AEDH WISHES FOR THE CLOTHS OF HEAVEN

Had I the heavens' embroidered cloths,
Enwrought with golden and silver light,
The blue and the dim and the dark cloths
Of night and light and half light,
I would spread the cloths under your feet:
But I, being poor, have only my dreams;
I have spread my dreams under your feet:
Tread softly because you tread on my dreams.

William Butler Yeats

"It is probable that only students of the magical tradition will understand me when I say that Aedh^x, whose name is not merely the Irish form of Hugh, but the Irish for fire, is fire burning by itself. To put it in a different way, Aedh is the myrr hand frankincense that the imagination offers continually before all that it loves."

W. B. YEATS ("The Wind Among the Reeds")

^xPronounced "Ae", rhyming with "day".
