forces. He stated that he himself, speaks Spanish and broken English, and no other language, and he does not have any friend or acquaintance who can speak the Russian language. Martinez said that, likewise, he could think of no acquaintance whom he knew to be a Marksman or Sharpshooter, and he added that if he had made some remark of this nature to the Parrot Jungle employee, it was unquestionably in reference to the means by which he would like to see Fidel Castro eliminated.

Martinez said he did not recall what may have prompted him to talk along these general lines during his visit to the Parrot Jungle, but possibly some development in the Cuban situation had recently occurred which could have upset him. He said that it was incredible that anyone should think that he would have any relationship with a pro-Castro person, because, in fact, he has only hate for Castro sympathizers. He related that he was employed in the Ministry of Finance in Cuba as of 1949, and continued in that department until the beginning of 1959, at which time he was the Customs Inspector in charge of Havana Harbor and the Colombia Air Base near Havana. He said that he was economically comfortable, in that he was earning $900 a month as of 1959, and resided rent free in a $40,000 home in Havana which belonged to his aunt, and which he would eventually inherit.

Martinez continued that his former father-in-law, Carlos Pujol, was a government administrator during the regime of Cuban President Carlos Prio, and it was through Pujol that Martinez originally obtained employment in 1949 in the Ministry of Finance.

He said that his own father, Antonio Martinez Perez Abreau, had been a successful and well-to-do attorney in Cuba prior to the advent of Fidel Castro to power, but he had since lost his properties through confiscation by the Castro regime. He said he did not know the whereabouts of his father, although the latter might still be in Cuba. He said that his mother, Carmen Soto Urquiza, had divorced his father years ago, and married Emilio Garcia Perez, who had lost a large amount of income property in Cuba to the Cuban Government. He said his mother and step father continue to live in Cuba. Martinez said that his wife, Concepcion Luisa Cortes Madrazo, had come to the United States with him in July 1960, but they have since separated and are contemplating divorce.

Martinez stated that his immigration into the United States was sponsored by Michael McLaney, who had operated the casino in the Nacional Hotel in Havana before the Government of Fidel Castro closed down such operations. Martinez said that when he lost his job in the Cuban Customs Service in the first part of 1959, when the Castro Government removed the pre-Castro personnel, he, Martinez, worked for McLaney at the casino in the general capacity of handling Spanish-speaking clients. He said that as of July 1960 he reached the decision that he could no longer accept the restrictions of freedom being imposed by the Castro regime, and decided to move to the United States. He said that very shortly after arrival, he began employment at the Fontainebleau Hotel at Miami Beach as a 'runner' handling cars, and with the exception of about three or four weeks during 1960 when he worked at a motel on the 79th Street Causeway, Miami Beach, he has been steadily employed at the Fontainebleau.

Martinez stated that he is a graduate of the Belen College in Cuba, and had studied law for one year at the University of Havana. He said he had not joined the forces which engaged in the Cuban invasion of April 1961, but subsequently volunteered for training in the Cuban unit of the United States Army, but was not accepted, possibly because of overage. He stated he has never applied for nor received assistance or aid under the Cuban Refugee Program.

In conclusion, Martinez stated that he would volunteer to take a polygraph examination at any time if the question remained as to possible acquaintance with, or knowledge of, LEE HARVEY OSWALD or any other individual who may be engaged in any plan or activity inimical to the interests of the United States.

MEMORANDUM

April 18, 1967.

TO: JIM GARRISON

FROM: Richard E. Gerstein, State Attorney

Alfonso Sepe, Executive Assistant

RE: Assassination of President Kennedy

CLOSED INVESTIGATION

As a result of a phone call I received from my sister-in-law, Mrs. Pat Sepe, I was informed that her close friend, Mrs. Ruth Bastholm, knew a woman who had worked in the Parrot Jungle Gift shop in 1963 and 1964. The name of this woman was Lillian Springler, and according to Mrs. Sepe, Mrs. Springler had a conversation with a Spanish-type man several months preceding the Kennedy assassination to the effect that he, the Spanish-looking man, hated Kennedy, could shoot Kennedy between the eyes, and that the Spanish-looking man had a friend named LEE who was also a sharp shooter, could speak Russian and German, and that he was either in Texas or Mexico. The FBI was supposed to have investigated this, and the matter ultimately dropped. This informal report took on added significance because of current allegations that there was a conspiracy to assassinate President Kennedy, and that some of the conspirators may have been Cuban.

Mrs. Springler appeared in my office in response to my telephone call and testified that she had been working in the Gift Shop of the Parrot Jungle and, in the course of her work, in September or October 1963, a Cuban male initiated a conversation with her in which he stated that he could write with both hands simultaneously and that he was a sharp-shooter, and if he wanted to he could shoot Kennedy between the eyes. This Cuban male allegedly told Mrs. Springler that he had a friend named LEE who could speak Russian and German, and was living in either Texas or Mexico, and that LEE was also a sharp-shooter. Mrs. Springler told some of her friends, but the conversation she had with the Cuban male was passed off until the night of President Kennedy's assassination, when Mrs. Springler was riding in a car with her husband, a close friend, and a relative from New Jersey, on their way back from Key West to Miami. Mrs. Springler states that before she heard the name of the President's assassin, she remarked to her husband and the other two passengers that she knew who the assassin was.

Because she had told several of her friends, including Mrs. Bastholm, who told her husband, Dr. Bastholm, and Alies Trigg, a co-worker at the Parrot Jungle, it was reported to the FBI. Thereafter, FBI Agent James O'Conner undertook the investigation. Several months after the President's assassination, this Cuban male was seen again in the Parrot Jungle, and, on one specific occasion, Mrs. Springler's employer, Mr. William Vander Wyden, and Mrs. Springler, secured the license plate number of the car used by the Cuban man. The license plate number was 1-143874, and it was on a 1954 blue and white Chevrolet. However, at the time, they were unable to talk to the Cuban. Mrs. Springler described him as follows: Average height, slight build, very dark complected, light deep-set eyes, uncombed hair, and sloppily dressed, Cuban accent. It seemed to Mrs. Springler and Mr. Vander Wyden that the Cuban made a business of driving tourists to the Parrot Jungle. It is unclear whether several weeks or several months passed after Agent O'Conner was given the description of the car, together with the license plate number, but in any event he called Mrs. Springler and informed her that he had in his custody Jorge Soto Martinez. At the time Mr. Martinez was working as a bellboy and moonlighted by driving tourists on sight-seeing tours. Martinez admitted to the FBI that he had a conversation with a woman working in the Parrot Jungle Gift Shop prior to the Kennedy assassination, but denied knowing OSWALD, being a sharp-shooter, or the conversation as Mrs. Springler recalled it. S.A. James O'Conner asked Lillian Springler if she wanted to go to the FBI Office and identify Jorge Soto Martinez, but she refused, because she was afraid of personal harm. S.A. James O'Conner said he was satisfied that Jorge Soto Martinez was not involved in an attempt to assassinate President John F. Kennedy, and did not know OSWALD; and further that MARTINEZ was the son of a prominent criminal attorney in Cuba.

I interrogated Mrs. Bastholm, Mr. Vander Wyden and Mrs. Trigg. Mrs. Bastholm knew only what had been told to her by Mrs. Springler and couldn't remember whether Mrs. Springler first gave her this information before or after the Kennedy assassination. On the other hand, Mrs. Trigg remembered learning of Springler's conversations from Mrs. Springler prior to the assassination, and corroborated to some degree Mrs. Springler's version. Mr. Vander Wyden remembered Mrs. Springler's excitement when Martinez had returned to the Parrot Jungle, at which time they were able to secure his license plate number. He knew something of the conversation that Springler had with Martinez, but only what he was told, and he doesn't remember whether he learned of the conversation before or after Kennedy's assassination. All witnesses that knew Mrs. Springler testified that she was a very truthful woman and in sound mental health.

Up to this point, however, I was unable to determine if the person interviewed by the FBI and identified as Martinez was the same person that Mrs. Springler had met in the Parrot Jungle. Since Mrs. Springler provided me with the license plate number for an old blue and white car bearing 1963 plate number 1-143374, I traced the car to Mrs. Albert Green...Because of this discrepancy, and because of the involvement of the FBI in 1963, I contacted S.A. O'Conner for further information. In our phone conversation, Agent O'Conner told me that he was completely satisfied that Martinez had not been involved in a conspiracy to assassinate President Kennedy. Mrs. Springler had exaggerated the conversation she had had with Martinez; and that in all probability she had misunderstood Jorge Soto Martinez, and he said he would like to kill Fidel Castro. S.A. James O'Conner believed that because of Jorge Soto Martinez's heavy accent she thought he said 'Lee' when he said 'he.' Agent O'Conner examined his own file and freely exchanged information with me, indicating a highly cooperative attitude. He provided me with the license plate number given him at the time by Mrs. Springler. It was in this conversation that I learned that the license plate number was for the year 1964 and not for 1963.

We then traced this automobile to Mr. Martinez, who is now living at 7879 Crespi Boulevard, Miami Beach, Florida. He answered our subpoena with no difficulty, and testified under oath that he had been at the Parrot Jungle when he was working as a bellboy at the Fontainebleau Hotel for about five years under Mr. Humphries. His father was a criminal lawyer still living in Cuba, and that he, Martinez, had married a girl in Cuba but left her there when he came to the United States. He divorced her and has remarried an American woman with two children, who he is currently supporting. While working as a bellboy at the Fontainebleau Hotel, Martinez moonlighted as a tourist guide to earn extra money.

During one of these excursions, Martinez drove some tourists to the Parrot Jungle and while they were inside, he initiated a conversation with an employee at the Parrot Jungle, demonstrating to her how he could write with both hands simultaneously. He also admitted that he had discussed President Kennedy's handling of the Bay of Pigs invasion, and stated he wished he could advise President Kennedy on how to handle the Cuban situation. He denied being a sharpshooter, or saying he was a sharp shooter. He denied ever stating that he could shoot the President between the eyes if he wanted to, or stating that he had a friend named LEE. He agrees that he might have said he wished he could kill Castro, but emphatically denies ever saying he wanted to kill President Kennedy.

Martinez denied knowing LEE HARVEY OSWALD or anyone involved in any conspiracy. He denied being involved in a conspiracy himself. Martinez claimed that he was very peace-loving, and shied away from inflicting any type of harm on another human being. He stated that he had, since the assassination, improved himself by studying real estate and becoming a real estate salesman, working for the Gulf American Land Corporation. He gave me a picture of himself so that I could show Mrs. Springler, which I did and which she identified. Martinez denied ever going to Texas or having any friends in Texas. He denied ever saying that he had a friend named LEE who lived in Texas or Mexico. The only person he knew in New Orleans was his cousin, who was a doctor.

Arrangements were made with Warren Holmes for Martinez to take a lie detector test. Several days later Martinez took the test and answered all questions posed to him by the polygraph expert. Mr. Holmes conclusions were that Martinez was telling the truth, with the exception that in a temperamental outburst to Mrs. Springler, Martinez might have said some unkind things about President Kennedy which he had originally denied to me. Specifically, he showed deception in his denial to the question posed by Mr. Holmes, "Did you tell the woman at the Parrot Jungle that you were going to Washington to shoot the President between the eyes?" He later admitted to Holmes, following his examination, that the question bothered him because he recalled making some stupid statements like that to the woman in the Parrot Jungle Gift Shop, but could not recall what words he had used. He stated that he had a habit of shooting his mouth off, but vehemently denied mentioning the name of LEE. Holmes found Martinez's explanation that he probably shot his mouth off too much to Mrs. Springler at the Parrot Jungle consistent with Martinez's demeanor. A combination of Holmes observations of Martinez, together with the administration of the polygraph test, satisfied Holmes that Martinez was telling the truth. It is therefore my recommendation that this investigation be closed.

City of Miami Archivist Gordon Winslow and researcher Gordon Winslow, discovered this testimony of Martinez dated March 1964:

Q. Are you married?

A. Yes.

Q. Does your wife live with you?

A. Of course.

Q. Where do you live?

A. 550 Northeast Terrace, Apartment 4.

Q. How long have you been living at that address?

A. Since September until now [January 1961].

Q. Where were you living before you moved to that address?

A. I was living in a small apartment on top of a garage in back of Mr. McLaney's home.

Q. Did your wife live with you there?

A. No, she was in Cuba.

Q. How did you meet McLaney?

A. I was working for Customs in Havana, and since Mr. McLaney used to travel a lot, I met him there, working at Customs.

Q. Did you ever work for him in Havana?

A. No.

Q. Have you worked for him in the United States?

A. No. Well, when I left Cuba they looked me all over and they took away all of my money. And when I came back here I looked him up and he let me live in that room above the garage because I didn't have any money or anything to face the situation.

Q. What do you know about McLaney's work or business?

A. I know nothing, nothing.

[#60L3609-E Cannon Circuit Court, 11th Judicial District, Dade County, Florida; FBI 105-8342 Miami 3.25.64]

Jorge Soto Martinez was a former official of the Batista Administration. Castro had cost him everything he had. Martinez spoke key words at Parrot Jungle: ex-Marine, spoke Russian, spoke German, Texas, Lee. He had heard about OSWALD either from Mike McLaney (who heard it from HEMMING) or because he was part of the LaCombe training camp organized by Rudolph Richard Davis that OSWALD attempted to "infiltrate" through BRINGUIER. Jorge Soto Martinez was questioned by the FBI about the dynamite found in William McLaney's LaCombe home on July 31, 1963. Alphonse Sepe went on to become a Judge. He was indicted for corruption. He dismissed the fact that Martinez failed a significant question during his lie detector test. Lillian Springler told the truth. It was no accident that out of all the Cubans in Miami, Lillian Springler pointed her finger at a close associate of McLaney. Lillian Springler was contacted in November 1993. She said, "I am old now and don't remember. Whatever I said back then was true." Lillian Springler was a patriot.

HEMMING told this data base compiler in 1994:

Who would run around trying to put the finger on LEE HARVEY OSWALD? Who would do that? Why do you think that was done? Why would someone come up with that kind of shit? What purpose did it serve? The guy would have to be a moron, or was he setting somebody up? He might have been in a situation where he overheard McLaney saying something, or one of the Cubans around. From what I read, Soto didn't speak English really worth a fuck. However, I presume that he spoke clearly enough, and said what he said. I buy that. Now, does he get it into his own head to walk in there? What prompted the conversation? What led to this outburst? Did he try to hit on her? Was he trying to get some pussy? What was his motivation to blurt this shit out and blow the cover completely? More than likely, it was more involved than that. He was probably getting some pussy there, and she's trying to cover her ass by saying it was done in a store. It might have been fucking pillow talk. I always figured there was something behind it. Then I want to know, How would Soto pick up this kind of information? Who the fuck is he? What kind of jerk-off is this? Is this the key man in the fucking plot? Who was letting these secrets out? Even dummies aren't going to have people walking through the Parrot Jungle. The plot is to nail OSWALD. Let's visualize the scenario. You don't want the word to get around to people who are going to call the cops, who are going to say something. Do you want OSWALD busted before the event?

I explained to HEMMING that "Not everything works the way you want it." HEMMING: "A.J., we're getting close." I responded: "He's a fuck up, an asswipe, he came back after the assassination to see her again so maybe she'll be impressed with him and say, 'Wow, this guy knew some heavy shit about the assassination way in advance.' GERRY, did you ever meet this guy, Jorge Soto Martinez?"

Yeah, yeah. I had other people talk to him, sat down and had a chat, and all that kind of shit. This was before the assassination. There was shit going on. Number one, McLaney had been helpful to us. So we consider him a friend. He sent Espinosa and couple of other people out to do a couple of things, and now we're being asked about it. McLaney wanted to kill Fidel. With a passion. If Espinosa had a loose mouth and he talked in front of this guy, and this guy actually lived there, and things were being discussed. That's a lot of 'ifs.' Is he trying to get out of participating in something by burning it? This was the first thing we looked at. Or did he tell stories to people in confidence? Was he trying to impress somebody?

With Victor Espinosa around, no Cuban around McLaney was doing anything that McLaney didn't know about. He didn't take those kind of chances. It wasn't sanctioned by McLaney. It was done behind his back. McLaney would suspect it was done to fuck him up.

During his deposition in HUNT v. WEBERMAN STURGIS was asked:

Q. Do you know the owners of the Nacional Hotel, Mike and William McLaney?

A. I met him yes.

Q. Do you remember a man named Jorge Soto Martinez?

A. George? Possibly. If he had anything to do with casinos, possibly, because -

Q. He worked for McLaney.

A. Possibly; because I didn't meet everybody there 'cause there's too many people involved.

ANTONIO CARLOS VECIANA BLANCH AND OSWALD AUGUST 1963 ANTI-BATISTA ACTIVITIES

Antonio Veciana [201-312966] was born October 18, 1928. He was the President of the Association of Public Accountants of Cuba. Prior to Castro's rise to power, Veciana, in collusion with bank employees, embezzled funds for the MIR which was described as a fund raising mechanism for the Second National Front of Escambray. From 1958 to 1961 Antonio Veciana was employed by Julio Lobo Olavarria, as a comptroller of his finance company, Banco Financiero. Click HERE to see video of Veciana. Julio Lobo spoke with R.E. Reichardt, Chief /Western Hemisphere/4/FI, on December 17, 1960. Julio Lobo

"mentioned Veciana again and restated that Veciana is reliable. He said that he had received word that Veciana is systematically destroying the bank's records and the machine bookkeeping equipment in the bank. Also he felt that there had been some planning on Veciana's part for the wholesale sabotage of his sugar mills. Lobo did not know anymore of the details or status of this plan. ## "MAURICE BISHOP" AND VECIANA IN HAVANA

In the middle of 1960 Antonio Veciana was approached in Havana by MAURICE BISHOP. Although Veciana initially assumed he was a new bank customer, BISHOP'S conversation with him focused on the Castro revolution. The business card of BISHOP indicated he was with a Belgium construction firm. BISHOP then invited Veciana to lunch at the Floridita Restaurant. After BISHOP convinced Antonio Veciana to work against the Castro Government, Antonio Veciana asked him if he was a CIA agent. He was told that BISHOP "was in no position to let me know for whom he was working, or for which agency he was doing this." BISHOP also said he could not tell Veciana whether or not it was Julio Lobo who suggested he contact him. "Supposedly Julio Lobo had very important contacts with the U.S. Government" Veciana said. Antonio Veciana entered a training program where he was taught demolition and sabotage techniques, although most of the program consisted of lectures on propaganda and psychological warfare. Veciana stated: "BISHOP told me several times...that psychological warfare could help more than hundreds and thousands of soldiers" Veciana stated. He then worked with BISHOP on a covert operation that resulted in the destabilization of the Cuban currency. Veciana also became Chief of Action of the Revolutionary Movement of the People, an anti-Castro underground movement headed by Manolo Ray. In Antonio Veciana's CIA Personal Questionnaire he listed "Victor" as the alias he "used in Havana City in the underground against the Castro regime." Mario Kohly and Joseph Merola were also involved in a plan to destabilize the Cuban currency in the early 1960's. Was this the same plan? BISHOP was a great believer in psychological warfare as was DAVID PHILLIPS who was operating in Cuba at this time under the cover of public relations man. DAVID PHILLIPS stated the he frequented the Floridita Restaurant and once saw Hemingway there.

SAM KAIL AND WAYNE SMITH

BISHOP suggested to Antonio Veciana in 1960 that he go to the Embassy and contact a Mr. Smith and Sam Kail. Said Veciana: "MAURICE BISHOP suggested the names of these individuals because we needed specific weapons to carry out the jobs, and he told me that these were the people who could help me." Antonio Veciana was asked not to reveal BISHOP'S name to them. The HSCA ascertained that in 1960 there was a Colonel Samuel G. Kail at the American Embassy, Havana. The HSCA located Sam Kail, retired, and interviewed him in Dallas. Sam Kail, born June 7, 1915, was a West Point graduate who served as the Army Military Attache from June 3, 1958, until the day the American Embassy, Havana, closed on January 4, 1961. His primary mission as a Military Attache had been intelligence. Sam Kail assumed his unit was functioning for the CIA. He told the HSCA: "I suspect they pay our bills." In January 1963 he received the CIA's Legion of Merit Award. Kail said that prior to the American Embassy closing in Havana, there was a constant stream of Cubans coming through his office with anti-Castro schemes, including assassination plans, asking for American assistance in the form of weapons or guarantees of escaping. Kail stated: "We had hoards and hoards of people through there all the time." For that reason, he said, he did not specifically remember Veciana visiting him. "I think it would be a miracle if I could recall him," he said, but does not discount the possibility that he did meet him. Kail said, however, agents of the CIA would frequently use the names of other Embassy staff personnel in their outside contacts without notifying the staff individual it was being done. It happened a number of times he said that a Cuban would come in and ask to see Colonel Kail and when introduced to him, tell him that he was not the Colonel Kail he had met outside the Embassy. Kail said he would then have the Cuban point out the CIA agent who had used his name. Kail said he was not familiar with MAURICE BISHOP." Gaeton Fonzi believed that "Mr. Smith" might have been Wayne Smith, the third secretary at the American Embassy in Havana at the time Veciana claimed he met him there. Smith was a personal friend of PHILLIPS.

CASTRO ASSASSINATION PLOTS

Chris Hopkins LAD/JFK taskforce reported:

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

Subject: Antonio Carlos Veciana Blanch (AMSHALE-1) 201-312966

Dpob 1928 Cuba

1. Information from review of Veciana's 201 file:

a. HKHA 6958 October 21, 1960

1960 – President of Association of Public Accountants

b. On December 7, 1960, Antonio Veciana called on COS with Felix Fernandez Yarzabal, former AMWAIL group member, who at that time represented the AMRANG movement. AMWAIL was Justo Carrillo Hernandez Montecristi Group AMBANG must have been Cuban Revolutionary Council. Station had had contact with Cuban Revolutionary Council member Manolo Ray. Antonio Veciana told the COS Havana of a plot against Castro in which Antonio Veciana was involved. COS gave Antonio Veciana no encouragement whatsoever. Antonio Veciana said he had previously spoken with a State [Department] political officer (identity not given).

c. October 7, 1961 Veciana entered U.S. at Key West. Had passport, no visa. Came via small boat, received $100 month refugee assistance

d. December 29, 1961 JMWAVE requested POA on Veciana for use as sabotage man for MRP. His wife and children were living in Cuba. His parents were living in Spain. Wife Sira Antonio Muino, later came to US.

In June 1961 BISHOP was infiltrated into Cuba, and met with Antonio Veciana. According to Antonio Veciana: "At the time, 'MAURICE BISHOP' decided that the only thing left to be done was to have an attempt on Fidel Castro's life." Although Antonio Veciana himself did not participate, he recruited the assassins and organized the operation, including renting the apartment from which the shot would be fired. The CIA reported:

MEMO for; Deputy Director Operations

Subjects" Chief Latin American Division

A. Jack Anderson January 20, 1977 Column titled CIA Tied To False Oswald Story

B. Identification of the Mr. X in the Anderson Column

1. The attached column, citing the testimony of a Mr. X alleges that a CIA agent tried to link Oswald to Cuban intelligence officers in Mexico. There is, of course, no substance to the column's allegations. The column identifies the source Mr. X because of attempts on his life but subsequently gives enough information on Mr. X to establish his identity.

2. According to the Anderson column, Mr. X was first met by his CIA contact in Havana before relations with U.S./Cuba were severed. Mr. X had helped to organize bank accountants to embezzle Cuban government funds to finance anti-Castro causes. Mr. X was reportedly recruited by a Morris Bishop (CIA contact) to plan an attempt on Castro's life. The plan was to fire bazooka from a wealthy apartment building while Castro was delivering one of his marathon speeches. According to the Anderson column, the plot was discovered by Castro's police and Mr. X escaped to America. Mr. X also reportedly tried to assassinate Castro in Chile in 1971 in league with the Venezuelan Luis Posada Carrile, who is now being detained in Caracas for the October 6 Cubana airline bombing. The Anderson column ends with the report that Mr. X worked for the CIA until 1975 for expenses but was paid $253,000 by Morris when he was terminated.

3. From the above description of Mr. X, it is reasonably clear that Mr. X is Antonio Carlos VECIANA Blanche (20I-312966). VECIANA, an assistant bank manager and past president of a public accountants association in Havana, first contacted CIA in Havana to help in an assassination plot against Castro. VECIANA asked in December 1960 when he asked the COS, (deleted) for visas for ten relatives of the four men assigned to kill Castro, and also requested four M1 rifles with adapters for grenades plus eight grenades. The COS did not encourage VECIANA and subsequently checked with an Embassy officer who reported that VECIANA had made similar "wild-eyed" proposals to him. On 23 November 1961 the Miami News published a report of an unsuccessful attempt by Antonio VECIANA to kill Castro. VECIANA reportedly had arranged to assassinate Castro and Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos on 5 October in Havana, but the bazooka he was using failed to fire.

4. There has been no Agency relationship with VECIANA. A POA, which was granted for his use in para-military affairs in January 1962, expired in November 1962. VECIANA was born on 4 October 1935 in Havana. He was a member of the People's Revolutionary Movement, an anti-Castro group in Cuba during 1960-61, and was one of the founders of Alpha-66. A certified public accountant by trade, VECIANA was with A.I.D. in La Paz in 1968-72. VECIANA was registered in ISR to the U.S. Army in November 1962 and he was terminated without prejudice in July 1966. On July 23, 1962 VECIANA was interviewed, at his request by from the DCD New York office. VECIANA asked to arrange a meeting with a senior CIA officer to discuss Alpha-66's plans to assassinate Castro and to request CIA's assistance (U.S. $100, 000; 10,000 Cuban pesos: 48 hand grenades). There is no indication that this request was ever acted upon by CIA.

Another CIA document read: "POA granted January 1962 for use with Revolutionary Movement of People (MRP) but no record in his file whether he ever used or contacted. POA canceled November 1962." [CIA 201-312966 1.7.74]

5. In April 1966 a LA Division officer [03 deleted] using the alias John Livingston met VECIANA in New York City. The meeting was arranged by a retired naval officer, James Cogswell, who had informed Chief WH Division that he had information of value concerning Cuba. When (deleted) arrived in New York City for the meeting he was introduced by Cogswell to VECIANA. He immediately launched into a discussion of the Cuban political situation and noted his strong feeling that the only solution was the assassination of Castro. (Deleted) advised VECIANA that he was in no position to provide him with assistance or encourage him in an assassination attempt and was only interested in gathering information which he thought was the purpose of the meeting. VECIANA subsequently said that his roommate Felix ZABALA, a Cuban refugee, had excellent contacts in Havana. It was clear however, VECIANA was attempting to use ZABALA potentially to get Agency financial support for his organization. VECIANA suggested that $50,000 would be needed to get his activities off the ground. (Deleted) indicated to Veciana that he would look into the ZAMBALA matter.

6. There is no indication in the file that any Agency officer in contact with VECIANA ever used an alias Morris Bishop. There is no Morris Bishop listed in true name in the DDO rolls. There was never any contractual relationship with VECIANA and he was not paid CIA funds.

7. In January 1977 a sanitized copy of VECIANA's 201 file was made available to staffers from the Senate Select Committee on intelligence.

A CIA memo for the record dated May 31, 1966, noted: "Veciana had roommate in Puerto Rico, Felix Zabala, who visited Cuba November 1965, in regard to Camarioca refugee departures. Has an identical twin brother in Cuba. Has sister in Cuba, at that time, who was secretary to Ramiro Valdez, Cuban Minister of Interior. In May 1966 "(deleted) employee met with Veciana who again requested (deleted) in assassination of Castro." [NARA CIA 1993.07.22.08:55:23:460530] An article appeared in the Cuban press naming Antonio Veciana as the organizer of the plot. The day before the plot unfolded, Antonio Veciana left Cuba by boat with his mother-in-law, in whose name the apartment had been let. According to Veciana, it was BISHOP who urged him to leave, because, he said, Castro's agents were becoming suspicious of Veciana's activities. The CIA reported:

October 7, 1960, Veciana entered U.S. at Key West. Had passport, no visa. Came via small boat, received $100 a month refugee assistance." William Sturbitts of the CIA reported: "Veciana fled Cuba by small boat in late 1961 and began his fund raising activities for Alpha-66 in early 1962. In July 1962, he claimed to have $50,000 to $60,000 in U.S. and Puerto Rican banks belonging to Alpha-66. He is characterized as a 'specialist in fund raising for Alpha-66 which is the financial section of the Second National Front of Escambray.' The fund raising activities of Veciana centered in the United States and Puerto Rico, although there are indications that Veciana intended to seek funds elsewhere in the Hemisphere such as Venezuela. In November 1962 the Inter-Agency Source Register indicates Antonio Veciana was an asset of the Army and was terminated by them, without prejudice, in 1966. Mr. Sturbitts feels that Veciana did not have, or need, any personal source for his own funds. He was in the U.S. only a few months before founding Alpha-66, and commencing fund-raising drives. In addition to this, Mr. Sturbitts reports that we did not have records identifying the Army officer who headed the Army's activities in Miami and Puerto Rico during Veciana's association, nor the name or identity of Veciana's Army case officer." [Breckinridge to Blakey 12.18.78] Sturbitts added: "From reading the file I get the impression that Veciana was a slippery-tongued type, completely capable of conning anyone and diverting funds for his personal use. Based on above I don't think that Veciana had or needed any personal source for his own funds. He was in the U.S. only a few months before he founded Alpha-66, and commencing fund-raising drives. [Speed ltr. 12.18.78]

ANTONIO VECIANA AND ELOY GUTIERREZ MENOYO

In Miami, BISHOP recontacted Antonio Veciana. In the fall of 1960, Antonio Veciana founded Alpha-66, which Veciana described as "the brainchild of MAURICE BISHOP." According to Veciana, the man behind all of Alpha-66's strategy was MAURICE BISHOP. Over the twelve year period of their association Veciana estimates that he met with BISHOP over 100 times. Besides contacts with BISHOP in Havana and Miami, Veciana also had meetings with him in Dallas, Washington, Las Vegas, and Puerto Rico, and in Caracas, Lima, and La Paz in South America. Antonio Veciana established himself as the civilian chief of Alpha-66, and principal fund raiser. He recruited the former head of the Second National Front of Escambray, Eloy Gutierrez Menoyo, as Military Chief. Eloy Gutierrez Menoyo had remained in the Castro Government until January 1961, when he defected to the United States accompanied by a dozen other former Rebel Army Officers. The group commandeered a small boat and sailed to Miami, where the Immigration and Naturalization Service quarantined them as possible Castro double-agents. The sister of Eloy Gutierrez Menoyo, Mercedes Gutierrez, called Frank Bender and stated "that her brother was in jail in McAllen with other Cubans; that she understood that some of these Cubans had been released; and wanted to know just what the situation was with her brother." [From Alien Affairs Officer Jerry L. Massett To: File] Six months later the group was released and flown to Miami, where they merged with Alpha-66. Veciana told the HSCA that BISHOP had some doubts about Menoyo, but Veciana insisted that Menoyo could be trusted. Besides, he said, "if it did not work we could get rid of him." Veciana said Menoyo was not aware of the existence of MAURICE BISHOP.

Shortly after reestablishing contact with BISHOP in Miami, Veciana was asked to sign a loyalty pledge in the presence of two unidentified men. On March 16, 1976, Veciana told Gaeton Fonzi: "(More specific about his meeting with BISHOP and the two men at the Pan American Bank Building). He remembers he met BISHOP downtown and they walked to the building. He didn't know where they were going. He doesn't remember what floor they got out of the elevator on, they were talking, but they got out and BISHOP took a key out and opened the door. There was a small office, a sofa and chairs, and there was a room with the American flag in the lefthand corner. He says it was a very brief ceremony, and it involved the agreement between BISHOP and him. There were papers that were written, typewritten papers, he read them and signed them. (Like a contract?) Yes, like an agreement. He says the reason for it he now believes was just to let him know that he would be responsible. He got no copies of it."

VECIANA AND OPERATION CELLULA FANTASMA

In Miami, BISHOP asked Antonio Veciana to monitor the activities of the anti-Castro operation, Cellula Fantasma. This was STURGIS' leafleting operation in May 1961. Antonio Veciana related he attended a few group meetings and described it as a leaflet-dropping mission over Cuba involving STURGIS. Antonio Veciana told Gaeton Fonzi that Robert Swanner and Robert Thompson were killed during a CELLULA FANTASMA OPERATION. Gaeton Fonzi reported: "(FIORINI) The only time he got involved with FIORINI was when FIORINI had a secret group - not CIA - called Cellula Fantasma and BISHOP asked him to infiltrate it. But the group sponsored a trip of leaflet droppings with two American pilots who were killed. The operation, he hears, cost $300,000. That broke up the group. (Did BISHOP know FIORINI?) [non-committal answer] He never had any contact with FIORINI." [NARA SSCIA 157-10007-10311] Antonio Veciana said he no contact with STURGIS. In another interview with Gaeton Fonzi, Veciana said STURGIS was there for the meetings. Gaeton Fonzi reported that Antonio Veciana stated:

(Ever work with FIORINI?) Just very little. He went to a few meetings of the Cellula Fantasma. About four meetings. Lobo was the one who introduced him to Cellula Fantasma. That operation cost about $300,000. Lobo introduced Veciana to the coordinator of it, Sergio Rojas. He was Castro's Ambassador to London before he defected. (Lobo financed Cellula Fantasma?) No, but he did put some money into it. Somoza, President of Nicaragua, he put some money in it too. He met Somoza at the Dupont Plaza. He thinks he died. Lobo gave Veciana's name to Somoza and he met him...(And BISHOP had asked you to infiltrate Cellula Fantasma to find out what it was doing?) Yes. He said the report he gave BISHOP was that he notified they weren't getting anywhere, and they seemed to drink a lot. The meetings were held in a motel in Miami Springs. (FIORINI was there for the meetings?) Yes. (Was he the leader?) FIORINI was like a special advisor. The military leader of it was Pedro Diaz Lanz. Rojas was the coordinator. There were a lot of people in the group but he didn't know them. BISHOP knew of FIORINI. He said that once he remembers BISHOP saying about FIORINI that he wasn't just another soldier, he was more than that. He wasn't just a dumb soldier. BISHOP told him that." Antonio Veciana denied having known HEMMING. Gaeton Fonzi reported that Veciana told him: "(re JERRY PATRICK?) Fifteen years ago he had a bunch of hippies surrounding him and today those very same people are with him at the truck company. He says that someone who worked there told him that the company has nothing to do with trucks, it was just a front for an intelligence operation. (Did you ever work with PATRICK?) No.

DAVID PHILLIPS Division, WH/4/Propaganda, would have had an interest in monitoring Cellula Fantasma. On December 29, 1961, a Provisional Operational Approval was requested for Antonio Veciana. His wife and children were living in Cuba. He parents were living in Spain. [WAVE 0311 (IN 44277) NARA 1993.07.22.08:55:23:460530]

(DELETED) TO DIVISION

Date November 5, 1962 JS

Memorandum for Chief, TFW [Task Force W]

Attention: Calvin Hicks (deleted). 201-312966 VECIANA, CARLOS BLANCHE.

A CIA Index Card stated: "POA req'd by PM (C. Hicks) on December 29, 1961, WAVE-0311 IN 44277 December 29, 1961. POA Granted Date January 29, 1962." A rubber stamp read "POA CANCELED FIELD ADVISED."

Antonio Veciana was being considered "in connection with Project (deleted)." Probably PROJECT PBPRIME. Veciana filled out a form with the CIA and was granted a Provisional Operation Approval by the Office of Security and by Counter-Intelligence. The CIA turned over its file on Antonio Veciana to the HSCA: "In a review of its own files on March 15, 1978, the CIA noted that Antonio Veciana had contacted the Agency three times - in December 1960; July 1962; and April 1966 - for assistance in plots against Castro." According to the CIA, "Officers listened to Veciana, expressed no interest, offered no encouragement and never recontacted him on the matter. There has been no Agency relationship with Veciana." This was clearly untrue in light of the release of Veciana's POA and this "A review of files dated July 7, 1962 revealed that contact with Veciana had been made by an asset. [Deleted]EWER-1 had given Veciana $500 for operational activity. (classified file IN 24738 7/7/62)." The HSCA found it probable that "some United States Agency assigned Veciana a case officer, since he was the dominant figure in an extremely active anti-Castro organization. The committee established that the CIA assigned case officers to Cuban revolutionaries of lesser importance than Veciana, though it could not draw from that alone an inference of CIA deception of the committee concerning Veciana..." Gaeton Fonzi concluded that PHILLIPS ran Antonio Veciana, like OSWALD, as a vestpocket operation, although some CIA documents that have not been released in their entirety still might link Antonio Veciana to PHILLIPS. The CIA definitely had an interest in Alpha-66, the most active exile group, and through Veciana, who was a member of the MRP and Alpha-66, indirectly supported an exile organization that was disfavored by the Kennedy Administration.

In October 1961 Frank Watterson, State Department Security Officer, Miami, was told that Alpha-66 had made 30 to 40 trips to Cuba without State Department permission. Frank Watterson told the FBI that the Department had not formulated policy on how to deal with this type of violation. [FBI MM2-312 10.19.61 p5] Frank Watterson called STURGIS and HEMMING, and told them they were on the list of pilots restricted to the U.S. On July 7, 1962, the CIA reported that Antonio Veciana, principal of Alpha-66 attended meeting July 2, 1962, in home of Emilio Fuentes, Bayamon, Puerto Rico. Purpose was to solicit funds from forty persons attending (above average Cuban exile professionals). Veciana pitch was demand rather than request for funds with inference reprisals against any who failed to fulfill this duty. Veciana said that it was necessary that they undertake an action program outside of U.S. control. In this connection the group was in contact with CIA through person named 'Joe' but group was not going to confide in CIA and were taking precaution of avoiding CIA penetration. Veciana left Puerto Rico on July 4, 1962, for fund raising junket to Chicago." [NARA CIA 1993.07.22.08:55:23:460530 - (Deleted) IN 24738 7.7.62]

On July 7, 1962, Veciana received $500 from a wealthy Puerto-Rican financier and industrialist with whom the CIA had a longstanding relationship. On July 23, 1962, Antonio Veciana was interviewed, at his request, by Harry Real, a CIA officer with the New York Domestic Contacts Division: "Veciana asked Real to arrange a meeting with a senior CIA officer to discuss Alpha-66's plans to assassinate Castro and to request CIA's assistance (U.S. - $100,000; 10,000 Cuban pesos; 48 hand grenades). There is no indication that this request was ever acted upon by CIA." Another CIA document stated: "Veciana said they needed Agency help, but under no circumstances would the Agency be identified with its activities. Veciana said they already had $50 to $60 thousand dollars at their disposal scattered in different places in the U.S. and Puerto Rico. Veciana's immediate requirement was conversation with someone in Agency sufficiently highly placed to make commitment."

On August 8, 1962, an FBI informant said "Veciana indicated names of the following three individuals then in Cuba who were expected to assist Alpha-66: Vincente Noble, Guillermo Ruiz (believed to be Veciana's cousin's husband, Orestes Guillermo Ruiz - DGI), Bernardo Paradela. Informant said he knew all three as they had been connected in 1956 with SIM (Military Intelligence Service) in the Dominican Republic. Veciana said Paradela was then in jail in Cuba, but Noble and Ruiz were on the loose in Cuba and were cold blooded killers." [NARA CIA 1993.07.22.08:55:23:460530 - CIA DBA 18681

8.8.62] On September 7, 1962, the CIA generated at highly deleted Classified Message: "(Deleted) August 29, 1962. (FYI) (Deleted) H has reported (deleted) connection between info in paras one, two and three not known. (Deleted) Alpha 66 is anti-Castro Cuban exile organization. Antonio Veciana Blanche, former Cuban banker and militant exile is involved recent reports (Deleted) indicate Alpha-66 action against Cuba may be imminent. DRE organization may be working with Alpha-66 (Deleted)." [CIA FOIA F82-0430/24] By September 1962 Alpha-66 had machine-gunned three vessels in Cuban waters, and had a 300-man force scattered in small units throughout the Caribbean. Veciana told the press that the group had a $100,000 war chest. On October 11, 1962, Alpha-66 raiders attacked Cuba. A few weeks later they were forced to curtail activities because of the freeze that followed the Cuban missile crisis. On October 22, 1962, the CIA received information that "Veciana was trying to obtain two boats from some unknown Americans somewhere in Texas. Veciana's organization (Alpha-66) centered in Puerto Rico, operated out of unidentified island in the Bahamas and had representatives in Guatemala and sympathizers in Miami." [NARA CIA 1993.07.22.08:55:23:460530] On November 6, 1962, the FBI received a memo from the CIA that stated: "Reported that Alpha-66 officer, Dr. Ramon Perez Daple, assistant to Dr. Jose Luis Gonzalez, both of whom are Castro infiltrators." On November 21, 1962, the CIA received a report that SANTO TRAFFICANTE Jr. had given Eloy Gutierrez Menoyo $250,000 worth of arms, which he had not yet paid for: "Informant reported that the mafia planned to have Eloy Gutierrez Menoyo killed somewhere outside the U.S." On November 16, 1962, the FBI received information from William Harvey at the CIA that Antonio Veciana planned a new action to "test the U.S. Government's disposition in permitting or suppressing Cuban exile action programs against Cuba." In December 1962 Alpha-66 planned a joint raid with the DRE. The CIA reported: "Large sums of money were allegedly donated to Veciana for Alpha-66 activities by Julio Lobo." [NARA CIA 1993.07.22.08:55:23:460530 - CIA DBA 28528]

The CIA information on Veciana ends here and picked up again in 1966. [NARA CIA 1993.07.22.08:55:23:460530] Information came to the attention of the FBI in February 1963 that certain Alpha-66 members had "become so disaffected by the lack of action and by the United States Government's present policy toward Cuba, that the group is discussing sabotage in Miami or New York City, by blowing up cars and buildings, with the hope that the acts will be blamed on Castro supporters, and the United States Government would be provoked into taking retaliatory action against Castro." [FBI file # deleted Miami 2.19.63 #235869 rel. 3.14.84] In March 1963 Alpha-66 was suspected of having launched a raid against Russian ships and technicians in Cuba. [FBI 105-112098-537] Eloy Gutierrez Menoyo was apprehended by the U. S. Coast Guard a few weeks later, while on another anti-Castro mission. In early April 1963, the Department of Justice, headed by Robert F. Kennedy, indefinitely quarantined 38 Cubans to the Miami area to prevent them from conducting raids against Castro and Soviet shipping; all were members of Alpha-66. [FBI 105-117222-2.27.64] In reaction, Alpha-66 held a "March of Silence" at the Soviet Mission to the United Nations. On April 9, 1963, Eloy Gutierrez

Menoyo was restricted to Miami. The next day, he announced that the raids would continue. Alpha-66 held a press conference in Los Angeles on April 18, 1963, and criticized the Kennedy Administration for frustrating its efforts to rid Cuba of Castro. The repeated hit-and-run attacks had drawn public criticism from President Kennedy in the Spring of 1963; Antonio Veciana responded, "We are going to attack again and again."

LAWRENCE HOWARD AND ALPHA-66

In May 1963 Rene Valdes, the General Delegate of Alpha-66 in Los Angeles, and INTERPEN member LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD, appeared on a television interview show. LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD, who stated that he had been a former U.S. Army platoon sergeant in Korea, said that while training guerrillas at an isolated island camp in the Keys in December 1962, he was arrested and charged with violations of the Neutrality Act. His case had been dismissed. LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD and Rene Valdes spoke of a joint Cuban raid they had conducted. [FBI LHM 5.2.63 Los Angeles rel. 3.8.84]

PHILLIPS 1963

On February 15, 1963, the Office of Security of the CIA, Domestic Operations Division, received notice from the Regional Security Officer that DAVID PHILLIPS had not violated certain security regulations on July 26, 1962:

Reference is made to that latest communications pertaining to the violation of security regulations charged against (Deleted) on April 14, 1962. In view of the documented confession by a Marine Security Guard, as a result of investigation into thefts and planting of this and other documents, it is requested that violation against (Deleted) be canceled. Although not mentioned specifically in his sworn statement, it would appear that two other violations were recorded by the same Marine Security Guard under similar circumstances; and in fairness to the persons involved, cancellation of the following is also requested as there appears to be reasonable doubt in the mind of this Officer. Those violations were charged respectively to Mr. (Deleted) on May 28, 1962, and to DAVID PHILLIPS on July 26, 1962."

OSWALD'S WHEREABOUTS IN AUGUST AND SEPTEMBER 1963 THE RECORDS OF THE NEW ORLEANS PUBLIC LIBRARY

On August 22, 1963, OSWALD borrowed From Russia With Love, by Ian Fleming, The Sixth Galaxy Reader and Portal of Tomorrow, by August Derleth, from the New Orleans Public Library. On August 26, 1963, OSWALD returned The Treasury of Science Fiction Classics. He next showed up at the library on September 5, 1963, to return some books and on September 9, 1963, he borrowed Bridge Over the River Kwai, by Pierre Boulle, the Big Book of Science Fiction and Ben Hur, by Lewis Wallace. On September 19, 1963, he borrowed Moonraker, by Ian Fleming, Goldfinger, by Ian Fleming, Ape And

Essence, by Aldous Huxley and Brave New World also by Aldous Huxley. On September 23, 1963, he returned Bridge on the River Kwai, The Big Book of Science Fiction, and Ben Hur. On October 3, 1963, an associate of OSWALD returned Ape and Essence, Brave New World, Moonraker, and Goldfinger. OSWALD was on his way back from Mexico City on this date and Marina was in Dallas.

ANTONIO VECIANA MEETS OSWALD AND PHILLIPS
AUGUST OR SEPTEMBER 1963

On March 2, 1976, Gaeton Fonzi interviewed Antonio Veciana in Miami. Gaeton Fonzi did not mention the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, although it was widely known he worked for the SSICA subcommittee on the Kennedy assassination that was headed by Senator Richard Schweiker. Antonio Veciana told Gaeton Fonzi he was introduced to OSWALD by BISHOP, in Dallas in late August 1963 or early September 1963.

On March 2, 1976, Antonio Veciana told Gaeton Fonzi that "He says he remembers once having met LEE HARVEY OSWALD. He says he doesn't remember the way it says it happened in the magazine. He says he did meet LEE HARVEY OSWALD, but in different circumstances than what the magazine says. (How did you meet him? When?) BISHOP introduced him. (Where?) Dallas. (When?) Around 1962. (How did it come about?) He said when BISHOP came up to him once, he came up with OSWALD, but you know it was such an engagement like, it came up like, 'This is LEE HARVEY OSWALD.' He never thought of the name really twice, he didn't even remember him. (Where?) It was a building, he doesn't remember if it was blue or white, it was a bank, the building had a bank in it, and that's where they used to have meetings. He said the thing is, he was called to Dallas to meet BISHOP, to meet him in front of the building -- there was a big bank or insurance company inside the building, in the lobby, like all the times he met him he would tell him to meet him there. So this time he met him there, but this time he brought along another guy. The guy never talked. Then he left, and Veciana had his meeting with BISHOP. Then, when he saw it was OSWALD that killed Kennedy, he nearly freaked out, but he never said anything, he denied everything." In 1976 Antonio Veciana stated:

I have been in Dallas many times, and remember a meeting of August 1963, perhaps the first days of September, I was there. At that time the U.S. Government had confined me to Miami Dade County. No matter, I traveled to other cities anyway, Dallas was one of them. In August 1963 I had a meeting in downtown Dallas with Mr. MAURICE BISHOP, a United States Intelligence Officer. I remember that LEE HARVEY OSWALD was present at that meeting. OSWALD remained silent all the time. BISHOP discussed with me different matters about the Cuban situation and other efforts in the war against Castro.

I have worked with the State Department in specifically in the American Embassy in Bolivia, South America. I have cooperated with the FBI in different situations, and I also worked for the intelligence service under BISHOP for more than ten years. In 1962, I ordered the attack on the Russian merchant ships which traveled to Cuba; there were BISHOP'S instructions. The plan was to force President Kennedy into making drastic decisions against Castro Government. While Kennedy traveled to Central America we prepared a press conference in Washington, D.C. really, the president did not fall into the ambush and he was very angry. He decided to confine me to that country. Among the activities against the Cuban Communist, I have tried several times to kill Castro; I remember the last one in Chile on November 31, 1971, always following BISHOP'S instructions. I have no doubt that the assassination of President Kennedy was a conspiracy. Castro had good reason to kill him; he knew perfectly well that in the United States high level, a plot to kill him was being considered. However, to my personal understanding Castro was not involved in President Kennedy's assassination. The President was killed by other people for other reasons.

My profession in the last 17 years has been risky, my life has been in danger on several occasions, the FBI knows my life is in danger, yet I hope they will take a step to keep me alive.

LEE HARVEY OSWALD was not allowed to talk, all he said was that he was a patsy. I believed he was telling the truth. There is no doubt that he had good contact with some intelligence agency in this country...I confirmed that MR. BISHOP instructed me to make arrangements with my cousin Guillermo Ruiz, who was working in the Cuban intelligence service in Mexico City, to offer my cousin money so that he would state that he was in contact with OSWALD about Kennedy assassination.

Another part. Castro's planned assassination in Chile had the same pattern of the Kennedy plot. The killer would die and everybody would believe that the killer was the communist, to my judgement Mr. BISHOP participated in both plans. [Int. WCKT-TV Miami 8.16.77 Vic Walters; NARA HSCA 180-10097-10138]

On another occasion Antonio Veciana told Gaeton Fonzi: "That when he arrived he saw BISHOP in a corner of the lobby talking with a young man who Veciana remembers as pale, slight, and soft-featured. He does not recall if BISHOP introduced him by name, but does recall that BISHOP continued his conversation with the young man only briefly after Veciana arrived. Together, BISHOP and the young man walked out of the lobby and stopped outside, behind Veciana, for a moment. BISHOP and the young man had a few words there, and then the later gestured a farewell and walked away. BISHOP turned to Veciana and they discussed the current activities of Alpha-66 as they walked to a nearby coffee shop. BISHOP never spoke to Veciana about the young man and Veciana did not ask." On August 25, 1977 Veciana stated: "States he never said that BISHOP was CIA. He believes that BISHOP was with some sort of intelligence agency or with a powerful interest group. Swears LEE HARVEY OSWALD was with BISHOP one time when they met. OSWALD did not say anything." [HSCA Memo Gonzales to Fenton 8.25.77 014599]

After the assassination, there was absolutely no doubt in Antonio Veciana's mind that the man he had seen was OSWALD. Marina Oswald told this researcher: "According to my file, Veciana said this meeting was in the first week of September. We were in New Orleans. Who was that man? Was it LEE OSWALD then? If there was a meeting in Dallas and we were in New Orleans, how is that possible unless he had a plane to fly back and forth?"

"MAURICE BISHOP"

OSWALD had "BISHOP" written in Russian in his address book. [WCE 18 p24] He also had the word "Knight." These were found in a list of chess pieces. In Give Us This Day, HUNT used the cryptonym "Knight" when he referred to PHILLIPS. PHILLIPS wrote: "Bestowing the name of Knight was the ultimate accolade - people who have worked in the CIA will recall that pseudonym belonged to one of the Agency's most senior officers, a man HOWARD HUNT idolized." Antonio Veciana never assumed that MAURICE BISHOP was a true name. During an early meeting in Havana, Antonio Veciana noticed a Belgian passport that MAURICE BISHOP had in his open briefcase. The name on the passport was "Frigault." Veciana made a quick note of it on a scrap of paper and showed it to Gaeton Fonzi. The Belgian Embassy could not identify this name without additional information.

HOWARD HUNT

Dick Russell reported that Antonio Veciana stated: "We were in a hotel and BISHOP left to do something. In his briefcase I saw a memo with the...activities of commando groups in Texas. The memo had the initials 'To HH.'" [Russell, cited in Hinckle Deadly Secrets p230] Antonio Veciana told Gaeton Fonzi:

He says he doesn't want to say this is definite, but there are some things that are beginning to make him think that Howard Hughes had a lot to do with BISHOP. He said he once saw a file when he was in a hotel room with BISHOP in La Paz, Bolivia, which had HH initialed on the top. At first he thought it was HOWARD HUNT or H.L. Hunt, but now he thinks it was Howard Hughes. He said it was a file about activities involving the sale of arms to Israel through Bolivia.

He also told Gaeton Fonzi: "He used to write to a lot of people for support of Alpha-66, for money, and he guesses that HUNT may have been one of the people who expressed interest in helping. He says he met HUNT'S secretary once, but Godoy was the one who dealt with him. Joaquin Godoy. Last he heard he was in Puerto Rico working for an insurance company. (Where did he meet HUNT'S secretary? In New York. (Was his name Carroll?) He doesn't remember. Godoy could give us information because he talked to him a lot." [SSCIA 157-10004-10158]

THE ENCO MAP

Antonio Veciana believed the meeting between OSWALD and BISHOP occurred in late August or early September 1963. Gaeton Fonzi wrote:

The Warren Commission found records accounting for some of OSWALD'S activities during this time, but none could be authenticated and some were found to be false. He reportedly visited the unemployment office, cashed unemployment checks and withdrew some library books. The FBI could not, however, authenticate OSWALD'S signature on the unemployment documents, and of the 17 firms where he applied for work, 13 denied it, and four did not exist...three library books returned at the end of this period were overdue. [Fonzi, Last Invest. p141]

Antonio Veciana said the meeting with BISHOP was in a large office building lobby in downtown Dallas. OSWALD had the telephone number of the Continental Life Building - ED 6-8449 - in his address book. After the assassination, an ENCO Dallas map was found in OSWALD'S room at his boarding house. OSWALD had made several marks on the map, including the intersection of Elm and Houston (the Texas School Book Depository), the Texas Drivers License Examining Station, and Love Field. The FBI reported:

A mark at Irving Boulevard near Farrington Street, as well as marks at the intersection of San Jacinto and Boll Streets, marks near the intersection of Ross and Olive Streets, and San Jacinto and Harwood Streets, and other marks on the map, have no known significance to personnel of the Dallas Office with respect to the known activities of OSWALD. A large Chevrolet agency is located at the intersection of San Jacinto and Boll Streets. Irving Boulevard near Farrington is in an industrial area where numerous businesses are located. Ross and Olive Streets intersection, and San Jacinto and Harwood Streets intersection, are in the downtown area where numerous office buildings, parking lots and other businesses are located. Based on the foregoing, the purpose for OSWALD'S having the map was probably to seek employment as stated by Mrs. Paine.

THE SEARCH FOR "MAURICE BISHOP"

After speaking with Gaeton Fonzi, Antonio Veciana aided a professional artist in developing a composite sketch of BISHOP. It was Senator Richard Schweiker who focused the Committee's attention on DAVID PHILLIPS as perhaps having knowledge of "MAURICE BISHOP." Immediately after receiving the BISHOP sketch, Senator Richard Schweiker concluded that PHILLIPS, who had earlier testified before the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence Activities, bore a strong resemblance to it.

When Antonio Veciana was shown a photograph of PHILLIPS by Gaeton Fonzi, he did not provide a conclusive response: "He said he was pretty sure it wasn't, but that PHILLIPS looked 'very close' like him. But it is not him."

DELORES CAO: WITNESS TO VECIANA/BISHOP ASSOCIATION

Veciana told the HSCA that he had no way of getting in touch with BISHOP and that all meetings were instigated by BISHOP, a procedure BISHOP established early in their relationship. To set up a meeting, BISHOP would call Veciana by telephone, or, if Veciana was out of town, call a third person whom Veciana trusted, someone who always knew his location. Veciana said that this third person never met BISHOP but, "knew that BISHOP and I were partners in this fight because this person shared my anti-Communist feelings." Author Tony Summers found this intermediary. Her name was Delores Cao of Barrio Obrero, Puerto Rico. She was the wife of Sergio Arias. She had been Veciana's personal secretary at the Banco Financiero, where Veciana worked in Havana. Delores Cao left Cuba for Puerto Rico, where she became involved in anti-Castro activities. Veciana had recontacted her in Puerto Rico, and asked her to provide secretarial services, and to act as his answering service when he was out of town. She agreed, and in the months that followed she became familiar with the name of a man who called from the mainland. His name, she recalled, was BISHOP. Delores Cao also knew Victor Espinosa. Delores Cao mentioned that the name "Prewett" was associated with "MAURICE BISHOP." Journalist Virginia Prewett (died April 1988 at age 66) was a media asset of PHILLIPS. PHILLIPS admitted this to David Leigh. (In his offensive against Tony Summer's book, PHILLIPS had approached the Washington Post's Executive Editor, Ben Bradlee. Bradlee assigned David Leigh, an English exchange reporter, to look into the story). Virginia Prewett's columns were syndicated by North American Newspaper Alliance and she was a member of the Free Cuba Committee. [Fonzi, Last Inv. p319; HSCA OCR 11.15.78] Delores Cao was contacted in December 1993. She said she knew Antonio Veciana and Victor Espinosa.

Antonio Veciana believed BISHOP was from Dallas, Texas. Gaeton Fonzi reported that PHILLIPS told Leigh that he very well might have been in Texas, visiting his family in Fort Worth, during the period Veciana claims he saw Bishop with OSWALD. Gaeton Fonzi decided to set up a meeting between PHILLIPS and Veciana. Schweiker arranged for Antonio Veciana to be present at a luncheon put on by the Association of Retired Intelligence Officers on September 17, 1976. Antonio Veciana was introduced to PHILLIPS by name, and not by his affiliation with Alpha-66, nor by his anti-Castro background. PHILLIPS made no indication of recognition:

I introduced him only as Antonio Veciana and didn't mention anything about Alpha-66 or anti-Castro activities. Phillips smiled, shook Veciana's hand very quickly and casually and quickly invited us to sit down at the table. As hard as I tried, I didn't catch any glimpse of recognition in PHILLIPS eyes, if that were at all possible to do...Veciana just sat there for most of the luncheon, put his glasses on, and hardly touched his food as he stared at PHILLIPS almost the whole time. I don't know whether

PHILLIPS is naturally nervous, but he was shaking, at least his hands were shaking badly, and he was smoking nervously the whole time. I was watching him to see if he was looking at Veciana at all, but he seemed as if he was almost deliberately avoiding doing that. But maybe I would have gotten nervous also if some guy was just sitting there with his arms folded staring at me like Veciana was doing with PHILLIPS...I thanked him for having us at the luncheon and told him I thought he might be able to help us out in the investigation we were doing. He asked what investigation. I said the Kennedy assassination. He smiled nervously at me and said he would be happy to speak with any member of Congress or his representative 'in Congress.' I told him I wasn't interested in any kind of formal interview, but since we've come up with some new information, I thought perhaps just chatting with him about it might be of some help to us. He repeated, almost in rote like he was taking the Fifth, that he would be happy to answer any questions from any Congressman or representative of any Congressman 'in Congress.' Meanwhile, as I was talking to him, Veciana had come up behind me. Veciana then asked him a few questions in Spanish. Although I caught the gist of them I later confirmed with him that he asked if he had been in Havana in 1960, and whether or not he knew Julio Lobo. Phillips said that he had been in Havana and that he knew the name of Lobo. Then PHILLIPS stopped and asked him, 'What did you say your name was?' Veciana told him then asked, 'Don't you know the name?' PHILLIPS thought for a moment then shook his head and said, no he didn't. PHILLIPS then asked me if Veciana worked for Schweiker and I said, no he didn't, but he was helping us out with the investigation. PHILLIPS then quickly excused himself, thanked us for coming, and said he was awfully busy right now and couldn't chat with us further. As soon as we got out of the place I anxiously asked Veciana is PHILLIPS was BISHOP. He said no, it wasn't him, and then added, 'but he knows.' I said, 'what do you mean, he knows?' Veciana said, 'He knows who BISHOP is?' I couldn't get out of Veciana why he said that, or how he came to that conclusion, but he did point out that it was strange that PHILLIPS said he didn't even recognize his name, which was pretty well-known in Miami anti-Castro activities and was in the newspapers often as the spokesman for Alpha-66. [SSCIA Fonzi to Gustavson 9.20.76]

In his HSCA testimony, DAVID PHILLIPS denied having met Antonio Veciana. HUNT said he was unfamiliar with the name Antonio Veciana. [HUNT v. WEBERMAN HUNT Depo. One p21] Antonio Veciana told Gaeton Fonzi that PHILLIPS was not BISHOP.

A CIA memorandum in which Julio Lobo mentioned Veciana was routed to WH/4/PROP. Gaeton Fonzi reported Western Hemisphere/4/PROP was headed by DAVID PHILLIPS. PHILLIPS was asked:

Q. In your relationship with Mr. HUNT, in the Bay of Pigs, was he a supervisor of you or you a supervisor of him, or were you all just in separate functions as far as the relationship of each other to that activity was concerned, without going into what you and he might have done?

A. Mr. HUNT and I had separate functions to perform. Mr. HUNT was involved with the Cuban exile groups from the political action sense. I was involved from the beginning of my involvement in propaganda. At one stage, toward the end of the Bay of Pigs business, Mr. HUNT was, I think, relieved of his responsibilities, at least to some degree, with the political groups and asked to move in and work with me in the propaganda field. I'm not quite sure how you would describe that relationship.

Gaeton Fonzi believed that PHILLIPS and Antonio Veciana both lied. PHILLIPS had to have been aware of the name Veciana even if had not met the individual. PHILLIPS could not have been intimately involved in anti-Castro exile affairs and never have heard the name Antonio Veciana, the public spokesman for Alpha-66. Alpha-66 was the most famous, largest and most active, anti-Castro group. The HSCA stated it "suspected that Antonio Veciana was lying when he denied that the retired CIA officer was BISHOP." Gaeton Fonzi believed that Antonio Veciana was lying because he hoped to get future help from BISHOP.

Sketch based on Veciana's description of BISHOP and Dave Atlee Phillips

In Miami, Gaeton Fonzi interviewed a former career CIA agent, Ross Crozier. Fonzi wrote: "The CIA would later demand that the Committee not use the man's real name.

The Committee called him Ron Cross. Crozier, we discovered, had worked as a case officer out of the CIA's JMWAVE station. He handled Cuban exile labor units, and helped in organizing a militant group that, although not nearly as large and effective as Alpha-66, was very active. Early in his career, posing as an American businessman with financial connections, Ross Crozier had infiltrated Castro's mountain stronghold before the big barbudo seized power." There, Crozier met FRANK STURGIS and Andrew St. George. HEMMING told this researcher:

The one time FRANK ever risked his life was when he went with St. George and Ross Crozier. You know what that trip was all about? To take Fidel out. He was a patriot. He was serving his country. They couldn't find Fidel. It was the last two weeks of December 1958. FRANK was a spotter. Crozier was his case officer. That's bad news. He wouldn't do it. He's not a kamikaze. STURGIS never dropped a hammer on anyone in his life. Crozier was a case officer who belonged to Alcoholics Anonymous. He's a C.O. for STURGIS, and he's reporting to Sam Kail in Havana. STURGIS dealt with Kail when he was in Miami.

From September 1960 until November 1962, Ross Crozier was a JMWAVE case officer. According to Ross Crozier, HUNT frequented this facility. While Ross Crozier was at JMWAVE, PHILLIPS, who was stationed in Washington, was responsible for certain CIA anti-Castro operations. Gaeton Fonzi reported:

Both Al Gonzalez and I stopped short of asking him certain questions for fear of revealing what we knew...But we did ask him about DAVID PHILLIPS. Sure Crozier said he knew PHILLIPS. He said PHILLIPS, working through the JMWAVE, coordinated the propaganda operations of all the Cuban exile groups the Agency was running. PHILLIPS, he said, worked mostly out of Washington at that time, but flew in and out of Miami frequently. On a daily basis, Crozier said, the case officers worked with PHILLIPS direct subordinate at the station, a man called Doug Gupton...One day Al Gonzalez called Crozier and told him we were working on something that required confirmation of the pseudonyms or aliases used by CIA officers who had worked out of the JM WAVE station. He threw three names at Crozier: One was 'BISHOP,' another was 'KNIGHT' and the third was the true name of an officer who had worked out of the Havana Station. Off the top of his head, Crozier said, he believed BISHOP was the name used by PHILLIPS, KNIGHT, a name that HOWARD HUNT occasionally used. He said we must be mistaken about the third name because that was the true name of a fellow he had known in Havana. Crozier said that in the next few days he would be talking with some of the Cuban exile agents he had worked with and, in chatting with them about the old days, perhaps his memory would be refreshed. Several days later Gonzalez dropped in for a chat with Crozier to see if his memory had been refreshed. Well, Crozier said, it had been a bit. He now said he was 'almost certain' that DAVID PHILLIPS had used the name of MAURICE BISHOP but he still was not definite about whether HUNT had used the KNIGHT alias. He was sure, however, that the third name was a true name. His answer surprised us. We had not given Crozier the first name of BISHOP.

Fonzi revisited Ross Crozier and brought up the topic of KNIGHT and BISHOP.

Yes, Crozier said, as a matter of fact, he had been giving it more thought. He said he was fairly sure now that HUNT did use the KNIGHT alias. He was said he was now 'almost positive' that DAVID PHILLIPS used the name BISHOP. The reason he was sure about that, he said, was because he had been thinking about the period when he worked with PHILLIPS' assistant at the JMWAVE Station, that young fellow named Doug Gupton. Crozier said he now recalled often discussing special field agent problems with Gupton and Gupton at times saying 'Well, I guess 'Mr. BISHOP' will have to talk to him. Ross Crozier said, 'And of course I knew he was referring to his boss, DAVID PHILLIPS.'

In Give Us This Day HUNT wrote:

I met Douglas Gupton, an aggressive bilingual young officer who handled field propaganda operations for KNIGHT. Gupton was already organizing, guiding and subsidizing the same exile groups that Varona had wanted to bring under FRD direction and control. He also subsidized a number of former Havana newspapers that now had "In Exile" added to their names. (Though not, of course, Diario de la Marina). Subscriptions to Latin Americans were sold at nominal cost to spread the anti-Castro word in countries where Fidel was regarded sympathetically...Unlike the political freeze, Gupton's psychological warfare activities were going full blast. Under such dedicated young student activists as Luis Fernandez Rocha, Ernesto Fernandez Travieso, the exile DRE had achieved sufficient cohesion to permit its operating as an independent infiltration unit. The members were scoring sabotage successes in Havana, and the resultant publicity provoked resentment in Tony Varona, who felt he should have charge of the DRE as well. Organizationally this made sense, but Varona's personality was so corrosive, that both Gupton and I realized we would have to spend so much effort policing the merger as to make it impractical." [Day pages 46, 85]

The HSCA interviewed "Doug Gupton" on August 22, 1978, at CIA Headquarters. 'Doug Gupton' acknowledged that he worked with PHILLIPS and Ross Crozier but denied having heard the name MAURICE BISHOP. Fonzi reported: "When told that Ross Crozier said that he specifically mentioned remembering Gupton referring to DAVID PHILLIPS as Mr. BISHOP, Gupton remained silent for a moment, looked down at his lap, and said 'Well, maybe I did. I don't remember.'" PHILLIPS testified before the HSCA in executive session, and denied all of the allegations. When Antonio Veciana testified, he denied PHILLIPS was BISHOP.

HSCA investigator Dan Hardway introduced Gaeton Fonzi to Barney Hidalgo (Balme Nieves Jr.), who had been a CIA agent for 20 years. He had worked closely with PHILLIPS on a day to day basis on Cuban operations between 1960 and 1964. He said he thought PHILLIPS was one of the best agents the CIA ever had. He said PHILLIPS was his personal friend. Unlike Crozier or Gupton, Hidalgo was questioned under oath by Michael Goldsmith:

Goldsmith: Did you know an individual named MAURICE BISHOP?

Hidalgo: Again, Mr. BISHOP was in the organization, but I had no personal day-to-day open relationship with him. PHILLIPS yes, BISHOP, no. I knew them both and PHILLIPS I knew. I know Mr. Berk is over there, and I know Mr. Hardway is over there, but I have no relationships with them. Do you follow me?

Goldsmith: Now with Mr. BISHOP -- was this Mr. MAURICE BISHOP?

Hidalgo: I believe that was his name, yes. His was strictly a business knowledge.

Goldsmith: How long has it been since you have seen Mr. BISHOP?

Hidalgo: Less than twice or three times in the hallway somewhere.

Goldsmith: When was the last time you saw him?

Hidalgo: It would have to be before 1970 somewhere.

Goldsmith: Do you know what position, if any he held with the Agency?

Hidalgo: He held a position higher than mine, but I did not know, you know.

Goldsmith: Did you ever have any personal contact with Mr. BISHOP?

Hidalgo: I don't believe so. If it was, it was not that important that it would impress itself upon me.

Goldsmith: Did he work in the Western Hemisphere Division?

Hidalgo: I think so but again I am not sure of all the details.

Goldsmith: Do you know any other individuals who were familiar with Mr. BISHOP who have known him?

Hidalgo: I don't know. Perhaps Mr. WINSTON SCOTT perhaps DAVE PHILLIPS.

Goldsmith: Was Mr. BISHOP'S office located at CIA?

Hidalgo: I believe so.

Goldsmith: Do you recall which floor his office was on?

Hidalgo: No, sir.

Goldsmith: Do you know whether Mr. Bishop ever went by any other name?

Hidalgo: No sir,, I have no knowledge of any of his other names.

Goldsmith: Would you make your best effort please to describe Mr. BISHOP'S physical description? What did he look like?

Hidalgo: I could not even make a mental image of Mr. BISHOP right now.

Goldsmith: Approximately how old is he today?

Hidalgo: I don't know. This must sound strange to you, it really must, I know but, you see -- How can I say it? The relationship of one agent to another is a thing that you try your best not to, not to know.

Goldsmith: Was Mr. BISHOP an administrator or a case officer?

Hidalgo: I would say his position was higher than mine. A little honcho against a chief.

Goldsmith: Where did you generally see him on those occasions when you did see him?

Hidalgo: I imagine in the Agency perhaps. In the hallways or cafeteria. Never certainly at my desk.

Goldsmith: What is your best recollection as to the number of times that you saw him?

Hidalgo: A couple of times, two or three.

Goldsmith: When you saw this individual and you knew that he was MAURICE BISHOP, how did you know that the gentleman that you had in mind was not that MAURICE BISHOP?

Hidalgo: Someone might have said, 'That is MAURICE BISHOP,' and it was different from DAVE PHILLIPS or guys that I know...

Goldsmith: Did you know an individual named Antonio Veciana Blanc?

Hidalgo: Now this name sounds familiar to me in my Cuban operation, I don't know where. It may have been with the (illegible) or he may have been an agent of an agent. I knew literally hundreds of Cubans.

Goldsmith: Did Mr. BISHOP have any involvement in affairs of the Bay of Pigs Brigade?

Hidalgo: I don't know if he did. I was not aware of everyone. He might very well have been involved in this thing.

Goldsmith: Getting back to Mr. BISHOP, when was the first time you saw him to the best of your knowledge?

Hidalgo: I would think about the early 1960's.

Goldsmith: Were you ever formally introduced to him?

Hidalgo: No.

Goldsmith: And from the time you first saw him in the early 1960's until the last time that you saw him, which I believe you said would have been about 1969 or 1970, approximately how many times did you actually see this man?

Hidalgo: It would not have been that late because in late 1964, or early 1965, I left the Cuban operations and went to another country of interest, so in those times, say 1960 to 1964, it might have been two or three times.

Goldsmith: Is it fair to say, in light of your last comment, that once you stopped working in Cuban operations, you left that particular area, you no longer saw Mr. BISHOP.

Hidalgo: If I did, it would be just in the hallway and I don't think so. I was now in another part of the Agency.

Goldsmith: So by that, in other words that would infer that Mr. BISHOP worked in the area of Cuban operations?

Hidalgo: No, not necessarily. He might have worked in -- you know, there are so many operations. You see whereas in the case of WINSTON SCOTT and DAVID PHILLIPS, I continued to seek him out and say 'How are you DAVE?' Go to lunch, play some poker. In this case of BISHOP this is not so.

Goldsmith: Did you ever see Mr. BISHOP at the station?

Hidalgo: No. In the Havana station, you have to understand that I was assigned to the Havana station, but I stayed away from the Havana station. It sounds peculiar. I was assigned there, and yet I was not there. I was assigned there shortly after I went there and met my own cover, and did my own operations. So when I did go to the Havana station, it was just a matter of just quickly in and get it over with.

Preyer: Was your office in Langley in the CIA headquarters?

Hidalgo: Yes. At the time I was in headquarters. That is where I went.

Preyer: And DAVE PHILLIPS' office was also there?

Hidalgo: Yes sir. (Deleted)

Preyer: And MAURICE BISHOP'S office was not on the same floor as yours in Langley?

Hidalgo: I don't know. It was a very large floor and there were many people on the floor that had nothing to do with what I had to do.

Preyer: Did BISHOP have some relationship in his appearance and age to PHILLIPS?

Hidalgo: Again I cannot recall BISHOP'S appearance at all.

Preyer: Do you recall more on the name when people said, 'That is Maurice Bishop?'

Hidalgo: MAURICE BISHOP, right. It might have been a secretary or a fellow case officer. (Deleted).

Goldsmith: Do you know whether DAVID PHILLIPS knew MAURICE BISHOP.

Hidalgo: I don't know that. He may have known BISHOP but I don't know that.

Goldsmith: Is it possible that the name MAURICE BISHOP may have been an alias?

Hidalgo: Very possible. Because others in the Agency thought that they knew me by X name and they called me by that name when in fact it was not.

Goldsmith: So the use of aliases even at Agency headquarters was not at all uncommon, is that true, to your knowledge?

Hidalgo: That is true.

Scott Breckinridge questioned Hidalgo about BISHOP, then reported this to the HSCA: "The employee continues to recall a person who was known as MAURICE BISHOP. He cannot state the organizational connection or responsibilities of the individual, not knowing him personally, and feels that the person in question was pointed out to him by someone, perhaps a secretary. He is unable, however, to recognize any of the photographs...we assembled of the persons with the surname of Bishop who had employment relationships of some type with the CIA during the 1960's." [Hidalgo 240 Treasure Lake Road, DuBois, PA 15801 telephone 814-375-9046] The HSCA asked the CIA to check all its files for references to MAURICE BISHOP; the Agency replied that the only Maurice Bishops in its files was one from Grenada and other from the faculty of Cornell University. [Ltr. Breckinridge to Blakey 9.8.78] The Committee deposed John A. McCone, Director of the Central Intelligence Agency from October 1961 to April 30, 1965. John A. McCone said he knew a MAURICE BISHOP who was an Agency employee.

Q. Do you know or did you know MAURICE BISHOP?

A. Yes.

Q. Was he an Agency employee?

A. I believe so.

Q. Do you know whether the name, MAURICE BISHOP, was a pseudonym?

A. No, I do not know that.

Q. Do you know whether any of these people worked at headquarters in 1963 or worked in the field in 1963?

A. Well they move back and forth and it is pretty hard to tell just where they were in 1963, but the records will show and you can get it from the Office of the present Director. He will have records where they were, or the personnel department.

Q. Do you know whether MAURICE BISHOP worked in the Western Hemisphere Division, or whether he worked in some other division of the CIA?

A. I do not know. I do not recall. I knew at that time but I do not recall.

In light of the testimony of John A. McCone, the HSCA asked the CIA to again check its records for BISHOP.

BRECKINGRIDGE'S TALK WITH McCONE

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD October 9, 1978

SUBJECT: Meeting with Former DCI McCone

1. I met with Mr. McCone this afternoon in his hotel room in Washington, D.C. Present was Mr. Walter Elder, Mr. McCone's Executive Assistant during his service as DCI.

2. I showed Mr. McCone a declassified copy of the transcript of his deposition taken by HSCA personnel, referring to one MAURICE BISHOP. I told Mr. McCone that an extensive search of Agency records showed no person by that name in Agency records. As a result, I wished to have him look at photographs of Agency employees during the 1960's with that surname. Mr. McCone declined, saying that he lunched at the Metropolitan Club that very day and had not recognized old friends from that period. He felt that photographs would not help.

3. Mr. McCone said the name was given him at the end of his deposition, which had taken some five hours. It came along with another dozen or so names. He had recognized the names of DAVID PHILLIPS and WINSTON SCOTT but not many of the others. The name MAURICE BISHOP "rang a bell," but he really could not say how. He suggested that it may have been a football player.

4. Mr. McCone said he must have been in error. He asked if he should write the HSCA so stating. I said he could do as he wished, but it would suffice for me to simply report my meeting with him. He said I could say that he had been in error. He said that my letter should state that I met with him, in the company of his "Executive Officer" who had access to all his records of meetings with people, and that he had stated that he had been in error in stating to the HSCA representative that he had known a CIA employee named MAURICE BISHOP. I said I would show my letter to Mr. Elder to be sure it was accurate.

5. I told Mr. McCone that an Agency employee had also reacted similarly to a question about a MAURICE BISHOP. He asked who it was. I replied that it was a junior officer in the WH Division named Hidalgo. He made no comment.

6. There was talk about other aspects of the assassination issue, which are not relevant to this specific question.

On September 30, 1980, PHILLIPS was again questioned about Antonio Veciana:

A. I am aware that Antonio Veciana Blanch was one of the people who funded Alpha-66.

Q. Did you ever have occasion to know whether he had any dealings with Mr. HUNT or did he ever have dealings with you?

A. All right. I am going to make a brief statement for the record here about this gentleman. First of all, while the CIA supported a large number of Cuban exile groups, to my knowledge it never supported and worked with Alpha-66.

Finally, I am aware of the investigation made by the House Assassinations Committee about claims made by Mr. Veciana that he was in touch with a man he knew as MAURICE BISHOP, presumably a pseudonym, over a period of some 13 years; that the last time he met Mr. BISHOP he was given a suitcase with $253,000 in it in cash as his final payment.

I must say I find it amusing to try to imagine the meeting of intelligence executives that say we are going to give a final payment to a man, and someone says let's give him a quarter of a million dollars. And someone says no, let's give him $253,000.

Anyway, what I want to say is if Mr. Veciana's story, which he came up with two weeks after leaving a Federal penitentiary after serving his sentence for which he claims he was framed by the CIA, if that story is true, I know nothing about it. I know nothing about HOWARD HUNT ever being involved with Antonio Veciana. And I think I am going to leave it at that.

One of the reasons is that we are now into a field which I don't really see the connection with HUNT. But it is very definitely connected with me and with future legal action I will be taking.

Q. All right. Did you ever use the name MORRIS BISHOP in any context in your work is the question?

A. I never used that name.

Q. All right. Now in Dallas in September of 1963, did there come a time when you were ever in Dallas, and if you were, did you ever meet Mr. HUNT there or know of his presence there for any reason?

A. I never met Mr. HUNT in Dallas. I never knew of his presence there. I may have been in the Dallas airport in that period traveling back and forth.

Q. While you were stationed in Havana did you know Julio Lobo, Rufo Lopez Fresquet or Mr. Melton or Sam Kail?

A. Once again, you have a long list of names. I think anyone who was ever in Havana -- I was certainly not in Havana in the 1960's. I left Havana in 1960 -- in the early part of 1960. And after my participation in the Bay of Pigs, I didn't want to go back to Havana.

You read off a list of names. Everyone who lived in Cuba knew Julio Lobo, the sugar king. His name was in the paper every day. But I am not going to go over a long list of names.

Q. Did you ever know LEE HARVEY OSWALD in August 1963?

A. I never knew LEE HARVEY OSWALD ever in my life. If I did, I would be on a lecture circuit called "LEE HARVEY And Me," and I would make a million dollars.

ALPHA-66 IN THE FALL OF 1963

By September 1963 Alpha-66, according to a FBI-intercepted letter, was "training...men for a specialized reserve brigade, in various types of guerrilla warfare." The FBI SAC of the Miami Office sent an air telegram to the Washington Office on September 16, 1963. The only words the FBI released were: "In view of the above, Miami is not conducting investigation of neutrality aspects, but will be alert for any subsequent pertinent information." [FBI 2-1499 NR 9.16.63 this is STURGIS' FBI File] The FBI reported that in October 1963 Eloy Gutierrez Menoyo predicted, "The organization will be in Cuba in less than six months." On November 10, 1963, Alpha-66 held a meeting in New York City. John Caufield monitored it. [FBI 105-112098 NY rel. 3.12.84]

ANTONIO VECIANA POST-COUP CEASAR DIOSDADO

Antonio Veciana reported that after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, Caesar Diosdado questioned him about it. It was not an official visit; Caesar Diosdado had just been instructed to ask a few exiles if they knew anything about OSWALD. Antonio Veciana felt he was being tested. Antonio Veciana didn't tell Caesar Diosdado he had seen OSWALD because he didn't want to get involved. Gaeton Fonzi reported:

He says he remembers that the same day that Diosdado came to ask him about the Kennedy assassination that's when he had seen the picture of OSWALD and was very nervous, but as soon as he walked in the door he told him, hey, don't worry about a thing, I don't even know why I'm doing this, they just told me to do it, interview some Cubans. He remembers he made comment saying that 'All I know this is going to cause a lot of people in the Secret Service trouble, maybe their jobs, for the errors that were made.' (Diosdado told you that he was told to interview you, that someone gave him a list?) Yes, yes, yes, that he had instructions to interview a bunch of activists. That's what cooled him down, that he was only one of a group being interviewed, not specifically him.

When the HSCA interviewed Caesar Diosdado, he was working for the Drug Enforcement Administration. He said he worked for United States Customs from 1957 to 1968, not for the CIA. He stated he never questioned anyone about the JFK assassination. [HSCA interview 5.23.77 Klein] HEMMING 1994:

Diosdado was worried we had done it. He's the first guy they told. Because he's a dipshit. He comes scurrying around right away. He was scared shitless that somebody's gonna do a hit on him for knowing too much. Diosdado, if he was working a deal with you, a smuggling deal, he would never fuck you up. But boy, when his bosses told him to do something, he'd shit on his own mother.

After the assassination Dwyer invited me and Davy [Howard K. Davis] to lunch. Diosdado, Shanley were there. Wallace Shanley was Mr. Nice Guy. They said 'Someday the government's going to use you for a big operation.' Shanley was one of the guys who authorized some of his people to tip us off to stuff. He never told us anything against the regulations. His boys would call me in, lay a map down, and say, 'You know anything about these people over here?' They'd point to a spot on a map. I knew there was nobody there. But in finger pointing four or five locales, the finger would fall on a place where I knew somebody was operating.

Cesar Diosdado was contacted in June 1994. Cesar Diosdado: "What is it you want to know? In reference to what? The JFK assassination? You have nothing on me. You're barking up the wrong tree. I don't know a damn thing about it so forget it. Okay? (hangs up)." Cesar Diosdado was recontacted and asked if he knew HEMMING. He denied he had. Antonio Veciana met with BISHOP in Miami two months after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. Although they discussed that event, Antonio Veciana did not ask him about OSWALD: "I was not going to make the mistake of getting myself involved in something that did not concern me. That was a very difficult situation, because I was afraid. We both understood. I could guess that he knew that I was knowledgeable of that, and I learned that the best way is not to know, not to get to know things that don't concern you, so I respected the rules, and I didn't mention that ever."

THE PLAN TO LINK OSWALD WITH CASTRO

BISHOP approached Antonio Veciana about getting in touch with his cousin, Guillermo Ruiz, a member of the Cuban Intelligence Service, who was assigned to Mexico City at the time of the Kennedy assassination. According to Veciana, a news story was circulating immediately after the assassination that OSWALD had met a couple on the Mexican border while on his way to Mexico City prior to the assassination. BISHOP said his cousin could earn a large amount of money by saying publicly that he and his wife were the ones who had met OSWALD. Veciana agreed to contact Ruiz agreed to make the attempt to contact Ruiz, because, as he testified, "I knew that Ruiz would be tempted with money, he liked money." Antonio Veciana was unsuccessful in contacting Guillermo Ruiz, and when he mentioned it a couple of months later, BISHOP told him to forget it. That was the last time Veciana ever spoke of the Kennedy assassination or LEE HARVEY OSWALD to BISHOP, and he testified he never told anyone about seeing OSWALD until questioned by Gaeton Fonzi. Guillermo Ruiz was born on February 10, 1930, in Cuba. His primary and secondary education was in private institutions. He was reportedly well-educated with a degree in political economics from the University of Havana. He was a Communist before he became as Castroite, as his father was a militant Communist. During the Batista regime, Ruiz, who was in asylum in Mexico, was involved in the Triple A Movement of Dr. Aureliano Sanchez Arango. In the 1950's he emigrated to the U.S., traveling throughout the east coast and holding minor jobs. The CIA reported that his wife, Nilda Veciana, lived in New York for five years in the 1950's on West 48th Street, three block from Times Square. In 1957 Ruiz was in Miami, where he worked as an apprentice butcher. Ruiz became involved with the Cuban underworld: "In Miami, Ruiz and another Cuban exile, Major Jose Maria Moleon Carreras, were in contact with an American of Cuban descent, known as Joe Louis or Joe Luis, an underworld figure who was competing with Italians in the bolita racket in Tampa. Ruiz said Luis offered Ruiz and close associates $800 a month, plus car and expenses to supervise 'collections in Miami.' Luis even asked them to kill a man named Fernandez, who was involved in the numbers game in Miami, for $5,000 each." Ruiz left Miami in February 1958 with Harry Villegas Tamayo (contact of Pineiro, DGI Chief; also served as guerrilla with Che Guevara in Bolivia) and three other members of the 26th of July Movement and reportedly entered Cuba clandestinely. In Havana, Guillermo Ruiz was involved with a group in acts of terrorism against the Batista regime. Prior to 1959 Ruiz was reportedly operating clandestinely in the Dominican Republic trying to overthrow the Trujillo regime. Trujillo wanted to get Ruiz. Ruiz escaped and went to Cuba. In 1959 he was an official in the Castro administration, Chief of the Department of Construction, Expenses Studies, Office of Financial Statistics, and Ministry of the Treasury. He was also reported to be a G-2 agent. Veciana said he first learned of Ruiz's affiliation with Castro's intelligence service shortly after Castro took power. He and Ruiz were walking in a Havana park when they were stopped and searched by Castro's police. Ruiz was found to be carrying a gun and was taken away. Concerned, Veciana immediately placed call to a close friend inside Castro's Government, Minister of Finance Rufo Lopez-Fresquet. Lopez-Fresquet told Veciana not to worry about Ruiz, because Ruiz was actually working for the intelligence service. Although Ruiz was a Castro agent and Communist, he warned Veciana that he was being observed visiting the American Embassy in Havana, and told him to be careful. That was why Veciana later thought that he might be able to turn Ruiz into an anti-Castro agent." On August 1, 1963, Ruiz was appointed Commercial Counselor at the Cuban Embassy, Mexico City. He was reportedly a member of the DGI, and sent to Mexico City to infiltrate counter-revolutionary groups. The CIA: "The Guillermo Ruiz married to Antonio Veciana's cousin:

A. Lived in the U.S. illegally in 1957.

B. Was assigned to Cuban Embassy, Mexico City, September 6, 1963, as diplomat.

C. Flew from Mexico City to Havana on November 22, 1963." [He returned to Mexico City on November 29, 1963].

The CIA reported that in November 1964 Guillermo Ruiz received a letter from Andy Buckner of Sherman, Texas, that made reference to information Andy Buckner had supplied Guillermo Ruiz in January 1964. Andy Buckner, contacted in 1994, said he knew nothing of Guillermo Ruiz: "If I had any contact with Cubans, I can't remember."

In May 1964 AMMUG-1 reported that Ruiz, in Mexico City, was case officer for CUIS operations targeted against some nearby area. Ruiz was appointed Vice Minister for Economics of Ministry of Foreign Trade in 1964. In December 1967, Ruiz went to Madrid as the new Cuban Ambassador. He had his family with him and much money. He was living high on the hog. Very high. On April 24, 1968, Ruiz advised officer at Embassy, Oristides Diaz Roverosa, to disguise self for good organization, because he was already clandestine. Ruiz comments that he was arrested only once but it was only a joke. Aside from that, he says, they never caught him.

Antonio Veciana told a Cuban Affairs officer Miami August 1, 1968, that Guillermo Ruiz married to Veciana's cousin, was "dissatisfied with Fidel Castro and was receptive to recruitment. Antonio Veciana reported same information to Cuban Affairs officer in 1964. In 1968 Veciana served with the Agency for International Development in La Paz." [(Deleted) (IN 63607-) (Deleted) (IN 97745), that was cited in the preceding cable, concerned Veciana's appearance at "State political section September 23, 1968, with same information regarding Ruiz. Veciana said Henry Taylor in Miami invited Veciana to visit (Deleted), who would follow up Ruiz case."

In 1969 Guillermo Ruiz arranged for a camouflaged trip to Cuba by Salvadore Allende, a Socialist and President of Chile. In 1970:

CIA had Alexander SAMKO go to Madrid to reestablish friendship with Ruiz. (Wouldn't surprise me if SAMKO didn't tell Ruiz of arrangement.) Shortly thereafter Guillermo Ruiz returned to Cuba. We terminated interest in SAMKO. Chris Hopkins Task Force K.

Other attempts at CIA recruitment also ended in failure: Veciana said he was approached by another by another anti-Castro Cuban exile named Robert Vale. Vale asked Veciana to attempt to contact Ruiz about possibly becoming an asset for the CIA. Ruiz, at the time, was stationed in Spain, and when Veciana found a friend, Robeljo Lorie, who was traveling to Spain, he asked him to carry a letter to Ruiz. Ruiz tore the letter up in front of Lorie and told him he did not want to have any contact with Veciana, because he knew Veciana was "working for the CIA. The HSCA interviewed Guillermo Ruiz in Havana. He acknowledged he was related to Antonio Veciana through marriage and remarked that everyone in Cuba knew Antonio Veciana was associated with the CIA and had tried to assassinate Fidel Castro. Guillermo Ruiz said he was never contacted by Antonio Veciana about OSWALD and had not seen Antonio Veciana since 1959. According to Guillermo Ruiz, Antonio Veciana was mentally ill, and had been under psychiatric care from the time he was 16 years old, until he was 21. These charges could not be substantiated.

MITCHELL STUART LIVINGSTONE WERBELL III was born March 8, 1918, in Philadelphia, the son of John M. Werbell (born August 22, 1889 in N.Y.C.). Mitch Werbell falsely claimed his father was an exiled White Russian Colonel. In 1942 he married. Mitch Werbell served with the OSS in the China-Burma-India Theater from July 1945 to December 1945. Lucien Conein and Paul Helliwell reportedly were in the OSS unit of Mitch Werbell. Following his OSS service Mitch Werbell entered into a variety of unorthodox short-term business activities. By the mid-1950's Mitch Werbell became a publicity agent for Fulgencio Batista, and in 1957 his public relations firm began to handle international publicity for the Dominican Republic. On July 6, 1959, Mitch Werbell called General Charles Cabell and reported that he had just returned from a trip to the Dominican Republic where he had been approached by General Pedraza for aid. The CIA:

In July 1959 Werbell apparently volunteered his services to the Western Hemisphere Division (WH/3 Cuba, Dominican Republic) and was seriously considered for use as an informant for revolutionary activities in Cuba and the Dominican Republic. During the period Subject's Operation Approval was being processed, he volunteered several pieces of information, all of which were judged to have little value.

In September 1959 Mitch Werbell reported to the CIA that "Joe Merola and a number of others have been discussing counterfeiting Cuban Pesos." On August 5, 1959, the CIA reported: "Although he has been evasive and not completely frank with us, it appears that Werbell does have access to information on Cuban and Dominican activities, and that he is well connected with underworld elements operating in the Miami area." The CIA's summary of Mitch Werbell's activities continued:

(Deleted) Memorandum for the Record dated August 5, 1959: Report from AMBOAR that William Morgan is involved in a plot to assassinate Castro. (Subject in telephone conversations with 'Reichhardt'). Reichhardt said that he was out of touch with Emilio Nunez Portuondo. He said he tried to phone Emilio Nunez Portuondo on a number of occasions ut the phone was not answered. Reichhart said he is still holding the letter from Colonel King to Emilio Nunez Portuondo.

A memo from (deleted) stated: "I told the Subject that after due consideration of the risks to him, the cost in time and effort to him and the risks and expenses involved for the Agency, balanced against assets generally available throughout the intelligence community it has been decided not to give him any operational tasks at this time. I suggested that since the bulk of the matters which come to his attention in connection with the Cuban matter take place in the United States, he should report such information to the FBI. Subject appeared to understand that we will not use him and expressed regret. The conversation ended on a friendly note.

On August 21, 1962, Tony Varona visited President Rivera of El Salvador. Tony Varona discussed Mario Garcia Kohly and attempted to determine if Kohly was in contact with the opposition in El Salvador: "While anti-Castro in orientation, Kohly probably trying to sabotage Varona efforts or gain ascendancy over Varona group. Embassy has no confirmation that list are here. End of message. C/S Comments: *Action unit determined as though indicator GYROSE used. **Concerned arrival of Werbell in Guatemala and commented on phone calls. [CIA IN 10726 8.24.62] In August and September 1962, Werbell was working with the United Organization for the Liberation of Cuba. The CIA reported:

[Werbell] tried to secure the recognition by several Central American countries of a Cuban Government in exile. In this undertaking he offered a Nicaraguan Government spokesman $100,000 to secure that country's recognition. In October 1962 he reportedly tried, through an intermediary, to purchase used military aircraft in the U.S. ostensibly for use in the Dominican Republic to train Latin American pilots for a thrust against Cuba.

Mitch Werbell also traveled to Guatemala where he put pressure on Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes, through his son, Miguelito Ydigoras Laparra, to recognize this organization, which was nominally led by Mario Kohly. [CIA Cards For Action Rep. 10.10.60; NIXON ltr. to Weinfield 3.9.65] On August 17, 1962, William K. Harvey and J.C. King received this classified message:

Kohly, Werbell and Smith are well known to Kubark Hqs. and are considered to be wheeler and dealers, peddlers of grandiose schemes and unscrupulous." No first name was given for Smith. A CIA cable dated August 22, 1962, "reports Werbell's arrival and that he is accompanied by one Lucy Luchien.

ANTONIO VECIANA AND MITCH LIVINGSTONE WERBELL

Gaeton Fonzi asked Veciana if he ever dealt with Mitch Werbell: "No. But he said that you were going to ask him about Masferrer now. (Why?) Because there was a lot of business between Masferrer and Werbell. They say that Masferrer was killed as a result of his dealings with Werbell." A CIA report dated April 25, 1966:

a. On the morning of April 17, 1966 before going to the Hudson Institute – R AMRAZZ-1 visited his friend, James Cogswell. The latter will be remembered as being involved in fund raising for the Price Pelaez Plot to kill Castro.

b. Cogswell told AMRAZZ-1 that he was expecting Antonio Veciana at that moment. Veciana, Cogswell said, was in on a plan to assassinate Fidel Castro. Details of the plan were lacking. Veciana wanted Cogswell to introduce him to a (deleted) man known only as (FNU) Livingstone, from 'Winston, Massachusetts.' Cogswell's sister, name unknown, who works in Washington, D.C., presented Livingstone to Cogswell about a month ago.

c. Veciana showed up while Cogswell and AMRAZZ-1 were talking. Veciana's surprise at seeing Razz was astounding. In private Veciana told AMRAZZ-1 that he wanted Cogswell to introduce him to a lawyer who would handle a damage suit Veciana has against a boxer for unfulfillment of a contract. AMRAZZ-1 did not let on Cogswell's confidence. Shortly thereafter, AMRAZZ-1 had to continue on to the Institute.

d. AMRAZZ-1 was not able to see Cogswell again until April 21. Cogswell told AMRAZZ-1 that on on Sunday night, April 17, 1966, he had introduced Veciana to Livingston. The latter two had spoken in private after which Veciana came away very pleased, but did not disclose anything except that he had a plan to assassinate Fidel Castro. Veciana did not ask Cogswell to collect any funds for the project. Cogswell said he did not talk to Livingstone about his interview.

e. Cogswell told AMRAZZ-1 that Livingstone had indicated to him that he would be visiting Miami in about three weeks. Livingstone did not state the purpose of his visit. Cogswell gave Livingstone AMRAZZ-1's name and address as a reference. Livingstone promised Cogswell to call on AMRAZZ-1 when he visited Miami.

In a dispatch titled "Alleged KUBARK Officer in Contact with Cuban Who is Planning Castro Assassination Plot" the CIA stated:

I. In response to Reference A's request for JMWAVE's views on the possibility that FNU LIVINGSTONE of Reference B may be identical with Mitchell Livingston WERBELL III we feel that there is little doubt that LIVINGSTON is in fact WERBELL. According to his file, WERBELL appears to be low level would-be con man who has a history of being involved in CASTRO assassination schemes and of professing to be connected or at least in contact with KUBARK. According to AMRAZZ-1 "LIVINGSTON" was involved with Antonio VECIANA's alleged assassinaion plot and he was masquerading as a KUBARK officer. If WERBELL's present activities are as fruitful as his past business ventures, JMWAVE believes that he poses no threat to any serious KUBARK activities.

2. LIVINGSTON has as yet failed to call an AMRAZZ-1 as ho had promised COGSWELL in Now York City. PHILIP G. ELMARD [CIA 201-259910 (deleted) 25301]

Cogswell was described as a New York attorney who raised funds for Eloy Gutierrez Menoyo. Antonio Veciana worked for the Office of Capital Development of the Agency for International Development as a consultant at the Central Bank of La Paz, Bolivia, with an office in the Passport Division of the American Embassy, circa April 1968 to June 30, 1972. Veciana believed that BISHOP was instrumental in getting the job with the Agency for International Development, because he himself was surprised the Agency would hire a known terrorist and anti-Castro activist. Antonio Veciana was hired by the Agency for International Development, although his application was unsigned. The CIA commented, "Veciana was (deleted)." Gaeton Fonzi reported that Antonio Veciana told him he did very little banking. Instead he spent his time working for BISHOP.

THE ASSASSINATION ATTEMPT AGAINST CASTRO, CHILE, 1971

Antonio Veciana and BISHOP instigated a scheme to assassinate Fidel Castro in Chile in 1971. According to Antonio Veciana, BISHOP suggested the operation and provided the weapon, a lethal news camera. (CIA rogue agent Edwin P. Wilson produced similar devices for the Libyans.) During Veciana's narcotics conspiracy trial in New York City, Augustin Barres, one of his co-defendants testified that he had given Reinaldo Abreu $2,000 in 1971 in furtherance of this plot. [USDC SDNY 74-1219] The HSCA reported:

Although BISHOP directed the operation, and provided Veciana with intelligence information, Veciana himself recruited anti-Castro Cuban associates in Caracas to take part in the attempt. Part of the plan to assassinate Castro in Chile in 1971, said Veciana, called for Chilean military bodyguards to capture the assassins before Castro's people could kill them. BISHOP, said Veciana, made the requisite arrangements with the Chilean military.

Without his knowledge, Veciana said, his Cuban exile associates in Caracas introduced a new element into the plan, a scheme to blame the assassination on certain Russian agents in Caracas. The associates even produced phony documents and photographs. When BISHOP later found out about this unauthorized part of the scheme, he was extremely upset, and he accused Veciana of being part of it. Although Veciana told BISHOP he had no knowledge of it, BISHOP apparently did not believe him and eventually suggested their relationship be terminated.

In a report to Senator George McGovern in 1975, Castro provided information detailing the plot and accused "counter-revolutionaries from Alpha-66" as co-conspirators. Veciana himself was not specifically mentioned. Max Lesnick, editor and publisher of Replica, the most prominent Spanish-language weekly publication in the Miami Cuban exile community, said he was aware of Veciana's involvement in the assassination attempt at the time. He said, however, Veciana told him it was his "own plan" and did not mention the involvement of MAURICE BISHOP. Lesnick could not identify BISHOP, but said he always did think that Veciana had "some high government contacts, probably CIA.

Veciana stated the Lucilo Pena, a Cuban-born graduate of Auburn University in Georgia, was a co-conspirator in the plot to assassinate Castro in Chile. Lucilo Pena lived in Venezuela since 1961. Although Pena denied any involvement in the Castro assassination plot in Chile, he admitted to knowing Veciana since "1964 or 1965" when he was active in Alpha-66. He said he first met Veciana through a friend, Secundino Alvarez, who the leader of Alpha-66 in Caracas. (Alvarez was also named by Veciana as also being involved in the Chile plot.) Pena admitted he had been in contact with Veciana during the period the Chile plot was being planned, but, he said, their meetings were only casual, usually at boxing matches which Veciana promoted. Pena also admitted that Veciana may have discussed the possibility of assassinating Castro with him during one of these encounters at the boxing matches. "I think he asked some help in raising money," Pena said "but that's all I know about that." Pena denied any knowledge or involvement in any plan to blame Russian agents for the planned Castro assassination in Chile. "I am not the type to do that kind of counter-intelligence work," he said. "I am too open and honest." Pena said he knew Luis Posada, perhaps since 1963.

The HSCA interviewed Luis Posada, an anti-Castro Cuban exile, in the Venezuelan political prison, Cuartel San Carlos, in Caracas. In October 1976 Luis Posada was arrested with Orlando Bosch, and was subsequently indicted for the bombing of the Cubana Airlines plane in which 73 persons were killed. Posada had earlier been linked with assassination plots against Cuban officials in Chile, including two who disappeared in August 1976. Posada was a member of Brigade 2506, but he did not take part in the Bay of Pigs landing. In 1963 he joined the U.S. Army and was commissioned a first lieutenant. He resigned his commission in 1964. He went to Venezuela in 1967 and shortly afterwards joined the Venezuelan secret police, DISIP, the Direccion de los Sevicios de Intellgencia y Prevencion. From 1971 to 1973 he was chief of operations of the General Division of Security for DISIP, which included counter-intelligence. He resigned from DISIP in 1973 and went to Washington, D.C. to take training from what he termed "a private company" in the field of lie detection. He returned to Caracas to open his own private detective agency. Posada told HSCA investigators that he was not involved in the Castro assassination attempt in Chile in 1971. He admitted that he knew Veciana, but said he only met him twice, once in Miami and once in Caracas at the boxing matches. He said he did talk to Veciana about the time the Chile plot was being planned, but Veciana never mentioned anything to him about it. This aborted assassination attempt against Fidel Castro in Chile ended BISHOP'S relationship with Antonio Veciana. In April 1972 the CIA reported that Antonio Veciana reportedly planned an assassination attempt on Fidel Castro's life. ### THE $253,000 PAYMENT

On July 26, 1973, Veciana said BISHOP arranged to meet with him in the parking lot of the Flagler Dog Track in Miami. When he arrived, BISHOP was waiting for him with two younger men in an automobile. At that time BISHOP gave Veciana a suitcase, which, Veciana later ascertained, contained $253,000 in cash. Veciana stated the money was compensation for his efforts over the years. In August 1973 the CIA reported that Antonio Veciana was allegedly involved in planning the explosion in France on August 2, 1973, which "resulted in the death of Juan Felipe De La Cruz." [CIA R 7309180924 in 201-312966]

VECIANA AND DRUG TRAFFICKING

On January 2, 1973 the CIA generated this memo:

Memorandum For: Acting General Counsel

Attention: Mr. John K. Greaney

Subjects: Ariel Pomerès aka Ariel Ignacis aka Ariel Pomare Orbea

Antonio Veciana

1. Reference is made to your memo of December 1972 requesting name traces on Pomerès and Veciana. Office of Security has no record of Ariel Pomerès or his listed aliases.

2. Office of Security indices do reflect a record on Veciana. On January 4, 1962, Western Hemisphere Division requested a POA for Veciana in connection with Project JMATE...A Western Hemisphere Division dispatch UFGA 25097, dated May 6, 1966, described Veciana as a Public Accountant by profession. It further described him as the titular head of Alpha-66 and a member of MRP and SFNE. His residence was shown as Puerto Rico and he was described as having a Cryptonym and of marginal operational interest to JMWAVE, CI Branch, as a source of information obtained by AMKNOB-1 for the CUIS.

3. There is no indication that Veciana was at any time involved in importing cocaine or other narcotics into this country in connection with the activities of Alpha-66.

Howard J. Osborn.

Director of Security.

On August 10, 1973, Antonio Veciana was indicted for possession with intent to distribute cocaine and two counts of conspiracy to do so. Augustin Barres, who was a former member of the 26th of July Movement and an official under Castro for a short while, along with an agent of the Organized Crime Bureau, Special Services Division, Drug Enforcement Task Force (Detective Joseph Bruno), delivered the cocaine to Veciana and Ariel Pomares. When the authorities searched Veciana's home they found several fake passports.

The Government claimed Veciana had smuggled cocaine from Bolivia from 1971 to 1973 via a diplomatic courier at least three times. Augustin Barres was unhappy with "The Midget," who was selling these shipments in the U.S. and contacted some one Barres thought was a member of the Mafia. The gangster introduced Barres to Bruno. Barres testified against Veciana: "[Veciana] told me that he had a friend of his, which I don't recall his name at this time, had introduce him with the man in charge of the Interpol police in Bolivia. That this gentleman, Interpol, was in charge of watching the traffic of cocaine but he had group of factories or refineries that he give them protection for a certain amount of money." Veciana's attorney argued:

Bannigan: I think the agencies -- if it was that broad, I think what I would seek is whether the employment undertaken by Mr. Veciana or Mr. Pomares for any government agency, particularly the FBI or the CIA, in any way related to the charges in this case, and that I have not gotten an answer back on yet...The only thing I can suggest, your honor, is that Mr. Veciana, in addition to working for the agencies that have already been mentioned, has some affiliation with some Cuban Revolutionary Groups. It is possible, though I think it unlikely, that that affiliation with the group maybe as a covert agent, that there may be some relationship to the transactions here and that group, raising funds to continue their activities. We just don't know that yet. In that sense there may be some --- I mean it is possible he was working for the CIA when he did this. I would hope not.

THE COURT: You mean selling narcotics?

Rosner: Crazy things than that have happened, your Honor, as I'm sure the court knows.

On January 4, 1974, John Greaney of the Office of the General Counsel of the CIA, sent a letter to the United States Attorney, regarding Antonio Veciana and Ariel Pomeroy in regard to unlawful acts of both from November 1, 1972 to January 1974, regarding unlawful importing of cocaine or other narcotics. In July 1974 (Deleted as of 2010) mentioned Antonio Veciana and stated he was "denounced as a CIA agent." Antonio Veciana was convicted of drug trafficking, and served 27 months in prison on a conspiracy conviction involving narcotics. Veciana associated his legal problems with Bishop. Gaeton Fonzi speculated this was why Antonio Veciana had brought OSWALD'S name up. Gaeton Fonzi wrote:

(Does he believe his narcotics arrest was somehow related to all his years dealing of dealing with BISHOP?) Yes. He says he believes there is some relation with the past years. But he says just to remember that the narcotics department (DEA) feels that he is guilty, and if he were working for the narcotics department he would believe it too. (But how does he relate it?) He says in 1973, when everything went down [with BISHOP?], they couldn't kill him because he had too much information, that if he ever got killed too much would come out. So he figures the only way to finish him was to put him in jail, to set him up. He doesn't know whether it was even Castro on the other hand. He has had three assassination attempts on his life. They even put a bomb in Puerto Rico to get him. In Bolivia they came to get him at his house. In Miami never. [NARA SSCIA 157-10004-10158]

When Veciana spoke with HSCA investigators on another occasion, he blamed his drug arrest on Castro agents. On November 29, 1977, the FBI reported that "a reliable source who is close to Antonio Veciana had advised that he feels that Veciana's unusual preoccupation with the Kennedy assassination investigation may have something to do with the fact that Veciana was released from prison soon after his drug conviction. Source suspects that Veciana may have made some kind of secret deal with unknown government agents who allowed his release from prison in exchange for his testimony which implicated the CIA in the Kennedy assassination. This is pure speculation on Source's part and he had no tangible evidence to support his theory. It is recommended that inquiry be made at the federal correction institution where Veciana was imprisoned in an effort to determine whether Veciana's early release from prison had anything to do with his claim that he had pertinent knowledge of the Kennedy assassination." [NARA 124-10275-10230]

THE ASSASSINATION ATTEMPT ON ANTONIO VECIANA

Gaeton Fonzi recalled that several weeks after the HSCA Report was issued (July 1979): "The telephone rang. A friend in Little Havana was calling. He said Antonio Veciana had been shot in the head. Antonio Veciana was driving home from work when someone ambushed him, fired four shots at him. There were four bullet holes in his car. Antonio Veciana was not dead, the friend said, but that was all he knew." Antonio Veciana had received a slight wound to the left temple. He told Gaeton Fonzi: "It was a Castro agent." Veciana was involved in the importation of narcotics to the United States. The attempted assassination of Antonio Veciana could have been drug-related, or it could have been a warning from individuals intent on protecting the CIA. Veciana's $253,000 cash payment and his arrest for cocaine trafficking and money laundering were related as was the attempt on his life. Veciana felt the CIA should have intervened and prevented his imprisonment. Gaeton Fonzi interviewed Veciana at a time when he was especially embittered with the CIA, two weeks after leaving the Federal Penitentiary in Atlanta, after serving 27 months on a narcotics conspiracy conviction, so he told Fonzi about BISHOP and OSWALD. HEMMING told this researcher:

BISHOP is BISHOP, and about four other people. PHILLIPS was one of them. Obviously Antonio Veciana wasn't supposed to show up at that building at that fucking time. You don't allow assets to see one another by themselves. And you sure as hell don't let assets see you with somebody else. That was a major fuckup. Antonio Veciana relied on me to keep his fucking ass alive in the 1970's. I saved his life twice. We were real close. Me and Veciana get on real fucking good. He's alive because of me. He risked his life coming forward and he got shot for it. OSWALD went to the meeting with BISHOP to see Mr. HUNT. Mr. HUNT was going to have him do some stuff.

Marina Oswald told this researcher:

Let me squeeze something in, okay? So if you make connection of LEE HARVEY OSWALD to CIA and to DAVID ATLEE PHILLIPS who was in division where he conducted assassination all over the world and he was involved, according to you or another book, in assassination of President Kennedy. And if he knew LEE OSWALD it means he knew about Presidential assassination. And I don't think LEE would ever want to kill President Kennedy. I know exactly how LEE felt about Kennedy. LEE did not tell me he was associated with the government, that's all. He was very sure that Kennedy would take care of the missile crisis right. Right now I have inkling of double life, but not then. After the Walker incident I thought he playing with dangerous politics, and it's time for him to quit. I thought it was just a game. He never confessed to me, or confided to me, that it was a serious thing. I think he was a small potato who got fried in a big batch. But that cannot be because of inside information, or that I hiding something, but I just simply did not suspect anything heavier than the kid simply tried to play big politics, that's all.

HEMMING AND OSWALD MEET IN 1963 - MANUEL AGUILAR

In July 1963 Edward Anderson Collins was working with Manuel Aguilar. The FBI reported: "MM T-7, a Cuban exile and member of the Frente Revolucionario Anti-Comunista, on July 29, 1963, advised that on July 27, 1963, Edward Collins, an American soldier-of- fortune, Jesus Franco, former leader of the Cuban Rebel Army and Rudolfo Fasco, a Cuban exile, left Miami on the motorboat, 'Little Ann.' They went out to sea about 30 miles, turned on a radio transmitter and tape recorder, and transmitted anti-Communist propaganda to Cuba. They returned to Miami about 8:30 p.m. the same day...MM T-7 advised that the head of the organization is Manuel Aguilar. The organization has 20 members and two boats." [FBI MM 105-1742 10.9.63 p25] Fasco had Collins arrested for theft of the 'Little Ann' and the homemade boat broke up quickly in the surf. [FBI Report on FRAC] The CIA possessed a copy of an Army report concerning William Houston Seymour:

2. Date submitted June 18, 1970.

3. Control Symbol or File Number 062-28-2671

4. Report of Findings: (MISCELLANEOUS) On June 17, 1970, AGUILAR was interviewed at the Miami Field Office, Region III, 111th MI Group,

Miami, Florida, regarding information he volunteered concerning an anti-Castro Cuban exile group called Frente Revolucionaria Anti-Comunista en Cuba (FRACC) (Anti-Communist Revolutionary Front in Cuba), of which he claimed to be a leader. AGUILAR a jeweler employed by Kappy's Jewelry stated in substance as follows:

In approximately 1959 Subject helped form FRACC in Cuba when it became known that the Castro regime was turning Communist. Subject claimed that at that time he was a member of Castro's Naval Intelligence. He alleged that he attempted to obtain help from the American Embassy, but the only help he received was from a COL Samuel Louis Bouque (phonetic) then the U.S. Military Attache who made personal donations to FRACC but offered no official help. When Subject could not obtain official aid, he and other members of FRACC went underground. Source declined to reveal the names of other members of FRACC for fear of jeopardizing their security since some members were still in prison in Cuba. In approximately March 1961, Subject escaped from Cuba when he learned that he was being investigated for subversive activities. Since coming to the U.S. he has been working with about 50 persons living in various parts of the U.S. in order to send aid to members of FRACC in Cuba. Subject declined to reveal the names of these members in the U.S. As yet, FRACC has only been able to send very small amounts of aid to FRACC at sporadic intervals, and through clandestine means. They do not have any stockpiles of arms or materials, and do not plan to initiate any action without the approval of the U.S. Government. There is no formal organization of FRACC in the U.S. However, the Subject claimed that the FRACC members in the U.S. could be organized and trained in a matter of weeks to send supplies and arms to Cuba. Subject believed that there were approximately 4,000 to 10,000 persons in Cuba who would support FRACC immediately, if they had assurance that FRACC, did, in fact, have supplies and the support of the U.S. Subject claimed that he was in contact with members of FRACC in Cuba (some still in prison and others in high positions within the Cuban military), NFI, who were awaiting support. Subject has no definite military plans, but believed that FRACC could overthrow the Castro from within, rather than by means of invasion involving the U.S., if they had the proper supplies and support. Subject was referred to the Miami Field Office by (Deleted) presently a patient at Palm Springs General Hospital, Hialeah, Florida. Through (Deleted) Subject met an individual who claimed to be Captain in the U.S. Army Reserves, not further identified, who stated that he could train Subject and other members of FRACC. Agents notes: The interview of Subject was conducted in the Spanish language. He appeared to be sincere, truthful and was completely cooperative throughout the interview.

AGENT REPORT

NAME OF SUBJECT OR TITLE OF INCIDENT MANUEL AGUILAR

DATE SUBMITTED June 19, 1970.

CONTROL SYMBOL OR FILE NUMBER: 062-28-2671

REPORT OF FINDINGS:

Source mentioned as an aside that during the build-up of 1963, a number of volunteer civilians were making their way across the US into Florida. It was during this time that three individuals from California became known within his separate click. Source supplied names as follows: Lawrence John Howard, William Seymour and Lorenzo Hall.

According to GERRY HEMMING both HOWARD and HALL met with OSWALD in Texas while en route to Florida prior to the Kennedy assassination. After President Kennedy was killed HEMMING related to source that the assassination was a CIA plot to do away with Kennedy since HOWARD and HALL were believed to have been connected with the CIA. Source, at a later date, confronted HOWARD with the question concerning his part in the alleged connection with the Kennedy assassination. HOWARD 'clammed up' and became nervous concerning the matter and avoided the subject completely. Additionally, due to source's long involvement with military civilian movements against Cuba a man by the name of Steve Burton who presently resides at North Hollywood, California came to source's home while he was living in California, following the Robert F. Kennedy assassination and displayed photographs of Sirhan B. Sirhan in efforts to make identification. Source was unable to make identification but stated that Burton was in the employ of JERRY HEMMING at the time.

Agents Notes: Source was completely cooperative during the interview and provided names, addresses and telephone numbers from a small address book in his possession. He appeared to be somewhat self-centered and desired to talk more about himself than Subject. As a spot check for accuracy of information concerning individuals, the name and addresses of Steven J. Burton listed above, was checked through the Los Angeles Field Office of the 115th MI Group. The North Hollywood telephone directory reflected a listing for Bernard Burton. It is felt that Source was completely truthful in his answers and had strong feelings concerning the abilities of Subject.

Charles N. Phillips, 111th MI Group (III).

Steve Burton of Los Angeles interviewed LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD on January 25, 1968, for New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison. [Report of Charles N. Phillips Joseph A. Agee, 111th MI Group 6.18.70; Citizens Committee of Inquiry Steven J. Burton] On May 8, 1968, HEMMING was interviewed by Steve Burton, on behalf of New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison. HEMMING told this researcher:

Manuel Aguilar was a Castro agent. The last time I had Aguilar located was at a house we were going to hit to recover my rifle and other equipment that they had purloined and a trailer full of medicines. We'd gotten part of the trailer, we wanted the rest of the medicines, so we could ship them to Cuba legally. And the next thing you know they were getting permission with Masferrer and them to go down and use No Name Key as a base and that's the last of Aguilar. Summer of 1963 and we were busy on other stuff...Aguilar was trying to buy some guns and shit and he got a box full of rocks delivered to him...Ralph Hernandez set up a buy with Aguilar and box full of rocks. It became an armed confrontation. Metro Miami Police. I figured here's Ralph Hernandez and they all got machine guns and I figured at any moment Aguilar is going to have Hall and that crowd on the scene and things are gonna get real interesting...ROY HARGRAVES was great buddies with Aguilar, okay, and HARGRAVES had been told to stay away from him and was getting ready to put a bomb on his ass because he put a bomb on Louie Balbana's [phonetic] house that night after the scene with Hall and Molina and Bayo. They blew the front door in one Balbana's house. They were going to hit Aguilar.

GUY BANISTER

OSWALD knew William Guy Banister and his crew during the summer of 1963. Banister had an office at 544 Camp Street and OSWALD was considering opening an office there but HEMMING told him that would blow his cover. Banister was for all intent and purposes, part of the New Orleans Cuban Democratic Revolutionary Front, an organization put together by E. HOWARD HUNT and DAVID ATLEE PHILLIPS. The HSCA conceded that "there was at least a possibility that OSWALD and Guy Banister were acquainted." The

HSCA considered the following facts: The 544 Camp Street address stamped on OSWALD'S Fair Play for Cuba Committee handouts was that of the building where Guy Banister had his office; Ross Banister apprised the Committee that his brother Guy Banister had seen OSWALD handing out Fair Play for Cuba Committee literature during the Summer of 1963. "Ross advances the theory that the reason OSWALD used 544 Camp Street was due to Guy mounting a publicity campaign via the States Item newspaper effectively killing the sale of jeeps to Cuba and that is why OSWALD used the Camp Street address in an attempt to embarrass Guy." [Ross Banister HSCA interview 2.20/78 Daly] In June 1993 Ross Banister was in a nursing home. The Warren Commission conceded that OSWALD was aware of the "Newman Office Building" which was located at 544 Camp Street and 531 Lafayette Street (there were two addresses to this corner building) since OSWALD rubber stamped the address "Fair Play for Cuba Committee 544 Camp St, New Orleans LA." on a pamphlet by Corliss Lamont, entitled The Crime Against Cuba. Oswald created this rubber stamp from his rubber stamp kit. This pamphlet was taken from him by the New Orleans Police after his arrest in August 1963. OSWALD told the police he carried the pamphlet with him, "as it contained all of the information regarding the committee, and he would be in a position to refer to it for proper answers in the event someone questioned him regarding the aims and purposes of the committee." Herbert Philbrick stated: "Corliss Lamont's Hate America propaganda helped to condition the mind of OSWALD." OSWALD had informed V. T. Lee that he was still intent on opening a Fair Play for Cuba Committee office in New Orleans, but he never mentioned 544 Camp Street in any of his correspondence. The Kefauver Senate Investigation into Organized Crime mentioned the Balter Building as a center of organized crime activity in New Orleans. The landlord of 544 Camp Street, Sam Mike Newman, testified that he was never approached by Oswald to rent an office. The address was stamped on only one pamphlet, the Crime Against Cuba by Corliss Lamont. However, the Reily Coffee Company where OSWALD worked was one block from 544 Camp Street. OSWALD'S supervisor at the Reily Coffee Company told the FBI that he would disappear for at least an hour each day. The most illustrious tenant of "The Balter Building" located at 544 Camp Street and 531 Lafayette Street was William Guy Banister who used the address of 531 Lafayette Street. The Cuban Revolutionary Front had an office at 544 Camp Street at the same time Banister did. Banister, a former FBI SAC was the "brains" behind the Frente in New Orleans. Banister stated:

I was born in a log cabin in Caldwell Parish, Monroe, Louisiana, on March 7, 1901, the son of William Henry Banister and Aline Gregory Banister, the oldest of seven children. I was educated in the Louisiana public schools, and attended Louisiana State University and Soule College of New Orleans. The beginning of my career was as an investigator with the Monroe Police Department. I received an appointment as a Patrolman on December 2, 1929. About two weeks later, the Police Superintendent asked me to take a course in stenography, after which he would assign me to his office as his secretary with sergeant's pay. This was done at the end of six months from the date of my first appointment. About six months later the Superintendent died, and I was assigned duties that made me actually, the Chief of Detectives. On November 5, 1934, I was sworn in as Special Agent, Division of Investigation, and U.S. Department of Justice. The name of this organization was changed a short time later to FBI. I went to training school and I was sent to my first office in Indianapolis, Indiana, as an Agent. I served there until April 1935, when I was assigned to New York City. I worked over the northern part of the country on special assignment for approximately three years. Beginning in New York City, the man having a desk next to mine was S.A. George Starr. George Starr, who spoke Russian fluently his father was a trainer of race horses for the Czar at one time in Russia, was actually the leader in conducting subversive activity investigation for the FBI, for several years. Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, Director, never lost sight of the danger of Communism in this country...George Starr had familiarized me with the problems of Communist Party work and, in fact, he has been given credit for teaching the FBI agents how to conduct these investigations. After I was promoted to SAC, it was my duty to supervise the work of Special Agents assigned to such activity. It was also my duty to develop and supervise those people commonly called informers. To be more specific, we might say that they were counterspies sent in to report on the activities of the Party members. That was part of my duty throughout the nearly 17 years I served as SAC. [FBI 62-103863-13] In May 1938 I was promoted to Special Agent in Charge of a Division, and transferred to Newark, New Jersey. I remained there from May until August 1938, and I was promoted to the position of Special Agent in Charge, and given my first office of command, which was in Butte, Montana...

Guy Banister told an associate that he was sent to Butte because

At one time he had a visit by an FBI agent who told him that Mr. Hoover had asked for an honest appraisal of the Bureau from some of its top agents. Mr. Banister is alleged to have sent up a memo from Chicago that called the Bureau a prostitute that wanted keep her virginity. [HSCA interview with Oster 1.27.78]

I stayed there until October 1941, when I was transferred to Oklahoma City as SAC. I remained there until November 1943, when I returned to Butte, Montana, and remained there until September 1952, when I was transferred to Minneapolis, Minnesota...and remained there until the end of January 1954, when I was transferred to the Chicago Division as SAC. I remained there until the end of the year, when I retired from FBI service. I have been informed that up to the time of my retirement, I had served longer in the position of SAC than any other person, a period of nearly 17 years. In January 1955, I accepted a position with the New Orleans Police Department, and I have been there since that date.

Guy Banister spent 30 years in the FBI. While Guy Banister was Chicago SAC, he was involved in the arrest of several members of the Puerto Rican Nationalist Party, and received the Bureau's "Twenty Year Service Award Key." [NARA 180-10096-10011] Banister cited the failing health of his daughter for his tendering his resignation to the FBI: "My daughter must remain under the constant care of a specialist...this makes it dangerous to accept the transfer to the Honolulu Division as SAC" According to Mrs. Ross Banister, Guy Banister's sister-in-law, his daughter [Mrs. Donald Duvio] did suffer from an incurable disease. FBI documents, however, indicated that Guy Banister was about to be dismissed because of his actions in a Minnesota murder case. The Governor of Minnesota, Orville Freeman, and Minnesota Senator Hubert Humphrey, examined the case and pressured the FBI into firing Guy Banister. When he returned to Louisiana in late 1954 Guy Banister became a client of Maurice Gatlin [201-53454] and a member of Gatlin's Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas - Caribbean Division. The Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas possibly played a minor role in PB SUCCESS. In early 1955 New Orleans Mayor DeLesseps "Chip" S. Morrison asked Guy Banister to become an Assistant Superintendent of the New Orleans Police Department. He accepted, and was assigned to prepare a report on police corruption. Guy Banister investigated the New Orleans syndicate. He recounted:

I accepted the position at the Mayor's invitation, who said that the New Orleans Police Department had many of its members being charged with being grafters. I talked to some of my friends, who are professional law enforcement officers, and they said that it could not be done. The New Orleans Police Department was controlled by a mafia-like organization, and it simply could not be cleaned. I said 'Well, if you say it cannot be done, I accept the challenge.' I had retired, intending to get out of law enforcement, although I must say I regretted getting out of counter-espionage, counter-sabotage, counter-subversive activity work.

A "Top Hoodlum Coverage FBI Report" revealed that one of Frank Costello's torpedoes threatened to "run Guy Banister out of town." Guy Banister became involved in a dispute about the mob with his superiors in the police department. A FBI source in the New Orleans Police Department reported Guy Banister made waves, and was demoted.

The source noted that "within the last two days, Banister had made a public announcement to the effect that some bribery cases had been sent to the District Attorney. As a result, the citizens of New Orleans have a tendency to look upon all Police Department members as suspects." Guy Banister publicly acknowledged that 98 members of the New Orleans Police Department were suspected of taking payoffs. On June 27, 1956, Guy Banister's probe was ended, he was demoted, and the release of the Banister Report was postponed. On June 30, 1956, Guy Banister was on a nightclub tour with out-of-town friends when several police officers confronted him. When they tried to disarm Guy Banister, he pointed his weapon at them and was arrested. The next day, Guy Banister offered to resign from the force. Instead, he was suspended. In August 1956 Guy Banister told the FBI that a Federal Grand Jury was about to indict 50 New Orleans police officers for income tax evasion "and that the possibility exists that a number of New Orleans policemen will be indicted in state courts for public bribery and malfeasance in office."

Guy Banister was accused of being drunk and pulling a gun in public in a bar in the French Quarter on March 1, 1957. [FBI 61-3176-A N.R. 3.26.57] On March 4, 1957, Guy Banister was suspended by Police Superintendent Provosty F. Dayries. Guy Banister appeared as a witness before the New Orleans Federal Grand Jury investigating police graft on March 7, 1957. The First District Americanism Committee of the American Legion issued a statement, "high in praise of Guy Banister for his work against Communism in New Orleans." In March 1957, Guy Banister testified before the Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation of the Louisiana State Senate, which was scrutinizing alleged Communist influences behind racial unrest. Guy Banister:

The great danger from the Communist Party lies in fact that its homeland is outside the borders of the United States...If the Communist Party was not backed by this great empire - the empire of Russia - and it's an empire, it spite of the fact that it is called the Union of Soviet Republics. We know Russia, not only from reading intelligence and counter-intelligence reports, which I would like to avoid remembering as much as possible. We know from books written by her own people, and other people who have been there. We know the nature of the land and the people of the land...She is a nation at war all the time and for all times. The modern phase of Russia, commonly associated with Peter the Great, really began in the late 15th century. Then there intervened two and a half centuries of Mongol yoke. From her ancient past, Russian seems to have inherited a state of mind and an institution, the conviction that they are chosen to inherit the earth, and are hence always in the right...Russia has always exploited to the fullest every advantage she could secure from espionage and subversion... Espionage is the second oldest governmental activity of man. The first is law enforcement. You may adopt as a premise the dialectic of any of our historians as the creation of the proto-social mechanism, but immediately upon its coming into being, two problems were presented - the maintenance of internal order of law enforcement, and the protection from the outside groups, which is espionage. The oldest military treatise we have was published about 500 B.C. by Sun Tzu. We scream if espionage is used against us for two reasons. We are not trained to think in that manner and we have been sold on the idea that it is dirty business. Besides, the use of spies is approved by Jehovah, and I don't see how we can well object. The woman, Rahab, Joshua's 'cut-out agent' in Jericho, lived in a house on the wall. That portion of the wall did not fall, when the walls came tumbling down. Russia had made espionage, which is the war between the wars, into a fine art. Lenin said one day that every communist should make himself a Chekist. In other words every Communist should be a spy. They believe in it. They are guided in their actions by it... Communists within the party are expected to spy on one another, and to report to higher authorities and serious deviation from the established party line, or any breach of Communist loyalty to the revolutionary goal. When the Communist Party seizes control of a nation, it directs its espionage system against all who oppose communism. Freedom of the opposition ceases. In this sense it becomes a police state. Opponents of Communism are tagged with various labels such as spies, assassins, and wreckers, who must be destroyed. On becoming securely established in a given nation, Communists, in addition to their other functions, direct their espionage system against foreign nations as a part of their effort to overthrow all non-Communist social orders, so that a world-wide Communist society can be erected...Every member of the Louisiana Communist Party, a component part of Communist Party, is a Soviet agent. The Communist Party is an agency of the Soviet Government. The reported changes in the Communist Party of the United States of America mean nothing. It is simply now engaged in putting on a clean shirt. The Communist Party is inflexible in basic ideas and flexible in method. From concealed Communist Party members, and from those who are not necessarily members, but have been sympathetic toward communism, come agents not only to spy, but to sabotage. We are vulnerable to sabotage by the use of germs. A few highly trained men can knock out a great city like New Orleans. Germs they might use would not necessarily be directed against man, but against plant and animal life. We can be starved into submission. We can retaliate, and that is one of the reasons the Soviets object to the flight of Freedom Balloons. They object, of course, because of the effect of the propaganda leaflets sent up with the balloons. But they also know that with them we can trace air currents across the most productive parts of their lands. Some queer things have happened over here, and I am sure that no one is positive, but test runs have been made.

We are particularly vulnerable to smuggled atom bombs. Even the big bombs were comparatively simple to assemble, once they were made. Now they have them down to the size of an artillery shell. Dedicated Communist Party members can smuggle them in, leave them. I doubt that we have enough screw drivers and men to use to find them. They can be triggered, set off by a radio wave, or in several other manners. I know that it is possible and comparatively easy to assemble one of them and New Orleans is a key city in the south land. Not only is it the second largest port in the nation - it boasts of the fact that - but if we begin to starve here we will need shipping to bring food and material for war.

I recall one outbreak of 'hoof and mouth disease' which occurred in dairy herds of Canada. Legally, it was not possible to establish it was done - planted there. But an intelligence officer is never quite satisfied with a legal definition. And I have talked to many men. You can't be certain. We can't be certain that the man who was supposed to have taken it there was the one who actually did. Someone else could have put it there. We have the example of the 'wheat stem rust' which hit Durham wheat in Eastern Montana and Western Dakota - the kind of wheat there where we get our macaroni. That was an up flare. In that case I talked to the nation's leading plant pathologists in that field. We don't know where the spores came from. They trapped them at 15,000 feet in the air. Maybe it's a test run? We don't know. Maybe its natural. But we must be suspicious now. We can't afford to pass it off as natural, as an example.

Guy Banister believed racial integration of the schools was part of a plan formulated by Stalin and the Communist Party to create "dissension between the races." Former FBI SAC WARREN DeBRUEYS told this telephone interviewer that he spoke with Guy Banister about his work with the Sovereignty Committee. He told the HSCA:

I just didn't have any working relationship with Guy Banister, or anyone else, on the Sovereignty Committee. I knew him, and had very limited contact with him. I seem to recall to have gone to his office on at least one occasion because I remember seeing his side of the office. Then I remember inviting him out as a former S.A. to a church meeting...Beyond that I don't think I had any contact with him.

Guy Banister's associate, Joseph Oster, commented: "I was aware the Chief knew a lot of people in the FBI and CIA. DeBRUEYS? I believe he came around to see Guy Banister. The name is very familiar. There was a lot of communication between him and the Chief by phone." Guy Banister believed the Soviets were contaminating the wheat in the United States without possessing a shred of evidence that this was the case. Banister was more than just a right-wing crackpot.

GUY BANISTER NAZI PIG

Banister hated blacks. His politics were similar to those of David Duke – he was a Nazi. Jack S. Martin told the New Orleans District Attorney's Office that Guy Banister subscribed to the American Nazi Party newspaper, The Thunderbolt. The American Nazi Party was headed by George Lincoln Rockwell, Vernon Gerdes, and employee of Guy Banister told Lester Oillio of New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison's office on January 31, 1967: "I saw George Lincoln Rockwell in Banister's office. Delphine Roberts and I waited outside." George Lincoln Rockwell was born on March 9, 1918. His father was a traveling vaudeville comedian who called himself, 'Old Doc' Rockwell. He entered Brown University, but left in his junior year to join the Navy. Honorably discharged as a Naval Commander, George Lincoln Rockwell was recalled to duty during the Korean War. In 1958, through an unidentified backer, George Lincoln Rockwell bought a house and some acreage in Arlington, Virginia, and started the American Nazi Party. In May 1961 George Lincoln Rockwell was arrested in New Orleans for illegally picketing the movie Exodus, which dealt with the Holocaust. Guy Banister found a bondsman for George Lincoln Rockwell and contributed to his bail fund. Jack S. Martin wrote the FBI:

One interesting item about Rockwell which disturbed Banister to no end was something about Rockwell's bail bond, that was posted here when he and his men were in trouble. The sureties for these American Nazis were negotiated by Banister and others at the time. However, these bonds were made by insurance agents Hardy Davis and his wife Doris Davis. Moreover, the point that bothered everyone was the closely guarded secret of just who the persons were that signed attesting indemnification in lieu of loss of those pledges. When this was mentioned it used to drive Banister to a froth, so the actual identity of these may be a very important facet of this case...Banister claimed to be a right wing conservative. At the same time he voiced his total hatred for all extreme anti-American-elements such as Communists. But above all the others the most, Liberal factions in politics, and the Jews. In some ways he reflected a sort of off-brand Nazi philosophy. Not true Nazism as we've read about, nor even Communism, but a kind of in-between, lunatic fringe 'multi-monomaniac' (to coin a word) for it involved radical hatred in essence, but cover a multitude of subjectivity in socio-politics, as it were. [Jack S. Martin sworn statement 2.20.68]

Index cards to Guy Banister's files contained the names and addresses of numerous New Orleans Jews and Jewish organizations, many taken from the American Nazi Party magazine, Counterattack! Guy Banister kept an extensive clipping file about the Civil Rights Movement. He belonged to several other fringe groups besides the American Nazi Party. Dan Campbell, a private investigator employed by Guy Banister, told an FBI source in 1962 that the American Nazi Party was about to meet with the Ku Klux Klan to discuss a merger. Dan Campbell added that Colonel Buford Balter partially financed George Lincoln Rockwell's trip to New Orleans. [FBI 105-70374-1949] Joseph Oster stated: "Alvin Cobb was a friend of Banister. Mr. Cobb was a KKK supporter." HEMMING told this researcher: "I came across Rockwell during our shit tour of the Minutemen and these other weird fringe type groups." OSWALD'S address book contained the following entry: "Nat. Sec.

Dan Burros Lincoln Rockwell Arlington, Virginia American Nazi Party (Amer. National Party) Hollis Sec. of Queens N.Y.,(newspaper) Nat. Socialist Bulletin."

GEORGE LINCOLN ROCKWELL

Rockwell's group The American Nazi Party was formed in 1960 in Arlington, Virginia. In May 1960 the National Socialist Bulletin made its appearance as the first periodical published by the American Nazi Party. The Secret Service and the FBI questioned George Lincoln Rockwell about his name having appeared in OSWALD's notebook. He said he had no idea why his name appeared in there. George Lincoln Rockwell told the FBI: "I believe Kennedy was shot by a right-winger...I think American Nazis are going to have a hard time for a while. I wouldn't be a bit surprised to be picked-up on it." [FBI 105-70374-2731]

THE AMERICAN NATIONAL PARTY

The Secret Service and the FBI questioned Dan Burros who said the same thing as Rockwell. Following his defection from the American Nazi Party in 1961 Burros had returned to his native Queens, New York and formed the American National Party. In September 1961 the American National Party picketed the funeral of an American Communist leader with signs that read "We hate Reds" and "One Less Red Pest." [NYT 9.19.61] The address they gave as their headquarters was 507 Fifth Avenue. In April 1962 Valerian Zorin the Soviet Delegate to a conference on War Propaganda brandished a pamphlet in which the American National Party called for an immediate declaration of war against the Soviet Union. [NYT 4.28.62] In April 1962 the American National Party had the address Post Office Box 191 Gracie Station New York 28, New York. This was in Yorkville, once a German stronghold. The New York Times reported, "The party is reported to consist of ten young men here and eleven in Louisiana. Its headquarters is reported to be a shanty at 97-15 190th Street, Hollis Queens. John Patler, 24 years old, is the founder of the party. Ralph G. Grandinetti is listed in party literature as the New York state chairman. [4.13.62 NYT] The FBI reported that Patler, Burros and Grandinetti were the only members of American Nation Party. In August 1962 John Patler was arrested for distributing hate literature. The American National Party published Kill! In its second issue, published in September 1962 Burros denounced George Lincoln Rockwell as a "nigger loving liberal." [NYT August 19, 1962] On July 13, 1963, Dan Burros was arrested and charged with conspiracy to riot. He was convicted of this charge in July 1964 and received a sentence of one to two years in prison.

OSWALD returned to the United States on June 13, 1962. This address book entry had to have been written sometime between then and November 22, 1963. The FBI reported,

There are reportedly two ANP groups operating in Dallas, Texas. One, headed by a printing salesman named Robert A. Surrey, is made up of people who do not want their affiliation with the ANP to become publicly known. It is alleged that about 30 persons attend weekly meetings of this group in Surrey's home. The other group, whose meetings reportedly are attended by four persons, is headed by Jerald Thomas Walraven and openly participates in various demonstrations. Surrey is alleged to be the Dallas leader of the ANP, while Walraven is merely a "group commander."

This is the same Surrey who was close to General Walker so the possibility exists OSWALD might have known Surrey and gotten this information from him. This would mean that Walker was in on his own shooting, an unlikely possibility as HEMMING was not about to trust a "fucking faggot." OSWALD had been given this information by someone who was conversant with Nazi activities in New York City and who was aware of this splinter group formed by three misfits. Aside from Bannister other Nazis that OSWALD came into contact with were George DeMorphenschildt and Spas Raikin and they operated on an international level. OSWALD got these addresses from Guy Bannister and that would explain the reference to "members in Louisiana."

DANIEL BURROS JEWISH MISFIT

Daniel Burros was born March 5, 1937. Dan Burros had attended High School there, and had an I.Q. of 154. From the age of 10 he was an apologist for German Nazism. He wanted to go the U.S. Military Academy, but instead served in the United States Army from August 1955 to March 1958, at which time he received a general discharge by reason of character and behavioral disorders. Dan Burros told the FBI that he had faked two suicide attempts in order to achieve the discharge. Dan Burros became a member of Rockwell's American Nazi Party. Dan Burros was either offed or allegedly committed suicide on October 31, 1965, after The New York Times revealed he was half-Jewish. The suicide was carried out in the home of Pennsylvania Minutemen coordinator Roy Frankhouser. Dan Burros was shot twice, in the head and in the chest. Besides Roy Frankhouser, the shooting was witnessed by his girlfriend, and Frank W. Rotella Jr. of the New Jersey KKK. The New York Times reported: "Police listed the death as an 'apparent suicide' after preliminary investigation showed it was physically possible for Burros first to have shot himself in the chest, and then to have raised the revolver to his right temple and fired the second shot, which caused his death instantly. A paraffin test of Burros' hands and the three witnesses will be made and an autopsy will be performed tomorrow." Frank W. Rotella told the police that when Dan Burros saw The N.Y. Times he broke furniture, and looked for a gun. According to Roy Frankhouser, he had locked up all the guns in the house due to Dan Burros erratic behavior, except one, which Dan Burros found. In 1958 Roy Frankhouser was arrested for assaulting an Atlanta police officer during a Klan-sponsored segregationist rally. He told the Atlanta police he was a member of the National States Rights Party. Roy Frankhouser was a free lance Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms informant. In September 1975, he pleaded guilty to involvement in the disposal of explosives from a local mining company in May 1973 and July 1973. The court rejected Roy Frankhouser's defense that he was an Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms informant. [Johnson Lee & Marina p208; Epstein Legend p69, 78; Donner Age of Surv. p346] Circa 1974 Roy Frankhouser contacted Lyndon LaRouche and offered his services as a security informant and advisor. In 1983 Roy Frankhouser was hired by Lyndon LaRouche. In 1987 Roy Frankhouser and Lyndon LaRouche were arrested for Conspiracy to Obstruct Justice. Roy Frankhouser was convicted in December 1987.

Roy Frankhouser claimed he had letters from "Payne," however, when the FBI had its informant search Frankhouser's home the letters could not be located. [FBI 89-43-6591; FBI Phil. F.O. 157-916-353] On August 24, 1967, George Lincoln Rockwell was assassinated by Nazi cartoonist and American National Party leader John Palter.

OSWALD on race:

My second reason is that undemocratic, country-wide institution known as segregation. It, it, I think the action of the active segregationist minority and the great body of indifferent people in the South who do the United States more harm in the eyes of the world's people, than the whole world communist movement. as I look at this audience there is a sea of white faces before me where are the negroes amongst you (are they hiding under the table) surly if we are for democracy, let our fellow negro citizens into this hall. make no mistake segregationist tendencies can be unlearned I was born in New Orleans, and I know.

In russia I saw on serval occiasions that in internationl meeting the greatest glory on the sport field was brought to us by negroes. Though they take the gold metals from their Russian competitors those negroes know that when they return to their own homeland they will have to face blind hatred and discrimination.

The Soviet Union is made up of scores of nationalities asians and Euyr-Asians armenian and Jews whitte and dark skinned people's yet they can treach us a lesson in brotherhood many people's with different customs and origins.

OSWALD'S anti-racism was racist. He evoked two stereotypes. The frightened Negro and Negro athlete. If OSWALD said he liked Negroes, then exactly the opposite was true.

GUY BANISTER'S RACIST SECRETARY: DELPHINE POINTS ROBERTS

Delphine Roberts told the HSCA:

Her family goes back to Jeb Stuart on her mother's side, and because of this blood line, she is a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Daughters of the Confederacy...Her family has been very patriotic except one, cousin, Julia Points, who was duped into joining the Communist Party after World War I. Julia attempted to quit the party and was chopped into pieces and dumped in a hole in Central Park after being covered with lye. Guy Banister was checking on Julia Points before Delphine met him. This was one of Guy's first assignments with the FBI at the time he was trying to locate a secret underground railroad that the communist party used to get spies into and out of the country. Delphine

Roberts became concerned about our Country when President Roosevelt and his Negro wife, Eleanor, got the U.S. into the United Nations, which has its charter based on the Communist Manifesto. She was married to John Strobel Jr. who became an Air Force Lt. General, and worked on the mathematics teams that planned the first National Aeronautics and Space Administration space flights. She divorced Strobel, and married Harry Roberts, then she divorced Roberts, and was going to remarry Strobel, when he died in 1958...

On March 21, 1959, Harry A. Roberts, an employee of the U.S. Customs Service, filed for divorce from Delphine Roberts. "In the early 1960's Delphine was active in anti-Communist activities and became involved in the anti-integration movement. She was written about in the national news and in Pravda for some of her demonstrations." On March 4, 1961 Delphine Roberts participated in a demonstration at William Franz School during which she carried a sign "The Lord commanded 'That the tribes not be mingled.'" On January 27, 1962, Delphine Roberts ran for Councilman-at-Large, as a Conservative Independent Democrat for the Mayoralty Primary Election. In her platform the following statements were made:

1. The Subject is a white supremacist and segregationist, and would work toward the preservation of the White race.
2. Separation of Church and State.
3. Against such organizations as CORE, NAACP, Save Our Schools etc. which have as their goals the integration and mongrelization of the races.
4. Anti-communist.
5. Against the United Nations, because by association with this organization, the U.S. is giving aid and comfort to the enemy.
6. Opposed to the utilization of public building space, rent free by the League of Women Voters, which Subject considers to be a Communist organization.
7. Opposed to the integration of the New Orleans Police Department.
8. Opposed to utilization of Federal aid.
9. Opposed to integration of public facilities, such as parks, playgrounds, etc.
10. Opposed to integration of transportation.
11. Opposed to integration of fire department.
12. Opposed to Fluoridation.
13. Would attempt to promote a city ordinance outlawing communism or any left-wing activities from taking place within the city limits of New Orleans, Louisiana.
14. Opposed to urban renewal.
15. Condemned the Diary of Ann Frank as being a filthy book, which students should not be permitted to read.
16. Separation of sanitary facilities as to White and Colored.

The May 12, 1962, issue of the New Orleans Times-Picayune carried an article entitled "Private School Move is Urged." It stated that Delphine Roberts was a speaker at the first meeting of the Catholic White Layman's League, which was held at Woodman Hall, New Orleans, Louisiana. Delphine Roberts described incidents which had occurred when she and other segregationists picketed various locations. Other speakers included George Singlemann, Assistant to Leander Perez. On April 16, 1962, the New Orleans Times Picayune contained an article entitled "Catholic Church Picketed by Trio." It stated the Delphine Roberts was one of three women who picketed St Patrick's Catholic Church during worship hours on Sunday to protest the desegregation of Catholic Schools. The May 26, 1962, issue of the Louisiana Weekly carried an article entitled "Children Used in Hate Picketing." This article stated that on the previous Saturday five young children were utilized in the picketing of the residence of Archbishop Rummel. One of the demonstrators was identified as Delphine Roberts and she carried a sign which read, "Caroline Kennedy is segregated - excommunicate her father." On September 4, 1962, Delphine Roberts was observed in a picket demonstration protesting the integration of St. Rose of Lime School. Delphine Roberts stated:

She joined the New Orleans White Citizen's Council and attended some PTA meetings trying to prove the integration of our schools was a communist plot to destroy our Country. She knew Leander Perez of Plaquemines Parish and was later excommunicated from the Roman Catholic Church with him...She worked with an investigator from the Louisiana Sovereignty Commission on several New Orleans groups that were anti-American. The Commission was interested in the Black Muslims...Delphine corresponded with Senator Eastland of the House Un-American Activities Committee, and the other counterpart in Congress whose name she could not remember. She corresponded with J. Edgar Hoover, and he wrote her personal letters about things in the New Orleans area. She destroyed those letters as best she can remember. One of Mr. Hoover's assistants by the name of Ed or John Sullivan came to New Orleans and spoke at the American Legion and she corresponded with him. Sullivan used to talk to Leander Perez, and was very concerned about the activities in New Orleans. She stated Sullivan is still alive but she does not know what his assignment is now. Sometime in early 1961 or 1962 Delphine Roberts decided that the American flag was not receiving the respect that it should in the city and she decided to put up a booth on Canal Street to promote the flag. The booth had a loud speaker system and American flags and Confederate flags all around it and she and her mother Amelia manned it...Every day someone, that she doesn't remember, would bring her mother food and drinks from Walgreens. They never paid for this because someone was sponsoring them that they didn't know. She would play march songs and talk about the flag and the U.N. The merchants on Canal Street, who are all Jews, made a complaint about her booth and the police came to arrest her. That was the first time that she met Guy Banister. He came into the booth with her and her mother wearing a suit, a hat and a gun. He told the police that they would have to arrest him too. The police never arrested anyone but did ask that they set a date to leave. A date was set and they left. She and Banister became friends after that, and she worked with him as a volunteer, because he was working for what she believed in. She did secretarial work such as typing correspondence, making files, clipping newspapers etc. She knew his system, and remembers he had one of the largest and most complete files of communists and fellow travelers...

In April 1963 Delphine Roberts headed "Women for Constitutional Government." Delphine Roberts was Guy Banister's lover; when the HSCA reviewed Guy Banister background material a sealed file containing "information on his sexual behavior" was discovered. [HSCA Memo Carpenter to Solie 3.1.78] "On January 19, 1965, Louise Cumber telephonically contacted the New Orleans office of the FBI and advised that she is separated from her husband who is mentally ill. She stated that her husband was an extreme right-winger and had been involved with a group that made the John Birch Society look like Communists. She claimed that Delphine Roberts was the leader of this group..." [NARA 124-10167-10224]

DELPHINE AND OSWALD

In an interview on July 6, 1978, Delphine Roberts told HSCA Investigator Robert Buras that she Remembers that Guy Banister positively had a file on OSWALD, but it was kept out of the regular files because he never got assigning a number to it. She does not remember what was in it other than general information such as paper clippings. Delphine remembers Guy Banister getting very loud with both James Arthus and Sam Newman because they allowed OSWALD to use the address 544 Camp Street. As she remembers, Jim Arthus did not have an office, but a room that was like his apartment. Banister was always getting mad at Arthus because he talked too much about their business in the office. Delphine would not, or could not, elaborate on the exact content of the talk that she heard between Newman, Arthus and Banister. She did not give an opinion on whether OSWALD might have been working for Banister. The closest she could remember Banister's words to the men about OSWALD was 'How is it going to look for him to have the same address as me?' She did not form an opinion on what this meant. Delphine stated she never saw OSWALD in person. She states she did see Fidel Castro and his top aide Che Guevara walking on Canal Street when she had her flag booth...Roberts stated that she had not been active in anything for the past ten years or more. Her daughter had a bad accident and she spends her time taking care of her and the house.

On August 27, 1978, Delphine Roberts was re-interviewed by HSCA Investigator Robert Buras. She said she ...believes that LEE OSWALD came into the office to be interviewed for a job, but doesn't remember anything specific, because so many people came in for interviews. At a later date Banister introduced Marina and OSWALD to her in his office, but they walked right out and she did not talk to them. She could not recall hearing Marina speak, or how they were dressed. On several occasions LEE OSWALD would come in and go into Banister's office and she could not hear any conversation from that room. She believed that OSWALD was either working, or attempting to work, for Banister. She does remember hearing Guy Banister holler at Jim Arthus and Sam Newman about letting OSWALD the second floor room and about keeping the Fair Play for Cuba Committee literature from his office. Arthus used to come into the office and put leaflets on Banister's leaflet table as a joke because all the other literature was anti-communist.

Scott Malone reported: "Delphine is definitely a kook, but I found someone else to corroborate her story. Two weeks after the assassination she told Mary Brengel about having seen OSWALD in Banister's office. She did not mention Marina's presence."

The suspension of Guy Banister from the Police Department ended on June 1, 1957. He reported to work to find he was now in the Planning Department. He refused the position, and was fired. Guy Banister purchased a newspaper, The Herald, a Gretna, Louisiana weekly. In December 1957 Guy Banister purchased time on a New Orleans television station and announced that Mayor Morrison had interfered with his investigation of police corruption. He referred to the conviction of the Director of the New Orleans Crime Commission for perjury, as evidence of rampant corruption. Guy Banister claimed that "New Orleans District Attorney Leon Hubert failed in his sworn duty to prosecute matters referred to him in connection with the police probe." He also announced he was about to open a private detective agency in New Orleans. Before 1958 was out, Guy Banister testified before a Special Committee of the Arkansas State Legislature, where he claimed that the Communists were behind the riots that followed the integration of the Little Rock, Arkansas, public school system. In 1960 Mayor Daley of Chicago considered appointing Guy Banister as Chief of Police, but reconsidered. On March 29, 1960, Guy Banister was acquitted by Judge Julian Samuel of the 24th Judicial District Court, State of Louisiana, on charges of having defamed one Louis J. Roussel, President of Universal Drilling Company, Inc., by publishing in The Herald an article on December 11, 1958. [FBI NO 105-1458] The article said the firm had its stock blacklisted by the federal government and that the government has charged fraud and illegal distribution of the stock. Judge Samuel ruled that the article was defamatory and false but that Banister's participation in its publication had not been sufficiently proved.

In 1993 Mrs. Ross Banister stated:

Chip Morrison was thrilled to get him, and he was thrilled to be comin' back to Louisiana. I think that things went real well for quite a while, but then Guy started doing stuff, sort of secret detective work, on his own. As a result, Chip fired him and Guy went into his investigative business. The firing had a great emotional effect on Guy. I think that was sort of the beginning of Guy's end. He started drinking pretty heavy at that time, more so than usual, and he started having family problems. He left his wife Mary Wortham, and moved out. We didn't see much of him. It was just sort of downhill from there on. Mary had Guy put in the hospital for observation, and some tests, and the doctor called Ross and me down there - cause we were about the only family he had, and showed us a brain wave test that he had done. And the doctor said Guy had had a series of small strokes.

Guy Banister's Private Detective Agency was called Guy Banister Associates. In August 1960 the CIA considered using Guy Banister Associates as a source of foreign intelligence and as "a cover mechanism."

OS INDICES RESULTS:

Subject's file reflects he was approved for contact use on November 16, 1960 for routine exploitation as a foreign intelligence source. He retired in December 1954 from the FBI at a Grad GS-16. In September 1960 a covert investigation was initiated on Banister and his firm, Guy W. Banister and Associates Inc in consideration of his firm's use as a cover mechanism. Investigation revealed that his business was not too successful. Banister had been suspended from his position as Assistant Superintendent of the New Orleans Police Department because of his involvement in a New Orleans bar incident. He was accused of being drunk and pulling a gun in public. This incident occurred during Mardi Gras in March 11957. After his resignation he purchased a newspaper, The Herald, a Gretna, Louisiana weekly. In March 1960 he was acquitted of a charge of defamation of character by Louis J. Roussel, President of the Universal Drilling Company. He then started his private detective agency, Guy W. Banister Associates. On September 21, 1960 Central Cover Division was furnished with an alternative private detective company and action on Banister was terminated.

A CIA search yielded no records on Guy Banister. Guy Banister CIA Headquarters files #201-428810 and EE-28810 were opened, and file #222918 F-SB/2 was opened on Guy Banister Associates.

Memorandum for: Special Agent in Charge, David B. Whiteside

Subject: Guy W. Banister Associates Inc. #222918 F-SB/2 stated:

The captioned firm, located at 434 Balter Building, New Orleans 12, Louisiana, is of interest to GOLIATH as a cover mechanism. (Deleted)...Paul T. Auden (Deleted) September 13, 1960, Memorandum for Chief, Investigative Division. Subject: Guy W. Banister Associates Inc. #222918 F-39/2.

1. Subject is engaged in the business of private investigations of all types. Extent of operation is very limited and he appears to be the only employee at present time. Subject's office is presently located at 531 Lafayette Street in a four story building. Subject's office is located on the first floor and is the only office on this floor. He is directly across the street from the Post Office and is located in a commercial section and low-rent district. The Subject' office consists of two rooms. He has been at this location for approximately eight months.
2. The Subject left his Balter Building address on St. Charles Avenue about eight or nine months ago. He occupied two rooms on the first floor of this four story building which is located in the commercial section across from the Masonic Temple which is also housing government offices. The move was attributed to business conditions and it appears that his business is not successful.

5. Dunn and Bradstreet report reflected that Subject, and one investigator named Vernon Gerdes, comprised the two employees of the corporation which has been in operation since 1958. In the opinion of the authorities, the operations of the Corporation in recent months has not been conducted along too successful lines. The Corporation has a few hundred dollars in fixtures and equipment, however, cash is limited. During recent months 'Not sufficient funds' checks has been (illegible). The above tax lien was also reflected in this report. The Corporation has a slow pay record and according to the report the two officers are earning a small living at best.

The next page of this document is generally too dark to read: "One informant stated that Subject aligned himself with the Independent American (illegible) against desegregation or any sort and advocates strongly segregation."

JOSEPH OSTER

Joseph Oster was contacted on November 22, 1993. He commented:

I owned an interest in Guy Banister Associates when the office was on the second floor of the Balter Building, across the street from the United States District Courthouse. It was near the Times-Picayune, in the central business district. It was a beautiful office, completely furnished - four rooms and a reception area. The building was owned by Colonel Buford H. Balter, old, but well kept. There was phone calls come in from the CIA Director at that time. I wanted to say Dulles, but that's not it. Yes, I heard the name HUNT. You see, all of the files, even the ones that we had, suddenly disappeared. I've never knew the Chief to be a segregationist, quite frankly...

In 1978 Joseph Oster told L. J. Delsa, an investigator for the HSCA, that he first met Guy Banister:

...in the New Orleans Police Department in the early 1960's when Mr. Banister headed up a group of special investigators to check on corruption within the Department's ranks. Mr. Oster was one of the members of this squad. Mr. Banister was fired in 1957 and Mr. Oster soon after went into business with him. Mr. Oster stated that he did most of the investigating and later, date unknown, became dissatisfied because Mr. Banister did not take an interest in the investigations that could have made money for the firm. Mr. Banister had an office on Robert E. Lee Blvd., but then moved to the Balter Building where Mr. Oster joined him...Two sources that were used were Fidelafax and American Security Council...The American Security Council was used for security checks about political backgrounds with special interest in any communist type activities. These two organizations were headed and staffed mostly by retired FBI agents. The personnel in the office at that time were: Carmen Bollino, an ex-FBI agent from Washington, D.C. He and 'The Chief' worked Remington Rand Corporation checks. 'The Chief' was Guy W. Banister's nickname. It should be noted that Mr. Thomas Beckham states that LEE HARVEY OSWALD always said that the 'Chief' would take care of him. Mr. Beckham didn't know if OSWALD meant Mr. Banister or J. Edgar Hoover. Mr. Oster stated that he has heard Banister call Washington and speak directly to J. Edgar Hoover. Mr. Banister used to call and speak to someone in the CIA, but Mr. Oster does not remember any name. John Sullivan, another employee of Mr. Banister's who was also a retired FBI agent from Vicksburg, Mississippi. The recently released minutes of the racist State Sovereignty Commission Records of Mississippi contain the report of a discussion concerning the possible hiring of a former FBI agent, John Sullivan of Vicksburg, and a proposal suggesting that the Attorney General's office be requested to stop any further marches in Mississippi by Dr. Martin Luther King and the Southern Leadership Conference.

John Sullivan committed suicide shortly after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. I received this communication from Sullivan's grandson, Jeremy Sullivan:

I was told that he committed suicide but my dad didn't think so. He told me there was an investigation and the FBI was involved. They deemed it suicide. The story I heard had changed depending on who told it, I believe that they had been out fishing all day and John Daniel had been drinking. After they got home, he was alone in his room and there was a gunshot and he was found dead.

Jim Garrison had an undisclosed case against Sullivan in 1961. Delsa continues

Other employees and people that had business with Mr. Banister: Edward Jack S. Martin and Major Stewart who wrote and owned the Westbank Herald located in Algiers, Louisiana. (This is New Orleans but it is located on the West Bank of the Mississippi River.) This paper was active in Latin American affairs. Mr. Oster feels that Major Stewart had intelligence ties to Latin America. Jack S. Martin was a part-reporter, part-investigator. Mr. Oster describes him as very smart and an adventurer, always trying to impress people with the important people he knew. Mr. Oster remembers catching Mr. Jack S. Martin with a very young sailor in the Colonila Hotel located in Exchange Alley. Mr. Oster will attempt to find the report made on this case, in which Jack S. Martin was allegedly involved in homosexual acts with the sailor. (The New Orleans Police Department arrest sheets do not reflect any such arrest, but Mr. Oster feels these sheets might have been tampered with over the years.) Mr. Jack S. Martin denies to the investigators that he was ever involved in homosexual activities, even though he associated with many young men and know deviates such as David Ferrie...Mr. George Singleton and Mr. Banister were close friends. Mr. Singleton wrote for the Citizens Council and was close to Judge Leander Perez in the fight against integration. Col. Buford Balter, Mr. Singleton, Mr. Stewart and others around Mr. Banister were interested in ultra-conservative politics in which Mr. Oster did not take any active part. Colonel Balter would take out ads in the local papers against integration...Alvin Cobb was a friend of Banister. Mr. Cobb was a supporter of the KKK. [HSCA interview 1.27.78 Delsa & Robert Buras]

JOSEPH NEWBROUGH

The HSCA received a report from Guy Banister associate Joseph Newbrough that

A man that had been in the Federal Civil Service in New Orleans had been in Guy Banister's office on many occasions. This man, whose name he could not remember, was employed by or connected in some way to Mr. HUNT. The man was middle aged, lean, receding hairline, spoke with a Texas accent and always dressed well. He had an office or worked in with someone in the Pierre Marguette Building on Barone Street. He told Mr. Newbrough that he worked for the Hughes Tool Company, but Newbrough could never reach him at that company. Guy Banister told Newbrough that the man worked for H. L. Hunt. He once gave Banister some money to bring to Governor McKeithen or Shelby Jackson, in Baton Rouge, for their campaigns. The amount was not more than a thousand dollars or so, and it was somehow marked as going to an investigation into some such company as Pinrod Drilling. No investigation ever took place but this was a means to funnel money into State officials without anyone knowing about it. The man was not criminal or even bad intentioned, this was just the way some money was put into campaigns. This man used to sit around in the morning with a few regulars in Holsum's Cafeteria and have coffee. He knew the owner, Frank Manning, who was the Chief Investigator for the Attorney General of the State. [HSCA Memo 9.28.78 Buras]

HEMMING told this researcher: "The HUNT that was connected with Hughes Tool was someone else."

THOMAS EDWARD BECKHAM

On July 7, 1960, Jack S. Martin advised the FBI that Thomas Edward Beckham, age 17, was in California, allegedly passing fraudulent checks on his father's account. The FBI also reported: "The name Thomas Beckham never appeared during our investigation of the assassination of President Kennedy. However, on January 13, 1967 we received information that Garrison had located a witness, Thomas Beckham, who allegedly associated with OSWALD and assisted him in passing out leaflets." The FBI reported that Garrison had recruited a bunch of nuts jobs as witnesses and informants.

Our files contain a reference to a Thomas Edward Beckham of New Orleans who in 1962 was seeking funds for a religious group aiding Cubans. This man allegedly had a record with the New Orleans Police Department for being involved in such activities. In October 1962 this man's mother reported that he was then a patient in the mental ward of a hospital in New Orleans. The information that Thomas Beckham was one of Garrison's witnesses was furnished this Bureau by Jack S. Martin, who was one of the original instigators of Garrison's current probe. Jack S. Martin himself was a psychiatric patient in a New Orleans hospital. [FBI 62-109060-5950 1.3.68]

On October 19, 1962, Beckham's mother reported to the FBI that her son was on the third floor of the Charity Hospital in the mental ward. [FBI 62-109060-4407]

BANISTER UNSUITABLE FOR CIA EMPLOYMENT

On September 21, 1960, a memorandum for SSD FILE From Chief SB/2 Subject: Guy Banister Associates, Inc. #222918 F-SB/2 read:

1. Attention is invited to the attached thermo fax copy of a memorandum dated September 13, 1960.
2. The contents of the aforementioned memorandum were brought to the attention of Mr. Ned White, CCG/NC. White advised that after discussing the matter with Jack Southard it was decided for reasons indicated in the attached report CCG could not utilize the Subject concern. White requested that no further action be taken in this matter. He does not desire a formal report in this matter. As a matter of information, it should be noted that Mr. James O'Connell has furnished Commercial Cover Group with an alternative private detective company. [E. E. Kuhnke Memo for SSD File 9.21.60 Banister Sec. File NARA 1993:08.02.09:57:29:400060.]

In 1967 the CIA stated: "On this date copies of recent newspaper clippings with reference to the alleged involvement of William Guy Banister and his private detective agency in the current so-called 'New Orleans Kennedy Death Plot' which is under investigation by that city's District Attorney, were forwarded through channels to the Chief/SRS, together with Security Files on each (Guy Banister #EE-28810 and Guy Banister Associates, Inc. #222918). It was noted that Banister was of interest to OO/C in 1960 as a source of positive foreign intelligence and that interest in the use of Guy Banister Associates as a cover mechanism in August 1960 was dropped upon receipt of an unfavorable report from the field." [CIA OS M.D. Stevens 3.8.67 CIA 1338-1052]

JERRY MILTON BROOKS AND GUY BANISTER

The FBI:

Files of the New Orleans Office show that Jerry Milton Brooks was the Subject of an extensive extortion violation in which the Springfield Division was the origin and that he pleaded and was sentenced to three years probation. The files show that on March 27, 1961, Jerry Milton Brooks personally called at the New Orleans Office of the FBI and advised he had been in touch with Guy Banister and Maurice Gatlin and that, at their insistence, he had written to Communist Party New York City Headquarters on March 16, 1961. He also called at Communist Party Headquarters and spoke to the secretary who was situated on the third floor. He stated that he had inquired about membership in the Communist Party and at the insistence of Gatlin and Banister, had also subscribed to several publications. Brooks, at that time, gave every indication to the interviewing agent that he was mentally imbalanced. [FBI 62-109060-6057 p22]

CIA Office of Security indices results:

(Deleted) a New York Times newspaper clipping for November 9, 1966, entitled 'U.N. Plot Traced by ex-Minutemen.' It was reported that Jerry Milton Brooks, a former member of the Minutemen, testified in United States District Court in Kansas City, Missouri, that he had suggested to Robert B. DePugh, the national coordinator of the right-wing group, that cyanide be put in the air-conditioning of the General Assembly Building of the United Nations in New York City. Brooks was a government witness, but admitted that he had a police record - convicted of attempted burglary in 1948; burglary and larceny in 1950 and extortion in 1957. [CIA 40474 1.18.68]

During the trial of Minutemen leaders Robert B. DePugh, Troy Houghton, and Walter Patrick Peyson, Jerry Milton Brooks appeared as a Government witness who had infiltrated the Minutemen for one year. The organization suggested he give a lecture on assassinations to trainees at a weekend meeting of the Minutemen. After this lecture,

Jerry Milton Brooks approached Robert DePugh, the national coordinator of the Minutemen national, and suggested Jerry Milton Brooks purchase ten gallons of potassium cyanide for $56. According to Jerry Milton Brooks, a member of the Minutemen who was a New York State Policeman would use his credentials to gain entrance to the basement of the United Nations General Assembly Building. Jerry Milton Brooks said Robert DePugh suggested the group assassinate Senator J.W. Fulbright (Dem.-AK). He testified the Minutemen were in possession of unregistered automatic firearms and silencers. Robert DePugh was convicted, and sentenced to four years in prison. [NYT 5.2.67]

On March 15, 1967, Nick Carter of Kansas City, Missouri, overheard Jerry Milton Brooks at a pay telephone talking about the Kennedy assassination. Jerry Milton Brooks' conversation turned to the Minutemen, and he mentioned the name 'Doc' Gould. Elmer Andrew Gould claimed he was a conscientious objector during World War II. His claim was denied but by that time he was too old to be drafted. On January 15, 1963, W. D. Stevens, of U.S. Customs, received a call from an unidentified woman who stated that Elmer Gould had advanced $100 to Kenneth G. Graham to pay an individual named Charlie, (LNU), to kill Senator John W. Fulbright. "Charlie" absconded with Gould's $100. On March 15, 1967, Frank Belecky, area supervisor of the Kansas City, Missouri, Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, advised the FBI that Jerry Milton Brooks had become somewhat of a problem to the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Office recently

In that he apparently wants to do something to gain attention or notoriety. He recently attempted to make contact with Robert De Pugh by stating to an individual in contact with De Pugh that he, Brooks, had information which would 'blow the government's Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms case against De Pugh wide open.' Belecky further stated that for the past week or so he has had Brooks come to his office each morning and remain there until evening in order to keep him out of trouble." [FBI 89-43-6097, 6098]

Jerry Milton Brooks might have been mentally unstable - most informants are - but his information was valid. Banister was still spying on the Communist Party of the U.S.A. and still running operations.

GUY BANISTER'S ATTORNEY: MAURICE GATLIN

Maurice Brook Gatlin was born on January 12, 1903, at Century, Florida. He was a graduate of Tulane University, and had resided in New Orleans since 1944. He was active in politics, having served as hatchet man for one-time Louisiana Governor and U.S. Senator Huey Long. Thus Maurice Gatlin was appointed Chief Prosecuting Attorney of the Department of Revenue of the State of Louisiana, as well as special assistant to the Attorney General of Louisiana. [FOI/PA req. FBI #76,006] A source told the FBI that Gatlin "was known during the Huey Long regime in Louisiana as 'Long's character assassin' and that he had been used repeatedly to tear down the reputations of people disliked by the Longs, and had been protected by controlled courts." After leaving government, Maurice Gatlin functioned as a well-to-do New Orleans lawyer and an expert on Guatemalan affairs. One of Maurice Gatlin's clients told the FBI in 1949 that Maurice Gatlin asked him to join the Communist Party, to gather information about the Party and run it back to him: "Gatlin was supposed to arrange it so (deleted) could join the Party through some people that he knew." [FBI NO 100-14447-p2]

The CIA reported,

An 00 report of December 10, 1963 states that on October 13, 1963 Gatlin called an 00 office and said that riots were scheduled to occur in Guatemala, and added that he thought some CIA representatives there might be in danger. "He suggested that he be furnished the names of agents who were posing as members of the Communist organization so that he could prevent their being assassinated in error." He also suggested that CIA give him $75,000 to fund the assassination of 15 top Communist leaders in Latin America.

MAURICE GATLIN AND ROBERTO BARRIOS PENA

In May 1953 the New Orleans FBI Office sent Washington a cable that stated that Colonel Roberto Barrios Pena had visited the Bureau in the company of Maurice Gatlin. In the 1940's, Lieutenant Colonel Roberto Barrios Pena, born September 29, 1909, was the Commandant of the Guatemalan Military Academy. By 1947, he was an anti-communist, and a ranking Officer in the Guatemalan Army. Colonel Roberto Barrios Pena ran for Mayor of Guatemala City in 1948. In August 1952, Barrios "formerly held the position of Director of the School of Polytechnics under the present administration in Guatemala." On September 4, 1952, information was received by the FBI from the CIA that one "Roberto Barrios Pena, Guatemalan official of the anti-Communist Comité Ciuico Nacional (Deleted)." [FBI 64-200-213-128, 64-29230-5] By 1953 he was in exile in El Salvador. It was conveyed to Colonel Roberto Barrios Pena that Maurice Gatlin had been hired to introduce him to "the right people," by anti-Communist Guatemalans living in New Orleans. When the FBI agents asked Colonel Roberto Barrios Pena what information he wished to give them, Barrios then questioned Gatlin as to what Gatlin's purpose was in bringing him to the FBI." Maurice Gatlin said he wanted him checked out. When Barrios asked Maurice Gatlin what organization wanted him checked out, Maurice Gatlin responded he could not disclose its identity. Barrios commented that he was well-known to the State Department, and walked out of the meeting. After he left, Maurice Gatlin informed the FBI that Barrios was about to lead a revolutionary force against the Jacobo Arbenz Government within the next few weeks, and that Barrios had four trigger men with him as bodyguards in New Orleans. The FBI transmitted this information to the CIA, State Department and numerous other agencies. A CIA document stated: "Barrios was apparently called to the United States on May 18, 1953, by Maurice Gatlin, a lawyer in New Orleans, and arrived in New Orleans on May 20, 1953, where he stayed at the St. Charles Hotel. Barrios immediately got into contact with Gatlin at the National City Bank of Commerce Building, and Gatlin asked Barrios if he was ready to go to the New Orleans FBI and identify himself, so that the FBI could investigate him. Gatlin informed Barrios that if the results were favorable, everything would work out well, because there was a powerful company ready to supply $1 million to the movement headed by Barrios. Confident that the results of the investigation would be favorable, Barrios agreed to go to the FBI. He met a Mr. Gatshaw at the FBI offices and was questioned by him. After leaving the FBI offices, Barrios and Gatlin met with a Mr. Dunbar, who occasionally represents United Fruit Co. in New Orleans. They asked him for $1 million from the United Fruit Company in support of Barrios' intended revolutionary movement in Guatemala, but they were unsuccessful in obtaining any commitment. Barrios and Gatlin visited the air base near Pontchartrain, (type of base not further identified, although it is known that there is a large naval air base on this lake), where Captain Davis showed them two large transport planes, each of which had two 75mm. recoil-less rifles and two projectiles. Davis told Barrios that the planes were those which had been promised him, and that he would make arrangements for Barrios to get the planes out of the United States. Since it is believed that Barrios is engaged in fomenting revolutionary activity in Guatemala, it is requested that the FBI furnish this Agency with such information as it may have about him that would confirm or deny this belief. Information is also desired as the identity of the Captain Davis mentioned; he was described in the original report as Captain Davis, and so, he may be a national of some Latin American country. [CIA F82-0221/3]

The FBI received a report in June 1953 that Maurice Gatlin attempted to procure military aircraft and ammunition on behalf of Colonel Roberto Barrios Pena. Maurice Gatlin stated: "Sixteen trained Communist agents were in the Guatemalan Cabinet" and advised the FBI that the sponsor of his anti-Arbenz operation was General Claire Chennault. The FBI alerted U.S. Customs, and had its informant set up a meeting between Maurice Gatlin and another party who had, "previously been involved in one or more revolutionary plots, being connected in some manner with the procurement and transportation of arms to Cuba." The meeting never took place so U.S. Customs dropped the matter. DAVID PHILLIPS was asked if he knew Colonel Roberto Barrios Pena. He answered "How long ago is that? I don't remember." [PHILLIPS depo in Hunt v. Weberman] On November 27, 1953, Gatlin sent a letter to John Moore Cabot, Assistant Secretary of State regarding an article in Readers Digest. On March 3, 1954, Gatlin was interviewed by S.A. Milton Kaack. He told him he was aware of the CIA's intentions to invade Guatemala: "Two attempts have already been made by Castilla [sic] Armas, a colonel who was exiled from Guatemala, and presently resides in Honduras. Armas made his last attempt in March 1952, at which time his forces were wiped out and he, himself, was captured. Armas escaped, and is presently in exile. Armas is standing ready for another invasion. He has spent $3 million in the last year. Armas was in New Orleans three weeks ago and I talked with him at that time. He had money supplied by the CIA." The FBI determined that Maurice Gatlin should be referred to the CIA representative "with whom Gatlin is acquainted and to whom he has furnished some information. Maurice Gatlin then furnished the Agency with a document concerning Castillo Armas:

In Honduras the Castellistas continue making a lot of noise, having mobilized the radio and press, etc., high frequency transmitters announcing the next invasion...they have mobilized brigades of cars and trucks..." In March 1954 Maurice Gatlin told the FBI that he furnished the Agency intelligence on Guatemala, but commented that the CIA "was on probation" because its predecessor, the OSS, was "thoroughly infiltrated by Communists." Maurice Gatlin believed that Francisco Franco of Spain had used the appropriate techniques to fight Communism. On May 26, 1954, Agent L. F. Hannon of the Office of Naval Intelligence interviewed a source who was close to Gatlin. "(Deleted) noted that (deleted) coincided with the early Army careers of Bedell Smith and President Eisenhower. Both Smith and Eisenhower are considered to be close friends. This organization became a part of the Inter-American Confederation for the Defense of the Continent.

SALVADOR DIAZ VERSON

Salvador Diaz Verson, the head of military intelligence for President Fulgencio Batista, was Vice President of the Inter-American Confederation for the Defense of the Continent. Guy Banister was listed in publication of the Inter-American Confederation for the Defense of the Continent. [FBI NO 105-1456 circa 1960] Salvador Diaz Verson was also President of the Anti-Communist League of Cuba. He was the Chief of the Cuban National Police in 1933, and former Chief of the Cuban Military Intelligence Service from 1948 to 1952. CIA cables indicated he had traveled to Mexico City on November 18, 1963, on what he described as a "confidential Defense Department mission." After the assassination of President Kennedy Salvador Diaz Verson told the Mexican press that: "Mexican Police had determined OSWALD had contacted Sylvia Duran and had stayed in her home in Mexico City. He said Dr. Eduardo Borrell had told him that OSWALD, on the day after his arrival in Mexico City, had gone to a Mexican restaurant called El Caballo Blanco with Duran, where they met a functionary of the Cuban Embassy in Mexico City." [WCE2947] Eduardo Borrell told an FBI Agent that Salvador Diaz Verson had made up this story. Salvador Diaz Verson released his story that linked OSWALD and Fidel Castro in Mexico City, and he was questioned about it by FBI Legal Attaché Clark Anderson, whom Salvador Diaz Verson described as a friend. When the details of Salvador Diaz Verson's story began to change from interview to interview, Clark Anderson demanded he take a polygraph test. Salvador Diaz Verson retracted his story: "Mr. Diaz Verson was re-interviewed February 29, 1964, by our Miami Office (S.A. James O'Conner) and stated that Doctor Borrell Navarro is a Cuban exile and a former functionary of the regime of Fulgencio Batista. He said that Horatio Duran Navarro are Mexican citizens and bear no relationship with Dr. Borrell insofar as he knows. On February 29, 1964, Salvador Diaz Verson admitted to S.A. Edwin L. Sweet that he did furnish statements on January 4, 1964, and January 9, 1964, to S.A. James O'Conner, which are at variance with the details he furnished to S.A. Sweet on February 27, 1964." Clark Anderson was asked about Salvador Diaz Verson during a telephone conversation in 1993: "My hazy recollection is that we were friendly in Cuba." DAVID PHILLIPS stated: "I remember he was prominent, far to the right and either a newspaper editor or a radio/tv type involved somehow in politics. If I ever met him, I don't recall it, and I don't believe he worked for the Agency, but he might have indirectly." [CIA 501-200, 101-573] In 1978 BARKER was asked if he knew Salvador Diaz Verson. He responded: "I have heard that name before, but I never met the man personally or spoke with him." [Ltr. PHILLIPS to Hardway 5.3.78; WCD 378 - O'Conner; WCE 2947 O'Conner; CIA 478-783, 484-785; CIA ltr. to WC 1.29.64 re: Pres. of SDV in Mexico around 22 Nov. 1963; CIA 124-511, 501-200; WCD GA 1 FBI 2.21.64 Hoover to Rankin; FBI 62-109060-NR- 3.3.64 ltr. to Rankin]

Maurice Gatlin informed the FBI in February 1957 he had reliable information that Dr.

Jesus Galindez was alive and living in Mexico. The FBI was interested in Maurice Gatlin's information on Jesus Galindez because a similar report had reached the Bureau: "The Bureau's attention is directed to report of S.A. Clark D. Anderson dated June 20, 1956, at Havana." This report alleged Jesus Galindez was in Cuba. Its source was a convict trying to shorten his sentence. The CIA investigated Maurice Gatlin's charges. [CIA F82-0221/2] The Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas distributed pro-Trujillo literature and literature which attacked Jesus Galindez. The FBI reported: "Under date of August 22, 1956, the U.S. State Department furnished a copy of a pamphlet entitled 'The Case of ex-Spanish Republican and Communist Jesus de Galindez and the Dominican Republic,' dated July 1, 1958..." The pamphlet stated: "Finally, we must never forget that the Communists, of whom Jesus Galindez was undeniably one, are always under discipline, and of a type hardly understandable to the Christian and non-Communist. If Jesus Galindez be dead, it is likely that he met his death as retribution for not carrying out the orders of his Communist superiors. There is nothing in the history of personality of Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, or any other Dominican, that suggests that any citizen of our great neighbor, the Dominican Republic, would invade our shores and commit murder. It is an insult to our neighboring republic to even suggest that such might be true...Jesus Galindez repaid the hospitality given to him as a refugee by the Dominican Republic by slander and vilification of the Dominican Republic and its leaders, and particularly Generalissimo Trujillo, who stands with Francisco Franco as the greatest anti-Communist in action as well as words in the entire world." (Jesus Galindez was an FBI informant.)

As stated, Gerald Lester Murphy was the pilot who flew Galindez to the Dominican Republic. His parents resided in Eugene, Oregon. Maurice Gatlin wrote this to the FBI: "I am leaving today on a 'vacation' trip to Eugene Oregon to see what I can find out about the Murphy family, connected with the infamous Jesus de Galindez case."

The FBI reported:

At 5:00 p.m. December 11, 1957, (Deleted) Reporter, (deleted) telephonically contacted S.A. Lineham. He advised that he had just received information from a source he would not divulge, but which he said was from Washington, D.C., that Maurice B. Gatlin was in Eugene. He sought information as to whether the Portland Office was aware of Gatlin's presence; information as to his residence in Eugene and advised he was trying to locate him for interview. (Deleted) was politely informed this Bureau was unable to make any statement or furnish him with the requested information. At 8:30 p.m. December 11, 1957, Lt. (Deleted) telephonically informed S.A. Lineham that (deleted) just received a long distance call from (Deleted) stated that Maurice Gatlin was up to the night of December 10, 1957, in Eugene. (Deleted) said he was reporting the information due to the nature of same, and had instructed (Deleted) to make no reports on the call and to forget receiving same. In view of the apparent interest taken in Gatlin, and in the manner in which (Deleted) called, it is suggested the Bureau may wish to consider a contact with (Deleted). As per prior Bureau instructions no action is being considered concerning Gatlin. [FBI PD 100-9377 12.13.57 Enc. Three news items from Register Guard 12.10.57 W. H. Williams SAC; FBI 64-29230-85 w/h info pertaining to 3rd party]

This paragraph was contained in a document that dealt with the efforts of Lester G. Murphy, the father of Gerald Lester Murphy, to find out what happened to his son. Maurice Gatlin appeared at the Eugene, Oregon, office of the FBI and told S.A. John R. McCulloch that he "expected to be in Eugene for perhaps a month in connection with his investigation of the Galdinez case. Gatlin stated that because of his work he had many enemies, and his purpose in calling on the FBI was to advise that if he was found dead in Eugene, it was murder, not suicide." [FBI 64-29230-86 pg.12 w/h Paul G. Taylor; FBI 64-29230-87; FBI 116-452043-6 w/h] The CIA reported:

FBI reports on him cite sources who know him well as saying that he was insane and should have been committed. He duped Eduardo A. Morales, Consul General of the Dominican Republic in New Orleans, out of relatively large sums in the late 1950's. Morales seemed to have considered him an agent representing the interests of Trujillo, although Gatlin was not so registered with the Department of Justice. Gatlin used the aliases Edward Fairchild, James Cochrane, Robert Watson and Charles Everett. A typical episode occurred in November-December 1957, when Gatlin went to Eugene, Oregon, because he had a theory the Jesus

De Galindez (commonly believed to have been kidnapped in New York by Trujillo henchmen) was hiding out among Basque sheep-herders there. On December 2, 1957 Gatlin presented himself to an FBI special agent in Eugene and said, "if he was found dead in Eugene it was murder, not suicide."

LOBBYIST FOR TRUJILLO

In August 1957 Maurice Gatlin published a pro-Trujillo magazine. Maurice Gatlin set up secret meetings for the Dominican Consul General in New Orleans. That year the FBI opened a Registration Act investigation of Maurice Gatlin and the Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas. [FBI 64-29230-NR 3.31.59] Confidential Informant NO T-6 advised the FBI on April 27, 1957, that "he has known Maurice Gatlin for more than 20 years and has never had a good opinion of him. Gatlin is tricky and is personal coward. He is not well regarded by the other lawyers in New Orleans, and is considered a 'shyster of the first order.' His conduct as a member of the bar has never been considered normal. The fact that Gatlin lately has been distributing material, which for practical purposes is pro-Trujillo propaganda, leads to the supposition that he might be getting some money from the Dominican Government. However, the fact that Gatlin is absolutely crazy might account for his spending his own money in that regard. NO T-6 stated that he had no knowledge that Gatlin is, or has been, on the payroll of any foreign government. The informant related that he made it his business to look into the Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas, and he had been unable to find a single person in New Orleans or in Latin America who is connected with it other than Gatlin. The informant advised that he is convinced that Gatlin suffers from hallucinations since there is no other explanation for most of his actions.

Confidential Informant NO T-10 advised on April 26, 1957, that prior to October 1954, he was in frequent contact with Maurice Gatlin for a year or more. Gatlin was a self-proclaimed expert on Latin American affairs. He also considered himself a real student of the communist movement and an implacable enemy of communism. Being an extremely egotistical person, Gatlin's attitude was that he knew far more about both matters than did the State Department or the FBI.

In August 1957 Maurice Gatlin visited Puerto Rico, where Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt had sought political asylum after being overthrown by Marcos Jimenez Perez. Maurice Gatlin claimed Romulo Betancourt knew the whereabouts of Jesus Galindez. On October 14, 1957, Maurice Gatlin was arraigned in New Orleans Parish Criminal District Court and pleaded not guilty in "regard to action #157876." Maurice Gatlin purchased a car in Memphis, Tennessee, in November 1957 and registered it under the name, Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas. He paid $1000 down, in cash, and did not re-register the car in Louisiana. The car was repossessed when he failed to make monthly payments. Gatlin wrote an angry letter to the Civil Sheriff of New Orleans:

Last night, while I was ill, your office seized from my son, a 1958 DeSoto automobile, in your best 'cloak and dagger' manner...Associates Discount wanted this car, all they had to do, and they knew it, was to have their lawyer get in touch with me. Yesterday they had some non-lawyer get in touch with me and make an illegal proposition to me. Further, their non-lawyer gave me no official notice the draft given by the Committee was dishonored. As you know I am the only General Counsel for this Committee and the money is put up by a group of millionaires, mostly from Texas, and they are notoriously eccentric. When I heard about the seizure last night, I got in touch with the Chairman, and he hit the roof (rather violently). He has about twice as much money to play around with as the Associates Discount Corporation, he does not like finance companies, in general, and, particularly, dislikes Associates Discount Corporation, and would like nothing better than to see them out of business. What make millionaires act as they do is beyond me. [FBI 64-29230-77 pg 2 w/h]

The FBI checked Gatlin's bank account to discover the source of the money used to purchase the car. [FBI 64-29230-96, 97] On February 11, 1958, the State Department generated a 10 page document about Gatlin. [FBI 64-29230 NR 2.13.58; FBI 64-29230-88] On April 4, 1958, Maurice Gatlin was in contact with the Bureau for Suppression of Communism in Cuba. A confidential informant produced a copy of a telegram Maurice Gatlin sent the Bureau for Suppression of Communism in 1958:

To BRAC, Ctel (deleted) CDAD MTAR Havana, Cuba. We are seriously concerned with situation facing you. Twice before we have successfully extricated nations from similar Communist assaults. Rebels will not dare proceed against solid opposition of this nation which we can unofficially obtain. Urge immediate conference there with three of my operators. No other costs involved if not successful. Wire plane tickets for three immediately, positively will not deal with consular personnel, but with you alone. Signed Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas (Caribbean Division). [FBI 64-29230-89 4.7.58]

On June 10, 1958, the FBI concluded: "On the basis of data appearing in this and previously reports, Gatlin's mental instability seems to be well established...He would not appear to warrant further serious investigative attention and this case is therefore being closed." [64-29230-92] On March 30, 1959, Maurice Gatlin wrote this to the New Orleans office of the FBI:

In January 1959 myself [and an associate] visited Havana in a successful attempt to save the life of Ernesto de la Fe. Posing as journalists we were able to visit Dr. de la Fe at the notorious military prison, La Cabana, presided over by the notorious Argentinean physician, Ernesto Che Guevara, probably the most sadistic and dedicated Communist in the hemisphere. There we learned at first hand of the summary executions (mostly carried out in La Cabana in the Havana area) and the reign of terror through which the Cuban people are now passing. We also learned, through sources that I have found to be reliable, that Guevara and Celia Sanchez, designated No.1 and No. 2 respectively by Moscow, intend to liquidate their communist front man, Fidel Castro, around June or July, arranging his death so it will be attributed, of course, to a 'gringo' for propaganda purposes. [FBI 64-29230-95]

In February 1959 Maurice Gatlin advised United States Senator Allen J. Ellender (Dem. LA.) that he believed the Senator should introduce a bill cutting America's Cuban sugar quota to zero. Senator Ellender replied that 50% of Cuba's sugar cane fields were American-owned, but "if Castro were to confiscate properties belonging to American interests, then we might consider revising the quota...I hope your trip to Havana will be successful and that you come out of it unscathed."

In April 1959, Maurice Gatlin wrote to Senator Ellender and stated that he had learned from a reliable source that, because of his attack on Castro, Castro planned to have Senator Ellender killed. In June 1959 the FBI attempted to determine if Eduardo A. Morales, the General Counsel of the Dominican Republic, had paid for Gatlin's eye surgery. [FBI 64-29230 NR 6.15.59; FBI 64-29230 NR 6.9.59 p2-6 also p8] Gatlin had checked into Lenox Hill Hospital in New York City under a false name. That month FBI S.A. Carlyle N. Reed and WARREN C. DeBRUEYS began to investigate Gatlin's connection to "Nicaraguan Revolutionary Activities." [FBI 64-29230 NR 150 6.26.59; FBI 64-29230 NR 6.19.59] Much of this investigation was withheld. The investigation centered around a letter Gatlin had written in regard to a pro-Sandinista demonstration that had take place in New Orleans on June 13, 1959. A copy of the report was sent to the United States Customs Service. [FBI N.O. 100-14447 9.17.59] In September 1959 Gatlin was seen with Eduardo A. Morales. By September 1960 Maurice Gatlin was involved in anti-Castro activities, and he supplied two Southern Senators with information on jeep shipments to Fidel Castro: "Maurice Brooks Gatlin, General Counsel, Anti-Communist League of the Americas, a long time Castro antagonist, and Guy Banister, a former FBI agent and President of the Anti-Communist group, claimed that about 100 Jeeps were sent to Cuba through New Orleans in recent months under invoices marked as 'agricultural equipment.'"

GATLIN AND THE CUBAN REVOLUTIONARY FRONT 1961

In early January 1961 Maurice Gatlin ran an agent who later advised the FBI: "I attended two meetings of the anti-Castro group in New Orleans known as the Cuban Revolutionary Front, at the request of Mr. Gatlin, for the purpose of learning if they were truly anti-Castro, or if there appeared to be anyone attending who was not genuinely anti-Castro." This man might have been Jack S. Martin. The CIA advised the FBI in January 1961 that the New Orleans representative of the Cuban Revolutionary Front, Sergio Arcacha Smith, "may have furnished the data to Banister because of Banister's alleged connection with Maurice Gatlin, who heads the Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas in New Orleans, which publishes the Caribbean Newsletter. Gatlin's mental instability appears to be well established, and he has been described by one source as insane. Gatlin has described Banister in the newsletter as 'a former FBI agent and president of the Anti-Communist group.'" The FBI believed that Sergio Arcacha Smith had furnished data about the Cuban Revolutionary Front to Guy Banister who in turn supplied it to Gatlin. The Cuban Revolutionary Front was described as "an anti-Castro organization receiving the CIA's covert support." [FBI 105-87912-159] Maurice Gatlin gave the FBI a press release dated February 1, 1961, which attacked the Cuban Revolutionary Front.

Confidential. Note: The following is an exact duplication of a letter dated January 10, 1961, relative to the various organizations now working in the United States to overthrow the Castro Government. The source will be revealed on request and at my discretion. The letter is from one of the most experienced and knowledgeable of Cuban Ex-Intelligence Agents: 'I received your letter in relation to the activities of the Cuban Revolutionary Front in that city and am very pleased to inform you that this is one of the organizations that has come into being against Castro. They have had the luck of receiving good economic assistance from groups of North Americans and officials of that country. For this reason they look to be more important and they are able to maintain agents in many places. None of this group that today raise the banner of anti-Communism have heretofore concerned themselves with fighting Soviet Imperial Communism nor do they have any Anti-Communist background. Dr. Varona, Coordinator of this movement, is an old Cuban politician. He comes from the Authentic Party that was under the leadership of Dr. Carlos Prio. He has never been a Communist, nor has he ever been an anti-Communist. He appears to be a well-intentioned, although he is surrounded by many individuals who display a completely negative character. Manuel Artime was a member of the Rebel Army with Fidel Castro and was at his side for a long time; and, one day he left, arrived in Miami and proclaimed himself an Anti-Communist. He was accepted here and here he is. He is one of those who contributed to the coming of communism in Cuba." Sanchez Arrango was accused of being pro-Communist. The press release ended: "Note: The writer of the above mentioned letter is not motivated by 'sour grapes'; he is a man with long years of intelligence experience behind him and a journalist of note. He is a professional of the highest type, dedicated to fighting communism in our hemisphere, and an expert in how to do so. Wasting such professional ability while encouraging 'Johnny-come-latelies,' who not only have no experience, but are or may be interested only in taking over the power now held by Communist puppet Castro." On February 2, 1961, Sergio Arcacha Smith, head of the captioned organization in the New Orleans area advised that he did not furnish either the original or a copy of the "Cuban Consulate Code" to Guy Banister, New Orleans, nor did he furnish "a list of 350 names of the members of the subject organization as well as a list of Cubans who are attending Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge. Smith states that the reason he furnished this information to Guy Banister was primarily due to Banister's occupation as detective and a person who alleged that he was desirous of assisting subject organization as well as the backgrounds of Cuban students attending Louisiana State University. Smith states that he was influenced concerning Banister's sincerity to help subject organization in view of Banister's past positions as a Superintendent of the New Orleans Police Department as well as his past position as a Special Agent of the FBI. Smith, in response to inquiry, stated that he has never heard of an organization known as the Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas, nor did he have any information indicating that Guy Banister might possibly be a member of such organization. Smith also states that he does not know anyone named Maurice Gatlin who is allegedly an officer in the Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas. [FBI 105-87912-182 p2-4]

On April 9, 1961, the FBI, in a document captioned Cuban Revolutionary Front, stated: "(Deleted) Its representative in New Orleans is Sergio Arcacha Smith, a former Cuban official. Reymemorandum January 17, 1961, which advised (deleted). Memorandum also noted possibility (Deleted) connected with Maurice Gatlin, head of the anti-Communist Committee of the Americas, whose mental instability appears to be well established. (Deleted)" [FBI 64-27230 NR 167 2.14.61]

FBI S.A. DeBRUEYS interviewed Maurice Gatlin on February 13, 1961, about a statement he made in 1956 concerning the left-wing sympathies of CBS-TV newsman Edward R. Murrow: "Murrow, most suave of all the CBS commentators is well known for his espousal of left-wing causes. So far as is known, he had not been asked about his affiliations, past or present, by a Senate or other authorized governmental body. What his answer might be under such circumstances cannot therefore be stated. His position can only be surmised..." Maurice Gatlin told DeBRUEYS that he had not developed any direct information to substantiate this statement. Edward R. Murrow was the Subject of a 1,300-page FBI investigation. [FBI 161-296-68] On February 3, 1961, Guy Banister was questioned about Maurice Gatlin:

Banister stated that he is not a member, nor an officer, of the group known as the Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas. He explained that in connection with his investigating business, he had done some work for Maurice Gatlin, who is the general counsel of the Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas. He stated that he had learned of the existence of some surplus war equipment such as jeeps and trucks that were located on the riverfront in New Orleans, which were allegedly scheduled to be shipped to Cuba. He furnished this information to Gatlin, and charged for his services $1.00. He stated that this is the extent of his relationship and contact with the Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas. He added that any publication of Gatlin, or the Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas, reflecting him as an officer, was undoubtedly an impulsive act of Maurice Gatlin which did not have either his consent or his approval. He stated he has not seen any publication indicating that he is an officer in the Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas. Banister then related that he is a member of the Board of Directors of the Friends of Democratic Cuba, Inc. which he describes as a charitable organization chartered under the laws of the State of Louisiana whose primary purpose is to lend assistance to some 50 young Cuban girls who are political exiles and who were in need of material and financial assistance. According to Banister, insofar as he was aware, the organization known as the Friends of Democratic Cuba, Inc is still in existence. [FBI 105-87912-182]

S.A. DEBRUEYS AND MAURICE GATLIN

S.A. DeBRUEYS contacted informants about the Inter-American Confederation for the Defense of the Continent, but none was familiar with it. He contacted FBI S.A. Wallace Heitman, then working out of Mexico City. S.A. Wallace Heitman had nothing on Maurice Gatlin. DeBRUEYS contacted the CIA's Office of Security. The Office of Security replied that all its reports on Maurice Gatlin had originated with the FBI. S.A. Wallace Heitman was questioned about this investigation: "Now where did you get this information? February 1961? Gatlin? I don't recall."

S.A. DeBRUEYS reported in June 1961, that in April 1961, he contacted a confidential source abroad and discovered that the headquarters of the Inter-American Confederation for the Defense of the Continent was located in Mexico City. It "was founded by Jorge Prieto Laurens in 1956, and this organization is a hemisphere-wide organization dedicated to opposition of communism throughout the Western hemisphere." Wallace Heitman, the FBI Legal Attache in Mexico City was detailed to reinvestigate the connection of Maurice Gatlin to the Inter-American Confederation for the Defense of the Continent. S.A. Wallace Heitman related: "This agency had no record concerning Gatlin as being in any way connected to the Inter-American Confederation for the Defense of the Continent." [FBI 64-29230-115] On March 20, 1961, J. Walter Yeagley, Assistant Attorney General, Internal Security, requested that the FBI "attempt to ascertain whether there is such an organization as the Inter-American Confederation for the Defense of the Continent and if so, whether Subject, in fact, is general counsel for the Caribbean Division and is receiving from or writing political propaganda for a the foreign principal for dissemination within the United States." In May 1961, S.A. DeBRUEYS investigated Maurice Gatlin and the Inter-American Confederation for the Defense of the Continent for not having registered as agents of the Dominican Republic. Wallace Shanley recalled: "When Batista fled the Dominican Republic he had a bunch of generals with him. He said, 'Here generals, I'm leaving five million dollars here. You can use this fund. I'll channel it through the Dominican Consul and it will be available to you in the United States for your activities.' That once caused me to arrest the Dominican Consul." On May 2, 1961, the FBI sought to examine CIA Security File No. EE2-9674, Maurice B. Gatlin, for a name check. [CIA F82-0221/1] On June 19, 1961, the FBI reported that Maurice Gatlin sent condolences to the family of Raphael Trujillo after he was assassinated. [FBI 109-12-211-769] The Nicaraguan Government honored Maurice Gatlin on July 23, 1961, for his struggle against communism with its top award for foreigners. The citation from President Anastasio Somoza certified the decoration was the highest Nicaragua "bestows upon the sincere friends that have rendered meritorious services." On August 29, 1961, Maurice Gatlin was guest speaker at a meeting of J. B. Stoner's National States Rights Party.

MAURICE GATLIN AND MIGUEL YDIGORAS FUENTES

Maurice Gatlin apprised the FBI in January 1955 that he had been in contact with Castillo Armas and that Armas was contemplating the assassination of one of his own generals. Maurice Gatlin was able to obtain special concessions from the Guatemalan Government at this time. In April 1962 Maurice Gatlin apprised the "that several years ago, at the time that Jacobo Arbenz was Guatemalan President, he, Gatlin, saw in New Orleans, some plans designed to overthrow the Arbenz regime. Gatlin states that a source, who he declined to identify, but who (deleted) and who, in Gatlin's opinion, (deleted) was to put these plans into effect against the Arbenz regime." A Domestic Intelligence Division Informative Note dated April 9, 1962, stated "(Deleted) furnished Boston Office letter he received April 3, 1962, wherein Maurice Gatlin alleged he had personally observed plans to overthrow the Guatemalan Government between April 20, 1962, and April 25, 1962...In view of serious allegations, New Orleans authorized to interview Gatlin." Gatlin told the FBI:

I have had an opportunity to look at the actual plans of what is going to happen in Guatemala (and I had no part in making such plans as they were shown to me gratuitously) and if the plans are carried out, the all-out drive to overthrow Ydigoras may be expected between April 20, 1962, and April 25, 1962. The thing will be an all out, full scale, revolt backed by the Army. While it will also have Communist backing, the Communists will only be going along for the ride, with the hope they can take over. Those who have planned the operation and will also carry it out barring some unforeseen change - such as CIA interference - are non-Communists and friendly to the United States, as well as strictly anti-Castro. Ydigoras regime is rotten and corruption ridden and the people of Guatemala say he must go. They also say he has a hand in diplomatic narcotics smuggling. There is to be a general demonstration by university students. When the military is called upon by President Ydigoras to put down these demonstrations, the military will take no action, at which time it will become obvious to Ydigoras that he had lost control. At this point a coup d'etat will take place. Maurice Gatlin states his source is friendly toward the U.S. and will probably be next President of Guatemala. He declined to identify his source, but described him later as a former Army man. [FBI 64-43778-5]

This information was furnished to the CIA. On March 21, 1962, J. Walter Yeagley, Assistant Attorney General, Internal Security Division, determined that Maurice Gatlin was not obligated to register under the Foreign Agents Registration Act: "The information furnished shows that the Subject Gatlin endorsed and cashed checks which were issued in the Dominican Republic in favor of the Consul of that government in New Orleans. There is no indication, however, as to the purpose of the Subject Gatlin's connection with his receipt of money." [FBI 64-29230-125] From December 1962 to January 1963, Maurice Gatlin was the Subject of another Bureau investigation, the contents of which (16 pages) was withheld - including the caption of the document. By this time the FBI refused to interview Maurice Gatlin. [FBI 116-452043-6 - Charles M. Kokes]

THE DEATH OF MAURICE GATLIN

Maurice Gatlin suffered a mysterious demise. According to Ramparts magazine, Maurice Gatlin was pushed from a hotel window while visiting Panama. My research indicated he died in Puerto Rico on Friday May 28, 1965. #### GUY BANISTER ASSOCIATE: DeLESSEPS MORRISON

DeLesseps Story Morrison was born on January 12, 1912. DeLesseps Morrison was a graduate of Louisiana University who opened a law office with Hale Boggs in 1935. DeLesseps Morrison won national attention in 1946 when at age 34 he became the Mayor of New Orleans. The FBI heard allegations in June 1961 that Mayor DeLesseps Morrison was involved in "payoffs and suppression of law enforcement." He served four terms before he was appointed United States Ambassador to the Organization of American States in July 1961. In August 1961, DeLesseps Morrison and Douglas Dillon led the U.S. delegation to the Inter-American Economic and Social Conference at the Uruguayan city of Punta del Este, where the issue of expelling Cuba from the Organization of American States was discussed. DeLesseps Morrison was questioned by the FBI in December 1961: "He stated that he had known (deleted) since his first or second visit to the Dominican Republic, at which time (deleted) had been utilized as a liaison man in discussions with (deleted)." In January 1962 Cuba was expelled from the Organization of American States. Haiti cast the decisive vote. DeLesseps Morrison visited Haiti in February 1962 and offered American aid in the construction of a new airport. In May 1962 he was the Subject of another State Department and FBI investigation for "apparently exceeding his authority when furnishing information" to a representative of the Dominican Republic. The State Department interviewed a former member of the Dominican Intelligence Service, but he was "not in possession of any significant information concerning Morrison and the allegations of bribery and payoff in this case." During this investigation, the FBI questioned an unnamed individual who had been arrested for interstate transportation of $80,000 worth of stolen U.S. Treasury Bonds. This individual denied having direct knowledge of any payments to Ambassador DeLesseps Morrison, although he "claimed hearsay knowledge of (deleted), but refused to furnish details." When the investigation by the State Department was completed, a security official advised the FBI that a determination about DeLesseps Morrison was about to be made on a very high level. State Department legal advisor Abram Chayes wrote J. Edgar Hoover that U.S. Ambassadors "have a certain personal discretion in communicating information to representatives of foreign governments," and therefore no final judgment was rendered. DeLesseps Morrison resigned as Ambassador to the Organization of American States in order to run for Governor of Louisiana. In December 1963 Morrison was the Subject of an extortion attempt that involved the Kennedy assassination. [FBI 100-10461-1492]

THE DEATHS OF DELESSEPS MORRISON AND HUGH WARD

On May 22, 1964, a plane was reported overdue in Victoria, Mexico. Aboard were Ambassador DeLesseps Morrison, pilot Hugh Ward, who was secretary treasurer of Guy Banister Associates, a child, and four others: "Shortly after 11:00 a.m. it was reported that a pilot had sighted what he believed to be the wreckage of the plane. A little later, the report was confirmed. U.S. search and rescue aircraft...arrived at the crash scene...The bodies of the pilot and passengers, seven in all, were taken to Ciudad Victoria and there placed aboard a U.S. Coast Guard airplane, then flown to New Orleans. The bodies were unidentifiable. The pilot of the Coast Guard plane, the Mexican Civil Aviation inspector, and various private pilots, stated that the destruction was the most complete they had ever witnessed." The plane had struck a hillside at full force. #### BANISTER ASSOCIATE: WILLIAM DAVID FERRIE

According to Captain Neville Levy, as quoted in Counterplot [Wardlaw & James p36] David Ferrie engaged in gun smuggling to Castro and raising money for the 26th of July Movement in 1958. David Ferrie allegedly carried a loaded gun while fund-raising for Fidel. No evidence of this appeared in Ferrie's FBI file. The initial traces on David Ferrie revealed that while in Miami in August 1959, he was put under 24-hour surveillance by Customs agents who suspected he was engaged in smuggling weapons to anti-Castro forces. Following a brief investigation, that included wiretaps, David Ferrie persuaded the FBI that he had planned an outing for his Civil Air Patrol cadets. On September 15, 1960, Mr. Arthur W. Koon, Federal Aeronautics Administration Tower, Moisant Airport, told the FBI that

About a month and a half previously, a Mrs. John F. Barrett of Jefferson Parish, Louisiana, a former secretary in his office, had told him that her 14-year-old son had been influenced to join an organization called 'Omnipotent.' She stated he had been influenced by a 19 or 20-year old boy whose name is unknown to her. In effect, Mrs. Barret allegedly told Mr. Koon that members of that organization had to swear allegiance and obedience to the 19 or 20-year-old boy and that the purpose of this organization was to train people concerning what they should do in the event of an all-out attack against the United States...a 'Dr. Ferrie' was behind this organization. [FBI 105-104340-1 same as 62-0-61428]

On October 3, 1960, David Ferrie supplied S.A. Warren C. DeBrueys with information that concerned a "Possible ITSP OO: Albuquerque." [FBI 87-52503-6] David Ferrie was investigated for possible Interstate Transportation of Stolen Property in October 1960. The FBI Agent in charge of his case was S.A. WARREN C. DeBRUEYS. Ferrie began to work with the Cuban Revolutionary Front in November 1960. In early 1961 David Ferrie recruited a boy he had met in the Civil Air Patrol named Layton Martens, to work with Sergio Arcacha Smith and Guy Banister in the Cuban Revolutionary Front. On January 31, 1969, ANGLETON stated that Layton Martens "is not and has not been an employee or associate of CIA. The Cuban Revolutionary Front was created in May 1960 with CIA assistance. In October 1961 it was absorbed by the Cuban Revolutionary Council. Sergio Arcacha Smith was the Revolutionary Front delegate in New Orleans before the Bay of Pigs, and held this position until the Cuban Revolutionary Front ceased to function in October 1961." Layton Martens told the HSCA: "Sometime in 1961 Ferrie asked for volunteers to assist him in raising funds for Cuban Nationals in New Orleans...He checked the local FBI office and was assured by a Mr. Wall...that one Sergio Arcacha Smith, in an organization identified as the Cuban Revolutionary Front, was authentic...I met Guy Banister in his office in the Balter Building. His job was to receive information from Sergio Arcacha Smith, and as a result of the information obtained from Sergio Arcacha Smith, I then marked locations on various maps he had in his possession." According to Layton Martens, the markings were missile sites.

Why was a teenager entrusted with this information vital to our national defense? Layton Martens told the HSCA that he, David Ferrie, and two other men, drove to a location outside New Orleans and removed some green boxes: "While driving back to New Orleans, one of the men opened one of the boxes and took out a chrome colored tube and some soft material which he molded around the tube. He then threw the tube out of the open car window and about 30 seconds later there was an explosion." [HSCA Martens interview with William Brown 1.24.78] Layton Martens and David Ferrie were indirectly associated with the CIA in 1961. Layton Martens commented, "It's not true."

David Ferrie, who owned an airplane and frequently flew to Cuba and Guatemala, assembled an anti-Castro arsenal. There were unverified reports that Sergio Arcacha Smith received funds from David Ferrie. At his request, Sergio Arcacha Smith wrote a letter to the superiors of David Ferrie at Eastern Airlines requesting paid leave for David Ferrie, so that he could devote all his time to the Cuban Revolutionary Front. The request was denied. Despite this, Ferrie's vacation coincided with the Bay of Pigs invasion. In May 1961 David Ferrie gave a speech in which he announced that JFK should be shot for his "double-cross" of the Cuban exiles during the Bay of Pigs invasion. David Ferrie was introduced as a pilot who took part in the invasion, but was prevented from landing because of heavy ground fire. American pilots had participated in OPERATION PUMA, which was part of the Bay of Pigs invasion scenario, but the name of David Ferrie did not appear in any CIA records that concerned contract employees. On February 25, 1963, Senator Everett Dirksen (Rep.-IL) announced that four U.S. fliers were killed in the invasion. [Wyden BOP Untold Story fn 278] David Ferrie told the FBI: "At time of Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba he was very much embarrassed and concerned over lack of air cover provided and severely criticized President Kennedy both in public and in private...Ferrie said he is very outspoken and may have used an offhand or colloquial expression 'He ought to be shot' in expressing his feelings concerning the Cuban situation." [FBI 62-109060-?-12.6.63] David Ferrie explained to the group that he addressed that his ties to the invasion came through the New Orleans chapter of the Cuban Revolutionary Council.

David Ferrie was arrested in Jefferson Parish, New Orleans, on August 8, 1961, for contributing to the delinquency of a juvenile. On August 11, 1961, David Ferrie was arrested for extortion, engaging in homosexual behavior with a 15-year-old boy, and indecent behavior with three others. Authorities with the Jefferson Parish Sheriff's Office entered his home with a search warrant on August 22, 1961; they found munitions and maps of the Cuban coast. The legal defense of David Ferrie was handled by Attorney G. Wray Gil. Guy Banister worked on the Ferrie case as a private investigator for G. Wray Gil. Upon searching his home, the police found rifles, ammunition and two miniature submarines. The FBI interviewed David Ferrie on August 22, 1961. He apprised the Bureau that "he has been working with, and assisting, the Cuban Revolutionary Front, which is under the leadership of Sergio Arcacha Smith, 207 Balter Building, New Orleans, Louisiana, off and on since November 1960. He further informed that the miniature submarines in his basement are being constructed for the Cuban Revolutionary Movement, for their use in getting food stuffs, medical supplies etc. to Cuba. Ferrie advised that he has never solicited any weapons or ammunition for the Cuban Revolutionary Front and has never attempted to purchase any such equipment for that organization. The Cuban Revolutionary Front is an anti-Castro organization with headquarters in Miami, Florida." [FBI 62-109060-4344, 62-109060-4535; CIA 1363-501]

Layton Martens, who was allegedly a roommate of David Ferrie, was arrested on August 30, 1961, for vagrancy pending investigation of burglary by the New Orleans Police Department. Layton Martens commented, "No for god sakes, I was never Ferrie's roommate. [On November 25, 1963, Layton Martens told the FBI he had lived with David Ferrie since November 17, 1963, when his mother threw him out of her house.] I did borrow his apartment when he was out of town, for about seven to nine days. I was never arrested. I don't have any criminal record. Whoever told you that is full of shit." Jack Wasserman, a lawyer for MARCELLO, represented Layton Martens in this case. Layton Martens stated, Oh bullshit, I didn't know any Jack Wasserman. It's about time I get a lawyer and start defending myself. If you print this stuff I'm going to sue! I'm a media figure. I'm a member of the Screen Actors Guild. You're putting your hand in my pocket, you're hurting me professionally. Where do you get these documents from? I need to get down to the Feds and say look, 'I want to know who gave him this information.' Maybe I should sue? Could I get your name, address and phone number. Spell your name. W-e-b-e-r-m-a-n? That's a nice Irish name. Orthodox? That's a nice address, 6 Bleecker Street. I gotta get to New York sometimes. Marchello needs repairin' bout the only place I could get it done. What's your phone number?

I asked Layton Martens what he meant by "Marchello needs repairing." He responded, "My cello needs repairing. Come on Alan, you've been doing this for too long. What's your phone number? You talk like a New Yorker. You gonna print all this stuff?" I responded, "I'm going to print that you're an anti-Semite and a scumbag!" Layton Martens responded: "All I can tell you is, God have mercy on us all."

Shortly after its interview with David Ferrie on August 22, 1961, the FBI sent the CIA a Letter Head Memorandum about David Ferrie that stated, "Five copies of this memorandum are furnished to the Bureau in the event the Bureau desired to furnish on or more copies of the enclosed letterhead memorandum to CIA in view of the references contained herein concerning the New Orleans Cuban Revolutionary Front at New Orleans." There was no indication the CIA responded. The FBI determined that the activities of David Ferrie on behalf of the Cuban Revolutionary Front and the Cuban Revolutionary Council did not merit investigation regarding possible violations of the Neutrality Act, since these organizations were funded by the United States Government. Instead, the FBI recommend that the Federal Aeronautics Administration revoke the registration of Ferrie's private plane, and take some action to prevent him from flying commercial airplanes.

Former CIA operative Victor Marchetti reported that David Ferrie was a CIA contract employee. Many of David Ferrie's flights to Cuba allegedly took off from CIA-controlled Swan Island. The Agency ran traces in 1967 on all the major figures in New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison's investigation. Most of the traces came up "(deleted) no record." David Ferrie's was RI no identifiable traces," followed by "No additional substantive information. Subject is dead." [CIA 1442-492-AK] In an earlier FBI document the CIA observed it came across numerous Office of Security traces on him. [CIA 1233-518] When he was arrested, police allegedly found three blank, stamped passports in his possession. [Wardlaw & James Plot pp44-46]

The FBI received information on October 16, 1961, from Senior Patrol Inspector Windle G. Roach, U.S. Border Patrol, that in September 1961 David Ferrie told Eastern Airlines steward John Harris that he had been trying to purchase "a C-47 airplane for $30,000 and that he had a arms cache in the New Orleans area....John Harris advised that Captain Ferrie has a group of young boys whom he supports and controls completely...[George Woodcock, Andrew Blackmon, Al Landry and Layton Martens.] Harris related that approximately a month ago he observed the trunk of Ferrie's car loaded with hand grenades. He stated that later that same day Ferrie brought two of the hand grenades to his apartment and that he asked Ferrie to take the hand grenades out of the apartment. He stated he did not know the source from which Captain Ferrie obtained the hand grenades or the purpose for which he obtained them." [FBI 105-104340-3, 105-104340-1] On August 30, 1961, Layton Martens was interviewed by the FBI after his arrest for vagrancy, pending an investigation of burglary by the New Orleans Police Department. Layton Martens said his arrest was connected with David Ferrie's arrest for indecency. On September 22, 1961, the FBI recommended to the Federal Aeronautics Administration that David Ferrie's pilots' license be revoked because of violations of the Neutrality Act.

To: Mr. DeLoach October 25, 1961
From: M. A. Jones
Subject: David William Ferrie
331 Atherton Street
Metairie, Louisiana
Information Concerning

On the morning of October 25, 1961, "(deleted) called at the Bureau and spoke with S.A. James R. Healy, Crime Research Section. (Deleted) stated that he is employed by the (deleted) Company and is in Washington on business. (Deleted) stated he was concerned about David Ferrie, whom he fears has become deeply involved in anti-Castro activities in the New Orleans area. He stated his information came from (deleted) and he is not sure of its complete accuracy. He described (deleted) Ferrie as a Ph.D. with a brilliant mind, but who has behaved in a peculiar fashion and has 'gone off the deep end' at times. While he feels his (deleted) activities are motivated by patriotism, he does not want to see him become involved in anything that would injure the United States. He stated his purpose in coming to the FBI was as a good loyal citizen with the welfare of the nation paramount in his mind. He requested that if any contact with made by with Bureau with Ferrie that his name as a source be held in the strictest confidence. He was assured that would be done.

Bufile 62-0-61428 reflects that David William Ferrie has been very active in the Cuban Revolutionary Front, New Orleans, Louisiana, has possessed firearms and other equipment in his Metairie, Louisiana home and that he was interviewed by Bureau Agents on August 22, 1961. Interview and background information developed strongly suggests that Ferrie, a former Eastern Airlines pilot, is a crackpot, a description used by acquaintances to describe Ferrie. A preliminary Bureau investigation under a possible Neutrality Act character failed to indicate existence of any neutrality matter violation by Ferrie. [FBI 105-104340-2]

David Ferrie resolved many of his legal difficulties. In February 1962 he was tried for extortion and acquitted. The other charges were nolle prosequi in November 1962. David Ferrie was suspended from his job at Eastern Airlines on August 26, 1961. David Ferrie attempted to get back his job at Eastern Airlines after the courts cleared him. In August 1963, a hearing was held at the Eastern Airlines offices in Miami. Layton Martens testified to David Ferrie's good character. Guy Banister did the same, but was unable to explain the vituperative remarks David Ferrie made in 1961 against President Kennedy. David Ferrie was not reinstated. Layton Martens stated, "I never been to any Eastern Airlines Hearing. Where do you get all this shit?" It was pointed out the HSCA was the source: "You gotta be shittin' me? My name was in that report? What would I be doing with Eastern Airlines?"

FERRIE FLIES MARCELLO TO THE UNITED STATES

HEMMING told this researcher:

The MARCELLO deal was completely fucking separate of anything else. This is what Garrison couldn't get straight. The whole deal with Ferrie and all that kind of bullshit was a separate operation.

An unconfirmed Border Patrol report dated February 16, 1962 alleged David Ferrie piloted CARLOS MARCELLO back to the United States from El Salvadore: "Information was received [from Eric Crouchet] that it was common knowledge among former Civil Air Patrol Cadets that David Ferrie brought CARLOS MARCELLO into the United States." [Border Pat. Rep. Patrick Duvall] This allowed David Ferrie to establish a relationship with the MARCELLO crime family.

GUY BANISTER'S FILES

The HSCA learned that Guy Banister left extensive files when he died in 1964. Later that year, they were purchased by the Louisiana State Police from the widow of Guy Banister. According to Joseph Cambre of the Louisiana State Police, OSWALD'S name was not the Subject of any file, "but it was included in a Fair Play for Cuba Committee file...The HSCA was not able to review Guy Banister's files, since they had been destroyed pursuant to an order by the Superintendent of the Louisiana State Police that all files, not part of the public record, or pertinent to ongoing criminal investigations, be burned." Scott Malone stated that he located the files. The index cards to the files contained this title: "Jose Aléman." The name of Aurelio Sanchez Arrango was there. He was a member of the Cuban Revolutionary Front and of the Cuban Revolutionary Council, and head of the group, Triple A. Arrango was an associate of HEMMING who knew Sam Benton. Benton was a mobster who funded the Lake Pontchartrain IAB/INTERPEN training camp and purchased a boat for the INTERPEN crew. The name Cuban Democratic Revolutionary Front (Cuban Revolutionary Front) was present. On this card were the names Sergio A. Smith, Manuel Gil, Tony Varona and Arnesto N. Rodriguez Sr. and William T. Butler, aka Edward Butler, free lance anti-Communist, was listed on another card, as was Nathan Weyl. [CIA FOIA 06739 12.15.60; HEMMING HSCA Test.] The file list included titles like Negro Birth Statistics, as well as the names of New Orleans Rabbis. The one document from Guy Banister's files that survived was a memorandum to a Naval Intelligence Reserve Officer. It specified, "We have cut across a CIA operation in the Taca Airline Affair." Taca was the national airline of El Salvador. When CARLOS MARCELLO was deported from Guatemala on May 3, 1961, he was unable to purchase an airplane ticket to the United States from Taca International Airlines. The company refused to sell it to him. Because of this refusal, the Guatemalan Government subsequently suspended Taca Airline's right to operate in Guatemala. [NO 92-36/(deleted)]

GUY BANISTER AND CARLOS MARCELLO

By late 1962 or early 1963 Guy Banister was an investigator on the payroll of CARLOS MARCELLO. Guy Banister once declared that gangsters like CARLOS MARCELLO were "criminals protected by those very forces who have a sworn duty to exterminate them. The criminal can control the government. Corruption breeds discontent. It creates a cynical attitude on the part of the people. It destroys the faith of the people in their government." After November 22, 1963, the FBI questioned Guy Banister at 544 Camp Street. Guy Banister said that Arcacha Smith of the Cuban Revolutionary Council once told him he had an office at 544 Camp Street. [WCE 1414; WCD 638] The FBI: "For added information, Mr. Guy W. Banister, a former Special Agent in Charge of this Bureau never contacted this Bureau after the assassination to report that he was personally acquainted with OSWALD. We feel certain that had Mr. Banister had previous contact with OSWALD before the assassination, he would have immediately contacted this Bureau and reported such information."

DeBRUEYS QUESTIONED ABOUT BANISTER AND OSWALD

When WARREN C. DeBRUEYS testified before the SSCIA, he was questioned about his investigation of OSWALD. In a memorandum to the FBI about his testimony, S.A. DeBRUEYS wrote:

When it became known that OSWALD was endeavoring to open a Chapter of the New Orleans Fair Play for Cuba Committee, investigation of his activities under the Fair Play for Cuba Committee was instituted by the New Orleans Division. Investigation conducted by me relative to OSWALD'S Fair Play for Cuba Committee activities caused me to conclude that he was the sole member of the New Orleans Chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee...I was asked if I knew the Fair Play for Cuba Committee address used by OSWALD in New Orleans. The committee mentioned the address of 544 Camp Street, and it occurred to me that such an address had been used, at least on literature, by OSWALD. I was asked if I didn't find it strange that OSWALD had the same address as Guy Banister. I remarked that my recollection was that 544 Camp Street was a building in which there were quite a number of offices, including that of possibly Guy Banister, and that accordingly I would not find that very strange. I added that, if the Fair Play for Cuba Committee did, in effect, actually have an office at that address, it would have been a different office than the one shared by Banister. I rather suspect that the Fair Play for Cuba Committee did not have an office at that address. It would have been absolutely ridiculous for a member of the Louisiana State Sovereignty Commission...a former FBI SAC who, subsequent to his retirement from the FBI, had held a high post in the New Orleans Police Department...as was Banister, to share an office with an individual who was openly touting the Fair Play for Cuba Committee...The idea is so ludicrous as to discourage any further thought...It was pointed out that OSWALD had at no time been employed by any sensitive industry, nor had he any other contacts indicating he was engaged in any intelligence operations. In short, it could have been that he was a rather disoriented individual, with bizarre ideas, who conceivably had a cursory understanding of, and perhaps a preference for, a foreign ideology. I suggested that investigation of OSWALD, both in New Orleans and in the territory covered by the FBI Dallas Division, had probably demonstrated OSWALD to be a loner and one who had little or no contact of any significance aside from the alleged contact at the Soviet Embassy, Mexico City.

QUESTIONS DeBRUEYS WOULD HAVE NORMALLY ASKED

S.A. DeBRUEYS told the SSCIA that the thought that OSWALD may have been a right-wing operation that targeted the Fair Play for Cuba Committee never crossed his mind, yet certain facts could not have been overlooked by someone with S.A. DeBRUEYS background.

1. S.A. DeBRUEYS discovered that OSWALD was the sole member of the New Orleans Fair Play for Cuba Committee. By definition, no organization has one member. This meant the organization was bogus. The next question that S.A. DeBRUEYS should have asked was: "Who ran this bogus operation? Was OSWALD a loner, or were the Communists generating support for Castro where there was none, by creating a shell organization? Was it a one man anti-Castro operation, a sting operation to trap Castro double agents?" In the convoluted world of intelligence and counter-intelligence, nothing is accepted prima facie.

DeBRUEYS was questioned about this in 1993: "I think maybe something like that would have been pretty obvious. In retrospect, my only concern was a short inquiry on him, which I did more in depth than was required at the time. His identity, his employment, his resident address, contacts with Communist Party and Marxist group sources - there was no contact. I think I did beyond what was necessary at the time. After that happened, I didn't have anything more to do. I sent that thing back to New York, which was the office of origin. We had no further work to do unless the New York office or Headquarters had us open a Foreign Agents Registration Act case."

S.A. DeBRUEYS was asked if A.J. Hidell had aroused his suspicions. He stated, "When you mention that, I remember distinctly that from the literature he had sent into Fair Play for Cuba Committee Headquarters, he had listed one Fair Play for Cuba Committee member that he was requesting a charter for, A.J. Hidell. I checked the hell out of him. My conclusion was, and that's why I gave more of a check than usual, he was fictitious. The guy was a ding-a-ling really, the guy made so damned many mistakes if he'd have been a - frankly I don't think even the Russians - he was a little on the bizarre side. Some [informants] have a great deal of dexterity, and he didn't. And to risk somebody in international security work, espionage? There was nothing he did that suggested at that time there was any need to go beyond what we did."

2. S.A. DeBRUEYS knew the address found on OSWALD'S pamphlet, after OSWALD'S arrest in New Orleans, was 544 Camp Street, a center of anti-Castro activity. If OSWALD had opened a Fair Play for Cuba Committee office there he would have been assaulted by angry, frustrated Cuban exiles, unless the Fair Play for Cuba Committee was a Cuban exile operation. If OSWALD was an operation, the idea that he shared an office with Banister was not "ludicrous as to discourage further thought."

In 1993 DeBRUEYS was asked why OSWALD would operate out of a center of anti-Castro activity:

The same way he went into BRINGUIER'S store one day posing as an anti-Castro Cuban and the next day he was barefaced giving out pamphlets, which hardly suggests the guy was any kind of undercover agent. He was impulsive and compulsive. He acted on the spur of the moment and I don't think he gave any thought to what he was doing. I could see nothing that would open any doors for him if he was an espionage agent. Actually it would have closed them. Well of course another case was opened on him, as I recall, by somebody else.

3. S.A. DeBRUEYS knew OSWALD was a defector and that defectors were suspect of being something other than what they seemed and in later testimony he Pointed out that the Soviets are a highly suspicious people and as OSWALD conceivably could have been considered a 'walk-in' and potential American defector, both the Cubans and the Russians would have viewed him with considerable suspicion. Qualifying that I could be entirely mistaken, I did mention that I recollect that through some Government source (the Bureau's or otherwise) that information had been available indicating the members of the Cuban Embassy in Mexico City were highly suspicious of Oswald's visit to the Cuban Embassy there. The Soviets would logically also have been dubious about Oswald's visit to their Embassy. It would have been quite normal then for the Soviets to assign an intelligence operator to interview OSWALD rather than a foreign service officer, as an intelligence operator would have had training that would permit him better to discern whether OSWALD was a legitimate 'defector potential' or a 'walk in' seeking to pose as such. Also a significant portion of a large number of Soviet diplomatic missions are staffed by intelligence operators. In short, the fact that it had been determined or may have been known that the party with whom Oswald had talked during the visit to the Soviet Embassy in 1963 was a KGB officer isn't necessarily significant. The fact that I, as an agent of the FBI, do not at this time recognize as a KGB officer the name of the Russian official listed in the aforementioned FBI communication whom Oswald contacted in Mexico City is not pertinent. I explained that I was not an expert concerning Soviet intelligence operations. I also explained that the Legal Attaché Mexico City, communication directed to the Bureau would in the normal course of events be reviewed by the Soviet Desk of the Bureau Headquarters and supervisory personnel there would certainly know whether or not the individual named I the Legal Attaché communication was a known intelligence agent and could very well appraise whether such a contact had any significance. Were it considered significant, a communication instructing the course of further investigation would have been received by Special Agent Fain.

DeBRUEYS THOUGHT OSWALD WAS GOVERNMENT OPERATION

In truth, S.A. DeBRUEYS was aware of counter-intelligence techniques, and would not have accepted OSWALD prima facie. S.A. DeBrueys had been told that OSWALD was an operation connected to the Cuban Revolutionary Council. S.A. DeBRUEYS also had several snitches in the New Orleans Cuban Revolutionary Council clique who would have reported that OSWALD'S associates in New Orleans were anti-Castro. Since he had orders not to interfere with the activities of the Cuban Revolutionary Council, S.A. DeBRUEYS did not interfere with OSWALD.

NO ORDERS TO RELAX ANTI-CASTRO INVESTIGATION

When S.A. DeBRUEYS testified before the SSCIA, he stated:

I categorically denied that the FBI Office in New Orleans had to my knowledge any joint operations with the CIA and additionally categorically stated that I had no specific knowledge of CIA operations in the New Orleans area. I explained that there were rumors of a CIA camp, and there may have been operational activities on the part of the CIA in the New Orleans area. However, the operations of another government agency officially sanctioned in my opinion was not to be a target of investigation by the FBI whether it be the CIA or any other Federal Agency, in the absence of any allegation that such activities were illegal and without the approval of the Federal Government. Inquiry as to whether the Mafia figure Carlos Marcello had been involved in any anti-Castro operations in the New Orleans area received the response from me that I had no such information implicating Marcello with such activities during the period of time I was involved investigating the New Orleans area.

Inquiry was then made as to whether I had ever been asked by the CIA to discontinue any investigation. My response to that was that I could recall no such request made by CIA...No instructions were ever given to me by anyone in the New Orleans Division or by anyone in FBI headquarters...to relax an investigation in the anti-Castro field...In answering a question as to whether I had ever had contact with a CIA Agent in the New Orleans Office area, my response was affirmative and I identified the CIA Agent openly assigned to the CIA Office in the Masonic Temple Building in New Orleans as Hunter Leake. By way of explanations of the limited contact I had with Leake I mentioned that during the course of some Cuban related investigations, I may have inquired of Leake whether the CIA had an 'operational' interest in one or more individuals. I would have been prompted to make such an inquiry if facts developed during my investigation might have indicated the possibility of a tie between such person(s) and the CIA. I am certain in each instance where such an inquiry had been made by me, the response was always in the negative.

In July 1993 DeBRUEYS commented,

Those things came from the Justice Department in Washington. It is much too long ago to say anything with absolute certainty. Whether or not the Cuban Revolutionary Council was actually operating under the direction of the CIA, I frankly did not know, nor would I inquire into it because if they were, it would be a Headquarters level situation. You would have to have an accusation they were operating in violation of some Federal law which the Bureau would have investigative jurisdiction before you started anything. Just to go out on a fishing expedition, particularly with another agency of the Government, no.

Senator Richard Schweiker interrogated DeBRUEYS about Sergio Arcacha Smith. DeBRUEYS put his recollection in writing:

I affirmed, in response to an inquiry, that I had been acquainted with Sergio Arcacha Smith whom I recalled had been an officer in an anti-Castro organization, the name of which at the moment escaped me. I was unable to answer the question whether Sergio Arcacha Smith had an office in Banister's building. I was able to state that I recall the anti-Castro organization of which Sergio Arcacha Smith was an officer was located opposite the Masonic Temple Building in New Orleans. (Deletion.) I was asked if I was aware of any CIA connection on Sergio Arcacha Smith's part and I responded I had no specific knowledge in that regard.

In 1978 Sergio Arcacha Smith was subpoenaed in HUNT v. WEBERMAN. He refused to testify and sent a letter instead wherein his attorney Jack J. Weiss stated:

My client has authorized me to reveal to you that he has never known LEE HARVEY OSWALD and that the only information he has concerning LEE HARVEY OSWALD is the same information that all Americans know which has been disseminated by the press...to the best of his knowledge, he has never met any man employed by the CIA...Mr. Smith himself has been the subject of vicious defamation. He wishes now to live in simple peace and harmony unbothered, if possible, by the unhappy events of the 1960's.

Sergio Arcacha's testimony before the HSCA had not been released. [NARA HSCA 180-100099-10075 dated 7.7.78] Sergio Arcacha Smith stated that he had met neither OSWALD nor HOWARD HUNT, at any time, adding: "I have never met any man employed by the CIA." Sergio Arcacha Smith lawyer also denied Sergio Arcacha Smith had been a diplomat appointed by Batista. Sergio Arcacha Smith could have had prior knowledge of OSWALD'S true identity, because of his association with Guy Banister.

After November 22, 1963, S.A. DeBRUEYS shuttled between Dallas and New Orleans, interviewing key witnesses like Ruth Paine. [7WH476] The connection between OSWALD and the Walker incident was discovered when Marina Oswald identified the Walker photographs to S.A. DeBRUEYS. STURGIS and PHILLIPS testified that they knew S.A. DeBRUEYS. S.A. DeBRUEYS was never reprimanded for his investigation of OSWALD - he was rewarded. However, the New Orleans FBI SAC, Harry G. Maynor, was censured for "failing to insure that there was no delay in reporting this matter and for failing to put OSWALD on the Security Index." Also, a Special Agent in New Orleans was censured for delayed reporting, and failing to have OSWALD placed on the Security Index.

S.A. DeBRUEYS AND DAVID ATLEE PHILLIPS

When DAVID ATLEE PHILLIPS and FBI S.A. Clark Anderson were sent to the Dominican Republic, S.A. DeBRUEYS went as well: "Prior to my transfer from New Orleans to Washington in March 1967, I had spent six to seven months on special assignment in the Dominican Republic during the revolutionary crisis in that country in April 1965." In 1975, following a series of nationalist bombings in Puerto Rico, S.A. DeBRUEYS was appointed SAC of San Juan, Puerto Rico. DeBRUEYS retired on May 6, 1977, and joined the New Orleans Metropolitan Crime Commission. Alton Ochsner was a Director of the Commission. [PLP News 2.6.75; Weisberg OSWALD in New Orleans p316; FBI 62-109060-7456; CIA 3076; 7WH476; USSS CO-5-36,777] In September 1961 PHILLIPS became Chief of Covert Action at the American Embassy in Mexico City. He remained in this position until March 1964. On March 31, 1964, Guy Banister, 63, was arrested on a charge of aggravated assault following an argument over a pistol with three younger men. Banister and an unidentified woman employee were involved in a quarrel with three youths at a bus stop. A bus stopped at the intersection and, said police, Banister pursued the youths onto the bus where he brandished a pistol. The gun was never found and Banister refused to say if he was carrying one. Guy Banister died June 6, 1964: when his body was discovered, he was laying face down on his bed wearing only a pair of shorts. His head was on a pillow and he was clutching a bath towel in his right hand. Delphine Roberts found him. Banister was in the process of moving his office to Delphine Roberts' basement, having been evicted from 544 Camp Street for non-payment of rent. When Guy Banister did not appear the Robert's home she had some check on him. Guy Banister had a history of heart disease and the cause of death was a "Coronary thrombosis, anterior descending branch of left coronary artery. Recent and old myocardial infarction, left ventricle, Hypertrophy of heart, Acute pulmonary edema and congestion, bilateral. Classification of Death: Natural Nicholas J. Chetta, M.D. On February 18, 1967, New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison indicted David Ferrie for conspiracy to murder JFK. On February 22, 1967, David Ferrie was dead. The coroner of New Orleans Parish, Nicholas Chetta, wrote: "Rupture of berry aneurom fenicle of willis south massive left subordinal hematoma (?) hemorrhage and secondary pontine haemorrhagia." David Ferrie suffered a massive brain hemorrhage while asleep. Tests for alcohol, barbiturates, cyanide, heavy metals and caustic agents were all negative. A suicide note typewritten by David Ferrie preceded an essay on Jim Garrison: "To leave this life is for me a sweet prospect. I find nothing in it that is desirable and, on the other hand, everything that is loathsome." These lines were out of context and were typed in a convenient place. Journalist George Lardner visited David Ferrie shortly before he died. George Lardner claimed he went to the home of David Ferrie around midnight and stayed until approximately 4:00 a.m. Dr. Nicholas Chetta put the time of death at 4:00 a.m. [Miami Herald 4.24.77; Washington Post 9.22.75] George Lardner told the New Orleans District Attorney's office that David Ferrie was moody and manic/depressive: "A bottle of medicine tablets was standing on his living room piano when I left. David Ferrie said he never knew OSWALD and had no recollection of ever having met him...and they were in different CAP units...Ferrie was rumored to have flown OSWALD to Cuba in 1959. He scoffed at the report, 'I've never been to Cuba. At the time I was supposed to be flying OSWALD to Cuba I understand he was in the Marine Corps.'" The CIA reported: "When we interviewed BRINGUIER on February 2, 1967, he mentioned David Ferrie who appears in the February 19, 1967, article saying that David Ferrie at the time was affiliated with his (BRINGUIER'S) Cuban Student Directorate organization until the connection was terminated because of Ferrie homosexual activities." [Lloyd Ray 2.20.67] BRINGUIER told Gerald Posner: "When I saw Ferrie two days before he died, he looked real sick." In February 1968, the CIA prepared a report on David Ferrie that stated he was not a CIA employee, although an Office of Security file existed on him. When a synopsis of this file reached the period when David Ferrie was associated with the Cuban Revolutionary Front, the CIA deleted it. Alvin Beauboeuf was named as heir to David Ferrie's estate and a note found in David Ferrie's apartment after his death was addressed 'Dear Al.'

BANISTER WAS THE DE-FACTO HEAD OF THE CUBAN REVOLUTIONARY FRONT FRIENDS OF DEMOCRATIC CUBA

On January 6, 1961, Guy Banister had formed the Friends of Democratic Cuba, a support group for the Cuban Revolutionary Front, and opened an office in the Balter Building, where the Cuban Revolutionary Front had offices.

The Articles of Incorporation of the Friends of Democratic Cuba were drafted by Grady Durham. Its purposes were:

To enlighten the people of the U.S.A. and free world of the evils and perils of the communist dictatorship in Cuba; to promote the cause of freedom from communist tyranny in Cuba; to assist Cuban refugees, those in exile, and other Cuban patriots to regroup and organize for the purpose of opposing communism in Cuba; to solicit for and obtain funds and contributions for these purposes and for the support of the Cuban Revolutionary Front, and to assist that organization in its aims and purposes of opposing communism in Cuba; to promote trade and commerce between the U.S.A. and Cuba; to defray all necessary expenses; and to buy, sell lease and obtain all necessary property, both real and personal, which might be necessary and all licenses, permits, exemptions and sanctions which might be necessary in conformity with the objectives stated herein...Signed June Durham, Grady Durham, W. Guy Banister, Alfred Chittenden and Martin L. McAuliffe, Jr." J.S. Martin, Sr. (Jack S. Martin) witnessed the signing of this document.

The Friends of Democratic Cuba merged with the Cuban Revolutionary Front in January 1961. HUNT, who was the Chief Political Officer of the Cuban Revolutionary Front, would have had to have approved this merger. The CIA declared: "About one month after its organization, the Friends of Democratic Cuba closed..." The FBI reported:

FRENTE REVOLUCIONARIO DEMOCRATICO (FRD)
February 7, 1961
TO: The Director

Sergio Arcacha Smith also advised on February 2, 1961, that the organization known as the Friends of Democratic Cuba, Inc., has for its purposes the rendering of assistance to the subject organization; however, Smith states that the Friends of Democratic Cuba, Inc., is in effect an independent organization. However, he related that he has advised various officers of subject organization as to matters of policy, as well as to certain objections he may have had to persons or intended activities of the Friends of Democratic Cuba, Inc. In this regard, he mentioned that he later heard that Dalzell had some type of difficulty with the police in the past and in view of this, he indicated to Guy Banister and other officers of the Friends of Democratic Cuba, Inc., that he did not want Dalzell in the Friends of Democratic Cuba, Inc.

He states that nevertheless Dalzell, although not considered a member of this organization any longer, continues to pay visits to both subject organization as well as the organization known as the Friends of Democratic Cuba, Inc. Smith states he is concerned about the background and possible reputation of some of the mentors of the Friends of Democratic Cuba, Inc., and related that he has confidence only in McAuliffe, the President of that organization. Smith states that the only activities of the organization known as Friends of Democratic Cuba, Inc., to date have been to lend assistance to some fifty Cuban girls who are political exiles of Cuba. He states that toothpaste, bedding, and other small items have been afforded to these girls by the Friends of Democratic Cuba, Inc.

On February 1, 1961, Martin L. McAuliffe, Jr., 5668 Woodlawn (Lake View), New Orleans, Louisiana, personally called at the New Orleans Office, at which time he related that he is in the advertising business and operates the 24-Hour Letter Service, 1127 Royal Street, as well as the advertising-printing company, Chalmette, Louisiana. He states that he is the director of propaganda of the Frente Revolucionario Democrático (FRD), New Orleans branch, and is also President of the Friends of Democratic Cuba, Inc.

McAuliffe related that he made contact with the FRD through one William Dalzell. He explained that he met Dalzell about two months ago through his secretary, Juanita Abbott, who was handling a painting that Dalzell was desirous of advertising. Dalzell mentioned to McAuliffe that he is promoting an organization known as the Free Voice of Latin America, Inc., through a Mr. Klein, Dalzell related that he wanted to have some printing done for this latter organization and McAuliffe agreed to handle some of the printing. Later, according to McAuliffe, Dalzell stated that he was severing his connections with the Free Voice of Latin America because he did not get the job he desired with that latter organization.

Dalzell then stated that he was promoting another organization known as the Friends of Democratic Cuba, and in connection with this latter organization, Dalzell introduced McAuliffe to Sergio Arcacha Smith of the FRD. McAuliffe stated that he accepted the position of president with the organization known as the Friends of Democratic Cuba, Inc. He stated that the aims of this latter group were to obtain some surplus ambulances from surplus military equipment, obtain hospital field supplies, help exiles from Cuba, and raise funds to assist the FRD. McAuliffe stated that he was not sure whether this organization was legitimate as he had heard some rumors about Dalzell having a police record. He states that he wanted to get different people into the organization who had a very excellent background. As to McAuliffe's inquiry concerning whether or not the operation of the Friends of Democratic Cuba, Inc., would be a possible violation of federal law, he was generally advised of the provisions of the neutrality statute, the foreign agents registration act, and applicable sections of the internal security by-laws. He was also advised that his activities within such a group may justify his contacting the group's attorney to determine whether or not their acts would be within the provisions of pertinent federal statutes.

On February 2, 1961, Martin L. McAuliffe again personally called at the New Orleans Office and advised that he had told Sergio Arcacha Smith that he was going to resign as president of the Friends of Democratic Cuba, Inc., but that he would still be a member of the FRD. McAuliffe stated that he then went to Grady Durham and after a discussion it was decided that the group known as the Friends of Democratic Cuba would be dissolved. He stated that he took this action because he had many doubts about the organization and some of its members. In fact, he stated that the offices of Friends of Democratic Cuba, Inc., were closed since 2:00 p.m., February 2, 1961. He also mentioned that the Cubans of FRD did not seem to trust the persons associated with the Friends of Democratic Cuba, Inc.

Guy Banister

On February 3, 1961, Guy Banister of Guy Banister Associates, Inc., 531 Lafayette Street, New Orleans, advised as follows: Banister stated that he is not a member, nor is he an officer of the group known as the Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas. He explained that in connection with his investigating business, he had done some work for Maurice Gatlin who is the general counsel of the Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas. He stated that he had learned of the existence of some surplus war equipment such as jeeps and trucks that were located on the river-front in New Orleans and which were allegedly scheduled to be shipped to Cuba. He furnished this information to Gatlin and charged for his services $1.00. He stated that this is the extent of his relationship and contact with the group known as the Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas. He added that any publication of Gatlin or of the Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas reflecting him as an officer is undoubtedly an impulsive act of Maurice Gatlin which did not have either his consent or approval.

At least one CIA document stated that Guy Banister was an FBI contact for the Cuban Revolutionary Front: "Two of Sergio Arcacha Smith's regular FBI contacts were a Mr.

De Bruce [S.A. DeBRUEYS] and the deceased Guy Banister...Arcacha Smith was a member of Guy Banister's Friends of Democratic Cuba." The FBI reported: "Banister was also active in the Cuban Revolutionary Front, (Internal Security - Cuba) which information was furnished to the Bureau by LHM dated February 7, 1961." [CIA 1320-484, 1357-506, 1338-1052, 1363-501; HUNT Day p23, 63; FBI 62-22617-A, 62-22617-235, 244, 217, 224; 62-10386-3, 62-105198-5; HSCA V5 p129] HUNT stated, "I had a safehouse in New Orleans. This was when I was forming the shadow government." [interview with Saint John Hunt].

On February 7, 1961, an FBI investigation of Friends of Democratic Cuba culminated in a Letter Head Memorandum:

One copy of the enclosed Letter Head Memorandum is also being furnished to the New York Office for information, in view of the statements attributed to William Dalzell by PCI (deleted as of 2010) to the effect that Dalzell claims to be in contact with a man named Raymond in the Rockefeller Center, New York City. The enclosed Letter Head Memorandum is being classified Secret, as unauthorized disclosure of data contained therein could result in serious damages to the U.S., such as jeopardy of international relations, and endanger the effectiveness of a program of vital importance to national defense. No dissemination is to be made of the enclosed material except to CIA at Bureau level. Confidential Informant NO T-1 is PCI (deleted as of 2010). Interviews of Sergio Arcacha Smith and Guy Banister were conducted by S.A. Ernest C. Wall and SA Warren C. De Brueys. This data is being made part of various individual Subject files of the New Orleans Office in connection with the investigation of various individuals in the '105' category. [Internal Security - Nationalistic Tendency] (Deleted as of 2010) UACB New Orleans, concerning the allegations attributed to him by (deleted) namely that Dalzell states that he is going to Cuba as a news reporter, that he is working for a man in the CIA named Larry Ray, and also that he is in contact with a man named Raymond in the Rockefeller Center, New York. Any additional pertinent data received by the New Orleans Office concerning Subject organization will be furnished to the Bureau in a form suitable for dissemination to CIA. Bromwell. [FBI 105-187912-182]

As you can see from the document that follows the New Orleans crew was an official or semi-official extension of the Cuban Democratic Revolutionary Council organized by HOWARD HUNT. There was no way that HUNT was not acquainted with Sergio Arcacha, Banister, Ferrie, Gatlin and the ragtag crew of New Orleans professional anti-Communists of 544 Camp Street who thought they could outguess the CIA.

The Frente Revolucionario Democratico (FRD) is an anti-Castro organization receiving the covert support of CIA. Sergio Arcacha Smith, a former Cuban official, is one of its representatives in New Orleans.

On 1-13-61 New Orleans Office advised it had learned from Navy, locally, that Smith reportedly had turned over to Guy Banister, a private detective in New Orleans, a code book from the former Cuban Consulate in New Orleans, as well as a list of some 350 names of individuals allegedly registered as part of Castro's Cuban revolutionary army residing in New Orleans. Banister is a former SAC who retired in 1954.

The New Orleans Office commented that the code book referred to is probably the commercial code book which had been made available to it by the former Cuban Consul there. New Orleans Office also commented that the 350 names probably referred to Cubans who had registered at the Cuban Consulate, New Orleans, as residing in that area.

New Orleans has requested authority to interview Smith, who had previously promised to cooperate with the Bureau, concerning the details of the furnishing of the data to Banister.

It is noted the possibility exists Smith may have furnished the data to Banister because of Banister's alleged connection with Maurice Gatlin, who heads the Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas in New Orleans, which publishes the "Caribbean News Letter." Gatlin's mental instability appears to be well established and he has been described by one source as insane. Gatlin has described Banister in the newsletter as "a former FBI agent and president of the Anti Communist group." He has indicated Banister was an investigator for the "Caribbean News Letter." The Frente Revolucionario (FRD) is an anti-Castro organization receiving the covert support of CIA. Sergio Arcacha Smith, a former Cuban official, is one of its representatives in New Orleans. On January 13, 1961 New Orleans Office advised it had learned from Navy, locally, that Smith reportedly had turned over to Guy Banister, a private detective in New Orleans, a code book from the former Cuban Consulate in New Orleans, as well as a list of some 350 names of individuals allegedly registered as part of Castro's Cuban revolutionary army residing in New Orleans. The New Orleans Office commented that the code book referred to is probably the commercial code book which had been made available to it by the former Cuban Consul there. New Orleans Office also commented that the 350 names probably referred to Cubans who had registered at the Cuban Consulate, New Orleans, as residing in that area. New Orleans requested authority to interview Smith, who had previously promised to cooperate with the Bureau concerning the details of the furnishing of the data to Banister.

It is noted the possibility exists Smith may have furnished the data to Banister because of Banister's alleged connection with Maurice Gatlin, who heads the Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas in New Orleans, which publishes the "Caribbean News Letter." He has indicated Banister was an investigator for the "Caribbean News Letter." In view of the indication in the newsletter that the Caribbean Division of Gatlin's organization, which was headed by Gatlin, was an independent affiliate of an organization which had an individual in Brazil as its president, possibility exists Gatlin's activities may require his registration. The facts concerning Gatlin's activities are being submitted for presentation to the Department under the Registration Act.

ACTION:

That the attached letter be sent New Orleans Office authorizing interview with Smith to identify the data he reportedly furnished to Banister and to determine the reason he made it available to Banister. New Orleans is being instructed to determine particularly whether Smith did so because of Banister's alleged connection with Gatlin's organization. New Orleans is being instructed to interview Banister following its interview with Smith to clarify Banister's connection, if any, with Gatlin's organization. [FBI 64-29230 NR 3.27.59 p.2; FBI 64-29230-NR 3.27.59 pgs. 4 & 5] 350

The FBI interviewed Guy Banister about the Friends of Democratic Cuba:

Banister related that he is a member of the Board of Directors of the Friends of Democratic Cuba Incorporated, which he describes as a charitable organization chartered under Louisiana State law whose primary purpose is to lend assistance to Cuban exiles. Banister stated that as an example, the Friends of Democratic Cuba have lent material assistance to some fifty young Cuban girls who are political exiles and who were in need of material and financial assistance.

In response to inquiry Banister stated that he had not received from anyone either the original or a copy of a code from the Cuban Consulate in New Orleans not had he received a so-called list of names of some "350 people who are registered as part of the Castro Cuban Revolutionary Army now resided in New Orleans. Banister stated that he did receive from Sergio Arcacha Smith a list of members of the FRD, as well as a list of names of 81 Cuban students attending Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge. He stated he hoped to make inquiries about these people to ascertain whether or not there existed among those listed some who were possibly pro-Castro in their political sympathies. His purpose would then be to furnish such information to Smith.

In addition to the above, Banister remarked that William R. Martin is hired by him as a part-time investigator. He explained that Martin is interested in ascertaining the political sympathies of Cuban and other students attending Tulane University. This is of interest to Banister in connection with his interest and position in the Louisiana State organization known as the State Joint Legislative Committee on Un-American Activities.

Banister related that he feels certain that Martin is not employed by Maurice Gatlin's Anti-Communist Committee of the Americas but did relate that Martin was making an attempt to associate with the FRD, as well the Friends of Democratic Cuba Inc. because of Martin's interest in ferreting out subversive activities in the State of Louisiana. He explained that Martin would be interested in ascertaining whether or not any pro-Castro people had infiltrated either the FRD or the Friends of Democratic Cuba, Inc.

On March 30, 1961, ANGLETON sent CSCI-3/764,414 to Sam Papich regarding the Friends of Democratic Cuba. ANGLETON had either generated or had seen this document. It stated:

1. Reference is made to Bureau Memoranda dated January 20, 1961, and February 7, 1961, both entitled "Frente Revolucionario Democratico (FRD)."
2. The following information concerning the Subject, from a reliable source, is forwarded as being of possible interest to the Bureau.
3. The Friends of Democratic Cuba was incorporated January 6, 1961, in New Orleans, Louisiana, with offices in the Balter Building for the purpose of collecting funds to assist Cubans in opposition to Castro. The funds were to be channeled through the Frente Revolucionario Democratico. The New Orleans delegate of the Cuban Revolutionary Front, Sergio Arcacha, was to receive the funds collected, minus some percentage believed by source to be 20% to be retained by the Friends of Democratic Cuba. No public collection of money took place, but it is possible that some donations were received from some company or union. Mr. Arcacha stated the only amount collected was $100 received from a company with which Mario del Canal was connected. About one month after its organization Friends of Democratic Cuba closed because, according to its organizers, some Cubans exhibited a lack of understanding.

4. The source provided the following information concerning the persons composing the Friends of Democratic Cuba, Inc.

a. Grady Durham...

b. Guy Banister, a former member of the FBI, is a former Second Chief of Police in New Orleans. The later position terminated with differences of opinion with the Mayor of New Orleans. Banister now has a detective agency at 531 Lafayette Street, New Orleans. According to the source, some of his informants consider Banister a decent person and others think he is a racketeer.

5. The source stated that in his opinion Durham and Banister organized the Friends of Democratic Cuba strictly for personal gain. He further stated that he doubted that donations had not been received, and suggested that an investigation of the books of the New Orleans Exporters Company and the Stevedores Union which would reveal the personal gain realized by the promoters and perhaps also evidence of evasion of United States Federal taxes

6. The source further advised that to his knowledge there is no radio plant in the offices of the Friends of Democratic Cuba, nor does that organization operate a transmitter from a boat.

7. The FRD delegate in New Orleans is Sergio Arcacha assisted by Pedro (illegible).

GUY BANISTER AND THE BAY OF PIGS INVASION

The New Orleans-States Item reported that a source close to Guy Banister said that in April 1961 he had seen 50 to 100 boxes containing rifles, grenades, land mines and "unique little missiles," in the office of Guy Banister just before the invasion. Guy Banister explained: "I have approval from somebody." [Memo 1.31.67 Lester Otilio: Garrison re: Gerdes, ARA file; Guy Banister's Index Card, ARA file] Vernon Gerdes told the HSCA that "he thought that the most important thing that he gave the Secret Service was the 12 by 12 stack of ammunition and grenades with Schlumberger marked on them. He was of the opinion that Schlumberger was an oil supplier and the company was being used to transport arms to Latin America."

[HSCA Delsa interview with Gerdes 1.10.78] In late 1961 Guy Banister was a founder of Radio Free Cuba, with William Wayne Dalzell. William Dalzell, born December 26, 1925, (or December 4, 1926) in Shawnee, Oklahoma, was a Native American who had been in the Navy from 1943 to 1945, and left with an honorable discharge. In 1958, the FBI investigated William Dalzell to determine if he should register as an agent of Ethiopia. FBI S.A.'s WARREN DeBRUEYS and Regis Kennedy investigated. There was no prosecution. William Dalzell was arrested in Houston, Texas, in November 1958, for Carrying a Concealed Weapon. William Dalzell claimed that he had an agreement with the Government of Yemen in 1959 to negotiate offshore and inland oil concessions. He told the FBI he had been employed by various drilling and petroleum companies, and had worked for the Defense Department as a cryptographer. S.A. Regis Kennedy interviewed William Dalzell about the illegal transfer of pesos to Cuba in 1960. A Fugitive Warrant was issued for William Dalzell in New York in July 1960. The Warrant was revoked, and held in abeyance, by Louisiana Governor Jimmie Davis then marked "Case Closed." [NOPD Supp. Rep. Item G-2739-6] S.A. Regis Kennedy interviewed William Dalzell about Cuban matters. William Dalzell was investigated by S.A. DeBRUEYS in 1961 because of attempts to obtain a PT boat and a submarine for anti-Castro activities in Honduras. William Dalzell told the FBI that he discussed procuring weapons for exiles in Guatemala, but claimed this matter never went beyond the discussion stage since, "Sergio Arcacha Smith never indicated that his organization had been able to obtain permission to purchase a PT boat and submarine."

After a few months with Radio Free Cuba, William Dalzell and Guy Banister resigned from its Board because of its alleged "communistic ideas." Radio Free Cuba transmitted anti-Castro propaganda over the short wave bands. Its executive advisory committee interlocked with Radio Free Europe. The New York Times reported: "A rather tenuous operation known as Free Cuba Radio was a CIA venture. Free Cuba Radio, established in the early 1960's, did not broadcast from its own transmitters, but purchased air time from any number of commercial radio stations in Florida and Louisiana." [NYT News Service Miami News 12.26.77] Guy Banister, William Dalzell and Grady Durham formed their own organization, The Voice of Free Cuba, or The Free Voice of Latin America. When S.A. Regis Kennedy and S.A. DeBRUEYS interviewed William Dalzell on June 6, 1961, he "admitted being connected with Free Voice of Latin America and Friends of Democratic Cuba."

William Dalzell told HSCA investigators that he was fluent in five languages and had been employed by the CIA in Arlington, Virginia, in the early 1950's: "While in the CIA he was mostly in the Arabic Section, dealing with codes and radio transmissions. He was a cryptologist with a top secret clearance." On October 31, 1967, in the course of formulating a response to New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison's investigation, the CIA ran traces on William Dalzell. Office of Security indices - negative. [CIA F82-0240/1] FBI documents revealed that William Dalzell's only contact with the CIA occurred in 1961, through the Cuban Revolutionary Front. William Dalzell told S.A. DeBRUEYS he visited the CIA three times in connection with the Cuban Revolutionary Front, and was interviewed by an Agent:

Dalzell claims he was interviewed by CIA Agent Lloyd Ray, who was interested in determining certain information regarding radio stations in Cuba, as well as certain microwave equipment in the possession of the Cuban Government. Hunter Leake, CIA representative, New Orleans, confirmed to S.A. DeBRUEYS that William Dalzell paid three visits to the CIA office on November 16, 1960, January 26, 1961, and February 11, 1961.

Hunter Leake told S.A. DeBRUEYS that William Dalzell had been referred to the CIA by Grady Durham, a lawyer friend of Lloyd Ray. William Dalzell told Lloyd Ray he wanted to "set up a transmitter to contact counter-revolutionaries operating in Cuba and then re-broadcast their messages." The New Orleans CIA:

Lloyd of course, was being most courteous because of the presence of the Cuban national. It is occurred to us, however, that perhaps the DD/P might be interested in a station in New Orleans which proposes to broadcast to Cuba particularly where it does not appear on the face that they are looking for money, but simply for guidance. It may be that the DD/P would be happy to guide them in their propaganda. [CIA Memo William Burke 11.18.60 Proposed Radio Free Cuba, NARA 1993.07.27.08:37:23710620]

In 1962 William Dalzell was arrested for "improper liquor permit." During late 1963 and early 1964 the Justice Department considered prosecuting William Dalzell for Fraud by Wire and Mail Fraud. The Department of Justice had received a complaint from Miss Cecilia M. Hlebanja, an investor in one of William Dalzell's 1959 oil deals in Yemen. The Justice Department declined prosecution and characterized the activities of William Dalzell as a civil matter. [FBI LHM 5.22.67] Joseph Oster commented, "There's a phony if ever there was one. He'd been involved with oil deals. He was at the office all the time. He had a place in Dallas, too." By February 1963, William Dalzell was in the Central Louisiana State Psychiatric Hospital. He was discharged as of March 20, 1963. After the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, William Dalzell was not interviewed by S.A. Regis Kennedy nor by any other New Orleans FBI agent.

Grady Durham, an attorney, was a distant cousin of former Louisiana governor, Jimmie Davis. In 1963, Grady Durham, a compulsive gambler, passed some bad checks. Jack

S. Martin explained: "People were going to press charges against him. I went to the New Orleans Coroner, Dr. Nick Chetta, and got warrants issued for mental incompetency. They took these papers to the D.A.'s complaint desk and got the check charges killed as they came in." Aside from the preceding Guy Banister was connected to the Cuban Revolutionary Council through New Orleans delegate Sergio Arcacha Smith. Guy Banister:

I worked with Arcacha Smith. He was - our work was primarily to gather food and clothing for Cuban refugees. However, because of my being known in connection with that, my background being known with Arcacha Smith and others, I have had high-ranking Cuban refugees in my office asking me how to go underground, and I gave them diagrams for that. I have talked to military and political leaders from the various provinces of Cuba who have slipped out and slipped back.

GUY BANISTER'S PUPPET: SERGIO ARCACHA SMITH

Sergio Arcacha Smith (201-835474), was born in Havana, Cuba, of Irish/Cuban lineage. He studied at Belem High School in Cuba with Fidel Castro, attended the University of Havana, and then did one year of graduate work at Columbia University. Sergio Arcacha Smith returned to Cuba, where Carlos Prio Socarras appointed him Consul for Cuba in Madrid, Rome, Mexico City; and Batista appointed him Consul for Cuba in Bombay, India, from 1952 to 1954. In 1955, he was employed by J. Walter Thompson advertising in Venezuela. J. Walter Thompson had supplied the OSS with numerous personnel during World War II. [Smith OSS p15] Sergio Arcacha Smith moved to the United States in August 1960. According to CIA records, he was appointed the New Orleans delegate of the Cuban Revolutionary Front by Tony Varona:

1. Traces on Arcacha do not reflect the date he first arrived in the U.S. However he became the delegate of the Cuban Revolutionary Front in New Orleans prior to the Bay of Pigs invasion and continued in that position until the Cuban Revolutionary Front ceased to function. The Cuban Revolutionary Front was the predecessor of the Cuban Revolutionary Council and was organized and supported by the Agency. The organization was used as a front for recruitment of Brigade 2506 for the invasion. During this period [November 1960 to October 1961] Sergio Arcacha Smith reported to Cuban Revolutionary Front headquarters in Miami through a post office box in Coral Gables, and reportedly maintained extensive relationships with the New Orleans FBI and Immigration Offices. Two of his regular contacts were a Mr. De Bruce [DeBRUEYS] and the deceased Guy Banister.

Arcacha Smith was also one of the promoters of a New Orleans organization known as the Friends of Democratic Cuba, Inc. (FDC). This organization was created by several New Orleans business and political figures, including the deceased former FBI agent, Guy Banister. One month after the FDC was created, it was put out of business by strong criticism from prominent Cubans. There was evidence the FDC was created for the personal gain of the promoters. Smith knew David Ferrie, deceased, who was named by Garrison as a member of the conspiracy group. Ferrie loaned Smith money at one time. The FRD in New Orleans threw Smith out of the organization in early 1962. Some Cubans said Smith stole money entrusted to him for the counter-revolution. When he left New Orleans the rent for the FRD office in the Newman Building was unpaid.

Background information on the Cuban Revolutionary Front and Sergio Arcacha Smith's connection with the organization was forwarded to the FBI in CSCI-3/764, 414 dated March 30, 1961. Other sources of the above summary of information on Arcacha are DBF-92355 January 13, 1961; DBF-91759 October 11, 1961; CSCI-316/-3737-65 and (deleted) 929 February 22, 1961. [CIA WH/COG 67-194 Memo for ADDP C/CI/R & A (Mr. Rocca) Subject: Garrison and the Kennedy Investigation. Reference: CI/R & A memo 4.26.67 (Deleted) AC/WH/COG Attachment #1]

Another CIA document stated:

Whereas one FBI report says that Arcacha was formerly the registered agent of the FRD (Frente Revolucionario Democrático) another states that there was no association between him and the CIA. What was the exact nature of his relationship with the Agency? Our records show there was never a direct relationship between Arcacha and CIA. Arcacha became the FRD delegate in New Orleans on November 11, 1960 and remained in the position until the FRD ceased to function in October 1961. The FRD was created in May 1960 with CIA's assistance, guidance and financial support. Consisting of several anti-Castro groups, it was a political action, propaganda and military unit. FRD headquarters were in Miami. During the period November 1960 to October 1961 Arcacha reported to FRD headquarters in Miami through a post office box in Coral Gables. Whether his superiors in Miami mentioned CIA to Arcacha is not known. What was the Agency's interest in and support of the CRC (Cuban Revolutionary Council)? The CRC was formed in late 1960 and early 1961. In October 1961 it completely absorbed the FRD.

What was CIA's interest in and support of the Crusade to Free Cuba Committee? Our records indicate Arcacha was one of the promoters of the Friends of Democratic Cuba Inc with which the CIA was not associated but do not contain information about the Crusade to Free Cuba Committee. It is requested the reply be provided by WH/COG. When HUNT served as the political officer of the Cuban Revolutionary Front, he worked out of a proprietary located in Coral Gables. HUNT was questioned in HUNT v. WEBERMAN about Sergio Arcacha Smith; he denied having known him. Yet in Give Us

This Day, HUNT wrote of how he planned the budget of the Cuban Revolutionary Front and how it included "the establishment of Cuban Revolutionary Front offices in principal cities of the Western Hemisphere, including the United States...within a few weeks I was paying the Cuban Revolutionary Front $115,000 a month, most of it for salaries and rentals."

Luis Rabel, the New Orleans delegate of the Cuban Revolutionary Council, denied having met HUNT or "EDUARDO." The HSCA questioned Tony Varona about his knowledge of the New Orleans office of the Cuban Revolutionary Council; he said he had known Sergio Arcacha Smith and Frank Bartes. On November 14, 1963, Tony Varona flew to New Orleans for a meeting of the Cuban Revolutionary Council at Gallier Hall. Varona said that only 15% of the Cuban people supported Fidel Castro and that his regime will collapse at his death. Varona conferred with Frank Bartes. [New Orleans Times Picayune 11.15.63] HUNT worked closely with Tony Varona.

An FBI document revealed Sergio Arcacha Smith was approached in January 1961 by a representative of CARLOS MARCELLO, who said "he had a contributor to the Cuban Revolutionary Front who was willing to make available funds in the amount of some $200,000." When asked, the man identified the contributor as CARLOS MARCELLO, and he added that the contribution stipulated "that after the Castro regime was thrown out of Cuba, the new government would give CARLOS MARCELLO certain gambling concessions as well as the privilege of Cuban citizenship." [FBI 92-2713-144]

The FBI believed Sergio Arcacha Smith worked for the CIA. The Bureau received a CIA telex which verified it had utilized the Cuban Revolutionary Front in some unspecified operation, and the FBI was aware that Sergio Arcacha Smith was the head of the Cuban Revolutionary Front: "There is a possibility CIA could have had an operational interest in Sergio Arcacha Smith. Accordingly, the Bureau may desire to inquire of CIA through liaison, at Seat Of Government level, whether or not CIA has an operational interest in Sergio Arcacha Smith, David William Ferrie and Potential Criminal Informant (deleted)." [FBI 62-109060-4707, 4542] The CIA denied having any Office of Security record on Sergio Arcacha Smith. [CIA 1435-492-AD rel. 5.18.82] When the CIA ran traces on Sergio Arcacha Smith on March 6, 1967, it retrieved a reference to "File No. *219000-332 (C) Project Seal (I have already) July 19, 1961, p2." [Oswald Case Indices Search Request] Sergio Arcacha Smith explained to a public relations co-worker that

He was under the thumb of the State Department, which in private, he referred to as the CIA. He received all his funds from them and was contemplating applying for a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation. He had an office in the Balter Building, where pictures of Huey Long hung by the elevator on each floor.

In March 1961, ANGLETON generated CSCI-3/764,414 and CSCI-316/-3737-65 about Sergio Arcacha Smith. A "confidential source, who has in the past furnished insufficient information to determine reliability" informed the FBI of Sergio Arcacha Smith's activities in September 1961:

Sergio Arcacha Smith displayed numerous photographs and documents relating to the atrocities being committed by the Castro regime in Havana, Cuba, and the Isle of Pines...ultimately he and his partners were taken to the residence of David Ferrie, where they were introduced to two young Cubans, and two young ex-Marines. He said upon arriving at the house he was taken directly to the attic where there were maps of Cuba displayed on the walls, and a number of different types of firearms sitting in a rack. He stated in the basement of this same house were two roughly assembled two-man submarines. Source stated Smith and others excitedly discussed plans to blow up ships in Havana Harbor, sabotage key installations. He said Ferrie was to be a pilot for the organization, and they mentioned it would be about two weeks before the explosives (which were removed from a munitions bunker in Houma, Louisiana) would arrive in Cuba. [see Garrison Inv. Memo 1.13.68 To: Louis Ivon From: Gary Sanders re: Richard Rolfe - Rolfe was a partner of Werbell]

The FBI reported that on November 19, 1962, NO T-2, another government agency, advised the FBI that as of September 29, 1962, Sergio Arcacha Smith had post office box 50523, Main Post Office, New Orleans, and subsequently gave a change of address as 5408 Seminole Avenue, Tampa, Florida. On May 7, 1963, when interviewed as a Subject of a Interstate Transportation of a Stolen Motor Vehicle case, Sergio Arcacha Smith gave his address as 4023 Turnberry Circle, Houston, Texas. [FBI 62-109060-4606]

RONNIE CAIRE AND THE CRUSADE TO FREE CUBA

Sergio Arcacha Smith endeavored to raise funds for the Cuban Revolutionary Front by selling "Cuban Revolutionary Front bonds." In November 1961, Smith went to Ronnie Caire, a public relations man, and asked his assistance in a fund-raising campaign for the Cuban Revolutionary Front located at Room 6, 544 Camp Street. Ronnie Caire telephoned the FBI to find out whether the Cuban Revolutionary Front and the Crusade to Free Cuba (the fund raising group of Sergio Arcacha Smith) were legitimate and recognized by the United States Government. The Bureau referred him to the U.S. Attorney in New Orleans, who said Sergio Arcacha Smith was "okay." In December 1961 an article appeared in The New Orleans Times-Picayune about the Crusade to Free Cuba. Ronnie Caire registered as an agent of the Cuban government-in-exile with the Foreign Agents Registration Board. Ronnie Caire was to receive 25% of whatever was collected plus expenses; all funds collected would go into an account controlled by Sergio Arcacha Smith and by an accountant named Grimalder.

In 1963 OSWALD visited Ronnie Caire. After the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, Ronnie Caire apprised the Secret Service during the afternoon of December 2, 1963, that he "seemed to recall OSWALD applying for a job with his agency while he had offices at 704-5 Cigali Building, corner Camp and Canal Streets, New Orleans. He said this was several months ago and about the time OSWALD had a debate over radio station WDSU, in August 1963. He said this was the only time he had seen OSWALD, and for that reason, he could not be positive in identifying OSWALD'S photograph that he was the man he had in mind." [WCE 1414] The FBI had no traces on Caire in connection with the assassination of President Kennedy. [FBI 105-82555-5647]

In 1967, Caire told an investigator for the New Orleans District Attorney's office, "OSWALD once applied for a job with me, he came in one day and said he had experience in public relations and wanted a job. OSWALD did not fill out an application, and I never saw him again." Ronnie Caire told the HSCA "LHO was interviewed by him for approximately three minutes, when he came to his office looking for work, and that no application was completed or filled out by LHO, and that his secretary (unknown at this time) reminded him of that, during the time that he was being interviewed by two of Garrison's investigators." [HSCA Caire interview 4.7.78 William Brown]

Ronnie Caire was interviewed by telephone in 1978:

Q. Did OSWALD ever approach you for a job?

A. Gee, that's a long time ago. I don't remember too much about it. Seems to me he came by once.

Q. You handled publicity for the Cuban Revolutionary Council?

A. Yeah, we handled the fund drive for them.

Q. Did you know HOWARD HUNT back then or any of the other Watergate guys?

A. No. I was just a speck on the wall.

Q. Why did the CIA approach you in the guise of the Cuban Revolutionary Council?

A. Because I had such good local political connections. I was known as an expert in political affairs. Got them blue chip names. Just another money raising job. I raised it for the Republicans and Democrats and State's Rights. I said the account was making nigger shit and I dropped it.

Q. Do you remember what happened when OSWALD came to see you?

A. No man, I'm not even sure it was OSWALD, and that's the truth, I told them that. At the time there were so many guys coming in looking for jobs. As a matter of fact, the guy I remember didn't even come to see me, he came to see my former partner. They were coming in at that time two or three a week. Truthfully, I sat down with everyone in the office and tried to remember if we had seen OSWALD and we weren't really sure. I had to question some guy by the name of OSWALD who applied for a job.

Q. Are you still in the P. R. business?

A. Retired, two strokes, laid up, half blind.

Q. Jesus Christ. You sure you didn't know HUNT from the Cuban Revolutionary Council?

A. He was on the national level, no I didn't. Let me tell you how I got into this. Sergio came to me and I checked the best I could like the FBI check that you read to me. I'm in favor of anti-communist causes, and I checked the FBI and they all said it was alright. Then I was in a room with a bunch of Cuban leaders and I realized they were more interested in who was going to be the king when they got back, then in overthrowing Castro. And I went ahead and carried out what obligations I had and I got the hell out of it. Then one day I'm sitting in the office and in comes Sergio and says he's been kicked out too. The last time I saw him was when he came in and tried to sell me some Latin American accounts. P.R. accounts. And he introduced me to some dude named Nestor Marcos Diaz. He said he had a business in Mexico. I'll tell ya, I feel like a dinosaur. I was raised in the news business. I got my lumps in the Huey Long days, got my head beat in...I was to appear as a government witness in the (unintelligible) investigation State of Louisiana. I ran a paper called The Owl but was wiped out by a hurricane and lost $125,000.

Q. Did you know Banister?

A. Banister was a hot-pistoled cop. [WE 1414; FBI 105-82555-5647, 5648, 5649]

The Cuban Revolutionary Front did not need help from the Crusade to Free Cuba, since the Cuban Revolutionary Front had CIA funding. A Cuban Revolutionary Front financial statement prepared for the Foreign Agents Registration Board indicated it collected only $18,000 in 1961. Yet its total expenditure for that year was about $4 million. The biggest items in the budget of the Cuban Revolutionary Front were dependent payments, which totaled $2.7 million, and "military expenses" of $133,000. The deficit was made up by: "Amounts raised by branch offices abroad and transferred to headquarters." [FARB filed 4.27.62] Sergio Arcacha Smith set up the Crusade to Free Cuba so that he could siphon off its bank account for his own use. Information about the Crusade to Free Cuba was deleted from CIA documents. The FBI had a total of 40 files about, or mentioning, Sergio Arcacha Smith. [CIA 1320-484] When the Cuban Revolutionary Front folded, Sergio Arcacha Smith joined the Cuban Revolutionary Council. He advised the FBI in 1961: "Although the Cuban Revolutionary Front had been dissolved in the New Orleans area, a campaign known as the Crusade to Free Cuba would be continued under his guidance and also under Cuban Revolutionary Council sponsorship. He explained the Cuban Revolutionary Front and the Cuban Revolutionary Council had merged." [CIA 1326-1042; Day HUNT pp44, 46, 183; FBI 44-24016 LHM 5.10.67] In early 1962 the Cuban community became aware Arcacha was an embezzler and he had to leave New Orleans. He moved to Dallas. On March 9, 1962, Sam Newman wrote to Tony Varona in Miami and asked him for the back rent which was owed by Luis Rabel and Sergio Arcacha Smith.

FBI LOOKS AT THE OSWALD 544 CAMP STREET CONNECTIONS

On November 25, 1963, Sam Newman told the FBI: "Approximately eight or nine months prior to the date of the interview he rented space at 544 Camp Street, which he believed was space six or seven, to several Cubans, names unknown, who were with the Cuban Revolutionary Association. Newman said he had seen these Cubans previously around the offices of Guy Banister, Guy Banister Associates. Newman stated that he believed one of these individuals was Sergio Arcacha Smith. He advised that the Cuban Revolutionary Association occupied office space at 544 Camp Street for approximately three or four months..." [FBI 62-109060-6057, 4762]

Another FBI document stated: "It is to be noted that Sam Mike Newman, owner of the office building located at 544 Camp Street, was interviewed on November 25, 1963, and advised that approximately six to nine months prior he rented office space at that address which he believed was office number 6 or 7 to several Cubans, names unknown, who were with the Cuban Revolutionary Association. Newman related that the Cuban Revolutionary Association occupied office space at 544 Camp Street for approximately three of four months." [FBI Analysis of William Turner's 1.68 Ramparts article] If the Cuban Revolutionary Council (Association) rented space at 544 Camp Street in June 1963 and remained there during July, August and September 1963 then they were there when OSWALD was in New Orleans.

THE NEW ORLEANS POLICE DEPARTMENT CHECKS IT OUT

On November 27, 1963, Sam Newman stated that about 15 months ago he leased an office at 544 Camp Street to an organization known to him as the Cuban Revolutionary Society. This organization was in this office for only four or five months and since they fell behind in their rent, he evicted them.

He also stated that after this, someone who had the key came into this office and when he, Mr. Newman, asked what they were doing there this man stated that he was taking over the office. Mr. Newman stated that he took the key away from this man and put him out. Mr. Newman described this man as a white male, blond hair, and red complexion. Mr. Newman stated that this group was run by young Monteleone of the Monteleone Hotel. Sam Newman also stated that Guy Banister was well acquainted with this organization. Mr. Newman showed the officers a page in a small notebook which he took from his pocket. On this page were the following two names: Louis Rabel, who Mr. Newman stated headed the Cuban Revolutionary Society. The other name on this page was Mr. Grimmader, who Mr. Newman stated had an auditing firm. [NO PD Rep. 11.27.63 Austin to Trosclair]

William Monteleone was the General Chairman of the Crusade to Free Cuba. The sponsoring organization of the Crusade to Free Cuba was listed as the Cuban Revolutionary Council, "National Headquarters, Biscayne Blvd, Miami, Florida." On November 25, 1963, FBI Informant Betty Parent (137-376) advised S.A. Regis Kennedy

The newspapers reported that a man named (FNU) Kelley who works at the Monteleone Hotel was telling how good a friend RUBY was and that RUBY was not the type who would kill anyone. Informant advised this guy according to Dixie, who runs Dixie's Bar of Music, told her this guy was a fruit, and that Dixie had run him out of the bar because he would not let the young boys alone. Informant says he must be gay. Informant did not know anyone named Clay Bertrand. [FBI 89-69-131; NARA FBI 124-10248-10185]

THE HSCA QUESTIONS SAM NEWMAN ABOUT IT

Cornwall: I know that initially you were asked questions about whether or not LEE HARVEY OSWALD had ever been in your building or even temporarily had space there.

Newman: He did not have any space. He could have been connected with the Cubans. But if he did, I didn't know anything about it.

Cornwall: Let me explain to you just so there is no misunderstanding. Whatever you stated on that subject previously wasn't under oath and this is, we are not conducting a criminal investigation. We are just trying to find out what the facts are. You are not suspected by our committee of engaging in any illegal activity. All we want to do is unscramble the events as best we can.

Newman: I wouldn't have known LEE HARVEY OSWALD if I had seen him at that time. I might have seen him. I don't know. I had a lot of people in and out and I wasn't around there that much.

Cornwall: A number of people who were directly or indirectly associated with the building or its occupants have indicated that he was there for at least a short period of time.

Newman: Who do you mean, people that occupied -- some people that rented the place, you mean?

Cornwall: Yes.

Newman: That he was there?

Cornwall: That he was in the building and had space for a short period of time.

Newman: From me? He didn't rent no space from me...

Cornwall: Do you recall the event when OSWALD was arrested in New Orleans in the summer of 1963?

Newman: I remember that.

Cornwall: You remember he was passing out ---

Newman: Pamphlets with the 544 Camp Street on it; that was news to me. So he had to be connected with the Cubans. He didn't have no space, no rented space from me.

Cornwall: What did you do to investigate that, just for your own curiosity, when you found out he was down passing out pro-Castro literature.

Newman: I didn't do anything. If it happened, he had to be with the Cubans, that's the only place he could have been.

Cornwall: What kind of Cubans were those?

Newman: Some Cubans and some Americans. American people connected with it.

Cornwall: Guy Banister was a conservative, is that correct?

Newman: I think so.

Cornwall: And he is the one that asked you to allow this Cuban group to have space.

Newman: He said they was good friends of his.

Cornwall: They were also conservative, correct?

Newman: Yes.

Cornwall: And conservative in the sense that, in particular, they were anti-Castro; weren't they?

Newman: That is right.

Cornwall: The literature however, was pro-Castro, wasn't it.

Newman: I don't remember.

Cornwall: It was liberal, it was left-wing literature, right?

Cornwall: Why would you have assumed then that the left-wing literature and OSWALD was associated with this Cuban group in your building which was clearly anti-Castro?

Newman: I couldn't say he was with the Cubans. I'm not sure. If he wasn't with the Cubans, he was with Banister. Banister had a lot of characters in and out of there.

Cornwall: That would not have made sense either, would it?

Newman: Why?

Cornwall: Because Banister was not left-wing, he was conservative, right?

Newman: You are right. But you couldn't tell much about Banister.

Cornwall: Well, tell us what conversations you had with Banister after that event, relating to it though.

Newman: After what?

Cornwall: After it was discovered OSWALD was on Canal Street passing out pro-Castro literature.

Newman: I never discussed it with him. He was a peculiar person. He didn't want you to discuss anything with him. That's the kind of guy he was.

Cornwall: Other persons who were in the building and were associated with Banister have told us that Banister was very upset when he found out about the pro-Castro literature with the Camp Street address stamped on it.

Newman: Could have been. I don't know much about it. Jack S. Martin can tell you about that. He was in Banister office 90% of the time; every day almost. [NARA HSCA 180-10101-10379]

The FBI:

The question of how the Camp Street address got to be imprinted on the pamphlet was not apparently, ever resolved; however it is possible that when OSWALD talked with BRINGUIER, the latter gave him the address and OSWALD made a stamp and put it on the Lamont pamphlet. In this regard the report on page 408 repeats that extensive investigation was not able to connect OSWALD with the Camp Street address. Investigation did develop that an anti-Castro organization had maintained offices there for a period ending early in 1962.

The Secret Service began its investigation of OSWALD'S connection to 544 Camp Street by questioning ARNESTO NAPOLEON RODRIGUEZ SR.

On December 1, 1963, United States Secret Service Agent Anthony E. Gerrets interviewed Mr. Arnesto N. Rodriguez, Sr. 1205 Charles Avenue, New Orleans. Telephone 523-3720. Mr. Rodriguez is 72 years of age. Mr. Rodriguez stated that he attended the Chenet Institute (no longer existent) at New Orleans, completing a high school course and specializing in English. This was about 1907. He said he subsequently attended the Soule Business College in New Orleans, graduating there from in September 1909, having completed a two year commercial course. He said he returned to Cuba, and subsequently established himself in the wholesale electrical business. He said he continued in the electrical business in Havana until November 1960, when Castro confiscated all of his assets, including his home in Havana, his country estate outside of Havana, and all of his other properties, banks accounts etc.

Arnesto Napoleon Rodriguez Sr. said was a member of the Crusade to Free Cuba. He said the Sergio Arcacha Smith, the former delegate of the Cuban Revolutionary Council in New Orleans, was a member of the Crusade, however, Smith had been expelled for embezzling funds. Rodriguez said that Carlos Quigora and Ronnie Caire knew Smith. He said that the Crusade to Free Cuba was "founded primarily to raise funds with which to buy arms and supplies for use by the Cuban Revolutionary Front..."

Mr. Rodriguez, Sr. said he had never seen OSWALD in his life and only knew that OSWALD had a fight with CARLOS BRINGUIER and two other Cubans on Canal Street, for which he had been arrested on August 9, 1963. He said he had no idea why the Fair Play for Cuba Committee was using the address of 544 Camp Street, former address of the Cuban Revolutionary Council, and anti-Castro organization, whereas the Fair Play for Cuba Committee was pro-Castro. Mr. Rodriguez said he did not know of anyone who had belonged to the Fair Play for Cuba Committee.

Arnesto Napoleon Rodriguez (Y) Gonzalez Sr. had been a manufacturer's representative in Havana, Cuba. [CIA 201-275643 born August 15, 1891] According to the CIA, Arnesto Napoleon Rodriguez Sr. "has in his possession letters of Commendation for services performed for U.S. Naval Attaché at American Legation, Havana, Cuba for services performed in 1934. He also has a citation from the Office of Naval Intelligence dated 1935." On April 6, 1960, a CIA Request for Investigative Action was requested by Joseph S. Piccolo and Jake Esterline. "From JMARC Originating Officer Joseph S. Piccolo WH/4 First Time Submitted Operational Clearance." That very same day Rodriguez Sr. was granted a POA by the CI/Operational Approval and support division. Rodriguez Sr. function was to help determine that refugees granted political asylum in the US were bona fide and not Castro double agents.

On April 8, 1960 CI/OA requested that the results of Subjects FBI check be returned no later than April 8, 1960. Stanton F. Ense. On November 28, 1960, a document entitled Response To Green List Request No. 100152 was generated. It indicated that Arnesto Napoleon Rodriguez (Y) Gonzalez Sr. (AMJUTE-1) had been granted a POA. On April 17, 1961, a memo for WH/4 Joe Piccolo was generated. It was also highly deleted. On January 18, 1962, a memo for Chief, WH/4, Joe Piccolo was generated. It was also highly deleted. An undated memo for (Deleted) From: WH/?/Support stated: "It is requested that Subject's Operational Approval be extended for a period of six months. Jacob Esterline, C/WH/4."

Arnesto Rodriguez, Sr. was of interest to the CIA's Domestic Contacts Division on March 5, 1962, when a CIA source stated that he had introduced the source to two Cubans who claimed they were collecting money for the Cuban Revolutionary Council. The Cubans said that Cuban Revolutionary Council was the U.S. Government approved counter-revolutionary group. The Domestic Contacts Division Chief was then informed by the Task Force W's Counter-Intelligence Section that "there is no evidence of government support being given this organization." [NARA ID 199:07.10.11:] The Domestic Contacts Division generated a memo on Subject from New Orleans on March 5, 1962.

ARNESTO RODRIGUEZ JR. KNEW OSWALD

All the CIA told the HSCA about Arnesto and his son Junior was "Arnesto Rodriguez Sr. Member of Cuban Revolutionary Council is (sic) New Orleans. Member of Crusade to Free Cuba Committee. Date of birth 8/15/91. Arnesto Rodriguez, Jr. Member of CRC in New Orleans. Member of Crusade to Free Cuba. Authorized to sign checks for CRC. Owner of Berlitz School of Language in New Orleans. Carlos Bringuier was also a CRC member. On February 25, 1963 CIA card 019-120-013 was generated regarding Junior. It read "OFFICIAL OF THE ANTI-CASTRO ORGANIZATION MOVIMIENTO DEMOCRATA CRISTIANO/MDC. On November 27, 1963, CI/SIG generated a memo on Arnesto Napoleon Rodriguez marked "Sensitive Disseminations." On November 27, 1963, Dr. Jose Guillermo Aguirre informed Pete Moraga, a USIA officer at the American Embassy, Mexico City that he had attended a dinner on November 23, 1963, in honor of Dr. Charles Moore of New Orleans, at the home of Pablo Amezcua. Pablo Amezcua's mother-in-law, Maria Rodriguez Vinda De Lopez, claimed that her son-in-law, Arnesto N. Rodriguez Sr. is, or was, active in Cuban refugee circles, and who headed a language school in New Orleans, made a tape recording of OSWALD: "Aguirre further said that Maria Rodriguez Vinda De Lopez, during the November 23, 1963, conversation, said that Arnesto

Rodriguez had tape-recorded a conversation with OSWALD." [From Bob Adams 11.26.63 draft of 11348 + 166-78, 190-79]

As a result of this conversation a CIA staff employee generated this memo for the Legal Attaché in Mexico City:

1. On November 26, 1963, Dr. Jose Guillermo Aguirre told United States Information Service officer Pete Moraga the following:

A. Maria Rodriguez Vinda Lopez said that she had a son-in-law living in New Orleans who was well acquainted with OSWALD.

B. The son-in-law is a Cuban named Arnesto Rodriguez, who lives at 212 Jefferson Parish, telephone VERNON 5-9658, New Orleans. He runs a Spanish language school and is anti-Castro.

C. According to Maria Rodriguez Vinda Lopez her son-in-law has tape recorded conversations with OSWALD.

On November 25, 1963, FBI informer Arnesto Rodriguez furnished the following message to the FBI:

As a result of seeing photograph of LEE HARVEY OSWALD on in the newspaper and on television, he recalls an individual coming to the Modern Language School in its new location the last week in July, or the first week in August. This was certainly before Modern Language School officially moved, and was prior to the contact of CARLOS BRINGUIER by OSWALD. Painting and similar work was being done on the new quarters at that time. The individual believed to be OSWALD came to the head of the stairs and asked questions for a very short time concerning course offered, how long they took, how much they cost. He noted informant's accent, and asked if he was Cuban. Informant told him that he had been in this country for 20 years. OSWALD asked him if there were many Cubans in New Orleans, and said that he was interested in Cubans in New Orleans. Nothing further is recalled regarding the conversation, and this is the only possible contact with OSWALD. OSWALD was alone at the time. [NARA FBI 124-10049-10182; FBI NO 44-2064-10]

Rodriguez also told the CIA about his encounter with OSWALD. The CIA gave the information to the FBI:

According to the first confidential source abroad, Arnesto Rodriguez, President of the Modern Language Institute, New Orleans, Louisiana, advised that OSWALD contacted him on one occasion during the last week of July, or early August 1963, and inquired concerning a Spanish language course offered at the Institute. OSWALD did not take any courses, and Rodriguez had no taped recordings of OSWALD'S voice. He had no knowledge of OSWALD'S Spanish speaking ability.

Arnesto Napoleon Rodriguez told an investigator for New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison that OSWALD "came to the Berlitz School of Languages on one occasion and attempted to talk to him about the possibility of taking a language course, and about Cuba in general. Arnesto Napoleon Rodriguez said he told OSWALD he was busy at the time; if he would return at a later date, they could discuss the situation. OSWALD, however, never returned." He denied having any tapes of OSWALD. [CIA 79, 166-78, 113-48, 72; WC (M) Information that A. Rodriguez Sr. NO LA, Possessed Tape Recordings of OSWALD'S Spanish; Sciambra to Garrison 2.14.67 interview with ER Sr.]

MANUEL GIL'S INFILTRATION STORY

On November 27, 1963, Manuel Gil, telephoned the FBI. He said that in early 1962 someone calling himself "Steve" had telephoned him and asked to be put in touch with the leader of the local Cuban resistance group (presumably the Cuban Revolutionary Council). "Steve" called him so many times that he referred the matter to "Sergio Arcacha Smith, head of an anti-Castro organization in New Orleans. Gil stated he had referred Steve to Arcacha merely as a means of getting rid of Steve's nuisance calls." When Manuel Gil heard OSWALD on William Stuckey's show, he thought "Steve" and OSWALD were the same. "Gil pointed out that since seeing the recent newspaper publicity concerning LEE HARVEY OSWALD which indicated OSWALD had been in Russia during the period of the calls he had changed his mind as to the source of the calls but prior to then thought it was OSWALD...He was sure that Sergio Arcacha, who he, Gil, understood is presently in Houston, Texas, had interviewed 'Steve' and would have additional information on him." The FBI concluded: "In view of fact that OSWALD was in Russia at time the telephone calls were received by Manuel Gil, no further investigation being conducted on 'Steve' except to follow up and determine more complete name of 'Steve' from Manuel Gil."

Manuel Gil gave the FBI the name Steve Maishall and the telephone number of the local bus terminal. Steve Maishall was a crank with a long psychiatric and criminal history. William C. Sullivan had a friend in New Orleans who was a friend of Manuel Gil. The FBI reported: "At approximately 8:55 a.m. November 27, 1963, Inspector Don Moore of the Bureau called and advised that Assistant Director William Sullivan has a friend in New Orleans named (Deleted) who advised Sullivan yesterday that a Cuban named Manuel Gil, 620 Gravier Street, New Orleans, supposedly knew OSWALD and OSWALD supposedly called Gil on the telephone." [FBI 62-109060-1649, 282; New Orleans States-Item 2.20.67; FBI 89-69-323 11.22.63] On December 1, 1963, the FBI interviewed Mr. Manuel Gil.

Mr. Gil stated that he did not know OSWALD personally and had never seen him. He said he had seen photos of OSWALD on television and in newspapers since President Kennedy's assassination. Mr. Gil stated he has been a member of the Cuban Revolutionary Council for about the last two years. He said this organization formerly had offices at 544 Camp Street, 2nd floor, for about six months during 1961 to 1962; that Smith had been the New Orleans delegate to the Cuban Revolutionary Council. He said that Luis Rabel, Arnesto Rodriguez Sr., Arnesto Rodriguez Jr., Smith and himself, were authorized to sign checks in behalf of the Cuban Revolutionary Council as was Carlos J. Grimader, CPA. Gil was employed by the Information Council of the Americas...

LUIS RABEL AND 544 CAMP STREET

Mr. Rabel said he had never seen OSWALD personally and could furnish no information about him. Mr. Rabel was shown a copy of The Crime Against Cuba, but could furnish the FBI no information as to why the rubber stamp impression 'Fair Play for Cuba Committee 544 Camp St. New Orleans, La. appeared. Luis Rabel said the Cuban Revolutionary Council had left behind quite a few propaganda leaflets or pamphlets at 544 Camp Street when they moved on from that address, at which time the headquarters for this organization were moved to his home at 4651 Marigny Street, New Orleans.

In 1993 Luis Rabel stated: "He was a communist and he was the opposite of what we were doing. No, I never said no such a thing as that. I don't know anything about leaving any pamphlets anywheres, I never said that." HEMMING 1994: "We went by the goddamn place. I checked on 544 Camp Street later on."

Mr. Ronnie Caire could not furnish information regarding OSWALD using 544 Camp Street as his address nor could William Montelone. The idea of opening an office at 544 Camp Street seemed to have been briefly considered by Oswald: by using Camp Street as an address rather than Lafayette Street, OSWALD could hide the fact that the remnants of the Cuban Revolutionary Front and Cuban Revolutionary Council used the same building for its offices. This was a matter of public record. OSWALD rejected the idea, but he retained the trial pamphlet.

HUNT, 544 CAMP ST. & CUBAN REVOLUTIONARY COUNCIL

544 Camp Street led to the Cuban Revolutionary Council. The Cuban Revolutionary Council led to HOWARD HUNT. According to a biography put together by the Senate Select Committee on Illegal Campaign Activities, HUNT was also a leading figure in the Cuban Revolutionary Council. In sworn testimony, HUNT insisted that he never visited New Orleans, nor had he anything to do with the Cuban Revolutionary Council: "I only worked with the Cuban Revolutionary Front. After the spring of 1961, I had no further dealings in Latin American affairs. I only represented the Cuban Revolutionary Council when it issued its statement to the world about the invasion, once the invasion began." In June 1977 CIA Staff member Gerry Droller was questioned about HUNT'S connection to the Cuban Revolutionary Council. Gerry Droller said that HUNT worked for the Cuban Revolutionary Council before the invasion. [HUNT v. WEBERMAN 76-1252-CIV-PF-USDC, Miami, Droller, HUNT Depos.] HUNT told his son St. John that he had a safehouse in New Orleans during the time in question.

THE CUBAN REVOLUTIONARY COUNCIL AFTER APRIL 1961

The FBI reported: "Many leaders of different organizations have taken the attitude that the United States Government has developed no policy toward Cuba, or anti-Castro organizations, since April 1961. Consequently, Cuban revolutionists are reluctant to try and set up radio stations, conduct any raids or do anything other than engage in propaganda activity for fear of arrest and loss of equipment by the U.S. Government." [FBI 109-584-2959, enclosure page 19 w/h] The Cuban Revolutionary Council infiltrated men into Cuba in June 1961 to assassinate Fidel Castro. The plot failed.

On June 8, 1961, General Charles Cabell, Deputy Director, CIA, advised the FBI that "the Cuban Revolutionary Front was engaged in recruiting Cuban counter-revolutionaries throughout the United States...Charles Cabell concluded that the CIA had and expected to continue to have a special interest in the activities conducted by the Cuban Revolutionary Front and its bona fide affiliates and requested that no action be taken against the Cuban Revolutionary Front for acts it committed as a central point for enlisting support for anti-Castro activities." In June 1961, the FBI advised its field offices it anticipated no active investigation of the Cuban Revolutionary Front or Cuban Revolutionary Council. [FBI 105-87912-735 (?) FOIA PA #211,326] Circa June 16, 1961, the Director of the FBI sent this message to the Chicago FBI Office: "Cuban Revolutionary Front (FRD) aka IS-Cuba Reurairtel, June 6, 1961, with enclosure (deleted) of CIA (deleted). When this becomes known, the field will be advised. No active investigation of these organizations is desired; however you should keep the Bureau currently advised of any pertinent information which may be received concerning their activities. 1- Miami 1- 97-4110 (MDC) Note: (Deleted)." [Serial illegible] On June 19, 1961, the Chicago Field Office of the FBI generated a Letterhead Memorandum "pertaining to a split between the Cuban Revolutionary Front and the Christian Democratic Party." [FBI 97-4110 NR 6.19.61 signed GALE.] On August 10, 1961, the FBI office in Miami filed a report on the Cuban Revolutionary Council that covered the investigative period May 1, 1961 to July 25, 1961. [FBI 109-584-2910 highly deleted; FBI 105-92196-95 w/h; FBI 105-107224-17 airtel p2 1hm p1]

THE RESIDUAL CUBAN REVOLUTIONARY COUNCIL 1962 MUST RESIGN ITSELF TO PEACEFUL CO-EXISTENCE WITH COMMUNIST CUBA

On January 15, 1962, the Chief of Counter-Intelligence stated "No member of the Counter-Intelligence section is in contact with any group connected with the Cuban Revolutionary Council." The CIA had contact with the Cuban Revolutionary Council through its PW and PM Sections. [Memo for Chief OPS 1.11.62] On March 15, 1962, the FBI issued a report on the Cuban Revolutionary Council that covered the investigative period of January and February 1962. "Administrative: Reference is made to New Orleans letter, January 31, 1962, to Miami, requesting information concerning the Cuban Revolutionary Council. Instant report contains detailed information concerning the organization. (Deleted)" [FBI 105-107224-16 highly deleted]

On February 1, 1962, the FBI office in New York City generated a document about the "Liberty Cuban Funds Committee IS - CUBA...Bureau attention is directed to NY airtel June 24, 1960, captioned Cuban Revolutionary Front; IS-CUBA (Bufile 105-87912, NY 105-41380) which contains information (deleted). No further investigation is being conducted in this matter and this case is being placed in a closed status." [Serial illegible 2.1.62] On March 5, 1962, William F. Burke, the Chief of the New Orleans Domestic Contacts Division, asked the Chief of the Contacts Division at CIA Headquarters to advise him on the status of the Cuban Revolutionary Council. The first paragraph of this barely legible document stated that a source met with two Cubans - Hernandez and Major Augusto - who had given a speech in New Orleans on behalf of the Cuban Revolutionary Council:

2. The two Cubans were introduced to our source by Arnesto Rodriguez, a Cuban-born U.S. citizen who lives in New Orleans, and is as teacher at the local Berlitz Language School. The Cubans said that they were supporting the underground movement in the Escambray Mountains and they were in the U.S. for the purpose of obtaining financial support and if possible, munitions. They said that the underground had received no help from the United States since the abortive invasion of April 1961. They stated emphatically that they believed that the only way of eradicating the Castro Government was in the underground movement and that the Cuban people...During the course of one of his conversations with one of our sources Hernandez said that he had already been in contact with the U.S. Government, and that he had a letter from Attorney General Robert Kennedy endorsing the Cuban Revolutionary Council and its activities and that the movement was in the interests of the U.S. and world peace. However, the letter was not exhibited. Hernandez said he had been in touch with the Pentagon and with the CIA. He did not specify the name of the person he contacted. He said that both the military authorities and the CIA were in favor of his group, but that no material assistance had been forthcoming. Our sources are sympathetic toward the Cuban Revolutionary Council and are considering the advisability of advancing financial support to the movement. However, they would like to have assurances that they are not backing a group whose aims are inimical to the U.S. They actually know little about Hernandez and Major Augusto.

William Burke's inquiry was answered on May 7, 1962: "The CI Section of Task Force W has indicated there is no evidence of government support being given to this organization. Also, the Agency does not wish to be in a position of either reporting, or not reporting, support to a particular group, as this can place it in an embarrassing position." [NARA 1993.07.10.11] On March 19, 1962, a FBI report on the Cuban Revolutionary Council was generated. This report was withheld. [FBI 105-107224 NR serial dated 3.19.62] On March 20, 1962, the FBI in Miami sent a report to the Director about the Cuban Revolutionary Council and the Cuban Government in Exile.

On March 19, 1962, MM T-1, who holds an official position with the Cuban Government in Exile, and who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that on March 20, 1962, the following individuals were scheduled to depart Miami for Guatemala: Dr. Jose Miro Cardona, President of the Cuban Revolutionary Council; Dr. Julio Garceran, President of the Cuban Government in Exile; Dr. Marcos Sterling, former Cuban presidential candidate who now resides in Washington, D.C.; Dr. Ricardo Rafael Sardine, who is a member of an association of former Cuban sugar companies; Eusebio Mujal, Cuban labor leader; and Dr. Aureliano Sanchez Arango, head of an anti-Castro group known as the Triple A. MM T-1 said these individuals are not traveling as a group to Guatemala. They are going there upon invitation of Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes, President of Guatemala, for a meeting. This meeting is for the purpose of calling for a vote to designate a Cuban exile leader to unify the Cuban exiles. Garceran, according to MM T-1, had made a prior agreement with Ydigoras to hold this meeting. Garceran already has "in his pocket" the votes of Sterling, Sardine and Hujal, which will assure him a majority vote for leadership. MM T-1 was of the opinion Garceran would remain in Guatemala until April. It is to be noted that the Cuban Revolutionary Council, commonly referred to as the "Consejo", is a unity organization composed of eight anti-Castro revolutionary organizations, three of which recently have defected from the Consejo. The Cuban Government in Exile, a rival Cuban unity organization, is composed of a considerable number of anti-Castro organizations, some of which are organizations "on paper" only. [FBI 105-107224 NR serial dated 3.20.62]

Another FBI document added:

The Cuban Government in Exile is regarded as the principal rival organization of the Council. The Cuban Government in Exile, headed by (deleted) claims to represent the majority of Cuban anti-Castro organizations...The Cuban Government in Exile is beset with some factionalism.

POLITICAL INTELLIGENCE

MM T-1 said that the majority of the members of the Consejo believe that the fight against the communist regime in Cuba is not merely a fight against Fidel Castro, but is a fight against international communism. Therefore, it is no longer a problem of the Cuban exiles alone, but is a hemispheric problem. He expressed the opinion that it is no longer possible for clandestine activity to overthrow the Castro regime, that it is also impossible for Cuban exiles to overthrow Castro by an invasion or by any other means. He expressed the opinion that the OAS cannot do the job because each of the countries is beset with its own internal problems. MM- T-1 stated he believed that only the United States through military action can destroy communism in Cuba. He expressed the hope, however, that the Cuban exiles would be allowed to participate in any such military action should it ever take place.

On March 8, 1962, MM T-3 advised that Carlos Rodriguez Quesada, head of the 30th of November Movement, talked with Dr. Miro Cardona upon the latter's return from Washington. He said RODRIGUEZ then reported to other Cuban exiles that MIRO CARDONA learned from high government officials in Washington that the United States policy toward Cuba is now one of co-existence with the communist Cuba; that no more money would be made available for guns or supplies, or other action against Castro. MM T-1 said MIRO CARDONA was reportedly angry and disgusted.

He also advised that RODRIGUEZ QUESADA held a meeting in Miami and claimed that it is necessary for the Cuban people to "fight against the pinks in the United States State Department". MM T-3 said that this incident came as a total surprise to the Cuban exiles who are greatly upset and disheartened about this incredible development. Consequently, they are very pessimistic about the future of Cuba.

On March 7, 1962, LUIS BARCENA SERRANO who has described himself as a former member of both the MRR and the MRP inside Cuba, advised that about two days previously he talked to Dr. MIRO CARDONA, a personal friend, upon the latter's return from a trip to Washington, D.C. He said MIRO CARDONA told him that there is no future in Cuba as far as the exiles are concerned and advised BARCENA to go out and get a job and forget all about Cuba.

On March 13, 1962, the FBI generated this document:

Re: Anti-Fidel Castro Activities - Internal Security - Cuba.

On March 8, 1962, MM T-1, an American who is acquainted with anti-CASTRO Cuban support in the Miami area, and who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that Laureano Batista Falla one of the leaders of the Christian Democratic Movement conceived the idea to demonstrate peacefully during the visit of President JOHN P. KENNEDY in the Miami area, March 10, 1962. As a result of orders issued by the local law enforcement agencies in the Miami area, all demonstrations during the visit of President KENNEDY were called off. MM T-1 advised on March 9, 1962, that a group of Cuban exiles, members of the Christian Democratic Movement and the 30th of November Movement, both active anti-CASTRO organizations in the Miami area, agreed to commence a peaceful demonstration in the form of a hunger strike in Bayfront Park, downtown Miami, commencing March 10, 1962.

On March 10, 1962, MM T-2, a Cuban exile acquainted with both pro- and anti-FIDEL CASTRO activities in the Miami area, and who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that the 30th of November-group, under the leadership of CARLOS RODRIGUEZ QUESADA, planned to commence the hunger strike demonstration in Bayfront Park, at 12:00 noon. MM T-2 stated that there were approximately thirty individuals, both men and women, Cuban exiles, who participated in this demonstration during the first three hours on March 10, 1962.

(Deleted) demonstrated peacefully during the visit of President John F. Kennedy in the Miami area, March 10, 1962. (Deleted) demonstration was principally to request aid and arms in liberation of Cuba, and to ask for the resignation of Jose Miro Cardona, President of the Cuban Revolutionary Council, one of the most active anti-Fidel Castro organizations in Miami. (Deleted)

On the afternoon of March 12, 1962, according to an article in the Miami News, the demonstrators were warned by the Miami Police Department to cease this demonstration, or be arrested. On March 13, 1962, Desk Sergeant William Lydon Miami Police Department, City Jail, advised that as of 3:00 p.m. approximately 175 individuals had been arrested for disorderly conduct and obstructing or opposing a police officer in the performance of his legal duties. He advised there were 24 women in the group, who, when offered breakfast in the City Jail, broke their hunger strike and ate breakfast. Lydon advised that all of the men arrested refused to eat meals in jail. His records reflected that the following individuals, described as leaders of the organizations mentioned, were released on $75 bond on March 13, 1962: Carlos Rodriguez Quesada, 30th of November Movement, Manuel Cobo, Social Democratic Group; Rafael Valdes Martinez, Anti-Communist Labor Movement. [FBI 109-584-3102 1hm p4 w/h]

On April 20, 1962, a LHM regarding the Cuban Revolutionary Council was sent to New York, New Orleans, San Juan, Tampa, and Washington Field Offices updating the office of its status. [FBI 105-107224-114 1hm & p2 teletype] On August 2, 1962, J. Walter Yeagley, Assistant Attorney General, Internal Security Division, advised the New Orleans FBI Office: "In view of Mr. Rabel Nunuz' close connection with the activities of the Cuban Revolutionary Council in New Orleans, the noted interest of the CIA in the activities of the Cuban Revolutionary Council, this Division is requesting no further investigation in this instance."

THE RESIDUAL CUBAN REVOLUTIONARY COUNCIL – 1963 – THINGS GET EVEN WORSE

On February 6, 1963, the New Orleans Office of the FBI reported that no active investigation was being conducted in regard to the Cuban Revolutionary Council:

"However, information voluntarily furnished by the New Orleans delegate of the Cuban Revolutionary Council, Frank Bartes, as well as from other sources, is reported in letterhead memorandum form." The Operation Progress report on BERNARD BARKER for May 1963 stated:

Subject's development of Pedro Martinez Fraga (201-285267) as a source of intelligence on the residual CRC from his vantage as General Secretary came to fruition on May 29, 1963, when the latter agreed to provide information which would not normally be revealed to non-CRC members or passed on through liaison contacts with the Cuban Affairs Coordinator in Miami. Martinez apparently 'bought' Subject's recruitment approach to the effect that our recent efforts on behalf of Cuba had been hampered by lack of full knowledge of the activities, capabilities and intentions of the various revolutionary groups and individuals, being limited to tailored information which was more often what these people wanted to believe, than reality. Subject claimed that the 'pitch' was his own idea, and that if Martinez was amenable he would pass it on to his superiors with a request for financial help. Martinez agreed without reserve, but insisted that financial remuneration was not necessary. He was the source of one disseminated report prior to his formal recruitment, and we will watch his production during June. If he appears to be cooperating fully with the Subject, we will request a renewal of his POA and offer him $175 per month, his former CRC salary. If, on the other hand, if he appears to be using Subject as a liaison contact or as a channel for influencing ODYOKE in favor of the CRC, he will be dropped.

On April 17, 1963, Miro Cardona, the head of the Cuban Revolutionary Council, held a press conference in Washington, D.C., during which he said that he had completed a series of meetings with United States Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy. Miro Cardona had demanded a $50 million war chest and permission to organize another Cuban invasion. Robert F. Kennedy refused all of his requests. The next day Miro Cardona resigned from the Cuban Revolutionary Council; by May 1963, the Kennedy Administration had cut off all funding to the Cuban Revolutionary Council. On April 24, 1963, the FBI SAC in Miami sent a teletype to the Director of the FBI:

The source stated that the doors of the CRC are now open to practically everyone but that it is anticipated that groups such as Alpha-66, the SNFE and Commandos L, anti-Castro organizations, will not join. It appears despite the desires of the CRC, that the Student Revolutionary Directorate is not interested in joining. [FBI 105-107224-114]

The FBI observed the Cuban Revolutionary Council merely "held one assembly meeting on May 20, 1963, in Miami," [FBI Bufile 109-584-3387] and a number of Cuban Revolutionary Council members had left town. A May 21, 1963, Chief of Station, JMWAVE report, dealt with an informant within "the residual Cuban Revolutionary Council." This informant reported that FRANK STURGIS was in contact with General

Claire Chennault. STURGIS told General Claire Chennault that Manuel Artime was on the top of his list of Cuban exile leaders. STURGIS suggested that General Claire Chennault give him financial aid, and said he would contact Manuel Artime on behalf of General Chennault." [Informant - 201-251689 - This informant was STURGIS]

In the course of attempting to get reviews for my Dylan To English Dictionary I telephoned Sam Chennault, the music critic for New Times, an alternative newspaper. When I pointed him to this information he commented, "Claire died in 1958 and was in pretty poor shape in the year's preceding this. I'm not sure if my step-grandmother, Anna Chennault, was involved in this in any respect, but she was a covert operative of Richard Nixon's and helped prolong the Vietnam War preceding Nixon's election." Fonzi reported:

Of course, the most strident reactions came from within the anti-Castro community itself. Following the U.S. Government's notification that it would discontinue its subsidy to the Cuban Revolutionary Council, its President, Miro Cardona, announced his resignation from the Council in protest against U.S. policy. The Cuban exile leader accused President Kennedy of 'breaking promises and agreements' to support another Cuban invasion...The resignation of Miro Cardona split the Cuban Revolutionary Council down the middle and precipitated a bitter dispute among the exile factions. The more moderate among them contended that without U.S. support there was little hope of ousting Castro, and the exiles should concentrate their efforts on mounting political pressure to reverse Washington's shift in policy. Other exile groups announced their determination to continue the war against Castro and, if necessary, to violently resist curtailment of their paramilitary activities during the Kennedy administration.

THE CRC'S INVASION HOAX

On June 20, 1963, the Miami Herald ran a story that stated: "500 Refugee Commandos Land In Cuba, Exiles Say - The Cuban Revolutionary Council announced dramatically today that exile commandos have disembarked in Cuba and called the landing 'The beginning of the liberation of Cuba...The initial announcement was made by Antonio Varona, general coordinator of the Council which represents exile groups that reorganized after the resignation of Dr. Jose Miro Cardona." The three exile groups alleged to have participated in the invasion were MIR, Rescate and the Christian Democratic Movement. The FBI" "Rescate was formed in Havana, Cuba in the early part of 1959 by (deleted). It's principal leaders and most of its members, were former members of the Authentic Party." [FBI 105-107224-16] On June 22, 1963, the Miami Herald carried an article "U.S. Skepticism on Cuban Commando Raids Grows." This article reported the United States State Department said no more than 50 anti-Castro infiltrators might have landed in Cuba. [FBI 105-107224-135 p1 - page 2 w/h] On June 23, 1963, The Miami News carried an article, "Raid a Hoax; Cuban Exile Boss Quits," by Hal Hendrix, Miami News, Latin American Editor. This article stated that the internationally publicized commando raid on Cuba was a hoax which triggered the resignation of Dr. Antonio Maceo. (Dr. Antonio Maceo replaced Miro Cardona as the President of the Cuban Revolutionary Council.) This article reported that "although Dr. Maceo did not say it, sources related that the proposed landing of up to 3,000 commandos was a fraud that ballooned with the tacit consent of other publicity minded CRC members." [FBI 109-584-39 - highly deleted] Subsequent press editorials criticized the Cuban Revolutionary Council for the trumped-up invasion; Cuban exiles reacted with disillusionment and disappointment. On June 20, 1963, the Miami office of the FBI endeavored "to develop information through its informants and sources reflecting upon authenticity of reported Cuban invasion by groups under the Cuban Revolutionary Council (deleted). Pertinent information herein from Miami's sources being disseminated to (deleted) and all interested intelligence agencies to assist them in assessing current press reports. [4 pages deleted] MRR is a member of the Cuban Revolutionary Council, an anti-Castro unity organization." [FBI 105-107224-135; FBI 105-107224 - 6.30.63 from SAC Miami - no serial] The FBI reported, "Mr. Garcia furnished a copy of an official statement released on June 24, 1963 by the CRC, which reads as follows:

1. To fully reiterate and confirm the statement issued last Thursday the 20th inst. Announcing the landing and definite infiltration in Cuba of some of its Commando units.
2. To confirm that the radio transmission was effectively carried out by those Commandos from within Cuban territory...
3. To inform the exiles that the aforementioned statement was released at the petition of the Commandoes, many days after the landings had been realized and after two radio transmissions had already been effected.
4. To reject any responsibility for the false or exaggerated interpretations given the Council's official statement, as these are foreign to its exact and precise text.
5. To denounce and condemn the campaign of defamation against the Council, organized by certain individuals, who postpone the supreme interests of Cuba to their own ambitions and hatreds.
6. To accept the resignation submitted by Dr. Antonio Maceo of this post as President of the Cuban Revolutionary Council, deploring that his retreat should coincide with the EXTREMELY GRAVE HAPPENINGS NOW DEVELOPING IN CUBA DUE TO THE INTENSIFICATION OF THE STRUGGLE FOR LIBERATION, which is textually recognized by Dr. Maceo in his letter of resignation.
7. To energetically reject the motives upon which Dr. Maceo attempted to base his resignation, as those motives do not correspond to the real facts and because, furthermore, Dr. Maceo's leading and important participation in the statements and comments made before the press, radio and television, on last Thursday, June 20th, has been omitted.

8. To designate Dr. Manuel A. de Verona Loredó as President of the Cuban Revolutionary Council.

9. To invoke God's favor and the patriotism of the Cubans who 'neither surrender nor resign themselves to live in slavery', to carry on the struggle begun on mid-April last, notwithstanding the difficulties, dangers and sacrifices we are certain to encounter.

The CIA believed that OPERATION RED CROSS and the hoax invasion were one in the same: "Subsequent developments revealed that the ten-man team which was infiltrated, was part of the invasion force which the rump Cuban Revolutionary Council announced on June 20, 1963, had infiltrated into Cuba. It would appear in retrospect that the ten Cubans on [OPERATION RED CROSS] did not have any Soviet contacts but they dreamed these contacts up in order to find an angel who would facilitate their infiltration into Cuba." [CIA JMWAVE relationship with Pawley Report 7.25.63]

A cable from JMWAVE stated:

1. When the Cuban Revolutionary Council made its invasion announcement June 20, 1963, WAVE initiated inquiries throughout exile community designed to establish what exile Paramilitary types were missing from Miami or had temporarily dropped out of sight. It was believed acquisition this type of info would facilitate cross-checking on size of CRC sponsored invasion. Additionally, in view of timing of OPERATION RED CROSS. i.e. infiltration ten men north coast of Oriente June 9, 1963, we were concerned that OPERATION RED CROSS might be part of CRC invasion force since CIA employee had impression RED CROSS team did not plan to exfiltrate...Believe current info makes it evident Op participants had no Soviet contacts, but they parlayed notional Soviet contacts into sharp con game designed to attract angel i.e. Pawley, Life, Sourwine et. al. who could facilitate their exit from the U.S. as well as give them some arms equipment. Their con game worked because Soviet defector bait could not be passed up by angels or CIA. While facts which currently available tend to indicate con game worked and CIA invested circa $4,000 in con game, continue believe the RED CROSS OPERATION was long shot which could not be rejected." The CIA connected Eduardo Perez Bayo and several of his associates with the CRC invasion. [CIA FOIA 18458]

On June 28, 1963, in a Memo for the Chief of CI regarding Station relations with the current Cuban Revolutionary Council:

Our present connections with the Council are primarily in the financial field. The only other activity with which we are concerned is the medical program for the Brigade members, which is carried out under the auspices of the CRC, although it is in the charge of Dr. Antonio Maceo, who is no longer a member of the Council since he resigned the presidency on June 22, 1963. Our interest in the Council is in the administrative/financial field, rather than the operational...We exercise no control over the present Council or its activities, except in the financial aspect. No financial assistance is now given the Council (since the resignation of Dr. Miro), but certain financial obligations of the past remain to be liquidated and certain, very specific on-going programs must be continued to their logical conclusions. These ongoing programs, however, do not contribute directly to the Council, but have been in the past funded through it. In the past, we did receive a substantial amount of intelligence from the CRC. However, since the resignation of Dr. Miro there has been no appreciable amount of intelligence received from that organization...Since the resignation of Dr. Miro and the subsequent termination of official financial support to the Council, our control of, and relationship to, the Council have changed considerably. We do, however, continue to maintain contact with certain individuals of the Council in connection with our present activities related thereto, which are mainly in the financial field. Since our primary objective at present is to handle the financial termination of the Council, and the activities related thereto, in as smooth and dignified a manner as possible, our association with certain personnel of the CRC will probably continue through the next four to six months. In the meantime, certain Council files and intelligence reports are available to us although on a greatly reduced scale. Alice B. Caponong PW [6.28.63 Memo for Chief, CI. Subject: Station Relations with the Present CRC. Ref. MM 105-5147 6.11.63]

On July 3, 1963, The Miami News contained an article which stated that the Cuban Revolutionary Council announced it had moved to smaller offices to cut expenses. The article stated that after having lost the $80,000 a month United States Government subsidy, the Cuban Revolutionary Council abandoned its offices at 1700 Biscayne Boulevard, which cost $600 a month and moved to 276 NE 25th Street, Miami, where the rent would only be $150 a month. On July 4, 1963, the Cuban Revolutionary Council issued a press release condemning the campaign of defamation by "miserable puppets trying to aggravate the division among Cuban refugees." On August 8, 1963, the New Orleans FBI stated:

In view of...the noted interest of CIA in the council's activities, this Division is requesting no further investigation in this instance. In view of the statement by Mr. Yeagley, New Orleans is limiting its further efforts in this matter to contacts with Mr. Frank Bartes and to other sources who voluntarily furnished information regarding Subject organization. [FBI 105-97459-210-221 8.8.63; FBI 105-107224-72]

After the invasion hoax, the Cuban Revolutionary Council kept a lower profile. [HSCA V5 p58] The New Orleans FBI Office cited the August 2, 1962, letter by Walter Yeagley as justification for not investigating the Cuban Revolutionary Council. In November 1963 the Cuban Revolutionary Front was mentioned in FBI document 89-43-608 page 5.

THE RESIDUAL CUBAN REVOLUTIONARY COUNCIL - 1964

On January 28, 1964, the FBI in Miami sent a report on the organization and activities of the Cuban Revolutionary Council. "Will continue to investigate activities of this organization for intelligence purposes to determine if they are in violation of any laws of the United States. Will also attempt to determine further developments with regard to efforts of the CRC to establish base of operations in the Dominican Republic." [FBI 105-107224-162] The "residual Cuban Revolutionary Council" also existed in New Orleans, where it was headed by the remnants of the Cuban Revolutionary Front and the Friends of Democratic Cuba.

On April 10, 1964, Frank Bartes, 1608 Mason Smith Street, Jefferson Parish, La who is the delegate to the Cuban Revolutionary Council in New Orleans advised that he has been too occupied in making a living as a real estate salesman to engage in any significant activity in 1964. He advised that the Cuban Revolutionary Council in New Orleans has not engaged in any significant activity in 1964. New Orleans is closing its file on the Cuban Revolutionary Council, subject to being reopened to report any pertinent information regarding that organization in the future. [FBI 109-584-39]

OSWALD: EARLY SEPTEMBER 1963

OSWALD wrote to the Socialist Workers Party at 116 University Road, New York 3, New York.

Dear Sirs: Please advise me as to how I can get into direct contact with SWP representatives in the Baltimore/Washington, D.C. area. I and my family are moving to that area in October. As you know there is no SWP branch in New Orleans area when I have been living there. I am a long time subscriber to the Militant and other party literature which I am sure you have a record. Thank You. LEE HARVEY OSWALD.

[WC Dobbs Ex. 10] Ruth Paine traveled to Baltimore in August 1963. [WCE 78] She said, "I was on a big sweep of friends and family that summer, after being separated from husband."

OSWALD'S LETTER TO THE COMMUNIST PARTY

OSWALD'S letter to the Communist Party expressed doubts about his public role in the communist struggle: "Handicapped as it were, by my past record [as a defector to Russia] can I still compete with antiprogressive forces, or whether in your opinion should I always remain in the background, i.e. underground." OSWALD intimated that he was available for underground work if the Party needed him.

OSWALD SEPTEMBER 17, 1963

On Tuesday September 17, 1963, OSWALD obtained a Mexican Tourist Card, good for one journey for no longer than 15 days, from the Mexican Consulate, New Orleans. [WCE 2119] OSWALD obtained this card under the name "HARVEY OSWALD LEE." On his application he spaced the words LEE HARVEY OSWALD in this fashion: "LEE (space) HARVEYOSWALD." The Warren Commission explained: "OSWALD seems originally to have also printed his name, evenly spaced, as 'LEE H. OSWALD' but, noting that the form instructed him to 'Print full name. No initials,' [he] printed the remainder of his middle name after the 'H.' The clerk who typed the card thus saw a space after 'LEE,' followed by 'HARVEY OSWALD' crowded together, and probably assumed that 'LEE' was the applicant's last name." Another section of the Warren Report stated: "Typed in the blank 'Appelidos y nombre' was [the name] 'LEE, HARVEY OSWALD,' (The comma between 'LEE' and 'HARVEY' seems to have been an error...since OSWALD signed both the application and the card itself, LEE H. OSWALD)." [WR p314, 730]

OSWALD was being duplicitous. Why didn't OSWALD point out this error to the Mexican official? OSWALD'S "document submitted to prove nationality" was a birth certificate. The clerk should have known OSWALD'S correct name, unless he had not looked at the birth certificate. Another possibility was that OSWALD submitted an altered Birth Certificate to the Mexicans. OSWALD had counterfeited Selective Service Cards and an International Vaccination Certificate. Why not a birth certificate? On this application OSWALD stated he was employed as a photographer at 640 Rampart.

WINFRED C. BARNES

Miami Florida

November 27, 1963

Memo: SAC Re: Assassination of President JFK

At 9:20 a.m. instant date, Mr. W.C. Barnes, International Petroleum Company, Coral Gables, Florida, telephonically contacted this office to relate the following information:

Caller stated he had read in this morning's paper that LEE HARVEY OSWALD had crossed the border from Laredo, Texas, to Nuevo Laredo, Mexico on September 26, 1963. Barnes further stated that he himself had crossed the border on that same date at the same place. He said he left from Nuevo Laredo via Mexicana Airlines flight 711. The flight was to Mexico City via Monterey. Barnes stated he went only as far as Monterey where he had some business to attend to.

Barnes recalled seeing some people while on his trip who might have some connection with OSWALD but he was not sure at this time. He also noted he would be available for interview if this office felt he might be of some assistance.

Robert John Schamay IC

[NARA FBI 124-10272-10111]

In Warren Commission document CD 227, the FBI reported on December 2, 1963 that a Mexican Tourist Card had been discovered for Barnes that indicated he entered Mexico at the same time OSWALD did, however the FBI claimed it was unable to locate Barnes, despite the extensive information, including his address, which was on the application for the Mexican Tourist Card. The FBI did not want to find Barnes because he might have supplied the Bureau with information about OSWALD'S associates, and OSWALD was not supposed to have any associates.

OSWALD: SEPTEMBER 17, 1963

November 27, 1963

MEMO FOR THE RECORD

From Special/Affairs relaying that FBI informed the DCI that all info indicates OSWALD was in New Orleans from September 17, 1963 to September 25, 1963.

On November 27, 1963 the FBI reported to Mr. Helms that on September 17, 1963, OSWALD was in New Orleans where he applied for unemployment compensation on that day. A check of airlines indicates that he did not leave New Orleans that day, or the following one, and every indication, including statements by his landlady, would lead to the conclusion that he remained in New Orleans until September 25, 1963.

Desmond FitzGerald, Chief,

Special Affairs Staff." [CIA 181-73]

OSWALD LEAVES NEW ORLEANS

Ruth Paine arrived in New Orleans on Friday, September 20, 1963, and spent three nights with the OSWALDS, after which Marina Oswald drove back to Irving with Ruth Paine. Marina Oswald and Ruth Paine were back in Irving, Texas, on the morning of Monday, September 23, 1963. Paine commented: "I had no idea he was going to go to Mexico. That's not why she came back. She came back because she had no way of getting medical care. She had not seen a doctor, even though she was in her eighth month of pregnancy. They had lived in Dallas long enough to get county medical care. I wanted her to stay with me at least until the baby was born. That was my concern." OSWALD could not have made his trip to Mexico City without Ruth Paine. He had nowhere to leave his wife and child. Marina Oswald testified that OSWALD told her the reason for the Mexican trip was to evade the American prohibition on travel to Cuba. He cautioned her that the trip and its purpose had to be kept secret. Marina Oswald told the HSCA that OSWALD had previously made plans to reach Cuba by hijacking an airliner flying out of New Orleans, but he later abandoned that idea.

A. Well he wanted a plane once, and he wanted me to help him out.

Q. That was to go where?

A. To Cuba.

The CIA reported: "She testified that LEE was very anxious to go to Cuba and even discussed the idea of kidnapping an aircraft for this purpose. He indicated it would get considerable newspaper publicity. She discouraged him from doing this. In her opinion LEE would not like Cuba any more than he did the Soviet Union or any other place, even 'the moon.'" HEMMING told this researcher:

We know of half a dozen cases where people were told by their case officers to skyjack planes and they did it. And there were various reasons for it. We know that's a fact. This is an idea some nut case might bring up, and he might repeat it to his old lady. First, when you got people, they'll jump out of airplanes. They'll do this, they'll do that. Sometimes you have to test them. How far will they go? How dedicated and loyal are they? Sometimes you propose kamikaze schemes to 'em, not enough that they doubt your loyalty - whether you're using them, and they're expendable. But you throw it out to them. You're not forcing 'em. And if he comes back with logical reasons why it shouldn't be done that way, you say 'You're right, guy, you're right.' Bonding continues.

The first aircraft skyjacking was in Cuba, 1958. Student Directorate. One of Fidel's boys hijacked a plane. At that point in time, half the people they sent down as skyjackers were allowed to walk the streets in a short period of time. It would have been determined by the hostility level against the U.S. OSWALD would have been told that he would have been welcomed. Anyone who fucks with the Yankees is welcome. It wasn't true. They didn't like strangers coming in unannounced like that all the time. Would it have been proposed to him? Yeah: 'We got a job for you, this is how we get you to Cuba.' He might have mentioned this to her.

See, they're trying to link him with Castro and he doesn't realize it. They're trying to paint him as a Castro agent who is later found in Cuba after the assassination. Let's say they allow him to defect to the Uruguayan Embassy in Havana, which we used quite frequently, and he sits there and says 'I did it for Fidel' and all this other kind of bullshit. What choice does he have? 'Mr. OSWALD you're sitting here in the Uruguay Embassy and the United States authorities are accusing you of having assassinated the President of the United States. What have you got to say?' [HEMMING whined like child] 'I'm a patsy.' They wouldn't have believed a fucking word. They'd say 'You're in Cuba, man. You afraid Fidel's gonna take you out?' That would have been the bag. That's what they would have gone for first. Didn't work, probably. First thing, is Fidel is the patsy." Marina Oswald told this interviewer in 1994: "The hijacking of the plane, which proclaimed him being loony, now makes sense to me if we take into consideration that he was on a mission.

Marina Oswald was asked why she didn't leave after her husband had shot at Walker, threatened NIXON and then talked of hijacking a plane. Marina Oswald told this researcher: "Of course it frightened me. Arguments were initiated on his part so he could put me in safe hands so he can do what he has to do. That's how I read these things now." Did OSWALD actually consider hijacking a airplane to Cuba with the help of Marina who was pregnant at the time? What would have become of his daughter? Was he going to take his child along on the hijacking or was he going to abandon her? It would have been a unique way to establish his bona fides with the Cubans, but OSWALD and Marina would have been imprisoned and possibly extradited back to the United States. The hijacking story made little sense, unless Marina made up the part about her helping him out. As a rule, OSWALD did not get his family mixed up in his clandestine activities. OSWALD might have considered becoming a skyjacker, but only by himself.

THE COMMUNIST PARTY REPLIES TO OSWALD

On September 19, 1963, the Director of Information of the Communist Party, Arnold Johnson, replied to OSWALD'S letter, directing him to call Communist Party headquarters in New York City when he arrived in Baltimore, and the New York office would tell him who to call in Baltimore. Arnold Johnson was afraid of provocateurs, and OSWALD'S reference to "underground" elicited this response: "Often it is advisable for some people to remain in the background, not underground." [WR p288] In addition to having corresponded with the Communist Party, OSWALD wrote a total of four letters to the national office of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee that summer; yet there was no evidence that OSWALD heard from the Fair Play for Cuba Committee after May 29, 1963. On September 19, 1963, J. Edgar Hoover sent the CIA an FBI report on OSWALD'S activities in New Orleans. According to the Warren Commission:

(1) OSWALD left New Orleans on Wednesday, September 25, 1963, at 12:20 p.m., and arrived in Houston on Wednesday, September 25, 1963, at 10:50 p.m.

(2) Then he left Houston on Thursday, September 26, 1963, at 2:35 a.m. and arrived in Laredo on Thursday, September 26, 1963, at 1:20 p.m.

(3) He left Nuevo Laredo on Thursday, September 26, 1963, at 2:15 p.m., and arrived in Mexico City on Friday, September 27, 1963, at 10:00 a.m.

Most of the Warren Commission itinerary was correct, however, some of it was false.

TUESDAY SEPTEMBER 24, 1963

OSWALD remained in New Orleans until Tuesday, September 24, 1963. Ruth Paine was in New Orleans to pick up Marina and June and drive them to Irving, Texas. Ruth Paine told the Warren Commission that OSWALD told her he was going to Philadelphia to look for work or to Houston, Texas, to look for work and see a friend. Ruth Paine testified: "I wondered, as I had already indicated for the Commission, I had wondered, from time to time, whether this was a man who was working as a spy, or in any way a threat to the Nation, and I thought, 'This is the first I have heard anything about a contact. I am interested to know if this is a real thing or something unreal.'"

The Warren Commission:

A neighbor told the FBI that he saw OSWALD leave Magazine Street on Tuesday evening [September 24, 1963] carrying two pieces of luggage, and board a bus. Though uncertain as to date, a bus driver told the FBI that at the same time of day and location, a man carrying two suitcases of different sizes boarded and asked where he should get off for the Greyhound Bus station. Oswald's precise whereabouts on the night of Tuesday September 24, 1963, are uncertain...

When OSWALD was seen in Mexico City he only had a single suitcase, a small blue zipper bag. [Slawson Mexico City Memo p54]

WEDNESDAY SEPTEMBER 25, 1963

The Warren Commission: "Sometime after 5:00 a.m. on Wednesday September 25, 1963, he collected a Texas unemployment compensation check for $33 at his New Orleans post office box." According to the Warren Commission, under normal postal procedures, OSWALD'S check would be in his post office box by 5:00 a.m. But was the Post Office open to the public at that time? The Warren Commission: "He cashed the check between 8:00 a.m. and 12:00 p.m. at a Wynn-Dixie Supermarket about six blocks from his Magazine Street apartment." Evidence suggested on the night of Tuesday, September 24, 1963, OSWALD met with HEMMING and dropped off his baggage. HEMMING drove OSWALD back to Magazine Street late at night. OSWALD appeared to have been at Magazine Street the next morning since he cashed his check at the Wynn-Dixie Supermarket which was nearby. OSWALD did not have to return to Magazine Street to cash his check. He could have cashed it in downtown New Orleans, at Martin's Restaurant, where he had cashed several others. Nonetheless, on the morning of Wednesday, September 25, 1963, OSWALD went to the Post Office and then to the Wynn-Dixie Supermarket. This meant he had doubled back and stayed at Magazine Street that night. After this OSWALD and HEMMING drove to a clandestine airstrip or private airport, then flew by private plane, to Austin, Texas. In a Memorandum for the Record, Desmond FitzGerald, Chief, Special Affairs Staff, noted that the FBI had informed the DCI that it had checked all the airlines in New Orleans and OSWALD did not leave on any of them. The FBI did not check the private airports in New Orleans or any clandestine airstrips.

THE IMAGINARY NEW ORLEANS TO HOUSTON BUS RIDE WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1963

According to the Warren Commission, OSWALD went back to the Greyhound station and left for Houston, Texas, at 12:20 p.m. on Wednesday September 25, 1963, however, no one in the baggage department or ticket department at the New Orleans Greyhound station remembered seeing OSWALD that night or the next day. The ticket clerk at the New Orleans bus station thought he sold OSWALD his ticket on Thursday, September 26, 1963, the same day OSWALD arrived in Laredo, Texas. [WR 323; WC Slawson hand wrt. notes #640] There were no witnesses on the 12:20 p.m. bus who remembered seeing OSWALD. The bus driver did not remember OSWALD. J. Lee Rankin was skeptical: "We are also concerned about the possibility that OSWALD may have left New Orleans on Tuesday September 24, 1963, instead of Wednesday, September 25, 1963, as has been previously thought...Marina indicated that he told her an unemployment check would be forwarded to Ruth Paine's address in Irving from his post office box in New Orleans...It also seems improbable to us that OSWALD would have gone all the way back to the Wynn-Dixie store at 4303 Magazine Street to cash the unemployment check, which he supposedly picked up at the Lafayette branch of the post office, when he could have previously cashed it at Martin's Restaurant." The Warren Commission: "THERE WAS NO FIRM EVIDENCE OF THE MEANS BY WHICH OSWALD TRAVELED FROM NEW ORLEANS TO HOUSTON...he left New Orleans, probably on Continental Trailways Bus No. 5121, departing New Orleans at 12:20 p.m., on Wednesday, September 25, 1963, and scheduled to arrive in Houston at 10:50 p.m. That bus is the only one on which OSWALD could have left New Orleans after noon on Wednesday, September 25, 1963, and arrived in Houston before midnight."

DANNELLY INCIDENT - WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1963

On Wednesday, September 25, 1963, when the Warren Commission placed him en route to Houston, Texas, OSWALD appeared in Austin, Texas, some 520 miles away. Evidence suggested that HEMMING flew OSWALD to Austin, Texas, where OSWALD attempted to get his dishonorable discharge upgraded. The Warren Report:

An employee of the United States Selective Service System stated that an individual calling himself LEE HARVEY OSWALD appeared at her Austin, Texas, office immediately after lunch on Wednesday, September 25, 1963, and discussed the possibility of rectifying his undesirable Marine Corps discharge."

Mrs. Lee Dannelly, Assistant Chief of the Administrative Division, State Selective Service Headquarters, Austin, Texas, maintains a three inch by five inch locator card on all registrants with all boards located throughout the State of Texas and that these locator cards reveal that one LEE HARVEY OSWALD, born October 18, 1939, Selective Service Number 41-112-39-532, is a registrant with Local Board Number 14 which is located at Fort Worth, Texas. The card contains no other information whatsoever concerning LEE HARVEY OSWALD and any information concerning him in the possession of the Selective Service System would be located in the files of Local Board Number 114, Fort Worth, Texas.

Mrs. Dannelly further pointed out that the locator cards in the State Selective Service Headquarters indicates that there are 15 individuals with the last name OSWALD in the locator files and that she recalls having searched for a name HARVEY OSWALD in these files when the individual known to her as HARVEY OSWALD contacted her on or about September 25, 1963, and finding no name listed therein for HARVEY OSWALD, she did not search for a LEE HARVEY OSWALD.

Mrs. Dannelly further pointed out that she recalls that another employee of the State Selective Service Headquarters, namely Mr. Jesse Skrivanek, had brought HARVEY OSWALD back to her desk on the day in question which she thought to be September 25, 1963. She advised that she had checked and rechecked with Jesse Skrivanek who was on Christmas leave as of December 26, 1963, but that Jesse Skrivanek could not recall OSWALD by name and had made no notation concerning him at the time he came to State Selective Service Headquarters. She advised that as far as she knows Colonel Sinclair never at any time observed the individual using the name HARVEY OSWALD and that Jesse Skrivanek is the only other employee that she can recall personally at this time who may have observed OSWALD. [FBI SA 105-2909 Austin 12.26.63 H.T. Burke]

The FBI reported:

Lieutenant Colonel William B. Sinclair, Chief of the Administrative Division, State Selective Service Headquarters, Austin, Texas, advised that he had never heard or seen LEE HARVEY OSWALD until his name was mentioned on newscast and television programs on November 22, 1963, in connection with the assassination of President Kennedy. He advised further that on November 24, 1963, his Assistant Chief of the Administrative Division, Mrs. Lee Dannelly called him at his home and advised him that after observing the photographs of OSWALD on television and hearing his name announced, that she recalled that this individual had contacted her at State Selective Service Headquarters some time in the past six or eight weeks and that he had inquired at that time for information concerning a Marine corps discharge which he desired to have changed from 'other than honorable' to an 'honorable' discharge. Colonel Sinclair pointed out that at the time of this contact on November 24, 1963, Mrs. Dannelly was unable to recall any specific date of this contact and that it did not appear to be pertinent at that time, but he advised Mrs. Dannelly that she should use her own discretion about whether or not the matter should be reported to the proper authorities. Colonel Sinclair was allowed to observe a photograph of LEE HARVEY OSWALD and was advised that he could not recall ever having seen that individual inside the State Selective Service Headquarters, Austin, Texas. Colonel Sinclair further pointed out that there are a large number of callers at State Selective Service Headquarters and no register is maintained of the individuals who call at that office concerning routine matters which would have been the category of the inquiry referred to by Mrs. Dannelly on behalf of OSWALD. [FBI SA-105-2909 12.27.63 - WCD V24 p.236]

Ronnie Dugger of the Texas Observer questioned Lee Dannelly. Lee Dannelly recalled:

On November 24, 1963, (Sunday) it was announced over TV that at that time there was no definite record as to Mr. OSWALD'S whereabouts from May 1963 until the time of the assassination of President Kennedy. I was at home at the time and I called Colonel Sinclair and advised him I was positive this man had been to our office approximately six or eight weeks prior to that date (November 24, 1963). I could not recall any information that would make me positive about a specific date but that I was positive that it had been on a Wednesday. I have been having quite a bit of trouble with my back and legs for quite some time, and the only time I have gone to town during my lunch hour was on our pay days to cash a check --- we are paid on alternate Wednesdays. I was a few minutes late in getting back to the office that day and Mr. OSWALD was waiting to see me when I got back. Mr. OSWALD stated that he had just come from the Governor's office to try to straighten out his discharge from the Marine Corps, which had been under 'other than honorable conditions.' The Governor's office told him they did not have anything to do with such things but that maybe this office would be able to assist him. Mr. OSWALD stated that at the time he was given the discharge under 'other than honorable conditions' he was told that if he lived an upright life for the next two years, he could then make application to have the type of discharge changed to 'Honorable.' He told me that he was having difficulty in obtaining a job, and holding a job, with that type of discharge. Also, he said it was embarrassing to his family. I asked him where he was registered, and he said he was registered in Florida but he was living in Fort Worth at the present time. I checked our locator file for HARVEY OSWALD (the name he gave me) but did not check any of the other OSWALD cards for possible identification, since I presumed he was correct and was registered in Florida. I did not find a card for HARVEY OSWALD. We do have a card for LEE HARVEY OSWALD. Mr. OSWALD did not remember whether he had given his address in Fort Worth (at time of separation from the Marine Corps) as place of entry into services or not. I advised him to check with our local boards in Fort Worth when he got back and maybe they would have a copy of his Report of Separation (DD Form 214)

This headquarters maintains sets of military regulations from the various armed forces which jointly concern the Selective Service System. I checked these regulations in an attempt to learn the exact procedure Mr. OSWALD should follow in making application for a change in 'type' discharge. I did not find the regulation covering this subject. I then gave Mr. OSWALD a copy of an information sheet (R6-1229) (copy attached) which lists the location of various types of military records, so that he could write direct and request the procedure for making the application for change in 'type' of discharge. During this entire interview, which last for about 30 minutes, Mr. OSWALD was very courteous. Mr. Dugger advised me to inform the FBI of my knowledge of this case.

Mr. Dugger called me on the telephone sometime during the morning of December 8, 1963, and asked if Mr. OSWALD at any time mentioned to me that he had lived in Russia. I told him no. Mr. Dugger asked me if I saw Mr. OSWALD at the time he was supposedly at the Trek Cafe, 3100 South Congress. I told him no. Mr. Dugger also asked if Mr. OSWALD had at any time during the interview mentioned anything as to his mode of transportation. I told him no. (Signed) Mrs. Lee Dannelly, Assistant Chief, Administrative Division.

Mrs. Lee Dannelly, Assistant Chief of the Administrative Division, State Selective Service Headquarters, Austin, Texas, advised as best she can recall the person who contacted her giving his name as HARVEY OSWALD on or about September 25, 1963, was wearing grey trousers and a light colored shirt, not white, but possibly a faded blue. His clothes were wrinkled, but clean, and otherwise neat but worn looking. She could not recall the type of shoes he wore, and pointed out that his clothes that his shoes would not have been visible to her during her interview with him, although she could have observed his shoes when he walked up to her desk and as he left. She cannot recall his having a hat, although he may have left one in the waiting room when he came in. [FBI SA 105-2909 Austin, 1.31.64 H.T. Burk]

On November 24, 1963, Dannelly went into the office of Jesse A. Skrivanek and asked him if he remembered OSWALD: "Thereafter he 'racked his brain' but could not recall having ever seen anyone resembling OSWALD, having seen several photographs of OSWALD in newspapers as well as having observed him on television." [FBI SA 105-2909 1.2.64] There was no evidence OSWALD visited Governor John Connally's office in Austin. On July 25, 1963, OSWALD was notified that his request for a discharge review, addressed to John Connally, who was Secretary of the Navy in 1962, had been refused. OSWALD said he was registered in Miami. This was untrue. No one told OSWALD that if he walked the straight and narrow, his discharge would be upgraded. As was usual, OSWALD was lying. HEMMING told this researcher:

He had an interest in upgrading his discharge. Officially, what grounds would they have? Well, this son-of-a-bitch failed to report to his reserve component. He would have to show that he was on some job incompatibility, or other service, for the fucking government. Maybe at that point in time, he was about to expose this? This is probably what got him killed. He was pushing to go back on active duty, resume his career, and it would have blown the whole U-2 thing. So they had to unload his ass. He was about to blow his fucking cover cause he didn't know shit. He didn't know people had fingered him as dumping fucking Powers and the U-2. Now he very innocently says, 'Okay, I did what I had to do, it wasn't very much, they treated me like royalty over there. Now it's time to clean up my record, and go back to my fucking career.' He's done his fucking duty for the government. He's done his job and now it's time to resume a normal fucking life. Wanting to go back to his career was what got him set up as a patsy. He was more valuable.

MENTAL INSTABILITY

J. Edgar Hoover termed the incident "another hoax" and asked his agents to "ascertain any evidence of mental instability on the part of Mrs. Dannelly." The Warren Commission: "Despite the apparent reputability and sincerity of the employee, all of the information she furnished in respect to OSWALD'S appearance and conversation could have been derived from the news media, consciously or unconsciously, by the time she told the FBI her story." Lee Dannelly was a credible and responsible witness. Lee Dannelly had no history of insanity nor was she someone who would perpetrate a hoax. She had encountered OSWALD. No other Selective Service employee verified her story to the FBI. Lee Dannelly commented in April 1993: "I didn't work with the draft board, I was an inspector with the Selective Service System. I'm not interested. I have talked with the FBI about this and they have told me not to do any talkin' to anybody. I have retired." [WR 732; WC Slawson notes #388 pp7-13; FBI 105-82555-888; FBI 105-2909 Austin Reps. of 12.30.63, 12.31.63; 1.2.64, 2.6.64] Gerald Posner suggested Lee Dannelly fabricated her story, using information obtained from the media. Lee Dannelly was recontacted and confronted with the allegations of Gerald Posner. She stated: "I do not lie, I do not lie!" then she hung-up.

Florence Estella Norman, widow, 4301 Bannister, advised the following:

She began her employment at the Trek Cafe the latter part of August 1963, and was so employed until the Monday before Thanksgiving.

From the beginning of this employment until October 1963, her hours were from 5:00 p.m. until 1:00 a.m. seven days a week. Her hours were changed and she began work either at 1:00 or 3:00 p.m., and worked until either 11:00 p.m., or midnight except Fridays and Saturdays when her hours were from 5:00 p.m. until 1:00 a.m.

The Sunday after the assassination of President Kennedy while at the Trek Cafe she saw a picture of OSWALD in the Austin paper and recognized him as a customer she had served at the Trek Cafe.

This customer was at the Cafe in the midafternoon so by the above working hours she concluded this individual was present at the Trek Cafe either the latter part of October or the early part of November 1963.

She recalled the following concerning this incident: She was alone in the restaurant, neither other employee nor customer being present. The cook was in the kitchen. This individual came into the restaurant and ordered coffee. He appeared very nervous. He kept fooling with the paper napkins and appeared to be writing or doodling on these napkins. He used three or four napkins and must have put these in his pocket before leaving as the napkins were not left on the table, ashtray or floor. The customer remained 30 or 45 minutes and had either three or four cups of coffee. He paid 10¢ for each coffee as the Trek does not give refills on coffee. This customer was alone at all times. She did not notice his mode of transportation on leaving and neither did she notice the direction in which he left. Seeing he was nervous she tried to start a conversation with him, but he did not respond. On seeing the photograph of the accused assassin that Sunday she exclaimed out loud, My God, I know him. A Mr. Day who was employed at a local newspaper was in the cafe as a customer. Mr. Day asked her how she knew the accused assassin and she told him 'As a customer.' Mr. Day then said he thought he too had seen this individual in the Trek Cafe. She could not recall Mr. Day being in the cafe when this customer whom she believed to identical with the accused assassin of President Kennedy was there, but Mr. Day could have been present. Norman advised she could not recall having discussed this matter with anyone other than Mr. Day and the newspaper reporter who had contacted her about two weeks prior to this interview at her then place of employment, Bill's Grill. As a matter of fact she had not even discussed this with her parents. In conclusion she did not know who had directed the newspaper reporter to her. [FBI 105-82555-NR 1950, 3.6.64]

Mrs. Lee Dannelly advised the FBI that she Recalls being at Trek Cafe on South Congress Avenue, Austin, Texas, on November 24, 1963, at which time she was engaged in conversation with a man who is employed as a printer for the Austin daily paper and at that time this individual whose name is not known to her at this time advised her that he believed that he had seen LEE HARVEY OSWALD at the Trek

Cafe sometime in the past. This man had seen OSWALD'S photograph on television at that time and due to this conversation, Mrs. Dannelly recalled her experience of having been contacted by the individual using the name of HARVEY OSWALD and recalled that photograph seen on television resembled the individual who had contacted her using the name of HARVEY OSWALD. Mrs. Dannelly advised that the printer whom she engaged in conversation at the Trek Cafe was a white male, age 45, of slender build, approximately 5'6" to 5' 8", 135 pounds and during the course of conversation had mentioned that he had been recently divorced, and had a home in the country where he kept a considerable number of dogs. Mrs. Dannelly advised that she had seen this printer in the Trek Cafe on numerous other occasions and knew him by sight, but not by name. Mrs. Dannelly likewise recalled as best she could remember at this time Mr. Ronnie Dugger is a friend of the son of the printer referred to above. She also recalls that a waitress in the Trek Cafe made some comment indicating that she was of the opinion that OSWALD had been in that Cafe at one time or another. [FBI SA 10502909 12.19.63]

L.L. Day, a pressman, was interviewed by the FBI:

L. (Only) B. (Only) Day, 4525 Duval Street, Austin, Texas, was contacted after attempts have been made to contact him on January 2, 5, 7, 9, 10 and 13, 1964, at various times of the day. Day advised as follows:

When he first saw the photograph of OSWALD in the newspaper a day or two after the assassination he was in the Trek Café located on South Congress in Austin, Texas. Present was Stella, the waitress at the café, whose last name was not known to him. On seeing the photograph he said, 'Gol dang, Stella, don't you remember him?' Whereupon she answered, she did not.

He then told Stella that she had waited on him, there in the Trek Café, six weeks prior to this occurrence. He then told Stella that OSWALD was sitting in the cafe one day when he, Day, was 'ragging her' and that on that occasion he told her, 'If I could find a wife who would make me a living I would marry her' and that Stella had said not to try to trap her, that she was already married and making a living for that husband.

He reminded Stella that OSWALD had been sitting on the third or fourth stool from the cash register and that he Day, had the last stool in the rear of the café. He reminded Stella that OSWALD had what appeared to be a pencil in his hand and seemed to be jotting on something. That OSWALD kept looking in the direction of the kitchen. After reminding Stella of the above, Stella sat down and after appearing to give the matter some 'deep thought,' told him she too recalled seeing OSWALD in the café on that occasion.

Referring back to the incident of OSWALD'S appearance in the Trek Cafe, he advised that OSWALD was sitting at the counter on his arrival there and estimated this was some six or seven weeks prior to President Kennedy's assassination. He said OSWALD remained 30 or 40 minutes; that he did not notice OSWALD on his departure as to what direction he took or his mode of travel. Normally there are about two waitresses present at the Trek Cafe, but on this occasion he could only recall Stella being present. While OSWALD was there, two or three people came in and had coffee, though he could not recall who they were, or even if he knew them. This must have occurred after 3:00 p.m. as at that time Stella was reporting for work at 3:00 p.m. In conclusion he wished to say he was wrong as many times as he was right, but that he believed the man at the Trek Cafe was in fact, OSWALD.

L. L. Day told Stella Norman that there were no other waitresses on duty that day. The FBI reported: "Tom Attra, Street Circulation, Austin American, newspaper, Austin, Texas, advised the following: He has known L.B. Day for a number of years. In the last few years Day has had several different wives and he has given the appearance of being a bit unstable. He was of the opinion as in his infrequent conversations with Day, Day had conversed 'in a wandering manner' and really appeared to have imagined some of the things he related. As a result thereof, he has accepted things told to him by Day with a 'grain of salt.' [FBI SA 105-2909 1.17.64 Robert W. Carnes] The FBI interviewed Stella Norman's employer, Lorine Shuler:

Stella Norman was no longer employed as a waitress at this cafe. Norman's last known residence was the second house on the east side of Bannister Street, running north off Ben White Boulevard. During Norman's employment at the Trek Cafe her hours were from 3:00 p.m. until 11:00 p.m. except on Fridays and Saturdays when she worked from 5:00 p.m. until 1:00 a.m. Norman's day off was Wednesday. She could not recall an instance during Norman's employment when Norman had been the only waitress on duty at the Trek Cafe. The work schedules were set up so there would always be two waitresses on duty at all times, but one might be temporarily preoccupied by answering the telephone or using the washroom normally for a very few minutes at a time.

Shuler advised that on three or four different occasions within a weeks span of time shortly after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, Norman mentioned to her that she had seen OSWALD as a customer in the Trek Cafe sometime prior to the assassination. However, she did not pay too much attention to Norman, and could not recall the details of what Norman had told her but that each time the story was told by Norman she varied from the previous story or stories. These remarks by Norman were made while on duty at the cafe. To her recollection, Norman made these remarks to her, Shuler, alone. In conclusion, Shuler said she did not place any faith in the stories related by Norman hence more or less dismissed the matter in her mind.

William Covington, owner, Trek Cafe and Motel, 3100 South Congress, Austin, Texas, advised the FBI as follows: Florence Norman, who was commonly known as Stella Norman, began employment as a waitress at the Trek Cafe on July 26, 1963, with her hours being from 3:00 p.m. until 11:00 p.m. Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Thursday and from 5:00 p.m. until 1:00 p.m., until 1:00 a.m. on Friday and Saturday. Wednesday was Norman's day off. Her last date of employment was on Monday of the week ending Saturday, November 30, 1963. He determined these dates of employment by referring to his payroll book and the hours of her employment he recalled from memory.

Specifically concerning the date of September 25, 1963, his payroll record showed that Norman had been paid for the usual six days work for the week ending September 28, 1963, indicating to him that Norman had her regular day off on Wednesday, September 25, 1963. According to his records, Norman worked on only two Wednesdays during her employment; these being the Wednesdays of weeks ending on Saturdays, August 31, 1963, and October 19, 1963, on those occasions Norman was paid for full seven days of work. Norman was not related to him. To his knowledge Norman was not related with anyone connected to the Trek Cafe.

He had heard Norman make mention of having seen OSWALD at the Trek Cafe, though he could not recall the party to whom he made this statement and she had never discussed the matter with him directly. He did not pay too much attention to Norman in this regards he felt it was 'foolishness' on Norman's part. He believed Norman to be somewhat irresponsible and unreliable for the following reason. In terminating this employment, Norman did not resign, but, for several days she would call in and say she was ill and could not report for work. It seemed that each time some other employee would mention having seen Norman at a night club the previous evening 'living it up.' After several days she quit calling in and just did not show up for work again.

Mr. Covington advised that his manner of operating the Trek Cafe there are always at least two waitresses on duty in the cafe and one waitress should not be left there alone by the other for a period of time or more than ten minutes for he would not permit this. Such an absence should be only to use the wash room or answer the telephone. In conclusion, Mr. Covington advised that the guests in the Trek Motel for the nights of September 24, 1963, and September 25, 1963, were all regular customers who were known to him, and not identifiable by name or photograph with OSWALD.

It is to be noted that the FD 302 of S.A. Robert Carnes concerning interview of Lorine Shuler reflects the interview was on January 2, 1964, and the date dictated was on February 3, 1964. It is further noted that the FD 302 of S.A. Carnes reflecting interview of William Covington shows that the interview was conducted on January 22, 1964 and the date dictated was February 3, 1964. These FD 302s originally had been dictated within the prescribed five day period but were re-dictated as the result of Bureau instructions in referenced Bureau Airtel.

The Airtel:

Bureau not disseminating rerep...Bases of statements of Lorine Shuler as to irresponsibility of Florence Norman and the private expression of Norman are not set forth and, in the event specifics in this regard are not available, they should be deleted. Reasons for statements regarding Shuler's furnishing address only after agent identified himself and her reluctance to enter into a controversy is not clear. If purpose was to depict hostile or uncooperative attitude on part of Shuler, and if such was the case, furnish specifics or delete above statements. Endeavor to obtain more details from Shuler as to the nature of Norman's remarks concerning having seen OSWALD at the Trek Cafe. Include data as to when, and to whom, these remarks were made. Inquiry at Trek Cafe has not established working hours of Norman on September 25, 1963, nor have you established whether or not she may have been alone in cafe that date with (illegible due to poor Xeroxing on the part of this researcher). Your interview of Norman, after reporting her discussion with L.L. Day, records that she claimed not to have discussed her observations of person thought to be OSWALD with anyone else, not even her parents. This is not clear as page six continues concerning her admission to discussing matter with a local reporter and it appears at variance with the revelations of Mrs. Dannelly and Lorine Shuler. Clarify and endeavor to resolve these discrepancies.

Rewrite rerep in accordance with foregoing observations and include therein results of your interview of L.L. Day...Refer to page 18, your January 6, 1964, report in this case, wherein Ronnie Dugger is reported as having stated he developed no information indicating OSWALD was in Austin beyond information furnished by Mrs. Dannelly. Report of Dugger interview, despite above comment, contains information that he interviewed Stella Norman who reported she believed she saw OSWALD in Trek Cafe two month prior to his interview and that he had been informed by L.L. Day that he saw man referred to by Norman, and was convinced this person was OSWALD. Submit amended page 18 resolving obvious inconsistency. Lee Dannelly, Stella Norman and L.L. Day told the FBI that someone who resembled OSWALD was in the Trek Cafe some time in September 1963. Dannelly, Day and Norman had never perpetrated a hoax either before or after this report. They were telling the truth. The owners of the Trek Cafe did not want their establishment to become associated with OSWALD. The FBI did not explore the possibility that Norman switched days with another waitress. Gerald Posner wrote that the testimony of Stella Norman and L.L. Day discredited Lee Dannelly when it did exactly the opposite. [NARA FBI 124-10026-10116] The Warren Commission: "No other evidence tending to show that OSWALD was in Austin at this time has been discovered." [WC V24 p736 CE2137]

THE ODIO INCIDENT: WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1963

From Austin, Texas, OSWALD was flown to Dallas, Texas, in a private plane. On the evening of Wednesday, September 25, 1963, when OSWALD was supposed to be on the bus that left New Orleans on Wednesday, September 25, 1963, at 12:20 p.m., and arrived in Houston on Wednesday, September 25, 1963, at 10:50 p.m., OSWALD, and two other members of HEMMING'S crew visited the Dallas apartment of Sylvia and Annie Odio. [WCD 78 p4] The HSCA:

No definite conclusion on the specific date of the Odio visit could be reached. The possibility that it could have been as early as Wednesday, September 25, 1963, the morning during which OSWALD was seen in New Orleans, exists. The visit was more likely on Thursday, September 26, 1963, Friday, September 27, 1963, or Saturday, September 28, 1963. If it were, then OSWALD, judging from the evidence developed by both the Warren Commission and this committee OSWALD had to have access to private transportation...which is a situation that indicates conspiratorial involvement. [HSCA V10 p32]

THE VISIT FROM OSWALD

On December 20, 1963, Sylvia Odio advised the FBI that she was ...contacted late September, or early October 1963, by two Cuban males who stated they were members of Junta Revolucionaria, or JURE, an anti-Castro Cuban organization headed by Manuel Ray with headquarters in Puerto Rico. These two Cubans were accompanied by an individual that they introduced as LEON OSWALD, who Miss Odio states is identical with LEE HARVEY OSWALD. These Cubans contacted Odio and requested her help in soliciting funds from Dallas businessmen, which she refused because both her parents are presently in jail in Cuba, and she feared for their safety. A few days later one of these individuals contacted her, gave only the name of Leopoldo, and stated they were leaving Dallas, presumably to return to Miami, Florida, or Puerto Rico. Leopoldo at this time stated that they were going to have nothing further to do with OSWALD since he was 'loco.' OSWALD told them he was an ex-Marine and wished to help them in their Cuban underground; however he was cynical and thought all Cubans hated all Americans. According to Leopoldo, OSWALD told them 'I am sure you Cubans would want to shoot President Kennedy for what he did to you at the Bay of Pigs.' Leopoldo told Odio that the Cuban refugees bore President Kennedy no malice for the Bay of Pigs episode. [NARA 124-10158-10186]

The Warren Report stated:

Sylvia Odio is a member of the Cuban Revolutionary Junta (JURE). She testified in late September 1963, three men came to her apartment in Dallas and asked her to help them prepare a letter soliciting funds for JURE activities. She claimed that the men, who exhibited personal familiarity, asked her if she were 'working in the underground,' and she replied that she was not. She testified that two of the men appeared to be Cubans, although they also had some Mexican characteristics. The men did not state their full names, but identified themselves by 'war names.' Mrs. Odio remembered one Cuban's name as 'Leopoldo.' The third man, an American, allegedly was introduced to Mrs. Odio as 'LEON OSWALD,' and she was told he was very much interested in the Cuban cause. Mrs. Odio said the men told her they had just come from New Orleans, and that they were then about to leave on a trip. The next day, Leopoldo called her and told her it was his idea to introduce the American into the underground, 'because he is great, he is kind of nuts.' Leopoldo also said that the American had been in the Marine Corps and was an excellent shot, and that the American said the Cubans, 'don't have any guts because President Kennedy should have been assassinated after the Bay of Pigs, and some Cubans should have done that, because he was the one that was holding the freedom of Cuba actually.' Although Sylvia Odio suggested doubts that the men were in fact members of JURE, she was certain that the American who was introduced to her as LEON OSWALD was LEE HARVEY OSWALD. Her sister, who was in the apartment at the time of the visit by the three men, and who stated she saw them briefly in the hallway while answering the door, also believed the American was OSWALD. Sylvia Odio fixed the date of the alleged visit on Thursday, September 26, 1963, or Friday, November 27, 1963...the Commission concluded that OSWALD could not have been in Dallas on [either] evening.

The Warren Report failed to note that the three men knew the cryptonym that was used by the father of Sylvia Odio. Information of this nature would have been available to members of the CIA concerned with Cuban affairs. Sylvia Odio told the HSCA: "[He knew] a lot of details about my father and the Isle of Pines. A lot of things they had done together in the revolution, working together in the underground, details that perhaps not everyone would know."

ANNIE ODIO

Annie Odio had also seen OSWALD that night. She told this to the FBI in Miami on July 30, 1964. [WCE 1391] In a statement to the HSCA, she remembered the evening when three men came to the door of Sylvia Odio's apartment in Dallas. One man asked to speak to "Sarita Odio." Annie Odio told him Sarita Odio didn't live there. Then, according to Annie Odio's recollection:

He said something, perhaps something about her being married, which made me think they really wanted my sister Sylvia...they may have also said something about belonging to JURE. I don't remember her talking to them that evening, but I know she talked with them after that. I don't know how I know that, except that Sylvia must have told me. When I first saw OSWALD on television, my first thought was, 'My God, I know this guy, and I don't know from where. But I'm not going to tell anyone because they might think I'm crazy.' Then my sister Sarita called, and told me that Sylvia had fainted at work...in the hospital I don't remember anyone else in the room, but it was a very small room. Sylvia was in bed. The first thing I remember when I walked into the room was that Sylvia started crying and crying. I don't remember her saying anything. I think that I told her, 'You know this guy on T.V. who shot President Kennedy? I think I know him.' And she said: 'No, I cannot recall, but I know I've seen him before.' And then she told me: 'Do you remember those three guys who came to the house?' And that's when I realized I had seen OSWALD before. And then she told me everything, including the fact that one of the men had called back, that she called him LEON. She kept saying, 'LEON did it, LEON did it' before she fainted. I remember Sylvia was very excited at the hospital and she kept saying that she knew that Leon was going to do it. I do remember thinking that I wasn't going to tell anybody. I remember being very scared." [HSCA Sworn Statement Annie Odio 9.20.78 Fonzi] Sylvia Odio remembered regaining consciousness in a hospital room, and her sister Annie entering the room. She recalled watching OSWALD'S image on hospital room television: "Annie and I looked at one another and gasped. She said, 'Do you recognize him?' I said 'Yes' and I said, 'Do you recognize him?' She said 'It is the same guy, isn't it?' I said 'Yes, but do not say anything.'

SYLVIA ODIO AND ANNIE ODIO

Sylvia and Annie Odio were Cuban exile sisters whose parents were political prisoners in Cuba. When Amador and Sarah Odio joined the anti-Castro movement in 1959, they sent their ten children abroad. Amador, a transport tycoon, was among Cuba's wealthy aristocracy. The Odios had twice been forced into exile during the Batista dictatorship. On one occasion, they were suspected of harboring Sanchez Arrango. The trucks of Amador Odio were the main supply-line for the weapons and ammunition for Fidel Castro, and the materiel provided by Amador Odio had been crucial to his revolution. Yet, when the Odios realized Fidel Castro had betrayed the revolution, they became founding members of Revolutionary Movement of the People, and were arrested on October 26, 1961, when the G-2 discovered an arms cache on their farm. Until then, the farm had also been the hide-out of Manolo Ray. Sarah Odio was to spend eight years in a woman's prison; Amador Odio was imprisoned in a prison cell on the Isle of Pines for 30 years. After fleeing Cuba, Sylvia Odio and her husband, Guillermo Herrera, and their four young children, moved to Puerto Rico. There, she was abandoned by her husband in March 1963. The FBI developed this gossip: "While her husband, Guillermo Herrera, was in Europe, it was also rumored that she was in company with a Cuban exile named 'Bibo' Intensa, who was also married and who had five children, and who separated from his wife as a result of this relationship with Sylvia Herrera. When Herrera returned to Ponce from Germany there was talk about the neighborhood that he found out that his wife Sylvia was in love was in love with Intensa and he immediately sought a divorce from her after which she left Ponce by herself, for an unknown destination in the U.S., and Herrera remained in Puerto Rico with his children." These two paragraphs were marked "delete" and not released until 1995. In April 1963 Sylvia Odio moved to Dallas where she lived in an apartment on Magellan Circle.

Lucille Connell of the Dallas Cuban Refugee Center arranged for Sylvia Odio to get psychiatric counseling. Alone, and responsible for four children, her parents imprisoned, her brother placed in an orphanage, and her wealthy lifestyle abruptly changed to deep destitution, Sylvia Odio had good reason for her depression. On Sunday, November 24, 1963, Lucille Connell received a phone call from a friend who told her she had seen JACK RUBY in the law office where she worked. Lucille Connell repeated this to another friend, who mentioned it in a Spanish class where a pupil was the son of an FBI agent. The student informed his father, and the FBI traced the rumor back to Lucille Connell. When the FBI questioned Lucille Connell about RUBY on November 29, 1963, she told S. A.s Probst and Horton "that one of her Cuban refugee acquaintances, Sylvia Odio, advised her telephonically on November 28, 1963, that she knew OSWALD." Because they were concerned for their own safety and worried about their mother and father in Castro's prison, Sylvia and Annie Odio had decided not to reveal the incident. The Warren Commission could not say Sylvia Odio was a publicity seeker. It was only circuitously that the FBI came to learn of her.

Lucille Connell also told the FBI that Sylvia Odio had told her that OSWALD " had made some talks to small groups of Dallas Cuban refugees in the past. Sylvia Odio stated she personally considered OSWALD brilliant and clever, and that he captivated the groups to whom he spoke. Sylvia Odio further reported to Lucille Connell during this conversation that a call had been made in recent months by a Cuban associate of hers to an unknown source in New Orleans requesting information on OSWALD. Sylvia Odio volunteered that information was in turn received from New Orleans source to the effect that OSWALD was considered by that source to be a 'double agent.' The source stated OSWALD was probably trying to infiltrate the Dallas Cuban group [JURE] and should not be trusted." [FBI DL 44-1639 11.29.63 Horton & Probst] S.A. Hosty's interview with Sylvia Odio did not mention OSWALD having addressed any meetings of JURE. Sylvia Odio described Lucille Connell as "intense about the John Birch Society," and a follower of General Walker. [FBI 105-42555-4743] S.A. Hosty and S.A. Bardwell Odum interviewed Sylvia Odio on December 19, 1963. She identified a photo of OSWALD as being identical to the individual she had encountered. She told the agents that

A few days later one of the two Cuban individuals contacted her by telephone and stated they were leaving town presumably to return to Miami or Puerto Rico, the headquarters of JURE...Leopoldo stated he was not going to have anything further to do with LEON OSWALD since he considered him to be 'loco.' Leopoldo stated OSWALD did not appear sincere. He told them he was an ex-Marine and could help them in the underground however he appeared to be very cynical and seemed to think that all Cubans hated Americans. According to Leopoldo, OSWALD stated: 'I'll bet you Cubans can kill Kennedy for what he did to you at Bay of Pigs.'

When J. Edgar Hoover ordered S.A.s James Hosty and Bardwell Odum to "disprove her allegation" S.A. Hosty said she was mentally ill. On December 19, 1963, S.A. Hosty appeared at her psychiatrist's office. Dr. Burton C. Einspruch stated: "She does not have any problems concerning hallucinations...she is telling the truth and not exaggerating..." [FBI DL 100-10461 12.19.63] A Warren Commission document released in 1993 stated:

In describing Miss Odio's relationships with Dallas Cubans, Dr. Burton C. Einspruch stated that she was never really part of the Cuban community, but that her real place was at the top of the social ladder among American socialites in Dallas. Miss Odio's closest friends in Dallas now were the John Rogers family...this family owns Texas Instruments...Miss Odio stayed with the Rogers family after her hospitalization in connection with the Kennedy assassination. Dr. Einspruch stated that he had great faith in Miss Odio's story of having met OSWALD. He stated that, in the course of psychotherapy, Miss Odio told him that she had seen OSWALD at more than one anti-Castro meeting. One of these meetings was apparently at her house, he believed. OSWALD made inflammatory remarks about Cuba. [WC Memo Slawson/Griffen 4.16.64]

The HSCA interviewed Burton C. Einspruch, who specifically recalled that Sylvia Odio related to him a visit by three men before the assassination and was certain she specified that two of the visitors were Cuban or Latin and one was Anglo. He remembered that when he telephoned Sylvia Odio on November 23, 1963, she did mention LEON and connected the name to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. J. Edgar Hoover stated in 1963: "Sylvia Odio is an unstable individual who is regarded by her ex-husband and associates as a person with a tendency toward exhibitionism." [FBI Hoover to Rankin 9.23.64] In 1967 the FBI stated: "...we determined that Sylvia Odio was regarded by numerous close associates as being mentally unstable. We were also informed that Sylvia Odio had been hospitalized at one time for mental illness, and that she had also attempted suicide in the past." James Hosty stated in 1993: "I didn't conduct those interviews with her. She did have mental problems. Einspruch said she suffered from hysteria." Gerald Posner agreed: "Sylvia Odio herself has to be briefly examined." Thomas J. Kelley, the United States Secret Service Inspector who interrogated OSWALD after the assassination, had United States Secret Service Agent Ernesto Aragon run a background check on Sylvia Odio. The results contained accusations she was a suspected Communist, known to the Puerto Rican police. She was described as having a mental disorder that caused her to abandon her husband and children in Puerto Rico. When the FBI questioned Ernesto Aragon about his source in the Puerto Rican Police, he conceded his report was merely an assumption. Thomas J. Kelley had Ernesto Aragon interview JURE leaders Manolo Ray and Rogelio Cisneros. Manolo Ray said Sylvia Odio was a good person, but must have imagined that OSWALD claimed to be a member of JURE. [WCE 2907; FBI 105-82555-4886; WCD 854; FBI 105-82555-4892] S.A. Hosty collected statements about Sylvia Odio's mental condition from her friends. Her exile friends indicated she might be crazy, but her American friends described her as sane. [FBI DL-100-10461; WCD 1553; WCD

1546, FBI 105-4255-4743] The FBI attempted to intimidate Sylvia Odio into changing her story by visiting her so often that she lost her secretarial job and was forced to move to Miami. A few hours before Sylvia Odio was to appear at the Miami FBI for questioning, former Miami Mayor Maurice Ferre called the FBI and said Sylvia Odio had attempted suicide a number of times, and was under the care of a psychiatrist. A company owned by Maurice Ferre, Maule Industries, employed one of the brothers of Sylvia Odio, Caesar Odio. The Ferre family was deeply involved in Cuban exile affairs: The father of Maurice Ferre, José Ferre, a prominent Cuban businessman, was the owner of the National Concrete Company of Cuba, and was active in the Civic Resistance Movement of Manolo Ray. When Fidel Castro came to power, the Ferrer family moved to the United States, where they had vast industrial holdings. The bodyguard of Maurice Ferre, Ramon Orozco Crespo, an employee of Maule Industries, was questioned about the assassination of President John F. Kennedy by the Secret Service. The United States Secret Service considered Ramon Orozco Crespo a threat to Kennedy in the Fall of 1963. In 1970, Ramon Orozco Crespo was arrested for illegally exporting munitions and articles of war; the FBI questioned him in 1973 about an attack on a Cuban fishing boat. Ramon Orozco Crespo and Humberto Lopez Jr. were seriously injured in March 1974, when a bomb exploded in their hands as they were concealing it inside a book addressed to a Cuban Embassy. The father of Humberto Lopez, Humberto Lopez Sr., was questioned by the Miami District Attorney about his activities as part of the squad HUNT and NIXON recruited in 1972 to attack demonstrators at the funeral of J. Edgar Hoover. Ramon Orozco Crespo was the partner of Angel Ferrer, the Watergater who was registered at the Watergate Hotel during the break-in, but was never picked up by the police. The United States Secret Service gave its report on Ramon Orozco Crespo and the Kennedy assassination, entitled "Cuban Terrorist," to the National Archives. An attempt was made to obtain the document. It was missing. [USSS CO-2-34030 #316, #1188 see CO-2-34341] Castro double-agent Manuel DeArmas claimed that Ramon Orozco Crespo had been a long-standing CIA employee. Maurice Ferre was an associate of Rolando Masferrer, and he had close ties to the Bay of Pigs Brigade.

After the assassination, and prior to her FBI interview, Sylvia Odio described the incident to her priest, Father Walter J. McCann. Ernesto Aragon advised the priest was in Florida. The United States Secret Service Director, James Rowley, ordered Thomas J. Kelley to interview Father Walter J. McCann, who was located in a rest home in New Orleans. Father Walter J. McCann verified the story of Sylvia Odio, and explained her mental condition could have been aggravated by "her concern that the Cuban community might be involved with the assassination, in view of its association with OSWALD shortly before the event." Thomas J. Kelley insisted Father Walter J. McCann telephone Sylvia Odio and question her about the incident. Thomas J. Kelley then spoke with Father McCann, who said Sylvia Odio identified one of the men who visited her with OSWALD as Roger Cisneros. This inconsistency was recorded in the first draft of the Warren Report, but J. Lee Rankin objected: "The story of Father McCann is overemphasized. We should state that Sylvia Odio never told anyone else that Cisneros was one of the men with OSWALD. How can we conclude that McCann would not have become confused, when he was apparently in a rest home, and we have never seen or spoken with him? Odio may well turn out to be right. The Commission will look bad if it turns out that she is. There is no need to look foolish grasping at straws to avoid admitting there is a problem."

MANOLO RAY AND JURE

OSWALD and two Hispanic looking and speaking members of INTERPEN were dispatched to Sylvia Odio's apartment by HEMMING to discredit or "dirty-up," Manuel "Manolo" Ray Rivero's group, JURE. Or these men might have been from the DRE? In 1957, Manolo Ray, (born June 13, 1924) a young U.S. trained engineer, organized the Civic Resistance Movement in Cuba, which performed terrorist acts against the Batista Government. Manolo Ray's resistance to Fulgencia Batista was rewarded by Fidel Castro, who appointed him Minister of Public Works in February 1959. He lost this job in November 1959, but allowed his name to be associated with the Castro Government until April 1960. HUNT said Pedro Diaz Lanz told Manolo Ray, just before Pedro Diaz Lanz fled, that Fidel Castro was a Communist. Manolo Ray allegedly replied that he didn't care. In May 1960 Manolo Ray formed the Revolutionary Movement of the People. On October 25, 1960, a Provisional Operational Approval was granted to Manolo Ray by the CIA for use as a political action agent.

The Revolutionary Movement of the People was an anti-Castro organization which believed in the ideas and aims of the democratic left. It favored extending the laws Fidel Castro put into effect at the beginning of his regime, and advocated the nationalization of all utilities. On the spectrum of the left, the Revolutionary Movement of the People was similar to the Socialist Party of Norman Thomas. Manuel Artime noted Manolo Ray's group was opposed to banning the Communist Party and in favor of "nationalizing everything." HUNT reasoned that Manolo Ray's intimates derived the "sympathetic attention of Kennedy's advisors" because they were all "inhabitants of the extreme socialist left." HUNT regarded the Revolutionary Movement of the People as Fidelismo sin Fidel, and claimed that an article accusing Manuel Artime of being a Castro double-agent was traced back to Manolo Ray. HEMMING claimed he hijacked a truckload of arms from Rogelio Cisneros. HEMMING 1994: "This is bullshit." LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD commented that Manolo Ray was a socialist and called himself anti-Castro merely because he wanted power. HEMMING 1994: "HOWARD could give a rat's ass who was a commie, or anything else. He was there to do a job. He wasn't interested in politics. He wouldn't give a fuck if Castro was a Communist or Presbyterian." MARTINO wrote: "These left-wingers...who were accomplices in Castro's crimes, were the group most favored by the Kennedy administration..." Richard Davis said his feud with the Odio family dated from pre-Castro Cuba, and that he still carried a scar from a knife fight with Sylvia Odio's brother. [Memo 3.22.67 Gurvich/Garrison; Memo re: R. K. Brown, ARA file, 7.17.68]

The FBI reported: "The majority of outstanding anti-Castro action group leaders, such as Felipe Vidal of the United Front for National Liberation, Antonio Varona of the Revolutionary Council have amassed a great amount of material indicating that Ray is a Communist whose only intention is of trying to replace Fidel Castro with himself. The expression 'Fidelism without Fidel' is synonymous with Manuel Ray." [FBI 97-4133-84]

MANOLO RAY AND HOWARD HUNT

When Manolo Ray entered the United States on November 10, 1960, the State Department wanted him to join the Cuban Revolutionary Front. This brought Manolo Ray into conflict with Cuban Revolutionary Front Chief Tony Varona, who branded Manolo Ray a Marxist. The State Department forced HUNT to admit Manolo Ray into the Cuban Revolutionary Council just before the Bay of Pigs invasion. [HUNT Day pp. 91, 92, 215] Manolo Ray, however, refused to merge the Revolutionary Movement of the People into the Cuban Revolutionary Front while Tony Varona was head of the Cuban Revolutionary Front, because Tony Varona had headed the corrupt Cuban Authentico Party of Carlos Prio Socarras. HUNT'S superiors pressured him to admit Manolo Ray and replace Tony Varona. Rather than do so, HUNT, according to his account, resigned. [HUNT Day pp. 140, 142, 153, 175] Despite HUNT'S protestations and "resignation," Manolo Ray was appointed chief of sabotage and head of internal affairs of the newly-created Cuban Revolutionary Council. Manolo Ray had become a thorn in Castro's side. The Revolutionary Movement of the People underground in Cuba was responsible for extensive acts of sabotage. Manuel Artime's MRR received a constant supply of explosives and weapons through air drops, although no materiel was made available to the Revolutionary Movement of the People. Manolo Ray explained in a statement to the Foreign Agents Registration Board: "Since 1960 the Revolutionary Movement of the People has been fighting, both in Cuba and in exile, to liberate Cuba from the horrors of Communism...we were responsible for many of the sabotages to the industries in Cuba, the burning of El Encante, Havana's largest department store...the situation in the island gets worse by days, the repression increases and fear begins to master the best of wills, but most of all there are no means to fight with, we lack weapons, ammunitions, sabotage material...in exile we are working with literally no financial means." [HUNT Day p56; FARB #1516 filed 3.26.63 Item #7] The CIA claimed: "CIA provided support to a variety of autonomous anti-Castro groups, including the one represented by Ray." [CIA traces on individuals who might have been directed by the CIA to assassinate Fidel Castro. Unmarked Document.] Manolo Ray made no secret he detested the Agency in early 1961, and announced to the press: "The Cuban Revolutionary Council, seemingly acting with the CIA's blessing, is recruiting former officials of the Batista dictatorship, while turning its back on the Revolutionary Movement of the People." Manolo Ray withdrew from the Cuban Revolutionary Council shortly after the Bay of Pigs invasion, because it failed to carry out its promise to give priority to Cuban underground fighters during the invasion. [NYT 5.24.61; Szulc Invasion p92; HSCA V5 p66] On August 20, 1961, The Miami Herald carried an article entitled, "Systematic Bombings Harass Cuban Rulers," in which Orlando Bosch quoted the Revolutionary Movement of the People's Military Chief, Marcos Williams, concerning 31 bomb explosions which were detonated in Havana between June 22, 1961, and June

27, 1961, by underground anti-Castro sabotage units. According to Orlando Bosch, Marcos Williams said the Revolutionary Movement of the People had no relationship with Manolo Ray. In April 1962, Manolo Ray founded a new anti-Castro organization: The Junta Revolucionario Cubana (JURE). Military operations were initiated, with Roger Cisneros as the military coordinator of JURE. On March 30, 1963, JURE created an intelligence group whose function was to "infiltrate JURE members into various organizations which operate in Miami, as well as into agencies of the U.S. Government." [JMWAWE Dispatch re: Volsky 8.24.64] On April 30, 1963, a source, described as a "Former Rebel Army member, active in clandestine movements" reported that Rogelio Cisneros had said, "Manuel Ray Rivera had issued orders to infiltrate a trusted man into the CIA..." [CIA 201-239298; Report 6.3.63] By the Fall of 1963 Manolo Ray was in Latin America to gather funds for JURE. The CIA reported that in July 1966 Manolo Ray reportedly developed a plan to assassinate Castro: "This plot was not at CIA direction and no assistance was provided for it. CIA's relationship with Subject ended in 1967."

Gaeton Fonzi determined: "The evidence [given to the Warren Commission] did not support the definitive character of its conclusions. The possibilities were considered that [someone] wanted it to appear that OSWALD was associated with JURE, in order to implicate JURE, a politically left-of-center group, in the Kennedy assassination." HEMMING told this researcher:

You want the real story behind the Odio incident? She was a suspected Castro agent. Her father was a basically a hostage in a Cuban prison who plotted against Castro with Veciana. You know why you are not given a security clearance if you have relatives behind the Iron Curtain? She's considered a Socialist, so she's on the wrong side. To reinforce that, there's a potential that she's being blackmailed and she's working as a Castro agent.

The CIA reported:

The only relationship between CIA and the Odio family was the debriefing of César Humberto Odio del Toro, Sylvia Odio's brother, during the early 1960's on a routine basis as part of a general program eliciting positive intelligence from Cuban refugees in the United States...The parents of Cesar and Sylvia Odio were arrested by the Cuban Government in 1961 and sentenced to 30 years and 9 years in prison respectively. They were imprisoned for participation in an organization named Movimiento Revolucionario del Pueblo. Amador Odio Padro had been obtaining food and medical provisions for the care of Cubans in asylum at various foreign embassies in Havana. His wife had been helping him in that activity. Prior to his arrest, Amador Odio Padron had been the owner of Cuba's largest inter-provincial trailer truck concern. (In fact our records indicate that he used his trucking concern to smuggle arms to anti-Batista forces during the 1954 to 1956 period.) During the mid-1960's, Cesar Odio made several attempts to secure his parents release by offering to purchase large quantities of spare parts and transport them to Cuba. [CIA 1634-1088 p22]

As of 1994 César Odio was the City Manager of Miami. In September 1996, Cesar Odio was arrested in Miami for fraud. HEMMING continued:

I dealt with Manolo Ray. We could link up this dude with somebody that's already in the files. HUNT hated him for running the resistance against Batista. HUNT'S on Batista's side. This is the enemy, people who could have killed him while he was in Havana. They were killing people. Blowing up the sewer system and the telephone system. That fucked up his party routine. He probably felt insecure going to the local whorehouse. I know one of the guys who took OSWALD to Sylvia Odio. This was a setup to dirty-up OSWALD with suspected Castro agent Sylvia Odio. They'd build a file on her. Either they are building this guy's credibility to go kill Castro, or they've abandoned that, and said, 'Fuck that, we have to make this guy look like a Castro agent and have him do something serious in this country that's provocative.'

At the same time HEMMING dirtied-up JURE by having OSWALD visit Sylvia Odio and ask her to help solicit funds, he also dirtied-up Loran Hall, by instructing him to go to Dallas at this time, and also on HEMMING'S instructions, meet with a woman who was supposed to help solicit funds for INTERPEN. HEMMING believed Loran Hall was so stupid, if he was questioned about this trip to Dallas by the FBI after the Kennedy assassination, he would confuse Gloria Kouthart with Sylvia Odio, thereby unknowingly putting himself in the company of OSWALD. [see HEMMING POST COUP]

HEMMING AND HIS ASSOCIATES: ODIO INCIDENT: SEPTEMBER 1964

On August 28, 1963, J. Lee Rankin asked J. Edgar Hoover to resolve the contradictions arising from the Odio incident. J. Edgar Hoover suggested that his Field Offices work the 'mental illness' angle, in order to discredit Sylvia Odio: "In light of Sylvia Odio's mental and nervous condition Bureau believes that the most productive method of disproving her allegation lies in investigation to develop further specifics concerning her mental status..." [FBI 105-82555-4743] The FBI re-interviewed Sylvia Odio, but she did not change her story. [WCE 3147] The FBI interviewed her brother. [FBI 105-82555-4868] On September 8, 1964, the FBI re-interviewed Manolo Ray and Rogelio Cisneros. On September 11, 1964, the FBI generated four reports on HEMMING - Letter Head Memorandum's re: (Deleted) GERALD PATRICK HEMMING et. al." File No. 105-3973 (field) 105-86406 (Bureau). On September 15, 1964, "MM informant advised that Loran Hall and William Houston Seymour visited Dallas in October 1963 to collect money donations under guise of representing anti-Castro organization." On September 15, 1964, the FBI attempted to procure the photographs of Loran Hall and William Houston Seymour taken by the Dallas Police Department when they were arrested for possession of dangerous drugs in Dallas on October 17, 1963.

THE FBI INTERVIEWS LORAN HALL

On September 16, 1964, the FBI located Loran Eugene Hall. Loran Hall told the FBI that in late September 1963, he was in Dallas with LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD and William Houston Seymour. He contacted three professors at the University of Dallas. He said that Kiki Ferrer, who lived on Magellan Circle, introduced him to a Cuban woman. Later the three of them went to her apartment on Magellan Circle. Loran Hall told the FBI:

He said he seemed to recognize this woman's name as Odio because of the association with the name of the Cuban professor who had the same name (Odio)." Loran Hall said this visit occurred two days after he arrived in Dallas. He went to ask her assistance in the anti-Castro Movement. The visit was brief and he did not think he went into her apartment. Loran Hall "explained that it now occurs to him that William Seymour is a person who might be said to generally resemble OSWALD.

J. Edgar Hoover later suggested that Sylvia Odio may have mistaken the name LEE HARVEY OSWALD for Loran Eugene Hall because "there is some phonetic resemblance." On September 17, 1964, the FBI in Miami advised the Director that Miami files contained no photographs of Loran Hall, LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD or William Houston Seymour. The FBI: "Miami will attempt to obtain such photographs from GERALD PATRICK HEMMING, Miami, who is associated with them." [FBI 105-82555-4886] The Dallas Police Department reported no photographs were available. The FBI found a picture of Loran Hall after going through HEMMING'S file - the two had been photographed by newspaper reporters during a visit to Dallas. HEMMING 1995:

Now they went to that address and Kiki Ferrer was the guy that talked to LARRY HOWARD. Hall was trying to locate Rogelio Cisneros' buddy by the name of Naico Crespi, Camillo Cienfuegos' number four guy who, when Camillo got it, got the fuck out of Cuba. He lived on Magellan Circle. That was his mailing address. So when he moved to Fort Worth this Kiki Ferrer friend/snitch who was spying on Naico Crespi was the Cuban they were sent to. LARRY HOWARD didn't know that I knew Niaco Crespi. Loran Hall didn't know. The FBI did, because Niaco Crespi was a suspected Castro agent. Who did they have spying on him? Another suspected Castro agent, Kiki Ferrer. Niaco Crespi was in the country illegally, he never got his parole card.

On September 18, 1964, the FBI questioned William Houston Seymour. He said he never heard of Sylvia Odio, nor had he visited an apartment on Magellan Circle in Dallas. He said he worked for a welding firm during the period in question. The employer of William Houston Seymour confirmed this.

THE FBI QUESTIONS LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD

On September 20, 1964, the FBI interviewed LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD. He was employed at the I.T.E. Circuit Breaker Company, East Los Angeles. He told the FBI he never heard the name Odio before, nor did he recall having visited any Cuban women during his visit to Dallas with Loran Hall. The FBI reported

The New Orleans States Item, Red Flash Edition, of January 11, 1968, quoted that LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD Jr. had said he was working in Los Angeles on November 22, 1963, and that he has never registered at the Dallas YMCA. The article quoted that HOWARD said, 'There is no information at all that I can that would in any way uncover anything. I gave a statement to the FBI and as far as they were concerned I was cleared. I have no knowledge of any conspiracy concerning the assassination of President Kennedy. I think they are interested in me because I helped train guerilla forces for a proposed invasion of Cuba.'

HEMMING told this researcher:

HOWARD wouldn't be caught dead in the YMCA. He slept in the car. The FBI went to con LARRY HOWARD. HOWARD, who's still on the government payroll, says I ain't gonna lie to save somebody's ass. This didn't happen. HOWARD thought Wally Welch's secretary was the one they were talkin about. He doesn't know from Sylvia fuckin' Odio. Then they tell him she's Cuban and she speaks Spanish he really went through the fucking roof 'cause she's a Caucasian with a Texas accent.

The FBI re-interviewed Loran Hall on September 20, 1964. He reported he had been "in error" about many things during his previous interview. First, he had never met Sylvia Odio. Secondly, William Houston Seymour and LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD had traveled to Dallas with him on separate occasions. During the visit to Dallas in question, Loran Hall had been with LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD and Celio Sergio. Finally, although Loran Hall still maintained that Kiki Ferrer had introduced him to a Cuban woman, it was not in front of her apartment building on Magellan Circle, and the woman was not Sylvia Odio. Loran Hall told the HSCA he had changed his story after the FBI displayed a photograph of Sylvia Odio to him: "I looked at the picture and studied the picture and I stated at that time, 'No, I definitely have never met Mrs. Odio.'"

THE CONCLUSIONS OF THE WARREN REPORT

On September 21, 1964, J. Edgar Hoover sent J. Lee Rankin a report on the Odio incident based solely on the first interview of Loran Hall. J. Edgar Hoover: "It appears now to point to a near certainty that Hall, an erratic anti-Castroite, with his associates William Houston Seymour and LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD, were the men who visited Sylvia Odio." [WCE 3146; FBI Hoover to Rankin 9.21.64] On September 24, 1964, the Warren Report was released. It stated:

Loran Hall has been identified as a participant in numerous anti-Castro activities. He said he had visited Mrs. Sylvia Odio. He was accompanied by LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD, a Mexican-American from East Los Angeles, and one William Houston Seymour from Arizona. He stated that William Houston Seymour is similar in appearance to OSWALD; he speaks only a few words of Spanish, as Mrs. Sylvia Odio had testified one of the men who visited her did. While the FBI has not yet completed its investigation into this matter at the time the report went to press, the Commission has concluded that OSWALD was not at Mrs. Sylvia Odio's apartment in September 1963.

Celio Castro was interviewed by the FBI on September 26, 1964. He advised ...that the American woman with the 17 year old daughter, who was visited in Dallas by Loran Hall and LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD is a friend of JERRY PATRICK. JERRY PATRICK is identical with GERALD PATRICK HEMMING...The Miami Office will interview PATRICK in an effort to determine the contacts of Loran Hall and LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD while in Dallas, Texas, during September 1963, in particular the identity of the American woman with the 17 year old daughter, the American employed in a Dallas Bank with whom Loran Hall and LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD left the trailer containing the equipment, and the identity of the Cuban woman who Loran Hall and LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD attempted to contact during an afternoon visit, but who was not home at the time. [FBI 105-82555-5016]

HEMMING AND THE ODIO INCIDENT: OCTOBER 1964

On October 1, 1964, the FBI displayed photographs of Loran Hall, LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD and William Houston Seymour to Sylvia Odio. She denied that these were the men who visited her. On October 2, 1964, the SAC Miami reported:

To: Director
From: SAC Miami
Subject: OSWALD

Re Dallas airtels to Bureau September 22, 1964 and September 24, 1964 forwarding to Miami photos of William Houston Seymour, John Lawrence Howards and Lorand Eugene Hall for exhibit to Sylvia Odio, who recently moved from Dallas to Miami.

With respect for the photographs of William Houston Seymour received from Dallas, the following is noted - one of the William Houston Seymour photographs was taken by Key West, Florida, Sheriff's Office on December 4, 1962, a second photograph of William Houston Seymour was taken by San Diego, California, Police Department in March 1959. The Bureau, by teletype dated September 16, 1964, to Kansas City, Miami and San Diego, instructed Miami to obtain the photograph of William Houston Seymour, Key West Sheriff's office. Since the Key West and San Diego photographs of William Houston Seymour appear to be of two different individuals (Deleted as of 2010) [Howard K. Davis] Potential Security Informant (Under Development) Miami, who is acquainted with William Houston Seymour, was contacted on September 30, 1964. (Deleted as of 2010) identified the San Diego photographs as that of William Houston Seymour and he identified the Key West Sheriff's Department photograph as that of Ronald Ponce De Leon. He advised that Ronald Ponce De Leon may presently be in the U.S. Army, possible in Korea. The discrepancy on William Houston Seymour photographs will be brought to the attention of the Identification Division by separate communication.

The photographs described in Letter Head Memorandum, shown on October 1, 1964, to Sylvia Odio were shown together with photographs of Ronald Ponce De Leon and Miami Beach Florida Police Department photographs #A 24590 and #A 35771. In Miami Letter Head Memorandum and cover letter dated September 26, 1964, Celio Castro described an American man in Dallas with whom Loran Hall and Lawrence John Howard left their trailer of equipment. Lawrence John Howard said Loran Hall visited an American woman in Dallas who had a 17 year old daughter. During contact on September 30, 1964, PSI (Deleted as of 2010) advised that the American male is very probably Lester Logue, a geologist with the firm Logue and Patterson, Meadows Building, Dallas. He said the American woman is probably Gloria Kouthart, who lives in the Dorchester House at St. Joseph Street and the corner of a main thoroughfare in Dallas.

Interview of Sylvia Odio on October 1, 1964, was conducted by S.A.'s Lemman Stafford and James O'Conner: she was cordial, expressed her desire to cooperate, and although apparently a tense individual gave no sign of being discomforted by the interview. Further interview of Odio in an effort to resolve her claim of visit by OSWALD is not contemplated by Miami and will be conducted only upon request from the Bureau or Dallas. [FBI Serial illegible]

In 1995 HEMMING claimed Steve Justin Wilson was the snitch. He said that Gloria Kouthart worked for Wally Welch as his secretary. If Steve Justin Wilson was the snitch, HEMMING could have fed him the information. HEMMING linked Loran Hall, Lawrence John Howard and William Houston Seymour to Sylvia Odio. HEMMING was behind the Odio incident. The SSCIA attempted to determine what had prompted the FBI to question Loran Hall about Sylvia Odio by questioning Leon F. Brown, the FBI S.A. who conducted the interview with Loran Hall:

During the personal interview, William Triplett inquired extensively as to the basis for the interview with Loran Hall. He asked as to the source of the request for the interview with Loran Hall; information furnished to Agent Leon F. Brown for the purpose of interview; by what means request was received at the field office and from whom; by what means, and by whom, instructions and background information were given to Leon F. Brown; and with what urgency the matter was handled. Before Committee, same area was explored. Question was made as to whether the request for the interview received immediate response, whether leads in this case were being handled immediately during that period of time, and if it was normal to handle leads expeditiously in an investigation which had been going on for as long as this investigation...In both interrogations William Triplett inquired about the procedure followed in reporting results of the interview. Inquiry was made as to whom, if anyone, any (sic) telephone report of results by Leon F. Brown to the field office would have been made. He asked for an explanation as to why both reports were transcribed in final form on September 23, 1964, while the first interview was conducted on September 16, 1964, and dictated on September 17, 1964, and the second interview was conducted on Sunday, September 20, 1964, and was dictated on September 21, 1964. This seemed to be a point of concern both in personal interview and before Committee." [NARA 124-10257-10397] The SSCIA testimony of S.A. Leon F. Brown has not been released.

The HSCA wrote that it "tried, but was unsuccessful, to determine the circumstances leading up to the Loran Hall interviews and the transmittal of the results of those interviews to the Warren Commission by way of FBI headquarters in Washington, D.C." [HSCA V11 p61] Loran Hall was asked by Jim Garrison:

Q. Did you ever manage to determine how they got on to you?

A. I know now, but not in 1964. I didn't know until about a month ago that the FBI had checked, had started to check on me, or that there was a report made on me on November 22, 1963, or November 23, 1963. I did not know until about three or four weeks ago that [GERRY] PATRICK [HEMMING] had called and said Morris had told him to call. I did not know that PATRICK had called Mr. Logue and told him to get me out of Dallas, Texas, on the day of the assassination. I didn't know none of this existed until the last four weeks. I thought that - in fact I couldn't figure out what in the hell they knew about me in 1964. I figured the goddamned thing was over, finished and done and when I came down off the hill and the FBI man wanted to talk to me, it really shook me up a little...Well I said that it's possible that I met Mrs. Odio, but I never said I was there with Seymour and Howard at the same time. Someone goes so far as to say in one of the reports that I knew her parents or something in prison in Cuba.

Q. But the interesting thing is that you do state, it says, "Hall stated that this Cuban woman lived in Apartment A of the same apartments located on Magellan Circle where a Cuban friend of his by the name of Kiki Ferrer lived."

A. Now here's how that came about. He said, "Do you know a Mrs. Odio?" And I said "It's quite possibly I do, I don't know." And "What about Magellan Circle?" And the name did sound familiar to me and I said, "If it's the same place that one of my Cuban friends lived at, it's possible that I met her." And he said, "What were the circumstances on this?" So I explained to him that it was one of the new apartment buildings, you know, one of the new modern type...I think she was about 40, I'd say in her late 40's and I asked her where this person lived, and she told me, so I went and knocked on the door and I went in. But I never met any other woman there and I was there twice and I still don't know if that was the name of the street or not, Magellan Circle.

James Hosty stated in 1993:

She thinks she saw OSWALD. She saw Seymour though. William Seymour. Loran Hall. I know of HEMMING. They were the ones that contacted Sylvia Odio. They were spying on her because she belonged to the more left-wing Cuban exile group, JURE. That was the group they were going to use when they were going to overthrow Castro when they were dealing with AMLASH. The Customs men were going after the ones that weren't part of that operation. Customs was working with JURE.

James Hosty was asked if this was an attempt to dirty-up JURE by having OSWALD visit Sylvia Odio. He responded, "But OSWALD didn't visit them. The Cubans are like a lot of people, you know, all Gringos look alike. Yes. They've told me that. They have a hard time picking gringos apart." HEMMING told this researcher:

It was OSWALD, not William Seymour. They didn't cut Hosty into too much information. I knew the guy 'Angelo,' who was with OSWALD at this meeting. I found out it was him years later. I have never asked him point blank, 'Who asked you to take OSWALD to Sylvia's house?' It's not proper to do these things. It would be kind of upsetting to him. The FBI never questioned me about Odio in 1964. I've been trying to find out how they got the name 'Hall.' It was a lead to me. They didn't ask anything. This was the first clue there was a cover-up. The HSCA never asked me about it.

HEMMING said he had a personal relationship with certain FBI agents:

A couple of times I sat down with James O'Conner in Toby's Restaurant. All we talked about was how good the steak was. He'd say 'It's time for you to have a fuckin' meal.' O'Conner came by the house to bullshit a couple of times. In 1964, when they were looking for Ed Collins, they came by. My first conversation with O'Conner was in April 1961. That was my first contact in my life with the FBI. O'Conner was about 32 at the time. He was never an ASAC or SAC.

James J. O'Conner was ASAC in Jacksonville, Florida, in 1975. HEMMING denied having dispatched Loran Hall to Dallas in a similar time frame and situation to the Odio incident so that the name "Loran Hall" would surface in connection with OSWALD. HEMMING said William C. Sullivan asked,

Who do we get that we can put in fucking Dallas in this same time frame? He went to his punch cards. They know when the Pope wipes his ass. And guess who pops up? Dumb ass fuckin' Loran Hall is in town for the same period of time. Their snitch was in town, so they use him. Loran Hall was working for them. They didn't check with him first.

The HSCA noted all of this and remarked:

Of interest to the committee were the initial assertions of Loran Hall that he and his two associates, William Houston Seymour and LAWRENCE JOHN HOWARD, were the ones who had visited Sylvia Odio in September. All three had been actively involved in anti-Castro activity and were members of INTERPEN. The group was arrested as part of the Kennedy Administration's crackdown on anti-Castro operations. That policy, which highly incensed the anti-Castro and right-wing factions, was the result of an agreement that Kennedy had made with Khrushchev and Castro. Those factions considered the agreement a betrayal.

THE MOHAWK HAIRCUT

Sylvia Odio told the FBI that one of the men who visited her with OSWALD had odd hair, full in the middle, and short on the sides. When Richard Whatley visited Dick Hathcock, one of his associates had a "Mohawk style haircut." The visit occurred in July 1963. By September 1963, this man's hair would have grown in somewhat and would be full in the middle and short on the sides. When Gaeton Fonzi worked for Senator Richard Schweiker, Fonzi followed-up the Mohawk haircut lead. Dick Hathcock told him that he could not recall the names of the other two men who were with Richard Whatley: "But he does think now that the fellow with the Mohawk haircut was Latin looking. When I asked him if Angelo or Leopoldo could have been either of the names, he said he couldn't swear to it under oath but Leopoldo 'strikes a vague cord. It does sound quite familiar.'" Sylvia Odio was the Subject of an FBI investigation in New York City in 1965. [FBI 105-135351-6] Sylvia Odio testified before the HSCA:

Leopoldo was tall. The thing I remember the most was his forehead, which was bald on the side, had hair right in the middle. I think later on it has been like identified like a Mohawk haircut. He had little glasses...I probably said something to the effect that [Kennedy should be killed], that the Cubans felt this also...I was worried because when the Cubans say something like that, it is natural...

HEMMING told this researcher:

Bobby Willis was the guy with the Mohawk haircut. But this was in 1961. He was not the one who visited Sylvia Odio. I know who one of them was. When Whatley visited Hathcock with the guy with the Mohawk it was 1962. I was there asshole, don't fucking argue with me. It was not 1963. They showed up in California in the early part of 1962. I left Miami after New Years 1962 and went to California for a couple of weeks. They followed me out there. At that point in time Willis had a Mohawk haircut. They stayed in the back of a barber shop in Monterey Park, California. While Whatley was there he was visiting his buddy at Nature's Haven, where his lion was.

THE HORACE TWIFORD TELEPHONE CALL WEDNESDAY SEPTEMBER 25, 1963

After OSWALD visited the Odio sisters, he was flown from Dallas to Houston, Texas. He arrived in Dallas sometime prior to the departure of the bus that would take him to Mexico. In Houston, OSWALD telephoned the home of Horace Elroy Twiford (born March 20, 1923; died August 30, 1980. This researcher needs obituary or death certificate. SS # 414-18-8469 died in Zip 38614). Mrs. Estelle Twiford believed "the call was made locally, before 10:00 p.m." The Warren Commission stated that OSWALD'S bus arrived in Houston on Wednesday, September 25, 1963, at 10:50 p.m. The reason Estelle Twiford believed the call was made locally was that no operator was involved, and that she remembered OSWALD saying he had only a few hours and wished to talk with her husband.

The Warren Commission tried to resolve this contradiction: "It [the call] may have been made from Beaumont or some other stop on the route; however, in view of the bus schedule, it probably was made in Houston later than Estelle Twiford remembered." Did OSWALD really expect to meet with Horace Twiford for the first time between 11:00 p.m. and 1:00 a.m.? Horace Twiford was a second mate with Local #20 of the International Organization of Masters, Mates and Pilots. Twiford was so employed for 12 years at a salary of $9,000 a year. He wore a goatee. Horace was also a National Committeeman-at-large of the Socialist Labor Party in the State of Texas. OSWALD wrote to the Socialist Labor Party and requested literature on November 10, 1962. Horace Twiford was apprized of OSWALD'S request by the headquarters of the Socialist Labor Party in New York in July 1963. On September 11, 1963, Horace Twiford mailed a copy of the Socialist Labor Party's publication, The Weekly People, to OSWALD at Post Office Box 2915, Dallas. The publication was forwarded to OSWALD'S street address in New Orleans, in time for him to receive it there just before he left for Mexico City. The return address of Horace Twiford was on the envelope. It should have been evident to OSWALD, from looking at this envelope, that The Weekly People had been mailed to Dallas and then forwarded to New Orleans in response to his request for literature.. Nonetheless, OSWALD entered the name and address of Horace Twiford in his address book: "Horace Twiford 7018 Schley, Houston, Texas MI98500 WA 35492." "MI98500" was an out-of-service telephone number listed under Horace Twiford in the then current (January 1963) Houston telephone directory. "WA 35492" was the telephone number of Horace Twiford in November 1963.

OSWALD/ESTELLE TWIFORD: TELEPHONE CONVERSATION

The FBI interviewed Mrs. Estelle Twiford on December 2, 1963.

Mrs. Twiford related that at some time which she believed to be in late October or early November she answered a telephone call and the man making this call identified himself as LEE HARVEY OSWALD. OSWALD asked for her husband, and stated he had received a copy of the Weekly People and wanted to know how Horace Twiford had obtained his name. Mrs. Twiford stated her best recollection was that OSWALD stated on that occasion that he was flying to Mexico, had a few hours, and desired to talk with Mr. Twiford. She believes OSWALD identified himself as a member of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee...Mrs. Twiford then obtained from her records a small manilla envelope printed and bearing the address of the New York Labor News Company, 61 Cliff Street, New York, 38, New York, P.O. Box 76. She identified this as the envelope which had been mailed to her husband by the Socialist Labor Party. It was noted the upper left hand corner of this envelope carried the return address in hand printing as follows: "L.H. OSWALD, Box 2915 Dallas, Texas. The above envelope was originally postmarked at Dallas, Texas on November 10, 1962. There was no indication of the date on which this envelope had been mailed to Horace Twiford. A handwritten note across the front of this envelope contained the words 'Labor Day issue WP September 11, 1963.' Mrs. Twiford stated this was the handwriting of her husband and this note indicated to her husband had mailed to OSWALD on September 11, 1963 the above issue of the weekly people. Mrs. Twiford. Estelle Twiford filed this affidavit on July 2, 1964.

2. In late September of 1963, LEE HARVEY OSWALD telephoned my house and asked to speak to my husband. I told him my husband was at sea. OSWALD inquired as to how my husband had his address. He also said he hoped to discuss ideas with my husband for a few hours before he flew down to Mexico. He said he only had a few hours. I assume he was calling from the Houston area since he did not, to my knowledge, place a long distance call. However he did not specifically say that he was in Houston. I have no information concerning his whereabouts when this call was placed. I told him if he desired to correspond with my husband he could direct a letter to 7018 Schley Street, Houston, Texas, and I would see that my husband received it.

3. I cannot recall the date of the call, but I think it occurred during the week prior to the weekend my husband flew home to visit me from New Orleans where his ship was docked. I recall, my husband had shipped out the weekend prior to the call.

4. I cannot recall the exact time he called, but I think that it was in the evening, sometime between 7:00 p.m. and 10:00 p.m. I was not working during this period.

5. I wrote down on a slip of paper that OSWALD had called and that he mentioned he was a member of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. I did this in order to remember to tell my husband about the call. I told my husband about the call on the weekend he visited me. I have initialed and released note made of telephone call [to Secret Service].

6. OSWALD did not state what he was going to Mexico for, nor did he state how long he would be there.

7. Other than the above mentioned call I have never had any contact with OSWALD.

8. I am not a member of the Socialist Labor Party.

Estelle Twiford told the FBI: "she and her husband were among the few members of the Socialist Labor Party in Texas," so presumably she left the party after the phone call from OSWALD.

THE FBI'S EXPLANATION

It is noted previous investigation has established that OSWALD cashed a check at New Orleans, Louisiana, after 8:00 a.m. on September 25, 1963. He was reported to have telephoned Mrs. Horace Twiford at Houston on the evening of September 25, 1963, at a time she believes was between 7:00 p.m. and 9:00 p.m. In the interim, an employee at Selective Service Headquarters, Austin, Texas, reported she believed she was contacted by OSWALD at Austin on September 25, 1963, at approximately 1:00 p.m. When OSWALD talked to Mrs. Twiford at Houston, he indicated he was considering flying to Mexico. Other witnesses have reported OSWALD boarded a Continental Trailways bus at Houston, Texas, on September 26, 1963, at 2:35 a.m. on which he traveled to Laredo, Texas, en route to Mexico City.

It seems apparent that if OSWALD actually visited Austin, Texas, as suggested, in view of the distances involved, he would necessarily have travel from New Orleans to Austin by air. If he made his decision to proceed to Austin after arriving at Houston, Texas, he would, of course, have had to fly from New Orleans to Houston and thence to Austin. After arriving in Austin, OSWALD could have left Austin on the afternoon of September 25, 1963, by the Kerrville Bus Company line and have arrived at Houston prior to 9:00 p.m. inasmuch as the Austin to Houston bus schedules require only about four hours travel time.

The FBI checked with Continental Airlines in Houston and discovered it took less than one hour to fly from Austin to Houston.

OSWALD was not trying to 'dirty-up' the Socialist Labor Party, since it was inconsequential in terms of Cuban affairs. OSWALD was afraid that Horace Twiford might have been something other than just Horace Twiford. Why did he receive literature from someone in Houston a few days before he was supposed to go to Houston, Texas, then Mexico City? Who was Horace Twiford? Perhaps OSWALD had forgotten he had made this request since the Socialist Labor Party did not respond for almost one year? HEMMING told this researcher that if one is involved in clandestine activity: "Never rule anything out." OSWALD "hoped to see her husband for a few hours before he flew to Mexico." OSWALD had been flown from city to city by HEMMING and he slipped when he said 'flew' or he had not been told he was going to take the bus to Mexico City and he thought he was going to fly there, as he had flown to Austin and Dallas. [WCE 2335]

E. P. HAMMETT WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1963

E. P. Hammett, a ticket clerk with the Trailways bus company, remembered having sold a ticket to someone who fit OSWALD'S description in late September 1963 around midnight. The FBI:

For the information of the Bureau, on January 17, 1964, the Dallas Office succeeded in locating the auditor's stub for Continental Trailways bus ticket number 112230, which was previously identified as the only Continental Trailways bus ticket sold at Houston between September 24, 1963, and September 26, 1963, for travel between Houston and Laredo, Texas. This ticket stub carried a rubber stamp indicating it was sold on September 25, 1963, by ticket agent identified as number 12.

On January 21, 1964, E. P. Hammett, 8603 Detroit Street, Houston, Texas, employed as a ticket agent by Continental Trailways Bus Company, observed his copy of the above ticket stub and identified this as a ticket which he had sold on September 25, 1963. Photographs of LEE HARVEY OSWALD and of a small zipper bag used by OSWALD were exhibited to Hammett. Hammett furnished the following information:

There are very few tickets sold for travel between Houston and Laredo, Texas, and Hammett will sometimes not sell more than one in a week. He stated that for this reason any sales or inquiries about tickets to Laredo and or Mexico are unusual and he usually remembers them. On September 25, 1963, Hammett went on duty at 10:30 p.m. and was the only ticket agent on duty from 10:30 p.m. until 6:30 a.m. on September 26, 1963.

Hammett stated he could recall a man strongly resembling the photograph of OSWALD coming to his counter at some time which would have been approximately in late September 1963, and making inquiry concerning travel to Laredo and Mexico City. Hammett believed this man came to his counter at approximately midnight. The man Hammet recalls was wearing a pull-over sweater which he believes was brown and white, white dungarees, and dirty white canvas shoes. This man inquired as to prices of tickets directly to Mexico City and also to Laredo. Hammet stated this man seemed to be very undecided, and could not make up his mind and after considerable discussion he left the counter and was not observed for a short period. There was no discussion of visas or Mexican Tourist Cards these matter normally being handled when passengers arrive at Laredo, Texas. This man did not give Hammett his name, and normally there is no occasion for ticket agents to learn passenger's names.

Hammet stated after leaving his counter for some time, the above man finally returned and stated he decided to buy a ticket to Laredo, Texas, which Hammett sold him. This man was alone at the time and Hammet did not observe how he arrived at the bus terminal. Hammett noted that he believes it was about 1:30 a.m. or possibly 2:00 a.m. before the man finally purchased a ticket for use on Continental Trailways bus which left Houston at 2:35 a.m. on September 26, 1963 for Laredo. [FBI 100-10,461-2784]

Dr. AND MRS. JOHN McFARLAND

OSWALD boarded a Trailways bus in Houston that would take him to Laredo, Texas. The bus left Houston at 2:35 a.m. The first sighting of OSWALD on the bus was at about 6:15 a.m., on Friday, September 26, 1963, when OSWALD was seen by the McFarlands, two British holiday makers who had just awakened. OSWALD told them he was going to Mexico to circumvent the travel ban to Cuba, that he was head of the New Orleans Chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee and that he hoped to meet Castro when he arrived in Cuba. Wesley Liebler wrote:

We have no direct evidence that OSWALD boarded bus 5133 in Houston...the McFarlands affidavit is very weak...it is given too much weight...the Mexican immigration records do not show the time of day he crossed the border. David Slawson told me he got the time of the crossing from the scheduled arrival of the bus. Now we are using it to show that since he crossed at that time, he had to be on the bus. [HSCA V11 p236]

OSWALD phoned Houston, was seen by a ticket clerk in Houston and was observed on the bus that left from Houston. In all likelihood he was on this bus. OSWALD left Houston on Thursday, September 26, 1963, at 2:35 a.m. and arrived in Laredo on Thursday, September 26, 1963, at 1:20 p.m. OSWALD left Nuevo Laredo on Thursday, September 26, 1963, at 2:15 p.m., and arrived in Mexico City on Friday, September 27, 1963, at 10:00 a.m. There were several witnesses who saw OSWALD on the Flecha Roja bus from Nuevo Laredo to Mexico City. During the 20-hour bus trip, he initiated two separate conversations with two Australian tourists. He recommended the Hotel Cuba in Mexico City as a clean and cheap hotel, and said he had lodged there on several occasions. OSWALD'S map of Mexico City contained a marking at the location of the Flecha Roja bus terminal in Mexico City. OSWALD'S map of Mexico City contained a marking at the location of the Hotel Cuba. According to the entry stamp on OSWALD'S Tourist Card, he arrived in old Laredo on Thursday, September 26, 1963, but the hour of entry, means of transportation and nationality were omitted. All that could be established was that OSWALD entered Mexico between 6:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. [WCD 78 p4; WR p323; Outgoing DOS telex 08345 5.15.64-Rusk]

OSWALD'S RESUME

According to the Warren Commission, OSWALD'S took the following with him to Mexico City: His 1963 passport and his old passport; his Communist Party correspondence and his correspondence with the Soviet Embassy, Washington, some of which was in Russian; proof of his marriage to a Soviet national; newspaper clippings concerning his arrest and his interest in Fair Play for Cuba Committee activities; evidence he was the "Director" of the New Orleans Chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee; and various other cards, such as a Russian employment card.

OSWALD created a resume which was a list of this "bona fides."

ORGANIZER

On May 29 1963 I requested permission from the FPCC headquarters at 799 Brodwig New York 3, N.Y. to try to forn a local branch in New Orleans. I recived a cautionet but enthusiastic go-ahead from V.T. Lee National Director of FPCC. I than make layouts and had printed public literature for setting up of a local FPCC. I hired persons to distribute literature. I then organized persons who display receptive attitudes toward Cuba to distribute pamphlets. I sought response from Latin American consuls of which there are so many here in New Orleans...

a-B-C STREET AGITATION

I am experienced in Street agitation having done it in New Orleans in connection with the FPCC. On August 9, 1963, I was accosted by three anti-Castro Cubans and was arrested for "causing a disturbance" I was interrogated by the intelligence section of the New Orleans Police Department and held overnight being bailed out the next morning by relatives I suddenly was fined 10.00 charges against the three Cubans were dropped by the judge.

On August 16, 1963 I organized a four man Fair Play for Cuba Committee demonstration in front of the International Trade Mart. in New Orleans This demonstration was filmed by WDSU-TV and shown on the 6:00 news.

On August 17, 1963 I was invited to by WDSU-Radio to appear on the August 17 radio program Latin American Focus at 7:30 PM. The moderator was Bill Stucky who put questions to me for a half an hour about FPCC attitudes and opinions.

After this program I was invited to take part in a radio debate between John Buttler of 'Inca' [Information Council of the Americas] anti communist propaganda organization representative and Carlos Bringer Cuban exile Student Revolutionary Directorate delegate in New Orleans. This Debate was broadcast at 6:05 to 6:30 August 21, 1963 after this program I made a three minute T.V. newreel which was shown the next day (August 22, 1963).

I received advice, direction and literature from V.T. Lee National Director of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee of which I am a member. At my own expense I had printed "Hand off Cuba" handbills and New Orleans branch membership Blanks for the F.P.C.C. Local.

a. Letter from V.T. Lee

The detail in which OSWALD described his military career indicated OSWALD wished to convey to the Soviets and/or Cubans that he was willing to supply them with information on any particular facet of this training. OSWALD cited documents in his resume which he would have presumably attached to it. Yet no one who encountered OSWALD in Mexico City reported that OSWALD had submitted this resume to them. OSWALD described himself as a former defector who still had an affinity for the Soviet Union, a radio and television celebrity, a street fighter, a leader of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, a Russian speaking Marxist, and a spy for the Communist Party! One would think with a background like this OSWALD could name dozens of comrades he worked with in the struggle who would verify his dedication to Communism. The only reference he cited was V. T. Lee. OSWALD wrote that he corresponded with V. T. Lee and never even spoke with him on the telephone. He named more counter-revolutionaries (Stuckey, BRINGUIER, Butler) than he did leftists. The resume itself was so poorly written anyone who evaluated it would have dismissed it immediately. The dates of all of OSWALD'S activities were included so that the person who read this resume could verify the fact that they had occurred - which they had. Again OSWALD was backstopped by paperwork, not by human recommendations. OSWALD's reference to "miniaturizations" was significant:

MICRODOTS

In October 1962 OSWALD asked Dennis Ofstein, a fellow worker who had served in the U.S. Army, Security Branch, if he knew what microdots were. When Dennis Ofstein replied negatively, OSWALD told him: "Microdots are used as a means whereby a page of anything can be reduced down to a size smaller than a postage stamp so that it could be concealed under a postage stamp and could be used in espionage operations. Ofstein said this statement aroused his suspicions and he asked Sgt. Tom Crigler, who is employed at the U.S. Army Recruiting Station, Dallas, regarding this...He said he did not believe Crigler attached any significance to the matter." [FBI Dallas 100-10461-12.2.63] In a recently released paper, "Indications of Witting Intelligence Involvement by OSWALD," the CIA wrote: "The single word 'microdot' appears in the address book, with no further comment." Microdot was written under the entry "Jagger-Chiles-Stoval," the map-making company employing Dennis Ofstein and OSWALD in October 1962.. [FBI 105-p2555-2808, DL-100-10461, DL 2 89-43 12.3.63 Jackson] HEMMING told this researcher: "It's reverse lithography work. I was raised in a darkroom. Arrangement of the lenses. Microdot is a super dense step beyond microfilm."

The Warren Commission asked the FBI and the National Security Agency about microdots. J. Edgar Hoover wrote the Commission detailing the extent to which the evidence "had been examined for possible crypto logical significance including processing for microdots." He cited two reports on the subject, neither of which mentioned microdots; both were written by FBI S.A. Robert P. Gemberling. Robert Gemberling commented, "I'm not a lab technician. The evidence examination would have been conducted at the Washington FBI Laboratory." The National Security Administration wrote the Commission that microdots were not one of its specialties. [WCE 2768; CIA 472] An FBI document dated October 2, 1964, revealed that the Bureau examined photographs of OSWALD in the USSR and his Russian books for microdots, but found none. [Hoover to D/CI DBA-82198 re: WCE D-254 - WCE D-262]

INVISIBLE INK

OSWALD possessed invisible ink. When the FBI seized his possessions after November 22, 1963, it consolidated some of them into Item 373

This item is composed of miscellaneous Russian and American made pharmaceuticals, a fever thermometer of Russian make and two eye droppers and a German coin, 1 Pfennig. Nothing unusual was found concerning these items. There are 31 samples of pharmaceuticals, each sample of which could be used to prepare and/or develop a secret ink message. [WC Item 373 11.27.63]

CIPHERS

Under date of December 20, 1963, the FBI Laboratory furnished the following information concerning an examination requested by the Dallas

Office on November 27, 1963:

Q228 Pamphlets entitled "The Crime Against Cuba" by Corliss Lamont (Dallas Item #303)

Q229 Booklet entitled "The Socialist Workers Party" by Joseph Hansen (Dallas Item #305)

Q230 Russian book dated 1962 at Sofia. (Dallas Item #324)

Result of Examination: In these specimens certain letters, words and phrases have been excised. No cryptographic significance could be attached to this material.

"These cutout letters may have formed the basis of a device used to decipher secret messages. If the pages were placed over some other text, only certain letters would appear. These letters could be put next to each other to form a message. [WCE 244; WCD 206]

When the Warren Commission queried the FBI about this, it was told, "the material submitted could conceivably involve code or cipher," but when it asked the National Security Administration, it responded,

Skilled cryptologists at the National Security Agency examined the materials relating to the OSWALD case provided by the Warren Commission. The results are as follows: Certain letters had been removed from pages 150 of the Russian novel, Glaza Kotorye Sprashivayut, 'Questioning Eyes.' Eight letters had apparently been cut from page 152...The sample is too small for any valid conclusion to be reached as a for the purposes for which the above noted letters were removed. It is considered most unlikely that this process of letter removal has any cryptographic implication. [CE 2768; CIA 472; WCE 2772, 2444; FBI DL-100-1046 p59, 85; Ltr. Gordon a. Blake to Rankin 6.16.64]

When Marina Oswald was shown this pocket book with the letters removed, she said she had never seen it before: "Asked who did it, she answered 'Probably he was working, but I never saw that. I don't know what he had that for.'" Another CIA document reported: "She was asked about a Russian book which had certain words cut out. The Commission attorney observed that this is sometimes a practice used in espionage. She said she had no explanation for the extracted material." [CIA 280]

HOTEL COMMERCIO FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1963

OSWALD arrived in Mexico City on Friday, September 27, 1963, at 10:00 a.m. and registered at the Hotel Comercio under the name HARVEY OSWALD LEE. [CIA 761-329A; WR p305] OSWALD'S map of Mexico City contained a marking at the location of the Hotel Comercio. The Warren Commission: "The Hotel Comercio was not especially popular among Cubans..." In a Top Secret MFR regarding David Slawson's trip to Mexico City on behalf of the Warren Commission, Slawson wrote:

We also asked Ambassador Mann to what extent it was known in Mexico City that the Hotel Comercio was headquarters of pro-Castro activities. The Ambassador replied that it was not known generally at all, that this information was current only in intelligence circles. [4.22.64]

Did OSWALD pick this hotel by accident or did someone in current intelligence circles in Mexico City alert him to this fact. In any event OSWALD did not spend much time at the Hotel Comercio. The Warren Commission:

Mr. Rankin, Mr. Slawson, and Mr. Coleman, all expressed concern over the inability of the Commission or of any of the governmental agencies to fill in the very large gaps still existing in OSWALD'S visit to Mexico. We pointed out there were many days during which we knew nothing of his whereabouts and that the evenings of this entire trip were unaccounted for. Furthermore, the testimony of the clerk at the Hotel Comercio seemed to us highly unsatisfactory. The clerk admitted that the hotel registry showed OSWALD'S name, but he completely denies any other memory whatever of OSWALD'S being at the hotel, and all the subordinate personnel, such as cleaning ladies, etc., likewise deny any memory of OSWALD.

Warren Commission Counsels David Slawson, William Coleman, and Howard Willens, found that "after several interrogations, FBI Agent Rolf Larson had found that the hotel maid did remember OSWALD, and was able to give some bits of information about him "...he invariably had left the hotel before she cleaned his room at 9:00 a.m. in the morning." S.A. Larson found that the proprietress of the restaurant next door to the hotel was able to identify OSWALD, "although Larson was not completely certain how much she really remembered, and how much she may have picked up by suggestion from newspaper reporters." As fate would have it I stayed at the Hotel Comercio in Mexico City in August 1963. I remember looking at the name and saying to myself that this hotel must be frequented by businessmen.

HUNT HAD AN EXCUSE TO TRAVEL TO MEXICO CITY

HUNT's activities during the year 1963 were omitted from Undercover but we do know that in 1963 HUNT was part of a group of CIA officers which was exerting pressure on President Kennedy to approve assassination plots against Castro. New York Times reporter Tad Szulc, who had an off-the-record conversation about Cuba with Kennedy in November 1961, reported that the President remained steadfast in his determination to overthrow Castro by means other than assassination. Tad Szulc stated that President Kennedy told him he was morally opposed to assassination. In 1962, to appease the exile community, President Kennedy approved the establishment of the JMWAVE base located on the campus of the University of Miami. CIA was still supporting anti-Castro elements in Mexico City in September 1963: "Basic Headquarters position is to render assistance any responsible group carrying fight to Castro. (Deleted) falls in this category and Headquarters interested in effecting procurement as well as receiving details thereof. While [we] obviously do not wish to have (Deleted) involved in any overt exile activity, there is no objection to (Deleted) rendering purely covert assistance provided does not jeopardize his operational utility." [CIA Special Affairs Staff 9.30.63 to JMWAVE Mexico City from J. C. King] HUNT was the Subject of several files in the office of the Inspector General of the CIA. There was an October 29, 1962 Personal History statement and files dated February 4, 1963 –

Memo to Chief, Appraisal Section, from (deleted). Subject, HUNT, April 18, 1963, April 24, 1963, May 10, 1963, and September 1963. Tom Lawler, Richard Helms, Robert Bannerman, Tracy Barnes, Thomas Karamessines, Laurence G. Parr, George Winters. Internal Review, Colonel [Sheffield] Edwards, Luddy, John Richards Chamberlain N/R by Thomas C. Lawler, with attachments. Subject: CIA and Mrs. E. HOWARD HUNT. ATTS: Memo for Director of Security from Lloyd George May 10, 1963. Work performed by Mrs. Hunt for Spanish Ambassador. Inspector General File #15 Tab #48 All Memos in IG-45 Tab 8.

The April 18, 1963 file concerned work performed by Mrs. HUNT at the Spanish Embassy. Mrs. HUNT was informed her employment there would be incompatible with her husband's work, none-the-less, she continued to do translations for the Embassy at home. The matter was finally resolved in February 1963. The document dated February 4, 1963, was an appraisal of HUNT. Much of this memorandum was deleted, although the impression it gave was favorable. HUNT was described as "Ops [Operations] Officer DDP/CA [Deputy Director of Plans / Covert Action] Staff, Office of Chief." The CIA reported:

As of November 1963 HUNT was assigned to DDP/CA Staff, Office of the Chief, Headquarters, however, apparently Mr. HUNT had collateral duties with DDP/Domestic Operations Division / Facilities Branch. Mr. HUNT was assigned to such tasks from November 1961, to February 1965.

As a covert operator HUNT had plenty of leeway to make himself invisible through disguise, false ID, the entire spook tradecraft was at his disposal. Although the memo does not tell us very much about HUNT's specific activities it gives us insight into HUNT's associates. Thomas Lawler 84, died in November 2005. He worked for the CIA from 1951 to 1977 and received the agency's Intelligence Medal of Merit. The year after retiring from the CIA, he was appointed the first director of the Arlington County diocese's director of religious education. Parr had formerly worked in the INS and had collaborated with NY State Insurance officials in destroying the International Workers Order. The International Workers Order (IWO) was a Communist Party-affiliated insurance, mutual benefit and fraternal organization founded in 1930 and disbanded in 1954 as the result of legal action undertaken by the state of New York in 1951. The IWO offered insurance to all working people at the same rate regardless of race or occupation and was, at the time, the only service provider where African Americans could obtain insurance at the same rate as others and also the only place where workers in dangerous occupations such as coal mining could obtain insurance at a rate equivalent to other occupations. Robert Bannerman was a piece of work. In late January 1952, Morse Allen, a CIA Security Office official, was summoned to the office of his superior, security deputy Chief Robert L. Bannerman, where he met with another agency official to discuss what Bannerman initially introduced as "the Kelly case." Wrote Allen, in a subsequent memorandum for his files, the official "explained in substance the Kelly case as follows: "Kelly, (whose real name is Dimitrov), is a 29-year-old Bulgarian and was the head of a small political party based in Greece and ostentively [sic] working for Bulgarian independence." The official described Dimitrov [whose first name was Dimitre] to Allen as "being young, ambitious, bright ... a sort of a 'man-on-a-horse' type but a typical Balkan politician." The official continued explaining to Allen that months earlier CIA field operatives discovered that Dimitrov was seriously considering becoming a double agent for the French Intelligence Service. "Accordingly," states the memo, "a plot was rigged in which [Dimitrov] was told he was going to be assassinated and as a protective he was placed in custody of the Greek Police." Successfully duped, Dimitrov was then thrown into prison. There he was subjected to interrogation and torture, and he witnessed the brutal torture of other persons the CIA had induced authorities to imprison. Bannerman had plotted to kill Castro in the 1960's. [<http://www.truthout.org/the-real-roots-cias-rendition-black-sites-program56956>] In the 1950's George Winter worked in SR – Soviet Recruitment – and in that capacity reviewed files on OSWALD. [Oswald and the CIA – John Newman Skyhorse Pub June 2008] On June 14, 1963 HUNT was the Subject of a "Support Branch Verbal Request File No. Chief/DO/OPRP (illegible) Wash Daily (Deleted) OK (Deleted) Station."

PHILLIPS AND OSWALD MEXICO CITY: SEPTEMBER & OCTOBER 1963

New York Times journalist Tad Szulc wrote that E. HOWARD HUNT was in Mexico City in August and September 1963. Szulc stated that HUNT was Acting Chief of Station:

As I mentioned above, HUNT spent August and September 1963, in Mexico City in charge of the CIA Station there. Through an extraordinary coincidence LEE HARVEY OSWALD also visited Mexico City in 1963.

According to a CIA document declassified in 1982,

HUNT served in Mexico City from December 1950 to June 1951. From November 1960 until his retirement in 1970, he was assigned to Headquarters. During the period in which HUNT was alleged to have been acting Mexico City Chief of Station, August to September 1963, HUNT was assigned to a DDP desk at Headquarters. [CIA 1634-1088]

Tad Szulc had discovered HUNT'S presence in Mexico City in 1973, while doing research for his biography of HUNT, Compulsive Spy. On February 10, 1973, an individual or individuals broke into the home of Tad Szulc. Tad Szulc's papers were rifled, but nothing of value was stolen. Szulc filed a lawsuit against former members of NIXON'S Administration including H.R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and Charles Colson:

...concerning alleged wiretapping of my house in Washington, D.C., and the break-in which, in the opinion of my attorney, may or may not have been related to the activities of that period. And detectives examined the premises, dusted them and so on. Missing, to the best of my recollection, was a foreign memorial coin of limited importance and six $1 bills from my wife's wallet. [Wise The American Police State p170]

HUNT'S PRESENCE IN MEXICO CITY

In January 1977 during PHILLIPS' deposition in HUNT v. SPOTLIGHT, PHILLIPS was asked if HUNT was in Mexico City when OSWALD visited there. He responded, "Well, that's horseshit. Tad Szulc wrote HUNT was Acting Chief of Station. Winston Scott was Chief of Station. HUNT wasn't anywhere near there." PHILLIPS was also asked about it in the course of HUNT v. WEBERMAN:

He [HUNT] was - at the time I was there, he was never assigned there. I think he visited Mexico City on at least one occasion. I was there for about four years. And I seem to recall his coming to town. And he went to my home for dinner and so forth, because we had known each other before. But I don't recall he was ever assigned to the Mexico City Station during the period I was there.

In PHILLIPS' deposition in HUNT v. SPOTLIGHT, he remembered having seen HUNT in Mexico City, "...sometime between September 1961 and March 1965...I must have seen him once or twice before [the Kennedy assassination]." The testimony of Richard Helms in the same matter was: "I do recall having submitted information that indicated HUNT was in Mexico before the assassination." [Lane Plausible Denial 1992] In June 1993 Ambassador Thomas C. Mann was contacted by telephone and asked if HUNT was at the Embassy during this period. He advised that the diplomatic list would contain the names of personnel who were there officially. Thomas Mann was told that his name was not on this list. He stated, "Well, then I doubt that he was there." HUNT told the Rockefeller Commission that he "never went to Mexico or other Latin American country after 1961. First went to Mexico in 1970 for Mullin after retirement from CIA."

Szulc mistakenly stated that HUNT was Acting Chief of Station in Mexico City during the time of OSWALD'S visit. There were no documents that supported Szulc's contention that HUNT was there in an official capacity. If he had been his presence would have been known to some of the Station personnel. HUNT was a spook and could have slipped away. He could have been present in Mexico City during OSWALD'S visit there and secretly met with OSWALD, since DAVID PHILLIPS had duties in Washington for part of this time. HUNT might have taken over the OSWALD account after PHILLIPS left for Washington and Miami.

The telephone number and address of the American Embassy in Mexico City were listed in OSWALD'S address book but no marking appeared at the location of the Embassy on OSWALD'S map of Mexico City. What possible use would this address and phone number have been to OSWALD? Could they have helped him enter Cuba? It is unlikely OSWALD would not have contacted HUNT or PHILLIPS at the American Embassy nor at the hotel. The Mexico City CIA Station was located in the American Embassy so for all practical purposes he had its number. The Mexico City Chief of Station, Winston Scott, did not appear to be the type of intelligence agent who would go along with a conspiracy against the President. Winston Scott was a former FBI Agent and Naval Intelligence Agent who worked under the cover of Special Assistant to Ambassador Thomas Mann. [Miami Herald 11.27.76] Winston Scott was a mathematician who served with the FBI (1941 to 1944), and Navy (1944 to 1946). He was the London Chief of Station under State Department cover (1947 to 1950) then worked in Washington as a liaison man with other intelligence services. His cover during this period was Executive Officer in the Pentagon. In 1958 he became Chief of Station in Mexico City and served there until 1964. Did someone from the American Embassy give OSWALD these phone numbers and addresses? Did that person also give the American Embassy number to call in case he got into trouble with the Mexican authorities?

A SOVIET VISA WILL GET YOU INTO CUBA

For months, OSWALD had tried to obtain a Soviet visa which would be valid for a stopover in Cuba. Mexican officials would allow U.S. citizens to board a plane for Cuba even if they had an American passport that forbade travel there, as long as the American had a valid visa. Obtaining a Cuban visa was difficult for an American at this time - Fidel Castro knew the CIA was sending agents into Cuba to assassinate him.

Visas to Cuba for Americans were routinely denied. OSWALD was to have visited Cuba, before he was framed for killing President Kennedy. After November 22, 1963, OSWALD would have just returned from Cuba dirtied the fuck up. A Cuban or Soviet visa might have been found either on his person, or among his personal effects. OSWALD would be widely perceived as having received his orders from Fidel Castro and the Soviets. History would have been different had the Soviets or Cubans granted him a visa. America would have put an end to the training ground for assassins 90 miles from Key West. Would the Soviet Union have come to Cuba's aid? Dan Hardway:

Killing a nation's leader is typical grounds for going to war, however, it would not have meant an atomic war under those circumstances. Johnson would have called Nikita and said, 'Look, we're going in and taking Cuba. That's the price you are going to pay to keep the peace, and for us not attacking you for killing our President.' That was what [the OSWALD legend] was designed to do. It was designed to get Cuba back.

OSWALD was not granted a visa, but there was a record that OSWALD had desperately tried to obtain one. In Give Us This Day HUNT wrote:

Let this not be forgotten...LEE HARVEY OSWALD was a partisan of Fidel Castro, and an admitted Marxist who made desperate efforts to join the Red Revolution in Havana.

FIDEL CASTRO AND THE HSCA

Fidel Castro told the HSCA:

It was always very suspicious to me that a person who later appeared to be involved in Kennedy's death, would have requested a Cuban visa. Because I said to myself, 'What would have happened had, by any chance, that man come to Cuba, visited Cuba, gone back to the United States and then appeared involved in Kennedy's death?' He had been to Cuba in October and then in November the President of the United States would have been killed? I interpreted it as a deliberate attempt to link Cuba with Kennedy's death...a gigantic provocation.

Well, that man did not come to Cuba because that was the norm - we rejected visa applications like that. In those days the mechanism was very rigid because, of course, we had suspicions of anyone who tried to come to Cuba. People in charge of granting visas would ask themselves: 'Why does this applicant want to come to Cuba? What kind of counter-revolutionary activity could he carry out in Cuba?' Maybe the people thought that the person was a CIA or FBI agent, you know, so it was very difficult for a North American, just from his own wishes, to come to Cuba - because systematically we denied them. So I think there could always be an exception, but in those times it was very difficult to have anyone from the United States come into Cuba because there was a tremendous suspicion and because, in general, permits to travel to Cuba were denied. Now if it was a transit visa going to another country - let's say - had the Soviet Union granted the visa, you may be sure that our Consul would have granted the transit visa because the person would not be coming to Cuba only, but would be going to another country. The person would have to come [here] and if the Soviets would have granted the visa, then that would have accredited the person, and the person would have been given a transit visa, because I feel that if the Soviets had granted the visa, then he would have come here...

DID OSWALD BELIEVE HE WAS PART OF A CASTRO DEATH PLOT?

What reason was OSWALD given for going to Cuba? Some evidence indicated OSWALD thought he was part of an assassination plot directed at Fidel Castro. During the Odio incident, Leopoldo reportedly described OSWALD as "the kind of man that could do anything, like getting underground in Cuba, like killing Castro." [11WH367; WCE2943] When the FBI went through OSWALD'S possessions it found:

ITEM 178: Book published in Moscow 1961 - Fidel Kastro 1. Possibly by mistake book copy included one page from libretto of Pikoyaya Dama - OSWALD'S notes are the translations of Russian words, but OSWALD paid special attention to the words - 'You will receive the death blow...'

ITEM 180: Program of Russian opera -- Pikovaya Dama (Queen of Spades) with notes of LEE OSWALD.

1. Then it means you are pronouncing the death sentence (in Russian).
2. On another page – Zakalyvat'sya, zakalyveyetsya (twice). [CIA Misc. Person. Corr. 1007-951]

OSWALD might have believed that an assassination attempt against Castro was the purpose of the Cuban trip. In Cuba, using the cover of Fair Play for Cuba Committee leader, OSWALD would make contact with Cuban and Soviet officials. [HUNT Day p39] OSWALD was going to try to meet with Fidel Castro. Other Fair Play for Cuba Committee officials had been introduced to Fidel Castro. Maybe he would have the opportunity to finger Fidel to a hit team? HEMMING stated that OSWALD would not have been the actual assassin in a plot against Fidel Castro:

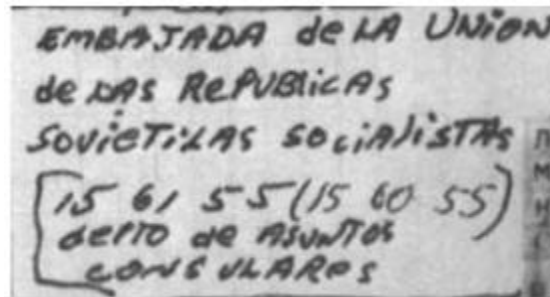

He's not a fucking shooter, he's a snitch. He don't do that kind of shit. The guy would never fucking go. People who are used in this kind of business are not told what the target is, and that anything this person does has any connection with that type of activity. OSWALD'S handler said, 'We have to build you a cover, send you down to Cuba.' He figures he was there for a very low level thing, no sweat, go on in, see what you can see, get acclimatized, then come out. 'Nobody's gonna contact you while you're in there.' When he does make a couple of friends in there, it's only later that he's shown these people have a connection. I had people going into Cuba through Mexico City, American citizens, I knew the whole goddamned routine. OSWALD would go to Cuba like his old buddy, GERRY, did.

Due to the transit visa loophole, OSWALD could have undergone a security check in the Soviet Union which was less stringent than the Cuban's security check, but ultimately he would have been admitted to Cuba. OSWALD had applied by mail for a Soviet visa in June 1963, but was still awaiting a reply from the Soviet Embassy, Washington. OSWALD'S operation depended on solely on the issuance of a visa by the Soviets. OSWALD would offer the Soviets information, in return for the visa.

THE FIRST CALL WAS TO THE SOVIET EMBASSY AND THE SOVIET MILITARY ATTACHÉ

Embajada de La Union de das Republicas Sovietilas Socialistas 15-61-55
Dept de Asuntos Consulares (then in another ink 15-60-55)

15-60-55 Soviet Consulate
15-61-55 Soviet Embassy

OSWALD arrived in Mexico City at 10:00 a.m. The Warren Report stated that the first call OSWALD made that morning was to the Soviet Embassy. The notes and transcription of David Slawson related: "Friday, September 27, 1963 - 10:37 a.m. A person who sounds like an American speaking poor Spanish, later identified as LEE HARVEY OSWALD, telephones the Soviet Embassy." The phone number of the Soviet Embassy was 15-61-55. From the transcription it seems as if he phoned the Consul at 15-60-55:

OSWALD: May I speak to the Consul?
Inside Voice: He is not in.
OSWALD: I need some visas in order to go to Odessa.
Inside Voice: Please call at 11:30 a.m.
OSWALD: Until then?
Inside Voice: (Hangs up)

Another CIA document reported:

Friday, September 27, 1963 - A man phones the Soviet Military Attaché 35 56 [15-69-87] and says he needs a visa to go to Odessa. Man answering says he should call 15-60-55 and ask for Consul. Caller asks for address, and it is given him.

First off there is no reference to asking for an address in the transcription. The address book makes it seem as if OSWALD first called 15-61-55 (the Embassy) and was told to call 15-60-55 the Consulate which he wrote in a different ink. The original transcript of the tap at the Soviet Embassy indicated the call was recorded at 10:37 a.m. on line 15-60-55, the telephone number of the Soviet Consul. That means OSWALD called the Soviet Consul and was given the number of the Soviet Embassy. It was strange that OSWALD choose to speak Spanish to the Ruskies when he could speak Russian. Only later was it agreed that this was OSWALD'S voice. If he didn't make this call himself, it would pre-suppose that OSWALD immediately hooked up with his Mexico City contact DAVID ATLEE PHILLIPS that made the call on his behalf after a half hour of briefing. As demonstrated the documents about this phone call all contradicted each other. Additionally some of the documents concerning this call had OSWALD asking for a visa to Odessa, others indicated he asked for a visa simply to the Soviet Union. My guess is that there were two calls one to the Soviet Military Attaché as OSWALD had provided information to the Sovs in the past and this was in Russian. The other was by DAVID PHILLIPS in Spanish on his boy Ozzie's behalf. The CIA looked back on this episode:

On September 27, 1963, at 10:37 a.m. the Soviet Embassy received a call from an unknown individual speaking Spanish who said he wanted visas to go to Odessa. He was told the Consul was not in, and to call back at 11:30. OSWALD is known to have arrived at the Flecha Roja bus terminal on bus no. 516 at about 10:00 a.m. on September 27, 1963. It was, therefore, possible for him to have made this call. But granting this, it is unreasonable to believe the calls were [now there is more than one that was made that morning] made by OSWALD for the following reasons:

a. The caller wanted visas, and specifically for Odessa. OSWALD was seeking a visa and never in any context did he specify the Black Sea port of Odessa as a destination.

b. The call was directed to the correct Soviet consular number: 15-60-55. On October 1, 1963, OSWALD first called the wrong number, 15-69-87 (the military attaché's number), and had to redirect his call to the correct number, 15-60-55. It seems unlikely he would have made what would have been an initial call, on Friday, September 27, 1963, to the correct number, and called the incorrect number on October 1, 1963.

c. The use of the Spanish language would exclude OSWALD unless he made use of an intermediary, which seems unlikely from what is known of his modus operandi.

[CIA 14-1C;

Edwin Lopez was right. HOWARD HUNT was right. OSWALD had buddied up with DAVID ATLEE PHILLIPS the minute he got of that old rickety Flecha Roja bus.

THE FIRST VISIT TO THE CUBAN CONSULATE

The working hours of the Cuban Consulate were from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. [CIA 700-304; HSCA 180-10001-10309] OSWALD entered the Cuban Consulate Friday, September 27, 1963. The Warren Commission Report, and the testimony of Cuban Consular officials, place the time of his visit in the morning. The Cuban Consul in Mexico City, Eusebio Azque, told the HSCA that: "On that same day he might have made the first two visits to the consulate; one during the morning very early, and the second one a little later...the consulate is open at 10:00 a.m. and closed at 2:00 p.m." [Azque HSCA Test.] Consular secretary Sylvia Duran told the HSCA that OSWALD'S first visit took place Friday September 27, 1963 between 10:30 a.m. and 11:00 a.m.

The CIA photographed the entrance to the Consulate on September 27, 1963:

No mention of an American looking fellow entering the Cuban Consulate. The Warren Commission reported that OSWALD told Sylvia Duran, a Mexican national who worked there, that he wanted a Cuban visa. He claimed the Soviets would transmit his Soviet visa to the Soviet Embassy, Havana, where he would pick it up. He said he intended to go to Cuba on September 30, 1963, and to remain there for "two weeks, longer if possible," and then travel to Russia. Sylvia Duran told the Mexican police:

According to his statement, he was in a great hurry to obtain visas that would enable him to travel to Russia, insisting on his right to do so in view of his background and his loyalty and his activities in behalf of the Cuban movement...his wife was then in New York City and would follow him [OSWALD told the Soviet Embassy that his wife was in Washington].

OSWALD he lived a lie for so long he was adept at creating something that appeared real out of a falsehood. He had been applying for a Soviet visa for quite some time and he knew that the Sovs were not going to transmit his Soviet visa to their Embassy in Havana. Oswald was a hustler and was trying to con a visa out of the Cubans. He was showing Duran clippings and other bona fides.

OSWALD'S COMMUNIST PARTY MEMBERSHIP CARD

Sylvia Duran typed the following on OSWALD'S application for a visa:

For Use of the Mission. Comments: The applicant states he is a member of the American Communist Party and Secretary in the New Orleans chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, and that he lived in the Soviet Union from October 1959 to June 19, 1962, and that he married a Soviet citizen there. He displayed documents as proof of his membership in the two aforementioned organizations and a marriage certificate. He appeared at the Embassy of the U.S.S.R. in this city and requested that his visa be forwarded to the Soviet Embassy in Cuba. We called the Consulate of the U.S.S.R. and were told they had to await authorization from Moscow in order to give the visa and that it would take about four months. [Handwritten notation reading] Hotel del Comercio, Room 18 46-5061.

A footnote to the Warren Commission Report stated:

When questioned by the Mexican police shortly after the assassination, Señora Duran did not recall whether OSWALD had in fact told her he was a member of the Communist Party...Because of the mass of papers OSWALD did present showing his affinity for communism, some in the Russian language which was foreign to Senora Duran, and because further investigation indicated that OSWALD was not a member of the party, Senora Duran's notation was probably inaccurate. [WR 837, 289]

The FBI:

It is suggested that OSWALD may have displayed copies of correspondence with the Communist Party, and with the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, and in this way convinced the Cuban Consulate that he was affiliated with both organizations. [FBI Brennan to Sullivan 9.4.64]

In November 1963 Sylvia Duran signed the following statement for the Mexican police:

OSWALD applied for a visa to Cuba, in transit to Russia, and based his application on his presentation of his passport in which it was recorded that he had been living in the latter country for a period of three years, his work permit from that same country written in the Russian language, and letters in the same language, as well as proof of his being married to a woman of Russian nationality, and being the apparent Director of the City of New Orleans 'Fair Play for Cuba' with the desire that he should be accepted as a friend of the Cuban Revolution.

In February 1977 Sylvia Duran, who still resided in Mexico City, was contacted by telephone by this researcher. She stated:

I really don't remember very well what documents he showed me to prove he was in the Communist Party, but I think that he showed me one letter or something like that... it was a letter. He was asking for some information, or something like that...and he showed me a card that he was President of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee.

In 1978 the HSCA interviewed Sylvia Duran:

He show me letters to the Communist Party, the American Communist Party, his labor card from Russia, his marriage pact, yes that he was married with a Russian, and a clipping that he was with two policeman taking him by his arms, that he was in meeting to support Cuba. And a card saying he was a member of the New Orleans Fair Play for Cuba Committee.

In September 1963 Mexico City Cuban Consul Eusebio Azque was in the process of training his replacement, Consul Alfredo Mirabell Diaz. The CIA reported:

The DGI element in Mexico City in the fall of 1963 was headed by Alfredo Mirabell Diaz who had arrived on September 2, 1963, formally as the replacement of the Consul Eusebio Azque (departed November 19, 1963). The deputy DGI chief (and as of June 1964, Mirabell's successor) was Manuel Vega Perez.

Both Cuban diplomats spoke with OSWALD. The HSCA testimony of Consul Alfredo Mirabell Diaz:

I noticed that he presented a card or credentials as belonging to the United States Communist Party...I was surprised by the fact that the card seemed to be a new card...generally we do not use credentials, or a card, to identify ourselves as party members. It would be interesting to know how he obtained the card. It did have his name, and it did coincide with the name that appeared in the other document. My impression from the very first moment was that it was a provocation. He insisted on the urgency of his need for a visa. He indicated that he was being persecuted. He indicated that he could not stay long in Mexico, that he had an urgent need to travel to Cuba, and from there to go to the Soviet Union.

Consul Eusebio Azque testified before the HSCA:

He is exhibiting or producing documents such as one attesting to his membership in the U.S. Communist Party. Also another indicating that he is a member of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. Also another document indicating his residence in the Soviet Union, as well as a marriage certificate to a Soviet citizen. He came with a book of Lenin under his arm, and I didn't like that; I understand that a Communist doesn't need a book by Lenin to be able to express his tendencies.

Azque also stated:

A. He requested the visa and came with a document that accredited him as being in the American Communist Party.

Q. You were saying that the first time that OSWALD came to your office he showed you his documents and they had to do with his membership in the Communist Party?

A. Yes, but I didn't analyze them.

Q. Were these documents at some time attached to the visa request?

A. No. That was a form of introduction.

NO CPUSA MEMBERSHIP CARD AMONG OSWALD'S EFFECTS

When the FBI searched OSWALD'S possessions, it found membership cards for the Fair Play for Cuba Committee signed by "A. J. Hidell, Secretary, Fair Play for Cuba Committee" which indicated that OSWALD was a member of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, but found no documents that indicated OSWALD was Secretary of the Fair Play for Cuba's New Orleans Chapter. This honor was bestowed upon A. J. Hidell. The FBI determined that A. J. Hidell's signature was probably not prepared by OSWALD. [NARA 124-10164-10011] The FBI found his marriage certificate which he had displayed to Duran. The FBI did not find his Communist Party membership card.

COMMUNIST PARTY MEMBERSHIP AND ENTRY TO CUBA

Sylvia Duran believed that membership in the Communist Party was a sure way to get into Cuba:

If you're Mexican, and you're a Communist Party member, you don't have to go and apply for a visa because the Party writes to the Cuban Communist Party, and they arrange everything...At first he said he was a Communist. That was strange. Because it would really be easy for him to get the visa through the Communist Party...What I said is that when he said he was a member of the Party, of the Communist Party, the American, I said why don't they arrange, the Party, your Party, with the Cuban Party and he said he didn't have time to do it. [HSCA V3 p58]

Note how the statements of Sylvia Duran about membership in the Communist Party, and his presidency of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, changed over the years. Sylvia Duran downgraded OSWALD'S forged Communist Party membership card into a letter OSWALD wrote to the Communist Party. Her first report, where she had the documents in front of her, was the most accurate. OSWALD carried a counterfeit Communist Party membership card. This indicated that he was running an operation against the Cubans using false identification. OSWALD was ordered to destroy or return these two documents. They were too sophisticated to be another OSWALD do-it-yourself project. They needed other signatures. HUNT and PHILLIPS had an unimaginative mentality, and when they ran OSWALD in Mexico City they made him a card-carrying member of the Communist Party. HEMMING told this researcher: "That could be. It's not hard to do, the cards are on file." Sylvia Duran said that OSWALD showed her a Russian marriage certificate and work permit. These documents were written in Russian, a language that Sylvia Duran did not speak or read. [WR p288] How did she know these were genuine? Sylvia Duran said OSWALD showed her "a clipping that he was with two policemen taking him by the arms." There was no photograph printed in any newspaper of OSWALD'S arrest in New Orleans. OSWALD was referred to the Soviets and asked to get photographs for a visa.

Sylvia Duran said she advised OSWALD he would need photographs of himself. He left the Consulate to get them. OSWALD'S visa application photographs were not taken in Mexico City. First, the FBI checked every photograph studio within an eight mile radius of the Embassy. None of them had photographed OSWALD. [FBI 62-109060-NR 199 6.15.64] In the photographs OSWALD was wearing a sweater; the temperature in Mexico City in late September did not require a sweater in the daytime. The photographs looked like they were taken by machine. The FBI reported: "The clothes which OSWALD was wearing in the photograph which appears on the application appear to be the same as some of those found among his effects after the assassination, and the photograph itself appears to be from the same negative as a photograph found among his effects." [WR p304] Photograph machines did not produce negatives. The Warren Commission: "The passport photographs may have been obtained in the United States." [WR p734] OSWALD had previously applied for visas, and knew that photographs were required. Who did he meet with during the time he was allegedly getting these photographs that he had brought with him from the United States?

THE FIRST VISIT TO THE SOVIET EMBASSY

The normal hours of the Soviet Embassy in Mexico City, according to the CIA, were 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. [CIA 700-304] Sometime between 2:00 p.m. and 4:00 p.m. on Friday, September 27, 1963 OSWALD appeared at the Soviet Embassy. There was no CIA photographic surveillance during these hours.

THE ADDRESS BOOK

The word "camera 335" appeared on page 13 of OSWALD'S address book. The Secret Service transcribed the word as "Carracas (?)." "Camera 335" was followed by the word "gun" directly beneath it. Soviet Defector Oleg Nechiporenko reported that OSWALD took a revolver with him when he visited the Soviet Embassy. The word "camera" appeared again on the same page followed by the word "us" or "U.S." The word "gun" appeared a second time on that page of the address book, followed by the words "me; watch her; ring sell." This seemed to be a list of things OSWALD sold before he left the USSR. The word spy appeared on this page, disguised as the Russian word for wedding ring.

HEMMING was asked if OSWALD'S gun would help convince the Soviets he was a provocation:

I knew that, but there are assholes like HUNT and others who wouldn't know that shit. They got their head up their ass. The dinosaurs at the Agency, at the time, had a stereotypical view of Castro and the whole fucking deal. That's why things came apart. They couldn't understand what reality was. Castro is not about to recruit some fucking nut that takes shots at General Walker. He doesn't give a rat's ass. These are embarrassing fucking people. They're psychopaths.

VALERIY VLADIMIROVICH KOSTIKOV

At the Soviet Embassy, OSWALD spoke with Valeriy Vladimirovich Kostikov [201-305052] who was "first spotted as a KGB man because of his travels around Mexico, his habitual association with known KGB officers, and because consuls, in Soviet practice, are usually KGB men." The CIA: "Valeriy Kostikov is an identified KGB officer. He was a case officer in an operation which is evidently sponsored by the KGB's Department 13 (responsible for sabotage and assassination)." Department 13 of the KGB was also known as "the department of liquid affairs." The CIA also reported "Kostikov's involvement in TUMBLEWEED is the only reason to believe that he is connected with the 13th Department. Kostikov was in clandestine contact with TUMBLEWEED (as definitely confirmed by TUMBLEWEED's photo identification) and arranged TUMBLEWEED's contact in the U.S. with a KGB colleague of Kostikov's. This colleague was identified by TUMBLEWEED from photos as Oleg Brykin, who has definitely been identified by a reliable FBI source as a member of the 13th Department. [CIA 182-621] The FBI reported, "Bagley stated that he wished to point out that Kostikov, known KGB agent, is the same individual who has been in touch with the Bureau double agent in the case referred to TUMBLEWEED. (This case relates to a double agent, Guenter Schulz, who is being operated by us against the Soviets. He has had contact with the Soviets in Mexico City. Bagley pointed out that Kostikov has been tentatively identified with the Thirteenth Department of the KGB, which handles Sabotage and assassinations." [FBI Sullivan to Brennan 11.23.63] TUMBLEWEED (Schultz) was a German National recruited in by the Sovs in Europe then rolled over by CIA. In New York City Schultz reported to Case Officer Oleg Brykin a UN diplomat and member of Department 13. Schultz met with Kostikov in Mexico City. Tennent Bagley reported:

Kostikov was born on March 17, 1933, in Moscow. In 1959, Kostikov applied for a visa to accompany Khrushchev's party to the United States, but we have no record of him having come to this country. Kostikov served as an interpreter at international conferences at Madrid and Barcelona in 1958 and 1959. In late 1959 and early 1960 he attended Soviet exhibitions in Mexico City and Havana. He is known to have been in Cuba from January 6, 1960 to March 7, 1960. He was assigned to the Soviet Embassy, Mexico City, as Vice Consul on September 19, 1961. A fluent Spanish speaker, he had traveled abroad at least three times before this permanent assignment.

The CIA stated that "Kostikov is believed to work for Department Thirteen of the First Chief Directorate of the KGB. This Department is responsible for executive action, including sabotage and assassination. These functions of the KGB are known within that service as "wet affairs." It also conducts interviews or, as appropriate, file reviews, on every foreign military defector to the USSR, to study and to determine the possibility of utilizing the defector in his country of origin." [CIA 509-803] The CIA: "Kostikov's physical description quite accurately fits that of a Soviet case officer." Valeriy Kostikov "handled a Soviet agent who was trained to do sabotage work." In 1968 Valeriy Kostikov was expelled from Mexico, after he was arrested for holding two Mexican engineers at gunpoint. He returned several years later, but was pulled out by Moscow in 1971, after a defector threatened his cover. [Barron KGB p307] On January 13, 1964, ANGLETON advised Sam Papich that ...the CIA had received no request from the Warren Commission concerning Department 13...CIA did receive a call from Guy Richards, the author, who talked to the Press Officer at CIA and wanted information on the identity and functions of the 'Assassination Section' of the KGB...ANGLETON communicated with Allen Dulles, who advised that he also got a call from Guy Richards asking if the Commission was looking into the activities of Department 13...ANGLETON also advised that Guy Richards had also contacted other agencies of the government... Department 13 was first mentioned by Golitsyn. He described its functions as including sabotage, assassination...Golitsyn's information was subsequently, in the summer of 1963, collaborated by (deleted)...

Guy Richards was a writer for the New York Journal American. On December 28, 1963, he wrote an article titled "Assassinations Fit Red Pattern - Probe Seeks OSWALD-Castro Link," which relied on information supplied by Nathan Weyl.

THE OSWALD/KOSTIKOV CONVERSATION

The Warren Commission claimed that, speaking in Russian, OSWALD explained to Valeriy Kostikov that he wanted a Soviet visa and displayed a letter from the Soviet Consulate, Washington, which indicated OSWALD had long been awaiting this visa for his wife and himself. He gave Valeriy Kostikov his 1959 passport showing that he had lived in Soviet Russia for two and a half years. OSWALD showed Valeriy Kostikov his marriage certificate, which indicated his marriage to a Soviet national. According to Oleg Nechiporenko, who also questioned OSWALD, OSWALD said the FBI was persecuting him and his wife. He was informed that he could not expect an answer for about four months. Yuri Nosenko stated that after OSWALD'S first visit, the KGB's Mexican Legal Resident cabled KGB Headquarters, Moscow, and requested information on OSWALD. In October 1963 Nosenko claimed he had been sitting in the office of Seventh Department Chief, K. N. Dubas when the cable arrived. The cable, which Nosenko said he did not personally see, specified that OSWALD had dealt with Soviet Foreign Ministry personnel only, and not with the KGB. When ANGLETON showed Nosenko a photograph of Valeriy Kostikov he noted: "No comment from N." [CIA FOIA 261091] Yuri Nosenko claimed that the First Chief Directorate, Counter-intelligence Abroad, had no information on OSWALD, so it telephoned the Second Chief Directorate, Tourism, and was given a rundown on OSWALD. It was determined the Legal Resident should not recommend OSWALD to the Cubans nor issue him a visa. Yuri Nosenko: "We said absolutely not, because he is completely undesirable." [CIA 498] Nosenko died on August 28, 2008 at age 81. William Coleman and David Slawson wanted copies of the cable, which had presumably been intercepted by the CIA, and

Back in the CIA offices during Willens absence, Slawson and Coleman discussed the cable traffic from the Soviet and Cuban Embassies both during the time of OSWALD'S visits there in September, October 1963, and immediately after the assassination. Scott and White said that no increases or unusual variations had been noted either time. We then discussed briefly the possibilities that the National Security Administration might be able to break the codes for the times when OSWALD was in Mexico City, using as a key the fact that OSWALD's attempt to obtain a visa was probably communicated to Washington on Friday or Saturday September 27 or 28. They felt that code-breaking might be possible and should be tried.

If Yuri Nosenko was dispatched, then he would have said that the Department of Tourism made the decision, to protect the identity of an informant in the Dallas White Russian community. Had this informant alerted Counter-intelligence Abroad that OSWALD associated with Russian exiles? HEMMING told this researcher:

The Communists had agents there. Just like the Marielitos. They get inside the community, hear these Russian speakers, talking all kinds of Romanov and Czarist bullshit. They got their people in there listening to them because these people are money-connected. What has OSWALD been saying to these people? We don't know that. We can't get a straight story on that. If he wanted to ingratiate himself with the White Russian Community who have become Bible-thumping Baptists to survive in Texas, then he's gonna be a reborn turkey. He's gonna say 'I was wrong, and I am a witness now, brothers. I've been to the Soviet Union and I lived there. Let me tell you the truth. I'm a reborn freedom-lovin' American.' Do we know that was his posture? We don't know what his fucking posture was. If he was posturing that way with the White Russians and one of the KGBniks that's in there is some kind of dedicated fuck that now hates OSWALD because OSWALD is coming in with this new truth, which this guy secretly knows is the truth because he's living in luxury, and he's gonna be there for a long time. He's fucking asleep, but he's a dedicated Marxist, or a dedicated money-grubber. OSWALD either pisses him off, or OSWALD has given clues that he has trade craft. Here's a guy that has come in, has been in the Marine Corps, has lived in the Soviet Union, and is now dealing with anti-Castro Cubans. I mean this guy is a competitor for Edwin Walker. I mean this guy is a real live fucking hero. There are probably a couple of people who got upset about that. I can see a KGBnik saying, 'Wait a minute, we have a guy here that was in the Soviet Union. Now he's becoming very popular and he's talking about connections with anti-Castro groups.'

GOLOVACHEV'S INTERROGATION BY KGB: JULY OR AUGUST 1963

Support for the theory that the KGB was apprised of OSWALD'S contacts with the Russian exile community came from Pavel Golovachev, who told Peter Wronski that he "continued to report to KGB Officer Kostikov until May 1962, when the OSWALD'S left for the U.S.A. Golovachev testified he had no contact with the KGB until either in July or August 1963, he was suddenly asked to report to KGB headquarters with everything that OSWALD had left behind, and all correspondence in the United States, with him. Why the KGB suddenly renewed their interest in OSWALD in the summer of 1963, Golovachev doesn't know." Pavel Golovachev only told this story to Peter Wronski. [Golovachev, Wronski Third Decade] A 1992 Izvestia article reported this interrogation took place in November 1963, after Pavel Golovachev sent a condolence letter to Marina Oswald that was intercepted by the KGB. After OSWALD was shot, Pavel Golovachev was arrested and subjected to a hostile interrogation. He was accused of being a CIA collaborator. His father never spoke with him again. James Hosty believed the alleged interrogation of Pavel Golovachev in August 1963 was a result of OSWALD applying for a Soviet visa: "Why did the KGB suddenly believe he was an intelligence agent when they had him for three years?"

OLEG NECHIPORENKO

Oleg Nechiporenko had an entirely different version of events than Yuri Nosenko. He claimed that on October 25, 1963, the Deputy Chairman of the KGB Secretariat, S. Bannikov, made the decision not to issue OSWALD a visa. Yuri Nosenko, on the other hand, asserted that the First Chief Directorate of the KGB (Intelligence Abroad) initially learned of OSWALD at this time and did not make the determination. This was false. Oleg Nechiporenko stated OSWALD was linked with the First Chief Directorate of the KGB (Intelligence Abroad) in 1959. The file turned over to the Warren Commission by the Soviet Embassy, Washington, indicated the First Chief Directorate of the KGB (Intelligence Abroad) would have known of OSWALD as early as February 1963 when Marina Oswald requested to return home. [CIA Rep. on Op. Act. (1958-1960) DC/Amer. Brit. Common. Sec.] Yuri Nosenko claimed OSWALD had no contact with the KGB in Mexico City. This was also false.

OSWALD'S SECOND VISIT TO THE CUBAN EMBASSY

Sylvia Duran dug OZZIE. He was admitted to the Cuban Embassy Friday at 4:00 p.m., after working hours, because of her. The HSCA questioned Duran about this:

Q. When do you recall him returning?

A. He came in the afternoon.

Q. About what time?

A. Five or six.

Q. And that would have been, according to what you told us earlier, not normal visiting hours. Is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. How were you able to speak to him on this occasion?

A. Because somebody came to the doorman and was speaking another language that wasn't Spanish, he used to call me and say somebody's here that doesn't speak Spanish, someone sent me to you, so he takes the people to the Consulate.

Q. And the doorman came and got you?

A. Yes.

Duran also told the HSCA: "The first visit was late in the morning, the second visit was early afternoon."

CALL INDICATED TIME OF OSWALD'S 2nd VISIT, CUBAN EMBASSY

From telephone lines to the Soviet Embassy, the Mexico City CIA station had a complete daily account of conversations between Soviets inside the embassy, and callers from without. Since a telephone call occurred during OSWALD'S first visit to the Cuban Embassy, a CIA document indicated the meeting occurred at 4:00 p.m., when the consulate was closed to the public.

OSWALD CLAIMS THAT HE WAS ISSUED A RUSSIAN VISA

Sylvia Duran told the HSCA about OSWALD'S second visit to the Cuban Consulate:

A. Well, he came in and said that he already had his Russian visa and he want to get his Cuban visa. And I said that was not possible, because it has to be first sent to Cuba, and then wait for the answer, no, it was necessary that he had to have first a Socialist visa, the Russian visa.

Q. Did he show you his passport with a visa in it? From the Russian Embassy?

A. No. No. I don't remember exactly but what I remember is that he says that he already has his Russian visa and I said I don't see it, and well I don't remember what we discussed in that moment. But he was very stubborn. So I say, 'Well I'm going to call the Russian Consul.' I said 'Here's a man that says he already got his Russian visa.' And he said, 'Yes, I remember it. He came to us for a visa but the answer will be in three or four months, that was the usual time.' [HSCA Duran Test. p108, 47]

SYLVIA DURAN'S FIRST CALL TO THE SOVIETS

The CIA's version of events:

Friday September 27, 1963, 4:05 p.m. - The Cuban Consulate phoned the Soviet Consulate. Sylvia Duran, Mexican national and Cuban Consulate clerk, talked to a Soviet official saying that a male American citizen was at the Cuban Consulate asking for a transit visa to pass through Cuba on his way to the Soviet Union. She wants to know to whom he talked in the Soviet Consulate, and who told him he would have no problem about it. If a Soviet visa is assured, the Cuban Consulate can grant him a transit visa, and simply notify Cuban immigration authorities. The Soviet first asks her to wait, and then she has to explain the whole thing over again to another Soviet official, who takes her telephone number and promises to call her back. Sylvia Duran concludes this call by telling the Soviet she herself has moved, and gives her new address for the Soviet Embassy bulletin. He asks her to phone (Sergey Semenovich) Kukharenko (Second Secretary who puts out the Bulletin) to give him the new address and he asks who the Cuban Cultural Attaché is. Sylvia Duran gives the Attaché's name as Teresa Proenza and adds her telephone number.

Another CIA document stated:

Just after 4:00 p.m. the Soviet Consulate received a call from the Cuban Consulate (Sylvia Duran) who said she had there a U.S. citizen who had requested a transit visa to Cuba because he is going to the USSR. Duran wants to know with whom he spoke at Soviet Embassy because she sent him over to them, telling him that if the Soviets approved the visa then the Cubans would give him one without anything more, advising the Department of Immigration in Cuba. She wants to know with whom he spoke at the Soviet Embassy because he says he doesn't know either with what person and who told him that certainly there would be no problem. The Soviet asks Duran to wait a minute. After a short wait Duran explains the same thing to another Soviet. This Soviet tells her to leave her telephone number and her name and someone will return the call. Duran gives her name and telephone number 11-28-47 then says as a personal thing, she has moved and has not advised them of a change of address so will not receive their Bulletin and can give it to them now. The Soviet asks her to call Koukhardenko in order to change that address and asks for the name of the Cuban Cultural Attaché. Duran says it is Teresa Proenza whose number is 14-13-26. The Soviet thanks her.

The Mexican Police stated: "The declarant, admittedly exceeding her responsibilities, informally telephoned the Russian Consulate, with the intention of doing what she could to facilitate issuance of the Russian visa to OSWALD.

THE SOVIET'S CALL TO SYLVIA DURAN

At 4:26 p.m., Friday, September 27, 1963, a Soviet calls from the Soviet Embassy Chancery to the Cuban Consulate and asks for Sylvia Duran. He asks Duran if the American has been there. Duran: Yes, he is still here.

Soviet: According to the letters that he showed from the Soviet Consulate in Washington, he wants to go to Russia to stay for a long time with his wife who is Russian, but also the answer has not been received by him regarding his problem. That accordingly these transactions take four or five months, but without prior approval from the U.S.S.R., they have to request and even then, they could not issue here (in Mexico City) without asking Washington. Yet accordingly this man (the American) showed him a letter in which he (the American) is a member of an organization in favor of Cuba and said that the Cubans could not give him the visa without the Russian visa and now the Soviet doesn't know what to do with him, because he has to wait for the answer from Washington.

Duran: ..with them also, because the problem with him (the American) is that he doesn't know anyone in Cuba and in that case it is very difficult to give him a visa because he was thinking of processing his visa because he knew it was going to take a long time waiting for the Russian visa and then going on to the USSR.

Soviet: That the thing is that if his (the American) wife were in Washington (and) going to receive the visa right now, or the permission from the USSR to return to her country, (if) she is going to receive her visa in Washington, then having permission, for example, here or in any other place (he) can receive it, but right now they do not have them.

Duran: ...certainly and neither can (the Cubans) give him a letter because I don't know if the visa will be approved.

Soviets: They can only give the visa according to his instructions.

Duran: Then that is what she will put on his application.

Soviet: Neither can I give him a letter of recommendation, because I don't know him, and pardon me for bothering you.

Duran: It was no bother, thank you very much.

DURAN SPEAKS WITH AZQUE ON OSWALD'S BEHALF

During OSWALD'S absence, Sylvia Duran spoke with Cuban Consul Eusebio Azque, who told her that despite his credentials, he would still need a Russian visa. Consul Eusebio Azque explained: "She might have believed that because of the fact that he was a resident in the Soviet Union, and [because] he was a member of the North American Communist Party, she might have believed that we might have been in a position to make an exception..." Sylvia Duran gave OSWALD another chance to persuade Consul Eusebio Azque to issue him a visa. She suggested Consul Eusebio Azque speak with OSWALD again. According to Sylvia Duran, she did this because OSWALD

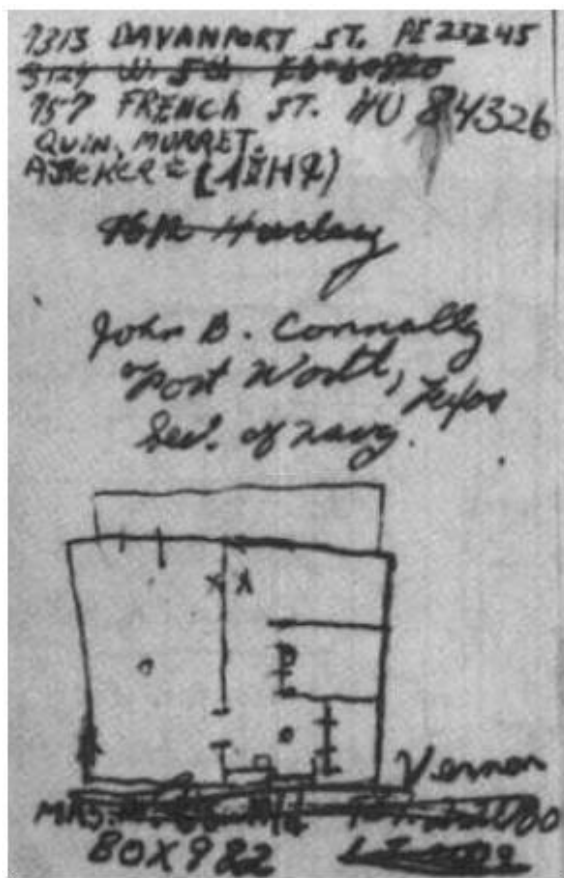

...became very excited and angry, and accordingly Duran called Consul Eusebio Azque...who came out and began a heated discussion with OSWALD in English which concluded with Azque telling him that, 'If it were up to me, I would not give you the visa. You are harming the Cuban Revolution, not helping it.'

Consul Eusebio Azque stated:

OSWALD was carrying documents which he believed would be sufficient for the visa, and the secretary could not resolve the case, she then calls upon me to see whether, upon examination of those documents, I can proceed to immediately issue the visa. I answered negatively. He was interested in telling me...that which he believed would be sufficient to obtain the visa. And our conversations were always extremely brief, because I used to put an end to these conversations, referring to my government's instructions...to obtain its prior authorization before issuing any visa. [OSWALD thought] that I may be in a position to provide him, without prior consultation with Cuba, with a transit visa, but [not without] the visa of the Soviet Union already affixed to his passport. Everything went around that issue.

OSWALD maintained that he had two reasons for requesting that his visa be issued promptly, and they were: One, that his Mexican tourist permit was about to expire; and the other, that he had to get to Russia as quickly as possible using his wife's homesickness as an excuse. Sylvia Duran "gave OSWALD a paper...in which she put down her name, and the Consulate telephone number, and the visa application was processed anyway. It was sent to the Cuban Ministry of Foreign Relations, from which a routine reply was received some 15 to 30 days later, approving the visa, but on the condition that the Russian visa be obtained first. She does not recall whether or not OSWALD later telephoned her at the Consulate number that she gave him."

THE NOTATION OF SYLVIA DURAN'S TELEPHONE NUMBER

Warren Commission Counsel David Slawson wrote:

Examination of the address book in the original shows that OSWALD used pens and inks of many different kinds in making various entries. For example, on the page which contains the names and addresses of the Embassies in Mexico City, all these names and addresses are obviously from the same pen and the same ink, but the name Sylvia Duran is in a different ink, and was probably written with a ball point pen.

This strongly indicates that OSWALD got the names and addresses of the embassies at some earlier time, perhaps before he left New Orleans, and that he wrote down Sylvia Duran's name after he met her at the Cuban Embassy. It would be interesting to know if the same ball point pen that was used to write her name was also used to make other entries in the notebook. This would be especially significant, because what appears to be an alternate telephone number for the Russian Embassy in Mexico City seems to be from a pen which is different from both that were used to write 'Sylvia Duran' and from that used to write the names and addresses of the several embassies.

This points to the fact that OSWALD did not have a pen with him, but was borrowing pens to make these entries, and therefore probably borrowed one pen at the Cuban Embassy to write 'Sylvia Duran' and another at the Russian Embassy to write the alternative telephone number. It follows from this that if any other entry in the notebook is from the same pen and ink as the 'Sylvia Duran' entry or the alternate telephone number, that it was probably made at the same time and place as these other entries were made.

THE FLOOR PLAN

To carry this conjecture out even further, there is what appears to be a floor diagram on page four of this notebook and it is written in an ink that could be the same as the ink used to write 'Sylvia Duran' in the notebook. If this proves to be the case, it could mean the floor plan was drawn when OSWALD was at the Cuban Consulate. Obviously my analysis so far is much to highly conjectural, but it indicates the kind of inferences that could legitimately be taken from a closer analysis of the address book. I recommend we ask that a CIA expert on this sort of thing be assigned the task of analyzing the entire notebook to give us a report on what entries were probably made by OSWALD with the same pen and ink. [UnID WC Doc. Declass. 6.21.73-Rankin/Helms]

THE LETTER "K"

J. Lee Rankin also wrote:

It would be of interest to know which entries were made with the same inks for the purpose of establishing relationships between entries. Special reference was made to a page in the booklet reserved for entries under the Russian equivalent for the letter K.

On February 26, 1964 J. Lee Rankin wrote:

In connection with this page, it appears to the layman's eye that the great majority of words written thereon were written with the same ink pen...However, the entry 'Sylvia Duran' seems to have been inserted later, apparently by OSWALD, with a dark, blue ball point pen. Another entry apparently was added - perhaps by OSWALD - with a lighter ball point pen. This appears to be an alternative telephone number of the Soviet Embassy in Mexico City. On this page there is also the matter of an overwriting, again probably by OSWALD with a ball point pen - of four numerals which appear to have been originally with the ink pen previously referred to. The Commission believes that some possibly valuable information might be obtained from an analysis resulting in a determination as to which entries in the address book were made with the same inks.

The FBI prepared a first response to the Warren Commission which went undelivered. The signature of William Branigan appeared on the document with a slash mark running through it. S.A. Griffith, who drafted the FBI response, wrote: "I don't think this went out - G."

Dear Mr. Rankin:

Reference is made to your letter of February 25, 1964, with which you enclosed a small address book covered in grey plastic, Item B-29 (WCE 18), with a request for certain specified analyses of entries appearing therein.

The figures 15-60-55, and the overwritten figures 35 56 in ball point pen ink were not written with the same ball point cartridge used to write the name Sylvia Duran on the page to which your letter made reference.

It has not been possible to determine whether the figures 15-60-55 and the overwritten figures, 35 56 were, or were not, written with the same ball point pen cartridge. A further determination would require removal of small samples of these inks from the page. This may prove the two to be different or that their dye composition is similar. However, similarity of composition would not be sufficient to establish that the same pen or ink was used.

Under microscopic examination there were observed some indications that the name, Sylvia Duran, in blue ball point pen ink was added after the drawn horizontal line in black which it touches. [W. D. Griffith to Conrad 2.23.64 FBI 105-32555]

On March 4, 1964, Branigan added this paragraph to the letter to Rankin: "Inks are not susceptible to identification with one another and similarity of composition would not establish that the same pen was used in preparing the two questioned writings. Ink identifications are not scientifically possible..." [FBI 105-82555-2424; WC Rankin to Hoover 2.26.64 Invest. & Evidence 3-6] The question of what other entries were made in the same ink as the floor plan was never answered by the FBI.

IN THE 1970's DURAN CLAIMS SHE WAS SUSPICIOUS OF OSWALD

Sylvia Duran told the HSCA that she discussed her suspicions of OSWALD with Consul Eusebio Azque:

It was strange, I mean because if you are a Communist, and you're coming from a country where the Communist Party is not very well seen, and in Mexico City that the Communist Party was not legal at that moment - crossing the border with all of that paper, it was not logical (and I was a little suspicious about the amount of documentation he brought).

OSWALD was giving her one cockamamie story after the other. He told her he had a Soviet visa and she learned he did not. OSWALD started a fight with her boss. If Duran was suspicious of Oswald, why did she sleep with him?

WHAT MOTIVATED DURAN? THE THEORIES

THEORY ONE: HEMMING told her to do it.

THEORY TWO: Because of her highly promiscuous sexual behavior, and the fact that she was married, she was blackmailed into helping OSWALD by someone at the CIA Station, Mexico City.

THEORY THREE: Sylvia Duran Tirado was sexually attracted to OSWALD and did it because she had fallen in love with him.

THEORY FOUR: She had been recruited by what she believed to be the Mexico City CIA Station as a potential asset, and was on, what she believed to be, her first mission. In reality, she was being set up by PHILLIPS.

WAS SYLVIA DURAN A CIA ASSET?

Sylvia Duran told the HSCA:

I now work for Social Security...I don't remember exactly, but I used to work for the Olympic Games. I was a translator for two months...I used to work for an Hispanic Art exhibit that went all over the world...I was married in 1960.

HEMMING told this researcher:

After I was released from jail in Cuba in September 1960, I went to Mexico City to meet with my Sandinista contacts. I was supposed to deliver a letter to them from Ché, which had been sent by diplomatic pouch before I was arrested, and therefore preceded me. I had a Cuban Diplomatic Passport then to see these people who were underground. I still had the Cuban's confidence. They locked me up just to see if I would break down. I went to the Cuban Consulate and met Sylvia Duran, who had no official position with them. She wasn't bad looking. I also knew a 'Sylvia Duran' in Cuba. When I got to Mexico and they told me I would be meeting with Sylvia Duran, I figured it was her. I questioned the other Sylvia Duran as being Sylvia Duran, because she had a Mexican accent, not Cuban.

HEMMING was asked if he had ever re-contacted her and asked to get OSWALD into Cuba? HEMMING told this researcher:

You know that's very strange. Because nobody knew that address, nobody knew she worked for the Cubans and her name came up. Sylvia Duran did not work in public contact.

It was pointed out to HEMMING that Sylvia Duran did not work at the Cuban Consulate until 1963. HEMMING:

Bullshit. You don't get the fucking picture. She did not handle a public desk. She'd been working for the Cubans since she personally met Fidel in 1956. She met Ché in 1956. They are protecting me as a source. I gave up all that information. She was carried in the Mexican SIM intelligence files. It's obvious she's on the payroll. A lot of the stuff that was passed to the CIA, I was getting the impression they already had it. When they don't go into background. They already got most of the shit that Sylvia Duran knows. That told me right off the bat, she's working both sides. I didn't burn her. I didn't warn anybody. They don't want the world to know she's working for the company. That she forged documents for people. [CIA traces indicated, "Duran had been involved in the work of getting false Mexican passports for trips by students of other nationalities to Cuba..." CIA 461-774] That she copied documents of all these Americans that were going to cut sugar cane in Cuba, they don't want this shit to come out. And that she was doing exactly what she was told to do for this guy OSWALD. She was doing all this shit for some dude who just climbed off a Red Arrow bus? Fuck me! Come again! Shit, how come I didn't get any? I mean this was a real dumb broad. Yeah, shit, there was plenty of pussy around. I'm not going to say I'm pissed off because OSWALD got something that I didn't. She was no clown. If someone of the proper rank came to her and said 'Do this, do that.' She's working for the CIA, she's told to fuck. There's nothing new about that. Why did they pop her name up in 1960 when I came out of Cuba? She's in the Los Angeles Domestic Contacts Division reports that they won't release now. [They were released and Duran's name was not mentioned] Her name figures there. The address of the safehouse and the whole fucking thing is there. I got that from Ché before I left Cuba. Ché had known her and had screwed her sister, or cousin, or something, when he was with Fidel in Mexico in 1956, okay. That makes her a target right away. Duran is another fucking link to me. You think that fucking upsets me? These are my fucking contacts. They think he's working for me.

HEMMING told the HSCA the same story.

DURAN WOULD HAVE BEEN A VALUABLE ASSET

FBI Agent Larson "described Sylvia Duran as best he could, basically, as a 'Mexican Peppercot,' a devout communist, and 'sexy.' (The CIA later showed us some pictures of her, which substantially confirmed this description)." [WC Slawson Memo 4.22.64] Did the CIA have compromising photos of Duran? CIA Mexico City Station files revealed that the CIA wanted to ask Sylvia Duran about friendship or contact with one Richard J. Aranda, resident of Texas. Owner of 1950 Cadillac with 1963 Texas plates JF 96-75. "Sylvia was with Aranda in his car in January 1963, and it is believed they had intimate relations." The CIA document stated: "Friendship or contact with one Carol J. Soles? Details? American, resident of Corpus Christie, Texas, owner of the 1962 Fiat, with 1963 plates from Texas KU 94-95; Sylvia was with Soles in this car in January 1963 and it is believed they had intimate relations." Carol J. Soles was contacted by this researcher in May 1993.

Q. Were you the same Carol J. Soles who lived in Corpus Christi and owned a 1962 Fiat?

A. Yeah, I did.

Q. Did you know Sylvia Duran?

A. No ma'am. Ah, no sir.

Q. She worked in the Cuban Consulate in Mexico City.

A. No ma'am. No sir, I mean, I'm sorry.

Q. The CIA stated she was in your car in Mexico City and you had intimate relations with her.

A. Do what??? No sir, who are you?

Q. I'm a researcher working on the Kennedy assassination.

A. I had nothing to with Kennedy assassination. I did own a Fiat automobile.

Q. Did it have Texas plates KU-9495?

A. Hey man, that's been 30 years or so ago. I don't know. How do you spell the first name?

Q. C-A-R-O-L?

A. Nope. It's not spelled right. You have the wrong guy. I was never in Mexico City around this time. I didn't know anyone in the Cuban Consulate. What did they say about this person? Did they give any information about his employment? That Fiat was never in Mexico City when I had it. It was never out of Texas till 1963, and I was on my way to Spain when the President was shot.

Q. And what were you doing at this time?

A. Well, I don't think its any of your damn business to tell you the truth. Actually I was in the military. In the U.S. Navy.

Carol J. Soles was mailed a copy of the document about him then re-contacted. [Soles, Carol telephone 503-538-5306]

Q. Did you receive the document?

A. It must be some kind of a joke. I don't know what else it could be. What are you tryin' to do - pull my leg?

Q. You weren't trading confidential information for sex and money with Sylvia Duran, were you?

A. Where would I get any of the information?

Q. You were in the Navy at the time.

A. Yeah, I was, I was training pilots down in Corpus Christi, I had no way of getting any information down there. I was never in Mexico City in 19 ah. It can't be me. I doubt that my Fiat would have made it to Mexico City.

Q. Why would the CIA pick on you? You're a loyal American.

A. The only thing is they may have picked something out of the air to ask somebody during interrogation, I don't know. I don't know Sylvia Duran and like I say, I was never in Mexico City in 1962. I'm sure they didn't do it through surveillance in Mexico City.

Q. That was precisely what happened. They got the plates, they wrote that you were "observed."

A. Well they're mistaken. I was never in Mexico City in 1962.

Q. Sixty-three?

A. I wasn't there either. I don't know what to tell you fella, except that I'm not the guy.

"Contact with Harry Lee Saffe? Details? American, resident of San Antonio, Texas, owner of 1959 Chevrolet which was parked in front of the house of Sylvia's brother in January 1963." [CIA 461-774] Sylvia Duran also had an affair with Carlos Lechuga. The CIA reported:

A usually reliable and sensitive source in Mexico reported that on November 26, 1962, Gladys Lechuga, wife of Carlos Lechuga, Cuban Ambassador to the United Nations, formerly a Cuban Ambassador to Mexico, said that she had received two letters from her husband in New York. He asked for a separation and said that the person in whom he is interested in Sylvia T. De Duran; that she is 'of his ideas' and was willing to go to Cuba...Another usually reliable source with good contacts in the Cuban Embassy in Mexico City reported in November 1962 that Lechuga and Duran did have an affair. The Cuban Embassy was aware of it, but efforts were made to keep it from becoming known. [CIA 98-37; CIA 96-572]

When she was questioned by the Mexican Police she denied knowing all of these men with the exception of Carlos Lechuga, who she said was friendly with her husband. [CIA 492-778] The HSCA asked Sylvia Duran about him: "To your knowledge was Horacio Duran Navarro ever a Communist Party member?" She answered: "I think that he was, I don't know if he was exactly a member, but he was sympathizer, and we had a lot of friends that were Communist Party members." HSCA investigator Dan Hardway then asked Sylvia Duran: "To your knowledge, was Horacio Duran Navarro ever a member of any intelligence organization?" Sylvia Duran: "I don't remember exactly. I think he was working for the, how you say that? I think he was in a campaign. Against the drugs...Being Communist, being policeman. All of that, it was after I meet him...I mean before I meet him." In another part of her HSCA interview she commented, "I saw that [OSWALD] could get angry, but for me he was not a man that could kill the President, because even when I saw him on television and he said, 'I'm innocent' and if I kill someone important, I would be proud. I mean, because even if I'm with police [CIA] I know that I am going to be killed or die, I'd say, 'Yes, I killed the President.'" At one point she was asked "Did it ever enter your mind that OSWALD was a penetration agent?" Sylvia Duran: "Perhaps, because it happened, it happened sometimes that somebody came and say this is a policeman or something like that." [HSCA V3 p57]

Although it was illegal for Mexican citizens to work for Communist Bloc embassies without special permission, she was a temporary employee of the Visa Section of the Cuban Consulate. Sylvia Duran was not a member of the Mexican Communist Party: she said she disagreed with all its policies except for its support of Cuba. The Warren Commission was skeptical, and asked the CIA to investigate. The CIA vouched for the veracity of this statement, as well as all her other statements, and implied that a secret CIA wiretap confirmed she was telling the truth. [CIA 559-243, 844-888, 385, 807-828, 643-273; WR 305] Sylvia Duran did not get her job through normal Communist Party channels. In the spring of 1963, while working in an art gallery in Mexico City, Sylvia Duran became friendly with Cuban national Maria Carmen Olavarri, a secretary at the Cuban Consulate, who was the relative of Mexico City Cuban Consul Eusebio Azque. Consul Eusebio Azque was described as being

On June 14, 1961 Informant E, who has furnished considerable reliable information in the past, furnished information re: Communist Activities in Mexico. Informant E reported that the General of the Spanish Communist Party is a consultant of Fidel Castro in Mexico and is a key figure since he manages a group of Communist cell agent, is the one in charge of distribution among the agents of subversive propaganda and countersigns for the elements of action which are led by the dangerous Proenza who is an ornamental figure in the Cuban Communist Party. She is an extremely alert woman, is attractive, has a good figure. Her value is in the entertainment centers. If she arrives out there she won't be alone. She always has armed bodyguard close by, being known that are among Eusabio Azque and Luis (illegible) who are part of the G-2 select group of shock and confidential agents of Castro who are active in Mexico and in the U.S. On May 24, 1962 Informant E stated that he had seen Proenza at several meetings in Mexico that were pro-Castro.

[CI Staff CIA FOIA HH9013]

Through Maria Carmen Olavarri, Sylvia Duran became a coordinator of the Mexican/Cuban Cultural Relations Institute. She reported that "while working in that Institute, she went to the Cuban Embassy to help the Cultural Attaché Maria Teresa Proenza (201-291531; born March 21, 1913). The help she rendered there consisted of answering the telephones and doing secondary tasks. She said she had known Maria Teresa Proenza before she had been Institute coordinator, since she was a good friend of Paul Flores Cuerrero, the husband of Sylvia Duran's sister-in-law, who died about three and a half years ago. It was through Paul Flores Cuerrero that Sylvia Duran met Maria Teresa Proenza." [CIA 492-778] A few months later, Sylvia Duran visited Havana as a guest of the Castro Government.

MARIA CARMEN OLAVARRI

In January 1963 the CIA reported that Maria Carmen Olavarri, was being "let go." [CIA 201-291531 FOIA 10679] On July 19, 1963, Maria Carmen Olavarri was killed while driving her Volkswagen Beetle. Sylvia Duran began working at the Cuban Consulate in August 1963 as a "temporary measure as the result of the death in a traffic accident of her friend Maria Carmen Olavarri, who had been occupying that position until some persons should arrive from Cuba who would assume [her position]." Sylvia Duran was recommended for the position once held by Maria Carmen Olavarri by Maria Teresa Proenza, and hired by Ambassador Jose Antonio Portuondo. In her HSCA testimony, Sylvia Duran claimed: "Because my friend Maria Carman Olavarri, she was dead - she had an accident, and during the funeral I told Azque that if he wants me to help him, for some people come from Cuba, just to help him. And of course he says, yes. They need some people they can trust, and I'd been working in the Institute...Azque was an Architect and he knew a lot of people, friends of ours, I mean my husband."

SYLVIA DURAN AND OSWALD THE REPORT OF DELETED

A Secret Kapok report dated May 26, 1967, stated:

1. Wallace B. Rowton met with LIRING/3 at the safehouse on May 25, 1967...

3. LIRING/3 then stated that he was doing his best to keep active certain contacts he had had in the past that were on the periphery of the official Cuban circle. He mentioned specifically the case of Sylvia and Horacio Duran, and then explained the background of his relationship with them. He related that Sylvia Duran worked as a receptionist at the Consulate in 1963 to 1964, and was on duty when OSWALD applied for a visa. She had been recommended to the Cubans by Teresa Proenza, the press attaché from 1959 until 1962. LIRING/3 described Proenza as a Cuban woman aged about 52, a lesbian, and a member of the Cuban Communist Party, who was currently in a Cuban jail as a result of a conviction for espionage on behalf of WGFAC. LIRING/3 recalled that during his last visit to Havana, a friend of his in the Ministry of Education informed him of Proenza's present situation, and advised LIRING/3 in the event he was asked, he deny he had known Proenza, or had anything to do with her.

4. LIRING/3 continued that just the other day Silvia Duran had telephoned him to say hello, and that he had visited her at her home to renew his acquaintance. LIFEAT SAN-26 (10.8) reveals that at about 12:45 p.m. on May 22, 1967, LIRING/3 telephoned 15-78-11, and asked for Sylvia. When the maid informed him she was not in, he asked for Mr. Horacio. When same negative reply given, he asked that they be advised that LIRING/3 called to say hello. SAN-26 (11.0) reveals an incoming call from Sylvia Duran in which she asks how he had obtained her number: He replies, 'At the Cuban Institute.' She states that she is studying at some school and at the moment is free to talk to LIRING/3. The later replies that he would go to visit her (Constituyentes 143, apt 3) in a few minutes.

LIRING/3 continued that Duran informed him that she first met OSWALD when he applied for a visa and had gone out with him several times, since she liked him from the start. She admitted that she had sexual relations with him, but insisted she had no idea of his plans. When the news of the assassination broke, she stated that she was immediately taken into custody by the Mexican police, and interrogated thoroughly, and beaten, until she admitted that she had an affair with OSWALD. She added that ever since then she has cut off all contact with the Cubans, particularly since her husband Horacio, who was badly shaken by the whole affair, went into a rage, and has forbidden her to see them. She added she felt certain her telephone was tapped by the Mexican Police or more probably by the CIA since tapping was an expensive proposition and the Mexicans wouldn't be able to afford it for so long a period.

5. Wallace B. Rowton LIRING/3's agent handler counseled LIRING/3 against any further contact with the Durans on the ground that it would put him under some sort of suspicion either in the eyes of the Mexican police, or the Cubans. He pointed out little or nothing was to be gained from such a contact.

6. LIRING/3 then produced, at Wallace B. Rowton request, a sketch of the Consulate and Embassy premises, a copy of which is attached. (Deleted) commented that to his knowledge Cepeda did not have an office, at least not on the first floor. His other comments appear on the sketch as reproduced by Rowton.

Another CIA document stated:

TO: Chief /Western Hemisphere Division/CO.

FROM: Chief of Station Mexico City

SUBJECT: The PBBRUEN: LIRING/3 operation.

5. The sketch mentioned in the last paragraph of Rowton's report dated May 26, 1967, was retained by this Station. Rowton used this sketch to discuss with LIRING-4 the layout of LIRING-9 Section. This statement made at the end of paragraph 4 of report dated May 27, 1967, is in error.

LIRING-9's section has two telephones. What LIRING-4 took for a third phone in the back room of that section is in reality an intercom unit.

6. Headquarters attention is called to paragraphs 3 through 5 of Rowton's report dated May 26, 1967. The fact that Sylvia Duran had sexual intercourse with LEE HARVEY OSWALD on several occasions, when the later was in Mexico City, is probably now, but adds little to the OSWALD case. The Mexican police did not report the extent of the Sylvia Duran-OSWALD relationship to this Station. For Willard Curtis 201-798301

[CIA 1225-1129b]

In 1995 the CIA Historical Review Program released this document in full:

July 5, 1967. Dear Willard: I am now in receipt today of HMMA-32243 (paragraph 6) and HMMA-32331 (paragraph 4 of the June 13, 1967 attachment). I note that these preceded your #1832 acknowledging the material hand-carried by Dick on his way through. Although you undoubtedly had gone into this material by Rowton, we would appreciate some elaboration on the estimate of the validity of LIRING/3's acquaintance with, and story from, Sylvia. I am taking advantage of the bearer's visit to get this to you soonest and will be following up with routine correspondence for the record. Obviously, we are still trying to fill out the whole story for any and all contributors. Regards. Thomas W. Lund. [Handwritten] Suggest we may have to do a complete analysis of the OSWALD file and point out to Headquarters (and to Mexican Govt) all the people who are now claiming to have been with OSWALD that day beginning with as much as we know regarding time of day where OSWALD was from LIENVOY. [NARA #104-10015-10027]

An analysis of the tap on Sylvia Duran's telephone dated June 13, 1967, revealed:

With regard to LIRING/3's personal life, LIFEAT SAN-26 reveals that he has developed a closer personal contact with Sylvia Duran (exceptionist of the Embassy and friend of OSWALD) than he has revealed to Rowton. In this conversation with Sylvia, LIRING/3 comments that he does not want to see her husband and would prefer to see her outside. They make a date for 1830 the next day at the tea shop Flaminia on Paseo Reforma.

Another CIA document dated July 3, 1967, contained this paragraph: "LIFEAT SAN-26 reveals that LIRING/3 is continuing his meetings with Silvia Duran. (Deleted) had shown no interest in this contact and it appears that LIRING/3 is developing a romantic attachment to Duran."

OSWALD went "to lunch" with Duran to discuss a "matter" that had to be brought to her "attention." OSWALD asked her "help, assistance" after which he rented a "cheap" "room" with a "bedstead" and "bathtub" for a "meeting, tryst." Later they went to the "cinema" then to a "dining room to eat, to dine." OSWALD ordered "rabbit" which was "hard, tough" and "beer." He met his "sweet" later at the "Embassy entrance." [NARA FBI 124-10022-10068] HSCA investigator Ed Lopez commented: "We asked if she had a relationship with OSWALD, not if she had intercourse. She was very sexually active. For a while there, the CIA was thinking about pitching her, because of her sexual proclivities. She got around." Sylvia Duran told the Warren Commission she told the Mexican police that:

...she would not give him her address under any circumstances since she did not have to divulge this to him. That her duties do not include telephoning the USSR Consulate, but that she had diligently done so in order to help LEE OSWALD, for her interest in being of service, and her zeal for performing her work well. That the reason she had given him her [unlisted Consulate] telephone number was so that he could ask her later whether the visa had arrived, but that he had never called again."

LET'S TWIST AGAIN LIKE WE DID LAST SUMMER

10 December 1965 (date of report)

Charles W. THOMAS, Political Officer, U.S. Embassy, Mexico City, reports that in the course of a discussion about other matters, Sra. de PAZ mentioned that she had met Lee Harvey OSWALD. She was very reluctant to discuss the matter, but finally imparted following information:

1. In September 1963, shortly after her return from abroad, she went to a party at the home of Ruben DURAN, who is married to her cousin. Her daughter, Elenita, accompanied her. There she met OSWALD and two other young Americans who were with him. The three young Americans remained apart from the other guests. She expressed an interest in talking to them, but was discouraged from doing so by some of the other guests.

2. Most of the guests at the party were communists or philocommunist. She remembers seeing the Cuban Consul, ASQUE [sic - AZCUE]; General Clark FLORES of the Mexican Olympic Committee; Silvia DURAN, who she later learned was OSWALD's mistress while he was here; Emilio CARBALLIDO, the writer, who she thinks is now in the United States; and a Latin American Negro man with red hair.

3. In November 1963, when the identity of Kennedy's assassin became known, she and her daughter went to the Cuban Embassy and, once admitted through the front gate, shouted 'assassin' and other insults at the staff there.

4. Shortly afterward, she and her daughter were visited by a friend, Manuel CARVILLO, who was then an official in the Secretariat of Gobernacion, and were told he had orders to escort them to a small and obscure hotel in the center of town. They were kept there for eight days under pretext that they were in danger. When she told CARVILLO she wanted to go to the American Embassy and explain what she knew of OSWALD's connections here with Mexican communists and Cubans, she was told that the American Embassy was full of communist spies. She said CARVILLO tries to give the impression that he is an extreme rightist. He now has a job with Belles Artas.

5. Some of the other people who were at the party with OSWALD were taken to the state of Veracruz, where they were 'protected' by governor LOPEZ Aria. Ruben DURAN is reportedly 'protected' by General Clark FLORES and is now driving a big car and looking very prosperous.

6. Many communists and philo-communists here believe Kennedy's assassination was the result of a communist plot engineered by Fidel

CASTRO. Ruben DURAN has subsequently told her that he is not really a communist and that it had been a great mistake to kill Kennedy.

Elena Garro de Paz was a high-level CIA informant and was friend of June Cobb. [Interview with Edward Lopez 2.94]

CONFIDENTIAL
MEMORANDUM OF CONVERSATION

February 7, 1967

SUBJECT: Current Political Topics

PARTICIPANTS: Elena Garro de Paz, Mexican Play write

Kermit Midhun, Political Officer

Charles W. Thomas, Political Officer

Distribution: Ambassador...

3. She said that her cousin, Ruben Duran, also goes to the U.S. quite often without any difficulty, despite the fact (according to her allegation) that he entertained LEE HARVEY OSWALD when the latter was in Mexico.

4. Ruben's brother, Horacio Duran, whose wife, Sylvia Duran, was employed by the Cuban Embassy, now works for Joaquin Cisneros, the Private Secretary of Mexican President Diaz Ordaz. Through Horatio's intervention Cisneros recently ordered Gobernacion to clear a Mexican visa for the son of Eusebio Azque, who was the Cuban Consul in Mexico at the time of the Kennedy assassination.

9. Senora Paz attended a dinner party at the home of the Mexican Ambassador to the U.S., Hugo Margain, when he was in Mexico following the Presidential meeting at the Amistad Dam. She said he lived in a sumptuous new home and had a fleet of private automobiles. The guests were mostly communists who had formerly been members of a Marxist study group. At this time, Margain was bitterly and emotionally denunciatory in his criticism of the U.S. [NARA 1993.06.25-11:08:36:340410]

The FBI reported:

Background

Mrs. Paz is a well-known figure in Mexican political, social and literary circles. She was a play write and well known to many officials of the Embassy including the then Ambassador Fulton Freeman, the then Deputy Chief of Mission Clarence A. Boonstra, and many others. All of these officials expressed to me on various occasions that opinion that Paz is a very interesting person and a scintillating conversationalist, but that she has a vivid imagination and frequently appears to be unable to distinguish between truth and fiction. Although interesting, they all considered her as highly unreliable as a source of information except for Thomas, who apparently placed consistent credence in what Paz said.

When Paz visited this office in November 1964, she claimed that she had seen OSWALD at a party given at the home of Ruben Duran on September 30, 1963, October 1, or October 2, 1963, as reported in Mexico City LHM dated December 11, 1964. As previously reported, Paz claimed that her daughter ELANA PAZ GARRO, who accompanied her at that party met for the first time a young man identified by her as ARIO ALEJANDRO LAVAGNINI STENIUS. Identification of this individual who had merely been introduced at the party as "ALEJANDRO" was made on the basis of correspondence received by her daughter from ALEJANDRO LAVAGNINI STENIUS after the party, Miss Garro was insistent that her daughter had not met that young man prior to the party. When it was pointed out to her that the letter from ALEJANDRO LAVAGNINI STENIUS was dated September 1, 1963, she merely commented the probably the communists have facilities for falsifying postmarks.

When ALEJANDRO LAVAGNINI STENIUS was interviewed, he was unable to fix the date of the party but he believed it was probably early in September and neither he, nor the two acquaintances of his who accompanied him to the party, could recall any Americans having been present.

On December 10, 1965, while talking to a former Foreign Service Officer Charles W. Thomas Paz claimed that the party where she had met OSWALD was held at the home of Ruben Duran 'in September 1963, shortly after her return from abroad' as reported in Mr. Thomas' memo of December 10, 1965.

In her conversation with Mr. Thomas on December 25, 1965, as reported in his memo of that date, Paz claimed that she believed the party was about September 2, 1963, or September 3, 1963, 'a few days before the visit of Soviet astronaut Yuri Gagarin.' (Mexico City newspapers show that Soviet astronaut Gagarin was in Mexico City from February 8, 1963 to February 23, 1963).

Mrs. Garro died on August 24, 1998. She was 78 and had emphysema. Ms. Garro was born in the pretty colonial town of Puebla, 75 miles from Mexico City. Her marriage to Mr. Paz in 1937 brought her into a circle of intellectuals where her own radical ideas flourished and eventually clashed with those of her contemporaries. Soon after marrying, she and Mr. Octavio Paz, a famous Mexican literary figure, moved from Mexico City to Spain to write about the Spanish Civil War. They lived in Paris after World War II and became part of the literary group that included the Argentine poet

Jorge Luis Borges and the Surrealist Andre Breton. Later they lived in Japan before returning to Mexico. Their marriage dissolved in the early 1960's and they never spoke to each other again. In the late 1960's, Mexico, like many other countries, was immersed in protest and rebellion. The Mexican student movement had been fired in part by the country's intellectual elite. But Garro turned her back on the movement, at one point calling it a "crazy adventure." Her remarks stirred open hostility and brought about an almost complete break with Mexico's literary community. She moved to New York, and later to Paris, remaining in exile for 23 years before returning to Mexico in November 1991.

THE SUICIDE OF CHARLES WILLIAM THOMAS

Another FBI document stated:

In 1971 former FBI S.A. Nate Ferris, who succeeded Clark Anderson as the FBI Legal Attaché Mexico City, reported to the FBI that journalist Sarah McClendon was planning an article about "Charles William Thomas, a former State Department Official who recently committed suicide. According to Mrs. McClendon's daughter, who lives next door to the Ferrises, Sarah McClendon is going to do the article because Thomas, former Political Officer of the U.S. Embassy in Mexico, knew so much about the OSWALD case.

Mr. Ferris pointed out that when he was Legal Attaché in Mexico, a Mrs. Garro de Paz, a Mexican woman, was interviewed by Bureau agents in Mexico City in 1964 regarding allegations that she had seen an American at a party in Mexico City who resembled OSWALD. Investigation located a person who Mrs. Garro de Paz said had also been at the party. He recalled the party and stated there were no Americans there and from information developed it appeared the party took place before OSWALD ever went to Mexico City. In December 1965, Thomas, the Political Officer at the Embassy, heard Paz's story for the first time and furnished the information to the Legal Attache and to the CIA representative in Mexico City.

Thomas was apparently disappointed that the Bureau did not attach as much significance to the woman's allegations as he did and upon retirement in 1969 he forwarded to the Secretary of State document regarding the allegations of Paz which he considered would damage the credibility of the Warren Report. [FBI 105-82555-7010, 5617, 5615-suicide of Mr. Deleted]

In 1993 the CIA released this document: "Duran speaks about party where she claims to have seen OSWALD. February 3, 1966. Cubans. CARDED. Will you read this and tell me if this woman and daughter were seen creating such a disturbance - as they claim - in front of the Cuban Embassy. Tks. (illegible) No Bells Ring with me, Jose - Ni yo Tampoco (deleted) No pictures either, Anne Goodpasture. There is no indication after reviewing the CIA files that the penetration agents in the Cuban Embassy were queried Elena's allegations). TX-1927 February 3, 1966." [NARA 1993:06.17.17:09:04:340000]

In the course of having had an affair with OSWALD, Duran attended a private party with him. The latter conjecture would assume that everyone who attended the "twist party," except for Elena Garro de Paz, remained silent in regard to OSWALD'S presence. This was entirely possible given the methodology of the Mexican Police. The HSCA examined this allegation, and found that Sylvia Duran confirmed that there was a "twist party" at the home of her brother-in-law in the fall of 1963 that Elena Garro de Paz attended. It determined that the CIA did not investigate this allegation sufficiently. [HSCA Mexico City Report p124] Was Thomas despondent because of the failure of the Warren Commission to look into Paz's "twist party" allegations? Was this why he killed himself? Unlikely. Maybe he killed himself because he wasn't invited? Or was he killed?

In 1980 PHILLIPS was asked if Sylvia Duran was a CIA asset:

A. Counselor, no. I've - it was a long time ago, 19 years or something like that. And I don't recall in detail whether she was or was not. There's been a great deal written about it, and a lot of testimony, but I'm afraid I don't recall that.

Q. Do you know whether or not she was an operative in any form for the U.S. Government at the time?

A. If I did know, Counselor, obviously, it's the kind of question I could not answer. I would like to say for the record, however, that these questions, almost in their entirety, have been put to me over a period of years by the U.S. Government, the U.S. Senate, and the U.S. Congress. And I have answered all of these questions in great detail. And in order to be useful, I would like to do so now. Obviously, I cannot, in this present situation.

A CIA document released in 1994: "B saw Azque kidding with Sylvia Duran recently in the office - chiding her for being Communist. Sylvia replied: 'It's not true, I am not a Stalinist and I have never been interested in Party membership. I don't accept the Party line and by talking that way you are insulting me.' B thinks Sylvia is a very intelligent girl. He thinks we might be able to gain her cooperation by getting a desirable male next to her -- she is, according to B, a little putita." [CIA MFR 11.4.63] Another CIA document stated:

THIRD VISIT CUBAN CONSULATE SATURDAY SEPTEMBER 28, 1963

OSWALD allegedly returned to the hotel about midnight, however, there is no evidence of this. [WR p251] The next morning, on Saturday, September 28, 1963, he returned to the Cuban Consulate. Sylvia Duran, in her HSCA testimony, was unclear about the date of OSWALD'S third visit: "OSWALD was not at the Cuban Consulate on Saturday, September 28, 1963, a day the Consulate was closed to the public." Consul Eusebio Azque claimed the Consulate was open Saturday between 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. - normal working weekday hours.

A CIA Cable stated:

Following full transcripts available:

On Saturday, September 28, 1963, LIENVOY reported the following:

[Italics indicate first part of telex was originally in Spanish]

Sylvia Duran from the Cuban Consulate, says that a North American citizen is there at the Consulate; that he has also been to the Russian Embassy. HD asks to wait a moment. Sylvia Duran speaks English with a person from outside, making a comment in Spanish to the effect that they have placed a phone at Aparicio's and makes a notation of the number, which is 14-12-99. Sylvia tells the person about the North American citizen, adding that he is going to talk to them. HF speaks Russian. HD speaks in English to him. Sylvia Duran asks the North American: 'Do you speak Russian?' Then, 'Why don't you talk to him?' The North American takes phone and says in broken Russian: 'I was in your Embassy and I spoke to your Consul.' Man in Soviet Embassy: 'Just a minute.' Man in Soviet Embassy asks the North American in English what does he want. North American: "Please speak Russian" Soviet "What else do you want?" North American "I was just at your Embassy and they took my address. Soviet: "I know that." North American "I did not know it then. I went to the Cuban Embassy to ask them for my address because they have it." Soviet "Why don't you come again and leave your address with us. It is not far from the Cuban Embassy." North American "Well, I'll be there right away." Douglas J. Feinglass reported North American spoke terrible hardly recognizable Russian.

The CIA commented: "All indications are that OSWALD'S Russian was ungrammatical but fluent. Then why the 'broken Russian' in the phone call to the Soviet Embassy, Mexico City. Explanation could be that he was excited and did speak brokenly..."

THE CIA EXPLAINS

We cannot be sure what OSWALD meant by his allusions to his address. He went to Mexico while he was moving his family from New Orleans to Texas, and he may have acquired a new Texas forwarding address in the process, which he gave first to the Cuban Consulate, then mislaid or forgot, and finally recovered it from the Cuban Consulate files, so he could pass it to the Soviet Consulate. It could also be that he was talking about the address of his hotel in Mexico City which he might have momentarily forgotten while at the Soviet Embassy. [CIA Doc. 187908 0082210 p66 or 75]

The CIA also stated:

A perplexing aspect of OSWALD's trafficking with the Cubans and the Soviets in Mexico City is his assertion in his call of September 28, 1963, that he did not know his address when he was at the Soviet Consulate, and came to the Cuban Consulate because they had it. It is hard to explain just what he meant, but it should be remembered that he was talking in Russian, a language he could not manage, and that when he came to Mexico he was in the process of moving from New Orleans to Texas. He may not have memorized his new address in Texas, whatever it was, and may not have been able to lay hands on it when he was in the Soviet Consulate that day. Perhaps he had earlier given the address to Sylvia Duran and wanted to look it up on her card. [CIA 367-726]

The address of the Hotel Comercio could have been easily obtained from the telephone book of the Soviet Embassy. Or the phone number could have been obtained from a telephone company information operator. This conversation was in code, and dealt with something other than an address. OSWALD might have pretended to have a piece of information vital to Cuban and Soviet interests that he was using to bolster his commie creds.

CONSUL EUSEBIO AZQUE AND OSWALD

Consul Eusebio Azque stated that some time during the morning of Saturday, September 28, 1963, (perhaps close to noon) OSWALD returned (probably from the Soviet Embassy) and engaged in a final argument with him. Consul Eusebio Azque: "On the last visit, when he loses the opportunity to obtain the visa, he gets very worked up...he accuses us of being bureaucrats in a very discourteous manner. At this point I also become upset and tell him to leave the consulate, maybe somewhat violently and emotionally. Then he leaves the consulate, and he seems to be mumbling to himself, and he slams the door..." That was the last OSWALD was seen in the Cuban Consulate in Mexico City.

AZQUE AND THE TWO OSWALDS

In 1978 Consul Eusebio Azque testified before the "Youth Accuses Imperialism International Tribunal" in Havana. After 15 years of silence, he said that OSWALD bore no resemblance to the man who had visited the Cuban Consulate. [Granma 8.20.78; CIA 55-243, 845-361A] He told the HSCA OSWALD was thin, 35 years old, not a pretty face, an exhausted face, something like gangster. He was blonde. And I remember that New Orleans [District] Attorney Garrison said there were two OSWALDS, and that made me think again that the dead man was not the same one who had gone to the office...What I noted was the difference between the person who went to the Consulate and the one that killed RUBY. They seemed to be different persons.

The Government of Cuba attempted to disassociate Fidel Castro from OSWALD. During his HSCA testimony, to show American intelligence that he had no suspicions Sylvia Duran was an asset, Consul Eusebio Azque described her as "a Mexican, totally in our confidence. She is very well known for having had serious problems with the Mexican authorities and was a prisoner...they wanted to implicate her and she bit and kicked and there was a public thing in the newspaper. They tried to coerce her." Mirabell, however, said he was the same OSWALD. Consul Eusebio Azque also placed the OSWALD visit earlier, to further disassociate Fidel Castro from OSWALD.

PHILLIPS

November 27, 1976. Hank: Attached is a rough draft of a preliminary analysis of the Post's November 26, 1976, article on OSWALD. NOTE that no record can be found that OSWALD discussed with the Soviet Union a deal in which he would provide them with intelligence in exchange for a trip to the USSR as alleged in the Post. It was this specifically that the Post claimed we withheld from the FBI and that Warren Commission. Of course, it is within the realm of possibility that the 'stenographer' 'translator' and DAVID PHILLIPS remembered something to this effect, but it was never committed to record. That would not be a normal or likely oversight at the attached points out. DAVID PHILLIPS told me yesterday that he had told the UPI that he had 'hazy recollections' concerning some sort of deal but 'couldn't tie these recollections to any specific report or document.' He has probably also told Sprague's staff representative this yesterday evening when an interview took place. DAVE'S comment is ambiguous, to say the least, but Sprague may take it at face value, or consider it a confirmation of the Post story as UPI has done. The Office of Security, at our request, is trying to get a line on the stenographer and translator whom Kessler claimed to have talked with in Mexico. OS is also reviewing the Agee material since Kessler is known to have talked with Agee before he wrote his article. DAVE PHILLIPS was duly informed by Lyle Miller as well myself that Sprague was not yet cleared to accept classified information, thus he, DAVE, could not be relieved of his secrecy agreement. (Today's Post states that PHILLIPS will appear before Sprague under oath --- that he already had informal conversations with Sprague and staffers.) John Waller. [NARA 1993.08.12.14:55:45:840060]

The CIA commented:

Had, at any time, a person telephoned the Soviet Embassy, or any other communist bloc installation, with an offer of information and the suggestion that the Russians (or another communist bloc country) might want to pay his (OSWALD'S) way to the Soviet Union, it would have triggered an immediate reaction by the monitor the Station -- First to identify the speaker second, to report the information to Headquarters third to step up technical and photographic surveillance.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1963 OSWALD'S SECOND VISIT TO THE SOVIET EMBASSY

OSWALD presumably returned to the Soviet Embassy on Saturday, September 28, 1963, and gave them his "address." Did "address" mean "information?" According to Pavel Yatskov, OSWALD had grown increasingly frustrated: "I met OSWALD here. He stormed into my office and wanted me to recommend and introduce him to the Cubans. He told me he had lived in the USSR. I told him I would have to check before I could recommend him. He was nervous, his hands trembled, and he stormed out of my office." [WCD 1296] Oleg Nechiporenko wrote that Valeriy Kostikov entered the office.

OSWALD told him he had carried out a secret mission for the Soviets. He began to sob, "The FBI is going to kill me, I am afraid," then displayed his revolver to the KGBniks by placing it on a desk. He never said why the FBI wanted to kill him. The diplomats unloaded the gun. OSWALD, who had been crying, composed himself. His gun and bullets were returned to him, and he left without taking the forms offered to him. When OSWALD left he pulled his jacket over his face to avoid being photographed. [Passport Ch. 3]

MEXICO CITY SEPTEMBER 29, 1963 TO OCTOBER 2, 1963

The Warren Commission said that OSWALD spent Sunday, September 29, 1963, Monday, September 30, 1963, Tuesday, October 1, 1963, and Wednesday, October 2, 1963, "sightseeing... going to bull fights." OSWALD'S map of Mexico City had a marking on the location of the Plaza De Mexico bullfight arena.

David Slawson wrote:

I then mentioned to Mr. Larson and the other agent that Marina Oswald had testified to the Commission that LEE HARVEY OSWALD told her, after he returned from Mexico, that while there he had visited the Cuban and Russian Embassies to do all he could to get to Cuba and had also seen a bullfight, visited some museums and done some sight-seeing. Mr. Larson said the bullfight arena had already been checked-out insofar as possible with the result being that no one there remembers OSWALD visiting the arena on the Sunday in question, but also that no one there is at all certain that he did not visit the arena. Furthermore, there is a section in the arena set aside for persons who are not formally dressed, and therefore OSWALD got a seat even though he did not carry a coat and necktie with him. It was mentioned in this connection that the jai alai games in Mexico City are strictly reserved for persons who are properly attired, and that no man can enter without a necktie. This, plus the fact that the ticket teller at the Fronte, who is a practiced professional informer for the police in Mexico City, says emphatically that OSWALD did not appear there, lead us to conclude that OSWALD never went to the jai alai games despite notation in his Spanish-American dictionary indicating that he intended to do so. The fact that he failed to mention anything about the jai alai games to Marina after he returned points toward this same conclusion.

The FBI reported that OSWALD'S University of Chicago Spanish-English, English-Spanish Dictionary contained "a small triangle near the Spanish word 'estadio.'" [stadium] The FBI noted that "OSWALD did not buy the Mexican phonograph records which Marina Oswald had requested, despite the notation 'records' which he had placed in his dictionary." [WR p736] The FBI reported that OSWALD'S University of Chicago Spanish-English, English-Spanish Dictionary contained the following notations:

1. On the fly leaf, the figures "5.80" (which apparently reflects the Mexican peso price of the book).
2. At the top of page 5 appear markings "4.50 4.40 10. 1200."
3. At the top of page 9 appear the jottings "3 5 8/40."
4. On page 91 appears a small triangle near the Spanish word "estadio."
5. On page 174 a small triangle appears near the Spanish word "pupila."
6. On page 175 at the top of the page appears the Spanish word 'que' which is marked out.
7. On page 210 a mark similar to a star appears by the word 'topar.' [To stumble upon] On the same page appears a small mark near the word 'tontera' [Foolishness].
8. In the back of the book on a blank sheet which faces the inside back cover, appears the following:

Phone embassy get bus tickets eat

watch Jai-lai game

buy silver bracelet buy record.

The following written words and marks appeared in OSWALD'S Merriam-Webster pocket dictionary:

1. On page 21 appears a bracket around the word 'ashamed.'
2. On page 65 appears an arrow at the top of the page in green ink. On the same page appears a large arrow drawn in blue ink opposite the word 'clearance.'
3. On page 66 appears an arrow by the word "clog."
4. On page 68 appears a dagger drawn at the bottom of the page.

5. On page 169 appears a line drawn beside the word 'imaginable.'"
6. On page 195 appears the writing in the top margin 'lature.'
7. On page 283 appear writing at the top of the page 'oneconce.'
8. On page 341 appears writing in green ink at the top of the page 'stoliz.'"
9. Also on this page appears writing in green ink across the definition for 'straightforward,' and this word appears to read 'seild.' [WCE 1403]

On Monday, September 30, 1963, OSWALD purchased a bus ticket back to Dallas. He would leave Wednesday, October 2, 1963.

OSWALD HAD INFILTRATED STUDENT GROUPS AT TULANE

Did OSWALD make contact with pro-Castro students in New Orleans? Evidence existed he did so in Mexico City. OSWALD had the telephone numbers UN 6-0389, and UN 6-2741 EXT. 276, in this address book.

Mr. Edward Rogge, Associate Dean, Tulane University, advised that telephone number University 6-2741 was until December 19, 1963, the telephone number of Tulane University as well as Newcomb College, a division of Tulane University. He stated that extension 276 was a temporary number used during the summer of 1963 for rooms 966, 974 and 976 of Monroe Hall, a dormitory on the campus of Tulane. On January 21, 1964, Mrs. Nancy McReynolds, Communications Coordinator at Tulane University advised her records show that extension 276 was installed on the ninth floor of Monroe Hall after it was completed during the summer of 1963, but due to the fact the air conditioning was not installed on that floor, it was not occupied during the summer. She said she often saw lights on many other unoccupied floors of Monroe Hall, in the evening during the summer of 1963, so she assumed unauthorized persons were using the extensions on those floors. She said the purpose of this would be to make long distance calls without interruption, and if possible, without paying for them. Mrs. McReynolds explained that the building is too large for one person to watch, and therefore anyone could gain entrance to Monroe Hall and could have used extension 276 whether they lived in Monroe Hall or somewhere else on campus." [FBI NO 100-16601/dmk]

Alexander Vereen, a student there in 1963, was contacted in August 1993:

I told the FBI on the night of the assassination that I was fairly sure I had seen him at a university beer party. I do not remember speaking with him. We had one of the first underground newspapers opposing the Vietnam war. Then I married a guy who went in the Air Force for three years. We were at a Top Secret military base. That was why I went to the FBI. The others at the party were afraid to come forward. I was a friend of Robert Hoffman.

Brian Amplost, who observed OSWALD distribute leaflets at the Trade Mart, knew Robert Hoffman. After the assassination, Brian Amplost received a call from FBI Agent Whalen who asked him if had met OSWALD. Brian Amplost suggested that OSWALD might have been at one of Bob Hoffman's parties. HEMMING told this researcher:

More than likely he made contact with students at Tulane. OSWALD was a busy motherfucker. He's got a program. You think he's thinking of this shit on his own? Where the fuck would he learn all this from? I find this asshole doing shit that I never even thought of. I never gave it a fucking thought. I was too busy. There's areas that I should have operated in.

The FBI reported that OSWALD'S University of Chicago Spanish-English, English-Spanish Dictionary contained the following notation: "A small triangle near the Spanish word 'pupila' [student]." Slawson and Coleman sent this internal memo to Howard Willens:

Your report is silent on OSWALD'S activities in the evenings throughout his stay in Mexico City and on what he did on Sunday, September 29, 1963, and on Monday, September 30, 1963...Marina has testified to the Commission that OSWALD told her, after returning to the United States, that all he did in Mexico besides visiting the embassies was to see a bullfight, visit museums and go sight-seeing generally. Anything further that your sources can develop to fill the gaps in our knowledge of OSWALD'S activities in Mexico would be appreciated. In particular, in view of OSWALD'S known propensity for inquiring into, or at least visiting political organizations on both sides of an issues in which he is interested, we suggest that all pro- or anti-Castro and anti-Castro organizations and similar revolutionary or left wing groups in the Mexico City area be questioned as to whether any of their members saw or met OSWALD at this time (or any other time). We have no evidence that he spoke Spanish, this might aid somewhat in identifying him to these groups and also in narrowing the number of organizations he might have contacted. A Fair Play for Cuba Committee on the University of Mexico campus, for example, if such exists, might have appeared to OSWALD as both a group likely to prove interesting and one whose members could speak English. [CIA 521-219c]

The CIA response was that it had no evidence OSWALD contacted any organization in Mexico City.

REVOLUTIONARY OSCAR CONTRERAS REVEALS THAT OSWALD ATTEMPTED INFILTRATION OPERATION IN MEXICO CITY SO LEFTWING STUDENTS WOULD USE THEIR INFLUENCE TO GET HIM INTO CUBA

Oscar Contreras, a 30-year-old reporter, born February 14, 1939, was the father of three children. He had been a law student in 1960 at UNAM, but was suspended in his freshman year. At UNAM, he belonged to the Revolutionary Bloc, which was a pro-Castro clandestine group responsible for dynamiting a statue of Mexican hero Miguel Aleman on the UNAM campus. The Revolutionary Bloc had ties to the Cuban Intelligence Service. Benjamin Ruyle, the United States Consul in Tampico, Mexico, stated:

1. During the course of recent evening of buying drinks for a couple of Tampico newsmen, one of them mentioned to me that he had recognized the photograph of LEE HARVEY OSWALD when it appeared following the assassination of President Kennedy. He said he commented on this to the editor at the time. The latter advised him to keep the matter to himself. Later during the evening he requested that I not reveal to anyone what he had told me, claiming to fear for his job if anything came to light at this point.
2. When I approached him subsequently (during daylight hours) for permission to inform the Department of what he had "confessed" to me, his reply was flat no. He insisted his knowledge of OSWALD had been slight. He claimed simply to have met OSWALD at the University in Mexico City and to have been aware he wished to travel to Cuba, as well as that the Cubans were not prepared to grant him a visa. He said his contacts with OSWALD had been fleeting and of no consequence and he repeated his requests I inform no one. He stated again he would lose his job if the matter came to light.
3. When I pressed him further, assuring him if I reported the incident it would be treated in the strictest confidence, he finally agreed to my doing so. I believe he is telling me the truth about having met OSWALD, as well as that his fear is genuine that he will lose his job if the incident receives any publicity. I also doubt he can be expected to add much, if anything, to the facts already developed.

In another document Ruyle stated that Contreras told him that he and

He said he and a group of fellow students met OSWALD one afternoon (Contreras does not recall the date) when they came out of the Cinéclub, which I understood to be at the Escuela de Filosofia. (I am not familiar with the University of Mexico.) Contreras described OSWALD as 'raro' and 'introvertido,' a person who obviously had complexes and problems. OSWALD was with the group during the remainder of the afternoon and evening and all the following day. They paid for his meals during this evening and all the following day. They paid for his meals during this time. It was of interest to me my informant said that, in addition to recognizing OSWALD'S photograph following the assassination of President Kennedy, he easily recalled OSWALD'S name because both "HARVEY" and "OSWALD" connoted rabbit to him, something I had not thought of.

OSWALD evidently had gone to the university to look for pro-Castro students who might help him persuade the Cuban Embassy to grant him a visa. He spoke little Spanish, but indicated he was from California, as well as that he had been a member of a pro-Castro group in New Orleans (no mention of Texas). He also gave them to understand police agencies in the United States had harassed him.

He showed an interest in painting and paintings. My friend reports the Cuban Embassy turned down OSWALD from the outset, apparently, in the first place, because they had no 'previous' on him, and in the second place, because they suspected he was a U.S. agent.

OSWALD was deeply upset about being rejected by the Cubans. My informant used the word 'lloraba' [crying], but I inferred not literally. The group saw no more of OSWALD after the second day. I am not trying to be coy about my 'informant's' name. I should nevertheless like to protect him to the extent possible. He claims not to have discussed his acquaintance with OSWALD with anyone except me. I take this with a grain of salt, but he does seem genuinely fearful of losing his job if he is tied publicly to this matter.

He also seems fearful of trouble with his former pro-Castro student friends if they got the impression he 'ratted' on anyone. I gather they are still not altogether former, considering he says some of them still visit him from time to time.

Incidentally, he claims to have visited Cuba, to be well acquainted with Raul Roa and to a lesser degree, with Castro. He claims further to have been friendly with one Maria Teresa Proenza, who I understand him to say defected from the Cuban Embassy, Mexico City, and may now be in Miami. One item revealed during our first evening particularly intrigued me. (He seemed subsequently and probably with justification, especially fearful of the unpleasant consequences which might derive from any publicity regarding it). He asserted that he was the student who personally climbed the Miguel Aleman Statue on the UNAM campus with dynamite - I believe he said dynamite - when it was mutilated some years ago. I am aware my friend may have fabricated everything he told me. My personal evaluation is that he has been truthful. [FBI 105-82555-5584]

MEXICO CITY CIA STATION TRACES ON CONTRERAS

The CIA: "Only Station trace is a January 17, 1961, Excelsior newspaper article, which listed him as leader of UNAM Revolutionary Bloc, which protested the kidnapping of a young student from her home by unknown assailants." The Excelsior article concerned the kidnapping of Celia Ramos, "alumna de la Facultad de Filosofia y Letras," and named Judit Leal and Norma Bazua as associates of Contreras. The Mexico City CIA Station checked its records and found that the name of Oscar Contreras did not appear on any "lists of leaders" of the Revolutionary Bloc. [CIA FOIA 02697 7.11.67 Curtis] The CIA claimed Oscar Contreras was not officially enrolled at the University in 1963; that the UNAM Revolutionary Bloc ceased to function in the middle of 1962; and that Oscar Contreras was never one of its leaders:

1. Attached is a copy of the first report received from LITEMPOS on Subject, in regard to the investigation being made with his contact with LEE HARVEY OSWALD in Mexico City as reported in the reference.
2. Of major interest is that the UNAM Law School files reflect that the only Oscar Contreras listed is one Oscar Contreras Lartigue, who was registered as a student in 1959 and 1960, but not during the period 1961 to 1963. In the interview DOSCHER had with Contreras in Tampico, Contreras said he studied law for three years between 1960 and 1964. This appears to be a direct lie on his part.
3. Also, Contreras said he was a leader of the Bloque Estudiantil Revolucionario during his student years, and according to this report, his name does not appear on any of the lists of leaders of the Bloc.
4. The persons mentioned in the report are generally known to Station as persons who belong, or belonged, to the MLN, and other leftist revolutionary groups in Mexico. Such is the case with Antonio Tenorio Adame, Vincente Villamar Contreras, and Daniel Molina Alvarez. Tenorio is a member of the MLN Directive Council, and a delegate to the tri-Continental Conference held in Havana in January 1966. Vincente Villamar Contreras, is on the Central Committee of the JCM, was a delegate to the tri-Continental Conference in January 1966. Daniel Molina Alvarez, is a member of the National Executive Committee of the MLN, and a member of the organizing committee for the first LASO congress.

Daniel Molina became an author and Professor of Mexican History.

HEADQUARTERS TRACES ON CONTRERAS

CIA Headquarters stated there were no Office of Security traces on "Oscar Contreras Velazquez." A CIA cable dated July 3, 1967, stated:

1. Although is possible Contreras may have fabricated entire story, importance of any leads this matter demands we explore fullest.
2. Believe story should be given FBI, unless you have objections. If not, do you prefer handle locally or want us to do so here? Once FBI in act, they may wish to take up with Mexican authorities.
3. Newspaper article citing Contreras as leader of UNAM revolutionary bloc tends to give some substance to his story in that Contreras apparently received some notoriety during his University days, does Station have any contacts or assets who might be able to identify other members of Contreras group at time? If Contreras colleagues identified, conceivably a follow up approach to him armed with this new knowledge might persuade him give more of story. In any event, if unable to resolve Contreras story unilaterally, will have to take up with Mexican officials and considering such possibility it may be unwise to risk exposure station assets by unilateral effort. Because of this and in view of LICOAXES relationship with LITEMPOS it may not be wise to use LICOAXES despite their long history at UNAM.
4. Request views regarding proceeding on own, through LITEMPOS, or handing lead to LNERGO [FBI?] with proviso we be kept informed.
5. No identifiable headquarters traces on Contreras.

Donovan Pratt was part of a CIA group that monitored the Garrison Investigation. What was Broe's interest in all of this when he specialty was assassination of world leaders?

WILLIAM V. BROE

On September 16, 1973 William V. Broe, chief of the CIA's Western Hemisphere division, met with Mr. Richard Helms and other senior CIA officers. The Director [of Central Intelligence] told the group that President Nixon had decided that an Allende regime in Chile was not acceptable to the United States. The President asked the Agency to prevent Allende from coming to power or to unseat him. The President authorized ten million dollars for this purpose, if needed. Further, the Agency is to carry out this mission without coordination with the Departments of State or Defense...The Director said he had been asked by Dr. Henry Kissinger...to meet with him on Friday, 18 September, to give him the Agency's views on how this mission could be accomplished.

On October 16, 1973 a cable went out from CIA headquarters to Henry Heckscher, CIA station chief in Santiago, Chile, who had doubts about the plots.

It is firm and continuing policy that Allende be overthrown by a coup. It would be much preferable to have this transpire prior to October 24, 1973 but efforts in this regard will continue vigorously beyond this date. We are to continue to generate maximum pressure toward this end utilizing every appropriate resource. It is imperative that these actions be implemented clandestinely and securely so that the United States Government and American hand be well hidden...Please review all your present and possibly new activities to include propaganda, black operations, surfacing of intelligence or disinformation, personal contacts, or anything else your imagination can conjure which will permit you to press forward toward our [deleted] objective.

Plans were already in motion. Five days earlier, on Oct. 11, Mr. Broe sent this cable from CIA headquarters to the Santiago station: SUB-MACHINE GUNS AND AMMO BEING SENT BY REGULAR [deleted] COURIER LEAVING WASHINGTON 0700 HOURS 19 OCTOBER DUE ARRIVE SANTIAGO LATE EVENING 20 OCTOBER OR EARLY MORNING 21 OCTOBER. #### THE CIA'S FIRST MEETING WITH OSCAR CONTRERAS

Because Oscar Contreras shied away from publicity and seemed sincere, Benjamin Ruyle cabled the Mexican Affairs Office of the State Department that he was convinced Oscar Contreras was truthful. Benjamin Ruyle sent an Urgent Memorandum to the State Department because of the "electrifying" quality of Oscar Contreras' statements. Contreras' report caused the Mexico City CIA Station to re-evaluate its information on OSWALD. That was when the memorandums about Sylvia Duran and OSWALD'S intimate relations were uncovered. The State Department turned over the telex Ruyle generated about Oscar Contreras to the CIA. The Mexico City CIA Station sent an officer to Tampico to contact Oscar Contreras in late June 1967.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Nathan L. Ferris, Legal Attache

FROM: Winston Scott

SUBJECT: OSWALD visit in Mexico

1. In reference with my conversation with you in June 1967, and on July 5, 1967, regarding a person in Tampico, Mexico, who advised the American Consul there that he had spent a day and one half with OSWALD somewhere before the assassination of President Kennedy, this memorandum is a review of action taken by this office to date.

2. On June 25, 1967, one of the officers from this Section traveled to Tampico to make contact with the American Consul Mr. Benjamin J. Ruyle, in order to obtain from him the identity of the "informant immediately." This officer spent a total of six hours with this person (two interviews) and found him very uncooperative as will be noted in the following paragraphs.

3. The "informant" is Oscar Contreras, about 30 years old; married and has three children; studied law at UNAM for approximately three years (approximate dates 1960 to 1964); stated that he belonged to a clandestine pro-Castro revolutionary group at UNAM; visited Cuba where he met Fidel Castro and Raul Roa; was persecuted by the Mexican authorities for these activities; and finally decided to get from the group and Police by changing his residence to Tampico (circa 1964). Contreras claimed he is no longer a member of any organization, but he is still visited often by his old friends who are still active revolutionaries. At the present time he is a reporter for the newspaper El Sol de Tampico.

4. In regard to the OSWALD case, Contreras was extremely cautious and refused to give details on the contact he claimed to have had with OSWALD. His refusal was based on the fact that he and four other persons (members of Contreras' revolutionary group) were in contact with OSWALD, and these persons are still active revolutionaries. If he were to [inform on them and] give their names and investigations were made, the four persons would know Contreras passed the information, and his life and that of his family would be in danger. Despite assurances of protection, Contreras took this position throughout the interview. [Subject said] Doscher could make all the promises in the world, but once the information was passed to Washington, it would be completely out of Doscher's hands. Contreras took this position throughout the six hour interview (two meetings). Doscher, was, however, able elicit some information which might be of interest.

5. [Although Contreras was not able or willing to give dates and names] Contreras' story is that OSWALD visited the UNAM campus shortly after the Cuban Embassy refused to give him a visa to Cuba. OSWALD apparently made inquiries regarding pro-Cuban groups at UNAM at UNAM and was directed to Contreras. OSWALD met these persons as they came out of a round table discussion held in the Faculty of Philosophy. OSWALD told group it was urgent he visit Cuba immediately, and that the Cuban Embassy denied him a visa. He asked the group to help him. The group distrusted OSWALD immediately because he was an American and he acted slightly crazy. They all felt he was a "CIA provocation." [He was obviously American with little Spanish and was very preoccupied over not obtaining visa for Cuba. Despite this, the group allowed OSWALD to stay with them the rest of that day, that night and part of the next day [at group safehouse]. OSWALD was very introverted and obviously had many complexes. While he was with the group he did not mention the possible assassination of President Kennedy, but he did keep on insisting that he had to travel to Cuba immediately. As to whether OSWALD was a homosexual, Contreras said this type of person could very well have been such, but during his stay with the group he did not show these tendencies.

5. Contreras told Doscher he once had fleeting thought of selling this information to Look or Life Magazine but did not do so because of fear of being identified by his group as source of information.

6. Several doubts arose in Doscher's mind whether Contreras was fabricating the encounter with OSWALD. Contreras said the chance meeting with OSWALD impressed him greatly because of the assassination of Kennedy. Yet, when Doscher asked him for specifics dates and details of what was discussed with OSWALD, Contreras refused to answer. This seems odd, because Contreras only pre-occupation was informing on his friends and giving details of what was discussed with OSWALD would certainly not fit into the category of informing on his friends. This also applies to exact date of meeting with OSWALD. If meeting impressed Contreras so much, he would have been able to remember dates and should have no qualms about passing this on.

8. Before second meeting ended, Doscher told Contreras that the information he was holding back was of vital interest to the United States and to the world, and if was not willing to discuss the case with holding back was of vital interest to the United States at present time, he will be visited again.

10. If above not sufficient, Station can possibly turn information over to LITEMPOS with request they pursue case for additional information. Please advise.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Mr. Nathan L. Ferris Legal Attache
FROM: Winston M. Scott
SUBJECT: Lee Harvey Oswald Visit in Mexico

6. An interesting point is that Contreras told the visiting officer that if he were forced or pressed by the Americans to give the details of the contact with OSWALD, he could simply say he fabricated the whole story and would have to leave him alone.

7. The only information available on Contreras is an Excelsior newspaper article, dated January 17, 1961, which listed him as the leader of the UNAM revolutionary bloc. The article concerned his protest over the kidnapping of a young UNAM student from her home by unknown assailants.

8. In the very near future, Contreras is to be identified to the Ministry of the Interior with the request that the Mexican authorities follow-up on the case.

9. All the information obtained by this office from the Mexican authorities will be made available to your office. It is requested that your office take no action in this case without prior consultation with this office.

10. For your information, your office in Washington, D.C. has not been advised of this case, and you may do so if you wish. # 11,880. [NARA 1993.07.03.08:59:13:710240]

THE CIA'S THIRD MEETING WITH OSCAR CONTRERAS

The CIA "was to have a third meeting with Contreras on June 28, 1967, but Contreras did not make an appearance." On July 5, 1967, the CIA Station Mexico City turned over the case to the Interior Ministry and the Mexican National Police. [CIA 1091-971; CIA 1093-413 highly deleted; NARA 1993.07.03.09:31:14:900240] After his interview with the Mexican police, Oscar Contreras changed his story: the man he met was not OSWALD, or he claimed he had met OSWALD in 1959 to 1960. Gerald Posner mentioned that Oscar Contreras changed his story, but failed to note the visit from the Mexican Police. HEMMING told this researcher: "What do you expect? He doesn't like a cattle prod stuck up his ass. Eight inches, fourteen inches, you'll love niggers after that."

Contreras said he was a leader of the Revolutionary Bloc and when the CIA checked its files, it found a newspaper clipping which indicated that this was, indeed, the case. The CIA should have realized that Contreras told the truth about this. Contreras was a revolutionary and the fact that he was not enrolled at UNAM during the time he met OSWALD should have added to Contreras' credibility, not detracted from it. Contreras was saving some of his information, such as dates and times, to reveal at a latter date. The CIA could not accept what Contreras had to say, and sicced the Mexican Police on him.

When the faculty of UNAM checked their records, they found that Tenorio Adame and Daniel Molina Alvarez were listed as Revolutionary Bloc leaders. The veracity of Oscar Contreras' story was supported by the report of another source, who had penetrated the Revolutionary Bloc in 1963. The report of this "other source" has been deleted from a 1967 Memorandum the CIA sent the FBI Legal Attaché in Mexico City regarding Benjamin Ruyle's interview with Oscar Contreras. [CIA 0001962 p27] The CIA never questioned Norma Bazua or Judit Leal.

HOW DID OSWALD FIND THE REVOLUTIONARY BLOC?

OSWALD had "apparently made inquiries regarding pro-Cuban revolutionary groups at UNAM" and he penetrated a leftist revolutionary group in record time. How did OSWALD know the exact hour the leftist students would be leaving Cinéclub? Did he have inside information? Did the Mexico City CIA Station have an informer in the group, who indirectly passed the information on to OSWALD?

In 1993 CIA revealed:

Since January 1963, the Station has attempted, through its regular contact with (deleted) to gain further insight into just what goes on at the UNAM which is of interest to the Station, and at the same time to examine the (deleted) assets and their capabilities in terms of UNAM. The project is, as stated in the Project Renewal, an important Station 'eyes and ears' mechanism at UNAM. Based on a look at (deleted) for the period under review the Station notes the following... For the current period this agent has been a key writer for one of the leading UNAM student newspapers, Revolutionario. [CIA FOIA 15618 Willard Curtis 10.30.63]

Another document stated:

If unable to resolve Contreras' story unilaterally, will have to take up with Mexican officials and considering such possibility, it may be unwise to risk exposure to station assets by unilateral effort. Because of this, and in view LICOAXES relationship with LITEMPOS it may not be wise to use LICOAXES despite their long history at UNAM.

This document was signed by William V. Broe Chief /Western Hemisphere Division and contained the line "CI/R&A Donovan Pratt." [CIA FOIA 02701] If Oscar Contreras' group mistrusted OSWALD, why did they buy him meals, take him to their safehouse, and stay with him for several days? Had Sylvia Duran told them OSWALD was "okay?"

CONTRERAS REKINDLES THE CIA'S INTEREST IN SYLVIA DURAN

A withheld CIA document dated June 13, 1967, "relates a brief statement of information concerned with Mrs. Sylvia Duran...In this instance, the language used makes the source of the information immediately recognizable." [CIA 1225-1129-B] A CIA document dated July 5, 1967, dealt with how the CIA went about verifying the information supplied by Oscar Contreras: "The document contains the discussion of possible operational action to be taken in connection with authenticating the information received from [Contreras]. This document is a detailed discussion about operational options including the use of a number of identifiable foreign intelligence sources and methods available under these circumstances." [CIA 1091-971 7.5.67] The CIA was in touch with Sylvia Duran around this time.

Another withheld document that dealt with Oscar Contreras was a "detailed biographic report concerning [Contreras]. The document also identifies the source of the biographic information." It was dated July 11, 1967." [CIA 1099-974 7.11.67] ANGLETON prepared a report on Contreras. [CIA CSCI-316/03243-67; CIA 1098-415] Documents on Contreras were sent to CI / R&A and Mr. Dooley. [NARA 1993.06.18.16:55:49:500000] The HSCA studied the Oscar Contreras matter:

The other association in Mexico City that might have proven significant, had it been pursued, was the one by Contreras. The committee made an effort to investigate this allegation. Sylvia Duran, for example, admitted to the committee that she had advised OSWALD he might obtain a Cuban visa if he could get a letter of recommendation from a Mexican in good standing with the Cuban revolutionary hierarchy. The Committee also learned that the chairman of the UNAM Philosophy Department, Ricardo Guerra, held seminars on Marx from time to time at the home of the Durans. The committee speculated that these circumstances might explain why OSWALD contacted Oscar Contreras...The Oscar Contreras story, was not adequately pursued when it first came to the attention of the CIA in 1967...The Oscar Contreras story was considered, according to Agency files, to be the first significant development in the Kennedy assassination investigation after 1965. Nevertheless, no attempt was made to determine who the associates of Oscar Contreras were, or how OSWALD might have contacted him. Instead, the case was simply reported to the FBI. According to the FBI files, no follow-up investigation was ever conducted. The HSCA's attempts to contact Oscar Contreras were frustrated. On two occasions the Mexican Government said he would be available for an interview but none materialized...The significance of the Oscar Contreras allegation, therefore, remains largely indeterminate." [CIA 1092-972, 1089-411, 1090-412, 1093-413, 1689-415; DOS incoming telex 3.16.67 #90914 Serial 0257; ltr. From AM, Con. Tampico, To Wesley Boles 5.11.67 Serial 0258; HSCA R p125] Gaeton Fonzi reported that Oscar Contreras also contacted Eusebio Azque, and was advised to stay away from OSWALD: "They told him they had become suspicious of OSWALD and said he might be a provocateur attempting to penetrate left-wing groups. Oscar Contreras worked at El Mundo in Tampico for four years. In 1995 Oscar Contreras was still in Mexico.

DURAN'S SPONSOR MARIA TERESA PROENZA WAS BLACKMAILED BY THE CIA INTO BECOMING AN ASSET BECAUSE SHE WAS A LESBIAN

Maria Teresa Proenza was the Cuban Cultural Attaché during the Fall of 1963. Her brother, Alvaro Proenza [201-772095], told the FBI that someone had asked Maria Teresa Proenza to intervene with Eusebio Azque and Mirabell on behalf of OSWALD. A Document Transfer and Cross Reference Card read:

OSWALD LEE 201-772095
201-289248 DBB - 04859
SEX N DOB? April 16, 1965
CIT ? FBI
OCC ? P10

Alvaro Proenza stated only that his sister had been involved in the aftermath of the assassination of Kennedy by LEE OSWALD. It was his understanding that OSWALD, prior to November 1963, had been in Mexico City, and had caused one of his acquaintances to go to the Cuban Embassy. This acquaintance contacted Teresa by chance.

ALVARO PROENZA

In 1927 Gerardo Machado Y Morales had gained control of all three political parties in Cuba. Machado Y Morales was elected to the Presidency of Cuba in 1924. Alvaro Proenza told the FBI that:

...in the years following 1920, and particularly following the accession to the Presidency of Cuba of former Cuban President Machado, he was repeatedly encouraged by Machado to return to Cuba for the purpose of managing some of Machado's private business matters. He said that in 1929, when President Machado again asked him to return to Cuba, and Proenza said he could not refuse. Proenza said that by 1930, some of his brothers and sisters, who were then students at the University of Havana, Havana, Cuba, had become involved in revolutionary activities directed against the regime of President Machado. He said that because of the activities of his relatives, he felt compelled to leave his employment with Machado. [Gerardo Machado was forced out of office on August 12, 1933. Machado died in Miami Beach, Florida, on March 29, 1939]. In or about 1935 he started a transportation business that failed by 1940. In 1950 he took a position with the Banco Nacional De Cuba. Proenza advised that the Operations of the Banco Nacional De Cuba are analogous to the role played by the Federal Reserve Board Banks in the United States. He said that by 1961 he had been transferred to the position of Chief Accountant in charge of the Bank of Economic and Social Development of Cuba. In 1961 Proenza was allegedly reassigned to the Ministry of Industries, which then and now is under the supervision of Che Guevara. Proenza said that he was sent to the University of Havana in 1961 to study concepts of socialist economics and also for 'brain washing.' Proenza said that as a result of the taking over of power in Cuba, the former Banco Nacional De Cuba had been merged into the Ministry of Industries, and, therefore, fell under the supervision of Guevara. Proenza said that during the period 1961 to 1962, he continued working for the Banco Nacional as Supervisor of Investments.

He said that because of his high executive position, he was a member of the Board of Directors of the Banco Nacional, and that he regularly attended meetings of the board chaired by Guevara. Proenza stated that, in his opinion, both during the period 1961 to 1962 and up to the present time over twenty-five percent of the members of the Bank's Board of Directors have continued to be anti-Communist and anti-Castro, even though they do not openly express their opinions. He said that the Cuban Communist Government has been forced to continue may influential and well-trained Cubans in positions of importance in the Cuban Government, even though they are known to be anti-Communist...He said that, as an executive in the Banco Nacional, he directly supervised approximately 75 employees; and that he had been ordered to give these employees periodic lectures on the benefits of Communism. Inasmuch as he claimed to be a stout anti-Communist, conditions became intolerable for him at the bank and he refused to give these lectures and resigned in 1962.

Proenza advised that, because of this prominent executive position, and social standing in Cuba, he had come to know many of the current political leaders of Cuba, such as Fidel Castro, Raoul Castro, Che Guevara and Dr. Valdes Vivo, an influential, old-line Communist, who is currently the Director of the Havana daily newspaper, Hoy, and who also is married to Proenza's grandniece...He continued by saying that at the time Fidel Castro was waging his mountain campaign against former Cuban Dictator Batista, he, Proenza, had been an active member of the 26th of July Movement. He said he was eminently successful in raising funds for the revolution...Proenza said he was adamantly opposed to Communism, Fidel Castro's Cuban Regime, and opined the United States has done everything possible to aid the Cuban exiles, with the exception of getting rid of Castro.

Proenza was asked about his daughter by the FBI:

Regarding his daughter, Marta Proenza de Gomez, Mr. Proenza advised that by 1961 his daughter, who hates communism, had become involved in plots against Fidel Castro and that he had been forced, therefore, to send her from Cuba to Mexico and thence to the United States.

Proenza further advised that in, or about, December 1962, or January 1963, he brought his wife, his daughter, Virginia Proenza de Gonzalez and her husband, Luis Gonzalez, from Cuba to Mexico in order to get them out of Cuba. From Mexico, they subsequently traveled to the United States, where they presently reside. [Alvaro Proenza had entered the United States in 1965 as a Cuban immigrant. In 1970 he and his wife were applicants for naturalization]. Proenza said that with the exception of his two sisters he regards each member of his family as stout anti-Communists.

Teresa Proenza Proenza (Sister).

Mr. Proenza described his sister, Teresa Proenza, as a 'Communist' a 'dedicated Communist' and a 'slave of the Cuban Communist Government'...Mr. Proenza opined that it was during the period of his sister's education at Havana University, her experiences with the Communists who were supporting the Republican Government of Spain during the Spanish Revolution, and the time that she studied at the Sorbonne in Paris, France, that she absorbed Communist ideology and became a dedicated Communist. He further advised that during the period while Batista was in power in Cuba, Batista had offered Teresa a salary of $1,000 per month, plus a $1,000 monthly expense account, to serve as inspector of the various Cuban Embassies in Europe. He said that because of her political beliefs, she refused Batista's offer...Proenza described Teresa as being basically too good a person, and too kind hearted, to be trusted by the Cuban Communists in intelligence operations. He therefore doubted that she had ever been engaged in any active intelligence work while employed at the Cuban Embassy. [FBI 105-82555-5652]

Maria Teresa Proenza belonged to a large Cuban family, and figured actively in Cuba's revolutionary battles in Cuba for the last 20 years. The CIA reported:

She is alleged to be an active element of the Communist Party. One of her brothers, Justo Proenza, was arrested by the police in 1930, and accused of disseminating seditious proclamations of a Communist type. In 1932, while the Proenza family was living in a suburb of Havana, members of the police raided their house, and found a large quantity of proclamations against the Machado Government. In July 1932, a bomb exploded in the Proenza home, and the police accused the family of manufacturing bombs and explosives. During the revolution against Machado, the Proenza sisters were leaders of the agitation at the University of Havana, and were characterized from then on for their leanings toward Communist ideologies...In 1932, at which time revolutionary activities were at a peak, the two sisters were forced to take refuge in Mexico because of threats of persecution made by Machado's henchmen. In Mexico, Maria Teresa Proenza became connected with the Overseas News Service. After several years there she became one of its traveling representatives, and represented the Overseas News Service during the Spanish Civil War, and likewise in France, Switzerland, Holland and Germany. When the second World War broke out in Europe, she returned to Mexico, where she again represented the same agency. Proenza returned to Cuba and obtained employment in the Cuban Ministry of Education. She lost her position in the Ministry of Education when Dr. Ramon Grau was elected President in 1944. She was considered an important Communist leader by the Grau Government. Prior to Fidel Castro's revolution, she was the secretary to Mexican muralist, and Communist, Diego Rivera. When Fidel Castro took power, Maria Teresa Proenza was appointed First Secretary of Cultural Affairs in the Cuban Embassy, Mexico City. She served for four years in this capacity. In October 1962 the CIA prepared an information report on Proenza because she was attempting to enter the United States. The CIA stated that "At no time has this Agency maintained contact with Miss Proenza. Charles W. Anderson." [CIA FOIA 17205]

THE OPERATION AGAINST MARIA TERESA PROENZA

The CIA reported: "On November 13, 1963, this Agency initiated an operation to counter Miss Proenza's effective exploitation of her contacts in Mexico, a work which frequently had anti-U.S. overtones." [CIA Memo Anderson: SA/DO/0 5.25.78] The Office of Security of the CIA stated it had no record on Maria Teresa Proenza. [Gambino Memo 5.10.78 OLC #78 1554/2] HSCA investigator Dan Hardway reviewed Maria Teresa Proenza's file. As a result, CIA Staff member Scott Breckinridge stated:

The files concerning this person lead to a very sensitive deception operation that resulted in the jailing of certain Cuban officials. The ramifications of the operation are extensive but do not, of themselves, relate to the JFK assassination. The fact that Miss Proenza was ordered back to Cuba suddenly in December 1963, may make her of special interest to the HSCA; however, the cause for her recall was the CIA operation. The Deputy Director for Plans has approved recommendations of the Chief IAD/CAS, concurred in by Latin American Division Chief, that this matter not be shown to the HSCA. [Breckinridge Memo for DD/CIA 7.26.78]

The HSCA was allowed to see an operation summary. Scott Breckinridge:

The representations of [HSCA] investigators on this matter are inaccurate and unacceptable. The memorandum reviewed by your investigators is no more than it purports to be. The cover sheet of the folder in which it was held explained that it was a blind memorandum. The memo itself clearly indicates that there was an operational interest in Proenza, which, to the usual reader, would make it clear that there were files.

The HSCA was never allowed to see the actual documents about the Maria Teresa Proenza Operation. [CIA Leg. Con. to HSCA 8.2.78; w/h documents include Document No. 17207 7.26.78 CIA Job No. 80T1357A Box No. JFK 49 Folder 60 3 p; w/h FBI documents included FBI 105-82555-5652 pgs 2 - 4.]

MEMORANDUM

SUBJECT: Political Action Operations in Cuba - the PROENZA Case

1. Introduction

This memorandum sets forth information concerning the conduct of a series of interlocking non-violent political action operations against the Cuban Government, its internal coalition and its alliance with the Soviet Union mounted in 1963.

2. Objectives

Pursuant to instructions from the 303 Committee, during the Kennedy Administration, the CIA established among its objectives against Cuba, the fragmenting of its governing coalition, and exacerbation with its relations with the USSR. This decision was taken prior to the October 1962 Cuban Missile Crisis. As a result of the decision a number of non-violent operations were carried out. Those pertaining to the Teresa Proenza Proenza case are set out below.

3. The Operations

a. On April 3, 1963 a set of spurious documents falsely ascribed to a disaffected CIA agent in Mexico were passed (deleted) to the Cuban Embassy in Mexico, City. The documents made it appear that the Cuban Vice Minister of Defense, a highly placed and extreme Moscow-line Communist (who had been in Moscow when the missile build-up was planned in early 1962), was actually a CIA agent who had betrayed the build-up. The purpose of this disinformation was to cause a great strain in the relations between the Cuban Communist Party (then known as the PSP) and the other partners in the coalition. It was also hoped that the operation would redound against the USSR, because the Vice Minister of Defense was a senior Moscow-line member of the PSP. It was calculated that the USSR would move to defend the Vice Minister, who was probably their chief agent in the Cuban Government, and that a collision between the Soviets and Cubans could result. The Cubans accepted the spurious papers and paid for them per our demand.

b. Through the summer of 1963 several further deliveries of spurious documents were made to the Cubans and several thousand dollars were received in payment. But the results of the operation from inside Cuba were not yet observed. Therefore on November 13, 1963, when a delivery of documents was again being made several were included revealing the presence of another "CIA agent" in the Cuban Government, this time inside the Cuban Embassy in Mexico City. This target was Proenza, long-time Cuban Communist and contact of Soviet intelligence in Mexico, who was acting as Cuban Cultural Attaché. She also was a close contact of the Vice Minister of Defense. On December 10, 1963, Miss Proenza was informed of her sudden transfer back to Cuba; she actually departed on January 23, 1964. It was apparent that her recall was connected with the spurious documents and her long known friendship with the Vice Minister of Defense.

c. The first reaction to the operation inside Cuba occurred in the week of March 14, 1964. At that time a junior member of the Communist Party (PSP) was tried and convicted of betraying non-communist leaders of the resistance to the former Government of Cuba which had become overthrown by Fidel Castro. As the trial wore on, it became apparent that since the young communist had been the protégé of the Vice Minister of Defense, the trial was really a trial of the latter. Another Tukachevskiy case.

d. During 1964 deliveries of documents to the Cubans were continued and payments received. On November 18, 1964, the Vice Minister of Defense was arrested on charges of treason, and removed from his post, as was his wife, who held cabinet rank. They were jailed, as was Proenza.

e. After terms in prison, all three defendants were released to house arrest. Proenza was permitted to work as a librarian in Havana. The Vice Minister of Defense died peacefully in his bed several years later. His widow was allowed to leave Cuba and reside in Spain. This phase of the CIA operation wound down in March 1966 when the Cubans ceased taking an interest in it.

4. Concluding Remarks

The foregoing is but the barest outline of a highly complex operational system that made use of a wide variety of techniques and assets which have not been revealed to the public. The story would make dramatic headlines if it became publicly known, especially in the present environment. The fact that several persons were deprived of their freedom as a result of this operation would attract further attention. Furthermore, this operation laid the basis for other operations of a similar nature that were successfully mounted against Cuban and other hostile targets. In short, this file is a Pandora's box, the opening of which would not only expose the cryptonyms of other operations of this type, but would attract unfavorable publicity for the Agency in certain quarters and would expose hitherto secret techniques and assets. It would make their employment in the future very difficult. The fact that this series of did not begin to register on the Cubans until after the death of President Kennedy should remove any suspicion that it could in any way have caused Castro to direct an assassination attempt against the President.

MARIA TERESA PROENZA'S RECALL

In late December 1963 Maria Teresa Proenza was dismissed from her position as First Secretary. The CIA reported on a meeting with (Deleted) on December 27, 1963: "(Deleted reported on the recent firing of Teresa Proenza and this was made the subject of two cables to Headquarters in view of her importance in the Amrod operation. (See MEXI 7613 and MEXI 7625)."

Cable traffic indicated Maria Teresa Proenza's recall was due to a "moral situation." Cuban Cultural Attaché, Raul Aparicio Nogales, stated: "She is unemployed." Asked why he said, "What you will imagine, but do not say it." During a conversation between Raul Aparicio and Maria Teresa Proenza, Proenza mentioned "Osvaldo." The CIA stated this referred to President Osvaldo Dorticos.

Other reports indicated that in 1964, Maria Teresa Proenza had contacted the head of Cuba's Communist Party, who used his influence to get her a position in a Cuban University where she worked under her former Ambassador Jose Antonio Portuondo. A CIA cable dated April 10, 1964, from Mexico City reported the results from a bug that had been planted in the Cuban Consulate:

1. Per (Deleted) March 25, 1964, Teresa Proenza told Aparacio she has been offered teaching job in Cuba but details vague and she not very interested.
2. In whispered conversation Proenza made reference to blunders being made in Cuba and to her anger about certain untrue allegations.
3. Proenza appeared wish speak more about Cuban internal matters and Marco Rodriguez trial but Aparicio kept shifting to other topics. [FOIA CIA 10419. 10481]

Philip Agee reported:

Through AVBUZZ-1 we're generating propaganda on the trial in Cuba of Marcos Rodriguez, a leader of the DRE in the struggle against Batista. Rodriguez is accused of having betrayed 26th of July members to the Batista police and our false line is that he was really a communist and was instructed to betray 26th of July people by the Cuban Communist Party. Purpose: exacerbate differences between the old-line communists and 26th of July people. We're also playing up the Anibal Escalante trial. [CIA Diary p369]

Maria Teresa Proenza came to the United States in 1968. The CIA: "At no time has this Agency maintained contact with Proenza." [CIA Charles W. Anderson 5.25.78 for SA/DO/O] By 1978 she had returned to Cuba. That same year her brother came under FBI investigation as a possible Castro double-agent. [FBI 105-82555-5652]

FONZI INTERVIEWS ALVARO PROENZA

In April 1978 Alvaro Proenza was contacted by Gaeton Fonzi.

He said that he last saw his sister in Mexico City in March 1964. He said he doesn't recall stating, and presently doesn't recall if his sister's dismissal from the Mexico City Cuban Embassy was relating to a visit to the Embassy by OSWALD or his acquaintance. He said that his sister was recalled to Havana after he last saw her but was appointed Director of the Federal Public Library there. However, as a result of what he termed political ambition or an enemy of hers, she was put under house arrest for three years, and although she reportedly now has a car and a driver (whom Proenza said was really her guard), she is still in political disfavor. Proenza said he doesn't recall being told by his sister anything about OSWALD or an acquaintance's visit to the Cuban Embassy. He said he remembers hearing from another employee in the Embassy that OSWALD did visit there, but doesn't recall who told him. When asked if it could have been Sylvia Duran, he said he knew Sylvia Duran when she was in Havana, but doesn't remember meeting her in Mexico City and doubts whether it was her who told him about OSWALD...Proenza said he is a strong anti-Castro Cuban and a very patriotic American and would be very glad to help us in any way he can but he feels that Castro had to have some role in the Kennedy assassination. [HSCA Fonzi to Blakey 4.14.78]

ELIZABETH CATLETT MORA

On March 16, 1964, the FBI noted that

MARY LOUISE CAMACHO, nee PATTERSON, born March 15, 1943, Chicago, Illinois, is the daughter of WILLIAM L. PATTERSON, Chairman of the New York State Communist Party (CP), and she is presently residing in the Soviet Union with her husband, ROBERTO CAMACHO. Although not known to have been formally a CP member, CAMACHO is apparently accepted as such and is being groomed for Party leadership responsibilities in the future. Her participation in CP sponsored and endorsed Marxist Youth activities, her attendance at and participation in other CP celebrations and activities, her attendance at the Patrice Lumumba University in Moscow, her unauthorized travel to Red China, and other participation in communist-type activities further this conclusion.

Source T-22 advised on January 6, 1964, that MORA was ill and would not discuss the OSWALD case with anyone. On January 13, 1964, source advised that MORA had made a statement that OSWALD "walked in cold" to the Cuban Embassy in Mexico, D. F., Mexico, and the first person he talked to was TERESA PROENZA, Cultural Attaché of the Cuban Embassy. MORA further stated that as PROENZA did not speak English she turned OSWALD over to the nearest person, not identified by MORA, but described as being of higher rank and knowing English. MORA said that PROENZA allegedly made the statement that the purpose of OSWALD's visit to the Cuban Embassy was to obtain a visa to go to Russia. On February 6, 1964, source advised that on January 23, 1964, MORA continued to be ill with an extraordinary amount of eye trouble. Source advised on March 7, 1964, that MORA was still ill and would not discuss the OSWALD matter any further with anyone.

Maria Teresa Proenza, accompanied by two DGI Agents, testified before the HSCA.

Q. It has been claimed that LEE HARVEY OSWALD, the possible assassin of President Kennedy, visited the consulate of Cuba in September 1963. Did you meet him there?

A. Never.

Q. Did you hear of the visit of that man there?

A. Never.

Q. Do you know a man named Oscar Contreras Lartigue?

A. No. As far as I can remember, no.

Q. Did you know a woman named Elena Garro de Paz?

A. Elena Garro? Yes, she was the wife of a great Mexican poet. I didn't know her in Havana, I met her in Mexico. She was the wife of Octavio Paz, a great Mexican poet who was the Ambassador to India.

Q. Did you know her personally?

A. Yes, but without much...Many years ago when the Spanish war was on. They were daughters of Spaniards and very active in the movement where I too was militant. And only in that area did I know her.

Q. Did you know her well enough in Mexico City to comment on her reputation in respect to telling the truth?

A. Well, I think so. At the time I knew her, yes. She was a decided revolutionary. [HSCA 180-10117-10114]

Maria Teresa Proenza said that after the assassination,

Comments arose that a photograph had appeared, that it was not the same person who had gone to the Consulate...that he was not the man he appeared to be...In Cuba, Azque stated that the photographs he had seen did not coincide with the man he had seen.

TELEPHONE INTERVIEW WITH ALVARO PROENZA

In November 1993 a Cuban exile named Alvaro Proenza was located in Virginia. Alvaro Proenza denied being related to Maria Teresa Proenza, but admitted he worked for the National Bank of Cuba. He was recontacted: "I don't know what you are talking about. What is your position? Who are you? Are you recording this conversation? If you want to come here to my house, we will talk." Mrs. Proenza interjected: "Let's call the FBI." Alvaro Proenza:

I was in the charge of personnel at the National Bank of Cuba. Back in 1960, before the Bay of Pigs invasion. After that, I lost my job, and left the country because they put me in the La Cabana Prison. When I was freed, I left. I have no such sister." He was asked if he worked for Machado: "That was my father, that probably was my father. My aunt never was Maria. [Proenza, Alvaro E 6087 8th Pl. N. Arlington, VA 22205 telephone 703-534-5179]

Teresa Proenza was not recalled to Cuba because she had attempted to help OSWALD, she was recalled because of a successful CIA Operation that had targeted her. This did not mean, however, that Oscar Contreras did not ask Maria Teresa Proenza to help OSWALD. When OSWALD was in Mexico City he moved in pro-Castro circles. OSWALD knew Contreras and Contreras knew Proenza so the linkage was there. Azque never mentioned Proenza in connection with OSWALD, and Proenza denied meeting OSWALD, however, this was something that dedicated Communists would not have wanted to admit to since it associated them with OSWALD and gave credence to the theory that Castro was behind the Kennedy assassination. Contreras said that OSWALD expressed an interest in art. Proenza had been the housekeeper of Diego Rivera, a famous Mexican leftist artist. HEMMING told this researcher: "She tried to help him out with Contreras and everyone else."

CALL TO SOVIET MILITARY ATTACHÉ TUESDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1963

On Tuesday, October 1, 1963, 10:31 A. M, a man, who spoke in broken Russian, called the Soviet Military Attaché. David Slawson believed that this call was placed to the "Soviet Embassy."

OSWALD: Hello. I was at your place last Saturday and I talked to your consul. They said that they'd send a telegram to Washington, and I wanted to ask you if there is anything new?

MI: I'd like to ask you to call another phone number.

OSWALD: Please.

MI: Please write it down. 15-60-55 and ask for a consul.

OSWALD: Thank-you.

MI: Please.

The CIA summarized this conversation:

Tuesday October 1, 1963. In mid-morning an unidentified individual, speaking broken Russian, contacted the Soviet Military Attaché in Mexico City. He said he had been to the Embassy the previous Saturday (September 28, 1963), and had talked with a Consul, who said they would send a telegram to Washington: Had there been a reply? He was referred to the Consulate for information. [CIA 509-803]

Melvin Beck reported that the homes of all Soviet Military Intelligence Officers in Mexico City were bugged: "This was a long-time working operation; it would be fully a year before the transmitter's batteries ran out. It is difficult to calculate its cost, in case officer time, agent time, translator time..." The Military Attaches were all KGB. The CIA claimed OSWALD dialed this number by mistake. It also used this 'error' as proof that the September 27, 1963, 10:37 a.m. call was not OSWALD because if it was, he wouldn't have made this error a second time. HEMMING told this researcher:

Somebody gave him that number. A coded message was passed. It may have sounded like 'Hey, you got the wrong number guy' and a whole message is passed.

OSWALD'S SECOND CALL TO THE SOVIET EMBASSY

A CIA document stated:

Tuesday October 1, 1963, 10:45 a.m. - (This is the phone call in which OSWALD used his true name and which was therefore cabled to Washington on October 9, 1963.) LEE OSWALD called the Soviet Embassy and announced his own name, saying he had visited them the previous Saturday, and spoken with a Consul. They had said they would send a telegram to Washington, and he wanted to know if there was anything new. He did not remember the Consul's name. The Soviet, who was Embassy guard Ivan Obyedkov replied: 'Kostikov; he is dark.' OSWALD replied: 'Yes my name is OSWALD.' The Soviet excused himself for a minute and then said they hadn't received anything yet. OSWALD started to say: And what..."but the Soviet hung up."

The CIA released another version of this conversation:

OSWALD: Hello, this is LEE OSWALD speaking. I was at your place last Saturday and spoke with the consul and they said that they'd send a telegram to Washington, so I wanted to find out if you have anything new? But I don't remember the name of that consul.

Obyedkov: Kostikov he is dark [hair or skin ? - FBI version]

OSWALD: Yes. My name is OSWALD.'

Obyedkov: Just a minute I'll find out. They say that they haven't received anything yet.

OSWALD: Have they done anything?

Obyedkov: Yes, they say that a request has been sent out but nothing has been received as yet.

OSWALD: And what...?

Ivan Obyedkov hangs up on OSWALD. [CIA 60-550; CIA 521-219c; Coleman/Slawson Memo 2.14.64]

The CIA now had the name OSWALD. The CIA was already aware of the possibility that OSWALD may have been recruited by the KGB during his stay in the Soviet Union. Now he was making contact with a KGB Officer who was in charge of Liquid Affairs. The CIA reported:

Of course it is not unusual for a KGB agent on a sensitive mission to have such overt contact with a Soviet Embassy. However, we have top secret Soviet intelligence documents, describing Military Intelligence doctrine, which show that very important agents can be met in official installations using as cover for their presence there some sort of open business. Case officers who use as cover, let us say, the Soviet Trade Representation, TASS or Sovinformburo, can use their cover assignments as backstopping for non-clandestine meetings with certain agents whose particular activities officially associate them with the previously mentioned Soviet institutions. However, such non-clandestine meetings within a legal residency should be restricted to a minimum both as to place and time. Meetings of this type should be carried out only in exceptional cases with tested and reliable agents to avoid provocation by the local counter-intelligence service against the Soviet installation being used as cover. Such meetings are held, as a rule, in the work offices of the case officer or of the agent during working hours. Some agents, because of inexperience or because of deliberate violation of the rules of security approached case officers at place not stipulated as operational meeting sites, others telephoned the case officer at his Soviet Installation and discussed personal contact arrangements, while others still showed up personally at the Soviet installation in order to contact the case officer. [Memo for ADD/P From Acting C/SR Division (Tennent Bagley) 11.23.63]

BAGLEY

The Chief of Western Hemisphere/3 stated:

Embassy guard Ivan Dmitriyevich Obyedkov is believed to be a KGB man from previous assignments as a bodyguard and surveillant. But unless some direct evidence of Soviet complicity is discovered, it is most likely that OSWALD'S dealing with KGB men Obyedkov and Kostikov was nothing more than a grim coincidence, a coincidence due in part to the Soviet habit of placing intelligence men in the Embassies in positions where they received a large portion of the visitors and phone calls...Certainly if OSWALD had been a Soviet agent training for an assassination assignment or even for sabotage work, the Soviets would have stopped him from making open visits and phone calls to the Soviet Embassy, Mexico City, after he tried it a couple of times. Our experience in Mexico, studying the Soviet intelligence service at close range, indicates that they do make some mistakes and are sometimes insecure in their methods, but that they do not persist in such glaring errors.

Ivan Obyedkov was in Iran in 1967. This telephone call should have caused alarms to go off at the CIA Station in Mexico. As we discover in the next nodule, it did not. Ivan spoke in code: "Kostikov, he is dark." Why did Ivan Obyedkov cut OSWALD off? Was he afraid OSWALD might say too much? Blurt some shit out?

OSWALD HAD TWO BUS RESERVATIONS

On Monday, September 30, 1963, OSWALD had appeared at the Chihuahuense Travel Agency in Mexico City and purchased international exchange orders costing $20 for travel on a Transportes Del Norte bus from Mexico City to Laredo, and by Greyhound bus directly from Laredo to Dallas, Texas. OSWALD'S map of Mexico City contained a marking at the location of the Chihuahuense Travel Agency and the Transportes Del Norte bus line. A reservation was made for HARVEY OSWALD LEE on bus Transportes Del Norte-332, departing Mexico City 8:30 a.m., Wednesday, October 2, 1963. The Warren Commission reported: "The seat, No. 12, was reserved in the name of the travel agency, which recorded the reservation in the name of 'H. O. LEE.'"

The manifest for the Transportes Frontera-340 bus, leaving Mexico City for Monterrey and Nuevo Laredo at 1:00 p.m. Wednesday, October 2, 1963, also contained the name "Oswald" [sic]. The destination of this individual was given as "Lared." This was the only entry where no ticket number was listed. Although the manifest listed nine passengers for Laredo, there were ten names, including that of OSWALD, on the list which indicated destination of Laredo. OSWALD'S map of Mexico City also contained a marking at the location of the Transportes Frontera bus line. According to the Warren Commission the name was "apparently added to the manifest after the trip; in any event, OSWALD did not take bus Transportes Frontera-340." [WR p736] Was the Warren Commission implying this was a prank on the part of a Transportes Frontera clerk? The FBI did not think so and reported:

As outlined in attached letterhead memorandum, it has been impossible to resolve discrepancies growing out of the fact that the name OSWALD appears on the manifest of the Transportes Frontera Bus Company without an accompanying ticket number and the fact that, although the manifest lists nine passengers for Laredo, there are ten names, including that of OSWALD, on the list with the indicated destination of Laredo. All persons connected with the bus company, who have been intensively interviewed on this matter are unable to explain the discrepancies, although it has been suggested that OSWALD may have purchased a ticket on a date prior to October 2, 1963, when the bus trip on which he was listed actually departed Mexico City, that he arrived at the last minute, and that his name was entered on the manifest after the recapitulation of nine passengers for Laredo and seven for Monterrey had been entered on the manifest.

Consideration has been given to the possibility that the Mexican investigators who originally located the list may have entered the name on the list themselves in order to avoid further work. This matter has been discussed with Lic. Rafael Hernandez Ochoa of the Ministry of the Interior, who originally made the list available to this office, and he is most emphatic in stating this could not have occurred. It is noted that the Transportes Frontera bus manifest was submitted for Laboratory examination by Mexico City letter of December 11, 1963. The Laboratory Report of December 17, 1963, stated that due to the limited amount of comparable writing no conclusion was reached as to whether the name and destination of OSWALD were written by the writer of the other entries on the manifest. The Laboratory transmittal letter of the same date stated that the characteristics of the handwriting on the manifest indicated that at least two persons made entries on the manifest, and that one of these persons may have also made the entry on line four, this being the OSWALD entry. It was also stated that similarity in several lines of writing on the manifest indicates that persons other than the passengers themselves may have entered the names and destinations on the manifest. The Laboratory report also concluded that the name of the passenger (OSWALD) and the destination on line four of the manifest were not written by Subject OSWALD. [FBI 109-82555-4594

Another FBI document stated:

It does appear that personnel of the Mexico City terminal of Transportes Frontera made little effort to correct the initial assumption by Mexican investigators that the Subject had traveled on the October 2, 1963, trip by Transportes Frontera. The allegation that he had traveled with Transportes Frontera received wide publicity in Mexico, and it appears that the Mexico City personnel of the company were reluctant to contradict the information which appeared in the press, thereby creating embarrassment for the Mexican Government, or the investigative agencies thereof which were involved. [NARA FBI 105-10026-10225]

The Mexican Police initially believed OSWALD had departed on Transportes Frontera-340. His name was on the manifest, and the bus departed on the same day OSWALD did. When the police checked the matter further, they found that it was unlikely OSWALD had taken Transportes Frontera-340, since there was no "completion of the usual record."

It was unlikely that the employees of Transportes Frontera, or the Mexican Police, added OSWALD'S name after the assassination. They would have been more likely to have deleted it. OSWALD had made reservations on both bus lines, or someone made the reservation on Transportes Frontera for him, thinking he had not made them for himself. Transportes Frontera officials summed it up when they stated that OSWALD'S name was placed on the bus list by mistake because his reservations were never followed through, as evidenced by the lack of ticket numbers for his name.

ANGEL PEREZ DELGADO

The FBI reported:

Heretofore, it was regarded as likely that OSWALD traveled by bus (the Transportes Frontera Line, departing Mexico City at 1:00 p.m. October 2, 1963, arriving at Nuevo Laredo at approximately 6:00 a.m.) on October 3, 1963. The reason for this belief was that the name 'OSWLD' appeared on the manifest of Transportes Frontera bus in question. Also appearing on this bus manifest was the name Angel Perez. Unique to the listing of the 'OSWLD' and Perez names on this manifest is the fact that they are the only names listed which do not show an actual ticket number issued for the trip. Further, counting the names on the bus manifest for which the ticket numbers were issued jibes with the total number of individuals reported by the bus company as being passengers on the trip in question.

The bus company officials have recently expressed the view that the names 'OSWLD' and Angel Perez were placed on the bus manifest as a reservation was made for them prior to the trip which reservations were never picked up, as evidenced by the lack of ticket numbers designated for these names. But officials feel certain that 'OSWLD' and Perez were not actually passengers on the bus in question.

This suggests the possibility that OSWALD, possibly in the company of the Angel Perez manifested on the bus record, may have together contemplated traveling to Nuevo Laredo on the Transportes Frontera bus and to this end may have made the reservations. As OSWALD is not known to have spoken Spanish and as the man who wrote the name 'OSWALD' on the manifest spoke no English, it is conceivable that the Angel Perez manifested may have made both reservations.

Bearing the foregoing in mind, refer to your file 97-1337 captioned 'Angel Perez Delgado, aka RA - CUBA.' Perez Delgado, former Coordinator of the July 26th Movement in Washington, D.C., who renounced his permanent residence in the United States to return to Cuba in July 1961, re-entered this country January 19, 1963, and during interview February 1963, professed to be in complete disagreement with the present Cuban Government. Note that Perez Delgado, who was born February 5, 1931, was approximately the same age as OSWALD. Note further that on July 5, 1963, the Bureau received a name check request on Perez Delgado from the CIA, purpose of which was not known. This request showed Perez Delgado's address in July 1963 is in care of the Red Cross, Miami, Florida.

In view of the foregoing, Bureau desires that you institute investigation in this case to determine if Angel Perez Delgado, Subject of your Registration Act - Cuba case, may be identical with Angel Perez manifested on the Mexican bus companies records...Initiate inquiry by contacting CIA to determine the basis of their July 5, 1963, name check request, and to ascertain if Perez Delgado is known by CIA to have been in Mexico between September 26, 1963, and October 3, 1963. Note that the Bureau returned the name check request to the CIA on July 10, 1963, by routing slip to the attention of Chief, Personnel Security Division, with the comment that the Bureau interposed no objection to contact or interrogation of Angel Perez Delgado.

Thereafter, locate Perez Delgado, ascertain his employment during pertinent period, conduct inquiry there to ascertain if he can definitely be placed in Washington, D.C. area between October 26, 1963, and October 3, 1963, and thereafter, interview him. During interview determine if he knows or has ever met LEE HARVEY OSWALD.

The FBI investigated:

On March 24, 1964, Giri Parma, Accountant, Commissioned Officers Mess-Open, Officers Club, Washington Navy Yard Annex, advised S.A. John G. Goedel that Angel Perez commenced employment on April 5, 1963, as bar boy, part time waiter, and storekeeper. Perez became full time bartender first week of July 1963. (CIA name check was July 5, 1963). A review of the time cards for Perez revealed that Perez was working each day from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. and from 4:00 p.m. - 4:30 to 12:00 midnight Monday through Saturday, with Sunday off during the weeks ending September 21, 1963, September 28, 1963, and October 5, 1963, and October 10, 1963.

Parma said Perez was hired by Louis Russo, 402 Crosswoods Drive, Falls Church, Virginia. Russo was former manager, was terminated on December 18, 1963, because of certain financial discrepancies in club accounts. Parma believed Russo was Subject of an FBI investigation.

Parma said that on occasion, a man might be paid when not actually employed, but that the time card is generally a record that the person was actually there at the time.

Perez was terminated on March 17, 1964, by the current manager, Carl E. Todd, who replaced Russo. According to Parma, the precise reason has not been publicized, but he understood there was a personality clash between Todd and Perez. Parma stated that Perez was well liked and the only honest bartender to be employed there in some time. Parma said Perez is now employed at Andrews Air force Base as a bartender.

On March 24, 1964, INS investigator William B. Dinwiddie Jr., District Office, INS, advised S. A. Goedel that he is frequently in contact with Perez. Perez is a Cuban parolee in the U.S. in involuntary departure status. According to Dinwiddie, he has no knowledge of any travel outside the U.S. by Perez since latter's return to U.S. Dinwiddie advised that INS file A 10271132 for Perez would show any travel since Perez would have had to apply for permission to leave and re-enter the U.S.

On March 24, 1964, INS file A 10271132 at the District Office of INS was reviewed by S.A. James F. Morrissey. No travel outside of the U.S. was indicated for Perez since his current arrival in the U.S. on January 23, 1963. He was re-paroled to the Washington, D.C. INS on February 25, 1963.

Memo in the file dated May 1, 1963, indicated that (Deleted) of INS and would be of value to that service. Central INS records contain no travel information for Perez. Interview of Perez will be held in abeyance pending results of Bureau check with CIA requested in retel call, and consideration of above information in view of the proposed purpose of the interview.

The FBI had the Immigration and Naturalization Service check its files for a Mexican citizen named Angel Perez who entered the United States through Laredo in early October 3 1963, October 4, 1963, October 5, 1963, or November 2, 1963. No record was found. It found a listing for H. O. LEE, but none for Angel Perez.

The CIA reported:

May 20, 1964
MEMO FOR: CI/R&A
Attention: Mr. Dooley
WH Report to CI/R&A on 201-0279753

SUBJECT: Angel Perez-Delgado (aka "Angelito")

1. Angel Perez Delgado was previously president of the 26th of July Movement in Washington, D.C. He worked as a busboy at the Willard Hotel and had high level contacts in the Cuban Embassy while they were still in D.C.
2. In 1961 he, his wife, America and their daughter, Clara, went back to Cuba. He stated he was drastically disappointed upon his arrival in Cuba. After a few weeks in Cuba he was convinced that "Cuba is no longer for the Cubans; Cuba is for the Russians."
3. Perez re-entered the United States in January 1963. He now professes to be anti-Castro, and in complete disagreement with the present Cuban Government which he considers to be communistic.
4. There is nothing in his file to show the Subject traveled to Mexico in November 1963.
5. Our Office of Security checked him with the FBI because the OO office in Washington wanted to conduct a routine interview of him. We have no idea if he was on the bus with OSWALD.

CASE CLOSED

The FBI reported: "Re the name Angel Perez...By airtel March 25, 1964, WFO reported investigation which indicated his presence in Washington, D.C. during pertinent period. Bureau, by airtel April 1, 1964, said no further investigation desired concerning him. WFO investigation re Delgado is not being set forth in attached report as pertinent." On April 30, 1976, the SSCIA wrote this to the FBI : "Referencing the April 7, 1964, memorandum from Papich to Brennan, access to all materials pertaining to Angel Perez Delgado, including but not limited to the March 23, 1964, WFO airtel, February 1963, FBI interest in Perez, and memo reflecting the April 6, 1964, advice of CIA's Steve Kuhn." [FBI 92-116375-1648] The investigation of Angel Perez was halted because:

1. His employer had records that indicated he was working during the times in question. Yet the employer suggested that very few of the bartenders at the Officer's Club were honest, and that the former manager was under investigation by the FBI.
2. The Immigration and Naturalization Service file of Angel Perez Delgado indicated no travel outside of the United States. Angel Perez Delgado could have traveled without permission.
3. The FBI did not interview Angel Perez Delgado: "Interview of Perez will be held in abeyance pending results of Bureau check with CIA requested in retel call..." Instead, the FBI made inquiries about him at the CIA, and was apprised: "There is nothing in Perez's file to show that he traveled to Mexico City in November 1963." Was this an error, or was the CIA avoiding the issue of Angel Perez Delgado's presence during OSWALD'S visit, which occurred at the end of September and the beginning of October 1963? [CIA 704-306, 3583, 2671, 2857; FBI 105-82555-2874]
4. Information on Angel Perez Delgado was supplied by Chief/Western Hemisphere/3, J. White. CI RARS (Raymond Rocca) distributed the document in March 1975. [CIA 704-306] Arthur E. Dooley name was on this document. All these men were close to ANGLETON. [also see NARA 1993.06.08.16:10:11:210000, NARA FBI 124-10047-10288] HEMMING told this researcher:

Angel Perez Delgado was a possible double agent. He was given cover employment. He was working for somebody. Somebody is slipping something out here. They are deep throating. Somebody was probably told to bury that shit, and they didn't. Now they can't fire him for doing it, because it would call attention to it.

Someone in charge of making reservations booked a seat for OSWALD and Perez on the same bus. OSWALD had already made his own bus reservations. Out of all the Angel Perez's in the United States why did CIA focus on this one?

TRANSPORTES DEL NORTE-332

OSWALD took bus Transportes Del Norte-332, since he was seen on board by several passengers - although it is unclear from the Warren Report whether they had seen him before switching buses in Monterrey. The Mexican Police questioned Pedro Gonzalez Yerena, who boarded OSWALD'S bus at San Luis Potosi. He said he offered OSWALD some tequila but OSWALD refused it. Finally the bus driver requested that Pedro Gonzalez Yerena stop bothering the other passengers. [FBI 105-82555-4594] Fellow passengers did recall OSWALD being pulled off the bus at the border by Mexican officials, because of some alleged irregularity in his Mexican tourist papers. When he reached the Mexican Immigration checkpoint "the Immigration Officer noted the omissions on the tourist card and corrected, by hand, the mistake referring to his nationality, writing in the word 'American.'"

OSWALD RETURNS TO THE U.S. THURSDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1963

At about 1:30 a.m. on Thursday, October 3, 1963, OSWALD entered the United States. The Warren Report accepted as fact OSWALD'S return by Greyhound Bus to Dallas, despite the entry on OSWALD'S Tourist Card which showed he left by automobile. [CIA 776-336] The Mexican Government reported:"That information proved to be a mistake, this time made by Miss Solalinde, the typist, who admitted that she made a mistake, since the F. M. 8 she had before her, which referred to OSWALD, did not have a notation showing anywhere that he traveled by automobile." [DOS Government of Mexico doc. Annex 14 Population Div. Office of Inspector 11.30.63] William Coleman and David Slawson were introduced to Clark D. Anderson who would arrange meetings with Mexican Police officials to help the Warren Commission explain how OSWALD left Mexico City. The Commission could not "confirm his departure date or travel mode. The original assumption that he had returned by bus could not be proven." Two Dutch citizens who took the same bus OSWALD allegedly took were located. Neither remembered OSWALD. [DOS 3.6.64 J.M. and A.F. De Cuba; NARA DOS 1191000110035] The FBI also questioned a man named (FNU) Voorhees, who was on the bus, who ...repeated that he was unable to conclude definitely that the young American aboard the bus was OSWALD, stating he could not be positive, but he affirmed strongly that the American was 'the same general type' as OSWALD."

J. Edgar Hoover sent this cable to Dallas:

What is significance of entry in Mexican immigration records showing OSWALD left by automobile? Was OSWALD actually in automobile when he crossed border or does the record merely signify that he stated his intention to travel to New Orleans by automobile after he crossed the border? From information available can we determine who might have been in any automobile with OSWALD at the time he crossed the border or thereafter? [FBI 105-82555-1933]

The issue was never resolved. The Warren Commission:

Russell: Who drove him down to Mexico?

Rankin: That we haven't gotten.

Boggs: He went on a bus, didn't he?

Rankin: He went one way on a bus...

Warren: One way on a bus...

Russell: I thought he went down in a bus and came back in a car?

Rankin: That is right.

When OSWALD was questioned about his trip to Mexico City after his arrest, he denied having visited there. [FBI 105-82555-87]

WAS THIS OSWALD?

At 2:30 p.m. on Thursday, October 3, 1963, the Soviet Military Attaché received a call from an unidentified man who spoke in broken Spanish and English.

Caller: Hello. Visa for Russia.

MI: Call on the other phone.

Caller: I'm looking for a visa to go to Russia.

MI: Please call on the telephone of the consul.

Caller: Oh, the consul.

MI: That's right, 15-60-55.

Caller: One moment please. I have to get a pencil to write the number down. They issue a visa there?

MI: That depends on your conversation. I don't know about this business. Please call the office of the Consul and ask your question.

Caller: Asks the number of the telephone again.

MI: Gives the number to him and tells him to ask for the Consul of the Soviet Embassy in Mexico.

Man outside: 'Thanks.'"

The CIA: The relevance of this intercept to OSWALD is excludable on three grounds:

- a. The use of broken Spanish. OSWALD throughout used broken Russian or English. He had no competence in Spanish and could not handle a conversation of this kind.
- b. The substance of the request indicates a visa request in the first stages of initiation. OSWALD had developed his request with the Cubans and the Soviets the previous Saturday to a point well beyond the stage indicated by the substance of this call.

c. OSWALD had left Mexico City, based on all available evidence, October 2, 1963, and thus could not have made this local call. [Kalaris to Sprague CI 031-77]

THE TAPES OF OSWALD'S CONVERSATIONS WITH THE SOVIETS WERE DESTROYED AFTER THE ASSASSINATION

JMN note: extract
HSCA (Lopez) report

(This form is to be used for material extracted from CIA--controlled documents.)

ADDENDUM TO FOOTNOTE # 614 OF "LEE HARVEY OSWALD, THE CIA AND MEXICO CITY.

Some controversy has arisen in regard to the question of whether the tapes existed at the time of the assassination due to a memorandum from J. Edgar Hoover to the head of the Secret Service which said:

The Central Intelligence Agency advised that on October 1, 1963, an extremely sensitive source had reported that an individual identified himself as Lee Oswald, who contacted the Soviet Embassy in Mexico City inquiring as to any messages. Special Agents of this Bureau, who have conversed with Oswald in Dallas, Texas, have observed photographs of the individual referred to above and have listened to a recording of his voice. These Special Agents are of the opinion that the above-referred-to individual was not Lee Harvey Oswald.

(Memorandum from Hoover to James J. Rowley, 11/23/63, pp. 4-5.)

A Letter Head Memorandum from J. Edgar Hoover to President Lyndon B. Johnson on November 23, 1963, "set forth the fact that Agents reviewed the tape [of OSWALD speaking with the Soviets], and concluded the voice was not that of OSWALD." That was because the CIA gave them a tape of someone other than OSWALD to listen to. Gaeton Fonzi developed evidence that William Coleman and David Slawson both heard scratchy versions of the tape. [Last Investigation p286] In a letter dated December 4, 1992 (published in The Investigator), W. David Slawson wrote: "Yes, I listened to the tape of Lee Harvey Oswald's telephone conversations with the Soviet Embassy In Mexico City I did not feel that the voice sounded any different from what I expected his would sound like." If you believe Slawson you believe that OSWALD was the lone gunman. Why didn't the Warren Commission get a dub of the actual tape so the Commissioners could hear these conversations? Because there was more on the tapes than there was in the transcripts and they had been deliberately or routinely erased shortly after they were made. There was a conversation on the tapes about OSWALD getting money and a visa in return for vital information.

In November 1976 DAVID PHILLIPS told the HSCA that the CIA monitored and taped OSWALD'S telephone conversations with the Soviet Embassy. According to PHILLIPS the tape was transcribed by Boris and Anna Tarasoff and then routinely destroyed. [The Washingtonian 11.80] During SENSTUDY, (a review of FBI files on behalf of the SSCIA) it was determined that the CIA on November 23, 1963, "provided the FBI's Legal Attaché in Mexico City with a transcript of said tape recording and advised the Legal Attaché that the original tape had been erased..." As of 2010, only the transcripts remain. PHILLIPS was asked about the tapes during the course of HUNT v. WEBERMAN "Of course, I do know about it. Obviously I cannot, and will not, answer that question." The CIA released a document that stated

...the tape of the first conversation (September 28, 1963) had been erased before the second call (October 1, 1963) had been received...On November 26, 1963, the Mexico Desk of the Western Hemisphere Division disseminated a transcript of the telephone call of September 28, 1963, and a transcript of the telephone call made on October 1, 1963, in which the caller identified himself as LEE OSWALD. The Mexico Desk included a transcript of three other telephone calls made on September 27, 1963, October 1, 1963, and October 3, 1963. The Mexico Desk commented that 'Voice comparisons indicated that the 'North American' who participated in several of these conversations is probably the person who identified himself as LEE OSWALD on October 1, 1963.' (CSCI-3/778,829) This latter statement is not entirely accurate. According to a previous cable from Mexico City - MEXI 7023, November 23, 1963, - the tapes of the September 28, 1963, telephone call had been erased. If that were so, the tape of the September 27, 1963, call must have been erased. Analysis by voice comparison could not be made; however the monitor based his analysis upon what he could recall of the conversations as they were recorded on tape.

ALL FOLLOWING CIA INFORMATION IS CLASSIFIED SECRET.

TAPES OBTAINED BY CIA [REDACTED] (S)

[REDACTED] OF CUBAN AND SOVIET EMBASSIES WERE ERASED AFTER TWO WEEKS, FOLLOWING MAKING OF TYPEWRITTEN TRANSCRIPTS OF CONTENTS OF THESE TAPES. THERE APPEARS TO BE SOME CONFUSION IN THAT NO TAPES WERE TAKEN TO DALLAS BUT ONLY TYPEWRITTEN TRANSCRIPTS SUPPLIED BY CIA, THE TAPES NOT BEING AVAILABLE BECAUSE THEY HAD BEEN ERASED. REVIEW OF THE CIA TRANSCRIPTS WERE INDICATED THAT ON SEPTEMBER TWO EIGHT A CONVERSATION OCCURRED BETWEEN ONE SILVIA DURAN OF CUBAN EMBASSY HERE AND A PERSON IN SOVIET EMBASSY

All the tapes had to be eventually erased after two weeks but some tapes, in which OSWALD said off-the-wall things that would have triggered an all out investigation of OSWALD were erased immediately. If the FBI opened up a counter-espionage case on Comrade OSWALD his value as a patsy in the upcoming "big event" would be nil.

GOODPASTURE

Who could have erased the tape or tapes prematurely? Once this happened it was easy enough to alter the content of the transcripts. Who worked closely with ANGLETON and PHILLIPS? Anne Goodpasture. Goodpasture the daughter of two schoolteachers, was born in Tennessee. During the Second World War she joined the Office of Strategic Services (OSS) and served in Burma. After the war Goodpasture was recruited by the CIA. Eventually she went to work for JAMES ANGLETON. According to ANGLETON, Goodpasture was "very close" to William K. Harvey. Goodpasture was involved in the investigation and arrest of Rudolph Ivanovich Abel. In 1957 ANGLETON sent Goodpasture to investigate a Soviet Spy in Mexico City. Winston Scott, who was the CIA's station chief in Mexico. was so impressed with Goodpasture that he arranged for her to become his reports officer. In December 1958, Scott initiated operation LITEMPO, a network of paid agents and collaborators in the Mexican Government. This included Luis Echeverria. After Fidel Castro took power in Cuba Scott was asked by Allen W. Dulles to use his LITEMPO to help overthrow the government. Adolfo Lopez Mateos, who was now president of Mexico resisted this idea. He told Dulles covert action was a different matter. What was in those tapes that had to be erased?

THE RONALD KESSLER REPORT

Evidence existed that the transcripts did not reflect the true nature of OSWALD'S contacts with the Soviets. The translator and typist's wife, Mrs. Anna Tarasoff, remembered the word "information" being used. Journalist Ron Kessler was told by DAVID PHILLIPS that during one of OSWALD'S conversations with the Soviets he stated: "I have information you would be interested in, and I know you can pay my way to Russia." The stenographer who typed up the transcript and the translator who prepared it had similar recollections: "OSWALD said he had some information to tell the Russians. His main concern was getting to one of the two countries (Russia or Cuba), and he wanted them to pay him for it. He said he had to meet them." [Washington Post 11.26.76]

The HSCA verified this: "The HSCA has contacted the persons who allegedly translated and typed the manuscripts. Both of them said that in his conversations with the foreign embassies OSWALD did talk of a 'deal' to go to Russia." [CIA George T. Kalaris IG Memo 77-0244] The CIA did a paragraph-by-paragraph analysis of Ron Kessler's article which was highly deleted. [Allen v. DOD CIA 21689-0843]

The HSCA questioned Boris Tarasoff, a Staff CIA Officer who started working in Mexico City in June 1963, and continued there until October 1970. Boris Tarasoff received the tapes the day after they were made, and he remembered translating OSWALD'S broken Russian.

Q. Would you tell us what your duties were?

A. My duties were on a more or less permanent basis to receive the tapes first, then to translate from Russian into English the conversation that was on the tape, and to transcribe the whole thing. The tapes originated right there in Mexico City, because some of the telephone wires leading to areas, establishments, tapped. Therefore, as a result, we had these conversations on the tape...There were several operations going on as a result of which we got tapes also, but they were taken of the so-called bugs, were planted in several strategic spots, dealing with Soviet nationals. Therefore I had to transcribe them too.

Q. Would you receive the tapes the day after they were made?

A. Yes.

Q. And you would deliver them the following day, after you transcribed them and translated them?

A. Yes.

Q. In conjunction with your transcribing and translation operation, did you ever have occasion to make personality assessment, or voice identification, of the people whose voices you heard on the tapes?

A. That was my idea that I suggested to them after I came for my regular tour of duty, to have the voice sample. The idea was rejected. On what grounds I do not know. Anyway, after about three or four months, they did come out with a suggestion that I start saving these voice samples. We got quite a collection of voice samples.

Q. In conjunction with the personality assessment which you sometimes made based on what you heard from tapes, did you have occasion to make comments on the transcription sheet when you detected something about the person's personality from the tapes?

A. First, I used to make just a short synopsis saying, well, "This fellow is saying in an agitated voice" and so forth. I would inject some of my personal feeling about a person. I put these on a separate piece of paper.

Q. Mr. Tarasoff, in the course of your duties, did LEE HARVEY OSWALD come to your attention as a result of your duties in the surveillance operation?

A. At the end of September I think it was, 1963. First of all he called -- as far as I recall, he tried to speak Russian, but I think his Russian was so poor that I did not understand. I cannot recall without seeing the transcript. He called the Soviet Embassy as far as I can remember. As far as I remember there were two conversations. There might have been more. I am not certain. I cannot recall the tone of his voice or what he said. [After he gave the CIA Station the OSWALD transcriptions] I got a request from the station to see if we can pick up the name of this person because sometimes we had so-called 'defectors' from the United States that wanted to go to Russia and we had to keep an eye on them. Not I - the station. Consequently, they were very hot about the whole thing. They said, "If you can get a name rush it over immediately." Therefore it is very seldom that I underlined the name because I put them in capitals. In this case I did it because it was so important to them.

Q. Can you tell us exactly what lead to his request?

A. I have no idea what lead to it. That was my only main point, to find the name, to get the name of this person and deliver it as soon as possible to the station.

Q. Can you speculate as to why this request was made?

A. It would be simply a speculation. If he called the Cuban Embassy and our people knew about it, then they really would be pressed to get the name.

Q. Are you saying that there is a possibility that OSWALD spoke to the Cuban Embassy personnel, in addition to the Soviet Embassy personnel, and that the people you dealt with in your operation made that connection, and consequently made an urgent request that this person be identified?

A. There is a possibility, I think, that that is exactly what happened.

Q. Do you remember if OSWALD spoke English or Russian during that conversation?

A. As far as I remember he was speaking English. Whenever he did slip a couple of words of Russian in, it must have been unintelligible.

Q. There is a comment between the slash marks on this page which states "The same person who phoned a day or so ago and spoke in broken Russian." Based on this possible discrepancy, do you have any feeling as to whether this document is authentic, as opposed to being a forgery, or an amended version of the original document?

A. I cannot conceive of this document being a forgery. I have an idea in the back of my head that it was much stronger. There is the whole thing, the spacing, I cannot say that it was longer than it is now.

Q. Do you have any independent recollection of OSWALD having mentioned his financial situation during this conversation?

A. No, I do not have any recollection of that.

Q. Were you able to identify the speaker in the September 28, 1963, conversation?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever make the inference that the speakers on September 28, 1963, and October 1, 1963, were one and the same person?

A. I sure did, right here, under item 151, under P1.

Mrs. Anna Tarasoff remembered:

Q. Aside from what appears on these three documents, do you have any independent recollection of conversations dealing with LEE HARVEY OSWALD which were part of the surveillance operation in Mexico City?

A. According to my recollection, I, myself, have made a transcript, an English transcript, of LEE OSWALD talking to Russian Consulate or whoever he was at that time, asking for financial aid. Now that particular transcript does not appear here, and whatever happened to it, I do not know, but it was a lengthy transcript between him and someone at the Russian Embassy.

Q. How long do you recall this conversation was?

A. This conversation, I would say, at least covered a page and a half or two.

Q. Is it your recollection that the person speaking identified himself as LEE OSWALD?

A. He definitely identified himself as being LEE OSWALD.

Q. Earlier you spoke of an urgent request for a transcription of a conversation. Could you tell us the circumstances surrounding this urgent request?

A. This urgent request either came from the party that was doing the monitoring of the transcripts, and it came through and when these reels are delivered to us, if there is any request, it is also included with a - well, on a regular copy of the whole transcript, it would be included with the reels, "In number so and so there is a conversation. Will you please handle this prior to anything other than what is on the sheet originally?"

Q. Do you recall the names of the contact who made the urgent request?

A. This was written on a piece of paper, and was enclosed in with the reels. So, I would hardly know who that particular party was who requested this.

Q. What did you do after you received this request?

A. We went ahead and transcribed whatever was on that particular reel in the space allotted or space designated. After it was transcribed, we contacted whoever it was then. They, in turn, came by and picked it up. Once it left our hands we have no knowledge of what happened to it. It was our normal contact at the time.

Q. Do you remember any other details of the conversation which you say involved LEE HARVEY OSWALD?

A. Well, for one thing, he was persistent in asking for financial aid in order to leave the country. They were not about to give him any financial aid whatsoever. He had also mentioned he tried the Cuban Embassy, and they had also refused financial aid.

Q. I believe you stated earlier that the person speaking identified himself as LEE OSWALD in the conversation?

A. Yes, he definitely did identify himself as LEE OSWALD

Q. On the basis of this identification were you able to infer that the person who spoke on September 28, 1963, was also LEE OSWALD.

A. Not listening this particular tape or the other one, I would not know whether it was the same party or not.

Q. Do you recall any other subject that was covered in that conversation that you transcribed other than the requests for financial aid?

A. That was his main purpose sir, just getting financial aid, because he had said he was broke and he wanted to leave the country, and he was seeking financial aid, and he thought he was contacting the Russian Embassy or Cuban Embassy, I think, would be willing to finance his passage to wherever he wanted to go. There was nothing - the conversation was a repetition of questions and answers really, and the party who spoke to him spoke in English, so there was no difficulty in understanding either one of them as to what they were saying to each other.

Q. As you recall it, the net effect was they turned him down?

A. Yes, they definitely turned him down. In fact, if I recall, they finally got disgusted and hung up on him. [CIA 429-149; HSCA Test. 4.12.78]

The Tarasoffs created summaries of their transcriptions. The CIA:
