

a00 – Library Identification

1. Scope of the Chapter

The single function in this chapter enables a user to determine the precise Mark and maintenance level of the NAG C Library which is being used, and also details of the implementation.

This information may be needed when communicating with NAG (see Essential Introduction).

2. Available Functions

Output details of Library Implementation and Mark a00aac